S. U. I. Hospital Adopts Quota System for Care of Indigent Patients

Change Made Necessary by Sliced Budget

Population Percentage Will Determine Allotments

Orders to place the indigent patient service at the university hospitals on a strictly quota basis were nearing execution yesterday with word from Robert E. Neff, administrator of the hospitals, announcing methods by which the allotments per county will be made.

The quota plan, made necessary by the $100,000 cut in hospital appropriations, will be based on the percentage of population each county bears to that of the state. The percentage will be the county's share of the estimated total indigent admissions for the fiscal year.

Explained by Neff

The system, ordered originally by the state board of education, has been explained to county officials and others in a letter sent by Neff. It has been recommended that officials give preferential attention to patients who will be most benefited by hospital treatment.

Each month, a report will be issued to county clerks indicating the available service allocated to that county as well as the amount of service rendered to date. Mr. Neff said in his letter.

"Fairness"

"While it is realized that the quota plan cannot be enforced with mathematical certainty, the efforts to observe the equitable apportionment of the benefits of the university hospitals to the various counties, even with some small variations from year to year, will do much toward attaining the desirable end of fairness in the distribution of its benefits," the letter said.

Dr. John T. McClintock, junior dean and chairman of the college of medicine's executive committee, sent a similar letter to all Iowa physicians. He requested continuance of their consideration "in referring those types of cases which are most necessary from the teaching standpoint and most in need of the kind of service rendered by the university hospitals."

Unemployment Bureau Puts Five on Airport Work

Five men have been put to work by the American Legion Unemployment bureau at the city airport working on roads and trimming trees. Five more men will be put to work at the park tomorrow. It was possible to put the men to work from the proceeds from the Fourth of July celebration which were turned over to the unemployment fund by the Junior Chamber of Commerce.

Mrs. H. W. Chebeck, secretary, said yesterday that there have been more new enrollments in the last week than there have been for the last two months.

Chairman Charles Kennett and Financial Chairman D. W. Crum report a balance on hand July 29, of $27.69 with disbursements of $12 for secretary's salary. There were no receipts.

Wheat Growers to Plan Organization

A committee composed of Johnson county wheat growers will meet at 8 o'clock tonight at the Farm bureau office to make plans for a temporary organization of a Johnson County Wheat Growers association.

Plans for a local organization and the workings of the wheat allotment plan will be discussed at the meeting. A series of meetings for all growers in this vicinity will probably be arranged.

Discuss Improvements

DES MOINES (AP)—Lieut. Governor Kraschel met with Des Moines councilmen to discuss $750,000 in public improvements which the city hopes to complete with federal aid. Kraschel is state public works administrator.

United State Navy Plane Makes Short Stop at Local Port

A United States navy plane piloted by Lieut. Edgar Neale and Lieut. E. E. Flickling landed at the local airport yesterday at 1 p. m. The flyers took off for Omaha, the next stop at 1:45.

The plane, a gray scouting model, was fully equipped for bombing and accessories for landing on decks of U. S. navy vessels. It had been overhauled at the naval air station at Norfolk, Va., and was enroute to the air station at Santiago, Cal., where it will join the U. S. fleet.

Pilots Neale and Flickling had flown from Chicago to Iowa City in one hour and 45 minutes. Both wore regulation navy parachutes.

Whiskers, Guns, Indians, Gambling, Bars--Thus Deadwood Celebrates

DEADWOOD, S. Dak., Aug. 3 (AP)—Hordes of bewhiskered strangers, pistols strapped to their belts, and women clad in the old-fashioned billowing garb of a half century ago, trod the streets of Deadwood tonight with blue-uniformed cavalrymen and warbedecked Sioux Indians.

Gambling dens, dance halls and an old-time saloon ran full blast. Chips clicked at chuck-a-luck, faro and poker tables, dance hall girls flirted with bearded miners, and an old-time bartender did his best to minister to parched throats.

And it was all within the law, for Deadwood has flipped back the calendar 67 years to the colorful "days of '76" and the early gold rush to the Black Hills when this one-time frontier town teemed with the raw, blustering life of the pioneer, the prospector and the gambler.

Whiskers were everywhere in evidence as virtually the entire male population shunned barber shops for weeks in preparation for the pageant. And the results were varied. There were the neat sideburns of the "dandy" and the flowing moustache of the goatee of a territorial judge or a horseback-riding doctor. But chiefly there was the full, bushy foliage of that familiar figure of '76—the placer miner or prospector.

Women, too, played their stylish

Olson May Be Envoy to Soviet

Minnesota Governor Is Reported as Being Favored for Post

ST. PAUL, Aug. 3 (AP)—State Democratic chiefs recently returned from Washington and the St. Paul Dispatch said today Governor Floyd B. Olson was under President Roosevelt's consideration as ambassador to Russia if the United States recognizes that nation.

While Democratic leaders declined use of their names and withheld further comment, the dispatch said that Governor Olson, a Farmer-Laborite and the only third party governor in the United States, asserted he had not been offered the post but would accept if an offer came.

He termed non-recognition of Russia "a colossal blunder."

Asked in Chicago today about the report, Governor Olson said there was nothing to it. He represented the president in speaking at Italian day ceremonies at a Century of Progress exposition and likened him to Christopher Columbus, saying both challenged existing thought and conditions of their days and both looked into the future.

From Chicago Governor Olson will go to Washington to confer with President Roosevelt and others. He said before leaving here last night he planned to discuss the public works program.

Iowa Legislature's Special Session May Be Delayed a Month

DES MOINES, Aug. 3 (AP)—Postponement of the date of convening the special session of the state legislature until November 15 was indicated as a possibility by Governor Herring today.

The date of opening the session had been set for about Sept. 15, but the governor declared today that a delay may be necessary to determine the constitutionality of the proposed liquor control legislation if it should be enacted prior to the ratification of the twenty-first amendment repealing the eighteenth amendment.

By delaying the date of opening the session, he said, it might be possible to postpone consideration of the legislation until after it has been determined whether the proposed amendment will be ratified. The governor requested an opinion from the office of the attorney general concerning the constitutionality of the legislation.

Legion Gets Battle Orders

HYDE PARK, N. Y., Aug. 3 (AP)—The American Legion rallied behind President Roosevelt, the commander-in-chief, tonight to fight the economic war of 1933.

Louis Johnson, national commander of the legion, made public through the president "battle orders" summoning 10,760 posts into immediate mobilization for the "Argonne of 1933."

President Roosevelt, in a special message in reply, said:

"I have just received your battle order. I have a supreme faith that the loyalty of the legionnaires will manifest itself in this crisis just as it did a decade and a half ago."

So tonight, the warriors of 1918 for Uncle Sam were reassembling for "a fight to give an honest job with an honest living wage to every bread-winner who wants to work."

The American Legion war-cry sounded the loudest of any so far in the all-American offense against the depression and Mr. Roosevelt was quick to welcome it.

Reports Tax Collections

DES MOINES (AP)—State Treasurer Wegman reported that gasoline tax collections for the first seven months of the year totaled $5,744,205, a decrease of $397,350 from the same period in 1932.

Rehearing Granted

KEOKUK (AP)—Request for a rehearing was granted Hegie Smith, who was returned here after commencing a two year sentence in Fort Madison. He had pleaded guilty to leaving the scene of an auto accident.

NRA Heads Seek to Help Rails, Mines

Attempt to Bring Two Basic Industries Under Codes

WASHINGTON, Aug. 3 (AP)—With half of the nation's workers estimated by recovery administration officials already to have been affected by the new industrial program, their efforts today were directed toward bringing railroads and coal mines, two of the basic industries, within the scope of the wage-hoisting-hour shearing endeavor.

Joseph B. Eastman, federal coordinator of transportation, synchronized his efforts with those of Hugh S. Johnson, the recovery administrator, by telegraphing the heads of all big railroads to "spend every available dollar in putting men back to work."

Earlier in the day, Eastman added 19 more division and research assistants to his staff to work out recovery and other problems with the carriers. He also announced the salaries in his emergency setup for technical men and assistants would range from $4,200 to $15,000, the latter being almost twice as much as his own.

Show Gains

Figures announced by the interstate commerce commission today showed the railroads were employing 938,406 men during May, the month below which the railroad coordinator said the roads may not go in cutting down personnel. This was a gain over April and March, but a reduction of 126,753 under May a year ago.

Johnson, meanwhile, conferred with conflicting elements in Pennsylvania's coal strike, seeking to end the dispute.

Officials taking stock of the progress already made by the recovery administration indicated a belief that the movement to restore purchasing power had gone beyond either the expectations of the administration or the knowledge of the public.

5,000,000 Affected

Pointing out that more than 5,000,000 workers were affected by the temporary code prescribed for retail stores and food dealers, the unofficial estimate was made that the half-year point had been reached in the attempt to bring all wage earners under the industrial recovery act.

Other developments today included:

Clearing of the way, through a formal interpretation for big employers of labor under contract, including newspapers, to obtain the N.R.A.'s official insignia without altering existing wage and hour terms, so long as they comply otherwise.

Shipbuilding Contracts

Award of millions of dollars worth of shipbuilding by the navy to shipyards which will operate under a 32 hour week code intended to take care of all unemployment among ship workers.

Eastman, the rail coordinator, in his message to the railroad presidents, estimated that 40,000 men had been returned to work since June 1 on the carriers but he added that this was not sufficient.

Restaurant Owners Reach Agreement

Iowa City restaurant owners, meeting for the third time in the last week, agreed to a definite plan of action last night when 24 representatives signified their intention to have a working code by not later than Sept. 1.

The agreement stressed the desire of the restaurant men to cooperate fully with the president's program, and promised agreement either to the National Restaurant association code or to some other having the national administration's approval. It had been drawn up by a previously appointed committee of five. The five were Roland Smith, Cass Youde, Jake Kobes, Jess Taylor, and Nel E. Harris.

Text of the agreement follows:

"We the undersigned restaurant operators in the city of Iowa City in the furtherance of some proposed plan to aid and cooperate in the carrying out of the president's wishes in fixing a code authorized under the national industrial recovery act, do hereby express our fullest desire to comply with any plan which may be

2,000 Estimated to Have Obtained Employment During Last Week

(By The Associated Press)

An estimated 2,000 Iowa persons have secured employment during the last week with the inauguration of the national industrial recovery act in Iowa and the compliance of employers with its provisions for shorter hours of work and higher pay for employees.

Fifteen Iowa cities reported today the estimates of Chambers of Commerce and recovery committee officials as placing the figure at 1,765 new jobs actually created. Many refused to estimate but declared that many new jobs had been created and that a generally optimistic attitude was in evidence toward the code and its accomplishments thus far.

J. C. Lewis, president of the State Federation of Labor, in a telegram today to Administrator Hugh S. Johnson at Washington, declared the Iowa Restaurant Employers association had decided against signing the blanket pledge agreement and the displaying of NRA insignia. Restaurant employers who had signed the agreement are complying with demands that they remove the insignia, he declared.

Reports from Iowa cities today included:

DES MOINES—Postmaster Frisk reported that 2,034 Des Moines employers had signed the pledges agreeing to abide by terms of the national code. These employers control approximately 20,000 workers, he said.

SIU CITY—A total of 646 employers have signed pledge agreements, placing 11,625 men and women under provisions of the code.

CLINTON—A survey by the Clinton Herald showed that 350 persons have secured employment or will be called to work this week, not including 60 men recalled to the Northwest railroad shops. It was estimated that 4,000 workers benefited through the signing of pledges by 316 employers.

Roll of Honor

The following list of 131 merchants is the first NRA list of honor. It was received by Postmaster Charles A. Bowman from the Chicago office of the department of commerce and is posted on the south bulletin board of the post office lobby.

Names will be added to the list from time to time as received by Postmaster Bowman from Chicago. Many merchants have sent in their agreements who are not included in the first list and others have signified their intention of coming under the code as soon as their own trade code is approved.

The Stewart Shoe company was the first local merchant to agree to the provisions of the blanket code.

Weather Man Lets Up on Iowa Citizens

Iowa Citizens enjoyed cool weather yesterday for the first time in about two weeks with the highest temperature for the day being 75 degrees. Low temperature Wednesday night was 60 degrees with the mercury going to the 62 degree mark by 7 a. m. yesterday.

After going to a high of 75 degrees the mercury dropped to the 64 degree mark by 7 p. m., according to Prof. John F. Reilly, official observer.

Two Dead, Several Missing in Twisted Debris Left by Cloudburst in Western City

Mayos Guard Against Fear of Kidnapers

DENVER, Aug. 3 (AP)—A cloudburst that ripped apart Castlewood dam roared down on Denver today and left in its wake at least two persons dead, several missing and a wallow of twisted debris.

Damages to buildings and water-soaked merchandise in Denver store basements and to property, crops, livestock, highways and railroads in outlying territory will run around $1,000,000, observers believed on the basis of preliminary surveys.

5,000 Homeless in Denver

Hundreds of persons—probably 5,000 in Denver alone—were driven from their homes.

The cloudbursts which caused the irrigation dam to crack and give way, sending a billion gallons of water to deluge a wide area, was one of four torrential rains and five hailstorms that struck southeastern Colorado within 24 hours.

Swollen by downpours, the Arkansas river was out of its banks in southern Colorado and Denver and Rio Grande railroad tracks were washed out near the west entrance of the Royal Gorge.

Mrs. Bertha Catlin, 21, employed on a ranch near Franktown, four miles below Castlewood dam, was thrown from her horse and drowned in a swirling creek.

Tom Casey, 80, was found drowned in a deep hole in the rear of a Denver residence.

Miners Missing

Miners who had been panning gold beneath the Castlewood dam were reported missing.

Mrs. Claude Hill, 50, the mother of seven children, was drowned late yesterday in a rainstorm near Mateoson.

When the torrents descended upon Denver today an 11-foot wall of water carrying tons of trees, lumber and wreckage down Cherry creek ripped out six bridges in rapid succession and flooded the fashionable residential section. The creek cuts diagonally through the city.

Police Charge Victim With 'Abducting' Self

ROCHESTER, Minn., Aug. 3 (AP)—Guards told by one of the distinguished Mayo brothers to "shoot first and make explanations afterward" patrolled the family estate tonight after what he believes was an attempt to kidnap one or more of his grandchildren.

Dr. Charles H. Mayo gave the order after a nursemaid said a man tried to force entry into the nursery in which slept the three children of his son, Dr. Charles W. Mayo. The children range in age from two and one-half to six years.

"Shoot First"

"In cases like this I recommend shooting first and making explanations afterward" the eminent surgeon said. He told the guards to keep their guns loaded at all times.

The nurse, Miss Marie Langseth, said she was awakened early Tuesday by the sound of an automobile approaching the young Dr. Mayo's home at Mayowood, the estate three miles from here. She believes the engine had been shut off after the car reached a nearby hill and that the car coasted into the yard.

Who's There?

Miss Langseth, who sleeps in the second floor nursery with the children, said the man walked almost noiselessly to the rear of the house and tip-toed up a rear staircase to the second floor.

Then, she said, he turned the knob of the door, which was locked. She shouted "Who's there?" and the man ran to the automobile, which sped away.

They admitted they were at a loss what to think of the case of Nathan Baskowitz, 31 year old real estate dealer known as Nat Bass, who told a story of being kidnaped Monday and released last night after he had talked his abductors out of a $25,000 ransom demand.

Shipbuilding Aids Recovery

WASHINGTON, Aug. 3 (AP)—An improvement in employment conditions throughout the nation was envisioned today by high naval officials after the task of constructing 37 war vessels had been allotted to government and private yards.

The building program, to cost nearly $300,000,000, is intended to bring the sea strength of the United States nearer to London treaty limits and to provide work for long-idle shipyards.

Contracts for 21 ships on which bids were received July 26 were awarded to private companies. The remaining 16 are to be built in government yards on the Atlantic and Pacific coast. The latter work will start in a few days.

At a press conference, Admiral W. H. Standley, chief of naval operations, said present unemployment in the shipbuilding industry would be fully taken up when the entire program gets underway. He added, however, the full effect might not be felt for six months.

16 Year Old Youth Confesses to Theft of Plymouth Sedan

Admitting that he stole the Plymouth sedan belonging to Clarence Balcom of Mason City from in front of University hospital Tuesday night, a 16 year old Iowa City youth was turned over to juvenile court last night and will probably appear before Judge Harold D. Evans today.

The boy, accompanied by a 15 year old Iowa City girl, who is on parole from the girls' reformatory at Mitchellville, was caught in the car on Kappa Sig point by Officer Ben Hauber and Night Captain Joe Dolezal at 10:45 last night.

Saying that he wanted a car so just went over to the hospital and picked one out, the boy admitted that he had torn up the dealers license cards that were on the car and stole the license plates from Prof. B. M. Woodwards car yesterday and put them on the stolen car. He contended that "he thought he'd get away with it."

Relief Committee to Bargain Only With Merchants in NRA

The Johnson County Emergency Relief committee received word yesterday from the state committee saying the county would receive RFC money for August, but that relief orders paid for with federal funds must be issued only to merchants cooperating with the provisions of the national industrial recovery act.

Lucille Bruner, Social Service secretary, said yesterday that these orders, which can be placed only with NRA merchants, are usually about $2,000 each month. There was $2,350 spent last month with Johnson county merchants.

The Governors Plea for National Police Force

THE URGENT need for a centralized police force to cope with racketeering and to protect citizens from kidnapers and other dangerous criminals was recognized by the governors' conference in session in San Francisco.

When the governors assembled there adopted a resolution calling upon President Roosevelt "to speed the organization of a national police force to cooperate with all law enforcement agencies of states and cities in stamping out crime, for the peace and security of the American people" they broke for the first time a tradition of 25 years' standing. It was the first time in the history of the conference that the governors have made a recommendation for legislation.

That tradition was a wise policy. It kept the conference free from sectional differences and petty controversies. But here for the first time the governors, representing the people of more than half the nation, recognized a problem in which sectional feeling and state boundaries must be subordinated, in which the entire country must be united.

The recent wave of kidnaping merely accentuates the need for centralization of police activities in the United States. It makes glaringly evident the obvious fact that the present system of state and municipal law enforcement is wholly inadequate to cope with the activities of modern criminals.

A long step was taken in Chicago this week toward international cooperation when the conference of American, Canadian, and European police officials organized an International World Police.

If it has become necessary to form an organization of this kind to cope with crime, how much more imperative it is that the scattered local agencies within the nation be brought together into a unified and effective system under the direction of the federal government.

How England Curbs Stock Exchange Gambling

A LESSON might be taken from Great Britain in the matter of curbing destructive speculation on the stock exchanges.

An article by John T. Flynn in Harper's magazine explains why England has never been afflicted with the ravages of gambling with the nation's business, a practice which has proved so demoralizing in the United States.

It is not to be supposed that Englishmen are free by nature of the gambling craze, but they do confine their gambling for the most part to horse races, which, though just as demoralizing to the individual, leave the fortunes of innocent working men and women unharmed.

Speculation in stocks is reduced to a minimum in England by several simple expedients. Marginal trading—the modus operandi of stock gambling—is practically nonexistent because the large British banks will not loan money directly for stock speculation and because trading without outright purchase of securities is discouraged by the procedure of the London Stock Exchange.

Immediately after the war the London exchange was operated on a strictly cash basis. Although this rule has subsequently been relaxed, many brokers still follow it voluntarily, while others limit the speculative proportion of their business. In addition to this, trading in government securities must be in cash and bank stock cannot be sold unless the registered numbers are given at the time of the sale.

To further discourage speculation, "settlement day" occurs every two weeks, when all transactions subsequent to the previous settlement day are expected to be completed. If settlement is postponed beyond this day interest charges must be paid for the carry-over.

These facts in part explain why Great Britain has never experienced orgies of stock gambling comparable to those with which we have been too well acquainted. They also serve to make more ridiculous the claims of the New York exchange officials that unrestricted stock speculation is necessary and should not be subject to regulation.

Dorado

(From the Baltimore Sun)

For the second time the Fastnet race—the "classic" of ocean racing in British waters, as the Bermuda race is here—has gone to Dorade, the beautiful fifty-two-foot American yawl which has already won so many honors in the hands of the Stephens brothers. Apparently it was an easier matter this year than in 1931, when the American entries met heavier weather than they had encountered in the whole of a none-too-easy passage across the Atlantic; but even at best the long boat out from the Isle of Wight to the Fastnet, just off Cape Clear, and the run back upon the Atlantic surges cannot be an easy job. Dorade did not lead the fleet this time, but she won on time allowance. She has come to take such things in her stride. The north Atlantic is nothing to her; she made a wonderful passage out in the Atlantic race of 1931, and this year she was only 23 days from New York to Norway, weathering two or three full gales on the way.

Thus does American small-boat seamanship spread the glory of the fowl anchor ensign. (And are we not, by the way, the only nation which possesses a specific yachting ensign?) This ocean racing, however, has ceased to be a national affair; the adventurous British captains come over for our events as easily as our people cruise to Europe. Capt. Robert Somerset, who led home the Fastnet fleet this year in the Flame, is the same man who in the Jolie Brise abandoned the Bermuda race at its outset last year, in order to effect his gallant rescue of the crew of the burning Adriana. The doughty Royal Engineers, like the Stephens brothers, seem to show up in every ocean race, no matter how big the ocean that has to be crossed to get to it. The ships which these modern captains use are about the size of the smaller ships in the fleets with which the fifteenth and sixteenth century discoverers first braved the great deeps. The modern boats may be much better built and designed, much safer and more seaworthy, but the courage and competence are of the same order, and it is interesting to see the present-day navigators of Long Island Sound or the Isle of Wight venturing out, exactly as did their ancestors, little by little, until they have now come to call the oceans their own.

Newspapers and news services evidently missed one of their best stories last week when they failed to get a "story in his own words" from William E. Morris of Texas, the farmer who got the $517 cotton acreage reduction check from the hands of President Roosevelt. Not every taxpayer has the experience of getting a check from the government, let alone one from the president himself, and in payment for not working at that!

The Menominee tribe of Indians made many lesser Americans ashamed of themselves this week when they refused a $30,000 public works grant for their reservation, asking that the money be given to other more destitute tribes. That speaks for itself.

Probably Japan's new railroad in Manchuria—part of which is said to traverse barren, unproductive but militarily strategic territory will be used to take Boy Scouts for week end outings.

GOOD MORNING

The greatest venture in the life of a great industrialist has begun with the formation by Henry Ford of his industrial communities designed to decentralize industry and to give the worker his lost freedom.

The actual operation of the first unit represents the realization of the most ambitious dream of this man who has spent a lifetime dreaming ambitious dreams and making them come true.

These new communities, each of which embraces all the machinery necessary to produce, distribute, and exchange goods and services, have been organized on 20,000 acres of fertile land within a radius of 50 miles of Dearborn. The entire project has been virtually turned over to the workmen, underwritten by millions of dollars by Mr. Ford.

Decentralization of mass production is the focal point of the whole venture. It is a theory long advocated by Mr. Ford that agriculture and industry must be linked together into a common enterprise if the worker was to be released from the deadening effects of the modern factory and if the companion problems of production and distribution were to be satisfactorily solved. His answer is being written across the countryside near Dearborn and is the outcome of more than a decade of practical demonstrations.

The center of each Ford community is a modern industrial plant employing 300 or 400 workers. Wages are paid according to the minimum standard employed in all Ford plants. All these workers at the same time will have their own farms and will be able to produce most of their own supplies, using their factory pay to purchase those things not afforded by the farm.

Mass production methods, Mr. Ford explains, will not be sacrificed by this decentralization, but will be increased and developed with more speed and more efficiency. At the same time they will be spread over wide territory, giving the worker an opportunity to keep one foot on the soil and the other in the factory.

An integral part of this new plan is Mr. Ford's program for turning every agricultural surplus to some useful purpose. On this point alone his botanical and chemical experts have been at work for many years, testing, experimenting, finding uses for soy beans, corn stalks, hay, and dozens of other prosaic things.

It is easy to speculate as to the ultimate significance of this great experiment. It is certain that the lives of human zeros who struggle in smoky and grimy industrial centers are not pleasant and that the motive behind Mr. Ford's scheme is commendable. But there is something of greater import than this.

Henry Ford is a capitalist, one of the greatest of them all. He is demonstrating, as he has before, that capitalism can be a highly effective method for attaining a good society. The first requisite is to make the holding of capital conditional upon the acceptance of responsibility for its use in the interest of the labor which produced it.

Administration Opens Drive to Halt Swift Price Gains

Will Publish Lists of Prices With Wage Reports

WASHINGTON, Aug. 3 (AP)—The Roosevelt administration embarked today on a program to prevent prices to consumers of products from rising faster than the purchasing power of farmers and workers. The first move was taken by farm administrators in announcing that a weekly list of prices paid by consumers and paid to farmers, together with changes in wage levels, would be issued.

The first will come out next week under the direction of Dr. Fred C. Howe, consumers' counsel for farm administrators. It will show surveys of prices in 50 cities for about 40 food and textile products most commonly purchased.

Fact-Finding
This part of the administration program will be fact-finding and aimed to provide consumers with the most recent information available regarding changes in costs of the essentials of life.

Another part contemplates that, in instances where price increases, after allowances for differences in transportation and other costs, appear to be uniformly higher in one locality than another, investigations will be undertaken to determine whether anti-trust laws are being violated.

Administrators have conflicting reports as to price trends in connection with the recovery program. One set indicates that price rises to consumers may proceed at a much faster rate than increases in prices to farmers for their products and the rise in wage scales.

Will Cooperate
On the other hand, administrators have received the assurance of many of the large distributing organizations that the rises will not proceed at a faster rate and that a special attempt is being made by them to cooperate with the recovery program.

Howe said that "many manufacturers and distributors have declared their readiness to play fairly and squarely with the administration in its efforts."

The point which is of most concern to farm administrators, it was said, is the possibility of sharp application of the agreement terms, the forces of newspaper business offices which would be treated like those of any other business establishment.

Recovery Officials Set Out Rules for NRA Newspapers

Believe Blocks in Way of Agreement Cleared

WASHINGTON, Aug. 3 (AP)—Recovery administration officials expressed the opinion today they had sufficiently clarified the position of newspapers in relation to the president's voluntary re-employment agreement to open the way for publishers to come in without difficulty.

A ruling today permitted publishers who have contracts with their mechanical forces, arrived at by collective bargaining, to keep these in force even under the blanket agreement if the work is not open to modification. If the contracts provide for a definite number of work hours per week, 48 for instance, work may proceed on that basis. If they merely provide a rate per hour, publishers will be expected to reduce the work week to 35 hours with an upward readjustment of pay rates, though this need not necessarily bring the total weekly earnings up to the 48 hour level.

As for the child labor provision and its 7 a.m. work time limit, officials were disposed to allow latitude in the case of newsboys. They did not believe work by paper carriers before that hour would be generally harmful.

In regard to news forces the present intention of the administration was described as leaving to each publisher decision on bringing them under a work week limit. Some already have instituted a five day week or similar arrangement. Others oppose it. If publishers wish to take the stand that their reporters are professional men, it was indicated today there was little prospect the administration would feel called upon to interfere.

That left for strict, mandatory

preciation of inventories of processors and distributors of goods purchased during a period of low prices for which higher prices would be charged by the time the goods entered consumption channels.

Close Check
A close check to determine if there is a marked tendency in this direction is being made by the bureau of agricultural economics and the bureau of labor statistics, which will contribute most of the information for the weekly price lists.

"Conditions are changing so rapidly that month old figures are of little use to consumers, so we plan to report this data every week," Howe said.

"First, we will publish retail prices on bread, milk, meat and other food necessities. The field staffs of the departments of agriculture and labor will gather these figures from 50 cities and from over a thousand stores, independents, chains and specialty food shops.

Picture Price Movements
"These figures will be properly weighed and averaged so that consumers can get a picture of price movements over the country as well as of local prices.

"Second, we propose to check against these prices and show the money the farmer gets for producing the raw materials that go into these foods. Farmers have too long been getting a small return for their labor in feeding us. We are trying to increase their pay. If we want farmers to buy city-made goods at fair prices we must buy their farm products at fair prices.

"Third, we are going to report on increased labor costs as the result of the raises in wages and new employment. Wages must go up just as farmers' earnings must go up. We are going to find out how much they are rising and just how much that rise amounts to in the increased cost of foods and textiles.

"Fourth, we will report on what the farmers are having to pay for the goods they must buy. This will be an index of all kinds of commodities. It will help us measure improvements in the farmers' buying power.

"We get nowhere if we hand the farmer a few more pennies for his wheat, or cotton or corn if he has to pay them all out again for the bare necessities he has been buying."

BEHIND THE SCENES

IN HOLLYWOOD

STUDIO GOSSIP By HARRISON CARROLL
FILM SCANDAL SCREEN COMMENT

HOLLYWOOD — All Hollywood knows that Jack Gilbert wants to become a director. It has not heard until now, however, that he plans to get some practical experience by acting as honorary assistant to Kenneth MacKenna on "Walls of Gold."

Had $1,000,000 on his last contract at Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, Jack serves on his new job without pay.

He sits in with MacKenna on the preparation of the script, he reports on the set and watches the picture made step by step. By doing this, he hopes to get the director's slant in a way that was never possible when he worked before the camera.

The scene of Jack's novel apprenticeship will be the Fox Western Avenue studio—the same lot where he won his first success in "The Count of Monte Cristo," "Cameo Kirby" and other silent films.

HOLLYWOOD PARADE
Sign that the depression is over. An ambitious Beverly Hills real estate man cabled all the way to Venice, Calif., to ask the Benn W. Levy (Constance Cummings) what kind of a house they want when they come to Hollywood early in August.

Yes, it's warm on the west coast, too. The "Golden Harvest" company — Richard Arlen, Chester Morris, etc.—collectively lost nearly 500 pounds while on location up in Oregon. . . . Sylvia Sidney is back home from the hospital where surgeons performed the unusual operation of removing a stone from her salivary gland. It will be two weeks more before she is able to resume work with Maurice Chevalier in "The Way to Love."

Edmund Lowe is going to New York, but the gossips needn't try to interpret it as a separation from Lilyan Tashman. He's to do three weeks' personal appearances. Lilyan hopes to join him later in Chicago, so they can see the Fair together. . . . Unlike other film star ranch owners, Katharine Hepburn can't commute to the studio. Her newly acquired property is in Jackson, Colo. . . . When you don't like anything in London, reports Sally Ellers, you refer to it as "a crackling bore."

The country's most optimistic autograph hunter is the woman who sent Gary Grant a King of Hearts and asked him to sign his name on it. She hopes to persuade celebrities to fill out an entire bridge deck. Imagine when some actor receives the two of clubs!

And then there's that other fellow who sent Gail Patrick a toothbrush with her initials engraved in gold upon the handle.

Really, it's that hot today! I sympathize with Jack Oakie, who wishes he were in business so he could be a fired business man. . . . It is, he's just tired.

DID YOU KNOW?
That the play "Crime," produced on Broadway a few years ago, had in its cast such future screen stars as Sylvia Sidney, Chester Morris, Robert Montgomery, Kay Johnson and Kay Francis? What a story that cast would draw today!

Surprise Parties for Brides-to-Be Hold Social Spotlight

Local Women Use Many, Varied Means of Secrecy to Introduce Elements of Surprise Into Parties—Time, Place, Gifts

Miniature brides-and-bridgrooms, cunningly dressed in a wisp of tulle veil, and the conventional dark suit—tiny slippers filled with rice, wee nosegays with streaming satin ribbons, even a replica of a wedding cake are ideas for decorations for bridal showers, and clever Iowa City hostesses are taking advantage of the pictorial possibilities of pre-nuptial parties to entertain in honor of the midsummer bride.

It's quite the vogue to surprise the honoree, and local women are using many and varied means of secrecy to introduce elements of surprise into their parties, not only as to time and place, but as to the way the gifts at miscellaneous parties are wrapped and decorated.

Taking advantage of the usual bride's preoccupied days of shopping, fittings, furniture-choosing, letter-answering and party-going, friends find it easy to surprise her, and the favorite type of shower seems to be the "surprise" miscellaneous party. Mrs. Dwight A. Mathes and Bernice Jensen surprised Grace Ettinger last night at her home, 303 Fairchild street, as they entertained 11 guests in her honor.

Mrs. Vernon Coughlan, Mrs. Frank Selbach, Mrs. Joseph Wintz, Mary Moran, Florence McKinley, Lois Coughlan, Marcelle Gray, Donna Fossel, Helen Shan, Esther Glaspey, and Lore Peckman were the guests. Miss Ettinger's marriage to Dr. Charles Coughlan of the University hospital will take place soon.

A sorority house is the scene of a variety of parties as college days go by, and at midnight last night the Phi Omega Pi house echoed and re-echoed to "surprise" as the sorority sisters of Zella O'Neal of LeGrand gave a miscellaneous shower in her honor. Miss O'Neal will become the bride of Karl Benson of Iowa City Aug. 26. The ceremony is to be solemnized at LeGrand.

The guest list included: Mary Campbell of Diagonal; Agnes Murphy of Lovington, Ill.; and Ethel Stone, Josephine Cerny, Sofrona Smith, Elma Fullerton, Leola Benda, Elsie Graham, Thelma Kincaid, all of Iowa City; the sorority housemother, Mrs. Cora B. Case, and her daughter, Louise.

Queer-shaped packages daintily tied with rose and white were gifts to Mary Brecht, who is to be married August 22 to Ray Collins, as Irene Beck and Mrs. Ray Flannery entertained Wednesday night at a miscellaneous shower in her honor. The evening was spent at bunco, and prizewinners were Betty Stapper-shoes, and Mary Brecht.

Other guests included Mary Wallace, Helen Shay, Portia Quinlin, Maxine Belger, Mrs. Herman Krebs, Mrs. Harold Breece, Mrs. Leonard Brecht, Mrs. Britt Fout, Mrs. Sam Cox, Mrs. Leonard Belger, Mrs. William Bock, and Rose Brecht.

Ripley Explanations

The gift magnificent: Bartholoma Welsch, head of the immensely rich patrician family of Augsburg, Germany, made enormous advances to Emperor Charles V of Germany, who was at the same time King Charles I of Spain. When the loans had reached the enormous total of 12 tons of gold, which in view of the high purchasing power of gold in the 16th century would equal about $100,000,000 today, the emperor in 1527 invested Welsch with the entire country of Venezuela, appointing his own governors and paragoning it with his own troops. In 1555 the Spanish crown by a summary order of the king deprived Welsch of Venezuela. The matter was in litigation for many years, and the courts in the absence of summary royal decree would have been obliged to rule for the Welsers.

Tomorrow: "A record pick-up."

Floyd A. Nassif, a University of Iowa student from Cedar Rapids, will be off soon for Beirut, Lebanon, where he will study at the American University of Beirut. The Syrian city is located on the eastern shore of the Mediterranean.

University officials there arrange their classes strictly in keeping with the climate. In winter, students attend classes in the city, and in the summer the university is moved, bag and baggage, up into the mountains.

Earmarks of construction: Behind the curtains which have been hung in the doors of liberal arts auditorium, things are going on. The seats have been torn away, and the balcony has been taken out, exposing the "ribs"—the steel framework. Seats, and lumber which has been salvaged are piled up in the room next to the auditorium.

Outward signs of progress are the workmen carrying materials up the stairs, and the bits of cement which are strewn over the floors and stairs in liberal arts building.

Add alumni news: Representative Fred C. Gilchrist, who has been selected as the commencement speaker at Iowa State Teachers college, Aug. 24, when 200 students will receive degrees, is a graduate of the University of Iowa, in law. His father was the first president of the Cedar Falls institution.

Two dinners for University of Iowa graduates have been arranged by Prof. Frederic G. Higbee, director of the alumni service, and Bruce Mahan, director of the extension division.

The annual All-Iowa dinner will be held Feb. 25, 1934 at the Hotel Cleveland in Cleveland, Ohio, in connection with the yearly meeting of the superintendence section of the National Education association.

Educators in the superintendence section, representatives of the university attending the meeting, and alumni in the city of Cleveland are expected to attend. In past years this dinner has been one of the largest affairs of the educators' convention, with 150 to 200 Iowa alumni attending.

Local arrangements will be handled by Chan Coulter, president of the University of Iowa alumni group of Cleveland.

Hotel Kirkwood in Des Moines will be the scene of a dinner for alumni, to be held at the time of the annual meeting of the Iowa State Teachers association, Nov. 3.

The arrest of seven men, climaxing an eight months investigation of federal agents under the direction of Harry J. Anslinger, U. S. commissioner of narcotics, at Arlington Park, Chicago, has focused the national spotlight upon the crooked methods employed by a nation-wide syndicate of gamblers to "fix" races by "doping" horses.

CHICAGO (I.L.N.)—Followers of the "Sport of Kings" who have lost millions of dollars to the nation-wide racketeering syndicates that, according to recent revelations here, "doped" horses to "fix" races, will gain a little comfort in the knowledge that the federal government has the matter in hand and is determined to make someone pay the piper.

Wholesale "Fixing" The arrest of seven men, one of them a once-famous jockey, Ivan Parke, following a program of racing at Arlington track, climaxed an investigation by federal agents which had extended over more than eight months under the direction of Harry J. Anslinger, U. S. commissioner of narcotics, during which investigators reported the drugging of over 200 race horses on tracks in many parts of the country, causing losses running into millions to racing fans.

Although the primary object of the federal government is to put a stop to the drug traffic in any shape or form, it being concerned only with violations of the anti-narcotic act, the Arlington expose is expected to do much towards cleaning up racing and giving the bettor a better break for his money.

Suggested Remedy One of the proposals suggested by Commissioner Anslinger as a step towards stamping out the race track dope evil is the establishment of "dope boxes" at all tracks. These boxes are special stalls in the paddock where horses suspected of being tampered with would be sent for examination by a veterinarian. A quick test can easily determine whether or not the horse has been drugged.

A horse found to be doped would be disqualified and the owner and trainer barred forever from all American tracks.

Yankees Fail to Count in 309th Game

A's Win, 7-0, as Grove Toys With Gehrig and Ruth

NEW YORK, Aug. 3 (AP)—Lefty Grove, the southpaw speedball star of the Philadelphia Athletics, put an end to the greatest scoring streak ever made by a club in major league baseball history when he pitched the A's to a 7 to 0 victory over the New York Yankees today.

The Yanks had scored in 308 consecutive games over a period of just two years before Grove halted them with five hits today. Their last previous blanking was administered by Wilcy Moore, then with the Boston Red Sox, on Aug. 2, 1931. This feat eclipsed all records for consecutive scoring. The best mark listed in the record books was 132 games, an entire season's play, made by the Boston and Philadelphia National League clubs in 1894.

Foxx Homers Grove was the big figure in the Athletics' victory but Jimmie Foxx, the slugging first baseman, also had a hand in it. Foxx put the game on ice in the seventh when he walloped his thirtieth home run of the season with two on base to give the A's a 6-0 lead. The blow came off Johnny Allen's delivery after Cramer had singled and Cochrane had walked. It put Foxx five ahead of Babe Ruth in their race for major league honors.

The A's had tallied three times in the third when Cramer singled with two on base and Chapman let the ball go through his legs. All three runners scored. Their seventh run came off Penock in the eighth on Higgins' double, an error by Crossetti and a force-out.

Seldom in Danger Grove, although he gave five walks along with the five hits, seldom was in danger and he rose to the heights of pitching greatness on those occasions. His greatest feat was in the eighth when the bases were filled by walks to Crossetti and Sewell and Combs' third hit of the game. Grove got Ruth on strikes for the third time and forced Gehrig to fly out to escape from a bad situation.

In the fourth he whiffed Gehrig after Combs had singled and Ruth had drawn a pass and in the sixth he got both Ruth and Gehrig on the strikeout method with two on base.

Senators Smash Out Win Over Boston

WASHINGTON, Aug. 3 (AP)—Fourteen solid bingles, including five of the extra base variety, today smacked off the war clubs of the Washington Senators to round out an 8 to 4 defeat for the Boston Red Sox and step up Washington's league lead to three full games.

Heartened by the Griffith stadium scoreboard that showed Lefty Grove of the Athletics blanking the Yankees for the first time in 308 games, the Senators waged their heaviest battling attack for days. Five pitchers were employed by the Sox.

Earl Whitehill, starting for Washington, held the Sox scoreless until the sixth, aiding his mates, meanwhile, with a triple and single of his own. Jack Russell pitched the last three innings, granting five hits and three runs.

Joe Judge, for years the Senators' first baseman, came back today in an allea uniform, knocking out a single in the eighth as a pinchhitter.

Joe Kuhel, who took Judge's job away from him here, accounted for a double and two singles in five attempis, to capture the day's batting honors.

Losers Take First Bouts from America

Johnny Paek Knocks Patrick Mulligan Out in Final

SOLDIER FIELD, Chicago, Aug. 3 (AP)—The real fighting Irish took it on the chin in their international amateur battles with the American Golden Glove champions tonight.

Fighting before a crowd of 50,000 spectators, the Americans conquered their Irish opponents six bouts to two, with the first two Irish boxers, competing in the flyweight and bantamweight classes, winning the only bouts for the invaders.

A tough little Irishman, Paddy Connolly, a member of the Irish Free State army, started the invaders off with a brilliant victory over Lenny Cohen, Chicago youngster, in the first match, a three round bout in the flyweight class.

Frank Kerr, a skinny, curly headed bantam weight from Ireland, gave the Gaels their second straight victory, when he defeated John Ginter of Chicago in their three rounder at 118 pounds.

George Van der Hayden, South Bend, Ind., 126 pounder, scored the first victory for the Americans when he was awarded a three round technical knockout over Paddy Hughes, Ireland, in the featherweight class.

Hughes suffered an ugly cut over his left eye and the referee, Norman McGarrity, refused to allow him to continue. Hughes was in tears and protested because the bout was stopped. Van der Hayden appeared to have the edge due to his terrific right hand shots to the head.

Edward Ward, Chicago Negro lightweight, defeated the Irish 135 pound champion, Ernest Smith, by making a whirlwind finish in the final round of their three round battle. Ward, a speedy southpaw, shot left hands into Smith's face and drove hooks to the body, while Smith attempted to end the battle with a right to the head.

William Celebron, Rockford, Ill., welterweight, chalked up the third victory for the Americans by beating Jack Kennedy of Ireland in their three rounder at 147 pounds. Each was floored in the first round with heavy blasts to the head but in the second and third Celebron moved ahead rapidly. He carried the fight to his opponent and had him in distress.

Max Marek, Chicago, a prospective Notre Dame halfback, won an unpopular victory over Dick Hearn, a big copper from Ireland, in the light heavyweight class. The crowd greeted the verdict with boos. It was a slam bang affair all the way, with both trying for a finishing punch and with Marek outscoring his Irish foe in the infighting.

Freddie Caserio, Chicago middleweight, defeated the Irish 165 pound champion, Paddy Henneley, in a one sided bout, giving the Americans four straight victories. Caserio punched Henneley around the body and dropped him with a short right to the chin just before the bell ended their final round. Henneley, a policeman back in Ireland, absorbed Caserio's body smashes with rare gameness.

John Paek, Chicago heavyweight, outweighed 23 pounds, scored the only knockout of the night when he stretched another Irish copper, Paddy Mulligan, on the canvas with a left hook to the body and a right cross to the chin in the first round of their three rounder. When the finishing blow crashed against Mulligan's chin, he fell so awkwardly that he fractured his left ankle. Mulligan, weighing 203 pounds and standing 6 feet 4 inches, had to be carried from the ring.

Wires Johnson After Conference With Billy Evans

CLEVELAND, Aug. 3 (AP)—The pipe of peace passed today between young Oral Hildebrand, pitching ace of the Indians, and Walter Johnson, the Tribe's new manager, three days after Hildy had been fined $100 and suspended for a display of temperment.

Peace moves were rapid today after Hildebrand arrived in Cleveland to see General Manager Billy Evans and tell his side of the story.

At the end of a conference with Evans, Hildebrand emerged from the big boss' office with this terse statement: "I am prepared to wire Johnson immediately at St. Louis that I am ready to go to work and pitch to win."

Reached in St. Louis, Johnson said he would be tickled to death to receive such a message from Hildy and apparently it was forthcoming, for the Big Train wired the Cleveland News late this afternoon: "Hildebrand has apologized. Will rejoin club in Detroit Saturday."

Johnson made no comment about the coupon found on The Daily Iowan sports page each day and mail bring it to the sports editor.

The tournament will be held in Finkbine field Aug. 14 over 36 holes of medal play. The entrance fee is 25 cents will be paid to Coach Charles Kennett at the club house. Deadline for entries has been set for Friday, Aug. 11.

Mangin Loses to Grant at Southampton

Meets Frankie Parker in Finals; Wood Plays Shields

SOUTHAMPTON, N. Y., Aug. 3 (AP)—Bryan Grant, Atlanta's five-foot-four tennis dynamo, upset the seeded order today and smashed his way into the semi-finals of the Meadow club's 43rd annual invitation tournament.

The tiny southerner blasted Gregory S. Mangin of Newark, national indoor champion, from the tournament with a dazzling barrage of shots, 6-3, 6-3, 6-8, 4-6, 6-3, and entered the round before the finals along with Sidney B. Wood of New York, defending title-holder; Frank Shields of New York and Frankie Parker, 17 year old king of the nation's clay court players.

The pairings for the semi-finals tomorrow send Wood against Parker in the upper half of the draw and Shields against Grant in the lower. Grant will need to repeat his sensational play tomorrow if he hopes to stay with Shields. The big New Yorker, winner of the Crescent-Hamilton and Seabright tournaments in succession, smothered John McDiarmid of Ft. Worth in straight sets today, 6-3, 6-1, 7-5.

Parker raced through his quarter-final match against Dick Murphy of Utica, N. Y., in even more impressive fashion, eliminating the Longwood Bowl winner with the loss of only six games, 6-1, 6-1, 6-4.

Wood had a terrific fight on his hands before he managed to subdue the intercollegiate champion, Jack Tidball of Los Angeles, 4-6, 6-2, 3-6, 6-0, 6-4.

On the day the Chicago Cubs raised their 1932 pennant their outfield, consisting of Frank Demaree, Taylor Douthit and Babe Herman, contained not one man who was playing with them when they clinched the flag last September.

Stock Market Quiet During Most of Day

Easing Off at Close Brings Average Fall of One Point

NEW YORK, Aug. 3 (AP)—Stocks were quiet and irregular most of today, easing slightly toward the close and finishing with a net loss of a point for the averages.

The market heard nothing further concerning inflation rumors and, lacking any incentives for much of a move, proceeded to loaf.

Wall street thought the revised marginal trading regulations should bring quieter trading and more orderly markets and would tend to discourage speculative activity by the smaller fry.

Deflation of speculative credit continued during the last week. Federal reserve brokers loans for this district were down $18,000,000 in the week ended Aug. 2 on top

Bonds Show Little Gain

Unable to Overcome Further Profit Taking

NEW YORK, Aug. 3 (AP)—The bond market labored indifferently today and, in the face of further profit taking and some liquidation, was unable to achieve any appreciable progress.

It was the dulltest session since last April. Sales totaled only $9,031,000, par value, and the average for 60 domestic corporate loans closed unchanged at 84 1/2.

A number of secondary liens turned soft. Recessions of a point or more were suffered by issues of St. Paul, Chicago and North Western, Rock Island, International Great Northern, Nickel Plate, Iron Mountain and Southern.

The utilities and industrials were mixed. Bonds of American Beet Sugar, American and Foreign Power, American Metal, Colon Oil, Lackawanna Steel, Paramount Public and Western Union got up 1/2 to 2 or more, but issues of International Telephone, Postal Telegraph, Colorado Industrial, Colorado Fuel and Iron were off as much.

Most U. S. government securities were easier and foreign obligations irregular. Loans of Dutch East Indies, France, Irish Free State and Switzerland rallied 1/2 to around 3 points, but bonds of Norway, Japan, Buenos Aires, and Germany were inclined to drift lower.

The SEA BRIDE THE ROMANCE OF AN EVENTFUL WHALING CRUISE BY BEN AMES WILLIAMS

CHAPTER XIII

NOLL shook Faith away and went up to the deck with Dan'l at his heels. The Sally, riding high, as whalers do, was reasonably dry; but she was fighting desperately in the gale, rocking her right side up, and seemed to clear Noll's head.

He looked about, aloft; belovied an order to get sail on her. Faith protested. 'Noll; she'll never stand!'

He brushed her away with clenched fist. She took shelter in a corner by the deckhouse, ten feet from him. Noll Wing took the ship, and under his hand the Sally did miracles.

That fight with the storm was a deed men still talk about; they say it was an inhuman and a marvellous thing. Noll stood aft, legs braced, scoring a handhold. His voice rang through the singing wind to the remotest corner of the Sally and the highest spar. Regardless of wind and sea, he crowded on sail, brought her around to the course he wished to take, and drove her into it.

Time and time again, during that afternoon and that long night, every sane man aboard thought her very masts must be torn out of her. Three times sails did go; but Noll would never slacken. On the after deck, he raved like a madman, but his commands were scarcely obeyed. A miracle of seamanship and start mad, but mad as madness that succeeded. The Sally drove into the gale, she fought as madly as Noll himself was fighting; and Noll, aft, screamed through the night and drove them on.

Faith never left her post, so near him. No man aboard had sleep that night. No man dared sleep, lest death find him in his dreams. Willis Cox and Tichel came to Noll more than once, beseeching; but he drove them away. Dan'l never interfered with the captain; it seemed there was a madness on him, too. And Brander and Dan'l Tobey, between them were Noll's right hand and his left, driving the men to the tasks. Noll set them, holding them sternly in hand.

They could only guess how far they had come through the darkness and the storm. An hour before daylight Dan'l stopped to gasp to Faith: 'We're near there, I'm thinking—if we're not nearer the bottom! Brander took more practical steps. He found Mauger, set the one-eyed man well forward, and bade him watch and listen for the first sign of land. Mauger nodded chuckling; he gripped a hold on the taut lines, set his one eye into the darkness, and tuned his ear to the storm.

The wind by this time was moderating; even Faith could feel a slackening of the pressure of it that had torn at her garments the night through. She was weak with fighting it; nevertheless, she held her post. And the steady thrust of the gale slowly modified and gave way. The first hints of light showed in the skies. They caught glimpses of scudding clouds low overhead, but the worst was past, and every man knew it. Noll, still standing like a colossus at his post, knew it; he shook his fist at the skies and the sea, and he cursed the wind and dared it. Faith could see him dimly in the growing light—his head bare, his eyes frantic, his cheeks sunken; an enormous but checked figure of a man.

quieter waters. He started off to windward, looking to see what had broken the force of the sea. He saw nothing; but though he heard a rumbling roar there. Then he looked forward, where the less turbulent waters were piling ahead of them.

He looked forward and glimpsed a line of white that lived and never died, and he turned and screamed a warning aft—ran, to carry the word, screaming as he ran.

He shouted, amidst wind, heard him and shrouded to Noll. Wing, but Noll did not hear. The captain was intoxicated with the long battle; he was delicious with the cry of tortured nerves and starved body. He did not hear.

Mauger flashed past Brander as he ran. The one-eyed man's screams were inarticulate now. It was too late to swing the ship clear, in any case.

Noll saw Mauger coming. He put up his hands and his eyes glared. He shrieked with overwhelming terror. Mauger flung on. Then the Sally's bows drove on the solid sand; Mauger sprang; and everywher fell headlong. Noll was thrown back against the after rail.

Mauger rolled over and over where he fell, and it chanced that his sheath-knife dropped out in the fall and touched his hand. He had it in his fingers when he scrambled to his feet, still intent on bearing his warning. He had the knife in his hand as he leaped toward the wheel. He did not yet realize that it was too late to swerve the Sally. Toward the wheel he ran, knife in hand, forgetting knife and Noll Wing.

To Noll's eyes, where he stood behind the wheel, Mauger must have looked like a charging fiend. He saw the knife. He screamed again, and turned and flung himself out over the after rail.

He was instantly gone. Perhaps the undertow, perhaps some creature of the sea, perhaps the fates that had hung over him struck then; but those aboard the Sally Sims were never to see Noll Wing again, nor Noll's dead body. Dawn came abruptly; a lowering dawn, with gray and green clouds racing past so low that they seemed to scrape and tear themselves upon the tips of the masts. No sun showed; there was no light in the sky. The dawn was evidenced only by the lessening of the blackness of the night. They could see that was all. There was no fog, but a steady rain sprang up and clouded objects at a little distance.

This rain had one good effect—it beat down the turbulence of the waves. Faith, from the bow, could see that they had grounded upon a sandy beach which spread like a crescent to right and left. The tips of the crescent were rocky points which sheltered the Sally from the full force of the seas. She was not pounding upon the sand; she lay where she had struck, heeled a little to one side. There were breakers about her and ahead of her upon the sand; but these were not dangerous. They were caused by the reflex tumult of the waters, stirred up in this sheltered bay in sympathy with the storm outside.

was gone, but life had burdened him too long. He was well rid of it, she thought; well rid of his tormented flesh; well rid of the terror which had pursued him. When Noll went over the stern, Dan'l Tobey appeared from nowhere, and saw Mauger with the knife in his hand, standing paralyzed with horror. Dan'l fell upon Mauger, fists flying. He downed the little man, dropped on him with both knees, gripped for his throat. Then Brander, coming from the waist of the ship on Mauger's heels, caught Dan'l by the collar and jerked him to his feet. Dan'l's hands, clenched on Mauger's throat, lifted the little man a foot from the deck before they let go to grip Brander. The men clustered aft; old Tichel's teeth bared. In another moment, there would have been a death-battle upon the littered decks.

But Faith cried through the gloom: 'Dan'l! Mr. Brander! Drop it! Stand away!' There was a command in her clear tones which Dan'l must have obeyed, and Brander did as she bade instinctively. The two still faced each other, heads forward, shoulders lowered. Behind Brander, Mauger crawled to his feet, choking and fumbling at his throat. Faith said to Dan'l: 'I saw what happened. Dan'l. It was not the fault of Mauger.'

'He had a knife—' 'He fell,' she said. 'I saw. He fell upon the Sally struck; his knife popped from its sheath. He picked it up. That was all.'

'All?' Dan'l protested. 'He drove Noll Wing to death!' 'No. It was Noll's own terrors. Noll was mad.'

'What was Mauger doing aft, then? He'd no place here.' 'If had him forward, watching for breakers,' Brander explained. 'He saw them and yelled, and when no one heard, he raced to give the word.'

Faith nodded. 'Yes; he was gripping for the wheel to swing it down, even when Noll—' Dan'l swung to Brander. 'You're overquick to come between me and the men, Mr. Brander,' he said harshly. 'Best mend that.'

'I'll not see Mauger smashed for no fault,' Brander told him steadily. Dan'l took a step nearer the other.

'You'll understand I'm master here, now!' There was battle in Brander's eyes. Men's blood was hot that morning. But Faith stepped between.

'Dan'l, Noll's gone. First thing is to get the Sally free.' Dan'l still eyed Brander for a moment; then he drew back, swung away, looked around. The island they had struck was barely visible through the drifting rain.

Burlington Bows to Hurling of Harbert, in Legion Tourney

ROCKWELL CITY, Aug. 3 (AP)—Cedar Rapids went into the lead in the American Legion junior baseball tournament today by virtue of a 4 to 3 victory over Burlington. The Bunny nine now has two victories to one each for Burt and Burlington and none for LeMars.

Again it was the work of Melvin Harbert that featured the work of the Rapids team, the husky pitcher allowing but two hits, striking out 10 and walking but four. Harbert has allowed only six hits in 18 innings while striking out 23 men. Burt drew up to a tie for second place by downing LeMars in another close game, 6 to 5.

The three day round robin tournament ends tomorrow with Burt encountering Cedar Rapids and Burlington engaging LeMars.

Wheat Market Prices Show Lively Gains

CHICAGO, Aug. 3 (AP)—Lively upturns in wheat prices late today contrasted with a sagging trend in the earlier part of the session.

Persistent buying credited to milling interests appeared to be chiefly responsible, together with bullish crop reports both from the American and Canadian northwest. One authority said 21 per cent of Canada's wheat acreage had been destroyed. Threshing returns from United States spring wheat territory pointed to an uneven crop that would run about one-third as large as last year.

Wheat closed unsettled, 3-8, 1 cent above yesterday's finish, corn unchanged to 1-2 lower, oats 1-4, 1 down, and provisions, varying from 22 cents decline to a rise of 5 cents.

Sharp setbacks in all grain prices at the start were associated with lower temperatures northwest and with rains over the middle west which many traders assumed would prove helpful, especially to the corn crop.

There were also trade forecasts that world import requirements of wheat for 1933-34 would be the smallest met with in years.

Corn and oats rallied with wheat, but failed to hold so well. Crop comments from the leading corn belt states suggested the bulk of the corn crop was so far advanced now that rain would have little effect, and damage was practically irreparable.

Zachary Limits Dodgers to Two Hits for Win

BOSTON, Aug. 3 (AP)—Tom Zachary, veteran Boston southpaw, pitched the Braves to a 3 to 0 victory over the Brooklyn Dodgers today, giving only two hits in a mound duel with Owen Carroll.

Only four Brooklyn batsmen reached first, Leslie and Hutcheson getting singles, Leslie drawing a walk and Cuccinello hitting first. After Leslie's hit in the fifth when Catcher Hogan tipped his bat.

A double play cut off this threat of a rally. The Braves scored twice in the sixth on Wally Berger's double, singles by Randy Moore and Whitney and a wild throw by Lopez. Maranville's two barger and Urbanski's single brought the other run in the seventh.

Score by innings: R. H. E. Brooklyn.....000 000-0 2 3 Boston.....000 002 10-3 8 0 Batteries—Carroll and Lopez, Zachary and Hogan.

Senator Hits at Democratic Recovery Act

Dickinson Pessimistic Over Outcome of NRA

Showing the Republican organization's attitude toward the administration to be one of mingled cooperation and doubt, Senator Lester J. Dickinson of Algona, keynote at the 1932 G.O.P. convention addressed the Iowa City Rotary club yesterday noon.

After assuring his audience that he had no thought of partisanship, and after praising General Hugh Johnson and George Peek, administrators of the national recovery act, for their "honesty, ability, and sincerity," he spoke pessimistically of the possible results of the NIRA.

Unconstitutional?
"I do not believe war time measures can be carried out in peace time," Senator Dickinson asserted. He added that the act may be ruled unconstitutional, and hoped that the country will still be loyal to the fundamentals of the constitution.

It is not possible, he claimed, for one man or a small group of men to coordinate the business of a nation in a few weeks as national administrators have been doing, and said that numerous complications have arisen. Senator Dickinson also maintained that the business men who have been losing money might find it hard to comply with the code regulations, that trade agreements are giving the "little fellow" no chance, and that national codes might discourage "rugged individualism."

"Do Our Best"
However, "We should loyally and patriotically do our best to work out the national recovery program and we must try out the things before us, in spite of the difficulty of fitting a general yardstick to individual businesses," he concluded.

The farm act might be unconstitutional, Senator Dickinson said, but even if it is not, it is inferior to the McNary-Haugen bill, which "remains the soundest type of farm relief ever devised."

Senator Dickinson was introduced by R. J. Popham. Guests were Clyde Hulzinger of Des Moines; Arthur Barlow of Cedar Rapids; W. E. Kerr of Artesia, N. M.; Jack Fischer of Peoria, Ill.; L. E. Mantor of Kearney, Neb.; H. Van Hettinga of Muscatine; and K. M. Dunlop and George D. Koser of Iowa City.

Association Hears of Disturbances in Coal Fields of Iowa

DES MOINES, Aug. 3 (AP)—As the executive boards of the Iowa Coal Operators association and district 13 of the United Mine Workers of America met today to consider alleged violations of the contract between operators and miners, disturbances among miners at Madrid, Melcher, Albia, and Williamson were brought to their attention.

The operators' group had expected to reach a discussion of the national coal code which they recently submitted to the national recovery administration at Washington, but it was not believed that the document could be introduced in the press of business.

The violations of the miners-operators contract, allegedly involved wages, working hours, and employment, according to Frank Wilson of Albia, president of the miners' organization.

Judge Evans Takes Case Seeking Funds From Closed Bank

After eight days in court the action seeking to establish a preferred claim of $37,000 against the assets of the Farmers Loan and Trust company receivership was submitted yesterday to District Judge Harold D. Evans who took the case under advisement.

The preferred claim is asked by Ella May McDermott, guardian of Douglas S. Perkins, Lucy C. Perkins, and Drusilla M. Perkins, minor heirs of Samuel J. Perkins. They claim that the $37,000 which was on deposit in the bank was not invested as ordered by the court. The bank was formerly guardian for the heirs.

Lost Purse Back, Owner Searches Vainly for Finder

LINCOLN, Neb., Aug. 3 (AP)—George Hofferber of Cedar Rapids, Ia., had a fat purse back in his pocket today but he searched in vain for the honest man who returned it.

Sales manager for a Cedar Rapids dairy, Hofferber lost it last night on a downtown street when he stepped from his automobile to attend a show. Hours later he discovered the loss. Meantime some one giving the name of George Jones turned the purse over to police, who returned it to the owner.

Hofferber's search for Jones was fruitless and apparently the man had given an incorrect address. Amount of money in the purse was not revealed but Hofferber said it contained "tens and twenties."

Negri to Wed McCormick?

Negri and Secretary Say 'No' to Cabled Quotation

NEW YORK, Aug. 3 (AP)—Another marriage in the McCormick clan—between Harold F. McCormick, former husband of the glamorous Ganna Walska, and Pola Negri—was reported imminent in cables from France today but denials came promptly from the actress and the Chicago Harvester millionaire's secretary.

At Cap Ferrat, on the Riviera, Mrs. Cora Urquhart Brown Potter, the mother of McCormick's daughter-in-law, Anne "Fifi" Stillman McCormick—quoted Miss Negri as saying she was to marry the Chicagoan.

Mrs. Potter, belle of New Orleans who married the wealthy James Brown Potter and went on the stage, said she had been told of the coming nuptials because of her relationship with the McCormick family. McCormick could not be reached in Chicago for comment but his secretary denied the report.

While her manager in Paris said there was "an understanding" between Miss Negri and the 61 year old McCormick, the actress denied they were engaged.

A Fine Country

Oct. 8, 1842—Bennett, in enumerating the substantial qualities of our country says:

"The great republic is the garden of Eden among nations. We have twenty millions of inhabitants; one thousand millions of dollars worth of annual produce; 30 or 40 religions, and a new one every month; 200 broken banks; eighty millions of specie; 2,000 financiers not yet in the state prisons, and a quantity of fine land, high mountains, splendid rivers, with a sun and a moon, the best and brightest that every took the great circuit of eternity."

If any individual is dissatisfied with the country after seeing a list of advantages, he had better emigrate to some other world immediately, he cannot be contented here, and we doubt if he would not be discontented even in paradise.—Iowa Capitol Reporter.

Then vote "for a convention."—Iowa Capitol Reporter.
