Resignation Not Result of Differences With Hull, Says Secretary Moley

'Editor's Job Preferable to Public Office'

Dubs Report 'Interesting But Just Not True'

NEW YORK, Aug. 28 (AP)—Raymond Moley, one of the president's closest advisers, said today reports he resigned as assistant secretary of state because of a disagreement with Secretary Hull were "interesting, but just not true."

"I certainly am not aware of any conflict, except that in a big administration such as the one in Washington there always are differences of opinion," said Moley.

"An Adventure" Moley resigned to become editor of a magazine called by its publisher, Vincent Astor, personal friend of President Roosevelt, "an adventure in national political journalism."

"I'd ten times rather do this than hold a public office," said Moley, adviser to the president for more than two years on domestic and foreign policies of an economic nature.

Although his resignation becomes effective Sept. 1, Moley said he would complete his report on crime and racketeering undertaken at the president's request. Moley, who will continue to teach at Columbia university, said he expected the report to be finished between Sept. 15 and 20.

Astor, who said he and Moley had been working on plans for the magazine for months, joined his associate in denying the reported rift with Secretary Hull was responsible for Moley's retirement.

"Isn't True" "From reading the papers," said Astor, "one might be led to believe that Mr. Moley really resigned as assistant secretary of state as the result of a disagreement in the state department following the London conference. That isn't true."

Meanwhile, Secretary Hull, vacationing in Virginia, said that he had not "at any time offered the slightest suggestion to the president or Mr. Moley relative to any present or future change in the official status of the latter as assistant secretary of state." He wished Moley success in his new venture.

Astor said the magazine will not be partners, "but all of us are active supporters of the president." Astor said plans for the magazine were still nebulous, but that it would be of tabloid size, carrying a Washington dateline, and sell for 5 cents weekly or $2 a year. He said it would be in no sense a newspaper, print feature articles and no fiction.

Lindy Asked for Autograph

COPENHAGEN, Denmark, Aug. 28 (AP)—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh today visited Premier Stindberg, conferred with the acting governor at the Greenland government offices and inspected his plane at the naval seaplane station in a day enveloped by dodging autograph hunters.

A police guard was stationed in front of the hotel where the Colonel and Mrs. Lindbergh have rooms to keep back the autograph hunters and others. Lindbergh outdistanced several of the crowd who broke through the police lines when he left the hotel to drive to the seaplane station.

It was reported that the aviator's plane, in which the couple flew here by easy stages from the United States on a north Atlantic aerial mapping trip, would be overhauled. More than 6,000 miles have been covered since they took off from New York. Not even the chauffeur of the automobile which took Lindbergh to the seaplane station knew the itinerary. He was acting under sealed orders.

Harry Upmeir Sued for Accident Damages

John Zak of Cedar Rapids asks damages of $1,007.40 from Harry Upmeir in a petition filed in district court yesterday. Zak claims that Upmeir ran into his car in Cedar Rapids on March 20, 1933, injuring him and damaging his car. Damages are asked as follows: Pain and suffering, $800; loss of time, $22.40; doctor's expense, $20; and repair of auto, $165.

May Fly to Fair

Dr. Hugo Eckener, commander of the German dirigible Graf Zepplin, will probably fly his famous airship to Chicago before the world fair closes. The Graf has been in regular service between Germany and Brazil.

Work on State Park Started

Announced for Dam, Land Surveys Get Under Way

Preliminary work on the proposed state park, four and one-half miles northeast of North Liberty, began yesterday with the surveying of the land and soundings for the dam site. The engineers reported that the dam site was very favorable.

Two engineers were working yesterday and another will begin today. After the water line for the artificial lake, the longest arm of which, according to measurements, will be 2.2 miles long, the cottage sites will be laid out.

Professor Fitzsimmons of the landscape engineering department at Iowa State college will be here today to give advice to the committee on laying out the lots and will look over sites for the Civilian Conservation Corps, if it is decided to move them to the park. If the camp is moved to the camp, shelter houses will be built so that they will be serviceable after the reforestation corps leaves.

When the water line for the lake is established a local engineer will lay out the cottage sites and sale will begin immediately. Dr. E. J. Anthony, chairman of the Chamber of Commerce committee in charge of the project, said last night.

Interim Committee to Study Revision of Iowa Tax Laws

DES MOINES, Aug. 28 (AP)—Revision of the Iowa tax laws is to be considered tomorrow at a special meeting of the interim committee on reduction of expenditures and the tax revision committees of the house and senate.

The committees are to make recommendations on a revision program at the special legislative session in November.

At the meeting will be W. F. Ripley, chairman of the interim committee and Senators John K. Valentine and D. W. Kimberly and Representatives John Speidel and Earl M. Dean.

Supervisors Will Receive Road Bids

Bids on the grading and other work on the west end of Black Diamond road will be received by the Johnson county board of supervisors at 1:30 p.m. Sept. 12. The date for receiving bids was set by the board yesterday.

The work on the Black Diamond includes grading and construction of approaches to a new bridge over Old Man's creek. The bridge was completed last winter. The channel of the river will also be changed to conform with the bridge.

Bank Records Are Ordered Up in Hearing

Detroit Judge Opens Way for 'Thorough Examination'

DETROIT, Aug. 28 (AP)—A call for the records of two Detroit trust companies for the purposes of a "thorough examination" went out today from the one-man bank jury, the first move to follow charges by Senator Couzens (R., Mich.) that trust company officials had "acted iniquitously" preceding Michigan's famous banking holiday.

The call, issued by Judge Harry B. Keldan, sitting as the one man jury, interrupted testimony of Arthur J. Lacy, Senator Couzens' personal attorney, who scored New York bankers as "cold-blooded" and declared he did not believe there was anything criminal in a charge made by the senator against one trust company.

Must Appear in Court Conservators of the two companies, the Union Guardian Trust company and the Detroit Trust company, must appear in court, Judge Keldan said, with all the records of the two institutions. Examination will be conducted by the conservators, with the cooperation of the state attorney-general and the prosecutor's office.

The Michigan senator, appearing before the jury last week, had declared the Detroit Trust company and the First National Bank Detroit "switched funds" between themselves to increase their respective cash positions and charged the Union Guardian Trust company with "jockeying" the $310,000,000 children's fund of $200,000 founded by Couzens, out of $200,000 deposited there. He demanded that the jury study the books of the two companies.

No Criminal Action

Lacy testified today he did not believe there had been any criminal action in the conduct of the Detroit Trust company of which he also is attorney. He discussed the charge of Senator Couzens against the Union Guardian Trust company, and reported he believed there was nothing "criminal or illegal" in the children's fund transaction, in which Senator Couzens says $200,000 was lost.

Lacy, well-known in Michigan through his efforts to rehabilitate banks previous to the state holiday Feb. 14, digressed to score what he termed "cold-blooded banking."

"The New York banks," he de-

U. S. Blamed in Jap Killings

TOKYO, Aug. 28 (AP)—The alleged influence of the United States on Japanese civilian officials was cited in the defense of 11 naval officers charged with complicity in the assassination last year of Premier Isuyoshi Inukai as their court martial neared an end today.

The young officers were justified, their attorneys held, in considering acceptance by Japan of the London naval treaty, a "national betrayal" to the United States. Evidence offered included stenographic minutes of the American senate foreign relations committee debate concerning the treaty in 1930.

The surrender of Japanese civilian authorities to "American diplomatic blandishments" was held to be the result of such activities as a so called social campaign by former acting United States Ambassador William R. Castle, Jr., and his wife when they were in Japan three years ago.

Unemployment Bureau Reports $170 Balance; Receives $200 Gift

A balance of $170.50 is reported in the funds of the American Legion Unemployment bureau. An additional contribution of $200 was received from the Junior Chamber of Commerce during the week.

The report is as follows: balance on hand Aug. 19, 1933, $49.50; received from Junior Chamber of Commerce, $200; total receipts, $249.50. Disbursements totaled $79; for work at city park, $67 and secretary, $12.

NRA Drive to Center on City Homes

Committee to Conduct House to House Campaign

In conjunction with the national campaign to make the blue eagle a household pet, a local house to house campaign will be conducted in Iowa City this week by volunteers.

The administration expects to line up the entire nation, both merchants and consumers, under the blue eagle insignia. Housewives will sign a pledge of cooperation with the NRA and will be given the blue eagle insignia.

18 Members

A campaign committee consisting of 18 members representing various phases of civil life met yesterday at the Chamber of Commerce rooms in the American Legion Community building and made plans for the NRA campaign. D. W. Crum was elected chairman of the house to house campaign, and an advisory committee, consisting of Charles A. Beckman, J. F. Fairbank, and the Rev. W. S. Dysinger, was named.

Members of the various women's organizations will be invited to participate in the campaign, it was announced yesterday. Postmaster Charles A. Bowman has received a large supply of pledge cards, NRA consumers' cards, and NRA buttons to be worn by the volunteer workers.

Name Committee

A committee will be named to canvass the business district and will make out a list of all those who have not signed the NRA agreements. Members of the house to house campaign committee are as follows: Mayor Harry D. Erene, the Rev. W. S. Dysinger, Charles Beckman, Verne Bales, Postmaster Charles A. Bowman, Dr. W. L. Bywater, Carl Cone, H. L. Hands, Everett Means, Joe Munkhoff, George Nable, Albert Sidwell, Herman Smith, Merritt C. Speidel, J. F. Fairbank, William Hageboeck, Perry Oakes, Jr., and Dean Chester A. Phillips.

North Liberty Joins in NRA

Every merchant and 70 other citizens of North Liberty attended the NRA organization meeting last night at the high school auditorium there. More than 50 persons signed the pledges of cooperation with the NRA.

Postmaster Charles A. Bowman, D. W. Crum, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, and the Rev. W. S. Dysinger, all of Iowa City, explained the purposes of the recovery plan, after which the merchants elected a representative to the county complaints committee, George A. Singleton.

The Rev. A. M. Smith, chairman, Moreland Colony, and Charles Lentz were elected as the local committee to hear complaints arising out of the trade and blanket code agreements.

Mayor R. M. Work, who attended the county meeting here last week and assured the meeting that North Liberty would cooperate in the recovery movement, presided at the meeting.

Helen Hedges, 6, Dies Yesterday After Short Illness Here

Helen Pauline Hedges, six year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. P. Hedges, Fifth avenue and G street, died at 5 p.m. yesterday at a local hospital after a short illness.

She was born June 6, 1927, in Iowa City. She is survived by her parents, four sisters, Mrs. Robert Watts of Iowa City, LaVawn, Cleobelle, and Donna Jean, all at home; and five brothers, Chester and Everett of Iowa City, and Harvey, William, Carroll, and Lloyd, all at home.

The body is at the Oathout Funeral home. Funeral arrangements have not yet been made.

U. S. MAY EXTRADITE INSULL

With the U. S. federal government taking a hand in the case, it is believed that the Insull brothers, Samuel (left) and Martin (right with wife), former utilities magnates of Chicago, will be returned to the United States to answer charges of alleged violation of the federal bankruptcy act, according to Attorney General Cummings (inset). Samuel has hitherto defied all attempts to extradite him from Greece, and Martin is in Orillia, Ontario, Can.

Fighters Continue to Battle Fires Raging on West Coast

$15,000,000 Set as Partial Total of Damage

PORTLAND, Ore., Aug. 28 (AP)—Mountainous billows of smoke hid lurking, treacherous flames today along a 40 mile front in northwestern Oregon as slumbering winds and moisture from the ocean permitted 4,000 fire fighters to renew their attack on the most devastating conflagration that ever swept over the forest lands of the state.

For 14 days the flames had ridden high gales to spread with explosive force over thousands of acres of the fine timber. Fire wardens have estimated the loss at between $15,000,000 and $18,000,000.

The general range of the fire extends about 40 miles from the Elsie district in Clatsop county southward to the vicinity of Blaine, in southern Tillamook county. The heart of the fire center lies about 45 miles directly west of Portland.

During the night gentle showers and fog swept in from the Pacific. The wind died and the fire fighters took new heart.

For two weeks hundreds of men, many of them members of the civilian conservation corps, had exerted brawn and heart in the mighty battle to control the flames. But fire lines were crossed even before they were completed.

The gales threw great flaming brands miles ahead of the main fires. These dropped in the tinder of fir needles and pitch and other trees exploded like gun powder to start new fires.

Only nature, herself, could cope with this greatest menace to nature, fire wardens said, when the efforts of 4,000 grimy men seemed futile. Last night nature took a hand. Cool breezes overcame the blasting heat. Moisture-laden air replaced that consumed in the flaming furnace of forests and small drops of rain sizzled in the red-hot ashes.

If the favorable weather continues, officials believe, the menace will soon be brought within control. But should the east wind again whip into a gale before rain comes, new disaster probably would grip the forest country.

Already timber that would have served sawmills for generations has been destroyed.

Operators, Miners Agree After Four-Day Conference; Johnson Puts Okay on Plan

Farm Bureau Day Observed at State Fair

First Grand Champions in Open Livestock Classes Named

DES MOINES, Aug. 28 (AP)—Crowning of the first grand champions in open livestock classes at the Iowa state fair and participation of 600 members of the Iowa Farm Bureau federation in a state-wide program marked "New Deal" and "Farm Bureau" day today.

John N. Norton, member of the agricultural adjustment administration at Washington, was the principal speaker on the Farm Bureau program, explaining the aims, principles, and progress of the adjustment act's work to date.

Norton speaks Norton, former congressman from Nebraska and one-time president of the Nebraska Farm Bureau told the group that "no problem has ever been as serious as that which confronts the American farmer today," adding that "the agricultural adjustment act is a measure for adjustment and not for relief."

The department of agriculture is now trying to figure a way out for the hog raiser and corn farmer," he said, "some measure that will result in a reduction being most desirable. The present program of paying premiums to hog raisers who sell their young pigs is a temporary emergency remedy. The permanent program must affect corn and hogs as a unit."

Wets See Win in Washington

Say State Will Vote Repeal Two to One

SEATTLE, Aug. 28 (AP)—Repeal organizations predicted tonight that Washington voters would cast a majority of two to one against prohibition at the state election tomorrow on repeal of the eighteenth amendment, while dry headquarters issued a statement saying the vote may prove a surprise to those forecasting big wet majorities.

Washington is the twenty-fourth state to vote on repeal, 23 other states having voted against national prohibition.

Overwhelming

In a telegram to George Starr, Democratic state chairman, Postmaster General Farley said he was satisfied Washington will go "overwhelming for repeal tomorrow," and urged that all voters in the state "regardless of political affiliation, who may be in favor of repeal" to go to the polls.

"This state will surprise the people who are predicting big wet majorities," declared Emery Asbury, campaign head for the "emergency committee" against repeal of the eighteenth amendment. "We're not predicting anything but we think the vote will be to reject repeal, because voters realize Washington state can start a rush away from the wet stampede."

Separate Units

The 46 legislative districts will name delegates to the state constitutional convention as separate units and the popular vote of the state will mean nothing in the final count. Last fall 341,450 votes were cast to repeal the state bone dry laws, while 208,211 persons voted dry.

Five Avenue Before Judge Vestermark

Five persons, charged with intoxication, and one charged with disturbing the peace appeared before Police Judge H. W. Vestermark over the week-end.

Persons fined for intoxication are: Jack Kelley, $10 and costs; Cornelius Reed, $10 and costs; Bill Alberhasky, took 10 days in county jail in preference to paying a fine of $25 and costs; Lew Kennedy, took 10 days in county jail; and Bob Wells, sentenced to 30 days in county jail which was suspended on condition he leave town at once, Ed Murphy, charged with disturbing the peace, was suspended on good behavior.

Says Way Cleared for President to Accept Code

WASHINGTON, Aug. 28 (AP)—The long sought agreement on essentials for a competitive code for the bituminous coal industry was announced tonight by Hugh S. Johnson.

The industrial administrator, disclosing the result of the four days of conferences between operators and miners' representatives, said the administration was willing to recommend the agreement to the president and that it cleared the way for an acceptable code.

This announcement came at the end of a day that had brought a warning from him to the conferees that the president was closely watching their progress and was anxious to have the coal code put into operation.

Seek Retail Agreement

Meanwhile, the administration also was seeking an agreement upon a code for all retailers to bring that mammoth industry within the NRA. Today, too, marked the beginning of the campaign to take the blue eagle into homes to elicit agreements from consumers to buy from establishments which fly the NRA insignia.

Johnson refused to discuss the coal agreement other than to say the code probably would be completed within two or three days.

Retailers, too, were on notice that the administration was determined their code should go to President Roosevelt before Labor day, the date Johnson set weeks ago for having the greater portion of the nation's employees under the maximum hour-minimum wage agreements.

Textiles, steel, automobiles, lumber, oil and other big industries are aligned already with the NRA program.

Additional significance attached to the coal charter before of the threat of further labor disturbances unless the industry is stabilized quickly. Strikes in Pennsylvania and other places have been arbitrated by the national labor board and the miners returned to work with the hope that the code would satisfy everybody.

Chairman of Labor Board

Tomorrow, Senator Wagner of New York is to return to the capital to sit for the first time as chairman of the labor board which President Roosevelt created with the intent of ending future strikes through governmental mediation.

It became clear, meanwhile, that the promulgation of the automobile code had not ended the dispute over its labor provisions.

Organized labor was described by William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, as still opposed to the paragraph of the code which stated that, while not attempting to qualify the law guaranteeing workers the right of collective bargaining, plants would continue to handle employees on a basis of merit without regard to union affiliations.

Fire Last Evening Does $1,000 Damage in Grocery Building

Approximately $1,000 damage was caused by fire of unknown origin on the second floor of the building occupied by the Wilkinson and Condon grocery and the De Luxe Beauty shop at 6:20 p.m. yesterday.

Starting in the back part of the second floor the fire raged through the home of Mrs. Mabel Franz destroying the contents of two rooms, causing a loss of about $500. Mrs. Franz said the loss was not covered by insurance.

Firemen extinguished the flames in about 30 minutes. The damage to the building, which is managed by O. N. Riggs, is covered by insurance. Neither the contents of the beauty shop or grocery were damaged.

St. Louis' Fight on Sleeping Sickness Continues; 283 Cases

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 28 (AP)—Lights in St. Louis medical centers are burning far into the night as science, tired eyed but undiscouraged, seeks an explanation for an ever-widening spread of a mysterious "sleeping sickness" which has claimed 40 lives.

The valiant but so far futile fight has claimed the attention of federal, state and local authorities. Tomorrow Surgeon General Hugh S. Cummings is expected to view the situation at first hand.

Encephalitis, as the disease is known to science, first appeared in suburban St. Louis late in July.

Authorities immediately decided the cases should be handled like an epidemic. Additional patients were sent to isolation hospital. Since then 283 patients have been reported in the St. Louis area.

Don't Forget the Unemployed

NOW that Johnson county's $132,000 has been allotted for road improvement only one thing remains to be done—to start work immediately so that idle men may be put on the job. Iowa City and Johnson county were glad to get what they asked for. The money will be a real benefit, for these roads are badly in need of improvement. But the real purpose of the federal government must not be lost sight of for a minute in expending the funds. The unemployed must be put to work. Already too much time has passed with too little accomplishment. Prices have bounded skyward, production has boomed, but wages and employment have lagged far behind. Much of the whole national program's success depends upon the dispatch with which men can be put to work under the public works program. Only in this way can the national wage level be held up until the unemployed can be absorbed by the newly mobilized forces of industry. This fact already has been too widely neglected.

Bones From Yesterday

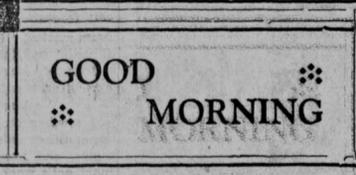

ABOUT 100,000,000 years ago—the exact date was not recorded—a great many inhabitants of the world laid themselves down and died in a remote swamp in New Mexico. Last week Dr. C. L. Camp, director of the University of California's museum of paleontology, got off the train at Berkeley and unloaded five tons of bones and other remains which he found this summer in his diggings through the arid country that once was swamp. The five tons of material included an 18-foot skeleton of a phytosaur, a crocodile-like creature related to the dinosaur; skulls and various parts of the skeletons of both the phytosaurs and typhothorax—a plated chest reptile; fragments of small dinosaurs, indicating that this tribe was getting a good start at the time (the triassic age, as geologists call it); scales of fishes; shells of freshwater clams and snails, and a few plant impressions in rocks, indicating the growth at that time of a pine similar to certain species now inhabiting South America and New Zealand. From the experience of his wanderings, Dr. Camp reported that an ocean probably covered most of northern California during the heyday of the reptiles, extending across Nevada and south to the Mexican coast. From that point on it is left for more experienced persons to speculate as to what might occur in the future. It is within the realm of possibility that the oceans will again advance and that our civilization will sink into the ooze and slime. Perhaps it is also possible that today's forms of life will recede until the strange creatures whose bones now furnish food for lecturers will gamble through New Mexico's swamps again. And wouldn't it be the height of irony for someone, say 200,000,000 years from now, to uncover the museum of paleontology at Berkeley and decide the university was built by the phytosaurs and the dinosaurs?

Progress, Sails, and Donkeys

PROGRESS IS a fine thing and something to be proud of, yet it often brings with it a great deal of sadness in the passing of old forms to which we have become attached through long acquaintance. The Thames, for instance, is swiftly losing its picturesque fleet of brown-sailed barges which once plied by the thousands up and down the river. Where more than 9,000 of them once tacked tortuously back and forth, barely 250 remain. They have been too slow, and newer types of power driven vessels are taking their places. Until quite recently the sailing barges held their own because of the cheapness with which they could carry as much as 30 tons. But business men have begun to ask for swifter transport of their goods and sails are coming down. The Thames barge masters, however, have accepted their fate by putting engines in their barges and trying to keep up with the faster vessels, while their French brothers on the Seine have risen in revolt. They, too, have been lords of the river for many generations, using donkeys for motive power. But with the advent of gasoline engines in their trade they protested violently, and finally went on strike, blocking the river with their barges. Of course they will lose. The command of progress has no respect for donkeys or sails.

How Old Is Ann Or Anybody?

Dr. Lauge Koch, arctic explorer of Denmark, is reported to have made important discoveries in northern Greenland in several air flights. Dr. Koch is described as a veteran arctic explorer, "although only 40 years old." Recently the news reported some calamity which had befallen an aged spinster, 55 years old. If a man is virtually a juvenile for arctic work at 40 and a lady is despairingly aged at 55 it must be assumed that time works ferocious ravages within a short span. It cannot be the difference in sex. Women age less, not more, rapidly than men. Here is vibrant youth at 40 singing in the gales of unexplored Greenland and within 15 years here is faded and hopeless age needing only some stroke of fate to bring down the ruin. It would seem to be a most reckless dispensation of nature if it were true. Probably the person who thought Dr. Koch young at 40 was himself 65 and the writer to whom the spinster was aged at 55 was himself, or herself, 25. There's a real gap which the 65 year old refuses to concede and the 25 year old regards as unquestionable and inexorable. There should be a better understanding and a closer agreement as to senescence, and if possible a definition which will allow the old fellows to preserve a few tractions. Threescore may be old, but it is a truer statement that it is relative. It is young to 80 and old to 40. Mr. Justice Holmes was younger in the law at 90 than Jack Dempsey was in the prize ring at 30. Generally the legs age earlier than the head, a provision of doubtful wisdom on the part of nature, considering how many more people use their legs than their heads. The head makes the trouble and the legs wear out getting from it. Eventually the victim has to sit down and take it. Illusion is life's most valuable property. It promises the youth that he will amount to something and the ancient that he has. Who would disturb either in so enjoyable and desirable an error?

The great experiment of the Tennessee valley is about to begin. The Tennessee Valley Authority has opened headquarters in 106 rooms of the New Sprinkle building in Knoxville and plans are nearly in readiness for the beginning of construction.

The importance of this experiment for the future of America has hardly been recognized in the rush and jumble of NRA days, yet it is something that has never before been attempted in history.

Based on the same general principle used by Henry Ford in development of his industrial communities, the Tennessee valley project goes farther and attempts to establish a balance between industry, agriculture, and reforestation, and all under the guiding hand of the government.

In the matter of personnel, everything is favorable for the success of the scheme. Dr. Arthur E. Morgan, president of Antioch college, is chairman of the board. He is aided by David E. Lilienthal, formerly chairman of the Wisconsin utilities commission, and Dr. Harcourt A. Morgan, president of the University of Tennessee.

Preliminary work for the project is already under way, according to news reports, including research by the Tennessee Valley study, with headquarters at the University of Tennessee, surveying for highways and railroad lines to Norris dam site, appraisals of thousands of acres of land which will be bought, and preparations for establishing a permanent model town near the dam.

The Norris dam, named for Senator George W. Norris of Nebraska who championed Muscle Shoals for 15 years in the congress, will be built at a cost of $35,000,000 at the site formerly known as the Cove Creek dam site, 20 miles north of Knoxville. It will be linked with the Muscle Shoals dam, which already is in operation, with a $6,000,000 transmission line.

The first model town is now being planned by landscape architects. It will be designed to allow the greatest possible freedom to its inhabitants, who will have their own gardens and plenty of room to move around. The houses are being designed with variety, along modern lines, with all built-in conveniences.

The principal object of the whole scheme is to furnish a yardstick to measure the efficiency and reasonableness of publicly owned electrical plants in this country, compared to those which are privately owned.

Officials of the Authority already have announced that where private and public interest conflict in the project's development, the public interest will prevail. This means that development will proceed to include a good share of the south in the area to be served by the two dams, regardless of interference from private power companies.

As the wheels begin to move, everything seems well and prospects for success are good. The experiment will be well worth watching. —Don Pryor

Revealed Strange Baby Market

TULSA, Okla., Aug. 28 (IIN)—Following the recent disclosure by Mrs. Mabel Bassett, state commissioner of charities and corrections, that there exists in Tulsa a "market" wherein babies born out of wedlock are sold for adoption at prices ranging from $70 to $100, a sweeping investigation has been ordered by the Tulsa County Medical society, two of whose members are implicated in the affair.

Uncovered by Accident The strange traffic in babies was brought to the notice of Commissioner Bassett by Helen Schaeffer, director of the local Children's Service bureau, whose attention was first directed to it when two women called at the bureau to ask her advice.

These women told Miss Schaeffer that a baby had been offered them for adoption on condition that they pay $100. Her suspicions aroused, Miss Schaeffer notified the commissioner of corrections, and the ensuing investigation disclosed that four children, all born of unmarried mothers, had been disposed of in this fashion over a period of a few weeks. One baby was born in a hospital, one in a private home and two at local institutions, but in each instance the doctor in the case advised the young mother that he would relieve her of all responsibility of caring for the child.

At low ebb, both physically and mentally, the young mothers agreed to the doctor's proposition in every case, mainly because they were desperately poor and could not afford to pay hospital costs.

Feas in Flesh It was this same poverty of the parents which was put forward by the doctors as an excuse for their unusual actions in "marketing" the babies. Two of the doctors, whose names are in possession of the commissioner, are quoted as saying that

TOPEKA, Kan., Aug. 28 (AP)—Charges of embezzlement were filed today against Warren W. Finney, Emporia banker and father of Ronald Finney, under arrest on state and federal charges in the Kansas million dollars bogus municipal bond case. The Elder Finney, president of the Fidelity State and Savings bank, Emporia, closed and placed in receivership after the arrest of the 34 year old bond broker, was charged with embezzlement of $79,061 in a complaint filed at Emporia by C. V. Beck, Lyon county attorney.

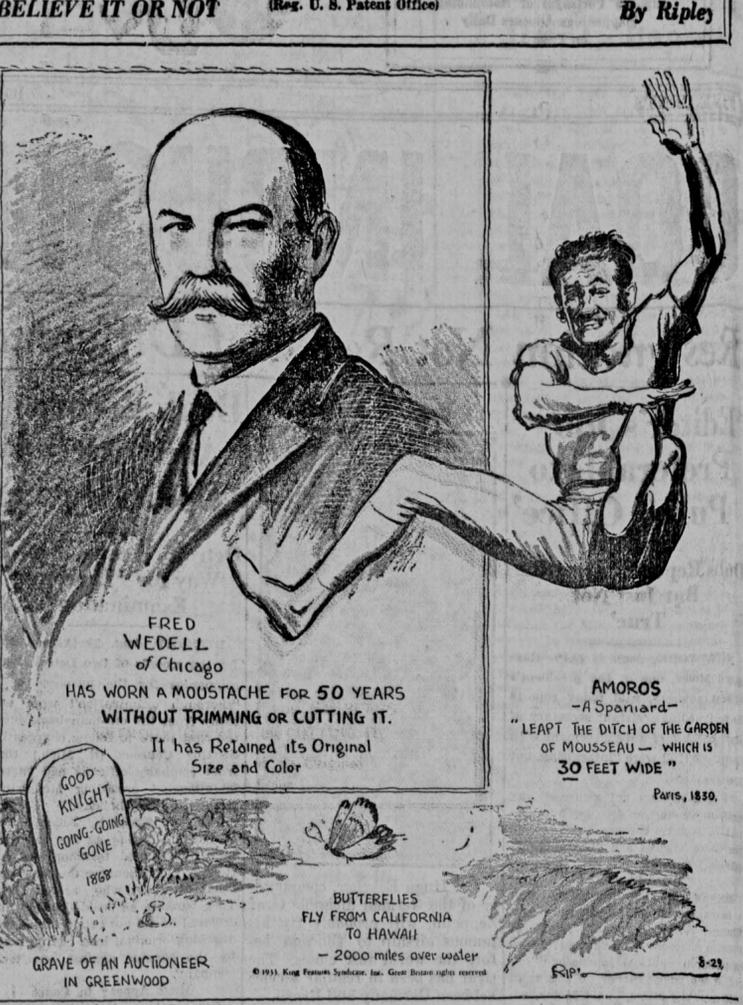

The banker entered a plea of not guilty and was released under $25,000 bond pending preliminary hearing on September 12. Meanwhile at Topeka, Tom B. Boyd, state treasurer, Ronald Finney and Leland Caldwell, all re-arrested late Saturday on federal charges of entering into a scheme to defraud the state and Jackson Brothers, Boesel and company, Chicago, brokerage firm and to obtain $286,000 from the concern, were held in jail in default of bail.

BEHIND THE SCENES - IN HOLLYWOOD -

STUDIO GOSSIP SCREEN COMMENT

HOLLYWOOD—Virginia Cherrill needn't worry about Cary Grant while she's away in Honolulu, for the tall Paramount actor is going to be swapped with work. As soon as he finishes the Mae West picture, Cary is scheduled to take the leading role in "Come on Marines," a brand new story by Philip Wylie to fit the title that Paramount once announced for a Buddy Rogers-Richard Arlen vehicle. In the revised version, Cary will play an Annapolis cadet who leaves the naval academy with his courage under question, but who proves himself under another name, fighting with the marines in a Central American revolution. The role will be virtually a starring one for Cary and he'll start it some time in September. Take it from Marie Dressler, bankers have a sense of humor too. She met one in Santa Barbara recently and he said: "For years I've been wanting to meet someone who can make people cry and laugh too. I've only been able to make them cry." HOLLYWOOD PARADE Wrestler Gus Sonnenburg can't forget his estranged wife, Judith Allen. In Reo to get a friendly divorce, he is having his car shipped back to Hollywood to put at Judith's disposal. Considering the billing he'll receive, the giant Primo Carnera will make a studio appearance of record briefness. Five days will see him through with his part at M-G-M. Those five days, however, will find every free executive and player on the lot visiting the set in the hopes that either Primo or Max will let a real one fly. Originally expected on Thursday, Carnera slips in here tonight in a private car. Studio executives hope to persuade both him and Baer to dress up in evening clothes and make an appearance next Tuesday night for the "Dinner at Eight" premiere at Grauman's Chinese theater. Ginger Rogers' ma is turning fan magazine writer. She's the author of several plays, you know. Would you call this an English sense of humor? Someone told Mimi Jordan the other day that her sili was showing. Just as a test, she left it that way all day. Thirty-three people called her attention to it. The Marquis Henry de la Falaise will not lose a foot of the film that he had to keep on ice during his stay in Bali. Wallace Smith's gay novel, "The Captain Hates the Sea," is in its seventh edition. Arthur Sheekman and Nat Perrin will write for Samuel Goldwyn for the next three years. Labor Day will see Irene Dunne's husband, Dr. Francis Griffen, on his way back to New York. John Barrymore is due here the first of the week. Did you know that Sally Eilers' brother, Bud, also acts in the films. He's doing a small part in Sally's current picture, "Walls of Gold." Edmund Arthony Brown, the original "White" of "Queer People," is turned actor for Mae West's picture, "I'm No Angel." And of all the amateur scenarios I like best the one turned in by a bootblack near the Fox Westside avenue studio. In the big scene, the hero walks into the kitchen, discovers his cook murdered and says: "Well, I guess we'll have to get a new cook. This one is dead."

Washington street, were: Mr. and Mrs. Harter, Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Mitchell, Mary Lou Trundy, Catherine Smith, Mrs. Anna Tressler, George Jensen, David Paul, Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Sidwell and daughter, Robert Adams and four children, and O. Bacon.

Wanderlust Holds Sway in Iowa City

Various things call Iowa City residents out of town. With most of them it's the spectator spirit which regards Chicago and its Century of Progress as the greatest thing to see this summer; but with other it's a desire to renew friendships, a longing to talk over with relatives the days of the past, or even a religious fervor which makes camp meetings attractive.

Here's what Iowa City persons did the last week end, and what they're doing during the coming week.

Mr. and Mrs. George D. Koser, 37 Riverview, returned Sunday from Chicago and the Century of Progress. With them came Mrs. Koser's sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Sward, and their son, Gilbert. The Swards, whose home is in Washington, D.C., will be in Iowa City for a month.

Mr. and Mrs. Lee Glanz, 510 Grant street, have returned from a two week's vacation spent at Williamsburg and the Century of Progress at Chicago.

Alice Lampe, daughter of Prof. M. Willard Lampe, 821 N. Linn street, returned Sunday from three weeks at Sequoyia club, Charlevoix, Mich., where she visited an aunt, Mrs. William Lampe. Virginia Lampe also returned Sunday from Camp Holiday in Minnesota. Betty Lampe will return from the camp at the end of the week.

Daily the Century of Progress takes its toll of Iowa City residents. Dorothy Sutton, 16 W. Harrison street, and Ruth Crum, are its latest victims.

The Seventh-Day Adventist camp meeting in Nevada was the attraction for Mrs. Harry Robb, her daughter, Kathleen, and Mary Onimus, 1115 E. Burlington street, who returned last night from the meetings.

Mr. and Mrs. George L. Horner, 220 Richards street, had as week end guests, Dr. and Mrs. Ernest W. Anderson of Cedar Rapids.

And still the Century of Progress—Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Holub, 302 E. Bloomington street, and Mr. and Mrs. John Kasper of Solon, recently returned from a week spent in Chicago and at the fair.

More Century of Progress spectators recently were Jacob W. Kadera, daughter Genevieve, and Mr. and Mrs. Otto Sedlacek and daughter, Elsie.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Graham and sons, Donald and John, 314 E. Fairchild street, left early Sunday morning for Chicago and the Century of Progress. On the way they plan to visit relatives in Champagne, Ill. They will remain in Chicago until Friday.

John Webster, 228 S. Linn street, left Sunday for Prairie City and Des Moines where he will spend his two week vacation.

Hedeen-Patton Wed Sunday
Plan to Honeymoon in Chicago Before Return

Virginia Hedeen and Harris E. Patton, both of Gowrie, were united in marriage Sunday in the garden of the home of Mr. Patton's parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Patton of Gowrie. Mrs. Patton is the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Hedeen of Gowrie.

The bride wore a formal afternoon frock of aqua marine blue crepe and carried a colonial bouquet of talisman roses. Mrs. Harold H. Wood, her cousin, attended her, and Mr. Wood served Mr. Patton as best man.

Mrs. Patton attended the University of Iowa for a year following her graduation from the Gowrie high school in 1931.

Mr. Patton has been sports editor of the Iowa City Press-Citizen since Feb. 1928. He is a 1931 graduate of the University of Iowa, majoring in journalism, and is a member of Sigma Phi Epsilon social fraternity, and Sigma Delta Chi, professional journalism fraternity.

Mr. and Mrs. Patton are spending their honeymoon in Chicago, and will be at home to friends soon at 228 1/2 E. College street.

SEEN from Old Capitol

by TOM YOSELOFF

A sidelight on Dr. Mary Patrick, formerly president of the American college in Constantinople and a sister of Prof. G. T. W. Patrick, formerly of the philosophy department here, is contained in the book "My Life in the Moslem East" now on the university library shelves.

The author, Emma C. Ponafidine, whose husband was at one time in the Russian diplomatic service at Constantinople, was making a social call on the wife of Prince Effendi, son of Abdul Hamid. The call had proven a little boring and the visitor was glancing about the palace in search of a topic for conversation.

Suddenly her eye lit upon a painting on one of the walls. A woman was pictured riding on a horse. The face, but only the face, was that of Dr. Mary Patrick. In her busy life, it seemed, Dr. Patrick had never had the time but for a few sittings. Consequently the artist had never really finished the picture.

But in order to complete it as best he could he had painted in the form of his young wife and in addition had seated her on a horse! The painting had become famous in Turkey, and now for the first time the visitor was seeing it.

In reply to her questions, the princess told her that the prince had placed the painting there that it might always be before her, and that she might have always the guidance of "the most wonderful woman ever to enter Turkey."

Margaret McCulley Weds Dr. McFarland; Live in Wisconsin
Mr. and Mrs. D. E. McCulley of Omaha, Neb., are announcing the marriage of their daughter, Margaret, to Dr. G. E. McFarland, Jr., son of Dr. and Mrs. G. E. McFarland of Ames, which took place June 28.

Mrs. McFarland, a student at the University of Iowa, was affiliated with Kappa Alpha Theta social sorority, the Iowa life editor of the 1933 Hawkeye, a member of the Sophomore Cotillion committee, and in 1932, a Hawkeye beauty.

The couple will live in LaCrosse, Wis.

Slavata-Langenberg Wedding Solemnized Yesterday Morning

Ceremony Takes Place at St. Mary's Church in Iowa City
Wearing her mother's bridal veil, Laura Slavata, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Slavata, whose home is east of Iowa City, was united in marriage to Paul Langenberg of North Liberty yesterday morning at 7:30 at St. Mary's church, the Rev. A. J. Schulte officiating.

The bride was gowned in a long white silk organdie dress and carried a bouquet of white roses. Attending her was Clara Lovetinsky who wore a floor length green net dress and white accessories. Attending Mr. Langenberg was his brother, Robert, of Tiffin.

Preceding the ceremony, religious songs were sung by Celesta Fuhrmann. Zita Fuhrmann played the wedding march.

Immediately following the ceremony, the couple and their attendants breakfasted at Reich's pine room, and at noon the bridal party and friends and relatives numbering 40 persons were entertained at a dinner at the home of the bridegroom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Landenberg, of Tiffin.

Mrs. Landenberg graduated from the Iowa City high school in 1932, and Mr. Landenberg also attended school here.

At the conclusion of a wedding trip to be spent in Wisconsin, Mr. and Mrs. Langenberg will be at home to friends on a farm near North Liberty.

Doctors Probe Strange Illness

Two Dead; Third Held in Condition of Coma

While physicians at the University hospital attempted to diagnose the strange illness which caused the death of his two brothers, Warren Wilson, 6 year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Ellwood Wilson, Wilton Junction, was critically ill in the hospital here tonight.

The condition of the six year old boy was reported unimproved. Physicians said that he was in a coma, and that he was dangerously sick.

Dr. V. E. Lennerson, physician at the children's hospital who attended the three boys, said that the death of Joseph, 4, and Allen, 2, was due directly to "acute encephitis." He explained that encephitis was a form of dysentery, and that it was a condition rather than a disease itself.

Joseph died Saturday night and Allen died Sunday night. Meanwhile, the doctors were attempting to learn from post-mortem examinations the nature of the illness. They said that several symptoms of typhoid were present including inflammation of the intestines, but that it would be three or four days before a positive diagnosis could be made.

The three boys were brought to the hospital last Thursday. They were in a semi-conscious condition from which they could be roused only occasionally.

Ripley Explanations

The man who outsped a bullet: Francesco Agello, crack Italian airman, set a new world's airplane speed record in April of this year, traveling at the rate of 423,522 miles per second. This is a little better than 621 feet per second, or 11 f.s. faster than the muzzle velocity of the 38 super-police revolver. Compared with the average or instrumentality velocity of this revolver, the ratio of the airplane speed is even higher.

The bottle house: This curious structure situated on Ellis street in Tonopah required about 10,000 beer bottles in its construction. The bottles are imbedded in cement and mortar. The house has been standing for the last 20 years.

Youngsters in Smashing Win Over Veterans

Shields-Parker Prove too Strong for Tidlists

BROOKLINE, Mass., Aug. 28 (AP)—The deadly smashing of six-foot-three Frank X. Shields of New York, reinforced by the brilliant but not always steady play of 17 year old Frankie Parker of Milwaukee, today forced Ellsworth Vines and Keith Gledhill to abdicate their national doubles tennis thrones in the semi-final round of the current title play.

The defending titlists, after overcoming a two-set lead to square the match, finally bowed by scores of 6-2, 6-4, 3-6, 3-6, 6-2 and, as if in sympathy, the sky was immediately darkened by the heavy clouds of a thunderstorm.

Storms Approach Under almost twilight conditions, the other semi-final went into action. George Lot of Chicago and Lester Steffen of Los Angeles against Adrian K. Quist and Don Turnbull of Australia. These international rivals managed to play 13 games in the fast-fading light before demanding a postponement. Lot and Steffen, by breaking Quist in the seventh game, managed to pull out the first set at 6-4. The Aussies led two games to one on service in their second set when they agreed with their American rivals

Mrs. Moody, Miss Jacobs Both Under Doctor's Care While Playing in National

Mrs. Moody Criticized for Defaulting in Finals

By ALAN GOULD (Associated Press Sports Editor)

NEW YORK, Aug. 28 (AP)—While the controversial features of Helen Wills Moody's dramatic default to Helen Jacobs in the national tennis championship finals continued to agitate sporting circles today, on both sides of the Atlantic, it developed that both participants completely disregarded medical advice by competing at all.

Mrs. Moody, storm-center of the debate over her decision to withdraw when within three games of losing the final set at love, was well on her way to California, accompanied by a nurse and friend, after an admission that she wished she had followed her doctor's counsel and not even entered the tournament.

Miss Jacobs, newly acclaimed for her greatest championship victory, was still at Forest Hills under the care of her physician, Dr. T. C. Chalmers, who ended the mystery about blonde Helen's condition with a statement specifying details and explaining why it was necessary for her to use stimulants throughout the tournament.

"Miss Jacobs played throughout the tournament against my advice," said Dr. Chalmers. "She fainted at Seabright after her match with Sarah Palfrey. Upon consultation with me, there was an X-ray examination which showed Miss Jacobs suffering with an acute inflammation of the gall bladder. Her heart condition was by no means as good as it should have been for her athletic competition.

"She insisted upon playing in the tournament and it was necessary for her to be under constant treatment by me in order to play. The remarkable thing is that she was able to play. In her matches it was necessary for her to take stimulants, even while playing, as it was her idea she must compete all the way to the end."

Meanwhile the sports critics debated the ethics of Mrs. Moody's action in walking off the courts, in preference to trying to finish out the match. While one group held to the view she should have finished the match, at any cost, and "gone down like a champion," others were equally insistent she used sensible judgment and avoided possible dangerous injury by defaulting.

Mrs. Molla Malory, eight-times former American champion and the last previous player to beat Mrs. Moody, was quoted as remarking that "Mrs. Moody walked off because she did not want to be beaten." The former champion, to whom Suzanne Lenglen defaulted at Forest Hills in 1921, witnessed the Moody-Jacobs match.

Miss Jacobs, assured a national if not world's No. 1 ranking on the strength of her play in Wightman Cup matches as well as the national championship, where she conquered the Wimbledon queen, is through playing tennis for this year. She said she would take a vacation.

Enid Wilson Sets Record in Medal Win

Lucile Robinson Ties for Eighth Place With 81

EXMOOR CLUB, HIGHLAND PARK, Ill., Aug. 28 (AP)—Ripping par to shreds over the final three holes with a spectacular finish that overtook a trio of America's greatest shot makers, Miss Enid Wilson, queen of England's fairways, captured the women's national golf championship medal at Exmoor today with the lowest total in 37 years of play.

Trailing the leaders and par by one shot as she ended the fifteenth hole, the husky 23 year old English champion blazed forth with two birdies and a finishing eagle for a record breaking 76 and the medal by a margin of two shots over her closest American rivals, Virginia Van Wie of Chicago, the defending titleholder; Maureen Orcutt of Harwood, N. Y., and Helen Hicks of Inwood, N. Y., three outstanding favorites in the championship drive.

Only four times in the history of the championship, which hasn't been won by a foreign entry since Gladys Ravenscroft of England turned the trick 20 years ago, has 77 been equalled in the big show of American women's golf. Alexa Stirling Fraser did it in 1925 at St. Louis; Ada Mackenzie of Canada, who qualified today with a high 85 to give the title a double international threat, duplicated it at Cherry Valley, N. Y., in 1927; and Miss Van Wie and Miss Orcutt tied it last year at Salem.

Innocent Bystander

George Zaharias, Colorado wrestler, didn't like the decision of Referee Bennie Bortnick on his match with Ray Steele at Washington, D. C., so he gave the "ref" an airplane spin and heaved him over the ropes. The camera caught the act as shown here.

Vic Sorrell in 4 Hit Role as Tigers Win

Blanks World Champs for Eight of 9 Innings

DETROIT, Aug. 28 (AP)—Vic Sorrell, slender Tiger southpaw, came within an inning today of blanking the second pitcher to blank the Yankees in 334 games as he led Detroit to an easy 6 to 1 victory. Sorrell pitched hitless ball for six innings and allowed only two hits up to the ninth. Then Dixie Walker tripled and Babe Ruth singled him home. Four hits were all Sorrell allowed as Detroit evened the series at two games all.

The Tigers had two big innings at the expense of Johnny Allen, who retired for a pinch hitter in the eighth with MacFayden finishing. Four runs developed in the third on walks to Hayworth and Rogel, Fox's single, doubles by Gehringer and Gerald Walker, and a wild pitch. In the seventh Rogel's single set a brace of triples by Gehringer and Walker added the final pair.

A's Beat Chicago to Even Series

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 28 (AP)—The Philadelphia Athletics caught up with Sam Jones in the seventh inning today and renewed their assault against Ted Lyons in the ninth to defeat the Chicago White Sox, 9 to 5, and even up the series. Jones held the A's under control for six frames, while the Sox worked up a 4 to 1 lead at the expense of Merritt (Sugar) Cain.

In the seventh, however, Philadelphia bounced the right-hander with a four run drive and thumped Jim Peterson held the Sox to three hits in the last four innings and was credited with the victory.

Pirates Trounce Phillies Twice

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 28 (AP)—The Pittsburgh Pirates brought their losing streak to an abrupt end today with a double victory over the Phillies by the score of 9 to 5 and 9 to 1.

Gibson's men came from behind to win the first game. Trailing 4 to 2 at the beginning of the sixth inning, they hammered Elliott from the box and pounded his successor, Berly. In the eighth they hit Berly for a trio of counters to clinch the contest. Swift, who had started for the Pirates, was lifted for a pinch-hitter in the fifth and Chagnon, who finished, received credit for the triumph. Spud Davis hit a homer for the Phils in the ninth.

In the second game the Pirates took an early lead by hammering Holley for a run in the second and four more in the third. Home runs by Lindstrom and Vaughan, the latter with two on base, were the big factors in the victory.

The Pirates added three more counters in the seventh. French had no difficulty in holding the Phils well in hand, allowing them only six hits.

Dying Effort

With Dizzy Dean replacing Vance, the Giants made a final effort in the ninth and scored two runs on singles by Moore, Critz and Davis. Terry fanned in the heart of the rally and Dean worked easily behind his big lead, finally getting Vezez for the final out on a bouncer to Martin.

The eighth was marked by another heated argument of the kind that almost cost the Giants suspensions yesterday for Ott and Terry. The entire team engaged in a protest this time when Umpire McGrew called a third strike on Vezez. The Giants claimed he had tipped the ball for a foul.

Umpire Lenient

Terry escaped with only a reprimand for pushing McGrew yesterday in an argument over a decision at first base. President Heydler of the National League, explained today that McGrew's leniency alone saved Terry, who was first ordered from the game and then allowed to stay. Ott, ejected as an aftermath of the argument, was not suspended because of his previous good record, Heydler said.

"I am cautioning both players against such outbursts," Heydler said. "Under the circumstances of Umpire McGrew's action, based on his first hand judgment of the circumstances, no suspensions were justified.

"Discipline must be maintained but, at the same time, some allowances may be dictated by circumstances."

Braves Fall Before Hurling of Lucas

BOSTON, Aug. 28 (AP)—The Braves' pennant aspirations received a decided setback today when Red Lucas, star Cincinnati twirler, shut them out, 2 to 0. Hafey made both runs for the Reds.

It was the second straight loss for the Tribe after having won eight games in a row. Boston got only two hits off Lucas. Berger doubled in the seventh, reached third on Randy Moore's bunt and tried hard to score on Whitney's fly to Hafey but was thrown out on a close play at the plate.

In the next inning Maranville singled with two out and none on. Brandt struck out, leaving Maranville stranded and incidentally ending the Braves' chances for the remainder of the game. Brandt limited the Reds to six hits but in the face of Lucas' superb hurling his teammates were helpless.

The Reds made their first tally in the fourth. Hafey singled and completed the circuit on Rice's sacrifice and Lombardi's single.

The second run came in the ninth. Hafey opened with a throw. Rice bunted and Brandt's single for a force play at second was a fraction of a second too late, each runner advancing or Lombardi's sacrifice. Hafey finally caught home after Berger had caught Bottomley's deep fly to center.

Geiger Hurls Two Hit Game as Supply Triumphs

Iowa Supply took Manager Kidder, who hurried not effectively for Mutual Benefit, for a long jolting ride last night at City park, climbed all over him with the whole outfit hitting heavily, and swamped him 15 to 5 in the night cap fray.

"Life Buby" Geiger climaxed an evening of home runs, triples, and singles collected in the two preceding games, by hurling for the Supply boys and allowing only two hits, one in the fourth and one in the seventh when the Accident outfit staged a useless rally that netted them three runs.

Starting out to make the evening a big success by chasing in two runs in the first frame, Iowa Supply went right on and in three big innings proceeded to put the works on the

Iron Major Sinks Rapidly

MANFIELD, Mass., Aug. 28 (AP)—Time was running fast in the last quarter for Frank W. Cavanaugh tonight.

Doctors agreed it would take an effort as spectacular as any he engineered on the gridiron to keep football's "iron major" from hearing life's final whistle before many hours.

War wounds and the aftermath of a serious operation sapped the strength of the man who retired as a nationally famous football coach to seek rest and a restoration of his health in this small town on Massachusetts south shore. He is 57.

Cavanaugh's family, his wife and nine children, were gathered at his bedside awaiting the end, while doctors administered stimulants in an effort to stave off death. David, Cavanaugh's oldest son and idol, reached home early today after a hurried trip from New York.

Up to a few days ago, the family had been heartened by the improvement in the major's health following upon an abdominal operation. He had been released from the hospital Aug. 9 after a recovery which doctors doubted he would be able to make. He suffered a shock last week and when David arrived today Cavanaugh was unable to recognize him.

It was to David that Cavanaugh wrote his famous letter during the World war. In a dimly lighted billet with the booming of guns around him, Cavanaugh wrote David a tender, simple letter. He reminisced of the days a few months before when David, then but a child, awaited his home-comings; counseled him to be strong and manly and asked that he take good care of his mother. It was signed, "Your old man, Cav." The letter was published throughout

Cav' Cavanaugh Not Given Slightest Chance

From Private to Major Cavanaugh had entered the World war as a private in a field artillery outfit and came out a major. His war-time success was a repetition of his achievement on the football field. He was a star end at Barnmouth and later coached at Holy Cross, Worcester academy, the Denver Athletic club and Dartmouth. After the war he went to Boston college and coached teams which defeated Yale on two successive years and then he went on to put Forham at the top of the football heap.

Wallace Sets Wheat Yield Percentages

Says Production Must Be Cut 15 Per Cent by Farmers

WASHINGTON, Aug. 28 (AP)—A 15 per cent slash in wheat plantings by farmers joining in the government's crop reduction plan was called for today by Secretary Wallace.

He estimated it would mean a cut of about 9,600,000 acres in wheat plantings below the average of recent years and would reduce production of the bread grain more than 124,000,000 bushels below the average of past years.

Theoretically Complete
These estimates, he added, were based on a "theoretically complete sign-up" by farmers who, by agreeing to reduce their acreage, become eligible for up to $120,000,000 in cash benefit payments from a fund being raised by the 30 cent per bushel processing tax on wheat that has been levied since July 9. About $90,000,000 is scheduled for distribution this fall.

Understanding Necessary
Wallace's announcement was made without waiting for final action on the London wheat agreement. Twenty-one nations Friday signed the compact including the United States, Wallace said, however, that the agreement did not become effective unless the four chief exporting nations, the United States, Argentina, Australia and Canada, join in a supplementary understanding dividing among them a quota of 560,000,000 bushels in exports during the year which began Aug. 1.

This supplement has been delayed but Wallace said he was confident it would be signed tomorrow. It has been approved by representatives of Canada and Australia but the United States is withholding its signature until it has been signed by the Argentine delegate, Thomas Le Breton.

Counties in Iowa Average $20,000 in Road Maintenance

Maintenance of roads in most counties of Iowa averaged between $20,000 and $30,000 according to the report of State Comptroller C. B. Murtagh.

Johnson county along with Allamakee, Benton, Buena Vista, Calhoun, Carroll, Cass, Clayton, Crawford, Dubuque, Fayette, Harrison, Iowa, Jackson, Jasper, Keokuk, Kosciusko, Lee, Linn, Marshall, Monona, Muscatine, Page, Plymouth, Polk, Pottawattamie, Ringgold, Sac, Sioux, Story, Tama, Warren, and Woodbury exceeded the average.

A total of $22,386,297.57 was spent on Iowa's primary highway system during the year ending June 30. Paving was the major item of expense, costing $5,702,463.36, while maintenance work required $2,761,961.62. Johnson county redeemed $61,000 worth of bonds during the last year.

DETROIT BANK Records Ordered Out for Examination

Declared, "were cold blooded before the national bank holiday. When loans matured they sold them out. If all the country had done the same thing, it would have brought on a national banking collapse one year earlier, I believe. There are 10 times as many deposits as there is currency and all banks cannot be 80 or 90 per cent liquid. When New York closed out its customers and got its money first, it was like a bank run. The first in line got theirs and left the rest holding the bag. The New York bankers preached leniency to the rest of the country while they were being severe themselves."

The witness declared that "the big mistake the bankers made was in posing as supermen and advertising for the public to come in and ask their advice about investments." "After a while," he said, "they began to believe themselves really to be supermen. They all woke up after the banking holiday to discover that there were very few supermen in the banking business."

DIXIE DUGAN—

NRA Leisure Brings Boom in Sports

GOLF
NEW YORK, (I. I. N.)—Now that the National Recovery Act has provided millions of American workers with many extra hours of leisure as a result of its shortening the working day, the question arises: "What is John Q. Citizen going to do with it?"

Course in Relaxation
Back in the days before NRA an oft-heard phrase was: "There's so much I'd like to do—if only I had the time." Now, strangely enough, many who sighed that wistful pliant in the old days find themselves with the time but unable to remember what it was that they pined to do. To the rescue of these forgetful people comes a newly-organized branch of NRA, which recently came into being in New York. It is called the Committee on Use of Leisure Time and its object is to study and report on the most advantageous method of employing the spare time accruing to workers under NRA.

The committee was organized by Grover Whalen, standard-bearer of the Blue Eagle in New York, who designates the work of the new committee as a scientific experiment, using New York as a laboratory, from which "we hope to derive formulae that can be employed in every city, town and village in the United States."

Natural Players
While admitting that the objects and aims of the new branch of NRA are most praiseworthy, it seems hard to believe in the existence of a human being who finds himself, or herself, unable to play without coaching from the Blue Eagle. To many the idea will appear as presumptuous as an attempt to teach a bird to fly or a fish to swim; for man is a natural-born player, by inclination if not in fact.

Before NRA, thousands of workers all over the country toiled in sweatshops and factories, some as high as 70 hours per week. Then the Blue Eagle screamed and lo, they found themselves with, in some cases, 35 hours of spare time. A check-up of sports outfitters shows how many are utilizing their bonanza of hours.

Sales of golfing, tennis and fishing requisites enjoyed a boom that came like a refreshing wind to a business that had been hit harder than any other by the depression, proving that thousands of workers who hitherto could only wish are now actually engaged in these sports.

Education, Too
But not all have taken their spare time to the great outdoors to fritter it away. Garden implements have enjoyed a mild boom since NRA bestowed its blessings—an indication that many a worker whose bread and butter was in a factory or office only awaited the opportunity to get back to the land, if only for a hobby. These God-children of NRA are putting their spare time in Mother Earth in hopes of getting it back with interest.

Still others are indulging to the full in a hitherto suppressed desire for learning. Hundreds of workers who were forced to leave school at an early age in order to contribute to the family upkeep now have the opportunity to pick up their education where they dropped it, in some cases many years ago. The depression which resulted in the birth of the NRA may prove a blessing in disguise to many such as these.

On The Other Hand
It is for the type who never had time to even think of what they would do with spare time if they had it that the new NRA committee has been formed. There are many thousands of men and women in the United States who come into that class. Their lives, up to now, have been made up of alternate working and sleeping hours. To them the NRA has given a great gift, but it is similar to presenting an automobile to a man who cannot drive—they must be taught.

Grahl Delays Job Acceptance

Asked by Guardsmen to Hold Adjutant's Post

DES MOINES, Aug. 28 (AP)—Urging by Iowa national guard officers that he continue at his present post as adjutant general today delayed acceptance by Charles Grahl of his appointment as warden of the Fort Madison penitentiary.

Maj. Gen. M. A. Tinley of Council Bluffs led the officers, who asked Gov. Clyde Herring to retain Grahl as adjutant general because of "his excellent services in that position."

The guardsmen made it plain that they were in no sense objecting to the appointment, but pointed out that Grahl has established himself among national guard and army leaders throughout the country by his work since accepting the adjutant general's post in 1931.

Differences in salary of the two jobs is slight. The adjutant general's post pays $3,000 a year and provides summer use of a home at Camp Dodge. The warden's salary is $2,400 annually plus a house and board for his family.

It was learned at the state house that W. H. Bailey, Grahl's predecessor as adjutant general, would be put forward for his old position in the event of Grahl's acceptance of the warden's job.

Bailey served from 1927 to December, 1931, when he resigned before expiration of his term.

DES MOINES (AP)—Roadside parks in every county will provide rest havens for the traveler crossing Iowa when a federal conservation corps project is completed.

AROUND THE TOWN with DICK FAGAN

Bitter (no) Sweet
Brother Rotarians have been telling stories on C. C. Warden, manager of the Jefferson hotel. The story: Manager Warden noticed much bitterness along the road when he went to the Rotarian picnic Thursday, Friday he decided to go out and get some. Taking a long knife with him he finally spotted a large bunch of it. Taking hold of the limb he started to whack it off.

Complications
While whacking he felt a sting on the back of one of his legs. Thinking it to be a snake he swung his knife around cutting a hole in his trousers. Not for long did he think of snakes for hornets started buzzing around his head. Taking to flight he lost his hat and glasses. After driving into town to get his hornet wounds treated he engaged a couple of caddies from the Country club to go out to the woods with him to hunt for his lost articles. The hat was easily found but the glasses only after much searching—they were finally spotted hanging to a limb. For the last two days fellow Rotarians have been calling up Mr. Warden asking him if he knew where they could get any bitter-sweet.

A Tip
City councils for the last few years have not been following the lead of their predecessors: minutes of the council, "Monday evening, March 20, 1854. On motion it was ordered that the city marshal provide an oyster supper for the members of the city council and officers at the expense of the city on next Monday night."

Ever Hear of It?
After thumbing through a few pages of old council minutes: "Monday evening, Aug. 1, 1853. A petition was presented to the council signed by F. H. Lee and W. H. White and committee praying for a grant or donation of College Green to the Iowa Female Collegiate institute." It was granted.

Groans and Grunts
Dust covered pictures of the times when grandpa got up in the dead of night to race to a fire in Murphy's barn with a hose cart behind him are stored in the attic at the city hall. There are many pictures of well-known Iowa Citizens who served in the volunteer fire department.

Drought Damages South Africa
CAPETOWN (AP)—Experts estimate that 10,000,000 sheep, or about 20 per cent of the Union of South Africa's flocks, have perished in the drought which has gripped parts of the Orange Free State and northwestern Cape territory for many months. Hundreds of farmers are bankrupt.

Death Beats Prison Term

CHICAGO, Aug. 28 (AP)—Death, as he had prophesied, saved Timothy J. Crowe from the prison term imposed upon him for a $5,000,000 graft conspiracy.

Once a leader of Cook county Democracy as president of the Chicago sanitary district, he had been in virtual retirement since his indictment in 1929 after a sensational grand jury investigation of padded payrolls, gilded contracts and wild parties at the public expense.

Crowe and three associates were convicted and Crowe received a penitentiary term of one to five years. His appeal awaits hearing before the appellate court in October.

"I'll never live to go to jail," he said once.

Today he dropped dead, his heart suddenly failing while he was with his family at Williams Bay, Wis. Diabetes had weakened him.

Crowe started out as street car conductor and pushed his way up from ward committee to prominence in the Democratic party.

SYDNEY (AP)—Road accidents in Australia in 1932 took a toll of 700 killed and 12,839 injured. The peak year was 1929 when 929 were killed and 15,627 hurt.

She was the loveliest of the European beauties imported to grace the movie screen... yet Hollywood could learn nothing about her. Distant, unapproachable, she went her way aloof to the admiration and worship showered upon her. To win her was a task for a strong man—a reckless man who cared nothing for barriers when such a prize was at stake... and who could hold the prize when it was won. Where in Hollywood with its spoiled screen idols was there such a man?
