Women of Moose Give Benefit Play for I. C. Orphans

More than 200 persons attended the play given last night by Women of the Moose for the benefit of Iowa City orphans of Moose lodge who are not eligible to Mooseheart.

Putnam's orchestra played between acts of the play, "Eyes of Love," a comedy-drama by Lillian Mortimer. Mrs. Anna Parizek and Mrs. Ruth Herring supervised the play. Robert Berry was director.

The following members of Women of the Mooseheart lodge participated in the play: Mrs. Ethel Abbott, Mrs. Libbie Parizek, Mrs. Gladys Justice, Mrs. Hazel Strabley, Mrs. Renalda McComas, Mrs. Alvena Gerber, Mrs. Anna Neider, Mrs. Mary O'Hara, Mrs. Mita Huffman, and Mrs. Anna Parizek.

Y.W.C.A. Workers of Finance Drive Meet Tonight for Dinner

Seventy workers in the Y.W.C.A. finance drive to be carried out tomorrow and Friday will meet at 6 o'clock tonight in the river room of Iowa Union for dinner. The advisory board and cabinet of Y.W.C.A. will be present.

Short speeches will be given by Mrs. William H. Morgan; Mrs. Clyde W. Hart; Prof. Estella Boot of the English department; Jean Downings, 42 of Anamosa; Evelyn Paul, 43 of Cedar Rapids; Elizabeth Kuhl, 41 of Iowa City.

Virginia Hussey, 44 of Rock Island, Ill., is general chairman, and Cherie McElhinney, 42 of Washington, Ia., is in charge of the dinner.

Former Student Dies at Winterset

Word has been received of the death Dec. 1 of Mrs. Frank S. Hamilton, a former University of Iowa student, at her home in Winterset. Before her marriage to Frank S. Hamilton in 1916 Mrs. Hamilton was Grace Myers. She attended the university from 1912 to 1914, where she was affiliated with Alpha Xi Delta sorority. In 1916 she received her B.A. degree from Northwestern university.

Besides her husband, Mrs. Hamilton is survived by a small daughter, Beverly Jean.

Marjorie Kay Will Marry in Philadelphia This Month

Ceremony Will Take Place in Presbyterian Church

Announcement was made yesterday of the approaching marriage of Marjorie Edith Kay, daughter of Dean and Mrs. George F. Kay, Bella Vista place, to Dr. Charles William McLaughlin, Jr., son of Dr. and Mrs. C. W. McLaughlin of Washington, Ia. The ceremony will take place Dec. 24 at 6 p.m. in the Sherwood United Presbyterian church at Philadelphia, Pa.

Miss Kay received her B. A. degree from the University of Iowa in 1926 and her M.A. degree in 1927. She was a member of Kappa Kappa Gamma social sorority; Phi Beta Kappa, honorary scholastic society; Mortar Board, honorary senior women's organization; Woman's Athletic association; Erodolphian literary society; Seals' club; University Players; Y.W.C.A. council, and the Hawkeye staff. She taught in the public schools of Denver, Colo., and is at present a teacher in Swarthmore, Pa.

Dr. McLaughlin received his B.S. degree from the University of Iowa in 1927 and graduated from the Washington university school of medicine at St. Louis, Mo., in 1929. He is affiliated with Phi Delta Theta social fraternity, and Nu Sigma Nu, medical fraternity. Dr. McLaughlin served two years internship at Montreal General hospital and is now assistant instructor in surgery at the University of Pennsylvania.

Albion Davis, St. Louis, Mo.; Paul Mercer, Keokuk, and Jack Dixon, Rock Island, Ill., visited the college of engineering and the hydraulics laboratory this week.

Prof. Floyd A. Nagler of the college of engineering will deliver an address this evening before the Cornell college science club at Mt. Vernon.

Present Key to Drinkwater

John Drinkwater was presented with a key to University club, following a dinner given in his honor by members of the club in their rooms at Iowa Union last night. Mrs. Benj. F. Shambaugh, honorary member of the club, introduced the speaker and presented him with the key. Prof. and Mrs. Shambaugh were guests of honor at the dinner.

University Club Honors English Author at Dinner

In a short, informal talk Mr. Drinkwater told of having spent yesterday afternoon visiting John Brown's home and President Hoover's birthplace at West Branch. From there he sent cards to President Hoover and to Ramsay MacDonald, British prime minister.

Chrysanthemums and heather arranged on the dinner tables decorated the English theme in decorations. Place cards were designed with reference to Mr. Drinkwater's play "The Sword and the Ploughshare." The dessert of French pastry alluded to his play "Bird in Hand."

Hostesses at the dinner were Mrs. C. E. Seashore; Prof. Clara Daley of the history department; Prof. Alma Hovey of the English department; Mrs. H. L. Beyer; and Prof. Estella Boot of the English department. More than 50 persons attended the dinner.

Elks Club Holds Bridge Tourney

Bridge was played at 11 tables in the tournament being played by Elks club. Prize winners were: A. A. Welt, high; Chris Yetter, second; Al Vogt, third; Terry McGovern, low; George Frohwein, Jr., average. Mr. Welt won six games.

Dr., Mrs. Steindler Entertain at Dinner

The fountain room of Iowa Union will be the scene of a formal dinner tonight at 6:30 when Dr. and Mrs. Arthur Steindler entertain 26 guests preceding Lynn Riggs' play "The Cherokee Night" which will be presented by University Players in the natural science auditorium. Included in the guest list are: Mr. and Mrs. McCoolmogue of Lisbon, Mr. and Mrs. S. W. Wilder and Mr. and Mrs. Edward B. Rowan, all of Cedar Rapids.

Hawkeye Sales Near Climax

Gamma Phi Beta; Zeta Tau Alpha Tie for First Place

Gamma Phi Beta and Zeta Tau Alpha are momentarily tied for first place in the 1934 Hawkeye sales contest, and their respective representatives, Cherie McElhinney and Margaret Asthalter, are leaders at present in the competition for positions on the yearbook business staff.

But the lead maintained by the houses was reported last night as being a close one, with the remaining 18 sororities and their representatives tagging at the heels of the leaders.

Only four days remain in the contest for the first prize of $200 and the second of $75, to be given to houses turning in the largest number of sales before midnight Saturday.

To the six women who are leading in individual sales at the end of the contest will be awarded positions on the Hawkeye staff.

The remainder of the field, as announced last night, stands: Gertrude Mowry, Alpha Xi Delta, second; Katherine Becker, Delta Delta Delta, third; Margaret Morris, Delta Gamma, fourth; Kathryn Chrysler, Pi Beta Phi, fifth; Edna Hirsch, Chi Omega, sixth.

Mary Louise Epperson of Kappa Alpha Theta and Ruth Christie of Kappa Kappa Gamma, tied for seventh; Alice Murphy, Alpha Chi Omega, eighth; Marceine King, Alpha Delta Pi, ninth; Sylvia Koff, Gamma Theta Phi, tenth; Kathryn Spain, Kappa Delta, eleventh.

Elizabeth Andersch, Theta Phi Alpha, twelfth; Helen Narber, Phi Omega Pi, thirteenth; Emma Krob, Phi Mu, fourteenth; Dorothy Keller, Delta Zeta, fifteenth; and Doris Westfall, Sigma Kappa, sixteenth.

Suggests Budget Reforms in Message

senate was followed immediately by a speech by Senator Long, Democrat, Louisiana, criticizing the sales tax and demanding united Democratic support for a program aimed at the decentralization of wealth.

Senator Watson of Indiana, the Republican leader, interrupted the reading to ask the clerk, John Crockett, to omit the long batch of figures contained in two tables submitted by the president.

Forward Own Program
It appeared tonight that the Democrats, assured of majorities in both house and senate by cooperation from the Republican Independents, would go ahead on their own program for the session—the beer tax and farm relief. Mr. Hoover asked no new agricultural legislation.

The chief executive devoted the longest sections of his comparative brief message to criticism of the nation's banking system as having "failed to meet this great emergency." He did not specify methods of reform. The comprehensive bank bill of Senator Glass, Democrat, Virginia, is pending in the senate and has strong support.

Committee on Campaign
Early in the message, Mr. Hoover made his sole comment upon the recent campaign: "While we have recently engaged in the aggressive contest of a national election, its very tranquility and the acceptance of its results furnish abundant proof of the strength of our institutions."

As for balancing the budget, he recommended that the proposed manufacturers' sales tax take the place of the "unjust and discriminatory" special manufacturers excise levies enacted last session. He would exempt from the sales tax necessary food "and possibly some grades of clothing."

Other Recommendations
Other budget recommendations of the government—with executive orders to be placed before congress "within a few days" for rearranging more than 50 federal departments and agencies.

A flat pay slash of 11 per cent for one year for federal workers with a $1,000 exemption in addition to the 3.3 per cent furlough plan reduction to bring the total cut to "about 14.8 per cent."

Reduction in appropriations under those made by the last congressional session of $830,000,000 making a net economy of $530,000,000 because of an offsetting increase of $250,000,000 in "uncontrollable items."

Reduction of funds for public works from $717,262,000 to $442,769,000.

Elimination of some veterans payments arising from "ill-considered legislation."

"Fallen Short"
The president asserted the banking system of the country had fallen short "in furnishing the essential lubricant to the wheels of industry, agriculture and commerce," "as a system," he said, "our

Palimpsest, State Historical Society Publication, Received Name From Much-Used Scrolls of Old Scholars

Hard times may have caused some retrenchment in educational circles in 1932, but compared with the educators of olden days the modern scholar is surrounded with plentiful abundance.

Especially is this true in the matter of paper. The modern student would hardly be able to conceive of a really serious shortage of paper and would probably rebel if he had to use the same sheet twice.

But the story of "The Palimpsest," monthly publication of the State Historical Society, presents a picture of old time historians using single scrolls of parchment over and over again.

Applied to Scrolls
In fact the very name of the magazine is the name applied to these old scrolls with their recorded history superimposed on top of erasure after erasure.

It was Prof. Benj. F. Shambaugh, superintendent of the society, who originated the idea of calling the magazine "The Palimpsest."

The old palimpsests were erased many times to make room for new writings. However, the erasures were seldom complete and interested scholars used to not only translate the latest record inscribed on the parchment but also to decipher the original writings on the sheet. This became a fascinating task because there were many writings on the same parchment.

When the early translator finished his job he had a complete record of events in a more or less chronological order.

banking has failed to meet this great emergency.

"It can be said without hesitation of doubt that our losses and distress have been greatly augmented by its wholly inadequate organization. Its inability as a system to respond to our needs is today a constant drain upon progress toward recovery."

Explaining that he did not refer to individual banks or bankers, but to the system as a whole, the president nevertheless pointed out that bank failures rose in 1931 to 10.5 per cent of all banks as compared to 1.5 per cent of the failures of all other types of enterprise.

4,665 Closed Banks
Since Jan. 1, 1930, he said, the country has seen 4,665 banks with deposits of $3,300,000,000 close their doors.

"That this failure to function is unnecessary and is the fault of our particular system," he added, "is plainly indicated by the fact that in Great Britain, where the economic mechanism has suffered far greater shocks than our own, there has not been a single bank failure during the depression. Again in Canada, where the situation has been in large degree identical with our own, there have been no substantial bank failures."

Mr. Hoover pointed out that the Reconstruction corporation and the federal reserve act "are not remedies; they are relief." He added it was "inconceivable" that the Reconstruction corporation could go on indefinitely.

delegation despite vigorous protests to police by the demonstrators' leaders who had sought to send 25 to each.

They were selected previously and marched ahead of the parade proper, closely surrounded by police and armed on police duty. They even preceded the marchers band dressed in uniforms similar to those of soviet police.

Chant "Internationale"
While waiting for their comrades to return from the offices of the vice president and speaker, the line of march entertained itself and the large crowd of spectators by chanting the "Internationale" and shouting cheers timed like college yell.

Banners carried along the entire line proclaimed the demands for unemployment insurance. Many denounced racial discrimination. A Negro and a young woman—Anne Burlak of Providence, R. I.—headed the parade with Benjamin and Reynolds. Once almost the entire column took up the chant "Negro and white unite against the nation."

Every six feet on either side of the marchers was a policeman or fireman. Special squads equipped with tear and nausea gas and a Britishers All?

THOSE who voted against Herbert Hoover as an "Englishman" might make no distinction between John Drinkwater and Renie Smith, visitors from the British isles whose coming almost together and almost coincident with war debts limelight may prove illuminating.

The personality of Drinkwater is poor argument for debt reconsideration. Sleek, plump, and satisfied looking, he seems to represent ability to pay. The gaunter representative of another class can speak more intelligently and convincingly on the straits of Britons.

Because Drinkwater's talk proper was not literary, except for subordinated references to a play and to some authors, it must be regarded as an oral delivery by an essayist who is polished, witty, adroit. His merits were chiefly journalistic and forensic. His half dozen poems in search of a publisher might be recommended to any British equivalent of the American Magazine; they smack of the rhyme, rhythm, and religion that characterize Eddie Guest—who also has an occasional good line.

Drinkwater made no vigorous challenge of anything when he urged friendliness among nations. Like all men, he is a lover of peace. He has what Raymond Brugere calls the English knack of finding moral justification, noble motives, for economic exploitation—if some natives are killed in India it is, after all, for their own good.

Some cynical realist told a boys' school that war is nature's pruning device. Immediately, "I was SO enraged—that I wrote a little poem"—a letter to the editor in verse. His Sunday school advice to talk peace and think peace might be effective if poets were, really, the unrecognized legislators of the world—if he were a poet.

This member of a graying generation who praises Ramsay MacDonald and Herbert Hoover seems largely free from national isolation. He has an international attitude. But he is isolated in another way—vertically instead of horizontally. He has the comforting views of comfortable clubmen; he sees scarcely beyond his own class.

Following this man who talks peace comes one who has acted peace—refusing, with Ramsay MacDonald, to participate in the late world slaughter. He is one who followed MacDonald until MacDonald ceased to lead. Unlike most U. S. advocates of under-privileged classes, he is not an isolationist internationally. In his homespun, simple fashion he is more akin to Abraham Lincoln than Drinkwater, who has written a play about this American so foreign to his own existence.

The second English visitor to the campus is an anti-Hoover Englishman. If he is in a minority at home, so are followers of Norman Thomas in this country. It would appear that there is about as much difference between classes as there is between countries.

Misguided Patriotism

WHATEVER it was that incited the Woman Patriot corporation of America to petition the state department to keep Prof. Albert Einstein out of the country can be classed in the same category as the over-zealous spirit that causes free-thinking citizens to be labeled as traitors.

Invited to conduct certain scientific research at an American university, the "Father of Relativity" attempted the other day to obtain his visa from the American consulate in Berlin. He was subjected to a thoroughgoing examination as to his purpose, faith, political affiliations, questions that he ordinarily would not be made to answer—because the answers were taken as a matter of fact. It was understood that he was not coming to America to incite riots, to agitate for anarchy and communism—implied in the American Patriot corporation's petition—but that he was coming here in an effort to further the world's scientific knowledge at the express request of Americans.

"If I am to enter your country as a suspect I don't want to go at all," the professor stormed when put through the routine of questioning. "If you don't want to give me a visa please say so, then I'll know where I stand. But don't ask me humiliating questions."

The sort of patriotism—misguided, to say the least—that would endeavor to question the fine purpose of a finer man, that performs a great injustice to one whose right to be respected has never been questioned, that levels a storm of protest over the entire nation because of a few inspired objectors, such patriotism is not truly American. The Woman Patriots had better confine their operations to more worthwhile projects, or not to operate at all.

Engineers Tell Us—

THREE vast social changes to help lead the way out of depression met with the approval of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers at a meeting of the other day.

- 1) A society commuting by airplane, to relieve the industrial congestion;
2) Changing the mass production objective into a minimum scale, taking first account of employment and happiness of men;
3) National planning, America to use her resources to take care of all her own people.

That program, of course, is only a skeleton, but it takes into account the outstanding deficiencies of the present system from an engineer's standpoint. Strangely enough, it might easily be anyone's standpoint.

A system that will take into account the happiness of any people—and their happiness is contingent upon employment—will find the way smoothed for progress instead of chaos and confusion. If the same system also considers the relative advantages of those it directs, seeking after advancement and opportunity not only of the whole but of the individual, that system can be successful. It will entail changing multitudinous ideals and ideas but it will result in establishing new concepts of life more in accordance with the best interests of all.

The sad part is that the farmer who worried himself sick because grasshoppers ate his entire crop of what he thought would be 30 cent corn can't take back 50 per cent of his grief now that corn is 15 cents.

—Cedar Rapids Gazette

TODAY'S TOPICS

By FRANK JAFFE

News columns have long been the stronghold of relatively non-partisan reporting of what's going on in the world, devoid of opinion, entirely lacking in criticism or "editorial comment" of any kind. Editorial space has been the refuge of opinion, criticism, remarks pro and con on what the front page reports, interpretation of the news from the standpoint of the individual editorial writer.

Claiming that the news columns failed to portray the drama behind the story, that front pages are edited for the crime-minded, editorial pages for the better-minded, John Drinkwater pointed out to his audience Monday night the shortcomings of present day American and English journalism.

Crime stories dote on the sordid, anti-social aspects of the news instead of presenting the case behind the printed facts, the story between the lines, he suggested. They gave bare facts—how many people killed, how old the youthful slayer, the case against the torch slayer—but omitted the touching, sympathetic, human interest story behind it all.

Not entirely non-partisan, however, is a portion of the American press. Notable in the partisan class may be cited the Hearst papers, the Chicago Tribune. They represent the lingering remnants of a personal journalism, characterized of old in Pulitzer, Greeley, Dana. They still "color" news stories from a personal standpoint, at least from a partisan standpoint.

On the editorial side—where the better-minded class turns—the American press is gradually adopting what the English press has known for years, signed articles by competent observers—we have Walter Lippmann, Mark Sullivan, Heywood Brown—who present opinionated reflections from a fair-minded standpoint.

Fewer are the strongly partisan "something ought to be done" type of editorials that characterized the American editorial page not long ago. More editorial columns present factual material, informative matter that is based on complete news reports, or that gathers up the loose ends and presents an integrated whole for the reader who would go beyond the headlines.

Nor can glaring headlines be condemned as appealing to the crime-minded, the morose reader. Metropolitan newspapers are edited for the news-tands mainly, for the hurrying businessman, office worker, et al, who has only time to glance at the large type to find out what's going on about him, who has little desire to investigate further.

Editorial columns are prepared, certainly not for that portion of the newspaper's circulation but for the part that has both the time and inclination to turn to the inside pages and find out the significance of what he has read in the news columns. To that ever-increasing group newspapers are gradually catering with special articles, signed, and presenting more than a personal opinion.

If newspapers reflect the times, mirror the world in print, then the changing theme of journalism in the United States represents a distinct change in the clientele of readers. Crime news certainly is not all-important, but no better way to allow the course of crime to widen unimpeded could be devised than to eliminate its reflection in the press. Moreover, in a business sense, newspapers attempt to give readers what they want.

Educational, instructive, enlightening—objectives of both the news columns and the editorial columns—are a few of the chief goals of journalism. If those goals can best be achieved by stressing certain types of news in heavy black print and by leaving to the editorial columns the task of developing the theme for those who seek clarification, then there is justification enough. Certainly it signifies a distinct improvement over the old-time vicious American journalism with which Mr. Drinkwater may not be familiar.

Book Bits—

(From Jennie Gerhardt, by Theodore Dreiser) The Kane company was not an advertiser in any daily or Sunday paper. The newspaper owed him nothing. If Lester had been forewarned he might have put a stop to the whole business by putting an advertisement in the paper or appealing to the publisher. He did not know, however, and so was without power to prevent the publication.

General Notices

OFFICIAL NOTICE To All Students Now Registered in the University of Iowa Who Expect to Enter Either Our Own College of Medicine, or Any Other Medical School in the United States or Canada, for the Freshman Year's Work in the Autumn of 1933:

Last year, under the auspices of the Association of American Medical Colleges, the MEDICAL APTITUDE TEST was taken by 9,173 students of approved medical schools of the United States. This test is required of all applicants for admission to the college of medicine of the State University of Iowa, by virtue of its institutional membership in the Association of American Medical Colleges. (See the university catalog for the current year, at the top of page 76).

The medical aptitude test for the University of Iowa applicants for admission to any medical school belonging to the American Medical Association, for the year 1933-34, will be given promptly at 3 p.m., Friday, Dec. 9, 1932, in the chemistry auditorium.

Each prospective applicant is notified to call at the office of the university secretary within ample time preceding the day of this test, in order to pay the prescribed fee of $1 which goes to the Association of American Medical Colleges for the purpose of meeting the expenses of conducting the examination, reading the manuscripts, tabulating the outcomes, and making these outcomes available to the respective medical schools.

The secretary's office will issue to each student who thus pays the fee a card certifying that the fee has been paid, and this card is to be presented by each student as he enters the chemistry auditorium just before 3 p.m., Friday, Dec. 9, 1932. An attendant will take up these cards as presented. H. C. DORCAS, registrar

HOLLYWOOD—Just as the street lights were going on in Hollywood, R-K-O officials yesterday came to a momentous change of mind, and today several of the company's most important stars find themselves with entirely new pictures to do. It all started when someone discovered a swell new story for Ann Harding—so good in fact that David Selznick gave orders to put it into immediate preparation for the blonde star's next film. But what to do then with "The Great Desire" (formerly "Christopher Strong"), upon which Ann was about to start? Answer—and this was the second bright idea in a row—to give the part to Katharine Hepburn, who would make an ideal aviatrix. Great, but that left the impending "Three Came Unarmed" hanging in mid-air without a leading woman. Postpone it, ordered headman Selznick, and thus the Gordian knot was cut. So Katharine Hepburn starts "The Great Desire" under the direc-

Smith Gives Second Talk

Lectures in Geology Building This Afternoon

Rennie Smith, English lecturer, journalist, and interpreter of British public life and history, will make his second appearance on the campus in a public address in geology lecture room at 4 o'clock this afternoon. He is coming here under the auspices of the college of commerce.

Speaking on "The unemployment insurance system and the social insurance legislation of Great Britain," Mr. Smith will bring to his audience a knowledge of economic and social conditions of his country before the recent defeat of the Labor government of Great Britain, he was a member of the house of commons since 1924.

The Laborite has served two years as joint-principal of the International People's college of Denmark and director of summer school of the International Federation of Trade Unions at Amsterdam, Holland, and for several years as lecturer for the Workers' Educational association attached to Sheffield university.

He has also been a lecturer under the Miners' Welfare scheme and a tutor for the Iron and Steel Trades confederation.

Graduate of the University of London with a B. S. degree in economics and political science, Mr. Smith has since become editor of a monthly labor paper. He has contributed to various publications, including "Nation," "Contemporary Review," "Current History," and "Survey."

Author in 1927 of "General Disarmament or War," the Englishman has been engaged in peace work.

Mr. Smith is an extensive traveler; he has lectured previously in the United States, studying American public life and institutions at the same time.

He spent last summer studying problems in Europe, Palestine, and Russia.

Mr. Smith will talk tomorrow at 3 p.m. in chemistry auditorium on "British industry since the war," and will give an after-dinner address to the Commerce club at 6 p.m. at Iowa Union on "My 1932 estimate of Russia's planning: Will the revolution succeed?"

Professor Higbee Receives Samples of University Plates

Samples of a set of university commemorative plates have just been received by Prof. Frederic G. Higbee, alumni director. The plates, fashioned of Wedgwood china in Staffordshire blue, are 10 1/2 inches in diameter. Twelve different views of the campus are shown on the set of 12 pieces, and the border designs are the work of Edna Spurgeon, University of Iowa graduate.

Such institutions as Harvard university, Yale university, University of Michigan, University of Pennsylvania, University of California, Columbia university, Dartmouth college, Princeton university, and Massachusetts Institute of Technology have issued similar commemorative plates.

Prof. Sam B. Sloan Returns to Classes

Prof. Sam B. Sloan of the English department again met his classes yesterday after an absence of about three weeks following an operation for appendicitis.

Professor Sloan's radio class in English novel, temporarily discontinued, has also been resumed.

High School Band Gives First Concert

Attired in new uniforms, members of the Iowa City high school band will give their annual first semester concert this evening in the high school auditorium. The program will begin at 8 o'clock.

The concert will include three serious numbers and two in a lighter vein. Soloists are Tom Ayres, clarinet, and Edward King, French horn. The 74 piece band is directed by Lloyd S. Swartley.

The long-haired Hindu: Rama-Nee of New York city, by the use of special oils and treatment known only to himself has so stimulated the growth of hair on his scalp that he found it impossible to keep it trimmed, so he just lets it grow long. By actual measurement his flowing locks were found to grow two inches in a single week.

Tomatoes grown without soil: At the Smithsonian institution a tomato plant actually grew and bore fruit though it was not planted in soil. The plant was grown in an artificial light with a chemical solution of nitrate and sulphate for a soil substitute, the seeds being in thin blotting paper beds to keep the temperature constant.

Slick—But Not Enough

MADISON, Wis. — Jekeyll and Hyde changes are not appreciated by the French department of the University of Wisconsin, the faculty disciplinary committee told one freshman last week, when he arranged to have another student write his mid-semester examinations.

As a result of his use of a substitute in the mid-term quizzes, the student was dismissed from the university. Although confronted with a number of cases of alleged cheating during examinations, the committee in dismissing this student exercised its extreme punitive power for the first time this year.

Fraternities vs. Dorms

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. — The old fraternity war on the "eat-all-meals-in-dormitory" edict of the University of Minnesota is flaring up again.

Straitened financial circumstances along fraternity row have heightened the argument of the Greek houses who are asking Pioneer hall authorities to let pledges take

Heap Big Chief

EVANSTON, Ill. — Henry Wadsworth Longfellow has signified his intentions of being a candidate for the Northwestern football team next fall. Longfellow is not a poet! He's just a freshman at Northwestern, a winner of a freshman football numeral. Dick Hanley thinks that he will be good material for the varsity. He weighs 185 pounds, stands six feet two and has been nick-named Hiawatha!

Minnesota Slashes Budget

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. — Asking appropriations of $7,037,500 or $1,059,327 less than was allowed by the 1931 state legislature, the University of Minnesota has submitted its biennial budget to the state budget commissioner.

Approved by the board of regents last spring, the reductions include a cut of $150,000 per year for maintenance, the foregoing of a $661,500 building fund over the two-year period, and reductions of $61,500 for special purposes.

The legislature, expected to be under the control of the Farmer-Labor party, will convene in St. Paul next January.

Will Retain Athletics

CHICAGO, Ill. — "The university is contemplating no drastic reductions in its minor sports programs," A. A. Starg, director of athletics, has stated. This statement was made after several Big Ten universities had announced that their minor sports programs for the year were to be greatly curtailed in an effort to balance their budgets.

Because football gate receipts do not bear as large a part in the budget of the university's athletic department as they do in those of other institutions, minor sports here need not be heavily cut in spite of the lessened revenues obtained this season.

Go in My Way?

ANN ARBOR, Mich. — A holiday "ride exchange" for students seeking rides and for drivers seeking passengers to out-of-town points is the latest service established by the University of Michigan Union.

The idea also is a killing of two birds with one stone, according to Union officials, for it is not only a service to Michigan students but also removes a number of heterogeneous want ads from the Union bulletin boards.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. — The old fraternity war on the "eat-all-meals-in-dormitory" edict of the University of Minnesota is flaring up again.

Straitened financial circumstances along fraternity row have heightened the argument of the Greek houses who are asking Pioneer hall authorities to let pledges take a few noon meals each week at fraternity houses.

The administration objects that special privileges to fraternity pledges would disrupt the whole meal schedule for other residents at the dormitory.

Purdue Just Can't Win

LAPAYETTE, Ind. — Statistical analysts and jinx hunters have pounced upon the record of Purdue university's basketball team in the last six years to point out that the Boiler-makers will have to step high, wide and handsome in order to end up in first place this year. This warning is arrived at by pointing out that Purdue has only ended up in first place in alternate years since 1926, and this is the year when the regular alternation would place the team in second place.

Illini Editors Honored

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. — Three University of Illinois alumni were elected to executive posts in the College Fraternity Editor's association at the twenty-fourth annual session of the National Interfraternity conference Nov. 25 and 26 in New York city.

The editors' organization is a part of the interfraternity group. C. F. Williams, '10 of Cleveland, editor of the "Shield of Phi Kappa Psi" was elected president and K. D. Pulephier, '18, was named vice president; Pulephier is editor of the "Shield and Diamond of Pi Kappa Alpha" and is a former editor of "The Daily Illini." Prof. C. R. Anderson was made a member of the executive board; he edits the Monad of Sigma Phi Sigma.

Switzerland has only two radio broadcasting stations.

Parent Bears Burden in Child Relationship, Says Stoddard

It is the parent, not the child, who has the hardest part to play in the vital matter of parent-child relationship.

This part is for the parents themselves to be what they hope their children will become, it is believed by Prof. George D. Stoddard, director of the Iowa Child Welfare Research station at the University of Iowa.

Parents, he said, must learn to participate in the problem of the children, sharing their sorrows and joys with sympathy and understanding.

To reach the desired goal requires self-study, consistent concentration, and being something which the parent may not have been previously, according to Professor Stoddard. These processes, which seem subtly to affect child behavior, are as much self-education as child education. So it follows that parents are engaged in self-education rather late in life.

Seven opposites which show the direct way in which parents' actions, abilities, and attitudes may influence the child are hypocrisy vs. sincerity, inconsistency vs. reliability, family tension vs. naturalness, family insecurity vs. security, family boredom vs. interest and joy, adult frustration vs. normal satisfaction, and indifference or hatred vs. affection or love.

Iowa Debaters Will Meet Ames Team in Cedar Rapids Today

University of Iowa speakers will meet a team from Iowa State college in a debate at the Paramount theater in Cedar Rapids at 8 o'clock this morning, as the first debate on the intercollegiate schedule.

The question to be argued is: "Resolved, that at least 50 per cent of all state and local revenues should be derived from sources other than taxes on tangible property."

The University of Iowa will be represented by John Hawkinson, A2 of Cedar Rapids; Fred Morain, A2 of Jefferson; George Palmer, A1 of Omaha, Neb.

Coach Rollie Williams Instructs Hawkeyes in Zone Defense Play for Drake Game

Little Hawks Study Defense in Preparation for Mississippi Valley League Opener

SPORT

Hotshots

by EUGENE THORNE

WITH the success of the Dolphin club's annual water show to prove that minor sports can do much to take care of themselves, the coaches of the other sports are rallying round and getting ready to give the fans something in the way of entertainment that will really be worth the money, and so help the financial situation. Mike Howard, with prospects of the finest all-university wrestling tournament in years, is preparing for a ticket sales drive, and Otto Vogel and George Bresnahan have called meetings to lay plans for raising money. It looks like Iowa City will be offered some choice entertainment this winter, which makes it great for everyone concerned.

While discussing sports officials the other night, Rollie Williams got to recounting some stories about Ernie Quigley, American league umpire, and all-around sports official. Quigley was the most popular referee in the old Missouri valley conference, and his method of officiating drew the fans from far and near. When he was working basketball games, it was Quigley's custom, when a man fouled, to blow his whistle, rush up to the offender, shake his finger in the man's face, at the same time shouting, "You can't do that," and then crack the man on the back with his open hand.

THIS little performance was not so popular with the players, however, who always dreaded that swat on the back, and so they would dodge, run around the court, or do almost anything to escape. Quigley was never one to be so eluded, and would chase the player determinedly until the crack on the back was delivered. He has even been known to chase players down to the dressing room in order to deliver that slap. The choice tale of the lot, however, is the one of how a certain coach became excited at some decision which went against his team and walked out on the court. Referee Quigley, shook his finger at the mentor, exclaimed, "You can't do that," and then announced that he would give the opposition one free throw for every step it took the coach to get back to the bench.

Realizing that Quigley meant what he said, the coach turned around, and started broad-jumping desperately to get to the bench with as few steps as possible. In spite of his effort, it took him seven steps to get back to his seat, and the opposing team got its seven charity tosses. Undoubtedly the incident provided plenty of amusement for the disinterested spectators, and was welcome to the team who got the free throws, but it was a trifle tough on the offending coach, and placed an unfair burden on his team. But it is things like that, along with such incidents as the tears of Pop Warner when his Stanford football squad went to him and begged him to destroy his contract with Temple, that make the world of sports the great colorful pageant that it is.

Yearlings to Start League Play Today

Freshman basketballers were greeted with the announcement that league play would start today when they turned out for their yesterday's workout. Coach Boelter selected a squad of about 25, which for the present, will be used to scrimmage the varsity, and then apportioned the remainder of the squad into eight "Big Ten" groups. These groups will compete against each other in regular games and from them will be chosen the freshman champs. The Big Ten schools that are represented are: Northwestern, Indiana, Wisconsin, Michigan, Minnesota, Purdue, Ohio State, and Illinois.

The squads are as follows: Northwestern, Kevley and Erickson, forwards; McKelvey and Peterson, guards; and Reed, center, Indiana, Remley, Marmon, and Lenoir, forwards; Palch, Ruggier, and Smith, guards; and Nelson, center. Wisconsin, Bartelt, Zumhoff, and Smith, forwards; Mallory, Gustafson, and Gurius, guards; and Flage, center. Michigan, Cooper, Brownson, and Boddicker, forwards; Block, Hefferman, and Riecke, guards; and Hall, center. Minnesota, Shields and McCuskey, forwards; Becker, Thomas, and Kabe, guards; and Engelhart, center. Purdue, Brown and Erslund, forwards; Hannifan and Dill, guards; and Scannell, center. ### Change Date of Mat Meet

University Championship Bill Slated for Dec. 16

Coach Mike Howard announced a change in the time of his university championships wrestling card yesterday and named Friday, Dec. 16 as the new date. Numerous varsity competition on the formerly scheduled date of Saturday, Dec. 17, caused the change.

Preliminaries will probably be moved up to Dec. 13 in order to allow two days of eliminations and a full day of rest before the finals. Championships will be contested in eight classes ranging from the 113 pound division to the heavyweight class.

In line with other sports which are attempting to put themselves on a self-sustaining basis, the championships this year will be made especially attractive, according to Coach Howard.

To Finance Team

The receipts from the championships will be used to send the team or at least some of the best of the men to the conference matches at Champaign, Ill., next semester.

Many of the men have been working out for over a month and will be in condition to put up a good showing at the prize affair.

Falls and upsets should feature the affair amply as a flock of exceptional freshmen have turned out this year and have been working diligently.

Fans will see one of them, Bob Larson, in action on that night. As a 135 pounder, he took second place in the national interscholastic meet last year. Another good freshman is Frank O'Leary, a heavyweight over 200 pounds. He has been unbeaten this year by either William Hass and his brother John O'Leary of the varsity, or Harold "Foxy" Timm, who works out with the boys.

Pat Richter Back

Fans will also see Pat Richter on the mat, Dec. 16. He is to be remembered from 1930 when, with the meet in the balance, he won a victory over a 220 pound Nebraska heavyweight and clinched the score. He weighed 155 pounds then as he does now.

Burton Dull in the 145 pound class will also afford the fans a treat. He is known for his ability to get away under any circumstances and is considered to be one of the foremost claimants for the conference title this year.

The only color lacking will be the absence of Capt. Clarence "Swede" Johnson from the mat. He is recovering from an appendectomy and though progressing rapidly will not be able to wrestle for some time.

Helms Groth, tackle, has been the spark plug of Virginia Polytechnic Institute's attack on the gridiron this year.

and Leggenhenkler, guards, and Robb, center.

After the teams were chosen Coach Boelter sent Ohio against Northwestern in a short scrimmage while Minnesota took on Purdue. When these two outfits had worked for a while, Boelter halted their work and sent the Indiana boys against Wisconsin as Michigan encountered Illinois. These scrimmages have no bearing on the regular league play which starts tomorrow. A schedule and daily results will be published as the games are played.

Council of Athletes-- Made Up of Track, Baseball Men to Confer With Coaches on Financial Situation

A council of athletes, called by the University of Iowa baseball and track coaches, will occur tomorrow, as the men in the two major spring sports seek some method for continuing competition.

Led by Coach Otto Vogel of the baseball team and George Bresnahan, track mentor, the men will cast about for some solution to the financial crisis which threatens their sports.

If the sports are to be continued in 1933 they, must be self-supporting, it has been decided by the board in control of athletics.

Coach Bresnahan tentatively has scheduled Marquette, Minnesota, and Chicago for indoor track meets, all away from home. These same opponents agreed to come to Iowa City in May for dual outdoor meets.

Iowa's proposed track schedule also includes the Big Ten indoor championship meet at Chicago, the outdoor title affair at Evansville, the Drake relays at Des Moines, and the National Collegiate championships at Chicago in June.

No tentative schedule has been announced by Coach Vogel, but if satisfactory arrangements can be worked out, he hopes to have several Big Ten games. Non-conference games on rivals' diamonds may constitute the major part of the baseball card.

More than 75 athletes are likely to attend the emergency meeting. Each sport has nine returning major letter men. Marshall Riegert, outfielder, is captain of the ball team but the track leader is yet to be elected.

Delta Upsilon Gets 16-14 Win Over Alpha Chi Five; Thurtle Stars for Sig Nu

Delta Upsilon came through in the closing moments of a close basketball contest and set Alpha Chi Sigma, 16 to 14, in the second round games of the inter-fraternity class A league last night. Outstanding among Greek accomplishments was the casting of 11 baskets by Thurtle of Sigma Nu and the scoring of 14 points by Gulic of Triangle, all the scoring done by his team.

Fletcher, Zumhof, and Brown were the big guns for Delta Upsilon while Whealey, W. Brown, and Hazlet divided the Alpha Chi Sigma total. The contest was not decided until the final whistle, the lead alternating several times.

P. A. D.'s Win

Phi Alpha Delta, led by Eckhart who accounted for eight points and Masden with six, took the measure of Sigma Alpha Epsilon, 18 to 14, in a hard fought fray that was anybody's victory until the last minute of play was finished. Osborn and Washburn showed for the losers, accounting for six and four points respectively. It was somewhat rough and well mixed.

Little doubt as to the aggressors in Sigma Nu and Sigma Phi Epsilon victories was left. Both won their games by large margins, the first from Sigma Pi, 30 to 5, and the latter from Triangle, 36 to 14. Thurtle drove hard for the basket and cared 11 goals to count 22 points toward his team's total. Eyeman sank three field goals for six and Ammann for Sigma Pi stood high among his mates with two free throws. Austin of Sigma Phi Epsilon ranks close to Thurtle's record, making 10 goals against Triangle, the team whose scoring was entirely handled by Gulic. Mason for Sigma Nu counted 12 to follow next in the high scorers.

Tau Delta Triumph

Delta Tau Delta won its second contest from Delta Sigma Pi, 23 to 18 in a scoring spree led by Becker. The Delt forward cared six goals, followed by Parker with three and Richards with one and a free throw. Bazant divided honors with Davidson for the losers, each with eight centers.

Alpha Tau Omega started out against Kappa Sigma right, charging a 16 to 9 defeat to the latter five. Both teams played in about the same style, but Peterson for the winners

Emanuel Next Irish Captain

Elected to Position at Banquet; 14 Get Grid Letters

Dennis Emanuel, Irish tackle, was elected next year's grid captain and Jay McNamara, quarterback, was named honorary captain for this year's team by members of St. Pat's football team at their banquet last night when 14 major "P's" and four minor letters were awarded to the players.

Next year will be Emanuel's fourth as a member of the Irish team. He was one of the mainstays on his side of the line this year, and was elected on The Daily Iowan's all-city team. McNamara, although not a flashy player, was consistent throughout the season. He displayed some good headwork at the signal post, and was in the ball game all the time.

The 14 major letter winners are: Earl Gough, Osborn Pinney, Dennis Emanuel, Ray Floerchinger, George Floerchinger, Newman Toomey, Drew McNamara, Jay McNamara, Bill Burger, Joe Pugh, Joe Glenn, Al McMahon, Vince Wetrich, Tom Connell.

Minor awards were given to Al Burger, Eddie Duane, Bill Kessell, and Al Hogan.

The banquet was given for the team members by their mothers.

Zbyszko to Meet Gus Sonnenberg

Karl Zbyszko, popular Chicago heavyweight wrestler, will meet Gus Sonnenberg, former world's champion in the headline match of the second mixed card of the season in the Civic Auditorium at Cedar Rapids tomorrow night.

Zbyszko, who has appeared in the Parlor city ring several times before, and has a large following in this section, will have plenty of expert advice for none other than the original Stanislaus Zbyszko, uncle of the younger Pole, will second him, and be introduced from the ring.

Coach Wells Prepares for Grant Quintet

Works Red, White on Zone, Man-for-Man Formations

Long drills on defensive work and scrimmage are occupying the time of 25 Iowa City high basketball aspirants as they prepare for their initial game in the Mississippi Valley conference at Grant high of Cedar Rapids Friday night.

Coach George Wells, apparently satisfied with offensive work of the Little Hawks against Lone Tree last week, has been drilling his men hard on both the zone and man-for-man defense this week.

Starters Undecided

The two teams that see the most action in scrimmage have been playing on even terms in practice and it is doubtful which one will start the game this week. The five that started against Lone Tree, Soucek and Lewis at forward, Lind at center and Marshall and Christensen at guards have found it difficult to stop the scoring of the second team.

Willard and Mutchler at forwards, Ballard at center, Brown and Chapman at guards have developed into a fast, hard fighting team that will give the first string plenty of opposition this year. Chapman, who has just recovered from a sprained ankle, has been working in Marshall's place some this week but lacks the speed and ability to handle the ball that the stocky little football quarterback possesses.

Ramblers Get Ready Again

Meet Another Tough Foe From Cedar Rapids

Just finished with one game, in which they upset the favored immaculate Conception team from Cedar Rapids here Monday evening, St. Mary's Ramblers now prepare for another contest which looms even tougher than the one preceding it.

They travel to the Parlor City tomorrow night where they take on Coach George Van Deusen's strong St. Wenceslaus quintet. Lacking only the services of Andrie, center, and Pisarik, guard, the Red Hawk coach has six lettermen with which to work this season.

Belger Still Out

It is still very doubtful whether Vic Belger, regular forward, will be recovered in time to play even a part of this game and may even be out for the big battle with St. Ambrose of Davenport next Monday here.

Last night Coach Suellel continued the work he started last week of speeding up the floor game and working more for possession of the ball. Dick Lumsden and Bob Bradley came in for a good deal of individual attention in an effort to correct their tendencies for traveling, a fault which may prove fatal in tougher games.

U. High Drills for First Contest

With two weeks of work under their belts, the University high basketball players still face the problem of overcoming a height advantage that is almost certain to go to opposing teams.

Only Lorence Fuhrmeister, a leading guard candidate, packs the tallest of the Blue will sorely need this season. The rest of the players are all short of the six foot mark by two inches or more. Including all the players who have been used on the first string the average will probably fall short of the 5 foot 10 mark.

Working mainly on the speed with which he hopes to overcome the handicap of smallness, Coach Joy Kistler has concentrated on a fast breaking offense to send up against a veteran Oxford outfit Friday night. Nervousness and inexperience have caused the team work to look ragged but flashes of real form have been evidenced often enough to raise the hopes of the Blue and White for more than the dismal season they originally anticipated. The club does not look like a world beater; it will have to have plenty of work done on it, but the boys are willing and that is half of any struggle.

One further ray of hope was offered last night when Arnold Rarieck reported for the first time this year. Still suffering from the effects of an injured elbow, he will probably not get into active workouts until the holiday season.

Charley Gelbert to Recover by Spring Without Operation

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 6 (AP)—Charley Gelbert, shortstop of the St. Louis Cardinals, today had reason to be in high spirits—for one of the few times since his left leg was injured in a hunting accident.

Doctors told him an operation definitely was not necessary and the two-inch wound probably would heal up with no ill effects. He probably will be back with the Cards in the spring—just as lively as ever, the doctors said.

The only bad news was: Gelbert will have to spend Christmas in the hospital.

Because of the "nature of healing process," Charley's recovery will be slow.

"But they tell me now," Gelbert said from his hospital cot, "that I really will get better—and that is the big thing."

Selzer Goes to 1st Team Guard Post

Yearlings Give Varsity Competition in Workout

With the pick of the freshman centers employing a fast-moving offense, the Iowa basketball squad devoted most of the time in yesterday afternoon's practice session working on zone defense.

Coach Rollie Williams used two different combinations against the yearlings, and both experienced considerable difficulty in keeping the freshmen in check, indicating that the Hawkeyes have plenty of work ahead of them before the conference season opens.

Until this week, Coach Williams had stressed offensive play, and it proved quite satisfactory against Bradley as both an offense and a defense.

The Hawkeyes will get an opportunity to test their defensive ability Monday night against Drake at Des Moines, and it is to this game that the Iowa mentor has turned his attention.

In a rivalry that has extended over 10 games, the Hawkeyes have won nine, losing the game in 1930 by a one-point margin. Little is known about the Bulldogs team this year, but Coach Evan Williams, who has been drilling the men since the close of the football season, came to Drake with a great record as a cage mentor.

Howard Moffitt and Ivan Blackmer were again at forwards on the first string yesterday, with Howard Bastian at center. Ben Selzer, however, replaced Mike Riegert at one guard, with Ed Brake remaining at the other back court position.

Guedner Krumbholz and Harold Eslerman got first call at forwards on the second string, with Blackmer at center, and Johnny Grim and Riegert at guards.

Following the defensive drill, Coach Williams devoted a short time to ball handling and passing.

City High Assured of Five Big Home Games Next Season

Iowa City high school's 1933 football team will play five big home games, four of them conference and one with Grinnell. In addition to this home schedule, the Little Hawk officials hope to schedule one or two practice games before the opener with Davenport here, Sept. 23.

The schedule:

Sept. 23—Davenport, here.
Oct. 7—Washington (Cedar Rapids), there.
Oct. 14—Clinton, there.
Oct. 21—West Waterloo, here.
Oct. 28—Dubuque, here.
Nov. 4—Grant (Cedar Rapids), here.
Nov. 11—Open.
Nov. 18—Washington, there.
Nov. 30—Grinnell, here.

Fraternity Basketball Eligibility Rules

Following are the eligibility rules for the inter-fraternity basketball competition among class A teams:

Eligibility

- Varsity squad men and freshman squad men in basketball are ineligible.
- Men who have earned letters in basketball at a junior college, or university, are ineligible.
- Men who have earned numbers in basketball are ineligible. However, if a man is a numeral winner, and a year has intervened since he received his award he may become eligible upon receiving a release in writing from the basketball coach.
- All players must be members or official pledges of a fraternity. By "official" is meant that a pledge must be recorded as a pledge in the office of the dean of men.
- Men who are members of any athletic squad in training during the official season of a sport are ineligible for competition in intramural basketball.

consist of three 10 minute periods with a three minute intermission between each period.

Time out—Each team shall be permitted to take time out three times during the progress of the game. Time out shall be of minute duration. More than three time-outs shall be penalized by a free throw for each additional time out and shall be considered as a technical foul.

Officials—1. Managers must select officials by mutual agreement. A list of proposed officials will be included. 2. Each team shall furnish a timekeeper and scorer. (Note—Official basketball rules shall cover points not mentioned above.)

Protests

All protests must be in the hands of E. G. Schroeder within 24 hours after the game protested.

Time of play—A team not making its appearance on the playing floor within 10 minutes after the scheduled time of the game will be subject to an unconditional forfeit. If both teams do not appear both shall be credited with a loss.

Postponements

There shall be no postponement. All games must be played according to schedule.

Length of games—A game shall

International Loop to Adopt Limit on Salaries

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Dec. 5 (AP)—A salary limit for minor league baseball clubs seemed almost a certainty today when the International League capitulated after two days of argument and agreed to fix a maximum as recommended by the committee of five of the National association of professional baseball leagues.

The limit adopted by the International circuit calls for a payroll expenditure of $39,000 a season per club with no more than $6,500 paid monthly during May, June, July and August. This leaves $13,000 available for salaries of extra players from the opening of the season to May 1 and from Sept. 1 until the close of the season.

18 Player Limit

At the same time the International circuit adopted an 18 player limit. This number includes a manager, in case he plays, and is exclusive of the pilot if he is a bench manager. George Weiss of the Newark club cast the only dissenting vote on the two questions.

The action of the International circuit coincides with similar ones approved by the American association several weeks ago. Only the Pacific Coast league remains adamant to a salary limit among the class AA circuits and the association and International owners took the coast majors conference tonight in an effort to win the far west league over to the salary limit proposition.

Producers Buyers

H. L. Baggerley, president of the Pacific group, announced his league would stand pat on its former action and would not accept a limitation. He said his league clubs reduced salaries from 30 to 50 per cent in midseason and by refusing to adopt a salary limit would in no way interfere with the American association and International leagues.

Today's gathering, the last of the informal meetings before the thirty-first annual conference of the National association of professional baseball leagues opens tomorrow, produced prospective buyers for the Kansas City and Toledo clubs in the American association.

Obtained Option

Lee Keyser, owner of the Des Moines club of the Western league, revealed himself as a possible purchaser of the Blues, but the name of the Toledo bidder was undisclosed. Receiver Al Reuben of the Mudhens identified him only as a Toledo business man.

Keyser declared that last October he obtained an option on Kansas City and that when he went to exercise it on Nov. 15 directors of the club refused to make the sale but said they would mail him a counter proposal.

Since that time, Keyser said, he has been in constant touch with the Kansas City directors and the new proposal was supposed to be mailed to him at that meeting.

Kelly Not Connected

Thomas J. Hickey, president of the association, attempted to get in touch with George Muehlebach, present owner of the Blues, to see if the second proposal had been mailed to Keyser but was unable to reach him by long distance telephone.

Keyser said if he purchased the Kansas City club it would in no way affect his operation of the Des Moines club in the Western circuit. Mike Kelly, president and owner of the Minneapolis club of the American association, holds an interest in the Des Moines club but is not connected with the proposed purchase of the Kansas City franchise.

Harrier Medley Progresses

About 50 indoor tracksters continued to cut down on their times yesterday as led by Leo Campisi, diminutive cross country captain, and Dick Bott of the rookies, several good marks were registered.

The men are still competing in the cross country medley, a contest in which the various times of the men in the 220, quarter mile, half mile, and mile are added together with the man having the lowest total being declared the winner.

Campisi, running his first half this year turned in the time of 2:31.6 while Bott was just behind in 2:31.8. John Carver was third about six yards back.

Verne Schlaser, another cross country man, won the mile for yesterday with a time of 4:46.6. Ray Fisher, who will register next semester as a freshman, took second, Sidney Melnick copped third, and Max Wisgerhof came from way behind to get in fourth place.

Campisi and Bott will run the mile today and the entire competition will end tomorrow. Gold, silver, and bronze medals will be awarded the winners.

Dies of Injuries

BOONE (AP)—Robert Grover, a farmer of near Rippey, died at Minburn Sunday night while being removed to a Des Moines hospital for treatment of injuries suffered when he was struck by a car driven by M. L. Cudaby of Jefferson.

Big Six Will Decide Titles by Tournaments

KANSAS CITY, Dec. 6 (AP)—Athletic directors and faculty representatives of the Big Six conference today voted to abandon all round-robin schedules in 1933 spring sports and to award conference championships to the winners of general conference meets.

Officials may arrange dual meets but they will have no bearing upon the championships. The same plan was in effect last year after football receipts dwindled for the second consecutive season.

The double round-robin in basketball will be played. Dates and places of the conference championship meets are:

- Wrestling—Iowa State college, March 3-4.
- Swimming—University of Nebraska, March 11.
- Indoor track—University of Missouri, March 11.
- Outdoor track—University of Nebraska, May 19-20.
- Tennis—University of Kansas, May 19-20.

The baseball championship will go to the school with the highest percentage in conference competition to be arranged by individual institutions. Nebraska will not compete in baseball and one or two others may also drop out.

Demo Contests Vote

DES MOINES (AP)—John W. Adair, Democratic candidate for state representative, notified the secretary of state that he would contest the election of L. D. Teter of Knoxville, his Republican opponent. Teter had a 98 vote lead in the official canvass.

Vote Relief Funds

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Reconstruction Finance corporation voted relief funds totaling $7,400 to Clay county, Iowa, to care for relief needs until Jan. 1. Including this allotment, Iowa has received $64,600 for emergency relief from the corporation.

SYNOPSIS

In 1690, following the death of Sir John Harradine, Captain-General of the Leeward Isles, his beautiful daughter, Priscilla, leaves for England aboard the "Centaur", accompanied by the pompous, middle-aged Major Sands, her father's aide, who seeks Priscilla's hand and fortune. The Major resents Priscilla's interest in her fellow-passenger, Charles de Bernis, fascinating and mysterious Frenchman, and seeks in vain to belittle him. De Bernis wanted to disembark at Guadeloupe, but Captain Bransome refuses to go to that pirate-infested port and offers to drop him at Sainte Croix instead. Learning that the handsome Frenchman once sailed with Henry Morgan, the notorious buccaner, now Governor of Jamaica, Major Sands calls De Bernis a pirate, adding that Morgan and his cut-throats were just bloodthirsty, thieving scoundrels. Morgan, however, had given up preying on ships to enter his King's employ and rid the sea of pirates. In spite of Morgan's endeavors, a few still eluded him and the authorities suggested he might be playing a double game and receiving tribute from those still at large. Morgan has offered a large reward for the capture of Tom Leach, a brutal, remorseless scoundrel, who sails the Caribbean in a powerful ship... "The Black Swan"... wrecking havoc.

CHAPTER NINE

Well might Captain Bransome have uttered his prayer that this evil villain should sooner come to morning's execution dock. The following morning was to bring him the urgent dread that, if the prayer was to be answered at all, it was not likely to be answered in time to be of profit to the Centaur.

Going early on deck to take the air and summon his fellow passengers to breakfast, Monsieur de Bernis found the Captain on the poop, leveling a telescope at the ship some three or four miles away to eastward on their starboard quarter. Beside him stood Major Sands in his burnt-red coat and Miss Priscilla very dainty in a gown of lettuce-green with ivory lace that revealed the lissom beauty of her milk-white neck.

The wind which had veered to the north had freshened a little since dawn, and swept the ship with a grateful coolness. With topsails furled, and a considerable list rippling through the sea on a course almost due west. She was still some leagues south-east of Aves, and land was nowhere in sight.

The master lowered his telescope as de Bernis came up. Turning his head, and seeing the Frenchman, he first pointed with the glass, then proffered it.

"Tell me what you make of her, Monsieur."

Monsieur de Bernis took the glass. He had not observed the grave look in Bransome's eyes, for he displayed no urgency in complying. He paused first to exchange a greeting with Miss Priscilla and the Major. But when at last he kept the glass to his eye, he kept it there for an unconscionable time. When he lowered it, his countenance reflected the gravity worn by the Captain's. Even then he did not speak. He stepped deliberately to the side, and setting his elbows on the rail for steadiness, levelled the glass once more. This time his observations were even more protracted.

He scanned the tall black hull of that distant ship and the black beak-head carved in the shape of a swan with a gilded crest. He attempted to count the gun ports on her larboard flank as far as this was revealed by the course she was steering. With the same leisureliness he surveyed the mountain of canvas under which she moved, with every sail unfurled, and above which flew no flag.

So long was he in this inspection that at last the Captain's hard-held patience slipped from him.

"Well, sir? Well? What d'ye make of her?"

Monsieur de Bernis lowered the glass again, and faced his questioner. He was calm and smiling. "A fine, powerful ship," he said casually, and turned to the others. "Breakfast waits in the cabin."

The Major, whose appetite was never feeble, required no further invitation. He departed, taking Miss Priscilla with him.

As they disappeared into the gangway leading aft, the smile left the face of Monsieur de Bernis. Solemnly his long dark eyes met the Captain's uneasily questioning glance.

"I desired not to alarm the lady. It is as I think you already suspect. Tom Leach's ship, The Black Swan."

"What can you do?"

"What might or run?"

"Which would you prefer?"

Bransome considered, merely to explode in exasperation. "How can I fight? She carries twice my guns, and, if it comes to boarding, her men outnumber mine by ten to one or more."

"You will run, then?"

"How can I run? She has twice my canvas," Bransome was grim. In the waist some of the hands newly descended from aloft were shading their eyes to survey the distant ship, but idly, without suspicion yet of her identity.

De Bernis returned to the study of her through the telescope. He spoke presently with the glass still to his eye. "For all her canvas, her sailing's laboured," he pronounced. "She's been overlong at sea. Her bottom's foul. That's plain." He lowered the glass again. "In your place, Captain, I should come a point or two nearer to the wind. You'd beat up against it a deal more nimbly than will she in her present stale condition."

The advice seemed to exasperate Bransome. "But whither will that lead me? The nearest landfall on that course is Porto Rico, and that over two hundred miles away."

"What matter? If this breeze holds, she'll never gain on you to windward. She'll sail her worst closehauled. You may even out-sail her. But if you do no more than keep the present distance, you are safe."

"That's if the breeze holds. And who's to warrant me the breeze'll hold? It's an unnatural wind for this time of year." He swore again in his frenzy of indecision. "If I was to go about, and run for Dominica again? It's none so far, and safest, after all."

"But it's down wind, and down wind, with all her canvas spread, she'll overhaul you quickly for all her foulness."

Nine Meets Definitely Booked for Indoor, Outdoor Season

Instead of having a sadly depleted track schedule this year, Hawk-eye tracksters, both indoor and out, have been rewarded with more meets than were carded last year. And in addition there are several tentative engagements that will almost certainly be sandwiched in with the regular program.

Nine meets have passed the tentative stage and will engage the attention of the Old Gem men over a

Floyd Nagler Talks Before Kiwanis Club

Story of City Hydraulic Operations Told by Professor

The story of hydraulic operations in Iowa City is a tale stretching over a period of 92 years, from the time an obscure man named Terrill obtained rights to build the first dam across the Iowa river near the present location of the City park, according to Prof. Floyd A. Nagler, who spoke to members of the Kiwanis club yesterday noon.

In 1890, said Professor Nagler, whose lecture was illustrated, the University of Iowa secured the rights held by Terrill and constructed the dam at Burlington street.

The development of the university's hydraulic plant, he said, has had the continued support of the federal department of agriculture and the army engineers. He pointed out that the plant here is especially well-fitted for the study of problems affecting these government agencies.

Professor Nagler said the completion of the new hydraulic laboratory will give the University of Iowa the largest plant of its kind of any college in the country.

Models are extensively used in the laboratory, he said, for the study of proposed dams for cities in Iowa and surrounding states. He estimated that savings to the federal government on government projects through the use of the laboratory's facilities have amounted to about $15,000,000.

Flood waters and the action of water flowing around bends are the subjects of extensive study at the present time, he said.

Joseph J. Lee of Muscatine and Prof. Hunton D. Sellman of the dramatic arts faculty of the university were guests at the meeting.

Corn Plunges Downward to Season Low

CHICAGO, Dec. 6 (AP)—Smashing of the season's bottom price record for corn today plunged all grain values downward despite sensationally bullish crop reports concerning United States winter wheat.

Suggestions were current that the government final crop estimates on corn Dec. 15 would show a total corn supply of 434,000,000 bushels larger than was in sight at the corresponding time last year. Stop-loss selling was speculative holders of corn broadened out suddenly, and found the market devoid of aggressive support.

Corn underwent a maximum fall of 1 1/2 cents a bushel, but later rallied somewhat, closing unsettled, 1/2-1 under yesterday's finish, with wheat 1/2 cent down, oats 1/2 decline to 1 gain, and provisions unchanged to 12 cents setback.

Disappointment was widespread as to lack of new buying after issuance of monthly unofficial crop summaries today that showed severe drought over vast stretches of territory had reduced the condition of domestic winter wheat to the lowest point on record.

Before succumbing to the influence of bearish action of the corn market, wheat was governed mainly by monthly unofficial crop summaries which put the condition of domestic winter wheat at 72.6 and 74.6, compared with 79.4 a year ago. The lowest previous condition ever known was in December, 1922, when the percentage was 75.2. In addition to the low condition of winter wheat, a decrease of about 6.3 per cent in acreage was shown. A crop of about 430,000,000 to 442,000,000 bushels of winter wheat was suggested, compared with a 25-year average of 400,000,000 to 787,000,000.

At the new low levels in corn, the fact became apparent that some interests were accumulating fresh holdings. Decidedly unfavorable weather predicted for the corn belt aided rallies. Oats chiefly followed corn.

Provisions weakened with hog values and with grain.

Closing indemnities: wheat—Dec. 43 1/2, 45 1/2; May 47 1/2 to 1-4, 45 1/2-3; July 47 1/2, 47 1/2-49. Corn—May 27 1/4 to 28; July 28 1/2, 29 1/2.

Funeral Service for John S. Plough Held This Afternoon

Funeral service for John S. Plough, 77, who died last Monday at his home, will be held this afternoon at 2:30 at the home, 409 S. Dodge street. Burial will be in the Oakland cemetery.

A sudden heart attack Monday morning is believed to have been the cause of Mr. Plough's death. He had lived in Iowa City for 30 years. He spent his early days in Somerset county, Pa.

Ernie Nevers, collegiate and professional football star and assistant coach at Stanford, plans to lead an all-star post-season invasion of Hawaii.

National C. of C. Head Sees Indication of Business Gains

be reasonably balanced with demand through contract or agreement.

CHICAGO, Dec. 6 (AP)—President Henry I. Harriman of the National Chamber of Commerce today described indications of reviving business but said the restoration of agriculture "to a self-respecting and profitable basis" is one of the essentials if prices and employment are to increase.

Mr. Harriman brought the viewpoint of business before the annual convention of the American Farm Bureau federation.

The domestic allotment plan for higher farm prices, already endorsed by President Edward A. O'Neal, of the Farm bureau, was included among Harriman's suggestions for governmental machinery "which will offer an incentive to the farmer to reduce acreage and to balance production with demand."

Additional Recommendations

In addition to agricultural restoration, Harriman recommended:

- Spreading of work so that all persons may have at least partial employment.
- Modification of restrictive laws so that "production of goods may

Hopes Lesson Learned

"I hope the Republicans learned a lesson in this last campaign," Wallace said, "and will not attempt again to make farmers believe that they should be thankful for worthless paper tariffs on farm products, while at the same time the price for nearly everything they buy is raised by industrial tariffs."

As a creditor nation, Wallace declared, the United States has no export market for its farm surpluses. He advocated tariff reciprocity, lower industrial and higher farm schedules, and "some such machine as the voluntary domestic allotment" to make the tariff effective for agriculture.

Wallace warned that if there is

Leads Talk at Round Table

Drinkwater Speaks on Literature in Old Capitol

What the future of American literature will be was a problem presented by John Drinkwater, English dramatist and poet, in a round table discussion in the senate chamber of Old Capitol yesterday afternoon.

Literature in every nation has grown up with the development of language, Mr. Drinkwater asserted. America faces the unexampled problem of a nation which has borrowed the language of another as its medium of expression.

"America has imposed upon the old English a new idiom, racy, attractive, and stimulating to one who knows the roots of the English language. It has acquired enough vigor to create its own literature. In 300 years, it has had time to throw out roots and establish traditions."

Related to England

In spite of this, the speaker pointed out, American literature is related to the British in its origin. Whether a new technique will be developed or is desirable is a problem for the future.

Self-consciousness is a trait in modern literature, not only in this country, but in England, Mr. Drinkwater said. Writers are anxious to intrude their own personalities into their works. In America, the dramatist finds this typified in the critical work of George Jean Nathan and other writers.

Doctors Name New Officers

New officers of the Johnson County Medical society will be elected at the organization's last meeting of the year tonight in the American Legion Community building at 6 p.m.

Dr. F. R. Peterson will discuss tumors of the breast and Dr. George C. Albright will complete the speaking program with "Leaves from a doctor's note book."

The new officers will replace Dr. Peterson, president; Dr. W. F. Boiler, vice president; and Dr. Albright, secretary and treasurer.

The organization will also vote on a new by law, designed to admit interns and others in equivalent positions to junior membership.

Flour Distributed to Poor Families

Flour will be distributed by the Red Cross to needy families in Iowa City this afternoon between 2 and 4 o'clock from the Hanlon building on College street.

The flour, the second carload received by the Red Cross, arrived in Iowa City Monday afternoon, Mrs. Martin Pederson, secretary of the Red Cross, said yesterday. It will be stored at the old chair factory, and will be given away in small amounts each week.

ever produced." He characterized Lindsey as "a gospeler in poetry."

The immediate future of drama in London and New York he termed "discouraging."

"It is becoming more and more difficult for a young dramatist to know where to go with a new play. Even plays of the older, established dramatists are not certain of production," he concluded.

Rapids Monday evening by 3,990 and Alfred Oathout was low with 6,850 points. The next tournament games will be played in Iowa City Dec. 19.

Robert Fountain was high scorer on the local team with 9,180 points

Blend.. AND YOU GET A DIFFERENT TASTE

Cross-Blend.. AND YOU GET A BETTER TASTE

That's the reason Chesterfield not only blends but cross-blends its tobaccos.

Blending mixes the tobaccos together. Cross-Blending welds them together... into one tobacco of milder, more pleasing taste! And what's more, a taste that's uniform, always the same.

It's like creating a new and better tobacco for cigarettes. It makes Chesterfields milder, gives them more fragrance... and makes them taste better.
