GEORGE SALING KILLED IN ACCIDENT

Roosevelt Points Toward Economic Parleys

President Leaves Domestic Plan to Legislators, Plans Parleys With MacDonald

Economic Adviser, Ambassador to England in Consultation With Roosevelt to Plan World Discussions

WASHINGTON, April 15 (AP)—Leaving his domestic program to those pressing it to maturity, President Roosevelt today began pointing decisively for his international conferences to begin late next week with Prime Minister MacDonald of Great Britain.

On all sides, no doubt was left as to the paramount importance attached by him to moves planned for reciprocal tariff treaties, aimed at the diminishing of trade barriers and the stabilization of international exchanges.

The senate, meanwhile, devoted another day to wordy farm bill debate, while the house stood in recess. Senators and representatives in committee and in private concentrated on the Muscle Shoals, relief, securities regulation and other legislation, but advanced forward little more than for days past.

No Visitors At the White House, however, there was a difference. Callers for the first day in many failed to be filed into the presidential offices to suggest and differ over national planning.

Instead, Mr. Roosevelt remained away from his desk there, to make ready in the seclusion of the White House proper for the significant world discussions.

By his side for some time was one of his trusted economic advisers—Raymond Moley, assistant secretary of state. The president also consulted with his ambassador to Great Britain, Robert W. Bingham.

It was evident that now, with Mr. MacDonald on the high seas, the dominant administration drive would be to formulate quickly the prospective legislation empowering the president to negotiate tariff reduction agreements in the interest of resuscitating world trade.

Rushed to Congress That done, it probably will be rushed to congress with the same emphasis to be given the railroad reorganization legislation to be submitted early next week and the subsequent propositions aimed to increase employment through public works and to reform banking procedure.

Acceptance by Argentina today of the invitation to be represented at the Washington talks completed the list of the eleven asked, the others besides Britain being France, Italy, Germany, Japan, China, Canada, Brazil, Chile and Mexico.

Secretary Hull had his first chat with the newly-arrived German ambassador, Dr. Hans Luther, who will be formally presented to the president in advance of the discussions in which he will represent the Hitler government.

Meanwhile, experts at the treasury and state departments continued collation of data on the disordered money exchange situations; and on the war debts that are destined to be used as a bargaining means in the forthcoming discussions.

Concentrate on Plans The chances are that this material will provide the main fuel for concentration of the president and his most intimate counselors through the immediate future, with he himself dwelling on the domestic aspects of his program only for formal recommendations to congress or for smoothing out difficulties not now contemplated.

This does not mean that the domestic angles are to be neglected. Rather, signs indicate the president's confidence that congressional and administrative collaborators are progressing satisfactorily towards the governmental economy in store, along with arrangements for relief of the destitute, the farmer and the setting up of job-making machinery.

Determined to expedite action as much as possible in the fact of recurring opposition, the senate Democratic leadership maneuvered with little success today to get early votes on both the massive farm price lifting bill and the hanging-over five day week bill.

Foresee Sale of 3.2 Beer by Wednesday

Governor's Signature Makes Bill Ready to Publish

DES MOINES, April 15 (AP)—Possibility the new 3.2 per cent beer may be placed on sale in some Iowa communities by Wednesday was foreseen today by State Treasurer Leo J. Wegman.

Wegman made this prediction after Gov. Clyde L. Herring had signed the beer bill passed by the assembly and preparations were made for legal publication on Monday.

The state treasurer explained that necessary blanks for applications, permits and bonds for manufacturers and wholesalers had been sent to the printers and would be ready by Monday.

This would allow a day for the consideration of applications and the issuance of permits by his office before the first successful applicants could begin business a day or two later.

Investigate Applications First permits would be issued to applicants known definitely by the state treasurer to be of good moral character while other of the several hundred applications he has received so far would be held up pending investigation.

Sale of the beer will not become general until later in the week, it is anticipated, as the number of permits issued immediately will not be large. Officials in some cities have announced that they are prepared to issue retail permits.

After the governor had signed the beer bill at noon today it was sent to the secretary of state to be mailed out for publication in newspapers. It will become effective at midnight Monday.

A brief ceremony marked the signing of the bill by the governor today after the presiding officers of both branches of the assembly had added their names to the measure. The governor used seven pens to affix his signature.

"Beer in Iowa" "There may be a difference of opinion as to the wisdom of this bill," the governor said, "but there is no longer is any question that beer is to be had in Iowa. The question, is, is it to be had under regulation with revenue accruing to the state or is it to be bootlegged into every county of the state. A standing army would be required on the state borders to prevent the bootlegging of the beverage."

Pens used by the governor were presented to legislative leaders, including the co-authors of the measure, Senator Matt D. Cooney of Dubuque, and Rep. O. J. Ditto of Sibley. Other pens went to Reps. Carl Stiger, John Mitchell, and John Brady and Senators Joe Pralley and John K. Valentine.

The bill becomes effective after publication Monday afternoon in the Ft. Dodge Messenger and Sioux City Tribune.

WEATHER

IOWA: Generally fair with rising temperature Sunday; Monday probably showers in west and north, fair in southeast, warmer in extreme east, cooler in northwest.

EASTER

BY LOUIS BIEDERMANN

Fear not ye: for I know that ye seek Jesus, which was crucified. He is not here: for He is risen, as He said. Come see the place where the Lord lay. And go quickly, and tell His disciples that He is risen from the dead: And behold, He goeth before you into Galilee; there shall ye see Him.

Lindberghs to Take Air Trip

Plans Call for Flight Across Continent, Inspection

NEW YORK, April 15 (AP)—The Lindberghs, for the first time since their flight to the Orient two years ago, will take to the air together when they start a transcontinental trip within a few days. Plans for the trip were made known today.

Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh will start their flight from the Newark (N. J.) airport. Traveling in a six-passenger cabin plane, they will fly to Pittsburgh, Columbus, Indianapolis, St. Louis and Kansas City, then on to Albuquerque, Los Angeles and San Francisco.

Their purpose will be to inspect the line of the Transcontinental and Western Air, Inc., of which the colonel is technical advisor.

It will be his first inspection trip over the route in a year and a half. While Mrs. Lindbergh has done no flying since she went with her husband to Japan and China, the colonel has kept up his interest in actual flying.

His most recent experience in the air was practicing blind landings at the Newark airport.

A Creative Easter

By Rev. Evans A. Worthley

On this Easter morning it makes one sad to realize that so many racial brothers and sisters of Jesus the Jew will find less happiness than usual in contemplating the event which the Christian Church celebrates as the resurrection.

By this time, surely, the blessing of human brotherhood in His name should be secure, but it is not so. The resurrection story has failed to fill the hearts of His followers with a complete spirit of forgiveness and forgetfulness.

Within our narrow nationalisms and churchisms we have cherished immortal hatreds as well as immortal hopes. Must it always be—this fearful shadow of some needless crucifixion crowded into the light and glory of every resurrection of human hope?

Your reading of Easter with its far reach into the past and into the future will enter into the answer of that question. Will you make this Easter a new beginning, a new adventure into the wonders of life, a creative cry against the darkness and death of yesterday and its despair? Will you make it glorious with the gladness of an inclusive fellowship, a spirit of friendship so fervent upon the earth that it will have a reflected beauty from the heavens, where, in due time, all friendships must disappear from earthly view.

Easter! No longer a day of dogma and doctrine for anyone. Now the day for new deeds, new hopes, new aspirations, new life.

We need a new world. May this Easter help us to discover creative power for its building. The bitter cruelty, the blows of crucifixion that may be the price of a new age as they were the price of an older one, must be met and only can be met by the courage of a creative Easter in the hearts of men.

Winnie Judd in Hysterics

Sanity Hearing Makes Slow Progress to Decision

FLORENCE, Ariz., April 15 (AP)—Hysterical outbursts, laughter and tears came from Winnie Ruth Judd today as her sanity hearing progressed slowly—with little more than five days left before the time set for her hanging.

At one time, the blonde confessed slayer of Agnes Ann LeRoi and Hedvig Samuelson proposed that she throw herself out of the court room window, two stories up.

Before that, she half rose from her chair and said of the 12 jurymen, "They're gangsters—all of them."

Unless they decide she is insane, she is to be hanged at the state prison at dawn next Friday on conviction of murdering Mrs. LeRoi. If the hearing is not completed by then, she will have to hang, anyway, as calling of the hearing at request of the prison warden does not constitute a reprieve.

The sanity jury was completed this morning but after one witness, a prison matron, had told of strange acts and moods of Mrs. Judd, testimony was held up by an argument over a request of the state that two alienists be allowed to examine the condemned woman without presence of her lawyers.

Olympic Hurdle Champion Dies After Auto Strikes Truck Parked on Highway

Rain Obscures Vision of Corydon Athlete, Two Companions; Saling Planned Exhibition Race at Maplewood Relays

George J. Saling, who hurdled his way to Olympic fame at the age of 24, died yesterday, the victim of an automobile crash.

The great Corydon athlete, who last spring and summer as a representative of the University of Iowa raced his way to numerous records in his climb to the 110 meter high hurdle championship of the tenth Olympiad at Los Angeles, was on his way to St. Louis, Mo., where he was to have competed in a special exhibition race at the Maplewood relays yesterday.

One Killed, Six Injured in Accident

Three Faculty Members Among Six Persons Injured

Six Iowa Citizens figured in an automobile accident that claimed one life shortly after 10 p.m. yesterday on U. S. highway 161 about 10 miles south of Cedar Rapids.

The accident occurred when the Chevrolet sedan driven by Eugene Bahn, instructor in the speech department of the University of Iowa, swerved out in the road to avoid hitting an object and crashed head-on into a touring car driven by Donald Stoner of North Liberty.

Killed Instantly Mr. Stoner was killed almost instantly. His wife, riding in the car with him, was injured. Both were taken to a Cedar Rapids hospital.

Riding with Mr. Bahn were: Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Gillette, Mr. and Mrs. Allen J. Stanley, and Helen Langworthy. Mr. Gillette and Miss Langworthy, in addition to Mr. Bahn, are members of the university speech and dramatic arts department. The occupants of the Iowa City car were brought to University hospital.

The extent of their injuries, as ascertained shortly after 2:30 this morning, is as follows:

Mr. Bahn: seriously cut about the scalp, broken arm.

Mr. Gillette: cut about the face and possible broken shoulder.

Mrs. Gillette: lacerations of face and scalp, underwent an emergency operation, condition serious but is expected to recover.

Mr. Stanley: scalp lacerations.

Mrs. Stanley: minor cuts and scratches, not serious.

Miss Langworthy: cuts and bruises about the face, not serious.

Both Cars Swerved According to Mrs. Stanley, the crash occurred when both drivers swerved out into the road to avoid hitting what she thought to be a cow. The Iowa Citizens were enroute to Cedar Rapids, while the Stoner car was enroute to North Liberty.

The Stanleys live at 741 Grant street.

Mr. Stoner was employed by the Cedar Rapids and Iowa City railway here.

Alfred E. Smith Named Chairman of Repeal Convention

NEW YORK, April 15 (AP)—Alfred E. Smith will be chairman of the New York state convention for ratification of the repeal amendment.

This was decided upon today at a conference between James A. Farley, chairman of the national and state Democratic committees, and W. Kingsland Macy, Republican state chairman.

Farley and Macy confirmed their previous tentative agreement to have a joint slate of delegates, 74 to each party. Two delegates were allotted the Socialist party if it is willing to concur in the coalition slate.

The election of the delegates will be on May 23.

Smith is understood to have agreed to accept the chairmanship.

Elect Iowa Citizen to Medical Office

COUNCIL BLUFFS, April 15 (AP)—Dr. Ben Wolverton of Cedar Rapids, was elected president of the Iowa Clinical Medical society at the spring meeting today. Dr. Clarence Baldrige of Iowa City was chosen vice president and Dr. Judd Shellito, Independence, secretary-treasurer.

Hits Truck

Accompanied by G. D. Youngblood of Corydon and Arthur Blumstead of Delaware, Ohio, Saling failed to observe a cattle truck parked partly on the pavement near Troy, Mo. He swerved his roadster sharply but crashed into the rear corner of the heavier vehicle, receiving the full impact of the steering wheel in his chest.

It was discovered at a hospital at St. Charles, Mo., that Saling's heart had been displaced two inches, several ribs had been broken and internal hemorrhages had occurred. Despite administration of oxygen and a blood transfusion, he died a short time after his parents, Mr. and Mrs. George H. Saling, arrived from Corydon.

His companions, uninjured, said the truck carried lanterns but rain had obscured their vision.

City, Campus Saddened

Saling's death, which marked the passing of one of Iowa's athletic great, brought deep sorrow to the campus and Iowa City alike for while his collegiate competition had been completed, the trim athlete was enrolled in the college of law where he was a freshman. He was still active in campus activities and in athletics in particular, having been one of the organizers of the Hawk-I club, lettermen's organization of which he was president.

With his parents at St. Charles last night was another mourner, George Bresnahan, his coach for five years who had seen his protege rise from an inconspicuous freshman to world hurdling recognition. Bresnahan rushed to the Missouri city yesterday morning upon learning of the star's death and was to return to Corydon with Saling's parents.

Pays Tribute

As tears gathered in his eyes, the coach paid his pupil a great tribute. "Saling was a remarkable student as well as an athlete. I considered him mentally one of the best athletes I ever had in my charge."

And it was those characteristics which won Saling his great popularity with the Iowa student body as well as with the sports world at large. His quiet, unassuming manner won him numerous friends and his diligent training brought its greatest reward last August when he raced to a brilliant victory over his United States teammates, Jack Keller and Percy Beard, and Donald Finlay of Great Britain in the finals of the Olympic high hurdles.

"In the Money"

Following his freshman year, in which he decided to specialize in the event which was later to bring him fame, although his coach had often said he would have made an equally great quarter miler, Saling gained some notice as a hurdler who was always "in the money" but never indicated that he would go on to record-breaking performances. In nearly ever race in his sophomore and junior years he was pitted against Lee Sentman, the Illinois star whom he pushed to numerous records.

Saling dropped out of school during the 1930-31 school year to save money for his senior year and to start training for the Olympics, upon which both he and Bresnahan had set their eyes. He returned to school in the fall of 1931, his form improved, and his slight but powerful body trained for the rigorous campaign he had planned.

Once more one of the nation's finest hurdlers provided him with competition in the Big Ten conference.

Keller Forces Star

Jack Keller, the sophomore flash from Ohio State, provided Saling with the stiffest of competition through the spring. Winning five high hurdles races indoors, the Hawkeye defeated Keller in the con-

All Christendom Observes Holy Festival of Easter

Churches Filled Over World in 1900th Observance

(By The Associated Press)

All Christendom today observed the holy festival of Easter, the one thousand nine hundredth anniversary of the resurrection.

In Jerusalem, almost every Christian country was represented among the pilgrims who joined in the ritualistic pomp and pageantry of the Greek Orthodox, Anglican and Catholic eastern services. The crowding of Jerusalem's narrow streets by the many from distant lands recalled the huge pre-war pilgrimages to the Holy Land.

Celebrate Mass

For the first time since 1870 a pope celebrated Easter mass in St. Peter's cathedral at Rome, where Pope Pius has proclaimed this a holy year. The immense basilica was prepared for an attendance of 50,000 worshippers.

Holy Week Brings Lull to Germany

BERLIN, April 15 (AP)—Holy week brought the first lull in the terrific speed with which the government machinery has been functioning ever since January 30, when Adolf Hitler's Nazis and the Nationalists joined hands in the cabinet of national concentrations.

With the exception of the federal justice and the Prussian educational ministries, which continued purging the judiciary, the profession of law and schools, colleges and universities of Jews and Leftists, most of the ministries were temporarily without their chiefs. Members of the cabinet left Berlin for the Easter recess.

Even this recess will, however, be made to serve political ends. This was indicated by an announcement that Franz Sedtze will confer with Chancellor Hitler at Berchtesgaden.

Sunrise Service

Despite forecasts for rain, hundreds of visitors gathered for the annual sunrise service of the Home Moravian church at Winston-Salem, N. C., which has continued unbroken since colonial times.

In southern Colorado and northern New Mexico, the Lenten rites of the Indian penitentes who have observed the sanguinary ceremonies of their cult for 350 years, terminated.

Two major pageants greeted eastern Oklahoma. The story of Christ's passion was to be presented for the seventh year by the First Presbyterian congregation of Lawton in the Wichita mountains. Neal Sulphus seven churches joined for a pageant to be given at the foot of Bromide mountain.

Pilgrims Go to Holy City

JERUSALEM, April 15 (AP)—A colorful scene of religious fervor took place today when, with pomp and splendor, the Greek orthodox community celebrated the ceremony of Holy Fire, the most spectacular of Easterite observances.

Almost every Christian country sent representatives to attend the rite. Jerusalem was crowded with pilgrims recalling the huge pre-war gatherings. Thousands began a gathering at sunrise at the Church of the Holy Sepulchre to witness the ceremony of the Holy Fire.

The edifice was jammed and the overflow crowd filled the courtyard. Many worshippers purchased seats on specially-constructed platforms. Some of them took up their stations three days ago, paying high prices for the privilege.

It was a tensely expectant throng which was waiting when the acting Greek patriarch at 1 p.m. thrust his hand into an orifice of the wall of the sepulchre and withdrew a flaming mass of material.

Legion Auxiliary Plans Meeting

Mrs. Martin Pederson is in charge of the meeting of the American Legion auxiliary to be held at 7:30 p.m. tomorrow at the American Legion Community building. This is the regular monthly session of the group.

Senate Argues 5 Day Week; Predict Inflation Approval

Democrats Will Drive Against Rehearing in Senate

WASHINGTON, April 15 (AP)—The senate Democratic leadership spoke out in strong terms today against opponents of the five day week bill and gave notice a drive would be initiated on Monday to table a motion to reconsider the 53 to 30 vote by which it was passed more than a week ago.

Senator Black (D., Ala.), author of the bill, who has claimed sinister forces were at work to kill it, asked unanimous consent for the fourth time today to get a decision on the reconsideration motion of Senator Trammell (D., Fla.). Senator McNary of Oregon, the Republican leader, blocked the effort, however, to lay aside the farm bill for that purpose.

McNary Objects

McNary previously had done all the objecting. He said today there were 18 or 20 senators absent and the bill, as he understood it, was not an administration measure anyway. He suggested that the senate adjourn instead of recess in order that the first hour or so on Monday could be devoted to the motion.

Senator Robinson of Arkansas, the Democratic leader, agreed to this, but warned opponents he would move to table the reconsideration motion, thereby shutting off debate and removing a serious obstacle to the pending farm bill.

Trammell, seeing that debate would be denied on Monday, immediately entered into a discussion of his reconsideration move.

Trammell wants to reconsider in order to offer an amendment which would place foreign products under the same ban as for domestic articles moving in interstate commerce made with labor employed longer than 30 hours a week. A similar amendment was rejected 41 to 39 before the bill passed.

"Building Backfire"

In urging disposition of the question again today, Black charged the motive behind the objectors was to "build up a backfire in the house" to kill the bill.

The administration has endorsed the principle of the shorter work week, but has suggested that the pending legislation be made more "elastic" to allow the shorter hours to be lengthened in cases where it was impracticable to apply a fixed time curtailment.

Exempt Service Charges

LINCOLN, Neb., April 15 (AP)—Gov. Charles W. Bryan today signed bills which will forbid any electrical service charges outside of Omaha and Lincoln and will exempt all life insurance from claims of creditors.

BARNES CITY, April 15 (AP)—Robert Grubb, 85, committed suicide today by hanging.

Federal Government Gets 4 Million in Beer Levies

Nation's Commerce on Upswing During First Week

NEW YORK, April 15 (AP)—The first week of 3.2 beer poured millions of dollars into the coffers of government, and enhanced the nation's commerce.

Beer production was clogged with unfilled orders.

As the kegs rolled out, the revenue rolled in.

A survey of states permitting beer sales showed the federal government in the first week collected upwards of $4,000,000 from barrel taxes and licenses.

The congestion in a few states prevented federal collectors from computing revenues.

States Get $2,000,000

The revenue to state governments was put at more than $2,000,000 by officials. However, some states allowed sales albeit they had not yet set up licensing and taxing methods.

The bulk of the week's revenue went to the municipalities.

Chicago collected $480,000 in license fees; New York, $450,000. California reported its municipalities took in upwards of $161,000; in Minnesota it was $125,000 for the cities and towns; in Washington, more than $100,000.

Labor departments were unable to tally up fast enough the thousands returned to work.

New York city brewers put upwards of 2,500 men back on jobs; Chicago, 2,000; Milwaukee, 2,500; Pittsburgh, 2,500.

10,000 Get Jobs

Elsewhere throughout the land brewers reported more than 10,000 men had been taken from the ranks of unemployed to supply the demand for the newly legalized beverage, while the estimate of those obtaining employment in other lines as a direct result of 3.2 beer ran into the tens of thousands.

Hotels and restaurant associations noted appreciable business pickups. Railroads quickly felt the increase in commerce. The Chicago & Northwestern, serving the Chicago-Milwaukee-twin cities area, said it was carrying 30 to 50 carloads of beer daily, with an increase in grain shipments also noted.

Other lines said it was difficult to

Bank Committee Head Predicts House Approval

WASHINGTON, April 15 (AP)—A prediction that the house would approve some form of currency inflation was made today by Chairman Steagall of the house banking committee.

Asserting that some method of expansion of the currency should be undertaken "to give people enough money with which to do business," the Alabama Democrat expressed hope for "some inflation at this session."

"I think there is a general feeling there ought to be an expansion of the currency," Steagall said. "I favor that. I favor some method of expansion. I hope we are going to have some inflation at this session."

"It Will Pass"

He said he did not know "whether a majority of the house favors expansion" but added that if such a proposition were presented for a vote "it will pass."

Steagall has been the proponent of several inflationary bills in congress in the last two years.

The first was the Glass-Steagall bill enacted in the Hoover administration to broaden the base of paper eligible for discount purposes at the federal reserve banks. He also sponsored a silver re-monetization bill.

Questioned as to whether the big two or three billion dollar public works program contemplated by the Roosevelt administration would be combined with an inflation proposal, Steagall said:

"I do not think so. I don't think they would put them together."

Seek Favor for Bill

Before advocating inflation at this session, the Alabamian said he would seek to have the banking committee favorably report the Lewis-Wagner $500,000,000 relief bill. Hearings are to be resumed Tuesday. Steagall said he hoped it would be reported by the "middle of next week."

The administration's two billion dollar home mortgage refinancing bill, he said, "may be reported without hearings." His committee also has pending before it a senate bill to authorize the Reconstruction Finance Corporation to purchase $100,000,000 in insurance companies' stock.

Book Chat

H. G. Wells doesn't like the way "The Bulpington of Blup" has been treated. The book is fiction, not personal philosophy, asserts Author Wells indignantly, and he wishes critics would regard it as such.

A new capitalism with "service corporations for profit" is William KixMiller's economic theory discussed in his new book, "Can Business Build a Great Age." He is president of Commerce Clearing House, Inc., of Chicago.

A newspaper account of Bernard Shaw's shipboard behavior concludes: "G.B.S., who carries his own library, does not read anything from the ship's library except encyclopedias and the works of Margaret Ayer Barnes."

Modern Interpreter

Our Times, by Mark Sullivan, Volume IV—1919-1924. Scribners, 1932. $3.75. Reviewed by TOM YOSELOFF.

On June 28, 1914, were fired shots "heard 'round the world"—the shots at Sarajevo, destined to lead the world into the most devastating slaughter humanity had ever known.

The daily press of the United States looked upon the act as another episode in the constant Balkan strife, and various interpretations were given of the effect this would have upon European diplomacy. Significant is the fact that not one editor saw any threat to the peace and safety of European nations or the United States.

For this was a period in which new energy was being directed toward the creation of undreamed of wealth; when the movement to fertile, promising western land was drawing to a close; possibilities of new luxuries and a life of untold richness were beckoning every man in the country; America lay safe and secure in the knowledge of her greatness. Into the midst of this came the news from far off Sarajevo. Little wonder that people throughout the country failed to find in it any application to them!

Versatile Interpreter

It is this period, just preceding the outbreak of the World war, that Mark Sullivan interprets in his latest volume of "Our Times" series. Mr. Sullivan is a true interpreter. He moves with equal clarity and directness from agriculture to business, politics, science, literature, art, sports, drama—are presented in relation to one another and to the age which they were playing some part in creating.

Far from the idea of war were the national concerns of that time. Much national thought centered around "the colonel," Theodore Roosevelt; Civil war in Mexico occupied attention, as did a match between Jack Johnson, Negro heavyweight champion, and Moran.

Halecyon Days

Those were the days when the suffragettes were threatening to become a national problem, and Speaker Champ Clark was predicting the ballot for women by 1917. On the very day when the Hapsburg prince was shot down, a contest was waging in a meeting of the women's States.

Unstayed by the government of Chancellor Adolf Hitler as German consul in New York, Dr. Paul Schwartz (above) announced that he accepted his dismissal as "an honor." ## Navy Court on Vacation

Adjourns to Tuesday After Ending J-3 Investigation

LAKEHURST, N. J., April 15 (AP)—Officially terminating its investigation of the loss of the blimp J-3, a naval court of inquiry adjourned today until Tuesday, when it will resume its inquiry into the destruction of the U.S.S. Akron at the Washington navy yard.

The session that concluded the study of Lakehurst phases of the two disasters was brief. Lieut. Commander J. L. Kenworthy, acting commandant of the air base here, was the only witness. His testimony preceded brief summations by the judge advocate, Lieut. Commander R. G. Penoyer and his counsel, Lieut. C. J. Maguire.

Penoyer in his summation of the J-3 investigation urged the court to remember in its deliberations the stress of circumstances that led Kenworthy to order the blimp aloft in bad weather in the hope that she might rescue Akron survivors erroneously reported as clinging to wreckage at sea.

George Saling

A NICHE in the world's Hall of Athletic Fame—long assured by his remarkable ability and consistent victories—will remain as a lasting monument to the memory of George Saling, one of the greatest 110 meter hurdlers it had ever known. A placard beside his trophies in the University of Iowa's Hall will remind future Hawkeyes of the prowess and achievements of a great predecessor. But in the memories of those who knew him, George Saling will live for having been more than an athlete—the embodiment of all that was clean and sportsmanlike.

The trail that Saling blazed across the record books of Iowa sports history is perhaps the greatest of all time. Following close in the footsteps of Charles Brookins, Chan Coulter, and Frank Cuhel, the 1932 Hawkeye captain climaxed a brilliant intercollegiate career by winning the championship in the 110 meter hurdles at last summer's Olympics, to fulfill an ambition of two years standing. As a result of his showing, Saling was named to the all-American track squad in both the low and high hurdles.

During his collegiate career, Saling placed first in 22 hurdle races, 16 of them in outdoor meets, and was anchor man on two championship relay teams. He bettered the world's record in both hurdle events, and ran the 400 meter distance in one-tenth of a second under the world's record.

At Chicago last year, he opened his drive for the Olympics by winning in the 120 high hurdles at the national intercollegiate meet. Later, at the middle west Olympic tryouts at Iowa City he bettered the world's record in the 110 meter by one-tenth of a second. At Palo Alto, while preparing for the trials of the Tenth Olympiad, he captured the national A.A.U. title in the 220 low hurdles.

Saling's name flashed through a series of track meets as he captured first places at the Notre Dame and Northwestern duals, Western Conference championships, Iowa intercollegiate meet, Kansas Relays, Drake Relays, until he led the field at the Olympic Stadium. The ovation he received when he stepped out for his Olympic prize was one of the strongest accorded to any athlete.

When he returned following the greatest victory of his athletic career, Saling entered the college of law, embarking on a new career in which he promised to achieve even greater triumphs. He died on the threshold of a new life, one that held out to him new fields to conquer as he had conquered the old.

It would be out of place to describe this 23 year old athlete as a hero for he never ascribed to heroic heights. Rather he accepted triumph as a just reward for the trial of competition.

A National Dream

INTRODUCTION of the Muscle Shoals bills in congress has caused a surprisingly small amount of editorial comment in the national press.

The nation has apparently not wholly grasped the fact that it is about to embark upon the most daring and far reaching program of government ownership and operation ever to be undertaken in this country. But that, for better or for worse, is exactly what is happening.

Of course the power industry is fully aroused and fighting. Its representatives have already insisted before the house military committee and the senate agriculture committee that the proposed expenditure in the Tennessee valley would be a waste of the taxpayers' money and that government operation can never be as efficient or as honest as private operation.

Twice before measures for the operation of Muscle Shoals have passed both houses of congress, only to be vetoed by reactionary presidents. It is not likely that private power interests will be able to block the measure this time for all their lusty opposition.

The project for the development of the Tennessee valley, although in itself gigantic, is but a small part of the program contemplated by President Roosevelt and Senator Norris. It is but the first step in the extension of government regulation, and to a large extent, ownership, of all the power business in the United States. It is the beginning of an intelligent program for the development and utilization of the enormous water resources of the continent, something that private interests have never so much as contemplated.

Even the mention of such proposals causes those who follow the god of private property and private initiative to throw up their hands in righteous horror. Sincerely anxious for the principles of individualism upon which the nation was founded, they see in the Muscle Shoals proposal an attempt to undermine the very foundation of modern American life.

But their cries for the most part fall upon deaf ears. The American people have been bled too long and too unmercifully by private initiative and individualism exemplified in the power trust.

They have seen their schools invaded by power propaganda; they have seen Insulls and Kruegers and Mitchells and Foshays fall beneath the crumbling of their rotten utility temples even as they preached of their sanctity.

They have become convinced, as they should have been long ago, that whatever graft there might be in their government is of small importance in comparison with the proved corruption of the giant utilities and holding companies.

The scheme for the operation of Muscle Shoals is second only to the project of the Soviets in its gigantic, all-inclusive extent. If carried through it will not only provide employment for thousands and reduce power rates within reason, but it will be the first important step in intelligent national planning for the conservation and development of natural resources of all kinds.

The project is so huge that it fires the imagination and arouses fears even in the most progressive. But, unlike many romantic proposals, it is entirely sound.

TODAY'S TOPICS

BY FRANK JAFFE

FOR THE SECOND TIME in three days, the U. S. senate has received a petition asking that Huey P. Long be ousted from his seat. The latest one, signed by 250 citizens of New Orleans, follows one signed by Former Governor John M. Parker the other day.

The petitions have incited Long to seek an amendment to the senate rules declaring that no petitions received by the senate containing charges against a member be published. Under present rules such documents are printed and made public property.

"If this is to be tolerated by the senate," said Huey, "then there is no reason on earth why we cannot say that Senator Jones from the state of X, is the father of 17 illegitimate children, and therefore ask that he be excluded from the senate, or that Senator Smith, from the state of Y, burned down a Catholic church and killed four nuns, and therefore ask that he be disbarred from serving in the senate."

IT TAKES A MAN like Huey to think of things like that. For a long time now there have been people in Louisiana aching to get rid of Long. That makes it all the more surprising how he has risen through every public office in the state to hold the highest place the voters could elect him to.

There is no doubt that Huey is a man of ideas and usually knows what he is talking about. But there is also little doubt that his ideas are hardly in keeping with the Roosevelt administration's program. Stubbornly opposed to anything that does not meet with his personal approval, Long has blocked many a good move on the part of his colleagues. His most famous—or infamous—blockade was the filibustering against the Glass bank reform bill because the bill called for branch banking and Louisiana hadn't gotten along so well with that type of institution.

BY NO MEANS HAS THE opposition to Hitlerism diminished, although varying news reports assert that the atrocities campaigns are letting up. In England, a thorough but as yet unorganized boycott against German goods has been under way for several weeks, spreading now to other European and Asiatic countries.

The unofficial British boycott is receiving the support of many non-Jews, including the well known biologist, J. B. S. Haldane. "I am particularly disgusted as a biologist," says Professor Haldane, "I think the prostitution of biology in the views expressed by Hitler and his colleagues about race is considerably worse than the prostitution of chemistry to produce high explosives and poison gas for war purposes. At present I am supporting this boycott for exactly the same reason that I joined the army in August, 1914, when the Germans invaded Belgium."

A new method of terrorizing Jews in Germany has been instigated by the Nazis. A London business woman just returning from Berlin recently described the "racket," copied from American gangster methods. "You take 1,000 marks to the Nazi leader of the district as a contribution to their funds. You leave it with him and dare not demand a receipt. In return, you will not be attacked for at least a period. In the case of poor Jews, they are compelled to make contributions to frequent collections made by the Nazis. The Nazis have gone collecting mad—it is always for either their funds or the unemployed—and anyone resembling a Jew who does not give is immediately subjected to violence.

Poland has demanded compensation in the form of money and restoration of belongings taken from Polish Jews. Other countries will no doubt seek through diplomatic channels to obtain the same sort of retribution for their nationals. But in the end, there is nothing to be done about the Brown Terror except to close one's eyes to the atrocities and trust to the gods for deliverance. But that is like letting a madman run amuck on the streets and barricading the doors and windows. When he has finally run himself out, the locks can be opened and the blinds raised.

There are less than 600,000 Jews in Germany. Already every one of them has felt the searing of the Nazi brand. None will escape if the Nazis are given an opportunity to carry out their full program. Boycotts do not restore life, nor do prayers establish freedom from a curse. The world has at its command one other weapon—the only effective one—that it has been called upon to employ in many other recent instances. That is the League of Nations and the myriad of treaties that it encompasses. Japan has already received the moral censure of the world—now Germany is pleading for it.

OFFERED ARMY ECONOMY PLAN

General Johnson Hagood, former teacher at the U. S. Military academy at West Point, and commander of the second line of communications in the World War, is pictured as he testified before the house committee on military affairs in connection with the reorganization of the U. S. army. The general said the war department was "top heavy" and offered a plan that would cut $50,000,000 from army expenditures. At left is Rep. Harry Ransly of Philadelphia.

STUDIO GOSSIP FILM SCANDAL SCREEN COMMENT

HOLLYWOOD, Cal.—Any reporters who swarm over the steamship Annie Johnson in search of Greta Garbo are going to be disappointed. The famous Swede was in Stockholm as late as April 5.

This is the news I get from an apparently unimpeachable source.

The same informant declares that La Garbo plans to slip out of the Swedish capital this week and may continue on to America.

Greta undoubtedly will return to Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, where, as a shy and awkward young woman, she made her first hit in "The Tempest." Her homecoming will be as triumphant as she will allow. After all these months, the Garbo name still has the same glamorous appeal to the fans.

We've heard a lot of rumors that Josef Von Sternberg will direct Greta in "Queen Christina." So far they've met with official evasions or denials.

But return Garbo will. That's certain—and it won't be on the Annie Johnson.

It's late to report the incident, but Bill Conselman hears a honey of a story about Mae West's first look at the script of "Diamond Lil" (on the screen, "She Done Him Wrong").

She read a few pages and looked up in astonishment.

She cried: "Why, the lousy bums have taken all the charm out of it!"

HOLLYWOOD PARADE
Funny, all this epidemic of rumors that Jean Harlow is married again. Last week some young actor (no one could name him) was supposed to have confessed in his cups that he was best man when the blonde star married her Mexican doctor admirer at Nogales. Yesterday the wires burned with the news that a customs man at Laredo (Tex.) was sure Jean was the bride of a fellow from Shreveport, Louisiana.

Both reports Jean denies. She told me yesterday:

"I'd hate to think I'd go all my life without being married again and having children. But there's no man now."

Ann Harding will make two more pictures at R.K.O. (They'll try to rush them through in 9 weeks.) But first there'll be a vacation. Says she: "I want to get on a small boat where there are not a lot of people and go as far as the boat will carry me." As you've probably gathered, Paramount's "International House,"

Ann is a woman with definite ideas. The other day her little daughter Jane visited the set at M-G-M and disappeared. She was discovered on top a runway with the electricians. Everybody was excited except Ann. She didn't call the child down. She said:

"Can't the child climb ladders? I did when I was a girl. I'd a lot rather run the chance of her getting a few bruises than of planting fear in her mind."

The casting of Frances Marion's "Prizefighter and the Lady" story is up in the air again. Joan Crawford isn't entirely sold on "The Dancing Lady," so the studio may switch her back to the picture with Gable. In which case, Jean Harlow may do the Anita Loos story originally called "Black Orange Blossoms" but now known as "Hold Your Man." Incidentally, Rowland Brown and Gene Fowler are to have a whack at adapting that Hollywood story for Harlow. It was called "Bomb-Shell."

I find a certain irony in the fact that when Rudy Vallee and Fay Webb had that quarrel and she started for the Coast, he was engaged in recording a song called "Thank Heaven for You." It's for me. As you've probably gathered, Paramount's "International House,"

'Hay Fever,' Noel Coward's Farce, Opens Tuesday Night

University Theater Cast Will Present Work of British Playwright

"Hay Fever," to be presented by University theater Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday at 8 p.m. in natural science auditorium, is one of Noel Coward's farce comedies.

Several farces have appeared from the pen of the young British playwright, and all of them have certain features in common: a lack of very much which might be termed "plot" and sharp, scintillating dialog.

In "Private Lives," Coward tells of two very modern and immoral young persons who discover that human nature continues to hold sway over them even when they are aware of its workings. Thus they continue to quarrel, though they determine not to—and they are happy in spite of their quarrelling.

"Sharp Dialog"

The long run of this play critics have credited to the dialog, which one writer has described as "sharp and simple, witty but at the same time naturally out of character, and so crisp that it acts itself although it gives the impression of being difficult to perform." A short passage is typical of this:

Amanda: I'm in such a rage.
Elyot: So am I.
Amanda: What are we to do?
Elyot: I don't know.
Amanda: Whose yacht is that?
Westminster's
Elyot: The Duke of Westminster's, I expect. It always is.
Amanda: I wish I were on it.
Elyot: I wish you were too.
Amanda: There is no need to be nasty.
Elyot: Yes there is, every need. I've never in my life felt a greater urge to be nasty.

Current Play in New York

Coward's current play in New York, "Design for Living," follows this pattern. The meagre plot concerns two young men and a young woman who are friends. Human jealousies, quarrels, and even marriage can not stand in the way of this unconventional friendship. But it is crisp dialog, rather than plot, which has made for a long stay on Broadway in this season of many failures in drama.

In "Hay Fever," the situation springs up when each member of a typical, well-to-do family brings a guest to the family home. From that time on, the play is a complete example of regular Noel Coward tomfoolery. The bickerings of guests and family develop into a series of "funny and quite mad inconsistencies."

Other Works

Coward has written a number of other plays, among which are: "Cavalcade," "The Vortex," "This Year of Grace," "Fallen Angels," and "Easy Virtue." His musical comedies include "Bitter Sweet."

His first connection with the stage was as an actor, and even today, he often appears in the plays which he writes. At present, he is playing with Alfred Lunt and Lynn Fontanne in the New York production of "Design for Living."

The University theater production of "Hay Fever" will be presented under the direction of Prof. Vance M. Morton, assistant director of University theater. Settings will be designed by Arnold Gillette of the theater staff.

150 Sign to Favor Scrip

Petitions favoring the issuance of stamp money in Iowa City have been signed by approximately 150 persons after being circulated for a week, according to D. W. Crum, Chamber of Commerce secretary.

The petitions are about half circulated. They are being shown to merchants, professional men, and the general public by members of the stamp committee of the merchants' bureau and the Chamber of Commerce in order to guarantee the certificates. Signers agree to accept the stamp money in payment for merchandise and services and to keep a supply of the stamps on hand.

Plans are being made to pay previously unemployed persons working on community projects with stamp money, which they can spend at various business places.

C. F. Kuehnle Injured While Aboard Train

Word was received in Iowa City yesterday of injuries received by Carl F. Kuehnle, Denison alumnus of the university, through an accident on a train between Denison and Carroll. He was taken to a hospital in Carroll, where his injuries were regarded as serious.

Mr. Kuehnle graduated from liberal arts college in 1881, and from the college of law the following year. He was appointed last year to organize the fiftieth reunion of his law class for the commencement week activities of 1932.

Taxpayers to Seek Slashes of Interest

Two resolutions looking for a reduction in the interest rates on chattel mortgages were voted yesterday afternoon at a meeting of the Johnson County Taxpayers' association yesterday afternoon.

The resolutions, one to be sent to Governor Clyde L. Herring and the other to the sitting committee of the house, ask for the "Small loan" bill to be reported out of the sitting committee for a vote.

The bill is designed to reduce the interest rate on chattel mortgages from three and a half per cent per month to two per cent.

The association also expressed itself in favor of the bill now pending action by the house which seeks to reduce the compensation of members of the board of supervisors to $900 per year for all services.

Paul Moore of West Branch, catch the war agitator and official of the Farmers' Holiday movement, addressed the meeting of about 40 farmers. He favored legislation to fix prices of farm products.

Russell Powers in Suit for Damages

Damages of $11,014.45 for injuries received in an accident Aug. 4, 1932, are asked in a petition filed in district court by Russell Powers against Russell Meintzer.

Powers claims he was seriously injured when the motorcycle he was riding collided with a car driven by Meintzer on Market street between Linn and Gilbert streets. Dutcher, Walker, and Ries are attorneys for Powers.

Two Important Posts Filled by Presidential Nomination

Administration Moves to End Patronage Allotments

WASHINGTON, April 15 (AP)—Two important posts in the national government—solicitor general of the United States and commissioner of Indian affairs—were filled today by President Roosevelt in the administration's drive to bring an early ending to its patronage worries.

The president sent to the senate the nomination of James Crawford Biggs of North Carolina to represent the government in cases before the supreme court and the name of John Collier of California to manage the nation's Indian wards.

Names Iowan

At the same time, he nominated James A. Donohoe to be federal judge for Nebraska, Clifton Mathews to be federal attorney for Arizona, and Rear Admiral Christian J. Peoples, a native of Iowa, now stationed at the Brooklyn navy yard, to be paymaster general of the navy.

In addition, he formally withdrew the nomination of Mayor James M. Curley of Boston to be ambassador to Poland. Curley had declined the appointment.

Meanwhile, the name of Guy T. Helvering, a former representative

Iowa Citizens Watch Plane

Fastest Ship in World Refuels at Local Air Field

Several hundred Iowa Citizens watched the fastest commercial plane in the world glide into the Boeing airport yesterday afternoon, gazed wonderingly at its beetle-like sides as it was refueled, and looked after it as it sped on toward Chicago.

It was the first of the new twin-engine, all metal, low-wing planes scheduled to replace the bi-motor, bi-plane type now in service, to land in Iowa City.

The plane was flown by Dick Petty, a regular pilot of the Boeing Air lines. With him was John Hodgson, United Air line pilot who is engaged in delivering several of the planes to the National Air Transport company in Chicago.

Two passengers were carried on yesterday's flight in addition to Martha Darleen, stewardess. H. N. Kleiser of Des Moines, a passenger, was enthusiastic over the plane's performance.

The plane will be delivered to the National Air Transport and will not be used on the Boeing line through here. Other planes of the same type will soon be delivered from the factory at Seattle, Wash., for service on the coast-to-coast route, however, Jack Curtis, manager of the airport said.

Sixty of the planes, said to have a top speed of 185 miles per hour, with a capacity of 19 passengers, two pilots, a stewardess, and 400 pounds of mail and baggage, are being built in the Boeing plant. Twenty have been delivered so far.

The flying schedule from the Atlantic to the Pacific coast is expected to be materially reduced by the use of the new equipment.

Wealthy Widow Dies

LONG BEACH, Cal. (AP)—The death of Mrs. Caroline F. Horne, 73, wealthy widow of a pioneer real estate developer, was caused by heart disease, Dr. Frank Webb, county surgeon, reported today.

Announce Marriage Plans

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Myrna Kennedy, film actress, and Busby Berkeley, creator of dance ensembles for motion pictures, announced today they will be married this summer.

Meet Opposition

A number of senators were known to have been opposed to the nomination of Collier, but administration supporters were confident he would be confirmed easily. Senator McCadoo (D., Cal.) told newspapermen Collier was not his candidate but he had no idea of opposing confirmation.

Secretary Ickes, who is in charge of the bureau of Indian affairs, described the nominee as "the best equipped man who has ever occupied that office."

Ickes had a great deal to do with the selection of Collier, who is executive secretary of the American Indian Defense association. While in that position he engaged in almost constant tilts with the officials handling Indian affairs, including Ray Lyman Wilbur, who was Herbert Hoover's secretary of interior.

The administration plans within a few days to start nominating postmasters. Considerable pressure has been brought to bear from house members for this action. There are approximately 2,500 vacancies.

Lois Ackerley Will Lecture on Parents

Lois Ackerley, research assistant in child welfare, will give this week's lecture in a series arranged under the auspices of the Iowa Child Welfare Research station, to be broadcast over WSUI tomorrow at 8 p.m. Her subject is "Are you a grown-up parent?"

By citing examples of infantile emotional behavior observed in parents, Miss Ackerley will illustrate what is meant by a "grown-up" parent. She will offer critical points for measuring emotional growth.

Merchants to Plan Campaign

"Clean-Up" Plans Near Completion, Says D. W. Crum

The attention of all Iowa City will be centered on the problem of making the city attractive through cleaning and painting when plans of the Merchants Bureau for a general "clean-up, paintup" campaign materialize.

Arrangements for the campaign, by which it is planned not only to improve the appearance of the city but to provide work for many of the unemployed, are nearing completion, according to D. W. Crum, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce.

Final plans will be formulated at a meeting tomorrow afternoon at the American Legion Community building.

The city administration, under Mayor Harry D. Breene, has promised its cooperation in the drive and merchants have expressed their willingness to participate.

The campaign will include the cleaning of vacant lots, rubbish heaps, and old buildings; planting of gardens and trees and decorative shrubbery; and all kinds of repairing and painting.

Forest Camps to Get 5,000

Iowa Quota Set, Plan Enrollments for This Week

WASHINGTON, April 15 (AP)—Enrollment of Iowa's recruits for the "conservation camps" will start next week, E. H. Mulock, chairman of the Iowa emergency relief committee, said tonight after conferring with leaders of the federal reforestation-unemployment relief project.

Iowa's quota is 5,000 men, Mulock said.

"The Iowa representative plans to return to Des Moines immediately and start enrolling jobless youths Wednesday if possible.

Mulock did not learn where Iowa's recruits will work. The majority, he said, will be sent to other states where more reforestation work is available.

The departments of agriculture and the interior select camp sites and determine the division of labor. Enrollment of the workers is to be handled by the Iowa emergency relief committee under the supervision of the department of labor.

Iowa recruits will go to Ft. Des Moines for two weeks "conditioning" before starting work, Mulock reported. As the army post there has facilities for only 1200 men at a time, it was planned to spread out the training over a two months period.

"It is a fine plan," said Mulock. "I learned a great deal from the conference and expect sound relief for youths discriminated against by economic conditions."

R. E. Kittling of Des Moines, secretary of the Iowa relief committee, also attended the conference.

Plan Final Rites for Mrs. Trundy at 2:30 Tomorrow

Funeral service for Mrs. Helena B. Trundy, 86, who died yesterday at the home of her son, George M. Trundy, 203 S. Madison street, will be held at 2:30 p.m. tomorrow at the Harmon funeral home with the Rev. Harry D. Henry in charge. Burial will be in Oakland cemetery.

Mrs. Trundy was born in Folkstone, England, in 1847 and came to the United States with her parents when she was four years old. She lived with her parents at Tiffin and North Liberty for a time but spent most of her life in Iowa City. Surviving are her son, five grandchildren, and five great grandchildren. Her husband died in 1888.

Stories From Iowa's Past

When Keokuk Had 20 Families and a Town Tavern.

(Editor's note: This is the first of a series of articles on Iowa history, dealing with subjects to be taken up in a program of radio broadcasts by the State Historical society, which will begin tomorrow evening, as a feature of Iowa History week, April 17-23.)

By TOM YOSELOFF

A few settlements on the Mississippi, populated by miners and ruffian characters—fur trading posts, where intrepid settlers dealt with savage Indians—an untamed country, where wild game of all kinds abounded—that was Iowa in 1833, after the Black Hawk war.

The main settlements of any importance were at Keokuk, Davenport, and Dubuque. Iowa City was not included in the first Black purchase, opened to settlers in 1833, but it was in the second purchase in 1837. The settlements were tiny villages centered about the fur trading post and located near United States forts.

Keokuk was a village of 20 families, with a post of the American Fur company and a tavern. Charles Murray described it as "the lowest and most blackguard place that I have yet visited." The population was chiefly watermen, of whom Murray said: "They are a coarse and ferocious caricature of the London barge-men, and their chief occupation seems to consist of drinking, fighting, and gambling."

No Thieving

At Dubuque Murray found the same sort of conditions. He was surprised to find that, in spite of brawls and fights and an utter disregard of law, there was no theft. He explained it thus: "So easily are money and food obtained here by labor, that it seems scarcely worth a man's while to steal. The solution is that theft is a naughty child, of which idleness is the mother and want the father."

Travellers to Ft. Armstrong, near the village of Rock Island, were impressed by beautiful gardens, which the soldiers had laid out. The regularly laid out beds of beets, carrots, onions, potatoes, and corn seemed to typify the fruitfulness and luxury of this country.

At least a dozen ferry boats plied their way across the Mississippi at regular intervals, and occasionally a steamship came up the river from St. Louis to Ft. Snelling.

Keokuk vs. Sioux

Though the conclusion of the Black Hawk war had stopped for a while the hostilities between Indians and Whites, the Indians had by no means lost their zeal for battle. In 1833, Keokuk led his warriors in a sharp fight with the Sioux Indians.

Hunters who came to the Iowa country were astonished at the abundance of game. Elk and deer were abundant on the prairies, and bear roamed in the woodlands. Signs of muskrat and otter could be seen on all streams, and one trapper saw a beaver dam in progress of construction. Buffalo were to be found 30 to 40 miles west of Red Cedar river.

Old Capitol Opened to Sunday Visitors During Afternoons

For the second time this spring, Old Capitol will be open to visitors this afternoon.

Long one of the places of interest for Iowa City visitors, Old Capitol draws as many as 145 sightseers a day on Sundays when the weather is favorable. Under the guidance of John W. Cagley, custodian of the building, they learn of its history, of its spiral staircase, and of the thousands of students who have passed through its portals during the university's history.

The building will later in the spring be kept open all day Sundays.

April 30 Set as Observance

Governor Names Day for Honoring President

DES MOINES, April 15 (AP)—Governor Herring in a proclamation today designated Sunday, April 30, as president's day.

He called upon all Iowans "to offer thanks for the wise, courageous and energetic leadership of our president and offer prayers for the preservation of his health, strength and well-being and beseech divine providence to guide his future course in the way of wisdom, right and justice."

Stating that our country is passing through one of the critical periods of its history, the governor called attention to the fact that in every great crisis in the past, men and forces have appeared to lead and direct the way to safety and to final victory.

The executive referred to Washington at prayer at Valley Forge and to Lincoln asking divine assistance and declared that the memory of these events "have become a cherished part of the traditions of the past and a pledge of our continued recognition of our dependence upon the help of Him who rules over our final destiny."

Fire Causes $300 Damage to House

Nearly $300 damage was caused early yesterday morning when defective wiring in the basement of the Earl Weidner home, Garden street and Friendly avenue, caught fire to floor joists.

Damage was confined to the basement. Firemen fought for nearly an hour to extinguish the flames.

Kidnap Gang Asks Ransom

Holds 17 Year Old Boy for $50,000 in Chicago

CHICAGO, April 15 (AP)—Jerome Factor, 17 year old son of John "Jake Barber" Factor, was reported today to have been kidnaped and held since last Wednesday for $50,000 ransom.

His father, who deserted a Chicago barber's chair to become an international stock promoter and speculator, is appealing to the U. S. supreme court from an order extraditing him to England for allegedly fleeing investors of $8,000,000. Authorities said no official report of the kidnaping had been made to them, but that it had come to them through the underworld "grapevine."

Recalling that previous attempts to kidnap the youth had been reported to them, city and federal officials began an investigation.

Efforts to communicate with Factor concerning the reported abduction were unsuccessful. A partner of Factor's attorney in his fight against extradition said he believed he was either in Washington or en route there.

The boy, a student at Northwestern university, is Factor's son by a previous marriage. His father's protracted litigation revealed that he is one of three beneficiaries of a $1,000,000 trust fund established by Factor several years ago.

James Bolan Named N.Y.C. Commissioner

NEW YORK, April 15 (AP)—One of the late Theodore Roosevelt's "pavement-pounders," James Bolan, succeeded tonight to the job which Roosevelt himself once held—police commissioner.

The 50 year old bachelor—slim and soldierly of bearing—the "perfect cop" he was once called—takes over the command of nearly 20,000 blue-coats.

He steps into an office vacant for two days while a suitable successor was being sought for Edward P. Mulrooney, who resigned during the week to head the state alcoholic beverages control board.

Back in 1896, when Police Commissioner Roosevelt was at the start of his climb to the presidency, he issued a call for alert young men to revitalize the force.

Up stepped two youthful volunteers—Mulrooney and Bolan.

Bolan then was just 23. He had come from his native city of Worcester, Mass., 10 years before.

Both were made "harness bulls" and put to "pavement pounding." In 1901 he dived into the East river and rescued two drowning men from the treacherous "hell gate" waters. For that feat he received two medals and a sergeant's rank.

The rest of his record is one of promotion after promotion. In 1927 he was made deputy chief inspector, the post he held until today.

Great Hawkeye Hurdler Climaxed Record-Breaking Campaign With Olympic Title Victory

WHEN THE WORLD ACCLAIMED GEORGE SALING

Potshots

Five Records Credited to Corydon Star

Had Average of 14.4 for Highs Last Season

ference indoor meet and then they continued their rivalry outdoors.

Saling speeded to first places in both Kansas and Drake relays, equalling the world record of 14.4 seconds in the latter. Keller defeated the Iowan in the Big Ten high hurdles, but Saling reversed the procedure in the lows. A few weeks later, the winning of the great pair was reversed, Keller running second to Saling in a world record 14.1 high hurdle race and the Old Gold star pushing the Buckeye to a world mark of 22.7 in the low barrier event.

Starts Campaign

Then he started on his drive to the Olympic title. In the sectional trials at Iowa City, a meet in which it was not necessary for him to compete because he had won at the National Collegiate, he set a world mark of 14.3 seconds for the 110 meter event and ran the 400 meter 3 foot hurdles in 52.1 seconds. In the final Olympic trials at Palo Alto, Cal., Keller bobbed up to nose him out.

In those final trials his defeat can hardly be laid to the fact that a few days before he was to run he went from Los Angeles up to San Francisco by boat, a trip which sickened him and resulted in the loss of several pounds weight. But by the time of the Olympics, Iowa's representative had recovered the form which had carried him to victories throughout the season.

Upsets Dope

Although running second to Finlay of Great Britain in a preliminary heat in which all three of those running were to qualify, Saling was still rated with Beard and Keller as the outstanding entrants. The final race, in which his perfect hurdling form found him defeating his opponents on the lightning fast track, did fool the dopsters, though, that he was victor rather than third.

Besides the hurdles, his specialty, Saling was also adept as an anchor man on both the mile and half-mile relay teams, was a fair sprinter, an event in which he participated to add speed, and was credited with practice leaps of 24 feet in the broad jump.

Second Out of Picture

The death of Saling marks the passing from the American athletic picture of another of the nation's Olympic heroes. Bill Carr of Pennsylvania, 400 meter champion, was injured in an auto accident several weeks ago and will undoubtedly never run again.

Daniel J. Ferris, secretary-treasurer of the Amateur Athletic union, revealed that Saling had accepted an invitation to join an American track and field team on a trip to Europe this summer. Ferris was shocked at word of his death and declared "he was one of our finest athletes and a great youngster personally."

Phillies Down Dodgers in Ninth

PHILADELPHIA, April 15 (AP)—One run behind in the ninth inning of a mound duel between Jim Elliott and Owen Carroll, the Phillies uncorked a thrilling finish today and defeated the Brooklyn Dodgers, 2 to 1, for their first victory of the National league campaign.

The Phils got only five hits off Carroll in eight innings. In the ninth Bartell and Klein singled, Dugas pushed them along with a sacrifice and Virgil Davis was purposefully walked. Then Hal Lee looped a double into right field and sent the winning tallies across.

Bambino Gets 1st Homer as Yankees Win

Drives in Four Runs as Champs Trim A's, by 7 to 3

NEW YORK, N. Y., April 15 (AP)—Looming larger than ever, due to an extra wrappings for protection against the chilly breeze, Babe Ruth took a toe-hold in his first turn at bat today, smashed his first home run of the season into the bleachers and propelled the Yankees to a 7-3 victory over the Philadelphia Athletics.

The noisy acclaim of more than 25,000 rooters accompanied Ruth's jaunt around the bases behind Earle Combs. The Babe's No. 1 for 1933 was also No. 653 for his big league career.

1200 Games Played Lou Gehrig, with two homers already to his credit, failed to increase his total but played game No. 1200 in the streak of consecutive performances which he hopes to stretch to a new all-time record this year.

While Connie Mack was using four pitchers in an attempt to check the champions, Big George Pipgras hurled shutout ball for seven innings. The big right hander was hit harder than his rivals but escaped trouble in all except the eighth, when singles by Fox and Johnson, followed by Finney's homer, produced the A's three runs.

Chop Away

After their three run spurge in the first, the Yankees chopped away steadily. Chapman tallied what proved the winning marker in the third, racing home from second on an infield out as he caught the A's napping. Combs' triple, followed by Sewell's single, produced another run in the fourth and Ruth capped the climax, in the fifth, by popping a single over the head of Fox with the bases full. They had been jammed on three straight walks by Leroy Mahaffey. Thereafter Jim Peterson and Bill Dietrich, recruits, held the champions hitless and scoreless.

Dollar Runs Wild, Trade Shows Uneven

Sharp Rises, Drops in Financial Market for Week End

NEW YORK, April 15 (AP)—Wild gyrations of dollar exchange provided major interest in week end financial markets today.

Stocks bobbed about irregularly and actively. However, financial gains and losses showed a rather even distribution. Demand for most leaders appeared to have held up well, especially those representing production of metals, oil and other staples.

A sweeping advance in foreign exchange terminated shortly before noon when it was learned that two licenses had been granted for gold shipments from this country, in addition to yesterday's exportation to Holland. This news brought a swift reversal in trend and some rates dropped just as precipitantly as they had risen.

"MARY FAITH"

by Beatrice Burton

COPYRIGHT, 1931, BY KING FEATURES SYNDICATE, INC.

SYNOPSIS

Mary Faith, young and comely fiancée of Kimberley Farrell, handsome blond youth, just out of law school, leaves her position as secretary to the wealthy Mark Nesbit to marry "Kim." Mary Faith receives a note from Kim's mother inviting her to dinner. Arriving late, due to Kim's delay, Mary Faith is greeted coolly by Mrs. Farrell. Suddenly there is a crash and scream from the kitchen and Kim calls to Mary Faith. Mrs. Farrell had knocked over a pot of coffee slightly burning herself. The unpleasant attitude of Kim's mother proves to Mary Faith that she does not favor the marriage. Driving home, Mary Faith realizes a mother's feelings in giving up her only son. Before leaving, Kim bluntly asks Mary Faith to postpone the marriage. The next morning Kim arrives early. He again startles Mary Faith by telling her he called on another girl, Janet, after leaving her the night before and asks Mary Faith to return his ring.

CHAPTER VII

It was half past nine when Mary Faith walked into the office that morning.

Jean Bartlett and the other stenographers looked up at her and smiled when she opened the door. Something in Jean's smile made Mary Faith turn a quick half-frightened glance at the door of her own little room. . . . Suppose the girls were giving her an engagement shower! A shower like the one they had given Miss O'Keefe last year just before she left to be married!

"I hope they haven't—Oh, I do hope they haven't," Mary Faith prayed silently.

But the second she opened the door she saw that the thing she feared would happen had happened. Her desk was covered with white packages tied up with satin ribbon and her glass flower vase was filled with long-stemmed bride's roses.

She stood gazing at them in agony for a second. Then she closed the door and went into Mr. Mark Nesbit's office without stopping to knock.

He was sitting at his desk, doing nothing. His letters lay in a neat stack before him. She saw that they had not been opened. She had always opened his letters for him.

"I'm sorry I'm late," she said, and then: "May I speak to you a moment?"

He nodded.

"Mr. Nesbit, yesterday afternoon I told you I was going to leave you at the end of the month. . . . I'd like to stay on if it's all right with you. I've changed my plans."

He glanced up at her.

"You mean that you're not going to be married in two weeks?" he asked sharply. So sharply that it did not occur to her at the time that this was anything but a business-like question.

"I'm not going to be married at all," she answered quietly. "I've broken my engagement."

"I see." He got up and stood beside the desk, his hands in his pockets. "Everything here goes on just as it usually does, then. . . . Well, that's fine, Mary Faith."

He never had called her Mary Faith before.

Everything had always been perfectly business-like and matter-of-fact between them. She had done his work and he had paid her her salary. They had always been "Miss Fenton" and "Mr. Nesbit" to each other.

"Please send Miss Bartlett in," he said as Mary Faith turned to go out of his office. "I spoke to her just now about taking your position when you left. . . . I'll tell her you're staying on. That will save you any embarrassment."

The second she opened the door, she saw that the thing she dreaded had happened—her desk was covered with packages.

In her own little room once more Mary Faith stood looking at the white tissue-paper packages on her desk.

One of them smelled of gardenia sachet powder. The heavy scent rose to her nostrils and made her think of the little bunch of gardenias, tied with silver ribbon, that Kim had sent her last Easter. Once again she could see the pale watery sunlight of Easter Sunday morning when she and Kim had walked, side by side, to church. Kim—There would be something to remind her of him always. . . .

She was picking up the white packages from her desk when the door of the room flew open and Jean Bartlett came in.

"What's this Mr. Nesbit's been telling me?" she asked, shutting the door behind her. "You're not going to leave after all?"

Mary Faith shook her head, her face white and still above the bride's roses on her desk.

"Well, what on earth—? What's happened?" asked Jean. "Aren't you going to be married?" Her black eyes were wide with curiosity.

She was one of those frank, cheerful, talkative people who have no secrets. She told everything there was to tell about herself to anyone who would listen to her. Mary Faith knew all about her love affairs, her home life, her friends, and her bank account.

And because she had no secrets of her own, Jean had no qualms about poking her nose into other people's business. But she was lovable and loyal and amusing, and she and Mary Faith had had great friends for four years.

"No, I'm not going to be married," Mary Faith told her with lips that felt stiff although they were trembling. She looked down at the packages in her hands, and when she looked up again her eyes were shining under a film of tears.

"What happened? Did Handsome change his mind?" asked Jean, who knew Kim and frankly admitted he was the best-looking man she had ever seen.

Mary Faith nodded slowly. Then

Bonds Show Slow Trade

Average Shows Gain of One-Tenth; Prices Irregular

NEW YORK, April 15 (AP)—Definite trends generally were lacking in the bond market today and prices shifted about somewhat irregularly.

Expanded activity in a few instances lifted the sales volume to $6,884,000, par value, but for the most part trading was at a minimum. The average for 60 domestic corporate loans edged up one-tenth of a point.

Liberty fourth 4-1/4's, with a turnover of 1455 bonds, were the center of interest in the federals. This issue, closing at 103, was up 17-32nds of a point following the announcement of President Roosevelt that it would not be called on Oct. 15. Liberty 3 1/2's gained 10-32nds of a point while the first 4-1/4's eased fractionally.

German obligations were again heavy, the Reich 7's losing 4 points and the 5 1/2's slipping off 7-8 of a point.

Domestic corporation bonds were fairly steady. There were a number of moderate gains recorded by secondary issues of both the utility and industrial sections. Gains and losses in the transportation group were about evenly divided.

Iowa Assembly Acts to Save 25 Million in Current Session

Opening of Final Week for Legislators Shows 45 Bills Passed for Tax Reductions

Proposals Pave Way for Direct Slashes, Cuts by Local Taxation Districts to Total Annual Saving

DES MOINES, April 15 (AP)—Legislation which may effect a savings of as much as $25,000,000 a year today appeared to be the Iowa general assembly's final reply to demands for relief from tax burdens. As the general assembly prepared for the final week of its session it had on its record the passage of about 45 of the 72 bills introduced by an interim tax reduction committee.

It had through adoption of these proposals provided for many definite reductions and paved the way for various economies by the local taxing districts which tax reductionists estimated might bring the total cut to the $25,000,000 mark.

Included in this estimate, in addition to the cuts made by the tax reduction bills, were a probable slash of $3,500,000 in biennial general appropriations, and a reduction of $1,500,000 in the salaries of state, county, and city and town officials.

Lack Final Approval

Both of these latter measures today lacked final approval and were in the hands of conference committees but it was believed that differences between the two branches of the assembly would be ironed out during the coming week.

Outstanding among the tax reduction bills approved was the Beatty-Bennett act, providing for a mandatory cut of 20 per cent in county, city and town levies from the 1930 basis, and a graduated reduction in the levies of school districts.

Tax reductionists estimated that the Beatty-Bennett bill, which was the outgrowth of an interim committee proposal for continuation of the Elliott 5 per cent reduction law, would result in an annual cut of $5,000,000.

Repeal of Levies

Ranking along with this in importance was the repeal of the mandatory secondary road levies, which now become optional. Other of the bills enacted allow taxing districts to pare their expenditures in various ways to meet demands for economy.

The tax reduction committee bills which have been adopted follow:

Making tax rates applicable to assessed instead of taxable values.

Combining two assessment books and one tax list into one duplicate record.

Making quadrennial instead of biennial realty assessments.

Requiring publication of tax levies and deleting provisions for a 5 per cent additional levy for tax shrinkage.

Abolishing the decennial state census.

Limiting the printing of various state reports.

Metering of Mail

Providing for the metering of statehouse mail.

Extending drivers' licenses for a two year period.

Requiring peace officers to file itemized expense accounts.

Making it a misdemeanor for any official to exceed appropriation.

Providing for uniformity in school records.

Eliminating certain mandatory subjects from school courses.

Providing for an audit of school districts upon the request of county superintendent or taxpayers.

Providing for tuition and transportation of pupils from one school district to another.

Permitting the transfer of children from one school district of another when a school is closed for lack of minimum attendance.

Reducing the maximum high school tuition from $12 to $10, monthly.

Reimburse Schools

Providing for reimbursement to school districts which are deprived of taxes from land owned by some other taxing subdivision.

Requiring the court to approve interstate trips of deputy sheriffs.

Giving discretionary power to excuse jurors.

Requiring the filing of a bond to cover the costs in suits for the removal of public officers.

Requiring salaried public officials to return court fees to the county.

Requiring claims for witness fees to be made within three years.

Changing the law regarding the publication of legal notices.

Amending the law governing the publication of tax sale notices and reducing the rate.

Reducing to 4 per cent the penalty to be paid in tax sale redemption.

Reduces Publication

Reducing the number of publication times for proposed constitutional amendments.

Reducing attorney fees in injunction and nuisance cases.

Permitting the clerk to waive appraisal for inheritance tax purposes in certain cases.

Making secondary road levies optional.

Restricting convention and conference trips by public officials.

Repealing the mandatory outside audit of state institutions.

Reducing the mileage of public officials to 5 cents a mile.

Prohibiting the use of public owned automobiles for private purposes.

Reducing to $40 monthly the minimum pay of teachers.

Requiring public hearings on tax budgets for rural school districts.

Printing Cuts

Reducing the number of times the bar docket shall be printed and providing for supplements.

Requiring the proceedings to boards of supervisors to be published immediately after their meetings.

Joint resolution to appoint a new legislative committee to study reduction of governmental expenses.

The senate passed a measure which would abolish the office of school treasurer, combining it with the county treasurer, but it died in the house.

Likewise the house passed a bill providing for issuance of dog, hunting and fishing licenses by the county treasurer but it failed to reach a vote in the senate.

A bill which would have reduced the pauper allowance from $2 to $1.50, weekly, was vetoed by the governor on the ground that the reduction was too drastic.

Appointee of Turner Still Holds Bench

Judge Rules Election of Utterback Invalid, Seats Claussen

CLINTON, April 15 (AP)—Judge C. C. Bradley of Le Mars today ruled that George Claussen, Clinton attorney appointed to the supreme court by Governor Dan Turner last October, is still a member of the court.

The ruling invalidates the election of Hubert Utterback of Des Moines, Democrat, who defeated Claussen in November.

Judge Bradley ruled that Claussen's appointment under the laws of Iowa obviates the necessity of the election. He held that Claussen is immediately eligible to resume his seat on the bench and is entitled to the salary. Utterback has been sitting as a member of the court, but the salary has been held under an injunction.

The vacancy to which Claussen was appointed was caused by the death of Justice E. A. Morling of Emmetsburg.

Utterback said he would appeal the case to the supreme court at once.

The decision affects the party majority on the supreme court and the seating of Claussen will give the Republicans five places on the bench to four for the Democrats.

Faculty Man Plans Three Garden Talks

Prof. J. C. Cunningham of Iowa State to Speak Tomorrow

As a part of the program to make Iowa City garden conscious Prof. J. C. Cunningham of the horticulture department of Iowa State college will deliver three general addresses on gardening tomorrow.

"Community interest in relief gardening" will be Professor Cunningham's topic when he talks at the Chamber of Commerce luncheon meeting at the American Legion Community building tomorrow noon. During the afternoon he is to discuss gardening with 4-H club leaders and at 7:30 p.m. he will speak at a community meeting at the Legion building.

Professor Cunningham is an authority on practical gardening. As a member of the extension division of Iowa State college he has been assigned the general supervision of relief gardening in Iowa. He visited Iowa City a few weeks ago when he organized the garden work here in connection with the R. F. C. relief money.

An effort is being made by persons in charge of the work to interest all Iowa City residents in the garden project, so all interested persons are being invited to attend the evening meeting.

Through money furnished by the community chest the Johnson county relief committee has leased 35 acres of land west of Iowa City for relief gardens. Because of restrictions on the use of R. F. C. money the funds obtained from the corporation could not be used to rent land for gardens. Garden seeds will be furnished through the R. F. C. and unemployed persons will do the garden work.

Pittman Asks for Year's Salary to Sen. Walsh's Widow

WASHINGTON, April 15 (AP)—Payment by the senate of $9,000 to Senora Nieves Perez Chaumont Walsh, widow of the late Montana senator, was asked today in a bill by Senator Pittman (D., Nev.), chairman of the foreign relations committee.

The custom of paying to a senator's widow a year's salary long has been in vogue among members.

Walsh was married in Cuba about a week before his sudden death while en route to Washington from Florida.

His wife was the former Senora de Truffin, widow of a reputedly wealthy Cuban sugar man.

Fishing Better as Iowa Season Opens

DES MOINES, April 15 (AP)—The opening day of the trout season in Iowa brought an announcement from the state fish and game commission that the fishing should be "better than ever before."

Officials of the department said that last year the streams and lakes in the state were stocked with a large number of adult trout, fingerlings and fry.

A limit of eight trout has been set on the catch for a single day.

Party Split May Win Decision

DES MOINES, April 15 (AP)—The membership of the supreme court which will be called upon to pass on the decision of the Clinton county court unseating Justice Hubert Utterback, Democrat of Des Moines, and seating George Claussen, Clinton attorney, will be composed of four Republicans and four Democrats.

In case the court should divide four to four, Claussen would be seated because under supreme court procedure, an even division in the court automatically affirms an appeal from the district court.

Lyon, once a vice president of the Sioux National bank, said he might return to Sioux City in the near future.
