Couzens Raps Detroit Bankers for Bank Holiday Actions

Accuses Witnesses of Holding Back Testimony; Says Hoover Sought Okay on Chicago Loan

Senator Uses Blunt Phrases in Attack on Ethics

DETROIT, Aug. 17 (AP)—United States Senator James Couzens (R., Mich.) today related his own "inside story" of events—ranging from the White House to the Dearborn office of Henry Ford—that preceded the Michigan and national bank holidays and charged that banker witnesses before an investigating jury here had not "told all they knew."

The jury for several weeks has been investigating the closing of two large national banks in Detroit. "For Political Purposes" At one point during his day on the witness stand, the senior Michigan senator veered from the state banking situation to say that during the last national political campaign former President Hoover had asked him to issue, "for political purposes," a statement approving the Reconstruction Finance corporation's $90,000,000 loan to a Chicago bank headed by Charles G. Dawes, former R.F.C. president.

Banker critics of the senator came in for sharp criticism. In blunt phrases, he let it be known that he was displeased with bankers' handling of the national crisis.

"Vicious, Shameful" "A lot of things happened in national banks for which no criminal prosecution can be brought," he said. "But if civilization is to exist and rely only on criminal law and not on morals and ethics, we might as well give up. The ethics of banks here and outside could not be prosecuted but some of the cats were as vicious and as shameful as could be."

Yesterday Wilson W. Mills, former chairman of the First National bank-Detroit, the country's largest closed bank, accused Couzens of blocking an R.F.C. loan to the Union Guardian Trust company of Detroit that would, he said, have prevented the Michigan bank holiday, declared Feb. 14.

Opposed Loan Couzens retaliated today with a statement that not only himself but "every responsible government official" had opposed the loan because of insufficient collateral, declared the loan would not have prevented the closing of the banks and charged Mills with failing to tell "all he knew" about the state's bank crisis.

Larsen to Give Talk on Norse Medical Ways

Primitive methods of medical treatment will be discussed by Prof. Henning Larsen of the English department, in an address on "Old Norse medicine," in the house chamber of Old Capitol this evening at 7:30.

His lecture will be the last in a series of seven under the auspices of the school of letters. The weekly addresses are open to the public.

Professor Larsen will describe the medical "science" of the middle ages in Norway. Superstition mingled with a primitive knowledge or theory of science formed the basis for the old Norse medicine.

He has made a study of this subject, through old books, documents, and source materials.

The speaker is a former Iowa student, and has been associated with the English faculty here since 1915. He took undergraduate work at Luther college, receiving his bachelor's degree there.

Junior C. of C. to Sponsor Flying Show

A two hour air show will be given Sunday afternoon, Aug. 27, at the municipal airport under the auspices of the Junior Chamber of Commerce. Fifteen flyers and six planes of the Hunter-Flying show will be brought here for the afternoon.

F. E. Boyles, who is in charge of arrangements for the show, said special parking plans will be worked out. All the flyers with the flying circus are licensed transport pilots, the highest rating granted by the federal government.

$65,000,000 Allocated for Public Work

New Construction By Government Speeds Employment

WASHINGTON, Aug. 17 (AP)—With President Roosevelt applying the spurs to the recovery drive, the public works administration today announced allocations of $65,000,000 for speeding employment through construction.

Allocations approved included $44,200,000 for the tri-borough bridge project in New York; $11,527,499 for 29 public buildings in 22 states; and almost $10,000,000 for the first group of housing projects to eliminate slums.

Biggest Expenditures These were the biggest expenditures by far approved up to this time for non-federal projects. All have received favorable action at the White House, either formally or informally.

Secretary Ickes, public works administrator, in announcing the federal projects, which include 26 post office buildings, a quarantine station, a border station and an office building, said they were needed and therefore properly included.

Minimum Wages The cabinet board in charge of the public works program also established a scale of minimum wages for the construction projects under its jurisdiction, ranging from $1 to $1.20 an hour for skilled labor and from 40 to 50 cents for unskilled.

The huge New York bridge project, for which funds were advanced to the tri-borough bridge authority, will connect the boroughs of Manhattan, Bronx and Queens.

Murtagh Tells of Exemptions

Gives Reasons for Adding $5,000 to 1934 City Budget

State Comptroller C. B. Murtagh, in a letter to Mayor Harry D. Breene and the city council yesterday, explained his reasons for allowing $5,000 of the $13,710 exemption asked by the city in five funds.

He allowed an increase of $4,548 in the consolidated fund over the Beatty-Bennett law limitations and an increase of $452 in the sanitary district fund. He refused to approve increases in the park maintenance and library funds and said he had no jurisdiction in the fire maintenance fund.

Fire Maintenance "No increase in the fire maintenance fund can be approved in excess of the number of mills levied for that fund in 1930," he said. "It is my opinion that section 2 of S. F. 131 limits the levy for fire maintenance and that I have no authority to increase the levy over that limit."

He recommended that the $4,548 allowed over the Beatty-Bennett limitations in the consolidated fund be set aside as a reserve or contingent fund to take care of any unforeseen expenditure or shortage which may occur and which cannot be anticipated at this time.

"Realizes Problems" After explaining his decision, Comptroller Murtagh said in his letter, "I fully realize the problem city councils are having to maintain their governments with limited funds, but I am also aware of the fact that taxes must be kept as low as possible until the people are better able to pay them."

"In conclusion I want to assure the city officials that this office will cooperate with them in matters pertaining to their budget in every reasonable way and will be pleased to hear from you or to have you call at the state house."

The council will probably reduce the budget in the five funds tonight to comply with the Beatty-Bennett law and the exemptions allowed. The levy must be certified by Sept. 1. The new 1934 budget will total $292,842.

Alleged Gang Confederate Is Shot in Battle

Gene Johnson, Wife Are Captured by Posse as Another Escapes

SPRINGTOWN, Ark., Aug. 17 (AP)—Gene Johnson, alleged confederate of the Wilbur Underhill gang of escaped Kansas prison convicts, was wounded fatally and his wife, Jewell Johnson, was shot in the arm when a posse opened fire with machine guns and rifles at the Johnson farm home near here early today.

A second alleged desperado, Leroy Wright, although believed to have been wounded, escaped from the posse of 20 Arkansas, Oklahoma and Kansas officers. Wright was sought with blood hounds in the Benton county wilds north of Siloam Springs.

Wanted for Slaying Johnson, wanted for the slaying of Patrolman Charles Bruce McPherson, Kan., May 14, was shot in the head and body. He was taken to a hospital at Siloam Springs and died there late today.

His wife was placed in jail at Bentonville.

Mrs. Johnson was quoted by officers as saying that she believed the posse would find "another body" before they returned. It believed she referred to Wright.

Miami, Okla., and Ottawa, Kan., officers arrived in Benton county late yesterday with a "tip" that members of the Underhill gang were in hiding at a house north of Siloam Springs.

Arrived at Midnight The posse arrived at the Johnson home about midnight. The officers took posts within the home and awaited arrival of the trio.

As the three drove up, the officers demanded they surrender. When they started to leap from the car, the posseman blazed away with machine guns and rifles.

Two men fell and Mrs. Johnson ran toward the officers. In the ensuing confusion the man believed to be Wright escaped.

Mrs. Johnson said that since Aug. 4, when the house was purchased by her husband, the Underhill gang had used it at various times as a hide-out. Frequently six of the gang were housed at one time, she said.

Des Moines Woman Succumbs to Stroke

DES MOINES, Aug. 17 (AP)—Mrs. Ed. L. Wegener, 59, of Des Moines, died suddenly at her home today from a stroke.

With her husband, former business man at Valley Junction, and two sons, Lorenz of Clinton and Edward A. of Chicago, Mrs. Wegener had returned here last night from Burlington where they had visited for several days. An attack early this morning resulted in her death a half-hour later, according to members of the family.

Rail Economies Considered WASHINGTON (AP)—Joseph B. Eastman, federal transportation coordinator, announced today he had begun a study of the possibilities of a general or limited freight car pool with a view to achieving important economies in railroad operation.

Supporters of Machado Still Face Dangers

De Cespedes Refuses to Aid, Will Not Consent to Adherents' Flight

BULLETIN HAVANA, Aug. 17 (AP)—Ricardo Herrera, chauffeur for Gen. Alberto Herrera, former secretary of war, was killed late today in front of police headquarters by soldiers and police.

HAVANA, Aug. 17 (AP)—A street shooting in Camaguey and a pistol duel and race over house-top roofs in a Havana suburb marked a renewed drive today against ex-President Machado's supporters, including members of the Porra, the former secret strong arm police force.

Scores of Machado adherents still in hiding found avenues of escape closed as President De Cespedes' provisional government stood staunchly by its resolve neither to aid nor consent to flight from justice of any Machado followers.

Prize Quarry The prize quarry today was Brig. A. B. Alnciant, former chief of police, who was captured in Havana. Alnciant's whereabouts were a mystery ever since the ousted president's flight to the Bahamas last Saturday.

A mob attacked Policeman Marcial Herrero in Camaguey when, after his arrest on charges of crimes under the Machado administration, he fired a pistol into the crowd. Herrero was shot dead and two other persons were wounded. Soldiers who had been guarding Herrero led him to the mercy of the crowd after he fired the first shot.

Brother-in-Law Captured Jose Del Valle, a Porrista and brother-in-law of Alnciant, was captured early today in the gun fight which led to a chase over roof tops from his hiding place. Aquilino Lombard, a Negro congressman, was caught near Perico, Matanzas. Authorities asserted he was implicated in political killings under the Machado rule.

Dr. Manuel Marquez Sterling, who has been living in exile in Washington, cabled his acceptance of the post of ambassador to the United States. He quit a year ago as ambassador to Mexico because of differences with the Machado regime.

Welles in Conference Sumner Welles, American ambassador to Cuba, held a long conference with the new secretary of the treasury, 30 year old Joaquin Saenz, on commercial relations between the two countries. The latter said big Cuban companies which resisted taxes under Machado have promised to change their policy.

Contracts Let for $753,000 Worth of Road Work in Iowa

AMES, Aug. 16 (AP)—The Iowa highway commission today let contracts for $753,220.81 for paving, grading, gravel and crushed stone to be financed from federal public work funds.

The paving contracts totaled $575,051; grading, $24,196.60; garage construction, $5,830; maintenance gravel, crushed stone and shale, $121,250.25; culvert pipe, $852.60; culverts, $26,040.35.

The paving projects are located in Clay, Osceola, Carroll and Humboldt counties.

Judge Holds Sioux City Law Invalid

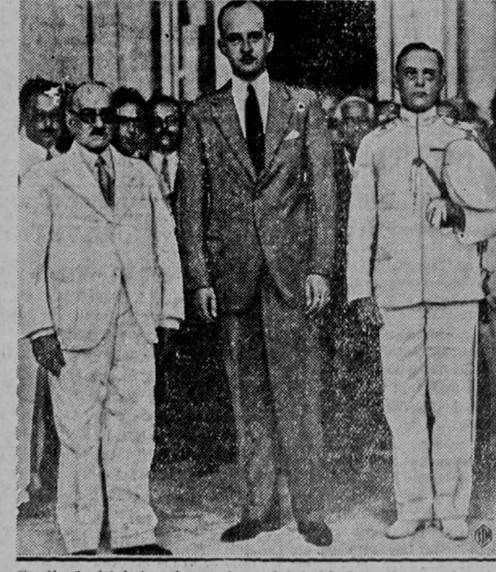

SIoux CITY, Aug. 17 (AP)—Municipal Judge H. R. Kemaston today held that city ordinances forbidding the sale of 3.2 per cent beer in certain sections of a city was invalid.

The ruling came in a case brought by Paul Czerkas testing the validity of a city ordinance forbidding the sale of the beverage within 200 feet of a school house.

The city refused to grant him a beer permit on the contention it would violate this ordinance.

City officials said they would appeal to the supreme court.

CUBA'S GRATITUDE FOR WELLES

Credited with being the moving spirit behind the change of regime in Cuba, United States Ambassador Sumner Welles is a welcome visitor at the presidential palace in Havana, where he is shown with Cuba's new president, Carlos M. Grand Juries May Investigate Alleged Political Collusions

N. Y. Leaders Accused of Being Ruled by Racketeers

NEW YORK, Aug. 17 (AP)—The possibility of an investigation by New York county's two grand juries into sensational charges by United States Attorney George Z. Medalle that political leaders were in collusion with racketeers loomed today.

The charges, made earlier in the week before the senate's subcommittee which is investigating racketeering, were laid before the juries today by their foremen, who were advised of their "great power" by General Sessions Judge Allen.

Mr. Medalle has expressed willingness, if requested by the juries, to disclose the names of the leaders he says are ruled by gangsters and racketeers.

The impending grand jury inquiry was apparently not favorably received by the acting district attorney, Albert B. Unger, and Tammany Hall leaders. Mr. Medalle is a Republican and was an unsuccessful candidate for U. S. senator at the November elections last year.

"No subterfuge will get the district attorney into a John Doe proceeding to make political news," said Mr. Unger. "There is nothing to prevent Mr. Medalle starting a Joe Doe inquiry if any federal statute has been violated."

"If Mr. Medalle's statements are true he has had an opportunity to lay evidence before his own grand juries, whose powers of subpoena are greater than ours."

"If there has been racketeering," Unger continued, "it involves violation of income tax, anti-trust laws, prohibition and the enforcement of the NRA recovery acts."

Plaintiffs' Attorney in Insurance Case Reiterates Charge

DES MOINES, Aug. 17 (AP)—W. P. Baker, attorney representing plaintiffs in a Scott county court action, in a statement today declared that allegations made by him in connection with the merger of the Modern Brotherhood and the Independent Order of Foresters "are supported by records on file" in the office of State Insurance Commissioner E. W. Clark.

Baker took issue with a statement attributed to counsel for Clark which he said left the inference that the "so-called charges filed by me are unsupported." Baker's allegations were made in a letter to state officials June 29.

250 Killed in Morocco

PARIS (AP)—Heavy fighting in Morocco which, during the last week has cost the lives of 250 French soldiers, most of them native troops, was reported in government dispatches today.

Roosevelt Determined to Stamp Coal, Steel With Blue Eagle by Week End

A third list of 84 additional Iowa City employers who have signed the NRA emergency blanket code was received yesterday by Postmaster Charles A. Bowman and posted on the south bulletin board in the post office lobby. The new list brings the total to 333. Names not included in the first three lists will be received in the near future.

The third list of local merchants complying with the code is as follows: McGuire grocery, Amrine grocery, S. Schneider grocery, Brady's grocery and meat, Piper's coffee house, W. A. Gay and company, Iowa City Creamery company, Sanitary dairy shop, Curtis greenhouse, Home food shop, Re-Ly-On hatchery, A. and W. root beer stand, Stop and Shop, Mac's grocery, Slim's grocery, Connell and company, Nagle Lumber company.

Standard Oil company, Iowa City Marketing company, Phillips Petroleum company, A. C. Thormann garage, Blecha and Schmidt transfer, Rickstine top shop, Market street garage, Bob and Henry's, Sinclair Refining company, W. L. Mott and Son, Champlin Refining company, W. L. Novotny motorcycle shop, Preswick's Duco and Body shop, Frazier's station, Hughes oil company, Thompson Transfer, Spot Light restaurant, Dave's lunch shop, Stemen's cafe.

Town and Gown tea room, Butterly cafe, Capitol cafe, Kobes restaurant, Maid-Rite shop, Klenk's cafe, Savoy cafe, Princess cafe, Elks club, Reich's cafe, Home Fuel company, Randall Implement company, McGovern funeral home, Harmon funeral home, Billy's news stand, Peoples' Laundry, New Process Laundry, Dr. H. R. Jenkinson, Doctors Crow and Thomas, Albert Tauber, tailor, College City Cleaner and Tailor, Great Western Insurance company, H. I. Jennings agency.

National Union Credit society, Iowa City Credit bureau, Security Abstract company, Oak Grove cabin camp, Otto Marousek, Haemerle agency, Irish Business college, Alvin W. Walter, painting, Sang Yen Chinese laundry, Service press, Wright's cabinet shop, Mid-Continent Petroleum corporation, National Refining company, Englert Ice company, Otis Elevator company, F. A. Zitelman, Strub Brothers machine shop, Calta Broom works, Iowa City Ice company, Englert theater, Strand theater, Varsity theater, Pastime theater, H. L. Bailey, insurance, and Dr. G. H. Scanlon.

For more than 40 years, the shrill whistle three times a week of a train roaring past Main street, a dirt highway, was the hamlet's only thrill. The inhabitants boasted a cheese factory once, but that folded up during a depression in the '90s.

Today Congressman Ed Eicher assured the town "it had reason to feel proud that it is taking such a prominent part in the mass movement back to prosperity."

Stamp collectors poured into the combination post office-general store-barber shop-residence of E. J. Yoler where 50,000 of the new stamps were on sale. Because it is the only town of that name in the United States, Nira became the first post office after Washington to handle the new stamp issue.

To President Roosevelt, stamp collecting enthusiast, went the first letter. A pigeon carried the first news dispatch for the Associated Press from Nira to Moline from where the envelope was mailed to the president.

Twenty-two thousand pieces of mail taxed facilities of the battered cancelling stamp, and a new one was ordered hurriedly. An expected cancelling machine did not arrive.

The seven members of Postmaster Yoder's family aided in handling the rush. Arnold, eldest son who is also an able automobile mechanic and handy man, operated the cancelling stamp. A federal postal inspector was on hand to direct the proceedings.

Although the postmaster mailed the first letter to the president, Mrs. Emma McClelland, 63, was the first to receive a letter with the new stamp from the post office. She was on hand early, winning the honor as the oldest continuous Nira resident from John Wheatstine, 82, village philosopher who is the oldest resident in years.

Two of the first dozen stamps went to Mrs. W. W. Wilson, formerly Nira, Bell for whom the town was named, and her mother, Mrs. John Bell.

Sues Standard Oil Company OTTUMWA (AP)—A suit against the Standard Oil company of Indiana, to recover a sum "in excess of $100,000" which, it is alleged, was illegally paid in tax refunds was filed in district court today by Leonard Simmer.

Auto Manufacturers to Have Open Hearing Today

WASHINGTON, Aug. 17 (AP)—President Roosevelt's recovery administration tonight presented oil with its industrial code and indicated a determination to stamp steel and coal with the blue eagle before the week end.

Rigid production control and federal price supervision were decreed for the great petroleum industry in the fair competition practices Hugh S. Johnson said he would submit to Mr. Roosevelt tomorrow.

"In Agreement" "The president has gone over this and the interior department has worked on it and is in agreement," Johnson, the industrial administrator, told assembled oil men.

The recovery chief then turned to the extensive steel and coal industries. It was understood President Roosevelt had served notice on both that he wanted their codes on his desk before leaving for his Hyde Park home Saturday. Johnson looked for an agreement on steel tomorrow.

Relentless Pressure Amidst the relentless pressure of these efforts, automobile men gathered for the open hearing tomorrow on their proposed code.

"They formed the last of the oil-steel-coal-auto quartet with their millions of employees to which the administration has been especially anxious to extend NRA membership.

Bituminous coal spokesmen saw President Roosevelt today and will meet Johnson again tomorrow. Steel conferences continued all the while as Johnson received from his aides newly framed data governing wages, working hours and prices for steel products.

Compromise The important oil code represented a compromise of the viewpoints of Johnson and Secretary Ickes, reached early in the day at President Roosevelt's desk. The production code would empower the federal government to require states to hold petroleum flow to market demand.

Tragedies Fatal to Six

Explosion, Drowning, Train-Auto Wreck Kill Iowans

(By the Associated Press) The terrific blast of exploding alcohol fumes, the tragic climax of a Sunday school picnic for two lads who couldn't swim, and train-auto accidents ended in death for six persons in Iowa Thursday.

The dead: Harry Colman, 38, Creston. Ralph Johnson, 11, Prole. Hugh Johnson, 13, Prole. Joseph Frinek, Atwater, Minnesota.

Chester Rough, 23, Osceola. Richard Heuer, 2, Muscatine. Colman, a World war veteran, was hurled to the ceiling of the Creston garage where he worked when a barrel that had once contained wood alcohol exploded as he applied an acetylene torch. He died in Greater Community hospital a few minutes later.

The Johnson lads, on a Sunday school picnic with 15 other boys, were drowned when they stepped into deep water while wading in the Des Moines river at Ledges State park, Boone, Roscoe Hungert rescued four of the six lads, who had gone wading, including his two sons.

The Johnson brothers, sons of Melvin Johnson, could not be reached. Their bodies were recovered a half hour later with the aid of civilian conservation corps workers encamped at the state park.

Frinek was burned to death when a Rock Island train demolished his truck near Humboldt. Rough was struck by a Burlington train as he walked along the right of way east of Osceola.

The Heuer baby, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Heuer, was drowned when he fell into a slough at the rear of his home.

Logical Enough, But Hardly Good Form

PUBLIC RESENTMENT against the activities of kidnapers and other racketeers has given rise to innumerable suggestions for coping with the problem. Probably the most novel of all is the plan advocated by Frank J. Loesch of Chicago.

Mr. Loesch is one of the country's most widely known authorities on crime and criminals, having served for years in the fight against gangdom in Chicago both as a special state's attorney and as a private citizen. He organized and for five years headed the Chicago crime commission and was a member of President Hoover's commission on law enforcement.

Mr. Loesch's experience with criminals and with methods of apprehension and prosecution have led him to the conviction that only through a secret and extra-legal, privately financed investigating organization can the fight against the kidnapers be successful.

There is much to commend such a plan. As the federal, state, and municipal police agencies are now constituted their activities are never completely secret nor are they sufficiently well organized to cope with a problem in which state and city boundaries play no part. Yet it would seem that reliance upon an organization of this kind would entail disadvantages even greater than its benefits.

Mr. Loesch bases his argument on the assumption that the various police organizations cannot be coordinated, yet in the light of recent events that is an assumption which will not hold water. The nation is sufficiently aroused that it seems likely that some provision will be made before long for a centralized national police even if its organization entails an amendment to the constitution. The governors' conference at San Francisco broke a precedent of long standing to pass a resolution asking for such legislation. The senate committee investigating racketeering has announced that every indication points to the need for such an agency. The problem will probably be placed squarely before the next congress.

Even aside from the question of the efficiency of the present law enforcement machinery and the chances for improvement, the idea of relegating the preservation of order to extra-legal private agencies, regardless of their integrity and good intentions, is abhorrent to all believers in responsible government. Even at the expense of waiting for reform the American people will prefer to keep these functions where they belong, in the hands of the government.

As Ye Editor Turns Pro

(From the St. Louis Post-Dispatch)

As the depression proceeds busily with its packing preparatory to departure, many things are happening which no one foresaw, or even imagined, on that brown October day of 1929 when Banker Mitchell stood on the burning deck of Wall Street, whence all but him had fled. And not least of these phenomena is the status to which newspaper editors have been raised under the code presented to Gen. Johnson by the publishers.

Ye editor is now a professional man, eligible to assume the solemn mien and array himself in all the austere trappings of the doctor, lawyer, preacher or full-fledged professor. This haughty rating, we regret to observe, is spoofed at with something pretty close to a jeer by the esteemed Springfield Republican, which sees the editor, in this new estate, leveled down to a galley slave "who may work his head off in a continuous 24-hour 'shift,' without intervention from any source, unless the wife butts in." That, we are constrained to believe, is the narrow judgment of short-sighted, selfish indolence. In the larger view, there are compensations not to be measured by gold or silver or leisure.

Consider the authority which the editor's utterances, as the pronouncements of a professional man, will now carry! Ponder the effect on the congenial and carping critic! Will not crabbled old Vox Populi now think twice before writing in to say that the article fabricated in sweat and research is pure drivel? How about Pro Bono Publico, often enough a pugnacious spirit, who would be delighted beyond expression to meet the editor in the cold gray dawn and run him through? What of the whole vituperative brood who, from the tall summit of their superior accomplishments, have smothered editors since journalism's dawn with scorn and contumely?

As long as the scribe was an amateur, or a villain, or a sansculotte, it was a perfectly non-hazardous recreation to take him for an epistolary ride. But now that he has been certified to, given a degree, accoutered in gown and mortar-board; now, to put it bluntly, that he is somebody, the flaneurs, the "merry men of circumstance," the misanthropes, the wise-crackers and all their kind and kin will hesitate, we suspect, before tilting a lance.

A professional man, to paraphrase a familiar proverb, is the noblest work of the publishers.

Women Voters Should Be Thanked

ENTHUSIASTIC praise is due the members of the League of Women Voters who have organized a two-month series of round table discussions on important international problems.

The meetings will be held each Tuesday night, beginning Sept. 19 and will be devoted to the Manchurian question, the League of Nations, and the economic conference. At the end of the period a representative will be chosen to attend a round table at Des Moines, where a delegate to the national conference on the Cause and Cure of War will be elected.

It is probably no exaggeration to say that the League of Women Voters has done more than any other group to further knowledge of national and international affairs among the people of Iowa City, a service of inestimable value in a democratic nation.

There can be only one complaint. It is regrettable that membership in some organization of this type and regular attendance cannot be made a condition of American citizenship.

GOOD MORNING

Americans thrilled, and with good reason, at the visit of General Italo Balbo and his comrades on the greatest mass flight in the history of aviation. They admired the prowess, the courage, and the daring spirit of these Italian airmen.

It was a magnificent achievement and Americans have been generous in their praise, but the continual reminder by Premier Mussolini that the flight was merely a highpowered stunt to sell fascism to the people of the United States leaves a rather sour taste in their mouths.

If that was the purpose of the flight it would have been far better to have said nothing about it. We supposed all the while that something of that sort was in Il Duce's mind, but it rankles just a little to have it rubbed in. We were willing to admire, but it hurts to have our courtesy imposed upon.

It was to the thousands of Italian-Americans in this country that the effort was principally addressed, according to Mussolini. "When you reached America," said he in his greeting to General Balbo, "you warmed with your presence and with your proofs of your valor the patriotism of that grand community of Italians."

It is only natural that Balbo's unequalled feat should elicit a feeling of racial pride in the hearts of Italians in countries along the way, but that is an entirely different thing than Italian patriotism on the part of Americans of Italian birth or lineage. All creeds, all religions, all races are honored in America. A citizen of this nation may believe in anything, but his patriotism must be to the United States.

All America joins with her Italian citizens in praise of Balbo and his flyers and of the expert precision and skill with which the flight was planned and executed. But if the purpose of the flight was to turn the minds of American citizens against American democracy and in favor of Italian fascism, then it is no more excusable than the underhanded methods of communists or the pamphlet and radio propaganda of the Nazis against the government of Austria.

It has long been one of Mussolini's favorite pastimes to write obituaries over the "carcass of democracy," as he was pleased to call our form of government. Striking happily upon a form of state capitalism at an opportune moment, he has rationalized it into a near-religion and convinced himself that he has founded something eternal. Rationalizing still further, he has pointed out the inherent weaknesses of democracy and shown wherein it was doomed.

America, he believes, is already on the road to his form of state. Only recently he said America has abandoned the "immortal principles" upon which the nation was founded and that President Roosevelt "is working, acts, and orders without any nod or will of Congress. There are no longer intermediaries between him and the nation. There is now no parliament, but a general staff."

Of course Mussolini is wrong. If anything, the last congress has brought us nearer to the "immortal principles" of the nation's founders than we have been for many decades. Congress has given up none of its powers. It has merely granted extraordinary authority to the president to deal with a national emergency. That authority consists of power to act along certain specified lines within definite limits, but with enough room for discretion to allow flexibility that would be impossible were details to be specified. It is power intended to last for a limited period of time and which may be revoked whenever congress feels so inclined.

Of course few would be credulous enough to believe that we shall ever again take up the old order of government. Many of the country's ablest minds are convinced that the movements now set in motion will continue unhindered until America has discovered a greater and finer democracy than she has ever experienced, a democracy to fit the spirit of the constitution. The fundamental concept of this new democracy will be the right of every individual to work as well as to suffrage and freedom of speech and action.

In all the flux of modern America, however, there is no indication that this country will ever embrace either communism or fascism. Both of these are systems of class domination, a concept that cannot and will not long be tolerated here. —Don Pryor

Book Bits

(From Stranger's Return, by Phil Stong)
"In the half-light this seemed more like the yard of some factory or foundry than a farm yard, for there were dim, bulking machines massed before low granaries, corncribs and the great barn. A chicken which had roosted on the hitch-rack for the night clucked low and bitterly as the car's lights disturbed it."

"The Importance of Being Earnest" Proves the Importance of Being Nonsensical

By TOM YOSELOFF
"The Importance of Being Earnest" is as much of a paradox as many of the statements in Oscar Wilde's dialog. For what Mr. Wilde really set forth was "the importance of being nonsensical"—the importance of being anything but earnest.
His own subtitle is the best description of this play—"a trivial comedy for serious people." For there is nothing of seriousness in it. It is Oscar Wilde standing behind a wall and grimacing at those poor persons who so far deceive themselves as to take life seriously.
Every Moment Absurd
Every moment of it is absurd, from its very beginning, when the convenient invention of persons who do not exist is introduced, to the last minute, when the long-lost child is found, everything and everybody is cleared up, and the whole thing turns out happily—the proper way for a farce to turn out.
The importance of levity the author brings out in his style of epigram and paradox, of witty and brittle dialog—still witty and brittle, even though it is nearly four decades since its first production at the St. James theater in London, on "Velvet" day in 1895. He uses also the device of absurd situation, with a levity-inducing effect. And though the play has had hundreds of performances, professional and amateur, since that first night, it still has all the audience appeal of a good modern comedy.
High Comedy
"The Importance of Being Earnest" is, however, written in a high comedy style. It sparkles with epigrams and witticisms, but they are the kind that should produce little chuckles of approval—that require no gesticulation in the Charles Chase manner to bring results.
Director Vance Morton and his University theater cast have taken some liberties with the script, and in the opinion of this reporter have produced a farce that borders on low comedy burlesque.
Which does not imply that perhaps this is not all right. It at least brought laughs, sometimes hearty guffaws, from the large audience gathered in natural science auditorium last night. But it left the question of whether equally good results might not have been achieved with a little more decorum.

Plot Full of Alibis
The plot, if such it is, deals with a John Worthing, who invents a brother, Ernest, for his use in town, while he is known as John in the country. But he falls in love in town, to a girl who is fond of the name Ernest. It deals also with an Algeron Moncrieff, who invents a sick friend, Bunbury, as an excuse to get out to the country.
The complications arise when Moncrieff falls in love with Worthing's ward, Cecily Cardew, while he is masquerading as brother Ernest. But everything is cleared up through the intervention of Lady Bracknell and Miss Prism, the governess, who find that Worthing was lost 28 years before, that he is really Moncrieff's brother, and that his name is really Ernest. So it all turns out beautifully.

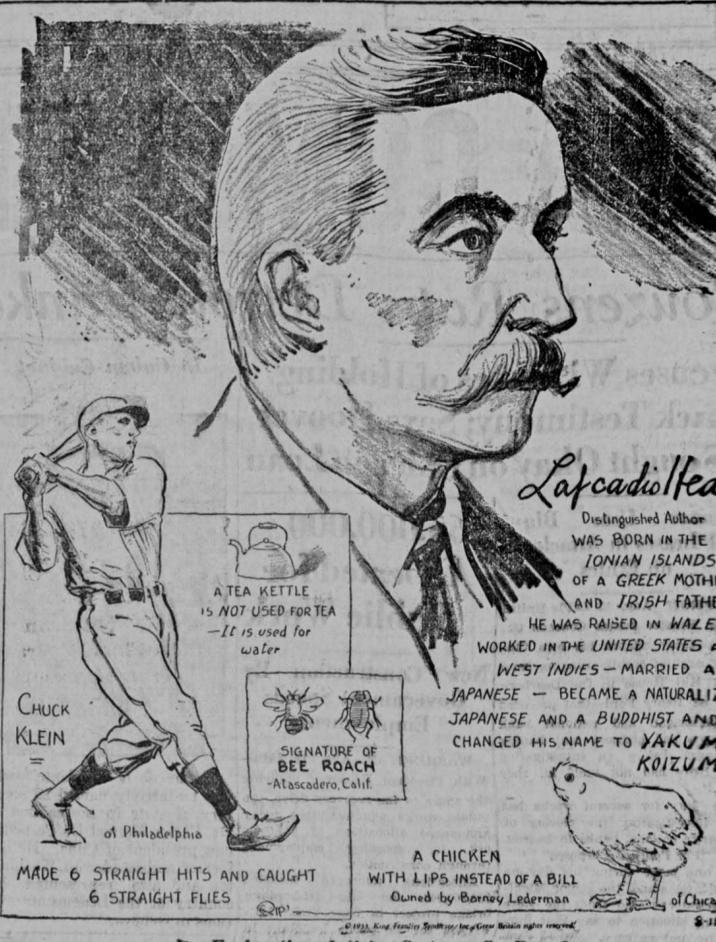

Lemke and Seybolt Good
Russell Lemke, as Moncrieff, and Ottilie Seybolt, as Lady Bracknell, turned in a superbly finished bit of work. They both maintained a dignity in the midst of what was often near riot—they were both thoroughly English, even to the accent. They were both absurdly trivial in the properly serious manner.
Lemke and Miss Seybolt probably appealed to the audience too for their clear enunciation, while maintaining a good stagey English. Among the other players clever lines were sometimes lost.
Charles Fodri, as the Rev. Canon Chasuble, had the art of being funny and at the same time decorous. Rodney Stewart and Karl Goetz, as butlers, and Rachel Bastian and Blanche Davis, as the two loves-interests, were satisfactory.

Burlesque
Hollister Smith as John Worthing was more than proportionately responsible for steering the performance toward burlesque. His grimaces and antics, and bodily maneuvering, while often delightful, were as often grotesque in the dignified English setting. Another character who approached low comedy was Martha G. Canfield, as Miss Prism.
This writer unblushingly admits he enjoyed himself, and to judge from the laughs most of the audience did. But the script was a bit manhandled to squeeze out the loudest laughs.

WESTERN INFLUENCE
The Nawab Mohammed Zahir Uddin Khan of Hyderabad (a state in India) and his wife, the Begum Uddin Khan, in their hotel in Chicago where they are visiting the World's Fair. The Begum appeared in her hotel unveiled and dressed in occidental fashion, save for a scarlet sari embroidered in gold. The Nawab is shown using a device of the western world, a camera, to capture a view of the World's Fair.

BEHIND THE SCENES - IN HOLLYWOOD - SCREEN COMMENT

STUDIO GOSSIP
HOLLYWOOD—A smart man admits his mistakes. Some time ago, Bill Powell refused to play a political boss in "The Dark Horse." Warren William took the part and it made him a star. Now Bill has consented to play a similar role in "The Gentleman from San Francisco."
This picture will be Powell's next after he finishes Philo Vance in "The Kennel Murder Case." It will show him as the power behind the throne in the political affairs of a modern city—not, however, our northern neighbor.
There's still no getting Bill to talk over his marital troubles with Carole Lombard. After a few quiet days at Arrowhead Hot Springs, he returned to Hollywood and plunged into work.
Meanwhile, Carole continues to establish residence in Nevada. Mrs. Zeppo Marx has just returned from there (her trip had no legal motive) and reports that Carole is looking swell.
The wags have been busy with Eddie Sutherland since his fourth marriage went on the rocks. "Who's next, Eddie?" chided one the other day.
Sutherland shook his head, flipped: "No more. I've decided to go to Europe every summer instead. It's cheaper."
HOLLYWOOD PARADE
After "The Late Christopher Bean," you'll not be seeing Marie Dressler on the screen for quite a while. Even the three hours a day on the set are too much for the grand old trouper. She's going to take an extended vacation—three or four months. For the time being at least, she will remain in Hollywood or close by. "I'm too tired to think of plans," she says.
It's a good old motto: "To them that hath." Several nights ago, Bill Candy, local socialite and owner of yachts and things, was dancing in the Coconut Grove. A scout from the Fox studio spotted him, asked him to make a screen test. Now he's working in a picture and playing, of all things, a bartender.
Crooning is not good enough for Russ Columbo. The singing star, aiming at grand opera, has just returned to London that he has just received his British pilot's license—making the only Hollywood actor to hold an American and a British pilot's license.
Odd coincidence, Johnny V. Muller has a religious medal the Saint Guadelupe on it. He tried it before he met Lupe. And incidentally, Johnny says religion would not prevent a rage with the Mexican star. He, Bobbe Arnst were not married at the church.

NEWS OF CAMPUS AND CITY SOCIETY

Patchwork of Summer Social Season's Quilt Nears Finish

Main Blocks Filled by Flower Show, Picnickers, Ingwersens, Rushing Parties—Now Borders Are Being Worked Out by Vacationers

This summer's social season has been like a gigantic patchwork quilt, gleaming with color and striking patterns in the most, yet with an interval of white between the blocks and around the border.

There was a lovely floral block or two, brilliantly attractive in multi-colors, given by the Community flower show; there were several green blocks, left by picnickers and campers; there was a stately silhouette pattern of formal and informal black and white left by the Ingwersens' visit; triangles, cubes, and modernist designs imprinted by sorority rush parties; and intermingled kaleidoscope patterns of red, yellow, and orchid left by other parties, teas, bridge-parties, dinners, and breakfasts, just for Iowa City women to while away leisure hours.

Now, we're busily engaged in filling in the borders, and stray empty spots by going-and-coming vacationers. We're enjoying that "catching-up" interval, which makes the rest brighter by contrast. So, with the advent of people into town, and the exit of others from the city, our patchwork quilt is fast becoming complete, and it will soon be time to fold it up, scent it with the perfume of happy memories, and tuck it away in the chest of Social Seasons, while the winter's activity piles up material for a new one.

After visiting in Louisville, Ky., Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Moore have returned to their home, 328 S. Governor street. Mr. Moore's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joel M. Moore, and his nephew, Ray, have also returned to their homes.

Mrs. Stuart Bausch and her family have returned to their home at Gladbrook, after spending some time here in Iowa City, Mrs. Bausch's former home. She was formerly Judy Donore.

S. U. I. Plans Party Friday

Margaret and Ruth Humphrey of Indiana are house guests of Dr. and Mrs. H. C. Parsons, 1921 F street. The Rev. and Mrs. H. W. Tuttle of Grinnell were also guests at the Parsons home Wednesday.

Theodore Ronayne, secretary in the college of law at the University of Iowa, left yesterday for Fifty Lakes, Minn., where she will spend a two week vacation.

After spending a few days at the World's Fair in Chicago, August Helm and Ernest Volkern returned to their homes.

Attorney Max Kane of Greensboro, N. C., arrived by plane Wednesday to visit his mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Kane, 211 E. Davenport street. He was a guest at the wedding of Mary Agnes Flannagan and Charles Nutting yesterday.

Stanley Elliott of Sacramento, Cal., a former resident of Iowa City, is the house guest of his sisters, Mrs. Della Marble and Ida Elliott at 230 S. Linn street. He will attend the Century of Progress exhibition before his return home.

The engagement of Lucile Robinson of Des Moines to Jerry Wood of Des Moines was revealed Monday.

Miss Robinson was a junior at Drake university last year, and is a member of Kappa Kappa Gamma sorority. Last Saturday she won the western golf championship at Chicago.

Mr. Wood is a student in the college of engineering at the University of Iowa.

350 Students Will Become Members of S.U.I. Theater Units

About 350 students will become members of casts and of technical crews when the University of Iowa theater goes through its thirteenth season in 1933-34.

Preliminary work will begin at the opening of the university Sept. 25, with a maximum of eight plays probably scheduled for presentation between October and June.

These students, outnumbering those who try for places on the 10 intercollegiate athletic teams, will have a choice of some 15 courses in dramatic art.

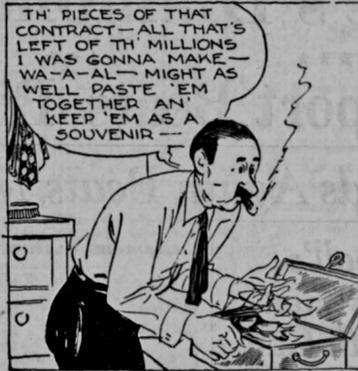

Prof. E. C. Mable again will serve as director of University theater and head of the department of speech and dramatic art and Prof. Vance Morton will be associate director.

Pi Beta Phi Honors 30 at Rushing Party

Flame-tipped tapers of green and gold cast slim shadows on the tea table yesterday afternoon as alumni and active members of Pi Beta Phi sorority entertained 30 guests at a pre-school rushing party at the home of Betty Summerwill, 601 Oakland avenue.

Mrs. Edward F. Rate, president of the local alumni chapter, presided at the tea service, assisted by several other town alumni. Gabriel Royal of West Liberty was the only out of town guest.

Nutting Weds Miss Flannagan

Wedding Breakfast for 18 Guests Follows Ceremony

Another name was added to this month's roster of brides yesterday morning when Mary Agnes Flannagan exchanged marriage vows with Charles B. Nutting. The ceremony was solemnized at 11:30 a.m. by the Rev. P. J. O'Reilly, in the rectory of St. Patrick's church.

Wearing an ensemble of white triple sheer with matching accessories, the bride carried an arm bouquet of blue delphinium and white roses. Her attendant, Editha Flannagan, wore an ensemble of poudre blue, with which she carried pink roses.

Brother Is Best Man

Willis Nutting served his brother as best man. Following the marriage service, a wedding breakfast was served to 18 guests at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Edward H. Flannagan, 410 Iowa avenue. Out of town guests in attendance were Helen Gasnow of Moline, Ill., Pauline Reynolds and Mrs. John F. Reynolds of Fargo, N. D., and Max Kane of Greensboro, N. C.

Mrs. Nutting received her B.A. degree from the University of Iowa in 1926 and a master's degree in 1929. She is a member of Delta Zeta social sorority and Phi Beta Kappa, honorary scholastic fraternity.

University Graduate

The bridegroom is a son of Mrs. C. C. Nutting, 923 E. Washington street. He received his B.A. degree from the University of Iowa in 1927 and his J.D. from the college of law in 1930. He has also been awarded an S.J.D. degree from the college of law at Harvard university. He is a member of A.F.I., honorary organization for senior men, Phi Beta Kappa, Order of Coif, and Delta Sigma Rho. He is to be an assistant professor of law at the University of Nebraska next year.

Following a wedding trip, the couple will establish their home at Lincoln, Neb.

Special Attorney to Prosecute Bailey
CHICAGO, Aug. 17 (AP)—Special Assistant Attorney General Leslie Salter, who has been here for some time investigating racketeers, left tonight by airplane for Oklahoma City to take charge of the prosecution of Harvey Bailey and four associates held for the kidnaping of Charles F. Urschel, millionaire oil man.

MANHUNT FAILS

Although an airplane and 300 police and deputies were used Tuesday to trap two of Jake Factor's kidnapers who had accepted a package as second payment of Factor's kidnap ransom, the hunt failed. Photo shows plane above woods near La Grange, Ill., and some of the 300 police.

Cambridge Team to Invade University of Iowa Next Fall

English School Provides Annual International Debating Tilt

University of Iowa debaters will meet speakers from Cambridge university, England, here in October, it was announced yesterday by Prof. A. Craig Baird, director of university debate.

This contest will constitute Iowa's annual international debate, and will be held in Iowa Union. The exact date and the question to be argued have not yet been decided.

Follow English Plan

The tour of the Cambridge speakers through the United States is under the auspices of the National Student Federation, which sponsors such a tour each year. The debates follow the British plan of allowing the audience to cast ballots on the merits of the question, rather than the merits of the discussion.

The University of Iowa has scheduled one or more international debates every year since 1924. Cambridge, Oxford, German universities, University of the Philippines, University of Sydney, Australia, and Robert college of Turkey have sent representatives to the Iowa campus in recent years.

Speakers Last Year

Last year C. LaVerne Kluss of Postville and Vergil Tracy of Council Bluffs, representing Iowa, met speakers from Trinity college, University of Dublin, Ireland, on the question of cancellation of the war debts.

In 1929 Iowa sent three speakers, Louis Carroll, Herschel Langdon, and Burton Miller, on a tour through England. The team met Hands across the sea: The tenth international debate to be held at the University of Iowa will be in October, with the Iowa speakers arguing against Cambridge men, Prof. A. Craig Baird said yesterday.

Breaking down international boundaries: In discussing the value of these international debates in a bulletin issued recently, Professor Baird said: "International debating at Iowa has given balance and breadth to the campus speaking programs; has helped to destroy the provincial point of view both for visitors and home-speakers; has increased friendship and understanding between the students of the various participating universities; and has aided in the development of sound public speaking aims and skills."

Hands across the country: In a narrower sphere, but one of greater interest because of its novelty, will be the debate between the University of Iowa and Bates college, Lewiston, Me., over a National Broadcasting company hook-up, also in October.

$6,000 Grant Ready for Use

S. U. I. to Begin Next Month on Fund for Art Research

Further financial assistance for research into the artistic intelligence of children becomes available to the University of Iowa next month.

The grant amounts to $6,000 and was made last February by the Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching. It brings the total funds donated since 1927 up to $34,600.

Prof. Norman C. Meier of the department of psychology again will direct the studies. The university was an American pioneer in this field of work when research was started by Professor Meier about six years ago.

It is expected that new studies will include exploration into the nature of the artistic mind and that of the normal child in his artistic endeavors. The psychologists also will formulate for art education a set of suggestions regarding what can and cannot be expected of the child at early age levels.

Donald Brodkey Will Join Omaha Law Firm

Donald Brodkey of Iowa City, graduate of the University of Iowa college of law will soon assume a position associated with the firm of Ziegler and Dunn, Omaha, Neb., attorneys.

Mr. Brodkey received his law degree here last June.

While he was a student here, Mr. Brodkey was active in student affairs, and was a member of several honorary groups, including Order of Coif, honorary law society.

Lazell Will Lead Last Nature Walk of Summer Term

The last of a series of weekly "nature walks" will be led by Prof. Fred J. Lazell of the school of journalism tomorrow at 5:30 a.m. The "nature walkers" will meet at the east portico of Old Capitol, where the excursion will start.

This is the fourth of such walks during the second term of the summer session. Their purpose has been to give nature lovers an opportunity to observe birds and vegetation along the Iowa river.

The same route and plan will be followed as in the others. The tour will be open to all interested.

PEACHES

The bulk of the Illinois peaches have been picked. On account of there being no other crop of peaches in this section of the United States the demand far exceeds the supply. Fortunately we have one more crop brought considerably under the market. Strictly U. S. Grade No. One. No worms, no rots, no disease. Shipped and kept under refrigeration. We have two sizes, 1 7-8 inches in diameter, and 2 1-8 inches in diameter.

There are likely to be no late peaches at a reasonable price. According to the Government report, Michigan will have only one-sixth as many peaches as last year. Colorado is a long way off. We have no desire to alarm you, but if you want peaches, we suggest that you get them today.

'Life-Buoy' in Role of Star for Winners

Big Rallies Feature Diamondball at City Park

By JACK GURWELL. Mud and rain proved no barrier to two diamondball league teams last night at City park and they took the field to do or die.

Early Lead. Oakdale seemed well on the way to a topheavy victory along about the fourth frame; the blue shirted boys holding a 9 to 3 advantage at that time.

At It Again. After giving the Oaks another chance at the plate, nipped by cafe boys who lurked out in the mist under the outfield lights, Paul-Helen again took the slippery path around the bases and this time accounted for only six runs.

No Contest. Both Kelley Cleaners and Maid-Rite failed to appear for the scheduled first game of the evening.

Junior League play yesterday afternoon at City park saw Maid-Rite recovering from their slump and giving a 14 to 3 lacing to the Gas Alley boys.

By GAYLE TALBOT (Associated Press Sports Writer). FOREST HILLS, N. Y., Aug. 17 (AP)—The women's national tennis championship, featuring Mrs. Helen Willis Moody and a willing, if outclassed supporting cast, moved a step nearer its familiar conclusion today.

Early Lead. The peak crowd was out today to watch Helen dispose of Mrs. L. R. C. Michell, a very good British player, 6-1, 6-2.

Columbia Lou Won't Ask for Layoff for 'Years'

By ALAN GOULD (Associated Press Sports Editor). NEW YORK (AP)—The cracking of the all-time major league record for consecutive playing by Lou Gehrig, who passed Everett Scott's old mark of 1,307 games while the Yankees were in St. Louis, doesn't mean as much to Columbia Lou as the fact he has a good, steady-paying job to hold down.

Stocks Kick Up Heels for Large Gains

Jamboree Puts Prices 1 to 5 Points Higher

NEW YORK, Aug. 17 (AP)—Taking their cue from a spurt in the grain and cotton markets, stocks today kicked up their heels for a jamboree which left prices 1 to 5 or more points higher.

Grains on the Chicago Board of Trade began to climb. Wheat gained 1 7-8 to 2 7-8 cents a bushel at the close, but corn and oats spurred the maximum amount permitted for a single day.

Wall street had no clear convictions as to why the grain market reversed itself but the action proved to be the signal for a scramble to get into stocks.

The buying movement, which started before noon, shot prices up 1 to more than 5 points, with some of the more volatile issues going higher. Most stocks closed around their high prices for the day.

Official reports were optimistic regarding the progress of the recovery campaign thus far.

General business news showed improvement.

The so-called wet stocks were the leaders of the rally in stocks. National Distillers, American Commercial Alcohol and U. S. Industrial Alcohol shot up from 6 to 9 points.

Among the issues which registered advances of 1 to 5 or more were Allied Chemical, American Can, American Telephone, Santa Fe, J. I. Case, Celanese, Chile Copper, Chrysler, Consolidated Gas, Johns Manville, General Motors, General Electric, Delaware and Hudson, Corn Products, Montgomery Ward, New York Central, Standard Oil of New Jersey, Western Union, U. S. Steel and U. S. Smelting.

Add to Farm Relief Forces

WASHINGTON (AP)—While declining to reply to criticism that the farm mortgage refinancing program in Iowa has been moving too slowly, President Dennis Hoxan of the Omaha Federal Land bank said applications received by the bank have increased greatly and the field force has been increased materially.

DES MOINES (AP)—Plans of Chairman J. J. Hughes of the state recovery board call for completion of the statewide NRA organization by next Wednesday, when the state committee will meet here.

NRA Delays Contracts

DES MOINES (AP)—The state board of control has delayed letting of contracts for coal for state institutions pending perfection of the NRA code affecting the coal industry. Coal dealers said they could not make estimates until the code had been determined.

DES MOINES (AP)—The American Humane society, through President Sidney H. Coleman has protested to Mayor Dwight Lewis and members of the State fair board against the holding of a bull fight exhibition at the State fair Aug. 23 to Sept. 1.

Zukas Enters A.A.U. Swimming Meet at Omaha Next Sunday

OMAHA, Neb., Aug. 17 (AP)—Twenty-seven contestants have entered the Nebraska-Iowa A.A.U. swimming and diving championships to be held here Sunday. This will be the last outdoor meet of the season.

Among the competitors will be Anton Zukas of Iowa City, Ia., Mid-Western A.A.U. outdoor and indoor diving champion; Burton Umwert, Richard Harelin and Frank Dutton of the Lincoln Y.M.C.A.; Ruth Jump and Tom Collins of Clarinda, Iowa.

Events include 55, 110, and 440 yard free style for men, backstroke and breast stroke, high and low board diving and several events for women and girls.

Washington Beats Sox 14 to 1 for 9th Straight

CHICAGO, Aug. 17 (AP)—Combining Monte Weaver's four-hit pitching with an offensive orgy of 16 hits, Washington's league leading Senators eased through to a 14 to 1 victory over the White Sox today.

The triumph was their third straight over the Chicagoans in this series and their ninth in succession, thus tying the season's American league record for winning streaks as set up by the New York Yankees earlier in the campaign.

The Senators scored in five of the first seven innings today. They drove their erstwhile nemesis, Walter (Lefty) Miller, who had beaten them on three out of four previous occasions this year, from the mound in the first inning with four singles and a walk that led to five runs as Luke Sewell greeted Miller's successor, Chad Kinsey, with a double.

Schulte's double and Kubel's single meant another run off Kinsey in the third, while Schulte and Kubel opened the fifth with successive doubles, Schulte scoring, Haid replaced Kinsey at this point but the Nats picked up two more runs before the fifth was over.

Bluete walked Berg, who had replaced Sewell in the third, was hit by a pitched ball and Weaver scored Bluete with a double.

The Senators picked up four more runs after two were out in the sixth. Schulte walked and scored on Kubel's triple. Berg's homer then scored Kubel and Bluete, who had walked. The Senators added another run off Haid in the seventh before the veteran Red Faber was called in to keep order the rest of the way.

Kubel, Schulte and Myer featured the Washington attack with three hits apiece. Kubel drove in four runs and included a triple and double in his collection, while Schulte's contribution included two doubles.

Meanwhile, Weaver kept the Chicagoans well in check, Al Simmons scoring their only run in the fourth, when he opened with a single and counted on a double play after Weaver had filled the bases with passes to Appling and Dykes.

Confidence of Grain Buyers Hoists Prices

CHICAGO, Aug. 17 (AP)—Renewal of confidence of buyers assayed itself in giant fashion on the Chicago Board of Trade today and whirled all grain values skyward.

In excited dealings, wheat ran wildly through almost the entire 10 cent range of prices permitted for a single day and just before trading was ended reached an apex of 9 3-8 cents up from early bottom figures.

Corn, oats, rye and barley advanced went to the full extent allowed under emergency rules and established net gains of 3 to 5 cents a bushel.

Removal of all grain trade restrictions except a maximum 5 cent limit up or down from the previous day's close appeared to be the spark which set the grain markets afire.

Complete reversal of sentiment among traders developed first in the corn crowd but spread quickly to other grains, wheat last of all.

Lively profit-taking in the last few minutes of the day pulled wheat down from top figures and the market closed unsettled 1 7-8 to 2 7-8 above yesterday's finish, with corn strong to 4 cents showing 2 cents to 2 1/2 cents gain.

Weaver Holds Chicago to Four Hits as Senators Win

WASHINGTON BEATS SOX 14 TO 1 FOR 9TH STRAIGHT

Yankees Drop Game to Browns, 7 to 6

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 17 (AP)—Fired by two well placed home runs, one of them by Manager Rogers Hornsby, acting as a pinch hitter, the St. Louis Browns today came from behind to hand the New York Yankees their second straight setback, taking a 7 to 6 decision in 10 innings. The defeat dropped the champions seven and one-half games back of the Senators, who won their ninth straight in defeating the White Sox.

Hornsby's circuit blow, hit off Gomez in the ninth, tied the score after Combs' pinch single with Lazzeroni on base had given the Yanks a one run lead in the eighth. Previously, in the sixth, Ralston Hensley had knotted the count when Walker lost his fly in the sun and it fell for a home run, scoring Burns and Melillo.

PREMIERE OF ROBERT TERRY SHANNON

Attending the premiere of her latest motion picture, beautiful Leni Luneska, the star, is confronted by a shabby, emaciated man, who emerges from the crowd crying, "Leni! It is I, Karl Kruger. Do you want me to tell the whole world?" Leni turns white. She tells the man she will talk with him inside. Lucky Cavanaugh, a gambler, fascinated by Leni's beauty, saunters into the theatre after Kruger. He prevents Kruger from making a scene and has him placed in a private office until after the show. Cavanaugh then bribes an usher to seat him in Leni's box. During the performance Douglas Gates, Leni's elderly escort, proposes to her. She is tempted to accept him to get away from everything. In the office next to Kruger's, thieves are robbing the safe. Leni leaves her box and goes to Kruger. He taunts her with, "It is not pleasant to have a starving bum hanging around—not when he happens to be your husband!" He wants recognition as Leni's husband and all that goes with it. She refuses but he says he will wait for her to think it over. Back in the box, Leni is driven to tears. In the darkness Cavanaugh clasps one of her hands to comfort her. There is something consoling and strengthening in the touch of this stranger. He suggests that Leni go out for some air and she consents.

CHAPTER SIX "I think I like you because you do not look so respectable as the rest."

"I've tried all my life not to be respectable," he said easily. A golden warmth emanating from her body subtly started the blood singing in his veins.

"You are different," she informed him, her eyes steadily upon his face. "The others—they try so hard to act respectable . . . in public. They make a profession of it. But you—"

"And you—"

"I am not a human being," said Leni. "I am just fireworks. A skyrocket, perhaps. I have to keep burning myself up to keep going higher. There is nothing left—all is consumed. I will come down faster than I went up."

Cavanaugh patted her hand. "Nonsense! You're still feeling a little tragic."

While he talked and listened to her answers, Cavanaugh's mind was seeking an escape for Leni and himself from the stale-smelling slot between the two buildings. It was a place for ash cans and janitors and plumbing cats.

A glistening princess in silver slippers was parading in a gutter . . .

"You stand right here a minute," he said excusing himself and walking ahead of her toward the cigarette smoker in the usher's uniform that lounged close to the side door.

Somewhere in the crowded theater there must be a comfortable spot of privacy which two people could visit for a half hour. Any usher, properly told, would know.

"Hello, Mr. Cavanaugh," said the uniformed man speaking in a voice like a rusty blade. His cigarette remained between his lips. "Nice evening, ain't it?"

Laughter sprang to Cavanaugh's eyes, exploded with a muffled sound in his throat. The ridiculous fact was that the man was not an usher at all, but a slit-mouthed hoodlum whose native ferocity was grotesquely wrapped up in candy-soldier epaulettes and brass buttons . . . a gentleman who bore the richly-earned nickname of Slug.

To be discovered in the ridiculous livery of honest work, by a personage of Lucky Cavanaugh's presence in the upper-underworld, brought a scorch of humiliation to the bluish cheek of the masquerader and left him feeling exactly as a tiger might feel if compelled to wear a pink ribbon around its neck.

After all, a man has his pride, even if his name is Slug and he stands ready for murder on instant notice.

Not for an instant did Lucky Cavanaugh suspect Slug of being an usher. There was only one explanation and he stated it.

"I suppose you're here to soup up the joint."

Slug did not deny the opinion. "Well, you know how things are," he remarked. "All the boys are doing the best they can these days."

Nobody knows much about the mystic relations of "the boys". Not even the boys themselves.

Certain men are born with that in their blood which sets them apart. Anybody else is an outsider. They are a secret race, comparatively few in number extending from coast to coast and speaking their own private language. Of few criminals can it be said that he is one of the boys. But most of the boys are criminals of one sort or another, though some are actors and pugilists and gamblers. They do not yell copper and they don't rat on one another.

They are regrettable blots upon our civilization. Nevertheless, they are with us. Lucky Cavanaugh was not an outsider.

"If I was you," said Slug, "I'd wheel that dame out of the way."

"Don't worry—I'm not going to stumble into your play," said Cavanaugh, "but if you've cased the joint you probably know every mousehole in it. The girl is feeling faint and I want to get her out of the mob for a half hour. Some place private."

Slug thought a moment, his face impassive. Then he took a short piece of steel from under his jacket.

"Slip this in your pocket 'cause you'll have to jimmie a window, Mr. Cavanaugh. You go up the steps back of the balcony and keep going. They corkscrew at the top and you come out on the roof. There's a penthouse that belongs to the manager. He keeps it locked till after the show every night."

"Thanks," said Cavanaugh.

"Don't mention it," responded Slug. "I been in the same fix myself, lots of times."

It gave Cavanaugh a mood of sureness to feel the uncomplicated obedience of Leni to his guidance as they moved like shadows up the hidden stairway that twisted narrowly to the roof. No petty arguments, questions and objections from the bright gold creature. The kind of a woman to make a man feel taller than he really was . . .

Breene Issues Proclamation for Better Observance of City Traffic Regulation

Asks Drivers, Pedestrians to Set Examples

Mayor Cites Accident Figures as Cause for Plea

Protesting that the number of automobile accidents in Iowa City is much too high, Mayor Harry D. Breene yesterday urged Iowa Cityans to observe traffic regulations and make the streets safe for everyone. His proclamation is as follows:

"Last year throughout the United States 29,000 persons were killed and more than 900,000 were injured in automobile accidents which occurred in practically every community in our country.

"Since it is common knowledge that this record of casualties is largely due to the misuse of the streets and highways by too many drivers and pedestrians, the month of September has been set aside by many states as a period in which to demonstrate just how many lives and limbs may be saved by the exercise of more care and consideration on the part of drivers and pedestrians.

"No day passes without many drivers hurrying through intersections, passing other cars improperly, driving at too rapid a speed, or failing in other respects to use the streets and highways in a safe manner.

"No day passes without pedestrians crossing in the middle of the block, darting out into the streets from behind parked vehicles, crossing intersections against signal lights, and in other ways using the streets and highways improperly.

"The consequences of such acts are the deaths and the non-fatal injuries which occur in our midst and in every town and city of the United States. The improper practices occur at such a frequency that it is impossible for the police or other authorities to even begin to cope with the situation, inasmuch as it is apparent that a greater degree of safety in the use of our streets and highways can only be realized as people, of their own free will, cooperate among themselves to that end.

"In keeping with the motives of the country-wide street and highway safety movement to be made in September, I urge upon drivers and pedestrians alike in this city to set examples of public conduct in the use of streets and highways which will insure the greatest possible safety, not only for themselves while they are on the streets and highways, but for all others, and I request that special attention be given by the proper officials of the city in the enforcement of laws and ordinances which have been designed for the protection of all.

"Mayor of Iowa City."
Police Chief W. H. Bender said yesterday he would cooperate fully with Mayor Harry D. Breene's proclamation and that all traffic violators would be arrested and fined. "During the last month," he said, "we have been campaigning against traffic violators and will renew our efforts in an attempt to eliminate all accidents from the streets of Iowa City."

"Sister Aimee"
Aimee Elizabeth Kennedy Semple McPherson Hutton, the voice of the Four Square gospel, began her 10 day evangelistic series in Cedar Rapids at the Memorial auditorium last night. "Sister Aimee" is 43 years old and has two children—the third, she admits, was just a "hoax."

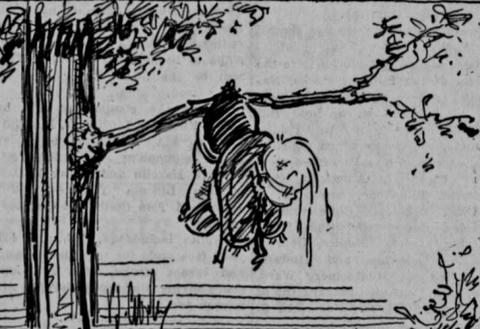

Seeing It Work
Members of the Civilian Conservation Corps here were shown through the Northwestern Bell Telephone exchange last night by officials of the company.

Speedy
Denny Valentine was fined $5 and costs for speeding yesterday when he appeared before Police Judge H. W. Westermarck.

Trial
Trial for Edward Brumley, charged with intoxication and disturbing the peace, and Mrs. Florence Moore, charged with disturbing the peace, will be held before Police Judge H. W. Westermarck at 5 o'clock this afternoon.

More Pictures
Mayor Harry D. Breene has hung two more pictures in his office at the city hall—one of Abraham Lincoln and one of Theodore Roosevelt. Mayor Breene often rode horseback with "Teddy" Roosevelt near Medora, in the Dakota territory when he was operator on the railroad there, and Roosevelt was out "roughing it."

The new officers of the Johnson county 4-H clubs elected at the club show yesterday were: Victor Mueller, president; Alice Weis, vice president; Joseph Miltner, secretary; and Maynard Peckman, treasurer.

"Prosperity will come back with the farmer, and the farmer will come back only when he organizes," declared C. W. Huntley of the Iowa Farm Bureau federation to an audience of 2,000 farmers at the Johnson county 4-H club show at the old canning factory last night. "The hope of the future of this nation depends upon the farmer of the future as represented by our 4-H boys and girls," were the remarks with which he concluded his brief address.

Yesterday was distinctly boys' day at the show, with the judging of calves, sheep, and pigs the main interest. The girls gave canning demonstrations, but the awarding of prizes to the boy livestock owners focused attention upon them.

The grand champion calf of all breeds at the 4-H club show yesterday was the Jersey calf owned by Robert Jones. As a reward, the champion's owner received a trip to the short course for cattle breeders and raisers at Ames. Victor Mueller showed the reserve champion, a Holstein calf.

Jones Places First
Robert Jones placed first in the Jersey calf class, and Edward Ipsen placed second. The Holstein winners were Victor Mueller, first, and Martin Warren, second. Russell Winborn and Howard Hamilton were the winners in the Guernsey calves.

Robert Mathes as the grand champion lamb club member will go to the Ames short course. The reserve champion was Jack Mathes.

Leo Miltner
Leo Miltner had the prize pure bred lamb, and Joseph Miltner had the second choice. The market lamb winners were Robert Mathes and Jack Mathes. There were 11 smaller winners among the lamb showmen. In all, $69 was divided into 17 prizes to reward the boys who showed lambs. There were 38 entries in the show, making this the largest lamb show in years.

Prizes for swine amounted to $175. Paul Fuhrmeister won the trip to the short course at Ames as grand champion market litter club member. The reserve champion chosen was George Miller.

Champion Pig Owner
The grand champion market pig owner was, also, George Miller, who won a trip to the Ames short course. Dale Williams owned the reserve champion.

Unemployed Miners Ask General Strike for Pennsylvania

LANSFORD, Pa., Aug. 17 (AP)—Unemployed miners, demanding a share of working time, today appealed for a general strike in Pennsylvania's anthracite fields.

Helmed state troopers, sent to Lansford by Governor Pinchot after he was warned "6,000 miners are ready to stampede," patrolled the region while the miners held a parade and "marched" to the Cranberry colliery, near Hazleton, in the hope of suspending work there.

The governor also sent a personal investigator to the scene and urged the national recovery administration to assign a representative to the field.

Yetter Reports on Progress of 'Boys in Khaki'

C. C. C. Workers Have Done Much for County

President Roosevelt's "boys in khaki" have built 954 soil saving dams on Johnson county farms; are building flumes along U. S. highway 161; are helping landscape the ground around Westlawn and still have plenty of work waiting for them to tackle.

F. S. Yetter, who is in charge of the project work done by the Civilian Conservation Corps here, said last night he had received 150 applications for work on farms. Forty-six soil erosion projects have been completed and 10 have been partially completed, since June 10, when the camp was established here.

Six Crews
Six crews of 25 men each are sent out each day on the soil erosion work. They have been working on small gulches stopping the wash of soil and recently made surveys for four large earth dams to stop the soil erosion.

From 15 to 20 men have been working on the terraces around Westlawn, preparing the ground so it may be sodded. The large storm ditch just south of the city dump has been straightened and cleaned by them. Runways at the municipal airport were cleaned on a rainy day when the boys couldn't get out to the farms.

Survey of Lake
A survey of the Amiana lake was made with the view of stopping the erosion of farm land around it but the project has not yet been approved. Superintendent Yetter said that applications were coming in at the rate of about three a day with some of them from Iowa and Cedar counties. He said that they now had enough work lined up to last them until the late fall months.

To Plant Trees
Two crews, about 50 men, will be put to work planting trees about three weeks before freezing time so the trees will remain dormant until spring.

Superintendent Yetter said that it had not been necessary to solicit work as yet because enough applications have been coming in not only to keep the boys busy but to have work lined up for them for at least another month.

He has not received any orders telling him to take the Civilian Corps to Washington county to work on the lake projects there.

another first place to George Miller with Alan Williams placing second. This gave the Miller boy his second ticket to the Ames short course.

H. Berry owned the champion boar and Edward Siders showed the reserve champion. The champion gilt was also owned by Edward Siders.

Mrs. Ellis
Mrs. Harold Ellis awarded the prizes for canning exhibits to the various girls' club. There were 12 classes of canned goods with a first award of $2.50, a second award of $1.50 and a third award of $1 in each class. In all $60 was awarded to the winning clubs. The Sharon Hustlers won $23 of the prize money with six firsts, three seconds, and two thirds. The Liberty Daughters won $14.50, and the Sunbeam Workers $10. The Golden Rule girls received $8.50 and the remainder of the money was rather evenly divided between the Golden Thread, the Merry Makers, the Windham Workers, the S.S.G., and the Worthwhile clubs.

Today is the last day of the club show.

Peoria Superintendent Talks at Rotary Club's Noon Meeting

"Single Track Mind" Is Subject of Visitor's Address

Emerson C. Fisher, superintendent of schools at Peoria, Ill., talked to the Rotary club yesterday noon on "Single track mind." Mr. Fisher was introduced by Dean Paul C. Packer.

Mr. Fisher stated in his talk that there is an increasing interest in faith that was growing the world over, as the thoughts of material things have been over shadowed by the depression. He talked of the unity of the scientist, historian, philosopher and religionist whom he described as "digging so deep for their answers that they got down below the point where they could see the visions of other great minds in other fields.

"Something Eternal"
"There is something behind the microscope and the telescope that we can not see. There is something eternal. There are better things ahead of us, if we do not misinterpret achievement. There is a power to communicate with that something eternal, and we shall always get what we give," the speaker said.

H. L. Hands, president, presided at the meeting. He announced the Rotary stag picnic would be held next Thursday, replacing the regular luncheon meeting.

Guests
Guests included Rotarians A. L. Dice, Dr. James C. Carey, and Lewis Morris, all of West Liberty; Lyle Mantor of Kearney, Neb.; J. J. Croe of Wichita, Kan.; Les Randall of Burlington, Wis.; C. Nielsen of Independence; W. H. McIlrath of Muscatine; S. E. Phillips of Muscatine; guest of Hal Stewart; E. V. Proudfoot of Des Moines, guest of R. L. Parsons; F. E. Horack, guest of H. R. Dill; and Ira J. Houston and Robert Ehol, both of Webster City, guests of R. H. Fitzgerald.

Garment Workers' Leaders Meet With Mediators for NRA

NEW YORK, Aug. 17 (AP)—Representatives of 60,000 striking garment workers met today with NRA mediators in an effort to eliminate sweatshops and establish better wage levels while police dealt with minor disorders arising from the general trade walkout.

The strike of workers in New Jersey, Connecticut, eastern Pennsylvania and New York was ordered yesterday and negotiations had reached the point tonight where officials predicted the strikers would return to their jobs by Monday.
