Farmers Vote to Strike Starting May 13

Again Move to Gain Costs of Production

Will Resubmit Demands for Legislation to Congress

DES MOINES, May 4 (AP)—Against the advice of some of its leaders, the National Farmers Holiday association today voted unanimously to declare a nationwide farm strike effective May 13.

Amid cries of "strike!" during a long session of debate at the national convention, delegates swept aside objections of officers to approve vigorously the embargo resolution introduced by John A. Scott of Craryville, N. Y.

Shortly afterward, Milo Reno of Des Moines, chief guiding spirit behind the farm holiday movement since its inception, was re-elected national president. John A. Bosch of Atwater, Minn., was named vice president and Jesse D. Slicker of Oden, was elected secretary-treasurer.

Urges Postponement

President Reno had urged the convention earlier in the day to postpone action until an expected vote had been taken in congress on inclusion of the cost of production amendment to the pending farm bill. Again shortly before the strike resolution reached a vote he took the floor to declare that responsibility for postponing the strike for a 10 day period should be left in the hands of an executive committee.

The resolution containing the strike clause also called for resubmission of the organization's legislative demands made at the 1932 convention. They called for passage of the Frazier bill on refinancing of farm mortgages, the Wheeler bill for remonetization of silver, the Patman bonus bill, and taxation of gifts and incomes. A third clause in the resolution provided that the scrip plan of A. C. Townley of St. Paul be incorporated with the strike and that industrial groups be informed of the action to be taken.

In Hands of Committee

President Reno explained after the convention had adjourned that the strike situation is now in the hands of the executive committee appointed by the convention, composed of 15 presidents of state associations, whose work it will be to decide the best means of accomplishing the national association's purposes.

Speakers at today's meeting included E. E. Kennedy of Kankakee, Ill., national secretary of the Farmers Union; and Walter Singler of Shiocton, Wis., director of the Wisconsin Co-operative Milk Producers' association.

The convention agreed to support a movement to erect a memorial to Nordhal Peterson of Cambly, Minn., farm strike picket who was killed by unknown assailants Oct. 4, 1932. President Reno declared that the national committee of the association would gather funds to contribute to the memorial.

Near Unity on Aid Measure

WASHINGTON, May 4 (AP)—Agreement on all provisions of the administration farm program except the Norris-Simpson cost-of-production amendment was reached tonight by house and senate conferees after eliminating sugar beets, sugar cane, cattle and sheep from the list of basic commodities.

Five senators and five representatives made quick work of ironing out differences along a pattern conforming to the views of President Roosevelt until the production cost provision—approved by the senate but opposed by the house and Secretary Wallace—came up.

It was decided to refer this question back to each branch for final decision, with the house group prepared to make its partial report tomorrow. If the house is willing to accept the amendment, final congressional action will be a mere formality. If it decides to support Wallace, another vote on the amendment will be necessary when the senate resumes work Monday with a prospect of further delay if the senate insists on the amendment's retention.

Shipbuilder Offers Self for Hostage

HARWICHPORT, Mass., May 4 (AP)—William Lee, tall, red headed Harwichport shipbuilder, tonight told state police he would gladly give himself as hostage for the safe return of 10 year old Margaret McMath. A business associate of Neil McMath, father of the girl who was kidnaped Tuesday after being lured from her classroom, Lee made the offer to add one more means of contact with the abductors.

F.D.R. Puts Rail Plan Up to Congress

Favors Suspension of Laws Against Trusts

WASHINGTON, May 4 (AP)—President Roosevelt's emergency program for rehabilitating the railroads during a year's suspension of the anti-trust laws was laid before congress today and Democratic leaders took immediate steps to push it to enactment at the special session.

Working until 3 o'clock this morning at the White House, the president whipped into final form his 350 word message, asking congress to create a federal coordinator to work out immediate economies and permanent financial reorganization of the rail systems, repeal the recapture clause of the 1920 transportation act, and place railroad holding companies under the jurisdiction of the interstate commerce commission.

Based on Campaign

The proposal is based on the president's campaign speech made last September in Salt Lake City and is one of the most important steps of his emergency program.

Both the senate and house were attentive during the reading of his message. Immediately afterward legislation to carry out the president's recommendations was introduced by Senator Robinson, party leader, and by Chairman Rayburn, who announced hearings on the administration measure would begin before the house interstate commerce committee Monday.

Main Arteries

"The steam railways still constitute the main arteries of commerce in the United States," Mr. Roosevelt said in his message. "At this time, however, available tariff is not sufficient to utilize existing railway facilities and the supplementary facilities provided by new forms of transportation.

"Our broad problem is so to coordinate all agencies of transportation as to maintain adequate service. I am not yet ready to submit to the congress a comprehensive plan for permanent legislation."

Suggesting "three emergency steps can and should be taken at this special session," the president said that "experience gained during the balance of this year will greatly assist the government and the carriers in preparation for a more permanent and a more comprehensive national transportation policy at the regular session of the congress in 1934."

Government Moves to Catch "Hoarders"

WASHINGTON, May 4 (AP)—Cashed over the country is $702,000,000 in gold which Attorney General Cummings said today would be sought out by the government through prosecutions and possibly by publicizing the owners' names.

Describing it as a "patriotic duty" for those still hoarding gold to turn it in to the treasury in compliance with President Roosevelt's order, the attorney general indicated that action would be taken first against large violators.

The federal reserve board today announced that $39,000,000 in gold was returned to the central depositories during the week ending May 3, which included the May 1 deadline on the chief executive's order. This left $702,000,000 outstanding, with $3,435,570,000 held in federal reserve banks and $175,000,000 in the federal treasury.

Court Martial Hears Details of Mob Attack

Militia Arrests Suspects in Cherokee County Despite Protest

LE MARS, May 4 (AP)—While Judge C. C. Bradley told a military court how he was dragged from his court room and threatened with hanging by a mob of farmers last Thursday, Iowa national guardsmen moved into Cherokee county today and made arrests despite protests of County Attorney James Smith.

Walter Dunn, farmer near Struble, and Emil W. Klabe, farmer near Marcus, were the Cherokee county men arrested in connection with recent farm riots and the abduction of Judge Bradley. They were brought to the camp prison here.

Will Seek Indictment

Smith issued a statement following their arrest, declaring that if the men were taken without their consent he would seek grand jury indictments charging the guards and their officers with kidnaping.

WASHINGTON, May 4 (AP)—F. F. Faville, former chief justice of the Iowa supreme court, today said he would under no circumstances defend any man who took part in the abduction and threatened hanging of Judge C. C. Bradley at Le Mars, Ia.

The justice made the statement after being informed of reports that Clarence Darrow, the noted Chicago attorney, had entered the defense on assurance that he, Faville, would enter the defense.

He said he regarded the attack as being not only directed at the judge but at "good government and law." He would be willing, he said, to aid any farmer arrested in the case who could establish to his satisfaction that he had nothing to do with the attack but added that he had not been requested to do so.

President Charts Path of Administering Trade Agreement

WASHINGTON, May 4 (AP)—Striving by its possibilities as a test for more general application, President Roosevelt has undertaken to chart personally the path of administering the "trade agreement" provisions of the farm relief bill.

He has selected George N. Peek of Moline, Ill., as administrator, and is confident that he can swing food and textile industries into a series of commodity trade agreements to eliminate competitive factors which have driven prices downward since 1929.

Peek, a farm equipment manufacturer, is to be given a "free hand" to bring these agreements into being and to put the full power of government enforcement machinery behind them to make them effective. They will be immune from attack under the anti-trust laws.

Secretary Wallace will center his attention on the program to reduce acreage and bring domestic production down in line with consumption needs. R. G. Tugwell, assistant secretary of agriculture, will concentrate on restoring foreign markets for farm products and opening new outlets for them.

Here are two scenes in Yazoo City, Miss., typical of many in the wake of the tornado that roared through four states in the southland, taking a toll of nearly 100 lives. Charges Against Driver Dropped ROCKWELL CITY, May 4 (AP)—Manslaughter charges against Lon H. Gewecke of Chicago in connection with the hit and run killing of Vern and Madonia Nagel were dismissed today in justice court.

The court ruled that the state's testimony was not sufficient to connect Gewecke with the case. The Nagel children were killed while on their way to school.

U. S. Doubles Labor on June Money Talks

WASHINGTON, May 4 (AP)—American efforts to prepare the way for genuine contributions to world business recovery at the London economic conference next month were redoubled tonight in the face of reports from abroad which accentuated the difficulties involved.

Earnest conversations with Italian and Argentine envoys invited here by the president were pursued at the state department and the White House while the cables were kept busy with official messages to London, where Norman H. Davis, ambassador-at-large, is working for agreement of European nations to an armistice on tariff wall boosting between now and the conference opening June 12.

Undersecretary Phillips of the state department said France, in accepting, had made three reservations, reserving the right to raise its tariffs to meet depreciation of currencies, specifying that the truce shall not apply to tariff measures now before its parliament and stating that its consent was conditional on acceptance of the proposal by the principal powers.

Later word that Prime Minister MacDonald in the house of commons had announced Britain's conditional acceptance was noted with some satisfaction at the state department, where the British "safeguards" were said to be similar to the French reservations.

Italian support of the truce was looked for in the light of statements by Guido Jung, Mussolini's finance minister, who now is engaged in conversations here with the president and secretary of state. He emphasized his chief's desire for lowered trade barriers.

Other developments which drew the serious attention of American officials included the reaction in some private circles abroad to the government's refusal to pay the interest on its bonds in gold to foreign holders. Officials noted without comment the increase in the British fund for stabilizing the pound.

Britain Asks for "Safeguard"

LONDON, May 4 (AP)—The first official expression of Great Britain's attitude toward the American proposal for a tariff truce was voiced by Prime Minister MacDonald today when he informed the house of commons that Britain was asking for special "safeguards."

Iowa will be the first state in the middle west and the third in the union to be equipped with a police broadcasting system.

Representatives From Iowa City Named Excellent

Fortune smiled upon 75 participants in the 21 events with which the eighth annual state music festival marched through its second day at four centers yesterday. Twenty-six of them were especially blessed, meriting superior awards. The other 49 were rated excellent, and a large number of others drew ratings of good.

Iowa City representatives in two contests were rated excellent, and in the only other event in which the local school took part its representative was rated good. Howard Van Doren, trombone soloist and Rita Sedlack, bassoon soloist, were given excellent ratings. In the harp solo event Marian Whinery received the rating of good.

Enters Final Stages

Seventeen events in four centers today will take the festival into its final stages. From 8 o'clock this morning until 10 o'clock tonight the high school musicians will carry on in quest of fame and reputation among the home town folks. The university orchestra of 75 pieces, conducted by Prof. Frank Estes Kendrie, will offer the second of the festival's special features in a concert at 9 o'clock this evening in the main lounge of Iowa Union.

Program

The program of the concert is as follows: Symphony No. 2 (first and third movements) Brahms Overture to "Tannhauser" Wagner Superintendent W. Dean McKee, Shenandoah, president of the Iowa High School Music association, will present certificates of award to superior and excellent participants following the concert.

3.2 Beer Becomes Legal in Delaware

WILMINGTON, Del., May 4 (AP)—Beer trucks rolled into Wilmington today, bringing the first 3.2 brew to be sold legally in Delaware since prohibition.

The beer bill became effective today. Manufacture and sale is restricted to Wilmington, because the rest of the state is dry under local action taken before national prohibition was enacted.

Will Open Fair

WASHINGTON (AP)—Keeping a promise to the late Anton Cermak, President Roosevelt today formally accepted an invitation to open the world's fair in Chicago on May 27.

Twenty-Six Contestants Win Superior Ratings in 21 Events Taking Place Here Yesterday

VARIATIONS on a THEME

By EDMUND J. LINEHAN

One of the toughest jobs involved in handling the music festival, in the opinion of Bruce Mahan, is that of Mrs. Carol Beals and Mrs. Pearl Broxam. Their duties include, among other things, the ironing out of baffling difficulties, making wrongs right, etc. Thus far their banner is still nailed to the mast. Office hours? 7 a.m. to 12 p.m.

Directed by Scout Executive Glenn Fordyce, local Boy Scouts are bearing messages between centers, directing visitors to their quarters, and generally managing to do their good turns daily. The Y.M.C.A., under the direction of Kenneth L. Braun, is maintaining an information desk at festival headquarters.

The lost and found department at headquarters is batting 1,000 so far. A gentleman's vest was lost, found, and returned.

Creston's class A girls' glee club put on a fine performance of glee yesterday afternoon when the word "superior" was posted opposite their name. They squealed in delight, leaped up and down, and congratulated one another all around. Their director, Mary Frances Gregg, said they rehearsed just as enthusiastically.

The festival authorities—at least two of them—are wondering where the white tags with the word "information" in black letters printed on them are coming from. Three high school gigolos wearing their passed headquarters desk last night. Well—there are ways and ways of getting acquainted.

Then there's the story of the little girl from Moorhead who was lost last night. That is, she was all right, but Dean Paul C. Packer's house was lost. Imagine the scramble when somebody at headquarters issued a general call for someone to take somebody else's car and escort the fair maiden. All the boys in the union volunteered. Who was the lucky man? You'll never guess . . .

Burt Kuschan of North high, Des Moines, who rated superior in the clarinet solo Wednesday night, was a proud lad last night. He broadcast over WSUI, playing a composition written by his father, and his mother accompanied him.

You've got to hand it to these Sioux Center boys and girls. They had to borrow a truck to get here, and had to borrow also some lumber for its sides. But they got here, and last night the boys' glee club rated "superior."

Seen and heard at headquarters: The two boys bouncing big rubber balls and the girl carrying a large rubber cat around the lobby . . . the wee lad with the piping voice who achieved such surprising results on the big ba—ss tu-u-u-baa . . . the shout that went up when Roosevelt of Des Moines got a superior rating . . . the answering cry that arose—"Podunk won again!" . . . the intricacies of the group rating plan as simplified by a couple of girls—"Excellent means second" . . . the superior contestants dancing in the women's lounge while waiting for the photographer . . . the tin horns being sold as festival souvenirs in stores along Clinton street . . .

Somebody with a strained sense of humor gave Coralville first place in class AA orchestra on the scoreboard. Inquiry revealed no such entry however.

The casualty list has been held down to two persons. Mark Nissen, driver of the truck which bore the instruments for the Vinton School for the Blind, was cut about the head and hands when the machine overturned near Cedar Rapids. The other injured party was a girl, billeted at the women's gymnasium, who sprained her ankle. But still the show goes on.

AUSTIN, Tex., (AP)—The Texas legislature today passed a bill setting up machinery for submission of the question of repeal of the eighteenth amendment to the voters Aug. 26.

Plans for Annual Orchestis Drama, May 13, Revealed

Plans for the annual dance drama presentation May 13, by Orchestis, dancing society, were announced yesterday by Janet Cumming, instructor in physical education.

The dance drama has been given each spring since 1926, being given then as an out-of-door pageant. For the last five years it has been produced as a concert recital, in natural science auditorium, in conjunction with celebration of Mother's day at the University of Iowa.

"Some of the pieces to be presented in this program have been in slow evolution since October," said Miss Cumming. "Each year the group giving the drama changes in personnel, and original ideas are evolved and put into practice. Interpretive dancing, as an art activity, is emotional self-expression through rhythmical bodily movements which find expression in the drama."

Miss Cumming has been in charge of the programs for the last three years.

How to have a sunny personality

Isn't it a fact that your college friends who are happy and cheerful are those who enjoy good health?

Poor health is mirrored in your manner to other people. Too often, lack of personality can be traced to common constipation. It may sap your vitality and enthusiasm.

Just eat two spoonfuls daily of Kellogg's ALL-BRAN. This delicious cereal promotes regular elimination. ALL-BRAN supplies "bulk," vitamin B and iron. Ask that it be served at your fraternity house or campus restaurant.

The most popular ready-to-eat cereals served in the dining-rooms of American colleges, eating clubs and fraternities are made by Kellogg in Battle Creek. They include Kellogg's Corn Flakes, PEP Bran Flakes, Rice Krispies, Wheat Krimbles, and Kellogg's WHOLE WHEAT Biscuit. Also Kaffee Hag Coffee—real coffee that lets you sleep.

Museum Contains Extinct Specimen

The three specimens of the heath hen in the university museum represent an extinct American bird, according to information received recently by Homer R. Dill, director of the museum.

The only remaining heath hen known, which lived in Martha's Vineyard, has disappeared, and eastern ornithologists believe that it is dead. A careful search of the island has revealed no trace of it. The specimens in the museum came to the university about 15 years ago. Other extinct species of which the museum has specimens are the passenger, the great auk, Labrador duck, and Eskimo curlew.

Letter to the Editor

Robert N. Carson Protests City's Continuation of Center Parking Plan

To the editor of The Daily Iowan: The center parking of automobiles in the heart of the business streets of Iowa City, has been re-established and considerable money expended for sectional zoning.

Recently a ballot was taken, extending over a period of but two days to get the opinion of the public regarding this parking plan. The results of this ballot, strange to say, has never been announced, although much appeared in the news, papers, including blank ballots, prior to the balloting. The public therefore, may be interested to learn that 68 votes were counted to discontinue the center parking while but 48 favored it.

The plan for center parking in Iowa City, it is said, was promoted about two years ago, by a merchant who moved here from a small neighboring town. The former administration of Iowa City adopted the plan after considerable protest of citizens, who operate automobiles as well as do the merchants favoring the plan.

In the open days, a town without progressive ideas and planning was known as "a one-horse town." This slogan may now be changed to "a one-cylinder town." In any event, Iowa City appears to be satisfied to be classed as "a one-cylinder town."

There are many things to be said in favor of the center parking, inasmuch as the writer does not wish to appear to be too biased. The plan affords room for two or three more cars in each block, over the diagonal parking. Many business and professional men and clerks, who object to walking a few blocks, are benefitted and their customers have more time to do so. I am making this statement based upon what the shoppers have said. Another thing in its favor, it permits people to jeopardize their safety, including children, when walking to and from the center of the street. If they are not struck by moving traffic in the side lanes, it gives them a chance to tell about their narrow escape. Furthermore, fenders and bumpers of parked cars have a chance to get jammed or broken in the center zone, likewise those of moving traffic. It makes business for the "fix-it" repair shops. Then too, cars often coast backward, unoccupied, to the curb and on to the sidewalk if not into a plate glass window. Sometimes to block the single traffic lane. Sometimes to extend a few feet to the rear and narrow this lane. The plan also slows down traffic and that is to be desired at peak traffic hours. More so on big days, when it plugs traffic entirely, much to the amusement of visiting guests and unfavorable comment by them of our "ideal" plan. Some merchants, are said to be a trifle selfish, when they maintain that moving traffic over the single side lanes, window-shop from their cars. This detraction adds to the safety of people walking and from the curb. Most drivers are capable of watching in all directions, the three-ring circus type. The 10 minute limit parking at curb, is valuable. It gives the shoppers an opportunity to buy chewing gum, a paper of pins, cigars, etc., if they can get prompt service in the store.

Should a traffic survey of Iowa City be made by the Erskine Bureau or like traffic experts, in fact semi-experts, the first move would be to toss into the discard, the much cherished, center parking. However, dealing with this question, it appears Iowa City's minority appears to have taken precedent over the majority, and why?

In conclusion, Iowa City purchased a fine fire truck. It failed to plan in advance, a suitable place to house it. At least, of sufficient size. The general public who are patrons of the post office are denied the privilege of stopping at the west entrance of the building at the curb line, although Uncle Sam constructed a broad sidewalk for that very, much appreciated, convenience. Also placed a mailing box at the curb. The inadequate housing provisions for this fire truck, requires hundreds of people daily to refrain from stopping, as above, because the truck needs the space in the street when answering an alarm of fire. And why?

(Signed) Robt. N. Carson, Former member, A.A.A. National Good Roads Board.

Entertaining Owl Attracts Crowds to Clinton Street

Entertaining a group and startling individuals by turns, a large barred owl is spending his evenings in the elms around Davenport and Clinton streets. The thrill of seeing an owl has attracted an audience on several evenings lately but after darkness the feathered entertainer changes his role to become the villain and his hoos frighten many Currier residents and neighbors into rapid flight. Several families of barred owls are nesting in the city park, according to local ornithologists. These birds kill occasional chickens and song birds, but they also destroy rodents.

New Ratings

FROM THE POINT of view of educational value, the new system of rating, used in the music festival for the first time this year, is a step in the right direction.

The plan provides for grouping the participants, both in solo and group events, into four classes—superior, excellent, good, and average or below. Contestants will no longer be ranked first, second, third, and so forth.

The rating system is somewhat in the nature of a compromise, according to Prof. Charles B. Righter, director of festival competition. Music, explains Professor Righter, is not an exact science, but an art. It is almost impossible for a judge to rank contestants on a grading plan, such as was formerly used.

From many music supervisors throughout the state came requests to eliminate entirely the competitive element from the annual music festivals. To satisfy these persons, as well as those who believe that it would be fatal to remove the competitive spirit, the new plan was devised.

The incentive of competition is still retained in a modified degree, and the sting of defeat has been made easier for lower ranking contestants.

Even the most ardent proponents of the idea recognize that it is not without its flaws. To many the indefiniteness of the ratings and the possibility of all the participants ranking in the lowest groups will be drawbacks. Difficulties may be encountered in the matter of selecting those eligible to compete in national contests.

But it must be remembered that the plan is in an experimental state; its use over several years will show the way to modifications and changes; it may prove to be the solution to many of the difficulties of judging such contests.

Safety First

BRIGHT DAYS SEND bright roadsters spinning along highways. Carefree weather, this—with soft winds and green growing things that make joy riders sniff as they speed by. So many things to distract a driver's attention.

But bright days also bring pedestrians, strollers. Right now they are bringing boys and girls to Iowa City for a gala spring music festival. Arm in arm they wander across the campus, down the streets, eyeing university buildings, students, "the sights" of the town.

All of which suggests precautions to both automobile and Shanks-horses sightseers. There are rights accorded to each—to protect the lives and safety of both.

A few simple rules, still ringing in our ears, perhaps, since grammar school days, are suggested by the National Council on Street and Highway Safety to define driver and pedestrian rights:

- For pedestrians—
- 1) The pedestrian has the right-of-way only at crosswalks at the end of a block, or in marked lanes.
- 2) When walking along a roadway at night, pedestrians should keep to the extreme left side.
- 3) Pedestrians should not jaywalk.
- For Drivers—
- 1) When making right-hand turns, approach the point of turning on the right-hand side of the street.
- 2) When making left-hand turns, approach corner next to the center of the roadway.
- 3) Sound horn before emerging from alleys or private driveways.
- 4) Come to full stop before entering arterial highway.
- 5) Drivers must give pedestrians the right of way at corner crossings or marked lanes.
- 6) Left-hand turn may be made only on green "go" signal.
- 7) Signal with arm out left side of car before stopping, starting, or turning.
- 8) A vehicle which has entered an intersection has the right of way.
- 9) Slow down at corners.

An Educator Prescribes

THE TROUBLE with colleges these days isn't flaming youth and cocktail parties; it's too many students, says President H. M. Gage of Coe college. What colleges need is a system of "birth control" to check the plethora of men and women who come to college for no reason in particular.

Something drastic ought to be done, he asserted to presidents, deans, and business managers of midwestern colleges assembled in conference this week at Chicago. "It is difficult as well as imprudent to drum up business deliberately for the purpose of supporting a college. Students should come of their own volition."

The educational solvency of American schools, their ability to fulfill all obligations to students-in-earnest depends upon a reduction of their numbers, President Gage insisted.

And he cited business enterprise. College is like the banking field. It must subsist on a volume of business that has a direct relation to the wealth, population, and business activity of a community. When superfluity of students occurs, measures to check the over-supply are as necessary as federal government action is against the founding of supernumerary banks.

President Gage speaks from the somewhat lofty security of the educator, of the intellectual aristocrat. His proviso, excluding the unintellectual from higher education, is a bit hard on the masses. To deprive individuals of the opportunity to get an education simply because they belong, intellectually, to the masses lives up to the American ideal of democracy about as well as capitalist business.

If Educator Gage seeks exclusiveness and narrow selection in his cultural contacts, possibly he should work to establish a restricted few "universities for the 400," catering solely to self-acknowledged intelligentsia.

But these should not be all. Culture—impossible as it may seem to President Gage—is not wholly lost on the masses. The dumbest of us soaks up something at college; smatterings of culture stick. And it probably enriches our lives. At least we're happier in our small knowledge than if we were denied the chance to get that knowledge.

Confusing Transition

MR. ROOSEVELT and his advisers say they know what the results of the inflation program will be. Wall street and La Salle street speculators are admitting they don't know, but that they would like to.

Witness, for example, the antics of Wednesday's market: The dollar advanced in terms of European gold currencies; wheat made little showing over final prices of the day before; silver futures dropped, as did oil and rail issues; highest grade bonds, which have been declining in expectation of reduced dollar purchasing power, improved.

On the other hand: U. S. government issues, as if in expectation of heavy buying by the federal reserve system, improved; copper and rubber shares showed continued improvement along with corn and oats.

In some instances, particularly in the case of the dollar, gains may be traced to covering by shorts, but in the main, hesitant confusion seems to be outstanding.

All of which brings up the question, where is inflation to lead? It will be well if the question is answered soon.

The people are in favor of, and will support any measure which the president at this time sees fit to propose. Business and credit, however, no matter how willing the spirit, cannot for long successfully withstand uncertainty. The basis of trade is not so important, as is the stability of that basis. There must be a standard of comparison.

At present the nation is in the midst of a transition from one stable basis to another. And for the continued recovery of business it is necessary that the transition be as short as possible.

Something New in Business

"HOW WOULD you like to have your term paper handed to you complete?" A mimeographed sheet, headed in that fashion, reached the officers of Iowa fraternities yesterday, with a request that the advertising matter be read in chapter meetings and posted on house bulletin boards.

A complete research staff, all college graduates, with offices in an eastern state, offers its facilities to the struggling student in getting out long compositions, at nominal prices. Flat rates are charged for "full," well-worded papers, up to 2,000 words; beyond that, the cost increases according to volume of work done.

The staff members of this new business are versatile, apparently, and are well equipped with sources of information for their researches, since there is no limit to subjects upon which compositions may be based.

The professional theme writer is not a new species, it will be granted; but this seems to be the first case on record in which such a staff has been brought together to make a more or less national campaign, quietly advertised.

There isn't much that can be done about it. If a student hires his work done, he can do it locally as well as by seeking out a research staff such as this one. The chances are small that use of a "professional" composition could ever be detected unless qualities of work might be drawn into a comparison.

There is little enough sense of honor, or whatever it takes, on the part of students in general, as far as using something which will be an advantage to them in getting a good grade average. Looks like some bright young fellow has struck a good idea for getting on in the world. Commendation is due for his business acumen, if not for his conscience.

Ought Not to Escape

(From the Baltimore Sun)

While the urge for economy is taking hold in Congress, the need of pruning the Congressional Record should not be overlooked.

We are not among those who look upon this publication as waste of money. It serves an excellent purpose in giving the public opportunity to obtain much valuable information that would otherwise be exceedingly difficult to secure. But there is gross extravagance practiced in granting permission to print speeches that are not delivered. For example, in the debate on the subject of curtailing the Record, a member cited the case of a two-minute speech in the House which appeared in print later and covered twenty-seven pages. And it is no secret that "speeches," neither delivered nor written by members, frequently are given extensive space in the Record.

It costs $1,000,000 a year to print and circulate the publication, an expenditure which would not, perhaps, be subject to criticism if it were not that presentation of the details of Congressional procedure could be made more serviceable by sensible editing and by stricter limitation on leave to print.

BEHIND THE SCENES - IN HOLLYWOOD -

By HARRISON CARROLL
FILM SCANDAL
SCREEN COMMENT

HOLLYWOOD—They seem to go for Robert E. Sherwood's plays at Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer. Right on the heels of finishing "Reunion in Vienna," they have bought the rights to "The Road to Rome," that romantic drama in which Jane Cowl came west a few seasons back. No cast or director is spoken of yet for the new purchase but the two leading characters open up a pleasant vista of guesses.

"The story of 'The Road to Rome,' you'll recall, tells of Hannibal's historic hesitation the night before he was to sack the Imperial City and deals with the Grecian wife of a Roman senator, whose visit to the tent of the conqueror changed the map of the world.

What troubles the stars here! Just after Marie Dressler got her missing police pup back from the officer who found it, Kay Francis phoned the studio cops her dog was missing. It was found mysteriously locked in Norma Shearer's dressing room. Then Louise Clouser Hale notified the dog-hunters her new pet, a guaranteed Scotch Terrier, was lost. But Louise kept her head-months' trial. The only time he got

"I hope it stays away until it is house-broken," she said. "I found a flaw in the guarantee!"

That auto race of Gary Cooper's comes off after all, only it is to be no race against sister Lilian Harvey or a Marx brother, but against Father Time. On May 21, Gary will wheel his big 8-cylinder job out on the Murco Dry lake in the Mojave desert and try to lower the speed record for the stock type of car he is driving.

High Schools to Take Tests

Fifth Annual Academic Contest Will Take Place Tuesday

Tests for the fifth annual Iowa academic contest sponsored by the college of education will be given next Tuesday in 260 high schools of Iowa, Illinois, Minnesota, Missouri, North Dakota, and Wisconsin.

Begun as a program for measuring the achievement of the high schools of the state, the contest has also been instrumental in encouraging better scholarship and improvements in high school instruction. Schools from outside the state have recently entered into its activities.

It is a competition of entire high schools rather than of individual pupils, and the schools are therefore classified into four groups: class A, enrollment above 400; class B, 126-400 inclusive; class C, 66-125 inclusive; and class D, 65 and below.

Approximately 130,000 pupils will be tested in 18 different subjects: 10,800 in algebra; 8,500 in general science; 3,300 in first year Latin; 11,700 in English correctness; 9,300 in plane geometry; 2,200 in second year Latin; 4,600 in biology; 10,800 in English correctness; 7,200 in world history; 8,100 in American history; 5,900 in American literature; 9,500 in English correctness; 11; 5,600 in physics; 3,000 in economics; 5,500 in American government; 5,500 in English literature; 8,100 in English correctness; 12; and 6,400 in English correctness 7 and 8.

Summer Geology Students to Make Two Field Trips

Geological field trips to Wisconsin and the Black Hills region of South Dakota again have been scheduled as University of Iowa summer session courses.

Prof. Arthur C. Crowbridge will conduct students on a month's trip through regions of south central Wisconsin, while Prof. Joseph J. Runner will lead the Black Hills jaunt.

Both of the courses will be given during the first term of summer session, between June 12 and July 20, and Professor Runner will guide another party in the Black Hills for four weeks of the second term.

Class Programs Change From Tiny Card to Volume

When the class of 1865 proceeded to its Commencement exercises, a little card, three and one-half by five and one-half inches, contained the program of the day. When the class of 1932 received its degrees that little card had grown to a book of 32 pages.

Prof. Frederic G. Higbee, director of the alumni service, recently received one of these programs of 1865. A fancy border encircled the events of the day which were to begin June 28 at "2 1-2 p.m."

Following a prayer and music the "degree of A.B." was awarded to candidates, and Nellie A. Moore of East Dover, Vt., read an essay on "Work and win."

A second essay on "Life mysteries," by Nettie M. Hart of Iowa City, followed the awarding of the "degree of A.M." Music, the university address by the Rev. J. T. Robert, conferring of degrees, music, and benediction completed the program of the day.

The card closed with the terse notice that the "Fall term will open Thursday, Sept. 14."

Ripley Explanations

EXPLANATION OF YESTERDAY'S CARTOON

A cat eyed emperor, Emperor Tiberius is described as a nocturnal, who could see well in the dark. The ancients usually confused the terms of Nyctalopia, (night blindness) with Hemeralopia (day blindness). Tiberius was in reality a hemeralops, one whose condition enables him to see in the dark, while the vision is impaired in daylight.

The mystic maze: The Trojeborg Maze near the ancient town of Visby, Gotland, is situated between Gallows mountain and the sea, and is one of many similar mazes occurring throughout the Scandinavian countries, where they were formerly used in connection with religious dances incidental to sun worship.

The Visby Trojeborg about 60 feet in diameter, is made of stones about a foot high. Local legend credits the construction to a princess imprisoned in the nearby Cave of the Robbers. The legend bears the earmarks of solar worship.

Three Judges Bestow Praise on New Group Rating Plan, Youthful Musicians' Talent, Organization

The talent of the youthful musicians, the organization of the festival, and the new group rating plan were praised yesterday by three of the judges who were asked for their impressions of the affair. All were enthusiastic about the Iowa festival, expressing belief that it ranks among the best of all state contests throughout the country.

Albert R. Gish, bandmaster at Austin high school, Chicago, Ill., who led the Senn high school band to national championships in 1929 and 1930, termed the festival the finest he has ever seen. He has judged contests in various states for the last eight years, but never, he declared, has he witnessed a better one.

"The group rating plan is easily an advance over the old ranking system," Mr. Gish said. "It gives more students an opportunity to take part, and makes for a fairer method of judging."

J. W. Beattie, professor of music education at Northwestern university, called the present festival the "best organized of all state contests" he has seen. The preliminary ary sub-district and district contests also met with his approval. "Thus," he pointed out, "the students have their work criticized by three sets of judges, and should profit by the results."

Speaking favorably of the group rating plan, Mr. Beattie held that the old ranking system was "too risky."

"In a contest just concluded," he said, "I rated two participants superior. On a percentage basis one had a very slight edge over the other. Under the ranking plan one of them would have to be given first place."

"Amazed" David Mattern, conductor of the University of Michigan symphony orchestra, was "amazed" at the wealth of talent displayed at the festival.

"I am a native Iowan," he said smiling, "and I'm proud of the old state."

Speaking of judging, Mr. Mattern said, "The group rating plan is a great relief to judges. Sensitive young musicians are often heart-broken when they do not win, and the margin between first and second places is often so small as to make a decision either way a doubtful affair."

Economic Delegate

Although he previously declined appointment as U. S. ambassador to Germany, James M. Cox, Democratic nominee for president in 1920, is said to have accepted President Roosevelt's invitation to be a delegate to the world economic conference, to be held in London in June. It is also reported that the president, himself, may attend at least one of the London meetings.

Iowa Child Welfare Station Conducts 92 Research Studies

Probing into 92 problems in child welfare and parent education now are under way in the Iowa Child Welfare Research station at the University of Iowa.

Prof. George D. Stoddard, director of the station, said that the greatest number of studies, 41, is being made in child psychology. These include mental and motor development, mental hygiene, and social, scientific, and personality development.

Anthropometry and physical growth researches total 25, the director reported. Others are under way in pre-school education, nutrition, and parent education.

The work is being done to fulfill requirements for advanced degrees. Professor Stoddard's report shows that since the establishment of the station in 1917, 72 advanced degrees have been granted, more than half of which were master of arts awards.

University of Iowa Professors Publish Sociology Textbook

Written by Edward B. Reuter and Clyde W. Hart, University of Iowa professors, a textbook, "Introduction to Sociology" will come from the press this month.

The new book explains, rather than merely describes, the phenomena with which it deals, emphasizing general processes rather than factual details.

Newer standpoints, as far as these have achieved any degree of standardization, are incorporated, and economic and other related material is presented only when necessary.

Each chapter is provided with study questions, problems and exercises, theme topics, assignment for class reports, and references for supplementary reading.

WSUI to Broadcast First Sight-Sound Lecture on Botany

William A. Anderson, instructor in botany, will speak on "Identifying trees" in a sight-sound lecture over stations WSUI and W9XK at 7:10 this evening.

As he talks, Mr. Anderson will have before him a leaf of the particular tree which he is discussing. This is thought to be the first sight-sound lecture on botany ever given. It is hoped that it may be the beginning of a short course in botany next year, Prof. E. B. Kurtz, director of the television station, said.

A number from the speech department under the direction of Prof. H. Clay Harshbarger will conclude the 20 or 30 minute weekly program.

Visiting high school students may observe the broadcasting of the program in the electrical engineering studio, Professor Kurtz said.

Letters from Davenport, Keota, Walcott, Cedar Rapids, and other parts of the state have reported reception of the programs, he declared.

Dan Turner Denies Candidacy for Office

CORNING, May 4 (AP)—Former Gov. Dan Turner today said that he had not made any statement regarding his candidacy for any office.

"I have no plans announced or unannounced for any political office," he said. "I have found plenty to do looking after my affairs here with low farm prices and high taxes."

Friends of Turner, reported in dispatches from Atlantic yesterday, said that the former governor might be a candidate for some office.

LINCOLN, Neb., (AP)—The Nebraska house balked today at a compromise on state appropriations but the conference committee has a new report ready to face the two houses tomorrow morning.

DERBY day is practically here, and the boys either all have their money bet, or know where they would put it if they had any. It will be the fifty-ninth running of the event, and interest appears to be as high as ever. Favorites have been named, scratched, and dropped back into the pack during the last few weeks. Ladysman, an early winter favorite, is still the choice of many experts, but Charley O. has been mentioned a lot of late.

In looking over the entry list, one wonders what they will do for names after a few more years. There will have to be some duplications before long. Among those entered this year were Beefsteak, Caesar's Ghost, Uncle Donald, Friend Charley, Jessie Dear and Broad Bill. Cardinal Newman is also listed. All together, there were 118 horses entered in the race—three more than last year.

AND still the Chicago Cubs lose ball games. Some way, the Bruins just can't seem to get started. Not only has the team failed to hit, but Charlie Grimm's club just doesn't seem to have the necessary "fire" to win games. Yesterday, in losing a double-header to the Giants, the Cubs lost through the failure to hit the offerings of Freddy Fitzsimmons, and dropped the second by committing four errors.

If the weather is at all decent, Iowa officials are expecting good crowds for the baseball games with Iowa State here today and tomorrow. Today's game will mark the renewal of athletic relations in major sports for the two schools after a break of 13 years. Fans of both schools hail the return of competition between the two as a great move. Lively rivalry is the prospect.

ATHLETES and followers of both institutions have been anxiously awaiting the move by officials to get the teams together. It will pay, and in more ways than one. Iowa fans may let the Iowa State team know, while it is here, just how glad they are to see the Cyclones and Hawkeyes back together. Pledging applause, whenever it is deserved will do that. Iowa State fans have been most courteous in that way when Iowa teams have appeared at Ames during the last few years. Let's show them a little of the same.

Completion of First Outdoor Telegraphic Dual Set for Today

Freshman track men seem to be getting the best of the varsity in their duel, held in connection with the Iowa-Chicago-Wisconsin freshman telegraphic meet now in progress at old Iowa field. With some of the events held over until today because of adverse weather conditions, the frosh are beating the varsity in most of the events held.

The greenclads have put out some good performances which although results of the telegraphic meet will not be known for some time, should bring in plenty of points.

Playoffs This Week to Prepare for Title Competition

A four way tie is on the books for the title of section one of the interfraternity kiltball league with Theta Tau, Delta Sigma Pi, Phi Alpha Delta, and Phi Beta Delta still in the battle for the honors. The champs will emerge from play-off games between the winner of the first two and the winner of the latter pair over the week end.

The slated engagement between Beta Theta Pi and Sigma Nu wasn't played yesterday and has been set for tomorrow at 1 p.m. The winner of this battle meets Delta Upsilon for the title of section four. Pi Kappa Alpha and Alpha Tau Omega are already crowned champs of sections three and two, respectively. All of these playoffs must be completed by Monday night. The title round of the league will get started next week.

Teams that have entered horse-shoe include: Phi Beta Delta, Sigma Nu, Delta Tau Delta, Acacia, Delta Sigma Delta, and Phi Kappa Sigma. Those in the hard baseball league are Phi Alpha Delta, Kappa Sigma, Phi Chi, Sigma Nu, and Delta Tau Delta. Play is to begin in these two sports next week also.

Faces Only 27; Berger Singles, Goes Out Stealing

BOSTON, May 4 (AP)—St. Johnson, Cincinnati right hander, today held the Boston Braves to one hit as his slugging teammates batted out a 4 to 0 victory. Only 27 Tribesmen faced Johnson during the game, for Wally Berger, who registered the only Boston hit in the second inning, was thrown out going down to second.

Johnson did not have a single strikeout or yield a base on balls. Berger was the only Brave to reach first base during the entire game and only seven Boston batted balls went out of the infield. The one hit shutout gave Johnson his second victory in six starts.

Cub Errors Bring Double Setback

NEW YORK, May 4 (AP)—The Giants took two close decisions from the champion Chicago Cubs in a hard fought double header today, 2 to 1 and 5 to 4, and captured the series two games to one.

Fred Fitzsimmons pitched steady ball in the opener while New York came from behind in the fifth and sixth frames to score the deciding runs. Leslie's triple and George Davis' single in the seventh won the game.

Four Cub errors played an important part in settling the second contest while Bud Parmalee hurled well in the pinches.

Blondy Ryan drove in one of the winning tallies in the sixth when Stephenson lost his fly in the sun and it went for a double and a wild throw by Jurgas allowed the second to score on the same play.

Score by innings: R. H. E. Chicago 100 000 000—1 8 2 New York 000 011 000—2 6 0 Batteries—Tinning, Richmond and Hartnett, Taylor; Fitzsimmons and Mancuso.

Big Fifth Inning Gives Cards Victory

PHILADELPHIA, May 4 (AP)—The St. Louis Cardinals in a big fifth inning, pushed five runs across the plate—their total for the day—to hand the Phillies a 5 to 2 defeat today.

Mooney, Cardinal left hander, hurled effectively through the whole nine innings, holding the Phils to six scattered hits.

Touched for five hits in the fifth, Eerly gave way to Jim Elliott, who retired for a pinch hitter in the seventh and then was replaced by Liska.

Score by innings: R. H. E. St. Louis 000 050 000—5 11 3 Philadelphia 000 101 000—2 6 0 Batteries—Mooney and Wilson; Eerly, Elliott, Liska and Davis.

Gehring's Ninth Frame Smash Hurts

Second Hit, Run Comes as Lefty Weakens; Score 5 to 2

DETROIT, May 4 (AP)—Charley Gehring blasted Vernon Gomez, southpaw ace of the New York Yankees, loose from a niche in baseball's hall of fame today when he clouted a home run at the start of the ninth inning to ruin a prospective no hit game. The Yanks had little trouble winning the game 5 to 2 even though Gomez weakened a bit when he saw his hopes for a record game knocked away.

For eight innings Gomez didn't give a hit and although he walked seven, no Tiger got past second base. Then Gehring clouted his first hit in the ninth into the right field bleachers and Gerald Walker followed with a double that led to Detroit's other run.

Score by innings: R. H. E. New York 000 201 011—5 8 0 Detroit 000 000 002—2 2 0 Batteries—Gomez and Dickey; Bridges and De Sauteles.

White Sox Nip A's Behind Jones

CHICAGO, May 4 (AP)—The Chicago White Sox defeated the Philadelphia Athletics 2 to 1, today in the only game of their three piece series the weatherman allowed them to play. Both Chicago runs came in the first inning and were unearned.

Sam Jones went the route for the Sox and limited the A's to five hits, two of which came together in the second inning for their lone run.

Merritt Cain, who allowed the Sox six hits in seven innings and otherwise pitched shutout ball, was handicapped by a fumble by Shortstop Chocki which led to both Chicago scores.

Al Simmons, one of the three former Athletics facing their old mates for the first time, got one hit in four times at bat, a triple that drove in the first Sox run, and then scored himself, George Haas got a single and Jimmy Dykes none.

Score by innings: R. H. E. Philadelphia 010 000 000—1 5 2 Chicago 200 000 002—2 6 0 Batteries—Cain, Freitas and Cochrane; Jones and Grube.

Indians Rally to Check Senators

CLEVELAND, May 4 (AP)—The Indians spotted the Washington Senators four runs in the first inning today but staged an old fashioned rally in the ninth to win 6 to 5, and go into a tie with the White Sox for second place.

It was Mel Harder's first victory of the season. Al Thomas was the losing pitcher, having replaced Crowder in the seventh after the Indians had nicked him in the sixth for three runs.

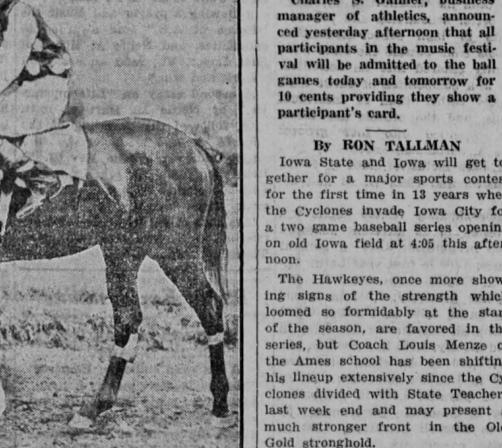

Score by innings: R. H. E. Washington 400 000 100—5 9 1 Cleveland 001 003 101—6 11 3 Batteries—Crowder, Thomas and Sewell; Harder and Spencer.

Tennis Team Goes to Wisconsin Today for Duel Tomorrow

The university tennis team will face conference rivals again this week when it meets Wisconsin at Madison.

Coach "Dad" Schroeder leaves today by automobile with Fletcher, Sieb, Van der Zee and Reddig, the four who will play tomorrow morning.

SET FOR BLUE GRASS CLASSIC

Brilliant performances during his preparatory workouts won a sizeable army of backers for "Pomponius," W. R. Coe's hope for Kentucky Derby honors. Although the odds against the horse are fairly long, he may turn in a surprise at Churchill Downs. "Pomponius," the son of Pompey-Wigwam, finished third in last year's Arlington Futurity.

Buccaners Celebrate Wagner Day With 10 Inning Victory

Coach Ossie Solem's call for the final week of spring training brought out 38 candidates arrayed in motley uniforms, ranging from track shorts and sweat pants to complete uniforms, as the Hawkeye mentor put the squad through a short drill.

Working out in signal drill against dummies, and practicing formations, the squad showed all the vigor which characterized the early spring training of last month. Most of the squad which worked out in April was present, with the exception of those men who are taking part in baseball and track.

It was a pitchers' duel all the way between Watson Clark, Brooklyn mainstay, and Heinie Meine, Pirate right hander, with the southpaw showing the early class and the stocky Buccaneer finishing the stronger. Clark allowed eight hits, Meine six.

For seven innings only 22 Pirates faced Clark. Paul Waner doubled in the first and was left.

Piet singled in the second and Traynor did likewise in the fourth, but with two out, each died stealing.

Three Hits in Row In the meantime the Dodgers nipped Meine for a cluster of three hits to score the first run of the game in the second. Hack Wilson singled, was forced by Wright, and Bissonette and Lopez hit through the infield to send the shortstop around to the home plate.

It was Vaughan's turn in the eighth. He belted a triple and scored on Piet's single. Piet singled to left with two out in the tenth, his third of the day, and scored on Finney's double to left. Meine set the Dodgers down in order the last three innings.

Bellows "Hurry Up" Wagner, now 60 and back in the game as a Pirate coach, bellowed "hurry up" to his runners from the third base coaching lines most of the afternoon. The band played old favorites for his benefit and the crowd cheered him continually. He had little trouble despite his age, belting a couple of clean hits in batting practice.

Score by innings: R. H. E. Pittsburgh 000 000 010—2 8 0 Brooklyn 010 000 000—1 6 0 Batteries—Meine and Finney; Clark and Lopez; Picinich.

Iowa State Will Present New Lineup

Contests Mark End of 13 Year Break in Major Sports

Charles S. Galtner, business manager of athletics, announced yesterday afternoon that all participants in the music festival will be admitted to the ball games today and tomorrow for 10 cents providing they show a participant's card.

By RON TALLMAN Iowa State and Iowa will get together for a major sports contest for the first time in 13 years when the Cyclones invade Iowa City for a two game baseball series opening on old Iowa field at 4:05 this afternoon.

The Hawkeyes, once more showing signs of the strength which loomed so formidably at the start of the season, are favored in the series, but Coach Louis Menze of the Ames school has been shifting his lineup extensively since the Cyclones divided with State Teachers last week end and may present a much stronger front in the Old Gold stronghold.

With only fair hitting and fielding which, like Iowa's, has been wobbly for the most part, Iowa State will depend mainly upon its two pitchers, Captain Loufek and Harder, to provide the impetus towards victory.

Coach Otto Vogel now has better prospects for the remainder of the season with the return of "Ham" Schulteheinrich to second base. The little infielder played for five innings against the Tutors Wednesday and clearly demonstrated he is in condition to go again.

While not definitely certain which of his pitchers he will use today, Coach Vogel intimated that his choice would be either Gene Ford or Charlie Blackman with some possibility that Frank Stempel would get the call.

Hawk-I Club Initiates 9; Holds Picnic

Nine recent winners of major "I" awards were initiated into the Hawk-I club at a special meeting at the field house last night following a picnic on Finkbine field.

Three sports were represented by the initiates, Bert Meyer, Bill Busby, Warren Ross, Phil McClintock, and Auggie Anderson were swimmers to get the honor. Pat Righter, Randall Whinnery, and Bill Minkel were wrestlers to be designated, while John Grim was the lone basketball representative.

Golfers Have Two Duals Set for Tomorrow

The Hawkeye golfers will take on two opponents tomorrow, facing Iowa State and St. Ambrose in separate contests. Coach Kennett is using two squads, pitting his first stringers against the strong Iowa State outfit, while his sophomore leads take on St. Ambrose.

The quartet which faces Iowa State is composed of Ralph Harmon, Joe Schlangner, Charles Van Epps, and Robert Beck, Schlangner and Van Epps are veterans, while Harmon and Beck are competing for the first time with the Iowa squad.

Coach Kennett has evolved a strong second squad to play the St. Ambrose golfers, using Le Roy Vandercwerker, John Jacobsen, and John Stromsten, who have seen varsity service this year, George Clark and John Dill.

Stock Market Continues on Higher Trend

Shares Move Upward After Some Early Unsettling

NEW YORK, May 4 (AP)—Stocks led the third week of their "in-between market" and prices rallied after a little early unsettled start. Many commodities were again in demand and secondary categories of the bond list, as well as a good number of high grade loans, advanced. Net gains for shares ranged from 1 to more than 3 points.

Rails Move Higher—Steel shares struck out for high prices and attained considerable momentum and volume on the upswing. Oils also perked up after their recent period of depression, while steel shares were prominent. Metals and chemicals rallied but some utilities did little more than mark time. The Standard Statistics-Associated Press industrial average made a new 1933 high, while the 90 stocks composite did likewise. Many carriers reached new 1933 highs, gains ranging from 1 to 2 points or better for most of the activities.

MARY FAITH by Beatrice Burton

SYNOPSIS

Mary Faith, comely young orphan, rises up her position as secretary to a wealthy Mark Nesbit to marry her lawyer, Kim, a young playboy. When the latter objects to marriage, Kim brusquely startles Mary Faith by breaking the engagement. Later, when he sees her with Mark Nesbit in a jewelry store, setting a ring, his jealousy is aroused. The next morning he appears at Mary Faith's boarding house and overwhelms her with his protestations of love. She again leaves her position and, after a hasty marriage, they spend an ecstatic two weeks' honeymoon in the house of Kim's father in the country. Returning home, Mary Faith moves to the Farrell apartment. Kim's friends, Claire and Dick Maldon, find Mary Faith a full companion for their jazy parties. Mary Faith realizes Kim is flattered by her failure to drink and gamble. During the winter Kim attends the parties alone. Mary Faith has care of the house but knows nothing of Kim's finances. When she hints at being pinched for money, Mary Faith accedes to his request for $60. Later, he admits taking the sum from the firm's collections for his own use. The next night, when he tells Mary Faith he has lost his position. He then persuades her to let him have a thousand dollars to open his own office. Mary Faith, learning that she is to become a mother, joyously visits Kim's office to tell him the good news. She finds him flirting with a girl. Kim furious, Mary Faith decides not to tell him of the approaching event. Back in the apartment, Kim tells Mary Faith and his mother that he is getting out—that his marriage is a failure.

"I'm just through," he corrected her. "I'm all through and I'm getting out now while the getting's good—see?"

CHAPTER XXIII

There wasn't a shadow in his face or a line of worry in his eyes. He stood there, calmly breaking his life to pieces as if he were a willful child knocking over a tower building blocks. "The most unlucky thing that ever happened to us was seeing each other in Armbruster's store last Christmas." He was turning now to the open of the kitchen. "If that hadn't happened everything probably would've turned out all right. You'd have married Nesbit, and I'd have stuck Janet." "Janet?" Mary Faith had formed a word with dry lips that made no sound. Janet. . . The "loyal little" who had left the offices of McCreary and Westover when they had Kim out—who had followed him in his own tiny office in the Towers building. "You're leaving me for that girl, Kim. You think you should have married her instead of me, don't you?" "I shouldn't have married anybody," he said violently. "And don't try to hang all the blame on her. My married life has been a flop all along and you know it as well as I. . . What do I get out of it, I'd like to know? I sit all day in a two-four office, waiting for a lot of clients who never come. I sit all evening in this flat, staring at the walls. It's a great life for a man, isn't it?" He swung round and started down the narrow hall that led to the sleeping rooms at the back of the apartment. Mary Faith followed him. "Kim, I'm just discouraged tonight—"

dresser. "There's fifty dollars," he said. "Make it go as far as you can, will you? When you need more you know my phone number downtown. . . and tomorrow will you pack up the rest of my clothes and send them over to the Maldons? They're going to let me sleep on their davenport for a few nights until I find a room. I talked to them about it tonight." He was picking out some ties from the dozens and dozens that hung on the inside of his closet door. Mary Faith watched him from the doorway. She wondered if he remembered that he had worn that plain dark green satin one on their wedding day. "Kim, don't you remember the day we were married?" she asked him suddenly. "Don't you remember the first supper we cooked down in Aunt Ella's kitchen? And remember how we woke up on New Year's Eve and listened to the bells? You can't say that our married life was a 'flop' then, Kim. We were awfully happy, weren't we?" His shoulders lifted and fell in a careless shrug. "That wasn't our married life—that was our honeymoon," he said. "And listen to me, Mary Faith, why drag up the past? Why be sentimental? Why be sentimental about something that's all over? We made a mistake. Let's admit it and forget it. Let's wipe it off the slate." After that she did not argue with him. She slipped out of the house and sat down on the top step of the back porch. The stars were out, thick as water-lilies on the vast black pool of the night sky. The air around her was cool and sweet, and somewhere close at hand a bird twittered sleepily. She found herself wondering how the world could be so beautiful and so peaceful when life could be so bitterly cruel. "I'm going, Mary Faith," Kim's voice came to her through the doorway behind her. Turning her head she could see him standing in the middle of the kitchen with his Gladstone bag in his hand and his new light overcoat over his arm. He was peering out into the darkness. "Aren't you coming to say good-bye?" "No—I'm not. I'm not leaving you, Kim. You're going away from me, and I can't say good-bye—I'm sorry."

started. When the murmur of his engine had died away in the distance she got up and went back into the kitchen. Mrs. Farrell was sitting at the table in the dining room. She had been crying and her eyes were red and swollen. She gave Mary Faith a wild dazed look as she came into the room and sat down across the table from her. "Well, what are we going to do?" she asked. "I guess there isn't anything to do but what Kimberley told us to do, is there?—It kills me to think of giving up my home and going down to Garrettsville." She put her face down into her hands and her broad shoulders began to shake with her sobbing. "You aren't going to give up your home," Mary Faith said very quietly; but Mrs. Farrell heard her. She raised her face from her hands and stared at her. "You're going to stay right here, and I'm going to stay with you," Mary Faith went on. "I'll get some kind of work to do this summer—and I have seven hundred dollars that we can live on after I have to stop working. That ought to tide us over. . ."

HOLIDAY Association Votes to Authorize Strike

Clyde L. Herring of Iowa immediately withdraw national guardsmen from the farm disorder area in another resolution drafted by the resolutions committee and adopted by the convention.

It called upon the governor to call back the troops, restore civil government, and avoid the impending catastrophe that we may struggle through this depression in peace "as do our surrounding sister states."

Attention also was given the Iowa disturbances over farm mortgage foreclosures through the request of Milo Reno, grey haired national leader of the Holiday movement, that the delegates seek to raise funds for the defense of the farmers arrested at Le Mars and Denison, Iowa.

Offers Assistance The convention also received a telegram from former Senator John J. Blaine of Wisconsin offering to assist without charge in the defense of the men held.

Resolutions approved by the convention also demanded that congress "take from private interests the function of issuing money and regulating its value"; and that the secretary of agriculture adopt the cost of production program as one of the major steps of his department and put it into effect immediately.

It "served notice on the secretary of agriculture that no compromise with this provision of the bill will be tolerated by the farmers of this country; that we will not submit to the repeal of the recapture clause, which would cancel $361,000,000 in government claims against railroads for excess profits. This fund was to be pooled in the treasury for loan to weak lines. The interstate commerce commission has pointed out, he said, that it is "unworkable and impracticable."

Roosevelt Asks Business Men to Raise Wage Scale

Says Process Should Get Under Way at Once

WASHINGTON, May 4 (AP)—President Roosevelt tonight promised government co-operation to American industry in a voluntary effort on its part to end "chaos" and bring about fair competition and elimination of "cut throat prices."

In an address to the Chamber of Commerce of the United States he also said "it is essential, as a matter of national justice, that the wage scale should be brought back to meet the cost of living, and that this process should begin now and not later."

Outline Ideas In this brief address, the busy president outlined firmly to the national business leaders his general ideas for national recovery. He carefully refrained from discussion of the legislative industrial program he has in mind and which is still in the formative stage.

His assurance of government co-operation to industry was interpreted at the capital as indicative of his intention to extend federal supervision over a voluntary regulation of business by business itself.

Unfair Competition "You and I acknowledge," he said, "the existence of unfair methods of competition, of cut throat prices and of general chaos. You and I agree that this condition must be rectified and that order must be restored. The attainment of that objective depends upon your willingness to co-operate with one another to this end and also your willingness to co-operate with your government."

Pointing to a recent increase in the price level, Mr. Roosevelt took up first with the business chief-being dictated to and dominated over by representatives of land grant colleges and the extension department."

Favor Bonus Payment Immediate payment of the soldiers' adjusted compensation was favored through issuance of treasury certificates according to plans provided in the Patman bill and the Robinson bill for adjusted compensation.

As the two day convention neared its close, the national officials of the association began preparations for notifying the members in the 20 states into which they said the holiday movement has spread since its inception a year ago.

States Included States which President Reno said now are organized in the Holiday movement include Minnesota, Wisconsin, Illinois, Missouri, Oklahoma, South Dakota, North Dakota, Nebraska, Ohio, Texas, Kansas, New York, Colorado, Indiana, Montana, Maryland and Delaware.

As the strike last year was put into operation in an attempt to halt the transportation of farm products to market, it brought forth violence in several states, principally Iowa, South Dakota and Minnesota.

Although the holiday at that time was declared on a national scale, its effect was confined principally to middlewestern states. However, scattered attempts were made to blockade products elsewhere, as when steps were taken to withhold milk from New York city.

the repeal of the recapture clause, which would cancel $361,000,000 in government claims against railroads for excess profits. This fund was to be pooled in the treasury for loan to weak lines. The interstate commerce commission has pointed out, he said, that it is "unworkable and impracticable."

Second, he proposed adoption of the Rayburn bill to place some 600 railroad holding companies under the jurisdiction of the interstate commerce commission, to block mergers and consolidations of lines without governmental sanction.

The creation of a federal co-ordinator of transportation to work with three organized groups of carriers in the east, south and west, with a view to eliminating duplicated services, and unnecessary expenses, and laying the foundation for permanent rehabilitation, formed the

Grain Market Prices Show Strong Gains

CHICAGO, May 4 (AP)—A strong upward movement of grain prices developed special energy late today owing to belief that an address by President Roosevelt tonight would prove constructive. Heavy buying of wheat in the financial market was the most important part of his request.

Not unmindful of labor's interest in the curtailment of services that might result in wholesale dismissal of employees, the president said: "Such co-ordinator would also, in carrying out this policy, render useful service in maintaining railroad employment at a fair wage."

Third and probably the most important part of his request. Not unmindful of labor's interest in the curtailment of services that might result in wholesale dismissal of employees, the president said: "Such co-ordinator would also, in carrying out this policy, render useful service in maintaining railroad employment at a fair wage."

April Shipments Increase NEWTON (AP)—The Maytag company announced that shipments in April exceeded those for all of 1932 and seven months in 1931. E. L. Maytag, founder of the company, attributed the increase to a new low price washer recently announced and said he felt the effect of the reconstruction program were definitely in the right direction.

Volume Expands The trading volume again expanded on the upturn, sales totaling $18,153,000 par value. The average for 60 domestic corporate bonds gained six-tenths of a point.

The more active rail loans, with gains of 1 to around 5 points, included some of Santa Fe, Baltimore & Ohio, Chesapeake & Ohio, Rock Island, Illinois Central, Missouri Pacific, New York Central, Southern, Union Pacific and Wabash.

William J. Petersen Traces Interest in Research Back to "Cigaret Picture" Collection

By Tom Yoseloff

William J. Petersen, research associate in the State Historical society, traces his interest in research back to a collection of "cigaret pictures," which he made as a boy.

About 20 years ago it was the vogue to include in each package of cigarettes, as an advertisement and inducement, a brilliantly colored picture about the size of a playing card. The pictures were issued in series, with subjects ranging from Indian life to prize fighters.

"I collected about 2,500 of them," Mr. Petersen said. "I worked over them until I knew each of them by heart. Members of my family would hold them up 10 feet away, and I was able to call out the title of each one.

Complete Series

"The idea was to get the series complete. The boys traded their duplicates for those they needed, and how we used toicker!"

Wherever arden "cigaret picture" enthusiasts gathered there were cries of "I'll trade you this Indian one for that cowboy," or "Oh, no, you don't get this one of Jim Jeffries for that ol' thing."

Mr. Petersen's collection contained the series of 50 Indian pictures complete, as well as 100 brilliant gilt-edged mottoes. He treasured 33 cowboy scenes, and 147 flags of nations.

"How I gloated over my complete set of Indians. Some of the pictures were rarities. In the dog set the pictures of the English setter was hard to get, and Wright brothers' plane was always hardest in the airplane series.

Rarest of All

"I think the rarest of all were two of those in the Indian set. One of these, called 'Puppy Stew,' took me four years to find."

There were pictures of baseball stars, and men and women of various nationalities, in their native dress. On the back of each of the cards was a description of their national characteristics.

The cigarette idea spread.

Icorfee manufacturers issued a series showing the famous track stars, and coffee companies put out a set describing characteristics or products of each state in the union.

"I still have more than a thousand of the pictures—I've given my duplicates away." The talk of pictures brought reminiscences of other interests. "Since then I've always collected something. Once it was the felt flags which came in large packages of cigars; again it was labels from liquor bottles, or travel folders, or steamboat pictures."

Steamboat Pictures

The collection of steamboat pictures contains views of more than 200 of the boats which once carried

Johnson County 4-H Groups to Complete Merger at Meeting

Combination of two Johnson county 4-H groups will be completed at an organization meeting to be held at the John C. Miller home, near Morse, Saturday night. The Newport 4-H club will be joined with a girls' canning organization in the vicinity of Morse.

Ten talks by club members, including the subject "Johnson county health program," will make up the program of the Four Leaf Clover club, meeting Monday night at the home of Wayne and Shirley Burr. Summer care and management of livestock will be discussed.

DES MOINES (AP)—Dr. C. H. Henshaw of Des Moines told the Iowa State Dental society that promiscuous "necking" has caused a serious development of trench mouth infection since the World war.

Treasure

Old books are a treasure to Mr. Petersen, and he prizes the musty volumes with their tattered bindings. One of the early books, of especial value in historical research, is a copy of Blackstone's "Commentary on British Law," printed in 1775.

A book dealing with the geography of the United States dates back to 1828, and a description of the new western frontier, written at the time when pioneers were pushing their way through savage land and savage Indians, is contained in Henry Howe's "The Great West," published in the 1850's.

The latest variation of Mr. Petersen's collecting bug is stamp collecting. This hobby grew out of a sort of wager, in which he told a philatelist of many years standing that he could build up a good stamp collection within a year, without any expenditure.

He is quick to assert, however, that this hobby is merely a minor variation thus far—that it has not yet attained the mania which is a common trait among those who have made stamp collecting a more serious pursuit.

Rotary Club Hears Speech by Rev. Henry

Addresses Members on Present Childhood Program

History leading up to the present childhood program was the topic for discussion by the Rev. Harry D. Henry, pastor of the Methodist Episcopal church, at a luncheon meeting of the Rotary club in the Jefferson hotel yesterday noon. The address was in keeping with child conservation week.

Commenting on the necessity for child conservation, the speaker said that the future of any nation may be prophesied by her conservation program for the younger generation. Just as a man is reflective of his childhood, so a nation is a composite of its childhood program, he said.

Early Practices

The Rev. Mr. Henry told of how mother sin earlier times stuffed their babies with poppy petals to keep them from crying and would take them into the night to cover their faces with white wood ashes to prevent their further communication with Diety.

"It was only yesterday that a mother giving birth to twins was forced to go miles from the camp and build a hut for a two year residency," he said. Theories of metamorphosis are not far removed from today. Infanticide is still practiced in many parts of the earth."

Jews and Greeks made rapid strides in placing the child in the midst of their culture, declared the speaker, stating that it was an extreme humiliation of Greek women to be childless. To this day paternal responsibility of the Jewish father is a distinguishing and commendable trait, he said.

Conference Held

It was during the administration of Herbert Hoover that a national conference on child welfare was held, pointed out the Rev. Mr. Henry. Research has been pushed ahead at the University of Iowa in the establishing of a special department for the study of child welfare from a tire viewpoint, he said.

Child conservation is studied two angles, namely, heredity environment, explained the speaker. Through the use of sterilization possible to a large extent to unfit parents and to raise the ard of our civilization.
