Senate Agrees to Passage of 3.2 Beer, Wine

President to Get Measure This Evening

Gets Senate Approval by Narrow Margin of 43 to 36

BULLETIN
WASHINGTON, March 20 (AP)—President Roosevelt and congressional leaders tonight added refinancing of agriculture to the emergency program of unemployment relief during the course of a late White House conference.

WASHINGTON, March 20 (AP)—Beer and wine of 3.2 per cent by April 5 or 6 was assured millions of thirsty Americans today when the senate approved a conference report on the bill legalizing manufacture and sale of the beverages.

The measure was sent to the house, where it will be approved shortly after noon tomorrow and forwarded to the White House probably in time for President Roosevelt to sign it by nightfall.

Fifteen days later it will be legal to buy the beverages everywhere except where state or local law forbids.

Narrow Margin

Final senate approval was given by the narrow margin of 43 to 36, for Senators Borah (R., Idaho), and Sheppard (D., Tex.), both pro-temperance leaders for many years, had cast a final fling at the bill's constitutionality.

Borah read recent statements by brewers that the bill would permit beer as good and as strong as the stinky brew of pre-prohibition days.

The Idaho senator aimed his fire particularly at the action of congress in eliminating his amendment to prevent sale or gift of the beverages to children under 16 years of age.

He contended the amendment was eliminated to prevent an admission of 12 per cent beer was intoxicating, but asserted another provision of the measure—prohibiting importation of the beverages into dry states—contained the same admission.

The senate's action came less than two hours after conferees from the two houses had compromised differences in the bill as passed at the two ends of the capitol by striking out Borah's amendment, accepting the senate provision for wine, and adopting 3.2 per cent as the alcoholic limitation instead of 3.05.

Close Balloting

As the roll was called, the balloting was so close that sponsors of the bill were somewhat fearful of the outcome.

Three senators who voted for the measure last Thursday, when it provided for 3.05 per cent alcohol, switched today and voted against the revised measure. They were Senators Black (D., Ala.), Norris (R., Neb.), and Fletcher (D., Fla.).

Senator Bankhead (D., Ala.), who voted for the 3.05 per cent bill, was paired against the measure today, with 10 Democrats, however, voted to adopt the conference report, with 13 Democrats and 17 Republicans opposed.

Senator Erickson, new Democratic member from Montana, who was sworn in today, cast his first vote for the bill.

Zangara Pays Death Penalty for Shooting

Physicians in Autopsy Find Killer Had Normal Brain

RAIFORD, Fla., March 20 (AP)—The finale of an assassin's furious drama of bullets that missed President Roosevelt but killed Mayor Antonio J. Cermak of Chicago was enacted in the Florida state prison today as Giuseppe Zangara died in the electric chair with a last shout of defiance.

The shadow of death lowering over the Italian in the small execution chamber utterly failed to temper the raging bitterness against all rulers of men that led him to loose a withering fire at the president in Miami the night of Feb. 15.

Condemns Capitalists

"Lousy capitalists. Capitalists! All capitalists! Crooks!"

That was the cry of the swarthy immigrant a few moments before 2,300 volts of electricity snuffed out his life.

Any question as to Zangara's sanity was settled by four physicians who performed an autopsy and reported they found his brain "perfectly normal."

On the brink of death, the assassin maintained, as he had done all along, that he was not a member of any gang but fired at the president on his own initiative.

Vanity, Bitterness

Vanity, as well as his bitterness, went with him to the last. His keenest disappointment was that cameramen were not allowed to take pictures of the execution, said Nathan Mayor, head of the state prison bureau.

At 9:11 a.m. (E.S.T.) Zangara entered the death chamber. He was dressed in striped pants and white shirt open at the throat. His feet were bare.

"Don't touch me!" he told guards as they advanced across the floor. "I'm afraid of chalk."

France Prepares to Discuss Mussolini World Peace Plan as MacDonald Goes to Paris

Pact to Include U. S., All of European Continent

ROME, March 20 (AP)—The eyes of official Italy turned toward Paris tonight as Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald's train crossed the frontier, carrying to Premier Daladier of France the Mussolini peace plan.

The plan would embrace the entire continent of Europe and, to a certain extent, even the United States.

More optimism than usual was felt here over French agreement to the Italian proposal because of the confidence expressed by Mr. MacDonald and the cordial spirit evidenced by Henry de Juvencel, the French ambassador, after he had telephoned the contents of the plan to Paris.

Confer at Station

The ambassador appeared at the railway station as the British prime minister was ready to leave and talked in friendly fashion both to Mr. MacDonald and to Premier Mussolini.

Before leaving to urge Premier Daladier to approve the project, Mr. MacDonald said that "our whole idea is to open up the possibilities of complete agreement, not between two, three, four, five or six powers, but all nations concerned."

This amplified an official Italian announcement yesterday which spoke of "collaboration of the four powers"—Britain, Italy, France and Germany.

"No Imposing"

"We are not proceeding with an idea of two or three agreeing and imposing agreement on others," Mr. MacDonald said.

"We are not overlooking the United States by any means. We need her, too. The American government will be kept fully informed concerning the negotiations."

When he arrived here Saturday for his conversations with Premier Mussolini, which were designed to quiet the fears of Europe, the British prime minister remarked that the European situation was dangerous. He repeated that assertion today but added that "along with the dangers there also exist great opportunities to do something effective to remove them."

Farm Bill Up to Congress

G. O. P. Leader Charges Partisan Action in House

WASHINGTON, March 20 (AP)—The administration farm aid plan started a perilous congressional journey today, shorn abruptly of the bi-party co-operation that has favored President Roosevelt's previous legislative recommendations.

The bill itself came from the house agriculture committee little different from the form requested by the president. But one of the changes eliminated a requirement that employees meet civil service requirements.

"DISCRETION" COST HIM LIFE

Here is the last picture, made just before the fall of his capital, of Governor Tang Yu-Lin of Jehol province. He is shown astride his Mongolian pony during the military operations outside Chingte. After a half-hearted defence of his capital, Governor Tang fled and the city fell into Japanese hands. For his treachery, Tang was executed, according to reports, by order of Marshal Chang Hsueh-Liang, commander of China's regular army.

F. D. Turns to Relief Efforts

Signs Economy Bill, Drafts Message to Congress

WASHINGTON, March 20 (AP)—Buttressed with new power to make millions in savings, President Roosevelt turned more confidently tonight to unemployment relief and railroad revision.

With a pen carrying the power of a gigantic axe, Mr. Roosevelt today signed within a few minutes after receiving it the huge economy bill authorizing him to reduce veterans' compensations and government salaries.

He and his lieutenant, Lewis Douglas, director of the budget, were busy tonight on the involved new regulations by which they expect before next month's pay day to carve off millions from the payroll—an estimated total of $500,000,000 annually.

Fortified with this measure and congressional progress on the beer revenue bill, the president drafted a message to congress proposing authority for direct relief grants to states and establishment of a conservation corps to put 200,000 men to work in the forests.

Congressional leaders were summoned to the White House tonight to go over the proposals on unemployment which the president has in mind. He apparently is ready to submit his recommendations to congress tomorrow.

The day also saw Mr. Roosevelt turning to the subject of railroads with a view to getting early congressional action on the ideas he has in mind to put the transportation system on a firmer basis.

Linn County Sheriff Recovers Stolen Car Owned by Whitebook

Ben Whitebook's car which was stolen from S. Dubuque street more than five weeks ago was recovered Saturday in Quasqueton by Sheriff Joseph Petrus of Linn county.

Whitebook's is the fourth car to be recovered by the Linn county sheriff since the arrest Wednesday of T. E. Carroll alias D. E. Davis of Sumner.

The registration card of Whitebook's car was found in a valise owned by Carroll. The bag contained a number of stolen, altered, and faked auto transfers, certificates and bills of sale, according to Linn county officials.

Miller Heads School Board

Elected as Successor to Beckman Last Night

Verne Miller, deputy county treasurer, was elected president of the school board last night to succeed Charles A. Beckman, who retired from the board along with Everett T. Means and C. C. Ries.

Mr. Miller was elected immediately after the old board adjourned sine die and the new members, John M. Kadler, Dr. W. E. Spence, and Willie W. Moore, took their places and were sworn in by George W. Frohwein, temporary chairman.

Born in Massachusetts county, Mr. Miller came to Iowa City in 1918 after his discharge from the army. He attended high school in Wilton.

His first 14 years in Iowa City he spent as an employee of the Citizens Savings bank. After working for the state banking department for a short time and as manager of an oil station, he became deputy county recorder under W. E. Smith.

Mr. Miller, who is entering his third year of service on the school board, has four children, one in kindergarten, two in Roosevelt grammar school, and one in the Iowa City high school.

Before adjournment, the old board authorized the transfer of the contract for light bulbs from the Bowman Electric company to the Jackson Electric company.

Flowers Fill Bank Lobby at Opening in New Location

Flowers filled the lobby yesterday as the First Capital State bank greeted customers in its new headquarters at the corner of Washington and Dubuque streets.

The building, formerly home of the First National bank, has been remodeled throughout. A feature is the safety deposit vault in the basement, with individual rooms, in which customers may transact business. New vaults on the first floor for bank records and in the basement for safe deposit boxes are considered among the strongest in the state, bank officials said.

The transfer from temporary quarters in the former Iowa City Savings bank building, where the bank has been since its organization, was made over the week end. The records and currency were protected by heavily armed guards during the change.

University to Handle Geological Survey Cost

In the list of budget recommendations, the state geological survey is given $8,274. This item, in the tentative recommendations, however, has been entirely eliminated with the explanation that it would be taken care of by the University of Iowa.

Drys Refused Open Hearing on Beer Bills

DES MOINES, March 20 (AP)—The state senate sifting committee today turned thumbs down on a proposed public hearing on pending beer legislation but may, instead, listen to arguments of dry leaders in a closed meeting.

Legislative Group May Let Leaders Attend Closed Meeting

Senator John K. Valentine of Centerville, chairman, said the committee was opposed to devoting time to public hearings with so much work remaining uncompleted.

Miller Heads School Board

While the request of Mrs. Ida B. Wise Smith of Des Moines, president of the Iowa W.C.T.U., for a public hearing before the sifting committee of the two houses was denied, the senate committee invited Mrs. Smith and a limited number of dry leaders to appear before a closed hearing.

The result of this invitation is to make it probable that the Cooney beer bill which is now in the hands of the sifting committee probably will not be brought out immediately. Interest, meanwhile, centers on two liquor bills which have been reported back in the lower house.

Early Consideration

Prospects for early consideration of legislation to provide for the manufacture and sale of beer in Iowa continue to hold first place in state house discussions as both houses of the assembly devoted their time largely to less controversial bills.

The house, working only part of the day today passed seven bills and killed one while the senate, in a morning and afternoon session nearly doubled this mark by passing a total of 13 bills and killing one.

Bandits Rob Cedar Rapids Bank of $835

CEDAR RAPIDS, March 20 (AP)—The United States bank was robbed of $835 today by two bandits who forced employees to lie on the floor while they took all the currency and cash on the counter.

There were no customers in the bank at the time. One of the robbers, armed with a sawed off shotgun, kept watch over Frank Kanak, cashier, and Bessie Zurka, a clerk, while his companion swept the money from the counter into a brief case.

Kanak was ordered to open the vault, but he advised them that it was operated by a time lock. Then the bandits fled in a green coupe that had been stolen from George Rejka, who was found bound and gagged by police. The car bore license number 57-10871.

F. W. Walsmith, employee of the state banking department, which is operating the bank under the state bank stabilization law, was in a back room during the robbery. He was unaware of the happening until the bandits had fled.

IOWA—Partly cloudy, not quite so cold Tuesday afternoon; Wednesday generally fair and warmer.

Relief Agencies Send Out Calls for Help

(By the Associated Press)
Destructive flood waters lashed through the Ohio river basin today and their menace spread toward the Mississippi.

At least eight persons had met death along the murky course of the Ohio and the climbing waves temporarily had driven many thousands from lowland homes.

The weather bureau at Washington predicted flood stages at Cairo, Ill.—where the Ohio flows into the father of waters—by Saturday, at Memphis by March 29 and at Helena, Ark., by March 31.

Surge Over Banks

Even further south, torrential rains sent most Alabama streams surging out of their banks and warnings were issued to residents along four of them—the Tombigbee, Warrior, Cahaba, and the Alabama.

Four national organizations immediately set out to rush relief into the hard pressed Ohio valley area. They will join state and local agencies which were already heroically functioning.

The national Red Cross warned 65 chapters along the Ohio between Wheeling, W. Va., and Cairo, Ill., to be alert for emergencies. Seven disaster workers from the national staff were sent into the area.

Organize Relief

The Buffalo coast guard was authorized to organize a relief expedition of 80 men with surfboats and skiffs. This unit will be rushed into the flooded area on flat cars.

The navy department ordered two amphibian planes and eight pilots to be made available for flood relief work in the valley and the navy reserve personnel in the flood area was requested to render assistance.

Well over a score of cities and towns along the Ohio, including the area between Steubenville, Ohio, and Evansville, Ind., were suffering from flood waters in various degrees. The national guard was assisting other relief agencies in Ohio and Kentucky.

Pleds for Not Guilty Verdict

Hubert W. Ayers of Iowa City pleaded not guilty to charges of assault to commit murder yesterday when he was arraigned before Judge A. B. Clark in Cedar county district court. Bonds were placed at $10,000 and his trial set for Sept. 21.

Ayers was arrested last Wednesday by Sheriff W. W. Christian of Cedar county in connection with the shooting of John R. Miller last Monday near Cedar Bluffs.

He was questioned for more than three hours at the police station here Wednesday night by Sheriff Christian, County Attorney William Dallas of Cedar county, and Sheriff Don McComas. It was decided after the questioning to hold him for trial.

Miller was shot through the left shoulder and jaw by an assailant who made a mysterious visit to his farm last Monday night. He was not seriously injured.

Tax Group Adopts Bill

A resolution endorsing the principles of the Beardley bill, senate file 263, was adopted by the Rural City Taxpayers last night during a meeting in the Farm Bureau rooms in the post office.

Funke Addresses Members of Philo Club at Iowa Union

Anti-Semitism Has a Convenient Way of Gaining Popular Support for the Nazi Movement in Germany, Prof. Erich Funke, Acting Head of the German Club, Told Members of the Philo Club at a Meeting in the River room of Iowa Union Sunday Evening.

Tracing the rise of Hitler since the war, the speaker pointed out that financial inflation, with its subsequent distress and dissatisfaction, gave Hitler his opportunity to obtain support for his party. This he accomplished by blaming the situation on Jewish bankers.

Hitler's primary purposes are to fight communism and socialism, and to nullify the effects of the Versailles treaty, which he considers grossly unfair to Germany, Professor Funke said.

Jews in Germany have been caught in the excesses of the revolution, Professor Funke believes, and persecution of the Jews will cease when social feeling subsides.

An open forum discussion followed Professor Funke's address.

Professor Martin Speaks to Student Fellowship Group

Prof. Herbert Martin, acting head of the philosophy department, spoke to the student fellowship of the Congregational church Sunday evening on "The place of the aesthetic in a philosophy of life."

"Beauty," he said, "is one of the values necessary to every one. Beauty dwells in persons as well as in nature. The ugliest face may be transmuted by the beauty that comes from within, a revelation of a significant soul."

Many persons are inclined to overestimate their own importance, declared Professor Martin. As an antidote for such "mentally and spiritually cross-eyed" individuals he suggested communion with the beautiful in nature.

It takes resourcefulness...

Time and again, Bell System engineers have demonstrated their pioneering bent in working out unusual telephone construction problems.

For example, they laid a huge conduit under the Harlem River. They dredged a trench in the river bottom, lowered enormous sections of iron pipe, sent down divers to join the sections, encased the finished tube in concrete. Through this they ran telephone cables forming one of New York's main lines of communication. Across the Gila River in Arizona they constructed a catenary span 2373 feet long. To bridge oceans, they developed radio telephony. They have built telephone lines over mountains, across deserts, through swamps.

Their resourcefulness in getting through, over or under natural barriers makes possible telephone service that is practically world wide in reach.

He spoke yesterday noon before a meeting of the Order of Artus, honorary commerce fraternity.

Children's Theater to Present Two Plays of Dan Totheroh

"The Stolen Prince" and "The Lost Princess," to be presented by Children's theater Saturday in Studio theater at Iowa Union, are plays in the Chinese manner, by Dan Totheroh.

Mr. Totheroh has collaborated with his wife, the former Kay Morrison, on a number of children's plays. His interest in children's plays started, he once said, when he was a visitor on Kathleen Norris' ranch several years ago.

There were children on the Norris ranch, and a marionette theater was built for them. Totheroh wrote shows in which the marionettes performed.

"It was perfectly grand," the author said. "We did my 'Stolen Prince,' and we had a gorgeous time going around San Francisco's Chinatown picking up properties. The play, you know, is in the Chinese manner, and was suggested by frequent visits to the excellent Chinese theater in San Francisco. In fact, the strip of blue silk which is stretched across the stage to represent a river is straight out of a real Chinese play.

"Later we did a sequel, 'The Lost Princess,' which deals with the prince's little sister, who is stolen Pupils of the 1B of the Longfellow school will celebrate "Bird day" today and tell about the birds they have seen. Robert Gartzke has returned his blue dental card.

High School Art Contest Sets Record

All records for number of competitors in the state championship high school art contest have been broken, although the pupils still have a week in which to forward their work to the University of Iowa.

Nearly 150 artists from 23 schools already have entered the third annual affair, it was announced yesterday by Prof. Edna Patzig of the graphic and plastic arts department.

When judges begin their task of deciding the three place winners in each of five classes March 29, they must choose from between 400 and 500 pieces of work. Monochrome, color, figure drawing, design, and lettering and design are the competitive classes.

These are the schools represented to date: Ft. Madison, East Sioux City, Creston, West Waterloo, Dubuque, Maquoketa, Moulton, Iowa City, Mason City, Larrabee, Glenwood, Marshalltown, East, North, Roosevelt, and Lincoln of Des Moines, Renwick, Indianola, Preston, Clarinda, Davenport, Burlington, and University high school.

Place winners will receive their awards at a banquet here April 8 as one of the events of the art conference. A University scholarship for art study will go to the pupil making the best display of six pieces.

IT'S FUN TO BE FOOLED

...IT'S MORE FUN TO KNOW

ILLUSION: The magician exhibits a flower pot with hinged sides on a table in the center of the stage. He opens out the sides to show that this container is empty. Closing it up, he places a screen between it and the audience. After a short period of magic incantations he removes the screen. The astounded audience sees a beautiful girl, covered to the shoulders in lovely flowers, rising from the "empty" container. Where did she come from?

EXPLANATION: The girl was hiding behind the drape of the table. There is a trap door in the bottom of the flower pot, with a hole large enough to allow her to crawl through. The flowers, called "magicians' feather flowers," are a regular part of a magician's outfit. The flower girl wears a rubber tunic and a bathing cap to keep the flowers compressed into small space. She slides the tunic down and the flowers expand when she emerges.

Secretary of Bargains

NOBODY IS likely to take Eddie Cantor very seriously when he talks of appendicitis operations at $500 and at cheaper "cut rates." Yet the suggestion of this self-appointed adviser to the president for a "secretary of bargains" might be much more than a wisecrack.

There is a secretary of commerce, to encourage production and sales. There is a secretary of agriculture to do likewise for farmers. There is a secretary of labor—whose chief dealings with workers are with workers as producers. There are two secretaries to help provide business for the munitions makers.

On a New Pattern

AMERICANS were heartened Sunday with news that France was considering payment of the $19,000,000 in war debt interest to the United States which she refused in December.

Americans were not wholly aware of the reason for France's sudden consideration; but the reason was not the simple one that moves one to pay his debtors on the first of the month just because he wants to get things cleared up.

Apparently what the world needs, and sorely, is a complete new set of diplomats fashioned closely after the patterns of Ramsay MacDonald and Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Bill Carr, Champion

IT'S MORE THAN too bad about Bill Carr. The perfect running machine, world record holder through his winning the 400 meter Olympic championship, is broken; literally, after an automobile smash which caused three fractures of the legs which carried him faster over the meet distance than any man had run before.

because he is the sort of champion that sports-minded folks like to remember. Modest and unassuming, he created a huge public favor among track followers, one that should not be easy to forget.

Those "Perfect" Marriages

ANOTHER Hollywood "perfect" marriage seems bound for the rocks. The junior Fairbanks have parted. Married during the summer of 1929 the Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., and Joan Crawford marriage has long been heralded as one of Hollywood's ideal matches.

In the last two years 102 divorces have been obtained by the more celebrated members of the film fraternity. The reasons for the numerous separations range from cruelty to non-support.

Fraternities Will Battle in Debate Meet

Tournament to Begin Saturday, Says Baird

Fraternity speakers will engage in an interfraternity debate tournament to begin Saturday, Prof. A. Craig Baird, director of university debate, announced yesterday.

Debaters will argue the question: "Resolved, that the University of Iowa should withdraw from the Big Ten." Each fraternity entered will be represented by a team of two speakers.

The tournament will begin with a series of elimination contests Saturday. The first round will be at 11 a. m., the second at 2 p. m., and the third at 4 p. m. The final debate will be held Monday at 8:30 p. m.

The winning chapter will be awarded a traveling loving cup, which will remain in its possession a year. In addition, a permanent trophy will also be awarded.

All members of fraternities are eligible to enter, except those who have spoken in intercollegiate or freshman debates against four-year colleges or junior colleges. Teams will draw lots for sides before the debates.

Entries must be made before noon on Thursday, at Professor Baird's office, room 11, liberal arts building. A small entrance fee will be assessed each chapter entering.

Judges will be selected by Professor Baird from university debate teams, with the approval of the competing speakers.

For the second consecutive week, company E of the R.O.T.C. unit, captained by Howard L. Watson, A4 of Plainfield, holds first place in the infantry company competition with a score of 79.9. Their closest rival, company F, with whom they have shared first place several times, is now in second place with a score of 78.8. Company F is under the direction of Capt. Elmer L. Bladow, A4 of Council Bluffs.

Company C, with Capt. Carl A. Unrath, E4 of Iowa City, in charge, came up from sixth to claim the third place position this week with a score of 76.5, holding this position for the second time. In the engineer battalion, company B is in first place for the fourth time.

Robbins May Give Special Talk Series

Prof. Charles L. Robbins of the college of education has been invited to give several lectures this summer at the Danebod Folk school at Tyler, Minn. Prof. Edward Steiner of Grinnell college will also be on the staff.

Adult education is the main purpose of this school, which is an institution copied by the Danish settlement at Tyler from a similar institution in Denmark. Slightly resembling the original form of the chautauqua, it consists of persons who cannot go on with their education because of holding business positions which require most of their time.

For two weeks they live at the school, which accommodates 60 persons, associating with the staff and attending lectures, group discussions, and classes in folk-dancing, gymnastics, group singing, and outdoor recreation.

It is a school without examinations and credits. The manner of teaching and the subject matter taught varies. The curriculum is created by the group participating in the life of the school.

MacDONALD Carries Peace Plan to France

(Continued from page 1) mind," he continued, "is to create conditions of real peace which will rise from the satisfaction of various nations who are in position to disturb it. We are out for an imposed peace but for an agreed peace. We have got to save Europe and the world and have got to fit our nationalistic ideas into the whole scheme of which we are a part. We all recognize the tremendous urgency of getting a better atmosphere into the international situation."

Il Giornale D'Italia, one of the important Italian newspapers, predicted that the Mussolini plan would bring about "a new regime in international relations."

Ripley Explanations

SUNDAY'S CARTOON Names of our puma—the name of "puma" is probably of native origin, having been introduced into European literature by the early Spanish writers on South America for one of the largest cats (fells concolor) of the New World. It has an exceedingly wide range of geographical distribution, from Canada to Patagonia, and formerly from the Atlantic to the Pacific.

The name "cougar" was introduced by the French; "panther" by the Anglo-American hunters, and "painter," "catamount," "mountain lion" and "Mexican lion" are all names applied locally in different parts of the United States. But these names are all for one and the same animal, the puma.

The color of the puma varies slightly in different localities, but is generally a tawny, yellowish brown, sometimes having a grey or silvery shade, and in some cases dark or inclining to red.

Four Die in Farm Blaze

Three of Family, Hired Man Trapped at Algona

ALGONA, March 20 (AP)—Cut off from any rescuers by heavy snowfall that blocked the highways, three members of the Mark Sarchet family and a hired man were buried to death at their farm home early today.

The dead were Sarchet, about 60, former Kosciusko county auditor; his wife; Jerry Morrison, their 4 year old grandson; and Thomas Miller, about 39, a hired man.

Fire departments were unable to fight their way through the drifted highways after they had been summoned by Rudolph Will, a neighbor who saw the flames and managed to walk to the scene.

When Will arrived he found the kitchen of the big house a mass of flames that cut off entry. He shouted in a vain attempt to arouse the sleeping occupants.

A snow plow cut through the drifts to the razed home later in the day to permit removal of the charred bodies to an undertaking establishment here.

The Sarchets moved to the farm, known as the Fletcher Hofius place two miles from here, about March 1. They had previously lived five miles north of here. Both the Sarchets were children of pioneer families.

Chorus Will Offer Concert

Relationship of Modern, Classic Hymns to Feature

A feature of the concert of the university chorus at Iowa Union tomorrow evening, according to Louis H. Diercks, director of the group, is to be the performance of two religious compositions written 350 years apart and yet bearing a close relationship to each other in mood.

The first, "Adoramus Te," written by Palestrina during the sixteenth century, Mr. Diercks calls "a simple, sincere hymn of one of the greatest composers in the world of contrapuntal music." The other, "He Is the Lonely Greatness," is the work of an ultra modernist, Arthur Benjamin. This number, although modern in conception, is sincere and direct, and conveys an honest appeal like that of Palestrina's composition.

Works of other classicists and moderns are also on the concert program. In one of the modern numbers, "The Well Beloved," an Armenian love song arranged by the American, Deems Taylor, solo parts will be sung by Harold Stark, assistant in music, and Ramona Jorgensen, A4 of Griswold. Piano accompaniment will be by Irene Kline, A3 of Montezuma.

The first performance of two compositions by Mr. Diercks will also feature the program. Both numbers especially written for and dedicated to the choral group.

Yoder, Sunley Will Present Second of Dialog Broadcasts

Prof. Dale Yoder and E. M. Sunley, both of the division of social administration, will present the second in their series of radio dialogs on the problems of work relief this evening at 8:40 over station WSUI, as a feature of the Iowa State Conference of Social Work Program.

"We shall make the point that the amount of work relief granted to individual families is to depend upon the particular needs of that family," Mr. Sunley said yesterday in describing some of the highlights in the dialog. "We discourage any form of mass treatment."

"Relief given in lieu of work should be in the form of cash, but the current practice is that of granting credit for necessities. Even under this arrangement we believe that a small amount should be given in cash to maintain the family's morale and to take care of miscellaneous expenses."

"Wages for work relief," he continued, "should conform to the accepted wage scale for unskilled laborers in the community. The tendency of some counties to allow only 10 to 15 cents an hour in the relief program is likely to undermine the wage scale."

Laws Argue Case Today

Myrtle, here it is; I want you to have it. You are young and have a long life to live. You will need it. So said Myrtle's mother, Mabel Farlow, as she gave her daughter a check for $1,550 just before she died. But the administrator of the estate objected, and so the thirteenth case of the freshman law club series will be presented tonight at 7:15 in the court room of the law building to settle the dispute.

Lewis F. Robbins of Cedar Rapids and Louis L. Corcoran of Rock Rapids are the first year barristers to represent Myrtle Farlow. The administrator's attorneys are Judd P. Breton of Villisca and C. Frederick Beck of Mason City.

Slackening the pace they set early last week with two trials daily for three successive days, the freshman barristers will argue only a single case daily through Thursday.

Winners in yesterday's trials were John S. Cutting of Iowa City, Charles A. Whitebook of Iowa City, George F. Reynolds of Waterloo, and Walter J. Willett of Tama.

Judging the trial today are four law students: Don Howell, L3 of Iowa City; William B. Perry, L3 of Des Moines; Chiu Po Su, L3 of Mancheng Hsien, China; and Stewart E. Wilson, L2 of Iowa City.

BEER BILL Will Go to President This Evening

The brief debate which preceded the vote. Borah took the floor as soon as Chairman Harrison of the finance committee submitted the conference report.

Pointing to the provision of the bill prohibiting importation of the beverages into dry states, the Idahoan asked: "Upon what possible theory can you exclude it from interstate commerce except on the theory it is intoxicating?"

He contended that a product can only be excluded from interstate commerce if it is "deleterious" or "dangerous" and added: "The only foundation on which this provision rests is that the beer is in some way harmful to society."

Engage in Debate Borah and other constitutional lawyers engaged in a complicated constitutional debate in which the Idahoan cited a number of supreme court decisions to support his contention.

Senators Barkley (D. Ky.), and Wagner (D. N. Y.), led in opposing Borah's view. Borah said he had offered the amendment forbidding sale of the beer and wine to children because, whether or not 3.2 per cent beverages were intoxicating for adults, he held the evidence was overwhelming that it was intoxicating for children.

He quoted a New York representative of the brewing interests as saying within the last few days that the proposed beer was "as good or better than pre-prohibition beer."

"A Real Beer" A Richmond, Va., brewer, he added, said: "It is a good beer. A real beer. A better and stronger beer than in pre-prohibition days."

Senator Walsh (D. Mass.), explained the conference had agreed to throw out the Borah amendment because its participants believed the states should be left to deal with the beverage after it is manufactured.

"To still permit the federal government to maintain and the prohibition bureau agents to enforce this provision of the law would be a duplication of effort and an extra expense to the government," Walsh said the house group maintained.

"It was their belief that this matter should be left solely within the control of the states," he added. A few moments before the senate voted, the conference report was filed in the house by Chairman Ragon of the conference committee. His report recommended house acceptance and plans were made for speedy action tomorrow.

Solem Sends Gridders Through Scrimmage Despite Snow

SPORT

by EUGENE THORNE

IT'S here—the annual lull in university sports between the winter and the spring seasons. Basketball, wrestling, swimming, gym—all are out of the way for the varsity squads until next season—and baseball and track will soon be in the spotlight. Outside of Coach Mike Howard's freshman wrestling tournament and Coach Carl Kauffman's all-university boxing championship meet, indoor sports are over. And now, if the weather would just settle down, Coaches Ott Vogel, George Bresnahan, Ossie Solem, Bill Boelter, "Dad" Harrison, Ted Swenson and "Dad" Schroeder would like to get their squads in shape.

The major league baseball camps are humming with industry as the sixteen teams condition for the strenuous season which isn't so far off. Reports coming from the south and west are many and varied. There are the usual number of managers who frankly admit that their teams will be stronger than last year, while others express themselves as dubious concerning their chances in the coming campaigns. However, it is still a bit early to figure much out. Muscles, nerves and eyes aren't up to par yet, and past records are about all anyone can judge by.

As usual, there are lots of hopeful rookies setting their first chance with a big league club. Some of them are showing promise, others will be returned to the minor league for more "seasoning." Soon the pruning process will get under way, and as it does, the fans can begin to select their favorites for the championship drive. This season promises to be a crucial one for baseball. Many of the smaller minor leagues are being forced to suspend play for at least a season, and the general trend is toward lower ticket prices.

Iowa fans have been getting more than their share of poor officiating this year it seems. Not only was some of the work done by basketball officials ragged, but the trouble appears to have extended to track. Let it be said at the start that the writer is fully aware of the difficulty sometimes encountered in trying to select the winners of first, second, third and fourth places in a close race. Such trouble was experienced last summer. However, the difficulties of the judges at the state quadrangular meet here Saturday night were extreme.

TIME after time the official decisions were changed, and then changed again. Of course, this was disconcerting to the crowd attending the meet, but it was much worse than that for the press correspondents and the radio announcer. Accounts of the meet were different in the various papers throughout the middle west because each race was sent to the paper as soon as possible, and corrections on everything were impossible before the "deadline" was reached. No doubt many radio listeners shook their heads sadly as the announcer made corrections, but it wasn't his fault. Perhaps he lapsed into the baseball fan's vernacular, and muttered to himself, "Call 'em right!"

Heavyweight boxing matches, after almost dwindling down to nothing for a time, are scrambling back into the sports limelight. Two affairs, the Jack Sharkey-Primo Carnera tangle, and the Max Schmeling-Max Baer scrap, are on tap. Which one will be the best attraction is, of course, a question. Ordinarily, a championship bout would appeal most to the fans, but in this case, things may be different. In the first place, Sharkey won the world's championship by way of an unpopular decision. If his opponent had any great amount of appeal to the fans, they might go to see him whip Sharkey. But Carnera doesn't command any great following.

ON the other hand, Schmeling, because he is willing to take a punch to give one, because he resembles Dempsey, and because he appeared to have been robbed of his title, is quite a favorite with the fans. While Baer hasn't been much considered as a real heavyweight contender, he has shown up to good advantage against the present crop of heavies, and has some backers. If father looks like the Schmeling-Baer setto will be the better drawing card.

Baseball On Up-And-Up
DURHAM, N. C. (AP)—If the situation at Duke university is a criterion, popularity of college baseball is increasing. When Coach Jack Coombs issued the call for the varsity nine, 65 faces greeted him, the largest squad ever to report at Duke.

Frosh Show Promise on First String

Captain Moore, Kouba, Teyro Report for Spring Drill

In weather suitable for the tag end of a football season rather than that of the beginning of spring training, Coach Ossie Solem brought his gridders to Iowa field to take part in a brief scrimmage, while Capt.-elect Tom Moore, Lumir Kouba, and George Teyro made their first appearance on the gridiron this year.

Moore and Kouba completed their term on the track squad with the shot-put event in the Quadrangular meet Saturday, leaving them free to work with the gridders until the start of the outdoor track season.

Crayne at Full
Coach Solem used eight men in yesterday's backfield combinations, playing the freshman quarter of Dick Crayne, full; Russ Fisher and Dick Tordy, half; and Joe Richards at quarter. Fisher bruised his knee slightly in the latter part of the scrimmage and made way for Bob Rook, Drake transferee. Herman Schneidman and George Teyro, varsity backs, took only a small part in the proceedings, since they have not had an opportunity to round into condition.

All of last year's backfield, with the possible exception of Schneidman are expected to have a hard fight keeping their posts in the face of strong freshman competition, while the line will also contain a number of new faces next fall.

Rookies in Line

Coach Solem showed that he is still trying to fill the gap at center caused by the loss of "Marc" Magnusson, and used both Moore, who played guard last year, and Dwight Hoover, freshman end on the spot yesterday. Hoover has been playing the pivot position during the last few practices, changing with John Gallagher, fresh guard, and Ken Hawkins, but Coach Solem is still trying to solve the problem. Practice is going on daily in an effort to get the squad in condition for an intra-squad contest at the end of the training season. The squad game will give the Iowa fans their first chance to see whether the freshman players measure up to the notices given during the last season.

Yearling Mat Team Points for Tourney

Giving every indication that the wrestling season is far from over, Hawkeye freshman grapplers kept all mats busy yesterday as they eyed the yearling numeral tournament April 5.

After a brief pause in the activities, occasioned by the ending of the varsity season, drill for yearlings has settled into a routine for the remaining interval before the championships, and Coach Mike Howard will now devote all of his time to fashioning recruits for next year.

Several promising frosh wrestlers have turned out and have already secured the odds for capturing titles and sweaters in the meet. Of these, some have high school reputations, while others have developed this year under Coach Howard's tutelage. Most of the men will be coming out regularly for the first time this week, however, so that the majority will have an equal footing in conditioning. About six have worked out with the varsity since early fall.

Of the high school men, Bob Larsen holds the most imposing record, with a second in the national scholastic meet to his credit. He wrestles in the 135 pound class and is a standout for that position. Frank O'Leary in the heavyweight class is another high school wrestler, who should have a clear claim to the title. Coach Howard, after seeing the conference championships, stated that he believed O'Leary could have taken the crown in easy fashion. Earl Chism looks like a sure winner in the 155 pound class. Hailing from Ames high school, he has had experience with the cyclone coach, Hugo Otopalik's methods. Allen Hurley, who went to Oklahoma A. and M. two years, brings Coach Gallagher's vaunted system with him. Entering the 165 pound class, he takes a brief time out from his duties on Coach Armbruster's crack frosh swim team. In the lighter 113 and 126 pound weights, two men of recent development, Tom Monroe in the former, and John Stephens in the latter. Both are fast, and strong though green, with Monroe having a little the better of conditioning. The 145 and 175 pound classes are the most open to dispute, with several strong contenders on each. They are: Maule, Beard, Jones, and Tainotra in the heavier class, and Wagner, Burroughs, and Persson in the lighter.

HOPE OF U. S. IN GRAND NATIONAL

Cleveland Pilot Ranks Twoood Great Southpaw

(By The Associated Press)
NEW ORLEANS—Manager Peckinpaugh of the Cleveland Indians decided today Forest Twoood, pitcher and former University of Iowa athlete, is a real big league prospect.

"Twoood is the best left hand prospect the Indians have had since I took over the management of the club six years ago," said Peckinpaugh. "It is too early to form a definite opinion, but on what he has done so far, Twoood has a real chance."

BEAVERS TRIM PIRATES
SAN JOSE, Cal.—The Portland Beavers, Pacific Coast league champions, trimmed the Pittsburgh Pirates, 12 to 5, in an exhibition game. Gus Sub's homer with two on gave the Pirates a three run lead in the first inning, but Portland rallies in the second and fourth sent them out in front.

DOUHTIT WORKS ALONE
TAMPA—Lonely Taylor Douhtit spent a day pitching fly balls to himself while less energetic members of the Cincinnati Reds took the day off. A holiday was declared for the Reds.

CALLED ON ACCOUNT OF RAIN
ST. PETERSBURG—A heavy rain ended the Boston Braves first exhibition clash with the St. Louis Cardinals after six scoreless innings. The tribe had the swatting edge, pounding Bill Hallahan and Bill Walker for seven safeties. "Socks" Seibold and Leo Mansum held the Cards to four scattered hits.

WHITNEY HITS HOMER
WINTER HAVEN—Captain Whitney's four base drive, that cracked the right field fence and netted two runs, gave the Phillies a 5 to 1 tie with the Montreal Maroons in a 10 inning grapefruit league contest.

ATHLETICS WIN SHUTOUT
FT. MYERS—The Philadelphia Athletics registered a 4 to 0 shut-out victory over the House of David.

Jimmy Foxx, big league home run king, was nursing a bruised shoulder, and his first base post was held down by Doc Cramer. Bob Johnson covered the center garden in the absence of Eric McNair, laid up with a charley horse.

FERRERL WANTS CONFERENCE
WEST PALM BEACH—Informing that Rick Ferrerl, his only hold-out, had announced he would come here for a salary conference, President Phil Ball of the St. Louis Browns, said: "Of course I will talk with Ferrerl but if he signs it will be at the club's terms, not his."

Other members of Young's first team selection were: Mattison of Ohio State at the guard opposite Grim; Relf of Northwestern, and Proschauer of Illinois, at forwards; and Johnson of Northwestern at center.

Young's second team was made up of Benny Selzer, Iowa's other back court ace, and Parmenter of Purdue at guards, Hoskett of Ohio State at center, and Bennett of Illinois and Colburn of Ohio State at forwards.

Howard Moffitt, Guelnder Krumboltz and Johnny Barko, Iowa forwards, were mentioned as other outstanding players in the Big Ten, as was Howard Bastian, Hawkeye center.

Young characterized Grim as "that streak of chained lightning" who was the stand-out in a season blessed with fine guards. He further said that Grim had the fastest reaction of any player in the conference.

It was Young who officiated at the national high school tournament in Chicago in 1930 in which Grim competed as a member of the local St. Mary's team. At that time Young sought out the Iowa flash, and predicted that he would see plenty of action in Big Ten basketball.

Senators Out to Beat Yanks for Pennant

Base Hope on Youth, Speed; Rely on Linke

(Editor's Note: This is another of a series of stories analyzing major league prospects for 1933.)

BILLOXI, Miss., March 20 (AP)—In tune with the times, the Washington Senators have declared a new deal and have set out to strike down the Yankees and bring home the pennant. They will not be satisfied with anything less.

Like a general planning to storm an impregnable fortress, Clark Griffith has turned to youth, spirit and speed for the attack. He has placed in command the 26 year old Joe Cronin, kid manager of big league baseball, who was wearing rompers when his predecessor, Walter Johnson, was striking them out.

Look to Swaps
And Griffith has juggled the team in his search for power, speed and pep. He and his manager traded off Reynolds, West, Brown, Marberry and Spencer, and brought in Stewart, Whitehill, Schulte, Goslin and Sewell. Cronin thinks he got the best of the swaps and if Goose Goslin, who started big league ball with Washington, hits his old time batting stride, he will know he got the best end of it.

From a pre-season viewpoint, Cronin in has a hunch that the Philadelphia Athletics, who nosed his club out of second place last season, may have given the Senators a lift by trading off Simmons, Hass, and Dykes. But for the mighty bat of Simmons, the Senators think they would have finished in second place.

Don't Like 'Second'
So the Senators virtually classify themselves as certain for second place, but they don't like the sound of the word "second" and are pointing for the Yankees in the belief that if they down the Yanks they will be first.

The start of the season will find Goslin in right field, Manush in left field, Schulte in center, Bluege at third base, Myer at second, Kuhel at first, Cronin at shortstop, and Sewell as catcher.

Watch Linke
Three left and two right handers, Crowder, Weaver and Whitehill and Stewart and Thomas will be the main moundsmen, with great hopes resting on the rookie pitcher, Edward Linke, who struck out more batters last year for the Davenport club of the Mississippi Valley league than any other pitcher for the year in organized baseball. In 240 innings he struck out 228 batters and allowed only 208 hits.

At the moment interest in camp is centered on Linke's arm and Goslin's bat as both are needed in the race for the pennant, along with a few rabbits feet.

35 Report to New Drake Grid Coach for Spring Practice

DES MOINES, March 20 (AP)—Nearly 35 men reported today to Coach V. J. Green, new Drake University football mentor, for the first spring gridiron practice session.

Bad weather kept the squad inside the field house, where Green gave his men a talk and then ran them through formations.

Green must return to Oklahoma City university in two weeks, but in the meantime he hopes to get his new proteges acquainted with the fundamentals of his style of play.

YANKS TIE BEARS
CLEARWATER—The world champion Yankees and their little brothers, the minor league champion Newark Bears, played five innings to a 7-7 tie as rain halted further play.

SOX HAVE MYSTERY
PASADENA, Cal.—The Chicago White Sox' Joe Chamberlain mystery was solved but almost immediately became a mystery again.

"Chamberlain," an infielder purchased from the Waterloo club of the Mississippi Valley league, signed his contract, but failed to report. Clarence Eber, young southpaw and a fellow San Franciscoan found Chamberlain roaming about in Pasadena, and coaxed him to camp.

Cage Crowds Hold Up
NORMAN, Okla. (AP)—Total basketball attendance at University of Oklahoma home games in 1932-1933 showed a decline of only 95 persons from the previous season, a check-up disclosed.

SOX AND CUBS SHOW SAMPLE OF PEPPER

A white object comes a-buzzin' toward the plate. One Kiki Cuyler, Chicago Cubs, featured above, takes one of those mighty cuts for which he is famous, and lays the baseball out of the orchard. That's what the Flint Flash did in a recent game with the White Sox at Los Angeles. Charley Berry, White Sox receiver, is behind the plate to grab the ball that never arrived.

"Fashion Parade" Marks Opening of Women's Tourney

WICHITA, Kan., March 20 (AP)—A parade of vari-colored sweat suits worn by future Babe Didriksons of the basketball world and some who otherwise rank the great girl athlete herself, marked the opening of the annual women's A.A.U. national tournament at the Forum tonight.

All day the colorfully garbed squads were chaperoned, in uniform, from their hotels through the business district to take turns at practice on the Maples, where the Cardinals of Oklahoma Presbyterian college for women will defend the title they lifted a year ago from the Dallas Golden Cyclones, a challenger now bereft of Miss Didrikson.

The defending champions drew a first round bye and will play their first game tomorrow night.

Iowa Riflers Lose 2 Postal Matches in Week's Shooting

The first reports on last week's postal matches give the University of Iowa marksmen two defeats. The Hawkeye varsity team dropped a match to the City College of New York with a score of 1,333 to 1,372, while the R.O.T.C. snipers lost to New York university, 3,655 to 3,635.

Iowa Rookies Lead Scorers

Take High Honors in 3 Out of 4 Winter Sports

Athletes in their first season of intercollegiate competition won high scoring honors on three of four University of Iowa sport teams during the winter season, an official check made at the department of athletics revealed Monday.

Howard Bastian of Eldora, center, was high man of the basketball team with 154 points; Bruce Grove of Tulsa, Okla., 230 and 440-yard free style events, led the swimmers with 36, and Randall Whinnery of Ft. Dodge, 155 and 165-pound wrestler, made 18 markers.

The only veteran who led point winners in a sport was Sidney Dean of Traer, track quarter miler. He made 16 1/2 points, to edge out a sophomore hurdler, Charles Tabb, by the margin of half a point.

In the race for individual honors, the runners-up were William Busby of Tulsa, Okla., fancy diver on the swimming team, 28; John O'Leary of Cherokee, 175-pound wrestler, 9 1/2; Charles Tabb of Joliet, Ill., hurdler, 16, and Guelnder Krumboltz of Davenport, basketball forward, 118.

First Entries Come in for Titular Meet

Clinton, state outdoor champion of 1932, and Cherokee, winner of fourth place in the indoor title meet, are the first high schools to enter the 1933 indoor interscholastic championship track and field meet at the University of Iowa, April 1.

The Clinton team will be headed by Carl Nelson, Iowa prep 100 and 220 yard champion and winner of the 200 meter dash in the mid-western sectional Olympic trials here last June. Nelson also is sharer of the state indoor record for the broad jump, made last year when he tied for the championship.

Between 35 and 45 schools are expected to enter the 1933 meet, sponsored by the university at the request of the Iowa High School Athletic association. Closing date for the receipt of entries is March 27.

Tipton Track Team to Meet U. High in Indoor Clash Here

University high tracksters will have their first test of the season, here next Monday afternoon when they engage the Tipton thinclds in a dual indoor meet in the Iowa field house. The Tipton meet is an annual affair and is the forerunner of other meets not yet definitely scheduled.

Coach Carpenter's Blue proteges have been working out daily and are fast rounding into a strong team. Van Phillips, star quarter miler of last year, is bettering his former marks and should take his favorite event easily next Monday.

Joy, half miler and miler, is developing fast and is expected to trot the cinders fast enough to grab off another first to help out the Blue total.

Although the rest of the University high team is composed of mostly new material, Coach Carpenter hopes to take enough seconds and thirds to win the meet.

The Tipton meet will start at 4 p.m.

After College WHAT?

Thomas W. Gerber of the executive staff of the United Press says: "Seeking, reporting, interpreting and distributing news is today a complex business, an exciting profession, a responsible career. It is a field only for serious-minded, clear-thinking men and women. The day of romantic, adventurous assignments is largely over."

THERE'S no more "newspaper game." Today, it's a business—still exciting, but calling for all-round resourcefulness. That's why newspaper men agree with college men in choosing a pipe as their favorite smoke. A pipe helps a man organize his mind for clear thinking.

Why did college men choose Edgeworth as their favorite smoking tobacco? Because it's individual! A blend of fine old burleys that's different.

But the proof of the pudding is in the eating. So drop a line to Larus & Bro. Co., 105 S. 22d St., Richmond, Va., and let them send you a free sample of Edgeworth to try before you buy. You'll like it!

*A recent investigation showed Edgeworth the favorite smoke at 42 out of 64 leading colleges.

Stock Market Prices Show Slight Losses

Trend Varies Little Through Quiet Day

NEW YORK, March 20 (AP)—Stocks lost momentum and, on the average, some ground, in today's market.

The trend was narrowly irregular throughout most of a quiet session, though toward closing time utilities and industrials weakened moderately, giving final prices a reactionary appearance.

Heavyness of wheat doubtless influenced share market sentiment to some extent. However, the narrow range of fluctuations made it apparent that Wall street was content to do little except mark time.

Rails obviously drew encouragement from the White House visit of several carrier executives.

Consolidated Gas and Public Service of New Jersey dropped 2 and North American and American Telephone around 1 each, American

Grain Prices Suffer After Heavy Sales

CHICAGO, March 20 (AP)—Setbacks of about a cent a bushel in wheat values today resulted largely from persistent selling pressure attributed to government-financed sources.

Houses that often act for federal farm board allies were especially conspicuous in liquidating May wheat holdings, and there was decided uncertainty as to the amount of such wheat yet to come on the market.

Other continental bonds were aided by the apparent progress of peace talks now going on between the various European chancelleries.

Domestic issues seemingly paid little attention to the signing of the new economy bill by the president or the further easing of money rates.

Provisions lacked support, despite hog market upticks.

English Youth Goes on Trial for Selling Country for $173

Court-Martial Discloses Exchange of Notes With Berlin

LONDON, March 20 (AP)—A tall good looking youth, a lieutenant in the aristocratic Seaforth highlanders, went on trial today before a court-martial composed of his brother officers on 10 charges involving the sale of military secrets which might prove useful to an enemy country.

"I am not mincing words," said Major H. Shapcott, the prosecutor, with a finger leveled at the defendant, Lieut. Norman Baillie-Stewart, the son of a lieutenant colonel.

Outlines Charge Major Shapcott outlined the government's case—a case built upon an exchange of letters between Lieut. Baillie-Stewart and persons in Berlin and on other evidence as yet undisclosed. Two of the letters reaching the lieutenant from Berlin contained money, one of them 10 five pound notes, another four 10 pound notes.

Major Shapcott stated that Lieut. Baillie-Stewart's explanation of the correspondence was that it was a sequel to an act of intimacy with a fair haired German girl in a Berlin park. False names which were signed to the letters, the lieutenant told Major Shapcott, were merely a precaution and not a code.

Principal Accusation The principal accusation is that between Aug. 1 and Nov. 12, 1932, the lieutenant communicated to Otto Obst of Berlin "information which might be useful to an enemy." Obst is suspected by army officials as "a foreign agent within the meaning of the official secrets act."

The charge specifies that in association with Obst the lieutenant "made a note of the following matters: (1) organization, tanks, armored cars, equipment, arms, structure, (2) automatic rifles, pattern, extent; (3) organization of brigade tanks; being an act preparatory to obtaining for a purpose prejudicial to the interests of the state information which might be useful to an enemy."

Lieut. Baillie-Stewart was pale and drawn as he appeared at the trial. When he entered the court he clicked his heels and saluted the president. He wore his kilt and Glengarry bonnet, but there was no Stain Browne belt on his tunic.

As the trial was opening a clergyman arose in the audience, held a Bible over his head and shouted: "I protest in the name of Jehovah against this young officer being committed to the tower."

For several weeks Lieut. Baillie-Stewart has been in prison in the tower of London. His identity was kept secret for some time until a considerable mystery grew up about him, as street crowds could see him taking his exercise. Finally the government announced his name and the purpose of his imprisonment.

Two of the letters produced as evidence were signed "Marie Louise." There were the letters that contained the money. Major Shapcott asserted that the lieutenant admitted receiving the banknotes, saying that he knew the woman only as "Marie Louise," that she was 22 and fair, and that he had "made love to her once beside a lake." The lieutenant is 24.

Looking completely rested and happier than he has been for years, former President Herbert Hoover is shown on the rear platform of the train in which he left New York for his home in Palo Alto, Cal. Although he is now a private citizen, Mr. Hoover had to undergo the usual barrage of cameras and talkie machines, but he seemed to enjoy the fun.

Friends Hail Hoover Train

Crowd Wishes Former President Success, Happiness

OGDEN, Utah, March 20 (AP)—Former president Herbert Hoover, returning to his home at Palo Alto, Cal., told a crowd of Utahans who greeted him at the train here today that "some day" he will come back and make a political speech "that will be worth listening to."

J. Reuben Clark, Jr., recently retired ambassador to Mexico, told Mr. Hoover: "You see here are a few Republicans of Utah who have kept the faith. They are still Republicans."

Mr. Clark said, "Those who come after you will reap where they did not sow. We love you, have faith in you and wish you happiness and success the rest of your life."

Responding, Mr. Hoover thanked the crowd for their greetings which he said touched him deeply.

"I have gone east from California perhaps a thousand times in a half century," he said, "but I enjoy it most when I am coming west again."

Bond Market Has Idle Day

Lowest Sales Total, Par Value Since Last Dec. 5

NEW YORK, March 20 (AP)—The bond market idled today and, outside of a few of the rails and some foreign issues, indifferent efforts at further progress were futile.

United States governments gave little encouragement to the high grade utilities and industrials. The federals, although not heavily liquidated, recorded net losses ranging from four thirty-seconds to 24 thirty-seconds of a point. Trading in this section was rather light, however, and some of the liberties and treasuries rallied from their low marks of the day.

Sales totaled only $7,717,000, par value, the lowest full day's aggregate since Dec. 5, last year. The average for 60 domestic corporate bonds was off three-tenths of a point.

Recoveries of fractions to around 4 points in the German group was the feature of the foreign department.

Other continental bonds were aided by the apparent progress of peace talks now going on between the various European chancelleries.

Domestic issues seemingly paid little attention to the signing of the new economy bill by the president or the further easing of money rates.

Investors and traders were somewhat uncertain regarding possible liquidation of banks which have been placed in the hands of conservators. In addition there was some discussion of whether the treasury would soon attempt the refunding of the huge outstanding liberty loans.

Carrier lines that registered improvement included some of Chicago & Northwestern, Erie, Illinois Central, New York Central, Norfolk & Western, Northern Pacific, Pennsylvania, Rio Grande Western, Iron Mountain and Southern Pacific.

Induced predissociation, a physical phenomenon observed in connection with the band spectra of some of the elements, especially iodine, was discussed at a regular physics colloquium yesterday afternoon by Prof. F. W. Loomis, head of the physics department at the University of Illinois.

This phenomenon, he explained, is a new elemental process which must be taken into account in the study of the interaction of light with molecules. Much of his subject matter had its origin in researches which he has made at the University of Illinois.

Administration Job No Lure To This Friend of President

"Doc" O'Connor, Law Partner and Close Friend of Roosevelt, Prefers to Blush Unseen Behind Scenes on Capitol Hill.

President Roosevelt with Mr. and Mrs. Basil O'Connor and daughter Betty.

WASHINGTON — There is one good Democrat close to the leaders in Washington who hasn't a job, and—doesn't want one! More than that, he probably could have any appointment he desired if he would just say the word.

He is Basil O'Connor, the president's one-time partner in the illustrious New York law firm of Roosevelt and O'Connor. He is a master political strategist, one of the country's smartest lawyers, an outstanding leader of men, and it is doubtful if anyone stands closer to the president, except, possibly, "Big Jim" Farley. But O'Connor prefers to remain in the background.

Reporters assigned to the president during his campaign, and those who followed him to the heights of popularity in Washington, frequently noted the presence of a short, compact, dark haired man, always perfectly groomed, whose kindly bespectacled eyes fairly radiated intelligence. Their repeated questions brought the same answer "Oh, he's just a friend."

And Basil O'Connor remains just a friend, but what a friend! Those close to White House affairs say he dominates the president's so-called "Brain Trust" of advisers. Many say there is no position in the administration he couldn't have—if he wanted it—and no position he couldn't fill, brilliantly.

It was back in 1924 when Franklin Roosevelt and Basil O'Connor, moved by deep mutual admiration, decided to pool their talents in a law firm. The president withdrew from the firm of Emmett, Marvin and Roosevelt.

Franklin Roosevelt was quick to note his new partner's great intelligence, his personal magnetism, his loyalty and efficiency, and a deep friendship developed. It thrived through the days when the president was governor of New York, and it is thriving now in the White House.

D. Basil O'Connor, Jr.—a glance at the initials will explain why his friends call him "Doc"—has had a brilliant and spectacular career. He is, indeed, a self-made man. At the tender age of 16 he was graduated from the Taunton (Mass.) high school, and went immediately to Dartmouth. He worked his way through to an A.B. degree by playing a fiddle, an instrument he rarely touches today.

By 1915 he had worked his way through the Harvard law school and was graduated with honors. His excellent scholarship won him an appointment to the distinguished New York law firm of Cravath, Henderson and DeGerthoff. After a year's clerkship, he moved to Boston to join the firm of Streeter and Holmes. In 1918 he returned to New York and struck out for himself. He won brilliant success and established his name high in legal circles before he cast his lot with Franklin Roosevelt.

Ever since his graduation "Doc" O'Connor has been a leader in Dartmouth alumni activities. He is a good Democrat, but not a member of Tammany. His brother, John J. O'Connor, however, is a veteran Tammany member of congress from New York.

In 1918 Basil O'Connor married Elvira Miller of Louisville, Ky. They have two daughters, and live in New York.

FIGHTING "LOVE PIRATE" SUIT

No clouds, either of salary cuts, impending court suits or rumors of marital unhappiness, were on the horizon when this picture of Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., and his wife, Joan Crawford, screen stars, was made when they returned from a European vacation last year. Now Doug is surrounded with a flock of such clouds, the bluest of which is the $50,000 alienation of affections suit brought by Jorgen Dietz, Hollywood engineer, who claims Fairbanks stole the love of his wife, Solveig. Dietz asks $10,000 in another suit in which he charges Doug with causing him to suffer false imprisonment.

As the guards began adjusting the straps about his hands and legs, vanity asserted itself.

"No camera man here?" he inquired.

"No!" Superintendent Chapman replied.

Zangara then broke into violent shouts against "the capitalists" but in a moment his tone changed to even calmness.

"Goodbye! Adios to all the world! Goodbye!" he said softly. Then he leaned back, and relaxed to await the shock.

Sheriff Dan Hardie of Dade county threw the switch at 9:15 o'clock. The physicians pronounced death at 9:27 o'clock.

Perform Autopsy
The autopsy was performed by Dr. Ralph N. Greene, former chief of staff at the state hospital for the insane. Dr. R. R. Killinger, medical officer of Duval county; Dr. C. D. Whitaker, the prison physician, and Dr. J. J. Kindred of New York.

Their report read: "Having completed an autopsy,

ZANGARA Dies in Electric Chair

we find his brain perfectly normal on gross examination.

"A microscopic examination will be made later.

"Zangara had a chronically diseased gall bladder which had adhesions and was therefore a victim of chronic indigestion. He was, however, a healthy, well nourished individual.

"Realized Punishment"
"Zangara's conduct during his last moments in the execution chamber indicated clearly he had a proper understanding of his surroundings and realized fully the nature of the punishment about to be meted out to him as evidenced by his verbal expressions and demeanors.

"In our opinion," this man was regarded as having been sane and also regarded medically as criminally responsible for the crime for which he was executed.

Commissioner Mayo visited the death cell just before the execution and questioned Zangara regarding any alliance with organized anarchists or gangs.

"Had No Friends"
"No," replied the assassin. "I have no friends. It was idea of my own."

He expressed no regret over killing Mayor Cermak, nor did he regret shooting Mrs. Joe H. Gill of Miami, another of the five persons wounded in the attempt on the president's life.

"She had no business getting in way of bullet," the condemned man said.

Mayo asked if he would try to kill President Roosevelt if he was released and Zangara replied he would make the attempt at once.

The commissioner asked the prisoner if he wanted a clergyman.

Zangara shouted, "No! I no want minister. There no God. It's all below."

Chaplain Prays
At the insistence of Mayo, the Rev. L. O. Sheffield, the prison chaplain, came to the death cell and prayed.

"What's your business?" demanded Zangara of the minister.

Told that Sheffield was a minister, the Italian shouted: "Get out of here! I no want minister!"

Thus far, no decision has been reached regarding disposition of Zangara's body. Several medical schools have requested it.

Thousands witnessed the attempt to assassinate President Roosevelt in Bay Front park in Miami.

Mayor Cermak, standing near the Roosevelt automobile, was struck by one bullet. Others wounded besides him and Mrs. Gill were Wil-
