By GENE THORNE (Sports Editor, The Daily Iowan)

Powered by Howard Bastian, center, and Johnny Barko, forward, who were running under a full head of steam, and flashing the best defensive form shown in the Big Ten this season, Iowa defeated Chicago last night, 42 to 12. The win placed them in a fourth place tie with Wisconsin.

It was the lanky Hawkeye pivot man who provided the fireworks in the first half as he split the net five times from the field, and twice from the free throw line for 12 of his 14 points total. Bastian, working under the basket, flipped in the ball from all directions, and with the aid of his mates, put Iowa into a 24 to 6 lead at the half way mark.

Barko Ties Bastian
Barko, playing his first Western conference game, scored two field goals in the first period, and when Bastian failed to get started again in the second half, took up the heavy scoring duties, and caged four field goals and two free throws, which, added to his pair of buckets in the first half, gave him his 14 points to equal Bastian's total.

Nether Hawkeye finished the game, Bastian going out via the personal foul route with about 10 minutes to go in the second half, and Barko leaving the game in favor of Harold Eshleman a few minutes later. Barko was also out of the game the last part of the opening period when Howard Moffitt entered the contest.

Three Chicago Field Goals
While the above-mentioned pair were enjoying their "hot" scoring evening, the entire Iowa quintet was busily demonstrating the correct method of holding a team to three field goals. Wagner slipped in one bucket early in the first half for the lone Maroon field goal of the period. Parsons, center, and Merrifield, substitute forward, chucked in one each during the second half for the Chicago total.

Parsons was high scorer for the Windy city team, with his one field goal.

Despondent, Kills Self
DAVENPORT (AP)—Ferdinand Keating, 34, who lived on a farm near New Liberty, committed suicide by shooting himself through the head. He is said to have been despondent over financial troubles.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Feb. 6 (AP)—A witness before the state senate highway investigating committee was testifying on alleged irregularities. "Well," he said, "I wouldn't say the tactics were right, I'd say it's doing like Al would do."

England May Suggest New Debt Treaty

Expected to Offer Lump Sum to Clear All Obligations

LONDON, Feb. 6 (AP)—A new British offer for settlement of the American war debt on a definite and final lump basis is expected to result from consultations which Sir Ronald Lindsay, British ambassador to the United States, inaugurated upon his arrival in London this afternoon with the "big five" of the cabinet.

The sums mentioned ranged from $1,250,000,000 to $2,000,000,000 for wiping the World war debt slate clean, the Associated Press learned in well-informed quarters. (The total of Britain's war indebtedness to the United States at present is $4,202,450,000. The London government has paid the United States $2,007,348,298 on the war debts.)

No Announcement Made
A bald communique issued after the British ambassador's conference of an hour and three quarters in the famous white and gold cabinet room gave no hint of what he had told the cabinet "big five"—Prime Minister MacDonald, lord president of the Council Stanley Baldwin, Foreign Secretary Sir John Simon, Chancellor of the Exchequer Neville Chamberlain and Walter Runciman, president of the board of trade. Nor is an official announcement expected here of the success of the ambassador's mission.

Sir Ronald's consultations will continue daily for about a week. "Golden silence" will envelop them, but persons in position to know the situation believe that a new era of Anglo-American debt negotiations dawned today.

Phase Ended
It is stated that what may be called the Chancellor Chamberlain phase of outspoken debt diplomacy is ending. Having influenced British views in the British notes late last year, repeated them in his recent speech at Leeds, and repeated them again for American newspaper correspondents last week, it is believed that Mr. Chamberlain's program now will be merged with more conciliatory cabinet opinion.

The outcome of the new developments may enable Sir Ronald to return to Washington with a comprehensive plan for settling once for all one of the most difficult of all post-war problems.

The ambassador himself began the reign of "golden silence" upon his arrival in Downing street this afternoon after disembarking from the Europa and motoring to London.

"I'm the all American boy and I'm all right"—but he was fined $5 and costs yesterday by Police Judge Charles L. Zager for disturbing the peace.

Senate Committee Remains Unmoved by Barry's Plea

Body Determined to Punish Sergeant-at-Arms

WASHINGTON, Feb. 6 (AP)—David S. Barry's plea that his magazine article charging congressional bribe taking was supported by the assertions of members of the senate left undiminished tonight the senate's determination to punish him by summary dismissal from his post as sergeant-at-arms.

Already under suspension, Barry sat calm and alert today before the senate judiciary committee and, without the nervousness that characterized his testimony before the senate proper last week, pointed to charges similar to his own uttered by Senator Glass of Virginia and Senator Nye of North Dakota.

May Carry Investigation Further
The committee, meanwhile, revealed a disposition to carry its investigation beyond an examination of Barry, forecasting a possible delay in final senate action. It had been directed to report in time for the senate to vote on its recommendations at 4 p.m. tomorrow.

Barry today cited a statement made last spring by Glass that he had documentary proof bankers "hired some congressmen" in fighting a bank bill a few years before.

"If it is an offense to have said what I have said in my article, then not I alone am guilty," Barry said. "Then, during a grueling cross examination, he testified that local college students were taught that congress was corrupt. Members of the committee demanded that the college professor who was teaching this doctrine be halted before them."

No Action Yet
The committee adjourned without taking action, to meet again tomorrow with the college professor on the stand. Barry was directed to return and bring the original copy of his magazine article and correspondence relating to it. It was published in the New Outlook, of which Alfred E. Smith is the editor.

Barry was suspended by the senate last Friday after a dramatic public trial.

The judiciary committee took the case up in executive session today, but after a few minutes called in Barry, who was waiting in the nearby rules committee room with his prepared statement. He was followed into the comparatively small room by a crowd.

France Quits Effort to Balance Budget

PARIS, Feb. 6 (AP)—The attempt to balance the government's budget was temporarily abandoned today by unanimous vote of the cabinet.

The ministers rejected a proposal to reduce the pay of employees of the state and they approved measures which would slightly increase the taxes on gasoline and bank checks.

All told, they approve measures designed to provide $232,000,000, half of which would be in new taxes and half resulting from economies in civil expenditures. This measure will be operative until another budget project can be drafted.

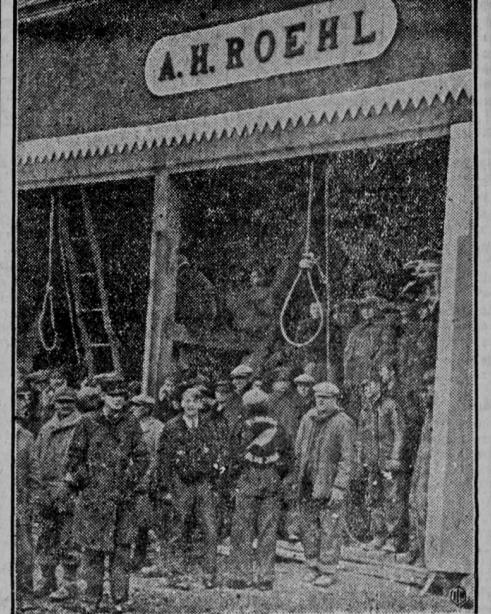

Woman Kills Self
SIOUX CITY (AP)—Mrs. Nina Conkey, 65, ended her life by shooting herself through the heart. She is said to have been humiliated because she had to accept aid from the county. She also had been in poor health.

Meet Your Next Door Neighbor, Mr. Farmer

Editors Note—What do you know about the Johnson county farm situation? How are farmers in this county getting by? Today marks the beginning of a series of five articles dealing with the farmer and his problems.

BY DON PRYOR
City Editor, The Daily Iowan
Now take this farming business... "Take it yourself," say the farmers.

"HANGED IF I'LL BUY A FARM!"

Farmers of northwestern Ohio are shown as they guarded the property on the farm of A. H. Roehl, near Malinta, Ohio, when a sheriff's sale was scheduled following the foreclosure of a mortgage. Roehl's neighbors had come to the sale provided with nickels and dimes to do the bidding in the manner that has become popular in the farm belt. But the finance company holding the mortgage on the farm granted a 60-day moratorium on all farm loans shortly before the sale was scheduled to begin. Note the noose, hanging as a grim warning to "land-snatchers." Scenes like this were enacted recently all through the farm belt of the midwest.

Hitler's Government Sweeps Aside Opposition in Prussia

Looks Confidently for Majority Following Next Election

BERLIN, Feb. 6 (AP)—Chancellor Adolf Hitler's new government today swept aside all barriers that had blocked its plans for the election of a new Prussian diet at the same time that the entire nation is choosing a new Reichstag next month.

The government accomplished this end with the aid of President von Hindenburg, who ousted Otto Braun, the elected premier of Prussia, and vested his powers in Vice Chancellor Franz von Papen, who is the federal commissioner for the state.

Vote Dissolution
This accomplished, Lieut. Col. von Papen and Hans Kerrl, the Nazi president of the diet, voted for dissolution of the legislature over the objections of Conrad Adenauer, president of the Prussian state council and third member of the diet triumvirate.

Last week the diet and the diet triumvirate—on which Premier Braun then sat—rejected a dissolution demand from the federal government. Under the Prussian constitution the triumvirate alone may vote dissolution and that end was gained by ousting Braun and putting in his place von Papen. See Wane of Nationalism

The Hitlerite campaign for the Reichstag voting is based on the theory that a wave of nationalism now is sweeping Germany and, for that reason, the government may confidently look for a majority in the new Reichstag. Chancellor Hitler desired the dissolution of the Prussian diet in the belief that the same wave of nationalism would determine the outcome of the voting for a new legislature.

Thus, if the government succeeds in carrying out its plan, it not only will have majority control of the national legislature but also of the legislature of the principal state of the Reich.

Police Seek Kidnap Victim

Professor's Wife Held for Ransom of $10,000

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 6 (AP)—Released by kidnapers who had held her captive since last night, Mrs. Walter F. Skeele, 65, wife of the music dean of the University of Southern California, returned to her home in a hysterical condition at 8 o'clock tonight.

BULLETIN
LOS ANGELES, Feb. 6 (AP)—Released by kidnapers who had held her captive since last night, Mrs. Walter F. Skeele, 65, wife of the music dean of the University of Southern California, returned to her home in a hysterical condition at 8 o'clock tonight.

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 6 (AP)—A frail woman of 65, with graying hair, was sought by 500 police today as the result of a strange kidnaping last night which officers attributed to amateur students of crime. An abduction note demanded $10,000 ransom.

The victim is Mary Skeele, a professor who for 35 years has been dean of the college of music of the University of Southern California.

The strange factors in the case, police said, are first an extremely long ransom note which indicated the kidnapers are educated, knew considerable about the family and possessed innumerable tell tale clues that no organized kidnap gang would leave; second, that the victim's family is without means to meet ransom demands; and third that the family members say they have no inkling of who would do such a thing.

A coincidence is that the rendezvous was at the same place as that of the kidnaping of Mrs. Skeele.

The new year began for the Girl Scout council last night at a meeting in the home of Mrs. Frederick Kent, 302 Richards street.

Mrs. John Briggs acted as assistant hostess.

It was the final council meeting for Mrs. H. J. Dane, Mrs. A. C. Trowbridge, Mrs. Rufus H. Fitzgerald, and Mrs. Frank Russell, who finished their three year terms.

Their places on the council will be taken by Mrs. L. G. Lawyer, Mrs. O. E. Schlanbusch, and Mrs. W. T. Goodwin, who were present at last night's meeting.

Ann Ross, field staff member of the national Girl Scout organization, stressed the need for long term planning in all troops and the organization as a whole.

Plans for the coming campers' rally and reunion to be held in Iowa Union were discussed and the program outlined for next summer's camp.

Professors May Teach Unemployed

Plans to offer courses of training in civics, government, economics, and other subjects to Iowa City's unemployed under the tutelage of university professors will be outlined at a meeting in the American Legion Community building at 8 p.m. Thursday.

All unemployed men and women in the city are expected to attend the meetings. If sufficient interest is shown in the project, it was indicated last night that a schedule of lectures will be arranged.

Will Hold Office Until Successor Named for Post

Dean Williams first tendered his resignation from the board Jan. 9, and the decision to accept was made when he renewed his request.

The resignation from the board of Prof. Henning Larsen, another member of the eligibility committee, was also accepted, President Jessup's statement said.

Dean Williams first tendered his resignation from the board Jan. 9, and the decision to accept was made when he renewed his request.

The action of the two men followed the decision of the Iowa board of reversing the ruling of the eligibility committee on the case of Ivan Blackmer and Eddie Break, Hawkeye basketball stars.

The committee, composed of Dean Williams, Professor Larsen and Prof. F. G. Higbee, ruled on Dec. 29 that Break and Blackmer were ineligible for Big Ten competition.

On Jan. 3, the entire athletic board met and rescinded the action of the committee, declaring the two athletes eligible, pending an investigation by the conference. Later the Big Ten declared the men ineligible, and denied their petitions for reinstatement.

Professor Larsen tendered his resignation the following morning, although it was not made public until a few days ago.

Professor Higbee, the third member of the committee, has stated that he had not tendered a resignation, and will not quit the board, except at the request of President Jessup.

Been Member Since 1929
Dean Williams, who heads the college of engineering, has been a member of the board since 1929. He is also Iowa's faculty representative in the Western conference.

President Jessup yesterday was uncertain as to how soon the successors of the two resigned members would be named, but indicated that the selections would be made before long.

Dean Williams will continue to serve on the board until his successor is named, President Jessup's statement said.

Hawley Asks New Values in Education

Pointing out that the seriousness of the times demands that we re-evaluate our values, Prof. Charles A. Hawley of the school of religion addressed the student group at the Congregational church Sunday evening on "Religion and higher education."

Professor Hawley said that we are beginning to see that the objective of religion is the same as that of education: "To produce character, to help men and women to live the good, the satisfying, the complete life."

The idea of the public as to persons who graduate from high school or college was discussed by Professor Hawley. "Too often," he said, "we feel that persons graduating from high school are immune from crime. The difficulty lies in the fact that education is many times divorced from any character building influence."

"Organized religion is too often to blame for this. In the past religion has emphasized its differences and held its dogma to be more important than training for good citizenship," the professor said.

The group meets every Sunday evening at 5:30 p.m. for supper with a fellowship hour at 6:30 p.m. Fellowship singing and a round table discussion of questions raised from the sermon of the morning will be started Sunday.

Rabbi Makes Plea for Jewish Territory

A plea for the establishment of a Jewish national territory in Palestine was made by Rabbi Aaron Lefkowitz of Davenport, at a meeting of the Avukah study circle in the river room of Iowa Union Sunday evening.

Prejudice against the Jews exists because they are not recognized as a national group, he declared. Such recognition can come only with the establishment of a geographical unit such as Palestine.

Judaism as a religion is on the wane throughout the world, Rabbi Lefkowitz said. There is great danger that Jews will become agnostics unless there is a swing to Zionism, the Palestine movement, he concluded.

Erich Funke Gives Speech in Old Capitol

Personal contacts with Eduard Sievers, German scholar and phoneticist, were described by Prof. Erich Funke, acting head of the German department, in an address on "Two Faces of German Scholarship—Grimm and Sievers" in Old Capitol yesterday afternoon.

Professor Funke told of his meeting with the old scholar two years ago, in Leipzig. He described him as an exceedingly keen student and analyst.

Sievers supplemented the work begun by Jacob Grimm, who, with his brother, compiled "Grimm's Fairy Tales." Grimm made a study of the German language, the laws of which he incorporated in his "German Grammar."

He planned the compilation of a dictionary on such a vast scale that it has not yet been completed. Grimm, himself, completed only four letters of the alphabet before his death in 1863. Professor Funke said.

Sievers, who was born in 1850, became interested in "fundamental problems of German phonetics, and carries on his work with unrelenting detail and intensity, the speaker concluded.

ness or industry, has grown rich, and that in Russia, where riches might well be styled the "verboten." Even 100,000 prisoners of the Russian penal colonies where death might have seemed sweet under former conditions have caught the spirit, and are carving out a canal as big as the Panama, which they will finish in late spring of this year.

Towns of industrial activity spring up almost overnight, according to Professor Kunitz; schools in the district are better than in any other part of Russia, and civic centers, even a lone cinema, provide home happiness. Phosphates, aluminum, and lumber are the riches of the territory, and will be carried by the new canal, the need for which was seen 300 years ago by the czars.

Perhaps a new five year plan could be constructed for Russia on this thesis which would eclipse the old. Expansion into the wasted areas of the earth, even though it would require huge reclamation projects to make them livable, would be better not only for Russia but for other nations and continents. It seems inevitable that such wastes must be placed in use, especially since they offer the gifts of nature that have been always untouched.

Why Not? WATERLOO has been in the vanguard of most Iowa cities in the matter of progressive handling of the unusual unemployment relief problems of the last few years. It was among the first cities of the state to establish county stores where the unemployed could obtain goods in exchange for their labor. Now the Unemployed Relief club announces the issuance of "work hour scrip" to be used in a system of barter and exchange.

Workers will be paid for their labor in scrip, which will be accepted for the purchase of goods. Prices of all goods will be fixed on the basis of the hours required to produce them. The scrip will be issued and accepted only within the club. One of the greatest advantages of the plan, aside from the fact that it enables men to earn a living by their labor, is that it instills in the members of the club a feeling of confidence and independence that is impossible under any form of pure charity.

Organization of such a club might be a worthy task for influential and community minded men and women of Iowa City. There are hundreds of unemployed men and women in the city who would be more than anxious to take advantage of it.

Epitaph A LAME DUCK'S swan song, if such a mixture of birds is permissible in one reference, was the contribution of Ruth Bryan Owen to a luncheon given for women in congress by the National Women's Press club. Mrs. Owen feared that her verse was not dignified enough to be read into the records of house and senate, but she was overruled by Representative Florence Kahn, California Republican, and Senator Hattie Caraway.

So here are some of the verses in the records of the congress: "To members of the coming session We leave what's left of the depression, With 50,000 tomes appended, Telling just how it can be ended.

"We'll let them exercise their talents On making that budget balance, And pointing out with no delaying, A tax the public won't mind paying.

"To make this simple as can be We leave them to technocracy, To them we're leaving the analysis Of beer producing no paralysis." All of which seems to take the situation well in hand.

The Senate Discovers a Critic (From The Chicago Daily Tribune) David S. Barry, sergeant at arms, as yet, of the United States senate, seems to have taken a large swig of that most dangerous of intoxicants, printer's ink. The ordinary man frequently is much safer if left alone with a bottle of whisky and a glass than he is if he finds himself at his leisure with a bottle of ink and a pen.

Mr. Barry is a naive experimenter in the field of criticism. He thought he could use one of the oldest tricks of the trade, which is to drop vitriol into a dish of honey and thereby make the victim like it. Thus Mr. Barry thought his statement that there were some crooks and grafters in the senate could be made palatable to his own employers, the members of this same senate, because he said that there were not nearly as many crooks as the general public thought there were.

Book Bits—(From The Cahaba, by Thornton Wilder) But after all, we are in the world. I laughed. I shouted with a laughter that would have been insulting, if it hadn't contained a touch of hysteria. Oh, I thank thee, dear Father Vaini, I said to myself. I thank thee for that word. How clear it makes all Italy, all Europe. Never try to do anything against the bent of human nature. It came from a colony guided by exactly the opposite principle.

BEHIND THE SCENES - IN HOLLYWOOD - By HARRISON CARROLL SCREEN COMMENT FILM SCANDAL STUDIO GOSSIP

HOLLYWOOD—Ladies, try tight-rope walking for that bothersome embonpoint. There is no better exercise for the figure, or so I am assured by Lillian Harvey, who rates a special bungalow at Fox and whose slim, blonde beauty shortly will adorn the musical, "My Lips Betray." Miss Harvey, I venture to say, is the only feminine star in Hollywood who actually is at home on the tight wire. She mastered the trick in four weeks for a single scene in a German picture. Imagine what would happen if one of our ranking beauties were asked to do the same. But Miss Harvey is an inveterate worker and a jack-of-all arts. "It wasn't so difficult," she tells me, "because I happen to skate rather well and I also toe dance." We didn't go into it, but this blue-eyed English girl also sings and plays the piano. "Tight-rope walking is really splendid for the body; it exercises every muscle and teaches balance," observed Miss Harvey. "I kept it up in Berlin after the picture and I'm going to have a wire strung in the house I've taken in Beverly Hills." By now you've heard that Miss Harvey was the bright star of "Congress Dances"; that she denies her reported marriage to the German actor, Willie Fritsch; that she owns a white racing car which is the talk of the film colony; that she brought a special gown designer over from Germany; that she has put her gorgeous jewelry in a bank safe deposit bank here—except a 24-carat diamond solitaire which she wears on her engagement finger. And that goes in tomorrow. What impresses her most about Hollywood? The comparative comfort of picture making. Says she: "Here I have people to teach me to dance, to sing. I have this beautiful bungalow (you should see the white desk-lamp with the ermine tail tassels). And we are in no rush. During the last two years in Germany, I have been out of makeup only 14 days. This is like a vacation to me." You ought to feel the firm handshake this girl gives you. They like her out at Fox. They say she's regular. Lunch hour the other day found Harry Brand and a certain well-known writer in a Hollywood restaurant. The writer ordered sweet-and-sour salmon. It wasn't seasoned to his taste so he summoned the waitress. "Here, taste this," he ordered. The waitress hesitated. "Oh, so that's how it tastes!" exclaimed the writer. "You can dish it out but you can't taste it!" HOLLYWOOD PARADE Intimates of Charlie Chaplin say that the comedian would like to have the custody of his children six months out of the year. Some kind of court action is brewing. Did the dancers goggle at the Beverly Wilshire when Mae Murray, Mary McCormick and their two Princes M'Divanis, showed up in the gold room the other evening. Too bad about Marion Nixon and Eddie Hillman. They tried very hard to make a go of their marriage but it didn't work out.

Parsons College Tilt Takes Place Here Saturday

Debates with three colleges in the freshman intercollegiate debate schedule were announced yesterday by Prof. A. Craig Baird, director of university debate.

The first of these will be next Saturday, when a series of three debates will be held with Parsons college here. The teams will argue on the subject of cancellation of all war debts and reparations.

Northwestern university freshmen will be the next opponents of the first year speakers. This debate has been arranged for Feb. 16, and will be held before an assembly of high school students at Kewanee, Illinois.

In the debate with Northwestern, the speakers will discuss the subject of reform of and local taxation to eliminate the general property tax. Students of Kewanee high school will judge the teams by casting ballots on the merits of the debate.

On Feb. 18, two debates will be held against Washington junior college, here. The subject of cancellation of war debts will again be argued, teams from each school taking both sides of the question.

Debates with other schools are now being arranged. Professor Baird said. The complete program will include contests with several junior colleges in surrounding towns.

This year marks the sixth year of the freshman intercollegiate debate program. Last year freshman speakers organized the Gavel club which has continued in existence.

Eight men have been working on the first year debate squad, and speakers for the various debates will be selected from this group shortly, Professor Baird said.

Engineers Leave for South

Nolan Page and Carl Jetter, junior engineers with the United States war department here, left this morning for Vicksburg, Miss., to visit the United States waterway experiment station for the week.

Nebraska had 22 per cent fewer cattle on feed as of August 1 this year than a year ago, compared to average reductions of 5.1 per cent in other corn belt states.

Far-Away, Industrial Germany Linked to University of Iowa Through Efforts of Institute of International Education

By ROBERT H. INGRAM

In factory-filled Germany, teeming with commercial and industrial life, not long ago were Andrew Luksch and Arthur Ippen, engineering students.

Six thousands miles away in the midst of a quiet, rural life was the University of Iowa.

In between, in New York city, was the Institute of International Education, which strives to foster better world relations by bringing students of various countries together in daily life.

Now, through the efforts of this organization, Luksch and Ippen are graduate students, majoring in hydraulics engineering, at the University of Iowa. The former, whose home is in Hamburg, is in his second year here. Ippen lives in Aachen, and came to the United States only last fall.

Plan Works

This plan for "fostering better world relations" does work, the German students agree. They pointed out recently that a country is no longer "foreign" to one who has studied there. He becomes vitally interested in the welfare of any land in which he lives nine months of the year.

"Further than that," Luksch added, "the plan broadens personally every student who takes advantage of it. It deepens his understanding of life just to live in a country different from his own, but to attend school there is a vastly greater cultural influence."

"A student who has studied abroad is looked up to in our country just as in America. Now there are few jobs in Germany, but when business improves, we shall probably find it easier to obtain positions than men who have had only German technical training."

Comment on Differences

Both men commented on the difference between German and American teaching methods, the "academic freedom" of the former contrasted with our compulsory class attendance. This does not, they aver, lead to laziness, since most German students are about two years older and hence more serious than those of the United States.

Many subjects taught in universities here, Ippen explained, are taught in technical schools in Europe. Engineering, for example, is never part of the German university curriculum. Instead special schools, organized like universities, are devoted to the subject, as to all other professions.

Speaking of the German nation, they were agreed that the late war had unified the people, created in them a greater national consciousness. The conditions may even lead, they feel, to some sort of national

Iowa Fraternity Men Capture First Honors in University Studies

That fraternity men have higher scholastic ratings than non-fraternity men, at the University of Iowa, is shown in a recent survey of the National Interfraternity conference, according to figures released yesterday by the Associated Press.

The same applies to two other Iowa colleges included in the survey: Iowa State college and Iowa Wesleyan college. The report was compiled by the scholarship committee of the conference.

During the 1931-32 school year, fraternity men at the university averaged 2.203 as compared to the 2.153 average of the other group.

Scout Leader Opens Speech Series Here

Before a class of 20 university women, Ann Roos, a member of the Girl Scout national field training staff, yesterday launched a series of lectures on the leadership which may be developed through work with Girl Scout troops.

Miss Roos will be in Iowa City until Feb. 18, conducting classes on Mondays, Wednesdays, and Fridays. From here she will go to the Universities of Illinois, Minnesota, and Missouri, and to Kansas State Agricultural college, where she will instruct similar classes.

The aim of the course, as Miss Roos points out, is to acquaint young women with opportunities for leadership by providing both laboratory experience and theory.

"The smart thing to do, if you are planning to teach, is to learn the needs of your town, and be ready and willing to become a leader," Miss Roos told the class. "Leadership is needed by welfare organizations now more than at any other time. Recreation for children is needed during times of depression. All who will become leaders may well emulate Mrs. Juliette Law, who sold her ancestral Gordon pearls so

Iowa Journal Features Articles on Iowa National Monuments

Three articles on the subject of national monuments in Iowa are featured in the current issue of the Iowa Journal of History and Politics, quarterly publication of the State Historical society, which will be distributed tomorrow.

The question of establishment of national monuments in Iowa arose after a proposal for the establishment of a national park in the northeastern part of the state was refused. These monuments would consist of Indian mounds which abound in certain sections of Iowa.

Traces Development

In an article, "Historical settings of the mound region in northeast Iowa," William J. Peterson, research associate of the society, traces the development of this section of the state since the coming of Marquette in 1673. He touches upon events in Iowa history to which the Indian mounds remain as lasting monuments.

The archaeological value of the mounds is described in "Shall Iowa have national monuments?" by Prof. Charles R. Keyes of Cornell

Describes Structure

"The geology and topography of northeast Iowa," by James H. Lees, assistant state geologist, describes the geological structure of the region around McGregor and Marquette, touching upon the scenic features which led to the proposal for a national park there. Northeast Iowa he calls the "Switzerland of Iowa."

The final article in the issue presents a group of letters by J. W. Denison, for whom the town of Denison, in Crawford county, was named.

The three articles dealing with the national monuments have been reprinted in a separate pamphlet to supply the demand of those who do not desire the entire journal.

Ripley Explanations

A matchbox tongue: Zelman Gogel, who is able to light a match by striking it against his tongue, can do so through a curious development of the conical papillae of the tongue. He was examined by Dr. Bruce, associated with Queen's college in Benares, who found that the papillae of the subject were oversized and of a hard, horny structure. He demonstrated his curious skill with matches repeatedly, and the examiner reported that his sensation of taste was apparently atrophied.

WMT to Broadcast Memorial Service

Broadcasting of a special memorial service at Iowa State Teachers college next Sunday, in honor of the late Homer H. Seerley, former president-emeritus of that college who died Dec. 23, was announced yesterday.

The address and musical program of the service will be broadcast from 1 to 2 p.m. over WMT, Waterloo, with President O. R. Latham, Prof. G. W. Walters, Prof. Eva May Luse, and Benjamin Boardman, all of Iowa State Teachers college, speaking.

Stock Market Prices Show Slight Gains

NEW YORK, Feb. 6 (AP)—Stocks managed to wiggle upward in today's late trading, thanks chiefly to a stronger wheat market and to expectations, later realized, that General Motors would vote a regular dividend.

During the morning and early afternoon the list settled sluggishly, but rallies were fairly steady and at no time did offerings show any inclination to increase. Extreme declines were fractions to about a point. In many instances these were eventually converted into net gains of similar extent.

Utilities were rather weak and failed to become particularly emboldened over the late rally. Bonds worked lower led by U. S. governments.

Rails firmed cautiously when the market finally declined to advance. Lackawanna, New York Central, Santa Fe, Union Pacific and Baltimore & Ohio finished with modest gains; Delaware & Hudson and Chesapeake & Ohio eased a little.

North American, Pacific Gas and Public Service of New Jersey likewise edged off, but Consolidated Gas of New York, Standard Gas, American Water Works were steady to firm by closing time. In Industrials, General Motors picked up fractionally as time for its dividend meeting approached, while U. S. Steel

Grain Market Prices Gain With Buying

CHICAGO, Feb. 6 (AP)—Increasingly active buying hoisted wheat prices almost 2 cents a bushel today. Frigid temperatures prevailing and a forecast of worse tonight over the entire domestic winter wheat area threatened severe damage, the crop generally being minus any protecting blanket of snow. A reduction of 2,555,000 bushels in the United States wheat visible supply total today was larger than expected.

Wheat closed strong at but little below the day's top figures, 1 1/4-1 5/8 above Saturday's finish, corn 1 1/4-1 3/4 up, oats 3/8-5/8 advanced, and provisions unchanged to a rise of 5 cents.

World available exportable supplies of wheat were officially estimated at 11,000,000 bushels less than a year ago, with new winter wheat acreage in 15 countries showing a 5 per cent decrease.

Corn and oats borrowed firmness from wheat. Closing indemnities: Wheat—May 47 1/8-1/4, 48 3/8-1/2; July 47 5/8-3/4, 48 7/8-4/9; September 48 7/8, 50 1/8. Corn—May 25 3/4, 26 1/4; July 27 3/8, 27 7/8.

has dropped from 155 to about 107. In other words, the purchasing power of the farmer's products has been cut in half and then some. When costs of rents, insurance, taxes, payment of land, and other debts are taken into account, the farmer's purchasing power has been reduced to 40 or 45 per cent of the pre-war level. And all the while the cost of things the farmer must buy remain at about 150 per cent of the pre-war mark.

Of course the picture isn't all so dismal. There are 671 farms in the county unencumbered with mortgages. Owners of many of these have been able so far to keep their heads above water, to meet their taxes and have a little left over for a new shirt now and then. But a survey of the county shows

Five Contests for Hawkeyes on Week End

Basketball and wrestling teams of the University of Iowa will be the most active during the next seven days when five sports contests appear on the Hawkeye calendar.

After playing Chicago here Monday, the quintet plays two of its most attractive home games within 48 hours: Purdue, the Big Ten's defending champion, is the opponent of Saturday, while Wisconsin's first division team appears Monday, Feb. 13.

The wrestlers, weakened by the loss of veteran point-winners in two classes, grapple Cornell at Mt. Vernon Tuesday evening, and on Saturday travel to the University of Chicago for the second and last conference dual meet.

Off to a fast start by ducking Chicago, 39 to 36, at Chicago Saturday, Iowa's swimming team faces less severe competition when Wisconsin consists come here Saturday afternoon. The weather, however, will determine whether the meet actually will occur, for if driving conditions are not good, Wisconsin's team cannot come.

THE CHALLENGE OF LOVE by WARWICK DEEPIING

SYNOPSIS Sam Perkins, Dr. Montague Threadgold's bottle boy, meets his employer's latest assistant, Dr. John Wolfe on the latter's arrival at Navestock in a wet winter dusk. Sam notes mentally that the new doctor's luggage is very light as he conducts the stranger to the Threadgold house, where he meets Dr. Threadgold—chubby, sleek, and "the most affable of men." Conducted to his top-story room, Wolfe swiftly recalls his seven years of work and study—how he earned his way by boxing exhibitions as a country fair "bruiser," as a tavern singer, and as a railroad laborer. And now, after all, Wolfe is almost penniless. At dinner, Wolfe impresses Dr. Threadgold's wife as a hungry, "raw gawk of a man... silent and sulky." She is talking on medical training and mentions Sir Joshua Kermody, senior physician at Guy's Hospital, as an ideal instructor. The meal is interrupted when Sir George Griggs, profane from pain, arrives with his shoulder hurt after being thrown from his hunter. The blustery baronet is infuriated over Dr. Threadgold's dilatory diagnosis. Wolfe shows skill in stripping the coat off the hunt victim who turns to the young doctor and asks Wolfe to attend to him. Dr. Threadgold permits Wolfe to set Sir George's shoulder, which he does quite expertly. Afterwards, Dr. Threadgold tells his wife, "he has some ability, but he is a little forward... I shall have to modify that."

CHAPTER SIX People with a sense of the picturesque, who drove for the first time over Tarring Moor and saw Navestock—the town of the southern midlands—lying far away in the green valley below them, thought of it as a dream town, hidden away among innocent, wooded hills. Even in later years, when a more restless generation began to run about the world in a mad hurry to admire anything that was "antique" and " quaint," Navestock remained the quintessence of "quaintness."

Artists came to paint its old inns, its stretches of red roof, and the mellow bloom of its alleys. It still kept much of its mystery, much of its crowded colour, much of the "quaintness" that earnest and dreamy persons seek so lovingly.

From the distance Navestock looked like a red heart transfixed by a silver bodkin, red roofs on either side of the River Wraith. It was compact, and crowded, all mellowed to a warm maturity, from the garden houses on Peachy Hill to the hovels by the river alleys. The Buller Beast of the late 'sixties and the 'seventies had not then scented the town and scattered filth in the fields and gardens.

Those people who were in search of old-world quaintness found pieces of many centuries jumbled together like the pieces of a puzzle. It is to be feared that Romance hides a number of dirty garments under her gay-coloured cloak, and that Navestock was a thoroughly dirty and corrupt old town. She may have had pots of musk in her windows, but her back yards, her alleys, and her lanes were full of many odours.

Local Group Hears Speech by de Kiewiet

Chamber of Commerce Meets for Luncheon Yesterday

War debts to the English represent a legal obligation, an obligation which as long as it stands cannot be disregarded, according to Prof. C. W. de Kiewiet of the history department, who spoke before members of the Chamber of Commerce at their luncheon in the American Legion Community building yesterday.

The English fear a drastic step which is not legally sanctioned, and would hesitate to repudiate an obligation once assumed, he said.

With a life spent largely in a British dominion, and the last eight months of study in England as his background, Professor de Kiewiet summed up the British situation in regard to England itself, and to the United States.

Traces Developments He traced the developments which have brought about the British attitude on payment of war debts, and maintenance of the gold standard. Briefly he outlined party behavior during the last 10 years, and pointed out events which have culminated in the power of the conservative party.

"Observers," he said, "differ widely in their comments on English affairs of today."

These comments he pointed out as ranging from fawning affairs are "desperate but fundamentally sound," to the claim that they are "thoroughly rotten" and that the ruling class has deserted the nation.

"However," he said, "all are agreed on the English national unity."

Cites Examples As examples he spoke of the strike of 1925 which, although serious, resulted in very little loss of property and in little disorder. In contrast to other nations, he said, little criticism was made of the recent $95,000,000 payment on the war debts.

"In England," said Professor de Kiewiet, "I have seen property owners standing in line waiting not only to pay present taxes but also to pay in advance taxes. Which," was the added comment, "is something that has not yet generally occurred in this country."

Describing himself as an observer looking over the tops of dusty documents from the nineteenth century and therefore not to be taken too seriously, the speaker said that the British government seems "curiously feeble, and impotent" in dealing with severe internal problems.

Of problems still to be met he cited the gold standard, and unemployment.

Mentions War Debts Of the war debts Professor de Kiewiet said, "The English feel that some arrangement must be made. With an adverse trade balance of $78,000,000 a year in regard to the United States, they do not feel that they can indefinitely extract the necessary sums for payment from the taxpayer."

They feel also, he asserted, that the United States is taking an unfair advantage of the costs arising from the war. They feel, he said, that the great wave of American prosperity was due to the fact that other nations were forced to buy in this country. They say that "practically the whole of the billions borrowed were spent here," and that therefore some allowances should be made.

He cited as a possible guarantee, that England would continue to pay as long as possible, the fact that she also is a debtor nation, and would therefore hesitate to sanction a step which might endanger her own collections.

However, he said, as at no time in the last 60 years, "the British cabinet rules the country. Prime Minister MacDonald is now more responsible to the king than to parliament, and the British are in a position to take revolutionary steps impossible in the United States."

Monoxide Gas Killed Pair, Attorney Says OMAHA, Feb. 6 (AP)—County Attorney Henry Beal, ex-officio coroner, announced officially today that carbon monoxide gas caused the death of Mrs. Rosemary Wallin, 18, and Bernard Kinney, 21, well-known Omahans, whose partly frozen bodies were found in the latter's car here yesterday.

Beal's announcement followed a postmortem examination of Kinney's body by a coroner's physician. He said he would make no official findings as to the motive, whether both intended to kill themselves, or Kinney killed Mrs. Wallin and himself without her knowing she was going to her death, or the deaths were accidental. There will be no inquest.

Officials Approve Northern Air Route ST. PAUL, Minn., Feb. 6 (AP)—Col. L. H. Britton, vice president of the Northwest Airways, Inc., today said a test flight had convinced him the proposed northern federal air mail route between here and Seattle was practical under even the worst winter weather conditions.

He was accompanied part of the way by Mrs. Amelia Earhart Putnam, whom he said shared his opinion.

The route was laid out last year by the department of commerce.

105 Actions Filed in This Court Term

If the number of civil actions filed in district court is any indicator of prosperity or depression, conditions are about the same now as they were a year ago.

One hundred and five new civil actions were filed for the February term of court which opened yesterday with District Judge J. P. Gaffney of Williamsburg presiding. The February term last year saw a total of 115 new actions, 10 more than the number filed for the current term.

The November terms for 1931 and 1932 had approximately the same number of new cases, 103 for the term in 1931 and 104 for the corresponding term in 1932. The May, 1932, term had 157 new cases, while 226 were filed for the September period.

Time will tell how the May and September terms of last year will compare with those terms for 1933.

Post Office to Issue New Anniversary Stamp Series Soon

New three cent stamps commemorating the two hundredth anniversary of the settlement of Georgia and in honor of General Oglethorpe, the founder of the colony, will soon be issued from the post offices of the United States, according to a federal bulletin received by Charles A. Bowman, postmaster.

The stamps will be printed in purple ink and will bear a likeness of General Oglethorpe wearing a coat of armor. On a white ribbon directly above the base panel the name of the general will appear in dark Gothic letters. On either side of the head will be the dates, "1733" and "1933."

Bailiff Postpones Auction WATERLOO (AP)—George Essex, municipal court bailiff, indefinitely postponed an auction sale of chattels belonging to Peter J. Wierck, farmer living 15 miles northeast of here. It was indicated that satisfaction of a landlord's lien on the chattels held by T. F. Cunningham of Waterloo, would be settled by agreement.

Senator George, Democrat, Georgia, said he would go before the committee, of which he is not a member, and urge that the committee report as a companion measure to the allotment bill a plan which he outlined as follows:

The government would form a "pool" of all the cotton which is controlled by the farm board, secretary of agriculture or other government agencies. This was said to total about 3,500,000 bales.

Producers then would be given an option on a share of this cotton and in return would reduce their 1933 production by the same amount.

Anticipate Price Gain The option could be exercised on August 15, by which time, proponents of the plan believe, the price would have risen so that the participating producer, receiving the difference between the present and the August 15 price, would make a profit.

Senator George expressed to reporters the view that such a policy of production control enacted by the federal government would lead to similar action by bankers financing crops.

In addition, he pointed out, the $90,000,000 crop production loan bill just approved by President Hoover gives the secretary of agriculture authority to require borrowers to cut acreage up to 30 per cent. He added that the agricultural credit corporations could apply a similar policy.

Senate Pace Gains Speed on Aid Plans

Committees Take Steps for Action on All Measures

WASHINGTON, Feb. 6 (AP)—With less than a month of the session remaining, senate committees considering farm relief measures tonight put an end to a torrent of testimony and began the actual task of preparing legislation for submission to the senate.

As hearings terminated on the farm price "parity" bill, the agriculture committee was called into executive session for Wednesday to rewrite the house approved measure in the interest of simplification and general improvement.

Consider Program Already confronted with vivid testimony as to the acuteness of the farm mortgage debt situation, a special banking subcommittee considering that phase of the agricultural problem was summoned by Chairman Fletcher, Democrat, Florida, to meet behind closed doors tomorrow to decide whether it would not be well to concentrate on an emergency relief measure and leave to the next congress the task of enacting a comprehensive program.

An emergency proposal which has received the approval of many senators is sponsored by Senator Hull, Democrat, Tenn.

May Lend $500,000,000 As revised by him today, it provides that the Reconstruction corporation may lend up to $500,000,000 at 4 per cent to holders of farm mortgages to cover their borrowers delinquent taxes, interest and installments on condition the mortgage holder will agree not to foreclose for two years.

Originally the Hull legislation provided for loans up to $1,000,000,000 and proposed to lend the money to the mortgagee for the purpose of making payments and receiving agreement not to foreclose, instead of having the Construction corporation lend directly to the mortgagee.

Will Push Bill This appeared tonight to be the bill which the committee members would decide to push.

In a hearing before the banking subcommittee today, Senator Shipstead, Farm-Labor, Minnesota, urged a bill he has introduced under which the government would refinance all farm indebtedness at a low interest rate, taking up privately held mortgages in return for long term government bonds and granting an immediate "moratorium" on payments.

The day also revealed that some southern senators are preparing to urge the agriculture committee when it meets on the farm price parity bill on Wednesday to approve an entirely different measure designed to raise the price of cotton and cut down the surplus.

Urge New Measure Senator George, Democrat, Georgia, said he would go before the committee, of which he is not a member, and urge that the committee report as a companion measure to the allotment bill a plan which he outlined as follows:

Congress Honors Memory of Coolidge at Ceremonies

Senate, House Meet in Joint Session to Pay Tribute

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5 (AP)—With impressive ceremonies, congress today honored the memory of Calvin Coolidge.

Senate and house met in joint session, with President Hoover, high officials of the government and the diplomatic corps present to pay homage to the late president.

A hush in vivid contrast with the turbulent scenes the house chamber has known in recent weeks fell upon the throng as Chief Justice Arthur P. Rugg of the Massachusetts supreme court delivered an eulogy to his life long friend.

Sits Before Rostrom President Hoover sat in front of the rostrum, his arms folded and his head bowed. Before him was Vice President Curtis and Speaker John N. Garner, who sat to the Kansan's left on the speaker's dais. On Mr. Hoover's right were the members of his cabinet, and to his left were Chief Justice Hughes and the associate justices of the supreme court.

Speaker Garner assembled the house immediately at noon and Vice President Curtis and the senate entered. Garner surrendered his gavel to Mr. Curtis, who rapped and said: "Mournd by All"

"The two houses of congress and their invited guests are assembled to pay tribute to a great man who was a popular president—a man who was loved and is mourned by all the people—Calvin Coolidge."

Hankins Gets Life Term for Murder in Minnesota Court

MINNEAPOLIS, Feb. 6 (AP)—Leonard Hankins, convicted murderer and bank robber, was just another state penitentiary inmate tonight.

Officers hurried him to the Stillwater prison, 30 miles away, a half hour after Judge W. W. Bardwell imposed a life term, prescribed by law for first degree murder.

A jury Saturday convicted him on that charge, brought as a result of one of three deaths caused by the $12,300 robbery of the Third Northwestern National bank last December.

Weeping as the judge questioned him, Hankins insisted he was innocent and said enemies in Kentucky had "framed" him in Paducah, where he was convicted for robbery, and also here.

Asked whether he took part in the holdup of a smoke shop in Paducah last year, Hankins answered, "I was not guilty."

The dapper little whom all the fuss quickly at his home already suspended at a trial last Friday played the leading role. He insisted through final hearing, earlier had been attempting to escape from a general congressional corruption acknowledged he had his accusation.

Rabbits and Radishes Babies and Bouquets Carrots and Cabbages all from an EMPTY TUB!

ILLUSION: Right before your very eyes the man of magic draws rabbits, vegetables, flowers, fruits—even babies—all from an empty tub! What an astonishing fellow he is!

EXPLANATION: The assorted rabbits, babies, carrots, cabbages, ribbons and other magical "props" are not created by magic. The tub has a false bottom that is conveniently displaced, and numberless wonderful things spring to life in the magician's nimble fingers. They do literally "spring" because they are made to compress into the bottom of the tub, taking their natural shape as the magician lifts them out.

IT'S FUN TO BE FOOLED ...IT'S MORE FUN TO KNOW Tricks are legitimate on the stage but not in business. Here's one that has been used in cigarette advertising...the illusion that blending is everything in a cigarette. EXPLANATION: Blending is important...but it makes a lot of difference what is blended. Inferior tobaccos can be blended to cover up their humble origin. But your taste soon detects the trick. The proper use of blending is to bring out the full "round" flavor of mild, high-grade tobaccos. It's the costliness of the tobaccos, as well as the blending, that counts. It is a fact, well known by leaf tobacco experts, that Camels are made from finer, MORE EXPENSIVE tobaccos than any other popular brand. Hundreds of thousands of dollars have been spent by others in the attempt to discover just how Camels are blended. The blend is important. But all the while Camel spends millions more for choice tobaccos...to insure your enjoyment. Light up a Camel. Relax, while the delicate blue smoke floats about you. Enjoy to the full the pleasure that comes from costlier tobaccos. Keep Camels always handy...in the airtight, welded Humidor Pack. NO TRICKS ..JUST COSTLIER TOBACCOS IN A MATCHLESS BLEND
