Roosevelt Faces Gravest Decision as French, British Take Adverse Positions

Labor Gives Opposition to Carrier Bill

Claims Measure Would Prove Injurious to Workers

WASHINGTON, May 8 (AP)—The storm signals of a vigorous labor opposition were flying tonight before the administration's emergency railroad bill, just started upon its journey through congress.

Questions to put to witnesses before the house interstate commerce committee served to emphasize the belief of some of its members that railroad labor would suffer under the plan, which provides for a federal "coordinator" to help the roads eliminate unnecessary activities and reduce over-capitalization.

At the outset, Secretary Roper said frankly that "the bill is not offered as a solution of all transportation problems." He asserted that its "results will depend not so much upon the coordinator as upon the railway executives themselves."

Analyze Measure

Then Dr. Walter M. W. Splawn, the committee's expert, analyzed the measure.

Questioning during his testimony stressed the labor issue and at one point Splawn agreed that, unless savings under the coordinator plan were substantial and large, benefits would accrue chiefly to security holders.

"If very substantial economies are realized, some men and some roads will lose their jobs," Splawn said. "I do not think very large economies can be realized unless some men lose their jobs."

"Then the effect of the bill is to increase the purchasing power of bondholders and decrease the purchasing power of employees," commented Representative Wolverton (R., N.J.).

Will Testify
Tomorrow, Secretary Roper and Joseph B. Eastman of the interstate commerce commission will testify before the senate interstate commerce committee. Wednesday the house committee resumes with representatives of shippers and railroads on the stand.

In addition to the coordinator, the bill provides for repeal of the recapture clause of the transportation act and places railroad holding companies under the interstate commerce commission's control.

Raymond D. Jameson to Discuss Chinese Literature in Talk

Prof. Raymond D. Jameson, who teaches western literature in the National Tsing Hua university, Peking, China, will lecture on "Modern literature in China" this afternoon at 4:30 in the senate chamber of Old Capitol.

Professor Jameson has been a guest professor under appointment by the Chinese government since 1925, lecturing on occidental culture. He is a student of comparative folklore and has published several books on folklore in China. His latest book deals largely with Cinderella; the oldest complete Cinderella story in the world is in Chinese, according to his authority.

His lecture will be prefaced by a discussion of the temperament of the Chinese people and the reasons why they have developed in the way they have.

A graduate of the University of Wisconsin, Professor Jameson was enrolled in the honor section of the freshman English class in that institution as a student of Prof. Norman Foerster, now director of the school of letters at the University of Iowa.

His lecture here is under the auspices of the school of letters and the graduate college.

$300,000 Granted for Work on River

DES MOINES, May 8 (AP)—An allotment of $300,000 for construction of revetments in the Missouri river from Kansas City to Sioux City, today was approved by the war department.

The allotment was part of a total of $654,000 for work on the Missouri and Mississippi rivers. Of this $164,000 was for revetments in the Missouri river from Kansas City to its mouth, and $200 for dredging operations in the Mississippi river between the Ohio and Clarksville, Mo.

Currier, Eastlawn Women to Receive Refunds for Board

Refunds in boarding costs, totalling nearly $3,500, will be allowed university women eating at Currier hall and Eastlawn, university dormitories, it was announced yesterday by W. H. Bates, university secretary.

The rebates were made possible, he explained, because food costs have been lower during the year than first estimates had predicted.

As a result, approximately 155 women of Currier hall will receive refunds of 50 cents a week for the 36 week school year, and 79 women of Eastlawn will be allowed proportionate reductions.

Plans Made to Lift Iowa's Martial Law

Expect Civil Courts to Resume Work by End of Week

DES MOINES, May 8 (AP)—Iowa's "war" area will be restored to normal civilian conditions probably by the end of this week, state officials said today.

Adjutant General Charles Grahl announced that martial law will be lifted in Plymouth and Crawford counties, seats of record farm disturbances, tomorrow or Wednesday and that the bulk of the troops now stationed there will be withdrawn.

Grahl and Attorney General Edward L. O'Connor were on a tour of the disorder area today and expect to report to Governor Clyde Herring tomorrow that all is in readiness for reestablishment of civil courts.

Prepare Charges
The next step will be the preparation of charges against those involved in the maltreatment of Judge C. C. Bradley and in farm sale riots at Primghar and Denison.

Meanwhile, Milo Reno, president of the National Farm Holiday association, was busy today laying plans for the national farm strike called by his organization to begin Saturday. Reno, who conferred in Chicago yesterday with Clarence Darrow regarding defense plans for the alleged farm rioters, said no plans would be announced before Wednesday.

From other farm organization leaders came indications that their groups would not support the Holiday movement. H. J. Keeney, Nebraska Farmers union president, and Otto Pfeiffer, president of the Nebraska-Iowa Cooperative Milk association, said that a great majority of the Nebraska farmers would not take part.

"No Large Proportions"
Edward A. O'Neal, president of the American Farm Bureau federation, expressed the opinion last week that the strike "will not assume very large proportions."

O'Neal's statement drew a reply from Reno today that it was "exactly what might be expected from pussy-footed politicians and servants of special groups." He added that the Holiday group "does not need nor does it want the assistance of such individuals as Edward O'Neal."

Fear of violence in the strike was the reason.

Iowa Citian Returns on Furlough After Service in Far East

After two years of service in the Philippine islands, six months in Shanghai during the Sino-Jap wrangle last fall, and brief travels through the north of China and Japan, James Cooney, Jr., son of James Cooney, 307 Grand avenue, returned Sunday night to spend a two months furlough at home.

Mr. Cooney is an officer in the medical corps of the United States army. Stationed in the Philippines, he was sent with a regiment of the 31st infantry to Shanghai when hostilities broke out between China and Japan.

When his furlough has expired, he will re-enter service at a station on the east coast.

Judge Resigns

WASHINGTON, D. C., (AP)—Federal Judge James J. Lenihan of the Panama Canal zone, who was appointed to the post by President Coolidge, tendered his resignation to President Roosevelt. He was a former resident of Cedar Rapids, Ia.

Technicality Forces House to Delay Action on F. D.'s Plans for Relief, Inflation

Demo Leaders Hoped to Hurry Rejection of Amendment

WASHINGTON, May 8 (AP)—Ensnared by a technicality, the house was forced today to delay its foregone rejection of the "cost-of-production" amendment to the huge farm relief-inflation bill which leaders had hoped could be sent immediately to the senate for final action.

House Democratic leaders had lined up their huge majority at the outset today, determined to reject speedily the Norris-Simpson amendment, which stands as the only point in dispute between the two branches.

Pitfall
Success for the majority appeared close at hand. In fact, Speaker Rainey already had announced adoption of partial report wherein the house conferees had agreed on 52 amendments when suddenly the pitfall opened.

Representative Goss (Rep. Conn.), raised a point of order, blocking action. He charged the conferees had exceeded their constitutional authority by injecting into the measure new language which neither branch had approved.

The formal statement of the house managers confirmed Goss' contention and Speaker Rainey sustained the point of order. Democratic leaders said they were keenly disappointed over the unexpected delay.

Will Obtain Approval
Immediate steps were taken by Chairman Jones of the house agriculture committee to obtain approval of the report and rejection of the Norris-Simpson amendment tomorrow.

The rules committee late today approved a resolution to waive all points of order on the report. It must be acted on by the house tomorrow before the vote on the Norris-Simpson amendment.

It was under senate amendment that the house conferees made a change in language from "grain" to "any non-perishable agricultural commodity on the farm."

"This amendment," the conferees statement said, "authorizes the secretary of agriculture to advance a reasonable percentage of and benefit payment on grains stored on the farm."

"In any such case he is authorized to..."

Hold Rites for Luther Brewer

Scores of friends of the late Luther A. Brewer of Cedar Rapids yesterday attended the funeral of the 74 year old publisher, book collector, and art patron, and first instructor of journalism at the University of Iowa.

Funeral services were from the Brewer home in Cedar Rapids, with President Harry M. Gage of Coe college and the Rev. J. L. Gent, pastor of the English Lutheran church of Cedar Rapids, officiating. Interment was made at Oak Hill cemetery.

Pall bearers included W. R. Boyd, chairman of the finance committee of the state board of education and formerly associated with Mr. Brewer on the Cedar Rapids Republican; and Prof. Fred J. Lazell of the University of Iowa school of journalism, also a former associate of Mr. Brewer.

More than 30 Iowa Citians attended, including the local chapter of Phi Gamma Delta fraternity of which Mr. Brewer was national treasurer.

Four national officers of the fraternity were also among those present.

Annulment Granted to Husband Number Two

CEDAR RAPIDS, May 8 (AP)—Discovering that his wife's first husband, believed to have died in the World war, is still alive and now stationed in an army camp at Vancouver, B. C., Harold Tyerman has been granted an annulment of the marriage.

Mrs. Tyerman was married first in 1914 to J. J. Burton-Willison in Canada, and the following year her husband enlisted in the army. Nothing was heard from him and she says she believed him to be dead. In 1930 she remarried and only recently learned that husband No. 1 was still living.

WEATHER

IOWA—Showers, cooler in west and south portions Tuesday; Wednesday partly cloudy.

HOW ORPHANS PREVENTED WRECK

The fact that 500 commuters on the Erie railroad are safe and sound today is due to the efforts of these Passaic (N. J.) orphan asylum boys in flagging the express to a stop after they discovered that rains had washed away a portion of the tracks. "Tell Babe Ruth what we did!" was the only reward they asked. The Babe was deeply touched on being informed of the request and immediately responded by telegram.

Wilson, Byington Named as Wet, Dry Representatives

Seek Delegate's Post in State Vote on Repeal

(For lists of clerks, judges and speech summaries see page 8).
Preparing for a final showdown on the eighteenth amendment, advocates and opponents of repeal met in conventions at 11 a.m. yesterday and nominated candidates for the special election June 20, when Iowa will vote on the amendment to repeal national prohibition.

O. A. Byington, former district court judge, was chosen by a unanimous vote to represent the Johnson county forces opposing repeal and Attorney Edwin B. Wilson was nominated by the advocates of repeal as their candidate. Dr. T. L. Hazard became alternate delegate for the drys and Frank Volklinger for the wets.

Urgo Retainment
Before a crowded court room in the court house the dry speakers urged that the eighteenth amendment be retained for the good of society, for civic pride, and for morality. Claiming that many normally dry voters have been saturated with propaganda against the amendment, they urged the convention members to combat that propaganda.

Sounding a slightly different note than traditional prohibitionists, the convention leaders admitted that the eighteenth amendment has not measured up to all expectations. They contended, however, that it has done away with the open saloon and is the best liquor legislation yet devised.

Moderation
They asserted that it is not a contest of bone drys against wringing wets, but is a union of the forces of moderation, liberalism, temperance, and legal beer to retain the eighteenth amendment pending formulation of a worthy substitute.

At the American Legion community building, the repeal forces took an opposing view. They asserted that the eighteenth amendment has failed to regulate the liquor traffic, that it is a bootlegger's law, and that only dry fanatics regard it as successful. They pledged themselves to secure it repeal in favor of more acceptable legislation.

The people, contended the wet speakers, expressed themselves on the prohibition question at the November election, and have indicated that they want liquor laws worthy of respect.

Fishermen Recover Body
DAVENPORT (AP)—Fishermen recovered the body of Joseph Grangell, 63, Moline, who was drowned near the Le Claire locks April 23. Grangell was a government employe.

Body Sent to Vinton
VINTON (AP)—The body of David Edward Voris, who died in Fairhope, Ala., Saturday, was on its way to Vinton for burial. Survivors include his widow, Mrs. Lucie Bell Voris, and a sister, Mrs. Susan Brewer of Vinton.

Candidates Await Outcome of School Vote This Morning
Representatives of Johnson county school districts have a list of six from which to choose a county superintendent of schools when they meet at the court house at 10 o'clock this morning.

Candidates for the position are W. N. Leeper of Iowa City, present superintendent; Lucille Lacoock, Fred R. McNeal, John A. Larsen, Delma Harding of Iowa City, and Mrs. Aaron Rowe of Tiffin.

Four members of the county board of education will also be selected this morning.

President Advised Against Risking Control of Congress in Submitting Debt Problem

Enter Plea of Not Guilty in Kidnap Case

PROVINCETON, Mass., May 8 (AP)—Kenneth and Cyril Buck, Harwichport brothers, pleaded not guilty today in the kidnaping of 10 year old "Peggy" McMath and were held in $100,000 bail each for hearing May 22.

The district court was crowded with Cape Codders as the brothers, arrested Saturday after the child had been safely returned to her parents and the $60,000 ransom had been recovered in Kenneth's home, appeared before Judge Welsh.

"Another Party"
Kenneth, 28 year old unemployed chauffeur, created a furor shortly before his appearance in court by telling reporters that there was "another party" involved in the kidnaping but that he was withholding his identity because he was afraid of what might happen to his wife.

The young confessed kidnaper later retracted his statement and detectives reiterated their belief no one else was involved.

While awaiting arraignment Kenneth was asked: "Is it true that there is some one else in this case?" "Yes there is," he replied and began to sob.

"Can't Say Anything"
"I am between them and my wife," he said, "and I don't know what to do. I know I didn't do it and she knows I didn't do it. I can't say anything."

Asked if the "somebody else" had left him to take the blame he replied: "Yes; they ran away and left me." He answered "No," when asked if the person or persons he referred to lived in Harwichport.

Feels Sick
Prior to that Kenneth had complained of feeling sick. "I feel sick," he said. "I have had no sleep."

At first Kenneth said two other men were involved but later changed it to one.

"They dumped the kid on my hands," he sobbed.

Kenneth was arraigned on a charge of kidnaping and extortion while his brother, 13 years his senior, was charged with extortion alone.

Treasure Hunting Battle Looms as Coast Guard Acts

NORFOLK, Va., May 8 (AP)—The coast guard acted swiftly today to prevent a possible pitched battle at sea, sending a patrol boat at full speed to the vicinity of the sunken Ward liner Merida, where rival treasure hunting expeditions were reported.

A request for coast guard intervention was received by wireless from the tug Salvor, flagship of the expedition headed by Capt. H. L. Bowdoin. The message said the Salvor was over the wreck, about 60 miles off the coast, and asked aid to prevent "trouble with interlopers."

Captain Bowdoin mentioned no names but he was assumed to have referred to another expedition headed by Capt. John Hall, Gloucester fisherman, aboard the trawlers Theresa and Dan and Norge. The Hall expedition has been at sea about a week.

Believe Advantages of Recent Parleys Now Lost
WASHINGTON, May 8 (AP)—Concern spread over the capital tonight that a deadlock on war debts might amount to such that has been accomplished prior to the London economic conference.

Its source lay in word from Paris that the French cabinet had voted unanimously against paying the defaulted $19,000,000 December interest without assurance the June 15 payment of $40,000,000 would be postponed. From London, too, came indications that the British are insisting upon postponement as the price of joining the tariff truce suggested by President Roosevelt.

In spite of the general apprehension caused by these advices, the chief executive continued confident and faced what may prove the gravest decision of his administration to date.

Political Suicide
From Capitol Hill he had before him warnings that to seek power for adjusting the foreign debts at this time would be political suicide. Some of his advisers foresaw serious dangers to the atmosphere of international cooperation and good will necessary for success at London if the United States unyieldingly demands the $144,000,000 falling due just three days after the conference meets.

The French action showed American officials to their disappointment that the offer to accept the June payments in silver under a plan which would reduce them by about 30 per cent has not been acceptable.

Sharp Contrasts
The London and Paris stands contrasted sharply with the words of accord with which the president's recent conversations with the British prime minister, Ramsay MacDonald, and the former French premier, Edouard Herriot, concluded.

The opinion was freely expressed here that French and British insistence would make the president's task all the harder if he should go through with a plan he was known to be considering a few days ago for sending a war debt resolution to congress. Observers feared the attitude abroad would but crystallize congressional opposition to doing anything at all about the debts.

The president was being coun-

Begin Trial of Gaston Means
WASHINGTON, May 8 (AP)—The notorious Gaston B. Means was on trial today and on the witness stand across the room sat Mrs. Evelyn Walsh McLean, clutching a little black hand bag containing a rope of diamonds two feet long and jeweled bracelets worth a king's ransom.

As the bulky convicted swindler shifted in his seat, the distinguished woman, once fabulously wealthy and brilliant in society, composedly told with new details the story of how Means and Norman T. Whitaker, known as "The Fox," got from her $104,000 in return for a promise to return the Lindbergh baby.

She testified they then sought $35,000 more with which to replace the marked money which Col. Charles A. Lindbergh had paid out through "Jafie" in the vain attempt to get his child back, whose body even then was lying on a lonely Jersey hillside.

The jewels in Mrs. McLean's handbag were those she had turned over to a friend, Elizabeth Poe of the editorial staff of the Washington Post, with a request that she pawn them to get the needed $35,000.

Because Miss Poe became suspicious and talked to Mrs. McLean's lawyers, the huge hoax was uncovered and Means was sentenced to 15 years in the penitentiary. The money, has not been recovered.

Today Means and "The Fox" were on trial for conspiracy in attempting to get the $35,000. Mrs. McLean brought the jewels as evidence of their intent.

from HOUSE to HOUSE

Fraternity and sorority houses were crowded last week end as alumni and guests arrived for dances and rushing parties. Kappa Alpha Theta entertained 25 future Iowans at a series of parties and Tri Deltas gave a rushing tea Saturday. High school students here for the music festival filled vacant beds in the various houses.

Sunday dinner guests were on the increase while the number of students spending the week end at home decreased as the school year nears the end. Nine girls attended province conventions of two Greek letter organizations in Des Moines and Minneapolis while Alpha Chi Omega alumnae entertained seniors at a breakfast Sunday morning. Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity installed newly elected officers last night.

Twenty-three high school girls were feted at the Kappa Alpha Theta house at the sorority's annual rushing program last week end. Besides the rushesses, the sorority entertained Katherine Curtis and Lucille Steadman, both of Des Moines, and Erma Seddig of Davenport.

Ruth Fatherson, A3 of Oelwein, was Delta Gamma's delegate to a province convention in Minneapolis, Minn., last week end. Guests at the chapter house were: Irene Applequist of Rock Island, Ill.; Ruth Masters of Keokuk; Jeannette Winders of Mason City; Lucille Apple of Red Oak; Betty Atwell, Jessie Parrott, Jean Bronson, Jean Rolfe, all of Waterloo; Annabel Snuggins, Barbara Zaiser, Jean Daniels, Sally O'Brian, Juliette Peverill, Frances Mollenhoff, all of Des Moines; Elizabeth Childs, Maxine Lamb, Ellen Ide, all of Creston; Ruth Harmon and Jean Wilson, both of Clarinda.

Mrs. Dorothy Byron Bench, national president of Alpha Xi Delta, who was a guest at the house last week, together with eight members of the local chapter was in Des Moines last week end attending the province convention of the organization. Those from Iowa City were: Dorothy Hunt, A4 of Ottumwa; Mildred Bell, A4 of Mystic; Harriet Mason, A4 of Wilton Junction; Gertrude Mowry, A2 of Newton; Zelma Forsythe, A2 of Newton; Zelma Holetts, A2 of Swisher; Ellen Besack, A1 of Newton; and Mary Cresap, U of Iowa City.

May We Have Just a Moment of Your Time to Tell You of the Most Wonderful Mother's Day Package We Have Ever Had

First, it comes in two sizes of the finest chocolates the market affords—a 1 lb. and a 2-lb.

Second, on the cover of each package is an attractive and conservative Cara Nome compact of blue and silver.

Third, the compact, however, is empty as the perfume of the powder might taint the delicious flavor of these chocolates and, too, the powder might not be the right shade.

So—inside each box is an addressed postal card on which your Mother need only sign her name and check the color of powder desired and it will be mailed to her promptly and prepaid.

Fourth, it is a very beautiful package.

Fifth, these beautiful packages sell complete, delivered in town or wrapped for mailing at only $1.50 or $2.50, respectively.

Woman Dies After Crash on Highway

Death came to Mrs. Ella Saxton, 68, of Oxford, following an automobile accident at 1:15 p.m. yesterday as she was returning to her home from a repeal convention at the Iowa City court house.

Mrs. Saxton was riding with her brother, George H. Cotter of Oxford, when their automobile collided with a car driven by Bert Anderson a half mile east of the junction of U. S. highways 109 and 6.

The machines locked wheels and the Cotter car overturned, pinning Mrs. Saxton beneath. She died almost instantly. Cotter received a slight gash above the eye. Mr. Anderson was uninjured. Neither car was badly damaged.

Mrs. Saxton is survived by her brother, a son, E. J. Saxton of Tiffin, and a grandson, Ward Saxton.

Broadcast Musical Selections Composed by Iowa City Women

Musical compositions by three Iowa City women will feature a musical program to be broadcast over radio station WSUI from 9:10 to 10 o'clock this evening.

Mrs. Charles B. Richter, Mrs. Charles L. Robbins, and Mrs. Floyd A. Nagler are the three women who will be honored.

Mrs. Franklin Potter, who is in charge of the broadcast, will give a talk on "Iowa Composers," as a part of the program.

Sponsored by the State Federation of Music Clubs, this program is one of a series being given by the group throughout Iowa over various radio stations from time to time.

What Is the Iowa Campus Doing About the New Deal, and Vice Versa, Professor Asks

May 7, 1933

To the editor of The Daily Iowan: I am sure that most of your readers have been listening with me this Sunday evening to the words of President Roosevelt and have felt in them the same thrill which I felt.

How our president makes the simple Anglo-Saxon words carry his spirit to us! And how clearly he sees things, sees them in their naked simplicity.

On March 4 the new president found his country in a very sick state; it was sick physically and sick spiritually. The new policy had to be either one of deflation or of inflation; and further deflation would have threatened our very existence.

It is thus that he condensed the substance of many volumes of economics into a few words. Again, he places first things first. Our first business is to save America. Our second business is to help the world. That takes care of much heated debate on war debts and tariffs. The president is under no delusion that industry can bootstrap itself into prosperity by smiling. He does not take the antics of the stock exchange too seriously. Business and industry can be saved only by giving to the rank and file of our people a larger purchasing power. And that is the very heart of the matter. For 14 years now, ever since the war, we have been rushing madly, senselessly toward destruction—expecting to be saved by a miracle.

The Single Truth There is nothing obscure about any of these things, now but it took a Franklin Delano Roosevelt to say them. Roosevelt tells us the simple truth and we like it—there is the miracle.

But will he succeed? Can the will power of a single man carry the whole nation to a New Deal? That seems to be the question. And I am doubtful. Can Roosevelt and his little band of assistants in Washington teach us what we all must learn? The distressing thing about the depression has been the lack of cooperative thought—a banker always thinks like a banker and a farmer like a farmer and a college professor like a college professor—and college students attend classes. There alone in Washington our president and a little band of men are trying to fashion a new nation. Can it be done? We have asked for a leader and now by the grace of God we have one. But we have not deserved this. The Democrats nominated a man to give us beer; the people elected Roosevelt largely for a change. In other places and times a revolution has been accomplished as the drive of a determined party. Stalin and Mussolini and Hitler each have behind them a party willing to risk everything for their leader. In Washington we have a man, trying to save his country—alone. True enough we good people, even many of us who once opposed him, applaud him now—but for how long? Are we ready to stick to him as our leader all the way through the New Deal, through the mistakes that are sure to come? Where is his party, the brotherhood that will stick to the leader through right and wrong, determined at any sacrifice to make a new America?

Dangerous Things These are dangerous things which the new administration is doing. Their only excuse can be success. Political and economic usages are being scrapped. Debts are piling up. Foreign agreements mean foreign entanglements. Once adopting this policy there is no turning back. We must succeed. And to succeed we must as a nation have the will to win. We must back the team—we must back it as never before, for civilization itself is at stake. We must back the team. We must win.

How does this affect the campus? How does the new generation react to the new deal? Are our students alive to the responsibility which is theirs? Where except in our colleges will be recruited the corporals of this Army of America? Are our students learning to lead—has our college life been fundamentally modified in answer to the challenge of our civilization? Do we echo the call of our leader? Every important country save our own has a youth movement. Where is our youth movement? What are the ideals of young America?

New Awakening? Roosevelt needs support. How long will it be before the Roosevelt movement or the New America movement springs up on our campus, rallying every student? And how long before we get—all of us, students and faculty—a new awakening of the spirit? When will we learn to dream great dreams again? Our failure after all has been fundamentally a moral breakdown—we are not to be saved by a mere patching of the machinery. We need a new idealism.

We have cried for a leader. And now that we have a leader, who will follow? We must win this war. Why not start the New American youth movement right here at Iowa? What more gallant leader could we have as we march toward the new day than Franklin Delano Roosevelt? But he can't win the fight alone. (Signed) John A. Eldridge

Conservation and Beauty

THE CONSERVATION and beautification of natural Iowa wealth, a program of which Iowans have dreamed for years, will soon, in part at least, become a reality. As a part of the vast Roosevelt plan to return prosperity and employment, 16 U. S. forestry camps employing approximately 5,000 men will be set up in Iowa. One of those 16 camps will be in Johnson county.

Here, as in the rest of Iowa, there will be no trouble encountered in devising such projects as are included in the program. Reforestation and flood control are particularly needed. In Johnson county alone the opportunities for effective work are as numerous as the small streams and creeks that criss-cross the land.

Where 40 or 50 years ago along the banks of the Iowa river white oak and black walnut grew, the land now is bare. Gullies and creeks which empty into the river, as well as the land along its banks north of Butler bridge and south of Iowa City are also bare. Vegetation has been cleared away and the valuable top-soil of the land is disappearing. To halt utter desolation of some of this land steps must be taken immediately.

But conservation alone is not the only work possible in the program. Iowa has all the possibilities of a national beauty spot. Some of its parks and lakes are already known as such. There is no reason now why it should not become better known.

In every respect but one Johnson county particularly has for a long time been prepared for the president's program. The vast resources and knowledge of the university have always been at its immediate command. Comprehensive studies of the needs have been made by interested organizations.

Lack of the last essential now is no longer any excuse. Money worries have been taken over by the United States government. The county's needy will receive employment; the county's land will be rejuvenated, and its beauty spots will be renewed.

From now on no time need be lost in preliminaries.

Depression in Legislation

LEGISLATORS IN STATE governments did not produce so much law in sessions recently concluded as has been their habit in previous conventions. Although more "raw material" was available for the lawmakers, the average legislature passed 260 bills this year, as compared to 291 in 1931, and 331 in 1929.

The figures are those released by the American Legislators' association, following a national survey.

The legislatures lately adjourned have enacted about 7,000 laws, or nearly 1,200 less than in 1931. However, within the first four months of this year, more bills were introduced than during the entire sessions of two years ago. A total of 62,000 bills was sent to the floors of 45 state houses this year, compared to 59,500 in 1931.

The average legislature considered nearly 1,200 bills in its three month session, more than 12 per day. Pennsylvania, New York, and California lawmakers had the most work at hand, consideration to more than 4,450 bills being given in Pennsylvania, 4,400 in New York, and 3,900 in California.

The two legislatures which considered the fewest bills were those of Vermont, with 390, and Utah, with 400.

Iowa did not fall true to averages in the last session, increasing the total measures proposed from the 1,043 of 1931 to 1,130; 611 were introduced in the house, and 519 in the senate during the last sessions, with 598 coming from the house and 445 from the senate in 1931. The time of adjournment was, coincidentally, the same in both years, April 22.

"It would appear that the depression has affected legislative output," is the statement of the association which compiled the figures. The same might apply to both quantity and quality of legislation; tax reduction and financial planning, either directly or indirectly composed the greater part of the season's work both for Iowa and the majority of other states.

The subject opens up an entire field for thought and discussion. Have we already too many laws on our statute books, laws that are obsolete or worn out by constant violation? Should state legislatures seek to improve the quality rather than quantity of their measures? Do the bills passed represent so much sectionalism, special interest, selfishness or do they seek to serve the best interests of the entire state? These certainly are questions open to consideration.

No Empty Honor

AN UNUSUAL GROUP of high school freshmen, 10 boys whose average intelligence is greater than that of most first-year university students, will compete in Iowa

City today for the "Rhodes scholarship" of secondary education. The winner's award will be a $4,500 three-year scholarship at Culver Military academy.

The tests by which these contestants were chosen and by which the winner will be selected were devised by Daniel Feder, research assistant in psychology, who has served as adviser to the committee of judges.

The remarkable feature of the tests is that they measure not only academic attainment but personality. They cover knowledge of the complete high school curriculum, but they go further in estimating character, general intelligence, achievement, and individual traits.

Students competing for the honor will have a variety of experiences while in Iowa City. They will undergo a physical examination and medical tests. They will go before members of an educational psychology class for questioning. They will have personal interviews with the judges, in which every phase of their personalities will be probed.

How much more reasonably founded is this Culver award than are most scholastic honors, granted purely on a grade-average basis. If the plan is successful in Iowa as in other states, it should produce annually the high school freshman most likely to "come through." It should bring to the military academy an alert youngster eager for good citizenship, not an academic "grind."

The 10 finalists have emerged from rigorous preliminary tests. The Culver scholarship should find a worthy Iowa recipient this afternoon.

TODAY'S TOPICS

By FRANK JAFFE

Once more the general manager of the United States has made his report of operations to the stockholders, in a radio address over a nationwide chain Sunday evening.

As the Roosevelt administration moves into its third month, the amazingly swift loom of the national machine is becoming involved in a web of legislation and policies so intricate and varied that it is difficult to perceive a pattern.

Hence it was more than ever important that the process of the weaving be explained by the master weaver and that he point out, if there was a pattern, just how each strange thread was to become a part of it.

It had seemed to not a few that the pattern, if indeed there was one, was mostly accidental. A sudden bank moratorium, a gold embargo, inflation, farm relief, securities control, Muscle Shoals, railroad reorganization, almost absolute power over currency, the world economic conference. Where is the pattern? How do the pieces fit together and make sense?

Up to the present writing, four major laws have been enacted—emergency bank and gold control, $600,000,000 economy, beer, forest conservation—all by administrative sponsorship and guidance. Nine important measures are expected to be passed within a short time, several early this week. They include:

- 1) Farm relief-farm mortgage-inflation bill, awaiting house and senate agreement on one amendment.
2) $500,000,000 federal relief bill.
3) Muscle Shoals and Tennessee valley development awaiting decision by house on senate amendments.
4) Home mortgage $2,000,000,000 refinancing bill, passed by house, awaiting favorable senate action.
5) Securities - regulation bill, passed by house, senate prospects favorable.
6) Railroad reorganization bill hearings begun yesterday.
7) District of Columbia appropriation bill, reported to house for early action.
8) Gas-tax renewal bill, with "drop-letter" rate reduction from three to two cents and transfer of three per cent electric tax from consumer to producer, passed by house, due early approval in senate committee.
9) Independent offices appropriation bill, reported to house for early action.

Three other important legislative matters are pending:

- 1) Thirty hour work week bill, passed by senate, house labor committee rewriting after hearings. Administration plans for industry's self-regulation under government supervision will probably supersede this bill.
2) Glass bank regulation bill, waiting approval by senate banking committee, due early this week.
3) St. Lawrence waterway treaty with Canada, awaiting senate ratification.

And then there are two other Roosevelt proposals being awaited by congress: 1) Authority to scale down tariffs in concert with powers at world economic conference in June; 2) Construction program, bond financed and directed at unemployment relief, still in formative stage.

Cursory examination will show that through the entire program of enacted and pending legislation there runs a policy of social benefit, of federal expansion, of economic sanity. The unmistakable design of a national planning system is stamped over it all.

The constitution of the United States, the relationship between the branches of government, the check and balance, the high ideals of the nation's founders have all been given new meaning. Whether to say that the government is showing radical, socialistic traits or that it is simply exalting the rights of the "forgotten man"—multiplied by 124,000,000—is a matter for the concern of politicians and fundamentalists. In Roosevelt the nation trusts, which should be sufficient recommendation for his program.

Book Bits

(From Jennie Gerhardt, by Theodore Dreiser) The end came after four days during which Jennie was by his bedside almost constantly. The nurse in charge welcomed her at first as a relief and company, but the physician was inclined to object. Lester, however, was stubborn. "This is my death," he said with a touch of grim humor. "If I'm dying I ought to be allowed to die in my own way."

Keeping Up With the New Books

Henry Adams, by James Truslow Adams; Boni, $2.50. Reviewed by ROLAND A. WHITE.

By the gospel of biography according to Philip Guedalla, this book qualifies. It has less than 200 pages net text. It was intended to go with a collected edition of the subject's work, but has been issued separately. It is readable without being superficial.

But this work is neither perfect nor on a par with its author's "The Epic of America." No book about Henry Adams could be. The same aloofness which cut his ivory tower of learning off from life cuts his career off from significance of the first magnitude.

The man in the street will identify Henry Adams as great-grandson of one U. S. president, grandson of another. He was also son of the Civil War minister to England. His cradle groaned with heredity to which James Truslow Adams, no relative, but a believer in biology, pays homage—admitting, however, how sterile the best regulated family lineage is apt to be in a republic.

Family pride forbade business, and the right political post never came around. Henry thus went first into highbrow journalism, then into history at Harvard. His writings (publication delayed because of depression) are what make him important; his life was one of cultural contacts and profound thoughts.

If Adams was out of contact with the life of the spirit of past and distant times. Perhaps that is why the St. Gaudens statue over the graves of his wife and himself—without one word of inscription—deserves to be considered "the highest note ever touched in that nation" as a "figure of eternal calm, of utter selflessness."

Perhaps, some day, the pendulum will swing to an appreciation of the universal ponderings of Henry Adams. Meanwhile, he is a figure of casual interest to a nation preoccupied with other things.

STUDIO GOSSIP FILM SCANDAL SCREEN COMMENT

HOLLYWOOD—"If I could only live my life over again, knowing what I do now."

You've heard dozens of people say it. Now you're going to see a motion picture story about a man who actually got the opportunity.

Ben Hecht was the person who had the original idea for such a film. He submitted it to Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer and Edgar Selwyn immediately saw its possibilities. Within a short time he was on his way to New York to confer with Hecht.

The result of their labors is an almost complete script which Selwyn has just delivered to Harry Rapf.

They'll call this modern fantasy "Turn Back the Clock." M-G-M is planning to give it an all-star cast, and Selwyn expects to start shooting in about three weeks.

Due to its unusual nature, the production is exciting much comment in Hollywood.

Take it from Colonel W. S. Van Dyke, the Eskimos he brought down from the north are very little impressed by their visit. The other day he saw one of them examining a plough on the back lot at the studio.

With a grunt, the Eskimo turned away. "White man make very bad sled," he said, "only one runner."

HOLLYWOOD PARADE

Though the contract has not been signed, it is practically set for Wallace Beery to remain at Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer. He'll be teamed with Marie Dressler again in the Hungarian play, "Ferike as Guest." Before this picture, Wallie will take a European vacation. He leaves in June with Mrs. Beery and the little girl.

Radio engagements will delay Ed Wynn's arrival in Hollywood. Instead of this month, it may be July before the giggling comedian reports on the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer lot. Mae West hears that a New Jersey skipper has just named a river boat after her. . . And Mae Clark, out of the doctor's care again, was Cocoanut Groving the other evening at Arthur Jarrett's table. . . The friendship of Katharine Hepburn and Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., is progressing. The two of them went to hear Yehudi Menuhin's concert at the Philharmonic Auditorium. Incidentally, the Hepburn lass is turning down the autograph seekers. . . Marlene Dietrich with her daughter, Maria, and Josef Von Sternberg were other film celebrities who paid tribute to the child prodigy of the violin.

"Alice in Wonderland" may never be made by Mary Pickford. It would take Walt Disney one year to complete the drawings for the satire and Mary wants to set on the screen before this. . . Hollywood stars almost got to give Billy Crosby a surprise birthday party. Dixie Lee planned it, but Pickford found out and asked her to call off. He had tickets for the fight. . . Jack Oakie will be given the whole chapter in Peggy Joyce's new book about Hollywood. . . Talked to M-G-M officials over the wireless distance telephone yesterday. Irving Thalberg said he is in excellent health and will be leaving many in about a month.

Gandhi Gains Release From Prison at Start of Long Fast

Battles to Take Away Stigma of Nation's Untouchables

POONA, India, May 8 (AP)—The government of India released the Mahatma Gandhi from prison tonight a few hours after he had started the three week fast which physicians believe will cost his life.

The Mahatma, who has served 16 months in Yeroda jail for his civil disobedience campaign against the British government, immediately subordinated that campaign to the battle he is waging for removal of the stigma of India's untouchables.

Abandons Disobedience
The weakened little old man, a Messiah to unnumbered Indian millions, announced that for one month civil disobedience was being abandoned.

He made this announcement a few hours after he had eaten his last meal of fruit juice.

The Mahatma's hunger strike is directed not against the British but against his fellow Indians. Its purpose is to put an end to the discrimination against the untouchables, the lowest caste of the community. His campaign of civil disobedience has been directed against the British, its purpose being to obtain Indian independence. It was because of this campaign that he was sent to jail Jan. 4, 1932.

Own Free Will
Friends of the Mahatma asserted that his proclamation ending the disobedience campaign was given of his own free will, although it was for some time the condition stipulated for his release by British authorities.

In his proclamation Mr. Gandhi appealed to the government to answer his gesture with the release of all political prisoners and with the withdrawal of the so-called anti-terrorist ordinances, which were invoked by the government to cope with the civil disobedience activities of the Mahatma's followers.

A government proclamation issued at Simla said: "In view of the nature and objects of the fast which Mr. Gandhi is undertaking and the attitude of mind which it discloses, the government of India decided that he should be set at liberty. Mr. Gandhi accordingly was released this evening."

Dr. Margaret Spiegel, a German physician, started a sympathetic fast at Madras at noon, the hour when Mr. Gandhi began his. When doctors declared recently that the Mahatma's fast would be fatal she announced she would abstain from food also in order to try to make him desist. "He cannot let me die," she said.

A group of devotees was present when the 63 year old national leader began his abstinence. A medical examination had shown he had gained two pounds since Wednesday and his condition was described as fit, although he had no reserve strength.

Mahdev Desai, Mr. Gandhi's secretary, led the assemblage in prayer and in the singing of hymns. The Mahatma's head was covered with a red cloth to protect him from the intense mid-day sun. The Mahatma asked his guests to sit in the shade.

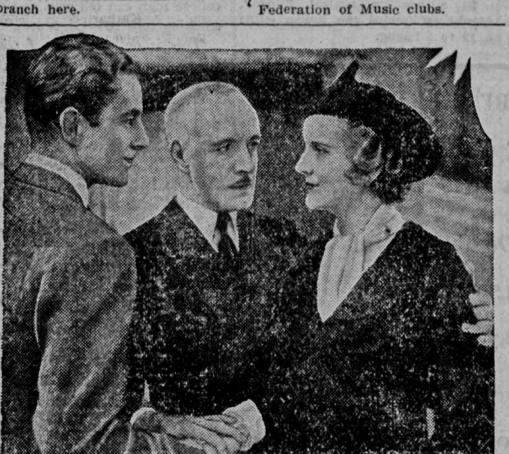

At the conclusion of the devotional service the nationalist leader asked the crowd to leave him and not to return as long as he continued to fast. He issued this statement:

"Every day brings me fresh justification for the ordeal which God and truth have sent me. The discoveries I have been making would have paralyzed me, but for my fast and whatever it may mean for the cause, it will certainly be my saving."

"Whether I survive or not is of little moment. Built as I am, these fasts are indispensable. I confess I have no strength but what God gives me, but it has never failed me hitherto and gives me confidence that it will not fail me now."

New? Not So Very; Wagner Made Use of It Back in the 1850's

The theme song did not begin in Hollywood!

On the contrary, it was used by Wagner, the German musician, as early as 1850. He called it the leading motive. Prof. Philip G. Clapp, head of the music department, told Prof. George G. Andrews' European history class in a lecture and recital of nineteenth century music in natural science auditorium yesterday.

In addition to being a composer, Wagner originated the musical drama, and devised his own highly pictorial stage settings, Professor Clapp said.

Around his "leading motives," Wagner wrote legends of old Teutonic gods—social allegories telling of the fall of governments, the menace of industrialism, and other human problems.

His musical stories became series of dramas given in four evenings. Professor Clapp played excerpts from these plays before the history class.

Plan Concerts at Iowa Union

University Groups Will Present Programs May 18, 19

Works of three members of the music department faculty will feature a series of two concerts of music by contemporary composers to be given May 18 and 19 at Iowa Union, it was announced yesterday. The university symphony orchestra, chorus, and symphonic chorus will present the programs.

Prof. Frank Estes Kendrie and Kenneth V. A. Forbes have written orchestral numbers for the concerts. Louis H. Diercks, director of the chorus, will lead the group in the first presentation of his cantata "The Prodigal Son."

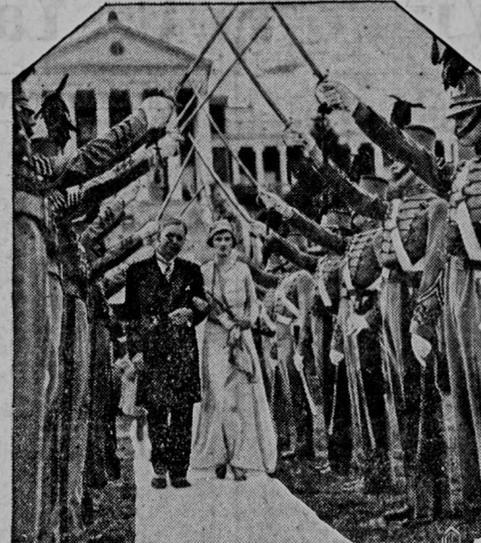

Solo parts in the cantata are to be taken by Herald Stark, assistant in music, tenor; Carl Thompson, G. of Lake Mills, basso; and Don Mallett, G. of Des Moines, baritone. Prof. Philip Greeley Clapp, head of the music department, will play the accompaniment.

Other numbers to be presented in the concerts include "Advents Motette," by Gustav Schreck, contemporary German composer, and Granville Bantock's "Vanity of Vanities," a choral symphony for unaccompanied voices. The performance of the latter work will mark its American premiere. It has been given twice in England, but never before in the United States.

"The conference agreement applies the provisions to any non-perishable agricultural commodity and authorizes the secretary of agriculture to determine the amount of a reasonable deduction from benefit payments to be made to compensate for the cost of inspection and sealing."

Goss' action will delay final congressional action on the measure until late tomorrow or Wednesday since the senate will have to act on the conference report in the event the Norris-Simpson amendment is eliminated by the house, as predicted by Speaker Rainey.

The measure provides $2,000,000,000 for farm relief under Secretary Wallace and $2,300,000,000 for financing of farm mortgages, in addition to the gigantic currency expansion powers it gives to President Roosevelt.

These inflation powers authorize federal reserve banks to buy under presidential direction $3,000,000,000 in government bonds against which currency may be issued; the issuance of $3,000,000,000 in currency to pay government obligations; acceptance of $200,000,000 in silver from foreign governments on war debts; and discretionary power for the chief executive to revalue the gold content of the dollar and permit the unlimited free coinage of gold and silver.

Annual Military Affairs Reaches Completion Tomorrow

The annual federal inspection of the Iowa provisional cadet regiment will end tomorrow with the final inspection of the medical and dental R.O.T.C. units, under the direction of Lieut. Col. W. Lee Hart, of the seventh corps area medical corps.

Infantry and engineer inspections were completed last Friday. Because of the wet weather, the usual parade and review could not be held but inspecting officers were given an opportunity to watch a massed manual of arms inside the armory, by the entire regiment, under the command of Cadet Col. Clyde C. Hutton.

Bridge Iowa River
The engineer cadets bridged the Iowa river despite the weather, thereby permitting Maj. J. S. Butler, engineer inspector, to walk across the river on the military pontoon bridge they had constructed. Col. R. H. McMaster was the chief inspecting officer for the entire unit this year.

The final appearance for the year of the provisional cadet regiment will be Governor's day, Saturday, when they will parade and review west of the fieldhouse on Jessup parade. At this time Gov. Clyde L. Herring will award medals and special honors to the R.O.T.C. students.

Announce Plans

Colonel Lewis also announced plans for the Governor's day luncheon, which is to be held Saturday at Iowa Union, and for which more than 550 invitations have been sent to campus leaders, faculty members, and state and military officials throughout Iowa.

Seniors Seek 987 Awards

First Figures Show 923 Applying for Degrees

Seniors in all of the University of Iowa's colleges have applied for a total of 987 degrees and certificates to be awarded at the June commencement.

The preliminary figures, released Monday by Prof. F. G. Higbee, director of convocations, show that 523 men and women are hopeful of completing requirements for degrees and 64 desire certificates.

First Degrees
Applicants for first degrees number 735, of which 314 are bachelor of arts and 104 bachelor of science in commerce. In the professional colleges, degrees are sought by 93 in medicine, 56 in engineering, 42 in dentistry, and 15 in pharmacy.

The 119 master of arts degree-applicants far outnumber other scholars from the graduate college. There are 42 men and women who hope to qualify for master of science, and 27 for doctor of philosophy.

Anticipate Shrinkage
Some shrinkage between the preliminary figure and the number of degrees actually awarded at the commencement June 6 annually is anticipated by university officials.

Before the seniors become eligible for degrees, they must undergo eight days of semester examinations, and the advanced award seekers must pass a series of rigid oral and written tests.

PERHAPS we are experiencing the lull before the storm, but right at present the often-promised ballyhoo on the Max Baer-Max Schmeling fight has slumped to an occasional whisper. For a while the publicity men were grinding out copy on their machines in the approved style, but said machines appear to be shut off now.

It is entirely possible that the race struggle between the Jews and the Germans have something to do with the soft peddling on the match. If such is the case, no doubt the promoters are wishing that things over there would settle down. Probably if the fight between Jewish Mr. Baer and German

AS BROKER'S TIP UPSET THE FIELD

Mr. Schmeling were to be staged right now, there would be demonstrations that would cause plenty of trouble.

(Top) Broker's Tip, with Jockey Don Meade up, after winning the fifty-ninth Kentucky Derby, thereby making Col. E. R. Bradley, his owner, four times winner of that great classic. (Lower) Broker's Tip winning the fifty-ninth Kentucky Derby. Head Play, second; and Charley O, third. The arm of Jockey H. W. Fisher, riding Head Play, may be seen extended between the first two horses.

HOWEVER, public opinion on the matter has changed from a brilliant fire red to a rather lifeless gray, and it is quite probable that within the next 10 days, you will read much more about the two battles. Although there has been a good bit of space devoted to the fact that Baer is a "comer," highly improved, and with an unlimited amount of stamina, our choice is still the former world's champion.

No doubt Schmeling will absorb plenty of punishment over the 15-round route, but Baer will be taking no small amount himself. The stolid, plodding German can do all kinds of damage, as numerous opponents have found out in the past. And it is hard to forget that rather strange decision by which Jack Sharkey stepped up on the heavyweight throne, replacing Schmeling. If Baer can't put the German away in the early rounds, our guess is that he will lose by a decision, or possibly by a knockout.

LOCAL University of Iowa fans will be left this week with virtually nothing to do, but twiddle their thumbs and invest money in Marble-Jax machines. Outside of the Iowa-Iowa State tennis meet this afternoon, Hawkeye teams will appear only in foreign territory. Coach George Bresnahan's track squad will seek to retain its crown in the state meet at Ames this week end, and Coach Otto Vogel's baseball team will play two games each at Notre Dame and Northwestern. The golfers journey to Cedar Rapids to meet Coe tomorrow.

Johnny Fryrear's wrestling show at Cedar Rapids last week demonstrated several things. In the first place, it was quite apparent that the fans will stay away from all-wrestling shows in droves at the Parlor City. John Richtoff, three times champ, appeared in a colorless Olympic heavyweight wrestling match with a Swedish countryman, proving that just because you can wrestle, you will not necessarily go any place in the pro game.

BRONKO Nagurski, former Minnesota football star, in winning the main event, gave proof that a grizzer must have a clever man to work with—he worked Frank Buresh to death trying to make it a show. Johnny has had much better bills. Skinny Grooms and Jimmy Bear, a pair of middleweights, put on the best exhibition of the evening in a half-hour preliminary.

Beta's Take Sec. 4 Title

Trim D. U., 18-3, as Theta Tau's Take 24-3 Victory

A slugging Beta Theta Pi kittenball 10 came through behind the pitching of Williams yesterday afternoon and copped the championship of section four of the inter-fraternity league from Delta Upsilon, 18 to 3. Theta Tau also earned the right to meet Phi Beta Delta for the title of section one with a top sided win over Delta Sigma Pi, 24 to 3.

The Beta attack was led by Rasmussen and Myers with homers, the latter getting his with the bases loaded. Five runs in the third and nine in the fifth presented too much of a moral obstacle for the D.U.'s and the Beta's coasted home to the mound for the losers.

The Beta's previously defeated Sigma Nu, the third team that was in the knotted count at the end of the regular schedule, 11 to 7, with Williams throwing, to gain the right to play Delta Upsilon for the title. Theta Tau slammed the ball hard in its victory and walked off with an easy game. Batteries for the winners were Clearman and Rohwedder. Their opponents, in the playoff, defeated Phi Alpha Delta over the week end, 13 to 3, for the opportunity to meet yesterday's winners in the section for the leadership. This fray will probably be decided tomorrow so that the championship round of the league may be started immediately.

The schedules have been completed for Greek baseball and horse-shoe, the latter to start on Thursday with Delta Tau Delta meeting Acacia, and the hard baseball to open with Kappa Sigma vs. Delta Tau Delta on Saturday. The complete schedules will be printed tomorrow.

Today has been announced as the last entry date for spring golf and tennis and tomorrow as the final date for the canoe race.

Dill Scores Hole-in-One

Makes Ace as Finkbine Club Loses Match at Rock Island

The first hole-in-one made by an Iowa golfer was chalked up by Herb Dill of the Hawkeye squad, playing with the Finkbine Country club against Rock Island, at the Rock Island arsenal Sunday. Dill pitched the ball some 129 yards on the seventeenth hole to accomplish the difficult feat.

Despite Dill's feat, the Finkbine Country club lost by a score of 30-24. The players competing for Finkbine included: E. G. Blackstone, R. A. Miller, F. L. Hunter, C. R. Raslow, R. W. Nelson, Charles Kennett, George Clark, Herb Dill, John Stromsten, Ed Shelleby, Jim Gardner, and Calvin Kay.

Hawkeyes Meet Coe Golf Team

The Hawkeye golfers will drive to Cedar Rapids tomorrow morning to take on the Coe pill chasers in a return match. Iowa defeated the Rapids team badly on its visit to Iowa City.

Coach Kennett is expected to start most of his sophomores against Coe in an effort to give them experience in competition, and to enable them to keep the record of victories intact.

Among the men making the trip are Roy Vanderwieken, Fred Beck, John Stromsten and John Jacobsen, with Joe Schlanser, veteran letterman, expected to accompany the squad in the event the sophomores blow up in the morning round.

Doubles Big Help in Win Over Braves

First Two Runs Result of Successive Two Base Hits

BOSTON, May 8 (AP) — Larry French today held the Boston Braves to three scattered hits as the league leading Pittsburgh Pirates belted Tom Zachary for enough two baggers to gain a 3-0 shutout in the series opener. It gave French his fourth winning performance in five starts.

Zachary, making his first start of the season, pitched a winning brand of baseball up to the fifth inning when Vaughan started the Pirates on their way by doubling to left. Piet scored him with another two bagger.

The Pirates were unable to increase their slim lead until the eighth, when Vaughan paired up with Paul Waner in another successive two base act. The third Pittsburgh score, made with two out in the ninth, was unearned, for French gained first when Schulmerich dropped his fly in right field and scored on singles by Lloyd Waner and Lindstrom.

French pitched airtight ball all the way. Only Baxter Jordan, who got two singles, and Knothe were able to touch him for safeties and he gave but two passes, striking out five.

Homers Give Cards Victory Over Giants

NEW YORK, May 8 (AP) — The St. Louis Cardinals got only three hits off Fitzsimmons today but two of the blows were home runs by Joe Medwick and Frank Frisch and they defeated the New York Giants 4 to 3.

Medwick connected with his circuit blow in the second with the bases empty and Frisch came through with his blow in the eighth after Durocher and Martin had walked. Sam Leslie hit his second homer in as many days to account for all of the Giants runs.

The defeat was Fitzsimmons' first of the season, while the victory was Tex Carleton's fourth. Neither finished the game, Fitzsimmons being taken out for a pinch hitter in the eighth and Carleton was knocked off the mound in the same inning, Johnson and Dean finishing the game.

Yearlings to Begin Track Meet Today

University of Iowa's freshman tracksters begin their second outdoor telegraphic meet today when they meet Ohio State, Purdue, and Northwestern in a long distance encounter to be held today and tomorrow.

Results of the Iowa-Wisconsin and Iowa-Chicago meets held last week, some events of which were postponed until yesterday because of weather conditions, will not be known for some time because of the necessity of comparing the results by mail before the winner is announced.

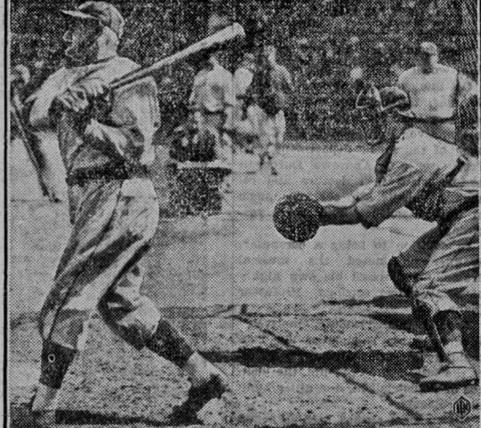

Events to be run off today include the 100 and 440 yard dashes, 120 yard high hurdles, mile run, pole vault, shot put, javelin throw, and broad jump.

Events to be run off tomorrow will be the 220 yard low hurdles, 220 yard dash, 880 yard run, two mile run, high jump, and discus throw.

Hawkeye Baseball Team Will Play Four Games This Week

Leaves Tonight on Four Day Trip; Engage Irish, N. U.

Another economy road trip, with its four scheduled games on successive days, is this week's assignment for the University of Iowa baseball team and Notre Dame and Northwestern are the opponents.

Rained out of the two-game series with Iowa State last week end, the Iowans leave today for South Bend, there to play the Irish on Wednesday and Thursday.

Then, at Evanston, Friday and Saturday, the team will step back into the Big Ten race by meeting Northwestern, unbeaten sharer of first place with Indiana.

High hopes for success on this final long trip are held by the state university team. Batting, a weakness in about half of the games, now is on the upgrade and the pitchers are hurling smart and steady ball. With the return of Herman Schulteheinrich, crack second baseman, the defensive work has lost its wobbly tendencies.

Despite the presence of two seniors on the pitching staff, a sophomore left hander, Charles Blackman of Sewal, has the best record. Blackman has won both his starts, pitching a four-hit game against Hillsdale and holding Carleton to two blows. Only nine hits in 23 innings have been gathered off his delivery this spring.

William Ricke of Breda, senior, has broken even in four games he has pitched, holding opponents to four and five hits in the victorious contests and now appears to be nearing his peak. Other hurlers upon whom responsibility will fall include Franklin Stempel, Macedonia, and Eugene Ford of West Bend, both of whom are much improved over their April form.

Retaining his place at the top of the list, Capt. Marshall Riegert, left fielder, is the only Iowan to hit better than 300. His mark is .308, made from 12 hits in 39 times at bat. Frank Drager, right fielder, and K. Blackman, catcher, have a .285 average, but have been at bat only 21 times, while Joe Laws, centerfielder, has made 11 hits in 39 appearances for an average of .282.

Lyons Allows 12 Blows in 7 to 3 Loss

Wildness Contributes to Yankee Win; Don Brennan Wins

CHICAGO, May 8 (AP) — The world champion New York Yankees caught up with the west today for the first time since leaving the banks of the Harlem, beating the White Sox 7 to 3 to open a new series and gain an even break in the first six games of the western invasion.

Don Brennan, big right handed rookie, allowed 10 hits but managed to stagger through the crises to his third straight victory as the Yankees be-labored Ted Lyons for 12 safeties and took advantage of six passes and two wild pitches. Lyons did far better on the offense, getting a pair of doubles and a single.

Gehrig, Chapman and Crossett led the Yankee hitters with a double and a single each while Babe Ruth weighed in with two singles.

The Yanks' victory boosted their advantage at the top of the American league to a full game as Cleveland was idle.

Score by innings:
New York	200 011 021—7 12 1
Chicago	110 010 000—3 10 0

Batteries: Brennan and Dickey; Lyons and Grube.

Rookie's Home Run Wins for Senators

ST. LOUIS, May 8 (AP)—Bob Boken, substitute second baseman, hit a homer in the twelfth inning and scored behind Schulte to give Washington a 10 to 3 victory over the St. Louis Browns in the first game of the series today.

Before the game, friends from his home town of Collinsville, Ill., had presented Boken a watch. His circuit clout came with two out in the twelfth after he had failed to hit in five times up.

The game was a free hitting affair with the Senators garnering 20 hits and the Browns 15, many for extra bases. Each club used three pitchers.

Score by innings:
Wash.	022 003 010 002—10 20 2
St. Louis	210 120 002 000—3 15 0

Stock Market Values Fall as Dollar Gains

Hit by Rumors That France May Leave Gold Standard

NEW YORK, May 8 (AP)—Confusion in foreign exchanges left its stamp on other financial markets today. A rally by the dollar, after early heaviness, sent stocks and several commodities down in the late trading, thus repeating last Saturday's shift of trend. French bonds had a bad break and the franc softened as reports that France might have to abandon a gold basis were revived. Markets presumably noted, also, the Paris cabinet's decision against paying the defaulted debt interest unless a moratorium on the June 15 payment was granted. Out of Joint Business in the exchange market appeared rather severely out of joint. Undoubtedly some speculators thought that prospects for the inflation in this country were less clearly defined than they had appeared to be a week or two ago, a decision which

University High in Light Workout; to Prepare for District

A light workout was all that was allowed the Blue and White by Coach Carpenter yesterday as he started preparation for University high's competition in the state district track meet to be held at Cedar Rapids next Saturday. Following their efforts of last Saturday, when the river school athletes won the Little Seven conference track title for the third straight time, the boys were tired, but need only little rest before beginning the grind they hope will lead to state honors. Coach Carpenter is sure that, barring accident, the Blue and White leader, Capt. Van Phillips, will be a finalist in his favorite event, the quarter mile. Last year Phillips suffered his first defeat in this event at the state meet at Ames, when he took second.

probably prompted support for dollars. President Roosevelt's radio message to the country Sunday night left a favorable impression, judging from Wall Street comment today. His references to inflation, it was held in some quarters, indicated that the administration planned to move cautiously. Stocks started well and did not stop until, in quiet trading, they had accumulated many extreme gains of 1 to around 4 points. Toward the close, as dollars rallied, this improvement evaporated and a number of issues lost a point or more net. Sales totaled 3,212,830 shares. Strengthened General Motors was strengthened by its April sales statement. Du Pont, up nearly 4 at the best, held a high point of that gain. U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Westinghouse, American Can, American Telephone, Chrysler, Sears Roebuck, New York Central, Southern Pacific, Pennsylvania and Chesapeake & Ohio sagged fractions to a point net after early strength. Union Pacific, with a dividend meeting scheduled for Thursday, was down 2 1-2 and Allied Chemical lost 2 3-4.

Bond Market Prices Slump

Sharp Falling Off of French Obligations Leads Tumble

NEW YORK, May 8 (AP)—A sharp slump in French government obligations and reactionary tendencies of secondary corporation issues unsettled the bond market today and prices generally closed irregularly lower. The average for 60 domestic corporate bonds declined two-tenths of a point, the first time it has been off since April 18. Trading volume dwindled on the downturn, sales totaling only $13,080,000 par value, in comparison with $19,081,000 last Friday. Liquidation of French issues apparently reflected uncertainties regarding the republic's maintenance of the gold standard. French 7 1-2s were heavily traded at a loss of 10 points while the 7s dropped 7 3-4. Bonds of Lyons, Marseilles and Bordeaux were off 1 to 2 points. Other foreign losers, seemingly affected by gold fears were numerous. While high grade domestic loans were steady to firm, losers of 1 to around 3 points included some issues of Allegheny Corp., Baltimore & Ohio, American & Foreign Power, Central Pacific, St. Paul, Erie, Great Northern, Illinois Central, Missouri Pacific, New York Central, Frisco, Chile Copper, International Telephone, Postal Telegraph, Southern Pacific, Southern, Texas Corp., U. S. Rubber, Vanadium, Wabash and Western Union. American Telephone loans were in demand at fractional advances, and gains of around a point were held by bonds of Consolidated Gas, Container Corp., Louisville & Nashville, Phillips Petroleum and United Drug. Otis Steel 4s advanced 4 points. Most U. S. government securities were higher but rather quiet.

Corn Leads Price Gaining in Grain Mart

CHICAGO, May 8 (AP)—Corn became the grain market leader today and all deliveries ran up to above the highest previous quotations this season. Last minute rushes to grab profits, however, led to a sudden reaction that tumbled corn prices back, and, virtually rubbed out the day's gains. Critical agricultural conditions arising from prolonged delays to 1933 corn planting were largely responsible for corn market strength. Wheat was weakened as a result of curtailment of speculative buying and because of uncertainty as to how the various provisions of the new farm bill would be administered. Corn closed irregular, at 3-8 decline to 1-4 advance compared with Saturday's finish, wheat 5-8 1/2 cent down, oats 1-8 off to 1-8 up, and provisions showing a rise of 22 to 46 cents. Corn crop specialists said that owing to abnormally wet weather it was doubtful whether the 1933 intended acreage, which showed a material decrease from last year, could now be planted. Some of the best corn producing sections of Illinois reported today that no corn had been planted, and that not much more than half the land has been prepared. In addition to preceding delays, the rainfall during the last week has been far above average in Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, the south half of Iowa, the western half of Kansas and all of Nebraska. Flooded conditions were reported at many points, particularly in the Ohio valley. Plowing and planting throughout the greater part of the corn belt was described as now seriously late, and chances pointing to danger that when the corn tasselings period arrives the time will be simultaneous with disastrous heat. It was

"MARY FAITH" by Beatrice Burton

SYNOPSIS Mary Faith, comely young orphan, is secretary to Mark Nesbit, wealthy business man. She gives up her position to marry Kimberley Farrell, shiftless young lawyer. Mary Faith believes that loving a man hard enough will make everything come out all right in the end. It was this confidence that enabled her to marry Kim after he had once broken their engagement. She realizes he has an eye for every girl, but hopes that married life will sober him and make him successful in his profession. Instead, Kim is annoyed at Mary Faith's "Puritanism," and his jazzy friends, Claire and Jack Maldon, find her a dull companion. Learning that she is to become a mother, Mary Faith, for the first time, visits Kim's office. Kim is furious when Mary Faith finds him flirting with his blond secretary. That night, he informs his mother and Mary Faith that he is leaving. Mary Faith, heart-broken at this turn of affairs, decides not to tell Kim of her coming motherhood. She and Mrs. Farrell decide to struggle to keep the home for the coming baby. Mary Faith obtains a position as typist. Due to Mary Faith making good Kim's debt to his former employers, Kim is reinstated.

"If you feel like this about her in six months, I'll listen to you, Kim," she said.

CHAPTER XXVI "And are you going to stay here now, Kimberley?" his mother asked him. "No." His lips came together with a snap. "No—I'm more sure than ever that it was a mistake for Mary Faith and me to be married. I came here tonight because I wanted to talk to her about divorcing me. It's not right for us to be tied up to each other when we've stopped caring for each other. You feel that way about it yourself, don't you, Mary Faith?" "You don't know?" He was exasperated. "What do you mean, you don't know?" "Well, I don't believe in divorce, Kim. And don't you remember what we promised each other the day we were married?—To live together all our lives." "Look here, Mary Faith, I'm not going to sit here and argue the fine points of the marriage service with you," said Kim, dismissing his marriage vows with a wave of his hand. "I came here to ask you to divorce me. I don't care about you the way I did, and you seem to be getting along fairly well without me. You have my mother on your side. . . . " "You talk as if I were your enemy, and I'm not," Mary Faith interrupted him quietly. "I love you, Kim, and I'm not going to give you up to that Janet-woman without a struggle. Last year when you came to me and told me you couldn't live without her I gave you up—and three months later you married me. Now you want to give me up, and marry her, I suppose. . . . But I think you ought to wait a while and find out how you really feel about her and about me. You can settle a lot of things that nothing else on earth can settle, Kim." He lost his temper then. "You talk like a fool," he said, furious with anger. "You talk to me as if I were a child that didn't know its own mind. Now see here, I'm going through with this thing—" you would have married her 'way last fall when you were as free as air, Kim Farrell!" She got up and started out of the room, and he looked after her, wondering how a creature so yielding and gentle by nature, could be so stubborn and determined all at once. At the door she turned and faced him once more. "If you feel like this about her in six months I'll listen to you, Kim," she said. "It's July now. You come to me again in February." In February the baby would be a month old. The months of the summer dragged by. Heat shimmered above the pavements of Spring Street every day in a parched August. The long days were all alike to Mary Faith except that one day she might have lettuce and rye bread sandwiches in her lunch and the next day there might be deviled egg and white bread. One week she might be reading "The Great Gatsby" and the next one she might have "Joanna Godden" open on her typewriter while she ate her lunch. On the first Monday in September—Labor Day—it rained as it always does on holidays, and Mrs. Farrell went down to Garrettsville at the bus to spend a week with Aunt Ella. She came back to town on the following Monday with yards and yards of white cloth of different kinds—flanelle for the baby's night-gowns, sheer muslin for the tiny dresses, and soft cotton for the underthings. "I bought it down there for half what we'd have to pay for it up here in town," she said as she showed it to Mary Faith. "We'll make it all up by hand, what do you say? I do like to see dainty little stitches in baby clothes." On the first of October Mary Faith gave up her position with Florine Bond. She and Mrs. Farrell spent the rest of that blue-and-russet month cleaning house and painting a small white bed that they found in a second-hand store on River Street. In November they settled down to make the clothes for the baby. They ate their meals in the kitchen, and the dining room became a temporary sewing room filled with white garments that made Mary Faith ache with their heart-rending littleness. Little bibs, little jackets, little bibs, little gowns. Aunt Ella sent a pair of crib blankets up from Garrettsville at Christmas—pale blue with white Peter Rabbits running all over them. Jean brought a pair of baby-pins and showed Mary Faith a dozen snapshots that her ranchman had sent to her from Arizona—pictures of pepper trees on a wide street in Phoenix, of the camel-back mountains and several views of a big ranch house with wide shady porches. "That's where little Jeanie is going to live one of these days," she said as she took them back from Mary Faith. "I'm in love for the first time in my life, and isn't it just my luck to fall for a farmer? That's what a rancher really is, Mary Faith. Can you imagine me living out there in the middle of a thousand acres with nothing to do all day but watch alfalfa grow?" "You can look at the palm trees and the camel-back mountains," said Mary Faith gravely. "And you'll have your husband—that is, if you really intend to marry this man. I'd live on a ranch with Kim for the next twenty years, without seeing anybody else, if I had to, and enjoy it." Jean gazed at her, and both puzzlement and awe were in her face. "You're still crazy about that wet smack you're married to, aren't you?" she asked. "The first you ever picked him in the way place is miles beyond me. You could have had 'most anybody. Whatever it takes to catch a husband, you've got it, Mary Faith. Looks and brains and a grand disposition—and if you don't divorce Kim Farrell after this baby arrives I'm going to stop seeing you. I'm disgusted with you, as it is." And with that she kissed Mary Faith with great affection and went on her way to deliver the rest of her Christmas packages. Here's how the tariff truce matter stands thus far: France has officially accepted on condition that it may increase its tariffs to meet further depreciation of currencies, that it shall not apply to tariffs already before its parliament and that the principal nations agree; Great Britain has taken no position publicly although MacDonald has indicated it would impose "reservations"; Italian and German representatives here have expressed approval; Japan has indicated conditional acceptance. Host at Luncheon President Roosevelt was host at luncheon to the Chinese finance minister T. V. Soong, a fellow Harvard man, and later resumed his conversations with Dr. Hjalmar Schacht, representative of the German Hitler government and president of the Reichsbank. Schacht also conferred with Secretary Hull, going over matters involving trade barrier reduction and monetary stabilization. It was learned that Schacht expressed himself as strongly in sympathy with the American effort to rehabilitate the price of silver and indicated German support could be counted upon for this project and the tariff truce as well. American officials were determined that in the conversations with the Chinese and German representatives political questions involving Japanese military activity in one case or revision of the Versailles treaty on the other should be subordinated.

CITY, V. N. A. Contest Possession of Office Files

Miss McInerney was one of the organizers of the Visiting Nurses association and its head nurse. The organization, as an independent body, has not been active for nearly two years. A subscription drive carried on last spring without the sponsorship of the Community Chest netted enough to pay several hundred dollars in bills carried over from the year before and to re-establish the partnership arrangement in the city hall. Dr. Rankin Asks City's Cooperation In a statement issued yesterday, Dr. I. A. Rankin, city health officer, outlined the handicap under which Miss Dautremont takes office and asked for the patient cooperation of the community. Dr. Rankin's statement follows: "Fellow Citizens of Iowa City. "In keeping with the rather complete shake-up in our city hall administration, it was not surprising that a change in city nurse should follow. The councilmen were united in feeling that a resident nurse should be chosen again. Tact, sincerity and honesty were regarded quite as important qualifications as nursing ability. Several applicants met these requirements satisfactorily, and only after many ballots did one of them obtain a majority vote. "Now in contrast to the smooth-working administration just terminated, the new nurse may seem to get off to a slow start. Be patient. We offer no apology, but a word of explanation. This start is with a handicap. Not only the entire office equipment, but all the records of one department of our city government were claimed by the Visiting Nurse association and were removed by truck from the city hall 15 hours after the election of the new nurse Friday night. "This loss of all records, charts, reports and data, normally a part of routine office procedure, is profound and significant. The wealth of experience gained during these many years,

Here's how the tariff truce matter stands thus far: France has officially accepted on condition that it may increase its tariffs to meet further depreciation of currencies, that it shall not apply to tariffs already before its parliament and that the principal nations agree; Great Britain has taken no position publicly although MacDonald has indicated it would impose "reservations"; Italian and German representatives here have expressed approval; Japan has indicated conditional acceptance. Host at Luncheon President Roosevelt was host at luncheon to the Chinese finance minister T. V. Soong, a fellow Harvard man, and later resumed his conversations with Dr. Hjalmar Schacht, representative of the German Hitler government and president of the Reichsbank. Schacht also conferred with Secretary Hull, going over matters involving trade barrier reduction and monetary stabilization. It was learned that Schacht expressed himself as strongly in sympathy with the American effort to rehabilitate the price of silver and indicated German support could be counted upon for this project and the tariff truce as well. American officials were determined that in the conversations with the Chinese and German representatives political questions involving Japanese military activity in one case or revision of the Versailles treaty on the other should be subordinated.

WAR DEBTS

Cast Cloud Over Hope for Economic Accord (Continued from page 1) selled to hold back and consider well before risking his control over congress on the question. Another danger laden proposition which the administration continued to study was the bill, long in preparation, which the president has planned to send to congress to clothe himself with power to lower tariffs in collaboration with other nations at the economic conference. While the president's personal representative, Norman H. Davis, ambassador at large, sought to bring Great Britain into line on a tariff truce by talking with officials at London, Belgium, espoused the proposal without reservation. Announces Agreement The Belgian agreement was made known by Undersecretary Phillips of the state department after a conference with Paul May, Belgian ambassador and Paul Van Zeeland, director of the National Bank of Belgium, in which economic discussions between the two countries were inaugurated. Here's how the tariff truce matter stands thus far: France has officially accepted on condition that it may increase its tariffs to meet further depreciation of currencies, that it shall not apply to tariffs already before its parliament and that the principal nations agree; Great Britain has taken no position publicly although MacDonald has indicated it would impose "reservations"; Italian and German representatives here have expressed approval; Japan has indicated conditional acceptance. # Wet, Dry Supporters Choose Delegates to Repeal Convention

Wilson Pledges Self to Work for New Amendment

Accepting the nomination as delegate, Edwin B. Wilson declared that the voters last fall made their stand on the eighteenth amendment clear and that he would work toward the repeal of that amendment in accordance with the wishes of the people.

"Now before the people of Iowa is a clear-cut question, put to them by the state legislature in a fair and square manner as to whether the state is for or against repeal. The vote will be a statewide proposition of popular vote, and I am squarely behind the resolution of this convention and pledge myself to carry out the will of this convention," he said.

Dr. John Voss, temporary chairman, and Frank Volklinger, temporary chairman, were selected as permanent officers by the convention and Dr. Voss then named William R. Hart, Herb Long, and A. A. Walt resolutions committee.

Mrs. Ed Hogan and W. F. Murphy both made talks asserting that the amendment had been a failure and that they were looking forward to its repeal in order that it could be replaced by better liquor traffic regulation.

Chairman Voss urged members of the convention to organize and cooperate to put the repeal amendment through and appointed Fred Racine, James J. Hanlon, and H. J. Reichardt as a finance committee.

The following is the resolution adopted by the convention:

"On Dec. 17, 1917, the congress of the United States submitted to the legislatures of the several states an amendment to the constitution now known as the eighteenth amendment.

"The reception of the proposal throughout the nation reflected the high hopes of the people that its adoption would conserve the best interests of the country.

"On Jan. 29, 1919, the acting secretary of state by proclamation announced that the amendment had been duly ratified and had become a part of the constitution of the United States.

"The results of the amendment, its far reaching effects, have brought disappointment to its most ardent supporters. Countless numbers of citizens representing much of the best thought of the nation have come to feel that a modification of the constitutional restrictions is imperative.

"Construing the recent national election as a mandate from the people, the congress of the United States, now in session, on Feb. 20, 1933, submitted to the states a proposed amendment to the national constitution which is as follows:

"Section 1. The eighteenth article of amendment to the constitution of the United States is hereby repealed.

"Section 2. The transportation or importation into any state, territory or possession of the United States for delivery or use therein of intoxicating liquor in violation of the laws thereof is hereby prohibited.

"Section 3. This amendment shall of intoxicating liquor in violation of the laws thereof is hereby repealed.

"Section 4. This amendment shall of intoxicating liquor in violation of the laws thereof is hereby repealed.

"Section 5. This amendment shall of intoxicating liquor in violation of the laws thereof is hereby repealed.

"Section 6. This amendment shall of intoxicating liquor in violation of the laws thereof is hereby repealed.

"Section 7. This amendment shall of intoxicating liquor in violation of the laws thereof is hereby repealed.

"Section 8. This amendment shall of intoxicating liquor in violation of the laws thereof is hereby repealed.

"Section 9. This amendment shall of intoxicating liquor in violation of the laws thereof is hereby repealed.

"Section 10. This amendment shall of intoxicating liquor in violation of the laws thereof is hereby repealed.

"Section 11. This amendment shall of intoxicating liquor in violation of the laws thereof is hereby repealed.

"Section 12. This amendment shall of intoxicating liquor in violation of the laws thereof is hereby repealed.

"Section 13. This amendment shall of intoxicating liquor in violation of the laws thereof is hereby repealed.

"Section 14. This amendment shall of intoxicating liquor in violation of the laws thereof is hereby repealed.

"Section 15. This amendment shall of intoxicating liquor in violation of the laws thereof is hereby repealed.

Byington Will Vote for Retention of Prohibition

The Rev. L. A. Owen, pastor of the Congregational church, opened the dry convention before a capacity crowd in the court room of the Johnson county court house, asserting that "the dries and liberals have joined hands to fight desperately the whiskey ring and the hard liquor interests."

The Rev. Mr. Owen was nominated for permanent chairman but withdrew in favor of a layman, James E. Stronks, chairman of the Johnson County Temperance Emergency committee, was unanimously chosen as chairman. He appointed Mrs. S. K. Slemmons permanent secretary.

Martin Nominates Thomas E. Martin in nominating Byington for delegate said that he would give the dry cause much prestige both locally and in the state and that a better man could not be found to promote a vigorous campaign against repeal. Mrs. Carl Seashore seconded Mr. Byington's nomination, praising his record and sincerity.

As Mr. Byington signed the statement of his stand on the question the crowd rose and applauded. Saying that he had never seen anything to justify liquor and had seen much to justify his own convictions, Mr. Byington assured the convention that he would work vigorously towards the retention of the eighteenth amendment.

Dean Wilber J. Teeters of the college of pharmacy was nominated as alternate candidate but because he was not present to sign the paper before the convention Dr. T. L. Hazard was nominated and unanimously elected.

Lampe Speaks Prof. M. Willard Lampe, director of the school of religion, gave a short talk, asserting that the eighth amendment was a protection measure against those who use hard liquor intemperately. Prof. Bohumil Shimek and Mrs. Carl Seashore spoke briefly, urging members of the convention to explain to their friends just what they were voting on.

Professor Lampe announced that Dean Eugene A. Gilmore of the college of law had been invited to speak but was unable to attend because of university engagements.

Judges and clerks to serve without pay were appointed by Chairman Stronks. They are:

Sudhindra Bose Says "No Hobby—Merely Likes and Dislikes," But He Likes Souvenirs

By Tom Yoseloff

The word "hobby," is far too narrow to confine within it the varied interests of Sudhindra Bose, lecturer in oriental politics. At least, as a descriptive word, it failed to meet with Mr. Bose's approval.

"I have no hobby," he asserted. "I have merely likes and dislikes. My dog, for instance—just now she is one of my likes. She is educated in several languages, and she is quick to obey any command in French."

"Word Factory" He was seated in a chair before the desk in his "word factory," as he has christened the room where he writes his correspondence to newspapers in his native India. He was smoking one of the three or four pipes which he keeps always within reach.

On a shelf beside him stood an oriental pipe, with its silver ornamentation and long tube. He explained the operation of the pipe, tracing the course of the fumes from tobacco and charcoal, burned in a chamber at the top, through a chamber filled with water, and then melted, through the six-foot tube held easily in the mouth of the smoker.

"The oriental gentleman goes to bed, and orders his pipe. He falls asleep smoking it. It burns an hour or more—it is not like a cigarette, which burns out in a few minutes."

Varied Interests The shelves and bookcases in his home, and even the furniture and rugs indicate his varied interests, and the many souvenirs of his travels represent countries all over the world.

"Mrs. Bose and I, when we travel, always like to pick up something which is distinctive of the country—we like to feel the character of the people." He indicated his book shelves. "Thus I have the Bible printed in various languages, in English, French, Greek, and original Hebrew, side by side with the Koran."

A sofa is from France; the rugs are Persian. Pictures on the wall depict scenes from China, the Taj Mahal and other famous buildings of India, and the Japanese shrine, the temple at Nikko.

He held up two delicately carved pieces of oriental jewelry, one in silver and one in gold.

Incense Burners Incense burners and trays, patterned with colorful inlays arranged by deft Hindu fingers, maintain the oriental atmosphere of his home. In a case against the wall are arranged pieces of Indian jewelry and oriental handicraft. Mr. Bose selected several of the articles.

"This one is a case of hand-carved ivory, in which Indian women keep vermilion, a sort of rouge which they put on their heads. This is a letter opener of delicately carved ivory.

"What do you think this is?" he asked, picking up an article which faintly resembled a fountain pen. With a snap he opened the case and showed a small dagger. "I bought this dagger at Nikko, in Japan. When I bought it it was so sharp that it could cut through steel.

"This is pen carved from wood—I bought it in Lucerne—and here is a piece of china from London."

Reminiscences of Travels He moved from one article to another, handling them with a sort of reverence and pride as each brought back reminiscences of his travels.

From a drawer came a group of shawls and tapestries. Mr. Bose selected a Hindu shawl such as is worn by a man and demonstrated the ways in which it can be used—draped lightly over one shoulder in warm weather, or wrapped tightly about both shoulders on colder days.

"Here is a Chinese shawl. It has more than 100 butterfly designs, each of which was sewed in by hand; this shawl is a Hindu cloth, with a border of gold." He went into the next room. "This tapestry on the wall I got in Java.

"This," he said, unfolding a square of colorful, rough cloth, "is homespun, of the kind that Ghandi is advocating that the Indians wear." And he continued from one to another of the articles in his store of oriental beauties.

free silver representing the lotus, national flower of India, the other an ivory carving of the chrysanthemum of China. He explained that the pieces had been made by hand.

Mr. Crain, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Crain, 430 S. Summit street, now in the employ of the American Air Lines company on the Pacific coast, established his record during his time with the United States army in Hawaii. His record of better than 16 hours in the air at one time, broke that previously established in Germany by more than two hours.

Becoming interested in glider work shortly after his graduation from the army flying school at Kelly field, San Antonio, Tex., Mr. Crain and a friend started work on a ship of their own. After using all their spare time on the project the plane was completed a year later.

Its gliding ratio was 20 to 1 (20 feet forward flight for every foot dropped); its wingspread was 63 feet, and its control surface nearly three times as large as that of an ordinary airplane. It was proven airworthy in its tests, and shortly afterwards was taken by its owners to an area in the islands particularly favorable to glider flying.

The first attempts were unsuccessful, but finally with John Crain at the controls it soared into the air for what was to prove a record flight. Equipped with chocolate bars, coffee, and signalling equipment, and aided by the floodlights of the coast artillery the pilot remained aloft through the night. He landed the next morning after more than 16 hours in the air and with a new record.

New Record Established Since that time, the speaker said, his colleague has established a new record of more than 21 hours with the same ship. Both men landed when they did only because they knew the existing record had been broken, and there was no further reason for staying up, he said.

A new flight is now planned, he told the members, in which the plane will be a two-seater and which it is hoped will cover more than 100 hours. After the first 50 hours it is expected to broadcast the flight from the plane itself through a short-wave radio over an international hook-up.

Before and after the speech Iowa City high school musicians who participated in the recent high school music festival entertained the members with short selections.

Those present were: Musicians Attend Rita Sedacek, who won an excellent rating in the bassoon solo competition; Katherine McKnight, accompanist; Margaret Schrock, accompanist; Josephine Sidwell, who won a good rating in the oboe solo competition; Donald Chapman, cornetist; Howard Van Doren, trombonist and winner of an excellent rating; Paul Lyness, trombonist, and David Fisher, winner of a superior rating.

The students were introduced by Lloyd J. Swartley, director of music at Iowa City high.

One Time Holder of Glider Record Talks at Meeting

Experiences gained in the airplane field, both in construction and flying, were discussed yesterday by John Crain, former holder of the world's glider record, as he spoke before the Chamber of Commerce at its luncheon in the American Legion Community building.

Mr. Crain, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Crain, 430 S. # Impanel Jury in Crash Case

Shaw Asks Damages of $1,250 From Carson

A jury was impanelled in district court yesterday afternoon to hear the action of Paul Shaw, proprietor of the flying school at the Iowa City airport, against Frank Carson of Iowa City.

Shaw asks $1,250 for damages to his airplane as the result of a crash Dec. 1, 1932, on Finkbine field when Carson was piloting the ship. According to the petition Carson had rented the plane and agreed to pay for any damage done to it.

Shaw charges that through Carson's negligence the lower wing, landing gear, and propeller were wrecked, the fuselage twisted, and the covering torn, and that he was deprived of the use of the plane.

C. B. Russell and Edward F. Rate are attorneys for Shaw and the law firm of Dutcher, Walker and Rice represent Carson. District Judge H. D. Evans is presiding. This is the first law case to be tried in the May term of court.

Jurors are Charles Pechoux, Everett Hope, Roy Light, George Cole, Tom Taylor, Joseph Vecerka, William J. Hebl, Orpha B. Ohl, Art Orris, John Klaus, Vernon Lantz, and Millard Singleton. First witnesses will be called when the trial continues at 1:30 this afternoon.

Will Hold Funeral Service Wednesday

Funeral services for the Rev. J. F. Hinkhouse of Wilton, will be held Wednesday at 3 p. m. in the Presbyterian church at Wilton. Burial will be in the Sharon cemetery there.

The Rev. Mr. Hinkhouse was the father of Mrs. E. K. Mapes, 624 N. Linn street. He died yesterday morning following an attack of pneumonia.

Divorce Action A divorce, home furniture, and the goods and fixtures in Gordon's grocery, 421 E. Washington street, are asked by Ruth M. Thatcher in a petition for divorce filed yesterday against Gordon E. Thatcher, Mrs. Thatcher charges cruel and inhuman treatment. The couple was married at Rock Island, Ill., Oct. 17, 1931. William R. Hart is her attorney.

Just Regular Members of the Roy L. Chopok post of the American Legion held their regular semi-monthly meeting last night at the American Legion Community building.

New Americans District Judge Harold D. Evans will hear petitions for naturalization next Tuesday morning. The law specifies that hearings be held on the second Tuesday of the second term of court and on the fourth Tuesday of the fourth term. Tuesday is the second of the second.
