Eight More Meet Violent Deaths in Cuban Post-Machado Disorders

De Cespedes Makes Effort to Quell Riots

Other Nations Soon to Recognize New Government

BULLETIN
HAVANA, Aug. 15 (AP)—A case filed today in the second section of the criminal court accused Gerardo Machado, deposed president, and five associates of "misappropriation of public funds, frauds and legal exactions, falsities and swindles, homicides, murders, personal attempts and use of firearms against certain persons."

HAVANA, Aug. 15 (AP)—Eight more persons met violent deaths today in post-Machado disorders as the new government of President Carlos Manuel de Cespedes labored to set its political and economic house in order. Although the frenzied mob activity which broke out three days ago in celebration of the downfall of President Gerardo Machado had largely abated, enemies of the old regime still sought out its supporters to exercise vengeance upon them. The total number of dead was raised to 35 since Saturday morning.

Will Have Support
Evidence became increasingly manifest that the De Cespedes administration would have the support of other governments. It was considered a matter of certainty that formal recognition would speedily be forthcoming.

One of the outstanding problems which the new regime faces is that of its bonded indebtedness, estimated at approximately $100,000,000. There was considerable talk of seeking a moratorium or a refunding operation whereby payments may be decreased and extended over longer periods of time.

To Deal Directly
President De Cespedes authorized Martinez Saenz, his secretary of the treasury, to deal directly with the United States through Ambassador Sumner Welles in all financial and economic questions mutually affecting the two countries.

Die Like a Dog
Major Boffill commanded one of the artillery units which participated in the army revolt to overthrow President Machado.

A group of demonstrators at the city hall seized a large portrait of Machado, chalked on it "you will die like a dog" and paraded it through the city tied to the back of an automobile.

The demonstrators seized also a

Official Faces Impeachment

TOPEKA, Aug. 15 (AP)—Tom Boyd, state treasurer, faced an impeachment charge tonight in the million dollar Kansas bond forgery scandal, while Gov. Alf M. Landon promised impeachment proceedings against him and possibly other state officials.

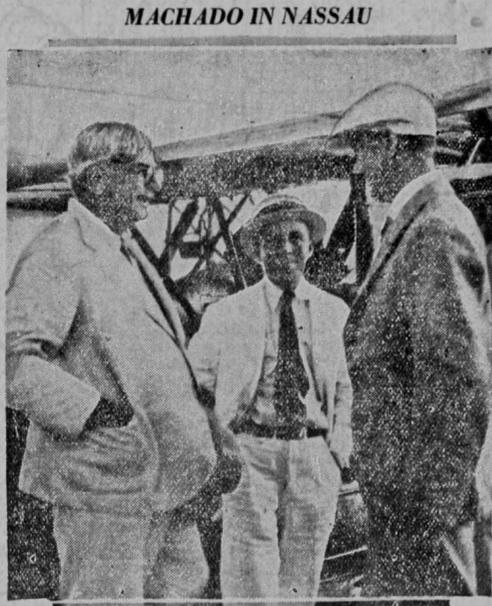

Armed national guardsmen took charge of Boyd's private office and personal desk on orders from the governor.

State accountants began a search of all files and records, including those in the private desk. The vaults of the treasury department have been under armed guard for a week.

"The investigation which has been conducted so far seems to warrant other impeachments," declared the chief executive, declining to name the officials suspected.

Widow Free of Poison Charge

Jury Says "Not Guilty" After Hearing of Long Trial

SALEM, Mass., Aug. 15 (AP)—Jessie Burnett Costello, comely 31 year old widow, was acquitted today after one hour and 43 minutes of deliberation of a jury which heard her charged with slaying her husband, Fire Captain Wm. J. Costello of Peabody, with poison.

Stand Firm
Standing erect at the climax of her month-long trial, the corners of the widow's mouth moved slightly as jury foreman James F. Campbell pronounced the words "not guilty," but otherwise her poise was maintained.

Weeps Later
As she burst into the anteroom where friends and relatives awaited her, she threw her arms around a woman friend and wept.

News of the Verdict
News of the verdict was dropped from a window of the courtroom and a large crowd that had milled about the entrance of the old courthouse all day set up vociferous cheering.

The Widow Sped out
The widow sped out a back door and was driven to her home by one of her attorneys.

At the little stucco cottage in the Perkins park district in Peabody where last February 17 her husband was found dead, stretched across a hallway, the widow was greeted by her father and her three children.

Capone to Stand Trial in Chicago

CHICAGO, Aug. 15 (AP)—Arrangements for Al Capone to be returned from Atlanta penitentiary under heavy guard to Chicago to stand trial for racket conspiracy with 23 others were started today.

Chief Justice John J. Crystalski of the criminal court issued a writ of habeas corpus directing federal authorities to produce Capone in his court August 29. The former gang chief is serving 10 years at Atlanta for income tax fraud.

Federal officials here said they believed there would be no objections to returning Capone. Attorney General Cummings is expected to accede to the writ.

Indicted for Murder

CHICAGO (AP)—Mrs. Eleanor Jarman, known as the "blonde Tigress," George Dale, alias Kennedy, 28, and Leo Menneci, 27, were indicted by Cook county grand jury today charged with the murder of Gustav Hoeh, 70, owner of a haberdashery. Six robbery indictments also were returned against the three defendants.

Swine Plans Nearly Ready

Wallace Will Announce Emergency Program Friday

WASHINGTON, Aug. 15 (AP)—Provisions of the emergency program for curtailing the nation's swine population by speedy marketing of 5,000,000 pigs and sows will be announced by Secretary Wallace Friday.

In an address at the Chicago exposition, he plans to disclose the amount and the effective date of a processing tax on hogs to finance the plan for marketing the swine by Oct. 1 to relieve the acute shortage of feed in the corn belt and to provide food for the hungry.

Farmers to Get Benefit Payments

WASHINGTON, Aug. 15 (AP)—Millions of dollars in benefit payments to cotton and wheat farmers for agreements to curtail their production will be freed under a policy made public today by Henry Morgenthau, Jr., governor of the farm credit administration, after approval by President Roosevelt.

Under it, payments will be made to cotton farmers who agreed to plow up from 25 to 50 per cent of their growing crops without requiring deductions for amounts they owe the government for seed and crop production loans.

Also would be included feed loans of the regional agricultural credit corporations which do not bear inbursements by third parties and have not been discounted by federal intermediate credit banks.

Morgenthau said a similar policy will be pursued in the case of payments to be made this fall to wheat farmers for agreements to reduce their acreages planted for harvest in 1934 and 1935.

About $90,000,000 is scheduled for distribution to wheat farmers and $110,000,000 to cotton farmers, checks for the latter having been held up pending the outline of policy.

Four Giant U. S. Industries Urged by NRA to Approve Quickly of Recovery Codes

Judd to Give Convocation Speech Here

Address Marks Third Appearance in Five Years

Plans for the university Convocation Aug. 24, which will conclude the thirty-fourth summer session, were announced yesterday by Prof. Frederic G. Higbee, director of convocations.

The Convocation address, the only formal one of the graduation exercises, will be given by Prof. Charles Hubbard Judd, director of the school of education at the University of Chicago.

This will mark the third time in five years that the well known educator and psychologist has addressed a summer Convocation. His last appearance here in that capacity was in the summer of 1931. It will mark also the tenth anniversary of the meeting at which the University of Iowa conferred upon him the honorary degree of LL.D.

Born in India
Born in British India in 1873, Professor Judd was educated at Wesleyan university, University of Leipzig, and Yale. Honorary degrees have been granted him by Miami university, Wesleyan, University of Iowa, and Colorado college.

He has been on the faculties of Wesleyan, Yale, New York university, and University of Cincinnati. At present he is head of the department of education and director of the school of education at the University of Chicago.

Professor Judd is a member of the American Psychology association, and served as president of the organization one year. He is also associated with the North Central Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools and the American Society of College Teachers of Education, and has served as national president of both these groups.

He was a staff member of the New York Rural School survey in 1921, and chairman of the American Council on Education in 1929-30.

More than a dozen books on psychology and education, and many magazine articles have come from the pen of Professor Judd. He is the author of textbooks on laboratory methods and equipment, educational measurement, and the evolution of a democratic school system. He has also translated psychological works from the German.

Professor Judd's address will be a part of the degree-granting program Aug. 24, at 8 p. m., on the west approach to Old Capitol, at which it is expected that more than 200 degrees will be awarded.

Five Women Injured Near Cedar Rapids in Head-on Crash

CEDAR RAPIDS, Aug. 15 (AP)—Five women hailing from Waterloo and Denver were injured west of here late Tuesday when their car collided head-on with a Rath Packing company truck of Waterloo. Those suffering cuts are bruises were Mrs. Joe Griffith, Mrs. Charles Greenlee and Sadie Griffith, all of Waterloo, and Sadie and Ida Emily of Denver, Colo.

Virginia Griffith of Waterloo, also in the car, was unhurt. They were given medical aid here and were released. They reported the truck had swung out to pass a horse and buggy.

Coal, Oil, Automobile, Steel Firms Asked to Speed Plans

WASHINGTON, Aug. 15 (AP)—Four of the nation's giant industries were urged today by the NRA to agree quickly upon codes providing minimum wages and maximum hours for their multitudes of workers.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 15 (AP)—The national recovery law, bulwark of President Roosevelt's economic rehabilitation program, was upheld in principle today by Justice Joseph Cox of the District of Columbia supreme court.

Without passing formally on the question of the constitutionality of the law raised before him, the jurist denied a plea of Texas refiners for an injunction against recent orders of Secretary Ickes prohibiting interstate shipment of oil produced in violation of state regulations.

Justice Cox explained the denial was based on a belief that the court lacked the power to enjoin Ickes because he was carrying out an executive order of President Roosevelt. The judge added that even if he felt the court had such power, he should hesitate to use it.

This advice, it was learned today in administration circles, went out to the coal, steel, oil and automobile industries from Hugh S. Johnson, the recovery administrator, as he opened a determined campaign to reach the bulk of the nation's employes by Labor day. The oil industry alone of the four is operating under a temporary code.

With Secretary Frances Perkins at his side, Johnson conferred with spokesmen for the giant steel plants. A deputy administrator talked with representatives of the automobile industry.

Operators of bituminous coal fields have been called to meet tomorrow a week earlier than planned—and on Thursday Johnson will seek action from the conflicting elements of the oil industry.

Upon these conferences depends much of the administrator's hopes of reaching his objective next month, and official sources said he was acting with the full support of the Roosevelt administration.

Behind the Scenes
Most of the business went on behind the scenes as Johnson sought to bring the basic industries into line with his campaign for increased purchasing power.

President Roosevelt called his recovery council into special session to effect definite means of coordinating the NRA's activity with the public works administration and the federal relief administration.

Stone City Artist Colony Plans Last Sunday Open House

STONE CITY, Aug. 15 (Special to The Daily Iowan)—The Stone City art colony will close its second successful season with a public celebration next Sunday. The high light of the program will be an auction of paintings made at the colony during the last eight weeks.

The program for the day will include music by the Anamosa Reformatory band, a chalk talk, and specialties by a group of entertainers. The entire colony will be open for inspection and artists will demonstrate their work.

Grant Wood, Iowa painter, will head the reception committee, aided by instructors from various universities and colleges. The mayors of neighborhood communities have been invited.

Sought for Murder

DOVER, N. J. (AP)—A tattered vagrant whose recent shelter had been a lean-to made from a billboard and a piece of tarpaulin was sought today as the possible slayer of Anna Ulm, 45 year old New York spinster who summured at Lake Hopatcong.

Crime Curbing Ideas Deluge Minutes of Senate Committee

NEW YORK, Aug. 15 (AP)—Voluminous advice on the curbing of crime was poured into the record of the senate sub-committee on racketeering today by judges, prosecutors, lawyers, policemen and criminologists.

State compacts to give courts subpoena power across state lines trials in the absence of fugitives from justice, a national vagrancy act, prohibition on the paying of tribute to racketeers, federal assumption of crime prosecution where states fail and universal registration and fingerprinting were among the suggestions presented to the committee in the last session of its two-day open hearing.

Clark Fights for Job Over State Ruling

Charges Herring Regime With Playing Politics

DES MOINES, Aug. 15 (AP)—E. W. Clark, state insurance commissioner, late today charged the Herring administration with playing politics in withholding his salary warrant for the first half of August.

The warrant for $166.66 was refused the commissioner by Charles E. Murtagh, state comptroller, acting upon advice of Atty. Gen. Edward L. O'Connor.

Mr. O'Connor gave Murtagh an opinion holding that Clark's appointment to the insurance post in 1931 was void on the ground that the state senate, voted to increase the pay of the office which he later was to assume.

Commissioner Clark, who returned from his home in Mason City shortly before the state house closed, went to the state house and, on advice of his counsel, filed written demand for his warrant. Mr. Murtagh refused to deliver the warrant.

Denies Charge
Addition M. Parker, Des Moines, who, with John Sennett of Mason City, is Commissioner Clark's personal attorney, issued a statement charging that the denial of Clark's pay represents a political determination on the part of the Democratic administration to remove Clark from office and replace him with a Democrat.

Commissioner Clark may resort to the courts in an effort to collect his salary and establish his right to the office. He is in court now resisting the authority of the executive council to conduct a hearing on charges brought against him in a petition for removal filed by William Baker, attorney, of Kansas City, Kan. Court hearing on Clark's petition for certiorari to review the council's action is set for Sept. 5.

Johnson Approves Modifications of Newspapers' Code

WASHINGTON, Aug. 15 (AP)—A modification of the president's employment agreement covering hours of labor and wages in the newspaper industry was approved tonight by Hugh S. Johnson, industrial administrator.

The code was submitted by the American Newspaper Publishers association after a previous proposal had been turned down by the recovery administrator.

The plan will be acceptable as a substitute for the hours and pay provisions in the president's general blanket code and compliance with it will permit newspapers to obtain the blue eagle pending consideration of a permanent code.

Car Hits Building; Two Escape Injury

A car driven by Mrs. Ralph Reeds, 722 Dearborn street, jumped the curb Monday at 3:30 p. m. and crashed into the side of the I.O.O.F. building at the corner of College and Dubuque streets.

Two persons escaped injury when they jumped from in front of the car. The wall of the building and the car were damaged.

Abductors of Factor Reply to Machine Gun Fire With Pistols While Fleeing Trap

Kansas City Gunman Faced With Gallows

Witnesses Say Bailey Participated in Station Slaying

DALLAS, Tex., Aug. 15 (AP)—The gallows loomed ahead tonight for Harvey Bailey, one of the chief "public enemies" of the nation as federal and state officials moved to bring to justice the perpetrators of the union station massacre in Kansas City and the kidnaping of Charles F. Urschel, Oklahoma City oil man.

Department of justice agents said the captured desperado had been identified positively by eye witnesses as one of the machine gunners who killed four officers and convict Frank Nash in Kansas City June 17.

Murder charges were filed today against Bailey in connection with the slaughter in the city where a Missouri jury not long ago imposed the first death verdict in the country's history for kidnaping.

Federal authorities indicated Bailey would be turned over to Kansas City authorities instead of being removed to Oklahoma City with four other prisoners for arraignment on federal charges of kidnaping in the Urschel case.

Meanwhile, a widespread hunt was being pressed throughout the country for Verne C. Miller, former South Dakota sheriff, Wilbur Underhill, escaped Kansas convict, and others sought in the Kansas City killings; and for George Kelly, named with Albert L. Bates, arrested at Denver, as the actual abductors of Urschel, who was ransomed for $200,000.

Killed Federal Agent
The murder charge against Bailey was for the killing of Federal Agent Raymond J. Caffrey, one of the four officers slain in Kansas City. The complaint was sworn to by W. F. Trainor of the division of investigation of the department of justice.

"I will do all in my power to hang Bailey and any one else who might be found guilty in connection with the wholesale killings," said County Prosecutor T. A. J. Mastin of Kansas City, who obtained the death verdict recently against Walter McGee, convicted in the kidnaping of Miss Mary McElroy, daughter of City Manager H. F. McElroy.

Fingerprints Sought
The abandoned automobile was photographed minutely for fingerprints. A coat and hat tossed away by a fleeing man were found and police said they were certain they would be able to determine the identities of the men through the clues.

Convicts Hold Mining Shafts

Authorities Threaten to Rout Prisoners With Tear Gas

PETROS, Tenn., Aug. 15 (AP)—Officials of the Brushy mountain prison decided late today to hurl tear gas bombs into the recesses of a state-owned coal mine unless some 160 convicts, who yesterday seized the shafts in a mutiny against the discipline of a new deputy warden, accept an ultimatum to surrender.

Dr. W. E. Cocks, state commissioner of institutions, rushed here by motor from Nashville and after a conference with Warden W. F. Gallahar set in motion plans for the tear gas attack.

Originally there were 182 prisoners in the uprising, but about a score emerged during the day and said they had slipped by leaders of the strike.

The prisoners had had nothing to eat since supper last night.

Warden Gallahar conversed with representatives of the strikers at the mine mouth during the day and found them "very pleasant, but adamant in their demands that Deputy Warden O. C. Hendrix be removed and that civilian clothing seized by his orders be returned to them."

One of Hendrix's first official acts was to order a search of the entire prison population. This was made Sunday and resulted in the finding of dirks, picks, hammers, chisels, and similar weapons.

Escape Most Elaborate Trap Ever Made by Police

CHICAGO, Aug. 15 (AP)—Driving wildly through one of the greatest police dragnets ever formed, a gang of kidnap suspects today dodged 300 federal, city and county authorities directed by airplanes soaring overhead and apparently made good their escape.

The men dumbfounded to learn they were in the midst of a trap when they met emissaries to receive a ransom payment, fled amid a tattoo of sub-machine gun bullets and answered police fire with pistol shots.

Carried Money Away
They carried with them a package representing the final payment of the ransom for the release of John Factor, Chicago speculator who was freed by abductors several weeks ago after a promise to pay additional money.

The Herald and Examiner said that learned from authentic sources that the men obtained about $50,000 in the ransom package. The money, the paper said, was furnished the federal bureau of investigation by Factor to enable the department to catch the abductors with the evidence. Officials declined to comment.

The kidnapers were to meet Factor's messenger at a barbecue stand near suburban La Grange.

For miles about police forces massed at the appointed time. Overhead dived three airplanes equipped with short wave wireless to direct activities of the dozens of squad cars secreted along the highways.

As per arrangements, a taxi cab drove to the barbecue stand. In it was a diminutive policeman dressed as a messenger boy. The driver dressed as a cab driver was another officer. A sedan trailed the taxi.

The messenger boy got out, gave the kidnapers the prearranged signal and they took the package. Then Patrolman Frank McKenna, the "messenger," gave another signal. Overhead the men in the planes saw it through glasses and flashed word to all squads. As the kidnapers fled the "chauffeur" of the taxi spat machine gun bullets at them and was answered by a volley of pistol shots. One of the extortionists was believed wounded. The car was driven into a woods where it later was found abandoned.

At the same time a wireless warning was sent out that another car carrying other suspected members of the kidnap gang was cruising in the area.

Farm Women Have
Special Program at Century of Progress

CHICAGO, Aug. 15 (AP)—The farm woman had her day today at the World's fair and there was plenty doing: a unique parade, a pageant which portrayed the advancement of farm home making in the last two centuries, addresses by leading women agriculturists and a luncheon given by the World's Fair in tribute to outstanding women farm experts.

Faith in the "new deal" for agriculture was expressed by Mrs. Dora H. Stockman of East Lansing, Mich., representing the National Grange; Mrs. Charles W. Sewell, home and community director of the American Farm Bureau federation, Chicago, and Grace E. Frysinger of the U. S. department of agriculture.

Two Charged With Violating Truck Law

SIoux FALLS, S. D., Aug. 15 (AP)—Two arrests, the first since the start of a sheriff's drive to enforce the state's new truck license law, were announced today by Sheriff Melvin L. Sells.

Jerry Cash, driving a truck of the Galinski Fruit company, Sioux City, and Hilding Haag, Dell Rapids, were picked up and released on their own recognizance to report Aug. 18. Cash was charged with failure to carry compensation plates and Haag, with lack of trucker's permit and compensation plates.

Chicago Judges Show What They Can Do

IT HAS been gratifying to watch the spectacle of 10 hard working judges in Chicago clearing the criminal dockets and bringing justice abreast of crime. It is a novelty of great interest to citizens everywhere interested in good government and order.

The perfect teamwork displayed by these judges and the district attorney already has cleared the criminal calendar so that all those arrested in Chicago within the last week or 10 days now face immediate indictment and prompt trial.

Those who have made such swift justice possible are worthy of praise. It is a demonstration of what can be done under the present system of administration of justice when those charged with its administration are fully aroused to their responsibility.

More than that, however, it is evidence that the halting, weak, and laggard justice to which the citizens of Chicago have become accustomed has been inexcusable. It is a clear demonstration that it is within the power of the judges themselves to speed up the processes of criminal justice until it catches up with crime. Now that the people of Chicago have seen what can be done there will be no excuse for a return to the old hobbling ways.

This is just as true of hundreds of other American cities as it is of Chicago. The whole country for many years has been deploring the slowness of justice. Many have blamed it upon our system of courts and juries and upon technicalities of the law. Yet here it has been shown that much of this laxity can be blamed upon the judges and the prosecutors themselves.

It is generally agreed that our system of administration of justice leaves much to be desired, but before we cry too much for radical reforms it might be wise to insist that judges and states attorneys follow the example of these Chicago officials and see if real devotion to duty will not solve much of the problem.

Two New Plays By Eugene O'Neill

THE most important announcement that could be made by the stage world comes with the notice that the Theater Guild will present two new plays by Eugene O'Neill during the coming season.

O'Neill is without question the greatest of modern American dramatists and his place is a high one in the ranks of the world's playwrights. He is at the same time the most highly praised and the most severely criticized of contemporary dramatists, which is in itself a sign of genius.

Information that the new works will be a folk play and a modern miracle drama give promise that in at least one instance Mr. O'Neill will have found it possible to depart from his usual morbidity which, though often magnificently handled, has added fire to the denunciation of certain of his critics. He has demonstrated before that he is a master of humor as well as of tragedy and he is a poet of great strength.

Mr. O'Neill is today the one great hope of America in the dramatic field. Many feel that his masterpiece is yet to be written. If so, perhaps American playwrights may yet have something really superb at which to aim.

Stretching Comparison

(From the Christian Science Monitor)

Para-doxically speaking, rubber bands are expanding. They are meeting present-day economic conditions with a progressiveness that is characteristic of Para's elastic disposition. With a resiliency that is traditional, they are stretching into new and hitherto unexplored fields. Undoubtedly rubber bands have done more to hold things together than almost any other commodity, and they will receive public support in their efforts to extend their service beyond the strictly utilitarian purposes for which they were designed.

Rubber bands have met every reasonable demand put upon them with generous extensibility. Often they have sacrificed themselves to the occasional requirements of an over-confident user. And now they are making an appeal to the eye. They propose to be beautiful as well as useful. Their varied hues are incontrovertible evidence of art's tensibility.

Rubber bands in colors have a great future. At present confined to the display of only a few of the fundamental colors, there appears to be no reason why the entire gamut of shades should not be finally acquired. In fact, rubber bands, like various other commodities, ultimately should appear in all the effulgence of new models. The 1933 rubber band, in a delicate shade of hyacinth, perhaps, with an extra-reinforced chassis and high-power elasticity, should make a strong appeal to the user to turn in the old models.

GOOD MORNING

"I think, for the purpose of assuring the Latin-American people that we are sincere in our announced policy that we will not interfere, we should make a declaration that there is no longer necessity for the Monroe Doctrine. We should say that the Monroe Doctrine is an outworn policy."

With those words Senator Key Pittman, who happens among other things to be chairman of the senate committee for foreign relations, started another of our perennial controversies over a policy which has more or less guided our attitude toward our Latin-American neighbors for more than 100 years.

In the light of Mr. Pittman's attitude and of events in Cuba it is well that we re-examine the Monroe Doctrine and the thesis it propounds in the light of present day conditions. It has been necessary time after time to do this and will be necessary often in the future.

The trouble with the Monroe Doctrine is not the doctrine itself, but the interpretation placed upon it by such senators as Mr. Pittman and not infrequently by hostile factions in South and Central American nations.

The Monroe Doctrine itself calls for no interference with the affairs of Latin-American nations; it merely calls for non-interference by other nations. It gives notice to all who would seek to take advantage of our neighbors to the south that the United States stands ready to put a mailed fist in their way if necessary.

In this purpose—the only purpose of the Monroe Doctrine—it has been uniformly successful. Its success is made clearly evident by comparing the condition of South America with that of Africa, which has been open to the colonizing ambitions of all the European powers. Had it not been for the Monroe Doctrine there is no reason to believe that South America would not now be just as helpless a conglomeration of subject colony-pawns.

It is in the enforcement of this doctrine, however, that a certain obligation arises at times for American interference or intervention in South American affairs. This is evident in the Cuban situation. During the recent disorders several British and Spanish nationals have been killed or injured. Under ordinary circumstances such incidents would call for protests to the government of Cuba from the governments of Great Britain and Spain, but in this case it is the government of the United States which must accept the responsibility.

The reason for this is clear. By the terms of the Monroe Doctrine we will allow no interference in the affairs of Latin-America by foreign nations. Such protests as would ordinarily be made to the Cuban government are in effect threats to use force, but our Monroe Doctrine precludes the use of force and renders foreign protests, theoretically at least, impotent.

European nations logically conclude that if the United States, through the Monroe Doctrine, prevents them from taking proper measures in Latin-American nations for the protection of their nationals and their property, then the responsibility lies with the United States to take those measures. This, certainly, is a reasonable attitude.

The situation in Cuba is one hedged with other conditions. By the terms of the Platt amendment the right is reserved by the United States to intervene in Cuban affairs at any time, with force if necessary, to maintain order and assure a stable Cuban government. This was one of the principal conditions of Cuban independence.

In addition to placing a definite restriction upon Cuba, however, this amendment constitutes an obligation on our part toward the Cuban people. In the light of this obligation and of our responsibilities to foreign nations under the Monroe Doctrine, it would seem almost inexcusable that our intervention has not come more quickly.

Perhaps Senator Pittman is right in his contention that the Monroe Doctrine is no longer needed, that danger of invasion was a thing of the past. If that were true it would be folly any longer to burden ourselves with the multiple responsibilities which the doctrine entails.

Yet it can hardly be demonstrated that the senator is right. The colonizing urge of Europe has not yet been entirely quenched. Colonial programs do not recede, but keep on advancing. Germany's protests against the treaty of Versailles are evidence of the fact that colonies are still considered spoils of war. There is no proof that, should the Monroe Doctrine be scrapped, the nations of South and Central America would be free from the great colonial chess game.

All evidence points to the fact that the doctrine has been and still is successful. It should be retained. But all the responsibilities and obligations which it entails should be clearly recognized and we should display no hesitation in fulfilling them.

—Don Pryor.

Book Bits

(From Twenty Years A-Growing, by Maurice O'Sullivan)

"It was a lovely night, praise on high to God who made heaven and earth, and I fell thinking of all the happy days I had spent in the view of the hills and recalled the words of my grandfather: Twenty years a-growing, twenty years in bloom, twenty years a-stopping, and twenty years declining. I looked down over the cliff where a seal was moaning softly. I wonder, said I to myself, are the same thoughts troubling you? Maybe you are keening mournfully for your fair child which the sea swell snatched from you out of your cave, or some such moan."

CODE Four Giant Industries Urged to Hurry

ments were approved for the Pacific coast dried fruit, jewelry manufacturing, insulation board, shri and jute felt, and porcelain enameling industries.

These agreements specifying minimum wages and maximum hours for the groups will remain effective pending hearing on the permanent codes.

In another significant move toward the goal of industrial stability, the national labor board dispatched Elmer F. Andrews, New York commissioner of labor, to the bituminous coal fields of western Pennsylvania to investigate charges that operators had violated conditions of the agreement which ended the strike there.

Without Regulation
Johnson, in advocating that the four basic industries compose their differences and agree upon codes with the administration, was faced with the fact that three of the groups were operating without regulation by the NRA while the petroleum industry is working under a temporary code of wages and hours but is far apart on other controversial matters such as fixing the cost of production.

In formally establishing the recovery administration, President Roosevelt mentioned the basic industries as leading the way in the program.

Present Situation
The situation with reference to the four now in conference is this: Hearings have been held upon coal, steel and oil codes but there is still a wide difference of opinion both between operating groups and between the industries themselves and Johnson.

The automobile code came in a few weeks ago and a hearing is set for Friday, but Henry Ford has not indicated his attitude toward the agreement submitted by the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce.

He had no representative today at the conference with Robert W. Lea, the deputy administrator. At the request of Johnson, the public works board allotted $500,000 to the NRA to continue its work. It previously had been given $130,000.

CUBA

More Peaceful Under De Cespedes

large bronze bust of the former chief executive, and said that the two relics would be turned over to members of the ABC secret society.

Among outstanding questions which youthful Martinez Saenz must deal with in negotiations with Ambassador Welles, the following head the list:

1—Revision of the 1901 reciprocity treaty which binds the two nations to reciprocal tariff concessions, 20 per cent in the case of the United States 25 per cent in the case of Cuba. Tariff walls of both nations, and internal consumption taxes imposed in Cuba, have well nigh rendered the document worthless.

Rightful Place
2—The securing for Cuba of what she regards as her rightful place in the American sugar market. Under the Roosevelt quota allotment plan, Cuba will be permitted to ship a specified amount of her production to the United States at lower tariff rates.

3—The refunding or refinancing of Cuba's $160,000,000 foreign debt, largely inherited from the Machado administration and its expansive public works program.

The situation at the presidential palace vividly illustrated the change of regime.

Always under Machado grim-faced soldiers and police stood guard about, and none who had not good reason could enter. Doors were closed and parts of the palace kept apart from visitors.

Open to Visitors
With the quiet De Cespedes in power, there were only the usual police guards and one soldier, good humored, whose rifle guarded automobiles belonging to the palace. All doors were open, and all parts of the palace open to visitors.

The newspaper Diario de la Marina said that it had learned that Machado secretly planned his escape from Cuba more than two months ago and that he expects shortly to make his home in Germany.

"Thoroughly convinced that he ultimately would be obliged to abandon office," the paper said that Machado withheld his plans from his most intimate associates and even from members of his own family.

To Germany?

The Diario asserted that in June Machado sent Mrs. Isobel Calger, private secretary of the chief of the palace household, to Germany to buy a home for him there.

Despite difficulties in obtaining a passport, Mrs. Calger, a Hungarian by birth, arranged her trip quietly and upon arrival in Germany found a place she thought would be suitable, the newspaper said. She cabled to the president who sent another of his agents to Europe with the necessary funds to complete the deal, according to the published narrative.

The newspaper expressed the belief that the deposed president would go from Nassau, the Bahamas, to Germany and have his family, now in the United States, join him there.

Prof. N. B. Conkwright Will Give Talk Today

"Diophantine equations" will be the subject of a lecture in the mathematics series by Nelson B. Conkwright of the mathematics department, tomorrow at 4:10 p.m., in room 222 physics building.

Mr. Conkwright's address will conclude a series of two lectures. The first, given last week, was by Prof. L. E. Ward, who spoke on the subject, "Purple cows."

The lecture will be open to the public.

BEHIND THE SCENES - IN HOLLYWOOD

STUDIO GOSSIP SCREEN COMMENT

HOLLYWOOD—Seventeen year old Rochelle Hudson appears before a Los Angeles judge today and asks him to approve the second long-term contract she has won in her brief career.

Signing now with Fox after RKO failed to take up her option, Rochelle proves once more that failure at one studio need't discourage any young player.

At RKO, for instance, Rochelle played only ingenue leads. Her first assignment under her new contract, and this shows the measure of her success, will be a full-fledged feminine lead in "Odd Thursdays." And she gets to play opposite Fox's romantic ace, Warner Baxter.

Of course, she didn't just step right into this. Fox tried her out as an ingenue in Will Rogers' picture, "Doctor Bull." Then they gave her a sophisticated role in "Walls of Gold." It was the rushes from this picture that brought the long-term offer.

An argument was being waged about the film strike. Someone asked if a certain small studio paid the sound-men's union scale.

It was Al Boasberg who flipped: "Sure—they pay it to everybody, including directors."

Walter Ramsey, the fan magazine writer, tells the one about the two old maids who were knitting in the sunny garden of a New York asylum.

Suddenly one of them threw down her work. "Heavens!" she exclaimed. "I wish some handsome man like James Cagney would rush in here, throw his arms around me and kiss me!"

Knitting away, her companion said: "Now you're talking sense. In six months you'll be out of here."

HOLLYWOOD PARADE
When Clara Bow decided to send her 11 year old cousin, Lillian, back to New York, one of the transcontinental railroads called up and volunteered to see that she got there safely alone. Several hours later, an official of the company called again and withdrew the offer—fear of kidnapping.

One reason why the Hollywood swains have not made such an impression on Lillian Harvey in a single day, the blond often receives several letters cable from Willie Fritsch, a man in Germany. So have the pair already married any rate, Lillian plans to first boat for Europe as soon as she can get a vacation from studio.

The most amazing sarcasm play Hollywood has seen in is that of Achmed Abdul has come out here to write a mount. The author made appearance on the lot wearing a bowler hat, a monocle, a moustache, a yellow tie, a cam sport coat, brown plaid two-toned brown sport shoes spats and a stick hung from wrist with a leather thong.

Everyone cheers the sight Jack Gilbert to play opposite Garbo in "Queen Christina" would be interesting, how read the mind of Laurence who was persuaded to make dash from London to Hollywood play the part. Mr. Oliviera actor, will be used in picture at Metro-Goldwyn-

Iowa Citizens Continue Whirl of Vacation Comings, Goings

Boy of Mother Goose Fame Would Face Real Problem in Tabulating Answers to "Where Are You Going, My Pretty Maid?"

The little boy of Mother Goose fame, who asked "Where are you going, my pretty maid?", would have a busy time, were he in Iowa City this week, trying to find out the destination of all local persons who are leaving for and returning from vacation sites. Each day the group which is in town changes, and the group which is vacationing varies until our inquisitive little boy would almost be driven to desperation as he endeavored to understand it all.

But regardless of "where are you going," they are going, and they're coming home, too. So what's our loss is someone else's gain, and what's somebody else's loss is Iowa City's gain, and all in all, society should be back to normal some day. In the meantime... have a good time!

It's a well-known fact that "two's a company," but so is four, or six, or 12, for that matter. Any number's a good number to talk it over in sprightly conversation these August days, whether it be over a dinner table or around the tea table.

Helen Fox entertained Hildegard Freese, Betty Ellason, and Margaret Olsen at her home at Golfview, last night at an informal dinner.

Among the local members of Delta Delta Delta sorority, both active and alumnae members, who will motor to Williamsburg, tomorrow afternoon, to be guests of Mrs. James Gaffney are: Mrs. Clyde Hart, Mrs. George E. Johnston, Mrs. Erling Thoen, Mrs. Herbert G. Long, Helen Williams, Lucille Bruner, Mrs. Sarah Paine Hoffman, Hildegard Freese, Marjorie Bryan, Dorothy Hughes, Mrs. Jacob Van der Zee, and Mrs. Earle Smith. Mrs. Gaffney graduated from the University of Iowa, and affiliated with the local chapter of Delta Delta Delta.

Barbara Balluff and Mary Louise Donegan, both of Davenport, returned to their homes yesterday morning after a short visit at the Gamma Phi Beta house here.

Dorothy Dillon of Newton visited in Iowa City last night.

A stretch of grey sky against blue waterline, huge grey rocks jutting out of a gaunt, rough shoreline, dark green trees massed against the skyline, low squat cabins are in store for the vacationist who goes north for his vacation. And the northern woods and lakes still hold allure for Iowa Citizens.

Myrtle Keeley, 415 N. Johnson street, returned yesterday from a ten day vacation spent in Michigan. Miss Keeley is assistant university examiner.

Mrs. W. J. Hotz, and her two daughters, Marcella and Jessie accompanied by her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Blowers of Waterloo have returned from a two week fishing trip at "Lake-of-the-Woods" near Emo, at Ontario, Canada.

Mr. and Mrs. James Jones, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. William Moreland, have left for Hays, Kan., and Yellowstone National park for a vacation.

Dr. and Mrs. E. D. Plass are still in the vicinity of the Black Hills, spending their vacation sight-seeing. They have already visited many of the celebrated sites of interest, including the Rushmore National Memorial, the State Park, the Wind Cave National Park, Sylvan Lake, the Needle Highway, Bad Lands, the Grand Canyon, and the Hot Springs. They are expected to return in the near future.

John Buckman of Charles City spent yesterday in Iowa City. Mr. Buckman plans to enter the university this fall, and was making arrangements for matriculation.

Prof. and Mrs. Edward C. Mable, 109 Grand avenue court, and their family, left for New Hampshire, where they will visit with Mrs. Mable's family. Professor Mable also plans to tour the east during his absence from Iowa City.

Bernard Balluff, Peter Hass, Maurice Donegan, Perry Lafferty, and Tom Coleman, all of Davenport, were guests at the Sigma Chi fraternity house Monday night.

University Graduate Opens Dental Office

Dr. L. C. Dirksen, graduate of the University of Iowa college of dentistry, has opened a dental office at Montezuma, it was learned here yesterday.

Dr. Dirksen received his degree in dentistry here, and during the last year was a member of the college of dentistry faculty.

ROLAND (AP)—Ole P. Teig, 50, floor superintendent at a canning factory here, was injured fatally today when he was caught in a chain conveyor which he was adjusting. He was rushed to a Story City hospital but died an hour later.

Ford-Lindsley Wedding Takes Place Tonight

Taking her place in the procession of brides who have repeated "I do" at a marriage altar this season, Ellen Ford, daughter of Mrs. A. H. Ford, will exchange wedding vows with Dr. Donald Lindsley tonight at 8 o'clock at the Ford home, 228 Brown street.

The Rev. Ira Houston of Webster City, formerly of Iowa City, will read the service in the presence of 50 relatives and friends.

The bride has chosen as her maid of honor, Mary Louise Hansen of Creston. Jack Dalbey of Mt. Airy, will attend Dr. Lindsley as best man.

Miss Ford, who graduated from the University of Iowa in 1931, has been teaching dramatic art and English in the high school at Creston for the last two years. While in the university she became a member of Kappa Kappa Gamma social sorority, University Players, and the Purple Mask.

Dr. Lindsley is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin K. Lindsley of Vermilion, Ohio. He received his Ph.D. degree from the University of Iowa last August, and holds a National Research Council Fellowship at Harvard university medical school, at Boston, where the couple will reside during the coming year.

He was a member of Phi Gamma Delta, social fraternity, and Sigma Xi and Gamma Alpha, honorary scientific fraternities, while on the campus.

Blazing Campfires Denote Positions of Scout Camp Units

Three blazing campfires, one on Pioneer hill, one just west of Camp Cardinal, and one east of Camp Cardinal, denoted the positions of Unit 1, 2 and 3 last night, as the group of laughing, energetic Girl Scouts prepared their supper out of doors. The menu included apple fritters, carrot salad, milk, chocolate nut marshmallow sandwiches, and popcorn.

"What I expect to get out of camp," led by Lorene Berkey, opened the camp assembly yesterday morning, and a short time was spent in discussion. Other activities of the day included a meeting of the court of honor, which is made up of two girls from Unit 1 and 3, and 4 girls from Unit 2, and classes in handicraft, and both junior and advanced life saving.

Dr. Eugene Walsh, Graduate of Iowa, Weds Alfarata Allen

Announcement has been made of the wedding of Alfarata Allen, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Allen of Fayette, to Dr. Eugene Walsh, son of Dr. and Mrs. T. N. Walsh, at Rockford, Ill., June 28.

Mrs. Walsh is a graduate of the Fayette high school, and of a two-year course at Coe college. For the last six years she has been teaching at Tipton public school.

Dr. Walsh is also a graduate of the Paette high school, and received his B.S. degree at the University of Iowa in 1929, and his degree of surgery and medicine in June, 1933. He began a year of internship at a Milwaukee hospital in June.

Lundquist-Childs Affair Takes Place Last Week

Mary Alice Childs, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Childs of Cedar Rapids was married to Carl J. Lundquist, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Lundquist of Cedar Rapids, by the Rev. George Stauffacher at high noon Aug. 9 at the St. Paul's Methodist church in the presence of 75 friends and relatives.

Mrs. Lundquist attended Coe college, where she was a member of Chi Omega sorority and of the Chi Delta club. She taught school at McCallisburg, and at Hendrick.

Mr. Lundquist is a graduate of Coe college, where he affiliated with the Sigma Phi Delta fraternity, and with Scabbard and Blade honorary military fraternity. He taught for two years at Iowa State Teacher's college at Cedar Falls, before he did graduate work at the University of Iowa. He is at present in the athletic department of Coe college.

Mr. and Mrs. Lundquist will be at home to their friends after a short wedding trip.

University Club to Give Benefit Party Saturday

Entertaining in their newly decorated club rooms at Iowa Union, the members of University club will give a benefit party Saturday at 3 p.m., as they meet for the first time since they were hostesses at a garden fete for visiting summer session faculty and their wives early in the summer.

Mrs. W. L. Bywater and Mrs. Paul C. Packer are in charge of the party to be given Saturday, and an invitation has been extended to all members and faculty women to be present. The afternoon's entertainment includes cards and a kensington followed by a tea.

The redecorated club rooms are now available for private entertaining, and reservations may be made by calling Mrs. Bywater or Mrs. Packer, who are the members of the summer social committee. The rooms are open to all members at all times.

Rock Island Road Studied in Palimpsest

The building of the first railroad line from Chicago to Rock Island, Ill., is described in an article by William J. Petersen, research associate of the State Historical society, featured in the August issue of the Palimpsest, publication of the society, to be issued today.

The paper, entitled "The Rock Island comes," traces the organization of the company and the construction of the road, which linked the Mississippi with the Atlantic.

The history of the Rock Island road goes back to Feb. 27, 1847, when the Illinois legislature incorporated the "Rock Island and La Salle railroad company." The capital stock was fixed at $300,000.

Meetings Held
Several meetings were held, and the organization was completed, but the sale of stock was slow, and very little was accomplished until 1850. In the fall of that year, Henry Farnam and Joseph E. Sheffield, easterners, became interested in the road, and suggested that the project be extended—that the new line should be built from Chicago to Rock Island, instead of from La Salle.

In 1851, the Illinois legislature revised the articles of incorporation to allow this extension, and to increase the capital stock by another $300,000.

Surveying Under Way
Even before the new charter had been granted, the work of surveying the new line was already under way. William Jervis was named chief engineer of the new company, and he promptly began operations.

The contract for the line called for a gross sum payment of $3,987,688, to be paid in bonds, cash, and stock certificates. Farnam and Sheffield, who had secured the contract, lost no time in getting started, and the year 1852 saw a rapid movement.

By January, 1853, the line had been completed as far west as Morris, Ill., and when the first locomotive came chugging into Morris it was the signal for a great celebration. The town's little newspaper declared that "one would imagine that our town was the terminus of all creation, instead of the Rock Island and Chicago railroad."

Meanwhile traffic was growing to such an extent that the original rolling stock had already become insufficient even before the line was finished.

The last rail into Rock Island was laid Feb. 22, 1854, and two celebrations greeted it. One was a local jubilee involving speeches and banquets.

The other was national in scope. This second celebration, the "Grand excursion," is described in a second article by Mr. Petersen, in The Palimpsest.

The "Grand excursion" was attended by many persons. The tour involved a trip over the new railroad from Chicago to Rock Island, and from there to St. Paul, Minn., by steamboat.

An editorial, commenting on land and water transportation, by the editor, Prof. John Ely Briggs, closes the issue of the historical publication.

Summer Session Students Plan Tour of Radio Station

WSUI, the University of Iowa's radio broadcasting station, will be the subject of an inspection tour this afternoon at 3 o'clock, by summer session students and faculty members.

Meeting at the Old Gold studio of station WSUI, on the top floor of engineering building, "inspectors" will see the mechanisms involved in transmitting a program.

A broadcast will be put on the air from another studio, and Carl Menzer, director of station WSUI, will explain the process of broadcasting. The tour will be open to everyone interested without charge. All who intend to go, however, have been requested to register at the summer session office, room 117 university hall, in order that accommodations may be adequate.

A Load on Her Mind

The women of Oshima Island, Japanese possession 100 miles south of Tokyo, believe in taking their children with them wherever they go. And here is how they carry the little ones. Judging from the picture, being a mother in Oshima is something of a task.

Gala day: A copy of the London university Gazette, sent to President Jessup, tells the story of the celebration held among those halls of learning several weeks ago, in connection with the laying of a cornerstone for a new administration building.

Parties, receptions, dinners, and speeches made the event a grand one. An address was presented to King George, who was present to lend the thing a majestic touch, and the king graciously accepted.

The University of Iowa was officially represented by Gordon Siefkin, a Rhodes scholar. The Gazette not only mentions Mr. Siefkin as among those present, but also acknowledges the greetings sent by President Jessup on behalf of the university.

The work of remodeling liberal arts auditorium is rapidly progressing. A peek behind the canvas curtains hung in the doorways shows that steel rafters and beams are going up—the iron skeleton of what will be in the future two rooms out of one.

Lists of approved rooms are now being prepared by the housing service office for the benefit of students seeking a "home, sweet home" for the next year.

Prof. F. E. Holmes, director of the service, has a few important suggestions: To householders—be sure to let the housing service know that you have rooms for rent, that they may be listed. To students—be sure that the rooms you select are among the approved. And Professor Holmes adds that he is always glad to help students find that "just right room."

Nation Ready to Use Power of Farm Act

Secretary Wallace to Bring Exports Up

WASHINGTON, Aug. 15 (AP)—If necessary to protect wheat producers from price-depressing surpluses, Secretary Wallace said today the United States is ready to subsidize exports and to employ the "full powers" of the farm act.

Wallace said orally at his press conference that his program could not properly be called "dumping." He said he understood the word to mean the sale abroad at sacrifice prices of quantities of a product in excess of normal exports. His intention, instead, he added, is to bring the exports of American wheat up to the normal movement of the past.

"Subsidized"
"I would call it subsidized exportation," he explained. In response to questions, however, he said his program likely would produce anti-dumping regulations from European countries.

The sale of surplus quantities of wheat to the Orient is chiefly under consideration, he continued, explaining that Oriental countries do not have anti-dumping regulations. The secretary issued his statement after receiving a report from Henry Morgenthau, Sr., American delegate to the Geneva and London wheat conferences.

Reduce Acreage
He said Morgenthau told him that the country offered to make a substantial reduction in its wheat acreage for the next two years if the three other large exporting countries, Canada, Australia, and Argentina also would reduce their production.

"The United States was ready to agree that each country should be at liberty to choose its own method of reduction and agreed to accept control of wheat exports and diversion of excess wheat to other uses in lieu of acreage reduction," Wallace said after his conference with Morgenthau.

He added this country also was willing to engage in a joint reduction program with the other large exporters for one year at least, even if European cooperation could not be obtained for the first year.

Charges Await Grand Jury
CALAMUS (AP)—Charges against Harry Kenyon, 55, in connection with the mortal wounding of Nobel Brown, 34, will await examination of the shooting by the September grand jury, County Attorney Edward Halsbach said. Kenyon will be free on his own recognizance until that time. A coroner's jury said that Brown met his death during a drunken quarrel participated in by five men.

Ripley Explanations

EXPLANATION OF YES-TERDAY'S CARTOON
The five-nosed tribe: Every ant has five noses or olfactory organs situated in the antennae, in the shape of tiny sensory pits. Each of these "noses" serves a different purpose, as the ant is able to recognize an enemy with one, the direction in which to travel with the other, friends with the third, while the purpose of the two remaining "noses" has not yet been definitely established. The ant's sense of smell does not become active until 5 days after its "birth." (See W. M. Wheeler's "Ants," page 61).

Native endurance: Aukuka, a Papuan native, fell overboard from a small cutter in which he set out with another half-caste in a rough sea. His friend, unable to handle the vessel, ran before the wind, grounding on a coral reef, whence he waded ashore to report to the priest on Sida island that Aukuka had drowned. Twenty-one hours later Aukuka, alive, was washed ashore on Ito island, temporarily blinded and considerably hardened by the sea water. The tide shifting repeatedly, had carried him in divergent directions for 21 hours.

"Death at the Wheel"
DES MOINES (AP)—Work-bound motorists Tuesday morning drove down Keosauqua way unaware that a dead man drove one of the autos. The car finally stopped after colliding with a traffic post. The driver, Arthur R. Flinn, apparently had died of heart disease while at the wheel.

OTTUMWA (AP)—Former Senator Daniel Steck announced his refusal of appointment to the special board of review to handle Iowa war veterans' claims. He said his time would be occupied by his duties as special assistant to the United States attorney general.

North Carolina farm families consumed 8,330,000 chickens in 1932 and sold 5,010,000.

Band to Give Third Concert

Program Will Start at 8 o'Clock in Quadrangle

The third public concert of the all-state high school band will be given tonight at 8 o'clock, in music quadrangle, the campus between the new music building and East hall.

Conducted by Prof. Charles B. Righter of the music department, the 46 piece organization of high school musicians will perform in the third of a series of weekly outdoor presentations.

The concert will be open to the public, and will be broadcast over station WSUI. In case of unfavorable weather, it will be held in the north music hall, instead of outdoors.

The band, made up of high school students who have won honors in music and music teachers and supervisors who are studying on the campus this summer, has completed more than three weeks of practice, out of a scheduled five-weeks term.

The all-state music organizations have had courses at the University of Iowa for several summers. The chorus and orchestra were present during the first term, and the band holds the spot in this final period. The five-weeks of music practice will be concluded when the band plays for Convocation exercises next week.

Women's National Tennis Meet Swings Under Way as Stars Advance

Helen Moody Wins Easily in 1st Round

Expected to Meet Helen Jacobs in Tourney Finals

By GAYLE TALBOT (Associated Press Sports Writer) FOREST HILLS, N. Y., Aug. 15 (AP)—There was the customary absence of fireworks today as the women tennis stars of this country and Great Britain got down to business in the forty-sixth renewal of the women's national championship at the West Side Tennis club.

The principal impression gathered from an unexciting opening round was that Mrs. Helen Wills Moody, seven times queen of this country's courts, still can spot her opponents a lame back and give them a collective lesson.

Moving about easily and unburdened, apparently still a little cautious of the spinal injury which kept her out of the recent Wightman cup matches, Queen Helen nevertheless disposed of her initial rival, Dr. Esther Bartosh of Los Angeles, 6-1, 6-2. She looked, if possible, better than ever.

Plays in Shorts

Mrs. Moody's only rival in the favor of the crowd was the same girl who has been her most tenacious opponent for almost a decade, Helen Jacobs. In addition to turning loose a powerful game to crush Eunice Dean of San Antonio, Texas, 6-0, 6-0, the defending champion gained what may prove lasting fame by playing in "shorts," the first woman ever to eschew the conventional skirt and blouse on the stadium court.

The consensus was the Helens are logical choices to clash in the finals the last of the week, despite the presence of the strong contingent from England. They have met seven times previously, here and abroad, with Mrs. Moody victorious on every occasion.

Miss Round Erratic

The "foreign" scare subsided somewhat because of Dorothy Round's uncertain showing in her first start against Eugenie Sampson, an unseeded player from Winnetka, Ill. The British star played wildly and dropped a set. The scores were 4-6, 6-1, 6-2.

Alice Marble of San Francisco, a sensation in recent eastern tournaments and the event's outstanding "dark horse," scored an impressive victory over Margot Cluett of Troy, N. Y., 6-0, 6-1.

Sarah Balfrey, Boston's choice, turned back Florence Le Bouillier of New York, 6-0, 7-5. Dark haired Carolyn Babcock of Los Angeles, who went to the finals of last year's meet, crushed Virginia Cross of Providence, 6-0, 6-1.

Betty Nuthall, second seeded British star and winner of the American title three years ago, played brilliantly in defeating Jane Sharp of Pasadena, 6-3, 5-3. The doubles division was scheduled to swing into action tomorrow, with the top-seeded team of Mrs. Moody and Mrs. Elizabeth Ryan highly favored.

Illini Choose Badgers Also

Wisconsin Selected as Homecoming Foe at Urbana

URBANA, Ill., Aug. 15—Designation of the Wisconsin football game Oct. 14 as the University of Illinois homecoming feature is expected to assure a colorful background to a thrilling match between the Badgers and Illini.

Last year these teams put on a sensational struggle at Madison and although the Badgers managed to triumph, three touchdowns to two, by a score of 20 to 12, it was anybody's game up to the last play. Bob Zupke's Illini are eager to even up this score and the fact that Wisconsin has lost more regulars than Illini will probably give them a golden opportunity to do it.

The selection of an early October date for homecoming is in line with the desire to present the traditional spectacle when there is every prospect of fine weather.

Michigan will appear in the stadium Nov. 4 as the attraction for Dad's Day and Chicago, under its new coach, Clark Shaughnessy, will close the local season Nov. 18.

Drake will be the opening game Sept. 30. This top-notch Missouri Valley team, which has often appeared on past Notre-Dame schedules, will be coached for the first time by Vee Green, former Illini center and successful coach at Oklahoma City university. Boy Scouts and school children will be guests.

The Illini will make four trips, traveling to St. Louis Oct. 7 to engage Washington university, then to Cleveland Oct. 21 to resume their series with Army. The Army game was originally destined for New York but Cleveland's invitation proved inviting

Miss Lenglen Says Helen Wills Moody Will Lose Crown

LONDON (AP)—Suzanne Lenglen believes that next year one of the English women lawn tennis players may beat the hitherto invincible Mrs. Helen Wills Moody. "I watched the Wimbledon championships this year," she said, "and am convinced that any one of four that I singled out can beat Helen. That is, they can do it—but they don't know how."

Vines Takes Double Win at Newport

Return to Competition in Casino Tourney Unimpressive

By BILL KING

Associated Press Sports Writer

NEWPORT, R. I., Aug. 15 (AP)—

Running a day behind schedule, the unwieldy field in the Newport casino tennis tournament was forced to do double duty today to force its membership from 82 to 20 and bring the high-class competition to the boiling point.

The opening play, held up for 24 hours by yesterday's rain, ran without upsets. The only result that caused anything more than mild surprise was the straight-set elimination of Jack Tibball, the intercollegiate champion, by H. G. N. Leo, the young Britisher who topped the short foreign seedings list.

In Third Round

Two victories placed Ellsworth Vines, the national champion striving for his third consecutive casino victory, in the third round. Seven other players, including the seeded Shney Wood, Gregory Mangin, Johnny Van Ryn and Lee, as well as the unranked George Lott, America's Davis Cup doubles ace, Bryan Grant, the stubby Atlanta boy, and R. Norris Williams kept company with the lanky Californian titlist.

Bunched in the fourth round were Wilmer Allison, the Texan who shared the Davis Cup singles assignments with Vines, Frank X. Shields, the burly New Yorker who dominated eastern tennis during the international team's absence, Clifford Sutter, Lester Stoeftin, Keith Gledhill, Manuel Alonzo, Ted Avory, of England, Berkeley Bell, Eddie Jacobs, and a trio of highly dangerous youngsters, Frankie Parker, 17 year old Milwaukee sensation, and the Californians, Gene Mako and Joe Coughlin.

Draws Veteran

Vines, engaging in singles for the first time since his collapse against Frederick J. Perry in the Davis Cup interzone finals with England, was not too impressive. He drew Russell Dana, 58 year old Pawtucket veteran, in the first round and had to do considerable running to get past the grey-beard. The score was 6-0, 7-5.

The game of Henry Prusoff of Seattle, suited Vines much better and the defending champion was able to rip off a 6-1, 6-3 second round victory.

Cards' Hurling Staff Contains 3 of Oldest Twirlers in Majors

ST. LOUIS (AP)—With the signing of 40 year old Burt Grimes, recently released by the Cubs, the St. Louis Cardinals have brought together three of the oldest pitchers in the major leagues, whose combined ages total 121 years.

Jess Haines is the oldest of the group, having celebrated his forty-first birthday, July 22. Dazzy Vance, the third member of the trio, is 40. Also in the point of service with the Cards, Haines ranks first. He joined St. Louis in 1920. Grimes became a member of the team during the middle of the 1929 season and played throughout the next year before being traded to the Cubs. Vance was obtained in a trade with the Dodgers last winter.

The Zupmen will travel to North-western Nov. 11 and wind up at Ohio State Nov. 25.

The schedule is as follows:

Sept. 30—Drake at Illinois. (Scouts-school children).

Oct. 7—Washington at St. Louis.

Oct. 14—Wisconsin at Illini. (Homecoming).

Oct. 21—Army at Cleveland.

Oct. 28—No game.

Nov. 4—Michigan at Illini. (Dad's Day).

Nov. 11—Northwestern at Evans-ton.

Nov. 18—Chicago at Illini.

Nov. 25—Ohio State at Columbus.

Grid Captain Sees Success

"Better Prospects—All Games Will Be Tough"

Says Tom W. Moore of Waterloo, captain and center of the University of Iowa's 1933 football team:

"The prospects for a good football team are much better than in the last two years, but nothing sensational should be expected by the fans. The team will be capable of playing good football at all times.

"The team that beats Iowa this year will be a good one. It is certain that player-interest at Iowa is at its highest. Every man who reports Sept. 15 will like football and will play with the idea of winning.

"Practically all of the games will be tough, but I think the Purdue, Michigan and Northwestern contests will be the hardest."

Waterloo's Fifth

Moore, who is the fifth captain from Waterloo since 1918 and the second successive center to lead an Iowa eleven, reports that he now weighs 193 pounds, about five pounds in excess of his 1932 playing weight.

After attending the R.O.T.C. camp at Omaha until mid-July, he returned to Waterloo. He will come to Iowa City about Sept. 6 and begin further conditioning work in preparation for the opening of practice nine days later.

To Play Center

The Hawkeye captain, a guard in 1931 who alternated at tackle and guard last fall, will return to his favorite position when he plays center during his final year on the gridiron. He was once an all-state high school pivot man and in last spring's drills demonstrated much ability at that post.

Lott Selects Ideal Player

NEW YORK, Aug. 15 (AP)—Resting between matches in a recent tournament, George M. Lott, Jr., who has been around the major league tennis was longer than any other top flight amateur in the United States, fell into a coma from which he emerged with the "ideal" tennis player.

This is his choice: a player with Bill Tilden's backhand, drop shot and strategy, Bill Johnston's forehand, high volley and match temperament, Vinnie Richards' low volley and baseline kill, Maurice McLaughlin's service, Jean Borotra's smash and Dick Williams' half-volley.

"And what a tennis player he would be," Lott mused.

Going into another trance, George emerged with another "ideal" player, whose strokes would be patterned after present-day players.

This one, said George, would have Jack Crawford's forehand and strategy, Wilmer Allison's high volley and baseline kill, Borotra's smash, Frankie Parker's backhand, Gregory Mangin's low volley, Cliff Sutter's temperament and Ellsworth Vines' service.

Big 10 Likely to See Upsets Says Bierman

By RICHARD P. POWERS

MINNEAPOLIS, Aug. 15 (AP)—Michigan and Purdue, in the opinion of Bernie Bierman, University of Minnesota grid coach, are likely to battle it out for the Big Ten football title this fall.

But he looks for the Western conference season to be strewn with plenty of upsets.

The greatest change from 1932, Bierman believes, will lie in the increased strength of last year's second division teams.

"I anticipate much closer games this year," says Bernie, "and expect several surprising upsets in a colorful season. The pressure will be on Michigan and Purdue, however, and you will have to get by them to look at the title."

Sees Wisconsin As Tough

Bierman thinks Wisconsin also will be tough. Last year the Badgers came back with a rush to end the season with only a tie with Ohio State and a 7 to 6 loss to Purdue to mar their record.

Of his own Minnesota team, Bernie says its strength will depend largely on sophomores. He expects the Gophers to be "about as strong as last year."

More weight in Northwestern's line will offset the loss of "Pug" Rentner, in Bierman's opinion, and he contends the Purple must be considered a factor in the title fight. Ohio State, he thinks, should be able at least to maintain its position of last year.

Sees No Set-Ups

"And Indiana, Illinois, Chicago and Iowa will be far from set-ups," he predicts. "All four will be considerably stronger than last year and are likely to figure in some startling upsets that may change the trend of the whole championship struggle."

"These four schools are getting some good replacements from sophomore material and are likely to provide some miserable afternoons for opponents this fall."

Michigan's power and punch should continue on the same level of 1932, Bierman believes, as the Wolverines suffered comparatively few losses by graduation.

Among part-time jobs held by Iowa State footballers, waiting on tables for board in men's and women's dormitories is most common.

Victory String Now Stands at 83 Firsts

All efforts of Europeans to halt the sweeping invasion of American track and field men in charge of Coach George T. Bresnahan of the University of Iowa have been submerged under a wave of 83 first places.

The Americans, who had competed in ten meets in four countries up to Tuesday, have failed to win only nine events, and their rivals scored six of their triumphs when the invaders stepped outside of their normal events.

19 for Metcalfe

Ralph Metcalfe has turned in the greatest individual performance. The Negro sprinter has 19 first places, four times has equalled the world's record for 100 meters, and once tied the 200 meter standard.

The world's record for the 110-meter hurdles, held jointly by the late George Saling of Iowa, has been tied by John Morris of the Louisiana, who was timed in 14.4 last Saturday. Glenn Cunningham of Kansas has a dozen victories, while Morris and George Spitz, high jumper, each have ten.

Well Trained

Coach Bresnahan has handled the conditioning of the athletes so well that, despite a schedule of two or three meets weekly, their performances have included such as the 34.6 400 meters of Ivan Fuqua; Cunningham's 351.6; Henri Laborde's 165 foot 3.1-8 inch discus throw; and the 6 foot 5 3/8 inch high jump of Spitz.

Hambletonian Race Draws Classy Field

GOSHEN, N. Y. (AP)—With the richest prize in light harness horse racing at stake, the great grandchildren of the immortal Hambletonian 10th, father of the American standard-bred horse, will meet here today in the feature of the 1933 season, the eighth running of the $50,000 Hambletonian. A dozen or more three-year old trotters are expected to match strides in the event over the Goshen mile track.

The master of the park and promoter of the race, William H. Cane has a promising contender in King Ben, which has covered the distance in the fast time of 2:04.5 this season. Mary Reynolds with a time of 2:05 has also attracted attention and has the favor of her owner, R. W. Reynolds.

Ruth Comes Through With Pinch Hit Double

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 15 (AP)—The New York Yankees, opening their final western jaunt of the season 5-1-2 games behind the league leading Washington Senators, put on one of their old fashioned "big" Yankee innings to defeat the Browns 8 to 5 in the first game of their series.

The Yanks cuffed young Jack Knott around to score five runs in the fourth inning. Then with the game apparently on ice, Johnny Allen weakened and had to be removed in the seventh. The veteran Herb Pennock held the Browns in check the rest of the way.

Babe Ruth, who declared himself "benched" for a two day rest with the consent of Manager Joe McCarthy, was pressed into service on the first day of it as a pinch hitter in the eighth. He came through with a double that hammered in a Yankee run.

Lou Gehrig was in there all the way, playing his 1306th consecutive game and putting him in line to tie Everett Scott's all-time major league durability record tomorrow. Lou led the Yankee attack with three singles.

A's Win Again Over Indians

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Aug. 15 (AP)—Lefty Grove outpitched Wes Ferrell today and the Athletics made it two in a row over the Indians. The score was 8 to 7.

Ferrell was hammered for two runs in the first inning when Roger Cramer drove a home run into the right field stands after McNair had started the game with a walk.

DETROIT, Aug. 15 (AP)—In a game of heavy clouting that saw nine doubles and one home run, the Boston Red Sox defeated Detroit 5 to 3 today to even the series at one game each.

Fred Marberry, Detroit's hurler, was breezing along with a 3 to 1 lead when the eighth inning opened. Then he walked a man and three doubles followed to net three runs and the ball game.

Senators Profit by Crowder's 19th Win

CHICAGO, Aug. 15 (AP)—Washington's league-leading Senators opened their final invasion of the west with a 5 to 1 victory over the White Sox today as Alvin Crowder, their ace right hander, kept nine Chicago hits well spaced. It was Crowder's nineteenth victory of the season as against eight defeats.

The Senators bunched four of their nine hits to score three runs off their former mate, Sam Jones, in the sixth inning and wipe out an early 1 to 0 Chicago lead and then added their final two runs on three more hits in the eighth.

Crowder, who in addition to his good pitching had a perfect day at the plate with a double, two singles and a walk, started the sixth inning scoring himself when he opened the

Cleveland Indians Prove Hard to Beat in Overtime Games

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)—Most ball clubs are glad there are no more than nine innings in a game, but the Cleveland Indians could be excused if they started a movement to make every game about three innings longer.

So far this season the Indians have enjoyed a 900 winning percentage in all extra-inning games. With ten extra-inning games played this season they had won nine of them.

Bush Holds Victors to Pair of Hits Until 9th

BOSTON, Aug. 15 (AP)—The Braves used in their five hits off Guy Bush in scoring runs today and defeated the Cubs 7 to 1 in the series opener. The defeat dropped Chicago a full game behind the idle Pittsburgh Pirates.

Up to the ninth inning Bush had given only two hits in a struggle with Ben Cantwell and the score was deadlocked. Then Buck Jordan connected for a single after one was out, Wally Berger advanced him to second with another base hit and Randy Moore slammed a double to right center that sent the winning run home.

The only Cub run off Cantwell, who recorded his sixteenth victory of the season against seven defeats, was an unearned affair scored in the fourth. With one out, Babe Herman and Riggs Stephenson hit a pair of singles. Cantwell fielded Gabby Hartnett's grounder and threw to second to force Stephenson. But Bill Urbanski pegged to ward first trying for a double play and the ball went past Jordan on the first mound; Babe Herman scored on the error.

Stock Market Again Shows Little Change

Turnover Only 907,300 Shares Despite Gain in Dollar

NEW YORK, Aug. 15 (AP)—The stock market gave another slow and listless performance today with the ticker generally droning out price changes of fractional unimportance.

Cotton sold off at the close, while the dollar was firm in foreign exchange dealings. Bonds were irregular and commodities generally steady.

Apparently dominated by the grain, most stocks attracted only meager professional followings. The turnover was only 907,300 shares. Even a stronger dollar created no more than a ripple of interest in the financial community.

Corporation reports, on the whole, continued to emphasize the beneficial effects of the extraordinary spurt which general business enjoyed in the second quarter of this year.

While still operating at a deficit, the American Locomotive company—in its six months' report—showed that it had improved its position substantially over a year ago. Moreover, unfilled orders, as of June 30, 1933, were more than double the amount on the corresponding date a year ago. In the share market, gains of fractions to around a point were retained by Allied Chemical, American Tobacco, Auburn, Mack Truck, Du Pont, U. S. Gypsum, United Fruit, and Union Carbide. American Locomotive and many others were unchanged. Chesapeake Corporation, International Harvester, Goodyear, Endicott Johnson preferred, Western Union, United Aircraft, Union Bag and Paper and Associated Oil were off moderately.

BY ROBERT TERRY SHANNON

SYNOPSIS

Attending the premiere of her latest motion picture, beautiful Leni Luneska, the star, is confronted by a shabby, emaciated man, who emerges from the crowd crying, "Leni! It is I, Karl Kruger. Do you want me to tell the whole world?" Leni turns white. She tells the man she will talk with him inside. Lucky Cavanaugh, a gambler, fascinated by Leni's beauty, saunters into the theatre after Kruger. He prevents Kruger from making a scene and has him placed in a private office until after the show. Cavanaugh then bribes an usher to seat him in Leni's box. During the performance Douglas Gates, Leni's idler escort, proposes to her. She is tempted to accept him to get away from everything. In the office next to Kruger's, thieves are robbing the safe. Leni leaves her box and goes to Kruger. He taunts her with, "It is not pleasant to have a starving bum hanging around—not when he happens to be your husband!"

CHAPTER FOUR

"I thought you were in prison," she said, forcing her voice to calmness. "Did you escape?" "Unfortunately for you, I have a full pardon—for good conduct," said Kruger with satisfaction. "No chance to railroad me back to that place." He was thin as a scarecrow and the light in his eyes was feverish. In comparison with the groomed and confident men of her present life, Kruger was but a human animal in ruin. He was here to bestir her joy of life, but Leni unconsciously showed pity as well as revulsion in her face. "You will want money, of course," she said slowly. "That was what you always wanted. Very well. An arrangement can be made. I give you my word. Will you go now? Tomorrow I will talk with you at my home." Kruger laughed outright. "You seem to forget—I'm still your husband." The violet color of Leni's eyes darkened almost to black. Very slowly the coldness of her breast was beginning to melt against a spreading flame she struggled to suppress. "For what you did to me you should have been killed," she told him. Each word came like a drop of molten metal out of her tight throat. "Fourteen years old—a factory child in Vienna—Yes, you married me, Karl Kruger. You took me to Berlin and London—and what did you make of me? Heaven help you! They will build a special inferno for men like you!" Kruger started to rise, a red flush mottling his forehead. As he raised his hand he called her an epithet in German. But he did not strike her. "Don't forget—you are what they call a criminal alien!" he cried out. "I can have you deported if I like. If the public knew why you spent six months behind the bars in Wormwood Scrubs—you wouldn't be much of a star, hey? You wouldn't like your record paraded, hey? Queens of the screen can't stand publicity like that. Not I know all about these morality clauses. Women like you can't stand scandal and disgrace—not when it's true. I think you'll listen to me, my famous Leni Luneska! Oh, yes—you'll be reasonable!" Leni's hands were clenched. "Just what do you want?" she asked intently. "They showed pictures every Friday night in the penitentiary," Kruger rushed on. "Lots of times I'd see you on the screen in small parts. I watched your rise—I knew you'd be a star some day. No other woman had your hair and eyes and skin. . . In my cell I'd suffocate at night and dream about you—you! His voice rose crescendo. "Till tell you what I want—I want my wife!" Leni paused for a long time before speaking to Kruger. Curiously enough, he did not gaze at her face, but at her graceful hands with their long tapering fingers. The man was not without a certain poetic imagination. Her hands always reminded him of white lilies. "You are not my husband," she said. Green glints were now showing in her eyes. "That marriage in Vienna meant nothing. I was underage." Kruger threw a hand in the air. "Under age or not—it's legal. But if not legal—then you lived with me. I tell you I can ruin you—I destroy you—drive you from the films. Nobody can shut my mouth." "You do not frighten me," Leni lied. But Kruger saw that she was pale across her cheek bones, that the graceful hands trembled. "All the same you will listen to me," he told her with his voice on its high, unnatural level. "I know you well enough—your vanity and your ambition. You love the spotlight—and you will listen to reason. Are you fool enough to throw everything away? Not Leni Luneska! I'm your husband. You will accept me as such. Let the past bury its own dead." "That is only a threat," said Leni contemptuously. "What you really want is the money." "Certainly I want money!" cried Kruger. "All of my life I've been poor as a rat. But I've been started in prison. I've been starved for a woman to crush in my arms. More than money, I've wanted a woman. You—Leni Luneska—my wife! You belong to me and I'm going to have you!" His voice was almost a scream. The two burglars in the next office heard the sound of it, but could not distinguish the words. The lower tones of Leni also reached their ears. "That guy in there is sure giving it to some dame," one of the burglars whispered. "The other answered him carelessly. 'Yeah—some guys is like that.'" Kruger and Leni now stood facing each other, throwing words like missiles. His face was flushed a dark red and drops of perspiration sprang on his bluish upper lip. Leni's face was completely white. Her lips were drained of blood and the rouge on her cheeks was almost grotesque in its artificiality. She had known hate before, but never on this earth had something in her heart thirsted to kill. Had it been in her power she would have destroyed Karl Kruger utterly. Not because he had it in his power to wreck her career. Because he was himself—because of a blinding disgust for the man's repulsive physical self she would have obliterated him from human existence. Each nerve in her body strummed like over-stretched wires. Shuddering revulsion swept through her, nauseated her, sent red flashes darting through her eyeballs. And behind it all, deep in the very pith of her being was a cold sickening feeling, a clammy weakness of the heart that consumed all the strength in her body. When she spoke, her voice was a husky whisper. "There are a dozen men I know who would wring your neck if I asked them to," she said. Suddenly he stepped forward in front of her, his dark hands with their bent fingers raised to the level of her white throat. "And I could strangle the life out of you right here," he said. He was so wrought up that his whole face

Record Number of Drivers to Enter Seven Events of Racing Program at Mississippi Fair

Gus Schrader, Joe Kinsey Favored to Place One-Two in Every Event They Enter; Many Prizes Offered to Racers

DAVENPORT, Aug. 15 (Special)—Entries for the seven event automobile racing program that is scheduled to bring to a close the 1933 Mississippi Valley fair and exposition Saturday, Aug. 19, have been coming in on an average of two a day and with three days remaining before the dead line, it is expected that they will number well over those of last year. Local and Iowa entries are fewer than last year, however, the total entries received up to date is far greater. This is due largely to the reputation of Davenport races of last year being circulated in mid-western and eastern racing circles drawing the cream of the cars and drivers in those parts, to the races here. New Features The high cash prizes for the short program of racing and the points towards the national dirt track title, are two new features of this year's program that might be considered inducements to most of the class here. The class of the eastern and mid-western racing world coming to invade Iowa is probably the reason for ordinarily great number of the local entries not showing. Two of the cars and drivers that are entered from Iowa are probably the odds on favorite of the entire entry list. The two referred to are none other than last year's national dirt track champion, Gus Schrader of Cedar Rapids, and Joe Kinsey of Sherrard, Ill. Both of these drivers will speak well for themselves and will more than likely be one, two, in every event they are entered in. Colorful Driver Gus Schrader is probably the most colorful of all the drivers that will be here. He has helped write many of the pages in the history of automobile racing in this country. Schrader has been racing for the last 15 years, most of this time on the half mile and mile tracks around the state of Iowa and will consequently have more supporters than any other driver in the races. It was hoped that Johnny Gensher, another of Iowa's favorite sons who hails from Stanwood, would be on hand to redeem himself for the defeat that he suffered at the hands of Sig Haugdahl in the races at Davenport last year, however, Johnny is busily engaged trying to gain prominence for the state of Iowa in the east this summer, and has been doing considerably well. Clark Absent Maynard Clark of Milan is also in the east and in answer to Howard Power's wire, requesting his appearance for the races at Davenport Saturday, Aug. 19, wired that he was sorry that he would not be able to bring honor and glory to the folks back home here. Entry blanks are still available, by writing to John A. Sloan, Jr., in care of the Davenport hotel, Davenport. Mr. Sloan announced Friday that there would be 40 laps of competitive racing at $25 a mile. There is also $25 awarded the car making the fastest time and one hundred dollars are given to anyone that lowers the Iowa state half mile or mile track records. The entry list will be closed Friday, Aug. 18, and cars and drivers that are entered must qualify their cars and themselves by 2 o'clock for the races which will start promptly at 2:30 Saturday, Aug. 19.

The truth of the matter was that in any physical combat he probably would have been unequal to Leni Luneska. He was a small man and undernourished. This thought flashed through her mind and she was able to laugh at him derisively. "You haven't the strength, and you haven't the courage," she told him, gaining better control of herself. "No, Karl Kruger, you are not the type. You are only a blackmailer. I'm a fool to let you get my goat." Her words, oddly, seemed to soothe him. He took out a handkerchief and wiped his forehead. "We are both fools," he said, striving for poise. "A matter like this cannot be settled when two people are angry. All the same, I put my foot down and will not accept less than I have demanded. You are smart enough to realize that you must come to terms." "How much?" she demanded crisply. "Recognition as your husband—and all that goes with it." She looked at him steadily and shook her head. "Not if it meant my death." The fire in his eyes began to grow again with disorderly intensity. "I'll tell you something you do not realize, Leni Luneska. I'm a far more desperate man than you think. My life is not worth the flame at the end of a candle. With me it's either nothing or everything. I may go down to ruin, but I'll drag you with me. Still, I'm reasonable. We are both excited. I'll give you one hour to think it over. Go away before we start clawing again. Come back in an hour and tell me if you are willing to make terms." It was a truce for Leni, but not a victory. Karl Kruger had spoken the truth—his life was valueless. In the final extremity the recklessness of a coward equals that of a hero. His brain was hysterical, likely to override whatever intelligence he possessed. For the moment she decided it was the part of wisdom to delay. "Very well, I'll think it over," she said deliberately. "I'll come back in an hour and we will settle everything." As she left the room and closed the door behind her, her legs felt stiff, her knees rusty. There was one thought in her mind that sang a hideous song. There were men in the city—she had read of them—who would kill a fellow being for a few hundred dollars. Assassins . . . Lucky Cavanaugh's interest in motion pictures was so slight that he could scarcely explain his presence in the theater. It had been a whim that brought him to the premiere—yet something deeper than a vagrant impulse. A hunch, perhaps. Leni Luneska was a hunch, too. His eyes followed her every movement on the screen. She awoke an odd emotion within him—not desire—rather a sensation of suspense. Of one thing he was certain—he was not in the least impressed by her fame. He was conscious of no barrier. Beautiful women were not exactly a novelty in his life. In the East at Saratoga, at Belmont, and Bowie and Bradley's in Palm Beach lovely creatures were a part of the game—were really the pursuers. Without eavesdropping, Cavanaugh had heard a part of the conversation between Leni and Douglas Gates. Enough to tell him that Gates would get nowhere with the blonde actress. Here, too, intuition played its part in his opinion. (To Be Continued)

Bonds Mull Listlessly Lacking as Sales Decline

NEW YORK, Aug. 15 (AP)—Definite price trends generally were lacking in the bond market today as most listed loans mullied about in a spiritless manner. Sales totaled only $7,997,000, par value, against yesterday's less than normal aggregate of $8,645,000. News of interest to bondholders was rather meager and most of the recent favorites were inclined to follow an extremely narrow range. A few secondary railway loans sagged, but prime carrier maturities were steady to firm. The best utilities and industrials also showed unimportant variations. Western Pacific first 5s recovered 3 points of their previous loss, and issues of Denver & Rio Grande, under pressure yesterday, came back about a point. Some loans of Santa Fe, New York Central, and Chesapeake Corp., improved. Liens of Nickel Plate, Burlington, Illinois Central, Frisco, Southern Pacific and Southern sagged. Bonds of some of the amusement companies, reflecting an upturn in motion picture box-office receipts, were in demand. Paramount Public 5 1/2-2s gained 3 1/2 points and Warner Bros. 6s were up 2 on a relatively large turnover. In the foreign section rallies of 1 to 3 or more points were held by some obligations of Argentina, Denmark, Dutch East Indies, Germany and Japan.

Johnson County Fifth Annual 4-H Club Show to Open Tonight

Program to Demonstrate Year's Work

Show Will Be Largest Ever Staged in This County

The fifth annual Johnson county 4-H club show will open at the old cannery factory on Sheridan avenue tonight.

The boy and the girl chosen as the healthiest in Johnson county will be announced by Dr. J. D. Boyd of the University hospital, tonight. These two 4-H members will represent Johnson county at the state fair.

Tonight's Program

6:30 p.m.—Exhibits will be open for inspection by the public.

8 p.m.—Johnson county 4-H club band directed by Clifford B. Berkey.

Corn Festival pageant directed by Rose C. Reeve.

Introduction of Health winners by Dr. J. D. Boyd.

Johnson county 4-H club band, North Liberty quartet.

Home Project pageant directed by Miss Clara Kutz.

This year Johnson county will have its largest 4-H club show. The prizes and awards amount to more than $1,225, most of which will go to boys winning in the live-stock contests, and judging contests. The best of 524 head of cattle will be exhibited by 140 club members.

Band to Play

The Johnson county 4-H club band, which will play tonight, is composed of 100 boys and girls under the direction of Clifford Berkey. They are club members from North Liberty, Oxford, Sharon, Unity, Lone Tree, Iowa City and Hills communities. This same band has been selected to play at the state fair on Aug. 30.

The 4-H club girls will repeat the Corn Festival Pageant which they gave at their Rally day at the city park in June. The women's farm clubs of Johnson county are giving a home project pageant tonight.

The members of the North Liberty quartet are: Dan Overholt, Dale Anderson, Jesse Musgrave and Paul Musgrave.

Exhibit Stock

The 4-H club boys will exhibit baby beavers, heifers, swine, sheep, and colts. Stalls have been built by the various building and grounds committees directed by Emil Meyer, J. W. Warren, J. W. Mellecker, R. E. Williams, Joseph Miltner, and Donald Jones.

One demonstration team composed of two girls will represent each of the 13 girls' 4-H clubs in the canning team contests. The canned products of 225 girls will be exhibited at the show. Each club will also have a judging team to compete in the canning judging contest. Prizes for the girls' canning exhibits, judging teams, and demonstration teams amount to $95.

Business Men Cooperate

The cooperation of 186 business and professional organizations of Johnson county helped make this show possible. Exhibits at the grounds will be shown by 15 Iowa City merchants and business firms. Seating accommodations for 1,600 are available through the loan of university bleachers. A small admission fee will be charged each day.

Chicago Grain Mart Will Resume Trading With 'Pegs' Removed

CHICAGO, Aug. 15 (AP)—Trading on the Chicago grain mart resumes tomorrow with the minimum "pegged" price removed on futures the only restriction being a maximum 5 cents per bushel fluctuation up and down.

Directors of the board of trade met but took no action to rescind their previous announcement that the "pegging" of prices at the average close of July 31 would be removed.

In Washington, Secretary Wallace said the administration would keep hands off and permit open markets, but would strive to aid the wheat and grain farmers in other ways.

The prices on the local mart were "pegged" for a second time last month to curb a decided price break. The Chicago board of trade clearing corporation increased required margins 1 cent a bushel on wheat, corn, oats, rye and barley.

Clark Funeral Will Take Place Tomorrow

Funeral service will be held tomorrow at 2:30 p.m. for Mrs. Catherine Clark, 86, who died yesterday at 8:20 a.m. at her home in Oasis. Mrs. Clark is survived by one daughter, Mrs. Maude Elchorn of Pipestone, Minn., Joseph Adair, a son, of Iowa City, and 12 grandchildren.

A preserve for wild geese, between 600 and 800 acres in extent, will be created near Warsaw, Mo.

Two Slain in Iowa Shooting

MISSOURI VALLEY, Aug. 15 (AP)—Harwood Blunt, 25, was shot to death today by Ralph Bittner, 40, who then turned the gun on himself and committed suicide. Mrs. Blunt and her son, Mark, 4, escaped by climbing through a window and running to the street after the shooting of Blunt.

According to the story Mrs. Blunt told authorities she was called from the breakfast table by Bittner, in whose home the Blunts had lived since December, and found him standing in his bedroom with a shotgun in his hands.

She screamed to her husband, she said, and as he ran to the door he was met with a charge from the gun. She locked herself in her room as Bittner pounded on the door and escaped through the window shortly before he killed himself.

Dr. A. B. Bergstrom said he had examined Bittner several days ago and found his mind failing. Bittner was foreman of the Northwestern railroad shops here.

CAVE-LIFE CHILLED ROMANCE

When her parents opposed her romance with Silas Hyatt, who wanted to marry her, Dorothy Sands of Mount Kisco, N. Y., took the traditional way out. She eloped with Silas. For ten days they lived in the cave where she is shown here. She was glad when they were found, admitting she'd make a mistake. Silas is in jail, charged with abduction.

Couzens Blamed for Failure of Detroit National Bank

Former Chairman Says Couzens Balked R.F.C. Loan

DETROIT, Aug. 15 (AP)—The former head of the nation's largest closed bank startled a crowded courtroom today with a sensational account of parts played by Herbert Hoover, Henry Ford and Senator James Couzens in the negotiations preceding the Michigan—and subsequent national—bank crisis.

Testifying before Circuit Judge Harry D. Keidan's one-man grand jury today, Wilson W. Mills, former chairman of the board of the closed First National bank, Detroit, said that:

1. Couzens refused to sanction a loan from the Reconstruction Finance Corp. which would have saved the Union Guardian Trust Co. and prevented the Michigan "holiday" which began Feb. 14.

2. Hoover, then president, told him (Mills) that the R.F.C. was afraid to go ahead with the loan in the face of Couzens' opposition and threatened denunciation.

"Freeze" Deposit? 3. Ford at one time was understood by bankers to have agreed to "freeze" a deposit of $7,500,000 in the Union Guardian Trust Co., but later denied he had made such a promise and threatened if the Union Guardian closed to withdraw all the money he had in any bank, including $20,000,000 in the First National.

Senator Couzens, will answer the statements of Mills when he appears before the grand jury later this week.

The startling testimony came at the reopening of the jury today for the purpose of hearing remaining witnesses and winding up sessions after a lengthy adjournment. Mills, the first on call, declared firmly that he believed the refusal by Couzens to sanction $6,200,000 of a $43,700,000 loan was the sole cause of the state banking holiday, proclaimed by Governor William A. Comstock early on the morning of Feb. 14 after the Union Guardian Trust Co. found itself unable to open for business.

Pleaded With Senator

"I pleaded with Senator Couzens to get the R.F.C. to stretch a point in the interest of saving the whole Michigan situation," said Mills, "but he remained obdurate." Couzens, he said, informed him there was insufficient collateral to cover the needed part of the $43,700,000 loan.

The witness said on the eve of the threatened statewide holiday he telephoned President Hoover. The president, he said, told him that directors of the R.F.C. felt there was insufficient collateral for the loan, and declared the reason they did not think it of sufficient value was fear of Couzens, who was not only the senior senator from Michigan but also had been chairman of the senate committee investigating R.F.C. loans.

Two Burned, One Feared Fatally, as Iowa Plane Falls

MARSHALLTOWN, Aug. 15 (AP)—George Warner, 35, licensed airplane pilot of Cedar Rapids suffered burns from which he was not expected to recover and Glenn Niederhauser, 27, of Marshalltown, incurred slight burns when the plane Warner was piloting crashed and burned today.

The plane took off from the Niederhauser farm early this morning with Niederhauser at the controls. Warner took charge, however, when the motor began to miss, and brought the plane down between two houses on the outskirts of the city where it burst into flames.

Business Manager of Circus Addresses Kiwanian Meeting

The Iowa City Kiwanis club heard about circus life from Herbert Duval, general manager of Russell Brothers circus, yesterday noon. Mr. Duval told of incidents in his 29 years with a circus.

Judge Orders Demery Case Up Next Week

Hearing Delayed After City Requests Time

Upon request of the city, hearing on C. A. Demery's application for a peremptory writ of mandamus compelling the city to issue him a class B beer permit was postponed from yesterday morning until 9 a.m. Aug. 24, by District Judge James P. Gaffney.

Preparing for court procedure. Mayor Harry D. Breene filed a second veto to the resolution granting the beer permit, expanding the reasons for refusing to sign the resolution at a special meeting of the council yesterday morning at the city hall. The council took no action on the second veto.

Divided on Issue

The council has been divided on the granting of a beer permit to Demery, who is the owner of Midway inn near the west end of Iowa avenue bridge, voting 4 to 2 granting the permit. Aldermen Jacob Van der Zee and James E. Stronks voting no, and Aldermen Edward Sybil, Roscoe B. Ayers, M. J. McGuan and John P. Memler voting yes. Alderman S. M. Woodward has been absent from all the meetings this summer as he is helping on the federal Tennessee river project.

Members of the council differ on whether or not the Midway inn is in the business district, with Alderman Van der Zee contending that it was never legally in the business district and Alderman Ayers claiming it is still in the district.

Veto

Mayor Breene's veto is as follows: "In view of the requirements of chapter 37, laws of the forty-fifth general assembly, requiring the applicant for a class 'B' permit to sell non-intoxicating liquors to establish that the place of building where he intends to operate conforms to all laws, and in view of the fact that the place of building that Mr. C. A. Demery set out in his application for a permit to sell beer, namely, 19 Riverside drive, Iowa City, Iowa, is not situated within the business zone of Iowa City and Mr. C. A. Demery has not secured the consent of owners of adjacent property sufficient to authorize the establishment and operation of a non-conforming use and consequently has not established that the place of building where he intends to operate conforms to all laws, said C. A. Demery has not fulfilled the requirements of chapter 37, acts of the forty-fifth general assembly, sufficient to entitle him to the permit to sell beer for which he has applied.

Withholds Signature

"Therefore, I, Harry D. Breene, mayor of Iowa City, veto the resolution passed by the city council Aug. 4, 1933, granting a beer permit to Mr. C. A. Demery and I withhold my signature permanently from said resolution and hereby return the same to your honorable body."

Guy E. Hummer Rites Scheduled for Hummer Chapel Today

Funeral service for Guy E. Hummer, Sharon township, who died at his home at 11:15 p.m. Monday, will be held at 2 p.m. today at the Hummer chapel. He was born Jan. 19, 1882.

Surviving him are the widow, Fanny Sleichter Hummer, a daughter, Mrs. Raymond Benel, Sharon township; two sisters, Mrs. T. F. Murray, Iowa City and Mrs. Fred Creason, Extra, Cal.; a brother, Ivan Hummer, Sharon Center; and a stepmother, Mrs. Florence Hummer, Iowa City.

Daniels Rites Today

Funeral service for John Daniels, 82, who died Monday, will be held at 2:30 this afternoon at the Reform church at Conesville. Burial will be in the Conesville cemetery. The body will be at the Hohenschuh mortuary until 1 o'clock this afternoon.

WATERTOWN, S. D., Aug. 15 (AP)—Injuries he suffered in a head-on automobile collision near Summit Saturday proved fatal here today to Olaf Melby, 50, Summit druggist. He suffered brain concussion, skull fracture and other injuries.

No Rhythm The haunting melodies of Wayne King's band are gone forever, perhaps, from George Kalbach's room at 407 N. Dubuque street—someone broke into his room Monday night and walked off with his five tube radio. Asked if he had any clues, "Chuck" Graham, Kalbach's roommate, said, "We think somebody stole it."

And Costs L. J. O'Connor was fined $5 and costs yesterday when he appeared before Police Judge H. W. Vestermark on a charge of intoxication.

Highway Commission Receives Delegations Seeking Road Funds

AMES, Aug. 15 (AP)—The state highway commission today received delegations from many parts of the state as it began consideration of bids for highway improvements made possible through the $10,000,000 federal grant for road construction.

Bids on 50 projects advertised last week were received during the day. The commission announced that no decision on contracts to be let would be made before Wednesday.

The delegations sought to have part of the money expended on highways in their vicinity for the dual purpose of improving the roads and alleviating unemployment. Among the groups heard by the commission were representatives from Plymouth, Jefferson, Madison, Adair, Hancock, Buchanan and Fayette counties and the city of Ogden.

Opens New Business Leo J. Knepper, who has been employed as embalmer at the A. C. Harmon Funeral home here, announced yesterday that he is opening a funeral home at Cascade.

Set New Air Mark

Helen Boucher, French aviatix, pictured at the Orly aerodrome, near Paris, after she had set a new world's altitude record for women. The 23 year old flyer soared to a height of slightly over 20,000 feet. She was in the air less than one and one-half hours.

Wood Ducks Along Mississippi Most Plentiful in Years

J. C. Salyer, fisheries investigator for the fish and game commission, reports the largest hatch of wood-ducks along the Mississippi river in years.

He says that family broods can be seen on almost every river slough and back water from Lansing to Burlington. Indications are that ducks seen in the southern part of the state were hatched in the Illinois timbered creek bottoms and have immigrated in family groups to Iowa.

Salyer urges all hunters to learn the flight of the wood ducks, which is characteristic of the species, that they may be identified when the hunting season opens.

LENI LUNESKA... the most distant as well as the most glamorous star of Hollywood...

Don't miss her in PREMIERE

AN EXCITING ROMANCE OF HOLLYWOOD TODAY...

by Robert Terry Shannon

She was the loveliest of the European beauties imported to grace the movie screen... yet Hollywood could learn nothing about her. Distant, unapproachable, she went her way aloof to the admiration and worship showered upon her. To win her was a task for a strong man—a reckless man who cared nothing for barriers when such a prize was at stake... and who could hold the prize when it was won. Where in Hollywood with its spoiled screen idols was there such a man? Don't miss Premiere, it will be the most exciting story you have read in years!
