Hitler Proclaims Right for Equality in Arms; Accepts Roosevelt Plea for Peace

Says World's Great Task to Insure Peace

Promises to Abide by Versailles Treaty at Present

BERLIN, May 17 (AP)—Chancellor Hitler today, in his eagerly awaited pronouncement before the Reichstag, proclaimed Germany's demand for equality in armaments, accepted President Roosevelt's proposal for world peace and announced Germany's readiness to cooperate with other nations in guaranteeing international security and tranquility.

Scores Treaty

The German chancellor roundly scored the Versailles treaty but pledged his government to abide by it until some better instrument should be found to replace it.

Other Parts

Other parts of the chancellor's speech were designed to show his desire to save Europe from the scourge of war and to assure peace for Germany and for her neighbors.

Armament Equality

Reiterating the demand for equality of armaments, the chancellor asserted that equality is moral, legal and sensible.

"Germany wants nothing she is not ready to give to others," he said. He welcomed President Roosevelt's message, sent yesterday to 54 nations of the world.

Move to Fill Union Board

Two more steps were taken yesterday toward selecting the remainder of Union Board's next year's membership.

Raymond Nelson, C3 of Davenport, was selected as the man representative from the college of commerce in an election that ended at 4 p.m. yesterday. All juniors and seniors in the college were eligible to vote. Catherine Shaw, A2 of Pocahontas, was selected as the woman representative Tuesday.

William Jones, E2 of West Branch; Frank Osold, E3 of Morrison, Ill., and Claude Houck, E2 of Carbon, are the three candidates who will be voted upon by the college of engineering today. One will be selected from this group to represent the college on Union Board. All student engineers are eligible to vote.

Tia Juana Bars Hit by Fire, Explosion

TIA JUANA, Mexico, May 17 (AP)—Fire preceded by an explosion destroyed two of Tia Juana's most famous bars and damaged another today. Police said the loss would approximate $100,000.

Harry Wilkins, an American identified by Mexican police as the owner of the Tunnel bar, was taken into custody for investigation. Detectives said they found oil soaked rags and six cans which had contained gasoline under the floor of the bar in which the fire started.

The Log Cabin bar also was destroyed, while the Tivoli bar, an adjoining structure, was partially burned.

Wisconsin Milk Pool Chairman Victim of Joker

ELKHORN, Wis., May 17 (AP)—Otto Marquette, East Troy milk pool chairman who was injured Sunday when striking farmers overwhelmed six milk trucks in Walworth county, today was the victim of a practical joke which made him hopping mad.

Some one sent him a fake telegram, signed Walter M. Singler, saying that the strike had been called off.

Marquette promptly withdrew his pickets. Then he sent a load of milk to the creamery.

The neighbors misunderstood his action and he has been placed in a decidedly embarrassing position, he told Sheriff O'Brien. He promised that picketing will be resumed with vigor tomorrow.

Open Finish Fight Against Milk Pickets

Half of Wisconsin's National Guard Called

MILWAUKEE, May 17 (AP)—Half of Wisconsin's national guard was mobilized tonight as state authorities prepared for a finish fight against milk strike pickets.

The day started quietly, with deputy sheriffs in the troublesome Milwaukee milk shed, and in an equally troublesome spot in northern Shawano county, apparently in complete control of the countryside. Milk began to move to markets.

Then late in the afternoon there was a quick succession of sharp engagements.

Near Milwaukee city police and deputy sheriffs, assailed by an overwhelming number of pickets south of the city, fought it out with clubs, and the police scored an impressive victory.

At Racine, authorities disclosed this afternoon that Russell Holding had been shot and critically injured last night when strikers surrounded the home of W. H. Gifford, whose son, Allen, is president of the Progressive Dairy company. Surgeons today took a .38 caliber bullet from Holding's spine. Holding, a farm youth, denied he was a picket.

In the Shawano region, where 1,400 deputies and guardsmen took charge after a succession of riots, there was a running fight this afternoon between officers and several hundred pickets.

The answer of state officials to these outbursts was to order the mobilization of more national guardsmen. About half of the state's force of 5,000 troops is now on active duty, or confined to armories subject to instant call. The soldiers are not serving in military capacity. They are being hired, in groups, by counties calling for deputy sheriffs, and civil authorities remain in charge.

Record Enrollment Expected at Law Summer Session

That the summer session enrollment record in the University of Iowa college of law is likely to be broken was the opinion given yesterday by Dean Eugene A. Gilmore.

Although the term will not open until June 12, 65 Iowa students already have signed their intention of attending. A staff of eight professors will handle 16 courses. The session ends August 24.

Inquiries about courses have been received from persons in more than half a dozen other states; the dean said. It is probable that a delegation of 23 students will come from the University of Missouri to take courses not offered at that institution.

The present summer record, created by the enrollment of 1932, is 101 students. In time and credit value, the session equals one-third of the regular academic year, and the integrated course, system permits students to begin study in the summer.

President Puts Stabilization of Industry Measure Before Congress; Demos Give Aid

Asks New Authority in Drive to Restore Business

WASHINGTON, May 17 (AP)—A bold effort to link government and industry in a partnership designed to restore prosperity was urged upon congress today by President Roosevelt and attracted the immediate support of the vast Democratic majority there.

In one of the most significant of his dramatic moves, the president asked almost unlimited authority to force the stabilization of industry, through licensing if necessary, and to initiate the most extensive public works program in the nation's history.

Congressional leaders immediately began drawing their lines together and Chairman Doughton of the house ways and means committee said quick and brief hearings would be held to permit presentation of the legislation on the floor next week.

The president asked that additional taxes be levied to finance the $3,300,000,000 securities issue for new construction but also asked permission to abandon these should repeal of the eighteenth amendment start a flow of revenue from liquor.

"To Encourage Industry"
The bill, which was the result of a long study by a committee appointed by Roosevelt, was labeled a measure "to encourage industrial recovery, to foster fair competition and to provide for the construction of certain useful purposes of public works."

It declared that "a national emergency productive of the widespread unemployment and disorganization of industry, which burdens interstate commerce, affects the public welfare and undermines the standards of living of the American people, is hereby declared to exist."

"No Specific Recommendation"
"I do not make a specific recommendation at this time," the president said in his message, "but I hope that the committee on ways and means of the house of representatives will make a careful study of revenue plans and be prepared by the beginning of the coming week to propose the taxes which they judge to be best adapted to meet the present need and which will at the same time be least burdensome to our people."

University Choral Groups to Open Concert Series Tonight

Modern Music Will Feature First Program

Music of the modern school, written by contemporary composers and presented by the university chorus and symphonic chorus, under the direction of Louis H. Diercks, will usher in a two-day series of concerts by university organizations at 8 o'clock this evening in the main lounge of Iowa Union.

Tonight's program is as follows: Advents-Motette Schreck
How shall I receive you?
How you were once received
How I shall receive you
University chorus
Vanity of Vanities Bantock
Vanity of vanities
I said in mine heart
Then I saw that wisdom excelleth folly
To everything there is a season
I returned and saw
Go thy way
Rejoice, O young man
University symphonic chorus

Both compositions are of religious origin. "Advents-Motette" is a hymn to the Messiah, while "Vanity of Vanities" is taken from the Biblical book of Ecclesiastes. Both have been written for unaccompanied voices.

Four members of the chorus will present the quartet arrangement in Schreck's number. They are: Ramona Jorgensen, A4 of Griswold, soprano; Mrs. R. B. Day, contralto; Karl Benson, tenor; and John Bloom, baritone.

Schreck, according to Mr. Diercks, is virtually unknown in America, although his works are universally popular in the capitals of Europe. For many years he was cantor in the Thomasschule in Leipzig, Germany. He died in 1918.

Bantock
Bantock, an Englishman, has done much in the field of music for the choral symphony. Mr. Diercks believes, His "Vanity of Vanities" has been performed twice in England, but never before in the United States.

Tickets for tonight's and tomorrow's concerts are available at Iowa Union at no cost.

Recent Survey Shows Business Improvement

CHICAGO, May 17 (AP)—Henry H. Helmann of New York, executive manager of the National Association of Credit Men, told a Chicago group tonight a recent business survey showed improved conditions in the west central states in particular.

Helmann, who recently visited business centers in Iowa, Kansas, Nebraska and North Dakota, said there was a marked contrast in conditions in this region as compared with three months ago. There is a better feeling among farmers and they are beginning to buy, he said.

For the first time in four years, he declared, banks are noting a definite increase in their deposits and merchants say their sales are improving.

Inland Daily Press Association Adjourns
CHICAGO, May 17 (AP)—The Inland Daily Press association adjourned today after H. A. Lewis, assistant general sales manager of the Standard Oil company of Indiana, had told the publishers and editors that newspapers are the best advertising medium.

Earlier, Stephen Bolles, editor of the Janesville, Wis., Daily Gazette, declared he believed in fullest publicity being given a bank that is forced to close. Newspapers, he said, have been so careful not to weaken the financial structure that they have saved banks which should have been eliminated.

Wallace, Roosevelt Discuss Farm Act
WASHINGTON, May 17 (AP)—Secretary Wallace went over plans for administration of the farm act today with President Roosevelt and said afterwards he was uncertain whether any effort to curtail production of crops being planted for harvest this year will be made.

He would not confirm reports that, because of the possibility that no processing taxes can be levied while the international tariff truce is in effect, he has abandoned plans to curb farm production before the winter wheat crop is planted for harvest next year.

The department of agriculture warned farmers that heavy abandonment of winter wheat for harvest this year and recent price improvement "does not necessarily betoken a permanent improvement in our wheat situation."

Detective Receives $1,256.55 Judgment for 'Crashing' Job
LOS ANGELES, May 17 (AP)—Judgment for $1,256.55 from Eleanor Boardman was given in municipal court today to Lucien Wheeler, private detective, after the actress had told how she and Wheeler "crashed" an apartment and found her recently divorced husband, King Vidor, director, with a girl.

Wheeler's bill, which the judgment covered, included a special $1,000 "closing fee" which the actress had refused to pay.

The detective has told the court that such procedure as the apparent "crashing" is "often hazardous and it is customary to charge a sum sufficiently large to cover any risk."

His lawyer contended that the apartment incident enabled Miss Boardman to obtain a $319,000 property settlement.

Roosevelt Weighs Replies of France, Germany Prior to First Moves at Geneva

President Gives Close Study to Hitler's Statements in Address to Reichstag; Regards Chancellor's Address on Arms Conciliatory

WASHINGTON, May 17 (AP)—Friendly but non-committal expressions from France and a cordial response from Germany were weighed by President Roosevelt tonight as he prepared to follow up his direct appeal for world wide arms reduction with important diplomatic moves at Geneva.

At the arms conference which reopens there tomorrow, the United States spokesman, Norman H. Davis, has promised his country would "make very great efforts to assist in the maintenance of peace," once the determination to maintain it is evidenced by genuine steps toward disarmament.

President Refrains
Meantime, the president is refraining from stating just what those steps will be. The extent to which the United States would go to aid in assuring safety against attack bears directly on the French demand for "security," without which she had hitherto refused to sacrifice her arms.

Swiftly moving events in the great arms drama created by the president's unprecedented message of yesterday to 54 of his fellow rulers were these:

Replies
Gracious replies were received at the White House from the chiefs of 12 nations, including King George of Great Britain and President Lebrun of France.

Although Germany's official reply had not yet been received tonight, the president closely studied the momentous arms declaration of Chancellor Hitler, which was regarded here as conciliatory.

Interpretation
An official interpretation of the president's message was given at the White House emphasizing that it does not sacrifice American freedom of action although it conveys a willingness to consult other nations in case its proposed pledges against heavy armaments and aggression are violated.

Definite provision was made in the administration's public works construction bill for building naval vessels and naval aircraft and mechanizing army units, subject to their suspension by the president in case of an international agreement "for the further limitation of armament." The president of France said in his reply: "I have duly received the message"

University Speakers Will Meet Bates College in Debate for East-West Title

NBC Arranges to Broadcast Arguments Over Nationwide Chain From Boston, Chicago

Intersectional Contest Tentatively Set for Next Fall

University of Iowa debaters will argue in a radio debate against speakers representing Bates college, Lewiston, Me., for the east-west debating championship, Prof. A. Craig Baird, director of university debating, announced yesterday.

The arguments will be carried over a nationwide hookup of the National Broadcasting company. Iowa speakers will broadcast from the Chicago studios of the radio chain, and Bates debaters will speak at Boston.

Possible Questions
Though no date has been set for the contest, Professor Brooks of Bates announced that arrangements are being made to hold it early next fall. Among the questions which have been tentatively suggested is the subject of war debts cancellation.

The University of Iowa was the highest ranking school in the Western Conference Debating league for this year, having won five contests and lost one. The Western conference is composed of the Universities of Illinois, Wisconsin, Minnesota, Iowa, Michigan, Indiana, and Chicago, Northwestern university, and Purdue university.

Bates College
Bates college won the championship of the Eastern Intercollegiate Debate league, with five victories and one defeat. Member schools of the eastern group are Brown, Wesleyan, Amherst, Princeton, Mt. Holyoke, Vassar, Pennsylvania, Yale, Lafayette, Bates, Williams, and Smith.

The intersectional contest to determine a national champion was proposed at a meeting of the eastern league, and preliminary arrangements were made by Dwight Morrongiue, Jr., of Amherst, president of the organization. This will be the first debate of its kind ever held in the United States.

Date Changed
It was at first proposed to hold the debate this spring, but the decision of the eastern group to participate was made last week, too late to complete arrangements for a debate this spring.

University of Iowa debaters have carried on a varied program in the season just ended. In addition to the Western conference contests, in which they argued against Minnesota, Wisconsin, Purdue, and Indiana, they engaged in two tournaments held under the auspices of Delta Sigma Rho, national honorary forensic society.

Tournament
In the tournament held here, in which 14 state colleges and universities ranging from Denver to Florida participated, Iowa debaters won first, winning all five of their contests. In a similar tournament at the University of Wisconsin, Iowa placed second, winning four out of five debates.

An international debate was held in November between Iowa and Trinity college, University of Dublin, Ireland, on the question of cancellation of war debts.

Non-Decision Contests
Non-decision debates were held with several colleges, among them Iowa State college, Creighton university, Northwestern, Knox college, Lawrence college, and Grinnell. About 30 universities engaged in a total of nearly 50 intercollegiate debates.

An all-campus tournament in the fall attracted 52 students who had not formerly appeared in intercollegiate debates, in discussion of the merits of Hoover and Roosevelt.

University debaters have appeared before numerous study clubs and other organizations. A debate with Iowa State college was held before a meeting of farmers at Marengo, and the debaters were questioned by the audience on various phases of the domestic allotment plan of farm aid.

Four Men Receive Expert Awards in Pistol Competition

Lieut. Col. Converse R. Lewis, head of the military department, announced yesterday that four University of Iowa advanced coursemen had qualified as expert pistol marksmen.

In the small-bore pistol competitions Horace E. Redman was high point man with 356 points out of a possible 400. Raymond K. Pearson was second with 331, Gea Martin, third with 319, and John O. Turkington fourth with 301.

Use of Volatile Oil Told in Exhibit by Pharmacy College

The story of how and where volatile oils are obtained is told and illustrated in a window display in chemistry building prepared by pharmacy students. Volatile oils are used chiefly as flavors, perfumes, antiseptics, stimulants, and aromatics.

The exhibit shows the entire manufacturing process, a number of the plants grown in the university drug garden, a miniature distilling apparatus, and the principal oils resulting when the operation is completed.

The plants from which volatile oils are secured come from all parts of the world: the eucalyptus from Australia; the roses from southern France, Bulgaria, Sicily, and Italy; and the spearmint and peppermint are raised in the United States.

The plants, from which the oil is to be obtained, are placed in a distilling flask and the oil forced from the leaves by means of steam under pressure. The oil and the water are then condensed in a condensing chamber. The oil being separated, the water is then removed. This entire process is illustrated in miniature in the window display.

Containers, some 25 years old, are also on exhibit. These old shaped tin drums brought the various volatile oils to the merchants of Iowa City from southern European countries. Only in that section of the world do the flowers have sufficient perfume and oil to be properly distilled, according to Dean Wilber J. Teeters of the college of pharmacy.

Stabilization Bill Goes to Congress

decision has been reached or if the means proposed do not seem to be sufficiently adequate or certain, it is my intention to transmit to the congress my own recommendations in the matter."

In conclusion, the president said: "Finally, I stress the fact that all of these proposals are based on the gravity of the emergency and that therefore it is urgently necessary immediately to initiate a re-employment campaign if we are to avoid further hardships, to sustain business improvement and to better things."

Industrial Regulation
The industrial regulation provisions of the measure were designed to secure cooperative action within industry with a view to eliminating unfair competitive practices and thereby reducing employment, improving standards of labor and otherwise rehabilitating industry.

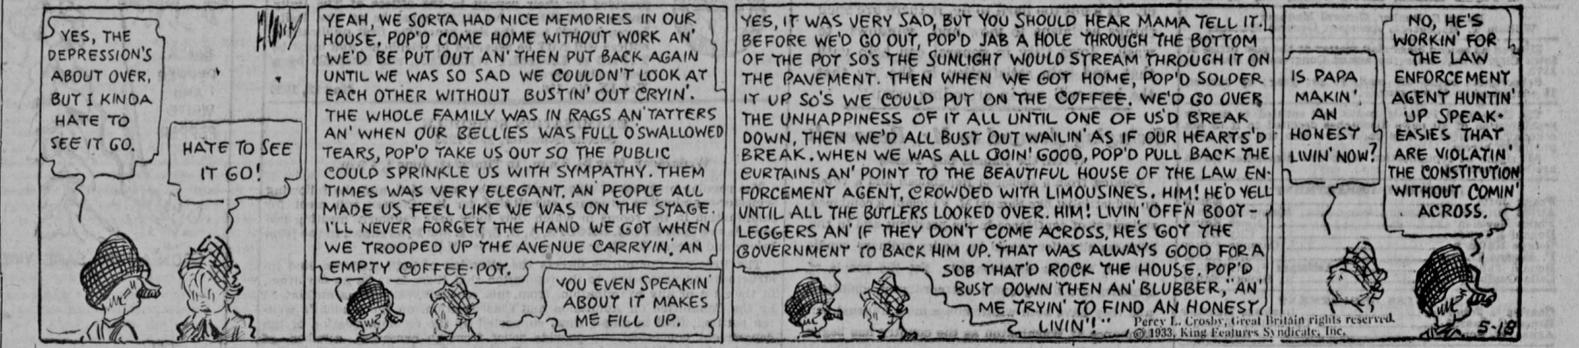

It authorized any group or association within a trade or industry to prepare a code of fair competition, setting forth the standards covering trade and competitive practices within that industry, the code to be invalid unless approved by the president. The code would have to be representative of the industry, admitting all engaged in it, "be fair to competitors, employees and consumers," ban monopolies and "not discriminate against small business enterprises."

Senator Wagner of New York, one of the drafters, said:

"In addition, the employers submitting such a code of fair competition must agree that their employees shall have the right to organize and bargain collectively and that their right to join a labor organization will not be interfered with. They must undertake to reduce the hours of labor to that number which the president finds will be most helpful in increasing employment in the industry."

"Finally, they must agree to pay a minimum scale of wages and maintain standards of working conditions as determined by the president."

Further Authority
"The president is further authorized to enter into or approve agreements relating to any trade or industry with a view to improving conditions within that industry and increasing its purchasing power to provide employment."

"The initiative is left with industry, however, should an industry be unable or refuse to cooperate, the president may impose upon it a code of fair competition and in extraordinary circumstances license the trade or industry."

Employment Gain Reported by Two Cabinet Members

WASHINGTON, May 17 (AP)—Reports of reviving business and a slight increase in employment came today from Secretaries Woodin and Perkins and the advisory council of the federal reserve board.

Woodin said advices to the treasury showed both business and industry had moved ahead in recent weeks, adding that "the forward movement has been under way for some time."

Only $1,500,000,000 of deposits remains tied up in closed national banks, he said, while $17,000,000,000 has been released.

The advisory council formally reported to President Roosevelt a noticeable improvement, with banks feeling the gains.

Radio Class Hears KFEQ Station Head

Plenty of human nature injected into the air waves is the formula that spells successful radio selling, Clarence Koch, manager of station KFEQ at St. Joseph, Mo., told the radio broadcasting class yesterday morning.

Citing the record of the St. Joseph station, with which he has been associated for its 13 years of existence on a commercial basis, Mr. Koch outlined his methods of "establishing broadcasting relationships in dollars and cents."

Announcers must have a special knowledge of, and liking for, the products they advertise in order to try their own thinking and talking via the ether, Mr. Koch said.

Employees of the station are treated as a family, entertainers exchange work, and program sponsors are invited to live at the station in a plan to generate confidence and good will, the KFEQ manager said.

"The merit of any broadcast rests on its being presented in the same spirit and by the same type of person as the listener for which it is intended," said Mr. Koch.

Religious Workers Appoint Committee

At a meeting of the Religious Workers' council held at Iowa Union yesterday noon, a committee to work on program plans for the council for next year was appointed. The Rev. Caspar C. Garrigues and the Rev. Llewellyn A. Owen are members of the committee.

ported to President Roosevelt a noticeable improvement, with banks feeling the gains.

Document Bearing Lincoln's Signature Found in Library

Tucked away in a little box in the university rare book room, where it is believed to have lain for 40 years, an old document bearing the signature of President Abraham Lincoln, and that of his secretary of the treasury, Salmon P. Chase, has been restored and is now on display in the university general library.

It was the twenty-seventh day of February, 1863, just a few months before the famous battle of Gettysburg, when the president signed the document that made Delos Arnold of Marshalltown "Assessor of internal revenue for the sixth collective district of Iowa."

Years passed and the document became a cherished relic in the Arnold family, recalling the assassin's chief, in 1884 Charles Aldrich of Webster City, a collector of autographs, old papers, and documents, was given the valued paper only after Mr. Arnold was convinced that by Mr. Aldrich's public display of the commission more people could enjoy the sight of the slowly-written, carefully-formed signature of the Civil War president.

The collection of autographs was first started at the university by Mrs. Ada North, librarian, in 1879 to 1892. During that time Mr. Aldrich turned over a large number he had obtained. The Arnold document was among these and was one of the collection surviving the university library fire of 1897.

Found among a group of old documents boxed in a part of the library rare book room which was recently remodeled, the commission was sent to Des Moines for binding. In searching through the papers, Miss Worner located a picture of Mr. Arnold, and also the letter he wrote to

Mr. Aldrich when he gave him the paper in 1884.

Backed with silk gauze the document is now bound in book form with the picture and letter. It will be on display indefinitely.

Wegman Requests Federal Opinion on Payment of Interest

DES MOINES, May 17 (AP)—State Treasurer Leo J. Wegman today requested an opinion from the federal comptroller of currency regarding payment of interest on public funds in Iowa national banks operated by conservators under federal restrictions.

The move was one of two taken today seeking to clarify the status of public funds deposited in restricted banks.

Claire E. Hamilton, assistant attorney general, ruled that county treasurers are not authorized to deposit public monies in banks operating under senate file 111 unless the banks have been officially designated as depositories, and that all banks accepting such funds would be required to pay the regular two per cent interest rate on 90 per cent of the daily balances, the interest going to the state sinking fund.

Gasoline Tax Case Handed to Jurors

DES MOINES, May 17 (AP)—A district court jury tonight deliberated charges against Theodore Wall, Des Moines attorney, accused of obtaining money by false pretenses through fraudulent gasoline tax refund application returns.

The state rested its case at noon and the defense elected not to give testimony. A motion by the defense for a directed verdict in Wall's favor was overruled.

Dr. Oscar Plant to Speak at Waterloo

Dr. Oscar H. Plant, professor and head of pharmacology, will speak tonight before physicians in Waterloo who are taking the post graduate course of lectures sponsored by the speakers' bureau of the Iowa State Medical society.

Dr. Plant's subject is chemotherapy—treatment of disease by chemical compounds which will kill micro-organisms but will not damage tissue.

Probe of N. Y. Curb Uncovers "Abuses"

NEW YORK, May 17 (AP)—Attorney-General Bennett said his investigation into unlisted securities dealing on the New York curb exchange had uncovered "serious abuses," and the attorney for the exchange at the same time said the inquiry "has shown the exchange ways in which its so called unlisted department might be strengthened in the interests of the investing public."

William A. Lockwood, the exchange counsel, issued his statement at the close of a session which virtually completed the investigation and Bennett made a statement in reply.

Honoring Service

IN THE MATTER of active, worthwhile public service, the Junior Chamber of Commerce has established a record in the short year of its official existence that might well be the envy of any community organization.

The finest contribution of all in many respects is the annual award of a distinguished service key to the young man who has been of the most unselfish service to his community.

This key, presented Tuesday evening to Arthur Boss for his untiring, understanding work with the Boy Scout cub pack, gives recognition to qualities of human service that are too often overlooked.

It is comparatively easy for a man with a fair degree of intelligence and a capacity for working unendingly in his own interest to garner eventually his own share of success. The path of the man who gives without stint of his time and his energy and his sympathy for the uplift of others is usually a lonely one.

That was the path chosen by Arthur Boss. He took charge of 18 boys last September. Vivaly interested in their welfare, he gave four evenings each week to their training. So well have his efforts succeeded that his pack now numbers 47 boys between the ages of 9 and 12.

The reward of such men comes mostly in the more or less dim satisfaction of their labor's fruits. It is of course a thrillingly deep satisfaction at times. In the long run, Mr. Boss would undoubtedly think that that satisfaction as reward enough. In that he would be immeasurably richer than most men.

The value of Tuesday's award, therefore, lies not so much in the satisfaction that it brings to Mr. Boss himself, but in the heartening fact that Iowa City through the Junior Chamber of Commerce recognizes the measureless worth of his type of service.

Honors in Debating

AS A FITTING climax to a successful season for the University of Iowa comes the announcement that Iowa debaters will argue over a nationwide broadcasting hookup against Bates college to determine a national champion.

At Iowa and other universities of the middle west which are members of the Western Conference Debating league the importance of the contest element in debating has been minimized.

It has been the custom, in years past, to not announce a winner. This year, because of the proposal to hold an intersectional debate, the winning school has been announced.

An interesting coincidence is the fact that Prof. Craig Baird, to whom must go a large share of the credit for Iowa's success in forensics, was debating coach at Bates.

Iowa and Bates reached the top in debating through a series of elimination contests, in which 21 of the major colleges and universities of the east and middle west participated.

Significant is the fact that such a contest will remove intercollegiate forensics from the university atmosphere and bring it before many thousands of radio listeners, who will be asked to cast their vote for the speakers they consider best.

That much interest can be created in such a debate was illustrated by a recent radio contest between Oxford and Yale, in which the winner was selected by hundreds of thousands of listeners who sent in their ballots.

Debaters, director, and others who have contributed to the Iowa forensic work deserve sincere credit for their achievement and the added honor they have brought to Iowa.

Help for Scouts

FINANCIAL HELP for boys who are members of the local scouting organization was assured by the announcement Tuesday that rates for the Rotary-Boy Scout camp would be lowered this year.

Boy Scouts attending the camp during the coming summer will pay $3 a week instead of the customary $7 of other years, Scout Executive Glen G. Fordyce has announced.

This will be accomplished in part by each boy furnishing a portion of his food as he comes to the camp, the $3 fee being used to buy perishable foods and to apply on overhead expenses.

Camp cookery on the part of the boys, as they prepare their own breakfasts and suppers during the camp period, will also aid in lowering the expense, it is thought.

The difference of more than 50 per cent in expense for the camp period will make it easier for a number of boys to attend the camp; it will no doubt make attendance possible for some who could not make the attempt under the old rates.

Even at the lower cost, there are going to be young fellows who will have to figure out ways and means of getting the money together. It's not too hard to do, if there are such things as laws to mow and windows to wash. Iowa City in general can help with that, and gain satisfaction in the joy that the boys will get in attending camp.

Swinging Around to Mr. Roosevelt

Coming from a seasoned Republican and a veteran industrialist like Samuel M. Vauclain, a combined statement of confidence in the president and in the business situation would be, under ordinary conditions, a singular development. Yet the people of America are living under extraordinary conditions and they have been witnessing a most unusual performance at Washington as the country has begun a seemingly steady and most heartening advance from the low point of a depression that had just about taken hope out of the hearts of millions.

Mr. Vauclain's frank declaration of loyalty to the president, despite a previous attitude of opposition, doubtless expresses the feeling of many of those millions. It is unquestionably true that the vigorous policies advocated from the White House, that the courage, faith and good nature of the president not only have contributed to a reversal in much sentiment as regards the executive himself but to the actual betterment in industry that so far has come.

Had conditions not shown positive signs of improvement, Mr. Roosevelt, whether he deserved it or not, would have suffered in popularity. The American people have a way of holding their presidents to a vast degree of responsibility. Mr. Roosevelt has been extremely fortunate, both in meeting popular expectations and in getting results. Regardless of politics, every thoughtful citizen will desire a continuance of the Roosevelt "luck"—because it happens to be the luck of the American people themselves.

TODAY'S TOPICS

By FRANK JAFFE

It is difficult to suppress the feeling that there is an ominous ring to Adolf Hitler's address to the Reichstag yesterday, outlining his foreign policy and seemingly squelching rumors that have made France, Britain, and the U. S.—in that order—fearful of a new war.

That presumption—that Hitler is shielding his true feeling in regard to war and arms—may be based upon Hitler's interpretation of true nationalism, the work of the Nazi storm troopers, and upon Hitler's own expressed policy of militarism as the means by which to achieve a greater Germany.

Seemingly, President Roosevelt's proclamation to the world on the subject of peace and disarmament had a profound effect on the German chancellor's pronouncement. If the U. S. ultimatum had not been timed—although it is evident that it was timed—to precede Hitler's declarations, there is no telling what the latter might have contained.

There is nothing about Hitler's rise to power to lead one to believe that he is peace-loving. There is nothing in his avowed purpose of making the world safe for Aryanism that appears conducive to peace. And there is nothing in the man himself to give rise to hopes that he meant yesterday what he said.

There can only be the hope that the world accepts the German declaration for what it is worth. When President Roosevelt told the world that America wants international peace and harmony and disarmament, the world knew that Roosevelt was speaking for America's 120,000,000. But is Hitler speaking for Germany's 50,000,000 when he—all inconsistent with his former allegations—says that Germany has no intention of making war, of arming, of violating pacts and treaties?

If, on the other hand, one can believe that the man who sanctions inhuman atrocities within his own country also sanctions peace without, then the world must respect Germany's goodwill and position among the nations. If the world is to understand that this man knows what he is talking about when he says that the world has nothing to fear from Germany, then it must accept Germany into the council of nations and establish the equality that Germany demands.

But it is quite evident that Hitler does not control the German government, except physically and forcefully, nor can he control the majority sentiment of the nation. Everything he has done so far has been to the detriment of the German people before the world. Everything he has done to destroy German traditions has been to the detriment of future Germany. Does he mean now to relinquish his campaign against culture, against education, against progress? He has said nothing to indicate that he will.

Except to indorse the American pronouncement, Hitler's speech contains nothing of value to world opinion. It cannot be expected that France, with swarming rumors of German secret arming for sudden invasion gripping the nation with new fear, will now relax and settle back once more into confident repose. Nor can it be expected that Poland, which momentarily expects to find the much-discussed Corridor suddenly wrested from its grasp, will be contented with just Hitler's say-so.

Perhaps it is unjust to berate Hitler when his motives might be on the right side. Perhaps it is unjust to continue the moral condemnation of all Germany on account of the Nazi activities—which Hitler claims have neither the moral nor financial support of the government. But if Hitler's declaration is not merely a batch of words, the greatest task before him is to prove it.

Second Semester, 1932-1933

Wednesday, May 24, 8 a.m., to Thursday, June 1, 4 p.m.

The regular program of class work will be suspended, and the following semester-examination program substituted for it. Classes will meet for examination in the rooms in which they have been regularly meeting (except classes in SPECIAL GROUPS, A, B, C, D, E and F, as shown in the form below; and Speech (2), (3), and (4) as shown at "N.B." below).

The Program Committee directs the attention of both students, and instructors and professors, to the regulation that there is to be no deviation, in the case of any examination, from this schedule,—except as authorized by the Committee on Admission and Classification, on the student's written petition, filed in ample time, supported by the recommendation of the department concerned,—to provide relief from an excessive number of examinations within a single day. Deviation for the purpose of getting through earlier will not be permitted.

In the case of conflicts (within the SPECIAL GROUPS, A, B, C, D, E and F) the schedule itself, as presented below, provides a general method of making adjustments.

All classes whose first weekly meetings have occurred as indicated in the rectangles, below, meet for examination during the periods noted at the tops of these three columns, and on the days noted in the rectangles directly opposite at the left of the double, vertical line.

Table with columns for Exam. Period, 8-10 A.M., 10-12 A.M., and 2-4 P.M. Rows list dates from Wednesday, May 24 to Monday, June 1, and specify Special Groups A through F and their respective subjects.

CONFLICTS: In case of conflicting examinations the student should report to the instructor in charge of the first of the two conflicting subjects as listed (read by columns), within the particular group, who will arrange a special examination. Report to him, or her, not later than regular class hour on May 8 and 9.

The first meeting of the class means the first lecture or recitation period in courses having both lectures and recitations, and laboratory periods; or, in the case of courses involving only laboratory periods, the first clock-hour of the first weekly meeting. For example, chemistry 22 meets for lectures T Th S at 8. The first regular meeting is, consequently, Tuesday at 8,—and the class will meet for examination Thursday, May 25, 2 p.m., according to the tabular form above. Again, physics 126 meets twice each week, T F, for a three-hour laboratory exercise, 1-4. The period for the examination is, therefore, Wednesday, May 31, 2 p.m.

N.B. All sections of freshman speech (2), (3), and (4) will meet on the days and at the periods designated below: (For rooms see departmental bulletin boards.)

- 1. Wednesday, May 24, 8-10: course (2) AA, CA, BA, BB, BC, DA, DB, DC
2. Thursday, May 25, 2-4: course (2) BA, BC, CA, DA, DB, DC

Keeping Up With the New Books

Mary Lincoln, by Carl Sandburg and Paul M. Angle. Harcourt, $3.00. Reviewed by DOROTHY DVORAK.

From the standpoint that Mary, wife of Abraham Lincoln, was a "racked and driven woman—that her sudden tempests and her troublesome vagaries were written in the tissues of the brain early in her life, perhaps before she was born," this biography gleans gently with her eccentric behavior as First Lady in Civil War days.

Interpreting the ante-bellum days, the writer creates a background for the history of Mary Todd Lincoln's family and home in Kentucky. The fourth child of a marriage of cousins, Robert S. Todd and Eliza Parker, Mary Ann Todd was given a heritage of genteel surroundings which placed her in the best society of early nineteenth century days. As a girl, she is described as "brilliant, vivacious, impulsive, possessing a charming personality marred only by a transient hauteur of manner and a caustic, devastating wit that cut like the sting of a hornet."

At the White House she met criticism at every turn because of her extravagance and her self-centeredness.

With Lincoln's death her neurotic mind received such a shock that from then on her acts were not those of a sane person. She suffered upon two subjects particularly: finances and money. With a sympathetic note, the last days of her life abroad and in this country are recounted: "In the room where she had sat so much with candlelight and shadow, the evening of all her years came a little after sunset, July 16, 1862. This was in the same house where nearly 40 years earlier she was married. They carried her burial casket out over the threshold her feet touched as a bride—and that was all."

Authenticity to the biography is gained by a collection of documents, and correspondence arranged by Paul M. Angle which completes the testimony to the strange life of Mrs. Lincoln, so misunderstood by her contemporaries and so sympathetically accepted by readers of Sandburg's volume.

STUDIO GOSSIP FILM SCANDAL SCREEN COMMENT

HOLLYWOOD—Three studios are bidding it up for Constance Bennett whose RKO contract shortly comes to an end.

Connie told me this yesterday, also so she still intends to retire from the screen in a year and a half.

"By that time," she said, "Henry and I will have been married for three years. He came to live in Hollywood where my work was. It is only fair that we should go to France and live where his people are."

"I could never stay here, anyway after I quit the screen. Or any other place where I had led such a busy life. Of course I never intend to be idle. I love interior decorating and I might start a style shop. "As for my eventual home, I expect it will be in the south of France. There, it's only an overnight-trip to most of the gay places of the world. Hollywood is 10 days away from anywhere."

None of these plans, Connie admits, are ironbound. A year and a half is a long time. The Marquis de la Falaise might get interested in Hollywood filmmaking. She might want to remain longer in screen work. Time will tell.

Meanwhile, she wants rest. For 9 days, the star has been suffering from a severe cold. The slim Bennett figure has lost several pounds. Doctors call to see her at the studio each day. A nurse comes to give her home treatments at night. If RKO finishes her picture in time, La Bennett will be in Palm Springs on Monday.

And there are rumors afloat she may not even make that last picture for RKO.

A certain Hollywood actor was waxing enthusiastic about his new car. "Everything automatic but the payments!" he exclaimed. "Yeah," flipped Bernie Weinberg, "and if you don't keep them up, they'll have an attachment for that too."

Marion Davies' new picture, "Peg o' My Heart," was a hit in its showing before the Hollywood press. It's really the best thing the star has ever done, a tender, whimsical story, well acted and beautifully scored. Herbert Stothart shows in "Peg" what music can do for a picture. His song, "Sweetheart Darlin'," is lovely and plaintive. Nacio Herb Brown has composed another sweet melody in "I'll Remember." Here is a film that will make new friends for the star. In New York, it opens at the Capitol theater on the nineteenth. Chicago sees it at the same time. Los Angeles probably a little later. Take a tip and see "Peg o' My Heart." You'll like it.

Get ready, America. Mae West, buxom star of "She Done Him Wrong," will tour the whole country, making personal appearances, as soon as she finishes her new picture. . . . It's goodbye for Mary Duncan. She's away to Florida. . . . Laddy Sanford, her devoted admirer, also is heading East.

The same old dynamic Doug is back with us. The first morning after his return to Pickfair, he was up at 6 a.m. An hour later he was on the golf course. "Got tired of looking through the drawers," said he. Incidentally, Doug's golf game is off, due to an arm injury he received at St. Moritz. It will be several months before the muscles level back to their full pliability. . . .

University to Offer Courses at Museum

As one of the few universities in the United States scheduling such courses, the University of Iowa this summer again will offer work in museum courses.

The courses, according to Director Homer R. Dill, are designed to attract school science teachers, who need the knowledge in preparing classroom material; art students, who desire work in clay modeling and casting; and persons training themselves to be museum directors.

During the summer, students will learn how to prepare and mount birds and mammals, to construct accessory materials such as leaves, grasses, and flowers, and to model and cast clay figures.

OFFICIAL DAILY BULLETIN

arranged," will be assigned for examination, as announced to each class by the instructor in charge of the class, at one or another of the following periods:

1. From 4 to 6 on any day from May 24 to June 1, inclusive.
2. Any one of the examination periods assigned, as indicated above, for the examinations in the SPECIAL GROUPS, A, B, C, D, E, and F, since for such "odd" classes these five examination periods will be found quite available.

In connection with any such announcement it would doubtless be well for the instructor making the announcement to ascertain whether any member of his class is already under appointment for examination in some other class for the proposed period. To be sure, it is possible to have examinations in more than one class at any of these times.—If no student is a member of more than one of these classes.

According to one clause in the formal faculty action providing for a special semester-examination program, "the instructor may use the examination period as he sees fit provided he holds the class for the full period. He may have an oral or a written examination, or both, or neither. He may continue regular work or he may use the time for review, or for any phase of his work which may seem to him desirable at this time."

According to another faculty regulation, which is on record as adopted by the faculty, a student absent from the final examination should be reported "Abs.," unless the instructor recognizes that his work up to this examination has been a failure, in which case the final report should be "F."—even though the student may have been absent from the final examination. No examination should be given, subsequently, to such a student until after the absence has been excused by the Committee on Admission and Classification, as shown by a partially filled special report card, signed by the Secretary of the Committee, as indicating that the absence has been excused and that the student is authorized, subject to the consent and at the convenience of the instructor concerned, to take the final examination.

Robinson Reports on Student Workers

If they once land jobs for self-support, University of Iowa students like to hold them as long as possible.

About 87 per cent of the jobs obtained for students by the university employment service are retained from one year to the next, according to figures compiled by Benjamin W. Robinson, manager.

The service, with several thousand jobs in its control, therefore has a limited number available each fall, because only about one of eight positions is open annually.

Students of the 80's Scuffed at Pulitzer's Journalism Schools

That ideas in education have changed greatly in the last few decades is shown by an excerpt from The Vidette Reporter, student publication at the University of Iowa, dated Jan. 21, 1888.

"Classes in Journalism," says an editorial, "are being advocated for our colleges by Joseph Pulitzer in the New York World. This is nonsense. We presume Mr. Pulitzer is one of those persons who imagine that colleges can teach anything under the sun, that journalism, since it is a very high and important profession, should have its chair and its professor in our colleges, just as law, medicine, and theology have.

"Along with Mr. Pulitzer now comes George Riddle who has also evil designs against the colleges of this country. In the next number of the American magazine he intends to say that dramatic art should be taught in our colleges.

"We are ready to read for a while arguments in favor of anything whatsoever, provided only that they be ingenious. Let us get ready soon to invite Booth or Barrett to come here as 'acting' professor."

The satire in the Reporter's predictions is somewhat hollow now, in view of the generally prevalent classes and schools of journalism and dramatics. Ah, well, times do change!

Professor Brown Talks on Gestalt Theory Yesterday

That students will learn more readily and retain their knowledge longer if it is presented to them in such a way that they can see its importance to them personally is a factor in the Gestalt theory of learning, as explained by Prof. J. F. Brown of the psychology department of the University of Kansas, in an address yesterday afternoon in the senate chamber of old Capitol.

Though the theory is an old one, it is "at present enjoying a vigorous revival by such men as Prof. Kurt Lewin and Prof. Wolfgang Koehler of Berlin," he declared. Professor Brown and Daniel Federer of the University of Iowa psychology department are preparing a paper on this subject which will soon appear in the Psychological Review.

Professor Brown's lecture was one of a series presented under the auspices of the graduate college, in this instance with the cooperation of the psychology department.

"The Gestalt theory of learning" was again the subject of an address by Professor Brown, before the Philosophy club last night.

Mile Relay Team Tops Iowa Entry List for Saturday

Headed by one of the best mile relay teams to represent the school since the days of Cuhel, Baird, Stamat and Stephenson, Iowa will enter 10 men in the annual Western conference outdoor track and field championships to be held at Northwestern Friday and Saturday.

This 10 man squad, one of the smallest to represent the Hawkeyes in many years, will compete in four events, the relay, 220, mile and hammer throw.

Saine Group
Although the final selection of the relay quartet will probably be delayed until the last moment, the four men who have handled the assignment all year, Capt. Calvin Hoskinson, Bob Cook, Russ Henry, Sid Dean and Bernie Page. The Iowans have been improving steadily but will have to upset the dose to finish better than third against Michigan, present titleholder in the event, and Indiana's team of Olympic stars.

Leo Campisi will have his work cut out for him in the mile for he must meet some of the best distance men in the middle west. Such men as Hornbostle of Indiana, Woolsey of Illinois and Hill and Powell of Michigan will make it necessary for the little Hawkeye to clip several seconds off his best time in order to place.

Becker in 220
Ed Becker will handle the 220 for Iowa with only a small chance of finishing in the scoring.

In the last year of its existence, the hammer throwing event will see three Hawkeyes, Bob Cornog, Dale Barker, and Lurip Kouba, attempting to gain the three places below Cox, Michigan, and Biddinger, Indiana, the men favored to crack the present mark.

DeHeer, Oskaloosa, Ranks as Standout for Shot Put Title

Costigan, Parker Top Discus Entrants of State

By HARRY BURRELL

At least in two events at the state finals it can be said that one man stands out above his fellow competitors for when "Stretch" DeHeer rears his 6 foot 6 inch frame up into the shot put and discus circles he can look down on the best of his rivals. Nor is height the Oskaloosa weight man's only claim to a stand-out among Iowa field men for he is a leading contender in both events.

With the 12 pound shot he has shown himself to be the best in the state, turning in three winning tosses that are all better than the 45 foot 5 1/2 inch effort of Connolly "f Dubuque. Close behind these two come six men who are all grouped within a foot of each other. This list includes Warren, University high; Parker, Lamoni; Van Winkle, Webster City; Koenig, Burlington; Holden, Malvern; and Hansen, Central Sioux City.

Costigan, Parker in Discus
Although the biggest man in the event, DeHeer is forced to yield to four mighty fine discus throwers on season records. Costigan and Parker, one-man track teams for Buffalo Center and Lamoni, have been hurling the platter around 130 feet all season and will probably need a record breaking effort to settle the question of supremacy.

Ford, Bonaparte, and Walsh of Abraham Lincoln high, Council Bluffs, rank with DeHeer as the only men who have bettered 117 feet in competition.
Rulon of Shenandoah ranks as a favorite not only for the javelin title but also for the record so long held by Elmo Nelson of Clearfield. He tossed one out 181 feet Saturday to miss the record by less than seven inches. Bennett, Burlington, is the only other man to get better than 158 feet, but Thacker, Esterville; Parker; Grant, Independence; and Van Dorn, Centerville, will all be close enough to give plenty of competition.

High Jump Record Safe
Iowa high school high jumpers will have a real battle with the possibility of plenty of ties when the final results are announced. Six men have marks between 5 feet 9 inches and 5 feet 11 inches, all close enough to slip into first but nowhere near the record of 6 feet 3 inches set by Masten of Ames last year.

The six jumpers include Sanford, Eagle Grove; Kelly, Grinnell; Allen, Davenport; Tate, Independence; Doss, Marathon; and Mueller, Emmetsburg.

Once more the names of Carl Nelson and Parker reach the top of the list, this time in the broad jump where the two men are favored to place one-two. So closely matched are the two that the winner will at least have to jump farther than ever before if not break the record.

ed into the honored group, getting three hits to send his average soaring to .372. In the National league's half of the group, Martin displaced Hartnett, while Dickey shoved Schulte down a notch in the American circuit.

Rookie Halts Phillies With Relief Work

Berly Breaks Leg in Phils' 4th Frame 4 Run Rally

PITTSBURGH, May 17 (AP)—The Pittsburgh Pirates cut loose with their powerhouse attack in the early innings and then with Hal Smith, rookie right hander, pitching effective relief ball defeated the Phillies 6 to 4 to strengthen their hold on first place in the National league.

The Pirates scored three runs in the first inning off John Berly and, although the Phillies took the lead with a four run rally in the third, the Corsairs came back with two runs in their half of the frame and never were headed as Smith, who relieved French in the fourth, held the Phils to two hits.

The Phillies also lost the services of Berly during their big third inning. The young hurler fractured his right leg when his spikes caught in the rubber as he was crossing home plate. He was carried from the field and taken to a local hospital.

The league leaders gave their star-southpaw a good lead but he was unable to hold it, the Phils punching six of their 11 hits to score all of their runs in the one inning. They got two more blows off him before Smith was rushed to the rescue in the fourth.

Brandt Blanks Reds, 3 to 0

CINCINNATI, Ohio, May 17 (AP)—While the Cincinnati Reds were helpless before Ed Brandt's left hander, the Boston Braves bunched and a home run for an 8 to 0 victory today, their second in as many days.

Brandt granted not a hit until the sixth when Grantham scratched a single and gathered himself alone as many hits as he gave. Meanwhile, his mates bunched singles with a home run by Berger in the fifth for a six run blast and more for a two run nightcap in the seventh.

A race for first place should be especially keen as Bruce Grove, last year's winner, attempts to withstand the challenge of Adolph Jacobsmeyer, crack freshman swim captain. Each have strong followings and whoever wins, their individual fight, augmented by the exceptionally high and fast water, should shatter the standing time by at least three minutes. Both of the leading contenders have come under Grove's last year mark in practice.

Close Run Expected
That the two favorites will not have an undisputed claim on first place has been assured by the number of various opinions as to the ultimate winner of the race. Several other so-called dark horses are given even chances to slip into the coveted position.

George Ernst, another yearling teammate of "Jake's," is considered a likely challenger by virtue of much experience at river swimming. Allen Hurley has also made good time in practice as has Auggie Anderson of the varsity.

Heading the second division favorites is Jack Sieg, a townsman of Grove and holder of records in the pool. Then vying for seventh place should be Wilbur Wehmeyer, Van Hoesen, Tad Close, Jack McGuire, and Steve Nielson.

Lacks Conditioning
Pete Lord, who took fifth last year, has suddenly announced his intention to compete but ranks only a long shot because of his lack of conditioning for the race.

The general consensus has the men finishing in this order: Grove, Jacobsmeyer, Anderson, Hurley, Ernst, Sieg, Wehmeyer, McGuire, Van Hoesen, Close, Nielson, and Lord.
Cups will be given the first three place winners while the next 10 men to score will be rewarded with bronze medals.

Chisox Rally to Win, 5-2

PHILADELPHIA, May 17 (AP)—A five run rally in the eighth inning today gave the Chicago White Sox the opening game of the series with the Philadelphia Athletics by a 5 to 2 score.

Al Simmons, former A's outfielder, making his debut in Philadelphia in a White Sox uniform, hit three singles in four times up, driving in one run and scoring another.

IOWAN LOSES 10-9 DECISION TO FALL FROM FIRST PLACE

The Merchants' Union Delivery team, which had previously won only one game in three starts, topped The Daily Iowan diamondball team from first place in the closed league yesterday afternoon, winning a wild tussle from the newspaper outfit, 10 to 9.

After leading all the way, the Iowan outfit was nosed out in the final inning, largely through errors.

The other game in the closed league turned out to be a walk-away for the Knights of Columbus team which pasted an 11 to 0 defeat on the Hydraulic Lab aggregation. With Vassar pitching good ball, the K. C.'s coasted in to an easy victory.

The Kelley Cleaners went into a tie with the Maid-Rite team for first place in the open league by drubbing the Varsity Cleaners, 12 to 3. It was their third victory against no defeats. A good batting punch combined with several errors by the Varsity team enabled the Kelleys to take the game with ease.

Playing a practice game with the Oakdale team of the closed league, the Maid-Rite team won its second shutout in as many days, 3 to 0.

U. Hi Holds Meet Today

Meets Monticello Minus Services of Two Star Mates

Minus the services of Capt. Van Phillips and Martin Warren, who will compete in the state track finals this Saturday at Ames, University high track men will swing into action for the first time on the home field this season when they engage Monticello in a dual meet at old Iowa field this afternoon at 4 o'clock.

Bob Schoenelen will bear the burden of trying for wins in the dashes and will have to fight Wengert or Yeomen, or both. With a season of improvement behind him "Sneb" should make a good showing.

Yeoman is sure bet to win the 220 yard low hurdles with McColister pushing him. If Schoenelen runs, the race will be a close one. Ed Joy is favored to take the mile and half mile runs and also win the broad jump.

University high appears especially strong in the field events for this meet. Leo Miller's season record in the shot favoring him in this event. Fountain appears good for a win in the javelin throw but can expect the strongest competition from Yeoman. Rarick should win the pole vault.

Monticello should have little trouble winning the 880 yard relay, as R has a conference record breaking quartet. The same stands for University high in the mile relay for without the services of Phillips the locals set a record in this event at the conference.

Crowder on Hill Second Straight Day

Scatters Eight Hits to Beat Ferrell; Joe Cronin Leads

WASHINGTON, May 17 (AP)—Returning to orthodox baseball after their weird battle of yesterday, the Washington Senators and Cleveland today played a strictly regulation game with the Indians taking the short end of a 3 to 2 score.

The victory, in which Wesley Ferrell was touched for 10 hits, put the Senators in undisputed possession of second place in the American league.

Crowder Wins
Alvin Crowder, Washington right hander, who was one of the 11 pitchers engaged in yesterday's battle—a new American league mark—kept the eight hits he gave the Indians fairly well scattered.

Averill turned in the fielding gem of the day with a running, one hand, over the shoulder catch of a deep liner in the late innings while Manager Joe Cronin of the Nats captured the batting honors with two doubles and two singles in four times at bat.

Travis Continues
Washington's rookie sensation, Cecil Travis, who was recalled from Chattanooga to replace the injured Ozzie Bluege at third, continued his sparkling play afield and turned in two hits out of three attempts.

Gomez Pitches Yanks to Victory

NEW YORK, May 17 (AP)—With Lefty Gomez in form, the New York Yankees successfully protected their slim lead in the American league today, defeating the Detroit Tigers 4 to 1 in the first home game against the western clubs.

The lanky Castilian held the Tigers to six scattered hits and had a shutout until the eighth when he threw wild to second in an attempted double play after Hayworth had tripled.

Carl Fischer, the Tiger's southpaw, did fairly well until the Yankees bunched two hits with two bases on balls and an infield out in the sixth to score three runs. Previously Lou Gehrig had driven in Combs with the first Yankee run in the third inning.

Alexander Leads Red Sox to 7 to 3 Victory; Pipgras Wins

Sam West of Browns Hit in Face by Thrown Ball

BOSTON, May 17 (AP)—Dale Alexander, American league batting champion, today came out of his prolonged slump and gave a perfect exhibition at the plate while the Boston Red Sox were defeating the St. Louis Browns, 7-3.

Alexander, dropped from third to seventh in the batting order, banged out three singles and drew a pass. The slugging honors, however, went to Johnny HoDapp, who helped Blaeholder for two doubles and a single to score two runs and drive in two more of the Red Sox tallies. George Pipgras, recent purchase from the New York Yankees, made his Boston bow and held the Browns to eight scattered hits.

Sammy West, St. Louis outfielder, was removed from the game in the eighth after he was hit in the face by a thrown ball. West had doubled and was struck when he tried to regain second base after Campbell lined out to Alexander. Alexander's throw struck him under his right eye.

West was removed to a hospital for an x-ray examination. Manager Killiter said the player's sight was not damaged but feared he had a fractured cheek bone and several loosened teeth. West probably will be out of the game for several days.

Stock Market Prices Again Show Gains

Favorable Statistics Add Weight in Rally Yesterday

NEW YORK, May 17 (AP)—Security markets were cheerfully disposed today and prices again advanced.

Another batch of favorable trade statistics and dividend news added their weight to the upward movement which has now been in progress a month.

Chancellor Hitler's speech appeared to have a more soothing effect than had been anticipated in some quarters. Marketwise, the address was accompanied by a rally in German bonds and a rise in foreign exchanges, the latter having begun the day with a sharp sag against dollars.

The stock trend was upward virtually all day, though late profit-taking ate into the many extreme gains of 1 to more than 5 points. Steel shares were fairly vigorous, rails made occasional sallies. The rail average closing price, according to the standard statistics-Associated Press composite, represented a new high for the year.

Shorts in American Telephone spent an uncomfortable day. Apparently they reduced their commitments to a sizeable extent both before and after declaration of the usual $2.25 quarterly dividend, for the stock shot up to 112 7/8 for a rise of 5 5/8, finishing 2 points under the top. Directors made no comment in connection with the dividend decision, though they probably felt the payment, partially covered by actual earnings, was justified in the lofty sentiment which had dictated it in your fervent love of peace and your sincere desire for the economic recovery of the people. The government of the French Republic will study the communication in a similar spirit and a community of aspiration. Chancellor Hitler, in his speech to the Reichstag, expressed his "realization that the high minded project of the American president to inject the United States as the guarantor of peace in Europe would mean great tranquillization for all who desire peace."

Hitler Reference Apparently in answer to the Hitler reference to the "guarantor of peace" and an address by Prime Minister MacDonald of Great Britain, hailing Mr. Roosevelt as embarking on a new policy regarding Europe, the White House stated emphatically that the communication imposes no obligation on the United States.

It was described as committing this government on the following points only: 1. If every other nation agrees to eliminate weapons of offensive warfare the United States will do the same. U. S. Will Follow 2. If during the disarmament period every other nation agrees not to invade its neighbors, subject to existing treaty rights, the United States will do likewise.

3. If there is a violation of any such agreements, the United States will consult other nations. This policy of consultation was described as involving no change from existing policy and reserving full freedom for the United States to act independently of the decision of the other consultants.

The twelve rulers whose replies were received little more than 24 hours after the dispatch of the original message included King George of Great Britain who wired:

King George's Message "I thank you for your important message which I have communicated to my governments in order that it may receive their fullest consideration."

The list also included Queen Wilhelmina of the Netherlands, who said she spoke for a nation which "abhors war" although it would "of course, resist assault."

The others heard from were the rulers of Austria, Sweden, Denmark, Latvia, Norway, Cuba, Mexico, Panama and Switzerland.

Bonds Move to New High

Market Rises Following Speech Given by Hitler

NEW YORK, May 17 (AP)—The bond market moved into new high territory for the year today as international political uneasiness calmed under Chancellor Hitler's reichstag speech and business and industrial news continued to make pleasant reading.

Trading activity expanded considerably on the upturn, sales totaling $15,019,000, par value, against $11,805,000 yesterday. The average for 60 domestic corporate bonds advanced one-half a point to 73.1.

Secondary domestic issues and German obligations showed the best gains of the day, although the high, est grade maturities were fairly steady. United States government securities were generally inactive and moderately lower. Railway bonds led the forward push. Among gainers of 1 to 3 or more points were some loans of American I. G. Chemical, Santa Fe, Baltimore & Ohio, Burlington, Chicago Great Western, St. Paul, Rock Island, Great Northern, Illinois Central, N. Y. Central, New Haven, Northern Pacific, Philadelphia Reading Coal & Iron, Postal Telegraph, Skelly Oil, Southern Pacific, Southern Railway, U. S. Rubber and Western Maryland.

German government 5 1/2s and 7s were up 2 points each and other reich loans advanced 1 to around 4 points. Improvement was also shown by bonds of Italy, Great Britain, Switzerland, Belgium and Japan, issues of Australia and France were heavy.

Iowa Corn Planting Latest in 30 Years, According to Reed

DES MOINES, May 17 (AP)—Retarded by low temperatures, Iowa corn planting now is the latest in 30 years, records of Director Charles D. Reed of the state weather and crop bureau show.

With only about 15 per cent of the corn planted on May 14, the work is about eight days later than normal, he said in his weekly report.

Planting was reported to be farthest advanced in the drier western counties, but has been delayed in much of the state. In the eastern counties planting has barely started and much that was planted 10 days ago will have to be replanted.

All vegetation made little progress during the cool weather which prevailed much of last week. While conditions have not been favorable for pollination it is too early to judge the fruit crop outlook, Reed said.

"MARY FAITH" by Beatrice Burton

CHAPTER XXXIV

She took exquisite care of herself. She had never let herself grow careless about her appearance as so many young wives do when the babies start coming and the household cares increase. Every night before she went to bed she brushed her dark hair with a hundred strokes of her hair-brush. She carefully manicured her nails, and she always saw to it that her clothes were spotless.

She was propped up among the snowy pillows of the bed, deep in the second chapter of her book, when she heard Kim unlock the front door of the flat and come down the little hallway to the bedroom. After a year and eight months of married life, her heart still beat faster at the sound of his footsteps. Lately she never knew what mood he would be in when he stepped into the flat. The night before he had had hardly a word for her, and this morning he had forgotten to kiss her when he left for the office. She had been thinking of it all day, telling herself that doubtless he was worried about something at the office.

As he came through the doorway now, she smiled up at him and held out a hand. His own fell slackly away from hers as soon as he had touched it. "Still awake?" he asked teasingly.

"Of course, I'm awake, Kim." She closed her book and laid it on the bedside table. "I want to hear all about the clam bake. I've never been to one, and I've been wondering if they're anything like corn roasts. What do they do? Build big fires on the beach and have supper there?"

Kim turned his back to her and began to take off his necktie. "Yeah, that's the way they do it," he answered.

He took off his coat and Mary Faith got out of bed to hang it over the back of the chair. Then she took his pajamas from her book in the clothes closet and handed them to him. She always waited on him as if she were his servant.

"I was sure I saw you tonight," she said presently, by way of making conversation. "I felt lonesome, so I took the baby up to Mrs. Puckett's and had dinner there. On the way home, I was positive that I saw you come out of the drug store."

He swung round then and looked at her. "Oh, you're crazy!" he said roughly. "So that's why you were cross-questioning me about the clam bake? Trying to find out whether I really went to one, or not?"

Ledges in Dr. Thatcher's car. She looked better than Mary Faith had ever seen her. "I had a beautiful time," she said at supper. "Lucy waited on me, hand, foot, and finger all the time I was there. She just couldn't do enough for me, it seemed. Every morning she brought me my breakfast in bed and once or twice a week she'd have friends in to lunch, just for my entertainment."

This was her way of making Mary Faith feel that she was neglected at home, and Mary Faith knew it. She knew, too, that she did not neglect her, but she felt a bit guilty anyhow.

"Perhaps we ought not leave your mother," she said to Kim that night when he suggested a drive through the park. "If we go out, she'll have to sit here alone with the baby, and she won't like that after the gay life she's had at Lucy's all summer."

Kim's only answer was, "Well, suit yourself about going." He started for the front door, and she suddenly decided to go, too. After all, he was more important than Mother Farrell, and they wouldn't be gone long.

On the way back to the flat Mary Faith suggested that they stop at the drug store on the corner for a soda. Afterward she remembered that Kim had not looked exactly pleased at the suggestion.

They were sitting at the marble counter when she saw him turn his head and look at someone on the other side of the store. Mary Faith turned her own head after a minute to find out whom he was looking at so steadily.

Behind the perfume and cosmetics counter stood a tall girl in a green linen dress. Her eyes, from that distance, looked as if they were green too and her ash-blond hair was braided around her head. She was extremely pretty. And she was smiling at Kim.

As soon as Mary Faith turned, she stopped smiling and Kim looked away. "Kim, why should you turn your head and grin at her, even if she is pretty?" asked Mary Faith.

Kim laughed and shrugged his broad shoulders. "You know what they say Mary Faith. A woman is as old as she looks, but a man is old when he stops looking."

Mary Faith could not see any humor in that. "I never think of noticing any man but you, Kim. I never really see anybody but you anywhere." He patted her hand. Two or three times the next day or two Mary Faith found herself thinking of the girl in the drug store and of the man whom she had seen coming out of the store on the night of the Shore Club clam bake. Was it possible . . . ? But beyond this point Mary Faith's mind refused to go. She was so honest and straightforward herself that it was easy for her to believe that everybody else was straightforward and honest too. Her instinct was to trust people in general, and Kim in particular.

points that kept him from home until eight or nine o'clock. Now and then he had to see somebody on Sunday about some legal business, or so he said. "I'm driving down to Steubenville on Sunday to see a client of ours," he would say to Mary Faith in a frank, offhand way, exactly as if he had nothing to hide. "McIntire asked me to go, and I couldn't very well refuse him."

On his return, he would tell her how lovely the country had looked, how his client had asked him to stay to dinner, and how he had refused. "I wish he wouldn't tell me all those stories," Mary Faith sometimes thought as she listened to them. They did not deceive her for an instant, and it filled her with shame to know that Kim could tell her such palpable lies. That feeling of shame was harder to bear something than the knowledge that Kim had spent those hours away from home with another woman.

That there was another woman in his life, she knew—the blond girl who worked in the drug store at the corner. Sometimes, on the nights when Kim came home for dinner, he would decide suddenly to run down to the drug store for a book from the rack of popular fiction on display there.

"I'll be back in a little while," he would tell her, as he picked up his hat and made for the door. "I'm just going to get something to read." He might come back in a few minutes with a book in his hand. But the chances were that he would be gone for an hour or two. Mary Faith never asked him where he had been. Sometimes she pretended to be asleep when he returned, so that he would have no opportunity to tell her any more of his elaborate and unconvincing stories.

She often asked herself what another wife would do in her place. Would she make a scene? Burst into tears and tell Kim that he would have to choose between her and the girl? Threaten him with a divorce?

She knew that she never could do any of those things. Thinking about them would be as far as she would go. Thinking and worrying and watching the slow hands of the clock on the nights when Kim stayed out until eleven or twelve.

"And I suppose that's what most women do," she thought, "when their husbands find some interest outside their own homes. They shut their eyes to the whole thing, just as I do, and wait for it to come to an end."

And then, without warning, she found herself at the place where she could no longer shut her eyes to Kim's extraordinary behavior.

One Saturday evening, early in November, she had come into the flat at six after a trip to the market for the food for Sunday dinner. As she fitted her key into the lock, the door was pulled open and Mrs. Farrell's frightened face appeared. "The baby!" she gasped. "He's in a convulsion—The phone's out of order, and nobody's home in the building. I rang all the bells—You call the doctor, I'll get the hot water."

Wheat Hits New Level of 82 Cents

CHICAGO, May 17 (AP)—Wheat distinguished itself today by rising to a top price unequalled since June, 1931. The new high record, 82 cents a bushel, was paid for No. 2 red wheat, immediate delivery. This amounted to 10 cents over May, the best premium of the present season, 2 cents advance from latest previous sales, and indicated that consumer requirements were outpacing speculative demand.

Future deliveries of wheat and other grains all displayed strength, however, responsive to upturns of securities and because of new delays to corn planting.

Wheat futures closed firm, 1-2, 1-4 above yesterday's finish, corn 3-8, 3-4 up, oats unchanged to 1-8, 1-4 higher, and provisions unchanged to a rise of 15 cents.

Aside from the new high price record achieved by immediate delivery wheat, grain traders gave most attention to unwelcome rains menacing a fresh, the 1933 corn crop. An official report from Washington which attracted particular notice said the corn planting situation in the central Mississippi valley and the Ohio valley had become critical because of continued wetness making field work impossible. Illinois points especially reported that heavy rains last night made it uncertain the 1933 corn crop would be so late as to be subject to weather extremes of heat and possible frost.

Spare Moments

Prof. J. Hubert Scott Exposes Falsehoods in Literature by Using Rhythm Patterns

By Francis W. Palmer

Not many persons would know how to play with voice rhythms. Fewer persons, probably, would consider them a fit subject for a hobby.

But that's what Prof. J. Hubert Scott of the English department does in his spare moments.

"Everyone leaves an autograph on what he writes," he declared in an interview yesterday.

Upon that assumption, he attempts to identify authorship by rhythmic patterns of the writing which he traces as he reads. He has developed a technic by which he says he can tell whether a selection was written by a particular author or not.

Graphs

On his desk in an office in the engineering building, Professor Scott spread out a pile of papers on which he has drawn a maze of curves, convolutions, and triangles of all conceivable shapes. One sheet was labeled Sir Walter Scott, another Coleridge, and so on.

Repeating a verse or two of Scott's poetry, he traced its rhythm and inflections on the writer's particular pattern. Prose being rhythmic, as well as verse, he read several bits of prose from Scott, then from other writers.

But Scott did not write "Waverley" or "Ivanhoe" as is popularly supposed. Neither did a good many other writers write a good many things which they are supposed to have written, he said.

Results

In fact, the chief result of Professor Scott's hobby has been to show that English literature is filled with collaborations, from Chaucer down to the present time. This, he believes, is true of Shakespeare, Milton, Dryden, Spenser, Johnson, Carlyle, George Eliot, and many others.

"There are four different authors in 'Ivanhoe,' of which Scott isn't one!" he remarked.

"Some say that 'The Legend of Sleepy Hollow' was written by Washington Irving. I say not. It ly to participate in this work of putting in order the political and economic conditions of the world."

Germany, he asserted, will go as far as any other country in disarming.

"Germany would dissolve her entire military establishment," he said, "and destroy what little armaments are left, if neighboring countries did likewise.

"Contrariwise, Germany must insist at least upon equality."

Turning to Germany's present military situation the chancellor said: "Germany has disarmed. Our army consists of 180,000 men. The strength and quality of the police are internationally regulated.

"Assistant police, established during our revolution, have an exclusively political character. After the victory in the revolution this police organization already is being remobilized and will be completely dissolved before the end of the year.

"Germany now has the moral right to demand that other nations also fulfill the obligations of the Versailles treaty.

"The equality promised last November was not realized."

Then, dealing with the desires of the French government with regard to security, he said:

"What concrete safeguards does France demand beyond the international obligations already assumed? 'What safeguards is Germany to have?'"

His government, Herr Hitler said, considers that the MacDonald plan for disarmament presents a possible starting point for the solution of the arms problem. This plan calls for transformation of Reichswehr into a conscript short term army. Referring to this the chancellor said:

"Germany must further demand that transformation of the present system, which was not desired but was forced upon Germany, shall proceed apace in proportion as other states actually disarm.

"Germany is ready to regard a five year transitional period as adequate for re-establishing her national security in the expectation that at the end of this time Germany will really be on equal footing with others.

"Germany is further ready to renounce instruments of aggression if during that time other nations likewise destroy theirs."

(The abolition of aggressive weapons was one of the proposals contained in President Roosevelt's world wide appeal of yesterday.)

"Germany will reject no arms ban as too far going so long as applied to all powers," the chancellor continued. "Insofar as arms are conceded to other powers, Germany alone cannot be forbidden defensive weapons forever. We are ready to use our equality only to the extent laid down by negotiations.

"All these demands do not imply was written by his brother, Peter Irving."

"Great Stone Face" "The Great Stone Face," he believes, was not written by Hawthorne, but by Mrs. Hawthorne. "The Ancient Mariner" was not written by Coleridge, nor was "Michael" written by Wordsworth, he believes.

Much of the writing that is attributed to Scott, for example, was written anonymously for a syndicate which was directed by Scott. In this way the writing came to be credited to Scott, he explained.

To further illustrate his hobby, he traced the rhythmic pattern for some of his own verse, then for his conversation. The two patterns were identical.

Pattern "I could talk all day," he said, "and never get away from that pattern. Everyone has his own pattern, for in everyone's writing there is an unconscious rhythm."

For each specimen of writing, there are five types of curves. Occasionally a piece of writing is of doubtful authorship. Sometimes one or two, or even three, of the curves of two pieces of writing by different persons agree. But always there is one type of curve that does not coincide for the two selections.

The hobby is of Professor Scott's own invention, or discovery.

"Good Hobby"

"Nobody puts any stock in it, but it makes a good hobby," he said. "It sounds kind of crazy for a hobby, but then hobbies are expected to be, aren't they?"

In spite of the fact that this rhythmic theory is something of a "heresy" in the English department, Professor Scott plans to publish a book on it this summer, in collaboration with Prof. Zilpha E. Chandler, head of the English department of Keuka college in New York. Professor Chandler studied under Professor Scott as a junior 10 years ago.

"It's still a hobby, however," he explained. "My real business is teaching engineers how to write."

arming up but exclusively the desire that others arm down."

Dealing with the armed forces of France, the chancellor said it was unfair to omit from the numbers subject to limitation the trained reservists on leave, while counting the police forces as part of the German army when they are only armed and trained for police purposes.

"It is totally impossible," he said, "to count organizations which solely serve political or educational or sportive purposes, and which enjoy no military training nor possess military equipments as part of Germany's armed strength, but in other countries not even to see them.

"On the contrary, Germany would be willing at any time, in case of international mutual control of armaments were agreed upon, to submit the above named organizations to this control in order beyond peradventure of doubt to prove their completely unarmy character — provided of course other states were equally willing regarding their organizations."

The chancellor praised Premier Mussolini of Italy for his four power peace plan, with whose pacific purpose the German government, he said, "agrees with the deepest conviction."

Approves F.D.'s Plans The chancellor then voiced warm approval of the Roosevelt proposals, expressing again his conviction that "there can be but one task, namely, to secure the peace of the world."

"It (the German government) also acknowledged without further ado," he added, "the justice of reasons which among others are responsible for today's armaments.

"Nevertheless, I feel obliged to assert that the fear of German invasion can under no circumstances be the reason for France's or Poland's armaments, for this fear would be justified only by the existence of those modern weapons of aggression on the other side which are considerably more powerful than the instruments of modern defense.

No Offensive Weapons "Precisely these modern offensive weapons, however, Germany does not possess at all—neither having artillery nor tanks nor bombing planes nor poison gases.

"The only nation whose fear of invasion can really be justified is Germany, who not only has been denied weapons of aggression but even forbidden to conduct border defenses."

Germany, the chancellor said, fully comprehends the gravity of the world crisis. He pictured the misfortunes and miseries of his people since the war, "the vast extent of which the rest of the world cannot imagine."

Woes These woes of the German people, the chancellor declared in closing, are witnesses against the spirit and fulfillment of the peace treaty, "from the effectiveness of which not only the rest of the world but also millions of men and women in Germany once expected blessings of grace.

"Many the other nations, however, understand from this Germany's firm determination to close at last a period of human errors, in

May Legalize Sale of Beer on Sundays

DES MOINES, May 17 (AP)—Persons wishing to obtain beer on Sundays may do so by purchasing tickets during the week from their dealer, Leroy R. Rader, assistant attorney general, said today.

Rader expressed the opinion that if the tickets are bought during the week and the beer put away for the purchaser, the sale has been completed.

He added that he would look into the matter further. The question arose after Assistant Solicitor McNutt of Des Moines held the sale of tickets was unlawful because the ale was not completed until the beer was delivered. The Iowa law prohibits sale of beer on Sunday.
