(Sports Editor, The Daily Iowan)

EVANSTON, Nov. 18—A bunch of victory-starved Hawkeyes, eager for the taste of raw Wildcat meat, were headed for the Northwestern lair tonight, stalking a successful season in the form of a triumph in their final conflict of the year.

Although on the short end of the betting in most sections, Coach Ossie Solem's warriors are determined to pull an upset and mark up their first Big Ten victory of the season against the Purple aggregation.

Despite the fact that Pug Rentner, star halfback will be out of the lineup, and that the Wildcats have chalked up but one conference victory this season, the Hawkeyes are prepared to meet a high-scoring eleven, with an offense that clicks.

Hold Hard Drills

A week of intensive drill, polishing offense and defense, has pointed the Old Gold for the battle. The lineup will be much the same as that which held Purdue's high-powered offense to three touchdowns last Saturday, although there may be one change in the personnel of the backfield and one in the forward wall.

John Miller and Bob Loufek are scheduled to start at ends, Zud Schammel and Fred Radloff will probably handle the tackle posts, with Lumir Kouba and Leo Samuelson at guards, and Capt. Marc Magnussen at center.

Uses Several Combines

Coach Solem tried several backfield combinations during the week in an effort to find a quartet which could handle a hard-driving running attack and a lightning-fast aerial offense. Lack of sustained drive has cost the Hawkeyes touchdowns in every game thus far, and with a defense that functions properly, the bid for victory tomorrow should be the best of the season, win, lose, or draw.

The Wildcats, minus the services of Rentner, are expected to rely on passes to pierce the Iowa defense. All week Coach Dick Hanley has drilled his squad on passes, and with Olson and Auguston tossing to Fencl and Maske, a pair of speedy ends, the Hawkeye secondary will be taxed to the limit. In every game this season, lapses on pass defense have directly or indirectly cost touchdowns.

Sullivan Dangerous

One of the most dangerous of the Northwestern backs is Jackie Sullivan, whose sweeps around ends have gained considerable yardage, although he has not played regularly. Potter, a regular who has been out of the game for most of the season with injuries, will be calling signals. Olson will be at fullback, and either Auguston or Leeper, a sophomore, in place of Rentner.

The Wildcat line has caused Hanley most of his grief this season, but the forward wall has been improving in every game, and may get under way tomorrow.

Seniors Conclude Careers

Four Iowa regulars wind up their college careers against Northwestern. Captain Magnussen, Samuelson, and Loufek in the line, and Laws in the backfield are the first string members who will play their final game, while Ed Dolly, Gene Cleiman, Dutch Schmidt, and John Stuteman are reserves appearing for the last time.

Teams from the universities have met 18 times since 1897, with Iowa winning 11 to Northwestern's six. One contest was a tie.

Colonel Robins, Missing Dry Leader, Found

AS MAN SIDE-TRACKED A RIVER

If this picture were wired for sound, you'd hear a pandemonium of noise as if the sky were falling on you. The photo was made at the exact instant that several charges of explosive were touched off in the Black Canyon, Boulder City, Nev., blowing thousands of tons of rock into the Colorado River, thereby diverting the course of the stream into a tunnel prepared for it through a mile of mountain. This was the first important engineering step in the construction of Hoover dam, the largest project of its kind ever attempted.

Residents of Atlanta Penitentiary Call Al Capone, Chicago Bad Man, a "Nice Boy"

CHICAGO, Nov. 18 (AP)—Some of the boys at Atlanta penitentiary, it developed today, are betting to regard Al Capone once the much feared gangster, as a sissy.
U. S. Attorney Green returned today from Atlanta where he helped in the government's move to block Capone's latest bid for freedom and brought with him considerable details about how the world's most notorious gangster behaves in prison.
Capone is a model prisoner, Green reported, obeys every order given him, carefully avoids infractions of rules, and is a good workman in the penitentiary shoe factory.
Because of his excellent behavior—which allows 10 days off his sentence for every month served—his fellow inmates have developed a belief Capone is not quite so tough as his reputation.
However, Green said, the former gang leader is well liked generally, always has a smile for everyone, and works diligently.

Jordan Gets State Health Bureau Office

Dr. Carl F. Jordan, former assistant professor of hygiene and preventive medicine in the college of medicine, has been chosen director of the bureau of communicable disease, and epidemiologist of the state department of health at Des Moines, according to an announcement yesterday.
In addition to his work in hygiene and preventive medicine, Dr. Jordan has been associate director of the university department of health. He has resigned his position in the university and has moved to Des Moines with his family, where he will take up his new office immediately.
Dr. Jordan began his service in the University of Iowa in 1912 and was appointed assistant professor in 1928. He obtained his B.A. degree here in 1914 and his M.D. degree at Johns Hopkins university in 1918. After spending a year as interne at Johns Hopkins, he took work for a year in the language school at the University of Nanking, China.
He returned to the university only recently from an extended leave of absence during which time he established a county health unit at Burlington, his birth place.

Locate Liquor Fighter After Long Absence

Found Suffering From Amnesia in North Carolina

ASHEVILLE, N. C., Nov. 18 (AP)—Col. Raymond Robins, dry leader and close friend of President Hoover who disappeared Sept. 3, was found yesterday in an obscure mountain village of western North Carolina, a victim of amnesia, it was announced here tonight.
"Colonel Robins was identified today by his nephew, John Dreier of New York, who said his uncle 'is suffering from amnesia and has been spending the last two months in the mountains near here.'
He was brought to an undisclosed place near Asheville tonight for treatment, Dreier said.

Sound Physical Condition

"Colonel Robins is in sound physical condition and is in perfect control of his ordinary mental faculties," a statement issued by the nephew said. He did not clarify this apparent discrepancy with the statement his uncle suffers amnesia.
The Associated Press learned that for the last two months the philanthropist has been living in the village of Whittier, deep in the mountains, at a boarding house, under the name of "Rogers."
His finding, after a nationwide search, resulted from the work of two agents of the federal prohibition department, who were in the vicinity of Whittier on other business.

The agents, Charles Dranton and Ray Biggs, noticed a picture of Robins in an Atlanta newspaper and suspected that "Rogers" was Robins. They communicated with J. Ed Kanipe, deputy prohibition administrator who sent to Washington for an authenticated picture.
Kanipe went to Whittier yesterday for Colonel Robins and the identification was completed today by Dreier.
The finding of Colonel Robins exploded widespread reports that he was the victim of bootleggers or Russian imperialists.
He disappeared presumably while on his way to the White House where he had an appointment with President Hoover.
Colonel Robins, 59, made a fortune in the Klondike gold rush of 1896 and later engaged in prohibition and philanthropic work.
A dispatch from Brookville, Fla., tonight said Mrs. Robins was en route here to join her husband.

Engineers Re-Elect Kittredge Secretary of Society in Iowa

Prof. R. B. Kittredge of the college of engineering was re-elected secretary of the Iowa section of the American Society of Civil Engineers at the organization's annual meeting in Des Moines Thursday.
Those from Iowa City who attended the meeting were Professor Kittredge, Dean C. C. Williams, Prof. A. H. Holt, and Prof. Floyd A. Nagler, all of the college of engineering; George M. Griffith, United States engineer; Rudolph G. Kasel and Karl Jetter of the United States Geological survey.
H. P. Evans, research assistant in hydraulic engineering; Harold B. Vasey, G. of Collins; and Gaylord A. Kellow, E4 of Cresco.

Lucky Ford—No Paint to Scratch

Crash! Was the sound, as a shining new Chevrolet coupe and an old model T Ford came together at Iowa avenue and Dubuque streets late yesterday. The drivers leaped out to survey the damage and as a crowd quickly gathered went back to their cars.
"No harm done, just scratched the paint," mumbled someone as the Ford rattled off, front wheels wobbling and right running board hanging to the pavement.

Council Votes for Change in Rate Schedule

In order to work out a schedule of rates to be charged consumers for water the mayor and the city council will meet with representatives of the Iowa Water Service company at a special meeting at the city hall at 1:30 p.m. Monday.
The motion was carried last night at a meeting of the city council after the report of the waterworks committee was read stating that they were unable to come to any agreement on rates with the water company.
Notice of the intention to introduce an amendment to the milk ordinance was given. The amendment calls for the regulation of the sale of raw milk with no milk being delivered in Iowa City except grade "A." It was also ordered that a permit will have to be obtained and that no person can label, sell, or advertise a grade "A" milk which does not fully meet with the milk ordinance and proposed amendment requirements.

Explains Position

State police on that occasion ejected a delegation of Communists who demanded unemployment appropriation. When the hecklers resisted removal a general melee developed and several persons were injured.
Mr. Roosevelt explained to the three men, Stone, Sam Weissman, head of the unemployed council of New York city and Richard Sullivan, that he was governor "but I certainly have no federal authority."
Visited State House
The governor was at the capitol a short time today, the first visit he has made to the state house since his election to the presidency.
Tomorrow Mr. Roosevelt, accompanied by his wife, will motor to Hyde Park for the week end. He will go on to New York Monday and the following day will meet President Hoover in Washington to discuss the international debt situation. After the White House conference, Mr. Roosevelt will go to Warm Springs, Ga., for a two weeks visit.

Close Art Exhibit at Union Thursday

The exhibit of peasant art which was being shown in the University club rooms at Iowa Union closed Thursday.
The exhibit included a collection of textiles, Christmas cards, wood paintings, lithographs and toys, illustrating the art appreciation of Austria, Hungary and other European countries and was under the direction of Lula Smith of the home economics department.

Drain to Address Minnesota Meeting

Dr. Charles L. Drain, head of the bureau of dental hygiene, will speak before the Dutch district dental society this afternoon at Duluth, Minn. "Control of dental caries" is the subject of the talk.
Dr. Drain left yesterday for Duluth, and will return tomorrow.

Jan. 1 Set as Date for Taking Up Duties as Associate Dean, Director of Midway Clinic

DEAN HENRY S. HOUGHTON
—Leaves for Chicago

Cabinet Talks Over Foreign Debts, Budget

WASHINGTON, Nov. 18 (AP)—With the urgent problems of war debts and budget balancing almost constantly before him, President Hoover today summoned the first full meeting of his cabinet in more than two months for an extraordinary session lasting nearly two hours.
Although the White House itself maintained a silence upon these questions, authoritative sources indicated that both subjects received official attention.

Accept Invitation

Meanwhile, congressional leaders, both Democratic and Republican, accepted Mr. Hoover's invitation to discuss the debt situation with him on Wednesday, the day following the chief executive's conference on that subject with President-Elect Roosevelt. In addition reiterated opposition to debt revision was voiced at both ends of the capitol.
As members of the official family filed into the executive offices today, for their first meeting since Democratic victory at the polls, they were informed of plans for Mr. Hoover's parley with Governor Roosevelt next Tuesday afternoon.

All Present

Since mid-summer at least one and sometimes four or five of the cabinet officers have been absent from the regular semi-weekly meeting—away on campaign or other business. But all answered the call today.
Secretary Stimson, carrying a long list of cases as he left this morning's cabinet meeting in six months, smilingly told newspapermen that the gathering had considered domestic budget matters.
Secretary Hyde added a few moments later that the members gave most of their attention "to financial affairs—farther than that the dependent say not."

Non-Committal

Other cabinet officers were equally non-committal, but it was intimated that both national and international matters came within the session's scope, with most emphasis being placed upon scaling down the government's expenditures to equal its collections.
Secretary Mills, who will sit with the chief executive during his conference with Mr. Roosevelt, as will Professor Raymond Moley of Columbia with the president-elect, remained behind after the general cabinet session had ended.

Senators to Attend

Definite acceptances were received by the chief executive from all six members of the house ways and means committee invited to Wednesday's White House debt parley. Senators Harrison of Mississippi and George of Georgia, Democratic members of the senate financing committee, also accepted, while Senator King of Utah has indicated he will accept with the three ranking Republican members of the committee.

Liquor Count Against Ed O'Connor Dropped

Announcement Comes From Chicago; No Report Here

BULLETIN
NEW YORK, Nov. 18 (AP)—Dean Henry S. Houghton of the University of Iowa medical college said here tonight he will assume his new post as dean of biological sciences at the University of Chicago about the first of the year. He declined to comment further.

Dean Houghton, for six years head of the University of Iowa college of medicine, will resign his post to become associate dean of biological sciences and director of the Midway clinic at the University of Chicago, according to word received here yesterday.

Dean Houghton's selection for the position was announced yesterday by President Maynard Hutchins of the University of Chicago through the Associated Press.

Attending a meeting of the Laymen's commission for foreign research in New York city, Dean Houghton could not be reached for confirmation of the story and Mrs. Houghton was unwilling to comment on the appointment. No statement could be obtained from President Walter A. Jassup, who was on board a train returning from a meeting of the National Association of state universities in Washington, D. C.

Assumes New Post Jan. 1
According to the statement from the University of Chicago, Dean Houghton will assume his new position Jan. 1. The date of his resignation here has not been intimated.

Twenty-two years of medical service in the Orient preceded Dr. Houghton's acceptance of the position from which he is resigning at the University of Iowa. It was for the purpose of reporting on these 22 years of experience in the far east that he is attending the research meeting in New York.

Dean Houghton began his medical career in 1905 after his graduation from Johns Hopkins university, when he joined the Rockefeller foundation as a medical assistant.

One year later he was sent to Wuhu, China, as physician to the general hospital. After five years at Wuhu, he became dean of the Harvard medical school of China at Shanghai and professor of tropical medicine.

Returns to U. S.
In 1917 Dean Houghton returned to the United States for a year as member of the China Medical board of New York and in 1918 retraced his steps to China in the position of acting director of the Peking Union Medical college.

He soon became director of the college and retained the position until 1928, when he came to the University of Iowa.

Dean Houghton was born at Toledo, Ohio, in 1880 and received his early education in the Columbus, Ohio, high school and the academy at Ohio Wesleyan. In 1901 he earned his B. Ph. degree at Ohio State university and received his M.D. degree from Johns Hopkins university in 1905.

Member of Societies
Active in world wide medical circles, Dean Houghton is a member of the Chinese Medical association; the Royal Society of Tropical Medicine as a fellow and regional secretary from 1914 to 1924; the American Society of Tropical Medicine and Hygiene; the Far Eastern Association of Tropical Medicine, of which he was vice president from 1912 to 1925; and the American College of Physicians.

The home of the Houghton family is at 508 Melrose court. There are five children in the family, Ben, a junior student in the college of medicine and a member of Nu Sigma Nu fraternity; Amy and Mary, junior students and members of Kappa Alpha Theta sorority; Albert, senior in University high school; and Hugh, University junior high school student.

Although Dean Houghton will assume his new duties Jan. 1, the family will remain in Iowa City until the end of the school year.

Drain to Address Minnesota Meeting

Dr. Charles L. Drain, head of the bureau of dental hygiene, will speak before the Dutch district dental society this afternoon at Duluth, Minn. "Control of dental caries" is the subject of the talk.
Dr. Drain left yesterday for Duluth, and will return tomorrow.

Rev. W. P. Lemon Talks Before Iowa City Woman's Club Group

Declares Knowledge of Browning Needful for Education

Speaking on "Browning, our contemporary," the Rev. W. P. Lemon of the first Presbyterian church addressed the general meeting of the Iowa City Woman's club at a luncheon yesterday noon on the sunporch of Iowa Union. The Rev. Mr. Lemon told the club that a knowledge of the Victorian poet constituted a liberal education.

He dealt with Browning as a creator, and showed the cosmopolitan nature of the poet and the wide geographical distribution of his mental children. The characters ranked from a silk worker to a duchess; from a cannibal to an Andrea Del Sarto; from a Halbert and Hob to a Cleon; from a Ned Bratts to an Abt Vogler.

Psychologist The speaker also made reference to Browning the psychoanalyst. The casuistic studies in Mr. Sludge the medium; Fiffine at the fair, Saul in the Bishop Blougram showed the skill of a man who took a "full view of the worst" and yet retained an unshakable optimism in mankind and an abiding faith in God.

Mrs. H. C. Dorcas, chairman of the literature department which had charge of the program, introduced the speaker. More than 80 women were present. Chrysanthemums decorated the luncheon tables.

In Charge of Meeting The following members of the social committee of the general club were in charge: Mrs. W. L. Bywater, chairman; Mrs. L. C. Jones, Mrs. Merton H. Tudor, Mrs. H. H. Gibbs, Mrs. Fred W. Boiler, Mrs. William J. Weeber, Mrs. H. C. Parsons, and Mrs. M. E. Barnes.

At the executive board meeting which immediately preceded the luncheon it was voted to contribute $25 to the Iowa City milk fund for school children. Plans were presented for the Christmas community carol service.

Mrs. Ernest Horn Gives Tea in Honor of Mrs. R. Puckett

Honoring Mrs. Roswell Puckett of Toledo, Ohio, Mrs. Ernest Horn entertained at a tea from 3:30 to 5:30 p.m. yesterday at her home, 822 Kirkwood avenue. A fall motif was used in the table and floral decorations. Mrs. Asa Horn of Princeton, Mo., was an out-of-town guest. Mrs. Forest C. Ensign, Mrs. Paul C. Packer, Mrs. Frederic E. Knight, and Mrs. Charles B. Robbins presided at the tea tables. Parlor hostesses were Mrs. Horn, Mrs. Thomas J. Kirby, Mrs. E. F. Lindquist, Mrs. Harry A. Greene, and Mrs. Elmer T. Peterson.

Mrs. Puckett, who is the former Catherine Cramer, was at one time a faculty member in the home economics department. She and Mr. Puckett are making their home at 1080 E. Washington street for the winter season, while Mr. Puckett completes work on a doctor's degree.

State Witness Tells Story of Coin Slaying

Positively Identifies One as Killer of Former Liquor Chief

DAVENPORT, Nov. 18 (AP)—Fred Jess, state witness in the trial of Louis Spridgen for the murder of Nick Coin, former Davenport liquor chief, testified today that he is positive Spridgen was the man he saw in the back seat of a black sedan which passed his home within 250 feet of the scene of the killing last May 25.

The witness said he was in his yard looking at some flowers when he noticed Coin fall from a rain of shot and slump over a terrace with outstretched arms. The state claims he was the only person who saw the slaying which occurred in the early morning as Coin was on his way to a bus line.

Recognized Spridgen

Jess testified that the man in the back seat of the sedan from which the shells were fired turned his face toward him as the car passed his home and that he was close enough to recognize Spridgen.

The witness said he later saw Spridgen on the street in Muscatine when he went there with Sheriff Frank Martin in connection with the case. He passed within close range of the defendant and recognized him then as the occupant of the death car, he said. He also picked the defendant from eight prisoners in the county jail here.

Court was adjourned until Monday after a cross examination of the witness by defense attorneys, who failed to shake his testimony.

Will Muster Forces

Both sides are expected to muster their forces anew next week when the defense will attempt to prove an alibi by Spridgen that he was in Muscatine and did not hear of the Coin killing until several hours afterward.

The prosecution will introduce testimony of ballistic experts in an attempt to show that one of the three shells found near the scene came from the automatic shotgun later seized at Spridgen's home.

County Attorney Weir expected to finish the prosecution by Tuesday noon. Defense attorneys expressed the belief that the remainder of the week would be required for their side of the case.

Schneider to Give Lecture at Iowa Union

Approximately 1,000 persons are expected to attend, "The Beauties of Bryce, Zion, and Grand Canyons," an illustrated lecture to be given by Dr. C. O. Schneider, honorary member of the Chicago Camera club, in the main auditorium of Iowa Union at 8 o'clock this evening. The university school of fine arts will sponsor the lecture.

An oculist by profession, Dr. Schneider has adapted color photography as his avocation. He has spent five summers in southern Utah and Arizona gathering the pictures he will use tonight.

The main lecture will be prefaced by pictures of famous north shore gardens of Chicago, to illustrate the truthfulness with which autochromes, natural color photographs, portray shades and colors.

Dr. Schneider has given his lecture before many medical and scientific groups, such as Academy of Sciences, the Field Museum, the Art Institute, the University club, the Chicago Camera club and the Commercial and Portrait Photographers' associations.

Dr. Schneider will be the guest of Benjamin W. Robinson, director of student employment, while here.

"Ivory Door" to Open Play Series Today

"The Ivory Door," first of this season's productions of the Children's theater, will be presented this afternoon at 2 o'clock in the Studio theater in Iowa Union.

The play, a recent one by A. A. Milne, will be performed by a cast of 15 Iowa City children, under the direction of Helen Langworthy, director of the Children's theater.

The setting of the fantasy is a mythical kingdom, where King Hilary, ruled over his simple subjects, with their weird customs and superstitious beliefs. A strange legend has grown up concerning an ivory door within the castle walls. It is said that all who wander through this door disappear forever.

Through this mysterious door go Prince Perivale, played by Tommy Mahan, and Princess Lilia, played by Betty Martin. They find strange adventures on the other side of the door.

Membership tickets or adult season tickets will admit holders to the performance. Tickets will also be on sale at the door.

Following the performance, a tea will be given for the mothers of children in the group. All mothers whose children are not yet members, but who are interested in the theater, are also invited.

Larsen Talks on Norsemen

Outlines Old Medical Superstitions, Theories

Chanted sagas of tattered minstrels who sang their ancient songs in the halls of Viking chieftains were the medical "textbooks" of the Norsemen, Prof. Henning Larsen of the English department said in his Baconian lecture last night.

Science was an unknown thing when the blond warriors were rulers of the northern seas. Only the magic rituals of barbarism, as crude and ineffectual as the frenzied dancing of the Indian witch-doctors were used to cure the sick, he said.

Four Elements

Basing their medical treatments on the primitive theory that all matter was composed of the four elements, fire, water, earth, and air, the doctors of the period, usually madmen or charlatans without the remotest thought of scientific experimentation, evolved strange theories for the treatment of human ills.

Health depended, doctors then believed, upon the four mystic elements of the body: red bile, black bile, blood, and phlegm, Professor Larsen said. If the patient suffered from a headache, it was because, perhaps, he had an over-supply of red bile.

Apply "Humors"

And, muttering charms, the doctor would diagnose the case as 'hot, cold, wet, or dry, the four "humors." If the patient tossed with fever he was kept cold. If he shook with the chills he was promptly toasted. Application of the opposite "humor" was always effectual, theoretically.

From the monasteries of Spain, Italy and France came medicines compounded from secret herbs to the necessary accompaniment of meaningless incantations, carried as precious cargoes in the swift Viking ships.

Written Directions

These herbs, either simple or compounded, were administered to patients in accordance with directions written by Danish scribes, who gleaned their knowledge from the early Latin parchments, he said.

Professor Larsen's address on the old Norse medicines was the second in the series of 12 Baconian lectures, all open to the public.

Bank Pays Depositors

SPENCER (AP)—A 5.05 per cent final dividend, aggregating more than $264,000, will be paid depositors in the closed Citizens National bank here Saturday and Monday.

"They Click with Me, too"

THE young man is saying the reason he smokes Chesterfields is because they satisfy. The young lady agrees with him. She says: "They click with me, too. I'm not what you'd call a heavy smoker. But even I can tell that they're milder. Besides, I always have a kind of feeling that Chesterfields taste better."

She's right. Chesterfields are just as pure and wholesome as Nature and Science can make them. And we have upwards of 90 millions of dollars invested to ensure their mildness and better taste.

Cooperation Wanted

MORE THAN $160 has been stolen from sorority houses in the last few weeks. Hardly a night goes by that some sorority is not robbed or disturbed by prowlers and peeping Toms.

Almost without exception, recent robberies have occurred at the dinner hour, when members are downstairs. The burglar enters through a door or a window, ransacks the upper floor, and leaves by way of the fire escape with whatever cash he can find in the rooms.

The similarity of method in all of the burglaries indicates that the work is being done by one thief or a group of thieves who work systematically.

Police, of course, are doing all in their power to apprehend the criminals and they will probably succeed. Whether they succeed before another $160 has been stolen or not depends in large measure upon the support afforded by the sororities themselves.

As long as sorority houses are left with doors and windows unlocked and unguarded burglaries will probably continue. Police are practically powerless in such cases to prevent them.

Money should not be left where it can be easily found, and doors and windows, especially near fire escapes, should not be left unlocked as cordial invitations to whomever might want to enter.

In times such as these a certain amount of thievery must be expected. But there seems to be little excuse for such wholesale maraudings except laxity on the part of the victims.

Substitute for Toothpicks

FOR THOSE HIDEOUS days when one sits in class and blinks at the professor and shakes his head and tries with such terrible effort to stay awake scientists have found an eye-opener.

Sodium rhodanate is the magic potion. It soothes the nerves and counteracts the hardening of the proteins in the brain centers—if that lucid description means anything—and one comes back to wakefulness without even the use of toothpicks under the eyelids.

The effect of this potent chemical was discovered by Dr. Wilber D. Bancroft of Cornell university, who says he has increased his own sleep from an average of four hours to seven.

The whole thing rests on the discovery that sleep is nothing but the hardening of proteins in the brain centers. These proteins, so Dr. Bancroft says, harden much like the white of a boiled egg. It is clear, of course, that a hard boiled egg can't be anything but sluggish.

When the proteins have coagulated sufficiently to put their host to sleep, says Dr. Bancroft, the body begins producing a counter-substance which ultimately reverses the coagulation so that the sleeper awakes. Which is all very simple, of course, and needs no further explanation.

There is only one flaw in Dr. Bancroft's report. He failed to reveal how one is to go about using his sodium rhodanate. And no one would want to take an overdose; he might become too wide awake.

A Snicker for Justice

POSTHUMOUS acusal of Violet Sharpe, the maid in the Lindbergh case who committed suicide during the investigation, is contained in an article by Police Inspector Harry W. Walsh appearing in a New Jersey newspaper. "I am convinced," he writes, "that Violet Sharpe deceived us, and that she did so deliberately. I am convinced that she was the informant—the agent—of the kidnapers."

In a previous article, the inspector accused Edgar Hoover, chief of the federal bureau of criminal investigation, of hiring underworld characters to help trace down the kidnapers and murderers of the Lindbergh baby. And Hoover promptly denied it. There is probably no one to deny the accusation against Miss Sharpe.

Since the entire investigation into the Lindbergh case was conducted in as farcical a manner as would seem possible, it would be far better to leave well enough alone and call the case closed.

Justice had a good laugh at the expense of the investigators who massed all the forces of the law in the land to no avail—this latest revelation on the part of the chief investigator can bring forth only a mild snicker.

The King Can Do No Wrong

CLOSE ON THE HEELS of the announcement by Governor-elect C. Stock of Michigan that he will make every attempt to set free those imprisoned under Michigan's state liquor law comes word from California that Governor Rolph has already taken steps to do the same about all the "victims" of his state's prohibition enforcement measure, repealed at the Nov. 8 election.

In open anticipation of federal repeal, both these men have taken opportunity to denounce the system of law that found men guilty of violations against society. Now they want to flaunt all regard for society by turning the tables on justice. Maybe the king can do no wrong, but he might, at least, set a good example for his subjects to follow.

We note in a list of birds and beasts consigned to a western zoo a green peafowl and look forward with keen anticipation to the advent later of a string beanfowl.

TODAY'S TOPICS

By FRANK JAFFE

There ought to be some satisfaction in knowing that someone has seen the handwriting on the wall for this "price system" civilization of ours, and has interpreted it—even as Daniel interpreted the destruction of Belshazzar and his kingdom—in no less uncertain terms.

For the last 10 years a group of engineers have labored unceasingly in an attempt to probe the depths of modern Babylon and to discover whether the ever-heralded and much sought prosperity that is just around the corner is worth waiting for or worth the least effort in obtaining.

This group—Technocracy (*) by name—has had before it a task the immensity of which few laymen can comprehend, and has prepared a report which in itself becomes a problem to which there is no ultimate solution save destruction of whatever system is now extant and the substitution of a system whose character as yet has evaded the wildest fancies of the best minds.

Technocracy, to be exact, has "applied a quantitative measure to the social mechanism" and has discovered that "we have reached the end of an era, that the fundamental cause of the depression is not political, it is technological," and that "we are faced with the problem of having to desert a system that has become obsolete and at the same time of designing a system to take its place."

But what shall that system be? Fascism, Communism, and Socialism, Technocracy reports, are wholly as inadequate as Capitalism. Must we return to the days of hand labor, of essentially agrarian civilization, of pre-machine-age days to save ourselves? Technocracy hardly ventures a reply but insists that the current problems transcend all social theories and partisan politics—even government, which is not wholly surprising.

The facts are easily derived, not so easily faced: "The ancient miller of Athens or Rome ground out in a day, between his two crude milling stones, a barrel to a barrel and a half of indifferent flour. A modern flour mill in Minneapolis produces 30,000 barrels a day per man with a much shorter day and a much better flour."

"A shoemaker of ancient Rome took five and a half days to make a pair of shoes. The 7,200 shoemakers in the Shoemakers Guild of Roman days would make only 7,200 pairs of shoes in five and a half days. The same number of employes in a modern shoe plant in five and a half days would produce 595,000 pairs of shoes."

"The brickmakers for over 5,000 years never attained on the average of more than 450 bricks a day per man—a day being over 10 hours. A modern straightline continuous brick plant will produce 400,000 bricks a day per man."

And even with our magnificent advances in all branches of human endeavor there are more on the way—99 per cent of all the locomotives now in operation in this country are obsolete, need replacement by new and more efficient mechanisms—always a drive to devise new machines to do man's work, to take the place of more and more employed men.

And that is hardly all. "If industry, with what it knows today, should sell to the American people the best that it could produce, most factories would have to shut down for a period of years." Because this expansion is based on the fallacious notion that there is a limitless field, because technology proves that the limit has been reached, there must come an interpretation of the modern handwriting on the wall that will re-establish our values and reset the pace of civilization.

For, despite the harpings of politicians and many economists that new industries will absorb the unemployed, that increased foreign trade will absorb the surpluses, that increased buying power will restore the country to normalcy, there is this aspect that cannot be shunned—"Any political or economic attempt to deal with the problems that are arising on this continent will of necessity be only palliative and temporary expedients to final gestures of restraint to blockade the incoming of a new technological order."

We have been a long time arriving at the point where the machine has ceased to be man's assistant but has become his master. We have heard a great deal and read a great deal about the shortcomings and inconsistencies of a machine age, but we have failed to conceive anything but temporary sedatives for the pains and aches the mechanized whirl has brought us.

Perhaps, within the two years that Technocracy allows before the complete breakdown into "a final sublimation of fear" there will come a new Daniel—one who can not only interpret but can propound a solution to the greatest problem that man has yet been brought to face.

General Notices

To All Students Who Expect to Graduate at the Close of the Present Semester, Tuesday, Jan. 31, 1933

Each student who expects to receive a degree or certificate at the university convocation to be held Tuesday, Jan. 31, 1933, must have made his formal application, on a card provided for the purpose in the registrar's office, in university hall, on or before Saturday, Nov. 19, 1932. It is of the utmost importance that each student concerned comply with this request immediately; for otherwise it is very likely that a student, who may be in other respects qualified, will not be recommended for graduation at the close of the present semester.

Making application for the degree, or the certificate, involves the payment of the graduation fee at the time the application is made, the payment of this fee being a necessary part of the application. Call first at the registrar's office for the application card. H. C. DORCAS, registrar

Students' Local Addresses

A very large number of students who, at registration time, had not yet determined their places of residence in Iowa City, and a very considerable number of other students who have changed their addresses since registration, have not yet notified the registrar's office of their exact, complete, present local addresses. We are asking that every such student forward to the registrar's office, or leave at the counter thereof, at the earliest possible moment, his complete present address in Iowa City. H. C. DORCAS, registrar

School of Fine Arts Lecture

C. O. Schneider, honorary member of the Chicago Camera club, will present, in a public lecture, the beauties of Bryce, Zion and Grand canyons, by means of autochromes (natural color photographs) projected by stereopticon, Saturday, Nov. 19, at 8 p.m. in the main lounge of Iowa Union. The showing will be prefaced with views of the floral gardens along the North shore, north of Chicago. R. E. FITZGERALD, director

American Association of University Women Luncheon

The American Association of University Women will hold a luncheon meeting at the C. E. Seashore home, 815 N. Linn street, Saturday, Nov. 19, at 12:15 p.m. Mrs. Henry S. Houghton will speak on "The changing Orient."

Notice to Graduate Students

At a meeting of the graduate faculty Wednesday, Nov. 16, the following resolution in regard to the doctoral dissertation was adopted: The printed dissertation shall ordinarily be restricted to a technical and condensed statement of the contribution the candidate has actually made to the subject. Of this the candidate shall present 10 copies, or actual printer's copy, to the dean's office at least two weeks before the convocation at which the degree may be conferred. If presented in typewritten form, this shall be properly submitted for publication in a satisfactory channel within one year, and the candidate shall sign a negotiable note for $200 as guarantee of publication. The printed dissertation may be the dissertation as a whole; it may be an abstract of the more extended and finished form, which is presented and filed in duplicate typewritten copies and with it constitutes the dissertation as a whole; or it may be accompanied by a supplement containing the original data and other supporting material organized in a scholarly manner so as to constitute an integral part of the dissertation. Where the dissertation is an extended creative work it should be printed as a whole. Other types of procedure may be acceptable on recommendation of the department and approval by the dean. This recommendation will go into effect during the second semester of the present year. C. E. SEASHORE

University Women's Association

University Women's association council will meet Monday, Nov. 21, at 4 p.m. on the Iowa Union sun porch. Important. ELOISE ANDERSON, president

BEHIND THE SCENES — IN HOLLYWOOD —

By HARRISON CARROLL. STUDIO GOSSIP. FILM SCANDAL. SCREEN COMMENT. HOLLYWOOD, Cal.—No actress in Hollywood is making steadier progress this year than Myrna Loy. If you can believe Leslie Howard, she gives a notable performance in "Animal Kingdom" and now R-K-O is keeping her on the lot to play John Barrymore's leading woman in "Topaze." This character, which once served Mary Duncan on the coast, is one of the important trio in the Marcel Pagnol satire. With the additional emphasis R-K-O plans to give it in the talkie version, it will be one of the biggest assignments yet undertaken by the exotic Myrna. And while it again discovers her as a woman who lives by her wits, there will be more than the usual amount of sympathy. With the script of Ben Hecht and Charles Lederer already okayed by David Selznick, shooting should start on "Topaze" in a week or 10 days. Director Harry D'Arrast will make final arrangements as soon as he arrives from New York. It's an amusing story they tell about Fox's "State Fair" company. Things were going wrong. Director Henry King had made a half dozen takes of a scene with Will Rogers and "Blue Boy," the champion Iowa hog. Still he shook his head. "Sorry, Will, but we'll have to do it again. 'Blue Boy' didn't look so good in that one." Rogers surveyed the hog with disfavor. "I'll tell you where he'd look good," he exclaimed. "On the breakfast table, right between two eggs!" HOLLYWOOD PARADE This last week end found a good part of Hollywood troking to Palm Springs for the official opening of the winter season. Each of the hotels in the desert resort had its quota of stars, who came to rest, ride, play golf, dance, swim and to enjoy the various attractions of this favored spot. The swimming show at the El Mirador drew a long list of celebrities. You should have seen Hoot Gibson ride the imitation bronco suspended over the swimming pool, while Sally Eilers, Johnny Weismuller, Eleanor Holm, Genevieve Tobin, Carl Laemmle, Jr., Elna Asher, the Ray McCareys, the Norman McLeods and many others. From now until late spring Palm Springs will draw steady patronage from the stars. DID YOU KNOW— That Marie Dressler made her stage debut at the age of 5 in church entertainment? # John Fielding Played Parts in Three Armies, Roved Two Continents, Thence to Iowa

Gave Up Gypsy Life for University Position

By ROBERT H. INGRAM
"Gypsy" blood is hard to quell. It gets a hold on you and doesn't want to let go. Then once you break its grasp, it is forever bobbing up to dull your interest in routine existence.

Ask John Fielding; he knows. All his life a wanderer, he came to the University of Iowa 10 years ago and settled down to be an instructor in the mechanical engineering department.

Still Here
He's still here and intends to be here for a long time yet; but it's a narrow life for one who has belonged to three armies, roamed two continents, and dropped secured positions on a whim.

Chance led him into a roving life from his childhood; chance brought him to stability as a university instructor. What further chance may play, neither Mr. Fielding nor anyone else knows.

Born in England of a long line of craftsmen and soldiers this small, wiry wanderer was apprenticed to a blacksmith before he was 15. It wasn't a very pleasant life, but he learned a lot.

Judge of Horses
Before the apprenticeship was over he could tell by the sound of the hammer whether or not a horse was being properly shod. He learned to judge horses, to tell whether they were sprinters, jumpers, or runners.

Besides this he was a farrier, the assistant of a veterinarian, and his duties were varied and often unpleasant. On the side he went to night school and poor grades brought prompt punishment from his employer blacksmith, followed by repeated reprimands at home.

The apprenticeship completed, Fielding entered the British army as a private. He became the blacksmith of the company. His thirst for knowledge led to more schooling and he took officers' instruction while in the service at the Royal Ordnance college.

Instructed Cavalrymen
His next position was instructor to cavalry officers. Every British officer must know how to shoe a horse, and John Fielding taught many of them. He also shared with them his knowledge of the fine points of horse flesh, that they might be able to purchase stock for their companies.

But now the call of strange places got into John Fielding's being, and he made his first gypsy move. Knowing not a soul across the ocean, he came to North America and entered Canada.

Since then he has visited his homeland only once. His father died just after the Armistice was signed, and he reached home on leave two weeks after the funeral. Not long ago his mother, a direct descendant of the engineer who built the first suspension bridge across Niagara Falls, died in Manchester at the age of 87.

Soldier by Profession
A soldier by profession, the Canadian army offered him his first opportunity in a strange land. He joined the Royal horse artillery in 1908. Before long he was assigned to aid the military mounted police in patrolling the far north, aiding victims of forest fires which were ravaging the country.

Then came days of utmost satisfaction to his wanderer's heart. Sometimes alone, sometimes with a patrol of two or three, he roamed the virgin timberlands, now adding destitute trappers' families, again lending a hand in the capture of a murderer or a fur thief.

Succumbs to Wanderlust
Ideal as the life was, the wanderer got the better of Fielding in a little more than a year. He came to the United States. In 1909 he cast his lot definitely with Uncle Sam and was naturalized.

In Aviation Battle

Erret Lobban Cord, 37 year old financier and head of an auto company, who is waging a fight against Wall Street for control of the $20,000,000 aviation company of Delaware. Cord has already caused the postponement of the sale of the most important unit of that company and is trying to align more than 50 per cent of the proxies to get full control. He plans to make planes as cheap as trains for travelers.

Unusual mechanical skill soon marked him as a capable workman, and he had little trouble finding employment. His first jobs were in the metal mines of the northwestern states. He mined gold, copper, zinc, lead and almost every other metal found in this country.

That was his winter employment. But summer meant open air and new country to John Fielding. He found a rancher who needed help in rounding up his cattle to the railroad for shipment. Mounted police experience had made him a good horseman, so each summer he returned to the open range and became a cowhand.

Jobs Always Waiting
So it went. Three to six months in a position. Then on to new scenes, where a job was always waiting for a capable machinist.

When the World war broke out he was working on the iron ranges in Minnesota. He "joined up" at once and by the end of the war was sergeant in the crack engineering company headed by Capt. B. P. Fleming, former head of the University of Iowa mechanical engineering department.

Made up entirely of practical engineers, this company was a "handy-man" outfit. If a bridge was to be built, a drain pipe laid, a canal dug, or a gun-carriage repaired, ideas and most of the labor came from Captain Fleming's crew.

War Ended
Then the war ended and these engineers were scattering to their old homes. At parting Fleming mentioned to Fielding the possibility of a teaching job at the University of Iowa. The Englishman promised to consider the offer.

John Fielding went back to the steel mills at New Duluth, Minn. Not for four years did he hear from Fleming. Then came a definite offer of a position on the University of Iowa faculty.

It meant the end of the carefree wanderer, but there was little choice. Fielding's wife had just died. He was working 18 to 36 hour shifts. He never saw his son except when the boy was asleep. It was the only chance for a stable existence.

Ten years as an instructor have passed. John Fielding is married again and lives quietly enough. But every summer he drives thousands of miles over paved roads through land where he once mined copper and lead with Finns, Austrians, and Italians. It is the old wanderlust cropping out again.

Davies Will Speak at Church Meeting

Prof. G. R. Davies of the department of commerce of the University of Iowa, will speak to the men of the First Christian church and their friends next Monday evening in the church parlors following a supper at 6:30. The subject of his address will be "Stewardship and economics."

Other features of the program will be instrumental numbers by Alfred and Richard Soucek with Helen Kadlec accompanying at the piano, and group singing led by C. R. Van Dusen. Reservations should be made with Edward S. Rose, chairman of the meeting, by telephoning 8833. The Sarah Hart guild of the church is serving the meal.

YESTERDAY'S CARTOON
The sale of New York city hall for debt—During the incumbency of Mayor Fernando Wood in 1856, public corruption had reached such a pass that a certain Robert W. Lowber recovered a judgment against the city of New York for $196,000 on a false claim. To satisfy this judgment the New York city hall was sold at public auction, who paid $50,000 for the hall with all its furnishings and contents was Daniel F. Tieman. The buyer was elected mayor the same year, and was reimbursed by the city which repossessed itself of its property.

Iowa Alums to Fete Birthday of University

Anniversary Celebration Planned for About Feb. 25

Alumni of the University of Iowa, whether living within a block of Old Capitol or half the continent's distance away, will be asked to join in National Iowa Night ceremonies in February or March.

The affair will be the university's birthday party, when graduates observe the eighty-sixth anniversary of the institution's foundation.

Although the exact date has not yet been set, Prof. Frederic G. Higbee, secretary of the alumni association and supervisor of arrangements for the affair, said it would occur as near as possible to Feb. 25.

It was on Feb. 25, 1847, when the act which established the state university was approved by Iowa's first general assembly, only two months after the territory of Iowa had become a state.

Just as was the case at the first National Iowa Night in 1927, the seventh annual affair in 1933 will take the form of alumni banquets held simultaneously in Iowa counties and in dozens of cities of other states.

The local program will be broadcast by station WSUI and received by all groups within range of the station. To some of the major rallies in large cities, guest speakers, picked from members of the university faculty, will be sent.

Nurse Association Adopts New Plan for Hourly Service

A new hourly nursing plan in addition to full time duty is being offered in Johnson county and the whole of the fifth district of the Iowa State Association of Registered Nurses as the result of an agreement of the members in the district with the approval of the state association.

The new plan is expected to be of special benefit to chronic and recuperating patients who are in need of nursing in either the hospital or at home. The nurse will also be available to care for a patient when members of the family wish to be away from the home for a few hours, or to relieve the full time nurse in the hospital or home. Hourly nursing service is available in Iowa City and surrounding territory providing the patient is under a physician's care. Nurses for this service may be called through the University Hospital Nurses' Register or the Mercy Hospital Nurses' Register of Iowa City.

Home Ec's Receive Style Photos; Cotton Shown for Winter

A group of photographs of model style has been received by the home economics department from Catherine Cleveland, consumer consultant of the Cotton Textiles Institute of New York city.

The collection demonstrates the acceptability of cotton materials for fall and winter clothes, and includes photographs of the various types of dresses and coats, for which cotton fabrics may be used. Cotton corduroy predominates and is shown for evening gowns, afternoon frocks and coats. Tailored dresses of black cotton lace and plique velveteen suits are also shown. White cotton plique is used for trimming.

Popular colors are black, white, blue and rust.

Little Hawks Bow to Washington, 12-0, in Last Home Contest

Kupka Leads Two Scoring Jaunts in Win

Mutchler, Marshall Top Red and White Players

By DEWEY CUMMINS

In a slow, listless game that was marked by many fumbles and much unnecessary roughness, the Iowa City high eleven took a 12 to 0 defeat at the hands of big Washington high team yesterday afternoon at Shrader field. This was the last home game of the season for the Little Hawks.

The visitors went into the game doped to win and lived up to the predictions. They opened the game with an attack that looked good for many scores when they passed and plunged their way down the field in the first few moments of the game to the 7 yard line.

Fake Play Works

On a fake place kick, Kupka, flashy Washington halfback, passed to McElhinney who stepped over for a touchdown. The try for extra point failed, leaving the score, 6 to 0. The Little Hawk defense tightened up and held the visitors on even terms during the second quarter.

Shortly after the second half opened, Kupka carried the ball from the 50 yard line to the 30. Leeper, lanky fullback, on the next play got 15 yards around right end. A pass from Leeper to McElhinney was good for five more yards. Leeper took the ball through center to the five yard line. Kupka on the next play picked his way through center and over the goal line for another touchdown. The score remained at 12 to 0 as they missed the try for extra point.

City High Attack Fails

Coach George Well's men displayed a passing attack in the last half that accounted for several good gains but their running attack failed to produce any yardage. Mutchler and Marshall again took the honors in the Red and White backfield while Nelson and Kirkpatrick were outstanding in the line.

Kupka at right halfback was a great offensive threat for the visitors. He proved valuable as a ball carrier and passer. McElhinney acted as receiver on most of these passes and played a great game at end.

An outstanding feature of the game, from the viewpoint of the City high team, was Marshall's excellent punting. Consistently outpunting his opponents, he turned in one great punt that carried more than 60 yards in the air. Although no accurate account was kept, his kicks averaged around 40 yards for the afternoon's work.

The lineups:

Iowa City (0)	Washington (22)
McGreevey	REERE
Thomas	RTT
Nelson	RGRG
Glasy (c)	C.C.
Kirkpatrick	RGLG
W. Barger	LTLT
Willard	LELE
Marshall	QBQB
Zager	HBHB
Boyce	HBHB
Mutchler	FBFB
Leeper

Score by quarters:	1	2	3	4	T
Iowa City	0	0	0	0	0-0
Washington	6	0	6	0	12

St. Ambrose Takes Second Place With 25-6 Upset of Penn

DAVENPORT, Nov. 18 (AP)—The St. Ambrose college football team went into undisputed second place in the Iowa conference race today by defeating Penn 25 to 6.

Eddie Klenk was the Ambrosian offensive star, garnering 12 points with touchdowns in the first and fourth periods. Wirken, substitute end, snagged a Saint pass after a Penn player knocked it out of Urie's hands and ran 35 yards for a touchdown in the second quarter. Mary Hanson, star quarterback, scored late in the game and contributed one point after touchdown from placement.

Penn tallied when Hansen's punt deep in Saint territory was blocked. The Quakers rushed the oval the remaining distance and thus broke the string of six games in which the Saints had kept their goal line uncrossed.

Seventeen sports, including horse-shoe pitching, are on the intramural program at the University of Florida.

SKIMMING THE BLADE OF THE REAPER

This spectacular picture, made during the 150-mile race for the championship of America at Oakland, Cal., shows an accident at the instant it happened. The car driven by Les Spangler (nearest the camera) is shown as it sideswiped another entry as both were going at terrific speed on a turn. Spangler's car hurtled completely over, but the occupants escaped with comparatively minor injuries.

Frosh Make Fast Times

Jacobsmeier Lowers Swim Mark as Frosh Lead

Five members of Coach David Armbruster's swimming squad, two of them freshmen, unofficially bettered the university record for the 220 yard free style in the field house pool yesterday as the third event on the swimming pentathlon neared completion with but three men yet to compete.

Best of these marks was that of Adolf Jacobsmeier, yearling swimmer, who skimmed through the water to the tune of 2:20.8 as compared to the university record of 2:25.0 held by Bill McCulley.

The St. Louis neophyte last week won the 50 yard free style breaking the intercollegiate time while doing so. He is leading in grand total scoring for the three events that have been run off so far.

Four Others Close

Scarcely a second behind Jacobsmeier and in another heat was Bruce Grove of the varsity while Jack Sieg, another freshman and back stroke winner Wednesday, took third, narrowly nosing out Jack McQuire of the varsity. Ruggie Anderson, sophomore varsity candidate, was the fifth member of the quintette that broke the record.

Others of the 41 man squad competing in the event to edge into the ranks of first 16 were in order: Allen Hurley, Chet Mohl, Wilbur Wehmer, Tad Close, and T. C. Collins.

Injury Slows Nielson

Joseph Ernst, who has taken second in two events so far and who has not competed as yet is another swimmer expected to join the record breakers. Harry Haskins and Capt. Steve Nielson have yet to shoot at their teammates marks. Captain Nielson, hampered by a football injury may not compete.

So far three events have been contested and so far three records have been broken—and all by freshmen. Coach Armbruster said that this year's frosh team is one of the most promising that he has had and he hopes to fashion a record breaking combination out of them for next year.

Continue Wednesday

The fourth event, the 100 yard breast stroke will take place Wednesday. Another record broken and continued yearling dominance is expected to follow in sequence. In speaking on behalf of the varsity Coach Armbruster indicated that the freshmen are in somewhat better condition as only this week have the vets reported regularly, while the neophytes have been out for some time.

Iowa, I. S. C. Mat Teams to Meet in Dual

Rivals on the mat for the first time, the University of Iowa and Iowa State college will meet in a dual wrestling meet during the approaching season.

Coach Mike Howard of the Hawkeyes said Friday that no date for the meet yet has been arranged and neither has the site of the affair been decided.

Both of these details will be settled after the Iowans book their Big Ten matches at the scheduled meeting in Chicago early next month.

Iowa State for years has produced great wrestling teams with Hugo Otopalik as coach. The state university in recent seasons has not been as powerful, but prospects for

Gophers Will Present Fast Ground Attack

Wolverines Favored to Win on Basis of Aerial Game

CHICAGO, Nov. 18 (AP)—The Big Ten football curtain falls tomorrow with the youngest master mind of the conference fighting for the undisputed championship and the grand patriarch of them all in a sad valedictory.

Up in northland of Minneapolis, Coach Harry Kipke will send his undefeated Michigan eleven against Minnesota, the last barrier between the Wolverines and the prized crown. On Chicago's midway, Coach Amos Alonzo Stagg will send his forty-first and last Maroon team against the bristling Badgers from Wisconsin.

Three other conference games, involving Iowa at Northwestern, Ohio State at Illinois, and Indiana at Purdue, were on the final card but paled into insignificance as compared with Michigan's title drive and Stagg's last stand.

Wolverines Favored

Michigan was expected to pass its way to victory over the physically shattering Gophers but a great battle was expected from start to finish. Possessing probably a stronger running attack, the Gophers were ready to fight the fight of their football lives to beat the Wolverines out of the championship and hand it to Purdue, which was expected to defeat its traditional rival, Indiana, and finish the season with only the Northwestern tie on the wrong side of the ledger.

Michigan's passing attack was keyed up for quick operation, however. It was a pass that toppled the Gophers at Wisconsin last week. Between 25,000 and 35,000 spectators were expected to watch the duel.

Coach Stagg's farewell, enforced by the university's 70 year retirement rule, was expected to be a sad one. Riding high with a surprising record behind them, the Badgers planned to defeat the Maroons by two or three touchdowns with the irresistible Mickey McGuire playing the leading role.

Coach Stagg figured on a "close" game while his players, equipped with new plays, were aroused to an emotional pitch capable of promoting an upset.

Traditional Battles

The Ohio State-Illinois, Purdue-Indiana games renew two of the greatest traditional rivalries in football. Purdue, a powerful team with a title chance hanging on Minnesota's defeat of Michigan, figured to turn back the Hoosiers but a lively engagement was anticipated. Ohio, coming back strong after a series of discouraging tie games, was rated the choice over Illinois, also staging a stirring comeback.

Except for Iowa's struggle to land in the win column, and Northwestern's experiment with 1933 material, no importance was attached to the skirmish at Evanston between the Wildcats and Hawkeyes. The game looked all Northwestern but "Pug" Renner, star Wildcat half, was out of the lineup with a fractured rib to give the Hawks one big break.

Grinnell Loses, 27-0

STILLWATER, Okla., Nov. 18 (AP)—Oklahoma A. & M. college captured the 1932 championship of the Missouri Valley conference before a shivering crowd of 4,000 here tonight, pushing Grinnell into a 27 to 0 defeat.

Purdue Eleven in Frosh League Plays Season of Five Games Without Loss

By TED KRUGLAK

In winning the freshman football league crown last Thursday afternoon, Purdue gave another demonstration of the class which marked its play throughout the season. Although the Boiler-makers were rated nominally as the number two team in pre-season doped, they soon reversed their mentors' classification in trouncing Michigan, the freshman first team early in the year by a score of 13-7, and sweeping through the rest of the competition without a defeat.

The peak of the season was reached at the meeting of the two giants of freshman football, Michigan and Purdue. Facing a heavier team, the Boiler-makers uncovered a fast running and passing attack which had the regulars reeling about in a vain effort to check the landslide. The Purdue offense was led by Joe Richards, Whitey Ewald, and Ken Smith, who were later advanced to the first team to aid in scrimmages against the varsity.

Despite the loss of the mainstays, the Purdue outfit managed to acquire itself creditably in its third game, playing Minnesota with an untied backfield. The replacements were unable to click and the Gophers managed to snatch a welcome 0-0 tie. However, the Purdue backfield started working together soon after this, and smashed through the rest of the league competition. The revamped lineup featured Johnny Stephens, chunky quarterback, who was drafted from the Indiana eleven, where he aided in holding to a lone touchdown the previous week by brilliant work at the safety position. Al Pfander, at fullback, and Don Anderson and Leo McCormick at halves.

Wisconsin, runner-up in the league, lost only one game and that to Minnesota early in the season, before losing to Purdue in the final game. The Badgers were under the leadership of St. Ersland, speedy quarterback, who did much to check the swift endrun of Johnny Stephens in the deciding game. Wisconsin put up a splendid fight in the final contest, but the Boiler-makers showed a little more class and snowed them under, 18-0.

IF any of you feel a sudden alarm over the sudden improvement in this column over the week end have no fear for 'tis but the good work of the honorable Professor D. T. Jitters. As a special favor to the good Mr. Thorne I undertake the job of putting out one of the better columns. Whatta Man Jitters!

Iowa's last chance for a conference win this year looms up as the most important encounter from a local angle and only the Notre Dame-Navy game will hold more interest among the Iowa followers. Of course the Michigan-Minnesota game does have a little significance but not much since it only decides the conference championship and who cares about champions around here. But just wait until next year when "those there frosh get goin'"—just listen to the title talk then.

Getting the jump on all the rest of the country, I'll offer my second all-American team. Unlike the captain team, the membership is unrestricted and the only qualification is the ease of pronunciation. Here it goes—
LE—Wisniewski (Upsala).
LT—Uzdavins (Fordham).
LG—Dobrynski (Trenton).
C—Maggiacomo (Worcester).
RG—Cwidlinski (Albright).
RT—Scherschewsky (Coast Guard).
RE—Perdowski (Richmond).
QB—Wasilewski (Susquehanna).
LH—Bakanowsky (Bowdoin).
RH—Chevitski (Dickinson).
FB—Kawalevski (Galludet).

BOY! What wouldn't that team do to Graham MacNamee? And the really great feature of the entire lineup is that not one single Notre Dame player could make the squad. Where could you find room for such common place names as Melnikovitch, Sheketskai and Brancheau?

Three Games for Freshmen

Basketball, Tennis on Program for Frat Athletes

Third games of Section two in the inter-fraternity freshman basketball league will be battled out this afternoon on the field house courts. The tournament has been progressing in fine style with lots of talent showing.

Phi Gamma Delta will meet Pi Kappa Alpha, Delta Tau Delta mixes with Phi Delta Theta, and Sigma Alpha Epsilon tangles with the Beta Theta Pi five.

All games begin at 2 o'clock. The erection and conditioning of inside tennis courts has taken place during the last few days and it is now possible to get those latent fraternity tennis matches off. The courts are accessible to play every day and evening except for the hours 3 to 6.

"Dad" suggests that these last few matches be gotten through with in the immediate future.

Class A basketball entry blanks should be coming in to the office over the week end so that a schedule may be made out before the forthcoming vacation, according to advice from the office.

Stock Market
Idles as Few
Buyers Enter

Sales Merely Enough to Cover Shares
Offered

NEW YORK, Nov. 18 (AP)—During most of today's market buying of stocks was a little more than sufficient to absorb offerings, but real material for a rally was lacking and final prices were almost unchanged.

Again the market merely idled. Both speculative camps huddled on the sidelines, leaving the day's very light business largely to floor traders. Repurchases for short accounts seemed to have contributed liberally to the firmer early tone, although this demand was satisfied by the last hour and advances of a point or so disappeared in thin trading. Sales totaled 729,090 shares.

Gains Small
Extreme gains of around a point in U. S. Steel, American Telephone, Du Pont, International Harvester, Southern Pacific, Union Carbide, Lackawanna, American Can, Du Pont, Loews, New York Central and Sears Roebuck either faded into insignificance or were exchanged for minor losses.

The fact that wheat rubbed elbows with the old lows seemed a likely reason for the late sag, although the market at no time was very robust. Several preferred stocks were heavy, including U. S. Steel, Commonwealth & Southern, Endicott Johnson, Associated Dry Goods, Safeway Stores and Commercial Investment Trust, their losses ranging from 1 to 6 points.

Dominant Influences
Brokers assumed that the familiar influences of the international debt uncertainty, the treasury deficit, possible new taxes and the mottled complexion of business, were still dominant in the market.

Stirling touched a new low for the year at London, but then rallied and the recovery extended to New York quotations.

Mercantile reviews made note of encouraging aspects in the business and trade picture, stressing recent rallies in commodity prices and the greater stability of general conditions.

State Will Not
Ask Death in
Stewart Case

CHARITON, Nov. 18 (AP)—The death penalty will not be asked in the murder trial of Ralph Stewart, who allegedly confessed the slaying of Mrs. D. A. Botkin here last September. County Attorney Levis said in the first closing argument for the state today.

The prosecuting attorney declared, however, in his talk before the jury, that the crime was "one of the most brutal ever recorded" and that he believed a verdict for capital punishment appropriate.

Stewart Testifies
Stewart's testimony occupied most of the morning session. He said that statements in his two alleged confessions introduced by the state were untrue and denied that he had committed the crime.

The purported confessions were signed, he said, when state agents had him so confused by three days of questioning that he did not know what he was doing. He also said he signed them because he wished to protect Helen Botkin, adopted daughter of Mrs. Botkin.

In rebuttal testimony Helen denied the alibi of the defense that she and Mrs. Sylvia Brown, daughter-in-law of Mrs. Botkin, had beaten the woman with a hammer. Mrs. Brown and her husband also testified.

Says Stewart Turned "Yellow"
The county attorney in his summation said Stewart had turned "yellow" in trying to place the blame on his sweetheart and averred that the youth's confessions had been obtained properly in the interests of justice.

As the evidence closed the defense moved that the confessions not be given to the jury for consideration, that the jury be instructed to return a verdict of not guilty and that the charge of first degree murder be withdrawn. All the motions were overruled by Judge R. W. Smith.

Closing arguments will be completed tomorrow and the case is expected to go to the jury before court adjourns.

Kuhl to Talk at 13 Schools

English Professor Will Give Lectures on Shakespeare

Prof. Ernest P. Kuhl of the English department has been chosen to give the annual research lectures offered by the University of Iowa to the colleges of the state, according to an announcement yesterday by Dean C. E. Seashore of the graduate college.

"Shakespeare—a new interpretation" will be the subject of Prof. Kuhl's lecture, which will be given at 13 colleges in the state, beginning Monday at Luther college and the University of Dubuque.

Selected Annually
The research lectureships were established in 1905 by an act of the board of regents. The lecturer is chosen annually on the ground of his distinction as an investigator. The purpose of the program, according to Dean Seashore, is to present elementary lectures illustrating some of the methods and results of the lecturer's research so as to inspire in undergraduates a love for research in the field that he represents.

Professor Kuhl has been chairman for the last two years of the Shakespeare group in the Modern Language Association of America. He is well known for his research work on both Chaucer and Shakespeare and has written extensively on both subjects.

Announce Itinerary
Professor Kuhl obtained his A.B. degree at the University of Indiana in 1907, his A. M. degree at Harvard in 1908, and his Ph.D. in 1913. Before joining the faculty at the University of Iowa in 1926, he taught at the University of Michigan, Dartmouth college, the University of Minnesota, and at Goucher college.

His lecture itinerary will include Iowa State college, Iowa Wesleyan, Iowa Simpson, Grinnell, Drake, the University of Dubuque, Coe, I.S.T.C., Morningside, Cornell, Penn, Parsons, and Luther colleges.

Two Killed, 12 Injured in Auto Smash

OWATONNA, Minn., Nov. 18 (AP)—Two persons were killed and 12 injured, none seriously, when an automobile and a bus crashed at Medford, six miles north of here, late today.

Miss Margaret Joyce, Des Moines, a passenger in the automobile was killed instantly. The other dead person was not immediately identified.

Mrs. Elsie Joyce, also of Des Moines, was among the most seriously hurt. She was riding in the automobile and was taken to a hospital at Fairbault.

The accident occurred when the automobile, bound for the twin cities from Des Moines, skidded on the slippery pavement directly into the path of the south bound bus. All the other injured persons were passengers on the bus.

They were not seriously hurt. S. Sussman, Waterloo, Ia., suffered minor injuries.

The party in the Des Moines car was said to have been on the way to the twin cities to visit a brother of Miss Joyce. Coroner O. F. Degroot of Steele county, is investigating.

Wheat Nears All-Time Low Price Record

CHICAGO, Nov. 18 (AP)—Wheat came within 1-4 of a cent late today of smashing the all-time bottom price record established Nov. 2 last, 31 7-8 cents a bushel.

Unusual pressure to settle December accounts long ahead of the time allowed by contract requirements was largely responsible. Much of the pressure appeared to come from United States government sponsored agencies that were disposing of their holdings of December wheat and replacing with May.

With recent rallies of more than 5 cents a bushel practically wiped out, wheat closed nervous at the day's low point, 5-8, 1 cent under yesterday's finish, corn 1-8, 3-8 down, oats 1-4, 3-8 cent off, and provisions unchanged to a setback of 5 cents.

Taking advantage of a moderate early advance in wheat values, traders seeking to liquidate December contracts became increasingly persistent with offerings, whereas purchase orders dwindled. The weakness of the market was intensified when eastern became sellers of December, and the trade generally abandoned the bull side, earlier buyers hastening to unload.

Corn and oats swayed in unison with wheat. December corn almost outdid the season's bottom price record, although rural offerings reached a virtual halt.

Closing indemics: wheat—December 41 1-2, 42 7-8, 43; May 46 7-8, 47, 48 1-8, 1-4; July, 48 1-8, 1-4, 49 1-2. Corn—December, 24 1-8, 25 3-4; May 29 5-8, 3-4, 30 1-8.

Real Beer Before Christmas Aim of Congressional Wets

Anti-Prohibitionists Marshal Forces for Attempt to Legalize Foaming Beverage in Lame Duck Session. Borah to Lead Dry Defense.

REP FRED A. BRITTEN • MAYOR ANTON CERMAK

WASHINGTON, D. C.—As a direct aftermath of the tremendous wave of anti-prohibition sentiment that swept an unprecedented number of wet advocates into the halls of Congress in the wake of the Roosevelt bandwagon, a new slogan is being heard in almost every corner of this land of ours. "Beer before Christmas" is being asked on all sides, and "Beer before Christmas" is the confident answer.

It may seem that the sloganers are being unduly optimistic, but upon investigating a little one finds that there is a steadily growing movement afoot, the object of which is to augment the Christmas cheer with the beverage that has endured official banishment all these years.

Here in the national capital, the movement is gaining momentum with every tick of the clock as new congressional voices are making themselves heard in favor of immediate modification of the Volstead act. By immediate is meant that action is demanded at the coming short, or lame duck, session of congress. Representative Fred A. Britten of Illinois, a Republican, has announced that he plans to go to bat for beer as soon as congress is called to order, and his announcement was closely followed by a similar declaration by Representative Carl Vinson of Georgia, chairman of the house naval affairs committee, who announces that legalization of light wines and beer will be undertaken by the Democrats in the coming short session.

But it is from Chicago that we get the most optimistic reports. The Windy City almost forgot all about such a thing as prohibition when Mayor Anton J. Cermak told the brewers who have so long been seeking a break in the Volsteadian clouds to go ahead and fire up their boilers. Hissoner, who is one of the principal owners of the famous old Pilsen Brewery, sounded a popular note when he announced that Chicago brewers need not wait for repeal of the state's search and seizure act, asserting that the police will not enforce the act so long as beer only is concerned.

Brewers can now turn out beer at $1 a barrel, Mayor Cermak said. And for the time being they may sell it without paying any tax. Later, when beer is legalized, they may have to pay a tax of $5 on every barrel.

Although it is yet too early to obtain an accurate indication of the exact wet and dry strengths in the upper and lower houses, figures compiled by wet organizations make it appear that the congress and senate line-up in favor of repeal holds a staggering majority over the advocates of continuance of the eighteenth amendment. According to these statistics a total of 67 congressmen of the new house and 27 new senators favor submission or repeal. Counting holdovers, the senate line-up is 51 senators on the wet side. On the opposite side only nine senators are avowed dryers, leaving 36 whose sentiments toward the vexatious question are unknown.

The voice of labor, too, has had its say in the discussion, its national committee for the modification of the Volstead act asserting that a check-up indicated a wet vote in the house of well over the necessary two-thirds majority, while in the senate, the committee claims, 64 votes will go to the wets.

In some quarters it is believed that President-elect Franklin D. Roosevelt will himself lead the fight for immediate beer to be legalized in the lame duck session of congress. In a brief statement he made after his election, Mr. Roosevelt made it clear that he wishes to confer with Democratic senators and representatives from the south and west before they go to Washington the first week of December.

On the other side of the picture we have the doughty Senator William E. Borah of Idaho, who is already in Washington planning a campaign to fight by every means at his command any attempt to repeal prohibition in the short session of congress. But even Borah cannot perform miracles.

By Surrogate James A. Foley. The Surrogate also criticized Morris for what he termed the "indecent" presentation of false claims and said he was going to ask the district attorney to investigate the Morris claims with a view to criminal prosecution.

Lost Peace of Mind Held Responsible for Woman's Death
DENVER, Nov. 18 (AP)—A woman was dead and a prominent Wyoming oil man was near death tonight as a result of what police said was the final burst of fury of a woman scorned.

Mrs. Margaret Loftus of Casper, Wyo., was shot to death and Mark O. Danford was wounded in a hotel room today.

"I can't go on," Mrs. Loftus said in a note, "with people gossiping and taking my happiness and upsetting my peace of mind."
Police found Danford shot in the head and chest and the woman dead on a bed. Police said Danford at first declared he killed the woman, then turned the pistol on himself. Later Danford stated Mrs. Loftus did the shooting.

Son of Philippine Senator "Drops In" on Iowa City

E. A. Alba Headed Back for Work in Native Country

E. A. Alba, Jr., 31, son of a Philippine senator, flying mate of Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh in the early days when the colonel was only a cadet, near-graduate of the University of Illinois, and victim of wanderlust, stopped in Iowa City last night on his box car way to the east coast and his native Manila.

After 13 years in the United States, where his fortunes have ranged from the bottom to the top and back to the bottom of the scale, Alba is going back to the islands to "settle down and take it easy."

Started in Law
Coming to America in 1919 after graduating from high school in Manila, he entered the University of Illinois with the intention of following in his father's footsteps and studying law.

The lure of aviation got the better of him, however, and he quit at the end of his third year to enter the United States army air service at Chanute field, Illinois, where he studied with Colonel Lindbergh.

Getting his discharge from the army after three years of service, Alba flew from 1927 to 1929 with commercial companies at the Newark Metropolitan airport in Newark, N. J.

Made Crossings
Caught in the disastrous crash of 1929, he left the flying business and went to sea. Working as everything from coal passer to steward, he made three crossings to London, two to Hamburg, and one to South America.

He is on his way now to New York from Los Angeles, where he attended the Olympic games. He expects to obtain passage to the Philippine islands on the S. S. Republic, an army transport scheduled to leave via the Panama canal about Dec. 1.

Alba, whose father is a member of the Philippine senate, representing the fifth district, is a cousin of B. A. Alba, former honor student at the United States Naval academy and now a member of the Philippine house of representatives.

Upon his return to the Philippines, he expects to obtain a captain's commission in the air branch of the island constabulary. Airplanes are used there, he said, as a forest fire patrol and for the prevention of uprisings among the Moros and other tribes of the south islands.

Grinning and cheerful, the little Filipino is making his way on the highway when possible, but mostly "riding the rods" on freight trains or hopping the "blinds." He expects to reach his home in the islands sometime in the early spring.

Oberlin Dean Will Speak at Local Church

Thomas Wesley Graham, dean of the Oberlin college graduate school of theology, Oberlin, Ohio, will give the main address Sunday at 8 p. m. in the Congressional church at the recognition service for the Rev. Llewellyn Arnold Owen, the new pastor.

Dean Graham is a graduate of the University of Toronto, studied at the Free Church college at Edinburgh, Scotland, and received his D.D. degree from Manchester college, England. He has been the college minister at Cornell university, the University of Minnesota, Syracuse university, and the University of Pennsylvania. He has been dean at Oberlin since 1923.

Prof. Paul C. Packer, dean of the college of education in the University of Iowa, will give the charge to the congregation. Charles A. Hawley, protestant professor in the school of religion in the University of Iowa, will give the charge to the pastor. The Rev. Richard E. McEvoy, rector of the Trinity Episcopal church and president of the Iowa City ministerial association, will preside at the service.

Fellowship Group to Present Drama
Students of the Westminster Fellowship group of the First Presbyterian church will present the second series of dramatic productions Sunday night at the church following the vesper services which begin at 6:30 p. m.

The play, "Bread," written by Fred Eastman, is under the direction of Maxine Foster, A4 of Milton. Students taking part in the production are: Carl Dunn, Margaret Veitch, Colleen Chapman, Lois Watts, Therese Hazard, and Wilbur Stone. The technical crew consists of Cyrilla Anderson, Dorothy Gibson and Margaret Olsen.

DES MOINES (AP)—Governor Turner said he would call a special election before Jan. 1 to fill the vacancy created by the recent death of F. D. Mead of Cresco, representative-elect from Howard county.

Beloved Screen 'Mother' Began Career at Age of Five Weeks

Belle Bennett, Who Drew Tears From Audiences in Forty-Eight States With Mother Roles, Was Virtually Born Before Footlights.

BELLE BENNETT

LOS ANGELES.—Virtually born into the theater, it was only fitting that when death came to Belle Bennett, beloved on stage and screen for the "mother" roles in which she excelled, it should come to her here, the thespian capital of the world.

Miss Bennett died at Cedars of Lebanon hospital from a complication of disorders following a breakdown two months ago while she was engaged in a vaudeville tour in the east.

The veteran actress was born on a farm at Mliaca, Minn., 51 years ago. Her father was Billie Bennett, an itinerant showman who played the middle western and southern states with his "White Village," a tent show with 22 tops. The show was organized like a circus. The performers traveled by train, had their own cook tents, dressing rooms and all the necessities under canvas. The repertoire of the day included such popular productions as "Uncle Tom's Cabin," "The Angel of the Alley," "Honest Hearts," and other "hits" that brought the tears to the eyes of our grandmas.

This was the atmosphere into which Baby Belle Bennett was born, and in which she began her career as a trouper at the age of five weeks. Belle's debut before the footlights was made as a prop baby. And at the age of 16 months, she was posing, clothed in a scarf, in a gold frame—giving a kind of living picture effect which delighted the rustic audiences.

Belle reached the age of three and a half before she won her first real speaking role on the stage. It was in the old thriller, "Ten Nights in a Barroom," and she played the little girl who tearfully and musically sang "Father, Dear Father, Come Home with Me Now." After that first appearance as an honest-to-goodness actress, Belle steadily forged ahead. She played Little Eva, and Little Lord Fauntleroy, and other childhood roles, in practically every state in the union.

Somewhat, her parents managed to send her to school between tours, and Belle acquired an education at the Sacred Heart Convent in Minneapolis. At the age of 12, she created her first major sensation by getting married, an event that roused national interest at the time and resulted in the Minnesota marriage laws being changed. At 13, Belle became a mother, but her baby died in infancy. Since then the actress adopted no less than 29 children with varying success.

Miss Bennett made her entry into the movies, then a very young industry when she attracted the attentions of Marjorie Rameau while playing in a San Francisco stock company for Francis Blasco, brother of David, the late impresario. Miss Rameau brought Belle to the attention of the movie moguls and she was immediately signed.

She attained instant success in the films, and had she devoted all her talents to the screen, she undoubtedly would have written her name on its history as one of the very best. But Belle was occasionally stricken with wanderlust. She would desert the studios and return to the legitimate stage, touring here and there about the country and coming back to Hollywood when she felt like it.

In 1915 in "The Hell Cat of Alaska," Belle broke the record for a movie with a two weeks run at a New York theater. Two weeks, it should be understood, was considered wonderful in those days.

Miss Bennett was always jealous of her youthful appearance. So much so, in fact, that it was not until the boy was killed in an accident was it revealed that Belle Macy was her son. Belle had passed the boy off for years as her brother. He was 10 years old at his death and during his life had always believed Miss Bennett to be his big sister. It was then that Belle disclosed that she had been married for years to William Howard Macy, of La Cross, Wis. Miss Bennett will be principally remembered for the mother roles she played on the screen, having wrung tears from audiences from New York to Seattle.

AROUND THE TOWN with DON PRYOR

Inhuman Treatment

Evelyn Butler Phillips filed suit yesterday against Charles C. Phillips, asking divorce and custody of one minor child on grounds of cruel and inhuman treatment. They were married at Dover-Foxcroft, Me., Sept. 3, 1927, and lived together until September, 1931. Dutcher, Walker, and Ries are attorneys for Mrs. Phillips.

Begin Terms

Raymond E. Smith and Elmer G. Brennenman were taken to the state penitentiary at Ft. Madison yesterday by Sheriff Don McComas to start serving their sentences. Smith, found guilty of robbery with aggravation, is to serve an indeterminate sentence not to exceed 25 years, while Brennenman, who pleaded guilty to a larceny charge, was sentenced to an indeterminate period not to exceed five years.

Tie 'Em Well

So says the post office department. Special pleas are being distributed, in the good old Christmas tradition, for patrons of the department to tie their Christmas packages so they will stay tied and to address them legibly.

No Work

Another name was added to the list on the register at the American Legion Unemployment Relief association yesterday. The total number of unemployed is now 539.

Baby

By that we mean balmy. In other words, we refer to the weather. The air lost most of its spiciness yesterday and turned almost warm. Indications last night, however, pointed to a drop.

Better Stop

Oscar Wegmuller paid $1 and costs to Police Judge Charles L. Zager yesterday when he appeared in police court on a charge of failing to stop at a stop sign at Clinton and Burlington streets.

Gang Way

For blocking traffic W. D. Dice was hauled into police court yesterday and paid Police Judge Charles L. Zager $5 and costs.

Herring Stops in New York

NEW YORK, Nov. 18 (AP)—Governor-elect Clyde L. Herring of Iowa stopped here today before embarking on a tour of four seaboard states to study how to eliminate the "barnacles" of "political hirelings" from the Iowa government.

He will interview the governors of Maine, Virginia, North Carolina, and Georgia, where great strides, Herring said, have been made in the civil administrative code of government which he plans to install in his own state after his inauguration in January.

"I want responsive governments," Herring said. "The Republicans have been in power so many years that they have built a strong organization with the result that the government is barnacled all over with political hirelings."

He added that since Governor Roosevelt's election to the presidency, "there is a definite feeling of hopefulness" in Iowa.

Herring, who was accompanied by Mrs. Herring, advocated doing away with 40 per cent of the personnel in the state house in Des Moines and putting in their place nine departments accountable to executive and other constitutional officers.

Promises of Early Action on Beer Gain

WASHINGTON, Nov. 18 (AP)—Talk of early action on beer legislation is growing daily as senate and house members gather to prepare for the December session.

Because of what he termed a just regard for the rights of majorities, Senator Vandenberg, Michigan Republican, said he favors liberalization of the Volstead act and immediate submission of a prohibition repeal amendment.

Vandenberg said the vote in Michigan repealing the prohibition clause in the constitution demonstrated that two out of three voters "demand a change" and characterized the election results as "an undeniable mandate."

Last spring Vandenberg voted against legalizing beer but supported the Glass resolution to repeal the eighteenth amendment and provide a new ban against the saloon.

Senator Harrison of Mississippi, ranking Democrat on the senate finance committee, expressed the view that beer and light wines should be legalized in the short session if the treasury could not obtain needed revenue elsewhere.
