Wallace Threatens to Unload Surplus of U.S. Wheat Crop on World Markets

Other Nations Must Agree to Restrictions

Says Prices Likely to Hit 20-Cent Level

CHICAGO, June 21 (AP)—A threat by Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace that United States might dump its surplus wheat on world markets unless other producing nations agreed on restrictive measures was followed by rocketing of prices at Chicago and Kansas City today.

Reports of serious damage to the domestic crop also contributed to the advances but the speech of Wallace, before the National Millers' federation meeting, though late, was credited as a major stimulant.

Explanation

His remarks were part of an explanation for the administration's insistence on wheat conference reduction during the next three years. He pointed out that the country still has a 350,000,000 bushel wheat surplus and that, with rising prices, farmers might be inclined to increase acreages, with a resulting 800 or 900 million bushel crop and an additional surplus of 200,000,000 bushels.

"We know of no market for this," Secretary Wallace said.

"It is likely that it will not be possible to make any great curtailment of next year's crop, because the international wheat conference is still in session. So it is conceivable that the United States, if Australia, the Argentine and Canada do not see the light in London, might resort to dumping its surplus into the world market at a price as low as 20 cents a bushel, while holding the domestic price at around $1.

"Deplorable"
"It would be deplorable if that had to be done, but I think it is conceivable if necessary to bring down our wheat surplus."

Immediately following publication of his statement, the price of September wheat on the Chicago board of trade, which had opened at 78 1/4@1-2, reached 78 in early trading and then sagged to 78, but rose promptly to close at 80 1-4, a new high for the season. Grain traders saw in his remarks the possibility of quick $1 a bushel wheat.

At Kansas City a similar rise occurred. Increases in other markets were mainly ascribed to local reports of crop damage.

Secretary Wallace insisted that any effort to help the milling industry must be realistically accompanied by a resolution to maintain a "decent standard of living for the folks who grow the wheat."

Spanish Pilot Killed in Fall

MEXICO, D. F., June 21 (AP)—Advice that the Spanish transatlantic aviators, Captain Mariano Barberan and Lt. Joaquin Collar, missing more than a day on a flight from Havana, had crashed in the mountains southeast of here, sent scores of searchers to that region but those returning tonight said they were unable to find any trace of them.

MEXICO, D. F., June 21 (AP)—Lieutenant Joaquin Collar, Spanish transatlantic flyer, was killed and his companion, Captain Mariano Barberan, seriously injured, officials of the department of communications said tonight, when their plane crashed yesterday while en route here on a flight from Havana, Cuba. Department officials said they had confirmed a report telephoned here by Mayor Lanza, of Aplazco, in the state of Tlaxcala, 100 miles southeast of here, that the flyers' plane, Cuatro Vientos, had crashed on the slopes of La Malinche mountain.

Captain Barberan was in a coma. The official announcement said.

The government ordered that the injured flyer and the body of Lt. Collar be sent here immediately.

Boone Dairy Upheld
DES MOINES (AP)—The Boone Dairy, Inc., was upheld today in a district court appeal from the decision of a municipal judge that the dairy was guilty of violating the city milk ordinance by selling cream in the city without a permit.

Spectacular Blaze Causes $15,000 Loss for Pella Oil Plant

PELLA, June 21 (AP)—A spectacular fire and explosion caused damage estimated at $15,000 to the plant of the Star Oil company at the edge of the city today.

Firemen, four of whom were slightly injured, succeeded in preventing the spread of the blaze to the nearby Standard Oil company storage sheds and a grain elevator.

The fire broke out in a tank truck loading at a 16,000-gallon gasoline tank. The blaze apparently resulted from a spark in the ignition of the motor. The big tank, which was partly full, was thrown several hundred feet by the explosion. Three 12,000-gallon containers and a 10,000-gallon tank also exploded.

The injured firemen, Henry Bruinekol, Walker Sadler, William Muelenberg and C. Vandenberg, continued to aid their comrades after receiving medical treatment.

Wets Roll Up 127,000 Vote Lead in Iowa

Herring Starts Draft of State Liquor Control Measures

DES MOINES, June 21 (AP)—A margin of 127,332 votes lifted Iowa from the dry ranks into the repeal column, despite unofficial returns from Tuesday's special election showed today.

The vote for ratification of repeal was 377,275 as against 249,943 opposing repeal, on the basis of the returns from the state's 2,435 precincts.

61 Counties for Repeal

Sixty-one of the 99 counties rolled up majorities for repeal, while the remaining 38 favored retention of the eighteenth amendment. Wet river counties and the larger cities aided materially in rolling up the three to two ratio for repeal in the state.

By its vote Iowa elected 99 repeal delegates to a constitutional convention to be held in Des Moines July 10 to complete the formality of adding Iowa to the growing list of states which have ratified repeal.

Herring Launches Plans

Gov. Clyde L. Herring promptly launched plans for the drafting of a liquor control statute for the state, hoping to have it enacted in time to become effective when and if national prohibition is repealed.

The governor announced that he will appoint a committee to study liquor control and report to the special session of the general assembly to be held in September. Liquor control systems of Canada and other countries will be studied in an effort to draft a plan best suited to Iowa, he said.

The committee probably will be named after the holding of the constitutional convention.

Accepting their defeat, Iowa dry

Various Reactions to Repeal Vote

WASHINGTON, June 21 (AP)—A prediction from Senator Joseph T. Robinson that his home state of Arkansas probably would vote for repeal on July 18 came today close behind the verdict of New Hampshire, Iowa and Connecticut against prohibition.

In reply to such prophecies and the jubilation of anti-prohibitionists over 14 successive state victories, the Anti-Saloon league, through its superintendent, F. Scott McBride, said "the real battle" was yet to come.

"It would have greatly encouraged the drys had Iowa and New Hampshire voted against repeal," McBride said. "However, the fact that they did not is not disheartening because, although both these states were dry, neither had gone dry by state-wide referendum."

James A. Farley, chairman of the Democratic national committee, predicted that "practically every state in the union" would vote for ratification of repeal.

Joel Shouse, president of the association against the prohibition amendment, called the Iowa vote "astounding" and challenged prohibition leaders to name three states that would vote to keep the eighteenth amendment in the constitution.

Registration Still Soaring as Child Welfare Meeting Goes Into Final Sessions

1933 Conference Will Adjourn Today at Luncheon

TODAY'S PROGRAM
Morning
Auditorium, Chemistry Building
9—"Making the most of library service," Carl H. Milan.
9:45—"The place of clinical service in the public school," Harry J. Baker.
House Chamber, Old Capitol
10:30—Round table on "Making the most of library service," led by Carl H. Milan.
Senate Chamber, Old Capitol
10:30—Round table on "The psychological clinic," led by Harry J. Baker.

With the registration steadily soaring, and hitting the 605 mark yesterday, the annual child welfare conference ends its 1933 session this noon with a luncheon meeting for the executive committee.

Learning how to live—social education—is more important to our modern scheme of things than are academic subjects, Floyd Dell, author, playwright, lecturer, told an audience in the main lounge of Iowa Union, in the closing address of yesterday's program.

The high school of the future as Dell sees it would be a place in which boys and girls are trained together to meet the obligations of their social lives.

Emancipation of love is the reason. Love—a product of the machine age. Earlier than 100 years ago, it was customary to have "arranged marriages," in which bride and bridegroom were selected by the parents for financial reasons.

"The machine age has destroyed the patriarchal family," Mr. Dell asserted, "but many of our institutions are still molded on the old system."
"Parents need to be made to understand."

BULLETIN
WASHINGTON, June 21 (AP)—An agreement was signed tonight by representatives of railroad executives and railroad labor leaders settling upon a 10 per cent wage reduction to be effective until June 30, 1934. The agreement was signed in the office of Joseph E. Eastman, federal railroad coordinator.

Jury Ponders Mitchell Case

NEW YORK, June 21 (AP)—Ten hours after it received the case, the federal court jury trying Charles E. Mitchell on charges of evading $850,000 income tax retired tonight without having reached an agreement.

Its deliberations were interrupted only once, aside from meals. Shortly after 5 p. m. (E.S.T.) the 12 men filed into the court room with a request that Judge Henry W. Goddard re-read part of his instructions relating to money Mitchell, former chairman of the National City bank, had received from a management fund.

Hoover to Become Stanford Librarian

STANFORD UNIVERSITY, Cal., June 21 (AP)—Former President Herbert Hoover is to become a librarian.

The Stanford university library building is being remodeled to provide an office for Mr. Hoover, from which he will direct the unique Hoover war library. Additional space in the archives also will be provided to house additional material brought here from Washington by the former chief executive.

Scorching Day Inaugurates Summer's Entrance to U. S.

Readings of 100 Are Frequent Throughout Entire Nation

By The Associated Press
Summer made its official entrance Wednesday with scorching weather over a goodly section of the nation.

In a dozen or more states temperatures in the high 90's ceased to become unusual and readings of 100 became frequent.

Local Weather

The sun was a little more merciful to Iowa City yesterday but high humidity still made Iowa citizens leave their coats at home. The mercury yesterday, the first day of summer, reached a high mark of 92 degrees, six degrees less than Tuesday's high of 98 degrees, which equaled the season's high.

At 7 a. m. yesterday, according to Prof. John Kelly, official observer, the mercury stood at 71 degrees, soared skyward during the day reaching a high of 92 degrees and then receded to the 81 degree mark by 7 p. m. There was a trace of precipitation yesterday morning, according to Professor Kelly.

Damage to Crops Reported in Several States

Neodesha, Kan., reported 104 degrees above zero; Birmingham, Ala., had 102; Bartlesville, Okla., 101; and Ft. Scott, Kan., 101.

Pittsburgh closed its schools as the mercury reached 94. Cleveland had a water shortage. The mercury reached 97 at Baltimore. The national capital has 95.

Minnesota and North Dakota cooled off after showers but crop experts declared the moisture was not sufficient to alleviate the danger of crop damage. Experts at St. Paul said wheat, rye, and other small grains were damaged "almost irreparably" in four north central states.

Cool Lake Michigan breezes came to the rescue of Chicago and Milwaukee residents as temperatures dropped from the 90's to the 70's.

More representative, however, were readings of 96 at Atlanta, Nashville and Oklahoma City; 97 at Cincinnati; and 98 at St. Louis.

Knoxville, Tenn., and Des Moines, Ia., had readings of 95, the Iowa reading coming after light rains over the state early in the day.

Delegates Decide in Night Session to Delay Currency Stabilization Negotiation

Moley Sails for European Conference

Will Serve as Link Between Delegates, Administration

NEW YORK, June 21 (AP)—Raymond Moley, assistant secretary of state and close adviser to President Roosevelt, sailed for London today to act as a link between the administration and the American delegation to the world economic conference, from which he predicted definite results.

Moley, who here last minute instructions received from the president yesterday in a dramatic meeting off the Massachusetts coast, said in a statement:

"Preliminaries Useful"
"I feel that the two weeks of preliminaries at the conference have been useful in the direction of exploring the possibilities of action, and the delegation is ready to pursue vigorously the plans which they developed in the weeks before they sailed, and America may look forward to definite results from their efforts."

The Columbia professor had little to say about his conference with the president, aside from the fact that they canvassed the situation thoroughly.

Administration Firm
Another authority indicated, however, that the administration is firm in its domestic program and that international agreements, if any, must be in line with its promotion.

Asked about his instructions, Moley said:
"They are not in the nature of specific orders."
"I can be useful to the delegation in giving them background. There have been many developments here since they sailed."
"I am, as the president stated yesterday, serving as a means of contact between the administration here and the delegation."

Buck Collapses at Hearing on McMath Abduction Case

BARNSTABLE, Mass., June 21 (AP)—The simply phrased testimony of Margaret (Peggy) McMath and the collapse of Cyril Buck as he took the stand featured the trial of the Buck brothers in Barnstable superior court today.

Cyril and his brother Kenneth are charged with the kidnaping of the 10 year old Peggy, who was taken from school on May 2 and returned three days later after $60,000 ransom had been paid. The ransom was recovered in Kenneth's home.

There was little trace of emotion as Peggy told of being threatened with chloroform if she screamed: of being bound, blindfolded, gagged and kept in the cave like cellar of a vacant house.

In matter of fact manner she told of her wrists being shackled with "toy" handcuffs that she took off and put on at will.

Dern, Rainey Arrive in Chicago to Help Dedicate Waterway

CHICAGO, June 21 (AP)—Secretary of War Dern and Speaker Rainey of the house of representatives arrived tonight by airplane from Washington to participate tomorrow in dedication ceremonies for the lakes-to-gulf waterway.

Puffing up along the recently completed waterway, a tow of four barges, carrying about 60 carloads of goods, arrived here today from New Orleans.

In a ceremonious docking of the barges tomorrow, Mayor Kelly of Chicago and Mayor Walmaley of New Orleans will blend the waters brought from the Gulf of Mexico with those taken from Lake Michigan.

Sam Zirello Held for Bussey Bank Robbery

KNOXVILLE, June 21 (AP)—Sam Zirello, charged with complicity in the Bussey state bank robbery 10 days ago, was bound over to the grand jury at preliminary hearing here this afternoon. Bonds were set at $20,000.

Zirello is held in jail at Oskaloosa. Joe Melin of Pershing still is under arrest as a material witness.

MacDonald May Bar Money Discussion Entirely

LONDON, June 21 (AP)—The American delegation, in the light of new instructions received from President Roosevelt, decided tonight to withhold dollar stabilization until it obtains satisfactory guarantees that the United States is going to get what it wants out of the world economic conference.

While Cordell Hull, secretary of state, and his American colleagues were discussing the new orders from Washington in a long session tonight, Prime Minister MacDonald, chairman of the conference, was understood to be formulating a plan to eliminate for the time being any treatment of the bitterly controversial monetary issue in the international convalesce.

Will Bargain
The Americans now propose to use dollar stabilization as a bargaining weapon for obtaining realization of the Washington program in the conference.

Meanwhile, tonight Foreign Minister Baron Von Neurath and eight other members of the German delegation left London for Berlin unexpectedly and without giving any definite assurance of an early return to the London assembly.

The Germans were blessed and booed by a large anti-Nazi crowd at the railway station.

French Failed
The French delegation failed today to carry out threats of demanding adjournment of the conference until the dollar should be stabilized but the feeling of anxiety over the problem continued intense in conference quarters.

Georges Bonnet, leader of the French representation in the outstanding address of today before a sub-committee of the monetary commission, asked: "How can capital flow and confidence be restored if a country with sound finances and a balanced budget can be hard hit because near or distant countries have embarked on perilous courses of inflation or currency devaluation?"

The French finance minister made

Protest End of Market News

WASHINGTON, June 21 (AP)—One governor, several congressmen, and almost a hundred private citizens have protested to the department of agriculture against the discontinuance of the market news service.

Governor Herring of Iowa said elimination of the activity "leaves the farmer without the protection of disinterested, authoritative and complete information regarding his own business."

"Economies are needed but the decision seems too drastic," he said.

98 Messages
In all, it was said at Secretary Wallace's office, 98 messages regarding the service had been received in the last two days, most of them protesting.

A few commended the move to eliminate the service through which the department of agriculture expects to save $1,300,000 a year. About 300 men in the various marketing centers would be dropped from the payroll.

New York, California
More protests were received from New York and California than any other states.

The protests from Capitol Hill came at about the same time that Senator McNary of Oregon, the Republican leader, said he had received protests from "all over the west." He added that every effort would be made to have the order revoked when Budget Director Douglas returns from New England Saturday.

Cheerful Days Ahead

CEDAR RAPIDS (AP)—"There are more cheerful days ahead for the Iowa farmer," Peter E. Carey, president of the Chicago board of trade, told the Western Grain Dealers' association in convention here tonight.

Council Luncheon This Noon Brings Conference to End

Representatives of State Child Welfare Groups Will Meet at Iowa Union for Business Session, Social Hour

With the conference on Child Development and Parent Education drawing to a close today, the executive luncheon given for the Iowa State council marks the end of the social program held in connection with the Child Welfare project.

Representatives of the organizations throughout the state engaging in child welfare research work, meet this noon on the sun porch of Iowa Union for a joint luncheon and executive business conference.

An informal tea given for conference speakers and visitors, comprised of Tuesday's program of social entertainment. In the evening of that day, Dr. and Mrs. George D. Stoddard entertained at dinner at their home. During the evening the 12 guests attended the lecture given by Dr. Carleton Washburne in the chemistry auditorium.

Sponsored by the Iowa City Council of Religious Education, a luncheon was held yesterday noon for Prof. Hedley S. Dimock, of George Williams college, Chicago, Ill., who conducted a discussion round table later. The guest list was comprised of those interested in an educational appeal to religion.

Floyd Dell, novelist and lecturer, spoke last evening following the conference dinner held on the sun porch of Iowa Union, and given for the speakers and honor guests of the Child Welfare conference.

Mrs. May Pardee Youtz was general chairman of arrangements for the various affairs, and the entire calendar of social events has been given in cooperation with the conference on Child Development and Parent Education.

Marriage to Beatrice Struck Occurs in Davenport

Matrimony claimed another Iowa graduate a week ago today when the marriage of Henry Neuman, Jr., son of H. W. Neuman of Davenport, and Beatrice Struck, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Struck, also of Davenport, took place there in St. John's church. The Rev. Frank Willard Court officiated.

Following the service, a short reception was held at the church, and later a luncheon was served to 34 guests at the home of the bride's parents.

Mr. and Mrs. Neuman left immediately on a motor trip for Chicago, returning later to Davenport before continuing to Yellowstone National park.

The bride is active in musical circles of Davenport, and for the last six years has been accompanist at the Fannie Schnitzer Martin studio.

Mr. Neuman is a graduate of the law school of the University of Iowa and is now an attorney with the firm Betty and Betty. While attending the university here, he affiliated with Delta Upsilon social fraternity and Delta Sigma Rho forensic fraternity. He received the John F. Dillon award for supreme court law club argument during his attendance here.

DEATH Scientists Learn of Vital Process

CHICAGO, June 21 (AP)—What happens in the process of death, learned from watching it take place in tiny cells such as make up all living things, was reported today to the American Association for the Advancement of Science.

When death comes, the fluid material or cytoplasm that constitutes the living material in the cell changes into a mass of granules, said Dr. Jean Dufrenoy, plant disease specialist of Bordeaux, France. He made his studies of the death process in cells of plants, but it is possible they apply also to cells of other forms of life.

How Death Works Trying to learn how death works within the cells is essential to understanding of how the process of death affects the body as a whole. When the cells die the body dies, as a building would fall if its bricks should disintegrate.

"Death" inside the cell can be seen under the ultra-microscope, Dr. Dufrenoy explained, but "life" is invisible. The cytoplasm, the actual "life" within the cell, is as colorless as water, and can not be seen, though scientists know it is

Business, Professional Women Invited to Chicago Conference

Program Will Include Visit to World's Fair

Members of the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's clubs of the entire country have been invited to attend the biennial convention in Chicago during the week of July 9.

Programs and entertainment, through the cooperation of the Chicago committee, chosen by the Illinois Federation, hostesses to the convention, and the Century of Progress exposition, have been arranged. Following the first two days of occupational round tables, conducted by Mrs. E. Pearl Warwick of Chicago, general chairman, banquets, luncheons, and dinners will be arranged for the pleasure and education of the guests.

Headquarters The headquarters of the convention will be located at the Stevens hotel during the week of the meeting, and main interest is centered about the work of the committee there, sharing importance with general tours of the city of Chicago itself and the exposition.

Notable professional women of the country have been extended a special invitation to attend, and included on that list are Mrs. F. D. Roosevelt, Frances Perkins, Jeanette Rankin and Judge Florence E. Allen.

Purpose Working toward "the training of women to assume leadership in the vocational fields," the purpose of the convention centers upon the surveys of the development of women's influence in business and professions during the last half century.

Wylie Guild Meets Tomorrow The Wylie guild of the Presbyterian church will meet at the home of Virginia Hunter for a pot-luck supper tomorrow at 6 p.m. Members are asked to bring their own table service.

And moving because of particles floating in it.

Cytoplasm Dies When the cytoplasm dies, however, and turns into granules, the granules, become visible through the ultra-microscope.

When a cell dies slowly, Dr. Dufrenoy said, the materials of the cytoplasm have more chance to come apart. Fat or oil comes out of the cytoplasm more often, in the form of droplets. Cells dying slowly from starvation first use up their reserve food supplies, then part of the cell's living material is digested to feed the rest. This is what happens in fever.

University Club Plans Party

If the weather behaves more comfortably today than it has for the last several days—the members of the University club are planning a party for this evening on the sun porch of the Iowa Union. During the evening a bridge game is scheduled, and all members desiring to attend are invited.

Golfers Have Contest

Thirty-five golfers participated in a load-lifter tournament held yesterday at the Fairview golf course. Following the play which began at 4 p.m., a picnic dinner was served, and name ball markers given as prizes. W. J. Harter and E. M. Means were in charge.

Former University Students to Serve as Camp Counselors

Two former University of Iowa students have been chosen as camp counselors for the Des Moines Y. W. C. A. camp, located on the Des Moines river northwest of Boone, which will open to girls of this state July 5 and continue through the summer until Aug. 8.

Estella Strobben of Walcott, who received her M.S. degree from the university this June, will be in charge of land sports and camp craft, and also will serve as a life guard.

Mary Linzenfelter of Des Moines, will direct nature lore and sketching. Miss Linzenfelter attended the university here before continuing her art study in Washington, D.C.

Two More Nations Reminded of Overdue War Debts to U. S.

WASHINGTON, June 21 (AP)—Two more defaulting nations were sharply reminded today of their unpaid war debt installments and the request of one for a review of its obligations to the United States was ignored.

Notes identical to that which went to France last week were sent to Estonia and Jugoslavia, which now have defaulted twice. The former's request for a review was not mentioned, while the latter, unlike other debtors, did not ask for such consideration.

At the same time, Rumania, Czechoslovakia and Latvia, which made partial payments last week, were told that the Washington government would be glad to receive their representations looking to a revision of their debt agreements.

Horn Urges History Study

Says Meaning of Words Must Have Objective Reality

The study of history must be related to the experiences of students...

Speaking before an audience of more than 100 on the subject, "Verbalism in history," Professor Horn declared that the meaning of words in textbook or classroom must be measured by an "objective reality."

"Students can get no social reality out of the study of mere words in history, from the very nature of the subject," the speaker asserted.

Historians, he said, are limited not only by the necessarily meager remains with which they may work, but also by the necessity of putting their findings into words.

Words are merely symbols, Professor Horn concluded, which students must supplement with their own experiences from other sources.

This lecture, the second in a series of 10 Wednesday historical conferences, was open to the public. The next address in the group will be given next Wednesday at 4:10 p.m. by Prof. Nelson V. Russell of the Coe college history department.

Professor Nelson's subject will be: "The British navy on the Great Lakes, 1760 to 1796."

Committee to Help in Entertainment of Conservation Corps

A committee to work in cooperation with Captain Paynter of the civilian conservation corps at the airport park has been appointed to help provide entertainment for the boys there.

The Rev. Elmer E. Dierks, chairman; Edward Rate and D. W. Crum of the Chamber of Commerce; H. W. Yestermark and Richard Boyles of the Junior Chamber of Commerce; and Florence Crawford and Dorothy Sutton of the Business and Professional Women's club make up the committee to work out a social and athletic program for the boys.

Four of the members of the committee were entertained by the army officers at a dinner at the camp last night.

Weather No Excuse for Il Duce's Forces

ROME, June 21 (AP)—Fascists must march on all state occasions in the future no matter what conditions of rain, snow or temperature make snug berths at home more desirable, says a dictum laid down by Il Duce.

Those with ears to the ground near his headquarters say it was laid down by a disgusted Duce, who saw one of his pet days of celebration spoiled by a little early morning rain.

On that occasion thousands of Italian youths were supposed to celebrate the 2,886th anniversary of the founding of Rome, under the critical eyes of the premier.

The levy was called off, although Mussolini himself spent the greater part of the day dedicating monuments and parks.

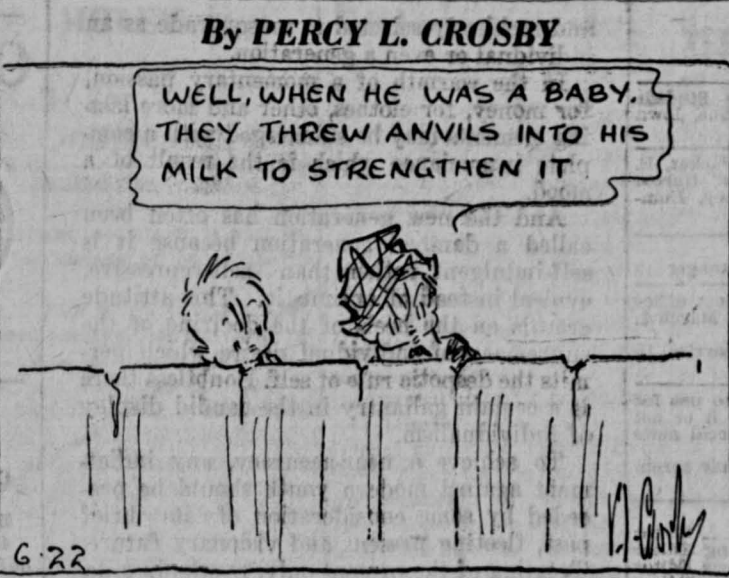

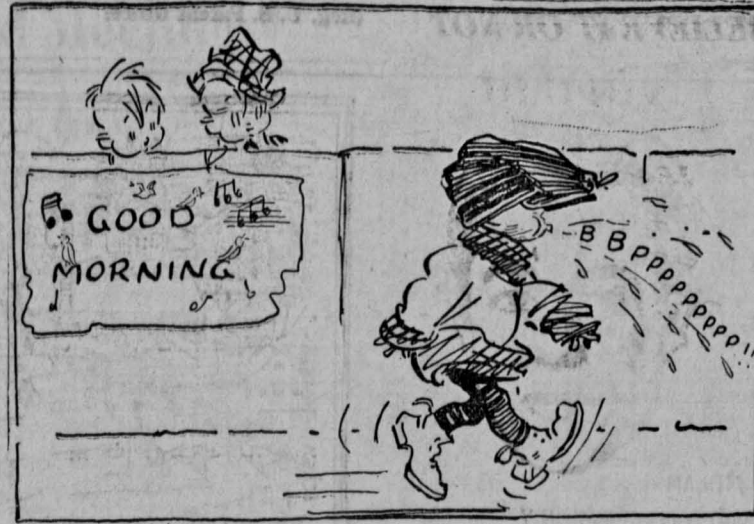

His stern general order now says: "No review of the armed forces of the nation or of the organization of the regime may be called off for any reason."

per cent, which she pointed out. Professor Dimock urged parents not to force upon children their interpretations of God, or to describe God as a "glorified parent" or a Santa Claus.

"Santa Claus" God Though the "Santa Claus" idea of God may appeal strongly to children, disappointment when they fail to receive the things they want is likely to lead to serious consequences in religious belief.

"When the child finds that God doesn't seem to appreciate his unique importance, disappointment, disillusionment, perhaps resentment or cynicism may follow," Professor Dimock warned.

Yesterday afternoon Mrs. C. E. Roe, field secretary of the National Congress of Parents and Teachers, led a round table discussion on "The National Congress of Parents and Teachers at work."

In the auditorium of the chemistry building yesterday afternoon, symposium B was held. Ralph H. Ojemann gave a radio child study demonstration, discussing the movies as an aid to child education. Exciting movies disturb a child's mental organization, and certain movies cause undue fear which is laid for the child, Mr. Ojemann pointed out.

Solons Show Inconsistency on Glass Bill

By KIRKE SIMPSON

WASHINGTON—It is remarkable that the only two pieces of special session legislation which represent an attempt to write into permanent law some of the lessons learned from the great economic crash went through both house and senate more easily than any of the extraordinary emergency measures, intended for application only for a limited time.

The securities control bill and now the new banking regulation act required no special rules, no administration pressure.

The scene in the senate when the Glass bill, the senate version of the new banking act, was on its passage, was a most unusual one. Probably Senator Glass regards that as the crowning work of his more than three decades in national public life.

That is the only act the Bystander recalls ever to have gone through the senate under management of a committee rather than of the chairman of the committee which framed it.

Glass, Bulkley of Ohio and McAdoo of California, the three Democrats of the banking subcommittee which wrote, or, rather, re-wrote the bill, sat together.

At times the two Republican members, Walcott of Connecticut and Townsend of Delaware, sat with them. There was the whole subcommittee membership sitting in a row and functioning as a committee of leadership right there on the senate floor.

Maybe that had something to do with the fact that the bill went through without a record vote, just as did the securities control measure.

The same Glass strategy applied to arrangements for conference action where the final composite of the Glass and Steagall bills was written.

derstand that text book learning is not the whole of education, and in some respects it is the least important part of it."

Today it is important that children should "grow up," mature emotionally, in order to find a successful marriage, the speaker said.

Adolescence "Adolescence," he concluded, "can be made a successful period of transition from childhood to adulthood, instead of a prolonged infancy, in which youth squanders its energies in futile rebellion against parental stupidity."

In the morning session Dr. Esthar Loring Richards, professor of psychiatry at Johns Hopkins university, and Hedley S. Dimock, professor of religious education at George Williams college, Chicago, were speakers before an audience of more than 400 in chemistry auditorium.

Dr. Richards denounced the so called "progressive" schools which attempt to individualize the child without an understanding of his make-up, and without aiding in the growth of proper habits in the child.

"It is psychologically better for an intellectually retarded or emotionally immature child to work in a cotton mill than to fulfill the legal requirements of remaining in school, if that school does not contribute to his habit training," she declared.

"Individualistic" She laid at the door of "individualistic" education the blame for many unhappy marriages, in view of the increase in divorce of 600

Dodges Reality

A child who dodges reality and who wishes complete solitude should not attend movies. Behavior is modified by the screen.

Two reels taken on life in pre-schools were shown and discussed by Harold M. Skeels of the Iowa Child Welfare Research station.

Jennie Rowntree lectured on "Parent education in the Pacific northwest." She pointed out that the problem of the child is the problem of the parent. There is a sense of extreme responsibility for parents, for they must eliminate the fear their children have in themselves and replace this fear with honor.

Milam to Speak

Carl H. Milam, secretary of the American Library association, is the first speaker this morning. His lecture will be "Making the most of library service." Mr. Milam will conduct a round table on the same subject.

Harry J. Baker, director of the psychological clinic of the Detroit, Mich., public schools, will follow Mr. Milam speaking on "The place of clinical service in the public school." To both his lecture and his round table discussion "The psychological clinic," he will bring the experience of several years' work in this field.

Sanskrit Discovery Opened Linguistic Study, Potter Says

The discovery of Sanskrit in the eighteenth century instigated the first scientific study of languages, according to Prof. Franklin H. Potter of the classical languages department, who talked yesterday afternoon in liberal arts building on "Some ABC's of comparative grammar."

This discovery resulted in a new study and classification of languages. Professor Potter said that the discovery of Iltisse about 30 years ago opened up another new field.

Using the Indo-European family of languages as his basis, Professor Potter illustrated language structure and grammar.

Police Hold Three After Disturbance at Council Bluffs

COUNCIL BLUFFS, June 21 (AP)—Three men were arrested here today on charges of unlawful assembly after nearly 200 persons tried to storm the office of the overseer of the poor at the courthouse.

Charles Gray, Carl Rhode of Omaha, and a man by the name of Davenport were the three held. Three others were released after questioning.

Police claim Rhode has been connected with communistic activities in Lincoln and Chicago.

Gray allegedly urged the crowd in an attempt to release five persons previously arrested several weeks ago for a courthouse disturbance by a group of disgruntled unemployed.

Youth Organizes

A MOVEMENT to organize unemployed youth in groups headed by college graduates, recently inaugurated by a committee in New York, may present a partial solution to the problem of what to do after college days, which so many young men and women are facing today.

The plan calls for a survey by local groups of facilities available in each city for educational and recreational projects, and the utilization of these facilities in a constructive program.

Just what the definite nature of the program will be has not yet been made clear. However, the plan has merit, and the reasoning behind it is sound.

The committee in charge has set forth its case in words that deserve repetition:

"The current commencement exercises are sending forth from our schools and colleges thousands of young people to a world that for the moment does not need or want them.

"We feel that unless some healthy outlet is furnished for their time, energy, and training, they must face the dangers of a sudden deflation of self-assurance, a deterioration of ideals, and a gradual blunting of the morale that has been carefully built up during their school years."

Just how serious the situation is becoming is indicated by the figures which this group gathered, showing that only one in five graduates of last year was able to obtain a position. This year it is estimated that only one in eight will find a place in the world waiting for him.

Present conditions will probably not last forever, and some day a position may be waiting for these men and women who have spent years in training to fit themselves to fill a place in industry or education or science.

What they do between now and that time is of vast importance. For it may determine their fitness to hold a position when the time comes, and opportunity calls.

Unemployed college graduates who enter this movement will gain useful experience in dealing with those about them. They will be doing a constructive bit of work for untrained youth, many of whom are in even worse straits than they, and they will be preparing themselves for the future.

On the Trail

REVERSING his field, millionaire brewer William Hamm of St. Paul, is now the pursuer instead of the pursued. Last week a group of kidnapers were paid $100,000 to release him. This week it will probably take a good deal more than $100,000 to gain the release of the kidnapers—considering always, of course, that they are caught.

William Hamm is a brewer. He earns his living that way. Kidnapers are kidnapers. They earn their living that way. But Mr. Hamm, no doubt, fails to view the situation in any such philosophical light. True, his lodging and his board were furnished him, and the kidnapers doubtless went to lots of trouble for him. But $100,000 is $100,000, and he never asked their attentions anyway.

Consequently the hunt is on; and the hounds are out. With millions of dollars against them, the kidnapers are placed in an uncomfortable position. Each succeeding 24 hours can bring them only trouble. A one-way ticket to a single cot and barred windows is almost inevitable.

Even kidnapers, it seems, are not infallible. So long as they preyed on poor John Citizen, there was little hue and cry, and their business flourished. But like most mortals, they became ambitious. Chicken feed became mere chicken feed. They were out for big money—and instead they got big trouble.

The Denver Boettcher case became the first outstanding example. The Hamm case bids fair to be the next. And the whole presents an encouraging light. Law may be made and broken, but public opinion backed by actual strength is something that even kidnapers learn to fear.

The Elephant's Tail

VARIOUS have been the epithets flung in the face of youth as descriptive of its weaknesses and peculiarities. Most of these are charred and burned out words.

The task of youth, which is that of self-expression, is the most difficult and dangerous one in the world—difficult because there is no accurate instrument by which to measure true self-expression; dangerous because the self expressed may not be a whole self but a spectacular fragment of it.

Such a fragment, revealing itself to the stern eyes of the old-fashioned moralists, is the signal for referring to the wanton, flagitious actions of the younger generation. That part of the self expressed may be merely a parrot, a sex element, a too grasping ambition, seized upon by the clairvoyant clerics and recklessly selected to masquerade as an individual or even a generation.

In the warmth of a momentary passion, for money, for clothes, other and more lasting elements may be submerged with a complete insouciance which is the result of a mood.

And the new generation has often been called a damned generation because it is self-indulgent rather than self-repressive, cynical instead of optimistic. This attitude crowds on the heels of the doctrine of the supremacy of individual desire which permits the despotic rule of self. Doubtless there is a certain gallantry in the candid display of individualism.

To achieve a near-accuracy, any indictment against modern youth should be preceded by some consideration of its brief past, fleeting present and visionary future. Treating of the present only, results in a description like that of the blind man who described an elephant as "very like a rope" simply because he had chanced to grasp the swinging tail.

Lincoln, Neb., is demonstrating that a vacant lot need not of necessity be an idle one. A plan to turn over all such property to the unemployed for gardening purposes met with such response that at present approximately 100 acres are under cultivation and scores of families are clamoring for additional ground. Possibly the city recreation director, who evolved the idea, was able to make a game out of it; or he may have called to his assistance those unsung literary geniuses who write so alluringly of the pleasures and profits of gardening in the seed catalogues.

If the idea of the Philadelphia interior decorator who suggests that the up-to-date woman must have wall paper to match the prevailing color of her dresses, is carried out, it will mean a plethora of pasting for paper-hangers. And a dearth of designing for dress-makers.

While the rest of the world worries about the outcome of the London Economic conference and other troubles, Finland fights beneath a cloud of smoke that overhangs the entire country.

Forest fires, aided by a protracted drought, are raging over a long stretch of the Finno-Russian frontier, extending into many centers of Russian Karelia, where huge fires have been burning for several weeks completely out of control. Other fires are booming merrily over widespread areas elsewhere in Finland, covering the nation with a smoky pall.

While Finland and Russia battled forest fires yesterday, two navy flyers continued their search for Jimmie Mattern, globe-circling solo pilot who has been missing for six days. No reports were available late yesterday from the old troop ship "Argonne" from which the navy men are working, but it appeared likely that Mattern, whose projected record flight around the world was balked by hard luck almost from the start, was down somewhere in the Bering sea and would not be found alive.

All of which will bring up once again the perennial argument concerning the value of ocean hopping flights which are attempted for no good scientific purpose. Tragic as is the loss of any man in such an heroic attempt, one is not inclined to waste much sympathy on anyone but Mattern's relatives.

Perhaps the most effective way such circus stunts could be ended would be for the government to serve notice that the searching services of the navy would not be available unless the flight had been sanctioned by the navy department as a worthwhile experiment.

This would certainly be no more than reasonable. Mattern started on his hop with the expectation of making money and winning a certain degree of fame. Had he been successful it is certain that none of the flight's benefits, economic or otherwise, would have been enjoyed by the public. Yet it is the public that pays for the services of the "Argonne" and the airplane searching party. The public, as usual, is put "on the spot."

Word from Washington yesterday indicated that the industrial control scheme is rapidly getting under way, with the nation's 10 major industries busily at work on codes of fair competition to be presented to Administrator Hugh S. Johnson for his approval.

Many industries, notably textiles and oil, already have completed their codes. Hearings on the textile agreement will be held in Washington June 27. It provides for a minimum wage in the neighborhood of $10 which, in comparison with the pay now received by textile workers, is a small fortune. Other provisions call for a maximum 40 hour week, with the intention of spreading employment as widely as possible.

Many commercial journals are violently opposed to the entire scheme of the Roosevelt administration, while others look upon it as the only sane course to follow. Socialistic publications, such as the "Nation," predict its ultimate failure. It will prove, they think, that Capitalism is through for good and that it is useless to attempt a synthetic mixture in the form of state capitalism. Whatever the outcome, the next few years promise to be about the most interesting of the century.

Keeping Up With the New Books

By JOHN SELBY

"The Best Short Stories, 1933," edited by Edward J. O'Brien; (Houghton, Mifflin Company, Boston). NEW YORK—There is nothing new in a collection of short stories by Edward J. O'Brien; he has been studying them and assembling the good ones for a long time. But in the stories themselves there is a good deal new for one who has not followed the development of the short story form closely. The present collection, published today, contains samples from 29 writers. Not many of them are chosen from the so-called "machine-made" magazines; most, indeed, are from "Story," which is commercially among the least important American magazines, and among the youngest as well, at least in so far as its residence in this country counts. Mr. O'Brien's introduction traces the beginning of true American short story writing from Sherman Anderson and Ernest Hemingway, and however one may feel about the writing of those two individuals,

BEHIND THE SCENES - IN HOLLYWOOD

By HARRISON CARROLL. STUDIO GOSSIP. FILM SCANDAL. SCREEN COMMENT.

HOLLYWOOD—Another Broadway bright light will shine in Hollywood. Samuel Goldwyn has just signed Ruth Etting, popular singer and the White Way, to come out here and play opposite Eddie Cantor in "Roman Scandals." In her first full length talkie assignment, Miss Etting will portray a captive princess, but will sing torch songs. The leading woman part is being re-written and enlarged to fit her personality and tune-smiths Al Dubin and Harry Warren are hard at work on some numbers for her. Providing the Ziegfeldian Mr. Goldwyn gets his show girls lined up, and William Anthony McGuire is able to put the script into shape, the new Cantor offering should get into production early in July. It's to be a musical, like Eddies' other pictures, but, will have no dancing lines of girls. Each cutie will have a bit and will hold the screen for the time she appears on it. There also are to be none of those over-head and angle shots of the dance numbers. What does that leave? Well, Busby Berkeley is directing the dances, and he says "plenty."

It could happen only in Hollywood. The other day a certain studio head got in an argument with a subordinate and ended up by firing him. An assistant with more courage than most objected to the step. He said that the discharged fellow did the work of three men and that the studio literally would have to hire them if the edict held good. He argued so long and loud that the boss finally threw up his hands. "All right!" he exclaimed. "But I shan't speak to him for 90 days!"

HOLLYWOOD PARADE Though Eleanor Holm has appeared in several Warner talkies, she did it under another name. The reason—it now comes out—was this: Warner's agreed to jump her salary $500 a week as soon as they billed her as Eleanor Holm. For experience, she did one of the marathon dancers in "Hard to Handle" and a cigar counter girl in another picture. Within the last few weeks, that clause in her contract has been compromised, so she may get a good part at last. In fact, they've tested her for a role in "Wild Boys of the Road."

Did You Know— That Edward G. Robinson made his stage debut at the age of 14, playing an 80 year old man? That Onslow Stevens, Marlon Davies' leading man in "Peg O' My Heart," saw service with the U. S. Army in China when he was only 14 years old?

Home Economics Students, Staff Will Attend Meetings

Milwaukee Is Scene of National Parleys This Week

Staff members and students of the home economics department will go to Milwaukee this week end and the early part of next week for the annual meeting of the American Home Economics association, to be held Monday to Friday, and for the national convocation of Omicron Nu, national home economics honor society.

Those attending the home economics convention will be Prof. Frances Zull, head of the home economics department of this university, who will leave tomorrow afternoon for Milwaukee. She will speak at the student club section and at the extension section. As president she will preside over the business meetings and the general assemblies, Agnes Donham of Boston, controller of the American Home Economics association and professor at Simmons college, who arrived on this campus yesterday, will go with Professor Zull to the conference.

Staff Members
Members of the staff who will attend are Edna Hill and Alice Brigham who will be at the convention Tuesday and Wednesday. The summer school students who will attend next Tuesday are: Grace Steadly, Helen Kucera, Mary Campbell, Clara Garrison, and Rose Hanson who will drive up.

Two car loads consisting of 11 delegates from the Home Economics club will drive up on Sunday, and will return by way of Chicago and the Century of Progress. These representatives are: Florence Warren, Virginia Hintz, Grace Corney, Eleanor Mikulosek, Grace Greenfield, Bernice Burns, Marguerite Stevens, Esther Belle Moore, Theresa Christensen, Mabel Stromsten, and Phoebe Benson.

Dinner
On Tuesday at 6 p.m. there will be a dinner for graduates of the home economics department of the University of Iowa. Josephine Staab, who teaches in White Fish Bay schools, is chairman for the dinner. Other girls teaching in Wisconsin are acting as hostesses.

The national convocation of Omicron Nu, which will meet in Milwaukee tomorrow and Saturday will be attended by Prof. Mate Giddings of the home economics department, who is national secretary of the society. She will leave today. Phoebe Benson is the student delegate.

No longer will mothers in humor magazines need to show their children the Venus de Milo as an example of what will happen if they continue to suck their thumbs. An exhibit of plaster casts on the second floor of the dental building, in connection with the conference on child development and parent education, shows the results of that naughty habit, as well as "mouth breathing," "lip and tongue habit," and thrusting forward the lower jaw.

Another section of the exhibit shows experiments in nutrition, books suitable for children 2 years old and up, and handiwork and drawing of pre-school and elementary school pupils, some of it by children only 2 or 3 years of age.

Carleton Washburn, superintendent of the public schools at Winnetka, Ill., a speaker at the conference, traveled around the world some time ago, to study educational systems in England, France, Germany, Italy, and other countries, in experimenting with progressive education.

While on this trip he had the unique experience of interviewing Professor Einstein, Germany's famous physicist, and Gandhi—a somewhat unusual combination.

In the columns of The Daily Iowan it was erroneously stated yesterday that classes will resume at 8 a.m. July 5, following the holiday. For those who have classes at that early hour, the time should have been 7 a.m. Classes will then continue through Saturday, July 8.

For many weeks before the flight, he trains himself to sleep at irregular hours, snatching a half-hour at any time of the day or night. Flyers claim that the faculty of catnapping can be developed to such a degree that a pilot can drop off to sleep after setting his controls and will wake up the instant the plane deviates from that course, or behaves in any manner other than the way she should behave.

Fewer Landings
Although Post plans to follow the route of his previous globe-circling flight, he will do so this time with fewer stops. According to his present schedule, the first stop will be at Berlin, where he will snatch a nap and get a meal under his belt while his plane is being refueled. Moscow is his next goal, whence he will make the hazardous trip across Siberia, the stretch that shattered Mattern's hopes of bettering the Winnie Mae record.

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the fourth of a series of personality sketches on members of the United States Ryder Cup golf team.)

By PAUL MICKELSON (Associated Press Sports Writer) CHICAGO (AP)—When Olin Dutra, the towering Spanish senior from Santa Monica, Cal., first took up golf seriously as a caddy...

His club was five miles away so he picked up the biggest golf stick he could find—he says it was like a wagon tongue—and swung it every few steps all the way, coming and going.

American golf professionals were convinced Dutra was waving a magic wand last summer as he stepped out of the ranks of the average golfers to blaze a par-breaking trail seldom, if ever, equaled.

Opening his championship rush in New York he clubbed out the amazing record of 516 holes in 29 shots under par as he captured the Metropolitan, North Shore, National Professional, and Southern California open championships...

Ed Wells Goes Route Against Ex-Mates But Loses

ST. LOUIS, June 21 (AP)—Carried 13 innings by the St. Louis Browns' stubborn defense, the New York Yankees today won the opener of a five game series, 5 to 3, and maintained their one game lead in the American league.

Seventeenth for Gehrig Lou Gehrig hit his seventeenth home run of the season in the seventh inning and Lazzeri connected with his eleventh circuit blow in the twelfth but it required a double by Combs, following hits by Byrd and Sewell, to put over the winning runs.

Browns Tie Count

The Browns tied the count in the fifth on a home run by Mervin Shea, knotted the score again in the eighth on three hits and sent the game into the thirteenth inning by scoring one run in the twelfth after Lazzeri had put the Yankees in front.

Ed Wells went the route against his former teammates while Van Atta and Moore divided the Yankees pitching assignment, the latter receiving credit for the victory.

Indians Batter A's for 11-1 Win

Fourth of July Contest Entrants Will Have Pictures Shown

"Pretty as a picture" will be a reality. Portrait size pictures of the girls entered in the bathing beauty contest for the Fourth of July celebration being sponsored by the Junior Chamber of Commerce will be displayed in Iowa City store windows.

All expenses for the photographs, which will be 8x10 inches, will be paid by the Junior Chamber. Special arrangements have been made with the Anderson studio, 24 1-2 S. Clinton street, to have pictures taken of each of the contestants.

The contest is open to all girls in eastern Iowa between the ages of 16 and 35. Entries should be made at the Stewart Shoe store with Les Moore, chairman, at the Big Dipper at the city park, or at the pool at West Liberty. There is no fee for entry or for the picture.

A loving cup will be presented to the winner who will be chosen by a group of judges not connected with the Junior Chamber. Four make-up boxes will be given to the four next high girls. The winner will reign as queen over the celebration and the four girls will serve as attendants.

Ministers at Anniversary Celebration

The Rev. Harry D. Henry and the Rev. Glen McMichael, ministers of the Methodist Episcopal church, are attending the one hundredth anniversary of the founding of the Methodist church in Iowa today.

The historical pageant of the last century will be presented by the churches of Dubuque during the meeting of the annual conference of the Upper Iowa churches. Delegates from 250 churches will attend the sessions in Dubuque which will be presided over by Bishop Frederick D. Leete of Omaha. He will make appointments of the ministers for the next year.

The Rev. Mr. Henry and the Rev. Mr. McMichael will return to Iowa City Saturday afternoon to direct the worship and schools Sunday.

The annual meeting of the Methodist church just completed, showed the largest growth in membership in recent years. Officers and leaders of the 20 departments of the church schools, Epworth leagues, clubs and boards were appointed for the next year at the meeting.

At the quarterly meeting of the official board last week the members voted unanimously for the return of the Rev. Mr. Henry for the next year.

Could U. S. Be Self-Sufficient?

More Easily Than Most Other Nations, Experts Say, Since Necessary Imports Are Few

By FRANK I. WELLER (Associated Press Farm Editor) WASHINGTON (AP)—Following are the principal imports of this country, and their origin, for 1932:

ARTICLE	VALUE	ORIGIN
Coffee	$137,000,000	Brazil, Colombia
Silk	114,000,000	Japan, China, Italy
Cane sugar	97,000,000	Cuba, Philippine Islands
Paper and its products	84,000,000	Canada, Newfoundland, Labrador
Petroleum and its products	61,000,000	Netherlands West Indies, Colombia, Venezuela, Mexico
Paper base stock	54,000,000	Canada, Sweden
Chemicals and related products	48,000,000	Germany, Chile, the Netherlands
Fruits and nuts	44,000,000	Central America, Spain, British West Indies
Crude rubber	33,000,000	British Malaya, Dutch East Indies
Vegetable oils	29,000,000	Philippine Islands, Italy, Dutch East Indies

Washington has developed some highly authoritative opinion that just such a situation quite easily could result if the world economic and monetary conference in London should end in failure. A foundation, experts say, has been laid in countervailing duties, import and export restrictions, quotas and embargoes and competitive depreciation of currency.

In the event of world-wide nationalism, states Assistant Secretary Rexford Tugwell of the department of agriculture, the United States, with its great range of productive resources, would be in a better situation than almost any other nation to fall back and carry economic nationalism to its logical conclusion.

Self-Sufficiency Preferred

At the department of commerce it was said such a course might be best for this country if international chaos were to continue 10 or even five years longer.

While the results would not approximate those anticipated if the London conference frees world markets, it was said, it would be better for this country to suffer the consequences of "going national" than those of continuing the present struggle.

In no event, experts explained, would economic nationalism mean an absolute embargo on all products. Certain things always would be imported under any condition.

Necessary Imports

In final analysis the only articles the United States positively must import and their source of origin are:

1. Rubber—British Malaya, Dutch East Indies.
2. Tin—British Malaya, United Kingdom.
3. Platinum—Colombia, United Kingdom, Russia.

Articles which this country cannot produce or substitute for, but which are considered only semi-necessary, are:

1. Coffee—Brazil, Colombia.
2. Tea—British East Indies, United Kingdom, Japan.
3. Cocoa—British West Africa, Brazil, West Indies.
4. Camphor (natural)—Japan.
5. Cork and manufactures—Portugal, Spain.
6. Cloves—British East Africa.
7. Pepper—Dutch East Indies, British Malaya.

Warren First in Calf Judging

Johnson County Club Judges Holsteins on 10 Farms

Martin Warren, getting 470 points out of a possible 500, won first place in the livestock judging contest held this week in connection with the annual Johnson County Dairy Calf club tour, County Agent S. Lysle Duncan announced yesterday.

Other winners and their scores are: Dale Williams, 455, second; Edward Carson, 450, third; Edwin Brees, 440, fourth; Harold Weber, 425, fifth; and Howard Fountain, 420, sixth.

The annual tour was held Monday with about 45 club members visiting 10 representative farms on which dairy calves were on feed. The club members judged classes of Holstein cows and heifers, Guernsey heifers, and a class of two-year-old Jersey heifers.

Ernest Wright of the Iowa State Dairy association was with the tour. The members discussed summer management problems, feeding, and problems relative to the showing the stock at the 4-H clubs this summer. While at the George Black farm west of Iowa City, the group inspected the soil erosion work being done there by the civilian conservation corps.

Gas Rate Cut Will Save Sioux Falls $100,000 Annually

SIoux FALLS, S. D., June 21 (AP)—An agreement on a new rate schedule which a city official estimated would save users $100,000 a year was reached here today between the city commission and the Sioux Falls Gas company.

Small consumers will obtain the greatest benefit from the agreement which culminates five months of negotiations. Commissioner Ellis O. Smith made the estimate of the saving.

The new scale reduces the cost of the first 1,000 cubic feet from $2.40 to $1.90. It was estimated that 82 per cent of local consumers use fewer than 1,000 cubic feet of gas a month. The agreement will go into effect on the May bills.

Valentine Case Will Continue Today With Witness Examination

Examination of witnesses will be continued tomorrow in the case of the state of Iowa against Dennis Valentine, charged with failure to report an accident.

The jury was impaneled yesterday morning. They are: Robert Vogt, Everett Hopp, Charles Pechous, George Kuebrich, Maude K. Coast, Isabel C. Sturm, Lillian Uleh, James Slemmons, George Cole, Jr., Bessie Nuezi, Tom Taylor, and Frank U. Cole.

E. A. Baldwin is defending Valentine. County Attorney F. B. Olsen is prosecuting for the state. District Judge Harold D. Evans is presiding.

STATE VOTE Piles Up Lead for Wets

leaders maintained that it did not definitely forecast national repeal, holding to the hope that the repeal movement will strike a stumbling block in the southern states, which are yet to vote on the question.

This was the view of Dr. J. W. Graves, executive secretary of the All-Iowa Prohibition Emergency committee, who expressed belief that the "administration whip may not be sharp enough to keep the southern states in line with others for repeal."

Mrs. Boole Disappointed

In New York Mrs. Ella A. Boole, national president of the Women's Christian Temperance union, expressed keen disappointment at the Iowa result, but declared she did not believe the "sentiment in the state's rural districts has changed."

"It was the vote of the cities, especially along the Mississippi river and along the western border," she said. "Of course I'm sorry." The total vote of 627,218 set a new high mark for a special election in Iowa, topping the anticipated total by about 125,000 votes. Voting during much of the day was light but a last-minute rush to the polls last night boosted the state total materially.

Southern Tier

The southern tier of counties were represented heavily in the list of the 38 with majorities opposing repeal. The dry cause was upheld by majorities in inland counties, particularly in the southern half of the state. Repeal carried almost all of the Mississippi river counties, Louisa being the only one of them to step out of line. The result in Louisa, on the basis of the complete returns, gave the dries an edge of 117 votes, of 1,584 to 1,701.

Western counties above the first two southern tiers also were almost solidly in the repeal column. Heavy repeal majorities also were rolled up in the counties with large cities, among them Polk, Woodbury and Linn.

38 Dry Counties

The 38 counties in the dry list included Adair, Adams, Appanoose, Cass, Clarke, Dallas, Davis, Decatur, Dickinson, Emmet, Fremont, Greene, Guthrie, Hamilton, Hardin, Henry, Jasper, Jefferson, Louisa, Lucas, Madison, Marion, Mahaska, Marshall, Mills, Montgomery, Page, Pottawattamie, Story, Taylor, Union, Van Buren, Warren, Washington, Wayne, Winnebago, Worth and Wright.

Pottawattamie county, for which returns were completed today, voted two to one for repeal, the 53 precincts giving 7,842 for repeal to 2,507 against.

Sheep Prices Higher in Iowa City Market; Better Quality Lambs

Two hundred and seventy-two sheep of 21 Johnson county farmers in the graded pool were sold here Tuesday by E. L. Hegg, manager of the Farmers Livestock Marketing association.

The pool was purchased by the Sinclair Packing company of Cedar Rapids on the graded basis. Sixteen of the sheep grades prime, 149 good and choice, 33 medium, five fat bucks, 16 common or cull, and 53 miscellaneous.

Civic Organizations of Iowa City Visit Galesburg Plants

Members of the city council, the city planning commission, the city engineer, and the Chamber of Commerce sewage disposal plant project committee will be in Galesburg, Ill., today to inspect the disposal plant and the treatment of the city river there.

It is expected that some ideas may be obtained in regard to the erection of a disposal plant in Iowa City and suggestions as to the treatment of Ralston creek. Both the city council and Chamber of Commerce have approved the projects and are investigating the advisability of doing the work under the terms of the federal public works recovery measure, through which 30 per cent of the cost of the projects could be obtained from the national government as an outright gift.

Schedule Repeal Convention

CONCORD, N. H., (AP)—New Hampshire's 10 repeal delegates chosen in yesterday's special election will meet at the state house July 11 to ratify the amendment repealing prohibition.
