Iowa Citizens Bear Double Tax Burden, Says Koser

F. D. Breaks Precedent to Pick Woman

County, City Duplication of Office Blamed

Association Meets in City Hall Last Night

Iowa City bears a double tax burden because of duplication of city and county officers, according to George Koser, secretary of the Iowa City Taxpayers' association, at a meeting of the city hall last night.

Mr. Koser explained that there is $17,358 worth of taxable property in Iowa City in 1933 from which taxes amounting to $511,486.76 must be paid and that in the rest of Johnson county the taxable property amounts to $7,496,153.

"According to these figures," Koser explained, "there is $208 worth of taxable property per person in Iowa City while in the rest of the county there is $154 worth per person.

Duplications

"The city taxpayers, regardless of the fact that they are worth less per person," he continued, "have to pay taxes on county and city offices and work duplications such as city police and county sheriff, and city council and board of supervisors."

He then brought up the question of whether the city benefits from these officers and their work in proportion to the amount of taxes it pays.

"Iowa City pays $1,405 for the work done by the county superintendent of schools, $2,755 for the sheriff, $1,200 for the Farm Bureau, $5,497 for engineer's services, and $420 on sopher services," he said.

"Anything in Return?"

"But does Iowa City get anything in return for our tax money which goes for the pay of these officers and their work when we have our own school board, our own police force, and our own engineer?"

Asking if court expenses could not be reduced he pointed out that during the last year the county tax paid was $73,604.23 with $7,177 being paid in court costs. He recommended that all civil suits be tried by a judge who agreed between contestants. In an attempt to get some reduction in taxes the association's advisory board of 10 members is meeting behind closed doors with the various tax spending bodies of the county and city.

Louis Mueller, chairman of the association, explained how the advisory board intends to meet with the tax spending bodies and to cooperate with them in an effort to get at the source and causes of high taxes.

The meeting adjourned at 9:45 p.m. and will meet again on the call of the chairman.

Berry Trial Judge Modifies Ruling in Interest Rate Order

Judgment and decree in the case of Johnson county against the receivership of the First National bank of Iowa City and Charles L. Berry has been modified on one point in an order made by Judge Frank Bechly of Montezuma, who presided at the trial.

The judgment of $10,000 against the American Surety company shall draw interest at the rate of 6 per cent from and after June 18, 1932, instead of from Jan. 2, 1932, as provided in the original decree. The modification was made on a motion made by Wilson, Clearman, and Brant, attorneys for the surety company.

Martial Law Takes Effect for Germans

Designed as Protection Against Danger of Communism

BERLIN, Feb. 28 (AP)—A hefty blow was struck at communism in Germany by a decree President von Hindenburg signed tonight placing the nation under virtual martial law "to protect the people from communist danger."

The decree was approved at a cabinet meeting at which Wilhelm Goering, minister without portfolio and commissioner for the Prussian ministry of interior, reported to his colleagues on the incendiary fire which damaged the Reichstag last night and on the recent raid on Karl Liebknecht house, the communist headquarters in Berlin.

The emergency measures taken by the government to cope with the situation fell short of martial law only because of the desire to keep the army out of politics. Extraordinary powers to safeguard against disorder were placed in the hands of police.

Meanwhile, communist leaders throughout Germany were placed under arrest. The arrest order affected communist members of the Reichstag, but it was impossible to determine how many of them had been seized as many went into hiding.

In Hanover, 146 communists were arrested, in Hamburg 150, in Unterweissach 7, and in Dueseldorf 36. Party headquarters throughout the country were raided, and subversive literature and weapons were seized.

Captain Goering reported that in Karl Liebknecht house, the raiders found forged orders to the police and to National Socialist storm troops, as well as instructions for poisoning wells and food.

Plaintiff Attorney Dismisses Action to Recover Securities

Trial of the action of William Teeter against L. A. Andrew, receiver for the Iowa City Savings bank, was brought to a close yesterday morning when E. A. Baldwin, attorney for Mr. Teeter, dismissed the case without prejudice.

Mr. Teeter had asked judgment of $2,700, claiming that bonds in a safety deposit box at the Iowa City Savings bank had disappeared. He charged that the bank was negligent.

Attorneys for Mr. Andrew were Messer and Nolan, H. J. Long, and R. C. Davis.

House Approves Plan to Aid Cotton Prices

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28 (AP)—A novel scheme for raising cotton prices by offering shares in a huge government pool to production-slashing southern farmers today survived a scathing Republican attack to win house approval by a scant five votes.

The bill returns to the senate, where its sponsor, Senator Smith (D., S.C.), plans to ask acceptance of the house amendments, to get the measure to the White House before Saturday.

There is reception was unknown, but in reaching President Hoover, the cotton plan promised to join the bankruptcy bill in traveling farther than any other important farm relief effort of the "lame duck" congress.

State Governments Act to Stabilize Banking Business

(By the Associated Press)

Banks in several commonwealths functioned yesterday under the protective hands of their state governments, which exerted stabilizing influences through legislative and administration acts.

At Washington, Senator Borah said he believed congress must give its attention in the future to the subject of federal guaranty of bank deposits.

In six states—New Jersey, Kentucky, Indiana, Ohio, Pennsylvania and Arkansas—officials of banking institutions took advantage of safety valve measures sanctioning restricted withdrawals.

Permit Reorganization

Kansas legislators hastened to ward enactment of a bill permitting banks and creditors to formulate reorganization plans which, with the approval of 80 per cent of the general creditors and the state banking department, would be binding upon all general creditors.

The limitation in most instances was set at five per cent of deposits.

In Pennsylvania, emergency legislation required banks to obtain authorization of the state banking secretary to limit payments of their holdings.

The Delaware assembly enacted three laws designed to conserve banks assets and protect depositors. While, in Maryland, Governor Ritchie announced extension of a banking moratorium which was to have terminated yesterday.

Scarcely Impeded

Business transactions in Ohio went on scarcely impeded, although more than 150 banks there were compelling depositors to accept but a small percentage of their funds.

After suspending operations for four hours while its trustees debated possible lines of actions, the Cincinnati Stock Exchange re-opened for trading.

The Detroit News said that plans for establishing the two new Ford sponsored banks in that city had encountered an obstacle in the refusal of New York banks to grant a $20,000,000 loan to the First National bank of Detroit, one of the institutions involved.

The West Virginia legislature approved a bill permitting bank holidays, described by its sponsors as being necessary because of similar action in neighboring states.

Look in Your Own Back Yard—Fire!

JOPLIN, Mo., Feb. 28 (AP)—When fire trucks clanged outside the Joplin Globe Publishing company today, the police reporter hurried to a telephone.

"Where's the fire?" he asked of the central fire station.

"You ought to know," was the snappy comeback, "it's in your own building."

And it was.

Improvement in Outlook for Cermak Seen

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 28 (AP)—Mayor Anton Cermak made sufficient progress today to warrant cessation of oxygen treatment and intravenous injections of glucose.

Dr. Frederick Tice of Chicago, one of five physicians attending the wounded executive, said late today that an oxygen room being rushed here from New York probably would not be used if further improvement were noted tonight in Cermak's condition.

Favorable Progress Seen

The latest official bulletin on the Chicago mayor's condition said favorable progress had been noted. Dr. Tice said after the bulletin was issued that Cermak's respiratory rate is lower and improved. The pneumonia that was discovered in one lung Sunday has not spread, his physicians reported.

The oxygen room, a nine by nine apparatus that furnished air of 40 to 50 per cent oxygen, left New York today by chartered plane and was expected here at midnight.

The Chicago executive is suffering with a bullet wound, colitis and pneumonia and although reports from his bedside today were optimistic, he still is grievously sick.

His temperature today varied from 99 to 101.2 degrees, and his respiration rate was 34, a decrease of two points during the day, and four points lower than at one time yesterday.

The lower rate was described as "a very good sign" of improvement.

Definite Improvement

Doctors said the stationary pneumonia area, the better kidney and heart action, and the lower respiration were definite signs of improvement over the mayor's condition of a few days ago when they frankly admitted his chances to recover were slim.

"He has a reasonable chance to recover," said Dr. E. S. Nichol today, "in spite of the many complications that have beset him."

In another part of the hospital Mrs. Joe H. Gill, also dangerously wounded by Zangara, continued gradual recovery. A slight infection has developed about the bullet wound in her abdomen, but Dr. T. W. Huston, attending physician, said it was no more than was to be expected.

Russell Caldwell of Coconut Grove, Fla., another of the five wounded, was discharged from the hospital today. He was wounded between the eyes.

William J. Sinnott, former New York policeman, left the hospital Saturday, but Margaret Krus, Newark, N. J., remained under treatment for a bullet wound in the back of her head. She has complained of serious headaches.

made in open court, in the presence of Wieland, and that it was immediately entered on the criminal calendar and delivered to the clerk of court. He added that, because of the work in the office and the absence of some of the employees at the time, the entry was not transferred to the district court record until Monday, but that the delay in no way deprived Wieland of any of his legal rights.

Judge Gaffney set out that before filing application to withdraw the plea, Wieland's attorneys made oral application to fix appeal bond. He ruled that "the defendant should not be permitted to withdraw his plea of guilty, and that appeal bond in said matter should be fixed in the penal sum of $5,000."

Judge Denies Wieland Plea

Withdrawal of a plea of guilty to manslaughter charges entered in district court Feb. 21 by Joseph B. Wieland, 25, of Riverside, was denied yesterday by District Judge J. P. Gaffney. Appeal bond was set at $5,000.

Wieland was sentenced to an indeterminate term not to exceed eight years in the state penitentiary at Ft. Madison and fined $500 and costs when he appeared before Judge Gaffney Feb. 21 and pleaded guilty to County Attorney F. B. Olsen's information. He was arrested Feb. 20, shortly after the car he was driving struck and killed Morgan B. Hartsock, 67.

A petition asking withdrawal of the plea was filed Saturday by the law firm of Messer and Nolan. Trial on the petition was held late Monday afternoon, Attorney D. C. Nolan appearing for Wieland and County Attorney Olsen for the state.

Judge Gaffney, in his ruling, held that all of Wieland's legal rights had been fully safeguarded. He explained that at the time of his arraignment and the pronouncement of judgment, Wieland was duly and fully informed by the court of his constitutional and statutory rights. He added that Wieland entered a written plea of guilty, in writing waived time as to pronouncement of judgment and sentence, and consented that the court pronounce judgment and sentence immediately.

SH! IT'S AN OFFICIAL "SECRET"

MYSTERY OF OFFICER IN THE TOWER IDENTITY KNOWN TO THOUSANDS ANYONE CAN SEE HIM

While a rigid censorship imposes absolute secrecy upon British newspapers regarding the identity of this prisoner (shown at right) in the Tower of London, where England caged such distinguished state prisoners as Lady Jane Grey, dozens of people are permitted to see the prisoner exercise every day and this picture was secured with little trouble. The prisoner was identified in an official war office statement as Lieutenant Norman-Baillie Stewart of the Seaford Highlanders, who is awaiting court-martial on a charge of having violated the official secrets act. But though everyone knows who he is, mention of his name in a British newspaper is absolutely forbidden. Inset is a clipping from a London daily paper commenting on the "secret" anomaly.

'A' Smith Sketches Plan to Aid Economic Recovery

Changes in War Debts, Jobless Receive Attention

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28 (AP)—In his own homely phrases and familiar east side words, Alfred E. Smith, Democracy's 1928 presidential candidate, today sketched before the senate finance committee a broad program for the improvement of economic conditions.

At ease and puffing on his perpetual cigar, Smith mixed with bursts of smoke proposals for sweeping expansion of public works to aid the jobless, recognition of Russia, settlement of war debts on the basis of trade increases, tariff revision and consolidation of transportation agencies into a unified system.

Favors Delano Powers

For Franklin Delano Roosevelt, Smith advocated broad powers to reorganize the government and observed that he did not believe this would make the executive a dictator.

"I'm not in sympathy with all this talk about dictators, monarchs and kings when you give the president power to run the government as a private undertaking," Smith explained as the crowded committee room listened attentively to his comment.

The former New York governor sat at the head of the table in defining his views to those of other national notables on whom senate Democrats have called for suggestions to provide data for the use of the incoming administration in coping with the depression.

Hearings Closed

The hearings were closed today, but will be resumed about March 15, with the committee under the Democratic chairmanship of Senator Pat Harrison of Mississippi, sponsor of the resolution under which it is functioning.

For some time after laying his familiar brown derby on a mantel at the head of the committee table, Smith talked with committee members and many of he dozens of spectators, but once he sat down, he plunged directly into an expression of his views.

Embargo Hits China Hardest

TOKYO, Feb. 28 (AP)—Great Britain's announcement of an arms embargo against Japan and China was interpreted by Japanese authorities today as meaning a handicap for China only.

This interpretation was based on the ground that, so far as arms are concerned, Japan is self-sufficient. Nevertheless keen resentment against the embargo was expressed in official circles.

A government spokesman said that as long as the embargo is impartial and is confined to finished munitions, there is little likelihood of trouble, but if restrictions are applied to Japan alone, the government will have to consider the question of seizing arms shipments to China.

In general, the effect of the announcement of the British embargo was to replace the United States with Britain in the role of the villain in the present international drama so far as the Japanese are concerned.

Adhesion by the United States to the League of Nations committee which will continue attempts to settle the Sino-Japanese controversy caused little comment here.

They are Dr. W. E. Sternberg, Mt. Pleasant; Dr. Arthur Erskine, Cedar Rapids; and Dr. Oliver J. Fay, Des Moines.

Film Star Reports Marriage to Nurse

EL PASO, Tex., Feb. 28 (AP)—Buster Keaton, the frozen faced film comedian, announced here today he and his nurse of several months, May Scribner, had married Jan. 8 in Mexico, although his divorce from Natalie Talmadge in California is not yet final.

Despite Hollywood friends who said the comedian was "either kidding or not fully aware of what he was saying," Keaton and the bride insisted they had been married by a Mexican official at Ensenada, lower California, and that they had sought to keep the marriage a secret.

State Police Seek Missing Ford Adviser

DETROIT, Feb. 28 (AP)—Ernest G. Leibold, Henry Ford's general secretary who suddenly dropped from sight 36 hours before, "found" himself tonight in a park hotel room in Traverse City, Mich., many miles away from the home to which he started at 11 a.m. yesterday and never reached.

By telephone, he told Mr. Ford that he "just woke up" that he had no idea how far he had driven and that he was "totally exhausted."

Aide Disappears After Weeks of "Terrific Strain"

DETROIT, Feb. 28 (AP)—Over the roads of central Michigan tonight state police and sheriff's deputies—always a few moves behind—sped after an automobile believed to be driven by the missing Ernest G. Leibold, general secretary to Henry Ford, and for 20 years his "right hand man" in matters of finance.

Leibold dropped from sight yesterday, after, his friends said, two weeks of "terrific strain" as Ford's agent in devising plans for easing Detroit's financial situation. His wife telephoned Ford officials at 1:45 a.m. today that he had not arrived at his home and an ever-spreading search, finally resulting in the sighting of his automobile, was initiated.

Job Search

Detroit and state police, county authorities, local officials and the Ford industrial police organization, headed by Harry Bennett, Ford's personal agent, joined in the search.

For an explanation of the strange journey of the matter-of-fact business man, police had only the statement of his associates and friends that he had "worked day and night" on Henry and Edsel Ford's plans to start two new banks in Detroit, taking over the liquid assets of banks now operating under limited withdrawals.

Mrs. Leibold, sought for clues as to her husband's disappearance, was not at her Detroit home. A rumor that Leibold had been injured and taken to the Henry Ford hospital was investigated by the prosecutor's office, who reported it unfounded.

Search Leads North

From the time this morning that a letter mailed in Pontiac, Mich., 20 miles north of Detroit, was received from Leibold, the trail led steadily to the north central part of the state.

The letter, terse and without explanation, tendered his resignation from the Guardian National bank of Dearborn. It was mailed Monday afternoon.

Will Announce Diplomatic Appointments Next Week

HYDE PARK, N. Y., Feb. 28 (AP)—President-elect Roosevelt broke precedent tonight with the selection for the first time of a woman for the cabinet; he named Frances Perkins, New York commissioner of labor, his secretary of labor.

The next president made his cabinet complete with the announcement also of Daniel C. Roper of North Carolina, as secretary of commerce.

Earlier in the day, he gave out the name of the veteran Senator Thomas J. Walsh of Montana, as his attorney general.

Leading Figures

Both Senator Walsh and Mr. Roper were leading figures in the unsuccessful campaign of William G. McAdoo for the Democratic presidential nomination in 1924. McAdoo's announcement of the switch of California's vote at the Chicago convention, assured Mr. Roosevelt's nomination. Walsh was active for Roosevelt's nomination in 1932.

Miss Perkins has served in public office in New York under both Governors Alfred E. Smith and Franklin D. Roosevelt. She was formerly a member of the state industrial commission. Her advice has been sought frequently on labor problems by congressional committees at Washington.

Offers No Comment

Mr. Roosevelt offered no comment on his choices, simply informing newspapermen in his study at the residence here that Miss Perkins and "Dan" Roper would complete his cabinet. He treated the woman member on exactly the same terms as the men.

Apparently well founded reports that Mayor James M. Curley of Boston would be the next ambassador to Italy brought neither affirmation nor denial from Mr. Roosevelt. He replied to queries that "nothing has been done at all about that—nothing has been taken up about the embassy." He expects to announce the choice of diplomatic assignments next week after consultation with Senator Hull of Tennessee, his secretary of state. The name of Jesse I. Straus, New York merchantman, continues to be mentioned for Paris or Havana. Robert W. Bingham, Louisville publisher, is kept at the premier London assignment.

Spending the day quietly at his estate on the Hudson, Mr. Roosevelt devoted himself principally to final preparation of his inaugural address. In talks with intimates, he showed he was following the national banking situation and was keenly alive to its progress. His silence was interpreted as indicative of confidence.

It was learned definitely that his

Seals Club Aims to Interest Women in Aquatic Sports

When Seals club presents its water pageant, "Deep sea revels," March 9 and 10, it will be carrying out another project of its work to promote interest and proficiency in aquatic sports for women. An honorary swimming organization for women, Seals club is now in its thirteenth year on the campus.

In 1920, a group of university women who had been spending much of their leisure time swimming, organized the club as a means of working together to further not only their progress, but that of other women, in the sport of swimming.

Cooperating with the physical education department for women and the Women's Athletic association, the group has sought to promote proficiency in life saving, as well as excellence in aquatic sports.

To realize the objects of these aims, the Seals emphasize good form in diving and striking, and the necessity for speed and endurance. These points are incorporated into the club's requirements for participation in the organization's water pageants which it sponsors as an opportunity for all university women to take part in the yearly aquatic shows.

The first pageant, "Hiawatha's betrothal," a dramatization of the legendary life of Hiawatha as told by Longfellow, was produced by 65 university women in April, 1931.

Two old gold fins with a black letter "S" constitute the emblem of the club. A gold star is added with the passing of each proficiency test.

At present there are 21 active members of the club. Honorary membership includes members of the women's physical education department who swim, or any members elected by the club.

F. Schwartz Wins First in Frosh Debate

Bests Six Competitors in Tilt Yesterday Afternoon

Frederick Schwartz, A1 of Boone, was named winner of the freshman speech competition when he defeated six other contenders for the honor with his speech, "Against war," yesterday afternoon in liberal arts auditorium.

In winning the contest, Schwartz becomes the winner of the Samuel Lefevre prize of $20 awarded annually for excellent high school public speaking.

Barla A. Blaine, A1 of Hampton, and Philip L. Ray, A1 of Clinton, tied for second. Miss Blaine's address was "Natural philosophy"; Ray spoke on "Socialism."

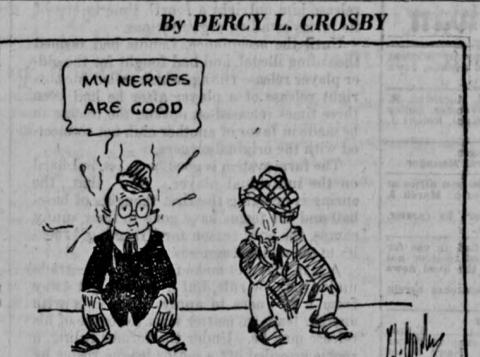

Speaking out of past experience during war time, Schwartz was able to give a personal account of the ravages of the World War. He had been a resident of Germany, and did not come to America until four years ago.

Schwartz winning the contest marked the conclusion of the competition which began last November with 750 entrants, all freshmen registered in class participation. By a process of elimination this number was reduced to the seven finalists. Operated as a class project, the purpose of the freshman speech competition is to provide motivation for accuracy and fluency in speech-making by placing the students in a real speaking situation. It is an annual feature of the work in freshman speech.

Award of the cash prize will be made to Schwartz publicly at the commencement exercises in June.

The other contestants participating were: Thomas H. Miller, A1 of Burlington; Edythe L. Clayton, A1 of Mt. Airy; Wilbur L. Hemsworth, A1 of Waterloo; and Arthur M. Barnes, A1 of Eagle Grove.

Judges for the final round were the members of the teaching staff of the classes in freshman speech.

Two Arrested for Kidnaping

Sought in Connection With Iowa, Illinois Terrorism

CHICAGO, Feb. 28 (AP)—Sought for nearly a year as members of a kidnap and extortionist syndicate that has victimized scores of persons in northern Illinois and eastern Iowa, Ted Patterson, 27, and Edward Moore, 25, were arrested in a raid today on the home of Joe Marando, alleged leader of the gang.

The men were captured by a detail of local detectives in charge of State Policemen Oliver W. Kempster and Hal Roberts of Springfield.

No resistance was offered by the alleged terrorists who were taken to the detective bureau, where they were being held incommunicado.

Meantime, police pressed the search for Marando, posting a guard about the home as well as detailing detectives to underwork haunts where he was reported to have been appearing recently.

"The arrest of Marando, along with these two men," Kempster said tonight, "will mark the complete breakup of the gang, a task that has occupied state police and co-operating local officials for nearly a year."

Six other suspected members of the ring were arrested previously.

They are: Mike Talarico, Dayton, Ill., convicted in Peoria, Ill., in 1931 for liquor law violations and whose appeal from a federal prison sentence is pending; Angelo Vota of Rockford, Ill., who Kempster said is associated with Talarico in the liquor business at Rock Island and Moline.

British Fliers Off to Conquer Everest

Lord Clydesdale Leading Expedition Which Will Attempt Flight Over World's Highest Mountain. Himalayan Giant a Hurricane Center.

Lord Clydesdale, Com. P.F.M. Fellowes & Lord Clydesdale

LONDON, Feb. 28—Never in the history of aviation has there been planned a more picturesque endeavor than the assault which will be made on Mt. Everest in the near future by British flyers. For years mountain climbers have braved the frozen glaciers and death traps of the "Daddy of all Mountains" in an endeavor to reach its snow-capped peak. But never has human eye beheld what lies amid the wreaths of mist that enshroud the giant of the Himalayas.

The British expedition, which recently left England under the leadership of the Marquess of Clydesdale, is hopeful of being the first group of human beings to penetrate the mystery of the great mountain. Lord Clydesdale will be accompanied on the flight which, it is hoped, will take them over the topmost peak of Everest, by Commodore P. F. M. Fellowes and Lieut. D. F. McIntyre, who are also birdmen of renown. They plan to take off from northern Bengal, at the foot of the great hills, in two planes, one of which will photograph the other during the flight over the mountain, to provide evidence that the feat has actually been accomplished.

Everest, the highest point on the globe, rising 29,141 feet above sea level, might not prove such an obstacle to surmount as far as altitude is concerned, for the planes in which the attempt is to be made are capable of climbing to more than 43,000 feet, but meteorologists have asserted that climatic conditions in the vicinity of the mountain peak make flying there a very hazardous undertaking.

The mighty monarch of the Himalayas lies remote in the heart of a formidable range of peaks, in a spot where a forced landing would mean instant destruction for plane and crew. Everest is the seat of terrific storms of hurricane force, and dense masses of frozen cloud veil the summit for many months of the year. Therefore, great care will have to be taken to choose a time for the flight when weather conditions are favorable.

Lord Clydesdale and his fellow-adventurers prepared for the flight for several months before leaving England. Their planes and equipment were tested and re-tested, until everything was pronounced practically foolproof. The flyers will wear specially designed, heated clothing, and the planes will be provided with oxygen apparatus to enable the men to breathe comfortably in the rarefied atmosphere that prevails at the high altitude they must attain in order to achieve success.

The British air ministry and the India office are lending all the support in their power to the expedition. And the Maharajah of Nepal, in whose territory Mt. Everest is situated, has given his permission for the flight and promised his co-operation.

Lord Clydesdale, leader of the intrepid band, is a member of parliament, a squadron leader in the Royal Auxiliary Air force and a well-known amateur boxer. He is 29 years old and the eldest son of the Duke of Hamilton and Brandon. Before he could undertake leadership of the expedition, Clydesdale was obliged to ask leave of his constituents. In doing so, he explained that the venture was not being undertaken for personal glory or in the nature of a stunt, but to promote British world prestige, particularly in India. He added that the flight over Everest was the only one left that was "really worth while."

The flight is financed by Lady Houston, widow of the Liverpool ship owner, whose gift of $400,000 enabled Britain to win the Schneider trophy contest in 1931.

G.O.P.'s Meet in Conference

House Members Look to Organization in Congress

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28 (AP)—House Republicans met tonight in closed conference to organize for the new congress while the Democrats continued their contest over the speakership that will be decided at a caucus Thursday.

Representative Snell of New York, the Republican leader, had no opposition for his party's speakership nomination, which meant he will be minority leader in the next Democratic controlled house.

Shortly after Representative Rainey of Illinois, the Democratic floor leader, announced he would "win the speakership nomination," campaign managers for Representative McDuffie of Alabama issued a formal statement claiming that 123 votes would be cast for their candidate on the first ballot. They predicted his selection.

Representative McReynolds of Tennessee, campaign manager for Representative Byrns, chairman of the appropriations committee, issued a formal statement that the Tennessee would be nominated.

John F. Curry, chief of Tammany Hall, was expected to arrive tonight to confer with Representative Cullen and Prall of New York on the speakership situation. The Tammany delegation of 25 plans to cast its first ballot for Cullen, delegation leader.

A bid for votes was made by another speaker candidate, Representative Rankin of Mississippi, in a letter to the members-elect he made public tonight.

MAY LIVE IN WHITE HOUSE

It will be a big change for Mr. and Mrs. Henry Nesbitt from the unpretentious home in which they are shown here to the White House, if they take the job offered them by President-Elect Roosevelt. The Nesbitts, neighbors of Mr. Roosevelt at Hyde Park, N. Y., have been invited to move to Washington with the Roosevelts, where, according to reports, Mrs. Nesbitt may become housekeeper of the White House, and her husband custodian-chief clerk. Mr. Nesbitt was once a whaler and still spins a wealth of seafaring yarns after the Moby Dick style.

Guard Discipline Reinforced in Illinois Mining District

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Feb. 28 (AP)—Guard discipline tightened over Sangamon county mines today.

While troops patrolled four colonies, bombs were exploded near the homes of two members of the United Mine Workers of America. Completed, preparations were made for the opening tomorrow of a wage scale conference at Millsboro, in Montgomery county, between members of the new Progressive union and the Independent Illinois Coal Operators. A new scale is to be negotiated to replace the $5.00 basic wage agreement, which expires March 31.

William Keck, secretary-treasurer of the Progressive Miners of America, said the negotiations probably would be completed in three or four days.

No one was injured in the two bombings in Sangamon county, but a truck was damaged and nearby windows shattered by a bomb at Bissell. The explosion was in the front yard of an employe at a local mine.

Physicians to Hold Meeting

An executive session of the society to consider a proposed new constitution and by-laws will be held immediately following this part of the program.

Something New in Causes and Effects

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 28 (AP)—There was a pistol shot. Something struck Al Sherman, deputy sheriff, in the head.

The officer, waiting in the sheriff's office, thought he was being assassinated and instinctively reached for his pistol holster. It was empty. Then Sherman diagnosed the situation. His pistol had fallen to the floor and was discharged. A bullet ripped through his trousers and struck a steel locker, dislodging a box which fell on him.

Talks of Work on Zuider Zee

The task of reclaiming from the sea more than half a million acres of land, which the people of Holland have undertaken, was described by Walter Bosch, chemical engineer of Utrecht, Holland, in a lecture in chemistry auditorium last night.

The address was presented in conjunction with a moving picture showing the project of draining the Zuider Zee. Out of the 820,000 acres of land lying below water, about 550,000 acres will be reclaimed for agricultural use, Mr. Bosch said.

Electric and crude oil pumps are used in pumping off the water. This modern machinery can complete the work in one-eighth the time necessary with old Dutch windmills, he declared.

Four areas of the Zuider Zee will be drained, leaving an inland lake about one-fourth the size of the original body of water.

The project was made necessary by the pressure of population, Mr. Bosch asserted. He illustrated this by pointing out that Holland has a population of 8,000,000 in an area only one-fifth that of Iowa.

Began in 1918, the work of reclaiming this land will take 30 years to complete. It forms the largest project of its kind ever attempted throughout the world, the speaker concluded.

Appropriation Bill Hits Snag

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28 (AP)—A filibuster was started in the senate today, holding up action on one of the vital appropriation bills, as the house approved legislation to aid the southern farmer.

Black (D. Ala.) opened the filibuster in an effort to force consideration of his resolution to block the letting of an ocean mail contract by the post office department to a subsidiary of the International Mercantile Marine company.

The senate had just voted to take up the independent offices supply bill. Earlier it had passed the navy department appropriations bill and adopted conference reports on the agriculture and war department bills.

By a 188 to 183 vote, the house passed the senate bill intended to raise cotton prices by forming a government pool whose participants would curtail 1933 production. It goes back to the senate for action on minor amendments.

She was the wife of John H. Bovard, capitalist who is critically ill. Her father, Col. Elijah Sells, was a former secretary of state for Iowa and auditor of the United States treasury department under President Lincoln.

She was a native of Muscatine, Iowa.

Boettcher Given Chance to Deal Singly With Kidnapers

Will Seek Return of Son for $60,000 Ransom

Senator Advises Against Embargo

DENVER, Feb. 28 (AP)—Loewy to deal with the kidnapers of Charles Boettcher 2nd was given today to Claude K. Boettcher, multimillionaire father of the missing broker, by the withdrawal of police from his home and that of his son.

A conference between Police Chief A. T. Clarke and Mayor G. D. Begole to determine whether police should retire altogether from the more than two weeks old kidnaping mystery and allow the elder Boettcher to conduct independent negotiations was postponed. Clark said he wanted to see what developments withdrawal of officers from the homes would bring.

Withdrawal of policemen was followed quickly by unverified reports another ransom note had been received by the father Sunday night, nearly 24 hours after the deadline he set previously for the safe return of his son.

The rumor said the note, demanding $60,000 ransom, had been delivered directly to Boettcher. A more cheerful atmosphere was noted in the Boettcher household, although the father said, "there are no new developments."

In line with Clark's decision that the police, however, would not cease following up clues, authorities pressed a search for Tommy Coleman, an escaped convict, who was a cellmate in the state prison of Welmer Nutt, now serving a term for forging the elder Boettcher's name to checks. Clark said he also intended to question Paul Adams, former Colorado convict, who asked the elder Boettcher he notified that he was ill in a hospital here.

So Near, and Yet So Far—If Caught

LEAVENWORTH, Kan., Feb. 28 (AP)—Federal penitentiary officials are wondering if Joseph Holt, 43, didn't lose track of his dates.

Holt, a trusty, escaped from the prison annex yesterday.

He was sentenced from Gimmsboro, N. C., to 18 months imprisonment for violation of the anti-narcotic act. His term was due to end tomorrow.

Injuries Fatal

OAKLAND, Ill. (AP)—Mrs. Clara Robinson, 68, of Waterloo, Ia., died in a local hospital of injuries sustained Sunday night in an automobile accident.

Banker Dies

TACOMA, Wash. (AP)—Morton M. Ogden, vice president of the Puget Sound National bank and formerly of Martinsburg, Ia., died after a year's illness.

The Lone Wolf

OBJECTIONS to the recently repeated requests of Herbert Hoover that the president of the United States be given broad powers to restrict the sale of arms to warring nations centered largely on the question of federal authority. But many objections were based on the fact that for the U. S. to take a lone stand on this matter would not seriously—if at all—affect the world situation. There were too many other nations ready and willing to allow their munitions plants to work overtime to supply Japan, China, and also others with the means of modern warfare.

Day before yesterday Great Britain, through its foreign secretary, Sir John Simon, announced that after British munitions manufacturers fill the orders now on hand, sales of arms to Japan and China will cease. Along with that statement came one that declared under no circumstances will England allow herself to be drawn into the Far Eastern conflict. Some observers believe the latter assertion to be the underlying cause of the first.

Nevertheless, Britain has assumed the lead that the United States might have taken. No matter what the basic reason, the end certainly justifies the means.

One of the immediate reasons for U. S. non-cooperation in the arms embargo was the voice of Senator Borah of Idaho booming: "To put an arms embargo on China and Japan is to take sides with Japan under the conditions and circumstances that now exist."

The presumption is that Japan is already well equipped for her invasion of Jehol, while China, the underdog, is unprepared.

Speaker Garner's objection that it is too late in the session to pass such a bill as President Hoover has suggested is inconsiderate of him, in view of the fact that the result would be in line with the avowed aim of the present lame duck congress to ease the way for the incoming administration.

While the British might be commended for their lone stand, it seems hardly likely, from a business standpoint, that it was the right move. But the business standpoint has been obviously overworked in recent years, while the moral issues have been trampled beneath miles of ticker tape and hopelessly buried under stacks of dollar bills.

Those Peruvian Bonds

THE BILLIONS of dollars of American money that have gone down with the battleships of foreign nations or gone up with the bombing of foreign railroads aided immeasurably in producing a situation in the United States that no one can adequately analyze nor satisfactorily foretell the outcome.

While the resignation from New York of the National City bank of President Hugh B. Baker was being made public in that city, Baker's testimony was being related to the senate stock market investigating committee in Washington the other day. When he had finished telling about the sale of $90,000,000 worth of Peruvian bonds, in which National City had participated, the committee counsel presented documents to show that the bank's agents in Peru were dubious of their worth because of the instability of the Peruvian government.

Baker said, according to an Associated Press dispatch, that he could not remember why the company believed the bonds sound in spite of repeated warnings from its officers in the South American country.

The incident recalls another that was publicized not so long ago of how the son of a deposed president of Peru was given $415,000 by an American banking house as a bonus for helping to float a loan of $100,000,000 to his government. The Kreuger bubble was just another that was inflated to the bursting point in the same manner, except that perhaps Kreuger knew he was doing wrong.

One would think that the lessons of the past decade will have been so impressed upon the speculating public that the United States will never again be forced to undergo another period like the current one. But that part of the deadly cycle seems to go on and on without any one but the winners learning anything new.

Peru will need money again and there will be bonuses for the right man. And as long as there are takers, the banks will go right on doing business, perhaps not in exactly the same manner, but with not much different results.

Spring is Coming!

JUDGE KENESAW MOUNTAIN LANDIS, chief mogul of organized baseball, lost his long fight over the release rules of major and minor league clubs Monday.

The minor leagues accepted a ruling at a Chicago meeting permitting a major club to release a player on option three times and to release him outright a fourth time to one of its farms or allied organizations.

Until the acceptance, Landis had termed the ruling illegal, and had fought for the older player release ruling, which called for outright release of a player after he had been three times released on option, the release to be made in favor of another club not connected with the original owners.

The farm system is good business, but hard on the individual player. Now that the spring is bringing the first thoughts of baseball and the teams have gone to their sunny camps, the open season for "farming" rookies to the minor leagues is under way.

A man may not make the big league grade under the new rule, but he cannot get away from his owners to apply his talents with another team, no matter what the cause of his release may be. Under the former ruling, a rookie crowded off a major league roster by veterans might have at least one chance in four of joining another club where the crop of old timers was not so heavy.

The new ruling allows a greater chance to recall the young player to the major league club. It keeps a more effective string tied to him, and it insures with a little more safety an investment in personnel.

If those state conventions are like some, repeal will go over with a bang as soon as the bellhop arrives with the ice.

TODAY'S TOPICS

By FRANK JAFFE

WHEN THE SENATE DECIDED three weeks ago to help the incoming administration to a better understanding of the nation's ills by allowing its finance committee to hold hearings of the country's best brains, it couldn't have known what it was getting into.

Because now that the committee is getting along toward the 250 goal—eventually to include representatives from the fields of drama, science, medicine, music, as well as from the political and economic and social sciences—it is getting into a lot of trouble.

For example, along comes Bernard M. Baruch who says one thing caused the depression and another thing will get us out of it, while next in line is Nicholas Murray Butler who agrees with Mr. Baruch on only one thing—that there is something wrong.

NEVERTHELESS, ALFRED M. SMITH, whom the committee heard yesterday, gave as good a version of the situation as has been recorded so far.

"This condition is something like war," said the astute magazine editor. "I never saw as many headlines and as much starvation in war times as now. Cut out all this red tape and go back and build buildings like we did cantonments—overnight."

That, certainly, is something. Hasn't the congress been appropriating millions for self-liquidating projects? Isn't it thinking of taking transient boys off the highways and putting them into C.M.T.C. camps? Hasn't it been handing out money and credit six figures at a time to relieve the suffering of the populace?

WELL, MR. SMITH TOOK ALL THAT into consideration and suggested a lot more things. Build federal highways, liberalize R.F.C. loans, don't inflate currency, recognize Russia, unify transportation systems, float a popular bond issue to get money out of hiding, etc., etc.

Butler, Dick Smith, managing editor of the Kansas City Journal-Post; A. D. Noyes, financial editor of the New York Times, told the committee the other day they were in favor of arms reduction. Smith said settlement of debts and tariff problems would obviate the need of farm legislation. Noyes said overexpansion and waste were the forerunners and laid the groundwork of the depression.

Before them, Wisconsin's Glenn Frank urged a "muzzling of our jingoes" to permit tariff and debt readjustment. President W. W. Atterbury of the Pennsylvania railroad proposed balancing the budget, invoking a sales tax, regulate all transportation lines. Matthew Woll, vice president of the American Federation of Labor suggested unemployment insurance, a five-day work week, and six-hour day, currency inflation; heavy income, inheritance, and excess profits taxes, etc., etc.

BEFORE THAT, THE CHAIRMAN OF THE Chase National Bank, Winthrop Aldrich, urged a general scaling down of world tariff barriers and other obstructions to international trade. John A. Simpson, president of the National Farmers Union, advocated passage of the Wheeler silver reauthorization bill, the Frazier bill for refinancing farm mortgages, the domestic allotment plan, etc., etc. (Radio listeners have heard that before in the original.)

Yesterday's sessions closed the hearings for a while. The committee will resume its activities again March 15, under the chairmanship of Senator Pat Harrison of Mississippi. What it will all come to besides a batch of bulky reports is questionable. We can't help quoting Frank R. Kent on the subject:

"... the committee will get almost as many views as it has visitors. The truth is that is 96 of these men, two from each state, were substituted for the 96 senators and had the retention of their seats to think about, in all probability we would have just as much confusion of thought, divergence of opinion, and lack of action as now. It makes a lot of difference whether you are sitting in and looking out or sitting out and looking on." Ain't it the truth, though?

Book Bits—

(From Albert Grope, by F. O. Mann)
—And I was glad to think that I looked so decided — as though I could beat down all opposition—for that sort of appearance goes a very long way in business life, being often much more useful than brains.

FILM SCANDAL

SCREEN COMMENT

HOLLYWOOD, Cal.—Before long, you'll be seeing the screen's newest romantic team, Dorothy Jordax and Joel McCrea.

Their first picture may be "Little Clown Lost," a Barry Benefield novel which Wilbur Daniel Steele calls "the finest sentimental romance I have ever read."

Mr. Steele, one of the outstanding short story writers in the world, is now out here for R-K-O. He's adapting the novel for the screen.

Of course, you've heard that Dorothy Jordax is going around with Merian C. Cooper, the new production boss at R-K-O. With him to see that she gets good roles, Dorothy will have a chance to make Clarksville, Tenn., proud of her.

And the opportunity will not be long in coming. Radio has bought another story for this team, "Rafter Romance." So far, it's a toss-up which picture will be produced first.

Dozens of stories are told of the Marx brothers conferences. Latest is about the writer who was submitting dialogue for their approval. He read a six line speech. They asked him who it was for. "Zeppo," he replied. "Cut it down to 'Well, er,' snappd Groucho.

HOLLYWOOD PARADE
One who'll mourn Mrs. Antonio Moreno greatly is Eleanor Holm, swimming and screen star, who was her protegee. Eleanor left here Tuesday night on the Warner Brothers' "Forty-second Street" special train. They told her of the fatal automobile accident just before she went on a Denver stage.

Lola Lane isn't waiting to spend her $35,000 divorce settlement before returning to pictures. She's up now for a part in Fox's "Husbands Cost Money." Sharon Lynne is another making tests for this picture.

The Estelle Taylor-John Warburton romance is going full tilt again. The two were dancing at the Cotton Club the other night. Lee Tracy and Isabel Jewel were at this late-spot, too. And Boots Mallory with James Dunn.

Remember Margaret Mann, who played the mother in "Four Sons" and who never got another break after that? Well, John Ford has made for him?

Letter to Homer Dill Sheds Light on Birds' History

Light on the history of one of the last of the passenger pigeons to be seen in Iowa was received recently in a letter by Homer R. Dill, director of the university museum, from Prof. Charles A. Williams of the University of Illinois.

The bird, lent to the museum by the Williams family, was shot May 7, 1884 by John Williams, father of the writer, near Coralville. On May 2 of that year the elder Williams had seen a large flock of passenger pigeons in the timber and feeding in the cornfields northwest of Coralville.

This flock was probably, according to the letter, one of the last bands of these migrators whose numbers even in the memory of old residents were once so great as to darken the sun for days at a time.

In 1885 John Williams saw only one member of the species, the last seen by him, in the opinion of his son. Today the bird is entirely extinct in the world, said Mr. Dill, who believes that the flock to which Mr. Williams refers was undoubtedly the last of its kind to be seen in Iowa.

The bird presented by the Williams family is one of a group of four mounted on a beech branch in the exhibit in bird hall in natural science building.

Herring Leaves for Washington to Take Part in Conference

DES MOINES, Feb. 28 (AP)—Governor Herring carried with him to Washington tonight data on recently enacted Iowa mortgage foreclosure and bank stabilization laws.

The governor said the emergency steps have attracted national interest and will be discussed at the conference of governors called by President-elect Roosevelt.

Governor Herring said he believed his proclamation asking suspension of foreclosures, the ensuing law that provided for continuing foreclosure actions until 1935, and the banking law permitting the state superintendent of banking to assume management of state banks without placing them in receivership, justified a demand "that congress be equally prompt in doing for the country what has been done for the state."

Governor and Mrs. Herring and their party left for Washington at noon today. They will stop enroute at Indianapolis to confer with Governor Paul V. McNutt of Indiana regarding that state's governmental reorganization program.

Prof. F. L. Mott to Discuss Journalism in Radio Broadcast

Questions about newspapers and education for a journalistic career will be answered by Prof. Frank L. Mott, director of the school of journalism, during a radio interview from station WSUI at 3 o'clock this afternoon.

Professor Mott will tell about newspapers in depression times, radio and newspapers as rivals, and crusading editors.

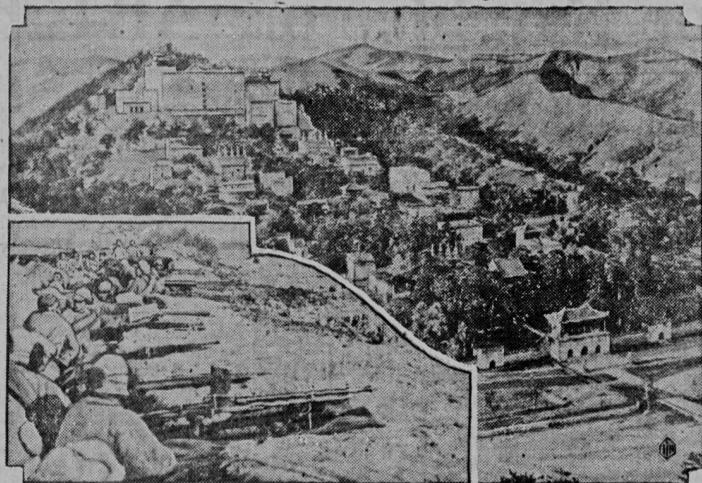

In connection with education for journalism he will describe work in the university's school and answer queries about the current job situation. Eric C. Wilson, editor of the university news service, will conduct the interview.

Director Dill Will Talk on Bird Life at Mt. Vernon Tonight

Speaking on the bird life of the mid-Pacific island of Laysan, Homer R. Dill, director of the university museum, will present an illustrated lecture, "The land where the birds are not afraid," at Cornell college, Mt. Vernon at 8:45 this evening.

At the request of the Science club of Cornell college, Mr. Dill will tell of his experiences on the island he visited 20 years ago when obtaining information for a cyclorama now in the university museum.

Two other addresses will be made by Mr. Dill this week. Tomorrow he will speak before the Iowa City junior high school assembly on a topic similar to that he will give at Mt. Vernon. He will give a like talk before the University high school assembly on Friday.

Doctor Burned to Death

DAVENPORT (AP) — Dr. J. T. Haller was burned to death when his car ditched and caught fire six miles west of here as he drove to see a patient.

New Air-Cooled Valve Perfected by Ernest A. Putnam to Do Away With Bane of Modern Motorists

Overheated and sticky valves, bane to motoring satisfaction, will soon be relegated to the limbo of forgotten things. If a new air-cooled valve which has been perfected by Ernest A. Putnam, mechanic and laboratory assistant in mechanical engineering, proves as effective in actual use as numerous laboratory tests indicate.

"The exhaust valve of the present-day gasoline engine is practically identical with that of the antiquated motor of 30 years ago," declared Mr. Putnam. "The valve stem and guide are still directly in the path of the burned exhaust gases, and are therefore subjected to intense heating."

It is at this crucial time, Mr. Putnam pointed out, where most valve trouble originates. As long as the valve seats well, no burning of the stem occurs, but under the intense stresses to which motors are subjected a good valve seat will not last long.

Studies Problem It is this problem to which Mr. Putnam has devoted his attention during the last three years. An air cooled valve purporting to solve the difficulty of overheating is the result of his study and experiment.

The mechanics of the valve are simple, both in structure and operation.

A specially devised air radiation cone sheds the burned exhaust gases from contact with the lower valve stem and guide, thereby averting the probability of "baking" or carbonizing. This device in itself represents an outstanding improvement in internal combustion engines in recent years. By virtue of it, the valve stem may be run in a cold oil bath, and chances of sticking valves are materially lessened.

A second feature of Mr. Putnam's improved valve is a system of air cooling. While the exhaust valve is closed a low velocity current of air is blown through the valve cage, against the air radiation cone with a turbulent motion, and thence out into the exhaust pipe.

Concentration of this stream of air on the spot where most of the heat has accumulated provides an effective deterrent to temperature extremes.

Serves as Shutter During the exhaust period the air radiation cone serves as a shutter to the air orifice inlet, stopping the flow of air. Thus the heating by exhaust gases and cooling by the air comprise an alternating cycle.

In an actual test by Mr. Putnam in the university power laboratory, using a Delco one-cylinder motor, a reduction in the temperature of the exhaust valve from 860 to 620 degrees, a total of 240 degrees, was accomplished by use of the new valve. This result was achieved by applying slightly more than one-third of a pound of air. A similar test using less than .06 of a pound of air reduced valve temperature by 90 degrees.

Temperature tests were made by boring the stem to its full length and inserting a thermo-couple. Similar measurements of the heat of the valve cage showed reductions of 100 degrees and 20 degrees. These figures were taken after the motor had run 35 minutes under a full load.

Cylinder Wall Unchanged While these reductions in valve temperature were being effected, however, no appreciable change occurred in the temperature of the cylinder wall, within which explosion takes place. The only noticeable effect here was a difference of a few degrees during the first 10 minutes. The motor warmed up somewhat more slowly when equipped with the air cooled valve.

This feature of the invention will make possible raising the temperature of compression, thus increasing the thermal efficiency of the motor, the inventor believes. Simultaneously, reduction of the temperature of the valve head and stem will allow the use of low carbon steel for valves, which will operate as efficiently and more economically than high carbon steel.

Additional cost in manufacturing a motor with the new air cooled valve will entail only the expense of an air manifold and a low velocity air blower of variable speed.

Design Remains Unchanged With the exception of the conical shutter and the surrounding air chamber, the design of the original valve mechanism remains unchanged.

Where the air comes from is a question that arises, Mr. Putnam, in his laboratory tests, used a blower driven by the motor itself. Since the air pressure is low, the power consumed is negligible.

Longer lived valves are foreseen by the inventor, since the new valve operates under a lower temperature. Six hundred degrees, he avers, is near the optimum for steel strength, in variance with an old theory that steel is strongest at zero.

In the model valve, .025 of an inch of clearance was allowed for the cooling fin to slide within its guide. Despite this comparatively poor sealing, no traces of baking or carbonizing could be detected after hours of operation.

Will Prove Boon Application of the valve will prove a boon to low priced automobiles, Mr. Putnam thinks. He does not anticipate its adoption until business conditions are relieved, however, since the current automobile models are stressing stream-lined body design.

Maximum results, he believes, will derive from the use of the new valve in the future by airplane and

University Shows Increase in Number of Degrees Awarded

How the number of students who have graduated from the University of Iowa since 1910 has increased 238 per cent is shown by official statistics from the office of H. C. Dorcas, registrar.

Twenty-three years ago, the total number of degrees awarded was 419, and in the next decade this number had been exceeded by only 161, for an aggregate of 580 in 1920, the report indicates.

The greatest increases occurred between 1920 and 1931, with the percentage of gain totalling 171. In 1931, the university granted 1,576 degrees, a record number.

However, the record fell again during the 12 months period ending June, 1932, when the new mark was 1,661, according to the summary.

If the record is to be broken this year, a total of 1,955 degrees must be awarded at the June commencement, an increase of 66 over the record figure of last June.

Figures which will be included in the June to June aggregate are for the July, August convocations of 1932 and the February ceremony of this year. At these affairs, the university dispensed 577 degrees.

advised that Leibold's car, bearing license number X-90-000, had been sighted near Saginaw, 100 miles to the north. Later in the day, the car was reported sighted near Roscommon in the central part of the state, moving northward. A lone man was driving.

State police reported they had barely missed him at several other places.

Leibold, it was established, left the laboratories of the Ford company in Dearborn at 11 a.m. yesterday, saying he was going home to "get some sleep." He did not arrive at his home.

Called Friend Late Monday evening but before dark, Carl Schmidt, Detroit, who maintains a home at Oscoda, more than 100 miles to the north, said Leibold called him, saying he was going to Oscoda, and planned to come to his home for the night. He did not arrive and a garage man who serviced his car reported seeing the machine traveling in an opposite direction, toward Saginaw.

From the varied movements, the doubling of his route through central Michigan, officials said their theory that the 48 year old Ford secretary was suffering from the strain of past events was gaining weight. They ordered all highways in the central section patrolled, and concentrated a group of state police near Houghton Heights, Mich., where the car was reported late in the afternoon.

Virtual Comptroller For 20 years, Leibold has been the agent for Henry Ford in all of his dealings in the world of finance. He wielded more power in the Ford organization than any man connected with it, except Henry and Edsel Ford. From a clerkship in a Highland Park bank in which much of the Ford company's business was handled, he rose to virtual comptroller of the Ford organization.

Leibold has few interests outside his business, and is known throughout business circles as a "strictly business" individual, who handled, without assistance, all the dealings left to him.

CONSIDERABLE concern has been voiced at various times around the Iowa campus because there are not more traditions such as those found at other colleges and universities throughout the country. While it is nothing to get really worked up about, a few good old customs would undoubtedly add to the flavor of sports, and really do much toward keeping the "Iowa Spirit" going, year after year. Some colleges would not think of having a rooting section at football games that did not do some sort of stunt between halves. Victory bells, such as the one at Iowa State, which is rung after every athletic triumph, are often used. But Iowa has nothing of the sort.

There are plenty of students on the Iowa campus who have the ability, and more than enough clever ideas, to really figure out something practical along the line of traditions of this sort to produce one that would be a winner. Some snappy, clever ceremony, or something of the sort, would make Iowa sports a great deal more interesting, make victories mean more, and add color to Hawkeye athletics. Now is the time to start working along those lines. Iowa teams are distinctly on the up grade. This department will gladly do anything to further any plans in the direction of such traditions. Just send a card in care of this column, and help get things going.

SPEAKING of traditions, it almost looks like the "I" men have started one at basketball games. In the way they shove the late comers hand-over-hand above their heads to the top of the "I" section. The Hawk "I" club had a happy idea when it obtained a reserved section for letter winners who wear their sweaters to the games. It not only gives the fans a chance to look over Iowa's athletes, but really adds color to the game. They lead cheering in great style, and provide amusement for all. "Zud" Schammel, after being hustled off the players' bench by a bunch of letter men, and passed to the top of the section the other night, however, is said to believe that age should be shown some respect.

Did you realize that the successful season that has been enjoyed by the Iowa basketball team this year was made possible by a meekie? We didn't until Coach "Tops" Harrison let us in on the secret Monday night. "Tops" has a meekie which he insists upon him 23 straight games. He got it out at the start of this season, and "it came through" (to use Pops' words) until the North Dakota game. Iowa lost that tilt, but according to the Iowa mentor, the tie wasn't to blame for that. He had worn the tie since that at every Iowa game he has attended, and it has done the business. Monday, before the Illinois game, Pops told about it, and said if the tie lost that game, he would throw it away. And so he still has it.

COACH Ossie Solem really has the best one concerning good luck pieces. Once while he was coaching at Drake, Ossie had his team down at Kansas and Drake was behind, 7 to 2. Right in the middle of the game, one of the Drake players found a penny on the field, grabbed it up and ran over to Ossie at the side lines, and informed him that Drake was due to win. Sure enough, the Bulldogs collected a couple of touchdowns to take the game. That started things, and for two years Drake didn't lose a game. Every time one of the players found a coin, he would turn it over to Coach Solem who kept the collection in his coat pocket. It became the rule that a coin must be found before each game, and if a search wasn't successful, the coach turned his back while someone flipped a coin over his shoulder, and then Solem would go and "find" it.

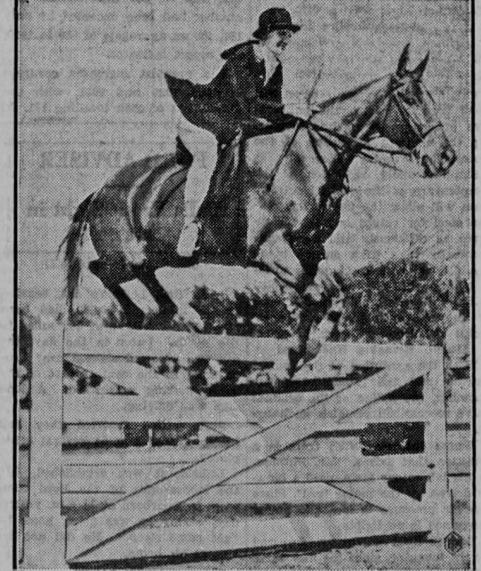

Whether or not that was the reason for quitting the custom, Solem after while had a pocket on his coat which sagged with the weight of the accumulated coins. Solem says he doesn't believe in signs or good luck charms, although he did hang on to a pair of football pants for a good many years.

Iowa Shooters Take 2 Wins

Lose But One Match in Return Shoot With 14th Cavalry

In a return shoulder to shoulder rifle match with the 14th Cavalry unit of Ft. Des Moines Monday afternoon, the University of Iowa marksmen won two matches and dropped one to the regulars. The Hawkeye first team defeated the Des Moines squad with a score of 1,358 to 1,330. The second team lost with the count of 1,283 to 1,254, while the Iowa freshmen came through to win, 1,247 to 1,217.

Col. Charles E. Stodter, head of the 14th Cavalry unit at Ft. Des Moines, brought 17 shooters with him to compete in this dual match with Colonel Lewis' teams.

Leon Lande, member of last year's freshman team, led the shooters for individual honors with 232 points. Vincent Allison, Iowa's outstanding man at the Kemper competitions, was second with a score of 219.

The individual scores of the Iowa shooters were:

Swimmers in Preparation for 2 Duals

Registering some of the best times of the season, Hawkeye swimmers gave indications yesterday afternoon that they would be hard to stop this week end when they travel to Minneapolis to meet Carleton at Northfield Friday evening and Minnesota at Minneapolis Saturday afternoon. That the Old Gold mermen are out to average the one-point Minnesota lacing administered by the Gopher's two weeks ago, seemed evident in every time-trial.

Auggie Anderson turned in the best varsity time of the year in the 220 and also the best time of his career in negotiating the middle distance free style event. His time was five seconds better than any of his previous efforts.

Phil McClintock also bettered his own record as he traveled the 150 yard back stroke event in 1:34 to lower his past time by two seconds. Pitted against an all-American Minnesotan, he may well bid for second place honors this week end. Last time he garnered third.

Chet Mohl was the other varsity man to swim his best race of the year. He turned in a quarter that closely approached the second place time of Captain Lang of Minnesota in the last meeting of the two teams.

With these improvements, the team is given an even chance by Coach Armbruster to turn the tables on the Gophers Saturday. Sporting decidedly inferior times and handicapped by colds, the Hawks were beaten by Minnesota, 38 to 37, two weeks ago.

Hawk-I Club Will Hold Meeting at Iowa Union Tonight

Alumni are urged to attend the meeting tonight as well as the active members of the newly organized club.

Hawkeyes Still in Running as Preparation for Return Game With Illinois Starts

Dodgers' Holdout List Reduced as Frederick Signs

NEW YORK, Feb. 28 (AP) — The list of unsigned Brooklyn Dodgers today was decreased to nine as Johnny Frederick, centerfielder, dropped into the club's office and put his name on a contract.

Frederick established a new major league pinch hitting record last year as he belted out six pinch home runs.

The Dodgers still outside the fold include Danny Taylor, Hack Wilson, Joe Stripp, Al Lopez and Ray Phelps among the regulars of last season.

Iowans Close Big Ten Season in Illini Stronghold

All that remains to make the University of Iowa's basketball season even more of a success is for second division teams to upset Ohio State and Northwestern and boost the Hawkeyes into a tie for the Big Ten title.

Hawkeye hopes are tenuous and the possibility remote, for to aid the Iowans Wisconsin and Indiana must beat the Buckeyes while Minnesota whips Northwestern, with Iowa downing Illinois. The Iowa team now is third in the standing.

But the team will begin priming today for the second Illinois game Saturday at Urbana, with the intention of winning and thereby finishing no worse than a tie for third. At Moline, Ill. the following Monday, the season ends with the St. Louis university game.

Title Quests for March as Duals Slacken

Iowa now has taken eight of 11 conference games, equalling the second greatest number of Big Ten victories ever scored by an Iowa quintet. The 1923 team won 11 of 12 games to tie for the title, and the quintet of 1927 shared honors with three rivals after annexing eight of the dozen.

For the second time in five days, the Illini will oppose the Hawkeyes. Victorious 30 to 27 at Iowa City Monday, the team is not regarding the return battle at Urbana Saturday with optimism, despite the fact that Frank Froehner, leading Illinois scorer, is out with a cracked ankle.

Bastian Retains Lead

Howard Bastian still clings to his lead as high scorer in conference games for Iowa, with 77 points, but Gueldner Krumholz is only five points behind. Third place is shared by Howard Moffitt and Ben Selzer, with 47, while John Grim has 41.

Although the Iowans trail only Ohio State and Northwestern in games won and lost and have the added distinction of being the only team to down the Buckeyes, fourth place offensively and fifth on defense is the present ranking.

The game average is 31.7-11 points, while opponents have averaged 28.7-11. Five of the games were won by a total margin of 14 points, including Michigan, 1 point; Purdue, 2; Illinois, 3, and Chicago and Purdue, 4 each.

Phi Chi Gets Another Win in Volleyball

Funny the way that this Phi Chi volleyball sextet is able to get its opposition out for the games. The Phi Chi-Pi Kappa Alpha fray was the only one of the four games played last night in the inter-fraternity meet. The Phi Chi's again took the measure of a hapless Pi K. A. crew, 15 to 0 and 15 to 6.

Seems as if these medics get a lot of practice "batting" it somewhere for they certainly can convey the pill up to the net and then spike it. The first game was an easy blank for the winners and only because of the frequent substitution of players in the second was the losing team able to score.

Delta Sigma Pi, Phi Beta, Delta, and Sigma Phi Epsilon took forfeits from Delta Tau Delta, Theta Tau, and Alpha Chi Sigma respectively in the other three scheduled games. The competition will be under way again tomorrow night.

The work of Wickey, Pi Kappa Alpha guard, was the outstanding force behind a 12 to 9 victory over Phi Kappa Sigma last night in a "B" league basketball game. The two baskets and two free throws converted provided the winning spark for the former five and it breezed through the last period in confident fashion.

Asthalter and Johnson completed the list of scorers for Pi K. A., collecting four and two respectively. School led the losers with his two baskets while Miller and Hall were contributing five points between them.

Six more "B" tourney fives clash tonight in the closing rounds of the league. Delta Tau Delta-Alfa Tau Omega, and S.A.E.-Phi Kappa Sigma starting at 7:15 and Theta Tau-Sigma Nu beginning at 8:30 are the games listed.

Asthalter and Johnson completed the list of scorers for Pi K. A., collecting four and two respectively. School led the losers with his two baskets while Miller and Hall were contributing five points between them.

Six more "B" tourney fives clash tonight in the closing rounds of the league. Delta Tau Delta-Alfa Tau Omega, and S.A.E.-Phi Kappa Sigma starting at 7:15 and Theta Tau-Sigma Nu beginning at 8:30 are the games listed.

Whinnery to Take Part in I.S.T.C. Dual

The re-appearance of Randall Whinnery on the Hawkeye wrestling team will feature the first home stand of Iowa grapplers this Saturday when the matmen meet the powerful State Teachers outfit. Fans will have an opportunity to see Iowa's most clever wrestler in action when he clashes with Duce of the Tutors. Whinnery has a record of three falls won out of four matches. A stiffened neck kept the Ft. Dodge ace from journeying to the state meet at Cedar Falls with his mates last Saturday. Iowa lost its first place as a result as Morford of Cornell, whom Whinnery had previously thrown, won the 155 pound class.

Since Capt. Clarence "Swede" Johnson threw Duce at the state meet, Coach Mike Howard had considered keeping the Hawk leader in 155 and placing Whinnery up at 155, where, although giving away a lot of weight, the Old Gold mat ace was given an equal chance to whip the Teachers 165 pounder, Sheffield.

However, the Iowa mat mentor refused to risk losing perhaps both classes because of the possibility of winning both and will place Whinnery at 155 and Johnson at 165. The meet will probably depend on whether Teachers can take one of these classes.

Although beaten by the Tutors in standing at the state meet, the fourth place Hawkeyes should give Teachers a close battle. The Hawkeyes are given three classes: Heavy, 175, and 155. Tutors are given three classes: 126, 145, and 165.

Catholic Prep Cage Tourney at Davenport

Iowa City Teams Rank High on Pre-Meet Dope Sheet

With all plans completed for the annual Davenport diocesan tournament this week end and the pairings to be made this morning, eastern Iowa's leading Catholic high school basketball teams are preparing to battle it out for honors.

St. Ambrose academy of Davenport, will once more act as hosts to the prep cagers, and the tourney will open Friday evening at the LeClaire gym.

Both winning team and the runner-up will be sent to Des Moines to compete in the state tournament to be held in the Drake field house, March 9 and 10.

Ambrose Defends Titles

St. Ambrose, champions of both the district and state, will once more be called upon to defend its honors against St. Mary's of Iowa City, which last year took runner-up honors in both meets.

The Iowa City Ramblers are ranked as one of the best teams in the tournament this year, as are the St. Patrick's Irish, who twice this season defeated St. Mary's. St. Joseph's of DeWitt and St. Mary's of Clinton are among the other strong contenders for the 1933 crown.

The St. Ambrose quintet holds wins over every ranking team entered in the tourney, with the exception of the DeWitt aggregation, although the Davenport team barely nosed out St. Pat's, 24 to 22.

No Class "B"

All schools with more than 50 students enrolled will be classed as class A teams this year, and so no class B contests will be held. In order to cut down expense, no consolation games will be played.

Either 11 or 12 teams are expected to be entered in the tourney by this morning.

Freshman League Cage Final Game Scheduled Today

The second game of the freshman physical education basketball league championship round is due for this afternoon beginning at 4:20. It brings the Phantoms, conquerors of the Zippers in the first game, together with the untied Cyclones.

The Cyclone five has been given a slight edge to win the title by some of the class followers and will show its color against the elusive Phantoms this afternoon.

Each of the three section winners have the opportunity of playing each other team in a round robin climax that will be decided this week. There are gold medals for first place winners and silver ones for the runners-up so that the crown is worth working for.

Some suggestions have been received by Earl Greene, director of the class athletics, for the planning of two more spring tourneys in volleyball and Kittenball. Should these materialize they will undoubtedly be run off in a double elimination type tournament so as to give every team two chances at staying in the play until the finals.

It would work out so that the consolation winner would be matched with the regular finalists to determine the league winner.

Smith, Bradley Display Most Improvement for Season

By RON TALLMAN
(Assistant Sports Editor)

Competition for first team positions this season, in direct contrast to last year, was extremely close, but after much discussion of the abilities of the various players The Daily Iowan sports staff now announces its all-Iowa City basketball team for 1933.

The opinions of each of The Iowan's high school reporters and other members of the staff closely connected with the activities of the local prep teams this winter entered into the final selections as did, indirectly, those of the four coaches.

Steady Play

It was the steady performance through the entire season of the five named to the first team that gained them their recognition, the decisions being based as they were on both offensive and defensive ability.

But it is to two members of the second team, "Punk" Smith, St. Patrick's forward, and Bob Bradley, clever southpaw guard at St. Mary's, that most of the praise should go. These two players showed the outstanding individual improvement over their last season's play of any other members of the four local quintets.

Belger Only Underclassman

Vic Belger, St. Mary's forward and a sophomore, is the only man on the first team who will return for more high school competition, each of the others being seniors at their respective schools.

Osborn Pinney, leading scorer not only for St. Pat's but also for the city with his 157 points in 13 games, is the only man repeating his position on the all-city team from last winter.

Individual qualifications are as follows:

Light Buying in Stock Mart Helps Prices

Shorts Have Difficulty in Coverage on Shares

NEW YORK, Feb. 28 (AP)—Some financial markets looked better today, though many bonds were unable to follow the improvement of stocks and a number of commodities.

Shares gave evidence of a strong technical position, moving up rather sharply in the afternoon on a small volume of trading.

Shorts in some stocks found available supplies scarce and these issues climbed readily on small buyings. A number loaned at sizeable premiums, thus making "bear" situations expensive, an added impediment to covering.

Rails, fortified by senatorial approval of the bankruptcy bill which covers the carriers, reassured their leadership and at one time net gains of 1 to 3 points throughout the market were fairly general. This advance was subject to a mild reaction later, though final prices represented advances of fractions to more than 2 points. Volume totaled 905,960 shares.

Large premiums were tacked on American Telephone and Allied Chemical, with the result that these leaders jumped about 3 points, reducing their gains to somewhat better than 2.

DIXIE DUGAN—Council of War

HEY—“DEE-BEES”—THEM LETTERS I WROTE ARE BEGINNIN’ T’ START THINGS—“BOVEY” IS WALKIN’ HOME WITH TEACHER AN’ HE’S GOIN’ OUT WITH HER TO-NIGHT.

OH—GOODY—THEN THEY’LL FALL IN LOVE NOW AND ACT SILLY!

YEAH—BUT S’POSE THEY DON’T FALL IN LOVE—S’POSE THEY JUST GET MARRIED?

GEE—IF MISS DUGAN GETS MARRIED SHE MIGHT LEAVE AN’ WE’LL GET ANOTHER TEACHER—

NAW—WE DON’T WANT MISS DUGAN T’ GET MARRIED AN’ GO AWAY.

P-S-S-T—LISTEN!

WE’LL NEVER GET ANOTHER TEACHER WHO’S SO EASY T’ PUT THINGS OVER ON—

THE COMPLETE ROOSEVELT CABINET shows a band of true Roosevelt supporters. All were closely identified with him in his re-convention and election campaigns.

It contains every shade of Democratic and Republican independent thought, youth, age, and religion. James A. Farley, the postmaster general, and Senator Walsh, are Catholics. The others are Protestants.

The other cabinet members are: Treasury—William H. Woodin of Pennsylvania and New York. War—George H. Dern of Utah. Navy—Secretary Swanson of Virginia. Agriculture—Henry A. Wallace of Iowa. Interior—Harold L. Ickes of Illinois.

Bond Market Prices Slump

Sporadic Rallies Fail to Halt Falling Values

NEW YORK, Feb. 28 (AP)—The bond market failed to get a toe hold on recovery today and prices again slipped to irregularly lower levels.

While there were sporadic rallies in various groups, generally attributed to a somewhat better feeling regarding prospects of an adjustment of outlying banking problems, further selling of several United States government issues tended to restrain most advances.

Trading volume, with the exception of the federals and a few foreign and domestic loans, was rather light. Sales totaled $12,757,000, and the average for 60 domestic corporate bonds declined four tenths of a point.

The government section failed to respond to the report that the federal reserve system had resumed purchasing operations on a broad scale. Aside from treasury 3's, 3 1/2's and 4's, which held moderate gains, other federal maturities were either fractionally lower or unchanged.

The railroad department made the best showing of the day, the average for this division holding to its previous figure. There were a number of small gains in the carrier list. Loans of Chicago & North-western improved following announcement of refunding plans for the company's debenture issue maturing May 1. Iron Mountain 4's, an obligation of the Missouri Pacific, came back 4 points.

The utilities and industrials generally were soft. There was quite a large turnover of American Telephone bonds, however, at gains ranging from fractions to a point.

In the foreign list, prices were mixed. British 5's equalled their high for the year at 106 1/2. The Germans steadied and improvement was shown by some issues of Denmark, Colombia, Dutch East Indies and Japan.

Grain Market Prices Jump With Buying

CHICAGO, Feb. 28 (AP)—Higher prices for wheat today resulted largely from buying to anticipate an expected definite showing that farm use of wheat has been of unusual volume.

Private estimates of domestic farm stocks of wheat, originally due tomorrow but postponed until Thursday, attracted special notice because of suggestions current that the figures would prove bullish. Less uneasiness was shown regarding financial developments, and there were indications of export buying of United States corn.

Wheat closed strong at almost the day's top, 1.2-3.4 above yesterday's finish, corn a shade to 3-8 advanced, oats a shade off to a shade up, and provisions unchanged to a rise of 2 cents.

Most wheat traders displayed a notable tendency to pay increased attention not only to coming unofficial estimates of farm stocks of wheat but also to the probable condition of this country's 1933 winter crop. Many complaints were at hand that moisture southwest was wholly insufficient.

Word of 4,988,000 bushels decrease this week of the world's available supply of wheat acted as a contributing bullish influence, and so too did lively demand here from mills. Corn and oats outdid the season's low price record today, but soon rallied on account of evidence of corn export takings by Liverpool and Rotterdam.

Provisions held about steady, duplicating the action of the hog market.

Closing indemnities: Wheat—May 46 5-8-3.4, 47 5-8; July 47 1-4-3.8, 48 1-4-3.8; September 48 1-4, 49 1-4-3.8. Corn—May 24, 24 3-8; July 25 1-2, 26.

himself declined to comment on this. Miss Perkins is the wife of Paul Wilson of New York but she has always carried her maiden name.

Senator Walsh gained national prominence by his prosecution of the senate inquiry into the leasing of the naval oil reserves in 1922 under the regime of Albert B. Fall as secretary of interior. As a result of this investigation, several criminal prosecutions followed and Fall was sent to jail.

Recently Married
The gray haired Montague, who is 73 years old, was just recently married to Senora Mina Perez Chaumont de Truffin, wealthy Cuban widow. They are now on their honeymoon. He has been a widower since 1916. Senator Walsh had the almost united support of the senate for appointment to the supreme court to succeed Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes and he is regarded as a strong possibility for selection to the first vacancy on the high tribunal.

Mr. Roper is a veteran, too, in public life. He served as commissioner of internal revenue under Woodrow Wilson. He has been engaged recently with other aides of Mr. Roosevelt in the arrangement of a drastic government reorganization program.

Ohio to Vote on Repeal

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 28 (AP)—The voters of Ohio will pass upon the question of repeal of state constitutional prohibition next November. The state house of representatives late today passed the Smolka resolution, providing for the referendum. The senate previously approved it.

CABINET BRIDE FROM CUBA

A photographic reproduction from a painting of the former Senora Nieves Perez Chaumont de Truffin, widow of a Cuban banker, who became the bride of Senator Thomas J. Walsh (inset) of Montana, recently appointed to be attorney general in the cabinet of President-Elect Roosevelt. Their marriage in the United States embassy at Havana climaxed a romance that began with a meeting in New York three years ago. United States Ambassador Harry F. Guggenheim acted as witness for Senator Walsh.

CHAPTER TWENTY-FIVE

Dr. Threadgold was infuriated... Wolfe had touched him to the fighting point. Timid, contentious, a shikier of awkward sentiments, he was lifted at last into an outburst of stuttering anger against this man whose abominable sincerity refused to take account of the delicately adjusted hypocrisies of life.

"Mr. Wolfe, has it occurred to you that all this is grossly insulting to me?" asked Threadgold.

"My dear, I was compelled to have a talk with Mr. Wolfe after dinner to-day. I don't think he fully realized his position till this afternoon."

Mrs. Threadgold's face was non-committal. She read the level of her husband's sentimentousness as she read the barometer in the hall.

"I am glad to hear it."

"I detest scenes, my dear, but a scene was absolutely necessary. I had to pitch into the young man, to show him that I could not and would not stand any nonsense. Wolfe appears to be one of those self-assured fellows, utterly lacking in sentiment, and devoid of the more delicate instincts of a gentleman."

The largeness of the declaration was excellent. Mrs. Sophia's hand hovered over the sugar basin.

"You told him about that map?"

"My dear—the result of our interview was that Mr. Wolfe offered to surrender all his notes and plans to me."

"Yes, Montague, but have you got them?"

"I have. They are locked up in my desk."

He threw out the lower part of his white waistcoat, and stood with pursed lips, spectacles glimmering, a little bladder of a man inflated with words. Threadgold and his wife had fitted themselves into the trivial scheme of mere physical appearances. The little etiquettes and diplomacies of a carefully planned professional career had become for them the whole Book of the Law. Their whole consciousness was posed round with notice boards on which were inscribed "Good Form," "Gentility," "Niceness," "Tact." They asked themselves by a natural impulse, "Will this please So-and-so? Will So-and-so be offended? If I do this or that, will it be profitable and in proper taste?"

Mrs. Threadgold handed her husband his tea.

"Now that you have got these papers, Montague, the matter is easily settled."

"I am going to look them over."

"All you have to do is to burn them."

"My dear, one moment—"

"I said burn them. And send Mr. Wolfe about his business without a second's delay."

Plans for "Moving Day" at Washington Near Completion

Estimate Figures for Inaugural Parade at 18,000

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28 (AP)—The national capital was a study in contrasts tonight as preparations were speeded for Saturday's combination of inaugural ceremonies, a Democratic victory jubilee, and "moving day" for Republican office holders.

Souvenirs of the Republican regime, ranging from letters of state to ornamental elephants, were being packed away in boxes in all the major executive offices in the White House to the humbler working quarters of secretaries to the assistant secretaries of cabinet officers.

Hotels, railroads, bus companies and garages reported that hundreds of visitors arrived through the day. Hotels said all rooms had been reserved for Saturday and places for more than 20,000 persons were being found in private homes.

The inaugural parade committee relaxed during the day. The result is that instead of 10,000 marchers, the column which will wind down Pennsylvania avenue Saturday afternoon will include at least 18,000 persons. The committee had applications for more than twice that number.

The committee disposed of another problem during the day. It decided that the army band, the first musical unit to pass the presidential reviewing stand, will have the honor of playing the "Franklin Delano Roosevelt March," composed by William H. Woodin, the new secretary of the treasury. The navy band will present its old favorite, "Anchors Aweigh" and the marine band will salute the new president with "Halls of Montezuma."

With the recent assassination attempt at Miami in mind, arrangements for the protection of Mr. Roosevelt proceeded through the day with more than ordinary zeal. Chief William H. Moran of the secret service made a thorough pre-inaugural inspection tour of the capitol. He said secret service operatives will be stationed "everywhere" during the ceremonies to circumvent any attempt on the lives of President Hoover, Mr. Roosevelt and members of their official party.

New York's "Finest" One hundred of New York's "finest," young uniformed police averaging more than six feet in height, will supplement local police and a detachment of marines as guardians of order at the capitol and White House. The first contingent of more than 75 picked plainclothesmen from eastern and midwestern cities will arrive tomorrow. These men, selected for their knowledge of underworld characters, will keep close to the new chief executive during the ceremonies.

The navy department announced that two destroyers will come for the inaugural. The ships, the Bainbridge and the Reuben James, are on their way from New York to Charleston, S. C., where they will take aboard naval reservists who will march in the parade.

In the first automobile besides the inaugural and outgoing executives will be Senator Robinson of Arkansas and Representative Pou of North Carolina. In the second, with Mrs. Hoover and Mrs. Roosevelt, will ride Senator Hale of Maine and Representative Rainey of Illinois. The third car will contain Speaker Garner, the vice president-elect, and Representative Snell of New York, Republican leader of the house. Mrs. Garner and Mrs. Gann, sister of Vice President Curtis, and Senator Moses of New Hampshire will occupy the fourth car. Other machines will contain Rear Admiral Cary T. Grayson, inaugural chairman, White House military and naval aides, President Hoover's secretaries, Captain Joel T. Boone, the White House physician, and the president elect's secretaries.

Cole Seeks to Aid Cedar Rapids Boy Facing Deportation

CEDAR RAPIDS, Feb. 28 (AP)—The fate of Fred Abdour, 10-year-old Cedar Rapids boy facing deportation as an alien, was in doubt tonight.

Rep. Cyrenus Cole today wired friends here that he had filed an appeal in behalf of Fred with the immigration bureau at Washington. Cole asserted that no action can be taken until officers secure a warrant from the Washington bureau. The youth, a native of Syria, came here from Mexico two years ago to join his mother, Mrs. Fred Shada. She had married an American citizen, thereby attaining citizenship for herself. The youth, however, is not regarded as a citizen of the United States, and immigration officials are trying to decide whether to deport him.

AROUND THE TOWN with DON PRYOR

Front or Rear?

Iowa City laughed yesterday at a group of university coeds who paraded bubbly through town in the rear of a light four touring car driven by a dignified pledge of the Phi Gamma Delta fraternity.

The Same Flour

Ninety-six sacks of Red Cross flour were distributed yesterday, bringing the total for two days to 150 24 1-2 pound sacks. Flour requisitions will be honored at the Harmon building again next Tuesday.

Busy Siren

The Iowa City fire department broke all its previous records this month when it rushed out to answer 45 alarms. Nowhere in the record of the department could Fire Chief Herman Amish find a month that so bristled with action.

And Costs

Speeding on N. Dubuque street cost Carl Seeman $3 and costs when he appeared in the court of Police Judge C. L. Zager.

Still Growing

Contributions to the Community Chest were continuing to grow yesterday as response to a recent letter mailed by Director Thomas E. Martin accumulated. Harvey Secor, 226 E. Prentiss street, gave $50 in cash to the cause yesterday.

Eye Witness

Mrs. George Falk, 225 E. Davenport street, is said to have been an eye witness of the attempted assassination of President-Elect Franklin D. Roosevelt and of the shooting of Mayor Anton J. Cermak of Chicago in Miami Beach, Fla., recently. She returned to Iowa City yesterday.

AL SMITH Outlines Scheme for Recovery

war. I never saw as many bread lines and as much starvation in war times as now. Cut out all this red tape and go back and build buildings like we did cantonments—over night."

Liberalization of the self-liquidating loan requirements of the Reconstruction corporation was urged by him, along with the suggestion money could be advanced for road and bridge work as well as buildings, and a reduction in the corporation's interest rates on construction loans to 4 per cent from the present 5 per cent and up figure.

Observing that highway work was 60 per cent labor and 40 per cent materials, Smith remarked "the most effective way to help unemployment is through the federal highways."

"You know just where they are to go and you are ready to do it right away," he added.

Opposes Inflation

Turning to currency inflation proposals, Smith registered his objection to artificially increasing the price of silver, cheapening or reducing the amount of gold in the dollar and inflation. He said:

"It's just like giving a sick man a shot in the arm. It will take a stiffer shot the next time."

A member of the national transportation committee that for months studied the railroad situation, Smith contended a unified transportation system, taking in all types of carriers was necessary and said the railroads "can not" carry "these great big capital structures."

He approved of the proposal for a four system consolidation as a step in the right direction, and said it should be followed by consolidation of these four into one group with one man at the head, and suggested a secretary of transportation with facilities to take over the interstate commerce commission's functions and whatever new regulation was necessary.

Touches on Foreign Affairs

Leaning one elbow on the table, Smith then touched on foreign affairs, advocating a long moratorium on war debts in return for increased purchases in this country, remarking he would "say, start with five years" for the moratorium.

America then could say to Europe," he added.

"You buy some of our cotton, wheat and manufactured articles and in accordance with the amount of good will shown us we will help you. Every million dollars worth you buy from us, we might take 10 per cent off the debt."

"I think we would be better off that way than by taking a chance on something we may never get," he added as several committee members nodded assent to this view.

On the recognition of Russia, Smith said "there's no use trading with them under cover," remarking: "We are doing business with them through the Amtorg Trading corporation. We might just as well be represented there and they here and do business in the open."

Outgoing Chief Executive Plans Raid on Panama Fannies After Roosevelt Inauguration. Son and ex-Cabinetees to Make Up Party.

ALVAN HOOVER REELING IN A BIG ONE

LINER PENNSYLVANIA

WASHINGTON—In the tremendous rush of excitement attendant upon the inauguration of Franklin D. Roosevelt as president of these United States, we are inclined to be rather forgetful. How many of us give a thought to the feelings of the outgoing president? Do we ever try to realize how a "first gentleman" of the land takes his demotion to plain citizenship after a long and arduous period of guiding the nation's destinies? Do we ever ask ourselves whether he quits his high office with joy or with regret?

Take President Hoover, for instance. When, on March 4, he becomes Mr. Herbert Hoover, former president of the United States, will he go into a corner and sulk, or will he fling his hat in the air with a joyous "whoopie?" Well, even an ex-president has a certain amount of dignity to maintain, so we can discard the whoopie idea. What Mr. Hoover will do instead is to indulge in an orgy of fishing—his crowning passion.

When the president has handed over the reins of government to F. D. R. and wished him a happy tenure of office, he'll probably throw back his shoulders, now relieved of their tremendous burden, and head for the railroad station to get as far away from the scene of his labors as he possibly can. His present plans call for a trip to New York, where the liner Pennsylvania will be delayed for him and his party. Then high-sea for Southern waters, where the fish are big, plentiful and hungry.

The spot chosen by Mr. Hoover for his raid on deep-sea denizens is among the Pearl Islands, off the coast of Panama, far from the the atmosphere of Capitol Hill, away from reporters and photographers and immune from headaches brought on by the tossing and rolling of the ship of state.

In Mr. Hoover's fishing party will be a select number of his official family, including Secretaries Hyde, Mills and Hurley, as well as his son, Allan Hoover, and his personal secretary, Lawrence Richey. If one were to hazard a prediction that no problems of diplomacy or statecraft will be discussed by the party, the probability is that one would smack the nail right on the head.

Put yourself in Mr. Hoover's shoes as he wakes up of a morning down in some far Isle near Panama. He switches his thoughts back to Washington, where farmers are still clamoring for relief, foreign diplomats are still howling for a huge cash discount on the war debts or trying to get out of paying altogether, where the dregs are screaming for prohibition and the wets are begging for beer. He will think, "I wonder if poor Frank has managed to balance the budget yet," but he won't acquire any wrinkles in his forehead worrying about it. Nor will the thought of hunger-marchers, bonus-marchers, communist marchers or any other marchers spoil his appetite for breakfast.

His greeting to Secretary Ogden Mills, too, will be vastly different than it was on many, many mornings when they met in Washington. Instead of asking, "How's the deficit this morning?" Mr. Hoover will address the former secretary of the treasury, "Well Ogden, it's a swell morning. The saltfish ought to be biting. How's the worm situation?" Of course, we can't say with certainty that saltfish bite on worms. That's just a sample of how the conversation will go.

Then out on the sparkling main, where the sun tips each ripple with a crown of gold, all will be peace. No one will have to bother about disarmament conferences except the fish—and they're poor fish anyway. Mr. Hoover can concentrate on his rod and reel without having to throw fearful glances over his shoulder, constantly expecting a news photographer to pop out of the worm can, or a reporter to bob

State College Man Speaks

Kiwanians Hear Talk on "Fewer, Better Cows"

In a talk entitled "Fewer and better cows," Prof. F. J. Arnold of Ames, faculty member at Iowa State college and authority on the subject of dairying, told local Kiwanis club members yesterday noon that some of the finest dairy herds in the state are raised in Johnson county. The meeting was held in the Jefferson hotel.

With the aid of an illustrated chart, the speaker pointed out that Iowa ranks third among the dairy producers in the United States and Johnson county supplies many of the cows testing better than 300 pounds of butterfat. He explained how, at the present time, slight profits can be realized from such animals.

Professor Arnold said that the average in the United States is 170 pounds, and that cattle with the 175 pound rating are maintained at a loss. The average in Iowa, he said, is 175 pounds.

The following owners of dairy herds testing better than 300 pounds of butterfat per cow during the year 1932 were invited to the meeting: L. F. Rittenmeyer, C. M. Fountain, J. J. Laena, Jr., Hastings and Son, Stronks and Jensen, H. J. Dams, J. W. Warren, and Frank Carson, all of Iowa City; George Mueller of Lone Tree; D. M. Yoder, Sylvanus Miller, Dan Swartzendruber, and Eli Miller, all of Kalona; Paul Langenberg, and J. C. Fuhrmeister of North Liberty; Wertz and Whetstone, and M. W. Miller of Wellman; Bert Reeve of Tiffin; and the State Sanatorium of Oakdale.

Lloyd Edson of Marshalltown, lieutenant governor of Kiwanis International for this district, made a brief speech during the meeting, complimenting the local organization for its activities and loyalty.

GERMANS Ordered Under Martial Law

emergency contained seven clauses, the first of which rescinded until further notice articles of the constitution guaranteeing personal liberty. The right of free expression of opinion (including the press), the right of assembly, and the secrecy of postal, telegraphic, and telephonic communications. It gave authority for searching homes and for seizing property.

The second clause empowered the government of the reich to take over the executive authority in German states which fall to enforce law and order within their border.

Penal Measures

Clauses three and four set forth penal measures to be used in such cases, and threatened imprisonment of not less than a month and fines of 150 to 15,000 marks ($37.50 to $3,750) for practiced or advocated resistance against the authorities. If such acts endanger human life, the penalty is not less than six months at hard labor. In cases involving death, capital punishment is to be inflicted or penitentiary terms of not less than two years, with possible property confiscation.

Anybody inciting acts endangering public safety is liable to not less than three months at hard labor.

Another clause inflicts the death penalty (hitherto life imprisonment) for high treason, poisoning, arson, explosions, flooding, or damaging the railways.

Life Imprisonment

Still another clause establishes life imprisonment or up to 15 years in the penitentiary for anyone who attempts to murder the president of the reich, a member of the government or a commissioner, or conspires or incites to any such act. The same fate awaits persons who commit acts of severe rebellion or severe breach of peace with arms, or who interfere with the liberty of any person with the object of using such a person as a hostage for political purposes.

One reason for the decree, it was explained, was that the police had information that on election day next Sunday the Communists intended to assault members of the Nazi party and to disarm the police by force.

Demos Hope to Cut Fees

Reduce Vehicle Licenses

LINCOLN, Neb., Feb. 28 (AP)—Democratic party leaders marshaled their forces tonight to try to put the Stringfellow bill to reduce motor vehicle license fees over the last legislative hurdle tomorrow, while anti-prohibition forces prepared for the slower struggle to get house approval for resubmission.

If the house approves senate amendments to the Stringfellow bill tomorrow, it will go immediately to the governor. The chief stumbling block was in the classification of passenger automobiles. A group in the house would like to see the weight division raised to let more cars into the $3 class.

If adoption of the amendment is blocked the bill will be thrown into conference and several more days might be required before the fee reduction law finally could be enacted.

The proposed constitutional amendment for resubmission of state prohibition has a longer path ahead of it. If usual procedure is followed it would go to a standing committee, but resubmission advocates may ask that it be placed immediately on general file in place of a similar house bill.

"Chesterfields Satisfy"

WHEN smokers keep buying the same cigarette day after day... it's a pretty good sign that they're getting what they want... mildness, better taste—a smoke that's always the same.

So we're going right on making Chesterfields just as we always have... selecting choice, ripe tobaccos... ageing them... blending and cross-blending them... making them into cigarettes in the most scientific ways that are known.

As long as we do these things we know that smokers will continue to say, "They Satisfy". For that's what people are saying about Chesterfields.

If you smoke, why not find out about them? A package or two will tell you the whole story.
