FIVE CENTS

IOWA CITY, IOWA WEDNESDAY, JANUARY 11, 1933

VOL. XXXII NUMBER 191

BIG TEN TO ACT ON IOWA ATHLETES

Hand Writing Expert, Bank Teller Testify in Trial

Cloud Falls on Originality of Deposit Entry

Finds Evidence Entry Not Made in Usual Business

J. Fordyce Wood, Chicago handwriting expert, and James V. O'Meara, former teller at the First National bank of Iowa City, were principal witnesses yesterday in the fifth day of the district court hearing to trace responsibility for a $20,000 shortage in county funds.

The handwriting expert said he had found evidence that the entry of $26,243.30 in the pass book of former County Treasurer Charles L. Berry under date of Jan. 2, 1932, had not been made in the usual course of business.

Specialists of Ear, Eye, Nose Society Meet in Discussion

More than 75 members and guests of the American Laryngological, Rhinological, and Otolological society were in Iowa City yesterday for the meeting of the midwestern section of the society.

Technical aspects of ear, nose, and throat problems were discussed by some of the outstanding specialists in the field at yesterday's sessions which were held at University hospital under the chairmanship of Dr. Dean M. Lierle, professor and head of otology at the university. Dr. Lierle is one of the vice presidents of this section of the society, which includes all midwestern states.

At last night's dinner, served at the Jefferson hotel, Dr. Joseph Beck of Chicago, president of the organization, gave the main address of the evening, with Dr. Lee W. Dean of Washington university, St. Louis, reading a scientific paper.

Unknown Killer of Four Month Old Baby Continues at Large

Detectives Term Case One of Most Brutal on Record

NEW YORK, Jan. 10 (AP)—The mothers of the Throggs Neck section of the Bronx watched their babies with unwonted care tonight as the mysterious killer of four month old Frankie Cammarano continued at large.

Detectives called the strange stabbing of the infant as he slept in his crib last night one of the most brutal in their case books. After a fruitless day of questioning and investigation they were ready to call it one of the most baffling as well.

Two Theories Advanced

Two theories were advanced. One was that the man or woman who crept across the dark porch, opened a bedroom window, and thrust a knife three through the body of the helpless baby was a maniac.

The other was that the slayer sought vengeance—for what, no one could say—on the father, Armando Cammarano, who has run a barber shop in the neighborhood for years, or another member of the family.

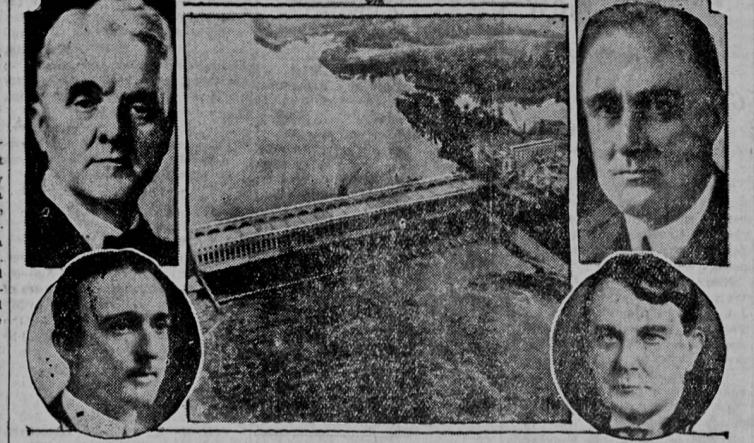

Aunt Discovers Slaying

Theresa Cammarano, 16, an aunt of the baby, discovered the slaying when she entered the room to investigate a draft coming from the window she knew she had closed.

Her sister, Josephine, 14, was with the mother and grandmother in another part of the house.

Scores of neighbors also were questioned but the investigation failed to uncover a single clue.

ROOSEVELT TO STUDY MUSCLE SHOALS

Beginning his two months waiting time as a private citizen before he takes over the big job of president of the United States, President-elect Franklin D. Roosevelt (upper right) plans a visit to the gigantic $150,000,000 government-owned power plant at Muscle Shoals, Alabama. The problem of what to do with the big project, unsolved by two administrations, is expected to be one of the first questions to be tackled by the new president. Among the solons who will accompany the president-elect on his visit are Senator George Norris (top left), of Nebraska, Progressive Republican, who aided Mr. Roosevelt's campaign; Senator Hugo LaFayette Black, Alabama (lower left), and Senator Kenneth McKellar of Tennessee (lower right). Center is a picture of Muscle Shoals.

Hawks Await Final Move of Censor Board

Majority of 7 to 3 Necessary Before Reinstatement

Request for the reinstatement of Ivan Blackmer and Eddie Break, Old Gold basketball stars, is in the hands of Big Ten officials, the report of Hawkeye officials on the case was mailed out to the other nine members of the conference last night, and Iowa sat down to wait.

The same committee, composed of Prof. E. H. Lauer, director of athletics, Dean Chester A. Phillips and Prof. Rollin M. Perkins, which prepared the report which was presented to the Western conference eligibility committee, drew up the Iowa case to be sent to other Big Ten members, and it was given the sanction of the Iowa board in control of athletics at a special meeting yesterday afternoon.

The decision of the conference on the reinstatement of the two Hawkeyes will be made by a mail ballot of the Big Ten, following receipt of the Iowa report, and the report of an investigation by Maj. John L. Griffith, conference commissioner.

A majority of 7 to 3 in favor of reinstatement must be obtained before the ban can be lifted on the Iowa athletes. Ballots will go to Professor Algier of Michigan, chairman of the conference.

It will not be necessary for all the ballots to be in before a decision can be made. As soon as seven "yes's" or four "no's" are received, Iowa officials will be notified.

Ballots can be sent either by mail or by wire. How soon the final decision will be known depends upon the speed of the various conference officials in making their decisions and sending in their ballots.

Iowa officials said that as a rule a decision is reached within between seven to 14 days.

Both Blackmer and Break will remain out for practice and stay in shape until the final outcome of their case is learned.

Two Inks Used

Wood testified that two kinds of ink had been used in writing the date of the deposit, an entry having been made and later traced over after the first had had time to dry. All figures were carefully drawn, he said. The handwriting expert called attention to the fact that the figures were not entered in the same way as for other deposits, and said in his opinion no employe of the bank had written them.

When asked whether he thought all figures in the entry were made by the same person, Wood replied that there was nothing to show that they were not. He said he could not ascertain who wrote the figures, as they did not resemble the natural handwriting of anyone in the bank or the treasurer's office.

House Loads Amendments on Farm Bill

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10 (AP)—A page-by-page struggle over the emergency farm bill enveloped the house tonight as it crowded commodity after commodity into a price fixing plan hailed on one side as economic progress and likened on the other to a Russian dictatorship.

Scarcely had the bill reached the amendment stage when its sponsors were overwhelmed in votes that added dairy products and peanuts to the list of products to be benefited.

Warns Against Additions

"You can't load this bill down with a lot of commodities and hope for legislation," warned Representative Burgess, Republican, North Dakota, adding his plea to that of James O. Eastland, Democrat, Mississippi, who warned against over-burdening the measure.

But over this protest, the house immediately voted 111 to 110, to accept the peanuts amendment of Representative Cox, Democrat, Georgia, and a few minutes later 102 to 75, to approve one by Representative Andrew, Republican, Minnesota, covering dairy products.

Earlier, rice was put in the bill as a committee amendment by a vote of 99 to 24. Jones announced at the time he would fight all other additions, but the Cox amendment removed the chief restraining clause, language defining eligible commodities as those having an exportable surplus.

With this much rewriting done before even the third page was reached, Representative McKeown, Democrat, Oklahoma, told his colleagues:

"Loaded Down"

"When you go to load the bill down as opponents of it are trying to do, it doesn't make much difference what you load it down with."

No roll call votes were taken on these changes, but from the galleries it was evident that many avowed opponents of the bill were joining with interested representatives in adding to the five commodities originally approved by the committee: wheat, cotton, tobacco, hogs and rice.

It was Beck, Pennsylvania Republican, who in the last hours of general debate drew a comparison between the secretary of agriculture's powers under the plan with those of Stalin, Russian dictator. La Guardia, Republican progressive from New York, termed it a step in "production planning."

"I think if a copy of the bill should reach this great dictator of Russia, Mr. Stalin in the far off

Extra Session Looms Ahead for Congress

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10 (AP)—Every indication pointed tonight to Democratic failure to enact budget balancing revenue legislation at this session and an inevitable extra assembly of the new congress.

With many elements rising in opposition to their move to increase the income taxes, the party leaders are concentrating on their economy proposals to bring government expenditures down to the level of federal income.

"Time Too Short"

But Representative Rainey of Illinois, the Democratic floor leader, asserted that "time is too short and opposition too strong to get through this congress a program that can meet the $492,000,000 deficit."

"I think a special session, probably in April, is inevitable," he continued.

"Then we can effect further economies and probably balance the budget without resorting to a general revision of the taxes. We also can get our beer bill through without any trouble."

The prediction that the Democrats would "fall down on both" enactment of the new tax legislation and the beer bill was made by Representative Snell of New York, the Republican floor leader.

"Nothing This Session"

"It is perfectly evident the Democrats are not going to do anything about balancing the budget this session," Snell said. "They don't even intend to try before 10 or 15 days from the end of the session and that means that they have thrown it up in despair."

At his press conference, Speaker Garner conceded that whether tax legislation is taken up at this session depends upon what President Hoover does to the beer and farm relief bills, but declined to discuss the possibility of an extra session.

"If we don't get our program passed and signed," the vice president elect said, "what's the use to take up taxes? If our bills work out as we plan, however, I would be glad to see a tax bill passed at this session. I would raise heaven and earth to get it through."

Grand Jury Indicts Mother for Murder of Three Children

CHARLESTON, Ill., Jan. 10 (AP)—A Coles county special grand jury today returned an indictment charging Mrs. Inez S. Carrell, 29 year old Chicago widow, with murder in connection with deaths of her three children, in a Mattoon, Ill., hotel last Oct. 23. Sheriff Vincent Aye said she would be arraigned tomorrow.

The children, Mary Ellen, 5, Robert 7, and June 10, were found drowned in a bathtub. Mrs. Carrell lay on the floor in a stupor.

She admitted to authorities she had taken her children's lives because she feared she could not provide for them. She then swallowed poison in an unsuccessful attempt to kill herself.

Mrs. Carrell's case attracted wide publicity and evoked much comment. Alienists enlisted in her behalf, questioned her and declared she was driven to her act through uncontrollable circumstances that temporarily upset her mental equilibrium.

Mrs. Snipes Receives Life

COLUMBUS, S. D., Jan. 10 (AP)—Governor Blackwood today commuted the death sentence of Mrs. Beatrice Ferguson Snipes, 29 year old expectant mother, to a sentence of life imprisonment, saying his act of clemency was "in accord with the general sentiment of the country."

The former textile worker, who admitted shooting Rural Policeman Elliott Harris to death with his own pistol, was notified of the executive's decision as she sat in the sunshine in an enclosed yard at the state penitentiary.

Governor Blackwood said he had reached his decision after attorneys for the woman told him she was willing to abandon her appeal.

Wide spread interest was manifested in the case when Mrs. Snipes was convicted in York early last month of the murder of Harris, and sentenced to die in the electric chair. She was the first woman ever to face electrocution in South Carolina.

Set Deadline for Elections

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10 (AP)—The Glass banking bill was wavering at the verge of an uncertain fate tonight after an organized filibuster by Huey Long of Louisiana prevented a vote on its most controversial feature—that permitting state wide branch banking.

Assisted by several other Democratic liberals, Senator Long held the floor in opposition to the branch banking provision for four hours and a half, then yielded to let the senate consider the $31,000,000 deficiency appropriation bill.

This only temporarily laid aside the sweeping bank law revision proposal of Senator Glass (D. Va.), but Long was prepared to continue his fight to kill the branch bank clause or recommit the bill, which will mean no banking legislation this session.

Bucks Conservatives

The shouting Louisiana bucked the conservatives in his party with every conceivable argument, including quotations from the scriptures.

He said President-elect Roosevelt disapproved of the branch bank clause.

Senator Glass informed the senate yesterday that Mr. Roosevelt thought the bill was doomed with the existing branch bank provision, but wanted the legislation passed.

Once in his several hours of speaking, Long got on the subject of pay cuts, on which he expressed this opinion:

"Somewhere in mathematics, it may say to go in the opposite direction to get where you want to. Cut a man's salary 50 per cent and he'll spend more. That must be right—some pretty big men are advocating it."

Nebraska Youth Falls to Death in Home-Made Machine

PERU, Neb., Jan. 10 (AP)—Joseph Boyles, Jr., 25, of Auburn, was burned to death but his two companions escaped with minor injuries when their home made airplane struck a tree and burst into flames a half mile north of here late this afternoon.

Boyles and his companions, Barton Furlong of Auburn and E. C. Karsten of Shubert, were testing the ship, which they recently had completed building. Karsten was piloting it.

As the plane passed over a steep hill a west wind caught it, Furlong said, and drew it downward. The ship struck a tree, but Karsten kept it from falling until it struck another tree 100 feet farther on.

Boyles was sitting with his feet under the gasoline tank, and could not extricate himself. The others were able to get out without serious injury.

Boyles was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Boyles, Sr., of Auburn. Furlong is the son of Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Furlong.

Seek to Speed Bills Repealing Prohibition Laws for Illinois

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Jan. 10 (AP)—Both house and senate today sought to speed through the general assembly bills repealing the search and seizure act and the state prohibition law.

Before adjourning until next Tuesday, the senate had placed its repeal measures on third reading, which is the final voting stage, and the house had sent its bills to second reading.

The house advanced its repeal bills, introduced today by Representative A. B. Lager of Carlyle, without argument. The senate, however, became involved in debate as some members sought to amend the repeal bills so as to prevent their becoming effective until other regulatory legislation had been adopted. Repeal advocates overrode the opposition and succeeded in tacking on emergency clauses which, if the bills are passed and approved by Governor Horner, will put them into immediate effect.

The body of Inez Trussell, 22, of Missouri Valley, who died Monday at a local hospital, will be sent today from the Oathout funeral home to her home for burial.

THIS MODERN AGE One Hog Plus $1.50 in Cash Equals One Car

ALBIA, Jan. 10 (Special to The Daily Journal)—Today one 240-pound hog plus $1.50 in cash is equal to one collegiate sedan, according to the legal reckoning of John E. Miller of Albia, senior law student at the University of Iowa.

A motor-minded Monroe county farmer, Earl Cottrell, made Miller such an offer when his automobile stalled on federal highway No. 34 east of here.

However, fearing the reception which might be given him by his Phi Kappa Sigma fraternity brothers should he return to Iowa City astride another "State Fair" Blue Boy, Miller bargained still further.

As a result, he paid his bargainer the $1.50 in cash for butchering the hog and preparing it for consumption at Alpha Phi chapter house during the semester examination period.

Miller is the eldest son of Charles E. Miller of the Albia law firm of Miller and Everett.

Court Hears Action to Free Young Killers

DES MOINES, Jan. 11 (AP)—The appeal of a habeas corpus action to free Gerald Haberman and Raymond McCormick, youthful slayers of Henry Handfield, Dyersville night watchman, from the state penitentiary where they are serving life sentences, was submitted to the Iowa supreme court today.

The case places in question the sentences of all confessed murderers sent to the penitentiary on pleas of guilty without a hearing. Counsel for the pair claim they were sentenced by the court without the submission of evidence to determine the degree of guilt.

Handfield was killed in March, 1930, when Haberman was 16 and McCormick 17. The youths were sentenced by Judge P. J. Nelson of Dubuque. The habeas corpus action was brought in Dubuque before Judge John M. Rankin, but the court denied the motion for release of the youths.

The law firm of Frantzen, Gilloon and Gleen of Dubuque argued the case for the plaintiffs, while County Attorney John J. Kintzinger of Dubuque appeared for the state.

Son Born to Torch Singer

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 10 (AP)—A son was born to Mrs. Libby Holman Reynolds, widow of Smith Reynolds, at the Pennsylvania hospital tonight.

Dr. Norris W. Vaux, attending physician, said the condition of mother and child was "satisfactory."

Mrs. Reynolds, widow of the late heir to the Reynolds tobacco fortune, who was found dead at his estate in Winston-Salem, N. C., last year, entered the hospital this morning. The child was born at 6:48 o'clock.

The former Broadway "torch singer" came here from Wilmington, where she has been living recently.

Mrs. Reynolds was accompanied by Mrs. Louisa Carpenter Jenney of Wilmington, the former Louisa D'A. Carpenter, whose father is associated with the Dupont interests in that city. Mrs. Jenny and Mrs. Reynolds have been friends for some years.

Dr. Vaux said Mrs. Reynolds came to the hospital "in a highly nervous condition, but otherwise is a very good patient."

Dr. Vaux declined further information before morning.

F. Patterson Enters City Mayoralty Race

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10 (AP)—The Glass banking bill was wavering at the verge of an uncertain fate tonight after an organized filibuster by Huey Long of Louisiana prevented a vote on its most controversial feature—that permitting state wide branch banking.

Assisted by several other Democratic liberals, Senator Long held the floor in opposition to the branch banking provision for four hours and a half, then yielded to let the senate consider the $31,000,000 deficiency appropriation bill.

This only temporarily laid aside the sweeping bank law revision proposal of Senator Glass (D. Va.), but Long was prepared to continue his fight to kill the branch bank clause or recommit the bill, which will mean no banking legislation this session.

Bucks Conservatives

The shouting Louisiana bucked the conservatives in his party with every conceivable argument, including quotations from the scriptures.

He said President-elect Roosevelt disapproved of the branch bank clause.

Senator Glass informed the senate yesterday that Mr. Roosevelt thought the bill was doomed with the existing branch bank provision, but wanted the legislation passed.

Once in his several hours of speaking, Long got on the subject of pay cuts, on which he expressed this opinion:

"Somewhere in mathematics, it may say to go in the opposite direction to get where you want to. Cut a man's salary 50 per cent and he'll spend more. That must be right—some pretty big men are advocating it."

Son Born to Torch Singer

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 10 (AP)—A son was born to Mrs. Libby Holman Reynolds, widow of Smith Reynolds, at the Pennsylvania hospital tonight.

Dr. Norris W. Vaux, attending physician, said the condition of mother and child was "satisfactory."

Mrs. Reynolds, widow of the late heir to the Reynolds tobacco fortune, who was found dead at his estate in Winston-Salem, N. C., last year, entered the hospital this morning. The child was born at 6:48 o'clock.

The former Broadway "torch singer" came here from Wilmington, where she has been living recently.

Mrs. Reynolds was accompanied by Mrs. Louisa Carpenter Jenney of Wilmington, the former Louisa D'A. Carpenter, whose father is associated with the Dupont interests in that city. Mrs. Jenny and Mrs. Reynolds have been friends for some years.

Dr. Vaux said Mrs. Reynolds came to the hospital "in a highly nervous condition, but otherwise is a very good patient."

Dr. Vaux declined further information before morning.

The house advanced its repeal bills, introduced today by Representative A. B. Lager of Carlyle, without argument. The senate, however, became involved in debate as some members sought

'F D.' Holds Meeting With Demo Aides

Around Conference Surround Conference Sessions

NEW YORK, Jan. 10 (AP)—Democratic diplomats of veteran experience were in lengthy consultation today with President-elect Roosevelt.

The same strict secrecy that enveloped yesterday's six hour conference between Mr. Roosevelt and Secretary Stimson on foreign affairs was maintained.

Col. E. M. House, intimate adviser of President Wilson, headed the list of callers at the Roosevelt home, including in a two hour luncheon conference.

James W. Gerard, former ambassador to Germany, and Sumner Welles, former under secretary of state, followed Colonel House.

"Just Social"

Smiling broadly, the president-elect described to newspapermen the calls as "just social." As for any developments from the Stimson parley, he would only say "wait and see."

The diminutive Colonel House referred questioners to Mr. Roosevelt. He did say, however, he was not undertaking any special mission.

"You must remember that I am in my seventy-fifth year," he said. "I did not accept office under Woodrow Wilson when I was 29 years younger. My advice to this man is to rely on young men and not on old dodo birds."

Asked about the probabilities of any immediate joint negotiations on war debts or the impending world economic conference, the president-elect indicated this was unlikely.

Whether the renewed conflict in the far east or the world arms parley were subjects of discussion also remained in the field of speculation.

Later, Mr. Roosevelt received a detailed report of operations of the Reconstruction Finance corporation on loans for self liquidating projects and for railroads from Harvey Couch, Democratic member of the Reconstruction board.

Tonight, Mr. and Mrs. Roosevelt attended the dinner given to James A. Farley, Democratic national chairman, Frank C. Walker, party treasurer, and Louis McHenry Howe, secretary of the president-elect, by the national executive finance committee.

Calling List Full

Tomorrow's calling list is already full, but there appears to be no renewal in sight of the discussions on foreign affairs.

As near as could be made out here, these talks so far have been generally of an advisory character.

In his unsuccessful effort to enlist Mr. Roosevelt in joint negotiations on the war debts and the economic conference, President Hoover suggested Colonel House as one who might represent the president-elect in Washington in conducting the work.

Teefy Rites Set for Tomorrow

Mrs. Dennis Teefy, 69, 625 E. Davenport street, died at 8:15 a.m. yesterday at a local hospital after a three month's illness. Mrs. Teefy, who was born at Parnell, had lived in Iowa City for 32 years.

She is survived by her husband and eight children, Ross Teefy of Waterloo, Mrs. Mary Barrett of Cedar Rapids, John Teefy of Iowa City, Mrs. Vance Smith of North English, Al Teefy of Muscatine, Mrs. Maurice Hatzke of Los Angeles, Cal., Mrs. John F. Sussel of Iowa City, and Mrs. R. J. Connor of Iowa City.

Funeral service will be held at 3:30 a.m. tomorrow at St. Wenceslaus church with burial in St. Joseph's cemetery. The body will be at the Hohenschuh mortuary until this evening.

High School Debate Teams Will Meet Here for Practice

High school debaters from Iowa City, Muscatine, Cedar Rapids, and Marion will meet here Saturday for a round robin practice tournament. Prof. A. Craig Baird, director of the Iowa High School Debating League, announced yesterday.

The meeting is the result of plans laid at a similar meeting held several weeks ago, by a group of high school debate coaches, among them, J. E. McCreary of the local high school.

The tournament is preparatory to the first round of debates in the league series. Contests will be judged by university debaters, according to Professor Baird.

The question to be argued is: "Resolved, that at least 50 per cent of all state and local revenues should be derived from sources other than taxes on tangible property."

Texas Witch-Doctors Held in "Devil Murder"

Painted Fanatics of Backwoods Strangled Sufferer from Infantile Paralysis Trying to "Drive Out Devils." Victim's Father Also Held.

COY OAKLEY, LINDEN, Texas.—We have become so accustomed to speaking of the era in which we live as "this enlightened age," that it is with something of a shock we scan the details of the tragic incident here which proved that there are spots in these United States where ignorance and superstition still hold sway.

The incident in question, already called the "Devil Murder," occurred about 10 miles west of here in the deep pine forests where the hand of civilization has but lightly brushed, and as a result three men are facing charges of murder before a court that holds superstition no ground for the taking of human life.

From statements attributed to the three men and an eye witness to what occurred, police have reconstructed the strange and tragic tale which reads like an episode from the middle ages when sorcery and witchcraft were rampant.

The scene of the drama was the ramshackle hut that served as home for Mr. and Mrs. Sherman Clayton and their 3 year old child, Bernice, who was a sufferer from infantile paralysis. And the principals, besides the Claytons, were the brothers, Paul and Coy Oakley, religious fanatics of the backwoods.

The Claytons, half wild with anxiety over the sickness of their child, called in the brothers Oakley, to whom the forest dwellers had attributed miraculous powers. Then followed a ghastly scene as the fanatical brothers went through a ritual that was supposed to cure the ailing child, but which ended in her death.

During the weird rites, a neighbor, George Wilson, attempted to enter the Clayton shack, but was forcibly prevented by Coy Oakley. However, Wilson saw what was going on and passed his information to the authorities.

Little Bernice Clayton was lying on the floor while Paul Oakley, debauched with paint in the manner of an Indian witch-doctor, knelt beside her, one hand on her throat, the other on her forehead. The girl's father sat a short distance away, singing and praying as the fanatic who ministered to the child worked himself into a religious frenzy.

After the arrest of the three men when the girl had been found strangled, Paul Oakley made a statement to the authorities in which he claimed he had been inspired by a divine vision. "God told me to cure her," he said, "but the devil got into me when I saw him in Clayton's eyes." Paul also told how he had knelt on the little sufferer's chest while he choked the life out of her with his hands. Although he made his confession calmly enough, Oakley went into a frenzy of excitement when he had recited the grim story of the killing. "I was not born," he shouted, "I was conceived by God. That's what I've been telling you all along."

The strangest angle of the tragic case is the manner in which the Oakley brothers regard the predicament they are in. Both are apparently sincere in the belief that what they did was justified, and maintained a defiant attitude in the face of a severe grilling by the authorities.

During the preliminary hearing at Cass county courthouse, precautions against a possible lynching were taken in view of the tremendous indignation which the killing aroused in the entire countryside. Sherman Clayton, father of the dead girl, was held with the fanatical brothers after it was revealed that he assisted at the ghoulish rites that climaxed in the death of his child.

Hoover Asks Congress to Consider Arms Convention

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10 (AP)—Immediate consideration was promised tonight for President Hoover's request that congress either ratify the long pending international arms convention or give the chief executive power to declare munitions embargoes, but congress did not appear disposed to approve the plan.

As soon as the message was read in the senate, Chairman Borah called for tomorrow morning a meeting of the foreign relations committee. However, he pointed out that the convention referred to was pig-cooped by the committee without action years ago.

Borah has opposed the plan for six years. Most of the opposition has been centered on the idea that it would not interfere with the bigger countries but merely discriminate against small nations.

The president's message was accompanied by a memorandum written by Secretary Stimson which, without calling names, mentioned as reasons making the action desirable the blood-spilling Chaco conflict between Paraguay and Bolivia, the Leticia dispute between Peru and Colombia, and the unofficial Sino-Japanese war.

"Weakest, Vaguest"

Though there was little general interest manifested in congress upon the reading of the message, representative Hamilton Fish (R., N. Y.), described the paper as "the weakest and vaguest of all of Mr. Hoover's messages to congress."

Only yesterday Fish called on the president to act and, recalling that the proposal has been awaiting dispatch to congress some weeks, charged the delay to opposition of "war profiteers and munitions makers."

Today, he said the message "was given out merely to satisfy the pacifist."

Letters to the Editor

Irate Alumnus and Fan Fail to Agree With Tactics of Eligibility Committee

Madison, Wis.

To the editor of The Daily Iowan: Permit me, as an alumnus of the University of Iowa, to compliment you on your editorial in Friday's Iowan (Dec. 30) relative to the unjustified action of the eligibility committee in barring Blackmer and Break from further athletic competition. I heartily concur in every sentence you have written and I am sure that you have the support of every loyal friend and graduate of Iowa.

I am not in the habit of rushing into print or otherwise publicly expressing myself on such matters. The past experiences have been rather with a smile and a shrug of the shoulders with a firm resolution that the old school would come out ahead in spite of such reverses.

This last action of the eligibility committee is the "straw that broke the camel's back" and it makes me fighting mad to think that men who are supposed to have the good of the institution at heart should absolutely repudiate the boys for whom they should fight.

Granted that the "moss-baked" rule was violated as to the letter, although even this might be questioned, it is beyond understanding that the committee should take such an action by themselves, without submitting its findings to the Big Ten board.

Everyone here at Wisconsin has had nothing but admiration for the fight that the Iowa coaches and athletes have put up under adverse conditions. A number of men have spoken to me since this last action and have expressed themselves as dumfounded that a local committee would act without consulting the Big Ten itself.

I am hoping, for the sake of the school, the team, and for Rolfe Williams himself, that this action may be speedily reversed, and steps must be taken immediately to seek such a reversal. You have started well and I trust you will continue in the same vein.

Yours for Iowa, first and always, (Signed) O. T. Nelson, 1117 299 Industrial Commission of Wisconsin.

Sheringham, Iowa

It is with extreme disgust and displeasure that I read in the Des Moines Register of the action of the "moss-baked" Iowa board and the subsequent action of the Big Ten in the case of Blackmer and Break.

How long is Iowa going to play the weak sister and act the part of a doormat for the Western conference? How long will Iowa elect to play the goat of the middle west and knuckle down to the unjust mandates?

The University of Iowa needs good athletes to make better teams at Iowa but if Iowa high school stars have a better chance to be eligible at other schools, and if conditions continue at Iowa the way they are, I pity Ossie Solem, Rolfe Williams, and other Iowa coaches.

As to the guilt of the players in question, I happen to have read their names in the lineup of the Alberts' Cleaners of last year and I know of several young players in this community who, if they ever went to Iowa, would run into the same trouble, as these young fellows have violated the amateur code about as much as Blackmer and Break.

Where is Iowa's backbone? Are you going to stand for this now and in the future? Buck up and take your own part.

I want to see fair play for Iowa in athletics. (Signed) T. M. King.

of the bank, was in the bank on the day the deposit was made, to which he replied in the negative.

The former teller said he went to Berry's office early in March with Thomas Farrell, former cashier of the bank, and George Dvorsky, former bookkeeper, and that Berry told them that the deposit was in checks. When he was in the treasurer's office March 18, 1932, to buy his auto license, O'Meara testified, he asked Berry if he had found the checks, at which Berry nodded his head in the affirmative.

Cross-Examined

O'Meara was cross-examined by Edwin B. Wilson, attorney for the American Surety company, bondsman for Berry as county treasurer, in regard to his business since the bank closed.

G. M. Taylor, certified public accountant, who audited a report yesterday morning of Berry's transactions on the board of trade, reported that the former treasurer had a net loss of $11,707.41 during the four years 1929, 1930, 1931, and 1932. The report was introduced as evidence earlier in the day by J. R. Hill, who was sent to Chicago Friday by Judge Bechly to obtain the information.

Testifies to Payments

Taylor said the report shows that during the four years Berry made total payments of $14,575 to the Updike grain company, which was later absorbed by the Farmers National corporation. During the same time, he testified the report shows, Berry received payments totalling $2,818.41.

Testimony of Fred Lohberg, state auditor who checked the books of the treasurer's office for 1931 and a part of 1932, was completed soon after

Star Witness Goes on Stand in Murder Trial of Ted Wells

BEATRICE, Neb., Jan. 10 (AP)—Byron Kennedy of Beatrice, federal prohibition informer and star witness for the state in the first degree murder trial of Ted Wells, 26, occupied the stand in district court here almost all afternoon in telling his version of the slaying of Chester Mason of Omaha, prohibition agent, on the highway near here last Nov. 12.

Kennedy's testimony was a reiteration of that he presented in the preliminary hearing of Wells. It was that he had arranged to buy liquor from Wells and that Mason went along to make the arrest. In a struggle which ensued Mason was wounded fatally and Kennedy was shot twice in the face.

Committee Casts Vote

DES MOINES, (AP)—The Iowa electoral college committee met to cast the state's 11 votes for Franklin D. Roosevelt and John N. Garner. It was the first time since 1912 that Iowa cast a Democratic vote.

The trial will continue at 9 o'clock this morning.

$20.50 On Convenient Terms

DURING the summer months parents have little need for worry concerning the physical condition of their children. Plenty of exercise, fresh air, and bright invigorating sunshine practically assure good health.

In the winter, however, things are different. Snow, ice, and wintry blasts keep the young folks indoors most of the time. They get little exercise and even less sunshine.

Right now is the time a sunlamp will prove its real value. It will put a rich bronze tan on small bodies, instill powerful vitamin D in tiny systems, build up resistance, and increase energy.

The sunlamp is just as valuable to you as to the children. Let it help promote the health and happiness of the entire family.

last spring in which he spoke of the Philippines as "the base of our economic empire in the east."

This was more than an idle phrase. As Stimson wrote he knew that half a dozen destroyers had gone up the coast of Asia from Manila to Shanghai, there to await developments in the Sino-Japanese conflict.

A joker in the independence bill is that the United States gives civil freedom without relinquishing her military hold on the Philippines—an additional fact which throws light on the supposedly benevolent gestures of this nation in the orient.

The issue here involved may involve much. On its outcome may swing the future of U. S. Asiatic policy. There now is a crossroads with definite choice of direction.

Whatever the decision of International club members in threshing through this question on this campus Thursday night, they will do well to face the realities of U. S. imperial policy as a whole. It is this which gives the subject such fitness for their discussion.

Ways to Balance Budgets

TODAY'S BOOK BIT, at the end of these columns, concerns an old financial custom—balancing the budget.

Those familiar with such matters know that comptroller after comptroller of pre-revolutionary French finance wrestled with the problem of balancing a war-laden budget, and that the privileged orders tried to pass the buck downwards once too often.

Some have argued as if the only tax concern is to "balance the budget." Is it a beer bill? It comes first in legislative consideration under the guise of a revenue bill. Congressmen seem more concerned about how much money the bill will raise (on paper) than about whether this will enable bootleggers to keep on bootlegging at untaxed prices—merely adding legal brewing to the ills of prohibition.

More akin to the quotation is the sales tax. Like the beer tax, it is advocated strongly by a few who hope to divert revenue demands from their own pockets. Yet, praise be to the president-elect, it has been squashed by the man who campaigned with remarks on "ability to pay" as a prime principle of taxation.

It is not absolutely necessary, economists say, that the budget be balanced in any particular year. Whether the budget is balanced constitutes only one phase of the taxation issue, and a temporary phase.

The substitute plan of Franklin D. Roosevelt does not propose merely to "soak the rich." Admittedly, it strikes heavily at the white collar, low income class—$2,000 to $10,000 per year. Mild compared with England's taxation, it will seem steep to a nation where the income tax is still a "radical" issue.

Economists are not sure that an income tax, based on ability to pay, will of itself balance the budget. They are sure that such devices as the sales tax—particularly when they appear to cut at already lowered standards of living—are dangerous. His avoidance of it is an additional assurance that the president elect is a man competent to aid an inevitable revolution in American life come about without violence.

Corn on the Cob

HOME OWNERS followed in the footsteps of pioneers when they tried burning Iowa's corn in their furnaces, and experiments conducted at state educational institutions lately have pointed the way to use of the cereal as fuel.

It remained for a company manufacturing washing machines in the Iowa headquarters for that industry, Newton, to begin large scale use of the grain, as an aid in disposing of the 1932 crop surplus. The factory will, this week, begin a series of tests in the use of corn fuel, and will check carefully as to the cost of its use.

The grain will be mixed for the first tests with low grade coal, and if the experiments prove a success, the officials of the company point out that wide use of the farm produce would aid in cutting the surplus grown during the last year.

The college and university tests have shown that 40 to 50 bushels of corn equal one ton of coal in fuel value, and that for best results, the grain should be mixed with coal.

As for costs, a municipal electric plant at Sibley tested corn to find that the costs were almost identical with that of coal. The grain is being used most extensively for fuel in northwestern Iowa, and particularly in Pocahontas county, where it is being used to heat the court house, schools, and public buildings.

If a demand can be created for corn, enough to wipe out the heavy production of this last season, even though the sales will be at a rock-bottom, there's a better price-opportunity for the remaining portion of the crop to be sold at something nearer a normal level. And a sale, no matter what little it brings, means getting some cash into circulation at least.

Another Philippine Issue

COMMONEST SUBJECT when Philippine independence bobs up as a topic of talk is likely to be one of two: 1) the traditional human right sentiment, the noble philosophy with which the right hand of U. S. government has always obscured what the left hand was doing; 2) cynical mention of sugar, coconut oil, and cheap labor.

There is a third phase which does not produce so many columns in the Congressional Record, so many dollars in the pockets of lobbyists. It is the probably more important question of U. S. policy of empire: is imperialism to go forward?

This is the first time in a long history of expansion that the United States has actually considered giving up a part of its far-flung territory. That is more important than trite if noble phrases, more important than sugar cane and sugar beets.

Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson, usually a spokesman of noble phrases, wrote an open letter to Senator Hiram Bingham

EXAMINATION SCHEDULE

First Semester 1932-1933 Saturday, January 21, 8:30 A.M. to Saturday Noon, January 28, 1933

The regular program of class work will be suspended, and the following semester-examination program substituted for it. Classes will meet for examination in the rooms in which they have been regularly meeting (except classes in SPECIAL GROUPS A, B, C, D, E, and F, as shown in the form below; and Speech 1, 01 and 3 as shown at "N.B." below).

The Program Committee directs the attention of both students, and instructors and professors, to the regulation that there is to be no deviation in the case of any examination, from this schedule, except as authorized by the Committee, on the student's written petition, filed in ample time, supported by the recommendation of the department concerned,—to provide relief from an excessive number of examinations within a single day. Deviation for the purpose of getting through earlier will not be permitted.

In the cases of conflicts (within the SPECIAL GROUPS A, B, C, D, E, and F) the schedule itself, as presented below, provides a general method of making adjustments.

All classes whose first weekly meetings have occurred as indicated in the rectangles below, meet for examination during the periods noted at the tops of these three columns, and on the days noted in the rectangles directly opposite at the left of the double, vertical line.

Table with columns for Examination Period (8-10 A.M., 10-12 A.M., 2-4 P.M.), Day, and Special Group (A, B, C, D, E, F) with associated course numbers and departmental notes.

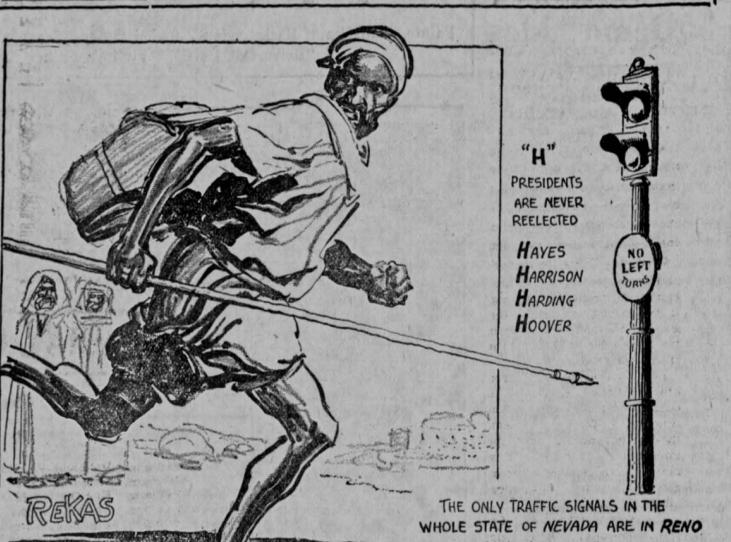

CONFLICTS: In case of conflicting examinations the student should report to the instructor in charge of the first of the two conflicting subjects as listed below by columns, and alphabetically within the particular group who will arrange a special examination. Report to him, or her, not later than regular class hour on January 16 and January 17; if possible, January 12 and 13.

The first meeting of the class means the first lecture or recitation period in courses having both lectures and recitations, and laboratory periods; or, in the case of courses involving only laboratory periods, the first clock-hour of the first weekly meeting. For example, chemistry 21 meets for lectures T Th S at 8. The first meeting is, consequently, Tuesday at 8,—and the class will meet for examination Monday, January 23, 2-4, according to the tabular form above. Again, physics 125 meets twice each week, T F, for a three-hour laboratory exercise, 1-4. The period for the examination is, therefore, Friday, January 27, 2-4.

N.B. All sections of freshman speech 1, 01, and 3 will meet in the buildings and rooms and on the days and at the periods designated below:

- 1. Saturday, January 21, 8-10: Section AA LA 7, Section CA LA 6, Section EA LA Aud, Section AB LA 14, Section CB LA 15, Section 02-2A LA 104, Section 02-2B LA 207. 2. Saturday, January 21, 2-4: Section GA LA 3, Section GB LA 221, Section GD LA 6, Section HA LA 3, Section HC LA 207, Section GE LA 7. 3. Monday, January 23, 2-4: Section BA LA 15, Section BC LA 7, Section DB LA 221, Section BB LA 6, Section BD LA 14, Section DC LA 207, Section DD LA 225. 4. Wednesday, January 25, 2-4: Section HB LA 14, Section IA LA 15, Section DA LA 7, Section HC LA 3, Section IB LA 17. 5. Thursday, January 26, 2-4: Section 3A LA 7, Section FA LA 6, Section LA LA 4, Section 3B LA 14, Section FB LA 15, Section LB LA 16. 6. Friday, January 27, 10-12: Section KA LA 6, Section KC LA 4, Section KE LA Aud, Section KB LA 14, Section KD LA 7, Section LD LA 16. Section JA LA 15, Section JD LA 7, Section LC LA 16, Section JB LA 4, Section JE LA 14, Section LE LA 109, Section JC LA 6. "ODD" classes, namely those whose first or only weekly meetings occur on Wednesdays, Thursdays, Fridays, or Saturdays, or which meet "as arranged," will be assigned for examination, as announced to each such class by the instructor in charge of the class, at one or another of the following periods: 1. From 4 to 6 on any day from January 21 to January 27, inclusive. 2. Any one of the examination periods assigned, as indicated above, for the examinations in the SPECIAL GROUPS, A, B, C, D, E, and F, since for such "odd" classes, these five examination periods will be found quite available. In connection with any such announcement it would doubtless be well for the instructor making the announcement to ascertain whether any member of his class is already under appointment for examination in some other class for the proposed period. To be sure, it is possible to have examinations in more than one class at any of these times,—if no student is a member of more than one of these classes. According to one clause in the formal faculty action providing for a special semester-examination program, "the instructor may use the examination period as he sees fit provided he holds the class for the full period. He may have an oral or a written examination, or both, or neither. He may

BEHIND THE SCENES - IN HOLLYWOOD -

By HARRISON CARROLL FILM SCANDAL SCREEN COMMENT

HOLLYWOOD—In the face of an acute shortage of film heroes, Mary Pickford proposes to solve her own future problems and to make a good business investment by signing three well known leading men to long term contracts.

The three she has in mind are Charles (Buddy) Rogers, Charlie Farrell and Johnny Mack Brown. Like all of Mary's plans, this deal has been brought to a halt by the death of Jack Pickford, but she will go on with it as soon as she returns to her studio problems.

It is not only Mary who has experienced difficulty along these lines. Just a few weeks ago, R-K-O was trying frantically to find a suitable vis-a-vis for Constance Bennett. And readers of this column will recall the endless juggling before Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer finally was able to borrow Gary Cooper for the Joan Crawford picture. Hollywood is really crying for handsome young men—but the hitch is they must have established followings.

Mary figures that Buddy Rogers, Charlie Farrell and Johnny Mack Brown fulfill this qualification. She believes she could easily keep them busy at other studios when not using them in her own pictures.

The star's current film, "Secrets," is completed. Pending the arrival of Jack's body she will devote little time to film activities.

Would a certain polo-playing millionaire blush if he could hear the story Jerry Horwiz brought back from Agua Caliente. Despite his riches, the sportsman in question dresses very shabbily and is noted for his unkempt appearance.

During the New Year's Day races, he walked in front of the grandstand. Two blonde cuties were sitting in a box. One nudged the other: "Do you see that fellow? He's filthy with money." Taking a sip of beer, her companion snapped: "He'd be filthy without it."

Governor Turner Delivers Biennial Legislative Message

Gives Report on State Auditor's Removal; Introduces Bills

DES MOINES, Jan. 10 (AP)—Iowa legislators today heard Governor Dan Turner outline more than a score of recommendations in his biennial message and started the legislative mill grinding with the introduction of new bills.

Delivery of the governor's biennial message before a joint session in the afternoon was the high point of the second day of the forty-fifth general assembly. During much of the remainder of the day the upper branch marked time.

Both houses received from Governor Turner a report on the suspension from office of Auditor of State J. W. Long of Ames with the recommendation that they take immediate action. Long was removed April 20, 1932 after a special committee found him guilty of expense account padding.

Appropriations Bill Cut

The biennial appropriations bill also was introduced during the day, and the governor transmitted to the legislature the Norris "lame duck" amendment to the federal constitution. The appropriations bill provides an allowance of $13,906,031, a reduction of $1,796,032 from the current appropriation.

In the house a number of new bills were added to the 75 interim committee tax reduction proposals introduced on the opening day. Important among bills filed today were those asking repeal of the legislative expense account act, seeking repeal of the five day marriage law, to abolish state aid to county farm bureaus, and to combine the duties of the state budget director with the state auditor.

State Tax Reduction

Governor Turner in his message told the legislature that he believed the mortgage foreclosure laws and the delinquent tax sale laws should be revised in the interests of property owners.

The chief executive, in what probably will be his last appearance in an official capacity before the state legislature, also stressed the necessity for tax revision and reduction, and stressed other important issues.

His declaration that "to waste time and energy in this great crisis in seeking methods of expediency in relation to the liquor question is a travesty on the intelligence of the people and an acknowledgement that we are unworthy of the heritage bequeathed us by our fathers," was applauded.

He asserted that no step should be taken to weaken state liquor control laws, regarding as the present need "enforcement of the present laws rather than their abrogation or revision."

Departs from Text

In delivering the portion of his address relating to the need for halting farm mortgage foreclosures which he said were being made at an alarming rate in Iowa, the governor departed briefly from his text to suggest that the legislature memorialize congress that some agency be set up or federal land banks be strengthened to aid farmers and home owners in saving their property through loans at low interest rates.

He followed the prepared text closely in the remainder of the address. Members of the senate and house and visitors who packed the house galleries listened attentively and applauded at several points and at the conclusion.

Members of the senate then returned to their chamber and both houses resumed their separate sessions but adjourned later in the afternoon to allow special committees to begin work.

The house bill for repeal of the five day marriage law and those dealing with the budget director and farm bureau aid were sponsored by Representative Malone of Atlantic, while Representative S. B. Durand of Hancock county drafted the legislative expense account act repeal proposal. The expense account law a short while ago was held unconstitutional by the state supreme court.

Repeal of the marriage law under which persons intending to marry must make application five days in advance has been advocated since its passage by the last general assembly. Repeal, however, is expected to encounter considerable opposition, especially from women's organizations.

Receive Alcohol Bill

Both houses also received a bill to permit the manufacture of industrial alcohol in Iowa. The Webster county lawmakers who sponsored the bill, Representative Paul B. Anderson and Senator John H. Mitchell, said that if legislative barriers are removed a company manufacturing industrial alcohol probably will be established in Ft. Dodge.

The first of the mass of petitions also began pouring into both houses during the day. Most of those from various counties which found their way into the records today requested a tax on chain stores, while others opposed any weakening or repeal of the state liquor laws.

A committee composed of three Republicans and two Democrats was appointed by Senator Matt L. Coney of Dubuque, president pro tem of the senate, to decide the election contest brought by Warren A. Caldwell, Republican, of Oskaloosa

Named to Committee

Three Democrats and two Republicans were named to a committee to decide the election contest brought against Garrit E. Roelofs, Republican, of Sioux Center, by T. E. Moen, Democrat of Inwood.

The senators also decided two ties in Monday's voting on patronage, giving Marjorie L. Wilkins the position of file clerk, and Catherine Hicklin that of journal clerk, John Langfitt and Mrs. Ruth Tyler were the opposing candidates whose names were scratched.

In transmitting the report on the investigation and suspension of Long as auditor of state, Governor Turner added a statement in which he asked the legislators to take prompt action in the matter.

Quotes Law

He quoted the sections of the law requiring the governor to place the record before the legislature promptly and said:

"It being made the duty of the governor to thus act with promptness it is plain that the law contemplates equally prompt action by you. It is therefore your duty to make this one of the first matters to receive your attention. The entire record is made a part of this report and will be placed upon your desks and should in my opinion receive your immediate attention."

Penitentiary Board Makes New Pact With Chicago Firm

DES MOINES, Jan. 10 (AP)—A new agreement with the Dearborn company of Chicago for the disposal of furniture manufactured at the Ft. Madison penitentiary has been made by the board of control, O. M. Michael of Ottumwa, board member revealed today.

He said the board had accepted a loss of $148,059.35 on a former contract with the Dearborn company because the "firm was in straitened circumstances and because the bonding company guaranteeing the contract had failed."

The total amount due the state was $214,254.66 at the time an agreement was made last Sept. 6 for settlement under which the board received $10,000 in cash and $30,000 in bills receivable.

Under the new agreement the board will continue to manufacture for the company under a new bond of $25,000 and a personal guarantee of the purchases by F. J. Robineau, the president of the Dearborn company.

Missouri Professor to Address Seminar in Zoology Friday

Prof. Mary J. Guthrie of the zoology department, University of Missouri, will speak before the zoological seminar Friday at 4 p.m. in room 307 zoology building. The topic will be "The growth of the oocyte and distribution of cytoplasmic inclusions in the vertebrate egg."

The work which Professor Guthrie has done is in the field of the origin, growth, and differentiation of germ cells in vertebrates. She recently completed an extensive study of the seasonal migration and breeding habits of the bat.

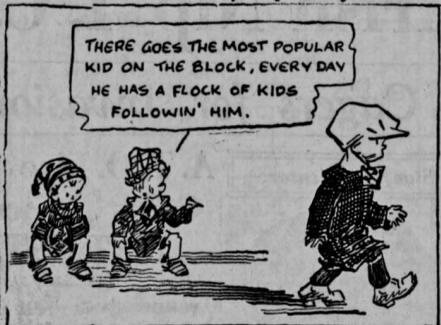

Professor Guthrie is co-author of a zoology textbook and of a manual of laboratory directions in general zoology.

Announce Change in Type of Exams

Final examinations for the B.A. and M.A. degrees in English will be based on the reading list distributed by the English department sometime ago, Prof. Norman Forster, director of the school of letters, said yesterday.

This will mark a definite change from old type of examination, which was a re-examination over the various subjects, Professor Forster declared. The new type of examination is being given for the first time at the end of this semester.

Ramblers Trim U. High, 30-16; Irish Nip I. C. Quintet, 18-15

SPORT Potshots by EUGEN THORNE

THE Iowa basketball team was shaking its collective head yesterday because of failure to sink shots against the Wisconsin Badgers. Although they had plenty of shots that went right up to the basket, and numerous times the ball rolled around the hoop, the ball just wouldn't go in. According to all reports, the Hawkeyes more than held their own in handling the ball during the first half, but couldn't come through with the markers—which, after all, are what win games. But this outfit of Rollie Williams' is due to hit one of these nights before long, and when it does, it will be too bad for somebody else.

It may seem a long way off until the start of the baseball season, but the Iowa freshmen will waste no time in getting started. Coach Pops Harrison will send the yearlings through the first workout of the year at the field house tonight. No doubt Ott Vogel will be around to see how many of the first year men he can start looking forward to for help in 1934. And Coach Ossi Solem isn't going to let any grass grow under his feet in getting spring football under way. The Iowa mentor will hold the first workout just after the second semester starts.

WRESTLING fans in this section of the state who like their action wild and woolly will probably be in Cedar Rapids tonight to watch George Mack and Karel Zbyszko tangle in the wind-up of Johnny Fryrear's boxing and wrestling show. The two men met in the Parlor City some time ago, and Zbyszko took the final fall by reaching over the ropes to get Mack, who was standing outside getting his breath, and flop him over the ropes for the final fall. Mack yelled plenty but it did him no good. Tonight, three judges will be on hand to see that Mack gets a square deal.

If you think the antics of a bunch of Big Ten officials are funny, you ought to see Mack. The Boston Cavé Man knows all the grunts, groans and grimaces in the trade, and struts them all in the course of an evening. In addition, he has the faculty of getting the fans against him, and if the assembled multitude didn't razz him, everyone would be disappointed. Fryrear has lined up a good supporting card to go with the wind-up. A half hour time limit wrestling match, a six round boxing bout, and some good preliminaries complete the show.

WHETHER or not it was to prove that basketball is as rough as football, the St. Mary's University high and St. Pat's Immaculate Conception games in Iowa City last night were certainly no tea parties. But when you stop to think of it, with all the action, snarl amount of protection, and size of the average court, it is little wonder that the players "mix it up" once in a while. It is impossible to play the ball and not have a good deal of personal contact. But that is one of the good things about the game. It certainly tends to teach the players self-control.

Rumors were afloat over Iowa City yesterday, reporting all sorts of action concerning the Break-Blackmer case, and what Iowa and Big Ten officials were doing. Like most such rumors, the majority were fantastic and the rest of them unfounded. The wheels of the conference are grinding on, and with no possible way of getting extra speed. Once more, as in 1929, Iowa is getting nation-wide publicity on her athletic situation. As far as the eligibility of the two men is now concerned, there is nothing Hawkeye officials can do but sit and wait. Whether the same sitting and waiting will take place in other respects is a matter of conjecture.

THIS eligibility trouble is cropping up in various parts of the country, the most notable episode being on the west coast, where an official report stated that several schools were using men who should be through with collegiate competition. The same report also said that subsidizing of athletes, and taking care of athletes is a common practice at nearly all the schools investigated. There, at least, is one angle of the case. Athletics is a business proposition. If the men playing on the teams bring in money to take care of intramural athletics, pay for buildings, and gain publicity for their respective schools, they deserve something more than a sweater for their hours of work. That is the side of the

Losers Get 1 Point During Opening Half

Zimmerli, Maher, Bradley, Consamus High Scorers

By TED KRUGLAK
Overwhelming their opponents with a speedy, fighting team, St. Mary's downed University high, 30 to 16, in the first intra-city game of the season last night at the University high gym. The Ramblers led throughout the contest, chalking up 14 points to the Blue's lone point in the first half.

The game marked the return of Dick Lumsden, midge forward, and Coach Francis Suplee, after a session with influenza. Lumsden entered the game during the second quarter and played for two periods.

Herman Zimmerli paced the University high players with three field goals.

Losers Count First
University high drew first blood, Thomas converting a free throw for the Blue's lone tally in the first half. The Rambler offense started working after Adrian and Maher, scored two points on free throws to put St. Mary's in the lead. Adrian and Berger took three more free throws, Berger sinking two, to put the Ramblers ahead, 5-1, before Bradley sank the first field goal of the game.

Lumsden came into the fray with a weird one hand shot from the far side of the court, while three more free throws brought the total for the half up to 14-1.

The University high outfit came out fighting in the second half. Zimmerli leading the attack with two successive field goals. The Blue rally was checked, however, by rapid work on the part of Maher and Bradley, who covered Zimmerli closer than a blanket in sub-zero weather.

Fast and Rough
The rough and tumble play continued throughout the second half with both teams crowding in the defense zone, while Maher, Lumsden, and Bradley corralled points on free throws. The Ramblers let up a bit, and University high rushed up with field goals by Dever and Thomas to bring the score to 23-11. However, St. Mary's didn't give the Blue five an opportunity to get within hailing distance, Adrian sank a field goal from mid-court, and Consamus followed up with another goal to save them from any possible slip-up.

Zimmerli slipped out of Bradley's clutches in the last minute of play to score University high's fifth field goal of the evening, giving St. Mary's a 30-16 victory.

Consamus, Maher and Bradley tied for high scoring honors for St. Mary's with six points each.

Expect Large Attendance at Track Mixer

Final plans were checked and everything is all set for the biggest of all track mixers when the track meets get together in the river room at Iowa Union at 7:15 p.m., tomorrow night.

Better organization plus the added attraction of a film that shows the finishes of all the Olympic track events, winners of the field events, swimming, boxing, and equestrian exhibitions, make a large crowd of track enthusiasts an almost sure thing. The program will be opened with short talks from Dean Kay, Prof. Sidney Miller and George Salins, Iowa's great Olympic hurdling champion.

Plans for more than 150 men attending the mixer have been carried forward by several committees headed by varsity letter winners with Calvin Haskinson, newly elected captain, acting as general chairman. Freshmen and varsity candidates, a man from each group for every event, have invited all men who are interested in coming out for track to attend the mixer.

Primarily a mixer for those with active intentions of becoming candidates for the two teams, the affair is planned and held each year shortly after the first workouts for indoor track. This year, in line with the program of a bigger and better get-together, the trackmen have issued more than 60 invitations to honored guests as well as 94 varsity men and 148 freshmen.

Exhibits of track honors and awards won by Iowa men and Iowa teams in the past will be on exhibition with the latest addition being the trophies and uniforms Saling brought back as the world's greatest high hurdler.

Star Players Get Increase

Major League Magnates Show Generosity in Contracts

By ALAN GOULD
(Associated Press Sports Editor)
NEW YORK, Jan. 10 (AP)—Although the general idea seems to be to trim major league baseball payrolls for 1933 at least 10 per cent, the aggregate, most magnates are not only dealing gently with the contracts of their stars but in many cases already have manifested unexpected generosity.

Thus it appears, on the strength of information obtained by the Associated Press, that the "bad news" is not going to be quite so bad as all for two contrasting classes of talent: (1) the veterans who kept their 1932 work up to satisfactory or exceptional levels and (2) the youngsters who made the grade on their first or second attempts.

Furnish Proof
Among the pennant contenders, Washington and Pittsburgh in particular furnish proof of this attitude. The Senators not only have raised the salary of their star sophomore right-hander, Monte Weaver, but likely will give increases to Al Crowder, who won 26 games last season, and Goose Goslin, the returning prodigal. Pittsburgh not only has added a high salary performer in Fred Lindstrom but decided to give $15,000 raise to Lloyd Waner and Larry French, restore a "cut" made in Paul Waner's 1932 salary, and boost the pay of crack youngsters like Earl Grace, Tony Plot, Bill Swift and Floyd Vaughan.

The situation in Pittsburgh, where increases are expected to offset "cuts" for such slipping veterans as Kremer and Brame, is a contrast to the expression of Sam Breadon, president of the 1931 champion Cardinals in emphasizing his payroll "will be slashed, not trimmed."

Babe May Take Cut
Such "cuts" as are made by the pennant winning teams, the Yankees and the Cubs, will be dictated by special circumstances. New pitching sensations on these teams, like Johnny Allen and Lonnie Warneke, will get increases. Joe McCarthy of the Yankees already has signed a new three year contract at a substantial increase and the club of the world's champions, including Babe Ruth, do not fear the arrival of the mail man.

The Babe probably will take another $5,000 "slice" or even $10,000 and like it, especially as Commissioner Landis, revealed now as only a $40,000 employee of the national game, is no longer a salary rival of Ruth's. The Cubs will cut Euryleigh Grimes, with a bonus offer to the old spitballer if he makes a comeback.

Sox Pay Boosted
The payroll of the Athletics will be considerably reduced and that of the White Sox proportionately boosted by the shift of stars like Simpson, Dykes and Haas to Chicago. Simmons has another year to go on his $100,000 three year contract which the White Sox have taken over. Dykes was the highest paid third sacker in the league under Connie Mack, but probably will accept a cut this season.

The Brooklyn Dodgers, Boston Braves, Cleveland Indians, Philadelphia Nationals and Cincinnati Reds all will reduce salaries upwards of 10 per cent, with some exceptions. Although contributing no details about their plans, it is assumed the Browns, Tigers and Red Sox contemplate similar retrenchment.

Rollie Gives First String Light Session

Reserves Put Through Long Drill With Yearlings

Back from Madison, Wis., where they lost their second straight conference game Monday night, the Iowa Hawkeye dribblers were sent through a short workout by Coach Rollie Williams yesterday afternoon.

A short session of ball-handling, followed by basket shooting from the field and from the foul line comprised the workout for the regulars, although the reserves were sent through a scrimmage against the freshmen.

The first and last two-game road trip until past mid-February—Purdue at Lafayette Saturday and Chicago at Chicago Monday—now confronts the University of Iowa rebuilt basketball team.

Point for Purdue
It is for Purdue, one of the league's most powerful scoring teams, that the Iowans now are pointing. The Bollermakers, who whipped Minnesota but were upset by Northwestern in their initial games, will be stronger on their home floor with the addition of Parmenter, star back guard who has been absent because of illness.

Howard Moffatt, Jack Kotlow, and Guendner Krumholz will continue to handle forward jobs, with Howard Bastian at center, and John Grim and Ben Selzer at guards. The giant Bastian, who made 42 points in non-conference games, was a disappointment in the Big Ten affairs, for he went out on personal fouls after failing to score in 19 minutes of play against Michigan and was held pointless by Wisconsin.

The Purdue and Chicago games will close first semester play. Loss of Break and Blackmer partly will be compensated for by the addition of John Barko, a smooth forward who completes his year's residence Jan. 30.

Salary Cuts Proposed at Coast Schools

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 10 (AP)—Drastic curtailment of athletics and reduction of salaries of all athletic employees were proposed today to alleviate financial ills of two major universities of the far west, California and Stanford.

Tracing their troubles directly to the lowered revenues of last football season, the institutions took steps intended to balance athletic budgets. California planned withdrawal from two national competitions and Stanford faced the possible abandonment of one.

California's associated students' finance committee, which pulls the purse strings on all athletic activities at the state institution, drew up a list of recommendations, which included:

- 1—Abandonment of crew participation in the Poughkeepsie regatta.
- 2—Withdrawal from track and field competition in the intercollegiate A.A.A.A.
- 3—Ten per cent reduction in salaries of employees and voluntary reduction for those under contract.
- 4—Curtailling of minor sports but none to be eliminated.
- 5—Abandonment of the summer tour of the tennis team.
- 6—Reduction of athletic budgets to a minimum.
- 7—Reduction of personnel with some employees placed on part time basis.

The recommendations will be submitted to the executive committee at its meeting tomorrow night.

Hospital Co. Plays Friday

Newly Organized Iowa Collegians to Play on Local Floor

The 186th Hospital company basketball team, possessor of three victories and one defeat so far this season, plays its fifth regular game of the current campaign at the American Legion gym Friday night when it meets the newly organized Iowa Collegians.

The Collegians, made up of former high school and college stars now attending the university, won the university independent title last winter playing under the name of the Comets.

The members of the squad and their former schools are: Watson, Upper Iowa; Zillner, Iowa Wesleyan; Blix, Augsburg; Ebert, Coe; Clearman, Iowa; Barker, Iowa, and McAllister, St. Ambrose. The latter is the manager of the club.

The Collegians are seeking games away with any team within 50 miles of Iowa City.

Friday night's contest, the first for the collegians, is scheduled to start at 8 o'clock.

Coach Plans for Student, Faculty Golf

Golf competition for University of Iowa students and faculty members will occur next spring and summer under terms of a plan announced yesterday by Coach Charles Kennett.

Kennett declared that a university golf club, for which any student or faculty member will be eligible, would be formed. Its best players will comprise a team, probably of eight men.

Meets will be scheduled with country club teams in eastern Iowa cities, to be held both on opponents' links and on Pinkbine field, the coach said.

Formation of the club team will not affect intercollegiate competition. A schedule of some half dozen meets will be drawn, with two or three Big Ten universities and such state institutions as Iowa State and State Teachers as rivals, Kennett plans.

A. T. O. Five Gains Chance for Title Tie

Trounces Phi Kap Sig Quintet; Beta's Triumph

Taking advantage of every opportunity that came its way, Alpha Tau Omega last night trounced the Phi Kappa Sigma five, 31 to 17, and earned the chance to tie up the leadership of section four of the inter-fraternity basketball league with Theta Tau.

The one hurdle that remains to be cleared is the Theta Tau quintet itself. A.T.O. has one loss to its credit, whereas its next opponent has four straight wins. Should Theta Tau take this contest, the title will be clear.

A. K. Psi Loses
The only other action took place between Beta Theta Pi and Alpha Kappa Psi, the former holding everything its way by virtue of a smooth passing offense and good ball handling. The A. K. Psi's went down, 26 to 12, although they were a hard fighting lot.

A nine point lead by the A.T.O.'s in the first period was increased to 12 in the second and the final was 14 markers better than their opponents could produce. Peterson, winning center, accounted for 13 of his team's total, dropping them in from everywhere under the basket. Tye, Teyro, and Halladay followed their leader with eight, six, and four respectively.

Shiopard with seven and Jacobson and Metzger with four alike counted high for the losers.

The Beta's were paced by Warrath who found the hoop for 11 markers, Daniels connecting with five.

Four Forfeits
Alpha Kappa Psi couldn't seem to control the ball after the first few minutes of play and wasted many opportunities to score, fumbling close to the basket. Gier and Zuber were the outstanding contributors for the losers.

Four forfeits and a double loss took the place of the remainder of the scheduled games. Phi Gamma Delta won the "cellar" position of section one by failing to show up for the Phi Delta Theta fracas. Delta Chi took a gift from Phi Kappa Alpha; the Sigma Chi's didn't appear against Phi Kappa Psi, and "triangle" did present themselves and were rewarded by an Aetna forfeit.

The double forfeit was the Sigma Chi's Phi Delta Chi tangle. Both fives have been credited with a loss as a result.

Tonight's schedule finds Alpha Chi Sigma paired with Phi Epsilon Pi and Phi Beta Delta vs. Phi Chi, the first to start at 7:15, the latter at 8.

Tank Mentor Pushes Work for Proteges

Coach Dave Armbruster is pushing his varsity swimmers through a stiff schedule of speed and form drills as he views the approaching mid-west A.A.U. meet at Ames.

Until recently the squad has been working on conditioning exercises, spending much time on over distances and calisthenics. However, the tank mentor considers the men to have had enough "bottom" work and is sprucing them up on starts, turns, and stroke themes.

Yesterday sprinters received most of the coach's attention with Capt. Steve Nielson, Chet Mohl, Jack McGuire, Auggie Anderson, and others of the varsity being pitted against the freshmen in a number of fast time trials over the 100 yard distance.

The entire squad took time out during the latter half of practice to engage in water polo drill with polo Captain Harry Haskins directing the men.

Hawklets Get Long Workout

Coach Wells Prepares Team for Game at Clinton

Looking forward to the next Mississippi conference game at Clinton Friday night, Coach George Wells sent his Iowa City high basketball men through a long scrimmage last night in an attempt to improve their ball handling and basket shooting.

In the game against Williamsburg last week the Little Hawks were very weak at making their baskets and their playing was marked by many bad passes. They continued to play the tight defensive game that has been a trait of the City high basketball teams in the last few years.

Several Combinations
Several different combinations were used in practice last night and it is very indefinite who will make the trip Friday. Dale Marshall, who appeared to be in a slump in the Williamsburg game, was looking better. Christensen, tall blonde guard, worked well in several different combinations last night and may set the call in the Clinton game.

Chapman who has been working at one of the guard positions has been shifted to center where he has been developing into a valuable man on the offense. Ferguson, midsize sophomore candidate has been shifted to the first team after making such a good showing in last week's game.

Sophis Play
The City high freshman-sophomore five will attempt to better its standing in the league race when it meets the Clinton quintet in a curtain raiser Friday night.

Pinney Leads Scoring for Locals; Use no Subs

By HARRY BURRELL
First it was Ozzie Pinney and Ray Floerchinger, and then it was Joe Glenn and Floerchinger, and in the final period it was Ray again. But it didn't make much difference who it was, for the St. Pat's basketball team ran its winning streak to three straight last night when it stopped a last minute rally to down Immaculate Conception of Cedar Rapids, 18 to 15.

Decidedly it was an off night for the Irish for they just couldn't hit the basket dead center and shot after shot rimmed the edge and lopped out again. Pinney was hot enough in the first two periods to run up eight points to take high scoring honors for the game but failed to make good on any chances in the second half.

Besides placing second to Pinney for high scoring, Floerchinger was the guiding factor in two of the big center's field goals and his floor play in general was the most outstanding. Twice he executed double passes to Pinney to give him unmolested shots under the basket.

Just as soon as they stopped, Pinney, Glenn took up the burden, and pumped in two long shots while standing almost on the center line. As a result of these shots the Shamrocks were out in front 16 to 8 at the last period started. "Punk" Smith easily won the palm for tough luck, every shot coming so close it seemed impossible to miss only to bounce out.

CHAPTER THIRTY-SEVEN

Congreve had not yet written that line so opposite to Captain Leach's case: "Woman is a fair image in a pool; he who leaps at her is sunk." But if he had written it, and Captain Leach, acquainted with it, had perceived in it a warning to him now, in a double sense of which the poet had no thought, he must still have disregarded it.

"I loves a lass o' spirit, I does." He flung himself down on the ground at her feet.

might merely crush this fruit for which he thirsted. He was glad, therefore, of an inspiration which had come to him that morning and which was responsible for the line he took. From an inner pocket of his faded scarlet coat he drew a little leather bag. He untied the neck of it as he came forward to stand by the table.

tell my husband that you think so." "Eh?" The leering smile faded from his swarthy, hawk-like face. He gaped at her, momentarily nonplussed. Then he laughed outright to cover a certain sense of discomfort. His tone was of a grossly playful gallantry. "Can ye not forget this plaguie husband for a while?"

In his madness either he did not reflect, or else he was impatient of the reflection, that, by the exercise of patience and by proceeding according to the intentions which Wogan had first inspired in him, he might reduce into possession both the treasure and the girl. Patience was in the eyes of Tom Leach a weakness, almost a form of cowardice.

"I've brought thee a little gift," he said. He opened the mouth of the bag, and, placing his right hand as a barrier on the table to prevent the contents from rolling too far, he poured forth a dozen shimmering, lustrous pearls of price.

Looking up, she strove to conceal the sudden alarmed flutter in her breast. If her eyes dilated a little, at least she compelled her utterance to be calm, level, and unhurried. "Ye seek my husband, sir. He is not here."

Every man's view of life is based upon his own experiences. Like drawing like into its intimacies, the vile man meets only villainess and therefore accounts the world vile. So it was with some confidence that this crude animal displayed his dazzling offering.

Martin Musters Forces for Final Community Chest Campaign

Iowa Citizens Will Give Aid to City Needy

Relief Problem Seen as Most Serious in Years

With the special gifts campaign of the Community Chest well under way, Director Thomas E. Martin is gathering his forces for the final, intensive drive which begins Monday.

Every person in Iowa City will be asked to contribute whatever amount he is able for the support of the less fortunate members of the community.

Mr. Martin and his associates in the campaign have been active during the last several weeks presenting the case of relief to the citizens of the city.

With 335 families being provided for by the Social Service league and nearly 600 men and women on the roll of the unemployed at the American Legion Unemployment Relief association, the problem of relief is said to be more serious than ever before in the history of the city.

Laud Scout Work
Workers in the drive have also pointed out that the importance of the character building agencies, such as the Boy and Girl Scouts, is even greater during times of unemployment and economic stress than ever.

Complete cooperation of every citizen is urged by Mr. Martin in order that the $30,000 drive will be a complete success and the agencies of relief and character development will be able to assume their greater burdens.

Following is an outline of the organization and purpose of each of the agencies participating in the Community Chest, as set out in a bulletin issued recently by Mr. Martin:

SOCIAL SERVICE LEAGUE

Activities of the Social Service League—

1. Two hundred and fifteen families, who by reason of unemployment, physical disability, mental handicaps, death of wage earner, desertion, imprisonment, and so forth, are receiving assistance. (This help includes rent, groceries, fuel, milk, clothing, and medicine.)

2. Sixty families where their income will provide everything except milk, cod liver oil and special diets. (This list includes families where there are pregnant women, nursing mothers, sick or convalescents, malnourished children, diabetics, anemics, and other cases of physical disabilities.)

3. Forty families in which medicine is being supplied (not including cod liver oil). Medicine is given only on the written order of a nurse or physician.

4. Clothing center service to families where this is the only assistance.

5. Temporary relief, where the wage earner is temporarily unemployed or sick or where payment on insurance, taxes, interest on loan, and so forth, make heavy inroads on the wage; or where sickness in the family makes unusual demands on the family income.

6. Transients in distress, single and families, from one meal to weeks of care.

7. Twenty non-resident families; relief given pending their return to the county of their legal residence, or financial adjustments made with said county for care of families.

LEGION UNEMPLOYMENT

The committee was formed in October, 1931. All churches, clubs, and other organizations were invited to nominate one of their members to act on this committee, so making that body thoroughly representative of the community.

It was unanimously decided at the first meeting that there should be no dole system introduced—that all monies received should be paid out in wages for work done for the benefit of the community at large.

It was felt that the unfortunate unemployed, able bodied persons of our city appreciate that form of relief more than any other.

Funds were raised by various organizations and bodies and there were a number of voluntary contributions for this cause. No personal donations have been solicited for the work up to the present time.

It is very necessary that funds shall be raised for this purpose now, to enable the work to be carried on.

It should be remembered that the work is both productive and constructive and the money spent is returned to our citizens twofold.

Work has been provided during the last year as follows: clearing of Ralston creek, clearing of new cemetery grounds, clearing and cleaning City park, work on the city yard and dump, streets, and other work, all of which saved tax money.

Work Contemplated

The future work contemplated is as follows: straightening Ralston creek to avoid flooding during hard storms; removing street car tracks which are a source of danger in winter;

Removing hill which causes a blind spot at the airport and pre-

London Gift Shoppe Was Stage for Romance of Baruch Scion

Marriage of American Prince Charming to Salesgirl Climaxed Fight to Restore Her Illusions, Shattered by Contact with Grasping Brides to Be.

Mrs. and Mrs. BERNARD BARUCH, JR.

LONDON—Although their marriage did not receive the amount of publicity usually accorded to so-called Cinderella romances, the union of Bernard M. Baruch, Jr., whose father is financial adviser to President-elect Franklin D. Roosevelt, and who, according to some forecasters, may be the next secretary of the United States treasury, is one of the most romantic love stories of recent years.

The Cinderella in this case is, or rather was, Winifred Mann, 23 year old salesgirl in one of London's department stores. It is hardly necessary to state that Miss Mann is beautiful, romantic heroine usually are. But unlike the original of the famous fairy tale, Winifred was not waiting in anticipation for the coming of a Prince Charming. In fact, up to the time when young Bernard Baruch walked into her place of employment, Winifred had some very cynical views on the marriage business.

For years Miss Mann had toiled in the novelty department of the store, where one of her duties was to preside over the "Brides Book," in which London's brides-to-be list the wedding presents they want, a precaution taken to avoid the usual barrage of useless gifts. Thus she became acquainted with the side of love which has "Gimme" or "I want" for its credo. One can hardly blame the young girl for growing cynical about love and marriage, as day after day, evidence was provided that the tender passion was not so unselfish as poets had cracked it up to be.

However, along came the young American Prince Charming to be immediately conquered by the angel that presided over the Book of Brides. In turn, he set out to lay siege to her heart. He had been previously reported engaged to Lois Wilson, movie actress, and to Ina Claire, former wife of John Gilbert, screen lover, but Baruch gave the lie to all these rumors by the earnestness with which he wooed the London shop-girl. It was inevitable that Winifred should say "yes," her Yankee cavalier was not the kind to take no for an answer, and plans were made for the wedding. But Winifred exercised her woman's prerogative. She changed her mind, a simple announcement from her family stating the marriage would not take place. And young Baruch sailed for his home, disconsolate, but far from beaten.

There followed a long-distance courtship by transatlantic telephone and cable, and the result was that Winifred met Barney last September in Geneva, Switzerland, and married him.

Now, one of the most beautiful brides in America, where she lives with the Baruch family on their Long Island estate, Mrs. Baruch, Jr., recalls with amusement some of the brides who used the "Book of Brides" in her erstwhile place of toil. And out of her recollections she has brought the wedding present racket down to a formula that makes an interesting study.

There are five grades of gifts, she learned, and they can be rated according to the intimacy between the giver and the recipient. For instance, if one desires to give a present to an acquaintance whom one has met not more than three times, at cocktail parties, etc., the expenditure must not exceed $3. For one meeting at a formal dinner party, the ante is raised to $6. For two meetings at house parties the scale ascends to $10. Close friendship rates a present at about $25, and intimate friendship, relationship, social climbing and kindred bribery is assessed at $50 and up.

Young Mrs. Baruch recalls also how some brides-to-be inscribed their names in the book and appended their list of gifts wanted before they'd even caught their man. But in most cases that little oversight was remedied without delay.

Welfare and Relief Mobilization of 1932: "It is indefensible to drain the life blood from our character building organizations, the need for whose services during the emergency cannot be questioned."

GIRL SCOUTS
Girl Scout program is planned to supply leisure time activity for girls from 10 to 18 years of age, and is a supplement to home, school, and church activities.

The Girl Scout activities are varied so that an appeal will be made to all girls, and so that a girl will develop along various lines and not become one sided. Though the activities come under the general heads—home, outdoor, and community service—each of these divisions includes many things intended to develop her ability but to the girl they appear as only fun.

In Iowa City there are nine troops of Girl Scouts, including girls from every locality. Each grade school has a large and active troop, both University, the Iowa City high school, and the Junior high school have troops, there are two troops at St. Patrick's high school, and one troop of senior high school girls. Several of the older girls are assisting in troops where there are younger girls. Because we have such a large number of girls from homes where they have financial difficulties, our Girl Scout council has a "White Elephant sale," profit from this to assist girls who need such help.

Believing that the way we choose to play has great influence upon character, and that the boys and girls of today are forced to constantly make difficult adjustments, the Girl Scout program offers constructive and educational leisure time activities.

No praise adequately tells of the work of the leaders, the smallest part of which is to meet with the girls each week. She constantly plans for their work, and helps each,

Kremlin," Beck said. "He would be inspired or be filled at least with professional jealousy, because while the power of compulsion is greater in the Russian dictator than it will be in the secretary of agriculture if this bill becomes law, yet the two instances seem to differ in degree but not in kind, because it is just as much an offense to constitution-ality government to bribe a man into support of a bill that would be a surrender of the reserved powers of the state as to coerce him by the force of military power."

"Unconstitutional" "I am confident this bill, unless the supreme court departs from precedent, will be declared unconstitutional."

La Guardia described the measure, which would pay the farmer a bounty out of a tax on processing, as "only the first step in the fundamental changes that must be brought about in our economic system."

"The fundamental of this bill is to bring agriculture up to a parity with industry and nothing else," La Guardia said. "Let us assume that the entire burden passes on to the consumer. If commodity prices increase, we are prepared for that, we will demand increased wages."

Assaults Bill Luce, Republican stalwart from Massachusetts, assailed the bill for proposing "to take money to the extent of over $1,000,000 from nine-tenths of the people and give it to one-tenth."

Jones retorted that the bill was not primarily for the aid of farmers, but to help the entire economic situation.

"When farmers are carrying ropes to the courthouse," he said, "when a life insurance company tries to foreclose, the situation is bad and if you don't think so, you'd better think again."

"Some gentlemen talk about lack of enthusiasm over this bill. Did you ever watch a blood transfusion and notice any enthusiasm? The situation is too serious."

Beam of Illinois, one of two Democrats who voted against the bill including the hog provision. "A million and a half of Chicago's people are dependent upon charity," he shouted. "Similar conditions exist everywhere. Pork is a poor man's food. Can you go back to these people and justify a 50 per cent tax on food? It even puts a tax on charity."

S. U. I. Grad Gives Talk to Kiwanis Club

R. A. Dunham, attorney of Clark, S. D., and a graduate of the Iowa college of law of 1904, spoke to the Iowa City Kiwanis club yesterday noon in the Jefferson hotel on "Government and bureaucracy."

The speaker is a brother-in-law of Dr. H. C. Parsons of this city.

During the course of his address Mr. Dunham pointed out the limitations placed on the federal government during the early days of the constitution. He said that it had been originally intended that the federal government should control only diplomatic relations with other countries, the army and navy, the monetary system, post office department and matters of interstate commerce.

The early lawmakers planned that all other powers of government, unless specifically designated as belonging to the federal government, should be given over to the states and their local governments, Mr. Dunham explained.

By its departments and bureaus, employing many thousands of persons, the federal government has increased its position many times in its wide expansion, exclaimed the speaker. He described the reasons for the great increase in local, state and federal taxes.

Local Kiwanians unanimously voted to invite a speaker from the community chest group to talk at their next week's program.
