Girl's Kidnaper Confesses; Recover $60,000

Police Write Last Chapter in Abduction

Charge Chauffeur With Crime, Brother as Go-Between

HARWICHPORT, Mass., May 6 (AP)—Kenneth Buck, 28 year old unemployed chauffeur, tonight tearfully confessed to plotting and executing the kidnaping of 10 year old "Peggy" McMath after swift police action had brought Buck and a brother into custody and recovered a $60,000 ransom.

He related, Gen. Daniel Needham, state public safety commissioner said in a statement, a fantastic tale of how he used blackface makeup and a grotesque hood in accomplishing the abduction, and then receiving the $60,000 ransom for the child's return.

With his brother, Cyril, 41, Kenneth was lodged in jail tonight as authorities prepared charges which will be preferred against them Monday in Provincetown district court.

Tells of Plot
As related by Needham, Kenneth, the father of a child three years younger than "Peggy," told how he conceived the plot to kidnap the girl, whose grandparents are wealthy Detroit residents.

He worked out his plan last Sunday, Needham said, two days before he drove up to a schoolhouse in Harwichport and carried the girl away. He kept her for three days, when, after negotiations with her father, Nell C. McMath, he delivered her to him on a little yacht in a harbor near the McMath home.

The ransom money, in bills, was furnished by the child's grandparents. It was recovered in its entirety today in Kenneth's home.

Applied Burnt Cork
Last Tuesday, Kenneth said, he walked into the woods in the rear of his home, burned several cork stoppers and applied the residue to his face. Then putting on white gloves, Needham quoted him as saying, he drove to the South Chatham post office, called the school and, under the ruse he was the child's father, obtained her dismissal from school.

He drove through two streets into a sparsely settled section, bound the child, and then placed her in a house.

After hiding the girl, young Buck removed the black makeup and then went to another school to bring home his seven year old son, Kenneth, Jr.

Contact with the parents was made by his brother, Cyril, Kenneth said, after he asked Cyril to help him by being an emissary. Letters in "Peggy's" own handwriting were furnished and Kenneth demanded $250,000.

$60,000 Delivered
Further negotiations brought the sum from $25,000 offered by McMath finally up to $70,000, which was agreed upon. Cyril, however, refused to take $10,000 as his share and only $60,000 was delivered.

The final negotiations, the alleged confession disclosed, were made in the yacht "Bob" owned by William Lee, business associate of "Peggy's" father.

There again, Kenneth was disguised by a peculiar hood. Kenneth did not speak but asked and answered questions by writing with the child's father until the ransom was paid.

The activity of state police and detectives, however, prevented McMath from fulfilling the demand of the kidnaper that McMath and the child stay aboard the craft for 48 hours.

Taken to Base
Employing a coast guard boat, authorities moved alongside the "Bob" yesterday afternoon and found "Peggy" playing in the cabin. She and her father, together with Cyril Buck, who also was aboard, were taken to the Woods Hole coast guard base where all-night questioning ended with the return here to the home of Kenneth.

Maximum Penalty 25 Years
BOSTON, May 6 (AP)—While the Massachusetts penalties for kidnaping are not so severe as those of some other states, they are sufficiently stern to deter most prospective abductors.

For kidnaping in which the element of extortion enters the penalty is 25 years at hard labor. Where there is no attempt to extort, the law provides 10 years at hard labor and a fine of $1,000.

Three Injured in Automobile Crash North of Iowa City

Mrs. W. R. G. Bender of Iowa City and James Northy and Mr. Lowry of Waterloo were injured at 5 p.m. yesterday in an automobile accident near the city park bridge.

The roadster in which the injured persons were riding crashed into a sedan driven by Edward M. Fatica of Cedar Rapids. Wet pavement, which caused one of the cars to skid, was said to be the cause of the accident.

Northy was unconscious for several hours after being taken to Mercy hospital, Lowry and Mrs. Bender were badly cut and bruised. All were reported to be in a satisfactory condition last night.

Eight Named to Represent Iowa Classes

To Appear in Hawkeye as Representatives of Students

The honor of representing nearly 5,000 classmates of the University of Iowa was yesterday awarded to eight students—one man and one woman from each of the four classes.

The eight representative students, who were chosen by a committee of 10 named by President Alfred Mitchell of the senior liberal arts class, will be presented in a special photographic section of the 1934 Hawkeye.

416 Rural Students Take State Exams

State examinations for admission to high school were taken at the court house Thursday, Friday, and yesterday by 416 pupils of Johnson county rural schools. County superintendent W. N. Leeper was in charge.

The examinations on all standard grade school courses were given in all counties on the same dates. Seventh grade pupils were allowed to complete the requirements in geography and hygiene and eighth grade pupils were examined in all subjects not previously passed.

Of the total number taking the examinations 235 pupils were from the seventh grade and 181 from the eighth grade.

Band Concert Ends Festival at University

Iowa Citizens Register High Marks During Annual Contest

With the last strains of Sousa's world famous "Stars and Stripes Forever," played in ensemble by 15 high school bands, dying on the late afternoon air, the 1933 state music festival came to a close yesterday at the university stadium. More than 3,000 persons, oblivious to the chilly weather and the threat of rain, witnessed the spectacle.

A. R. McAllister, president of the National School Band association and a judge at the festival, directed the massed organizations in the memorial program which paid fitting tribute to the late John Philip Sousa, "the march king." Following the memorial, Superintendent P. C. Lapham, Charles City, secretary-treasurer of the Iowa High School Music association, presented certificates of award to the day's superior and excellent contestants.

Local Band Rates High
Iowa City won superior rating in the class A concert band event, generally considered to be one of the most important of all festival contests, yesterday morning. Three schools took superior honors in class AA concert bands, Dubuque, Roosevelt of Des Moines, and West of Waterloo. In the other concert event Vinton took superior among class B bands.

Marching band events in all classes were held at the stadium in the afternoon. The ceremonies opened with Lieut. Col. Converse R. Lewis, head of the military department, and his staff reviewing the bands as they paraded past the judges' stand. While the university band, directed by Dr. O. E. Van Doren, played "The Star Spangled Banner," the flag was raised in an impressive ceremony featuring the Pershing Rifles.

Professor Righter in Charge
Under the supervision of Prof. Charles B. Righter, the marching bands then proceeded with their events, in which East of Waterloo, Shenandoah, and Iowa Training School of Eldora won superior awards.

A summary of the festival as a whole shows Mason City the possessor of the most impressive record. In the 21 events it entered, seven superior ratings and six excellent were merited. Roosevelt of Des Moines gathered three superiors and seven excellent. Abraham Lincoln of Council Bluffs took three superiors and one excellent, as did also East of Waterloo.

North Des Moines
North of Des Moines, with two superiors and five excellent; Iowa City, with two superiors and three excellent; Davenport, with two superiors and two excellent, were the other leaders.

David Fisher, baritone-euphonium soloist, and the class A concert band of Iowa City were rated superior. Howard Van Doren, trombone soloist, Rita Sedlacek, bassoon soloist, and the orchestra were rated excellent. In addition, four others were rated good: Edward King, French horn soloist; Marian Whitney, horn soloist; Josephine Sidwell, oboe soloist; and the miscellaneous brass group.

Will Choose Five School Officers at Meeting Tuesday

A county superintendent of schools and four members of the county board of education will be elected at a convention at the court house at 10 a.m. Tuesday.

Candidates for the post of superintendent are W. N. Leeper of Iowa City, present superintendent; Lucile Laocok, Fred R. McNeal, John A. Larsen, and Delma Harding of Iowa City; and Mrs. Aaron Rowe of Tiffin.

School presidents and representatives from the independent school districts of Johnson county will attend the meeting and elect the superintendent and the members of the board.

Hold Service Tomorrow for Luther Brewer

Was First Instructor in Journalism School at S. U. I.

Funeral service for Luther A. Brewer, 74, pioneer Cedar Rapids publisher and first instructor in journalism at the University of Iowa, who died yesterday at 3 a.m. in Cedar Rapids, will be held tomorrow at 4 p.m. from the Brewer home. President H. M. Gage of Coe college will officiate.

Mr. Brewer had been ill since two weeks ago today, but his condition was not regarded as serious until a week ago Thursday. His death was caused by cerebral apoplexy.

First Instruction
It was in 1901 that Mr. Brewer first drove down to Iowa City with his horse and buggy to give university students their initial tutoring in the field of journalism.

Through his associations with the university faculty and his contacts with the local chapter of Phi Gamma Delta fraternity of which he was national treasurer, he kept up a marked interest in university affairs.

In 1924, he established the annual Brewer key award, providing for the gift of three keys to the senior journalism students showing high scholarship and greatest promise of success in the newspaper field. He awarded the keys personally for the first time last year at the Presentation day ceremonies May 11.

Interested in Books
Deeply interested in books, book binding, and engraving, Mr. Brewer made it his hobby to collect examples of these. His collection on Leigh Hunt, English poet, was said to be the finest and most complete in the world. His most recent publication was a deluxe edition of a collection of letters about the poet, together with remarks and observations of his own.

America, Italy Reach Accord

Agree on Program for Speeding World Recovery

WASHINGTON, May 6 (AP)—America and Italy clasped hands in agreement tonight on a program of world recovery encompassing arms reduction, a tariff truce, a return to a gold standard, an international plan of public works building and a world-wide expansion of credit.

In language concrete and imperative, these steps were set forth by President Roosevelt and Italy's finance minister, Guido Jung, as the upshot of four days of intensive concentration upon the world's economic ills.

War debts, too, were discussed between them.
To reporters at the Italian embassy Jung said in answer to questions: "We explored the debts problem sympathetically and in a spirit of friendliness, each of us setting forth the point of view of his own government. There was no agreement nor decision."

Italy views the United States about $2,000,000,000 but enjoys the easiest payment terms of any major debtor nation.

Tune in for "Report" of President Tonight

WASHINGTON, May 6 (AP)—President Roosevelt will address the nation tomorrow night, giving an account of his stewardship since he entered the White House March 4 and talking of some of his future plans.

The speech, to be delivered at 8:45 p.m. central standard time, will deal also with the use the chief executive expects to make of legislation already passed or soon to be passed by congress.

New instructions today to stay in London and do his utmost to impel Britain to agree to an immediate tariff truce.

AS F.D.R. HEARD ITALY'S VIEWS

Surrounded by financial experts of Italy and the United States, President Roosevelt is shown in conference with Guido Jung (right), Italy's finance minister, during their discussions at the White House in preparation for the world economic conference. Pledging full support to President Roosevelt, Jung cited lower tariff barriers, stabilized international currency and political ease for Europe as necessary steps for economic recovery.

Ten of Iowa's Brightest High School Freshmen to Compete Here for Culver Scholarship

Three University Men on Committee of Selection

Ten of the state's most intelligent high school freshmen—boys between the ages of 13 and 15—will compete here Tuesday for a prize valued at $4,500.

Scientifically selected from 50 applicants for a scholarship at Culver Military Academy, Culver, Ind., these boys represent an average intelligence exceeding that of most university freshmen.

All-Morning Tests
Following a rigorous examination that will continue throughout the morning, the winner will be selected by a committee consisting of Dean Carl E. Seashore of the graduate college, chairman; Prof. Frederick B. Knight of the college of education, and M. G. Davis, superintendent of schools at Ames. Daniel Feder, research assistant in psychology, who devised the testing system used by Culver authorities this year, is technical adviser to the Iowa committee.

This year is the first that Iowa has been included in the scholarship awards. Three other states share the honor, Texas, Tennessee, and Wisconsin.

Covers Three Years
The scholarship entitles the winner to three years at Culver, paying his room, board, and tuition. A stipulation of the award is that the contestants must come from families whose annual income does not exceed $6,000.

The finalists are: John E. Simmons of Osceola; Ralph O. Winger of Keokuk; Ralph Salts of Fairfield; Parley E. Wellstead of Ottumwa; Don L. Kessler of Cedar Rapids; Paul Emerson, Jr., of Ames; Arthur G. Maxwell of Montrose; Keith Simmer of Ottumwa; Bob Greenwalt of Des Moines, and Kenneth B. Robinson of Council Bluffs.

The finals here Tuesday are the Jail Negro Chauffeur for Attempted Assault

AMES, May 6 (AP)—James W. Tucker, 24, Negro chauffeur, was taken to the county jail at Nevada to await arraignment on charge of attempted criminal assault to two white girls, 14 and 17 years of age.

Chief of Police W. J. Cure said that Tucker admitted the charge and had signed a detailed confession.

The girls, who live in Boone told the police they were hitch hiking to Nevada and accepted a ride in Tucker's car before recognizing he was a Negro.

Intimate War Debt Plan
PARIS, May 7 (Sunday) (AP)—The newspaper Petit Parisien said today it understood a Washington plan for a general adjustment of war debts had been submitted to France.

The judge declared that the city should get some use out of constant liquor violators instead of letting them lounge in the jail for 30 days.

Roosevelt Approves Sites in 16 Iowa Counties; Fight Centers on Floods, Pests

Decision Brings Opportunity for Boundless Work in Beautifying County, Conserving Land, Says Professor Shimek

Johnson county was named one of 16 Iowa counties in which the government will establish civilian conservation camps on state and private lands, an Associated Press dispatch from Washington said last night.

These, together with two camps in Rhode Island, are the first projects of this kind approved except in Pennsylvania, where camps are being established on state forest lands.

Each of the following counties will be the scene of one camp, the report said: Johnson, Appanoose, Lucas, Delaware, Van Buren, Fremont, Union, Clay, Henry, Jefferson, Clinton, Mahaska, Polk, Benton, Madison, and Boone.

The work to be carried on from these camps will be in erosion and flood control, control of insects and fungous pests, construction of truck and other trails, landscaping and the building of simple shelters, it was announced.

Opportunities for this kind of work in Iowa are boundless, according to Prof. Bohumil Shimek of the botany department, who outlined last night the destructive effect of erosion and the value of proper planting both for beauty and for conservation purposes.

Reforestation for erosion and flood control is most seriously needed along the streams and lakeshores, Professor Shimek pointed out. Clearing of timber from the rounded slopes of bluffs and from fertile lowlands has done almost irreparable damage, he said.

In Johnson county alone the opportunities for effective reforestation are as numerous as the small streams and creeks that criss-cross the land.

Professor Shimek recalled the forests of white oak and black walnut which grew along the banks of the Iowa river from 40 to 50 years ago and have since been cleared away.

The problem is not a simple one, he insisted, and should be thoroughly planned to be effective. Each locality should be studied with a view to the success that will be encountered with the planting of various types of trees. And the trees should be chosen not only for their effectiveness in control of erosion, but for their value in other respects.

Such work, if properly done, should not be expensive, Professor Shimek said. In most cases the more valuable trees should be grown from seeds instead of from nursery stock. This is especially true of oaks, he said, which are easily grown from acorns.

The land along the Iowa river north of the Butler bridge and south of Iowa City, as well as the rullies and ravines along the creeks which empty into the river were mentioned as areas badly in need of soil-holding vegetation.

As for the state-wide program, Prof.

Prepare for Repeal Vote

Mass Conventions Will Pick Candidates for Delegates

Candidates for delegates from Johnson county to the state convention to ratify or reject national prohibition repeal will be chosen at two mass conventions in Iowa City at 11 a.m. tomorrow.

Qualified voters of the county favoring repeal of the eighteenth amendment are to meet at the American Legion Community building and those opposing repeal are to gather at the court house. Each convention will select one qualified voter as a candidate for delegate at large to the state convention to be held July 10.

Candidates for delegates must have filed with the chairman of the convention at which they were elected a statement to the effect that they are either for or against prohibition repeal. Names of the candidates elected will be placed on the official ballot for the special election June 20 to decide whether or not Iowa will ratify repeal of the eighteenth amendment.

A judge and two clerks of election will be selected from each precinct by the chairman and secretary of each convention, thus forming from both conventions a precinct election board of two judges and four clerks to serve without pay in the special election June 20.

The conventions are being held pursuant to a proclamation issued by Gov. Clyde L. Herring April 14.

County Taxpayers Meet; Ask Probe of Mileage Fees

Approximately 25 persons attended a meeting of the Johnson County Taxpayers' league yesterday afternoon at the court house. President Clay Bowersox of Shueville presided.

A resolution to petition County Attorney F. B. Olsen to investigate mileage fees charged by members of the board of supervisors for 1930, 1931, and 1932, and if any fees have been collected contrary to law take steps to refund them to the county was adopted by the league.

An expression of appreciation for the work done in the league by the late J. Forman Hill was made by the organization.

Talks were given during the meeting by S. K. Stevenson, Joseph Braverman, C. G. Sample, and Mr. Bowersox. The next meeting will be held at the court house May 25 at 8 p.m.

Iowa Citizens Will Entertain Visiting Guests From Abroad

Sir Francis, Lady Wylie of Oxford, England, Will Stop Here at Home of Van der Zees; Arrive Tuesday Evening From Lincoln

An heraldic motif will stamp Iowa City social functions this week as town and gown opens the door of hospitality to Sir Francis and Lady Wylie of Oxford, England. Sir Francis, who has been secretary of the Rhodes scholarship trust for the last 30 years, and his wife, will be house guests of Prof. and Mrs. Jacob Van der Zee, 130 Ferson avenue.

The titled visitors will arrive in Iowa City Tuesday evening, coming here from Lincoln, Neb. They are touring the country, paying visits to all former recipients of the Rhodes award. While here they will interview the University of Iowa's former Rhodes scholars.

Old friendships will be renewed and new acquaintances will be made at the round of luncheons, teas, and formal and informal dinners that have been planned for the guests.

Prof. and Mrs. Norman Foerster, who were friends of Sir Francis and Lady Wylie when they were residing at Oxford 10 years ago, will be hosts at the first of the parties Wednesday noon. They will entertain 16 or 18 guests at an informal luncheon.

A formal dinner has been planned by Professor and Mrs. Jacob Van der Zee for Wednesday night. More than 100 persons have been invited to the affair, which will be held at 7 p. m. in the fountain room of Iowa Union.

Informality will mark the luncheon at which Prof. and Mrs. Ernest Horn will entertain Thursday noon. A small group of friends has been invited. Thursday night, the Wylies will be entertained at a "Rhodes Scholar" dinner. The event will take place in the Triangle clubrooms at Iowa Union.

Sir Francis and Lady Wylie will leave Iowa City Friday morning for Minneapolis, Minn. They have been in the south and far west, and are on their way back east.

Leona, Lucille Leslie Announce Betrothals at Tri-Delt Dinner

A telegram which was delivered to Mrs. Mildred Giffen, Delta Delta Delta sorority chaperon, between courses at the Tri Delt formal dinner-dance at Iowa Union last night announced the engagement of Lucille Leslie, A3 of Jefferson City, Mo., to Dr. W. T. Sowder, and of Leona Leslie, A4 of Jefferson City, Mo., to Ted R. MacDougall, E4 of Conesville.

Lucille and Leona Leslie are members of Delta Delta Delta sorority. Dr. Sowder, who is interning in University hospital and is a graduate of the University of Virginia, is a member of Alpha Kappa Kappa medical fraternity. Mr. MacDougall is a member of Triangle fraternity.

Women Voters to Give Final Luncheon

The final luncheon to be given by the League of Women Voters this year will take place at Youde's inn at noon tomorrow. The luncheon is given under the auspices of the state officers, and Mrs. Homer Cherrington, president, is in charge of arrangements.

Following the luncheon Prof. Jacob Van der Zee will discuss present economic conditions taking up conditions in United States and explaining how other countries are affected.

Woman's Club Will Give Party Tuesday

With spring flowers in purple and green, and lighted tapers decorating the tables, members of Business and Professional Woman's club will give their May party Tuesday at 6:30 p. m. at Youde's inn. A Mother's day program for mothers of members and guests will follow the dinner.

Return From State Meeting

Local Women Attend Iowa Federation Convention

Twelve Iowa City women have returned to their homes from Mason City after the conclusion of the all-Iowa program which was presented at the biennial convention of the Iowa Federation of Women's clubs Wednesday, Thursday, and Friday. More than 1,000 Iowa delegates attended the convention.

The newly elected state officers, who will serve for the next two years, are as follows: Mrs. Eugene Henley of Grinnell, president; Mrs. H. C. Houghton of Red Oak, first vice president; Mrs. Carl Reed of Cresco, second vice president; Mrs. Frank Davis of Sioux City, recording secretary; Mrs. David Lennox of Marshalltown, corresponding secretary; and Mrs. Eugene Cutler of Des Moines, treasurer.

One of the speakers at the convention, Mrs. Max Mayer of Des Moines, formerly an Iowa City woman, urged women, in the course of her speech, to stronger civic activity, particularly in regard to our state legislature, which she characterized as the "busy bee" legislature, because it had passed three "b" bills, namely: the beer, the budget and the Beatty-Bennett bills.

Mason City women acted as hostesses to the delegates, and a series of social events were given in their honor, including a tea at the Clear Lake Country club. The Junior department of Women's clubs presented as a part of the social program Louisa May Alcott's "Little Women," and James Lecron of Des Moines spoke on English gardens and showed colored slides of gardens in England which he had visited.

The next biennial convention will be held in Council Bluffs in 1935.

May Frolic Opens Round of Activities for Mother's Days

Joe Sanders' Orchestra Will Play for Affair

The May Frolic, annual party given by members of Mortar Board and A.F.I. will open the round of activities planned for the university Mother's days this week end. The party will be held in the map lounge of Iowa Union Friday from 9 to 12 p. m. University women will choose their escorts and invite them to the dance.

Joe Sanders and his Coon-Sanders orchestra will officiate rhythmically at the informal party. The orchestra has completed engagements at the Blackhawk cafe, Congress hotel, and College inn at Chicago, the Delta, and the Hotel New Yorker in New York.

Alumnae of Mortar Board will assist as hostesses at the event. Bridge and jig saw puzzles will provide diversion for those mothers and fathers who do not care to dance. Tea will be served to them during intermission with the chaperons.

The committee in charge of arrangements is composed of the following persons: Virginia Maxson, J3 of Tipton; Kathryn Smith, A4 of Cedar Rapids; Grace Donovan, A4 of Iowa City; Eloise Anderson, J4 of Ottumwa.

Phi Delta Epsilon Harold Brady, M1 of Iowa City, and George Kuntz, M1 of Sioux City, have been initiated into Phi Delta Epsilon, medical fraternity.

Sorority Alumnae Sponsor Benefit Bridge Alumnae members of Theta Phi Alpha sorority will sponsor a benefit bridge at the chapter house tomorrow at 8 p. m. Prizes will be awarded and refreshments will be served.

Change Date of Meeting The regular meetings of the Past Matrons association of the Order of Eastern Star have been changed from the second Monday of the month to the fourth Monday.

Jessups to Entertain Graduating Students at Home Wednesday

President and Mrs. Walter A. Jessup will entertain students who are graduating from the University of Iowa at a reception at their home Wednesday from 8 to 10 p. m. The affair is a traditional courtesy given annually to candidates for advanced degrees as well as to those who will receive undergraduate degrees at the June convocation. Wives and husbands of members of the graduating classes will also be included in the guest list.

Assisting President and Mrs. Jessup in the receiving line will be the deans of the various colleges. The wives of the deans, Dean of Men Robert E. Rlenow, Dean of Women Adelaide L. Burge, and Les Blanche Corder, director of the school of nursing, are to be the presiding parlor hosts and hostesses.

Prof. W. R. Miles Gains Membership in Academy of Sciences

Prof. Walter R. Miller of Yale university's psychology department, an alumnus of the University of Iowa, has been elected to membership in the National Academy of Sciences, according to word received here yesterday.

Professor Miles studied for two advanced degrees—his M.A. in 1910 and his Ph.D. in 1913—under Dean Carl E. Seashore of the graduate college, head of the psychology department, who is himself a member of the National Academy.

Membership in the academy—one of the highest honors which can come to a scientist in this country—is limited to 270 of the most notable contributors to scientific knowledge. Not more than a dozen are psychologists.

BOOK REVIEWS

Edited by Virginia Maxson

New England Chronicle

As the Earth Turns, by Gladys Hasty Carroll, Macmillan, 1933. $2.00.

Quietly the seasons roll and bring to Mark Shaw's rugged Maine farmstead the changes of time flowing eternally. Marriage, birth, death come for these people of the hill country within a year's cycle. And their life goes on—firmly rooted in the soil which bears them livelihood.

The Shaw family is Jen's family—capable, serene young Jen with strong arms and firm body, Cora Shaw, enjoying patent medicines and fashion magazines, is content to leave the household to her 19 year old stepdaughter. Accepting it happily, matter-of-factly, as she accepts all life, Jen bakes brown bread, packs sponge cake off to Oly at college down east, braids bouncing Bun's pigtail, stitches overalls for little John.

Oddy Assorted Family
Deeply content in nature's spectacle of snow-swept winters and soft spring bringing fresh growing things and wobbly calves, Jen does not bother to analyze her oddly assorted family.

In their veins flows the blood of rugged, taciturn Mark Shaw. In herself and in Oly, who was different somehow with his passion for books and deep talk and long speculative silences, in shiftless George, footloose Ralph, and stylish silk-stockinged Lize is also a train of thin, far looking Minnie Foote. Minnie, Mark's first wife, who had been clever at figures and wrote a pretty hand. Plain, freckle-faced Bun, sturdy young John, and Lois May who dreams of errant knights and lustrous ballrooms, were Cora Webster's children.

They go away to places where are telephones and radios; they come back in airplanes and leaving Fords. But Jen stays on; "stick-in-the-mud" she calls herself. Swarthy Stan Janowski smiles at her deft, sure motions, thinks of his own empty kitchen. The girl does not respond—except to rumple his thick dark hair as she pops a bean pot in the oven.

Blunt Simplicity
The story is simply chronicled. Without pretensions, it lays bare the unglamorous lives of this New England family. What "The Good Earth" did for China, "As the Earth Turns" is probably intended to do for America. On a far paler scale, it does. Perhaps the shadow of Pearl Buck's novel still lingers too strongly. They are alike in much—the uncolored recounting of homely incidents, the blunt, almost ungrammatically crude style, the earnestness tinged with gentle humor.

Mrs. Carroll's novel lacks the scope, the depth of "The Good Earth." Convincing, yes—as far as it goes. Too much, in spite of efforts to penetrate, it scratches only surfaces. Unconsciously the author has idealized her people, her picture of farm life, the beauty of simplicity. She strives for bare realism, but the uglier side is too beautiful.

Economic Epic

The March of Democracy, by James Truslow Adams, Scribners, $3.50. Reviewed by FRANK JAFFE.

"The world is just beginning to realize that much of the debasement and vulgarization of old values which it has been fashionable to consider as Americanization is in truth but the working out everywhere of a too-rapid development of the mechanization due to the industrial revolution and of the modern democratizing of political machinery."

Thus James Truslow Adams strikes the keynote of the second and final volume of The March of Democracy. This volume traces the development of the United States from the Civil war to the election of Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Evaluates History
"History, like human nature," says the author, "is vastly complex." So he tries to hold the balance even, giving historic events and their significance to the times a true evaluation. If there is too much space devoted to the Civil war period it is only because that period so deeply affected the years up to the turn of the century. If he spends too much time on economic developments, inflation, free-silver campaigns, currency ups and downs, it is only because they have to do with the money motif of the capitalistic system, and this democracy.

The mass of detail included in the narrative is the result, it seems, of patient, able sifting. Hackneyed tales and oft-told legends are here made more hackneyed, but they are part of the tradition of America, and of the March of Democracy. Without them, the book would not be complete.

Explains Whys and Wherefores
The story behind the story makes this history book interesting. What was behind the spoils system, high tariff policies, free lands for the railroads, the Pullman strike, the Haymarket riots, Civil war pensions and graft, Coxey's army? Most people know that those things were, without knowing the why and wherefore. Adams breaches this gap in the popular mind.

Hundreds of illustrations, photographs, newspaper clippings, facsimiles of documents, broadsides, cartoons, form a vital part of the volume.

Recent Aspects Best

The story of the World war and the post-war period is probably the best portion of the book. Political, social, and economic consequences of the war are analyzed, recorded, and commented upon in a frank, forward-looking manner.

The world crisis that was heralded in 1929 by the stock market crash is depicted in no detached manner but with the same perspective that Author Adams has given the other economically-depressed periods of our history. And yet, although admitting prophecy is no part of the historian's task, he closes with this brief comment:

Prophecies Future

"... The economic barriers of the world have been broken, however politicians may try feverishly to reconstruct and patch them up. A new era is dawning, the nature of which no man can forecast. For good or for evil, the United States will be forced to play its part. The most interesting, the most important, and, let us at least hope, the greatest pages in our history are those which must await the hands of the historian of the future. We can but end our own task here."

Omaha Journalist-Author

Son of Earth, by Howard Erickson. Dial, 1933; $2.00. Reviewed by PROF. SAM B. SLOAN.

A few years ago H. L. Mencken declared that most American fiction of real significance was coming out of the middle west. Here is another corn belt novel to be added to those of Willa Cather, Ruth Suckow, Cornelia Cannon, and Herbert Quick. The author, I believe, is an Omaha newspaper man; but all of his story is laid in Iowa, most of it among the Danish farmers in the northwestern part of the state.

Gold Digger Victim
He falls in love with a pretty-faced, empty-headed girl named Adelaide; then the inevitable ensues. He finds himself holding the sack, after she has strung him along for his money and run away with another fellow. His spirit broken and his pride humbled by his vain struggle to win this girl, he goes back to the Danish settlement that used to spell anathema to him, and tries unsuccessfully to fit once more into its round.

Soon he marries a woman coarsened by age and time—his early Danish sweetheart—who makes of him virtually a hired man because she runs him, the place, the money, and everything else. He marries her because he is too powerless to resist her.

Sentimentalists Beware

It is a grim, sinister tale full of the discords of pain, cruelty, and defeat that are organic in life. The timid and sentimental should leave it alone. Those who are of a more courageous, resolute cast will enjoy it, I think, because of the unflinching honesty and truth with which it is told. It may not be pleasant; but neither is life now and then.

IOWA'S LAKESIDE LABORATORY

Maintained primarily as a field station for the study of botany and zoology, the Lakeside laboratory is open to graduate students and to undergraduate students who meet certain requirements in these two subjects. The view above shows the laboratory as seen from West Okoboji lake in northern Iowa.

Iowa Lakeside Laboratory to Open Study Term June 20

Iowa Lakeside laboratory, owned by a group of alumni of the University of Iowa, and operated as a field station by the graduate college and summer session, will open its term of study for the twenty-fifth consecutive year at West Okoboji lake June 20 under the direction of Prof. G. W. Martin.

The courses are open to graduate and undergraduate students who have had the equivalent of a year's work in botany and zoology. They are particularly designed to give teachers such familiarity with the common plants and animals of the central United States as can be obtained by extensive study during the most favorable season.

During the two terms, the first ending July 22, and the second from July 25 to August 25, courses in field botany, botany research, field zoology, and zoology research will be offered.

The work in botany and zoology is given on alternate days so that the student may take both subjects during the session or devote his entire time to one.

Advanced work and research, under direction, is also provided. Credit for work accomplished up to a maximum of five semester hours for each term is recorded by the university, and may be transferred to other institutions.

The laboratory occupies a plot of one hundred acres on the west side of West Okoboji lake. West Okoboji is connected with East Okoboji

L. O. Leonard Will Deliver Radio Talks

L. O. Leonard—graduate of Iowa, railroad builder, telegraph official, newspaperman, historian—will speak over stations WOC-WHO at 2 p.m. on Tuesday in the first two talks on his experiences in the old west.

The son of Nathan R. Leonard, acting president of the university in 1867-8 and 1870-1, Mr. Leonard went west shortly after completing his engineering course here. He soon took an active part in construction work, organizing the Rocky Mountain Telegraph lines, and laying track centers for the first railroad in Montana, the Utah and Northern.

The talks are in honor of the founding of Anaconda, Mont., which he remembers as the site of a sheep ranch.

Mr. Leonard was personally acquainted with many great pioneers, and in later years wrote a series of articles for the Salt Lake Tribune. He is now historian of the Rock Island lines with headquarters at Chicago. Formerly, he served in a similar position with the Union Pacific railroad.

J. Petersen, instructor in Iowa history here, in compiling a history of the two railroads. A special room in Old Capitol is reserved for the filing of his data, said to be one of the finest collections of original data on railroads owned by any person in the United States.

His second talk will be broadcast May 16 at 2 p.m. over WOC-WHO.

Robbins to Lecture

Prof. Charles L. Robbins of the college of education will be one of the summer school lecturers at the Danebod folk school at Tyler, Minn., on July 2 and 3. He will speak on "Growing or just growing old," and "The small town and its school."

Luther Brewer's Life

A VARIED AND admirable life experience had Luther A. Brewer who died in Cedar Rapids early Saturday morning. College graduate, journalist, bibliophile, master printer and bookmaker, teacher, politician, churchman, fraternity man, home lover and friend, he was active and eminently successful in all these phases of human endeavor, and in all of them he will be greatly missed.

Those who knew him best will ever be grateful for his influence, for his keen and helpful criticism, his generous appreciation of work well done, his honesty and frankness, his hatred of flattery, insincerity, and dishonesty, and his eager, generous assistance to all those who were earnestly trying to follow the road that leads to the light.

Coming to Cedar Rapids soon after graduating at Gettysburg college, he had a little taste of law, and on March 8, 1887, climbed the shaky stairs of the old and primitive Republican building to begin his work as news writer and editor. In November, 1889, he was persuaded to take a place in the business office. Soon he became business manager, then part owner, later sole owner.

While Washington seethed with comment on the speech of Premier MacDonald in London, in which he asserted that he and Roosevelt had agreed that the economic parity at London in June cannot be a success unless the war debt problem were settled, Roosevelt went quietly ahead with his plans.

"We are in agreement that a fixed measure of exchange values must be re-established in the world and we believe that this measure must be gold." "Political tranquility is essential for economic stability and economic disarmament can take place in a world in which military disarmament is possible."

The above three statements are indicative of the trends of all the conferences with foreign representatives that Roosevelt has participated in so far. They point to definite results in obtaining sound currencies, trade agreements, and stability of exchange values before the London conference is over.

With world trade only now beginning to loosen from its static condition of the last few months and with business starting an upturn on a wave of increasing farm prices and heightened optimism, with banking stability in the U. S. now becoming an established fact, it appears that there is now more basis for hope of an early death to depression than at any time since 1929.

her honor, than there could be in a dozen bulletins and form letters.

Not only in the fraternities, but to everyone, there ought to be a similar reminder. There are enough days left before the coming week end to get letters home, and to make enthusiastic plans for a real celebration in mother's honor.

The Reason Why

SHOULD ANYONE be inclined to bitterness over the refusal of British reactionaries to subscribe to President Roosevelt's tariff truce he need only to review recent American history to discover that the house of commons is merely taking a page from the book of American politics.

It is as though the Republican congress which was so conclusively evicted in November had packed its bags and moved across the sea into the house of commons.

After the war this country committed itself to the tariff policy with the advent of Harding, pushed it even further during the Coolidge regime, and carried it to the extreme under Hoover.

Until the very last, Britain maintained her attitude of fairness and insisted upon a free trade policy. So did France and Switzerland and Argentina and most of the other nations of the world.

Then and only then did the world begin to retaliate. Great Britain, a traditionally free trade nation, set out on the destructive road of tariffs. Other countries followed in her wake.

Now the United States—the worst offender of all—asks for a tariff truce! The United States is sincere in that request, for this is not the government which committed the tariff crimes. That government is dead. But its influence will be felt too long abroad.

TODAY'S TOPICS

First Ramsay MacDonald, then Edouard Herriot, now Guido Jung, Italy's representative to the conversations with President Roosevelt in Washington, have been reported as being in agreement with this government's proposals.

"We are in agreement that a fixed measure of exchange values must be re-established in the world and we believe that this measure must be gold." "Political tranquility is essential for economic stability and economic disarmament can take place in a world in which military disarmament is possible."

"The central banks of the various nations should by concerted action attempt to provide such adequate expansion of credit as may be necessary to support constructive work, avoiding as much as possible the use of credit for illegitimate speculative purposes."

And there is basis in these facts: 1) Steel mills are turning out three times as much of their product as a few months ago; 2) Railroad carloadings took the sharpest jump of the year last week; 3) Railroads last week used 42,706 more cars than were used the previous week, a total of 535,676; 4) Wheat was up 30 cents from a few weeks ago, with other grains moving up gradually; 5) 117 banks reopened on an unrestricted basis last week; 6) New York bank clearings were up almost $1,000,000; and $7,000,000,000 was added to the value of shares listed on the New York stock exchange.

That is why those who began work with Mr. Brewer continued to work with him, decade after decade. Some of them even now are a part of the Torch Press organization which he established.

And that is a good test of an employer, and a man. —F. J. L.

The Personal Touch

WITH AN ACTIVE week end just past, another one is in store; instead of calling high school students to the campus for a state contest, invitations will be issued to the mother of each Iowa student to visit her boy or girl.

It's several days until the schedule of events planned for mothers will begin, but that very fact makes it the more timely to make sure that mother gets her invitation. The pledges and fraternity freshmen will be busy this week, getting chapter letters of invitation written and mailed, and there will be other forms of official invitations sent, but that doesn't seem quite enough.

EXAMINATION SCHEDULE

Second Semester, 1932-1933. Wednesday, May 24, 8 a.m., to Thursday, June 1, 4 p.m. The regular program of class work will be suspended, and the following semester-examination program substituted for it. Classes will meet for examination in the rooms in which they have been regularly meeting (except classes in SPECIAL GROUPS A, B, C, D, E, and F, as shown in the form below; and Speech (2), (3), and (4) as shown at "N.B." below).

Table with columns for Exam. Period (Wed. May 24, Thu. May 25, Fri. May 26, Sat. May 27, Mon. May 29, Wed. May 31, Thu. Jun 1) and rows for 8-10 A.M., 10-12 A.M., and 2-4 P.M. containing exam details for Special Groups A-F.

CONFLICTS: In case of conflicting examinations the student should report to the instructor in charge of the first of the two conflicting subjects as listed (read by columns), within the particular group, who will arrange a special examination. Report to him, or her, not later than regular class hour on May 8 and 9.

The first meeting of the class means the first lecture or recitation period in courses having both lectures and recitations, and laboratory periods; or, in the case of courses involving only laboratory periods, the first recitation of the first weekly meeting. For example, chemistry 22 meets for lectures T Th S at 8. The first regular meeting is, consequently, Tuesday at 8, and the class will meet for examination Thursday, May 25, 2 p.m., according to the tabular form above. Again, physics 126 meets twice each week, T, F, for a three-hour laboratory exercise, 1-4. The period for the examination is, therefore, Wednesday, May 31, 2 p.m.

N.B. All sections of freshman speech (2), (3), and (4) will meet on the days and at the periods designated below: (For rooms see departmental bulletin boards.) 1. Wednesday, May 24, 8-10: course (2) AA, AC, BA, BB, BC, DA, DB, DC 2. Thursday, May 25, 2-4: course (2) BA, BB, BC, DA, DB, DC 3. Friday, May 26, 2-4: course (2) IA, IB 4. "ODD" classes, namely those whose first or only weekly meetings occur on Wednesdays, Thursdays, Fridays, or Saturdays, or which meet "as arranged," will be assigned for examination, as announced to each such class by the instructor in charge of the class, at one or another of the following periods: 1. From 4 to 6 on any day from May 24 to June 1, inclusive. 2. Any one of the examination periods assigned, as indicated above, for the examinations in the SPECIAL GROUPS, A, B, C, D, E, and F, since for such "odd" classes these five examination periods will be found quite available.

In connection with any such announcement it would doubtless be well for the instructor making the announcement to ascertain whether any member of his class is already under appointment for examination in some other class for the proposed period. To be sure, it is possible to have examinations in more than one class at any of these times,—if no student is a member of more than one of these classes.

According to one clause in the formal faculty action providing for a special semester-examination program, "the instructor may use the examination period as he sees fit provided he holds the class for the full period. He may have an oral or a written examination, or both, or neither. He may continue regular work or he may use the time for review, or for any phase of his work which may seem to him desirable at this time."

According to another faculty regulation, which is on record as adopted by the faculty, a student absent from the final examination should be reported "Abs." unless the instructor recognizes that his work up to this examination has been a failure, in which case the final report should be "Fd."—even though the student may have been absent from the final examination. No examination should be given, subsequently, to such a student until after the absence has been excused by the Committee on Admission and Classification, as shown by a partially filled special report card, signed by the Secretary of the Committee, as indicating that the absence has been excused and that the student is authorized, subject to the consent and at the convenience of the instructor concerned, to take the final examination.

BEHIND THE SCENES - IN HOLLYWOOD - By HARRISON CARROLL

HOLLYWOOD—They're still trying to sift the material more carefully, but every producer has a fond eye for musicals these days. Paramount has succumbed to Thomas Mitchell's "Cloudy with Showers," and is even willing to bring Mr. Mitchell out here to adapt his work for the screen. The plan is to film the Broadway attraction with Jack Oakie, Burns and Allen, Mari Colman and Elizabeth Young in leading roles. Maybe you don't know some of these people. Both Miss Colman and Miss Young are newcomers from Broadway—only two of the many recruits that economy-bent producers will introduce to you this year. The Oakie fortunes, however, are not threatened with the slump that has so many established stars worrying. Jack fits into musicals. He'll probably do better this year than in any recent twelve-months. He's already set, you know, to be featured with Skeets Gallagher and Harry Green in another tune-film "Every Man for Himself."

More than 100 natural photographs, 54 of which were placed on display in the lobby of Iowa Union late last night, form the travelling photographic exhibit to be shown here during May.

The show is the work of the Omaha, Neb., Camera club, which has as its president Dr. Thomas A. Gardner, dentist, 26, who until last July 1 was director of the bureau of dental hygiene here.

A diversity of subject matter marks the Omaha show, and in the opinion of Benj. W. Robinson, director of student employment, the exhibit compares favorably with the travelling shows that have been displayed here during the year.

"It is interesting to notice what our midwest neighbors are capable of doing in photographic art, and how their work compares with the recent-all-university salon," he said.

The Omaha show will be displayed in two sections. The 54 photographs now displayed will remain until the middle of the month, when the remainder of the prints will be put up.

Nearly 400 Witness Motion Picture Air Movement Showing

Nearly 400 persons saw a motion picture demonstration of various air movement phenomena which was shown in the Englert theater under the auspices of the student branch of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers yesterday morning.

Pictures of sound waves taken at the rate of 40,500 exposures a second with a special cinematographic process was the feature of the program.

Flight of a bullet and its passage through a glass bulb, flow of air through orifices and nozzles, turbulence resulting from sudden closing of various types of valves, and the flow of air around airfoils and propeller blades were other pictures taken at high speed and shown in slow motion.

Flight of swallows, albatrosses, and pigeons were shown both in normal and slow motion.

Sound pictures illustrating principles of the autogyro and of the modern steam turbine concluded the six reels of pictures. The autogyro was hailed as the "Wings of tomorrow."

Pershing Rifles End Regimental Assembly at Formal Luncheon

Pershing Rifles second regimental assembly ended yesterday noon with a formal luncheon given at Iowa Union in honor of the visiting officers of the society.

Ten R.O.T.C. cadets, officers of Pershing Rifles companies at the University of Nebraska, University of Missouri, University of Minnesota, and Washington university of St. Louis, Mo., came down for the assembly which is held at the regimental headquarters every year, now located at Iowa.

The visiting officers reviewed the cadet unit Friday during the federal inspection, watched the crack squad of the Iowa Pershing Rifles company drill, and inspected both units. Organization and purposes of the society were discussed. New officers elected at the assembly meeting were Joe H. Kanak, colonel of the second regiment, and Carlyle N. Klise, captain-adjutant of the headquarters.

First brigade assembly of Pershing Rifles will be held May 12 and 13 at Lexington, Ky.; both Clarence E. Wood, present colonel of the regiment and Joe H. Kanak, now captain-adjutant, will attend as representatives of the second regiment.

KIDNAP VICTIM'S MOTHER, BROTHER

Here are Mrs. Neil C. McMath, mother of 10 year old Peggy, who was kidnaped from her school at Harwichport, Mass., and Francis McMath, 7 year old brother of the kidnaped child. It was Francis who brought first news of the abduction to his parents when he returned from school and told of her leaving in an auto. Mrs. McMath joined her husband in a pledge to keep faith with the abductors if Peggy was returned safely.

VARIATIONS on a THEME

By EDMUND J. LINEHAN

They've all gone home, these 3,300 boys and girls who have been filling the air with music for the last four days. It was a good show, and they seemed to like it; and it's a safe bet that a lot of the boys around here liked it.

Dean McKee, who helped win a superior rating for Shenandoah's class A marching band yesterday, is the son of W. Dean McKee, president of the Iowa High School Music association; and T. W. Keenan, member of the state board of education, is the father of Culver Keenan, who helped the Shenandoah outfit to victory in equal measure.

There's nothing like a busy place that has suddenly ceased to be busy. The lobby of the Union was like that last night. It looked more like Iowa Union and less like a metropolitan railroad waiting-room, it is true. But it seemed as though something was missing. Ah, we have it—something was missing! The festival!

At the stadium: All the cute girl drum majors... the girl who lost her shoe in the mud as she marched with her band on the east side of the field... the East Waterloo trumpeter who lost his cap... the Boy Scout who retrieved and returned it... the picture of Teddy Roosevelt painted on the drum of Roosevelt high... the smoothness of the music and marching of Iowa Training School's band... the terrific blast of 15 massed bands doing "The Stars and Stripes"... the souvenir-hunters confiscating all the festival programs at headquarters... the sudden rush of business at the lost and found department when people were getting ready to leave.

Prof. Charles B. Richter, who was in command of the musical end of the festival, spent most of his time behind the scenes. Only twice did he make a public appearance—playing in the university orchestra the other night, and yesterday, when he directed the marching band event at the stadium. Most of the time he spent behind office doors, compiling results.

Ames Woman Will Give Radio Talk

Mary Mumford of the child development department of Iowa State college, Ames, will give the second radio talk of the new series sponsored by the Iowa Child Welfare Research station at 8 p.m. tomorrow over station WSUI. Her subject is "Are you reading poetry to your children?"

Miss Mumford will discuss the means of building up an appreciation of poetry, and explain the characteristics of good poetry for school children, giving examples. She will tell how to read poetry well after it is wisely selected and will make clear the advisability of each family making its own collection of poetry.

Head of Chinese Journalism Department to Speak Here

Vernon Nash Will Talk on China's Literary Revolution

Vernon Nash, chairman of the journalism department of Yenching university, Peking, China, will speak on "China's literary revolution" in the senate chamber of Old Capitol Wednesday at 4:10 p.m.

For six years Mr. Nash has taught journalism in China. He has been here for more than a year as exchange professor of journalism at the University of Missouri.

In his talk he will discuss the language changes which have made possible a mass education movement that it is hoped will take China from a low to a high rate of literacy in a generation. It is this change that H. G. Wells says will be marked by future historians as the most significant happening in our time.

Mr. Nash served as Y.M.C.A. secretary with the British army in India and East Africa from 1917 to 1919. For the next four years he was publicity secretary of the Kansas City Y.M.C.A.

As a newspaper reporter Mr. Nash worked on the New Bedford, Mass., Standard from 1914 to 1915. He was news editor of the Maryville, Mo., Forum during the next year. In 1916 he received a Rhodes scholarship from Missouri. He received his M.A. degree from the University of Missouri.

Tomorrow Set as Last Day to Order Senior Invitations

Tomorrow is the last day in which to order senior invitations. Orders are to be placed at the alumni office in Old Capitol.

Seniors may order single or more copies of the invitations. Special rates are made on half dozen or dozen lots. Samples of this year's invitations may be seen on bulletin board's about the campus or at the alumni office.

Programs listing the events of Commencement week are included in the invitations this year, for the convenience of visitors.

Suicide Verdict

DES MOINES (AP)—Coroner William Carpenter pronounced the death of Nathaniel C. Barnes, 55, Des Moines businessman, suicide. He was found shot to death in his office.

Ripley Explanations

The monster monument: One of the most original monuments to be found anywhere was erected in 1897 by the city of Stuttgart, Wuertemberg, in honor of the centenary of Wilhelm I, first Prussian King to become German emperor. The loyal burghers chose for the purpose the petrified body of a prehistoric fish, measuring 12 feet exclusive of the head. The diameter of its throat is 6 1/2 feet. Its age has been computed at about 10,000 years. It was already an ancient prehistoric relic in the days of the Flood.

Broker's Tip Turns in Big Upset to Capture Kentucky Derby

AND AGAIN THE COLONEL WINS

One of the closest finishes in Derby history saw an entry of Colonel Bradley upset the heavily played favorite for the second straight year at Churchill Downs yesterday. The picture below is that of Broker's Tip, the Bradley horse which nipped Head Play, depicted in the middle picture, in a nose finish. Charley O, shown in the lower picture, was third, with Ladysman, favorite, out of the money in fourth place.

SPORT

by EUGENE THORNE

BROKER'S TIP won the Kentucky Derby yesterday in a finish that left the big crowd gasping; Col. E. R. Bradley marked up his second straight upset in the historic Churchill Downs classic as well as his fourth win; and our hunch, incredibly, was right as to the winner. It was another of those races which make the track game such an interesting sport. Upsets pack the thrills into any sporting event, what make the sport itself, in fact.

There was an unfortunate occurrence in connection with the Derby, though, when Jockeys Meade and Fisher on Broker's Tip and Head Play, respectively, battled down the stretch and came to blows in the clubhouse later. Fisher claimed a foul immediately following the race in which his mount was barely nosed out. He claimed that Meade had fouled him in the stretch, but in retaliation he was seen to strike at the latter with his whip. Probably both boys were to blame, but then in the heat of a competition as close as was this, nerves are bound to be on edge.

UNIVERSITY high still reigns supreme in the eastern Iowa Little Seven conference on the cinder paths. Yesterday they won handsily in the conference meet with their great captain and star, Van Phillips, showing the way at every turn. Competing in six events, the husky athlete turned in four firsts, a second, a third and two record performances to collect a total of 25 points which is no small achievement.

Van ranks as one of the outstanding high school quarter-milers in the state in addition to showing up nicely as a shorter dash man. His two records yesterday were set in the 440 and 220 and in addition he won the 100 yard dash, the only other track event he competed in. He handily won the javelin and then placed second in the broad jump and third in the discus to complete his day's work. He is also an outstanding half-miler, an event he did not run. At present Van is planning to enter the university next fall and here's hoping he doesn't change his mind.

ANOTHER great Iowa high school track performer held the spotlight at Clinton yesterday as he has in every meet in which he has participated. For the second time this year he turned in a time of 9.7 seconds for the century, better than most college runners can do. He likewise handily won the 220 and the broad jump. Carl Nelson is his name as you must suspect and it will surely be appreciated by Coach George Bresnahan if he matriculates at Iowa. All it would take to turn out good teams in every sport at Iowa would be to get all of the state's athletes here. They take a back seat to none in the country.

Head Play Barely Beaten in Race Which Finds Ladysman Behind Charley O in Fourth

Jockeys Come to Blows Following Tingling Finish; Winner Pays $19.85 for $2; Second Straight Win for Col. E. R. Bradley

By ALAN GOULD (Associated Press Sports Editor)
CHURCHILL DOWNS, LOUISVILLE, May 6 (AP)—Roaring down the stretch in one of the most thrilling, bitterly fought two-horse finishes in the 59-year history of the classic Kentucky Derby, Broker's Tip carried the famous colors of Col. Edward Riley Bradley to triumph today, by a scant nose, over the speedy Head Play in a smashing upset that hurled back the east's challenge to the thoroughbred resources of the bluegrass.

Nowhere at the start and only eleventh in the three year old field of 13 around the first turn, Broker's Tip handed the form-players a terrific jolt. The dark, powerful son of Black Toney-Porterese came with a sensational rush on the far turn, passed the tiring Charley O and Ladysman, the favorite, and then battled Head Play, nose and nose, in a tingling duel of horse flesh and rough riding right down to the wire.

Jockeys Battle
First one, then the other colt moved ahead as they came tearing toward the finish, every nerve straining and every heart in the crowd of 35,000 beating wildly. It was so close at the finish that most of the onlookers had no idea which horse had won until the official result was posted. The race itself was so hotly fought that Jockey Herb Fisher, on Head Play, filed a protest on a charge he had been fouled in the stretch by Don Meade, the winner's rider. The protest was disallowed, while the judges withheld the official result, but Fisher and Meade were still so excited that they started to trade blows in the dressing room before companions pried them apart.

Beaten off badly in the closing drive, Charley O, owned by Mrs. R. M. Eastman and Ladysman, star of the W. R. Coe stable of New York, finished away back in the third and fourth positions. Charley O was five lengths behind the pace-setters and Ladysman two more lengths in the rear.

Second Straight
The closest derby finish since Whiskery beat Osmond by a head in 1927 marked the second straight victory for Col. Bradley, astute master of Idle Hour farm of Lexington, and the fourth in the famous Kentucky breeder's record string of triumphs. His previous winners were Behave Yourself in 1921, Bubbling Over in 1926 and Burgoon King last year. It is the first time any owner has captured the rich prize two years in a row. The victory this year carried a net value of $48,925 to the victor, plus the $5,000 gold trophy, the customary rose wreath and the wild cheers of those who saw their confidence in the Bradley colors exceedingly well placed.

Jack Quinn Signed by Cincinnati Reds

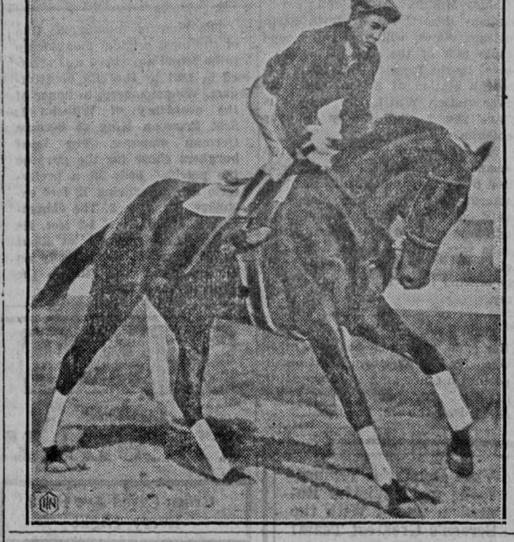

NEW YORK, May 6 (AP)—Jack Quinn, veteran spitball pitcher released last week by the Brooklyn Dodgers, today was signed by the Cincinnati Reds.

If the 47 year old hurler, one of the three spitball moundmen in baseball, makes good with the Reds he will round out 30 years of playing in organized baseball. He played his first major league ball with the Yankees in 1909 after five years in the minors.

(By the Associated Press)
Gabby Hartnett of the Chicago Cubs eluded a home run, a double and a single in four times up against Boston yesterday and climbed back into the Big Six of baseball, shoving Johnny Vergez out of third place in the National league. Fred Schulte failed to hit in five attempts and dropped from the top of the Big Six to second on the American league list, yielding the major league lead to the idle Johnny Frederick as he lost 21 points. First place in the American went to Sam West, who hit once in four tries.

Nelson Sets Two Marks to Lead Clinton to Track Win

CLINTON, May 6 (AP)—Led by the brilliant Carl Nelson, Clinton high school turned back the challenge of more than 3 Iowa and Illinois high school track and field brigades today to repeat its triumph of last year in the annual Gateway classic.

Nelson performed in outstanding fashion to crack the records in the 100 and 220 yard dashes and came close to the Gateway standard in the broad jump. He also anchored the winning half mile relay team to lead his mates in piling up a point total of 69 1-2, setting a new meet record for team points.

Nelson reeled off the century in 9.7 seconds to crack the existing mark by a tenth of a second. He came back in the furlongs to shave three-tenths of a second from the mark of 22.4 which he set last year.

Rockford's five-man squad led the Illinois teams and scored 33 1-2 points to take second place. Davenport high was third and Proviso township high of Maywood, Ill., Gateway champion in 1930, took fourth.

Browns Drive Grove From Mound as A's Get 8 to 6 Victory
ST. LOUIS, May 6 (AP)—Lefty Grove, pitching ace of the Philadelphia Athletics, was knocked out of the box today by the St. Louis Browns but the Athletics piled up four runs in the third and won 8 to 6.

The Browns got to Grove for seven hits in five innings. His wildness resulted in five passes.

U. High Wins Little Seven Title Again

Postpone 2 Diamond Contests With Iowa State to May 30-31

The two game series between the Iowa and Iowa State baseball teams, which was tentatively scheduled as a doubleheader for yesterday following Friday's rain, has been postponed until May 30 and 31, closing the season on the Hawkeye field.

Wet grounds prevented the games yesterday and Coach Otto Vogel and Coach Louis Menzies of Iowa State decided to call off the contests for the present.

This week, the Iowans will play four games away from home. Leaving Tuesday night, they will meet Notre Dame Wednesday and Thursday at South Bend, going to Evanston for games with Northwestern Friday and Saturday.

Golfers Split Two Matches at Finkbine

Sophs Down Ambrose as Varsity Bows to Cyclones

The Hawkeye golfers broke even in dual matches yesterday, defeating St. Ambrose, 13 1-2 to 4 1-2, and losing to Iowa State 7 1-2 to 10 1-2.

Handicapped once more by the nemesis of a morning round in which the Iowa doubles took the short end of a play, 5 to 1, the singles players were unable to overcome the huge lead. Coach Kennett's charges made a desperate attempt to catch up with the Ames lads in the afternoon with Fred Beck shutting out his opponent, Carl Gath, 3 to 0, and Ralph Harmon, taking low medal score for the day with a 78 to beat Karl Melenbacher, 2 1-2 to 1-2, but Iowa State held on to its slim margin of victory tenaciously.

Sophs Win Easily
The Iowa sophomores had easy pickings in St. Ambrose, making a clean sweep of the matches, running up 4 1-2 points in the doubles and 9 in the singles. While the medal scores in the St. Ambrose contest were decidedly higher than those in the Iowa State match, Herb Dill made the second low score of the day, gathering a 79 in a singles play against James Minett. John Jacobson was the only Iowa man to blank a St. Ambrose player, shutting out Howard Urie, 3 to 0.

The Hawkeye squad showed the results of Coach Kennett's training in concentration on match play, with the sophomores coming through in fine style to run up a big score against the Davenport players.

The summaries:
Iowa 7 1-2; Iowa State 10 1-2
Doubles—Harmon and Van Epps (I) 9; Bowman and Melenbacher (IS) 3. Schlanger and Beck (I) 1; Tabor and Gath (IS) 2.
Singles—Harmon (I) 78, 2 1-2; Melenbacher (IS) 80, 1-2. Schlanger (I) 80, 1; Bowman (IS) 80, 2. Van Epps (I) 0; Tabor (IS) 80, 3. Beck (I) 88, 3; Gath (IS) 88, 0.
Iowa 13 1-2; St. Ambrose 4 1-2
Doubles—Vanderwicken and Clark (I) 2 1-2; Rogers and Minett (SA) 1-2. Stromsten and Dill (I) 2; Urie and Carmody (SA) 1.
Singles—Vanderwicken (I) 80, 2 1-2; Rogers (SA) 88, 1-2. Jacobsen (I) 82, 3; Urie (SA) 88, 0. Carmody (I) 83, 1 1-2; Stromsten (I) 85, 1 1-2. Dill (I) 79, 2; Minett (SA) 83, 1.

Play Today
Three members of the varsity squad and three freshmen are included in the personnel which will represent the Finkbine Country club in a match at the Rock Island arsenal today at Rock Island in the first of a series of matches. The undergraduate portion of the team is composed of James Gardner, Herbert Dill, Calvin Kay, John Stromsten, Edward Sheldy, and George Clark, while the remainder of the team consists of E. G. Blackstone, R. A. Miller, F. L. Hamberg, C. E. Rasley, R. W. Nelson, and Charles Kennett.

Two other matches are scheduled for this season: Waterloo Country club at Waterloo, May 14; and Davenport at Davenport, May 21.

Nelson, Cub Rookie, Wins Long Contest

Young Pitcher Starts 3 Run Rally for 9-6 Victory

BOSTON, May 6 (AP)—Lynn Nelson, rookie right hand pitcher of the Chicago Cubs, was the "big shot" today as the National league champions came through in the thirteenth inning to defeat the Braves 9 to 6. It was the second extra inning contest between the teams in as many days, Boston winning in 11 frames yesterday.

Nelson took the hill in the eighth inning after Malone had been pounded rather freely and Bush had allowed a run in the seventh. In the remaining six frames Nelson subdued the Braves with two hits and finally he started the rally that won his own game by clouting a double to open the thirteenth.

Demaree singled to send Nelson to third and after two outs Stephenson was passed to crowd the corners. English came through with his fourth single to drive in two runs. Stephenson took third and came home on Manager Grimm's base hit.

Although the Cubs made 18 hits off Eddie Fallenstein and Fred Frankhouse, who was charged with the loss, before he yielded to a pinch runner in the eighth Hartnett made a homer, his fourth of the season, a double and a single. He tied the score twice and started a two run drive in another inning.

Indians Nip Yankees, 7-6

Take Second Place in League; Ferrell Gets Win

CLEVELAND, May 6 (AP)—The Indians proved slightly more effective than the mighty New York Yankees at the old game of pasting the pellet today and won the first game of their series, 7 to 6.

With Averill leading the attack, the Tribe socked Pipgras, Moore and Brown for 13 hits and managed to hold the lead from the third inning on. The Yanks, however, threatened in almost every frame. They equalled Cleveland's 13 hit total and drove Wesley Ferrell to cover in the seventh. Sarge Connally finished the game but Ferrell got credit for his third victory of the year.

The Indians' triumph gave them undisputed possession of second place, as the Chicago White Sox were idle, while the Yanks' second defeat in three games in the west reduced their lead to a half game.

Averill walloped a triple, a double and a single and drove in three runs. Score by innings: R. H. E. New York110 002 101—6 13 1

Whitehill Downs Old Mates, 6-2

DETROIT, May 6 (AP)—Earl Whitehill, late of the Tigers, and Carl Fischer, a former Senator, met today in the first game each had pitched against his old teammates and Whitehill won, pitching Washington to a 6 to 2 victory over Detroit.

Buddy Myer, Washington second baseman, was struck on the head by a ball pitched by Wyatt in the eighth and was carried unconscious from the field. He had recovered consciousness when he reached Providence hospital where he will be held overnight.

Phillips Gets Four Firsts to Pace Blue

Sets 2 Records; Shot, Discus Marks Go to Warren

By JACK GURWELL (Staff Writer, The Daily Iowan)
MT. VERNON, May 6—University high's record breaking track ace, Capt. Van Phillips and Martin Warren, led the Blue and White to its third straight Little Seven conference track title here today by collecting six first place wins between them, four of them record breakers, and accounting for 35 of their team's total of 52 points. West Liberty upset the dope by forcing Tipton into third place, nosing out the runner-up favorites for second place with 39 points. Tipton took third with 35 points.

Scoring 25 points for high point man with four firsts, a second, and a third, Captain Phillips was easily the star of a program featured by the breaking of records in 10 events. After opening his performance by successfully defending his 100 yard dash championship, the big river school athlete a few minutes later gave a great exhibition in winning the 440 yard dash in 52.5 to break his old record. Taking the lead from the start in this event, he overcame a one yard handicap to beat Walrab of Mt. Vernon by a wide margin.

New Mark in 220
Phillips accounted for a new record in the 220 yard dash, running it in 23.5 after competing in the javelin throw, which he won, and in the broad jump and discus throw, in which he took second and third respectively. He was by far the busiest man on the field and gave an excellent account of himself.

Martin Warren, second high point man with 10 points, set new records in both the shot put and discus throw. He threw the shot 42 feet 2 inches to beat out Tiffany of West Liberty. His throw of 165 feet 10 inches in the discus forced the favorite, Hise of West Liberty, to take second.

L. Lind, Tipton hurdle star, broke the first record of the meet when he won the 120 high hurdles in 11.5. Lind won easily over his teammate, Martin, who forced two West Liberty men, Felton and Phillips, to take third and fourth.

New Mile Record
The new mile run record went to Connor of West Liberty, who won when Ed Joy faltered after setting the pace for three laps. Swift of Mt. Vernon nosed Joy out for second and Littel of Mt. Vernon took fourth. The half mile was run in record time by Cook of Tipton. He had little trouble staying off challenges in this event to run it in 2:06.5.

In the 220 low hurdles, Bob Schnoebelen forced the winner, Yeoman of Monticello, to a new record when he ran better than expected to take second. Phillips of West Liberty took third and McCollier of University high fourth. Lind of Tipton failed to get by the fifth.

Stock Market Slumps With Profit Taking

Suffers First Important Setback Since April 21

NEW YORK, May 6 (AP)—The stock market retreated today under a barrage of profit-taking that brought the first important setback in the buoyant trend since April 21, last.

The Associated Press-Standard Statistics average for 90 representative shares lost about 2 points compared with the April 21 recession of three.

While trading was just about as yesterday, transfers aggregated 2,094,000 shares for the two hour session.

Brokers generally were inclined to characterize the market's reversal as a "healthy reaction" which was technically overdue.

At the same time the New York stock exchange reported the short position, as of May 1, was 1,415,330 shares, a decrease of 49,544 shares from the figure of April 3.

Conflicting influences were present in varying degrees. Of considerable encouragement to the followers of the advance were the freight car loading statistics for last week which disclosed a total of 533,076, an increase of 42,706 over the previous week.

Similarly, Cram's reported that the automobile industry was continuing its steady upward trend, with the week's output estimated at 51,436 units.

This was a gain of 2,355 over the previous week. Steel production showed further increases.

On the other side of the ledger there was a late rally of the dollar in foreign exchange markets. An overnight jump in the British pound sterling and French franc put those bellweather currencies to around $4.06 and $4.75 cents, respectively, and the pound later slipped back to about its closing level of yesterday and the franc replaced its gain with a loss of around .14 of a cent.

Suffer Losses Shares that suffered losses of 1 to around 3 points included those of Allied Chemical, American Can, American Tobacco, American Telephone, Santa Fe, Auburn, Consolidated Gas, Corn Products, Delaware & Hudson, Du Pont, General Electric, Goodyear, Liggett & Myers, Northern Pacific, Pennsylvania, Public Service of New Jersey, Southern Pacific, Union Pacific, United Aircraft, U. S. Steel, Westinghouse and Western Union. The oils and metals generally were only off fractionally.

Recovery of the market was expected to be temporary, and the general feeling was that the market was in a "wait and see" attitude.

Recent Rain Brings Total of 8.71 Inches Precipitation during the 24 hours preceding 7 a.m. yesterday, nearly three-fourths of an inch, brought the total rainfall for 1933 to 8.71 inches. This is .03 inch above the 37 year norm compiled by Prof. John F. Reilly of the mathematics department.

Up to this time, rainfall for the year has been below normal. Highest temperature recorded Friday by Professor Reilly was 44 degrees; the lowest was 42 degrees.

think if he knew that we were still living in the flat.

"They never heard from him. "That's because we've had the telephone taken out," Mrs. Farrell decided. "He's probably tried to call our number, and because he can't get it he undoubtedly thinks we've moved out."

"He could find out by telephoning Aunt Ella or Mrs. Puckett," Mary Faith reminded her. "We'll hear from him pretty soon. Certainly he'll begin to wonder where you are and whether you're all right or not."

But the June roses withered and died in Halthorpe Park, and July came in bringing with it midsummer heat that was like the breath of a blast furnace, and still they did not hear from Kim.

One night they came home from the picture show and found him sitting in his roadster in the street outside the apartment.

When he saw them he got out of it and came across the sidewalk to them. In the fan of light from the vestibule he looked very big and handsome in a pale gray suit that Mary Faith had never seen before.

At first she thought he had come back to her and her knees turned to water and her heart beat like a triphammer.

"Why, Kim!" she said simply. "I want to talk to you, Mary Faith." He gave her a cold level look from his gray eyes, and turned to his mother. "How are you, Mother, and what are you doing here? Until tonight I thought you were safe and sound in Garrettsville with Aunt Ella."

"No, I'm safe and sound right here in my bed," said his mother. "Mary Faith and I thought we'd be more comfortable here, so after you left we stayed on."

"How do you manage it?" He followed them into the flat and waited while they turned on the lights in the little sitting room. Then he sat down on the arm of the Turkish leather rocker just inside the door, balancing his gray hat on one knee.

It was Mary Faith who answered him. "I got a job, Kim," she said, "and we cut down expenses here. We had the telephone taken out and we stopped eating meat and doing a lot of other little things that meant spending money. We get along very nicely, don't we, Mrs. Farrell."

"We certainly do. We may not have all the luxuries of life," admitted Kim's mother, "but at least we're not accepting charity from anybody, and we're not stuck in a boarding house or a miserable country town..."

Kim wasn't listening to her. His eyes were on Mary Faith's face. "Did you send sixty dollars to McIntire and Westover about a month ago?" he asked her.

"I did, Kim. I knew that you wanted to send it yourself, in all probability, but that you were too stiff-necked ever to do it, and so I sent it for you. Why do you want to know about it, Kim? Have you heard from Mr. McIntire?"

He nodded his blond and handsome head. "He sent for me last Friday," he said. "He told me that he admired the spirit that prompted me to return that money, and pulled a lot of that sort of talk on me. I didn't know what he was driving at, but I had brains enough to keep my mouth shut. He told me he thought I'd learned my lesson, and then he told me I could come back to work for him if I wanted to."

"And did you?"

"Of course. I was starving to death down there in the Towers Building. If I hadn't gone back to him I'd have had to get a job somewhere else. . . . For a week I've been wondering about that money, and tonight it occurred to me that you might have sent it to him. I knew that you and Jack Maldon were the only two people who knew that I never had turned it in at the office. I telephoned Mrs. Puckett's but she told me that she hadn't seen you in weeks. So I came around here."

Recovers Daughter

Neil C. McMATH of Harwich, Mass., who issued a plea to the kidnapers of his 10 year old daughter, Margaret, to be "kind to the child." His guarantee of immunity to the kidnapers was frustrated by a "leak" somewhere, which resulted in the recovery of the ransom money paid and the holding of two brothers by the police.

U. S. Victor in Cup Play With Mexico

MEXICO CITY, May 6 (AP)—The United States Davis cup team today defeated Mexico in the first round of the North American zone when George Lott and John Van Ryn turned back Eduardo Mestre and Alfonso Unda in the doubles, 6-0, 6-1, 7-5. The U. S. won both singles matches yesterday.

The victory carried the United States into the second round, where the team will meet the winner of the Cuba-Canada tie, which will be played at Hot Springs, Va., May 11, 12, 13.

Two more singles matches will be played tomorrow but they will have no bearing on the series. Wilmer Allison, captain of the invaders, will meet Esteban Reyes and Clifford Suster will match strokes with Dr. Ricardo Tapia, leader of the Mexican team who won the first set from Allison yesterday.

wife of a prominent eastern turfman, paid $5.52 to place and $4.05 to show. The stout son of My Play, sold for $30,000 and a percentage of the purse, if he won the derby, looked like the winner in another romance of racing until Broker's Tip nosed home in front.

Charley O, Florida derby winner and strongly backed by western horsemen, paid only $3.84 to show.

The distribution of consolation money out of the aggregate net purse of $58,925 gave $6,000 to Head Play, $3,000 to Charley O, and $1,000 to Ladysman.

Although the fifty-ninth derby turned out to be a surprising two-horse race, in which the winner's time of 2:06 4/5 was five seconds short of the record, it developed enough thrills in the stretch duel to leave most of the onlookers gasping with some doubt as a result of riding tactics which led to Jockey Fisher, on Head Play, twice raising his whip to strike his rival, Meade.

Grain Market Prices Slump With Selling

CHICAGO, May 6 (AP)—Surprise on a large scale, associated with rumors that France would abandon the gold standard, made wheat prices lurch downward today. Official denials came later from Paris, but not until after wheat trading had ended.

All deliveries of corn, oats and rye rose to record new high prices for the season, largely as a result of prolonged adverse weather indicative of corn crop dangers later on. For a moment at the start, May wheat contracts outbid by 1-8 cent the season's previous top, but fell later with the wheat market as a whole.

Wheat closed unstable, 1-2-7-8 under yesterday's finish, corn at 1-2-1-1-2 advance, oats 1-8 off to 1-8 up, and provisions unchanged to a rise of 15 cents.

Irregularity of grain markets showed itself from the outset. Heavy selling orders from eastern sources gave a quick decided jolt to the wheat pit, and this in turn staggered the corn market, which had not been directly affected by any unusual selling. Speculative demand for corn, however, quickly broadened on price setbacks, and the impetus carried corn to the highest point since November, 1931. On the rally, wheat hovered around the season's top quotations, but weakened again under selling to realize profits.

Rains were general today east of the Mississippi, further hindering field work in the corn belt. Oats sympathized with corn.

Provisions chiefly reflected corn strength.

Grand Jury Refuses to Indict Berry on Embezzlement Charge

Judge Orders Charges Held to Next Term

Olsen Claims Evidence Discovered for Study

Once more former County Treasurer Charles L. Berry has been freed by a Johnson county grand jury of a charge of embezzlement and once more he has been held over under bond for further investigation by the grand jury for the next term of district court.

No indictment was returned against Berry when the jury for the May term of court reported early yesterday.

Upon application of County Attorney F. B. Olsen, District Judge H. D. Evans ordered that the charge against Berry be submitted to the grand jury at the September term of court. The judge further ordered that Berry's bond of $20,000, signed by George Gay and R. J. Prybill, be continued until that time.

County Attorney Olsen, in asking that the case be continued, said that additional evidence had been discovered during the session of the grand jury and that this evidence and that presented at the February term "would certainly be sufficient evidence under the statutes of Iowa to warrant an indictment."

The grand jury was in session approximately five days and returned four indictments, none of which have been made public. Members of the jury, impaneled Monday afternoon, were Leo E. Kohl, Iowa City, foreman; Michael Beecher, Hog Grove; J. W. Dwyer, Scott; J. H. Floerchinger, Oxford; W. W. Musgrave, Penn; G. J. Rarick, Pleasant Valley; and Edward O. Smahel, Jefferson. Mr. Dwyer, Mr. Kohl, Mr. Smahel, and Mr. Rarick also served on the February grand jury which failed to return an indictment against the former treasurer.

Berry was arrested Jan. 14 on a charge of embezzlement by a public officer after he was found responsible by Judge Frank Beechly for a $20,000 shortage in county funds. The civil hearing, in which Johnson county sought to trace a discrepancy of that amount between Berry's books and those of the First National bank, lasted nearly two weeks.

Following his arrest Berry was released on $20,000 bond after he entered a plea of not guilty and waived to the grand jury when he appeared before Justice of the Peace Elias J. Hughes.

Olsen Cites Reasons for Continuation

County Attorney Olsen, in his motion to re-submit the charge to the grand jury, outlines developments of the case since the civil hearing which began Jan. 4 in district court.

He tells of his objection in open court as county attorney on behalf of the state of Iowa to the return of a no bill by the February grand jury and his request that the case again be submitted in May. At that time he stressed the fact that the decision in the civil case on the same questions as were involved in the grand jury investigation was made by "one of the most able judges of the state" and was at that time a record of the county and of the court. He added that there was "ample evidence, which if unexplained would warrant a conviction by a trial jury."

Additional Evidence

The motion states that "during this session of the grand jury additional material evidence was discovered and presented so that if the evidence presented at the February 1933 term was ample, that evidence together with this additional evidence would certainly be sufficient evidence under the statutes of Iowa to warrant an indictment."

It points out that the same grand jury of 12 acts throughout the year and that seven jurors are drawn by lot from the panel for each term. Because of the limited specific grounds upon which the state can challenge individual jurors there is a possibility that the membership will not be materially different at the next term.

May Investigate

The county attorney expresses his belief that it may be possible that the new grand jury selected in 1934 would investigate the case if it was not re-submitted by the court. However, dismissal of the charges now and reopening of the case by the grand jury next year would necessitate the recall of necessary witnesses at a great deal of expense. When the case is re-submitted the minutes of testimony already taken may be used by the jury.

The motion concludes that "for the reasons given and in the interests of justice, the state of Iowa, through me as county attorney, respectfully asks that the charge of embezzlement against Charles L. Berry be again submitted to the grand jury under the provisions of Section 13732 of the Code and that the defendant be held on bail until the next term of this court."

AROUND THE TOWN with DON FAYOR

Frolic-at-Law

For failure to heed the little red tags which it is the habit of the police department to leave on automobiles parked too long in one place, Paul Toomey and R. C. Davis, attorneys, were arrested yesterday by Police Officer Wesley Sedvec.

Act II

F. R. Boyles, unsuccessful candidate for county attorney at the last election, sensed the frolic and offered to pay the victims' fines providing they leave town. Ingalls Swisher, attorney, offered to "square" the charge on the same condition.

Act III

In the same spirit, Attorneys Toomey and Davis prepared an original notice giving warning that they intended to file a petition in district court charging Police Judge H. W. Vestermarck with false arrest and asking judgment against him and his bonding company in the amount of $5,000. Vestermarck's bond is $1,000. The law firm of Messer and Nolan and Mr. Swisher signed the notice as attorneys for Toomey and Davis.

Act IV

Police Judge Vestermarck explained his stand thusly: "I will do my duty to the full extent of my authority. Like Judge Bradley at La Mars I will not submit to intimidation or threats."

The Legion's Share

Ed Hogan of Iowa City is one of 11 members of the American Legion who have been appointed to state positions by State Treasurer Leo J. Wagman, according to the last issue of the American Legion Weekly. Mr. Hogan was formerly in the plumbing business and is a member of the legion, the Elks, and the Knights of Columbus. He becomes an auditor in the gasoline department of Mr. Wegman's office.

Handy Arrest

Friday night Joseph M. Bock and Delmer Schraeder of Burlington, musicians in Eddie Schneider's band, parked their car opposite the police station, and got out staggering. Police Officer Frank Burns walked across the street to help them stand up and arrested them. Yesterday they both were fined $5 and costs on charges on intoxication.

COUNTY Will Get Conservation Camp

The first marriage license of the month was issued yesterday at the office of the clerk of the district court to Albert H. White and Anna Marie Catherine Wennkamp. Both are from Amber.

Professor Shimek stressed the need of planting along the bluffs of the Mississippi river below Dubuque, along the Missouri river, and around the lakes in the northern part of the state.

The once thick forests which covered many of these slopes have been cleared away. The result has been the destruction of the soil in many cases and the gradual tilting of the lakes.

He stressed also the need for planting in the lowlands as well as along bluffs and in rough areas. Trees planted on flood-plains will save untold damage from floods, he said.

Another possibility for effective planting is along the highways of the state. Aside from their beauty, Professor Shimek pointed out that trees planted along the roads would serve as windbreaks, check erosion and stop snow drifts. With labor provided through the conservation corps, the cost of the project would be negligible, he said.

Deplores Lack of Planning

Professor Shimek deplored the lack of planning which he said seems to be characteristic of American enterprise. In Europe, he recalled, forest conservation and control of erosion has been an integral part of the national programs for years.

Sixty-nine Johnson county men will be given an opportunity to work in the Iowa conservation camps. Forty already have been chosen from a list of 100 applicants. If they pass their physical examinations, they will be given training for a short period before beginning actual work. Twenty-nine more will be chosen in the near future, according to Lucile Bruner, secretary of the Social Service league.

The location for the camp in Johnson county was not announced last night. It will probably be chosen soon by the county relief committee, of which Dr. W. L. Bywater is chairman.

The Associated Press said last night that the president is ready to approve projects on state, county, municipal, and private lands where

Spare Moments It's Back to the Soil When It Comes to Hobbies With Prof. Floyd A. Nagler

By Francis Palmer

Back to the soil is a tenet of Prof. Floyd A. Nagler when it comes to the matter of hobbies! At the crest of Melrose heights, fronting on Melrose circle and sloping back to the main line of the Rock Island railroad, is Professor Nagler's home and three acre "farm."

The rolling "estate" has been acquired gradually. It all came about on account of "Dimples" and the "ride," the extension, that is, of the Nagler Gesenese a year ago.

Dimples is a small, brown Shetland pony belonging to 8 year old Bobby. Formerly, the pony was stabled at North Liberty, but that was all too distant for convenience, and a pasture area was acquired adjoining Professor Nagler's lot. A barn was constructed and some day, when Phyllis is a bit older, a second pony may fill the empty stall—but that's another story.

Fixing It Up

"Fixing up the place" has occupied the spare moments of Professor and Mrs. Nagler since they built their home at its present site on Melrose circle 10 years ago.

Shrubs and bushes in profusion surround the house, and four umbrella-topped catalpas, a Lombardy poplar or two, and a birch tree stand in the front yard.

When decay threatened one of the birches, Professor Nagler's ingenuity came to the rescue, and an application of tree surgery prolonged the life of the tree.

Fish Pools

In a rear corner of the yard is a rock garden with a series of fish pools. Grottesque limestone rocks, colored sandstones, two heavy stones that may have been meteorites, delicate calcite crystals, a jagged piece of granite, a section of petrified wood, and various other types of stones—each of which has a history of its own for the Nagler family—make up this replica of rocky wilds.

Odd-shaped and parti-colored stones have been picked up by Professor Nagler in various localities of the state during visits to rivers in performing his hydraulic activities—as well as in other parts of the country.

Some came from Delaware county, others from the McGregor region, some from Pike's Peak, Colo., and from the Lake Ontario shores.

Miniature Lakes

Three miniature lakes at different levels are filled with running water during the summer. A pump lifts the water from the lower lake to the upper, where it emerges as a spring, trickles down into the upper lake, cascades into the second, and thence back into the first. The constant flow of the water aerates and freshens it, Professor Nagler explained. Exotic azaleas, rhododendrons, mountain laurels, and a carpet of creeping wintergreen border the lakes.

In the opposite corner of the lot is a vegetable garden, square with diagonal paths of grass which meet at a cross in the center. These divide the garden into four plots with rows of varying lengths—short rows for radishes, longer ones for beets, peas, and other vegetables. The center circle is sown with lettuce, two colors being sown in the shape of a star or other design.

A climbing-rose arbor forms an entrance to the garden. Nearby is a screen of "storified hazelnuts"—filberts in commercial parlance.

Bird Colony

A concrete bird bath near the garden attracts a colony of birds every year. No less than 13 families of wrens, cardinals, and robins built their nests in the trees and shrubs and birdhouses in the Nagler yard last year.

Back of the house lot is an orchard of young apple and pear trees half an acre in extent. A double grape arbor runs the full 300 foot length of the orchard.

Dimples' barn is situated in an enclosure on the farther side of the orchard. A lane leads a few rods away to the pasture—a triangular two acre plot of ground sloping sharply down to a marsh along the railroad.

"Pet"

Here is Professor Nagler's "pet" project. A small lake, stocked with fish and covered with the broad leaves of Amana lotus lilies, was visualized by Professor Nagler.

Already a concrete spillway has been constructed for an earth dam which will be built to impound the waters of Melrose creek. The site is directly below Melrose lake, skating rendezvous for Iowa citizens in winter, and on the opposite side of the railroad.

A weir on the spillway of the dam will enable Professor Nagler to measure the amount of water which flows from the 64 acre watershed that is drained by the creek.

In summer the marsh will dry and about September Professor Nagler plans to deepen the marsh bed with a steam shovel, building an embankment along the railroad right of way. A row of Lombardy poplars will be planted to screen the lake from the railroad. The spillway of the dam has been so constructed that the water level may be set at any desired height.

Picnic Spot

Below the dam will be a picnic spot and fireplace. Several old willow trees cast a shade here that lends a woody atmosphere to the place. The site is secluded, hidden from distant view, a row of hills meeting the horizon on either side.

The slope on which the pasture is located is an ideal coasting hill in winter. Professor Nagler remarked, recalling the days when as a boy he was forbidden to coast on vacant lots and dangerous streets.

Here, then, in his own back yard, as it were, Professor Nagler is creating a veritable vacation ground—a spot of almost wooded seclusion within the city limits—at the point, in fact, where the city limits are nearest the heart of town. Here he and his family will picnic on warm summer evenings, and "the kids" will spend many an afternoon angling for sunfish and "bullheads" in the lake!

the state executive gives assurance that he will urge the state legislature at the earliest possible opportunity to arrange to reimburse the federal government in the event a profit is realized.

Receives Wire

In connection with this announcement, President Roosevelt received the following wire from Governor Herring:

"Iowa welcomes the cooperation of the federal government in placing conservation work camps on state and private lands.

"If at any time in the future the state should derive a profit from the work it will favorably consider reimbursing the federal government for federal expenses involved."

Convicted of Murder

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Ralph Pierson, co-owner of the Buckingham Annex hotel, was convicted of murder today for the second time in connection with the burning of the hotel and the loss of seven lives, Dec. 5, 1927. The jury imposed a life sentence.

BREWER Rites to Take Place Tomorrow

Mr. Brewer attended Gettysburg college (then Pennsylvania college at Gettysburg, Pa. In 1884 he settled in Cedar Rapids, and three years later entered the newspaper field with the Cedar Rapids Republican; eventually acquiring the business.

He was married in 1893 to Eileen Taylor, who preceded him in death March 10.

Sold Republican in 1922

After selling his interest in the Republican in 1922, he devoted most of his time to the Torch Press, a job printing plant of which he had been president and owner for many years.

Mr. Brewer was president of the Cedar Rapids Art association, chairman of the public library trustees, and a director of the Cedar Rapids Auditorium association. He had practically retired from active business except for his interest in the Torch Press.

Survivors

Survivors include a brother, Frank Brewer of Hagerstown, Md.; a sister, Mrs. Winger Draper of Hagerstown; and several nieces.

Among those from Iowa City who will attend the funeral are Prof. Fred J. Lazell, who will serve as one of the pall bearers; Prof. Frank Luther Mott; Mrs. Franklin Roberts, housemother of Phi Gamma Delta; and the entire chapter of that fraternity.

This discovery saved me 20% on tires

LAST year I made a great discovery! I learned that Riverside Tires are made by the same company that makes one of America's 4 leading brands. They're exactly the same—same materials, same workmen, same specifications. They differ in trademark and price—Ward's price is 20% lower. What's more, Riversides are guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction.

When I heard that, I put them on my Packard and I've been using them ever since. That saving of 20% will buy a lot of things I need. No tire salesman will ever get me to pay extra for other tires again. I'm married to Riversides.

WARD'S RIVERSIDE TIRES

Ward's Unlimited GUARANTEE

Riversides are guaranteed to give satisfactory service regardless of time used or mileage run.

Any tire that fails to give satisfactory service will be replaced free of charge or repaired with a new tire, in which event you will be charged only for the actual service the tire delivered.

Any necessary adjustments will be made at any of Ward's 500 Retail Stores.

Trade in your worn-out tires for Riverside De Luxe

Graphic Outlines of History

By CHARLES A. BECKMAN

The Boston Tea Party

In 1770, England repealed the other Townshend taxes except the three-pence one on tea. When the tea ships from London arrived, and the authorities refused to send them back, a party of Boston men, disguised as Indians, boarded the ships and threw the tea into the water.

Proper equipment, professional capability and considerate courtesy are the qualities of our service that earn public approbation.
