Roosevelt Begins Offensive on Emergency

Puts Johnson in Charge of New Project

Administration Okays $50,000,000 Worth of Building Plans

WASHINGTON, June 16 (AP)—President Roosevelt, with full power from congress, opened a sweeping offensive on the economic emergency today on all fronts and designated July as "the beginning of our great national movement back to work."

In a day of almost unparalleled activity at the White House, he ordered into immediate operation the vast public works, industrial stimulation and railroad reorganization programs and designated the field marshals to administer them. Earlier he had signed the bills authorizing these all-inclusive powers.

Agricultural Drive
He signalled Secretary Wallace also to begin the active campaign for improved agricultural prices and orders were issued for acreage reduction and the levying of a processing tax to provide the estimated benefits of $150,000,000 to wheat growers. Cotton comes next.

Two special cabinet boards were appointed to work with the administrators of public works and industrial supervision who were designated formally as Col. Donald H. Sawyer and Hugh S. Johnson, respectively.

Almost concurrently with the signing of the bill, the administration approved plans for bids on $25,000,000 of public buildings in 45 days in addition to a like amount on which bids are now being sought.

Another $50,000,000 in projects will be thrown on the market in 90 days, so that the government will have $100,000,000 of new buildings under way before October.

A fund of $400,000,000 was made immediately available for highway construction in co-operation with the states. An immediate start on the $338,000,000 naval construction program was ordered with its goal of 32 new ships under the London limitations treaty.

Mr. Roosevelt appointed Joseph B. Eastman of the interstate commerce commission as the newly created railroad co-ordinator. Eastman announced an intention for early exploration of the possibilities of reorganizing the carriers in the interest of economy.

Iowa's Program Awaits Officials

DES MOINES, June 16 (AP)—State officials are awaiting the return of Director E. H. Mulock and Secretary Ralph Kittinger of the state emergency relief committee before formulating Iowa's public works program.

They were expected in Des Moines tomorrow from Washington, where they have been conferring with Harry L. Hopkins, federal director, as to the use of the $30,000,000 to $30,000,000 Iowa expects to receive under the public works bill.

Gov. Clyde Herring said projects recommended for inclusion in the Iowa program involve an expenditure of about $26,000,000 but that not all of these probably will be accepted by the federal authorities.

Lieut. Gov. Nels G. Kraeschel was considered in statehouse circles to be assured of the appointment as administrator for the public works program in the state.

Install President of 4-H Club Girls

AMES, June 16 (AP)—Viola Geffrey of Greenfield today was installed as state president of the 4-H club girls, succeeding Ruth Bowman of Keokuk county.

The state convention also elected Ruth Putzke of Dayton, vice president; Tona Nicholson of Blairsburg, secretary-treasurer; and Ruth Hastings of Jefferson, historian.

Scoring 441, Webster county 4-H girls placed first in the state music contest, with Washington county second, Scott third, and Black Hawk fourth.

Dorothy Francis of Kent, Union county, was named winner of the "well-groomed girl" contest.

Federal Bank Grants Loans to Members

DES MOINES, June 16 (AP)—Three loans to members totaling $350,000 were approved by the executive committee of the eighth district federal home loan bank today and will be presented for approval of the board of directors tomorrow.

The board also will consider for membership eight building and loan associations, four in Missouri, three in Iowa and one in Minnesota, approved by the executive committee today, R. J. Richardson, executive vice president, announced.

Mattern Still Long Overdue on World Trip

NOME, Alaska, June 16 (AP)—Clouds and fog which kept Alaska planes grounded today concealed the fate of Jimmie Mattern, Texas aviator who hopped off Wednesday from Khabarovsk, Siberia, for Nome on his round-the-world flight.

Even were weather conditions favorable, a search for Mattern would be comparable to looking for the proverbial needle in the haystack—he might be anywhere within an area of thousands of square miles of sparsely inhabited land, isolated by lack of speedy communication with the outside world.

The flyer's fuel supply would have been exhausted at 8:30 p.m. (E.S.T.) last night had he remained in the air but Nomeites believed he had come down somewhere many hours before that.

While the perils which faced Mattern on the 2,500-mile flight over desolate land and inhospitable sea were great, it was believed here that his chances of survival were at least equal.

Numerous small settlements of natives and traders are scattered along the Bering Sea. If Mattern's plane was damaged in landing, it might be weeks before he would be able to reach a place where he could send out word.

Because of the prevalence of clouds and fog, Mattern may be perched on a beach somewhere along the way, waiting for better flying weather.

Don Moyle and C. A. Allen, flyers, who were missing in the same region in September, 1931, were grounded on an uninhabited Aleutian island seven days before they were able to fly to a settlement.

Mortgage Foreclosed on Kappa Sig House in $50,705 Judgment

Foreclosure of a first mortgage deed against the Alumni association of Beta Rho chapter of Kappa Sigma fraternity on the fraternity's property on N. Dubuque street was ordered Thursday in a decree signed by Judge Harold D. Evans in district court.

Signed in favor of Owen S. Fernow, trustee, the judgment of $50,705.62 was ordered recovered against the fraternity and judgment in rem against the real estate covered by the first mortgage deed of trust.

The decree was in default of other defendants except a minor defendant, Katherine G. Stark, and other defendants under disabilities.

Clark and Clark of Cedar Rapids and Davis and Davis of Iowa City represented the plaintiff. Fernow is the trustee for the bondholders under the first mortgage deed of trust.

Organize Junior C. of C. COUNCIL BLUFFS (AP)

Organization of a Junior Chamber of Commerce was announced by Wallace H. Gallup, temporary chairman. Application for recognition will be filed at the national convention of the organization in Minneapolis.

Other Debts Range Between $125,000,000 and $175,000,000,000

Heavy enough in prosperous times, they have become doubly burdensome under the pressure of falling incomes.

Easing Mortgage Debts
In order to release and increase Mr. Smith's purchasing power, the burden of these debts had to be eased. Here are some of the ways congress has chosen to lighten the stress:

1. It authorized the issue of some $4,000,000,000 in government bonds in two measures to help the owners of homes and small farms. The government either would give the lender government bonds for the mortgage, issuing a new mortgage to the bor-

Council Plans Discussion of City Projects

Will Meet Monday for Consideration of Public Works

Members of the city council will hold a special meeting at 2 p.m. Monday to consider city projects which could be carried through under the emergency public works recovery bill.

According to estimates, Iowa will receive about 20 million dollars from the funds provided in the bill. The money is to go to cities, counties, and school districts, upon their request, for work on public projects. The government, upon approval of the project, makes an outright gift of 30 per cent of the cost of the project and the political division furnishes the rest. The rest of the money, however, can be borrowed from the government.

Herring Appoints Governor Herring recently appointed a committee to receive the projects submitted by the various cities and counties. This committee will either disapprove or approve the projects and money will then be granted.

Dean C. C. Williams of the college of engineering, represents the first congressional district on the committee.

With projects of trunk sewer line, sewage disposal plant, which has been requested by the state board of health and which the city may be ordered to construct in the near future, and the filling and beautification of Ralston creek in mind, the council appointed committees to investigate the terms of the bill and the advisability of working on the projects.

Committees Investigate
The standing council sewer committee and city engineer are investigating the projects and will report to the council. If the council deems it advisable to begin work on the projects under the terms of the recovery bill the project will be submitted to the state committee.

The council will probably submit a request after Monday's meeting to P. S. Yetter, manager of the reforestation camp here, asking for a detail of boys to work on Ralston creek. County Engineer George Griffith

Davenport Men Get 5-Year Sentences on Charges of Arsonage

MAQUOKETA, June 16 (AP)—Five year sentences in the Anamosa reformatory were imposed today upon Leroy Nelson, 19, and Lee Miller, 28, both of Davenport, on arson charges, and the two men then were paroled.

The men allegedly burned the buildings in the Delbert Bickford property eight miles northwest of here two years ago.

Bickford is also being held pending questioning. Four others had pleaded guilty previously to arson charges.

Nelson was paroled to Richard Swift, Davenport attorney, and Miller to Curtis Bush, also a Davenport attorney.

Process Tax on Wheat Will Begin in July

Wallace Lays Plans for 30-Cent Levy to Pay Farmers

WASHINGTON, June 16 (AP)—A thirty cents a bushel tax on wheat will be levied on wheat processors beginning soon after July 1, to pay farmers $150,000,000 for agreements to reduce acreage.

Secretary Wallace, announcing today that the tax would be assessed, disclosed that he planned to distribute the money to farmers under the domestic allotment plan this year for agreements to reduce acreage during the next two years.

Estimates Levy
He estimated that the tax would be 30 cents on the basis of the formula prescribed in the farm marketing act.

Tomorrow, the secretary expects to announce officially a program for cotton which will also call for levying the maximum processing tax, beginning about Aug. 1. The tax on the basis of present price relationships recognized by the bill would be about 4 cents a pound.

Cotton Plan
The cotton plan will call for a sharp reduction of the crop now growing by payment of rentals to farmers and authorizing them to obtain options on up to 2,500,000 bales of government-owned cotton.

Wallace's wheat program took into consideration acreage reduction resulting from natural factors this year and no attempt will be made to reduce the growing crop.

Offer Contracts
Farmers will be offered contracts to reduce the acreages for harvest next year and the following year and two-thirds of bonuses to be raised by the processing taxes will be paid them as a consideration when they sign these agreements.

Wallace said these payments would be made for the most part by Sept. 15 and that this distribution of cash would aid in business recovery. By paying part of the bonuses this summer, he believes farmers whose acreage has been sharply cut by winter-kill and bad weather in the last nine months will realize a form of crop insurance.

Gang Kills Chicagoan

CHICAGO, June 16 (AP)—The cards ran against Joe Pettiti today. He sat down with nine others for a carbuncle game of pinocle. Three gunmen suddenly strode into their midst, blazed away with pistols and Joe was killed.

Three others, one a 13 year old boy, were struck by bullets. The gunmen fled as the card players scattered pell mell.

Whether the slaying of Pettiti was an outgrowth of the kidnaping of Billy Ranieri five years ago or the result of an alcohol feud was undecided by police. They inclined, however, to the latter theory.

Already three deaths have been attributed to the Ranieri kidnaping. Joe's brother, Angelo, is serving a 25 year sentence for the abduction. Wounded by the gunmen were Andrew Tranchitti, 13, shot in the calf, and Joseph Paraneli, 29, one of the card players, struck in the back, and Clerico Ugniconi, 13, another card player, shot in the hand.

Wiley Retires
WASHINGTON (AP)—Lieut. Commander Herbert V. Wiley, the only officer to survive the tragic crash of the airship Akron off Barnegat light, was ordered from lighter-than-air craft service to sea duty "at his own request."

Six County Vets May Join 'Forest Army'
Six Johnson county veterans may get work with the reforestation corps, it was announced yesterday by P. L. Williams of Des Moines, regional manager of the veterans bureau, according to the Associated Press.

Five of the men to be chosen from this county must be World war veterans, while one may be a veteran of some other war. Although Iowa's quota is 500 ex-soldiers, less than 300 have applied.

Helping Railroads
In a special railroad act, congress provided plans for easing the reorganization of debt structures so that small minorities could not prevent steps taken to refund, recapitalize or reduce rail debts.

Rail securities are valued at about $12,000,000,000, and the bulk of them are held by insurance companies, savings banks and other institutions in which Mr. Smith has large interests.

Plan Change in Banking

Financiers Say Drastic Revamping Will Occur

NEW YORK, June 16 (AP)—Drastic changes in banking practices will be put into effect soon as a result of enactment of the Glass-Steagall banking bill, it was indicated today by a survey of financial opinion.

The signing of the measure today by President Roosevelt found the legal departments of Wall Street banking institutions engaged in a close study of the measure.

Private bankers here have not yet decided what they plan to do on the choice which the bill gives them between giving up the deposit banking business or the security business.

At the offices of J. P. Morgan and company, it was explained that this point would be decided only after long study. Kuhn, Loeb and company has reached no decision on the matter, it was said.

Some of the other important private bankers, including Lehman brothers, Dillon, Read and company, and Goldman, Sachs and company felt they would be unaffected by this feature of the bill, because they have virtually no deposit business.

Six County Vets May Join 'Forest Army'

Six Johnson county veterans may get work with the reforestation corps, it was announced yesterday by P. L. Williams of Des Moines, regional manager of the veterans bureau, according to the Associated Press.

Five of the men to be chosen from this county must be World war veterans, while one may be a veteran of some other war. Although Iowa's quota is 500 ex-soldiers, less than 300 have applied.

Aiding Local Relief Work

Relief work, broken down in many places due to the inability of states and municipalities to borrow money, was rescued by the passage of an emergency unemployment bill, which allowed the Reconstruction Finance corporation to allot $500,000,000 to the states for relief purposes. State and municipal debt totals about $18,000,000,000.

Congress also made provisions for increasing the federal debt both to help other debtors who could no longer borrow, and to start public construction.

Rates of Beginning Control Form Major Controversy Still Demanding Solution

High Spots of the Conference

(By The Associated Press)
1.—A currency stabilization agreement was fairly complete tonight, American delegation sources said, except for determination of the rate at which control should begin. (Almost simultaneously, it was emphasized at the White House in Washington that nothing had been heard from London regarding currency stabilization, and that the conference could do nothing about stabilization unless the action was approved by the president and the secretaries of state and treasury).

2.—Expressing astonishment at Secretary of the Treasury Woodin's announcement that no stabilization agreement had been reached, the French delegation said it would not budge until American approval for dollar stabilization had been obtained.

3.—The American dollar closed on the London market at $4.05 3/4, half a cent weaker than yesterday's final price.

4.—Germany asked return of her colonies lost in the war or some other territory in Africa where she would have room to grow.

5.—Chairman Cox of the monetary commission and Chairman Colijn (Dutch) of the economic commission organized the work of their groups and adjourned until Monday.

6.—In the resumed meeting of the big four wheat growing countries, the American delegation led by Henry Morgenthau, Sr., was encouraged by Canadian sentiment in favor of restricted acreage.

F. D. Denies London Reports

WASHINGTON, June 16 (AP)—In the face of reports from London that an agreement for the stabilization of American and British currencies was fairly complete, word came directly from the White House today that President Roosevelt had heard nothing in the way of such a suggestion.

It was said at the executive offices that no final agreement could be made at the world economic conference, at least by the American delegates, until that action had been approved by the chief executive, Secretary Woodin and Acting Secretary Phillips.

The treasury secretary last night issued a statement that no currency stabilization agreement had been reached and that such reports were premature.

Nevertheless, the president, as he prepared to depart on his vacation, was closely in touch with the developments in London. In addition to voluminous cable reports, supplemented by transatlantic telephone conversations, Mr. Roosevelt intends to receive first hand information from his close advisers.

Assistant Secretary Moley of the state department will sail next Wednesday to observe the conference for a short time and then return to Washington.

Some two weeks later, Warren Delano Robbins, who, although American minister to Canada, is now in London, will journey to Washington and report to his chief.

Someone else, Mr. Roosevelt said today, will be coming back from London shortly after Robbins reports.

Three Year Drouth in China Leads to Famine, Cannibalism
SHANGHAI, June 16 (AP)—Thousands of persons have starved to death and cannibalism is widespread throughout Shensi province as the result of a long drouth, Chinese reports said today.

This former fertile wheat growing section of central China, the dispatches said, has had no rain since 1928. Shensi is about 600 square miles in area.

Many inhabitants were reported to have turned banditry in a desperate attempt to sustain themselves.

"Wolves come every night and obtain victims from among the half-starved people," said one account.

Air Armada Delays

Two Outlaws Take Sheriff

Oklahoma Men Kidnap Missouri Official in Stolen Car

BOLIVAR, Mo., June 16 (AP)—Charles (Pretty Boy) Floyd, notorious Oklahoma outlaw, and a companion, Adam Ricchetti, kidnaped Sheriff Jack Killingsworth here today and drove away in a stolen automobile, eluding pursuit.

The sheriff strolled into a garage where Floyd and Ricchetti had lined bystanders against the wall at the point of revolvers while their disabled automobile was being repaired.

"There's the law," Ricchetti shouted. Covered The sheriff was covered with a machine gun, forced into an automobile belonging to Joe Ricchetti, mechanic at the garage and Adam's brother.

The desperadoes dashed out of town with a rapidly formed posse a scant mile behind them.

"This is life and death with us," Floyd told the men in the garage before the sheriff arrived. "We have to do it. They would kill us if they could."

"Line up against the wall. If you try to get away we'll kill you," the outlaw ordered.

Meanwhile, Ricchetti loaded a machine gun and cursed the men he was covering them with his weapon. Floyd quieted him.

Simplicity Keynote for Travel Togs

By ADELAIDE KERR PARIS (AP)—Sleek simplicity is the rule for this summer's travel togs.

The clothes designed for the chic "voyageuse" and the wardrobes worn by the smartest women en route to Europe's most famous spas often are built around a dark-hued matching coat and skirt cut on lines as trim as a sail. Hats are tailored, bags are plain, shoes dark and trim.

Lengths Vary

The jackets of the new travel suits vary from hip to seven-eighth length and are cut on broad-shouldered straight lines which blend with the simple slender skirts.

The blouses which go with them are a story in themselves. So varied are their fabrics, colors and designs that with three or four changes in her bag the chic traveler is ready for everything from a transcontinental train to a fashionable tea.

Mannish Hat Popular

The mannish felt hat with a creased crown worn pulled over the eyes is one of the smartest travel chapeaux. The high toque of straw or crepe is another favorite with fashionable travelers.

Here are two of the smartest costumes noted at the Gare St. Lazare just before a boat train left for Havre recently: deep gray wool suit with three-quarter length coat, blouse of brick, white and gray striped crepe, gray antelope toque, gloves and bag; dark blue suit with seven-eighth length coat, knitted string blouse, dark blue felt mannish hat.

said that he would be glad to cooperate with the council in working out plans for city projects under the recovery bill.

Council Buys New Car for Police

A Rockne four door sedan was purchased for the police department by the city council last night at a meeting at the city hall. Hogan Brothers' accepted bid for the trade-in on the old police car was $295.

The council upon recommendation of the committee appointed last week to investigate the need of a new car, unanimously voted to accept the bid with the money to be taken from the corrected and canceled assessments fund.

Four other bids were received: Tall Chevrolet, $395; Hudson-Essex Terraplane, $270; Willenbrock Pontiac, $484; and Burkett-Updegraff Ford, $350. The bids were all for sedans minus tires and tubes. The old police car, an Essex, has traveled about 35,000 miles.

The city engineer was authorized by the council to make necessary repairs on the Dodge street bridge between Washington street and Iowa avenue at a cost not to exceed $60. He was also authorized to buy repairs for the street cleaner at a cost not to exceed $150.

A cigaret permit was granted to the J. B. Cash store. The resignation of W. F. McRoberts from the zoning board was accepted. Mr. McRoberts said that he was unable to attend the meetings because of ill health.

The license and attendant fee of the Tom Thumb miniature golf course on Washington street was revoked on request of the proprietor. The ordinance relating to miniature golf courses was repealed. The repealing ordinance was introduced by Prof. Jacob Van der Zee. The Van der Zee and Woodward water rate ordinances were both given a second reading. Vote will probably be taken on them at the meeting June 30.

Permission was given to Robert Leinbaugh and Henry Herring to break the curb at the corner of Burlington and Gilbert streets where an oil station is to be erected. Notice was given by former City Solicitor William Hayek that a motion for rehearing on the Ford-Hopkins cigaret case had been filed.

Charles E. James and J. F. Fairbank were permitted to continue their beer licenses under the name of Academy, Incorporated. It was necessary to have the approval of the council as the management of the business was recently changed, the business being made a corporation.

The report of the Iowa City Light and Power company, requested by the council some time ago, was received and placed on file.

The council adjourned until 8 p.m., June 30.

Report on City Finances

The city's financial condition was reported as very favorable by James E. Stronks, chairman of the financial committee, which includes Aldermen S. M. Woodward and J. P. Memler, in a report to the council last night.

The report is as follows: "Two favorable city financial developments have occurred recently:

"First, the State Executive committee proposes an issue of twenty million dollars of bonds for the release of public funds in closed banks in Iowa. This action must be validated in the courts. If successful it will release $129,000 of Iowa City public funds.

"Second, in spite of dire prophecies, the county treasurer advises that approximately 80 per cent of the Johnson county taxes are paid for the first half of 1933, and that this percentage will be increased prior to the last day of tax payments, advanced this year to June 30.

"Our city bond maturities fall especially heavy in 1933, 1934, and 1935, and taper off after 1935 until 1944, when only $5,000 principal airport bonded indebtedness falls due, plus interest, and continues in small amounts each year until 1949, after which none are due.

"So that it seems now if our tied-up funds are paid through a state bond issue at this time and since taxes are being paid fairly well, we can, from funds available and to be available, pay our general assessment bonds and interest maturing this year, as well as a few which matured in 1932, without extra borrowing, with the exception probably of $10,000, which may be needed to refinance.

"Our special assessment bond maturities will, however, need to be refinanced on a larger scale. These consist, as you know, of sewer, paving, street lighting, and sidewalk bonds. We will need approximately $20,000, in addition to funds available, to meet maturing sewer bonds this year, and $72,000 to meet maturing paving bonds, in addition to funds on hand and in sight.

"This totals $92,000, to which should be added approximately $10,000 to take care of unpaid general taxes for the half year, which total about $102,000. This is an estimate, of course. The finance committee will ask the council to refund this probable amount in August. We choose August because at that time we will know definitely the legal and financial status of the state bond issue and the exact amount paid to our city treasurer. No doubt, we can refinance at a lower rate of interest than we are now paying.

"Our home city has an excellent credit name, and it is our desire to continue that name and to strengthen it for prompt payment of all obligations. Our legal limit of general indebtedness is $650,000, and our present amount stands at only $321,000. The committee has urged the county treasurer to push the collection of special assessment taxes and he reports that his department has done and is doing this.

"The committee asks for no special action at this time from the council but merely wishes to lay general facts before you for your general consideration in preparation for a definite amount of refunding to be announced at a later time."

City Treasurer E. B. Raymond's financial report for May lists a balance of $53,291.50, expenditures of $31,232.55, refused warrants of $14,756.26, and receipts of $663.68.

County Treasurer W. E. Smith reports that Johnson county stands at the top of the list of Iowa counties for first half tax collection, having about a 80 per cent in to date.

Review Bills O.K.'d During Last Session

Budget, Tariff, Defense Included Among Issues

WASHINGTON, June 16 (AP)—Here is a brief resume of the Democratic platform and the measures passed during the special session toward fulfillment of its promises.

Economy: A 25 per cent saving in government expenditures was advocated.

Under the economy act, the president was given power to reduce veterans compensation and government salaries at an estimated saving of over a half billion dollars. The administration estimates that the reductions made and those to come will be about $1,000,000,000.

Budget: Maintenance of the "national credit" through a balanced budget was urged.

Through the economy act and the revenue expected from beer, the latest administration figures are that the budget for the next fiscal year will lack only about $120,000,000 of meeting expenditures.

Currency: "A sound currency is to be preserved at all hazards," the platform said, and an international monetary conference to consider the rehabilitation of silver was advocated.

The administration took the country off the gold standard and congress gave the president power to inflate the currency and the issuance of greenbacks or reducing the gold content of the dollar. The gold payment clause in existing contracts was abrogated by law. The London economic conference is now considering currency stabilization and the remonetization of silver.

Tariffs: The platform urged a competitive tariff for "revenue," a fact finding tariff commission free from executive interference, and reciprocal tariff agreements with other countries.

Congress did not take up the question of tariffs.

Unemployment and relief: Grants to states for relief were approved in the platform; a public works program, including the "St. Lawrence-Great Lakes Deep waterways" and the spread of employment through the shorter work week were favored.

The congress voted $500,000,000 for direct relief grants to states; authorized a $3,300,000,000 public works program. The industries control measure provides the means for a reduction in working hours. The St. Lawrence-Great Lakes waterways pact with Canada was not ratified.

Agriculture: Refinancing of farm mortgages and comprehensive legislation to control surpluses and raise farm prices were promised by the platform.

The secretary of agriculture was given wide authority to employ any one or all of several relief plans to raise prices. A $2,000,000,000 bond issue for the refinancing of farm mortgages was voted.

National Defense: The platform called for a navy and army "adequate for national defense," but a reduction if possible of an "expenditure of fast approaching a billion dollars annually."

The administration directed economies to reduce expenditures in both branches of the service but additional naval building and army airplane construction programs were authorized in the $3,300,000,000 public works measure.

Anti-Trust laws and water power: A "strict and impartial enforcement of the anti-trust" laws was urged as was development of "water power in the public interest."

The anti-trust laws were set aside in the farm, railroad and industries control bill to allow combinations under government supervision. Congress created a Tennessee valley authority for government ownership and operation of Muscle Shoals.

Prohibition: The platform advocated repeal of the eighteenth amendment; state laws to prevent the return of the open saloon; protection for dry states from liquor shipments in the event of repeal and modification of the Volstead act, pending repeal.

The last session of the seventy-second congress submitted the question of repeal to the states. The special session modified the Volstead act to allow the sale of 3.2 beer and wine.

Securities holding company and exchange regulation: Protection of the investing public through full publicity for security issues was advocated. Regulation of holding companies selling securities in interstate commerce, for utilities operating across state lines and for the stock and grain exchanges were urged.

The securities act directed full publicity on new issues and penalties for misrepresentation and fraud. Control of railroad holding companies was provided in the railroad measure.

Banking: Divorcement of securities affiliates from banks under government supervision, stricter regulation of national banks and prevention of speculation to the detriment of credit were called for.

All these are embodied in the

Educators to Register Here

Registration Will Begin Monday for Child Welfare Parley

Registration for the University of Iowa's conference on child development and parent education will begin Monday at 3 p.m. in the dentistry building.

All persons who expect to attend the sessions have been requested to register at that time by the Iowa Child Welfare Research station. There will be no registration fee, the purpose of registration being merely to obtain attendance records.

It is expected that many university staff members and residents of Iowa City will attend the meeting. Last year a total of 715 persons registered for the various sessions.

The conference will open with a session Tuesday at 10 a.m. Carleton Washburne, superintendent of Winnetka, Ill., schools and progressive educator, will speak at this gathering, as will Esther Loring Richards, psychiatrist of Johns Hopkins hospital of Baltimore, Md. Following the addresses, a round table discussion has been planned.

The conference will be climaxed with a dinner at Iowa Union Wednesday at 6:30 p.m. Floyd Dell, novelist-turned-psychologist, will be the principal speaker of the evening on the subject "Education in the machine age."

Reservations for the dinner may be made at the time of registration.

Give Results of Dental Plan

Calhoun heads the roster of 54 Iowa counties in which 272 rural schools have achieved the 100 per cent rating for dental corrections during 1932-33.

This was reported Thursday by Dr. Charles L. Drain, director of the bureau of dental hygiene.

In Calhoun county, 28 schools had perfect records, which means that every child in each of the schools participated in the plan.

Ranking second is O'Brien county, with 20 perfect schools, while Harrison's 17 places that county third. Bremer, with 12, was fourth, and Monona was fifth with 11.

Thirteen other counties had more than five 100 per cent schools. They are: Montgomery, 10; Johnson, Plymouth, Poweshiek, and Washington, nine; Cherokee and Tama, eight; Jasper, Chickasaw, and Hardin, seven; Howard, Jackson, and Linn, six.

WASHINGTON (AP)—The engagement of State Representative John Speidel of Washington and Frances Pew of Ames was announced.

Glass-Steagall banking reform bill which is directed toward a unified national banking system. In addition, the measure provides a limited deposit guarantee.

Veterans: A "full measure of justice and generosity" to veterans suffering disability and disease as the result of service and to their dependents was promised in the platform.

The economy act gave the president power to remove veterans with non-service disability from the compensation rolls and for a general reduction in compensation for those who remained. These regulations were liberalized somewhat in the closing days of congress.

Foreign affairs: The platform advocated adherence to the world court and international agreement for the reduction of armaments.

World court adherence never got out of committee.

War debts: The platform said: "We oppose the cancellation of the debts owing to the United States by foreign nations."

The subject did not formally come before congress.

Territories: Independence for the Philippines was urged, as was ultimate statehood for Puerto Rico.

Edward J. Joyles, director of the museum of natural history at the University of Rochester, Rochester, N. Y., and two of his staff members came to the University of Iowa yesterday to inspect the museum and to visit classes in museum work.

Mr. Joyles organized classes in museum methods about six years ago. His lecture notes and methods were taken largely from those used at the University of Iowa.

According to Homer B. Dill, director of the museum at this university, Iowa was the pioneer in teaching museum methods, and for a number of years it was the only one in the world.

Mr. Joyles made this special trip to check upon the work being done and to get further information and notes for classes in summer school.

Professor Yoder Publishes Book on Labor Question

A new book, on "Labor Economics and Labor Problems," by Prof. Dale Yoder of the college of commerce, has recently been published by McGraw-Hill Book company of New York.

The book is an introduction to this field of the industrial and labor problem. Professor Yoder believes that these problems can be interpreted only in the light of fundamental social and economic processes that permit their appearance.

Emphasis is placed, therefore, on the underlying social problems, rather than on the specific questions which have arisen as a result of them.

Particular attention is given to developments since 1929, and the volume considers in some detail such topics as unemployment insurance, prevailing wage bills, dismissal wages, family allowances, old age pensions, union-management cooperation, and schemes of industrial planning.

The book was written as a text book in this field of economics.

The University in a Century of Progress

THAT THE University of Iowa should be represented to such a great extent in the Iowa exhibit at the Century of Progress exposition in Chicago is entirely fitting. For the university has grown great with Iowa—it has played a vital part in the development of the state from its beginnings.

The university will have a share in many sections of the show. One division will be entirely devoted to scenes of the campus—Old Capitol, physics building, and others, which represent in their architectural beauty and strength the culture and strength of this institution itself.

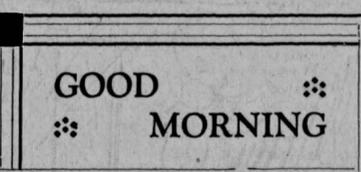

Perhaps there is nothing in the state that could better express Iowa's "century of progress" than can the University of Iowa. From the beginning of its life, when Old Capitol became the foundation of the institution, to the present time it has spread its influence over a wide area.

Today it serves directly each year about 10,000 students, and indirectly, through its research, its scientific and cultural advances, its hospital, it serves nearly all of Iowa's 3,000,000.

For Better or Worse

WITH THINGS apparently going their own way, the American delegates to the world economic parley at London yesterday settled down to the business of adding disciples to the broad Roosevelt plan for international recovery.

partial payment, then, is to create an official issue which will bring the whole debt question to a head at once. Already the howling over this development is beginning in the United States senate. Probably it will be long, loud, and bitter. Nevertheless, the fact remains that this precipitation of a showdown on international debts is encouraging. Uncertainty as to what will be done about the debts is the major disturbing factor in the existing world economic confusion.

Brains are just a minor matter, after all, if reports of an operation performed at the Cleveland clinic 20 months ago can be relied upon.

Nearly half of a woman's brain, so the report says, was removed in an operation for malignant tumor. The only ill effect was partial paralysis of the left side. The woman, who now lives in Minneapolis, is said to have suffered no decrease in mentality or general capability.

All of which goes to show that even the brain is burdened with a considerable amount of useless material and adds a neat little pile of grey matter to the already formidable scrap heap of the appendix, tonsils, and other remnants. Wouldn't it be fortunate if the simple manipulation of a knife would remove the hang-overs of barbarism from the social system as easily as from the body?

The explosive situation in Cuba looks brighter today than it has for many long months. Under the masterful guidance of young Summer Welles, American ambassador, healing stitches are being drawn skillfully through the wound that has kept the island in constant pain for more than a year.

All indications point to the peaceful resignation of Machado, the terrorist dictator, not later than next spring. Plans are now under way to reform the badly emaciated constitution and elect a vice president by congress to hold office until the regular election in 1935.

The A B C, revolutionist society, agreed Thursday evening to cease all terrorism and to join in arbitration with the government and Mr. Welles. Seventy thousand strong, the A B C is today the most important political unit on the island. Its chief weapon, in imitation of the example set by the Machado government itself, is violence.

Solution of the Cuban dispute, if it can be accomplished peacefully, will mark the end of a government that has been a disgrace to the modern world and will be a distinct diplomatic feather in the cap of quiet Mr. Welles. But the problem in Cuba will not be solved by a simple reformation of the political structure. It is much more fundamental than that.

Cuba is virtually at the mercy of the United States economically. Specializing in tobacco and sugar, she depends upon the American market for her existence. That market was all but closed soon after the election of Machado and many of his unbearable policies can be traced largely to economic necessity.

Supplementary to the political reform there must be a new deal for Cuba in the matter of tariffs. In addition to the ordinary arguments of fairness and economic sanity, there is the further consideration that a large share of Cuban industries are financed with American money.

And here is one other matter that one wishes could be readily realized: "The reason manufacturers do not now make all quality products beautiful is because they really have not tried, not because they cannot. However, the day is soon coming when all the common things of life will be not only efficient, but appropriately beautiful. Mass production and distribution systems will bring masterpieces into the homes of the people, just as cylinder printing presses have brought literature, and radios music."

It was a manufacturer who said that—John W. Higgins of the Worcester Pressed Steel company, in an address before the American Federation of Arts. It fits in with our suggestion several days ago that there is no excuse for ugliness. There ought to be a law. —Don Pryor

Book Bits—

(From The Essays of Matthew Arnold) Force and right are the governors of this world; force till right is ready. . . and till right is ready, force, the existing order of things, is justified, is the legitimate ruler.

(From Metaphysics, by Aristotle) But yet we think that knowledge and understanding belong to art rather than to experience (which implies that Wisdom depends in all cases rather on knowledge); and this because the former know the cause, but the latter do not. For men of experience know that the thing is so, but do not know why, while the others know the "why" and the cause.

(From Ann Veronica, by H. G. Wells) "Not a bit. What a girl of sixteen years cares for is hair and a high color and moonlight and a tenor voice. I suppose most of our daughters would marry organ-grinders if they had a chance—at that age."

Discharge Attendants at State Hospital for Insane After Probing

DES MOINES, June 15 (AP)—Discharge of three attendants at the state hospital for the insane at Cherokee after an investigation of alleged abusive treatment of patients and the resignation of a fourth attendant was announced today by E. H. Felton of the state board of control. Felton said those removed following an investigation by Dr. L. P. Ristine, superintendent of the institution, were F. R. Hayden, in charge of the ward; William Kearns and Orris Breikson. A fourth attendant, Reuben Barter, resigned during the investigation. Dr. Ristine reported to Felton that the investigation followed discovery of bruises on two of the patients in the ward supervised by Hayden. Felton explained that the board has issued general instructions to superintendents under the board's supervision that anyone proved guilty of cruelty to inmates be removed immediately.

"Facade," by Theodora Benson; William Morrow & Co., New York. NEW YORK—Two or three months ago a young English novelist sat on a chest of drawers in a New York hotel room, carelessly swinging her long legs, and eagerly answering a flock of questions from her interviewers. She just had been photographed, and in a few moments was to leave for Washington. The room was very full of people. The Hon. Theodora Benson declared her fondness for America, her delight in slang, her refusal to believe that the American shop girl was better dressed than the London shop girl, and her surprise that the Grand Central station didn't smell of smoke. Then she let drop that her last novel, "Facade," would soon be out on this side. It is out, and Lord Charwood's family is represented in America by still another book, although one rather out of the tradition of the Baron's "Abraham Lincoln" and "Theodore Roosevelt." It should be added, Miss Benson's books are about England's young and smart set, and although it is somewhat more serious than its forerunners, "Which Way" and "Salad Days," it is no deep river of meaning. That is, indeed, the most curious fact to be had from the book. It is an accurate picture of what it sets out to portray, one feels bound to admit, for there is that about Miss Benson that indicates familiarity with her milieu. But unless the idea is that both love and tolerance can work miracles in the end, the meaning of it all has escaped at least one reader. The book begins in the country, with hunts and such. A girl marries a boy without especially loving him, and just after he has done something terrible, namely, doped a race, they must flee, and do. There is another pair to whom true love comes. After a good bit of travel and sophistication the book ends at the wedding of the latter pair, with a hopeful note inserted for the benefit of pair No. 1. It's another summer dress, Miss Benson's books are about boss, but barged in on Ralph Graves, just out of the steam room and in his BVDs. With a horrified look, the secretary fled. Still blushing intermittently an hour later, she looked up from her typewriter to find Graves standing there with a broad grin. Leaning down, he patted her shoulder. "Well, little girl," he said, "the only thing I can do is to offer marriage."

BEHIND THE SCENES - IN HOLLYWOOD - By HARRISON CARROLL

STUDIO GOSSIP SCREEN COMMENT FILM SCANDAL HOLLYWOOD—Hunting grizzly bears will cost Clark Gable the chance to play opposite Joan Crawford in "Dancing Lady." The rugged star contracted illness from exposure on his recent expedition and will have to undergo a thorough physical examination. He returned to Hollywood, worked in added scenes for the Jean Harlow picture and then took to his bed. He has been there most of the time for the last few days. With the picture scheduled to start immediately Metro-Godwyn Mayer is testing Franchot Tone for the Gable role. If he gets it, there'll have to be another replacement, for he also was in "Dancing Lady." Meanwhile, Joan and Franchot continue to be seen everywhere together. Sometimes they are members of large parties, but often they go alone. Franchot says Joan is teaching him the finer points of dancing. They get a laugh at United Artists over the embarrassing experience of an executive's secretary. She went over to the Fairbanks dressing room expecting to find her house in Huntington Park. He was hand-cuffed and tied to a whipping post. Around his legs were heavy chains and on to his feet were attached heavy iron balls. Just then, the hand of the clock turned to five minutes to six. As it did so, there was a rumble, a trembling of the earth. While the small audience fled in terror, Miller stood helpless. Debris fell around him. He was knocked senseless. Only now, three months later, is he recovering from the nervous breakdown brought on by the shock. The romance between Doris Warner and Mervyn Leroy grows apace. Sunday, while he was at the golf club, she called him long distance from New York. Sometime this week, she'll be arriving for another stay in Hollywood. . . Looks as if the Miramar hotel, with Jay Whidden's sweet music, will be a favored spot for the film folk. Saw the Leslie Howards, the Mike Levees, there Sunday night, also Gloria Stuart and her husband and Abe Lyman, squinting Jane Shaddock, one of the "Gold-Diggers of 1933" and also one of the prettiest blondes in Hollywood. # Educators, Radio Men Will Confer

Education by Radio to Form Subject of Discussion

Manifold problems of education by radio will be the subject of a conference at the University of Iowa next Friday and Saturday under the auspices of the National Committee on Education by Radio.

Led by Eugene Coltrane of Washington, D.C., a representative of the committee, the conference will cater to all persons interested in the subject. The program also will be given at Iowa State Teachers college and Iowa State college.

Morning and afternoon sessions, as well as a Friday evening meeting, are scheduled. Principal subjects are education and radio broadcasting, proposed plan for a state program, radio broadcasting in the United States, the radio in the school room, and radio in adult education.

The affair probably will be attended by educators, officials of radio stations, and interested citizens. It is the first conference of its type ever scheduled at the university.

Because it began its courses as early as 1922, the university's station, WSUI, was one of the pioneers in the field of educational broadcasting. Within recent years, station WSUI has achieved further distinction for its presentation of professors' lectures direct from the classroom, including such courses as history, psychology, music, political science, English, and astronomy.

CURRENCY

Stabilization Is Near at Hand

consternation at first over the statement of Secretary of Treasury Woodin that no stabilization agreement had been reached, the situation was said to be somewhat clarified today after private discussions between the French and the Americans and a telephone conversation between M. Bonnet and Premier Daladier in Paris.

Considerable interest was manifested as to the French attitude, yet undisclosed, on the American proposal to use silver as part of the backing for currency.

French Oppose
While the French are firmly opposed to devaluation, it was suggested that, if depreciation of non-gold currencies made the French position difficult, a moderate inflationary effect might be achieved by French use of some silver in their reserves, which would avoid outright depreciation.

It was noted with considerable interest at American delegation quarters that the title of the conference subcommittee to consider a permanent monetary standard merely mentioned "monetary standard" without reference to gold, evidently as a concession to the group favoring partial use of silver.

Change Made
Behind the prosaic walls of the steering committee of the monetary commission a change in procedure was made today which may have the highest importance for the functioning of the conclave.

At the morning session of the monetary commission the Swedish delegate proposed that the speech on Wednesday of Chancellor of the Exchequer Chamberlain be accepted as the basis of discussion.

For the first hour this afternoon the steering committee developed its plan for work on the basis of the annotated agenda evolved by the League of Nations committee—entirely appropriate two months ago but now considered by the Swedish delegation as out of date since the United States abandoned gold.

Arguments
Argument followed argument and at length the committee recessed at 4:45 p.m.

When the committee reconvened Chancellor Chamberlain himself made proposals for procedure based on his own address and, after hot discussion for another hour, his suggestions were accepted with slight alterations. Thus the first major departure from the original agenda of the conference was effected by the Swedes, who had not even been represented on the committee or subcommittee or sub-committees.

Cox Opens Session
In this manner Mr. Cox opened the session of his monetary commission today.

The former governor of Ohio sat in a high-backed chair from which King George inaugurated the great assembly on Monday.

Beside Mr. Cox was Prime Minister MacDonald, president of the conference and chairman of the steering committee. The Ohioan rapped his gavel in bringing the conference from the four days of oratory into the committee stage.

Mr. Cox exchanged a few words with the prime minister, then the delegates got down to work.

FRANK DREGER

MRS. COLLINGS

BENJAMIN COLLINGS

NEW YORK—After 21 months of impenetrable mystery that has baffled the best detective brains in the country, the murder of Benjamin P. Collings is still a powerful magnet for public interest, as was proved by the tremendous stir created by the arrest of the latest suspect, Frank Dreger, held at Stamford, Conn., on suspicion of burglary.

Unceasing Hunt
Since the fatal night in September, 1931, when Collings was done to death aboard his yacht, Penguin, in Long Island Sound, the machinery of the law has churned in vain search for a clue that would lead to apprehension of the killers. And it isn't only the police that have pursued the hunt. Hundreds of amateur sleuths, who hold a vague belief that they are cut to the pattern of Sherlock Holmes, have persistently followed up anything that produced the merest hope of being a clue.

Like a Poe Mystery
The crime itself contained all the elements that go into the making of a crime thriller in fiction. The story is worth re-telling.

On the morning of September 10, 1931, Mrs. Lillian Chelius Collings was picked up in an open motor boat in Oyster Bay harbor, Long Island. She was hysterical with terror, and it was hours before she could give a coherent account of how she came to be in such a predicament. But her tale, eventually told, aroused one of the greatest murder controversies in New York's crime annals.

The night before, Mrs. Collings told police, she, her 5 year old daughter, Barbara, and her 38 year old husband, Benjamin, were sleeping aboard the family yacht, Penguin, at its anchorage off Lloyd's Neck. They were aroused at a late hour by voices calling to them for aid. Collings went on deck and found a canoe, in which were two paddlers, alongside his boat.

Mrs. Collings heard the ensuing conversation. She heard her husband refuse an offer of $100 to take the unwelcome visitors across the Sound to South Norwalk, Conn., whereupon the wife heard threats and her husband's final consent to do what the visitors asked.

Saw the Killers
While the yacht was headed for the Connecticut shore, Mrs. Collings peeped from the cabin and got a look at the men who had boarded the boat. One was a man of 50, with close-cropped gray hair; the other, a youth of 17.

When finally the engine of the yacht stopped, Mrs. Collings heard a furious struggle, during which the voice of her husband cried out: "They are trying me up." She rushed on deck and struggled with the men, but was forced back into the cabin. Soon after she heard a splash, preceded by another cry from her husband. Again she rushed on deck and flung a pneumatic mattress overboard in an attempt to aid her mate, whom she could hear struggling in the water.

The killers then took Mrs. Collings from the yacht, leaving the child, Barbara, who was later picked up on the abandoned boat. The mystery men attacked Mrs. Collings, after which they left her in the motorboat where she was found at dawn. The body of Collings was washed ashore a week later at Lloyd's Harbor, Long Island. The hands and feet were bound, and the skull had been bashed in with a heavy weight.

The Profile
Brought to identify the most recent suspect, Dreger, who has a criminal record in Manhattan, Mrs. Collings declared that the profile of the man she saw on the Penguin the night her husband was murdered bore a remarkable likeness to that of Dreger. However, on hearing the suspect's voice, Mrs. Collings asserted that Dreger was not the man she heard speak to her husband the night he was slain.

Ripley Explanations

The Scales of an Eccentric—Friedrich Alfred Krupp, ironmaster and father of Bertha, of "Big Bertha" fame, was a man of great eccentricity. He kept a pair of scales near the door of his office on which he required every visitor to weigh himself. The weights were accurately recorded in a ledger kept for the purpose. Until 1899 professionals of every nation, salesmen, technicians, engineers, artists, scholars, statesmen and generals had to submit to being weighed before they were admitted into the magnate's presence. Herr Krupp died in 1902 leaving a fortune of $150,000,000, the largest in Germany.

Trundling Her Spouse—The World Fair in Paris in 1900 caused many people of a bizarre turn of mind to devise some spectacular means of reaching the French Capital. Madame Germonde hit on the idea of trundling her husband in a go-cart from Liege to Paris. She accomplished this feat under the great acclaim of the populace, after covering a distance of 196 miles in this fashion.

by TOM YOSELLOFF

I had the privilege, Thursday evening, of sitting in the audience at Studio theater, to view the premiere performance of a play, the vanguard of a group, dealing with the Iowa farm problem. It was University theater's production of "Penny Anarchy."

The play, from the pen of Warren Lee of Iowa City, was presented in six scenes—from 1919 to 1933—during which the struggles of a typical Iowa farm family were unfolded.

There is nothing superficial about "Penny Anarchy." Warren Lee has gone deep into the many phases of this situation, so vital to agricultural Iowa. The farmer's troubles in all their varieties—mortgages, milk strikes, over-speculation, deficiency judgments, shifting land values, low crop prices, hog cholera, and weather upsets—were presented—understandingly, sincerely.

There was nothing of slushy sentimentality in it. A prime virtue was its realism. Lee did not attempt to cover up the farmer's mistakes of over-speculation and lack of business insight; he showed the farmer's share in the circumstances which have conspired to cause his present plight. All in all, it "had the makings of a good play," on Iowa life, with its ills and sores and its brighter side.

Before his lecture Thursday evening, Rabbi Felix A. Levy sat in the main lounge of Iowa Union and recalled the pleasant memories of his former visits to Iowa City, and the contacts which he established on those previous two occasions when he spoke before university audiences.

Add picnics: Members of the mail order department of the university library turned out yesterday afternoon for a "spread" on the bank of Iowa river.

Plans are going forward for the preparation of a university students' handbook for the coming academic year. Members of Mortar Board, senior women's honorary society, are in charge of the booklet, which this year will cover the general field of university activities, rather than merely religious activities, as was the case last year.

INDUSTRIAL Recovery Measures Becomes Law

his emergency bills received from the adjourned congress, Mr. Roosevelt went eagerly and confidently to the task he has placed upon himself to guide the nation to better days.

Jubilantly he received congressional leaders to witness the signing of the final batch of measures they had guided through legislation.

Then he summoned to the White House his cabinet and the men he has had working on the emergency proposals. Before boarding a train tonight for a two weeks ocean cruise up the north Atlantic coast he had the machinery in operation.

Greatest Hope
The president made it clear that he is placing his greatest hope for breaking the depression upon the public works-industrial bill, which he described as the "most far-reaching legislation" ever enacted by an American congress.

He outlined at length in a formal statement his policies for this administration. "Between these twin efforts," he said, "public works and industrial re-employment—it is not too much to expect that a great many men and women can be taken from the ranks of the unemployed before winter comes.

"Most Important"
"It is the most important attempt of this kind in history. As in the great crisis of the World war, it puts a whole people to the simple but vital test: 'Must we go on in many groping, disorganized, separate units to defeat or shall we move as one great team to victory?'"

Brewers vs. W.C.T.U. Form Chapter in Iowa's Prohibition

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the second of a series of three articles dealing with liquor legislation in Iowa, based upon the June issue of The Palimpsest, publication of the State Historical society.

After the passage of the law of 1870, and its declared unconstitutionality, the struggle between wets and dries began in earnest. In 1874, the Women's Christian Temperance union was organized in Iowa. This brought a resolution from the Iowa State Brewers association to "support only those candidates, regardless of party, who are not in accordance with the narrow minded element of prohibitionists."

The dries came back with the formation of a new organization, the Iowa State Temperance alliance, founded at Clear Lake in September, 1876. The Blue Ribbon movement, based on voluntary abstinence, gained such force the next year that a "Blue Ribbon celebration" at Marshalltown drew 15,000 persons.

Constitutional Provision
The first Iowa constitutional provision for prohibition was made a part of that document in 1882. After a great deal of debate in legislature and committees on the exact provisions of the amendment, it was submitted to the people for a vote, and was passed by the substantial majority of 50,000. Great was the rejoicing on election night!

However, the joy of the dries was short lived. For the amendment contained no enforcement act, and the legislature had neglected to pass one. There was open violation by the cities, Council Bluffs, for example, passing a law that the city council should enter into "agreement with the saloon keepers of the city, whereby the latter are to continue business, and are to be fined monthly or quarterly, the fines during the year to amount to a good round license."

Amendment
The amendment itself was short lived. The year after it was placed in the constitution, the supreme court ruled that it had not been legally adopted, because the draft voted upon omitted four words of the original legislative draft.

Meanwhile the liquor industry continued to grow. In an editorial, an Iowa City paper warned of this growth in beer drinking. "Whereas, 20 years ago, pints were made," it said, "it is now hogheads; and where one modest beer shop begged for the privilege of existence, a thousand now demand the right to spread disease and death."

Second Victory
In 1884 the dries gained another great victory (so far as the law was concerned) with the repeal of wine and beer exemptions, making the state prohibition complete. There was again open defiance, and a Dubuque paper plainly reported: "It is understood that the law will be ignored in Dubuque the same as the old law has been ignored for the past 20 years or more."

Though the issue of liquor was not a party issue in the campaign of 1885, it was a topic of much discussion, and the laws of 1886 gave the dries another legal victory. These provided for enforcement of the previous laws, and required that the "harmful" effects of alcohol should be taught in schools.

400 Saloons
During the next four years, enforcement was attempted, and it was found that 400 saloons were operating openly. In addition there were many "blind tigers," "blind pigs," "bootleggers," and "beer depots." The climax of these enforcement attempts was the murder in 1886 of the Rev. George C. Haddock.

In 1890 the wets scored a point when the United States supreme court declared the law forbidding importation of liquor in original packages to be illegal. The "mail order" liquor business skyrocketed, and made a "dry" Iowa almost impossible.

Prof. Wolfgang Koehler to Speak Here This Morning

Will Lecture on Recent Experiments in Recall and Learning

Prof. Wolfgang Koehler, head of the psychology department at the University of Berlin, Germany, will lecture this morning in natural science auditorium at 11 o'clock, on the subject, "Some recent experiments in learning and recall."

Professor Koehler is at present in the United States to appear on the program of a meeting of the American Association for the Advancement of Science, which will be held in Chicago this month, in connection with the Century of Progress exposition.

This lecture is the first of two to be given by foreign professors in the field of psychology. Professor Koehler will address his audience in English. The lecture will be open to the public.

Since 1905, the 47 year old professor has been associated with various institutions, including the Universities of Bonn, Tubingen, and Berlin. He is now affiliated with the Psychology institute of Berlin. In 1925 and 1926 he served as visiting professor at Clark university, Worcester, Mass.

Gestalt Psychology
He has long been active in the field of Gestalt psychology, a new conception which cast much light on the field of learning. His book, "Mentality of Apes," written in 1925 and translated into English, has been widely accepted by psychologists the world over.

Professor Koehler has visited the University of Iowa campus before, and was one of several psychologists who gave a series of lectures here in the summer of 1929.

Luncheon
Following his address this morning, a luncheon in his honor will be given in the fountain room of Iowa Union. Staff members of the psychology department and students majoring in that field will be guests at the informal affair.

Party Loyalty of Demos Was "Surprising"

By KIRKE SIMPSON

WASHINGTON—Considering the situation of such a large part of the huge Democratic majority in the house, the fact that it remained docile to the dictates of party leadership in the special session to the extent that it did is rather surprising.

The Roosevelt landslide last November washed in an extraordinary number of first-termers, many to their own pleased surprise.

If they are to repeat—and the By-stander has heard no rumors of members who do not want to do so—they are going to need personal publicity at home very urgently and very soon. The 1934 primaries will be on them almost before they know it.

And what chance for personal publicity did all these first-termers have in the special session? Working under severe gag rules on the administration's emergency program, the house afforded little opportunity for the newcomers to find their way into print. And this accounted for a lot of the discontent on the Democratic side toward the close of the session. It underlay the revolt on veterans' slashes.

Faced Organization
White House strategy of meeting the senate amendment increasing veteran payments by demanding that new revenues to pay the bill be provided was in line with accepted presidential practice.

But the fact remained that the members going home to make an accounting of their first house service and fix up their fences with hopes of re-election had to deal with veterans as already organized groups both nationally and locally.

"I'd rather line up with the veterans now and take my chances on what may happen about tax boosts later," said one new member.

A Seat's A Job
Probably there never was a congress where seats in the house had so much appeal strictly as payroll jobs.

While many newcomers hope to make their first elections stepping stones to political careers, there are others to whom pay and office allowances even at reduced rates mean everything.

Phyllis Buchanan Blasts Title Hopes of Des Moines Favorite Dean, Barker Hawkeye Qualifiers for Finals of National Collegiate Track Meet

Denver Miss Matches Par on First Nine

Tackles Mrs. Zech in Final Title Play Today

By DON MCGUIRE (Associated Press Sports Writer)
DES MOINES, June 16 (AP)—A long hitting Denver blond made Wakonda's par look easy today as she blasted the favorite from the field in the semi-finals of the women's trans-Mississippi golf tournament and placed the name of Phyllis Buchanan in the favored position.

Her victim in a stunning defeat today was Lucile Robinson of Des Moines, tournament medalist and conqueror yesterday of the champion, Mrs. Charles Newbold of Wichita. The winning margin, 7 and 5, tells the story of a great golfing exhibition.

Tomorrow the slim Denver girl will tackle Mrs. Lillian Zech, Chicago veteran of many tournament jousts, for the title. Mrs. Zech continued her steady play today to oust Mrs. D. W. Snyder of Kansas City, 4 and 3.

Far Off Form
Catching Miss Robinson far off the form she exhibited in previous matches, Miss Buchanan made only two mistakes and continually had her rival trying for halves. She lost only the ninth hole and on that she made both of her mistakes, putting her tee shot in a trap and then overshooting the green on her recovery.

All the rest of the way she was straight down the middle, putting most of the time for birdies. Her woods were long and straight and accurate and her iron shots left her comparatively easy punts. Out in 40, even par, Miss Buchanan negotiated the four remaining holes in two under par.

Miss Robinson never showed the form of her earlier rounds. Continually in difficulty, she reached the heartbreaking climax on the 423 yard sixth, where her tee shot left her against a boundary fence and she had to shoot back towards the tee to get into the fairway. On the next hole she hooked against the boundary again, this time behind a bunker and took two more shots to get the ball into a playable position.

Thirteenth Last Hole
Four down after the seventh, Miss Robinson never had a chance again, although she played somewhat better golf. Ending the match at the thirteenth continued Miss Buchanan's record of never having gone past that hole. She has beaten two opponents on that green and two others carried her only to the twelfth.

The Zech-Snyder match was also a one-sided affair after the first four holes. Mrs. Snyder went into the lead by winning the third, where Mrs. Zech took a 6, one over par, but the Chicagoan squared it on the fourth, took the lead on the fifth, and then sent her lead to three holes at the turn by winning the seventh and eighth.

Mrs. Zech continued her steady game on the inside nine, winning the tenth, halving the next two and then winning the thirteenth to become dormie. Mrs. Snyder staved off defeat on the short fourteenth when her opponent got into trouble, but a half on the next hole ended the hostilities.

Hagen Justifies Selection as Ryder Cup Team Head by Marvelous Leadership

Labors Long, Hard in Arrangement of Lineup

By PAUL MICKELSON (Associated Press Sports Writer)

CHICAGO, June 16 (AP)—Even if Walter Hagen happened to be far off his form, he'd probably land his old job as captain of America's Ryder cup team.

"What would those matches be without Hagen in there as captain?" remarked Albert R. Gates, business administrator of the Professional Golfers' association. "A lot of golf fans think of him only as a great golfer and showman, but he's one of the finest leaders of golf, maybe the peer of them all."

Keen for Victory
Sir Walter is notorious as the "late Mr. Hagen" when it comes to money tournaments, but when America's forces line up against the British in Ryder cup competition, he's a different man. Keen for victory, "The Haig" labors long and hard in arranging his lineup, questions his players and studies their game for the big test of international professional golf.

At Columbus, the day before the 1931 Ryder cup matches, he spent hours studying the lineup and employing his golfing psychology to give his team a better chance. More than that, he matched himself against the hardest match player of the British team, confident of victory.

Picked Over Sarazen
"Guess we got 'em," he chirped with a twinkle in his eye as he announced the lineup. "I'll take this fellow if I have to talk him out of the match and you fellows can coast in with them."

His plans worked out perfectly and it was Hagen, himself, who clinched the American victory that year.

Many believed that Gene Sarazen should have been named captain of the cup team this year because of his world's championship victories abroad and at home, but Gates picked the Haig as far back as last November, and Hagen justified his selection by outplaying Sarazen both on the winter tour and in the national open here.

He had one brilliant round of 66 in the open and wound up with a score of 292 to tie Tommy Armour for fourth and fifth place.

Cherokee Team Wins Two Mile Relay Event

By WILLIAM WEEKES (Associated Press Sports Writer)

SOLDIER FIELD, Chicago, June 16 (AP)—Surpassing even the mark of Ralph Metcalfe, Marquette's great Negro sprinter in the 100 yard dash, Jimmy Owens, an ebony bundle of speed from East Technical high school of Cleveland, stole the show today in the preliminaries of the national interscholastic track and field championship meet.

Beats Metcalfe's Time
Heralded as the greatest of the country's coming dashmen, the Cleveland Negro, apparently running well within himself, raced his heat of the century in 9.7 seconds. In the national collegiate A.A. trials, Metcalfe sped away from his field in 9.9 seconds.

Owens came right back to share best time honors in the 220-yard dash with Helbing of North Side high school, Ft. Worth, Tex., at 22.1 seconds. In his third and last appearance of the day he ran a brilliant anchor leg to give East Tech a victory and a new record in qualifying for the finals of the half mile relay. The Cleveland quartet, behind until Owens took the baton, won easily in 1:30.5, bettering by eight-tenths of a second the old mark set by Central high of Columbus, Ohio, in 1930.

Strong Contenders
Owens, with Al Britton, who qualified for the semifinals of the 120 yard high hurdles, made the Cleveland team a strong contender for the team championship won a year ago by Arkansas City, Kan. With a host of talent sharing in the scoring, not many points will be needed to win the title.

Another widely heralded star, Phil Cope of Classen high, Oklahoma City, dominated the hurdles field almost as much as Owens overshadowed a great field of young sprinters. Cope who has done 14.7 seconds for the high hurdles, won his heat with the utmost ease in 15.4. He came back a short while later to win his heat in the 220 low hurdles in 25.5 seconds.

Cherokee Wins
Cherokee, Ind., high and North high of Wichita, Kan., were the early leaders in the team battle through victories in relays decided today. The Towans, given an anchor half mile in well under two minutes by John Graves, won the two mile relay in 8:10.3 from a quartet of Negroes representing Kansas Vocational high of Topeka, Kan. They missed the world's prep record by six-tenths of a second.

The Wichita preps won the mile relay after a sensational battle with Ft. Collins, Colo., and Port Arthur, Tex. The Colorado and Texas teams battled almost together through three laps, only to have Pat McCaskill, Wichita's anchor man, take the lead on the last curve and win in the record time of 3:26.3. The former mark was 3:27.5, made by Wyandotte high of Kansas City in 1931.

Cleveland East Tech and John Marshall high of Richmond, Va., led the qualifiers with four places each. Hawley qualified in both hurdles events for the Virginians, and Hopkins took a place in the 100 yard dash. They also qualified for a shot at the half mile relay.

This young Cub pitcher would be the leading hurler in the loop if it were not for the Cincinnati Reds. He has lost five games, four of them to the Reds. Warneke is the most consistent sufferer from the jinx the Cubs are under, a jinx that has cost them eight of the 11 games played between the two clubs this year.

Dodgers Win From Giants as Leslie Sets Pace; Cubs Trounce Pirates Again, 9-1

Former Giant Knocks Homer to Give Needed Runs

NEW YORK, June 16 (AP)—With Sam Leslie setting the pace against his former teammates, the Brooklyn Dodgers today defeated the league leading New York Giants, 3 to 1, in a pitching duel between Van Mungo and Hal Schumacher and Adolfo Luque. The victory was the Dodgers' third triumph in 10 games with their interborough rivals.

Leslie, traded yesterday in the deal that sent Frank O'Doul and Watson Clark to the Giants, drove in two runs to supply Max Carey's team with its margin of victory. His long fly in the sixth sent Danny Taylor across the plate with the Dodgers' second tally and his homer off Luque in the ninth produced the third run.

The eight hits the Giants got off Mungo were two more than the Dodgers got off Schumacher and Luque, but Brooklyn's speed ball artist was effective in the pinches, striking out six as compared to one by Schumacher. Luque pitched the last two innings after Schumacher had been lifted for a pinch hitter.

Bill Terry, the Giants' manager, was the only New Yorker to successfully solve Mungo's delivery. He made three of his team's hits, one of them a double, but Travis Jackson saved the Giants from a shut-out. After Davis and Mancuso had singled in the ninth, Jackson drove out a long fly to score the former, O'Doul got into the game as a pinch hitter for Schumacher in the seventh but grounded out.

U.S.C. Places Ten Men for Finals Tonight

Hoosiers Only Hope to Stop Trojan Title March

Sid Dean, Hawkeye quarter miler, and Dale Barker, hammer thrower, were the only Hawkeyes to garner places in the preliminaries of the national collegiate track and field meet, yesterday. These men are eligible in the finals at Soldier field tonight.

Dean, running in his favorite event, qualified along with such performers as Abe Ablowich of Southern California, and Ivan Fuqua of Indiana. Both of the latter are members of the Olympic team holding the world's record for the relay.

Barker continued the Iowa tradition of strong weight men, Iowa having qualified hammer throwers for the finals for several years running. Noble Biddinger of Indiana made the best qualifying mark in the hammer, tossing the iron ball 154 feet, 6-1/2 inches.

By CHARLES DUNKLEY (Associated Press Sports Writer)

CHICAGO, June 16 (AP)—A blistering battle between the University of Southern California, winner of the I.C. 4-A meet two weeks ago, and Indiana, upholding the honors of the middle west, shaped up for the finals of the national collegiate track and field championships to be decided under the flood lights at Soldier field tomorrow night.

The Trojans, as a result of trials today, placed 10 men in the finals to lead the qualifiers, while Indiana placed six, and Michigan and Louisiana State seven each. The Wolverines, outdoor champions of the Western conference, might have figured in the finals but their strength was broken by the failure of Willis Ward, Negro star, who scored 18 points in the Big Ten meet, to place in the hurdles and dashes.

Ward Disqualified
Ward led the second heat of the high hurdles but was disqualified for knocking down three of them. The Wolverine Negro, who won the Big Ten 100 yard dash, was only good enough to land fourth in his heat today, knocking him out of the running.

Stanford, defeated by Southern California in the eastern intercollegiate two weeks ago by only five points, failed to get help from all its weight stars. Gray, Dunn and Lyman, who did not compete, leaving Henri Laborie as its sole entrant in the shot and discus, so that Indiana, defending N.C.A.A. champion, looms up as the only bar to the Trojans' fourth national championship.

Keller Injured
Misfortune befell Jack Keller of Ohio State, national collegiate hurdling champion, who was to make his farewell in college competition tomorrow night. The blonde Buckeye, shaken up in an automobile accident before the meet, fell on the seventh hurdle of the qualifying heat and then plunged headforemost into the eighth barrier. When he dragged himself off the cinders, there were ugly gashes in both knees.

Although Keller came back with his knees bandaged for the low hurdles, the handicap was too great to overcome, and he finished fourth, failing to qualify. He was heart broken over his misfortune.

figures to have no more than a gallop in winning the 100 yard dash and the 220 tomorrow. The big Negro won his qualifying heat in the century in 9.9 seconds, eased up, Metcalfe, while running under wraps, did not have the best time in the 100 yard event. Jimmy Johnson, a diminutive Negro from Illinois State Normal school, turned in 9.3 in winning his heat. Metcalfe, however, had the best time on the far-long, clicking it off in 21.9, winning easily.

With the exception of events in which Keller and Ward competed, the other collegiate events saw favorites come through nicely.

Hornbostel, Fuqua
Charles Hornbostel of Indiana breezed to victory in the half mile, also placed in the 220, while another Hoosier, Ivan Fuqua, placed in the quarter mile. Noble Biddinger of the Hoosiers led the hammer throwers with a heave of 154 feet 6-1/2 inches, while Glenn Cunningham, Kansas' great middle distance runner, was also a victor in one of the half-mile tests.

Most of tomorrow's events will be individual battles with Southern California and the Hoosiers fighting it out for the team championship. It will be Indiana's long distance runners working overtime against a group of hard working performers from the coast, who captured the I.C. 4-A meet chiefly on place points.

The summaries:

Stock Markets Weak Pending Stabilization

Exchange Erratic as Cross Currents Have Effect

NEW YORK, June 16 (AP)—The stock market was crowded with cross currents today and price movements were correspondingly erratic but its ability to advance at times contrasted with Thursday's heavy sag. One of these rallies occurred in the last half hour and the closing average was slightly higher.

Wall street learned overnight that the treasury had denied London's rumors of dollar stabilization around $4.05; also, congress finally adjourned. These two items of news could hardly be ignored by bullish-minded traders and the market advanced with some zest in the early trading. However, gains of 1 to 3 points were more than lost by noon and prices thereafter backed and filled until the later dealings when the trend again swung upward. Net changes, as a rule, were small. Turnover reached 5,728,256 shares.

U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Allied Chemical, Chrysler, Montgomery Ward, Standard Oil of New Jersey, Woolworth, Du Pont and Consolidated Gas were up major fractions to a point at the finish. Case and Union Pacific bogged down a bit. Net changes in most rails were meager. American Telephone came back 3 points and Homestake bobbed up 5, but those gains were exceptional.

The dollar resumed its fall, which was accepted as a natural reaction to the subsidence of recent reports as to a definite stabilization level.

DIXIE OUGAN—Big Talk

Bond Prices Drift Lower

Trading Volume Drops as Sales Slump to $12,517,000

NEW YORK, June 16 (AP)—Revealed weakness of secondary rail loans, reflecting the extremely nervous condition of stocks, unsettled the bond market today and prices in all categories drifted to lower levels.

The trading volume contracted on the decline. Sales totaled only $12,517,000, par value, against $14,467,000 yesterday. The average for 60 domestic corporate issues lost six-tenths of a point.

Bonds apparently were little cheered by the adjournment of congress, a substantial rally of foreign exchanges and indications that tomorrow's freight car loadings report would be pleasant reading. U. S. government securities and highest grade corporation loans, however, were fairly steady.

Carrier issues off 1 to around 3 points included some of Alleghany Corp., Baltimore & Ohio, Central Pacific, St. Paul, Denver & Rio Grande, Great Northern, Hudson & Manhattan, International Great Northern, Missouri Pacific, N. Y. Central, Nickel Plate, Northern Pacific, Pennsylvania, Frisco, Southern Pacific and Wabash.

Bonds of International Telephone and Postal Telegraph rallied a point or more and improvement was shown by the issues of U. S. Rubber, United Drug, Sinclair Oil and some others.

Most foreign obligations were reactionary. Some of the South Americans were especially heavy, issues of Argentina, Brazil, Chile, and Colombia losing 1 to around 4 points.

Interest Rises in Local Diamondball With Promise to Install Lights at Park

Interest in the two local diamond ball leagues seemed set to pick up with the announcement made yesterday that lights would be installed at the city park diamond next Monday and Tuesday. Arrangements were completed by the league committee and the park board whereby seven poles and fourteen lights will be installed.

At present the plans call for the team members to dig the post holes Monday and for the lights to be installed the following day.

Following the successful use of the lights a year ago, the two leagues have been working all season to secure the same system again. When the work is completed three games will be played each night starting about 7 o'clock.

With the addition of one pole and increased height, the glare that caused some trouble last year will be partially eliminated and may be entirely done away with if the committee can secure enough reflectors to diffuse the light properly. Two poles will be placed along the two foul lines between first and home and third and the plate with the other three in the outfield.

If enough reflectors are secured the first games will be played Tuesday night.

The league committee in charge of the lighting project: Ed Vassar, K. C.; Ted Watkins, Paul Helen; and Chuck Stevens, Kelley Cleaners.

Varsity Cleaners Take Measure of Iowa Supply, 14-4

Six home runs proved a great help to Varsity Cleaners last night and they defeated Iowa Supply 14 to 4 to hang up their first open league second round win. Two homers for the losers by Blackmer brought in their four runs. Scatteries for the Cleaners were Clearman and Murtha. Blackmer and Shane did mound duty for the losers.

Oakdale lost its second game since entering the open loop of diamondball play when they were defeated by Paul-Helen, 9 to 1, at Oakdale. Blackman contributed three runs to the winner's score by hitting a home run with two on base. Bert Brown turned in the best performance of the game with two hits and a fine fielding game.

Three runs in the last inning by Knights of Pythias pulled the fat out of the fire and the Iowa City club defeated North Liberty 6 to 5. Hydraulic Lab won its opening second round game of the closed league by outscoring Knights of Columbus 5 to 2 last night.

"The SEA BRIDE" THE ROMANCE OF AN EVENTFUL WHALING CRUISE

FAITH KILCUP marries Captain Noll Wing, skipper of the whaler, "Sally Sims," a man much older than herself.

CHAPTER II

She had always dreamed of being married before this great fire in her father's home. She herself had chosen these legs, and under her eye her brother, Roy, had borne them into the house and laid them upon the small stool and kindling she had prepared. She had wanted that fire to spring to life as she and Noll Wing were married; she had thought of it as a symbol of the new life that was beginning for her and for her husband. She was terribly disappointed.

In that first pang she looked helplessly about for Noll. She wanted comfort pitifully. But Noll was laughing in the doorway, talking with old Jonathan Felt, the owner of his vessel. He had not heard, he did not see her glance. Heed he cried:

"Somebody light it quick! Roy Kilcup, give me a match. I'll light it myself. Don't look, Faith! Oh, what a shame!"

Roy knew how his sister had counted on that fire.

"I'll bet Faith doesn't feel as though she were really married," he laughed. "Not without a fire going. Do you, Faith? Better do it over, Dr. Brant."

Someone said it was bad luck; a dozen voices cried the same word. Then, while they were all talking about it, round-faced Dan! Tobey went down on his knees and lit the fire that was to have illumined Faith's wedding.

Faith, her hand at her throat, looked for Noll again, but he and old Jonathan had gone out to that ancient den of cherry rum. Dan! Tobey was looking hungrily at her; hungry for thanks. She smiled at him. They were all pressing around her again.

Faith's luggage had already gone aboard. When she and Jem and Bes reached the wharf the others were at the tables under the boathouse. They roared and pledged. Faith lifted glasses. Then Faith sat down beside her husband, at the head of the board, and old Jem settled morosely beside her. They ate and drank merrily.

Faith was very happy, dreamily happy. She felt the bad presence of her husband at her side, and she lifted her head with pride in him, and in his ship which he commanded. He was a man. Once or twice she marked her father's silence, and once she touched his knee with her hand lightly, in comfort. Cap'n Wing made a speech. He called on Jem, but Jem was in no mind for chatter. They called on Faith; she rose and smiled at them, and said how happy she was, and laid her hand on her husband's shoulder proudly.

Roy came, running, after a time. And a little later the tug whistled from the stream, and Cap'n Wing looked over and stood up and lifted his hands.

"Friends," he said jocosely, "I'd like to take you all along. Come if you want. But—hide in. Them as don't want to go along had best be getting ashore."

Thus it was ended that wedding-supper on the deck, in the late afternoon, while the flags floated overhead and the gulls screamed across the refuse-dotted waters of the harbor and the tide whirled and eddied about the piles. Thus it was ended.

Old Jem kissed her first of all, kissed her roundly, crushing her in his breast, and she whispered, in his close embrace:

All right. I'll bring you home— He kissed her again, cutting short her promise. Kissed her and thrust her away, and stumped ashore and went stockily off along the wharf and out of sight, never looking back. A solitary figure, somewhat to be pitied, for all his broad shoulders and his old head.

The others in their turn. Then everyone waited, calling, laughing, crying, while the "Sally Sims" was torn loose from her moorings. Cap'n Wing was another man now; he was never one to leave his ship to another's care. Faith thought proudly. His commands rang through the still air of late afternoon; his eye saw the hawsers cast off, saw the tug take hold.

The "Sally Sims" moved. She moved so slowly that at first one must watch a fixed point upon the wharf to be sure she moved at all. Men were in the rigging now, setting the big square sails. The wind began to tug at them. The tug had long since dropped behind; they shaped their course for where the night came up ahead of them. They sailed steadily eastward into the gathering gloom.

"Mr. Tobey!" bawled Cap'n Wing.

Dan! came aft to where Faith stood with her husband. He did not look at her, so that Faith was faintly disquieted. The captain pointed to the litter of planks and boxes and dishes and food where the wedding supper had been laid. Faith watched dreamily, happily. She had loved that last gathering with the friends of her girlhood. There was something sacred to her, in this moment, even in the ugly debris that remained.

But not to Cap'n Wing. He said harshly in his voice of a master:

"Have that trash cleared up, Mr. Tobey. Sharp, now."

Trash! Faith was faintly unhappy at the words. Dan! bawled to the men, and had a dozen of them came shuffling aft. She touched her husband's arm.

"I'm going below now, Noll," she whispered to him.

He nodded.

"Get to bed," he said. "I'll be down."

He had not looked at her; he was watching Dan! and the men.

For two weeks past Faith had been much aboard the "Sally Sims," making ready the tiny quarters that were to be her home. When she came down into the cabin now it was with a sense of familiarity. The plain table, built about the butt of the mizzenmast, the chairs, the swinging, whale-oil lamps—these were old friends, waiting to replace those other friends she had left behind in her bedroom at home. She stood for a moment at the foot of the cabin-companion, looking about her, and she smiled faintly, her hand at her throat.

She was not lonely, not homesick, not sorry. But her smile seemed to appeal to these inanimate surroundings to be good to her.

Then she crossed the cabin quickly and went into the smaller compartment, which was used by Cap'n Wing for his books, his instruments, his infrequent hours of leisure. This ran almost entirely across the stern of the ship, but it was little more than a corridor. The captain's cabin was on the starboard side, opening off this corridorlike compartment. There was scant room aft aboard the "Sally Sims." The four officers bunked two by two in cabins opening off the main cabin; the mate had no room to himself. And by the same token, there was no possibility of giving Faith separate quarters. There were two bunks in the captain's cabin, one above the other. The upper had been built in during the last two weeks. That was all.

Faith had not protested. She was content that Noll was hers; the rest did not matter. She wanted a measure of glory in the thought that she must endure some hardships to be at his side while her man did his work in the world. She was, after the first pang, glad that she must make a tiny chest and a few nails serve her for wardrobe and dressing-room; she was glad that she must sleep on a thing like a shelf built into the wall, instead of her high, soft bed with the canopy at home. She was glad—glad for life—glad for Noll—glad for everything.

She began quietly to prepare herself for bed. And while she loosened her heavy hair and began the long, easy brushing that kept it so glossy and smooth, her thoughts ran back over the swift, warm rapture of her awakening love for Noll. Big Noll Wing—her husband now; she his bride.

She had always worshiped Noll, even while she was still a schoolgirl, her skirts short, her hair in a long, thick braid. Noll was a heroic figure, a great man who appeared at intervals from the distances of ocean, and moved majestically about the little world of the town and then was gone again. The man had had the gift of drama; his deeds held that element which lifted them above mere exploits and made them romance. When he was third mate of the old Bertha, a crazy islander tried to knife him and fleshed his blade in Noll Wing's shoulder from behind. Noll had wrenched around and broken the man's neck with a twist of his hands.

He had always been a hard man with his hands, a strong man, perhaps a brutal man. Faith, hearing only glorified whispers of these matters, had dreamed of the strength of him. She saw this strength not as a physical thing, but as a thing spiritual. No one man could rule other men unless he ruled them by a superior moral strength, she knew. She loved to think of Noll's strength. Her breath had caught in ecstasy of pain that night he first held her close against his great chest till she thought her own ribs would crack.

Not Noll's strength alone was famous. He had been a great captain, a great man for oil. His maiden voyage as skipper of his own ship made that reputation for the man. He set sail, ran forthwith into a very sea of whales, worked night and day, and returned in three days short of three months with a cargo worth thirty-seven thousand dollars. A cargo that other men took three years to harvest from the fat fields of the sea; took three years to harvest, and then were like as not to boast of the harvesting. Oh, Noll Wing was a master hand for sperm oil; a master skipper as ever sailed the seas.

Forest Army Tackles First Improvement

Works on Weidner Farm, University Campus

The reforestation army in Johnson county made its first moves in soil improvement work yesterday and Thursday when two details from the airport park camp took up work on the E. L. Weidner farm, just east of Iowa City on Highway No. 6, and on the university grounds.

Twenty-four of the men began work on the Weidner place Thursday building brush dams to prevent further soil erosion. Another 24 began soil erosion and landscaping work yesterday on the grounds at Westlawn. One hundred men are expected to be at work by Monday, F. S. Yetter, civilian camp superintendent, said yesterday.

Application Made
Application has been made at the Farm Bureau office by 51 farmers seeking soil improvement work by the corps. It has been suggested that the old quarry on River street be cleaned out and converted into a swimming pool. The university has outlined flood control projects, such as a levee building along Iowa river from Iowa avenue to the park bridge on the west side and to the president's home from Iowa avenue on the east side.

In the set-up of the camp here, section leaders chosen from among the men are in charge of 50 men, and sub-section leaders are in charge of 24 men with two sub-section leaders to each section. Squad bosses are over each seven men in the sub-section. In this way another aim of the camp, development of leadership, is carried out, Mr. Yetter said.

Mostly on Farms
Most of the work this summer, the superintendent said, will be done on farms, and will consist largely of building dams and filling gullies to prevent soil erosion. Property owners furnish the material while the men in the camp provide the labor.

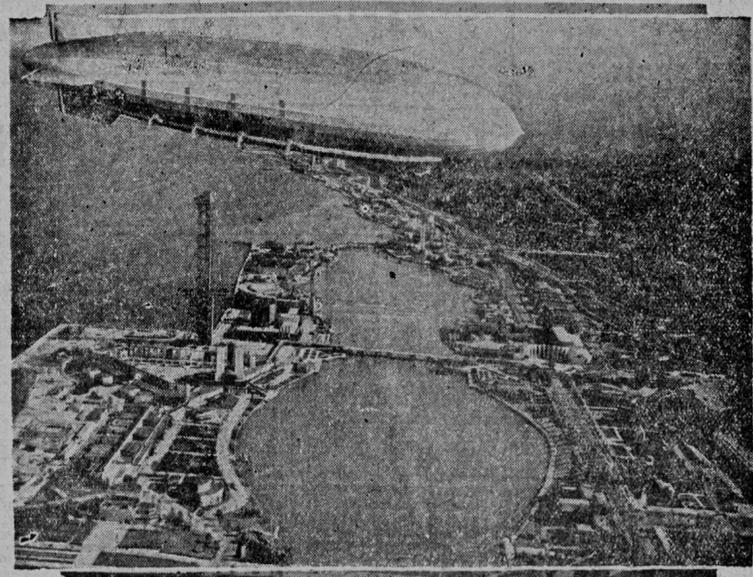

Under construction at the camp at present is a bath house with 12 shower baths, a recreational center, and a large ice box, measuring inside, six feet by seven. It is hoped that a mess hall will be built later.

37 MILE BRIDGE ACROSS LAKE MICHIGAN PROPOSED

This map shows plan to build a bridge 37 miles long, from Seventy-third street, Chicago, to a main thoroughfare of Michigan City, Ind. The plan calls for the borrowing of $200,000,000 from the Reconstruction Finance corporation for this and two other gigantic projects—electrification of all Chicago railroads and rerouting of the Chicago river. The bridge would in reality be a massive concrete barrier. An area at the Chicago end and another at the Indiana end would be filled in as indicated, the land to be sold to help pay the cost of construction. The concrete barrier would form a new lake.

Police Still Hunt Thief

Look for Man Thought to Have Robbed McNamara's

Police were still looking yesterday for a man who is believed to have taken $500, some checks, and a bank book at the McNamara furniture store shortly before 6 p.m. Thursday.

The man selected a lamp in the store and while it was being wrapped, asked for a $20 bill in exchange for four $5 bills. J. F. McNamara got the money from the safe, gave the man his bill, and placed the rest of the money, some checks, and the company bank book in his pocket.

The stranger looked up a number in the telephone directory and left the store, saying that he would return for his purchase. Shortly afterwards Mr. McNamara noticed that his pocket was empty, and notified the police.

Mr. McNamara described the man as being about 30 years old, weighing about 160 pounds, and dark complexioned. Although police in other towns were warned and roads leading out of Iowa City were searched, the stranger was not apprehended.

Hold Funeral Today for Homer B. Ellis, Former Resident

Funeral service for Homer B. Ellis, 46, former Iowa City resident, who died Wednesday at Sioux City, will be held at 1:30 this afternoon at the home of his mother, Mrs. Mary A. Ellis, 910 S. Dodge street. The Hohenschuh mortuary and the Masonic lodge will be in charge.

Mr. Ellis was formerly steward of the Johnson county home for two years and was steward of the county home at Storm Lake for the last 14 years. He was a member of the Iowa City Masonic lodge, Eagles lodge, and was at one time a member of the fire department here.

He is survived by his widow, one son, George of Storm Lake; one daughter, Mrs. Elmer Bladow of Iowa City; his mother, and four sisters, Marjorie Ellis of Chevy Chase, Md., Mrs. Edgar Glen of Olin, Mrs. James E. Owen of Ft. Riley, Kan., and Mrs. Bertha McCormick of Olin; and one brother, Howard of Iowa City.

Interested mostly in what it takes to satisfy an ever present appetite, the three robins from the street seem to be all mouth. The robins are not yet ready to get out and shift for themselves, being a little shy on rudder and wing power.

Airplane Visitors

According to a city ordinance, no airplane can land within the city limits without the written consent of either the mayor or council. An aviator running out of gas above Iowa City would have to stall in the air while he made a parachute jump to earth to get a permit from Mayor Breene. Of course, if he were traveling by himself the big question would be how to get back in the ship again—but then, maybe the enforcement isn't that strict.

Morgenthau Asks States to Seek Aid

Works Out Plans for Reopening Closed Banks

WASHINGTON, June 16 (AP)—An invitation to other states to work out programs for reopening closed banks that are weighted down by heavy holdings of frozen farm mortgages was extended today by Henry Morgenthau, Jr., after announcing a program for reopening banks in Wisconsin which will be initiated Monday.

"Other states will be extended the same opportunity," Morgenthau, governor of the new farm credit administration, said after outlining the Wisconsin plan, under which he expects to refinance $50,000,000 in mortgages held by banks, to reopen them for business and to make available to depositors up to $35,000,000. The entire program is expected to require from 3 to 6 months to execute.

Wisconsin "Ideal"
Morgenthau explained that Wisconsin "provides an ideal testing ground for this plan as its laws authorize the state to write down the assets of the banks and the deposit liabilities accordingly."

Other states, he said, can have similar plans put into effect if their laws and negotiations for refinancing mortgages can be worked out satisfactorily.

Morgenthau said that in some cases he expected it would be necessary to have special legislative sessions to provide adequate laws as the basis for operating the plan. He added that he hoped the result would be the liquidation of thousands of mortgages which are now virtually unsalable and which has locked up deposits in every state.

Program
In substance, the Wisconsin program is designed to operate in this manner:

A special office of the farm credit administration will be set up at the state capitol in Madison, Monday. It will be under the direction of Paul Bestor, retiring land bank commissioner, Elbert S. Goss of Seattle, selected today as his successor, and Dr. W. I. Myers of Cornell university, farm finance expert, who will be named deputy governor of the credit administration soon.

Myers will leave for Madison tomorrow. He will be joined by Bestor and Goss soon afterward and a series of conferences will be held during the week with state and national bank supervising officials who will cooperate in carrying out the plan.

A total of $35,000,000 has been made available by the Reconstruction corporation for bonds of an equal amount from the first issue of $2,000,000,000 in bonds authorized by congress in the mortgage refinancing act.

Refinancing
With this sum, Morgenthau's aides will begin the refinancing program which will consist principally of purchase of first mortgages held by the closed banks.

A staff of from 50 to 100 appraisers will be sent over the state to value the farms, which are the security for the mortgages, as the banks apply for refinancing. Cash will be paid for the mortgages to the extent of 50 per cent of the appraised "normal" value of the land and an allowance for the value of permanent improvements.

This means that, if a farm is found to be worth $10,000 and a mortgage of $8,000 against it is held by a bank, Morgenthau's aides will pay up to $5,000 for the mortgage. The claim of the bank must be completely satisfied by this arrangement and the bank will be required to use the cash to pay off its depositors.

Debts Cut
The farmer's debt in a case of this kind would be scaled down $3,000. On the average, he is expected to realize a reduction in interest rates in excess of one per cent.

The average farm interest rate in Wisconsin is now about 6 per cent, and varies from 5 to 7 per cent.

The farmer, after the bank has sold its mortgage, will owe the principal to the federal land banks, now operated under the farm credit administration.

Interest
He will pay interest at the rate of 4 1/2 per cent for five years if a member of a farm loan association. New associations will be organized as they are needed by the land banks.

AFTER RECORD HOP FROM SPAIN

If he is not a member, the rate will be 5 per cent for 5 years. After that the interest rate may advance one-half of one per cent but this is not definite.

During the 5 year period he need not pay any installment on the indebtedness which will be amortized over a period of 33 years with semi-annual payment of interest and principle.

Morgenthau looks for an average scaling down of claims against farmers of 30 per cent. He expects that $35,000,000 will be sufficient to purchase $50,000,000 in mortgages, thus cutting the obligations of farmers affected by the plan $15,000,000 or more.

Morgenthau said that of 800 state and national banks in Wisconsin 160 state banks and 100 national banks were now operating normally. He said there are 35 national banks and 150 state banks in the process of liquidation and that 350 state banks were operating under restrictions under which new deposits are being segregated and withdrawals are limited.

The plan contemplates making it possible to reopen the closed banks but the actual reopening will be subject to the direction of state and national banking officials. In some cases consolidations are to be effected while in others the banks may be directed to liquidate instead of reopening.

Sets Day of Achievement

Herring Picks June 17 for Observance by State of Iowa

DES MOINES, June 16 (AP)—Gov. Clyde Herring's proclamation setting June 17 as Achievement Day, follows:

Whereas, our national government acted swiftly and with decision and practical co-operation in all its branches and political divisions in the enactment of legislation directed toward relieving the people of the United States from the effects of a crushing depression, and

Whereas, the chief executive of the United States has so wisely and courageously led the way in outlining congressional enactments in order to hasten the return to prosperous days, and

Whereas, these efforts to benefit all men, women and children have met with the approval of and do merit the confidence of the people of Iowa and of the nation.

Therefore, I, Clyde L. Herring, governor of the state of Iowa, do officially set aside Saturday, June 17, as Achievement Day in recognition of the great progress already made and in anticipation of complete social and economic recovery which will be made possible by the display of confidence and co-operation of the citizens of this nation.

In testimony whereof, I have hereunto subscribed my name as governor of the state of Iowa, and have caused the great seal of the state to be affixed hereto, on this sixteenth day of June, in the year of our Lord, 1933, and of this commonwealth the eighty-seventh year.

305 Banks Still Limited
