FIVE CENTS IOWA CITY, IOWA FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 24, 1933 VOL. XXXII NUMBER 228

F. D. R. SHAPES PLAN FOR NEW DEAL

Iowa House Passes Salary Reduction Bill, 98 to 1

Romp Through Changes to New Measure

Cut Elective Officers' Pay From Five to 27 1/2 Per Cent

DES MOINES, Feb. 23 (AP)—The first of the general salary reduction bills to be considered by the Iowa legislature met the favor of the house today which passed the measure reducing from 5 to 27 1/2 per cent the statutory salaries of all elective officials and appointive employees. The vote was 98 to 1. The bill does not affect salaries of incumbent elective officers.

Salaries of Other Employees Being Considered by Appropriations Committee

Salaries of other employees are being considered by the appropriations committee which is expected to recommend reductions ranging from 5 to 35 per cent.

Senate Passed Measure Legalizing Acts of County Boards of Supervisors

The senate passed a measure legalizing the acts of county boards of supervisors which failed to make the mandatory levy for secondary roads. It also started consideration of the Zylstra stamp note bill, which will be taken up again tomorrow.

Bowl Over Amendments

Taking the bit in its teeth the members romped through the measure bowling over amendment after amendment which sought to retain present salaries else increase the recommended cuts.

Efforts Fail

Representative Johnson of Linn and McKinnon of Henry made valiant efforts to save the present salaries of the supreme and district court judges, as well as those of the superintendents of the insane and epileptic hospitals.

Judges Get Decrease

Under the bill the superintendents are cut from $3,000 to $2,400 annually; the supreme court judges from $7,500 to $6,000 and district court judges from $5,000 to $4,000.

State Officers Affected

Under the bill the secretary of state, auditor, treasurer and secretary of agriculture would receive $4,000 instead of $5,000. Highway commissioners would be cut from $4,000 to $3,000; the highway commission counsel from $4,500 to $3,000; members of the board of assessment and review from $4,500 to $3,263 and heads of the penal institutions from $3,000 to $2,400.

Prof. Haskell Tells Effects of Inflation

Effects of inflation upon those whose incomes are from fixed sources, and upon guarantee bank deposits were discussed by Prof. George D. Haskell, associate professor in the college of commerce, before the community group of the Congregational church at 7 p.m. yesterday.

The meeting was a combination of a forum and discussion in which Professor Haskell presented material and answered questions.

This is the second of a series of addresses given by Professor Haskell on the theme of "Inflation and the money standard."

Inflation will be to the strong disadvantage of those whose incomes come from fixed sources, such as bonds, securities, and life insurance was Professor Haskell's opinion.

Dealing with guarantee bank deposits Professor Haskell thinks inflation will cause prices to be raised and the debtor and creditor relationships will be improved.

Such a rise in prices caused by inflation would not result in a cure for the depression, believes Professor Haskell.

The community group in "Religion and modern life" meets every Thursday from 7 to 8 p.m. and is open to the public.

Van der Zee Says Tariffs Caused Crisis

High tariff walls are largely responsible for the present demoralized condition of world economics, Prof. Jacob Van der Zee told a meeting of the International Relations club in the women's lounge of Iowa Union last night.

The United States has been a leader in setting up high tariffs, he declared, pointing out that the Smoot-Hawley tariff, passed in 1930, is the highest in American history. The original 13 states were in economically unsound condition until they tore down the tariff walls between them, he said.

"Judging from our experience, the nations of the world can't get along any better than the 13 original states," he asserted. "It has been a story of repeated retaliations by higher tariffs."

Among the international effects of high tariffs, he cited widespread unemployment, movement of capital out of the country, and ill will between people of various nations.

To remedy existing conditions, an economic conference of nations will be held in Europe next summer, at which the United States will be represented. Many problems stand in the way of a complete solution of the problem, which the conference will probably be unable to surmount, Professor Van der Zee concluded.

Prof. Haskell Tells Effects of Inflation

Effects of inflation upon those whose incomes are from fixed sources, and upon guarantee bank deposits were discussed by Prof. George D. Haskell, associate professor in the college of commerce, before the community group of the Congregational church at 7 p.m. yesterday.

The meeting was a combination of a forum and discussion in which Professor Haskell presented material and answered questions.

This is the second of a series of addresses given by Professor Haskell on the theme of "Inflation and the money standard."

Inflation will be to the strong disadvantage of those whose incomes come from fixed sources, such as bonds, securities, and life insurance was Professor Haskell's opinion.

Dealing with guarantee bank deposits Professor Haskell thinks inflation will cause prices to be raised and the debtor and creditor relationships will be improved.

Such a rise in prices caused by inflation would not result in a cure for the depression, believes Professor Haskell.

The community group in "Religion and modern life" meets every Thursday from 7 to 8 p.m. and is open to the public.

Worthley to Begin Sermon Series Sunday

A series of sermons, having the general theme "Vocational variations during a period of social change," has been announced by the Rev. Evans A. Worthley, pastor of the First Unitarian church.

The first of these sermons will be given in the local church next Sunday at 10:45 a.m. by the Rev. Sidney B. Snow of Chicago, head of the Meadville Theological seminary. The next five sermons will be given by the Rev. A. L. Weatherly of Lincoln, Neb., former pastor of the local church.

The schedule of sermons in this series is as follows: Feb. 26, "The great necessity"; March 5, "The major difficulty in deciding one's life work"; March 12, "Lawyers and lawmakers: facing new fictions"; March 19, "Physicians, dentists, nurses: should they be on the state payroll?"; March 26, "Professors, preachers and the press: shall it be interpretation of propaganda?"; April 2, "Business, engineering and the occupations: is it to be work or just a new kind of leisure?"; and April 9, address by the Rev. A. L. Weatherly of Lincoln, Neb.

Van der Zee Says Tariffs Caused Crisis

High tariff walls are largely responsible for the present demoralized condition of world economics, Prof. Jacob Van der Zee told a meeting of the International Relations club in the women's lounge of Iowa Union last night.

The United States has been a leader in setting up high tariffs, he declared, pointing out that the Smoot-Hawley tariff, passed in 1930, is the highest in American history. The original 13 states were in economically unsound condition until they tore down the tariff walls between them, he said.

"Judging from our experience, the nations of the world can't get along any better than the 13 original states," he asserted. "It has been a story of repeated retaliations by higher tariffs."

Among the international effects of high tariffs, he cited widespread unemployment, movement of capital out of the country, and ill will between people of various nations.

To remedy existing conditions, an economic conference of nations will be held in Europe next summer, at which the United States will be represented. Many problems stand in the way of a complete solution of the problem, which the conference will probably be unable to surmount, Professor Van der Zee concluded.

Women Finish Last Preliminary Games in Tournament Play

The final preliminary game of the women's intramural basketball tournament resulted in a 17 to 16 victory for Currier last night over Kappa Delta yesterday, thus giving Currier a tie with Delta Gamma for second place in the preliminaries.

In the 17 games played during the preliminaries, the Independents, group one, and the Graduate team are tied for first place, each having four victories and no defeats.

Currier and Delta Gamma have each won three out of four contests. Delta Delta Delta is in third position with two wins and two losses.

By virtue of winning one contest in three the Kappa Deltas are in fourth place. Zeta Tau Alpha, Alpha Xi Delta, Alpha Chi Omega, and Independent, group two, have yet to win their first encounter.

The final games will begin in women's gymnasium next week.

Ramona Jorgensen to Play in Recital

An additional number on the program of the recital of students of the music department to be given this afternoon at 4 o'clock in Bainton's "A Song of the Virgin Mother," by Ramona Jorgensen, A. J. of Griswold. The recital will be in the auditorium of old music building.

Notice General Improvement in Mayor Cermak's Condition

Inject Food Substance to Build Strength, Doctors Say

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 23 (AP)—Mayor Anton J. Cermak of Chicago was given intravenous injections of 10 per cent glucose, a food substance, today in an effort to build up his strength, sapped by an assassin's bullet and an attack of colitis.

Three and one-half pints of glucose were injected today in two treatments for nourishment, Dr. Karl Meyer, chief of the mayor's medical staff, announced.

The afternoon injection was one quart, and required two hours. Dr. Meyer said the patient responded splendidly and a general improvement was noticed. A temperature rise to 100.6 degrees was attributed to the strain of the injection.

Dr. Meyer revealed that Cermak collapsed last night during an injection of glucose through the skin. The patient suffered a fascio-motor shock, the doctors said, which forced his blood pressure so low that the pulse collapsed.

A minute, during which stimulants were administered, was required to restore the pulse.

Today's injections were made into the vein of the arm.

80-20 Chance

Meyer said today's improvement caused him to believe Cermak now has an 80-20 chance to recover.

He added that last night the patient's condition was such that for a time he had "only one chance in five to live."

Glucose treatments were resorted to in order to avoid irrigation of the intestines, already inflamed by the colitis, Dr. Meyer said.

Doctors Frank Merka and J. W. Snyder were to remain on duty at the hospital tonight.

Temperature at 99

Before today's injection, Dr. Meyer said, Cermak's temperature was "virtually stationary at 99 degrees." His pulse and respiration are normal. He was refreshed by sound sleep during the day.

The wound caused by Giuseppe Zangara's bullet, intended for President-elect Roosevelt, no longer endangers Cermak's recovery. His heart action is splendid, Dr. Frederick Tice, Chicago specialist, said after an examination.

Doctor Plans to Leave

Dr. Meyer said he now planned to leave for Chicago tomorrow night if improvement continued in Cermak's condition.

Several friends and members of the family visited the mayor today.

General improvement also was reported in the condition of Mrs. Joe H. Gill, wife of a Miami utilities company president, who was shot down, along with Cermak and three others, in Zangara's attack.

Lemon Plans Lenten Talks

The first of a series of special Lenten lectures will be presented next Thursday evening by the Rev. W. P. Lemon at the Presbyterian church. The lectures, for the second consecutive year, will be based on the general subject, "Religion in great literature."

Subjects to be discussed during the Lenten services will probably include: A dramatic version of Robert Browning's "The Ring and the Book"; the creations of Charles Dickens; Alfred Tennyson's "The Idylls of the King"; Rossetti's "Chanticleer"; the plays of Eugene O'Neill; and the message of John Massfield.

It was also announced that the pastor is planning a series of sermons for Sunday morning services during Lent on "The miracles of Jesus." These sermons are scheduled to start a week from next Sunday.

Collection of Indian Materials Donated to State Historical Society; Indicate Iowa's Civilization Before White Man

Mute witness of a civilization which flourished in Iowa hundreds of years ago is a collection of Indian materials donated by Ellison Orr of Waukon to the State Historical society.

Representing more than a thousand years of culture of the Redman, the materials in the collection afford clues to the life of the Indians in the Upper Iowa river district in Allamakee county.

Taken from Mounds

Most of the articles have been taken from mounds, which the Indians used for burial places, and have been collected by Mr. Orr for more than 50 years.

A Siouxan group of people, who tilled the soil and usually lived on peaceful terms with the surrounding tribes—such were the Indians who lived in Iowa before the coming of the white man, in the opinion of Prof. Charles R. Keyes of Cornell college, director of the State Archaeological survey.

Their earliest implements are represented by the roughly ground stones in the Orr collection. Hammers, axes, and mauls, sharpened and chipped into rough shapes, were the primitive weapons of the people.

Utensils Handmade

Their cooking utensils were fashioned by hand, of soft clay, and left in the hot sun to bake until they were hard. Two or four handles adorn the pottery, probably more for ornament than usefulness. Charred remains of the pottery give evidence of the preparation of meats and grains by cooking.

One bit of clay handwork has caused much interest and conjecture among those who have seen the collection. It is a tiny cup, about the size of a piece of toy chinaware, and it is thought to have been fashioned by a child.

Large Pieces of Pottery

Portions of large pieces of pottery are included. The curvature indicates that they were at least three feet in diameter. In them the Indians probably stored their corn and grains after the harvest. The grains were ground by hand, between two large stones shaped to fit into each other, which have come to us as the most primitive of grinding mills.

Copper beads, earrings, and bracelets were the beauty adornments of the Indian women. The earrings look much like small wire springs, and were worked into large holes pierced in the ear lobes. Similar ornaments were worn in the nose. The beads were merely copper cylinders strung together.

Many Pipes

About 20 different types of pipes were included in the collection. A few are of stone, but most of them are of carefully wrought copper, obtained from the lake regions, and worked into various fancy shapes.

The bones of animals which had been killed in the hunt were used for numerous implements. The uses of many of these are uncertain, but others can be determined by their shapes. Awis and horn tips are among this group of materials.

The later articles in the collection are made of iron and copper, and some are fashioned after the pattern of manufactured articles, indicating the influence of the white man.

Cedar Rapids Man Charged With Assault

CEDAR RAPIDS, Feb. 23 (AP)—D. J. Condon was arrested tonight for an alleged attack on Dr. J. J. Murphy, who was knocked unconscious and kicked in the face today in the corridor of Mercy hospital where he was called to attend Condon's son.

Dr. Murphy had stepped from the boy's room to talk to Condon. Soon afterward two other physicians in consultation in the room heard him fall and rushed to his aid. Murphy regained consciousness soon afterward and was taken to his home.

According to Condon's attorney, trouble arose over the question of payment to Murphy. Condon is held on a charge of assault with intent to inflict great bodily injury. His bond was fixed at $2,500.

Condon's son, Bill, 14, was shot accidentally by Merritt Lingard, 13, as a neighborhood group of boys played "cop and robbers." The youth was in a serious condition from a wound in the abdomen.

Let the World Disarm

THE pronouncement of Adolf Hitler that he is willing to play the game of disarmament only if the rest of the world participates is not a new philosophy of German chancellors—in view of the provisions and restrictions of the Versailles treaty.

But coming from Hitler—pictured these many years as an ardent foe of peace, portrayed as a new and greater Hun, discussed as a possible initiator of the next world war—such a declaration of policy carries some significance.

But how does Hitler expect to create his Greater Germany unless he employs force of arms? How is he going to set in motion his campaign for a united Teuton empire without the accompaniment of booming guns and tramping armies? Will it all come about by a battle of wits, of moral suasion?

And there are other angles. What of the Nazis storm troops? What of the Steelhelmets? What of the militaristic organization of his own political party? And what of his plans for the coming world economic and monetary conference?

Of the latter, the German chancellor is silent. He is of the opinion, however, that Germany must not be "amiliated by political or economic measures." And to that end, he may be expected to present many good reasons—if he is still Reichskanzler—why Germany should be given equality in tariff matters, in all international trade agreements.

And since it is rather definitely settled that Germany shall not have equality in armaments, in national defense, in naval forces, Hitler is ready to accept the dictum of the world only if the world accepts his. What Hitler's alternative might be, he has failed to mention. Nevertheless, it might be well for the foes of war not to take too much heart in his pronouncement—for the world is not quite ready to disarm and Herr Adolf has much work to do.

Conscientious Justice

NEWS that the Paul Bern suicide might be investigated further than the inquest held soon after his body was discovered in the Hollywood home he shared with his wife, Jean Harlow, reopens discussion on American judicial methods.

For, it appears, the further investigation comes as the result of the operations of two members of the county grand jury, dissatisfied with the verdict of death by suicide. Their conscientiousness certainly must be commended.

But the administration of justice in this land of the free ought not to be dependent upon the casual interest of just two curious jurors, or upon the casual interest of anyone, for that matter. Nor should it rely upon isolated spurts of conscience.

Perhaps, like the Sacco-Vanzetti case, the original verdict was the one that appeared most obvious, without a thorough-going, unprejudiced examination of all the evidence. Perhaps, on the other hand, it may be discovered after a reopening of the Bern case and examination of the new facts, that the original verdict was correct.

But there is no check, it seems, on errors of fact as there is on errors of form in many states. Toward that end among others, the efforts of those who would reform judicial procedure in America might be directed.

Time to Quit

AMID all the "Ohs" and "Ahs" resulting from Sir Malcolm Campbell's roaring victory yesterday over the world's speed record, one is constrained to tender him the humble suggestion that he rest now for awhile and forget about it.

All argument as to the value of such demonstrations to the automotive industry to the contrary, it is after all doubtful whether Sir Malcolm's accomplishment provided a very great deal more than a thrill to himself and the bystanders.

Race drivers, however, seldom quit when the quitting is good. They seem to be much like gamblers in that respect, sitting in on game after game for always higher stakes, until the game goes suddenly wrong and the photographers have their heyday.

It is not expected, of course, that Sir Malcolm will heed such advice. He will probably rebuild his car and race again. And the photographers will stand by, ready for whatever might happen.

Jiggling the Jigsaws

ISN'T it a puzzle how the jigsaw puzzle can make us forget to puzzle over puzzling problems? Who knows, maybe jigsaw puzzles will solve the puzzling puzzle of the depression.

At any rate, jigsaw puzzles are making the depression seem not so depressing. With each fresh order for the new-old game, more and more are the unemployed being given jobs in jigsaw factories. Overnight, like unexpected mushrooms, have these factories sprung up. The industry grows by leaps and jigs.

A Chicago jigsaw firm recently reported itself 772,000 puzzles behind the orders, in spite of night shifts and holiday working. Relentlessly grind the wheels of the jigsaw business. And now it's a Big Business.

Last month the jigsaw magnates held an exhibit of their wares in the Palmer house at Chicago. Queries "Why jigsaw puzzles?" Mrs. Anne C. Wilmerding of New York, a manufacturer's representative, replied:

"The depression. It's made the populace poor but wholesome. Poverty peeps up the puzzle business. The most brilliant society in New York has gone quite mad over the jigsaw puzzle. They have almost as good a time at it as they used to spending their money on night clubs and theaters."

Our game styles evolve. Six or seven years ago we were east winding and west winding with Mah Jong. Then crossword puzzles sent us to consult Webster's unabridged for a two letter word meaning "Egyptian sun god" or a three letter word meaning "Greek God of love."

The latest craze shows unmistakable progress in gaming. Mah Jong led to nothing deep, significant, vital. In fact one never quite knew whether Mah Jong led anywhere, even to an end. A crossword puzzle finished—with the annexing of a few grotesque words to one's vocabulary.

But jigsaw puzzles! Already they have become a driving force in civilization. They make the idle busy; the unemployed employed; the rich economical; the poor happy; the worried unworried; the lazy industrious; the wicked good; the sick well; . . . About the only thing jigsaw puzzles can't do for humanity is polish the kitchen stove and look after the baby.

WHY TAKE GOOD MEN OUT OF THE SENATE FOR THE CABINET?

Firstname, Senators Carter Glass, George W. Norris, Bronson Cutting, and so forth in addition to Hull, Swanson, and Walsh who made the grade.

SOME OF THOSE WHO ASK, "why take good men out of the senate for the cabinet?" are quick to add that "England doesn't have to."

Which brings up an old question. What about the American system of doing government business anyhow? Is it really, as Woodrow Wilson seemed to think when he wrote his Ph.D. thesis, inferior to that of England?

The reason that England doesn't have to take men out of parliament for her cabinet is that they don't have to leave the legislative body to share executive duties. Even the nearest English equivalent of a president, the prime minister, comes from the nearest English equivalent of a congress.

AND THAT IS ONE WAY OF AVOIDING bureaucracy. Department heads are subject directly to parliament, and are leaders of the government party within parliament. They can advance their own measures in the house of commons and speak for their own programs. They can also be demoted at any time through a vote of non-confidence.

Andrew W. Mellon is an example of a man who couldn't have stood, probably, before the fire of congressional disapproval. And Oden L. Mills, on the other hand, would have been better off as an advocate on the floor of congress for the measures he so vigorously championed.

England's cabinet, you see, is the very apex of achievement for legislators. Without giving up their functions as makers of law altogether, they take over others as makers of policy. At the same time they are directly responsible to the house of commons, which in turn readily and often dissolves for recourse to popular opinion through new elections.

THERE ARE THOSE WHO ADVOCATE that this country do something in the direction of legislative flexibility as achieved by England.

The chief trouble is in the institutions already existing here. Perhaps the most fixed fact about U. S. politics is the president who is elected by all the people in a sense that the English prime minister is not. And while it might eliminate a lot of silly wrangles between congress and the president to make him part of congress, the difficulties are almost endless.

There is the difficulty also of a bicameral or two-house legislature. England's house of lords, like the human appendix, still lingers on, but its legislative utility is pretty slight. Here the senate, intended originally as a bulwark for property interests, has been broken into through direct primary election until it has become a safeguard for popular interests.

YET IT IS IN THE LOWER HOUSE that a cabinet would be more likely to develop—for the whole power of a cabinet centers in the power to levy taxes and raise money which is vested in the house of representatives.

Authorities who should know have suggested selection of a committee by the house to be responsible as individuals for a cabinet department each. Then, when Andrew Mellons or Albert Falls or Herbert Hoovers wanted to spend money, they'd have to give an accounting to the congressmen for treasury or interior or commerce. And thereby real cabinet power would be transferred to congress and the various secretaries might even become civil service men.

If the people would rather trust their Roosevelts (and Hoovers) than their much maligned congressmen to select cabinet members because that's the way it has always been done—that is their privilege. The other way of pinning down responsibility for public funds is at least worth thinking over.

BEHIND THE SCENES - IN HOLLYWOOD -

By HARRISON CARROLL FILM SCANDAL SCREEN COMMENT

HOLLYWOOD, Cal.—Universal is planning to feature Lew Ayres in a musical, not so radical a step when you recall that Lew used to be a saxophone tooter back in the days before projection machines began to throw the image of his handsome features upon the screen. Not that they are planning to make Lew play a saxophone in the picture. He'll play the leading role, always providing that plans don't go awry of "Lilies of Broadway," a tawny and, it is to be hoped, dramatic potpourri of life as it is led after the theaters close their doors for the night.

Originally, this picture was slated as a John Murray Anderson production, but the musicals went into their famous decline and carried "Lilies of Broadway" along with them. Only the other day, Carl Laemmle, Jr., retrieved the scenario from the shelf and set Lynn Cowan and Harry Sanker to work on composing a new set of tunes. When these are completed and when the script is polished off with some new wisecracks, the business of planning will proceed.

In the interim, Lew Ayres once more is leading the life of a bachelor, but mildly. So far as I know, he hasn't made a public appearance with any other woman since he and Lola Lane separated. There's a chance, but no more than that I think, of the young actor going to England to make a picture. British national is very anxious to get him, but Universal doesn't seem impressed.

They tell it that Sam Mintz and his tailor always argue over the fit of coat shoulders. Several days ago, the writer went down to try on a new suit. As he entered the shop, the tailor bounced up from his chair, took the garment from the hook and shoved it at Mintz. He snapped, "Vell, oderwishe, how is it?"

HOLLYWOOD PARADE Only a publicity man met Janet Gaynor at the boat, so those vague rumors of reconciliation seem to be off. The star and her mother have taken an apartment in Hollywood.

"Adorable," Janet's new picture, goes into production the latter part of this week. Meanwhile Winfield Sheehan is negotiating with UFA to allow Henry Garat to stay in Hollywood nine months before returning to Europe for a picture. Under present arrangements, the French leading man must leave right after the completion of "Adorable."

Too bad about George O'Brien's father. The former police chief of San Francisco has taken a turn for the worse and George has accompanied him back to Germany for treatments. . . . You must admit it's unique, Jean Harlow's plan to give her friends embossed gold passes to her house. This will enable them to use her swimming pool and tennis courts while she is working. . . . Henry Ford is becoming an auto-graph collector de luxe. He has unique Ford in sport, street or evening clothes, you never see Joan Crawford without a gardenia. . . .

Norris Assails "Spider Web of Wall Street" in Senate

Says People "Slaves at Mercy of Money Trust"

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23 (AP)—With long pointer in hand and a huge chart labeled the "spider web of Wall Street" as his subject, gray haired Senator Norris assumed his old role of school master in the senate today and lectured his colleagues on interlocking directorates.

As the veteran chairman of the judiciary committee stoutly assailed eight large New York banks for what he termed their vice like grip on trade and industry through a web of directorships, Senator Logan, Democrat, Kentucky, a newcomer to the senate, proposed that the government take over the profits of industry above a fair return to capital and labor.

"Slaves"

"We are just slaves at the mercy of this money trust," said Norris as he pointed to the eight spreading legs of the great spider on the wall.

He said they represented J. P. Morgan and Co., Guaranty Trust Co., Bankers Trust Co., First National, Irving Trust Co., Central Hanover, National City and Chase National banks.

He said the map, eight feet square, did not "come anywhere near" being large enough to show all the corporations under the influence of the financial center.

"There isn't wall space in this chamber that would hold the map," he said. "Instead of 120 major corporations, shown here, there would be thousands."

Control Wages

"Today," he added, "if the government wanted to take over the railroads, we would only have to go to one man—just one man—J. P. Morgan. That's true of many other corporations. They (the eight banks) can control the lowering and raising of wages, change the conditions of labor and raise or lower the output simply because they control the money of the United States."

Railroad Officials are Only their Servants

"Railroad officials are only their servants. Officials of other corporations—whether they like it or not—are compelled to obey the commands that come from Wall Street."

Trailing off into the stock market inquiry by the banking committee, Norris recalled testimony by Charles E. Mitchell, chairman of the National City bank.

Salary Bonus

"The head of that bank gets $50,000 a year salary," Norris said. "Besides he gets $150,000 in bonuses every year. And they sold stock from $200 to $500 a share to the public which is now worth less than $40. They sold some to the employees of the bank who are paying for it on the installment plan. Some of them could go out and buy it now for less than they owe on it, but they dare not do so because they want to keep their jobs."

Recalling testimony regarding the Halsey-Stuart Investment company of Chicago, large dealer in Insull securities, Norris said this company "corrupted a professor out of one of the universities to talk over the radio on how to invest money."

"The old counselor, they call him," he said. "They paid him $50 a week and Halsey-Stuart prepared his addresses. It's a good deal like the methods used by the public utilities."

"Suppose a widow with a $10,000 insurance policy was knocked down and her money seized in the street," he added. "The man would be torn limb from limb."

He said the advice to buy Insull securities reached many persons in similar circumstances, yet they

German Club Will See Foreign Film at Regular Meeting

Two motion pictures dealing with the scenic and historic attractions of north and south Germany will be presented at an open meeting of the German club next Thursday at 7:30 p.m. in the women's lounge of Iowa Union.

The Black Forest, Lake Constance, and views of the old university towns of Heidelberg and Tuebingen are among the features of the film depicting the south of Germany. Scenes taken at the Dornier airship works, home of the Zeppelin industry, are also shown.

In the northern part of Germany, scenes will include pictures of Hamburg, Bremen, Berlin, Potsdam, Leipzig, and Dresden.

The films were secured from the German tourist information office in New York city with the aid of the visual instruction department.

Iowa Citizens Leave for Chicago Meeting

Prof. George D. Stoddard, director of the Iowa Child Welfare Research station, and Mrs. May Fardee Youtz, head of the parent education division of the station, left Thursday for Chicago to attend a meeting of the board of the National Council of Parent Education.

Professor Stoddard is vice chairman of the board and a member of several committees, and Mrs. Youtz is a member of the fellowship committee.

"are called financiers and are not punished," Norris said seven "Morgan banks" had 2,242 directorships in various corporations.

Arrived at Last

Last September, Col. Raymond Robins, famous Chicago dry leader, set out for the White House to visit President Hoover. He is shown as he arrived nearly six months late. In the meantime Colonel Robins was believed kidnapped, but was later found in a North Carolina mountain hamlet, where he was living under another name, apparently suffering from loss of memory.

Louis Zopf Writes Article for National Pharmacy Journal

"Iowa's pharmacy internship," an article written by Louis C. Zopf, manager of the drug service department in chemistry building, appears in the March issue of The and Till, a trade magazine issued by Eli Lilly & Co., pharmaceutical manufacturers of Indianapolis, Ind.

Mr. Zopf explains the training which the college pharmacy offers students in the hospital dispensary. All seniors majoring in pharmacy are assigned a definite number of hours of duty under instructors in the drug room of the University of Iowa hospitals, and Mr. Zopf believes the practical training thus acquired in servicing the university hospitals and other departments on the campus is useful in developing a surer technique and a greater confidence.

According to Mr. Zopf, not only do the students benefit from this plan, but their services save the state thousands of dollars in the purchase of various medicinal and chemical preparations.

H. G. Shields of Chicago to Speak Here

H. G. Shields, assistant dean of the school of business in the University of Chicago, will speak at the conference of teachers of commercial subjects to be held here March 10 and 11. Through research, Professor Shields has endeavored to improve the teaching of economics in secondary schools.

He is interested primarily in training teacher of economics who will have practical ideas rather than a theoretical perfect system condensed from a college course.

Under the existing system Professor Shields believes that commercial training in high school is merely technical and gives no adequate knowledge of the economic factors entering into modern business. He has emphasized research as the means of determining just how successful present training is.

Professor Shields is the author of several texts on economics and general business knowledge. He is in charge of the convention of commerce at the University of Chicago to be held in connection with the Century of Progress exposition.

A study comparing the achievements of pupils who had studied economics in high school with those who had studied it in college and university was made by Professor Shields a few years ago.

Bank Dictatorship Proposed To Solve Michigan's Problem

Governor Comstock May Be "Mussolini" Over State Financial Institutions for Period of Emergency. May Extend "Bank Holiday" Period.

GOLD TO MEET MOTOR PAYROLLS.

LANSING, Mich. — With the adoption of a resolution by the state senate here, declaring that an emergency exists, and ruling that the authority of the governor is supreme under such a condition, it seems more than probable that Governor William A. Comstock may become the state "banking dictator" as well as its chief executive before the bank holiday which he recently proclaimed has run its course.

Whether or not the governor will be willing to take on the job of financial Mussolini is a question which, at the moment, he is not prepared to answer. But Michigan bankers are firm in the belief that some action must be taken to protect their institutions before the expiration of the moratorium period.

The crisis had its birth in the trouble which beset the Union Guardian Trust company of Detroit, for which non-liquidity of investments made in the pre-depression real estate boom was blamed. After a hurried conference with the bankers, Governor Comstock decreed an eight-day holiday for banks throughout the state. At the time, the governor said that he announced the moratorium because of the refusal of Henry Ford to subordinate a sum of $7,500,000 he had in the trust company to the claims of small depositors. Later, however, the governor said he had "misunderstood the facts." One story carried in Detroit was to the effect that the old enmity between Senator James Couzens and Mr. Ford had played a prominent part in causing the trouble, and that the senator had insisted that the Ford deposit be "frozen" as collateral for a Reconstruction Finance committee loan. To this, according to the story, Ford replied that he would agree only if all other large depositors did the same.

Following the closing of all the state banking institutions, the great industrial corporations met the crisis by opening temporary banks of their own for the purpose of meeting payroll. With cash brought in from Chicago and New York, these temporary banks are keeping the wheels turning. To those who deposited their pay checks before the closing of the banks and had not been able to draw against them, the motor corporations and other industries are doling out daily sums averaging from a dollar a day to clerks, stenographers and the like, up to five and ten dollars for higher-ups. But this does not help the stores much, for in that field the bank holiday caused a definite paralysis.

On the second day of the moratorium period, and subsequently, the closing order was relaxed somewhat, to allow withdrawals of parts of deposits to supply current cash and to permit some banks in the upper part of the state, which announced they were in good condition, to do business according to the discretion of their managers. However, these banks placed a limit of 5 per cent on the amount of withdrawals.

In the event of Governor Comstock assuming the "banking dictatorship," as suggested by the state's leading financiers, he will have many courses open to him in handling the situation. He may prolong the "holiday" beyond the eight-day period, or he may allow the banks and trust companies to re-open and restrict withdrawals as he believes such a course necessary.

However, the governor is most hopeful that everything will pan out all right. He professed himself pleased at the calm public acceptance of the extraordinary measures, declaring that the entire absence of hysteria enabled those working towards a solution of the problem to make "real progress."

Pictures Limited to Six in Entries of Camera Salon

As many as six photographs may be entered by each competitor in the Iowa Union preliminary competition for its first annual salon of photographic art to be held in April. Deadline for all entries is set for March 31, instead of March 1 as was previously announced.

Blueprints and hand-colored prints are the only kinds of prints definitely ruled out of competition, although the exposures themselves must have been made by the contestants, developing, printing, or enlarging may have been done by another; but the chief basis of judging entries will be the pictorial character of the work.

Women Open Debate Series

University of Iowa women debaters will open a series of contests in the Western conference league in a debate with University of Minnesota speakers, at Minneapolis tonight.

Three women have been named by Prof. H. Clay Harshbarger, director of women's debate, to represent Iowa in tonight's contest: Lois Hickman, G of Sioux City, Virginia Zellhoefer, A3 of Waterloo, and Margaret Anderson, G of Cedar Rapids.

Miss Hickman and Miss Anderson have previously been active in intercollegiate debate. Miss Anderson was a member of the Western conference team which met University of Wisconsin speakers last year. Miss Zellhoefer will represent Iowa for the first time in intercollegiate debating tonight.

The question to be argued is: "Resolved, that the federal radio commission should be empowered to combine all radio broadcasting stations into a single, monopolistic, privately owned concern, subject to federal regulation." Iowa speakers will defend the negative.

The debate will be judged by a debate director from one of the Western conference schools, whose name has not been announced. A second debate in this series will be held here next Thursday, when Iowa debaters will meet a women's team from the University of Wisconsin.

Iowa to Exhibit at Education Meeting

O. R. Bontrager and Lee Cochran of the extension division left yesterday for Minneapolis, Minn., to install the Iowa exhibit at the National Education association meeting which is to begin tomorrow.

Bruce E. Mahan, director of the extension division, and Prof. H. A. Greene of the college of education will leave for the meeting today, to take charge of the exhibit.

Professor Anderson to Give Radio Talk

Prof. Harold H. Anderson of the Iowa Child Welfare Research station will speak on "The psychology of adolescence" in the sixteenth program of the psychology lecture series known as "A radio course in fields of psychology" at 8 o'clock tonight over station WSUL.

These lectures have been worked out in interview form.

University to Reach Age of Eighty-Six Tomorrow

Foundation Anniversary Observance Set for March 13

By the calendar, the University of Iowa is 86 years old tomorrow, but for convenience the observance of the foundation anniversary has been postponed to March 13.

Iowa's first general assembly, composed of citizens of the new frontier state, met in the legislative chambers of Old Capitol Feb. 25, 1847 and there approved the act establishing the state university.

Eighty years passed, with the university existing only in the official archives of the assembly. Finances could not match the enthusiasm of the first legislators and the "respectable university" did not open until March, 1855, and then for only a term of 16 weeks. The establishing act gave the public buildings at Iowa City, and the 19 acres of land, for use of the university, and also donated two townships of land for a permanent fund, interest of which was applied exclusively to support of the institution.

But until the capital of Iowa was moved to Des Moines in 1857, the university had no buildings of its own. Then the historic stone capitol was used for classes, with the students occupying the desks of the former legislators.

National Iowa Night of March 13, with alumni groups in many states participating in ceremonies, will form the 1933 tribute to the university's founders.

Youth Unchanged Since Day of Grecians, Says Writer

University students were apparently thought to be "going to the dogs" as early as 2,200 years ago.

When Athens, Greece, was a college town and the student body ran things to suit itself, the professors laid down the law in no equivocal language. But since boys will be boys, and students will be students, the precepts of the faculty were often ineffectual, says Clarence A. Forbes of the University of Nebraska in his article on "Ancient universities and student life" in the March issue of the Classical Journal, just off the press.

Not all the ancients sat and poured over their books as they burned the midnight oil, for, to quote the author, "The boys were often out until a late hour or even all night, getting drunk, carousing, playing pranks, raiding poor people's houses, and prowling around the streets."

Sports played a prominent part in student life, and coaches were even more specialized than they are today. Mr. Forbes adds that sports at Athens were "pure intramural—and intramurally pure!"

When not engaged in their sports, the students were apt to be listening to professors lecturing on philosophy, notes Mr. Forbes. Instructors were good and bad, but the students had an advantage lacked today in that they paid the instructor individually for his services, and if they didn't like his teachings they were frequently not apt to pay.

Feeling for the professors was intense, Mr. Forbes points out, with the students banded together into clubs under their favorites. Each group supported its chosen professor even to the point of violence, with the fessor sometimes pitching in of his own accord. But a grand free-for-all resulted when even the townspeople warmed to the street battles.

Lauds Instructors
The excellence of the Greek professors, and the histories of many of the ancient universities, notably the one at Athens, are also told by Mr. Forbes.

Announcement is made in the Journal of the twenty-ninth annual meeting of the Classical Association of the Middle West and South, which publishes the Journal. To be held at Williamsburg, Va., on April 13, 14, and 15, the conference includes as a speaker Prof. Roy C. Flickinger, head of the classical languages department, and editor-in-chief of the Journal. Prof. Franklin H. Potter of the classical languages department is to speak also.

An account of the life of Washington written in Latin by Francis Glass in 1835 is the subject of an article written by Arthur H. Weston of Lawrence college.

The lives of the two sons of Cicero are recounted in "The two younger Tullii," written by James Stinchcomb of the University of Pittsburgh.

Hawkeye Swimmers Meet Badger Team in Last Dual Tonight

Iowans Favored for Win Over Wisconsin; Bruce Grove, Bill Busby to Lead in Final Dual

Old Gold Poloists Seek to Protect Perfect Record

Hawkeye swimmers will be attempting to make it two out of three and tank fans will be seeing the team in action for the last time this season when Old Gold splashes and Wisconsin tankers meet tonight at 7:30 in the field house pool.

The Iowans, who beat the Badgers last year, 58 to 17, and who have won the last five series contests, are again the favorites this evening by virtue of superior balance over the Wisconsin lineup. Hampered last week by a number of severe colds, the Hawkeyes have fully recovered and should meet Wisconsin in better condition than they did the narrowly victorious Minnesota team last Saturday.

3 Badger Veterans
The Badger outfit will be depending almost entirely upon three veterans. They are Capt. Tom Bardeen in the back stroke and free style; Ken Yonchield in the breast stroke; and Charles Traskell in the 220 and 440.

The Iowa team will be the same that competed against Minnesota. Bruce Grove, who leads Hawkeye scores with 18 points is expected to be a mainstay for the Iowans with the possibility of his again collecting two firsts in the 220 and 440.

Busby Undefeated
Another Hawkeye who has yet to be defeated is Bill Busby in fancy diving. He should have an easy time of it tonight and his running mate, Bill McCloy, who followed him in second place against the class Minnesota divers last week, should again cop second.

Capt. Nielson should have the advantage in the 100 yard free style while Harry Haskins is capable of taking second. In the back stroke sophomore Phil McClintock is given an even chance against the Badger, Captain Bardeen. McClintock has won two third places so far.

Two Seek First Wins
Bert Myer with a third and a second to his credit will be attempting to break into the win column against the veteran Yonchield, while Warren Ross, Iowa vet, will be seeking his first win of the season.

The Hawkeyes are favored in the 400 yard free style relay with the team composed of Anderson, Mohl, Haskins, and Nielson, while in the medley event the outcome should be a toss-up, depending upon the lasting ability of men who have already competed in individual events. The latter team will be made up of McClintock, Myer, and Nielson.

Wisconsin will bring a polo team and a game will be held after the regular meet. Here again the Old Gold tankmen are favored, boasting as they do one of the best scorers and passing teams in recent years. So far they have trimmed Minnesota and Chicago with lopsided scores. The men on the team: Nielson, Nielson, Myer, Bodine, Grove, Haskins (Capt.), Ross, and Anderson.

British Speed King Plans to Return Home

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla., Feb. 23 (AP)—Abandoning plans for further land speed trials this year, Sir Malcolm Campbell tonight prepared to return to England shortly with the expectation of coming back next winter in an effort to boost his three newly established world automobile records still higher.

Decision of the driver to return home without making any more record attempts was motivated by a serious arm injury and the fact that the beach speedway is in none too good condition.

The injury to Campbell's arm occurred ten days ago as he was testing out his Bluebird racing car. While traveling at a fast clip, the gear shift lever on the machine sprung out of position and struck him above the wrist.

During his epochal race yesterday, in which he set a new record of 212 miles an hour over a mile route, Campbell was forced to drive virtually the entire distance over a rough beach with only one hand.

Nine Qualify for Membership in Iowa Cross Country Club

Nine University of Iowa track men qualified for membership in the cross country club yesterday afternoon when they equaled or bettered established standards for the various distances in the first trials of the year.

The men and the events they competed in are: 440 yard dash—Kenneth Higgins, Max Wisgerhof, Bennett Gordon, John Wagner, Arthur Barnes, and C. Fowell; mile run—Robert Brown and Keith Wilcox; 2 mile run—Sidney Melnick and David Flage.

St. Patrick's Meets Dewitt in Season's Finale

Irish Quintet Expects Tough Game Tonight

Makes Bid for Ninth Triumph in Home Conflict

St. Patrick's high school basketball team, possessing the best winning percentage of any of the local prep quintets, will make its final regular appearance of the season tonight when it meets the strong Dewitt high five on the local floor.

Dewitt, a team which gave St. Ambrose of Davenport's undefeated outfit two tough battles before losing, will bring a veteran aggregation to meet the Irish and Coach Dick Connor is counting on a tough battle.

Having been forced to the limit to nose out St. Mary's in the final intra-city battle of the year Wednesday night, the Shamrocks may not be at top form, but Coach Connor is counting on his regular lineup to turn back the invasion of the visitors.

"Punk" Smith, still bothered by an injured ankle, will pair up on one forward post with Ray Floerching. Ozzie Pinney will play at center and strive to add to his season's scoring total. Joe Glenn and Denny Emanuel, only lower classmen in the lineup, will play at guards, Bill Burger, for his good showing against St. Mary's, is expected to see action.

Bowlers End Regular Card

Four Teams Will Keep Up Play Until April 1

By DICK NORRIS
The regular schedule of 90 games in the bowling league was concluded last night with Gasoline Alley in first place by a wide margin.

At a meeting after the final games, it was decided to continue on until the first of April, with four teams participating, Gasoline Alley, Paris Cleaners, City Fuel, and Daily Iowan are the four teams who will carry on the league.

George Kanak was the best man last night for the whole evening, with a total of 624. Walt Jones was runner-up, counting 607. Jones earned first in the singles with 224, while Kanak took second honors in this division with 223.

City Fuel again monopolized team scoring laurels with 936 for single and 2,662 for the three games.

Jefferson Hotel took two from Paris Cleaners, City Fuel slammed Gasoline Alley, with The Daily Iowan taking everything from the three man Recreation outfit.

FOOTBALL Drills Outdoors Today

Iowa's football squad for next season is expected to report to Coach Ossie Solem in full force this afternoon as the Hawkeye mentor sends his men through the first outdoor workout of the spring training period.

Coach Solem issued a call yesterday for veterans to report at once to begin getting into shape for the intensive drill to come. All candidates for the 1933 eleven are requested to report ready for work at 4 o'clock this afternoon near the tackling dummy at the field house.

Workouts will be held on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays for the present, although daily sessions will be in order shortly. Practice will be carried on this spring behind locked gates, Coach Solem said, with a regular full time game, open to the public, between two picked teams as the concluding feature of the spring drill.

Tracksters to Seek Season's First Victory

Engage Grinnell Outfit Here Tomorrow Afternoon

Two track teams, Iowa and Grinnell, which were whipped by state rivals last week have their chance tomorrow to recoup some lost prestige.

The green Hawkeyes, trounced by Drake, and the Pioneers, without enough manpower to withstand Iowa State, appear evenly matched enough to provide an interesting meet in the field house. It is the first dual indoor meet between the institutions.

MEET ON AIR
Station WSUI will carry on its first track broadcast of the season. With Eric Wilson at the microphone, the running story of the meet will go on the air at 1:45 p.m.

It would not be surprising if the teams came close to splitting first places on the 12-event program, thereby leaving the winning of the meet up to the second and third place men. University athletes are favored to win the quarter mile, half mile, mile relay, shot put, and pole vault. To Grinnell men may go the dash, low hurdles, mile, two mile, broad jump. The high jump is somewhat of a toss-up, and so is the high hurdle event.

Grinnell Strong on Track
Grinnell may win 16 points in the mile and two mile, with little Myron Pilbrow, second ranking indoor two miler in the nation last year, and Joe Pfeiffer, another veteran. Harold Alexander, point-winner in Missouri Valley conference and state meets, is the outstanding sprinter, and with Pojman gives Grinnell the basis for a dangerous mile relay team. Clarence James is the state indoor champion broad jumper, and G. Grounds is a good hurdler.

Some of the Hawkeye stars include Charles Tabb, hurdler; Dick Bott, miler and half miler; Sidney Dean, whose 50.5 quarter mile last Saturday was the third fastest ever run in the field house; Christian Schmidt, who cleared 12 feet in the pole vault with four days of drill; Bernard Page, quarter miler; Tom Moore, shot putter; Russell Henry, high jumper; Clyde Hutton, broad jumper; and Capt. Calvin Hoskinson, low hurdler and mile relay team member.

Capt. A. R. MacKeehn, new football coach at Mississippi State college, is the second army officer coach in the Southeastern conference. Major Bob Neyland of Tennessee is the other.

Boilermakers Play Important Contests With Michigan, Ohio

LAFAYETTE, Ind., Feb. 23 (Special)—Back on an even footing in the Big Ten race as a result of the spectacular 42 to 40 victory over Northwestern, Purdue's hopes of finishing well up in the first division will be at stake over the coming week end as the Boilermakers meet Michigan Saturday night and Ohio State Monday night in a pair of outstanding encounters in the Jefferson high school gymnasium here. Plenty of seats will be available for both games.

The pair of games presents a real assignment for the hand fighting Boilermaker crew, which upset the Purple with a brilliant breath-taking second half rally. Michigan admittedly possesses one of the most powerful combinations in the middle west, and at present is campaigning in Northwestern's heels for the runner-up honors in the Big Ten race, while Ohio State, by virtue of a one point victory over

Hawkeyes to Seek Upset of Ohio Quintet

Coach Williams Plans to Have Iowans at Best Form of Season

Coach Rollie Williams sent the Iowa Hawkeyes through another intensive workout on offensive and defensive tactics to be used against the undefeated Ohio State quintet here tomorrow night.

Yesterday's workout, while not as long as was that of the previous day, spent considerable time in a defense workout against the freshmen in an attempt to smooth out the weak points which came to light at Columbus Monday night when the Hawkeyes went to pieces in the final 10 minutes and lost, 38 to 23.

On the home floor, the Old Gold offense is expected to once more reach the peak which was attained before the last road trip.

Buckeyes on Crest
In its own field house, before a crowd which probably will total 7,500, the Iowa team will set up a defense against the Buckeye shooters and will turn loose a speed assault which may provide the most startling game of the winter.

Confident Ohioans are coasting on the crest of eight victories, four of them, however, gained by a total of only five points. Iowa is fourth with six wins and three defeats and the team has been beaten at home only by Michigan in the first game of the Big Ten schedule.

It will be a game of similar attacks, since each team is coached by a former Wisconsin star who has patterned after the Meanwell style. Howard Bastian and Wilmer Hosket will renew their personal duel at center, interrupted last Monday when each gave way to a substitute.

Great Players Ready
Outstanding forwards probably will be Guendler Krumbholz, the Iowan who has made 61 points in conference games, and Bobby Colburn, regarded as one of the smoothest players in the league. Ben Selzer, Iowa's candidate for an all-conference position, and Howard Mattison, Buckeye captain, are star guards.

Iowa's chances for victory rest mainly upon whether the long shots are working and whether Bastian can score several times from under the basket. Of equal importance is the Hawkeye defense, designed to halt the follow-up shots of Colburn and Brown, and to tie up Hosket in the "hole" position.

Three Place Again
However, from any standpoint, there are a number of "honor" players from the competition of last year that just couldn't be left off this season's selection for the "all" teams. The quality of their play has been such that they warrant consideration again. In view of this fact, three have found high positions from last year's "honor" five.

The two forwards were largely responsible for Sigma Phi Epsilon's title in the League. It can be safely said that most of the punch for that five was displayed by this combination at forwards. They were smooth working and handled the ball in a deceptive manner. Both ranked in the first ten high scorers, Austin holding the top by a good margin.

Peterson Center
It was a hard proposition to forget the great work of Aschenbrenner at forward for Theta Tau but last year's all selection didn't find the hoop with his former regularity although playing a mighty heady floor game and acting on the defense.

The first renomination from the five of a year ago is Peterson. The high counting center proved his value in several ways again this season and stood high in the scoring. He was a brilliant defensive man and provided the locomotion for his five, even though he was out of the finals.

Dolly Outstanding
Dolly and Mullinex again found the guard positions by virtue of a capacity for stopping opposing forwards with a regularity that worked a hardship on the scoring column for those individuals. Dolly in addition was among the high lights, standing fifth among all the scorers. Mullinex was a bit off his basket getting in several games, but his defensive ability more than made up for it.

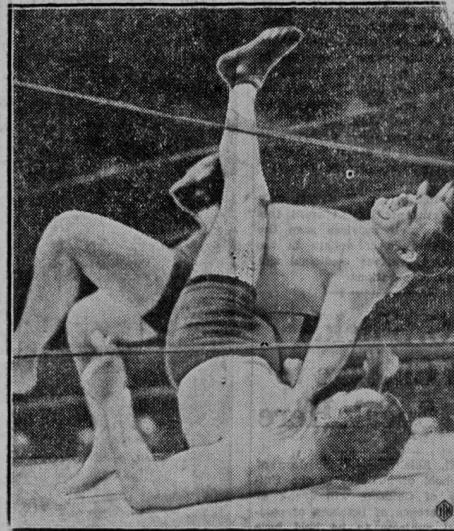

Perhaps a more material line could have been drawn on these boys with the aid of Prof. D. T. Jitters and his statistical genius, but in round numbers and from a general observation on the floor they are the best.

The menagerie boys over in the freshman physical education league got together last night and determined winners in the other two sections, the Phantoms knocking off the Hot Chas in section one and the Zippers taking their fourth straight for the title of section two.

These two winners with the former crowned champs of section three, the Cyclones, will battle next week in a round robin playoff to determine who shall have the first and second place gold and silver medals for the league finalists.

Close Games
Both of the frays last night were close ones, the score of the Phantom-Hot Chas tilt being 23 to 22, and of the Evanston quintet.

"PLANE SCISSORS" THAT BEAT LEWIS

Ed "Strangler" Lewis, erstwhile champion of the wrestling world, is shown as he presented a fine impersonation of a bear in the grip of a python, grimaicing with pain as Jim Browning of Missouri, applied the "airplane scissors" during their title bout at Madison Square Garden, New York. Browning finished up his scissors with a body slam that put the quietus on the Strangler and won him the title. Browning took 57 minutes to acquire his new championship.

Three Class 'A' Cagers Repeat on All-League First Quintet

Peterson, Dolly, Mullinex Take Posts for Second Year; Sigma Phi Epsilon Forwards Rated Outstanding in League's Play

By ART HANNES
With the position of inter-fraternity athletics growing more important each year, the addition of new sports and the building up of old ones, the task of "handing" this assignment in the interests of THE DAILY IOWAN gets bigger and better. Such is the reaction of your reporter from this year's class A basketball league.

The finals having been played and the championship trophy having been snatched away from last year's great Theta Tau team by Sigma Phi Epsilon and the job of sizing up the league's finest and the comparison having been made, it is gratifying to find the abundance of material that has been exhibited during the competition.

GOLFERS Prepare for Season

With the touch of spring in the air, the University of Iowa golfers have dusted off their clubs and started preparations for the coming season.

The first meeting of the faculty-staff golf class was held Tuesday evening, with more than 50 addicts reporting.

Because the size of the class is larger than usual, Coach Charles Kennett has split it up into three sections. The advanced class for men will be held on Tuesday evenings, the class for women on Wednesday evening, while the beginners class for men will meet Thursday nights. Classes will continue until further notice.

Inter-club matches will be scheduled, and Coach Kennett is also planning for competition between teams composed of faculty members and students and combinations from country clubs in the surrounding cities.

Work will start on the Finkbine golf course Monday and Coach Kennett has requested that no one play on the course until notice is given.

The varsity squad has been working out regularly in the field house, and the schedule for the season is expected to be announced soon.

Whinnery Out of Mat Meet

Stiff Neck Withdraws Star; Cassill May Get 126 Berth

A blow was given Iowa's hopes of scoring high in the state meet at Cedar Falls tomorrow by the announcement that Randall Whinnery, crack 155 pounder, would be unable to compete. A stiff neck sustained in his bout with Morford of Cornell Tuesday made it inadvisable for him to enter the state affair inasmuch as each grappler must wrestle twice and perhaps three times.

Capt. Clarence "Swede" Johnson will move down from the 165 pound post to fill the Ft. Dodge man's place while the heavier berth will be taken over by Don San Giovanni, another 155 pounder. Whinnery, who had already won three falls out of four starts, was considered not only by the Iowa coach, Mike Howard, but also by the State Teachers and Cornell mentors, as one of the few men who might stop an Iowa State deluge of first places. Howard, Teachers 145 pounder, is the only state man this year who has beaten a Cyclone wrestler.

The Hawkeyes now pin almost all their hopes of a first upon Bill Minkel, also of Ft. Dodge, who, although beaten by the Iowa State man, was defeated so narrowly that in another match he may very well win the nod.

Possibility of another change in the Old Gold lineup was evidenced yesterday when a newcomer to the squad, "Dutch" Cassill, challenged for the 126 pound assignment, winning his first tryout against George Ahrens by a fall in 15 minutes. A final match was scheduled between the winner and Bill Sedlacek, the latest claimant the same afternoon but since the first bout went overtime, Cassill, who has only been out five days, was in no condition to wrestle right away. He and Sedlacek will fight it out today.

Decision of the driver to return home without making any more record attempts was motivated by a serious arm injury and the fact that the beach speedway is in none too good condition.

The injury to Campbell's arm occurred ten days ago as he was testing out his Bluebird racing car. While traveling at a fast clip, the gear shift lever on the machine sprung out of position and struck him above the wrist.

During his epochal race yesterday, in which he set a new record of 212 miles an hour over a mile route, Campbell was forced to drive virtually the entire distance over a rough beach with only one hand.

Stock Market Continues on Down Trend

Selling of Loans Aids in Slump Toward Lower Levels

NEW YORK, Feb. 23 (AP)—Unable to recover their spirits over the holiday, financial markets were mostly lower today.

Continued selling of United States government loans, weakness of other high grade securities in the bond list and moderate reactions by a number of commodities accompanied a general letdown in stock prices. Shares made their poorest showing around noon when selling was brisk, later resuming the dullness that has characterized recent declines.

Concrete news developments, aside from the action of the markets themselves, were rather negative. Trade reports, except for a few freight loadings, suggested that some recession in business activity had occurred; also the Michigan banking situation was still on the financial community's mind; and reflection of somewhat tighter money markets was taken for granted in the weekly federal re-

DIXIE DUGAN—Strange Coincidence!

NO WONDER DIXIE BLUSHED WHEN SHE FOUND THIS NOTE IN HER RECORD BOOK!

Dear Miss Dugan:

Ever since the heavenly moment when my eyes first beheld you I have burned with one desire to cultivate your friendship. But, alas, in your presence I am rendered speechless by one thought that my attentions may be unwelcome. So as the poet said:

"When the tongue is struck dumb From a pen, eloquence may come"

I write, therefore, to make known my interest in you and trust that you will show by some kindly sign that you approve,

Hopefully, Mr. Beaunash

P.S. You may call me "Boney" - and may I call you "Dixie"?

McNaught Syndicate, Inc., N. Y.

—AND NO WONDER MR. BEAUNASH BLUSHED WHEN HE FOUND THIS IN HIS —

Dear Mr. Beaunash!

I know it is not seemly for a young lady to make overtures to a gentleman, but ever since the thrilling moment when I first beheld you I have burned with the desire to cultivate your friendship. But, alas, in your presence I become speechless, and, as the poet said:

"When the tongue is struck dumb From a pen, eloquence may come"

So I write this note in the hope that you may feel as I do and by word or sign convey that fact to yours,

Expectantly, Miss D.D.

P.S. You may call me "Dixie" - and, may I call you "Boney"?

Corn Slumps, Drags Down Other Grains

CHICAGO, Feb. 23 (AP)—Topped over by a sudden increase of selling pressure, corn today outdid the season's low price record, and dragged downward all other grains.

Big receipts of corn today augmented prospects of a large movement of corn soon from farms to domestic primary markets and had much to do with increased selling. Contributing to weakness of cereals was unsettlement of securities.

Corn closed nervous, 3-4 to 1 cent under Tuesday's finish, wheat 2-3 down, oats 1-4 to 2 off, and provisions varying from 2 cents decline to a rise of 10 cents.

All deliveries of corn broke to fresh bottom levels. A flurry of liquidating sales in the final hour of trading ran the market into stop loss orders, and on the ensuing downward sweep of values May corn contracts in Chicago went below the price of May oats at Winnipeg, a paradoxical situation rarely if ever before encountered.

Much higher temperatures prevalent led to general expectation of enlarged receipts from rural holders. This expectation was associated with likelihood of better country conditions for hauling corn.

There was also talk of chances of lessened demand for feeding of corn to livestock. An official announcement said hog slaughterings the remainder of the marketing year which ends Sept. 30, 1933, were expected to be somewhat smaller than those in the corresponding period of 1932.

Wheat and oats moved lower as a result of sympathy with corn weakness.

Bonds Suffer Heavy Slump

Prices Fall Down in Worst Relapse of Year

NEW YORK, Feb. 23 (AP)—The bond market suffered its worst relapse of the year today and losses ranging from 1 to 5 or more points hit the highest grade investment groups as well as the more insecure speculative categories.

Leading the precipitate decline were United States government obligations, some of which dropped nearly 2 points in trading that was not usually active. It was the most discouraging day for the federals in bonds also was heavy, although resistance developed in some groups of this section.

Sales totaled $15,125,000 par value, while the Associated Press-Standard Statistics Average for 60 domestic corporate loans lost 1.1 points.

The severe reaction was attributed largely to renewed selling by institutions desiring greater liquidity.

As indicative of the apparent hurried liquidation, the usually stable American Telephone bonds fell fractionally to as much as 3-1/4 points. There was a heavy turnover of Santa Fe General 4's at a loss of 4 1/2 points, while Union Pacific issues gave up 1 to 6-7/8 points. Among the other principal victims were Consolidated Gas 5's, off 2; Canadian Pacific Debenture 4's, off 2 1/2; Central Pacific First 4's, off 5; Burlington 4 1/2's, off 5; Chesapeake & Ohio General 4 1/2's off 2-1/4; Liggett & Myers 7's off 1 1/2; National Dairy 5-1/4's off 2; New York Central Loans off 1 to 5; Reading 4 1/2's off 1 1/2; Shell Union Oil 5's off 3, and Texas & Pacific First 5's off 5.

Numerous rails and utilities lost 1 to 3 or more points and most of the lower priced industrials were equally non-resistant. In the foreign division gains were held by issues of Australia, Great Britain, Denmark and Poland.

THE CHALLENGE OF LOVE by WARWICK DEEPING. Illustration of a man and a woman.

SYNOPSIS

Dr. John Wolfe, young and capable assistant of the inefficient Dr. M. A. T. Threadgold, is shocked at the pollution he finds everywhere in the little town of Navestock. The young doctor's greatest obstacle in trying to better conditions is the bitter resentment of the people themselves. The affable Threadgold appears more interested in humoring his patients and fattening his purse than he is in curing their ills. He cautions Wolfe against using necessary "expensive" medicines when the "ordinary" preparations will do. Wolfe would be tempted to give up if it were not for lovely, young Jess Mascal, whose sincerity and courageous outlook are an incentive to keep fighting. Filled with curiosity as to how Wolfe spends his time, Mrs. Threadgold searches his room and finds a map he has prepared showing Navestock's polluted areas. She informs her husband of what she calls Wolfe's "gross disloyalty and underhand spying" and suggests that her husband either make him discontinue his researches or discharge him. Jasper Turrell, the brewer, whose enemy Wolfe had incurred for complaining of the condition of the former's property, calls on the Rev. Robert Flemming. The general rector is indifferent to Turrell's ranting about Wolfe. The clergyman cares little for Turrell, accepting him as part of Navestock. Flemming had long ago learned to take evil as a part of life.

Flemming went down on his knees and prayed.

CHAPTER TWENTY-ONE

Flemming, like many good men, left everything in the hands of God. He stretched out a compassionate hand to touch the sufferer, but he did not draw aside the cloth that covered the sore. Sometimes, though very occasionally, he had been troubled, waking from his pleasant, patriarchal lethargy with the start of one who is wakened by a vague cry at night. Things had occurred that had shaken his placid optimism. He had rubbed his eyes and looked about him, only to see what seemed to him inevitable suffering and poverty that his own creed had sought to beautify. Moreover, a man of Robert Flemming's sociability could not have lived for twenty years in a town without being moulded to some of its characteristics. We are like stones in a stream, rubbing and polishing one another. The people of Navestock—that is to say, those who had some say in the life of the town—detested interference. Bob Flemming was a man of the world—so far as Navestock was concerned. The old machinery jolted on, rustily, clumsily, and without cordon. Now and again Bob Flemming had roused himself to pour in a little oil. The rector went in to his tea, taking it like a bachelor on a small table in his study. His brown spangle came waddling in, and laid himself down in a patch of sunlight at his master's feet. "What about this fellow Wolfe?" It was Flemming's hour for reading The Times, but, though he opened the paper, the subject of his conversation with Jasper Turrell intruded itself, and edged the paragraphs aside. "A young man—of course. That is to say—very old. We grow young again. Toby, sit up, old chap. Time for sugar." The spangle sat up on his hind legs, caught the sugar on his nose, made it bounce in the air, and then swallowed it at the second fall. "Strawberries. This hot weather will soon bring 'em to an end." He had pulled the dish towards him and was lying back comfortably in his chair when one of the maids came in with a message. "There's a woman, sir, from Bung Row."

"Well, Jane?"

"She says Mrs. Baker is dying, and they'd be pleased if you'd go."

Flemming put down his paper. "Tell them I'll come, Jane, I'll come at once."

The room in Bung Row where the woman lay dying was like a dark hole when compared with Robert Flemming's sun-lit study. A wooden bedstead stood in one corner with one of its legs propped on half a brick. The woman lying there had been brought to the very last stages of emaciation. Her nose was pinched, and no broader than a child's little finger, and the back of her head was a bulging protuberance overhanging her miserable neck. The face was the colour of parchment, and made up of bony ridges and starved hollows that caught the shadows. Her hands rested palm upwards on the coverlet. Her lids were half-closed, and between them showed the dull, glazed eyes of one starved to death. A faint movement of the bed-clothes showed that the woman still breathed.

The rector came in, bending his head, and holding his hat in his hand. He saw a tall man rise from the chair beside the bed. The latch of the door that led into the back kitchen was clicking up and down, and something scuffed and rubbed against the door.

"The doctor, is it not?"

"Yes."

"Mr. Wolfe?"

"Yes. I am afraid it is too late, sir."

Robert Flemming set his hat on the window-sill, and glanced at the woman in the bed. He put his hand into his pocket for the little Bible that he carried, but the action was slow and almost half-hearted, as though Wolfe's words had inspired him suddenly with curious self-consciousness. He was caught between the act and the thought, like a man brought to a halt by a hand on his shoulder. The latch kept clicking up and down.

"Someone shut out?"

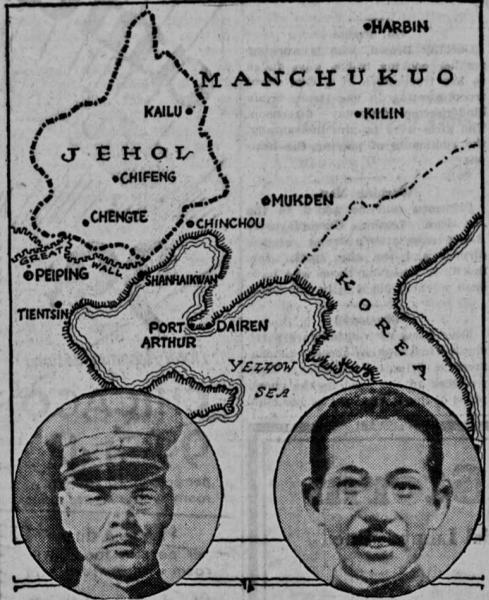

Wolfe turned a grave and shaded

WHERE JAPS SEEK NEW CONQUEST

Here is a map showing the scene of Japan's new drive to conquer Jehol province and annex it as a part of the puppet state of Manchukuo. The city of Shanhai-kwan, which fell into Japanese hands some time ago, is a key city of the Great Wall of China, north of which the invading horde from Nippon plans an advance on a 450 mile front. At Peiping and Tientsin, American marines and infantry are preparing to protect our nationals and their property in the event the theater of war moves into China proper. Inset (left) is Lieut. General Kuniaki Koiso, who commands the Jap forces in the Jehol operations. At right is Marshal Chang Hsueh-Liang, who is leading the Chinese defenders.

Legislators Receive Two Liquor Plans

Committee Named to Study Measures for Repeal

DES MOINES, Feb. 23 (AP)—Wet leaders of the Iowa legislature rallied their forces along two effective fronts today as they sought to obtain legislation loosening present liquor laws.

Each of the two houses adopted motions for the naming of a special committee of three to draft legislation setting up machinery for a constitutional convention to pass on the resolution repealing the eighteenth amendment.

Liquor Dispensing System

Meanwhile a bill outlining intricate details of a government-controlled liquor dispensing system dependent on repeal of the eighteenth amendment was being drafted.

The two chambers adopted without debate the resolutions setting up the committees on the constitutional committee, Lieut. Gov. N. G. Kraschel named Senators Vincent Harrington of Sioux City, George Wilson of Des Moines, and L. T. Shangle of Oskaloosa as the members in that body. The house members appointed by Speaker George Miller were Representatives O. J. Ditto of Osceola county, Carl R. Stier of Tama, and H. M. Hartman of Des Moines.

Joint Sessions

The committee members will formulate the convention legislation in joint sessions and hope to have it prepared by March 6, when the legislature will reconvene after a week's recess.

One of the knottiest problems facing the joint committee is the method of selecting delegates—whether by population, by county, or by a combination of both.

The bill detailing a state liquor system will give Iowa a system of control similar to that used in some Canadian provinces. License fees and taxes collected through the plan would yield about $4,000,000, its sponsors estimate.

Under its county temperance committees, composed of the county treasurer, auditor and recorder, would be set up with authority to issue permits.

Liquor Commission

A state liquor commission also would be established with authority to grant, cancel or suspend permits for manufacture and sale and to fix methods of control. It would be composed of five members named by the governor for seven-year terms and each drawing $4,800 annually. Their commission duties would be their sole business.

Permits for both high and low alcoholic content beverages would be issued. The high content liquors would be those containing 14 or 15 percent or more alcohol, with low content beverages below that figure.

Four classes of permits would be issued, resident permits, non-resident, special, and banquet permits. Each individual holding a permit for high alcoholic liquor would be limited to six quarts per calendar month.

Supervised Stores

The state commission would grant authority to state supervised liquor stores organized by any individual, firm or corporation, but the number of such stores would be limited to one in each county for every 20,000 population or major portion thereof.

Annual license fees would include: manufacturers, $2,500; wholesalers of high content beverages, $2,000; retailers of high content beverages, $750; hotels, inns and taverns with dining rooms handling either high or low content, $500; groceries, drug and similar stores for sale of low content, $250, and beer taverns, $500.

Can Have No Bars

Bars or counters could not be maintained in any place dispensing the liquor and high content beverages could be served only with meals.

Beer taverns would be limited to one for each 10,000 persons in cities of more than 100,000. In other cities and towns the number would be limited to one for the first 500 population and on a graduated scale for additional population. Operators of the taverns could serve 3.2 per cent beer for consumption on the premises and no person in the tavern would be allowed to purchase beer for anyone but himself.

One liquor bill introduced today was the bill by Representative Hartman for calling the repeal convention. This is expected to be substituted by the joint committee bill.

Men Recover Body of Keokuk Woman

KEOKUK, Feb. 23 (AP)—Rivermen today recovered the body of Mrs. John Brown, 17, who was drowned in the Mississippi river late yesterday when a launch in which she was riding capsized.

She was riding with her husband who sought to escape police who wanted him for an alleged assault on his mother. Reaching midstream the boat was overturned by rough waters.

Brown escaped by grabbing a life preserver.

League Hopes for U. S. Support As Japan Reiterates Defiance

Geneva Considers Embargo Against Nippon Following Breakdown of Manchurian Conciliation Negotiations. U. S. Backing Declared Imperative.

GENEVA — "So what?" That may be taken as the terse interpretation of Japan's reply to the League of Nations' demand that she accept as a basis of conciliation the discontinuance of the puppet state of Manchukuo and the abandonment of military operations in the Jehol.

Since the report of Lord Lytton and his commission placed the blame for the Manchurian trouble on Nippon's doorstep the League has been considering what action to take. All its attempts to coax Japan having failed, the League demanded that Nippon withdraw her armies from Manchukuo and restore sovereignty over the captured province to China.

This demand was met by a bland refusal by Japan. No less a person than Emperor Hirohito, himself, approved Japan's reply avowing its determination to hold the territory which it won by force of arms. Furthermore, Japan not only refuses to cease military operations against the Jehol province, which, they aver, is part and parcel of Manchukuo, but insists on the withdrawal of all Chinese troops from that area.

In official quarters, the Japanese reply is regarded as the end of conciliation in the Manchurian dispute and the crisis of Japan's "bad boy" attitude towards the League.

It places the Empire of the Rising Sun on the verge of withdrawal or excommunication from the League membership. All of which seems to trouble Nippon very little. In fact, as has been pointed out, "So what?" is just about interprets her attitude.

The next move being up to the League, Geneva might well be regarded as the world's headache center as diplomats of membership nations vainly ask themselves the answer to Japan's "so what?" There are whisperings that the League may attempt to chastise Nippon by withdrawing diplomatic representatives, the refusal of loans to Japan and an embargo on arms shipments.

It is generally conceded, however, that without the cooperation of the United States any punitive measures adopted by the League would be worse than futile. Accordingly, it is certain that representations will be made to the United States for the inauguration of Franklin D. Roosevelt as president. Mr. Roosevelt, it will be recalled, let it be understood some time ago that the United States' policy towards Manchukuo would remain unchanged after he assumed office.

In China, the reaction to Japan's defiance of the League is significant. According to Acting Premier T. V. Soong, if Japan persists in going ahead with the Jehol invasion, there will likely be a severance of diplomatic relations between China and Japan. So far, the war has been entirely unofficial, but if this action were taken the trouble would become an honest-to-goodness war. Furthermore, Mr. Soong declares, any attack on Jehol will be met by the entire national forces of China.

One peculiar rumor, emanating from the Japanese foreign office, aroused much interest in Geneva. It is to the effect that China and Russia have signed an offensive and defensive alliance, presumably against Japan, and that it is possible that the United States also has a "secret understanding" with those nations.

One thing is certain, however, and that is that Chinese officials expect Japan will go ahead with her invasion. Mr. Soong recently held a conference with Marshall Chang Hsueh-liang at Peiping, at which, it is believed, plans were drawn up to combat the possible invasion of China proper.

Judge Gaffney Suspends Jail Term of Hahn

Charged with aiding in the holdup of Charles Alberhasky at Green Gables Inn Jan. 20, Leonard Hahn, 20, of Muscatine, was given a suspended sentence of six months in the county jail and fined $200 when he appeared before District Judge J. P. Gaffney yesterday.

Judge Gaffney suspended both the jail term and the fine because of Hahn's youth, and paroled him to Sheriff Fred Nespers of Muscatine county.

Hahn pleaded guilty to County Attorney F. E. Olsen's information charging him with breaking and entering. He is said to have been with Harry Powers and a third man when Alberhasky was held up and robbed of a gun and between $25 and $50. Powers, who is being held at Cedar Rapids, was identified by Alberhasky as the man who robbed him.

Hahn was taken to Muscatine yesterday afternoon.

Power Gets Three 10-Year Sentences

Harry Power, 27, who held up Charles Alberhasky at Green Gables Inn, north of Iowa City, January 20 taking a gun and between $25 and $50, was given three indeterminate 10-year sentences in the state penitentiary yesterday by Judge H. O. Ring of Cedar Rapids.

Power was arrested by Cedar Rapids police Feb. 9. He was sentenced on his plea of guilty to charges of breaking and entering stores at Central City, Waubesa, and Prairieburg. Two of the sentences will run consecutively.

His brother, Lauren Power, 24, charged with breaking and entering in connection with the Prairieburg robbery, pleaded guilty and was sentenced to five years in the state reformatory but was paroled.

AROUND THE TOWN with DON PRYOR

Chimney Fire

A chimney fire at the home of Mrs. Ethel Colbert, corner of College and Summit streets, at 7:30 p.m. yesterday was extinguished by firemen before any damage was done.

Too Fast

Albert Tanswell was given his choice of paying $25 and costs or spending 10 days in the county jail when he appeared before Police Judge Charles L. Zager yesterday on a charge of speeding on Iowa avenue. He paid the fine.

No Stop

Driving through the stop sign at Dubuque and Burlington street intersection cost Walter Ewald $1 and costs yesterday in Judge Zager's court.

Useless Labor

An attempt by would-be thieves to open the vault at the Wiltner Grocery company, 401 S. Gilbert street, late Wednesday night, was unsuccessful. Entrance was gained by borrowing a 12 foot step ladder from a lumber yard and going through the skylight. There was nothing stolen.

SCENE OF DISASTROUS GERMAN EXPLOSION

This general view shows the scene of chaos and death that followed the explosion of a gas tank in the industrial section of Neunkirchen, Germany, taking a toll of 62 dead and more than 1,000 injured. The blast, which occurred in a benzol plant, leveled buildings for a considerable radius and was heard in Basil, Switzerland. Here Red Cross workers are seeking victims among the debris.

National City Bank Inquiry Reveals Other Irregularities

Security Affiliate Tried to Control Markets by Selling Short

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23 (AP)—Testimony that the National City company undertook to control the market in stock of its parent, the National City bank, and at times was selling short in that stock was presented today to the senate bank inquiry committee.

Although company officials maintained through rigid cross examination that the short selling was only "technical," the evidence drew from Chairman Norbeck the charge that in effect the bank was selling its own stock short.

Hugh B. Baker, soft spoken president of the bank's security affiliate, sparred with the committee all day long over the question of whether the company actually was selling short in the bank's stock but testified readily to efforts to control the market.

"Did the company ever seek to control the market in the bank stock?" Ferdinand Pecora, committee counsel, asked.

"No," Baker replied, "except when the market seemed to be moving too fast in one way or the other, and then we would undertake to do it."

Later Evidence

Later, however, he introduced evidence that the company gave an option which was exercised on 32,000 shares of the stock to Dominick and Dominick, New York brokers, at prices well below the market and contended it was a trading account. Baker denied this, saying he had an understanding the stock was to be handled for investment accounts.

The square jawed committee counsel, more persistent in his questions than at any previous time during the inquiry, asserted that in April, 1929, the company was short 25,000

Authorities Push Search for Boettcher

DENVER, Feb. 23 (AP)—A nerve wracked multi-millionaire, Claude K. Boettcher, father of kidnapped Charles Boettcher, II, threw the power of his millions today behind his personal promise to pay the demanded $60,000 ransom on condition his son be returned to him unharmed by midnight next Saturday.

Failure of the abductors of the 31 year old broker to accept that pledge and release him by the midnight deadline, Boettcher said, will result in withdrawal of all previous offers and the instigation of "such action as may then seem advisable."

While the father prepared his third signed statement to the kidnapers since young Boettcher was abducted Feb. 12, two city detectives, Harry Blair and Dave Chvenc, sped by airplane to Sidney, Neb., to aid authorities there in investigation of a "mystery house" where Boettcher may have been held captive, but found nothing.

Chief of Police Clark said Sidney authorities had requested him to send two officers to augment Sidney police in their search of the house, located in the heart of the community.

Almost Six Billion in Circulation

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23 (AP)—Circulation of money in the United States reached a new high today in the week ending Feb. 21 when it amounted to $5,988,000,000, an increase of $134,000,000 in the preceding week.

Local Red Cross Comes to Rescue of Needy Student

Iowa City relief and charity organizations have faced many problems in recent months, but the Red Cross had a new request yesterday.

It is the season, you know, of fraternity "hell weeks." The task of a pledge of one group was to clothe himself fully in woman's attire throughout the probation period. Figuring that he needed "relief" about as badly as any one could, he applied to Mrs. Martin Pederson at the Red Cross office.

True to her responsibility to aid the "needy," Mrs. Pederson outfitted the neophyte from her stock of charity supplies, and he went his way merrily, promising to return the borrowed garments by the first of next week.

Schuppert Funeral Arranged for Today

Funeral service for Mrs. John Schuppert, lifelong Iowa City resident, will be held at 2 o'clock this afternoon at the German Lutheran church. Burial will be in Oakland Cemetery.

Mrs. Schuppert, who died Wednesday at the age of 51, was a member of Royal Neighbors, Rebekah lodge, and the Moose and Eagle Ladies.

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—Police tonight were attempting to locate relatives of a man whose body was found last night in a dwelling house here. The name James M. Mayall, Ft. Madison, Ia., was found on several papers in the man's clothing. Authorities said death resulted from natural causes.
