The senior Montana senator, Mrs. Wheeler, three of their children and a Filipino servant, all suffering injuries of varying degree, were treated in Glasgow.

Senator Wheeler was unconscious when removed from the wreckage of his sedan. Recovering consciousness he was unable to say what occurred. A shattered rear tire, however, was believed to have thrown the heavy machine out of his control.

Bituminous Coal Operators Sign Code After Long Period of Controversial Bickering

Action Is Result of Presidential Demand

WASHINGTON, Sept. 16 (AP)—The bituminous coal code, fraught with controversy through all the negotiations for its formulation, was signed tonight by the operators of the various producing regions.

The ceremony made the document of strife ready for promulgation by the president. All the way through the troublesome negotiations, it had thrust innumerable difficulties before the administration, obstacles that had been reflected in strikes in the coal fields, themselves.

Two nights ago, after an outbreak of fighting in the Pennsylvania strike area, President Roosevelt summoned leaders of the industry and officials of the government to a long White House conference. During it, he allotted 24 more hours for the formulation of the code. The 24 hours ended yesterday with the operators still far from their goal. More time was granted.

Through long conferences in hotel rooms, the work went on through today. There were lengthy debates over wage differentials among the various coal fields. Wage disputes were to be settled. Marketing agreements, company houses, innumerable details to be settled.

The draft of the code was completed, but still there were more points to be settled. Contracts had to be signed with the United Mine Workers of America for labor. Hugh S. Johnson, the administrator, went into a series of meetings with the operators shortly before nightfall tonight. Through several hours the conference room debate went on.

Finally, the administrator emerged from a room at the Shoreham hotel to say the compact would be signed at his office at 7 p.m.

A little after the time set, the operators began filing into Johnson's office. By two's and in groups, they went inside to put their names to the document.

The work was not entirely completed when they left. J. P. Francis, an operator who had been working with the code for weeks, said the wage agreement between the operators and the United Mine Workers of America had not been completed but was in such a stage that only minor details were left.

He predicted that these contracts, which would unionize completely the soft coal fields, would be ratified soon. Johnson smiled broadly as the operators left his office.

Striking Miners Await Word

UNIONTOWN, Pa., Sept. 16 (AP)—Informed that bituminous coal operators have signed an NRA code for the industry, striking southwestern Pennsylvania miners tonight awaited word from the local leaders that would send them back to work.

Uncertain as the true meaning of the agreement, more than 30,000 men on "holiday" hesitated to commit themselves as to whether they would return to the mines Monday.

The feeling was general that the code's subscription to the principle of collective bargaining means recognition of the United Mine Workers of America, but workers awaited definite assurance of their immediate counselors.

Iowa Representative Would Abolish Use of Sifting Committee

DES MOINES, Sept. 16 (AP)—Representative J. P. Gallagher of Williamsburg will head a drive to seek abolition of the sifting committee procedure in the special legislative session this fall.

Gallagher, who this week sent communications on the subject to all members of the assembly, said he had received assurance of support from Senator Ora B. Husted and Representatives E. O. Ellsworth, L. D. Teter and W. R. Sheridan.

He suggested that the sifting committee plan be eliminated by agreement of the rules committee or by statute and that "sifting" of bills be done when necessary in committee of the whole.

U. S. Engineers Study Bids Made on River Works

KANSAS CITY, Sept. 16 (AP)—The U. S. engineer's office here was studying bids on three more Missouri river channel improvement projects today. Contracts are expected to be awarded early next week, Captain Theodore Wyman, Jr., in charge, said.

The Wickham Bridge and Pipe company, of Omaha, Neb., was low bidder on two projects. The concern bid $174,730.40 on work on Floyd Bend north of Dakota City, Neb., and $853,048 on work on Floyd and Dakota Bends south of Dakota City.

C. F. Lytle of Sioux City, Ia., bid $368,110 on the Omaha and Gibson Bend project near Omaha.

Bids will be received on one more project Sept. 21 to complete contracts on the $14,000,000 upper river improvement program.

Wheat Nears Dollar Zone; Stocks Rally

New High Price Fixed for Gold at $30.49 by Treasury

NEW YORK, Sept. 16 (AP)—Stocks and staples rallied buoyantly today under the apparent inflationary stimulus of slumping international dollar rates and a new high price for gold at $30.49 an ounce fixed by the United States treasury.

Led by the mining issues, with Homestake far in the lead with a spurt of $26 per share, equities in all categories swung upward briskly with the majority reaching their peak quotations just before the end of the brief session. The utilities lagged a little, but even they got back some of their yesterday's losses.

While there was little change in the business and industrial picture, and some early hesitancy was shown by stocks due partly to fresh rumors of France deserting gold, traders later evidently decided currency expansion implications could not be ignored. The result was a swift rush of bids in the last half hour for those issues which might benefit substantially by inflation.

Bonds, however, were a bit easier. Grains started out indifferently, but they, too, bounded upward along with stocks. Wheat and corn finished with gains of around 3 cents a bushel and the cereals came back almost as much. Cotton advanced 5 1/8 cents a bale and bar silver firmed 7-8 of a cent at 33 3/4 cents an ounce.

The European gold currencies, also a bit uncertain at one time, resumed their rapid advance and finished at historic high levels. In terms of the French gold franc, the dollar reached a record low valuation of approximately 67 cents. Sterling climbed some 5 cents to a new top since it reached its former gold parity last July, and other foreign funds exhibited strength.

Murphy Pleads for Price Consideration in Farm Mortgages

WASHINGTON, Sept. 16 (AP)—Appraisals of farms for mortgage refinancing should take into consideration future price increases contemplated in the agricultural recovery program, Senator Louis Murphy today declared in a conference with President Roosevelt.

The Iowa senator presented an estimate of the value of Iowa farm lands as influenced by the anticipated rise in farm prices and also declared in a memorandum that it is possible to forecast land values.

Held for Slaying

Sleeping Sickness in Iowa

STORM LAKE (AP)—After an illness of two weeks, Mrs. Jack Leddom died from what physicians diagnosed as sleeping sickness.

Scientists Chance Lives in Search for Encephalitis Bug

Submit to Bites of Sleeping Sickness Carriers

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 16 (AP)—Scientists who have struggled with animal experiments for weeks in an effort to solve the mystery of "sleeping sickness" finally have dedicated their lives to the study.

The United States public health department at Washington announced today three unidentified scientists had submitted to bites from mosquitoes which previously had bitten "sleeping sickness" or encephalitis victims. Experts have given prominence to a theory that the disease is transmitted by insects.

Since the outbreak of an epidemic in greater St. Louis the latter part of July federal, state county and city health officials have co-operated in their study. In the meanwhile the fatalities have grown to 150.

Only three deaths were reported today, and it is agreed generally that the epidemic is slackening, but little has been learned of how the disease is transmitted or how it may be combated.

Attempts have been made by the Central laboratories, by individual scientists, and by a group of army experts, to transmit the disease to animals. Mosquitoes have been allowed to bite patients, then been introduced to monkeys and rabbits.

Hurricane Moving Up East Coast

Five Trapped

NORFOLK, Va., Sept. 16—Swirling north along the Atlantic shores, a hurricane lashed the seaboard with the fury of death and devastation tonight.

Four lives were lost—two men drowned on the Carolina coast, one man died seeking to escape the flood that swept into mine workings near Wilkesbarre, Pa., and another drowned in a swollen creek in Pennsylvania.

Five men were trapped in a coal pit at Wilkesbarre by the rushing waters.

After circling around Norfolk, striking hardest to the north and south, the hurricane swerved out to sea. The weather bureau in Washington ordered warnings along New England's coast.

100 Miles an Hour

The path of the hurricane—the velocity of which reached 100 miles an hour as it swept over the Carolinas past Cape Hatteras—was such that it was thought the center of the storm Sunday could be near Nantucket, the brunt of it avoiding New York.

This city had been warned to get ready for a terrific blow, but the hurricane changed its course before its force reached here, and headed northward.

Mountainous Sea

Big craft ploughed through mountainous seas all along the seaboard and small boats sought refuge. Hurricane warnings flew as far north as New Jersey and danger lights flashed from South Carolina to New England.

Coastal residents of Virginia fled to safety. The weather bureau gave steady signals of warning that the hurricane's fury was growing as it moved northward.

Ship in Distress

A small ship, the steamer Beckwith of Reedville, Va., was in distress and in tow of a coast guard cutter.

Off Cape Hatteras—graveyard of the Atlantic—the barometers fell below 29, an alarming signal and the storm already was above 75 miles in hour. The storm was moving northward about 10 miles an hour and the weather bureau said it was expected to reach the southern Jersey coast tomorrow.

Surprised

William Wallace McDowell, former governor of Montana, registered considerable surprise when informed in Chicago, where he is visiting the World's Fair, that he had been appointed United States minister to the Irish Free State. He has been a friend of President De Valera for many years.

Police Enter Milk Dispute

Pickets Helpless While Armed Men Guard Farmers

CHICAGO, Sept. 16 (AP)—Strogs forces of armed state policemen reinforced by deputy sheriffs cleared highways in the northern Illinois milk strike area today and milk shipments went through while discouraged pickets stood helpless on the sidelines.

The armed forces were mobilized at behest of the Pure Milk association, bargaining agency for 18,000 farmers, which opposed the strike.

At Woodstock

At Woodstock, Ill., where violence was feared as 300 pickets gathered in efforts to prevent delivery of milk to the Bowman Dairy company, deputies routed strikers from the milk depot vicinity and conveyed shipments to the door. Conveyed lists Murphy today declared in a conference with President Roosevelt.

The Iowa senator presented an estimate of the value of Iowa farm lands as influenced by the anticipated rise in farm prices and also declared in a memorandum that it is possible to forecast land values.

Appeals to Strikers

First, Sheriff Lester Edinger of Woodstock made an appeal to strikers—many of them his friends—to do nothing for which they would be sorry and to "do things in an American way" without violence.

Second, it appeared that the presence of the highway police and deputies would keep the milk trucks on their way to depots and third, they said, a contingent of 150 Wisconsin farmers, members of the association, had arrived to help association members get shipments through.

Several strikers, noting the display of authority, were seen to desert picket lines.

Student Employment Service Open Today

Benjamin W. Robinson, director of the student employment service, will be in his office at Iowa Union from 8 to 10 a.m. and from 2 to 4 p.m. today to serve students who wish to make contract exchanges.

About 300 students are under contract at University hospital and are supposed to return to work tomorrow, Mr. Robinson said.

Urges More Speed

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Speed in filling public works applications under the gigantic $3,300,000,000 appropriation was urged upon advisory boards of 11 middle western states by Colonel Henry M. Waite, deputy administrator of national public works program, in a conference here today.

Events of Next Two Days Will Determine U. S. Action Against Increasing Menaces to Citizens

Cuban Leader Accuses U. S. Business Men

Claims Americans Are Promoting Labor Troubles

HAVANA, Sept. 16 (AP)—While thousands marched Havana's streets late today shouting against the United States government and its ambassador, Sumner Welles, the secretary of war and interior in the Grau San Martin cabinet accused American business interests here of seeking the new governments overthrow.

The secretary, Antonio Gutierrez, charged American and foreign business interests "are reducing wages, turning workmen loose and provoking them to strike," in a statement urging the "workmen masses" to back the new administration.

"Workmen induced by American enterprises are unwisely lending themselves to the overthrow of the government," Gutierrez' statement said.

Meantime shouts of "Down with Sumner Welles," "Down with American intervention," and "Down with Yankee imperialism," were resounding at Havana's Malecon as 8,000 Cubans paraded in tribute to Mexico's recognition of the Grau San Martin regime.

This demonstration was staged in front of the hotel Presidente, where Mr. Welles has resided since moving from the Hotel Nacional, in which several hundred former army officers have assembled to back their demand that President Grau San Martin resign.

The ambassador was not in the hotel at the time.

Gutierrez issued his statement just before leaving the interior department for the Mexican embassy. He warned Cuba's National Confederation of Labor it would be "responsible in history for the backward step the working masses would take in their battle if America is given the pretext to declare intervention," in Cuba.

He urged workers to collaborate with the new regime "so as not to be an instrument in the service of imperialist enterprises." His statement was the first of an official nature directly charging American interests with working against the government.

Interest centered at the same time on a gathering of Cuba's important business interests assembled to consider resolution urging the Grau San Martin regime to step aside in favor of a "concentration government."

This joint commission of economic interests also was reported to be considering suspending all business activities to protest "acts of violence by the laboring classes" which are compelling employers "to accept agreements impossible of execution."

U. S. Plans to Kill Million More Swine

WASHINGTON, Sept. 16 (AP)—Because so many farmers want to sell their small pigs at premium prices the farm adjustment administration announced today that 5,922,000 would be purchased in its reduction campaign instead of only 4,000,000.

On the other hand, farmers are withholding their farrowing sows, apparently figuring that hog prices will go up. As a consequence, shipments of sows are expected to fall considerably below the 1,000,000 allotment fixed for them in the campaign which ends Sept. 29.

This is disappointing to the farm administration, which is trying to decimate the pig population to a point where the remainder will bring high prices.

Dr. A. G. Black, chief of the administration's hog section, said today the additional pigs bought would offset partly the failure of sow sales to come up to expectations.

O'Brien Awaits Voting

NEW YORK (AP)—The survival of Mayor John P. O'Brien as Tammany Hall's candidate for re-election may depend on the primary vote Tuesday of his two Democratic opponents, even though they are defeated.

Prince May Visit U. S.

NEW YORK (AP)—A suggestion that the Prince of Wales visit the United States "to cement the relationships of two great peoples" will be made to the house of commons this fall by Edward Doran, a National conservative member from London.

Troops Ready to Meet Situation Should Need Arise

WASHINGTON, Sept. 16 (AP)—With the administration expecting a crisis in the Cuban situation within 48 hours that would swing conditions in the island to better or worse, members of the general staff of the army disclosed tonight that preparatory measures had been taken for a quick dispatch of troops should they be needed.

Word came from a source high within Washington government late today that events of the next two days in Cuba were expected to determine whether the Grau San Martin government would prevail over opposition factions and could restore peace.

Would Govern U. S.

This decision, it was said, probably would determine the course of the United States in the island.

High army chiefs stated tonight that although there had been no mobilization of troops as in the case of marines at Guantanamo, no time would be lost should the army be called upon to move.

One member of the general staff stated that preparations had not advanced to the point where any general order had been sent out to stand-by, but it was said that under the army's policy of preparedness any short order notice would find soldiers ready to move.

Cuban Peace

About the same time, Jefferson Caffery, assistant secretary of state, declared in an address that Cuban peace was the goal sought by the United States. This country's policy, he said, was not based on any "prejudice, whim or favoritism" toward any island faction, group or government.

Caffery asserted that only in the case of a complete breakdown of the Cuban government would the United States intervene in the present situation. In the first recent interpretation of the Platt amendment, under which intervention is allowed, he said:

"Not Political Satellite"

"This article is not intended to make Cuba a political satellite of the United States; it permits her to run her government in her own way. Only in case of a breakdown of government, and that apparent beyond a doubt or of danger from foreign aggression, was it contemplated that the United States might exercise the right of intervention."

34,013 Now Idle in Iowa

Des Moines, Sept. 16 (AP)—Hans C. Pfund, Iowa director of the federal re-employment service, said today that re-employment offices in 23 counties have registered 34,013 unemployed. He estimated about half of this number were self-sustaining.

The registrants will be used if possible on public works projects, but the majority of this work will not materialize until after the first of the year, Pfund stated.

The director this week met with re-employment committees from 22 counties in meetings at Marshalltown, Creston and Des Moines. Next Wednesday he will meet at Council Bluffs with committeemen from nearby counties. On Thursday he will have a meeting in Sioux City and the third meeting will be in Spencer.

At a later date meetings are to be held in Mason City, Waterloo, Cedar Rapids, Dubuque, Davenport, Burlington and Ottumwa. The Davenport meeting will be combined with the Clinton meeting.

BOOK REVIEWS

Edited by John Pryor

A Professor Deals in Personalities

Charters, Werrett Wallace: The Teaching of Ideals. New York. The Macmillan Company.

How can personality be best developed. What are the methods in character education? These questions are answered by Professor Charters in his "The Teaching of Ideals."

Leans Toward Dryness

To Professor Charters the development of character or the integration of personality is the task of every parent and teacher. As many commonplace and trite expressions are found in the book, there is a leaning toward dryness, but this is saved by the splendid task of the author, namely, the inclusion of many practical situations and concrete cases. This is seen by Professor Charles H. Judd when he says in his introduction in the book, "Professor Charters has undertaken such an analysis—a detailed analysis of many practical situations so the concrete cases and concrete modes of teaching may be discerned."

Succinct

So succinct in its presentation of character problems, and so systematic in its analysis of these problems, that, to a person interested in character or religious education, the book is absorbing and fascinating. The author boils down the contents of the book in the following statements: "We have seen that five principles are applicable to the problem of developing personality. Deficiency must be diagnosed to discover cause. Desire for a trait that is wanting must be developed. Ideals are carried in the conduct after plans of action have been prepared, and they become habits through use of behaviour, for powerful and intelligent living, one's personality must be integrated."

Principles Expanded

The foregoing principles are ably and clearly expanded. A lengthy discussion is given to the indirect and direct method of moral instruction. The fairness of the author is found in his presentation of these two known methods that are still the subject of discussion among educators in this country. That Professor Charters is for the direct method is quite obvious. While the present reviewer cannot agree with him in many points, on the whole the book is worthwhile reading if not possessing.

Integration of Personality

The idea of integration of personality, which is found about the close of the book, is one of the things that should absorb the attention of those interested in personality development. The following passage is striking: "Integration is produced by evolving principles of action through the use of reason. Traits are enriched and broadened through many-sided contacts, and consolidated through conflicts; and ends are constantly modified and broadened. Personality is an organism subject to constant change, and with the proper use of reason and intelligence also subject to increase growth. In all techniques for developing character through integration, reason is the dominant factor."

You Guess Who Killed Him; It Might Be Fun

The Parachute Murder, by Lebbeus Mitchell, Macaulay, N. Y., $3.

The body of a popular Broadway stage star is found in an Ohio field wrapped in his open parachute. The murder puzzles the authorities who call in Kirk Emerson, actor-detective-epicure.

In the untangling of the mystery another person is murdered, a girl is abducted, and rooms ransacked in the dead of the night. As the super-student uncovers clue after clue the finger of guilt travels from one person to another with startling swiftness. After a dramatic reproduction of the crime on the stage the detective pins the guilt upon a girl and her brother.

The story is entertaining, the characters fascinating, but one is inclined to doubt the detective's sleuthing ability at times. The habitual reader of mystery stories will pick at least one of the murderers before the story is concluded and the author reveals the guilty persons.

A Baner Talks About the Evils of Our Ways

Degenerate Democracy, by Henry S. McKee, Crowell, N. Y., $1.50.

Mr. McKee appears to be pretty well disgusted with the way Americans run their affairs and get themselves into inexcusable depressions. Being an American himself, and a fairly prominent member of the not-too-popular profession, he speaks with unapologetic candor.

What he seems to consider the greatest single need of the American people in the way of reform he explains in a chapter bearing the modest title, "The Way to Sound Government." The idea is a simple one, suggested by various students of government since the days of the constitutional convention. He would give every cabinet member a seat in the house of representatives and in congress and force them to show their stature by standing in the open and defending whatever policies they might have.

The central theme of his argument is that the United States has a phobia for committees. Congress is a committee, and just see what congress does. The interstate commerce commission is a committee, and just look at the railroads. His argument is completely logical, and has been proved innumerable times before by students and reformers without end.

The book has the virtue of simplicity and for that reason might prove of real value if read by a sufficiently large number of persons. It presents many of the basic flaws in our bewildering system of economics and government with unusual clarity, and in a few instances without bias.

Utility Issues Spoil Markets

Weakness Is Handicap to Other Bonds; Prices Fall

NEW YORK, Sept. 16 (AP)—While trading was quite active for a Saturday session of the bond market, further weakness of utility issues was a handicap which most other categories were unable to overcome and prices generally closed easier.

Sales totaled $5,581,000, par value, and the average for 60 domestic corporate bonds was off one-tenth of a point to 78.8. This average was three-tenths of a point higher on the week, however, despite the various irregularities.

Continued heaviness of the utilities was attributed largely to the lower-rate classifications of the government's Muscle Shoals development. While the volume of selling in this section was not great, some losses suffered by prime investment maturities were rather severe. Among the principal victims were Consolidated Gas 4 1-2s, off 3 5-8; Detroit Edison 4 1-2s, off 2 1-2; International Telephone 5s, off 1 1-4; Public Service 4s, off 1 5-8, and Utah Power 5s, off 3 1-2.

Although Santa Fe General 4s, Central Pacific First 4s and Norfolk & Western Consolidated 4s were off a point each, the secondary issues in this division steadied with the rise in stocks. With the exception of Warner Bros. 6s, up 1 1-4 points, and Shell Pipe Line 5s, up 1; the industrials did little.

Bonds of those countries still on the gold standard again moved up, with some reaching new high levels. French Government 7 1-2s were up 4; Bordenaux City 6s gained 6 and Lyons City 6s advanced 7 1-2 points. Issues of Dutch East Indies and Great Britain were moderately higher.

United States treasury loans improved in light trading, but the liberties eased a trifle.

Congregational Church Plans New System of Sunday Classes

Activities for Year Will Begin This Morning at 9:30

Classes for students of all ages have been arranged in the school of religion of the Congregational church, which begins its activities of the year at 9:30 this morning.

The beginners and primary departments have been combined under the leadership of Mrs. Margaret Bliss Ayres and provide classes for children from four to eight years of age. The junior, intermediate, and senior departments provide classes for students ranging from the fourth grade through high school.

Student Seminar

A university student seminar on "An appreciation of Biblical literature," will be held in the pastor's study every Sunday morning at 9:30.

The Junior church, which meets every Sunday at 11:15 a.m. is for all children of the congregation between the ages of 6 and 11. Children from one year to school age will be in the nursery group which meets during the church hour. A member of the staff of the Child Welfare Research station of the University of Iowa will supervise this department.

Primary Department

The curriculum for the primary department is built around the experiences of the children. Cooperation, sharing, and worship are emphasized. The life and times of Jesus will furnish the study for the fourth grade boys. Among the resource materials is Edna Bonser's book, "Little Boy of Nazareth."

The fifth grade group is divided into two classes, one for boys and one for girls. A course on "How the Bible Grew," is being developed for these two classes. The course begins with the stories of the old Hebrew leaders told as their people gathered about the camp fires, and carries all the way through to the modern translations of the Bible.

11-13 Year Old Group

The 11 to 13 year old group is also divided into two classes. "Man's Quest for God," carrying through the ages from primitive man to the present will be studied by this group.

The younger high school boys are combining their study of Old Testament times with the study of contemporary leaders whose achievements are considered of great value. "How Big is Your World?" is the study planned for the group of younger high school girls. The purpose of the course is to help the group appreciate the contributions of other races and nations. The living religions of the world will furnish the study for the older high school boys. A study of beliefs and sacred literature will be made from the viewpoint of members of the different creeds.

Appreciation of Bible

The older high school girls are planning a course on the appreciation of the Bible from the lives, teachings and writings of the heroes of both the Old and New Testament.

The entire school this year is under the direction of Mrs. Morgan, who has an M.A. degree in religious education from the Union Theological Seminary and Teacher's college, Columbia university. She also worked for two years as Associate Principal of Union School of Religion in New York city. With this preparation, Mrs. Morgan is using progressive educational methods in the church school, and is working to build a curriculum which will seek to interpret religion in terms of every day living.

Staff Members

Among the other members of the staff are: Mrs. W. R. Horrabin, Mrs. J. D. Boyd, M. Eleanor Dunn, Mary Margaret Ayres, Mary Eleanor Johnston, Mrs. Dick Jones, Mrs. I. H. Pierce, Mrs. L. R. Benston, William Oehlhaber, Melvin Fastenow, Julia M. Barber. Other specialists in art, dramatics and music will also be employed for the enrichment of the total program.

Parents whose children are not members of any church school in Iowa City are especially invited to bring their children and visit the church school in action. Communications are received by the Rev. Llewelyn A. Owen, pastor, and Mrs. Mildred I. Morgan, director of religious education.

Rev. Fons Honored

C. of C. Committee Will Exhibit Park Sites Today

Road Newly Marked to Facilitate Finding

The Chamber of Commerce committee in charge of the state park project will be at the cottage sites today to show any interested persons around the tract.

Easily Reached

The park can easily be reached from Iowa City by taking U. S. highway 161 to North Liberty and following the road to the east which has been marked by the park committee. Sale of the cottage sites is nearing completion but there are still some shore line lots and second tier timbered lots remaining. A tent has been erected at the site, lots have been staked out, and signs erected on the road from North Liberty and Solon, leading to the park.

Options

Options on the 800 acres of hilly woodland included in the park must be taken up by Sept. 20. The park committee, which has sold more than half of the cottage sites, is confident that all of the lots will be sold before then. After the lots are sold the options will be executed and the tract deeded to the state. Work on the lake will begin as soon as the tract is deeded to the state.

200 Acre Lake

The lake, which will be made by damming up the waters of Mill creek and Jordan creek, will cover about 200 acres and will be stocked with game fish by the state fish and game commission.

Inflation On the Horizon

THE temper of congressional and popular opinion points to the adoption of a definite measure of inflation within the next few months. Not only is the move being pressed with vigor by leaders of influence in the senate and house, the public clamor demands it.

The attitude of President Roosevelt on the subject is not yet known. It was taken for granted when he assumed office that he would do all in his power to resist the injection of hypodermics of this variety. When the Thomas amendment to the farm relief bill was passed during the last session of congress, the president's support was assumed but not expressed. Since that time he has made no statement whatever, but has steadfastly refused to make use of the power.

It has been suggested in some quarters that his last minute support of the Thomas proposal was based upon his opposition to it, that he sought to get the power in his own hands in order to staff off a determined congressional drive to make inflation mandatory instead of optional.

If this is true and he continues in his determination to resist the unmistakable demands of congress it appears more than likely that congress will break loose and go its own way.

This, in view of the unprecedented need for common agreement and cooperation in the handling of governmental affairs, would be an unhappy development.

The need for inflation as an aid in the recovery program is now rather generally recognized. The greatest single obstacle to further advance still is the overwhelming burden of debt on the back of business. These debts were contracted when the dollar was cheap; they must be paid today with a dollar far more dear. As long as the dollar remains at its present level the possibility of paying debts and easing the business revival will be small.

That is the reason for the present determined drive for inflation. Why President Roosevelt has so far refused to inflate is a matter for conjecture. That inflation will come within the near future is almost a certainty.

Hard Conditions In the Schools

(From the Chicago Daily News)

Chicago's citizens are deeply stirred by the hardships which principals and teachers in its public schools have suffered and still suffer as a result of the breakdown in school finances. In continuing to perform noble service for half a million children of this city while their salaries are far in arrears, they give memorable examples of loyalty and self-sacrifice. Now the economies for the coming school year, adopted by the board of education and applied to the education department by Superintendent Bogan, have caused the dismissal of 1,300 teachers, with a substantial sum for unpaid services still owing to each, and the demotion of many principals and others who held positions of special responsibility in the school system. Thus the load of work to be borne by each of the thousands remaining in the service will be measurably increased when the schools open next Monday.

The Daily News fought earnestly years ago for the adoption in this city of junior high schools. It views their abolition with regret. Curtailment of various valuable services as a result of the economy program is most unfortunate. Whether the school board, faced with the necessity of effecting drastic economies, did what was least harmful under the circumstances is a question for experienced educators to answer after an unbiased inquiry. Certainly everything must be done to protect the schools from needless injury under the plea of economy. The promise of the board that it would bring about rigid economies in the business department also must, of course, be fulfilled. Reduction in personnel at least one-third as great as that in the teaching staff and a saving of $1,548,000 in wages of school engineers and janitors is reported from that department.

In view of the desperate financial condition of the schools, due in large part to reckless waste and lack of foresight by former school boards, it was imperative that the present board effect heavy reductions in expenses. Whether it has economized wisely or foolishly, it is under the obligation to work tirelessly to overcome the hardships of the teaching staff and of the teachers who have been dismissed for no fault of theirs and with months of faithful service unrewarded. Reemployment of those teachers as rapidly as possible is a moral duty that cannot be escaped. The board must work earnestly also to overcome any lowering of the quality of instruction and training provided for the pupils.

Chicago's schools must have ample support and must be made and kept equal to the performance of that most important of all tasks confronting local authorities, the proper instruction of the young. The citizens will continue to be unsparringly critical of the methods employed by the school management until that end is attained.

GOOD MORNIN G

A special story in The Daily Iowan Friday by Roy Willis, International Illustrated News writer, predicted a not far distant test of the constitutionality of the NRA.

Although no official announcement has been made public that such a test is in the offing, Mr. Willis said that talk of a show down was common gossip at the capital and that the challenge will come from the most powerful financial interests in America.

It would not be at all surprising if his predictions should prove correct. According to his information, the challenge will come from the turbulent coal fields with which the administration already has had more than enough difficulty.

This of course sounds less formidable than it is. But the section of the coal industry to which Mr. Willis refers is controlled by former Secretary of the Treasury Andrew W. Mellon and by subsidiaries of the United States Steel corporation in which the "Less government in business" house of Morgan is interested.

This means, of course, that the attack would be led by John W. Davis, one of the ablest lawyers in the United States, supported by the best legal talent millions can buy.

There is no need for bitterness or recrimination here. It is well that such a challenge should come and that when it does it should be conducted by the best possible champions. The government—rather, the nation—may lose, for it cannot be denied that the constitutionality of the recovery scheme is still a moot question. The decision will depend to a large extent upon the degree to which the temper of the supreme court has been liberalized during the stress of recent times.

If the cause of recovery loses, then the nation will be faced with a long and arduous task. The principles upon which the NRA is founded—the basic one of which is that the return and the maintenance of prosperity is dependent upon giving to the common man his just share in the product of his labor—have been accepted by the American people and will not be soon abandoned. To put them into operation would be doubly difficult under those circumstances, but they will find expression.

But if the administration should win, the victory would be decisive and final and would constitute a solid cornerstone for further development of the same principles.

This question of constitutionality has been raised at odd intervals throughout the long discussion of the coal code, in which the government has been attempting to formulate an agreement which would be acceptable to operators and workers and at the same time would not unduly harm the consumer.

The challenge of the operators, as reported by Mr. Willis, is that "The code undertakes to regulate matters which are not committed to the control of the federal government and which infringe upon the constitutional rights of private contracts." This challenge of course touches upon all phases of the government's attempts to control the operations of business, but refers specifically to the labor provisions which the administration proposes to restrict by the "right" of the operators to do with their labor as they please.

The spectacle of the Mellons and the Morgans marshalling their forces to battle for a stricter interpretation of the constitution is amusing. It is another of the queer paradoxes with which we are becoming so familiar. Was it not the Mellons and the Morgans who in the old days brought their legal legions to the bar to argue that the constitution is and must be a flexible instrument, adaptable to the changing needs of the times? Are not these the same interests whose line of reasoning undermined the principle of states' rights in the face of the tenth amendment which says "The powers not delegated to the United States by the constitution, nor prohibited by it to the states, are reserved to the states respectively, or to the people?"

By these arguments they have managed to circumvent all efforts of the states to regulate their interests and so far have kept themselves free from federal interference. But the worm has begun to turn, and now the constitution, instead of a liberal shield over the rights and freedom of all men alike, becomes a document of knife-sharp meaning.

But the American people have learned their lesson well. They believe in the constitution—the liberal constitution in which they have been taught to believe. They believe in the federal government which, according to the preamble to the constitution, was established "to form a more perfect Union, establish justice, insure domestic tranquility, provide for the common defense, promote the general welfare, and secure the blessings of liberty to ourselves and our posterity."

More than that, they believe the most important principle of our government is that every man should be guaranteed, as nearly as it is within the power of society to do so, an equal opportunity to win for himself his share of the happiness our civilization affords.

On the basis of these precepts the plea of the coal operators for special dispensation to free them from compliance in the common effort back to good living will be judged, at least in the tribunal of public opinion.

BEHIND THE SCENES — IN HOLLYWOOD —

SCREEN
COMMENT

By HARRISON CARROLL

HOLLYWOOD — Drama simply lies in wait for members of the Bow family. The other night Clara took her 11 year old cousin John out to watch her make carnival scenes for "Hoopla." She let him ride the merry-go-round, it happened to stop so he was right in front of the camera, and now Fox wants to put him in the movies.

The youngster didn't know he was acting, he didn't even realize the camera was going, but when Al Rockett saw the rushes of the closeup, he picked the kid out. After further screen tests Fox will apprentice him in small roles.

What worries Clara is how John will react to all this attention and to the Hollywood atmosphere he has come up against since she brought him and his sister out to live with her. The sister developed temperaments and was sent back to Brooklyn. John has kept his head better. Just to see he doesn't get ideas, Clara has turned down his request to enter a swank military academy and is sending him to the public schools.

They're getting a laugh out of the story of Leo McCarey's cat. Troubled with mice at their beach house, the director and his wife got a cat. He was a lazy, stupid-looking animal, but they were hopeful. The first night the cat let a mouse run across the room without even getting excited. Disgusted, Leo bought a mousetrap.

That night, they had a snap in the kitchen. The family rushed out and promptly went into hysterics. They had caught the cat.

What happened to all the side-lines of the stars? Esther Ralston has sold her beauty parlor, Gary Cooper has closed his dude ranch and Cary Grant grimaces when you mention his men's shop. Not only that but I just have it from Charles Bickford that he has made almost a clean sweep of his many interests. His hog farm, his whaling ship, his jig-saw factory, his lingerie shop all have gone to the boards. And he's still trying to turn his Culver City garage over to some film charity organization.

Poor Mary Rogers, Rochelle Hudson got the part she was up for in her father's picture. Fox liked Mary's test and it was supposed to be up to Will. When somebody asked him about it, the comedian grinned and said: "She's back in the kitchen."

Rumor has it that Will wanted a young player with an established name for the part.

Washington Close-Up

Senatorial Letters of Recommendation May Aid Job-Seekers Some Places, But Not Here!

WASHINGTON—Senatorial letters of recommendation may not be a certain road to "new deal" non-civil service jobs in Washington—but they help. That is, they help in all but one place. Anybody who really wants to get hooked up with the Tennessee Valley Authority had better not show up with such a letter. He would do better not even to have one from the White House.

It is not a question of Dr. Arthur Morgan's personal feeling, or lack of feeling, rather, about the rights of party job claimants. It is a matter of law. Section 6 of the Tennessee Valley Authority law is about the strangest bit of legislation extant on the books in that respect. It reads:

"In the appointment of officials and selection of employes for said corporation (the Tennessee Valley Authority), and in the promotion of any such employes or officials, no political test or qualification shall be permitted or given consideration, but all such appointments and promotions shall be given and made on the basis of merit and efficiency."

Poising A Sword

That is hard enough, in all conscience, on hopeful deserving Democrats—but look what follows:

"Any member of the said board (that headed by Dr. Morgan) who is found by the president of the United States to be guilty of a violation of this section shall be removed from office by the president of the United States, and any appointee of said board who is found by the board to be guilty of a violation of this section shall be removed from office by said board."

Letters Are Poison

That section 6 has given Washington something new to handle. When applicants for any job with the corporation are handed application blanks—and rather curiously worded and highly personal questionnaires—to fill out, no suggestions that they file also letters from home state political big-wigs greets them.

If they bring such in anyhow, they promptly get the impression that corporation officials handle them with tongs and rush them to a waste basket to avoid personal contamination. The letter-bearer is on a virtual political suspect list automatically.

Everywhere else around Washington senatorial letters are demanded. They are asked even in the confusion at NRA headquarters where a girl worked a month before it was discovered she never had been enrolled at all. The idea is a sort of gesture about balancing state quotas among new employes—but it is only an idea.

Mine Shares Put New Life Into Exchange

Prices Emphatically Up After Recent Shakeout

NEW YORK, Sept. 16 (AP)—Mining shares put new life into the stock market today and prices snapped back emphatically after Friday's shakeout.

The dollar reached new lows against foreign gold currencies and the treasury's gold quotations was again advanced. Equities of metal producing companies, particularly the gold group, came quickly into favor and their strength eventually inspired other divisions. Net gains ran 1 to 4 points for numerous favorites; Homestake scored 26 to a record high at 351, while U. S. Smelting jumped 8 1-2 to 100.

Commodity markets also strengthened, especially at Chicago, but bonds were sluggish. Action of the speculative exchanges thus appeared to be governed by an inflationary psychology, swayed, no doubt, by increasing agitation among senators and others for currency expansion.

Among metal issues, Cerro de Pasco, American Smelting, Dome, McIntyre, Kennecott and Alaska Juneau jumped 2 to 4 points. Utilities had a little difficulty getting under way, but finally fell into step with the general mood of the day. Grains did fairly well, while industrials assumed considerable prominence. Miscellaneous leaders up 1 to 3 or so included American Telephone, U. S. Steel, American Can, Santa Fe, Union Pacific, Southern Pacific, Owens-Illinois, Case, American Tobacco "B," Westinghouse, Allied Chemical, Du Pont, New York Central, Consolidated Gas and Western Union. Sales totaled 1,001,160 shares, somewhat above recent Saturday standards, and the averages regained most of yesterday's loss.

French francs had a spell of easiness, contrasting with the sustained strength of other gold currencies, but they later extended recent gains. The dollar's gold value approximated 67 cents.

Week end business news included the freight loadings statistics for last week. Traffic was down 95,265 cars for the period including Labor day to a total of 571,387 cars; this was an increase of nearly 14 per cent over a year ago whereas the previous week had seen a rise of 19 per cent which was due in large measure to the then heavier coal loadings.

As the third quarter nears its end, some observers of trends in the steel industry expect specifications against existing contracts will expand, thus serving to check the decline in operating ratios. To what extent consumers are holding down fourth quarter orders, in view of price problems, has not been indicated; it is assumed, however, that steel producers backlogs are being drawn down and consequently the volume of new business in the next few weeks will be watched closely.

Public works and public utilities boosted building construction activity to the best monthly total of the year in August. Contracts last month in the 37 states east of the Rocky mountains are estimated by F. W. Dodge Corp. at $106,131,000, a rise of 28 per cent over July, but the year's total to date is about 30 per cent under the corresponding periods of 1932.

Question of Costs, Fees in Kruidenier Case Is Considered

CEDAR RAPIDS, Sept. 16 (AP)—Judge S. A. Clock of Hampton, following a hearing in district court today, took under advisement the question of where costs and defense attorney fees shall be taxed in the unsuccessful Kruidenier case brought against Dan Kruidenier, commissioner of public safety, by W. F. Hupp and others.

The issue was heard as a result of motions filed by Linn county, which was charged with the court costs in Judge Clock's decree dismissing the Kruidenier suit, and by Kruidenier who asked the court to grant judgment for a reasonable attorney fee. The motions contended that Hupp or the city should pay the costs and the fee. Both the city and Hupp resisted.

Wheat Leaps Near Dollar Mark Again

CHICAGO, Sept. 16 (AP)—A big buying movement in every kind of grain suddenly developed late today, and wheat jumped almost 4 cents, reaching virtually $1 a bushel.

Buoyancy followed advances in securities as well as in free gold, silver futures and British exchange, together with news of NRA code agreement by soft coal operators. A further notable stimulus came from authoritative reports that the United States, instead of possessing a huge export surplus of 161,000,000 bushels of wheat, has only enough wheat in fact for national food safety needs until the end of the present crop season next June.

Wheat closed strong at the day's peak prices, the highest figures in about a month, 3 1-2-3 7-8 above yesterday's finish, corn 2 5-8 cents up, oats 3-4-1 3-8 advanced, and provisions showing a rise of 7 to 10 cents.

Wheat trading proceeded at a furious pace as the day approached an end. Speculators who earlier had been sellers rushed to reverse their market position, and there was every evidence that the general public was again in the market buying on a tremendous scale. Contributing to the upward swing of values were advices that wheat export purchasing yesterday in Canada had totaled as much as 4,000,000 bushels, and that 32 hours of heavy unwelcome rains in the prairie provinces were causing serious threshing delay and damaging the quality of grain.

Surprisingly small arrivals of wheat at all domestic winter crop centers attracted special attention. Notice was also taken of reported plans for extending United States credit to Russia. Assertions were that a loan of between $50,000,000 and $75,000,000 would be made to Russia by the Reconstruction Finance corporation, the purpose being to furnish funds for export commodity purchases in this country.

Frost possibilities tonight in the Dakotas and Nebraska helped to put corn and oats prices higher. Rural holders took advantage of bulges, and sold corn heavily to arrive, making the week's total of such sales about 2,500,000 bushels.

Provisions advanced as a result of enlarged shipping demand.

Five Men Face Trial Sept. 21 for Reichstag Building Fire

Hearing Will Rival Sacco-Vanzetti's in Prominence

BERLIN, Sept. 16 (AP)—Five men, who face the executioner's axe if they are found guilty, will go on trial Sept. 21 at Leipzig accused of setting fire to the Reichstag building last Feb. 27.

The trial, which is expected to provide the Nazi government with a powerful propaganda instrument, will parallel in international importance the Dreyfus case in France and the Sacco-Vanzetti trial in the United States.

Dutch Communist
Occupying the center of the stage is Marinus der Lubbe, 24 year old Dutch communist, who police said confessed to setting fire to the building. He was arrested in the Reichstag building the night of the blaze.

Ernst Torgler, floor manager of the communist party and one of Ernst Thaelmann's close advisers in party councils, surrendered to police the day after the blaze when he heard they were seeking him.

Others
The other three defendants, whose connection with the event has been closely guarded by the investigators, are three Bulgarian political refugees; Georgi Dimitroff, 51, a writer; Blagoi Popoff, 31, student; and the 36 year old shoemaker, Wassil Tanef.

The three are said by police to have fled Sofia after having participated in the bombing of the Sveti Kral cathedral there in 1925 when 200 mourners at the funeral of General Georghieff were killed by falling masonry.

Powerful Weapon
Burning of the Reichstag building and the subsequent charge that it was engineered by Communists is an effort to terrorize the voters was a powerful weapon in the Nazi-Nationalist campaign which resulted in the Nazi party obtaining a 52 per cent majority in the new Reichstag through the elections March 5.

Open charges have been made that the Nazis themselves arranged the fire as an excuse to ban the Socialist and Communist parties and lay the groundwork for the annihilation of these parties after the election.

Leftist spokesman maintained Van der Lubbe was planted in the building and others said it was impossible for one man to have started 24 separate fires in the building.

German military history records few promotions in rank similar to that by which President von Hindenburg raised Prussian Premier Hermann Goering (above) from captain to general in the Reichswehr infantry. Goering, Chancellor Hitler's right hand man, now holds the portfolios of the air ministry, minister of interior, president of the Reichstag and premier of Prussia.

Gordon Siefkin of Rolfe, Iowa's Rhodes scholar, is back in his native state after nearly three years spent in Europe, studying under the terms of the scholarship.

Siefkin received his bachelor's degree in commerce here in 1929, and his master's degree the following year. He was awarded the Rhodes scholarship in 1930, and went abroad that year to begin his work.

In addition to his study at Oxford university, he has traveled on the continent, visiting every country in western Europe, with the exception of Norway and Sweden.

While he was a student here he was president of Sigma Nu one year, a cadet colonel in the R.O.T.C. unit, and a member of several honorary societies.

One of the last things he did in England was to act as the University of London last June, at a ceremonial held by the University of London last June, in connection with the laying of the cornerstone for a new administration building. He was among the hundreds of academic representatives who joined with the London faculty, and even King George, in the impressive ceremony.

Engineers Ready to Tunnel Under Hudson River Again

By GARDNER BRIDGE (Associated Press Staff Writer)

NEW YORK, Sept. 16 (AP)—Once again engineers and workmen are about to tackle the formidable job of tunneling under the Hudson river.

The new project, a $75,000,000 vehicular tunnel connecting midtown Manhattan with Weehawken, N. J., is rapidly taking form on paper and actual work is scheduled to start in about two months.

Four tunnels have been built under the Hudson since the first disastrous attempt, were made shortly before the turn of the century.

100 Lives Lost
Upward of $5,000,000 had been poured into three separate ventures and more than 100 lives lost when, in 1902, the Hudson and Manhattan railroad company headed by William G. McAdoo took up the task and finished it, two years later.

The tunnel consisting of two single-track tubes approximately 5,700 feet long, still is referred to by engineers as the McAdoo tube, although commuters know it as one of the Hudson tubes.

Drama Abounds
Drama abounds in the engineers' reports on that first tube. There was a time in 1903 when a workman was thrust bodily by his fellows into a hole blown through the roof by compressed air. In 1880, 20 men inside the tunnel were drowned when they failed to plug a similar leak.

Most of the Hudson river tunneling has been done by the shield method, which involves the principle of pushing a hole through the ground.

Huge Shield
A huge shield, shaped somewhat like the cover of a coffee can and weighing approximately 200 tons, is pushed inch by inch through the clay and silt by hydraulic jacks, braced against the outer edges of the incompleting tunnel. As it goes forward, great cast iron rings are set in position to form the permanent lining of the tube.

Compressed air is used to keep the mud and water from coming in through the narrow space between the shield and the iron rings.

Trap Doors
When bedrock is encountered, small trap doors are opened in the face of the shields, through which dynamite is placed.

The tunnelling begins from opposite sides of the river, and so precise are the engineers' figures that the shields meet head on.

The Pennsylvania railroad, which has operated two tubes under the Hudson and four under the East river since 1910, first tried the freezing method to dig the East river tunnels. This involves freezing the ground by a system of brine pipes and then digging through the frozen area. The process took too long, however.

Repair Crews
Repair crews are constantly at work, but most of their duties concern the truckage and the power systems. One of the East river tubes are reported recently to have "sprung a leak," but it turned out to be ground moisture seeping through a section under the driest part of Manhattan.

Asked if there is any danger of the tunnels caving in, one engineer smiled and said:

"We don't think so."

Radio Club Formed for Child Study

The Iowa radio child study club has been organized by the Iowa Child Welfare Research station, in cooperation with the child development departments of Iowa State college and Iowa State Teachers' college. The club is designed to give systematic aid to parents in child training through radio broadcasts.

Programs will be broadcast every week, beginning Oct. 3, from station WSUI, Iowa City, and station WOI, Ames. Experts in various fields of child training and psychology will be the speakers. From Iowa City the broadcasts will be made Tuesdays at 8 p.m., and the same program will be put on the air at Ames the following day at 2:30 p.m.

It is expected that local clubs of 10 or more members will be organized in communities throughout the state to listen to the programs and discuss the problems presented.

Two series of addresses will make up the program. A pre-school series will alternate weekly broadcasts with a series on the elementary school age.

Loading Tobacco in Early Virginia
In 1612, John Rolfe, the husband of Pocahontas began the systematic planting of tobacco in Virginia. Within a few years, it became the greatest industry in the state. Before this, America exported little, but with the vast extent of tobacco cultivation, commerce with Europe began.

Hawks Sent Through Long Two Hour Scrimmage With Frosh

George Dunlap Trounces Marston, 6 and 5, for National Amateur Golf Title

Solem Sends in 3 Sets of Backfield Men

Opening Scrimmage Lineups Retained Yesterday

A two hour scrimmage to develop offensive tactics took up the whole afternoon round of another double-session practice for the Hawkeyes yesterday, as two sets of varsity men, the same lineups as Coach Solem picked for the opening scrimmage, worked against a pick-up freshman eleven.

Non-Stoppable

The freshman squad, drilling for the first time this season, was of little resistance in stopping the heavy thrusts of Dick Crayne, sophomore fullback, and Russ Fisher, halfback.

Starting the drill with an all-sophomore backfield which had Lawrence Haltom at the quarterback post, Fisher and Dwight Hoover at the halves, and Crayne at full, the Iowa mentor stressed the use of body blocks, with Crayne and Haltom doing the ball carrying.

Three Backfields

Coach Solem alternated three sets of backs behind the first string line. The second set had Joe Laws at the quarterback position, Bernard Page, and Herman Schneidman at the halves, and Bill Ash at full. The third set, working as a unit for the first time, had Joe Richards calling signals, George Teyro and Mark Panther at the halves, and Dick Hahn at full.

Rook Snags Passes

Rook, who started at end on the varsity, looked effective in the pass offensive, snagging several tough ones. Coach Solem tried several combinations at the tackles which saw Radloff, Hoffman, and Foster doing good work.

Fumbles and missed signals spoiled the perfection of many plays in the afternoon drill, but the general blocking was good.

Yesterday morning's drill was devoted to practice of fundamentals in blocking, tackling, and punting.

Tigers of Texas Pen Mow Down Opposing Nines

HUNTSVILLE, Tex., Sept. 16 (AP)—The Huntsville Tigers, baseball team of the Texas penitentiary, have been enjoying their most successful season since the game was first permitted in the institution in 1926.

The team has bowled over opposition at a .700 rate. Ted White, center fielder and heavy hitter, hit 11 home runs in the first 21 games and batted .427. "The boys who play ball," said Albert Moore, manager of the Tigers, "are just naturally dependable."

"They never blow up. When the going gets tough they just take their time—most of them have plenty, you know."

The Tigers play each Sunday afternoon during the season to crowds of 300 to 500. Only civilians are charged admission, the proceeds going into the prisoners' amusement fund.

Longhorns to Build Team About Hillard

Seventy-Seven Players Turn Out at Texas University

AUSTIN, Tex., Sept. 16 (AP)—If an army of candidates mean success, the University of Texas Longhorns will annex this year's Southwest conference football championship without a struggle.

Coach Clyde Littlefield, who finished second last year with five championship victories against one defeat, started training with 12 lettermen, 17 last year squadmen, and 49 sophomores, giving him a grand total of 78 men to select from.

Littlefield frankly admits his offense will be erected around the elusive Bohn Hillard, the 1932 conference ball lugging sensation who was selected on all the mythical conference teams. Hillard promises much but will find the going rougher this season because he will not have Harrison Stafford, giant blocking back, to aid him. Stafford is now at West Point.

No Death of Replacements

The veteran Roland Eagan probably will be the signal barker, giving Littlefield two feet ball carriers in his backfield, Osborn Hodges, a 185-pound varsity letterman, looms as the outstanding fullback candidate.

The third backfield position, probably will fall to Melvin Preibisch who weighs 190 pounds and played fullback at high school.

Bennie Rundell, two year letterman, and Jack Gray, one year letterman are almost sure best bets for the wing positions. Arthur Neibuhr, a veteran 195-pounder, and Raymond Seals, a 200-pound letterman, loom as the probable tackles. Both are hard chargers and well versed in the Littlefield system of tackling. Buck Prejean, 190 pound two year letterman, and Roy Cooledge, a small 175 pound varsity letterman, are anxious to take care of the guards. There is no doubt that Bill Smith will be the center.

Such a selection gives Texas an experienced lineup from power to wing. Texas usually boasts a power team, and there's plenty of strength in this year's lineup.

Reds Trim Phillies Twice

CINCINNATI, Sept. 16 (AP)—Bennie Frey singled in the tenth to score Morrissey and win his own game, 3 to 2, from the Phillies today and the last place Cincinnati Reds then crashed through to win the day's second contest, 6 to 1.

A four run rally in the second game sent Ragland of the Phils to the showers. It came on singles by Rice, Lombardi, Morrissey, and Adams, mixed in with Bluege's grounder, Kolp's pop, and Bartell's wild throw to first.

Win Second in 10th Inning by 4-3 Count

Stewart Takes Opener, 11 to 4, to Lead by 10 Games

WASHINGTON, Sept. 16 (AP)—The Senators swept the boards in today's double header with Detroit, taking the first game, 11 to 4, and nosing out the Tigers, 4 to 3, in 10 innings in the nightcap.

Washington's lead in the American league was boosted to 10 full games over the New York Yankees who were kept idle by rain.

The Senators now need to win only four of their remaining 11 games to clinch the pennant.

Fred Marberry was treated roughly by the Senators in the first game, being hammered for eight of the 14 hits made by Washington.

In the second game "General" Alvin Crowder limited the Tigers to six hits while his teammates were collecting 12 from the combined offerings of Fischer and Auker.

A's Divide Twin Bill With Browns

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 16 (AP)—The Philadelphia Athletics divided a double header with the St. Louis Browns today. The Mackmen won the first game 6 to 0 while the Browns took the second, 5 to 2.

Lefty Grove, supported by an attack that netted 17 hits, hung up his twenty-second victory of the year in the first game, striking out eight.

Johnny Marcum's sensational big league debut of shutout pitching came to an end after 19 straight innings when St. Louis scored on him in the second inning of the closing game.

Klein Keeps Hitting Lead

Phillies' Star Nears Batting Crown for 1933 Season.

NEW YORK, Sept. 16 (AP)—Although there was another drop in Chuck Klein's batting average in the last week, costing him five points, the Philadelphia ace was one step nearer to clinching 1933 National league batting honors after Friday's games.

While Klein's average went down, his nearest rival, Spud Davis of the Phillies, also lost a couple of points while Bill Terry, New York manager, who made the week's outstanding gain, didn't come near enough to cause the leaders any qualms. Terry moved up from eighth place among the league's leading "regulars" fattening his average six points as he walloped out 14 hits in 35 times at bat. But when it was all over his average was only .326 against Klein's .373 and Davis' .342.

201 Hits

The Philadelphia stars made seven hits apiece, Klein going to bat 26 times and Davis 24. Klein's hits were enough to carry his season's total to 201, the first above 200 in the league. His long distance hitting also was practically nil during the week. He didn't connect for a double or a home run, although his totals of 40 two baggers and 27 homers still were good enough to lead the league. He batted in two runs for a total of 113 while his home run rival, Wally Berger of Boston, moved into second place with 100. Berger still had 26 homers.

Pepper Martin of St. Louis remained a double leader with 114 runs, four more than a week ago, and 22 stolen bases, while Arky Vaughan of Pittsburgh held the lead in three base hits with 19.

Leaders Shift

The other leading hitters shifted their positions about a bit but all changes were within the range of a half dozen percentage points. Tony Piet of Pittsburgh came in fourth with a .324 mark, followed by Wes Schulmerich, Philadelphia, .322; Vaughan, .320; Martin, and Chick Hafey, of Cincinnati, .319; Berger, .312, and Freddy Lindstrom, Pittsburgh, .311.

The leading pitchers, Ben Cantwell of Boston and Bud Tinning of Chicago, each won one game and lost one, Cantwell finishing with 19 victories and eight defeats, Tinning with a 13-6 record.

Terry Slated to Oppose Boy Manager of Senators in Coming Series Battle

By GAYLE TALBOT
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

NEW YORK, Sept. 16 (AP)—Master-minding will give way to the dashing, inspiring leadership of a pair of hard-hitting "boy" managers when the New York Giants of the National league and the Washington Senators of the American league meet in the approaching world series.

Never before has the fall classic brought together a pair of pilots as youthful in years and in managerial experience as Bill Terry, the 34 year old foreman of the Giants, and Joe Cronin, 26 year old "infant prodigy" of the Senators.

Terry took over the reins of the Giants, then a hopeless second-division outfit, late in the 1932 season, following the resignation of John McGraw. Cronin, the game's greatest shortstop, assumed the leadership of the Senators at the start of the current campaign. Neither had previous experience in directing a club. Their mutual success has written a blazing new chapter in the history of organized baseball.

Started From Scratch

Terry, perhaps, has received more general acclaim than his younger rival. While Cronin was handed a powerful team by Owner Clark Griffith of the Senators, a team unanimously picked to finish either first or second in the American league, "Memphis Bill" started from scratch. The critics thought the Giants might finish as high as seventh, only because the Cincinnati Reds belonged to the same circuit.

Even in the second month of the campaign, when Terry's "hitless wonders" climbed to the top and clung there, the most ardent Polo Grounds patron didn't take them seriously. He couldn't see what was holding them up, even if they did boast the slickest four-man pitching staff in either league in Carl Hubbell, Bud Parmelee, Freddie Fitzsimmons and Hal Schumacher.

But there they have remained ever since. What they have lacked in hitting they have more than made up in brilliant fielding and in a winning spirit that has been the envy and at the same time the despair of every rival manager. From the listless, dispirited club turned over to him by McGraw, Terry transformed the Giants into a keyed-up, fighting outfit the like of which has not been seen in many a year.

Never "Passes the Buck"

If there has been a trace of dis-sension under Terry, it has never leaked out. Even the newspaper men who have been with the club almost constantly day and night since spring training days on the west coast, marvel at the spirit manifested by the Giants. Terry's magnificent play around first base, the firm but kindly quality of his leadership and his refusal ever to "pass the buck" or second-guess on his players has gained him their admiration and respect.

"Who wouldn't play his head off for a guy like that?" asked one of the Giants' stars. "He's in there every minute bearing down harder than any man on his team. He tells you what to do and how to do it, but if it goes wrong he takes the blame. He never bawls anybody out for making a mistake; just takes you aside later and tells you how you should have done it. You remember it, that way."

Keen Student of Game

Those who know him best declare Terry is one of the closest students of baseball in the game. Although, they say, he had never expected to be a big league manager, he had unconsciously been preparing himself for the job ever since he became a Giant regular in 1924. In addition to being a keen observer on the field, he has for years made a practice of reading to the last line every baseball publication he could lay his hands on. It was a sort of hobby, but it has paid dividends.

"He knows every player in the league, from the freshest rookie to the oldest veteran," said an official of the Giants. "He knows their playing characteristics and their personal habits. He knew last winter exactly the players he wanted, the ones who would fit into his scheme, and he went out and got them. The experts said he made some foolish trades. Maybe so. But you can pick up almost any paper and see where he has his team today."

Jimmie Foxx Holds Four American Hitting Crowns

CHICAGO, Sept. 16 (AP)—Jimmie Foxx is just about to wrap up the American league batting championship for 1933 and take it back to the farm in Maryland.

Three other batting titles probably will go along with it. He has clinched the home run title with a harvest that has reached 45 and from all indications will lead the league in runs batted in and in hits for the most total bases.

Unofficial averages struck off Friday night showed that the big Philadelphia first baseman had a batting mark of .357 or 25 points more than his closest rival, Heinie Manush of Washington. He cracked out three more home runs during the week, lifted his total base record to 373 and batted in his 149th run. There isn't much of a possibility of anyone beating Foxx but for the batting title. He can go hitless on an average of four times at bat during the remaining games and still have an average of approximately .316.

Foxx's pursuers for the batting crown were fairly well bunched from 315 to Manush's .332. They were Simmons, Chicago, .331; Gehrig, New York, .331; Pytlak, Cleveland, .328; Garms, St. Louis, .328; Gehring, Detroit, .323; Kuhel, Washington, .323; Appling, Chicago, .322; Cochrane, Philadelphia, .322; Cronin, Washington, .315; and Higgins, Philadelphia, .315.

Manush led in two batting departments—in most total hits with 203 and in triples with 16. Gehrig was the leading run maker with 125 while Walker of Detroit led in stolen bases with 26 through Friday night.

Earl Whitehill of the Senators and "Lefty" Grove were waging a close duel for pitching honors, through Friday night, both had records of 21 victories and only 7 defeats. During the last week, Whitehill won both his starts to pull even with the star Athletic southpaw, who won one.

Washington and Philadelphia were tied in team batting at .289 but the Senators topped the league in team fielding at .977.

Darkness Halts Doubleheader

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 16 (AP)—The Cardinals struggled through three hours and 28 minutes of slipshod baseball to defeat the Brooklyn Dodgers 14 to 13 in the 10 inning first game of a double header today. The second game went into the fifth inning and then was called on account of darkness before it had gone far enough to become an official contest. The Dodgers were leading 4-2 after a big fourth inning and their first baseman in the fifth, Ralph Boyle, reached third when Jim Collins muffed a throw at first in the dusk just before the action was halted.

Hubbell Wins Captures 22nd Victory, 2 to 1

Errors Lose Second for Chicago, 6 to 3

CHICAGO, Sept. 16 (AP)—The New York Giants stepped up and took a good look at the National league pennant today as they took their second straight doubleheader from the Cubs, 2 to 1 and 6 to 3.

The double triumph did everything but clinch the championship for the Giants. It increased their lead to 8 1-2 games over the second place Pittsburgh Pirates, who divided a twin bill with Boston, and to 9 1-2 over the Cubs. The Giants have 12 games left and by winning one of them they can wipe out Chicago's mathematical chance of victory and by winning three they can assure themselves of victory even if Pittsburgh wins all its remaining games.

Hubbell's Twenty-second

Carl Hubbell, the Giant's ace southpaw, turned in his season's twenty-second victory in taking the first game in a hurling duel with Lynn Nelson. Bill Shores, called in from Kansas City late in the season, outpitched Guy Bush to take the afterpiece despite home runs by the Chicago freshmen, Bill Campbell and Dolph Camilli.

Nelson's wildness cost him the opening game although he gave up only seven hits against Chicago's 12 off Hubbell. A pass to Mel Ott in the eighth inning broke a 1-1 deadlock that existed from the fifth. Hubbell scored the winning run himself after leading off the innings with a single and moving along to third as Joe Moore singled, Hughey Critz sacrificing and Bill Terry was purposely staid to set the stage for Ott's steadfast refusal to "bite" at bad balls.

Davis Scores

A double by George Davis, a wild pitch and a long fly by Travis Jackson brought the first Giant run in the second inning and the Cubs tied it up in the fifth when Gabby Hartnett scored on Nelson's single after singling himself.

A three run attack in the third inning after the Cubs had twice taken the lead "iced" the second game for the league leaders. Billy Jurges' fumble of Byrne James' grounder started the trouble. After Terry forced James, the Giants filled the bases on Ott's single and a pass to Davis. Chuck Drossen then came through with his first hit since he returned to the majors, a single, and drove in two tallies.

Davis counted on a single by Gus Mancuso, who made four of the Giants' 13 hits in the nightcap.

Koenig Ears

After Camilli's homer brought the Cubs within striking distance in the seventh, New York picked up a couple of runs in the eighth. With two on and two out, Mark Koenig muffed an easy pop fly off Moore's bat and one run came in. Bush was rattled and walked James to cram the corners. He was replaced by Roy Henshaw, who promptly forced in a run with a pass to Terry.

The twin bill concluded the season's series between the Giants and the Cubs, New York taking it 13 to 9.

Rival Managers?

Will these two boy managers face each other on opposite sides of the world series diamond starting Oct. 3? Although several other clubs still possess a mathematical chance, the Giants and Senators are almost certain winners of the league flags and the right to fight it out for the world championship.

Under Par

Dunlap was three under par in the morning and one under par for the 31 holes played.

While shooting his plu-perfect 68, the New Yorker was never off the fairway, was short of only a single green and that by a scant two feet, and punched his approaches to the greens with such accuracy he had old man par as well as Marston staggering back into the ropes. He wasn't quite so "hot" in the afternoon, but he had only one three-putt green all day and he was in a bunker only twice.

No one in the perspiring crowd that marvelled at Dunlap's play would have suspected the youngster had barely qualified for the match play. Only a lucky putt on the second extra-hole of a playoff last Wednesday morning kept him in the tournament. But afterwards not once was he hard-pressed as he disposed of five successive opponents, two by the score of 4 and 3, and three by 6 and 5.

Zachary was driven to the showers in the fifth and Mangum, who succeeded him, also was ineffective.

Sets Record for Kenwood Golf Course

Former Collegian in Great Form to Win Crown

By ALAN GOULD

(Associated Press Sports Editor)
KENWOOD COUNTRY CLUB,
CINCINNATI, Ohio, Sept. 16 (AP)—

The mantle of American amateur golf today was draped around the slim shoulders of freckled 24 year old George T. Dunlap, Jr., of New York, the youngest player to capture the championship since Bobby Jones first ascended the throne in 1924.

In a dazzling exhibition of shot making, as the climax to a history-making national tournament, Dunlap turned back the veteran former champion, Max R. Marston, of Philadelphia by the decisive margin of six and five in a match that had nearly 8,000 spectators wildly cheering the victorious rush of the eastern youngster.

Breaks Record

Dunlap shot the first 18 hole round in a marvelous 68, breaking the Kenwood course record and gained a lead of seven up that ended any doubt about the result. He was nine up at the 22nd hole in the afternoon and not even Marston's gallant rally, during which he shot the last nine holes in 32, three under par, could stem the tide. The match ended on the 31st green.

Dunlap's shot making was the most sensational the championship final has known since the palmy days of the great Robert T. Jones, Jr. The eminent Georgian was an enthusiastic spectator as Dunlap turned in the best single round since Jones blasted Chick Evans with a 67 at Minikahnda in 1927.

Marston had marched right up to the championship portal, which he last crossed in 1923, but the veteran simply did not have the shots to match the youngster who was "hot."

Dunlap was three under par in the morning and one under par for the 31 holes played.

While shooting his plu-perfect 68, the New Yorker was never off the fairway, was short of only a single green and that by a scant two feet, and punched his approaches to the greens with such accuracy he had old man par as well as Marston staggering back into the ropes. Giants Reduce League Race to 3 Teams

Pirates, Cubs Still in Battle for Flag Honors

NEW YORK, Sept. 16 (AP)—The New York Giants reduced the National league pennant race to a three club struggle and practically wiped out the chances of the two rivals that remained mathematically in the running as they defeated the Chicago Cubs in both ends of a doubleheader today. Washington's Senators, also triumphant in a twin bill, increased their lead over the New York Yankees almost to the clinching point in the American league duel.

By beating the Cubs twice while Pittsburgh and Boston broke even and St. Louis won a single game over Brooklyn and had another wiped off the schedule by darkness, the Giants put the Cards and the Braves out to sea. The best Boston can do is to finish the season with 88 victories and 66 defeats for a .571 average. With 87 triumphs already chalked up and 12 games to play, the Giants could lose them all and end up with a .572 percentage. The Cards' best possible mark is 87 won and 66 lost. Another Giant victory would put Chicago in the same situation as the Cubs have only nine to play. Three more wins are required to end Pittsburgh's mathematical chance of winning the flag. The Pirates have 11 games to go.

While Washington was winning twice the Yankees had a twin bill

CHAPTER THIRTY-ONE

"That of all," said Cavanaugh after a moment's silence, "I want an unconditional release and exoneration from the police. Then I want you to leave me alone. I'm not a stool pigeon and I'm not going to double-cross any of my friends." Mulrooney wiped his forehead.

"I couldn't do that. You're an accessory in these cases, beyond doubt. I'm consulting with the District Attorney this afternoon about your charges. No, the best thing for you to do is to come clean on everything. You haven't done that yet. Don't you think I'm right, Miss Luneska?"

"You can leave Miss Luneska out of it," Cavanaugh said levelly. "This is between you and me, Mulrooney."

Mulrooney's mouth grew sulky under the stubby moustache.

"The trouble with you, Mr. Cavanaugh," he said coldly, "is that you're trying to carry water on both shoulders. You know the identity of those yeggs that blew that safe and killed Kruger."

"Maybe I do and maybe I don't."

"Answer me one thing. Why don't you tell us who they are?"

Cavanaugh's eyes narrowed a little.

"Isn't it possible, Mulrooney, that one of those men might have been a friend of mine? Maybe that man has done me a big favor sometime. And here's another angle. There's a killer loose and he's after me. It's my own personal job to check up on him. I can't do those things as long as the police have a string on me. You ought to be smart enough to see that. I'm asking you to do the wise thing. Turn me loose!"

Luni leaned forward a little. "There— isn't that simple, Mr. Mulrooney?" she exclaimed.

But Mulrooney had no intention of being swept off his feet. He was, after all, a policeman and he entertained not the slightest idea of exonerating and liberating a promising prisoner in exchange for an ephemeral promise.

"Not on your life, Mr. Cavanaugh," he said without taking his cigar from his mouth. "You're in a bad jam and you know it. I've stretched a point even in bringing you out here to talk. I made a bargain with you after Kruger was shot, but that's all off now. You're in a spot where you're going to come clean with everything—I mean everything—or you're going to take it on the chin. I was willing to play ball with you after Kruger—but it's another story now."

He had employed the tone which he used to intimidate prisoners. Lucky Cavanaugh had no intention, however, of being browbeaten.

"I'm going to make you just one more little proposition, Mulrooney," he said—and his eyes tightened as he spoke. "First, I'm going to do you a favor. I've lost a lot of my luck, but I've got a hunch there's a little of it left yet. I think I can get my hand on the fellow that killed Annette. I can't promise but I think so. When I get him I'm going to turn him over to you. You're going to have all the glory. That's what I'm going to do for you. Now I'll tell you what you're going to do for me. You're the only living soul outside of myself that knows the story of Miss Luneska's past life. You're going to keep your mouth shut forever on that subject. If it ever comes to light—if a single word of it is ever made public—I'll know who it came from. Did you ever have any threats

Mulrooney reached under his coat toward his hip pocket of his trousers.

Iowa Seals for Re-Employment Now Available at C. of C.

Insignia to Supplement NRA Signs

Plans for Distribution to Be Made During Coming Week

Iowa seals of re-employment for Johnson county employers are now available at the Chamber of Commerce rooms at the American Legion Community building, D. W. Crum, acting chairman of the county re-employment committee, received a supply of the seals and instructions from the state recovery board Friday.

Chairman Crum said yesterday that the committee would meet sometime during the week to make plans for the distribution of the seals.

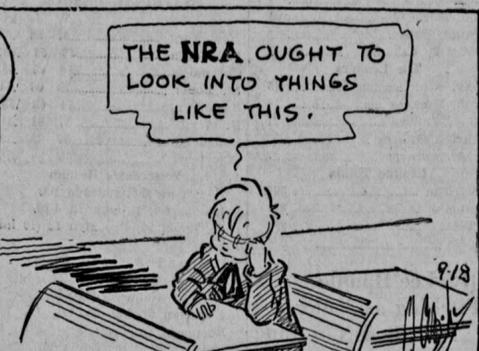

No Substitute
It is pointed out by the state board the Iowa seal is not in any way to be considered a substitute for the Blue Eagle. The seal does not in any way change the status of NRA membership. The employer desiring a seal will file the names of additional employees under the NRA program and will then be given a seal with the name of his company and a list written in the proper places. Each seal must be dated and signed by the county chairman.

Names of employers and employees will be held in strict confidence by the county chairman but the number of seals issued and the number of additional employees hired will be announced by the chairman.

Placed Under Blue Eagle
The seal will be placed under the Blue Eagle emblem and will be issued only to those displaying the NRA insignia. When an employer to whom a seal has been issued has ceased to have a number of employees greater than the number employed when the NRA campaign started he shall return his seal to the county chairman or the county representative from whom he received it. A seal will be re-issued to this employer any time that he again qualifies.

According to instructions received by the county chairman there will be no drive for display of the seals but will be available at the local Chamber of Commerce for employers who want them and can qualify.
