WETS SCORE WIN IN LEGISLATURE

Grand Jury Refuses to Indict Berry of Fraud

Gaffney Rules Case Held for Resubmission

Case Follows $20,000 Shortage in County Records

Charles L. Berry, former county treasurer charged with embezzlement of county funds, was not indicted by the grand jury for the February term of district court, which completed its work yesterday afternoon when it reported to District Judge J. P. Gaffney.

Upon application of County Attorney F. B. Olsen, Judge Gaffney ruled, following the report that the case be resubmitted to the grand jury when its meets May 1 for the next term of court.

Berry was arrested Jan. 14 after he was held liable in a district court hearing for a $20,000 shortage in Johnson county funds. The civil action was brought by the county board of supervisors because of a discrepancy of that amount between the treasurer's records and those of the First National bank of Iowa City. Berry was arraigned immediately after his arrest before Justice of the Peace Elias J. Hughes and released under bond of $20,000.

Outlines Circumstances

In asking that the case not be dropped at this time, County Attorney Olsen pointed out that the civil action was tried before one of the best trial judges in Iowa, Judge Frank L. Bechly of Montezuma. In view of the evidence presented in the trial, and of the decision of the judge, he said he felt it was his duty as county attorney to ask that the matter be resubmitted to the grand jury for the May term of court.

Judge Gaffney's ruling follows: "The court having heard the oral application of the county attorney of this county made in open court, asking for the resubmission to the grand jury at the next term of this court of the matter of Charles L. Berry, and finding that good cause has been shown, therefore it is the order of this court that the matter of Charles L. Berry be again submitted to the grand jury at the next term of this court, and that the defendant, Charles L. Berry, may be continued on his present bail, and said bail bond is hereby continued in full force and effect until the next term of this court."

Met Feb. 6

The grand jury had been in session since Feb. 6 when it reported at 5:15 p.m. yesterday. According to county officials, it was the longest grand jury session in a number of years, most groups finishing their work within a few days. Judge Gaffney excused the members after the report was submitted and notified them that they were to return on the first day of the next court term.

The discrepancy between Berry's books and the records of the bank was in a deposit made by the former county treasurer in the First National bank Jan. 2, 1932. Berry contended that the deposit totalled $26,243.30, whereas records of the bank showed only $6,243.30.

Judge Bechly, after an eight day hearing, ruled Jan. 13 that Berry did not deposit the $26,243.30, and declared him liable for the shortage. Berry's arrest followed when he was unable to pay the county the missing $20,000.

Treasurer Since 1923

Berry, who had been county treasurer since 1923, was defeated in the general election last November by his Republican opponent, W. E. Smith. Smith took over the office Jan. 1. Before this election as treasurer in the fall of 1922, Berry had been clerk of the district court. He held this office from 1914 to 1920, making a total of 16 years in county office.

Woman Convicted of Child Stealing

DES MOINES, Feb. 17 (AP)—Mrs. Margaret Shanklin of Des Moines, today was convicted of child stealing by a district court jury. She was charged with stealing Norman Eugene Loll from the home of his mother, Mrs. August Loll, Jan. 28.

Mrs. Shanklin will be sentenced Feb. 25. Maximum penalty for the offense is 10 years in the penitentiary.

Tune in Tonight

The Iowa-Michigan basketball game will be broadcast over station WSUI starting at 6:30 (C.S.T.) tonight. This broadcast is sponsored by the Iowa City Junior Chamber of Commerce. A special direct wire will bring a play by play account from the floor to the broadcasting studio in the offices of The Daily Iowan, from where it will be relayed over station WSUI. There will be no delay in transmission, the plays being announced almost as quickly as they can be sent over the wire. A special correspondent for The Daily Iowan will dictate the running account of the game as it is played.

Wolverines, Hawkeyes to Meet Tonight

Iowa Cagers Hope to Gain Revenge for Earlier Defeat

Iowa's fast travelling basketball team gets into another of those crucial games tonight when it stops off at Michigan with high hopes of gaining revenge for an earlier defeat and at the same time of remaining in the title chase.

That first Iowa loss to the Wolverines has been a sore spot with the Hawkeyes and they will take a lot of beating tonight before Michigan will be able to repeat the 33 to 25 triumph at Iowa City in the opening game of the conference season.

Probable Starting Lineups

IOWA	MICHIGAN
Moffitt	RF
Krumholz	LF
Bastian	C
Grim	RG
Selzer	LG

Game starts at 6:25 (C.S.T.)

Iowa's fast travelling basketball team gets into another of those crucial games tonight when it stops off at Michigan with high hopes of gaining revenge for an earlier defeat and at the same time of remaining in the title chase.

That first Iowa loss to the Wolverines has been a sore spot with the Hawkeyes and they will take a lot of beating tonight before Michigan will be able to repeat the 33 to 25 triumph at Iowa City in the opening game of the conference season.

Bewildered by the eligibility squabble, the Old Gold five was unable to cope with the rangy visitors but since that time the athletic situation has cleared and Iowa has won five out of six games since that time. In the meantime Michigan has taken four out of five but all from teams that hold down the four lower positions in the standing, while Iowa has taken two from Purdue, and Chicago and split even with Wisconsin.

Tonight's game is of great importance to both teams since a win by Iowa will gain third place for them while a loss will mean almost virtual elimination from the race. Michigan must win in order to keep pace with the Ohio State and Northwestern quintets.

Much of the brunt of the offense will rest on the shoulders of Howard Bastian, Iowa's giant center, who must go up against another skyscraper in the person of Garner. Both men are about on a par in the scoring and both failed to last the entire game at Iowa so it will be a real test tonight for both of them.

Iowa will match its clever guards, Johnny Grim and Ben Selzer, against the sharpshooting of Captain Eveland and Plummer, two mighty clever forwards. The Old Gold forwards will have a tough time of it if the Michigan guards are up to standard for Petoskey and Altenhof have held opposing teams to an average of slightly less than 24 points per game, the best record in the Big Ten. Howard Moffitt and Guelder Krumholz will probably get the starting call although there is some doubt about the latter. Krumholz has been suffering from a severe cold and may give way to Johnny Barko. No matter whether he starts or not Barko will see plenty of service as a substitute for either of the regular forwards.

Halt Foreclosure

NEVADA (AP)—Foreclosure action against the farm of Lars J. Skromme, state senator in two Iowa legislatures, was postponed indefinitely today after a crowd of 1,000 farmers gathered at the court house here to watch the sale.

T. R.'s Sister Dies
NEW YORK (AP)—Mrs. Douglas Robinson, sister of the late President Theodore Roosevelt, died at her home tonight of double pneumonia. She was 71 the last surviving member of Theodore Roosevelt's childhood family.

Four to Talk at Conference Ending Today

Growth of American Language Traced by Craigie

By TOM YOSELOFF
With four addresses scheduled for this morning, the conference of English teachers, which opened here yesterday, will be concluded at noon today.

The growth of the American language by amplification of meanings and the development of new expressions was described by Sir William A. Craigie of the University of Chicago at the opening session yesterday morning, in the house chamber of Old Capitol.

Dictionary

Addressing nearly 100 high school and college teachers, who had gathered here for the two day meeting, Sir William told of studies which have been made in the last seven years on a dictionary of the American idiom.

The American language has grown from within, he told his audience. It has borrowed from the Indian, French, Dutch, and Spanish, and it has changed to meet ever changing conditions. There is a definite connection between the westward movement of population and the growth of the language, he declared.

"Loafer"

The influence of the American idiom has been felt in England, where many of its words and expressions have been adopted. Among these he cited the words "boss," "taboo," "immigrant," "loafer," and "wallpaper."

Prof. George F. Reynolds of the University of Colorado asserted in another address of the morning session that English literature is foreign to American high school students, and should be taught as such.

Misconception

Students lack a knowledge of social customs, sports, natural conditions, and cities, which form a background in literature. The result is a superficial study which results in vagueness and unreality, and at times, actual misconception, he said.

Turning English literature the "core of a common culture," he declared that it must not be dropped out of the high school curriculum. Instead, it should be taught as a foreign literature, with the teacher creating the proper atmosphere and understanding.

Professor Carpenter

In an address on "The joy of theme reading," Prof. M. F. Carpenter of the English department said that although the theme does not offer students an approach to life, there is a great deal of value and joy in writing and reading these papers, both for the student and the instructor.

Placement tests and themes, as applied to the freshmen at Iowa State college, were described by Prof. J. R. Derby, head of the English department in that institution. On the basis of these tests, the freshmen are grouped into high, middle, low and sub-freshmen divisions.

Cooperation

The problem of preparing students to meet these examinations and enter college in good standing is one of cooperation of all high school and college teachers, Professor Derby asserted.

The division of freshman English classes at the University of Iowa was discussed by Prof. Nellie S. Aurner, Prof. John C. McGalliard, and Prof. Carrie M. Stanley, all of the English department. Reorganization of required courses, special problems of students in honor classes, and methods of dealing with deficient students, were given consideration.

A feature of the sessions was round table discussion which followed each paper, or group of papers, in which the views of individual teachers were discussed.

Hartzell to Face Mail Fraud Charge

NEW YORK, Feb. 17 (AP)—Oscar Merrill Hartzell, one time Iowa farmer who is accused of receiving $1,000,000 from "donators" who expected heavy returns from a mythical estate of Sir Francis Drake, was en route tonight to Sioux City, Ia., to answer conspiracy and mail fraud charges.

Hartzell boarded a train in Hoboken under guard of post office Inspector John Sparks of Iowa and a deputy marshal.

He carried a huge suitcase and officials said his baggage included ten tailored suits, 20 silk shirts, ten pairs of shoes, 100 towels and innumerable ties and handkerchiefs.

Strong Guard Protects Life of Roosevelt

President-Elect Calls in Possible Cabinet Members

NEW YORK, Feb. 17 (AP)—Aroused public opinion, threw one of the strongest guards ever put about any man around President-elect Roosevelt as he returned home smiling today after the sensational attempted assassination at Miami.

Hosts of blue coated policemen and grim faced detectives and secret service men, aggregating nearly 1,000 persons, surrounded Mr. Roosevelt from the minute his special train stopped in Jersey City.

They escorted him across the Hudson river on a ferry and led him again through the welcoming crowds along the streets of New York.

Arriving at his East Sixty-Fifth street home, the happy president-elect, got a "hello" from Mrs. Roosevelt who came out to the automobile amid the crowd to greet her husband.

Miami Victims

The thoughts of Roosevelt, however, were still with the five victims down in a Miami hospital who got the bullets of the madman intended for himself. He immediately got in touch with Miami and was cheered to hear news of progress by the wounded.

"I was made very happy," he told newspapermen, "by hearing from Miami this morning that both Mayor Cermak and Mrs. Gill are progressing favorably."

Inaugural Plans

En route the president-elect emphatically gave word that no change was to be made in the inaugural plans as a result of the Miami attack.

Traveling northward through the day, the president-elect took advantage of the ride through Washington to talk with three of the men he has in mind for his cabinet—Senators Hull of Tennessee, Glass of Virginia and Cutting of New Mexico.

Hull and Cutting

No arrangements were made. Senators Hull and Cutting are regarded as in the cabinet. The latter is a Republican independent. A final answer is expected from Glass in a couple of days.

Early announcements of the cabinet are believed in prospect. Otherwise, Mr. Roosevelt has his policies fixed and is ready to go into the White House two weeks hence.

Farley

James A. Farley, chairman of the Democratic national committee, headed the reception committee which met Mr. Roosevelt at the depot in New Jersey. He and Roosevelt will go over in the next two weeks the time to be picked for other key positions in the government.

State Schools in Iowa Make Expense Cuts

Require $800,000 Less Despite Increase in Enrollment

A reduction of more than $800,000 in legislative askings has been effected by five state educational institutions in Iowa, while a gain of more than 8,000 students has been shown in registrations. The comparisons are drawn in the current issue of the "University of Iowa News Bulletin."

The load of student registration has been increased more than 40 per cent since 1921, the article points out, yet the financial load has been lightened, although registrations have come from 19,820 students to 23,133.

Actual Savings

Actual savings for 1931-32 have been $577,089, and actual savings for 1932-33 are $920,851 in a four year program of economy announced in the December issue of the publication.

The years 1933-34 and 1934-35 would each show a saving of $1,439,548 under the plan, resulting in a total saving of $4,377,036. The university alone represents a saving of $1,448,174 in the tax burden and reduction of $604,481 in other income, making a total saving of $2,052,655.

The cost per student has been lowered by $167, on the basis of appropriations for the next biennium. Appropriation on that basis will be $224 per student, in 1921 it was $391 per student.

Other Aids

Other income of the university has also been material in lightening the load on taxpayers. In 1921, other income from gifts, tuitions, and earnings represented 24 per cent of expenditure, while in 1933 it will represent 48 per cent.

The cost of the University hospital has also been reduced for indigent patients. In 1929, the cost per patient was $116.50. For the fiscal year ending last June 30, it was $76.17, a reduction of 34 per cent. At the same time, the number of patients has increased from 8,087 to 13,129.

Acquitted of Killing, Guy Faces Federal Deportation Charges

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 17 (AP)—Acquitted of the killing of Capt. Walter Wanderwell, bizarre adventurer, William J. Guy, smiling young soldier of fortune, was held in jail today awaiting federal action on charges of being illegally in the United States.

Guy was nonchalant about his murder trial at Long Beach, which resulted in a jury verdict clearing him last night.

"After facing starvation as a prisoner in Russia, a firing squad by Sandino, fever in the South American jungle and torture at the hands of Chinese brigands, a murder trial didn't look so dangerous," he said. "I knew I wasn't guilty."

He said his one hope is that he will be able to return to his young wife in London with a "stake." He said he holds the middleweight boxing championship of India and a Egypt, and he had won some laurels in swimming. He is a native of Wales.

Tests Show Assailant of F.D.R. Sane, Says Doctor

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 17 (AP)—Giuseppe Zangara—the man who tried to kill the president-elect—was declared sane today by Dr. E. C. Thomas, county physician.

The examination was informal. It was made several hours after Zangara's formal arraignment was postponed again while doctors exerted their skill to save two persons he wounded seriously—Mayor Anton Cermak of Chicago and Mrs. Joe Gill of Miami.

Mayor Cermak's condition was reported "satisfactory" late today and Mrs. Gill underwent a second blood transfusion in a desperate effort to save her life.

Dr. Thomas' examination was made independent of a contemplated examination by a sanity commission.

Judge Collins called Zangara before him today, appointed counsel for his defense and ordered him to reappear at 10 a.m. tomorrow for formal arraignment. His counsel's first step was to request appointment of a sanity commission to examine Zangara, who says he has

"beeg pains" in his stomach and thinks he should kill all presidents and kings.

The specific charges against Zangara are attempted assassination of Franklin D. Roosevelt and assault with intent to murder Russell Caldwell of Coconut Grove, Fla., Margaret Krus of Newark, N. J., and William Sinnott of New York.

Florida is awaiting the outcome of Cermak's and Mrs. Gill's injuries before it charges the 33 year old Italian with a crime for wounding them in the barrage he fired at Mr. Roosevelt in the bloody finale of a celebration Wednesday night. Should either die, the charge against Zangara would be murder.

Zangara—his face gaunt and haunting—came into court unshackled today. He wore a light blue spotted shirt, open at the throat, and white trousers. He chatted with two deputies who stayed close by his side. The courtroom was packed, but there was no disturbance. Sheriff Hardie stationed 20 deputies throughout the courtroom to see that Zangara received every protection.

Such a concert as the Chicago Little Symphony offered last evening at Iowa Union reminds one of how often composers cast their works in molds smaller or larger than that which an orchestra of 25 pieces affords. I wished for a program more completely conceived for this distinctive style—supple, amply varied in color, not essentially dynamic.

Felicitous control thereof requires most accurate knowledge of the possibilities of each instrument, calculations most carefully made, since each part is more individual, its position more sensitive, in a group where mass is not a real factor. A certain restriction in size and sweep of concept should follow, yet not to the degree characterized as chamber music.

With this in mind let us for a moment examine that part of the program of greatest interest to so many in this community, the "Highly Academic Diversion on Seven Notes."

Those who are acquainted with Professor Clapp's range of knowledge, with his happy conversational choice of word and story, will understand me as I write of the aptness in theme and treatment, color and harmony, and of the genial conversational atmosphere of this New England modernism.

That irrepressible satire in him speaks again, characteristically prominent, but not obtruding on the more serious mind. Academically correct, yet toying with the "rules," inventing harmonic implications to cover gaps caused by his self-imposed restrictions—by the ingenuity of his means he at times distracts the ear from the effect intended for was that the intent? Why not? There is great variety, even though chromatics are absent. And then that "Afternoon Tea" with its sharp and humorous characterizations—"P. G." contends mightily for the great freedom of expression that music may have.

The Mozart D Major symphony was the other high spot in the performance of this excellent orchestra. In character, set as it was in a group comparable to that for which it was written.

I hope I am wrong, however, in feeling that some of the arrangements suffered by comparison with these two numbers—in feeling a fleeting sense of a striving for too large orchestral effect. But it was a most enjoyable program, and I commend Mr. Dasch's efforts, more especially since they have given many of us our first hearing of Professor Clapp.

Unemployed Express Approval of Lectures

A large number of Iowa City's unemployed met in the American Legion Community building last night and expressed their approval of the proposed plan to present regular lectures on subjects of current interest.

Meetings will be held in the future at 7:30 p.m. Tuesdays and Fridays, at which times university professors will lead informal discussions on government, civics, and economic problems.

Quash Motion to Table Plan for Beer Bill

Measure May Come Up for Consideration Monday

DES MOINES, Feb. 17 (AP)—Modification sentiment won the first outright test of prohibition in the present session of the Iowa general assembly today by a senate vote of 26 to 23.

The vote, regarded generally as a close indication of the prohibition and anti-prohibition division, was on a motion to table a request by Senator Joe R. Fralley (R) of Ft. Madison that a concurrent resolution be had introduced a few minutes before he made a special order of business for Monday.

Fralley's resolution would provide for the appointment of a joint special committee of four members from each house be appointed to prepare a bill legalizing the manufacture and possession of beer or other intoxicating liquors. The bill would be presented to the present general assembly in anticipation of congressional action.

Two-Thirds Necessary

Although the state senate voted down the motion to table, Fralley's request that the bill be made a special order of business for Monday was defeated when Lieut. Gov. N. G. Kraschel ruled that a two-thirds vote was required.

Introduction of the resolution and the effort to have it made a special order for Monday precipitated a fiery but comparatively brief verbal battle on the prohibition question. Fralley said he probably will call the bill up for final consideration Monday and that he expects to have more than 26 votes for it on final passage.

Senator Fralley and Senator George Patterson of Burt clashed in the discussion, Patterson sponsoring the motion to table the special order request. Patterson's contention that the tabling of the request would kill the bill as well as overruled by the chair.

"Unjustified"

Asserting that the assembly, which has been in session a month, has before it important and vital public questions, Patterson declared he did not believe the legislature is "justified in going into a long controversy over the prohibition question at this time."

Fralley, in reply, asked if there is anything more important than "settlement of this question. It is so important," he told Patterson, "that you, a dry, came within 33 votes of defeat in your district in the last election. The people have demanded a change."

Senator I. H. Knudson objected to this reference to Patterson and said he regretted that personalities had been injected into the discussion.

"I Apologize"

"If I have offended Senator Knudson's tender sensibilities I apologize to him and to Patterson," Fralley said. "That's fair enough, isn't it?"

Introduction of Senator Fralley's resolution came as a surprise to practically the entire senate membership. Passage by the United States senate yesterday of the Blaine constitutional amendment proposal had quickened Iowa general assembly interest in the prohibition question.

The prohibition discussion earlier had centered around the Hartman bill in the house which would provide that the governor call a constitutional convention within six months after the amendment had been proposed, and in the senate around the plans of Senator Matt D. Cooney (D) for drafting a beer bill.

The Fralley resolution contended that the incoming national administration and members of congress are pledged to enact such legislation "as will bring beer back to the people and to otherwise modify the laws relative to liquor," as are likewise the state administration and many members of the state senate and house.

It pointed out that in anticipation of the next session (Turn to page 8)

Plot to Kidnap Screen Stars Revealed on Arrest of Co-ed

Former University Student, Who Confessed Kidnaping of Professor's Wife, Accused of Similar Deeds on Movie Notables.

HOWARD and LUELLA PEARL HAMMER

CONSTANCE TALMADGE - KATHERINE CARVER & ADOLPH MENJOU

HOLLYWOOD — If the present trend towards making the movie colony the center of the "snatch" industry continues, this fair city will soon be known as the kidnap capital rather than the film capital.

Revelations which followed the arrest of 28-year-old Luella Pearl Hammer, ex-coed at the University of Southern California, and W. P. Howard, said to be Miss Hammer's fiancé, lifted the veil from a plot, which had for its object nothing less than the abduction and holding for ransom of nine personages prominent in the film industry.

The plot was disclosed when police raided the home of Miss Hammer, after the woman had been formally charged with the kidnaping of Mrs. Mary B. Skeele, wife of Dean Walter Skeele of the University of Southern California; who, incidentally was Miss Hammer's tutor when she attended the institute of learning. In a desk in Miss Hammer's home, police found a list of the names of many film notables with notations pertaining to their habits, their home and business addresses and their private telephone numbers. As the phone numbers are not listed, and are known to only a few friends of the stars, it is a mystery how they came into Miss Hammer's possession.

Among those listed for kidnaping, according to the police, were Mary Pickford, Jackie Coogan, former child star, Constance Talmadge of the famous sisters; Adolph Menjou, Buster Keaton, comedian, Mrs. Harold Lloyd, wife of the goggled comedian, and her children and several other lesser lights in the movie colony. Needless to say the sensational revelations caused quite a stir in Hollywood, particularly as several prominent actors and actresses had previously been threatened with kidnaping from other sources.

Miss Hammer and Howard, her supposed fiancé, were arrested in connection with the abduction of Mrs. Skeele after police had compared letters written on the girl's typewriter with the lettering on the ransom notes which were sent to Mrs. Skeele's husband, demanding $10,000 for his wife's freedom. Although no ransom was paid, Mrs. Skeele was returned to her home after she had been held 24 hours by the kidnapers. According to the police story, Miss Hammer admitted the kidnaping and said that Mrs. Skeele was "such a nice old lady that we felt sorry for her."

Questioned as to the reason she chose the "snatch" method of getting rich quick, the former coed naively told the authorities that she and Howard wanted to get married. Her profession of music-teaching, for which she was trained by Mrs. Skeele's husband, did not turn out to be as remunerative as Miss Hammer had supposed and kidnaping was what suggested itself. She decided to select Mrs. Skeele as her first victim because she believed her former teacher to be a wealthy man, well able to pay the ransom demanded.

In her confession, Miss Hammer is also reported to have admitted plans to kidnap two college girls, one of whom was her classmate at the U. of S. C. This girl, Isabel Smith, thwarted the plot, and Miss Hammer abandoned the plan to abduct the other girl when she learned that her intended victim's parents were not wealthy.

However, although Miss Hammer underwent an intensive questioning about the list of movie stars found in her home, she steadfastly denied that it was a kidnap index. True, she admitted, she had made out the list, but declined to state her reasons for doing it. Furthermore, the accused girl and her fiancé insist on taking the entire blame for the abduction of Mrs. Skeele. Police believe that at least two other people are involved, even going so far as to say that the gigantic kidnap plot on the movie notables was hatched by New York gangsters, who used Miss Hammer and Howard as their tools.

thing to the Republican platform we can get."

Leaders Sure of Dry Repeal

WASHINGTON, Feb. 17 (AP) — Congressional leaders were jubilantly confident tonight that the house will adopt the senate resolution to repeal prohibition.

Optimistic predictions of success were made by party chieftains after the Democrats had bound themselves in caucus to support the proposal.

Smiling broadly after the closed meeting of the Democrats, Speaker Garner said: "It looks to me like chances are good it will be adopted, and a close margin is good enough."

Sure of Victory
"It will be adopted by at least 20 votes," was the way Representative Rainey of Illinois, the Democratic floor leader, summarized the situation.

Meanwhile, Representative Snell of New York, the Republican floor leader, said between 10 to 20 Republicans who previously have voted dry had indicated they would support the senate proposal "because its the nearest

Plan to Issue Scrip Money Approved by Judiciary Body

Measure Includes Plan to Relieve Pressure on County Poor

DES MOINES, Feb. 17 (AP) — Right of counties to issue scrip or "stamp money" moved a step closer fulfillment today by action of the house judiciary committee of the Iowa legislature in voting to recommend such a measure for passage.

The committee re-wrote the bill offered by Representative Zylstra, of Sioux county, incorporating the ideas of Representative Cunningham of Polk who suggested that in counties with cities of 20,000 or over the scrip could be in $5 and $10 denominations as well as $1.00.

Under the bill, boards of county supervisors may adopt a plan to issue scrip money for poor relief and unemployment upon petition of electors representing 10 per cent of the votes cast for governor at the last preceding election. Upon petition of 30 per cent, it becomes mandatory for the boards to adopt such a plan.

Zylstra is the author of a stamp money plan which has been operative in Hawarden for several months. A number of other Iowa municipalities also have placed the plan in operation.

The measure reported today sets the redemption limit period at three years. Before the certificate can be redeemed it must bear its face value in stamps. Each certificate for $1.00 would carry 50 two cent stamps; those for $5.00, 50 10 cent stamps and those for $10, 50 20 cent stamps. The county treasurer would be custodian of the certificates and stamps.

Banks would be authorized to accept the scrip for credit or currency, the holder receiving 98 cents per dollar, the difference being represented by a two per cent discount and the stamp he would be required to affix.

Under the bill county employes would be required to accept such amount of scrip for salary as the board of supervisors deems advisable. A minimum rate of $2.00 per day is set for employment provided through issuance of scrip.

When a county adopts the scrip plan, provision also is made for cessation of the entire assessment for poor relief.

Smart Spring .. Hats ..

With the last step in congressional action thus reduced from a controversy of uncertain result to a virtual formality, interest turned to prospects for action in the states, 36 of which must ratify before the eighteenth amendment will be dead.

An informal summary gotten up by interested individuals showed 43 legislatures are now in session or scheduled to meet some time this year. Many of them, however, have a statutory limit upon the length of the session and would have to act quickly if they are to call state conventions to consider the repealer at this time.

Family Awaits Kidnap News

Suspect Released in Abduction of Boettcher

DENVER, Feb. 17 (AP)—A despairing family waited patiently today for word from the kidnapers of Charles Boettcher, II.

Wearied authorities questioned and released a reputed rum runner, searchers beat the brush in mountainous country along the Wyoming border.

Arrest of Jack Stingley, 35, whom officers identified as a liquor runner, brought momentary hope to the family.

It collapsed when District Attorney Humphreys, who said he had believed Stingley possessed valuable information about the abduction last Sunday night, ordered his release after several hours of questioning.

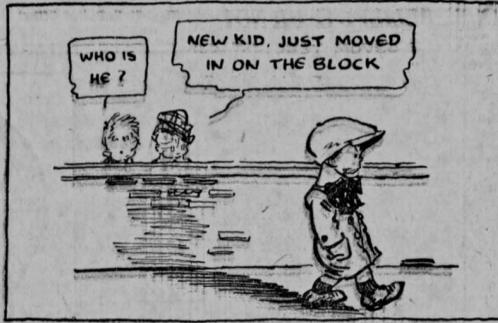

Stingley was a companion of N. W. "Red" Mitchell, who Mrs. Anna Lou Boettcher, attractive wife of the missing broker, said resembled one of the kidnapers who thrust into her hands a note demanding $60,000 ransom.

Release of Mitchell also has been ordered by Police Chief Clark, who said the case against him apparently collapsed.

Humphreys revealed the kidnapers had changed motor cars four blocks from the Boettcher home. He said an informant told of seeing a small sedan stop near a larger one. Two or three men in the light sedan hurried a third man into the other car. The machines darted away in opposite directions, he said.

Meanwhile, a carload of county authorities, armed with machine guns, raced northward toward the Wyoming line presumably on a search for Boettcher. Another squad went southward to investigate a house which Clark said had been rented recently "by some foreign people."

Hyde Condemns Domestic Allotment as Impractical

WASHINGTON, Feb. 17 (AP)—What the Hoover administration thinks of the domestic allotment farm relief bill was told for the first time today, and it wasn't flattering.

President Hoover's secretary of agriculture—Arthur M. Hyde—wrote Senator McNary, Republican, Oregon, that in his judgment "this bill would not afford substantial relief to agriculture, and contemplates such drastic relief as to be impossible of effective administration."

This first official expression on the bill that passed the house more than a month ago and is now on the senate calendar gave added weight to the belief of many that President Hoover would veto the much-discussed measure in the improbable event that congress enacts it.

Hyde's letter sent to McNary as chairman of the senate agriculture committee dealt with the bill in the form in which it passed the house, rather than as it was favorably reported to the senate this week.

The same general principles to which he expressed objection, however, are contained in the revised bill which covers only cotton and wheat—omitting hogs, tobacco, rice, peanuts and dairy products, items included by the house.

The senate committee also struck from the bill all provisions for controlling acreage and in this connection Hyde said emphatically that without effective provision for limiting production the benefit payment to the farmer would become "a pure bonus which would stimulate production and defeat the purposes of the act."

Palimpsest Issue Recalls Coming of Iowa Settlers

The one hundredth anniversary of the coming of settlers to Iowa is commemorated in the current issue of the Palimpsest, publication of the State Historical society, which is ready for distribution today.

Six articles, contributed by members of the society and staff members of the University of Iowa, describe the conditions under which the Iowa land was settled and the problems of the pioneers, in their relations with the Indians, and in their struggle to open up the new country.

The development of the nation before the time of the Iowa pioneers is set forth in "The national scene" by Prof. Harrison J. Thornton of the history department, an article featured in the new issue.

The article describes the background for settlement of the land west of the Mississippi river. Economic, political, social, and religious conditions in the United States are shown in their relation to the new development.

One phase of the relation of the white man to the Indian is the subject of "To the land of Black Hawk," by William J. Petersen, research associate of the State Historical society. The purchase of land from the Indians at 14 cents an acre is described.

Intermarriage of whites and Indians is treated in a paper by J. A. Swisher, research associate of the State Historical society, entitled "The half-breed tract."

Early Iowa settlements were not made in one swift rush, as were those of many other western states. The slow, trickling movement of Iowa's pioneers is dealt with in "Squatter settlements," by Prof. Louis Pelzer of the history department.

The struggles and hardships of the pioneers—adventurers and settlers—who pushed west to open Iowa land in 1833 form the subject of "Pioneers in person," by Ruth A. Gallaher, assistant editor of the State Historical society. The paper relates the lives and personalities of individual settlers, and their motives in coming to Iowa.

An editorial, in which comment is made on the entire problem of settling the new country, concludes the issue. This final paper is by Prof. John Ely Briggs, editor of the Palimpsest.

make no comment upon the cabinet discussions. He said the conference of the general economic and banking situation.

Asked whether he would use his influence to speed the Glass banking reform bill through the house banking committee, he declined to reply. Some of his intimates, however, believe that the general principles of the legislation met the wishes of Roosevelt and if his influence was required it might be found.

Roosevelt also declined to comment on the prohibition repeal resolution yesterday by the senate, but his friends were convinced that he felt it met the Democratic platform by providing for ratification by state conventions instead of by state legislatures.

It also is understood the president-elect insisted upon this change in the resolution at his January conference in New York with congressional leaders.

Greeted as Hero

Leaving New York almost unnoticed a month ago, the next president was greeted as a returning hero today. Crowds were at every station along the route. Workers leaped out of factory windows to catch a glimpse of him. Crossing midtown a flutter of papers dropped from the upper stories of the towering buildings.

But it was hard for the crowd to get out a cheer. It could hardly find Roosevelt. His car was far back in the line of automobiles carrying the reception committee

No Disturbance

There was not the slightest sign of disturbance anywhere. The Jersey police insisted on identification of all who attempted to follow the Roosevelt party onto the ferry. At one point the mounted police started to charge.

Mr. Roosevelt waited, however, and sent Marvin H. McIntyre, his secretary, and Charles Hand back to identify the members of the group and all got aboard the ferry.

Pilot Train

The extraordinary precautions virtually placed a human barrier around Mr. Roosevelt. A pilot train preceded his own train into Jersey City, where hundreds of police converged on the railroad station.

Arriving there at 3:55 p.m. the president-elect received the greeting of Mayor Hague, Chairman Farley, John F. Curry, leader of Tammany Hall, and Police Commissioner Mulrooney.

"Feeling Fine"

At the station pier a special ferry was drawn up and a procession of 15 automobiles formed speedily. A thousand spectators were kept at a distance by the police, augmented by secret service men.

"I'm feeling fine and I've had a fine trip," Mr. Roosevelt told Chairman Farley, waving and smiling to the crowd.

In the center of a hollow square formed by 40 policemen the president-elect entered a limousine drawn up beside the train.

Armed Guards

Once across the Hudson river, the president-elect's car was the seventh machine in the line of the procession. Guards stood on both running boards, clinging to the doors of the automobile and immediately behind was an open motor car in which rode heavily armed guards. The entire procession was flanked by 25 motorcycle police equipped with sidecars in which sat patrolmen holding riot guns.

Two police radio cars preceded the long procession.

At street corners along the route were special details of police, aggregating hundreds in number. Many of these were mounted.

The long string of cars in the president-elect's party pulled up in front of the Roosevelt town house at 4:58 p.m.

Mrs. Roosevelt hurried from the building to the curb. She stepped into the automobile and embraced and kissed her husband before he alighted.

Secret service men formed a solid cordon around the president-elect as he stepped from the automobile.

Waves at Crowd

Mr. Roosevelt ascended the short flight of steps leading to his home and then turned about to wave to a crowd of about 2,000 persons kept at a distance by a heavy detail of police.

The president-elect's mother, Mrs. Sarah Delano Roosevelt, greeted her son in the house.

Traffic Stopped

Thirty patrolmen, 25 plain clothes detectives and 25 mounted policemen were stationed near the Roosevelt home. No one was allowed in the block unless he could prove he had business there. As the time approached for the party to arrive, all automotive traffic was stopped in the street in front of the president-elect's home.

The living room was filled with flowers. A steady stream of messenger boys had been coming to the house all day long.

Women Will Hear First of Talk Series

The first of a series of discussions on problems of peculiar interest to voters will be held at a meeting of the Iowa City League of Women Voters in the council chamber at the city hall at 2 p.m. Monday, according to an announcement yesterday.

"Advantages and disadvantages of the primary system" will be the subject of Monday's discussion, which will be led by Ruth Gallaher.

The programs will be designed to follow as nearly as possible the subject of the preceding luncheon meeting, Mrs. Dorrance White, publicity chairman, said yesterday.

All members of the organization were urged to bring as guests any women interested in the topic and it was pointed out that the discussion will be open to guests as well as to members.

20 Complete Scout Course

Ann Roos Ends Series of 12 Lessons in Leadership

The final project in the Girl Scout leadership course, conducted by Ann Roos, member of the national field training staff of the Girl Scouts, was carried out yesterday afternoon when the last of 12 meetings was held.

To the 20 women enrolled in the course, Miss Roos has pointed out the possibilities Girl Scouts offer as an avocation which will not only be of interest to the young women themselves but also a benefit to the community and to the scouts.

The course included lectures concerning the history of the Girl Scout organization, the workings of the organization, and the theory of planning for and conducting a troop. The projects gave the women actual practice in preparing yearly and monthly plans, programs, and recreational activities. Songs and games which may later be used in troop work formed another feature of the course.

Miss Roos, who is an instructor at Camp Edith Macy during the summer months, is now spending several months presenting her leadership course at leading universities and colleges of the middle west. She is a graduate of Syracuse university, has studied at Yonkers, the English national training camp for Girl Scouts, and has been a member of the national field staff of Girl Scouts since 1923.

New Type of Exam Asked by Lindquist

A series of objective tests, to begin in the first year of high school work, was proposed by Prof. Everett Lindquist of the college of education, to supplant college entrance examinations and certification, in a Baccalaureate lecture, in chemistry auditorium last night.

"That the present method of certification of accredited high schools is unsatisfactory, has been Professor Lindquist's conclusion, following five years of study carried on by the University of Iowa.

These studies have shown that accredited high schools are not superior to those unaccredited. This was determined by tests given students in 375 high schools, 92 of which were accredited, and 283 were not. The tests covered 14 academic subjects.

Certification is based on the student's grades. However, a study in the same high schools has shown that grades are not a reliable index to a student's achievement, the speaker declared.

Though college entrance examinations are a better measure of actual achievement, they have been found unreliable, Professor Lindquist said.

The need today is for guidance earlier than the conclusion of the high school course, in his view. Such guidance should be with a view to determining the student's fitness to enter college, and the particular type of educational training which he should take.

Such guidance could be administered through the series of tests which Professor Lindquist pro-

At the Bar of Justice

MEEK, diminutive Giuseppe Zangara will come face to face with Florida justice in a few days and wonder what it's all about. For, to his unbalanced reasoning, there really was nothing wrong with what he did; his only regret is that he hadn't been more successful.

The black robed judge, the solemn jury, the bellowing attorneys, the battery of newsmen and photographers, the wide-eyed throngs, and the columns and columns of publicity certainly can hold no thrills for him; they are beyond the erratic comprehension of this demented immigrant.

Alienists may testify that the would be assassin was insane at the time he attempted to kill President-elect Franklin D. Roosevelt, they may ask that he be sent, not to prison, but to an institution for the mentally unstable.

But whatever sentence is meted out to Zangara, if it is in keeping with what the public wants, can hardly be justice.

Shall the crime be considered worse because it was an attempt on the life of the president-elect?

Shall this man be given life imprisonment although he is undoubtedly insane?

Shall he be committed to an institution from which he might in time be released?

Perhaps Florida officials, in order to wipe out any dishonor or discredit that the incident has brought to their state, will consider this an extraordinary case and mete, therefore, extraordinary justice. Such an attitude would be regrettable.

Should not the jury take into consideration the man's environment, his attitude toward society, and his state of mental health? Should it look upon him as a misguided criminal, or as an unfortunate human being?

Whatever "justice" is done in this case will not be satisfactory to the entire public. To those who would have lynched the man on the spot, nothing short of lynching would be justice. To the alienists, treatment of the assassin as anything but a maniac would not be justice. To the mass of the people, a long term imprisonment might come close.

To the culprit, nothing matters, perhaps. To one of his thinking—abnormal as it may be—death is doubtless preferable to anything else. It is probably the "honorable" thing.

As far removed as are our concepts of justice to society as a whole will be the decision in this case. But no matter what the presiding judge intones before the prisoner at the bar, it will be as near as our system will allow us to come to ideal justice.

Fooling Some of the People

O. M. HARTZELL has explained his golden investment proposition to many a middle western believer in the authenticity of the $22,500,000,000 estate of Sir Francis Drake; he will explain it now to the judge.

Twenty-two and a half billion dollars is a lot of money in any language. Just off hand, one would think it would be enough, if it were all in gold, to sink the whole of Drake's piratical fleet.

But Hartzell insisted when he was arrested Thursday at the dock in New York that "everything is 100 per cent above board—the estate is 100 per cent okay and I will prove it."

He further maintained that for every dollar invested he would provide $1,000 in return. And his name, you will notice, does not resemble Ponzi, either.

The British government, which deported him as an undesirable alien, maintains that there is no such thing as "the unclaimed Drake estate." Hartzell, however, is said to have once talked the matter over with the king and that his majesty became ill at the mere thought of so much money leaving the empire.

Up in Clay county the newspapers come right out flat-footedly and call the whole thing a hoax and refer to the estate as a myth. And that is probably the thing to do about it; if Hartzell is guilty, he should be dealt with in the manner provided by the law. But there should surely be something to do with the suckers who fell for the deal.

Well, Well . . .

WARM sun through a window pane and snow fast melting in the streets . . . Long buttoned collars open at the throat . . . A flash of color here and there, a light dress, a flippant sweater . . .

And 32 days until the twentieth of March, and spring.

Someone saw a robin the other day. He was hopping around by the back porch, pecking rather jittery at bread crumbs and seeming proud of himself for getting in on the ground floor in advance of the spring rush.

And just around the corner one can hear the clothiers coming, with their topcoats, then their tweeds, and finally their linens. And the girls will blossom out all suddenly in flowered frocks and the colors of orchards.

And doors will stand wide open to the warm air. There will be no coal smoke, either, nor any dreariness in living. There will be warm pools to swim in and the luxury of green hillsides.

Well, well, well . . . Well, well . . .

A Plausible Explanation

(From the Baltimore Sun)

The promptness with which Charlie Curtis set about the job of patching up the pieces of the G.O.P. has caused a great deal of comment, but nobody has suggested a reason other than Charlie's general desire to get in on the ground floor. But some reflections of Mr. Coolidge, published after his death, suggest that the explanation may be that Charlie was just plain lonesome.

Referring to the tendency of mankind to run away from a losing cause, Mr. Coolidge said: "I remember that after the election in 1922, when the tide was only slightly against the Republicans, I could see a difference in the number and manner of visitors who came to the Vice President's office the next winter. It seems to be human nature to want to be with the winner."

Now, if such a development followed a slight loss of party prestige, what must have been the effect of November's absolute debacle on Charlie's callers? To say nothing of the slump in numbers, one would expect the manners of those who stuck around to leave a vast deal to be desired. And if Charlie likes neither solitude nor people with a grouch, we can readily understand why he decided to get busy on something.

TODAY'S TOPICS

BY FRANK JAFFE

THE LEAGUE OF NATIONS might just as well save itself the trouble of reporting and publishing its plan next week for the settlement of the Sino-Japanese controversy. For no matter what the League thinks ought to be done, Japan thinks not.

Japan has only one course open, its government avows, and that is the protection of its interests in Manchukuo. In order to do that, Japan must control the province of Jehol, where it is reported 150,000 Chinese troops are stationed.

But the league says that Japan must keep out of Jehol and also dissolve its puppet government in Manchuria, leaving that state to set up a government compatible with the administrative integrity of China. To the Japanese, that means nothing, because who ever heard of the Japs going back on their word. And they have announced a program of aggression.

WHAT THE LEAGUE OUGHT TO DO now, instead of calling in the United States of America and the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics to arbitrate with Japan and China, is to submit its report and let it be taken for what it's worth—which means that the Japs will ignore it and the Chinese will get to work defending and protecting their interests.

Then, when the smoke blows over, and all is quiet on the far eastern front, the League might get together a good sized police force and take away from Japan everything she gained. That will be giving the Chinese a chance to show if they are worth going to a lot of trouble about. They'll have an opportunity to fight it out—something they no doubt long to do.

"There was never any question," says a Japanese spokesman, "of Japan's accepting the report." And he adds that the only way to get peace is for the Chinese to withdraw their troops from Jehol. And that sort of typifies the Japanese attitude.

BY AT LEAST 20 VOTES, the senate expects that the house will adopt its resolution to repeal the eighteenth amendment, following a Democratic caucus that bound itself to vote for the measure.

If the resolution does pass the house, it will be the first major item on which both groups have agreed, without a lot of scrambling about and compromising. And as for party lines, some of the house Republicans have been quoted as saying that they'll back the measure because "it's the nearest thing to the Republican platform we can get."

Just the same, 36 states must ratify the move before it becomes law. If the states act as quickly and as favorably on the liquor question as they did on the lame duck amendment, there isn't any question of having beer by summer, at least by Christmas.

There are 43 state legislatures now in session or scheduled to meet some time this year. There are a few obstacles, however, such as limitation on the length of time the assemblies shall remain in session and upon the amount of new legislation to be acted upon within a certain period.

Nevertheless, a two-thirds majority of the house is necessary for passage, and if that is obtained, there isn't much doubt that the 36 ratifications can be had. And there is plenty of indication that a lot of people are thirsty these days.

BEHIND THE SCENES - IN HOLLYWOOD -

STUDIO GOSSIP, BY HARRISON CARROLL, FILM SCANDAL, SCREEN COMMENT

HOLLYWOOD, Cal. — Through the hardest kind of breaks, Mae Clarke has refused to say quits. Yesterday she received the reward of courage and ability—a long term contract at Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer.

Along with it comes one of the leads in "Soviet," the picture that is to costar Clark Gable and Wallace Beery.

With this god news, Mae can say goodbye to last to the jinx that threatened her screen career. It was last April when the actress became ill—a complete breakdown—and Hollywood shook its head and said she was through. But that was underestimating Mae. She spent five months in the hospital, came off a sick girl still, but held constantly to the determination to come back to the screen.

The first step came in August when she was signed for an independent picture. After that she managed to get four more roles. Then Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer signed her for "Rivets." It was her work as Jack Gilbert's leading woman in this film turned the tide.

Now she's in a better position than she ever was. But she has her fingers crossed just the same.

All this talk in the air is very unsettling to the players. Yesterday two comics met in Al Levy's Tavern.

"What's your studio going to do—merge?" asked one. The other looked grim. "No, submerge."

HOLLYWOOD PARADE: Can it be true, this gossip that Walter Winchell and Ben Bernie will be out here presently to make a picture together? Hollywood rumor insists both have signed for the project and that Julius Stein, president of the Music Corporation of America, is coming out soon to talk release with several of the big companies.

Latest development in the Dietrich pants fad was Mrs. Frank Morgan's party at which all the women were invited to come in trousers. Connie Cummings and a few others did, but most of the girls stuck to skirts. The clash between George Raft and Paramount over "The Story of Temple Drake" has not, as yet, resulted in his suspension. George simply refuses to do the part—thinks the character hasn't a redeeming feature and would hurt him in the eyes of the public. He's willing to quit and go to Europe rather than play it. Meanwhile, the actor has given up his Beverly Hills home and has taken an apartment in Hollywood.

Remember Mona Rica, the Latin beauty who married Jim Crofton one of the owners of the Agua Caliente hotel? She and her husband plan a trip to Vienna to have a small scar removed from Mona's chin. It's a souvenir of that plane crash-up in which Crofton also was injured. Guess Bill Haines must be pretty good. After looking at the re-decorating job he did on her bedroom, Claudette Colbert has commissioned him to carry on through the rest of the house.

Legislators in Midwest Pass Varied Relief Measures

DES MOINES, Feb. 17 (AP)—Midwestern farmers seeking emergency mortgage relief measures and deferring tax sales postponements are winning their fight.

Definite reaction to their pressure for foreclosure relief tonight stood in the form of state laws in Iowa and Wisconsin providing for moratoria on mortgage foreclosures from one to three years.

Legislators of other middle western states, shunting aside less important problems, pushed relief bills so that they may become laws in time to help the farmer in his financial crisis.

Signs Mortgage Bill
Gov. Clyde L. Herring of Iowa a week ago signed a mortgage bill calling for the submission of foreclosure actions to the courts where the responsibility for the fair treatment of farm mortgagors will rest. The law is applicable to all mortgage actions in which decrees have not yet been entered as well as to future actions. The court has the power to grant a foreclosure discontinuance until March 1, 1935.

In Wisconsin, Gov. A. G. Schmedeman signed a bill last Tuesday to permit courts to extend from one to three years the period during which foreclosed farms can be redeemed and to prevent unfair sales.

Postpone Tax Sales
As a further aid to the troubled farmer, the Iowa senate has passed a bill which would postpone all delinquent tax sales until Dec. 4, 1933.

Nebraska legislators are working overtime to comply with requests from their former constituents, thousands of whom paraded at the state capitol at Lincoln yesterday in a dramatic presentation of their demands.

The Nebraska senate and house judiciary committee in a joint session today voted to report Gov. Charles Bryan's bill providing for a flat two-year cessation of farm foreclosures. It first will go to the senate.

Pass Relief
The house previously had passed three relief bills, one to permit judges to refuse to confirm foreclosure sales unless a reasonable price is bid, one to repeal the deficiency judgment law, and another to permit additional stays in foreclosure cases up to four years with courts to prescribe equitable terms between the borrower and lender.

Minnesota legislators, also entrusted with the duty to assist the farmer, have three relief bills before them. One would postpone until 1935 the sale of property subject to disposal for non-payment of taxes due last year. A second would create a county moratorium commission authorized to postpone collection of taxes in individual cases where the conditions warrant. A third proposes a moratorium on state rural credit mortgage foreclosures until 1936.

Provide Easy Redemption
Awaiting the governor's signature in North Dakota is a bill providing for easier redemption of real estate sold or forfeited to counties for taxes of 1931 or prior years, permitting redemption before Dec. 31, 1935 on payment of original amount of the tax levied and assessed together with interest at six per cent—penalties being eliminated.

The North Dakota assembly, which earlier had enacted a law stopping counties from taking a tax deed title for two years, today had up for consideration in the house a bill temporarily extending the time in which redemption may be made from tax sales where the tax certificate is held by others than the county.

The Illinois house of the state assembly has passed a resolution to allow foreclosure moratoria where needed and Governor Horner has asked mortgage holders to show "forbearance" until a possible amicable settlement can be made.

Reduce Salaries Voluntarily
CEDAR FALLS (AP)—Cedar Falls municipal officers voluntarily reduced their salaries 15 per cent. A 10 per cent reduction was made last summer.

Mae West makes her bow as a screen star in a story written by herself, "She Done Him Wrong," starting today, for a four day run, at the Englert theatre. Popular for years on the stage, well known as a dramatist she proves again the range of her talent in her first big cinema role!

Grad Invents Electrical Aid

Olsen Receives Credit in Design of New Microphone

Invention of a new type of microphone by Harry F. Olsen, an alumnus of the University of Iowa, is described in the January issue of "Electronics," a scientific magazine published monthly at New York city. Mr. Olsen received his B. A. and M. S. degrees and his doctorate in physics here.

Since his graduation he has been employed as a research man by the Radio Corporation of America.

The microphone he has invented is directional in nature, picking up sound in one direction only. Its advantage lies in recording sound pictures under noisy conditions, when it will pick up only the voices of the actors who stand directly before it.

Its physical pick-up is controlled by the velocity of the air particles, instead of by the pressure of the air.

The invention is described in "Electronics" as:

"An apparatus for converting sound vibrations to electrical vibrations by means of a body subjected at opposite sides to pressure variations and a baffle to provide a sound wave path between the opposite sides of the vibrating body equal to half the wave length of the highest frequency sound waves to be converted into electrical vibrations."

Sentence Four in Family on Charge of Coin Manufacturing

WEST UNION, Feb. 17 (AP)—Four members of one family were sentenced to indeterminate terms of 10 years each when they pleaded guilty here today to charges of manufacturing counterfeit coins.

Will Baar, 59, and his nephew, Wesley Ross, 38, will be imprisoned in Ft. Madison penitentiary. Baar's wife and their 18 year old daughter will go to Rockwell City reformatory.

The four were arrested Wednesday at a farm near here. The three Baars credited Ross, who came here recently from South Dakota, with the initiative and enterprise of the counterfeit venture.

Spurious coins have been circulating during the last eight months in Postville, Clermont, McGregor, Sumner and West Union.

Former Student to Take Dubuque Post

DUBUQUE, Feb. 17 (AP)—Stuart A. Mahuran today became managing editor of the Dubuque Telegraph Herald and Times Journal as successor to the late Edward G. Fairfield. ## Iowan Publishes Volume on Speech Defects, Stuttering

How stuttering influences the personality is set forth in a volume recently issued by the University of Iowa, with Wendell Johnson, researcher himself once bothered by the deficiency, as the author.

It represents the final report of study of 89 stutterers, 61 of whom were men. Ranging in age from 7 to 42 years, the average was 19 years, and about half were college students or graduates.

Johnson, now a staff member in speech pathology, realized that in order to grasp the full significance of stuttering it was necessary to go to the stuttermen themselves.

This he did, asking each person to relate frankly what was meant in terms of everyday experience by his muscular spasms, disorganized breathing, facial grimaces, and garbled utterances.

Pioneer Insurance Executive Dies

DES MOINES, Feb. 17 (AP)—J. C. Cummins, 81, pioneer insurance executive, died at his home here today. He was a brother of the late Senator Albert B. Cummins.

Heart disease was the cause of death. Mr. Cummins abandoned his legal practice to enter the insurance business in 1881. In 1890 he joined the Equitable Life Insurance company of Iowa as secretary. From 1912 until 1919, when he resigned because of ill health, Mr. Cummins was president of the company.

He is survived by his widow and three children, Frank S. of Chicago, and James A. of Des Moines, and Mrs. Roger G. Culbertson of Worland, Wyo.

Chemists to Show Slime Mold Films

A two reel film showing the types and life history of slime molds, made under the supervision of Frank L. Howard, graduate of the university, will be shown at the chemistry auditorium Monday, at 4 p.m. The showing will be conducted by Prof. G. W. Martin of the botany department, who will comment on the pictures.

Mr. Howard, holder of an International Research fellowship, received a Ph. D. degree here in 1930, and has since engaged in research work at Harvard where the pictures were made.

Cabinet Possibility

Frank L. Polk of New York, who is looming as an outstanding choice for secretary of state in the cabinet of President-elect Franklin D. Roosevelt. Polk, who was acting secretary of state under President Wilson, headed the American delegation to the peace conference at Paris in 1919.

Farm Head Raps Allotment Measure

DES MOINES, Feb. 17 (AP)—The domestic allotment bill, as shortened by a senate committee, "doesn't mean a thing to the corn belt," H. S. Winder of Salt Lake City, executive secretary of the American Farm Bureau federation, said here today.

"The measure has been so muddled up that the farm organizations find themselves in the position of being forced to repudiate our own proposal," the Farm Bureau executive said.

"Iowa agriculture can expect little or no help from the present congress," he asserted.

R.F.C. Buys Bridge Company's Bonds

WASHINGTON, Feb. 17 (AP)—Purchase of $600,000 of bonds of the Regional Bridge company, Kansas City, Missouri, was agreed upon today by the Reconstruction corporation, the money to be used for constructing a toll bridge over the Missouri river, at Kansas City, Kan.

The bonds will bear interest at five and one-half per cent.

Craigie Discusses Problems of Idiom Dictionary Writer

Could the term "bunkum" have originated in the senate? Or could a "caucus" have been a meeting of a boatmen's union? And when was a blizzard, such as was witnessed here last week, a blow on the head?

Such are the problems of Sir William A. Craigie of the University of Chicago, in compiling a dictionary of American idioms. In seven years, a mass of material covering thousands of words and expressions, has been studied in an effort to learn the derivation of words in common usage.

Senator From Bunkum

The story has it that there was once a senator from Bunkum who had a habit of speaking before the senate, regardless of whether anyone was listening or not. For, as he said, it mattered not if anyone listened, for he was "speaking for his Bunkum." Though Sir William regards the story lightly, it may offer a clue to the beginnings of our long winded senate speeches.

The caucus, as a political meeting, has been traced back to the term "corkas," which was used in Boston about 1760. From there it is a mystery. One explanation which has been offered is that it originated with the ship caulkers union, a group which became influential about that time.

"Blizzard," in the south, once meant a sharp, sudden blow on the head. It was first used by the editor of the Northern Vindicator, a paper printed in Estherville, to describe a snowstorm.

The expression "O.K." was once probably an abbreviation of a political term. Its origin has been attributed to Andrew Jackson. Almost immediately after it began to be used, in 1840, however, it was taken to mean satisfactory.

"Clear out" is an old shipping term. When a boat left harbor, it was said to "clear out." Now the term has been applied to many other cases. "Taboo" came out of the old lumber camps, where it used to be said when the river rose and carried the logs downstream, that it was "booming."

"Lynch Law"

"Lynch law" was first used by Edgar Allan Poe to describe the document drawn up by a certain Mr. Lynch and his neighbors, guaranteeing that they would uphold the peace at any cost!

Maverick was once a man's name; electioneer was a slang expression; prairie was once called savanna. All are hunted to their lairs and captured for Sir William's new dictionary.

By HARRY BURRELL

For the thirteenth time Coach George Bresnahan will lead his Iowa indoor track and field team into another season when he sends them against Drake's experienced squad at the field house at 1:50 this afternoon.

Although Drake has furnished strong opposition to former Hawkeye teams in state meets it will mark the first appearance of the Bulldog as a dual meet opponent. Coach "Pitch" Johnson will bring eight men who counted points in the state outdoor meet last year, including three champions from last year and three members of the record breaking mile relay team. Frank Smith ranks as a fourth state champion since he was 100 yard dash winner two years ago and appears to be ready to take up where he left off before injuries slowed him up last year.

Loss 13 Lettermen

Sidney Dean and Clyde Hutton, both second place winners last year, will lead the Iowa team which will see many new faces in the place of some of the old performers. With 13 lettermen listed among the graduates last year, Iowa will take this opportunity to test sophomores who must fill the places vacated by George Salting, Stuart Skowbo, La-Rue Thurston, Gordon Lagerquist, Oliver Hansen and a host of others.

One of the features of the meet will be the personal battle that the rival captains will stage in the 440 yard dash, Calvin Hoskinson, Old Gold leader, will match strides with the fast stepping Leonard Gallagher, state champion and co-holder of the record of .48 flat. Both men will have veterans to help them along for Bob Webb and Dean were in the state meet last year, Webb confining his activities to the third lap of the relay team.

Fairly Even

On paper the Drake team looks strong enough to take the measure of Iowa but too often the paper strength of a team is of little value on the track, so the two teams will answer the opening gun on about the same footing.

Fred Black, state titleholder in the shot put, and record holder as well, will team up with his teammate Harlan in an attempt to place one-two as they did in the outdoor meet a year ago.

Other Drake point winners include Paul Schneeman, broad jump champ who will continue his duel with Hutton of Iowa; Carol Johnston, winner of fourth place in the pole vault with a mark of 12 feet 6 inches to his credit this year; Ed Peterson, half miler and member of the relay team; Thompson and Jackson, miler who took third and fourth here last summer; and Smith who holds the state dash record.

The entries:

60 yard high hurdles—Drake: Piers, Stringfellow; Iowa: Tabb, Corcoran, Cochran, Bryant, Morrissey.

Mile run—Drake: Lockridge, Thompson, Jackson; Iowa: Bott, Campisi, Metcalf, Taylor, Mitalvsky, Carver.

Two mile run—Drake: McGee, Shoemaker; Iowa: Campisi, Schless, Metcalf, Murphy, Bannon, Taylor.

Broad jump—Drake: Stillwell, Scheneman, Cummings; Iowa: Smith, Hutton, McCleery, Schmidt, Loyman, Newman.

High jump—Drake: Smith, Schneeman; Iowa: Loyman, Bryant, Morrissey, Hutton, Bennison.

Pole vault—Drake: Johnston, Riepe; Iowa: Henry, Schmidt, Benson, Dower, Gibson.

Shot put—Drake: Smith, Black; Iowa: Moore, Kouba, Massey, Schammel, Masden, Cornog.

U. Hi Bows to West Liberty

Jensen Leads Team With 15 Markers for Best Total

By CHUCK GRAHAM

West Liberty dribbled, passed, and shot their way to an overwhelming victory last night over University high team at U. high gym, and returned with a 25 to 10 triumph. It was the cellar team against the league leaders in the Little Seven conference and the winners showed the sparse audience why they are in first place. U. high did not threaten seriously at any time, being practically helpless against the smooth offense and almost impregnable defense of the West Liberty quintet.

The river school team held its only lead of the entire game in the first minute of play when Zimmerman dropped in a field goal to counter-act Jensen's free throw and put the Blue into a one point advantage. From then on it was West Liberty's game. The locals did not cease to try but they could not cope with the visiting sharp shooters and they rested at the end of the first quarter with a six point deficit.

12 to 3 at Half

At the opening of the second stanza West Liberty shoved every conceivable type of shot towards the basket but few of them went for counters. U. high was unable to solve the tight defense of the visitors and was held to three points. The half ended with West Liberty on the short end of a 12 to 3 score. The Blue warriors made their only points on a pretty shot by Zimmerman and a free throw by Fuhrmeister.

West Liberty came back from the half period rest with a determination to make every shot count and they came close to setting a one hundred per cent record. Norman and Aiken both dropped in one each and then Jensen crashed through with three straight field goals. The West Liberty boys were stopped for an instant when they had to wait for Fuhrmeister to sink a gratis shot, but Norman ripped one through the net for the two final points of the quarter.

Last Period Slow

The fourth quarter was slow with West Liberty resting content on its large margin and the Blue warriors took advantage of substitutions and let down to outscore their opponents two to one. The final score of the game came shortly after Bob Myers dropped in his second field goal of the contest.

Myers was high man for the Blue with the low total of four points. He was the outstanding offensive Blue player while Fuhrmeister played a steady, cool game at guard.

Jensen Key Man

West Liberty's whole game was centered around a tall blond boy, Jensen, who played a stellar role at center. He totaled 15 points for the game honors and was highly instrumental in the perfection of the West Liberty machine. Hogan played a smooth game at forward for West Liberty and showed in four points. Hise, West Liberty forward, who only played at intervals, was a deceptive floor man and also added his team's outcome by three points.

Little Hawks Hold 13 to 1 Lead at Half

Chapman Takes High Point Honors for Local Team

By DEWEY CUMMINS

Setting up a defense that held its opponents scoreless from the court for three quarters the Iowa City High Little Hawks ended their 1932-33 Mississippi Valley conference schedule in great shape last night by defeating the fast Grant high quintet of Cedar Rapids 32 to 20.

The locals looked much the best when they held their opponents scoreless for the first 10 minutes of play before Nelson made a free throw on Christensen's foul for their only point in the first half. Two more charity tosses by Davis and Klumpar were their only other points before the end of the third quarter.

Reserves Finish

Coach George Wells sent his reserves in shortly after the fourth quarter started and the Panthers scored freely until the last two minutes of play when the first team went back in and bottled them up again.

Chapman, Little Hawk center, who has been in a scoring slump for several weeks, broke loose last night to grab high point honors with four field goals and one charity toss. Soucek was closely watched by Captain Meyn of Grant high and only got two field goals.

Meyn, Grant's Best

Little Jack Willard, after being held scoreless in the first half, hit his stride in the last period to get three beautiful field goals. Every Little Hawk man played a great defensive game last night. Captain Meyn playing at guard was the outstanding man on the visiting team making three field goals and one free throw for high points and also playing a nice defensive game.

Don Chapman opened the scoring shortly after the game started when he followed in on Brown's free throw for a shot under the basket. Brown contributed another point on a charity toss.

One field goal by Christensen and two by Soucek brought the score to 9 to 0 for the Little Hawks as the first quarter ended. Chapman's follow in shot and Brown's free throw increased the local's total to 12 before Nelson dropped in a charity toss for the visitors' first point 10 minutes after the starting gun.

The Panther coach substituted freely during the second half in an attempt to find a combination that would penetrate the Little Hawk defense. Chapman made another free throw before the half ended with the Red and White leading 13 to 1.

Coach George Wells' men continued to run the game in the second half when Willard dropped in a beauty from the side of the court. Chapman added four points when he tipped two shots in under the basket.

Willard's two field goals and Brown's follow in shot brought the Little Hawks' total to 25 before the Panthers registered their third point on Davis' free throw as the third quarter ended. Captain Meyn opened the final period with a charity toss for Cedar Rapids before Ballard scored a free throw.

Panthers Score

Paul Mutchler, City high substitute forward, made his first field goal of the season when he tipped in a beauty under the basket. The Little Hawk reserves were unable to hold the Grant high scoring machine that had been stopped so completely by the first team and the Panthers scored at will.

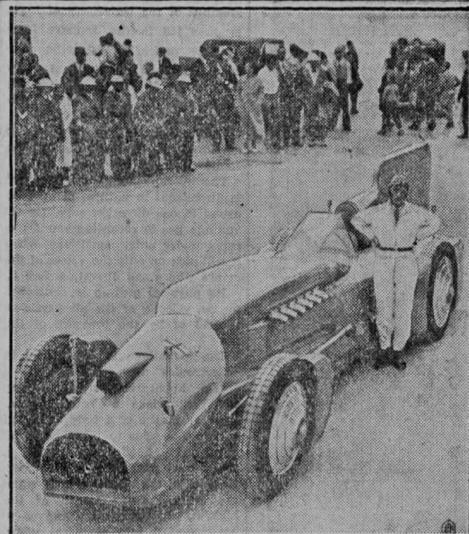

Two field goals by Mullin, two charity tosses by Kaplin, three field goals by Captain Meyn, and two by Nelson, brought the visitors' score to 20 while the Little Hawks gathered four points to lead 32 to 20 as the final whistle blew.

AS CAMPBELL TESTED BLUEBIRD

Out for his first test run in the rebuilt racing car, Bluebird II, Sir Malcolm Campbell is shown on the speedway at Daytona Beach, Fla., just before he gave the giant racer its initial tryout. Sir Malcolm, who announced he would make no attempt to set a new mark on the run flashed over the 2-kilometer course at a speed of 212.68 miles an hour. The daring driver expressed satisfaction at the behavior of the car. He will attempt to better his present record of 254 miles an hour when beach conditions are favorable.

Cyclone Wrestlers Swamp Hawkeye Grapplers, 34 to 0

Minkel, Johnson, O'Leary Only Iowans to Avert Falls; Hess Moves Up to Heavyweight Division to Defeat Righter

By GENE THORNE (Sports Editor, The Daily Iowan)

AMES, Feb. 17.—Scoring five falls and three decisions, Iowa State's powerful Cyclone wrestlers shut out a fighting Iowa team here tonight 34 to 0. In only one match did the Hawkeyes threaten, when Bill Minkel, Old Gold grappler fought to an overtime match with Smith only to lose at the end of 16 minutes by a narrow margin of seconds.

To Capt. "Swede" Johnson went one of the Iowa decision losses when he lost to Prevost of Ames in a hard fought match, the Cyclone having too much reserve for the Old Gold leader. In the only other match in which the Hawkeyes were able to avert a fall, John O'Leary lost the referee's decision to Mechem of Iowa State. Coach Hugo Otchopile, Cyclone coach switched Mechem from heavy to 175 and Hess up to heavy in a strategic move that gained him two wins instead of a possible one.

Quick Falls

The Cyclones, who have already shut out Nebraska 38 to 0 and whipped Indiana 23 to 8, started out the meet as if to justify their claim to possible national recognition, Gibson, 113 pound flash tossing Pfeffer of Iowa in 2:29. The next victim was Bill Sedlacek, Hawkeye 126 pounder, who lost a speedy fall to Golden of the Cyclones.

After Minkel's long overtime loss, the Cyclones continued on their rampage as Rosenberg, Ames flash, threw Heller of Iowa in 5:38. Heller was knocked unconscious during the match but came back to finish the bout scrapping.

Whinnery Too Light

Spotting Martin of Ames 12 pounds proved too much for the Old Gold ace, Randall Whinnery, and he lost a fall to the Big Six 165 pound champion, 28 seconds before the match was at end. Whinnery had the upper hand at the start but in the long run could not cope with the superior strength and weight of the Ames man.

Hess, Iowa State's Olympic wrestler and intercollegiate A.A.U. champion, barged right into Pat Righter, Iowa's 155 pound heavyweight and pinned the Hawkeye in 5:12 with a reverse body lock and half nelson. With the score 29 to 0 for Iowa State as his match came up the Old Gold grappler seemed to have little to strive for, however Righter gave Hess severe going before falling into the Cyclone's favorite body lock hold.

The summary:

118—Gibson (IS) threw Pfeffer (I) in 2:29 with reverse headlock and body lock.
126—Golden (IS) threw Sedlacek (I) in 2:52 with armlock.
135—Smith (IS) defeated Minkel (I) in overtime 16 minute match.
145—Rosenberg (IS) threw Heller (I) in 5:08 with head scissor.
155—Prevost (IS) defeated Johnson (I), referee's decision.
165—Martin (IS) threw Whinnery (I) in 9:32 with body scissor and reverse headlock.
175—Mechem (IS) won split period decision over O'Leary (I).
Heavyweight—Hess (IS) threw Righter (I) in 5:12 with reverse body lock and half nelson.

Fourth Period Rally Nips St. Mary's, 25-23

Clinton Five Overcomes 17 to 9 Lead in Final Spurt

By RON TALLMAN (Assistant Sports Editor)

CLINTON, Feb. 17.—After trailing 17 to 9 at the end of the third quarter, St. Mary's of Clinton kept a capacity crowd roaring for eight solid minutes as they rallied to pull out with a 25 to 23 win over St. Mary's of Iowa City here last night.

It was the sensational accuracy of Red McConnell, Clinton guard, on long shots in that final period that spelled disaster to the visitors. Injuring his ankle early in the game only seemed to give the fighting red head a better eye as he shot two long shots that pulled his team two long shots that uted his team up within two points of a tie.

At the beginning of the fourth quarter McConnell, Barrett, Murphy and Burke scored on long shots so quickly that the score was tied at 17 apiece before the Ramblers could score again. Bob Bradley dropped in a free throw, Consamus scored from under the basket, Maher followed in on a missed free throw and Dick Lumsden added another free throw to give the visitors a 23 to 17 lead.

Here it was that McConnell dropped in two from past the center of the floor and Larkin twice dribbled in for baskets, the last coming with less than a minute to play.

St. Mary's of Iowa City started slowly and built up an alright defense that allowed the Clinton team but one field goal and three free throws in the first half which ended 14 to 5 for the Iowa City team. The same tight defense prevailed throughout the third period when the local team could count but two field goals. But then came that rally that nothing could stop and all this fine work went for nothing.

Man for man and as a team the invaders had it all over the home team but when a team gets the hot streak that the winners did nothing can prevail against it. Practically all the points with the exception of Larkin's two dribble-ins were from beyond the center of the floor. Larkin and McConnell tied for high scoring honors with eight points each, closely followed by Vic Belger with seven. Lanky Caesar Consamus scored six points, one more than did Joe Maher, Rambler captain.

Postpone Play in Volleyball

Class B Cagers Meet Again on Monday; Polo in View

Another bit of interference in the scheduling of Greek athletic contests popped into being yesterday and the volleyball league which was originally slated to begin this afternoon will get going during this week to suit the convenience of the teams because of the Drake-Iowa indoor track meet at the field house today. Class B basketball games are postponed until Monday night.

The Greek cagers will see action when Pi Kappa Alpha meets Sigma Nu and Delta Tau Delta tangles with Theta Tau beginning at 7:30 and Phi Kappa Sigma mixes with Alpha Tau Omega at 8:15, on Monday night.

The postponed volleyball fray find the following pairings: Theta Tau vs. Delta Chi, Gamma Alpha vs. Delta Sigma Pi, Sigma Chi vs. Phi Chi, and Sigma Phi Epsilon vs. Pi Kappa Alpha. "Dad" Schroeder states that these games should be run off as soon as possible in order not to interfere with the remainder of the schedule.

Another basketball league is in the offing. The independents will soon be mustering their forces for several weeks hard play, the beginning of which will occur after the first of the month.

Several rules of play have been set down.

1. A player must be registered in the university.
2. Varsity players are ineligible.
3. Letter winners from other schools are ineligible.
4. Only two men from any single organization may compete on an independent team.

Entries for this tournament, a round robin affair, are receivable until Feb. 28. Call "Dad" Schroeder for further information. Twelve teams competed in the league last year.

The advent of water polo will soon take place also. Entry blanks will be mailed over the week end for this event, to close on March 3.

Six sports are yet left for fraternity competition this spring including tennis, both singles and doubles, track and field, baseball, kitenball, canoe race, and possibly archery. Won't be long before the corner jots will be resounding to the whack of hickory on the old leather sphere.

The count was knotted 17 all in the middle of the last period. The home team again spurred and baskets by Poole and Belknap clinched the tit-

Bastian Tops All Scorers in Eight of Fourteen Games

High scorer of both teams is the position attained by Howard Bastian, University of Iowa center, in eight of the 14 Hawkeye basketball games, while he shared honors with a team mate in another contest.

Bastian's campaign will be continued against two of the conference's best centers, each almost as big as the Iowa—Ed Garner of Michigan at Ann Arbor Saturday and Wilmer Hosket of Ohio State at Columbus Monday.

In compiling his record, Bastian scored as follows: Bradley Tech, 14; Drake, 13; Carleton, 11; Purdue at Lafayette, 10; Chicago at Chicago, 13; St. Ambrose, 16; Creighton, 13; Chicago at Iowa City, 14 (tied with Barko); and Wisconsin at Iowa City, 15.

Cage Tourney Ends Tonight

Cosgrove Team Nips Washington to Enter Finals

Cosgrove won the right to stack up against Sharon in the finals of the Johnson county cage tourney tonight with a convincing 30 to 11 victory over Washington Center last night as a preliminary game to the University High-West Liberty fray at U-High gymnasium.

The Cosgrove five are matched tonight with a hard driving Sharon crew, which plays for the basket with little attention to the defense and if Hochstetler, point-gaining guard for the latter five gets going, the favored Cosgrove team may have hard sledding. The finals start directly following the consolation finals between Lone Tree and Oxford.

The winners uncorked some fine basketball during the first half and had a substantial lead built up at the whistle. Their margin at the start of the last half was by 15 to 3, but it wasn't enough, for the white suited boys came back for 15 more in the last two frames to trounce their opponents under a landslide of baskets.

Eichrich totaled 11 markers for the Cosgrove five to lead the scoring for the game. Most of his shots were from under the basket or on hard drives for the bankboard. He was ably supported by Burns and Hozer, collecting six counters apiece.

H. Reber and Yoder were the supporting scorers for the losers, caging five and four respectively. Valk and Hogan showed well on the defense for the Cosgrove team staying off Washington Center rallies during the last half and confining their opponents to eight points, most of them on free throws, during this time. Numerous fouls were called as the result of considerable rough play on the part of both teams.

All of the scoring for the losing side in the first three periods was done by way of the free throw line. Five points by Valk and Reber were converted during this time from the foul circle.

Four unbeaten Hawkeyes will be risking their records: Busby in diving, Captain Nielson in the dash, Anderson in the 220, and Grove in the 400 yard relay. The 400 yard relay team has also not been beaten.

Huge Crowd Pays Schaaf Last Homage

Legionnaires, Marines, Notables Join in Final Rites

By BILL KING (Associated Press Staff Writer)

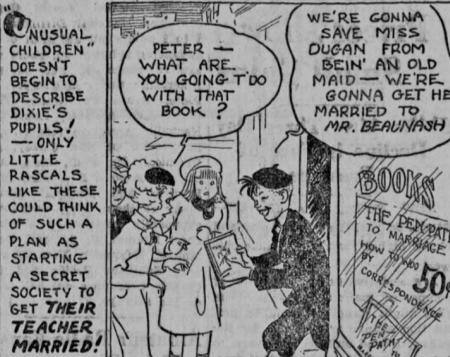

WRENTHAM, Mass., Feb. 17 (AP)—All of the honors in the power of a community were paid to Ernie Schaaf today when the inhabitants of this, his home town, joined hundreds of notable outsiders at his funeral.

A cortege of automobiles, two miles long, escorted the body of the boxer from the Schaaf home to a country church and thence to the cemetery.

Legionnaires stood at attention as the flag draped hearse drew up to St. Mary's church. Two flag bearers, members of the navy firing squad and a detail of the town's firemen preceded the gray casket, followed into the edifice by the boxer's parents, his brothers, and sisters. Jack Sharkey, heavyweight champion, and the others in the funeral procession.

Huge Crowd Johnny Buckley, who managed Schaaf with Sharkey, was one of the eight pallbearers. The others were his brother Jerry, John Flanagan, Jack McCarthy, member of the Buckley stable, Michael McNamee, Dr. William F. McGuire, Frank Connors and Jacob Fine.

Barriers Raised, Milk Lost in Wisconsin Price Battle

Factories, Creameries Forced to Suspend Operations

MILWAUKEE, Feb. 17 (AP)—Milk trickled down roadside ditches, a bullet whizzed close to the head of a Milwaukee truck driver and timber barriers across highways appeared today in the efforts of the Wisconsin cooperative milk pool to force a price of $1.40 per hundred pounds on milk producers.

In Outagamie county, stronghold of the milk pool, the strike became increasingly effective. About 35 cheese factories, creameries and condenseries in the county had closed, 300 farmers were patrolling the highways, and for the first time there arose a possibility that householders of Appleton, New London and Neenah would not be able to get all the dairy products they wanted from the milk man.

The shot at the milk truck was fired at Cedarburg, near Milwaukee, from the center of the milk pool's strength. Harold Wolbit, truck driver, saw packing boxes on the pavement in front of him. He drove through, and as his wheels crushed the boxes a shot from the side of the road struck his machine.

In the Milwaukee area, where the milk pool's membership is comparatively small, milk consuming citizens were bewildered by a fight between farmers cooperatives. The Milwaukee Milk Producers' association, not participating in the strike, condemned the pool for fomenting trouble in an orderly and established market. Organized farmers serving Milwaukee its milk served notice that "law and order" will be preserved. Sheriff Joseph Shinnors also is determined that order be preserved and today his deputies escorted milk trucks to the city from the Cedarburg area to the north. Farmers south and west of the city so far have shown little sympathy for the strike.

The most intensive picketing is taking place in Outagamie county, where today Walter M. Stinzer, president of the pool, today went jubilantly from group to group assuring farmers that "we're about ready to move to other counties and pretty soon we'll cross state lines with this demonstration."

Missouri Downs Sooner COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP)—The University of Missouri Tigers knocked the Oklahoma Sooners into a tie with Kansas for leadership in the Big Six conference basketball race by piling up a big lead and then protecting it to win 40 to 30 tonight.

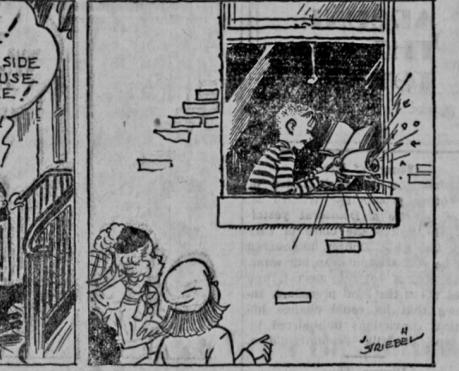

OSKALOOSA (AP)—The Peñon college cagers provided the chief topic of the Iowa conference basketball season tonight by shearing the half record of the Iowa State Teachers quintet with a 44 to 40 decision.

Laws Leads Batters With .325 Average

When the University of Iowa baseball batting averages for the season of 1932 were released last night by Coach Otto Vogel, it was disclosed that Joe Laws, outfielder, led with a .325 average gained while taking part in 10 games.

Frank Drager, shortstop, was one point behind with a .324 mark. Drager took part in nine games. "Ham" Schulteheirich, second baseman, made the most hits, played in every game, 14, and ranked third, hitting at a .317 clip.

Of the nine lettermen who are returning, only three took part in every game, Capt. Mike Riegert, Dutch Schmidt and Ham Schulteheirich.

Although Bill Riecke, pitcher, only knocked out five hits, two of them were timely home runs.

The following averages are of the lettermen who will be back for this year's team:

THE CHALLENGE OF LOVE by WARWICK DEEPIING

SYNOPSIS Dr. John Wolfe, old Dr. Montague Threadgold's assistant, is stunned at the unsanitary conditions he finds in the smug little town of Navestock. Wolfe calls it his greatest fight in ridding the town of pollution will be in overcoming the resentful attitude of the people themselves who seem perfectly satisfied with their mode of living. He encounters his first obstacle in the person of Jasper Turrell, the brewer, who objects to Wolfe taking a sample of his well water for analysis. Undaunted by opposition, Wolfe continues his researches and prepares a map of the town's unsanitary areas. The one bright spot in Navestock is the home of Mrs. Mary Mascall where Wolfe is always sure of a welcome. He is exceptionally fond of Mrs. Mascall's young daughter, Jess. Wolfe is summoned to the home of elderly Miss Perffement, who feigns heart attacks to attract attention. She is annoyed when Wolfe does not humor her and tells her there is no cause for alarm. Later, Dr. Threadgold insists that Wolfe be more tactful. The blundering old man cautions Wolfe against using so much "expensive" medicines when the "ordinary" preparations will do.

CHAPTER SIXTEEN Wolfe had the curiosity to look up Miss Perffement's record in the day-book and account ledger. He found a great number of entries. They occurred with valuable regularity, like the entry "Dined out" in the diary of a precise old bachelor.

Miss Perffement. Attendance. Mist. Antipas, VIII. Miss Perffement's maid. Advice. Pil. Cal. Sac. Haust. Mag. Sulph. Miss Perffement's dog. Advice. Unguent. Sulph. Miss Perffement. Att. Mist. Aqua Sac. VIII.

Such were these entries, and Wolfe smiled over them—placebos, sugared waters, and sulphur for the lady's pug. The account ledger showed that Dr. Threadgold's exchequer profited heavily by Miss Perffement's "heart." She was a valuable patient, and worth humoring. Wolfe closed the ledger with a slam.

Wolfe had many things to worry him when he made his way to George Lane on the afternoon of the day of his visit to Miss Perffement. George Lane ran close to Turrell's brewery, and at the back of the lane were the brewery stables, where the great, black draft horses had their quarters. Piled against the low brick wall that closed the back yards of George Lane lay the refuse from Turrell's stables. It was allowed to accumulate there for months at a time.

As Burgess the cobbler said to Wolfe: "It's treating us like pigs, sir. You can't get away from the smell—now, it's in your food; it goes to bed with you, and you get up with it in the morning."

Wolfe had suggested an appeal to Mr. Turrell. "Speak to him! What's the use, sir! Ain't we his tenants?" "Well he ought to clear it out."

"Clear me out first, sir. Turrell won't put up with a grumbler."

It happened that Wolfe walked straight into Jasper Turrell at the corner of Malt Lane. The battle of Virginia Court had been fought a week ago, but Wolfe stopped and nailed his man.

"Mr. Turrell, may I have a word with you?"

"Twenty, sir, if you want to apologize."

"It's about that stable-yard of yours at the back of George Lane."

"Oh, is it?"

"I don't suppose, sir, you know the conditions there."

Turrell drew in a breath, and his cheeks showed hollows.

"Look here, sir, what do you mean?"

"I mean, sir, that that yard of yours—"

"Upon my word, it is absolutely preposterous—a young fellow coming into a town like this, and trying to teach all of us our business. Dr. Threadgold is the responsible person here. Remember that, sir, and take yourself a little less seriously."

His eyes threatened Wolfe, and Wolfe looked at him curiously.

"It is to your interest, sir, as much as to anybody else's."

"Oh, is it? Well, you leave it at that. See?"

Wolfe was in a mood of deep disgust as he rode out towards Herongate to pay a last visit to the shepherd who had been ill in his cottage on Tarring Moor. Certain things that had happened in Navestock during the week had made Wolfe ask himself what was the use of attempting to better the state of such a town. Some of the people whom he had tried to help had turned and snapped at him. He had contrived to make himself more enemies because of his frankness in dealing with facts.

There was the case of Mrs. Lucy Gollop, who took in babies to nurse at twopence a day. Wolfe was called to her cottage to find five infants half-dead from overdoses of opium. Mrs. Gollop was in tears.

"Oh, dear, doctor, I can't think what's come to the poor little souls. They won't wake up, sir, they won't wake up."

"What have you been dosing them with?"

"They were so fretful-like, and the neighbours be that nasty. The poor dears do scream—"

"Show me the bottle."

The overflowing creature snivelled about the room.

"Ere his Palfrey's cordial."

"I thought so much. Where did you get that?"

"At Mr. Hubbard's, doctor."

Then had followed ministrations upon the part of Wolfe to the narcotized infants in the deal boxes, a process that had entailed energetic rescue work in the mixed atmosphere of Mrs. Gollop's cottage. A neighbour had been sent running to Burrell's the chemist's, in High Street. Wolfe, minus coat and waistcoat, had put a foot through a rotten board in the floor and discovered other rottenness to disgust him. Later had come the adjournment to Mr. Hubbard's general shop, and the asking of direct and important questions.

Mr. Hubbard was a good little man with a religion and no morals. He had one of those big, round, hairless faces, mild as a full moon, and very solemn. He blundered along cheerfully in the path that his predecessors had followed, selling groceries, hardware, clothing, and drugs. The cheerful innocence with which he handled these things was characteristic of the man and his surroundings. That bottles containing tinctures of nux vomica and senna stood next to each other in a dark corner gave him no qualms of alarm. He kept kegs of plaster of Paris and white arsenic next to each other in his store-room. Old women stood under a bladders of lard, bundles of brushes, and hanging clusters of pails and coal-scuttles, and bought packets of Glauber-salts and rhubarb powder, and bottles with gaudy labels that contained—Heaven knows what.

Wolfe had shown Mr. Hubbard the bottle of cordial, and Mr. Hubbard had blinked at him across the counter. His white apron cut his white waistcoat in two, and above the dividing line protruded pencils, a cheese scoop, an order book, and a red-leather spectacle case.

"I suppose you sell a good deal of this?"

"We do, sir, we do. It is very popular."

"Do you know what it contains?"

Mr. Hubbard had asserted that it was not his business to know such things.

Wolfe had enlightened him. "Treachure, infusion of sassafras, and opium."

Furthermore, Wolfe had made certain statements that had left pink wrath upon Mr. Hubbard's face. Perhaps Wolfe was unfortunate in his methods of expression, but elderly men in Mr. Hubbard's position do not care to be told that they cannot escape responsibility by pretending to be ignorant.

Later in the day Mr. Hubbard had toddled up to Prospect House, a respectable citizen, with a still more respectable grievance.

"To be spoken to, sir, like that, sir, in my own shop, sir! I'm not an analytical chemist, sir, but I'm a conscientious man, sir, and I've been here thirty years."

Dr. Threadgold and Mr. Hubbard had mingled sympathy and indignation. Nor would Wolfe have felt old Threadgold's scolding so much had not the woman Gollop arrived that evening and accused Wolfe of hinting "that she had poisoned the poor babes." There had been a further scene with Threadgold, and Wolfe had gone to his bedroom in great disgust.

Over Tarring Moor a thunder-bolt was passing, with the blue blur of a clearing shower trailing over the distant uplands. Lightning still flickered about Beacon Hill, and the thunder rumbled southwards, with the sound as of an army retreating under the cover of its smoking guns. Great streams of sunlight came splashing down on the world out of a vivid west. There was moisture everywhere, on the trees, the grass, the roses over the cottage doors, on the wet tiles and the glistening thatch. Pools in the road shone like shields of gold, thrown away in the thunderlight. The warm, wet earth streamed perfumes.

It was under the beech trees beyond Beacon Hill that Wolfe overtook Jess Mascall, a bag of books in her hand, her mouse-grey skirt and bodice splashed by the rain. The sunlight came under the brim of her straw hat and made her face very white and clear. It was a pleasure to see her feet go to and fro under the shabby grey skirts; for she was so slim and straight from the hips downwards that she could run like a boy. The beech leaves shook their rain drops into her hair, and the blurred sunlight played about her face.

As she turned and looked up at Wolfe under the beechwood shade the white line of her chin and throat were the curves of romance and daring.

"Hallo!"

Her absolute healthiness, and a certain adventurous audacity in her eyes rallied him.

Open Break Seen in Jap-League Fight

Leaders Plan Solemn Censure for War Operations

GENEVA, Feb. 17 (AP)—The League of Nations told the whole world today by its own wireless telegraph of the plan of its leaders for a pronouncement of solemn censure upon Japan for her military action against China, and for a peaceful settlement of the dangerous conflict in the far east.

Yosuke Matsuoka, special counsel for Japan, announced less than an hour after publication of the League's proposals that his government would not accept the recommendations for peace.

Must Have Jehol
"There never was any question of Japan's accepting the report," he said. "To protect Manchukuo we must possess the chief town of Jehol. The only way to get peace is for the Chinese to withdraw their troops from Jehol."

"We will fight if we have to. I have heard that there are about 150,000 Chinese troops in Jehol, but one Japanese is worth 10 Chinese. All Chinese soldiers are bandits."

No Instructions
Mr. Matsuoka avoided questions concerning Japan's plans for withdrawal from the League, saying he had received no instructions to withdraw.

"Nobody in the league wants Japan to leave," he said, "and Japan does not want to leave, but if the League creates certain circumstances, the League may compel Japan to leave."

Military Schedule
The conquest of the province of Jehol, which lies between Manchuria and China proper, is the next item on Japan's announced military schedule.

Chinese spokesmen accepted the League's settlement proposals as vindication of their nation's policy. But difficulty developed with the Soviet Russian representative, who indicated that his government had little faith in the new plan for a settlement of the conflict which has disturbed the far east almost a year and a half.

Grain Market Prices Show Slight Gains

CHICAGO, Feb. 17 (AP)—Corn prices ran briskly upward a cent a bushel today, and rural holders seized the chance to realize cash on the largest business this season.

Likelihood that the house of representatives at Washington would give quick approval Monday to the prohibition repeal bill which passed the senate yesterday was largely responsible for the action of the corn market. Proposed legislation to facilitate manufacture of corn alcohol for automobile use acted also as a strengthening influence on values.

Corn closed firm but at some setback from the day's top 1-4-3-4 above yesterday's finish, wheat unchanged to 1-4 up, oats 1-4 advanced and provisions unchanged to a decline of 2 cents.

Concentrated speculative purchasing of corn went hand in hand with the jump in prices. One big trader was credited with buying a million bushels of future deliveries. In some quarters, this buying was regarded as an offset to previous heavy sales on his part. A contributing stimulus to price upturns was word from Buenos Aires that the corn harvest in northern Argentina showed very poor returns.

Closing of so called "spread" trades had an important effect both on corn and wheat prices, helping to ease wheat and simultaneously hoist corn. Deferred deliveries of corn were in particular demand, with September contracts gaining half a cent on July at one time. It was estimated that upward of 1,000,000 bushels of corn to arrive in Chicago has been bought so far this week.

Provisions were steadied by upturns of hog values.

Closing indemnities: Wheat—May 47 1-2-5-8, 48 3-8-1-2; July 48 1-4, 49-49 1-8; September 49 3-8-1-2, 50 1-4. Corn—May 25 3-4, 26 1-8-1-4; July 27 7-8 offers.

Arrest Six Men on Conspiracy Counts After Farm Sale

ALEDO, Ill., Feb. 17 (AP)—Six men were arrested today on conspiracy charges resulting from a mortgage foreclosure sale at which $21.41 was paid for farm property on which more than $2,000 allegedly had been previously bid.

One of those arrested was Ray Westerdale, tenant farmer at Reynolds, Ill., on whose farm the sale of livestock and implements was held Feb. 4. Indictments charged that force was used to prevent competitive bidding.

Westerdale's two brothers, Harry of Altoona and Claude of Galesburg, were also arrested, along with John Walker of Viola, Harry Kell of Aledo and Ellis Doonan of Reynolds. Bonds were fixed at $1,000 each.

AROUND THE TOWN with DON PRYOR

Change of Heart

Without benefit of litigation or any other proceeding, Willard M. Miller became a Democrat yesterday. He visited the office of City Clerk George J. Dohrer, announced that he was a Republican but wanted to change to a Democrat, and asked about the legal procedure. Informed that he could change his political convictions unhindered by red tape, Mr. Miller promptly did so.

Dinner Time

The Forty and Eight club didn't consume all the food on hand at the dinner Thursday night. Hence tasty viands, including potato salad, ham, cream, bread, and butter, were contributed to the Red Cross. They were gone before the office closed. Other contributions yesterday were three dozen handkerchiefs and a blue-shaded kerosene lamp.

Backfire

An oil truck belonging to J. K. Duncan backfired at 11 a.m. yesterday and burst into flames, but the fire was extinguished before any damage was done. The truck is mounted on a model T Ford chassis.

Braver, Braver

One man was seen on the streets yesterday with his overcoat unbuttoned all the way down; another was actually strutting down the street with no overcoat whatever.

ASSEMBLY

Quashes Move Against Beer Bill Plan

tion of this legislation "it is expedient and necessary" that at this time work be begun to prepare a bill for the Iowa general assembly, and provided that the committee of eight be named to start the work.

The committee's bill would be for presentation to the present general assembly and would be for the "modification, repeal or enactment of such other laws affecting the sale, manufacture, distribution and consumption of beer, or other intoxicating liquors as the committee may deem expedient."

Fralley's resolution also would allow the bill which the committee would draft to be introduced after the time set as the last date for the introduction of bills.

It also was reported in legislative circles today that a bill is being drafted to fix state control of all kinds of intoxicating beverages. The mechanism of enforcement was being worked out as was a differentiation between control of beer and light wines and liquor with a high alcoholic content.

The senate spent its morning and a part of its afternoon session in discussing the Beatty-Bennett bill to fix a maximum of 15 mills tax on the assessed valuation of property, exclusive of the levies required for state and city purposes and fixed payments, and to create county review bodies to be known as tax reduction councils.

Action was deferred until Monday when several members said they desired more time to study the measure, which members of the tax committee said was one of the most important on their program. The bill to re-enact the portion of the state law dealing with the third cent of the state gasoline tax was the only measure passed by the upper house.

Recommends Measure
The senate ways and means committee recommended for passage the Patterson income tax bill. The measure, which would set up higher rates and lower exemptions than the one proposed last year, has been discussed in several public hearings before the committee.

The house today passed eight measures including five by the committee on conservation and two legalizing bills. It also favored the Fabritz bill providing that motor vehicle licenses become delinquent February 1, instead of January 1.

The conservation bills would give the state board of conservation the right to regulate traffic in state parks and on state waters, to beautify state owned waters, to employ peace officers, to fix the level of dams and spillways at the outlets of lakes and rivers and to receive the proceeds from the sale of state lands.

Without a record vote the house adopted a senate amendment to the resolution for the spring recess which will be from Feb. 24 to March 6. The house originally set the return date as March 2.

Bills Introduced
Bills introduced in the lower branch included a series by Representative Paisley of Lee, abolishing the extra allowance to clerks, recorders and county attorneys who maintain two offices within a county. The counties affected would be Lee and Pottawattamie. He also would eliminate the extra compensation allowed deputy clerks in such counties and would fix the pay of court reporters at $10 per day, abolishing the minimum of $2,400 which may be paid.

A bill by Representative Fuesser of Ida would eliminate judgments in a mortgage foreclosure and would prohibit issuance of an order of general execution.

The house printing committee today voted to recommend indefinite postponement on the tax reduction bill requiring uniformity in county records and blanks.

Although a number of bills are on the lower branch calendar, it is planned by leaders to consider nothing of a controversial nature at tomorrow's session. This will mean that the Durant bill abolishing the legislative expense act and the bills of the committee on compensation of public officers will lay over until the first of the week. The latter measures propose a 5 to 2 1/2 per cent cut for all elective state, county, city and township officers with but several exceptions.

The senate has no session tomorrow.

After the meeting, the directors named the following officers and directors: Prof. H. L. Rietz, president; Henry G. Walker, vice president; Glenn R. Griffith, secretary; Thomas Farrell, treasurer; W. ## Girls Club Leaders Will Meet to Outline Organization Projects

Setting up new organizations and reorganizing old ones will be the task of the Johnson county girls club leaders at a meeting Tuesday at 1 p.m. in the Farm bureau office in the post office building.

Mrs. Edith Backer, state extension worker, will direct the various committee-women in outlining club projects for the year. Plans for the training school on the canning of meat to be given March 13 by Helen Swinney will be formulated. Establishing of new clubs and drawing up a tentative schedule for February 1, instead of January 1. 4-H club activities will constitute the work of the club leaders at the meeting.

Stock Market Prices Show Small Gains

Shifts After Three Day Decline in Face of Pressure

NEW YORK, Feb. 17 (AP)—Stocks felt a little better today and closed higher for the first time this week.

A speculative flurry in equities of companies manufacturing products that might stand to benefit by prohibition change and a boost for the rails provided sufficient leverage to bring a general assortment of fractional to 2 point net gains, though volume totaled only 653,795 shares.

The shift in market direction, after a three day decline, was in the face of continued pressure against dollars from a number of foreign currencies, and a weak government bond list. Corn gave commodities some assistance, that staple moving ahead under impetus of prohibition repeal enthusiasm, while wheat firmed narrowly.

Calm in Selling

Stocks apparently looked with greater equanimity of selling on dollars, even though some foreign monies reached quotations that would make profitable gold exports from this country. Bankers attributed the sharp reversal in trend to European alarms over the attempted assassination of Mr. Roosevelt, pointing out that in foreign quarters the incident might be regarded as having a political significance not accorded it here. Doubtless, also, the banking in Michigan had caused some unsettlement abroad and the current combination of factors, it was assumed, has revived professional speculation against dollars.

Moderately Steady

Shares were moderately steady until the later afternoon hours, when short covering, based on the earlier tone, became a little more vigorous. Owens Illinois Glass, U. S. Industrial Alcohol, Crown Cork & Seal and National Distillers lifted 1 to 2 points but did most of their advancing before noon. There was a similar range of net gains for American Can, McKeesport Tin Plate, Santa Fe, Union Pacific, Chesapeake & Ohio, Louisville & Nashville, American Telephone, Public Service of New Jersey, Allied Chemical, Du Pont, Case, American Tobacco "B" Westinghouse Electric and National Biscuit—many of them being stocks which supposedly harbored a substantial short interest. U. S. Steel, General Motors, Harvester, New York Central, Southern Pacific and Union Carbide were up about half a point on the average.

Amateur Radio Fans Make Plans to Join National Relay Group

Plans for affiliation with the American Radio Relay League were made known at the regular weekly meeting of the amateur radio fans of Iowa City at 7:30 p.m. Thursday in the American Legion Community building.

Interest in radio technique is the only requirement for anyone who wishes to learn the radio code. A beginners' class will be held at the next regular meeting, in addition to a round table discussion of five meter work. Another oscillator has been volunteered by H. Marcus Sutton, besides the one E. J. O'Brien furnishes for the regular practice.

Those present at the last meeting were George S. Carsen, R. Warren Fisher, B. F. Gibney, Paul E. Griffith, W. L. Haynie, Harold Jones, E. J. O'Brien, Max Otto, H. Marcus Sutton, Victor C. Sooms, A. M. Jonas, and A. S. Casper.

Absent Voters Ballots Ready

Application Made by Person or Mail to City Clerk

City Clerk George J. Dohrer announced yesterday that ballots for absent and disabled voters are now ready at his office for the city primary election Feb. 27. The ballots may be applied for by mail or in person and the clerk will mail them to the applicants, postage prepaid.

When the voter receives his ballot by mail a notary public must be present at the time he marks his choice, said Mr. Dohrer. The voter then folds his ballot, places it in the envelope, seals the letter, and before the witness subscribes himself to an affidavit printed on the envelope's reverse side.

The ballot must then be delivered to the clerk or his assistant by the voter, or mailed directly to the clerk in an envelope provided for that purpose. No third person is eligible in any way to have a part in the voting process, said the clerk.

Absent voters who desire may go directly to the city clerk's office and vote. It is desirable that such ballots be called for and returned at once.

Commission to Get Bids

AMES, (AP)—The state highway commission announced it will receive bids Feb. 28 for 2,000,000 gallons of gasoline, 90,000 gallons of lubricating oil and 46,000 pounds of grease for the year beginning April 1. Bids also will be received for 21,400 pounds of timothy-alsike mixture, 14,400 pounds of smooth bluegrass, 5,300 pounds of smooth brown grass and 500 pounds of Korean Lespedeza for use along the highways.
