Reconstruction Finance Corporation to Begin Purchasing Gold Today

Move Starts Campaign for Price Raises

F. R. Hopes to Gain Managed Currency by Purchase

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24 (AP)—The Reconstruction corporation will make its first purchase of gold at a fixed price tomorrow and officially set in motion the economic mechanism by which President Roosevelt hopes to achieve a managed currency and higher prices.

Jesse Jones, chairman of the corporation, and Henry Morgenthau, Jr., acting as spokesman for President Roosevelt, will call at the treasury at 9:30 a. m., and with Acting Secretary Acheson decide how much of the newly mined metal is to be bought and what price is to be paid for it.

Through the regular facilities of the treasury and federal reserve system, they will be supplied with gold quotations from London, Paris and other foreign figures. They promised an announcement by 10 a. m.

With President Roosevelt confined to the executive mansion by a cold, officials of the agencies involved made preparations for the transaction. Numerous details had to be arranged and a system devised for assaying, delivering and storing the metal.

Upward Trend

These officials, nevertheless, found time to scan reports of second day market reactions to the president's plan, announced in his address of Sunday night. They noted an upward trend in wheat which carried quotations to the highest point of the current movement, even though the gain was later erased by profit taking. A steady cotton market also brought encouragement.

The dollar slid downward but it has been intimated that one aim of Mr. Roosevelt's currency program was to encourage such a trend as a means of helping domestic prices.

The stock exchange after puzzling for two days over the effect of the Roosevelt plan on the general economic structure decided late in the day that the move was inflationary in nature and a strong rally ensued. Gold stocks were particularly buoyant.

As with virtually all of Mr. Roosevelt's recovery projects, the prime purpose of the gold-buying plan was to increase the prices of the things the farmer and manufacturer produce to a level that would give them a profit and thereby increase business activity and, consequently, employment.

Gold, it was pointed out, was still the basis of commodity prices despite the fact that they were measured in dollars and that, since the abandonment of the gold standard, dollars could no longer be exchanged for the yellow metal.

Regardless of these factors, government economists said, the currency still had a gold backing. By artificially increasing the number of dollars represented in the price of an ounce of gold they expected to influence the price of commodities and send them upward as well.

Insull Case Progresses

ATHENS, Oct. 24 (AP)—Samuel Insull, Sr., was presented to a Greek court today as a man of lavish humanitarian gifts who has reached the stage where he must count even the drachmae he spends for postage stamps.

The court must determine whether the United States can have the former utilities magnate to try for embezzlement.

Christos Ladas, one of the defense counsel, so described Insull in an argument which lasted four hours. At the conclusion of the speech the hearing was adjourned until 4 p. m. Friday.

Hardware Store Robbed Yesterday

The Gadd Hardware, 112 E. College street, was broken into early yesterday evening and $5 in change taken from the cash register. Entrance was gained by prying open the back door. A brief check-up last night revealed nothing gone except the $5 in change.

The robbery was discovered at 7 p. m. by Frank Sook, merchant policeman.

One Iowan Killed, Two Badly Injured in Illinois Wreck

ROCKFORD, Ill., Oct. 24 (AP)—Mrs. Fern Winchell, 24, of Cedar Rapids, Ia., is dead, and Hazel Wharton, 21, Mrs. J. C. Phelan, 70, also of Cedar Rapids, were in critical condition from injuries received when their automobile hurtled off a highway on a curve east of Byron.

Kenneth M. Winchell, husband of the victim, who was driving, and another occupant of the car, Mrs. Charles W. Winchell, Calumet City, Ill., escaped with minor injuries. The injured were brought to a Rockford hospital where Mrs. Winchell's death occurred a few hours later.

Clue Claimed to Kidnaping of Lindbergh Boy

N. Y. Police Interrogate Gorch, Formerly of Hopewell, N. J.

BOSTON, Oct. 24 (AP)—A clue to the kidnapers of the Lindbergh baby was claimed late today by New York police working with Massachusetts, New Jersey and federal officers in interrogating John Gorch, 57, alleged swindler and former resident of Hopewell, N. J.

Developments considered of paramount importance came rapidly upon the arrival of New York and New Jersey officers. A raid on Gorch's south end apartment revealed, police said, names and addresses in New York and New Jersey that should prove of great importance in the case.

From the circle of interrogators of Gorch at the Charles street jail where he is held in heavy bail for a Philadelphia swindle, Lieutenant James Finn of the New York police emerged with the claim of progress in solving the Lindbergh mystery.

"Gorch provided us with names and addresses in New York," said Lieutenant Finn, a former body guard for Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh. "These will have to be checked up."

Gorch told his questioners that on the day of the kidnaping he was in New York city with friends whose names the police refused to divulge. He also told them he had a half sister who owned a farm near the Lindbergh home in Hopewell and that he visited there two months after the child was taken.

Participating with Finn in the questioning of Gorch were Corporal William F. Horn of the New Jersey state police; Frank W. Allen, department of justice agent, and Inspector William J. Bonner and Sergeant Inspector Arthur Tiernan of the Boston police.

U. S. Cruiser Collides With Foreign Ship

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 24 (AP)—The cruiser Chicago, a new American fighting ship, was badly damaged, two members of her crew died of injuries, another was seriously hurt and a fourth was missing after a collision today with the British freighter Silver Palm.

The vessels came together in a fog off Point Sur, 130 miles south of here. A great hole was torn in the port side of the Chicago. The bow of the Silver Palm struck her on the port side just forward of the No. 1 turret, penetrated the heavy armor plate and bored in until it reached almost to midship.

Shakespearean Actor's Son Commits Suicide

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Oct. 24 (AP)—Robert Mantell, Jr., 21 year old son of the distinguished Shakespearean actor, faced a mirror in his home early today and fired a pistol bullet into his head.

He was dead a moment later when his mother rushed to the room. She is Genevieve Hamper, one time favorite in Shakespearean roles and widow of the eminent tragedian.

U. S. Ready to Guard Imports Hindering NRA

Roosevelt Gives Order to Investigate Any Competing Goods

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24 (AP)—Machinery to control imports that might be endangering codified American industry was given to NRA today by President Roosevelt in an executive order formally authorizing the recovery unit to investigate complaints against cheap foreign imports.

Embargoes, quotas and higher tariffs all are at the command of the administration if thorough investigation finds pleas of American producers for aid justified. NRA may make only preliminary investigation. If it found a basis for action, the president would turn the question over to the tariff commission for thorough sifting. Upon its findings he would act to control foreign competition.

Canada, U. S. Confer
The order was issued as American newspaper producers met with Canadian and European paper men to attempt to work out a voluntary price agreement which would safeguard the Americans in assuming the higher costs imposed by code terms. A tariff was virtually out of the question on newspaper, Administrator Hugh S. Johnson pointed out to reporters, because two-thirds of the pulp consumed by American newspapers comes from the Canadian forests. The objective, he said, would be to keep the present price structure intact. The paper men, however, talked of raising prices to end what they termed the present profitless base.

While the import question came to the fore, Johnson was telling newsmen that the price control provision of the retail code, newly approved by the president, had been misinterpreted, and that it would almost certainly result in establishing a cost plus 10 per cent minimum for all stores.

This statement followed close upon appointment of the trade authority of three members which will assist the NRA executive to fix the amount of markup, left open by the code. Named were Louis Kirstein, Boston merchant and member of the NRA industrial advisory board; Dr. Leo Wolman and Mrs. Mary H. Rumsey, chairman of the labor and consumer boards. Mrs. Rumsey had opposed inclusion of the 10 per cent provision in the code.

Nudist Colony Head is Guilty

Proprietor of Michigan Camp May Pay $500 Fine, Serve Term

ALEGAN, Mich., Oct. 24 (AP)—Conviction of Fred T. Ring, nudist colony proprietor, of a charge of indecent exposure today by a jury of elderly men brought to a sudden end Michigan's first court case involving nudism.

The charge carries a possible penalty of $500 fine and one year imprisonment, but Ring was not sentenced today, at his request. His personal bond of $100 was continued. He said he planned an immediate appeal.

Prevented by a ruling of Circuit Judge Fred T. Miles from offering testimony concerning the physical and mental effects of nudism—on which they hoped to base their case—counsel for Ring brought the defense to an abrupt close.

Lindberghs Anxious to Begin Homeward Flight From Ireland

GALWAY, Irish Free State, Oct. 24 (AP)—Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh were anxious to continue their journey tonight because Mrs. Lindbergh is "terribly anxious to see my baby." They planned to leave early tomorrow morning for Aberdeen, Scotland, if weather permits and, although their subsequent plans were veiled in the usual secrecy, it was thought probable they would soon start for home.

OPEN RACKET QUIZ

District Attorney Green termed racketeering the "most diabolical form of blackmail," and told of ten industries in that city which had been dominated by racketeers.

Slight Cold Keeps Roosevelt Confined; Hull Leads Council

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24 (AP)—President Roosevelt today for the second time in recent weeks was confined to the White House mansion with a slight cold. Despite his absence, the recovery council, composed of key men in the administration's reconstruction and relief program, held its usual meeting in the cabinet room, presided over by Secretary Hull.

Robbers Loot Three Banks Pennsylvania, Indiana, Nebraska Banks Lose $17,000

(By the Associated Press)
Three banks were robbed in as many states yesterday. Four robbers rifled the vaults of the Merchants National bank at Nebraska City, Neb., and carried away three persons who were in the bank at the time. The hostages were released a short time later. The bank was closed immediately after the robbery so that officials could seek fingerprints.

McCormick Is Named as Defendant

CHICAGO, Oct. 24 (AP)—Harold F. McCormick, chairman of the board of the International Harvester company, today was named defendant in the praecipe of a suit seeking $1,500,000 filed on behalf of Mrs. Rhoda Tanner Doubleday, New York divorcee.

Asked if McCormick had been appraised of the suit and if it might allege breach of promise, Helen Edwards, secretary for McCormick, said: "There is absolutely no statement to make."

Iowa Court Upholds Conviction of Dobry

DES MOINES, Oct. 24 (AP)—The Iowa supreme court, with five justices concurring and two dissenting, today upheld the conviction of D. A. Dobry, former head of the bankrupt D. A. Dobry Securities company, for making a false statement to the state securities department.

Three States' Holiday Heads Join Strikers

Iowa, S. D., Nebraska Officials Support Farm Strike

SIoux CITY, Oct. 24 (AP)—Officials of farm holiday associations in three states at a session here tonight approved the national farm strike and voted to participate in holding all commodities from market with the temporary exception of milk.

In a formal resolution the group decided to "follow the dictates of the National Farmers' Holiday association and keep all farm commodities shut off from market except milk temporarily." Holiday leaders explained that the temporary exception of milk was likely to mean anywhere from four to eight days depending upon the effectiveness of the embargo on other products.

The resolution did not contain any specific reference to picketing and members of the group were discussing ways and means of enforcing the holiday after the general session adjourned.

Iowa, Nebraska and South Dakota were represented. Officials of county groups attending included: Iowa: S. G. Dawson, Cherokee county, and W. C. Daniel, Woodbury county.

Nebraska: Simon Madison, Thurston county, John J. Newell and Martin G. Hogbert, Burt county, A. R. Kiel, Dixon county, and L. M. Jepson, and J. F. Kriege, Dakota county.

South Dakota: Joseph Trudeau, Union county.

Pickets Active Near Sioux City

SIoux CITY, Oct. 24 (AP)—Pickets were reported to have started activities here tonight, patrolling and blockading the Le Mars and Prairie Creek roads into Sioux City. At the same time, it was reported that pickets near Council Bluffs had disbanded their lines after two trucks of livestock had run the blockade enroute to Omaha.

Police Order Tear Gas for Dad's Day

Tear gas will be used hereafter by the police to discourage any further egg or rock throwing by rioting crowds or football fans. In preparation for the Dad's day celebration on Nov. 3, a supply of tear gas bombs has been ordered by the police department. The bombs will be used to disperse large, lawless crowds if necessary, Police Chief W. H. Bender said.

Winter Approaching Predicts Prof. Reilly

Scarlet Fever Hits Four Iowa Citizens in Last Two Days

Four cases of scarlet fever have been reported in Iowa City during the last two days, making 11 cases. Two cases were reported yesterday and two Monday. Dr. I. A. Rankin, city physician, said last night that there were eight houses in the city under quarantine at the present time. The cases are scattered through the city.

Fall in Dollar Boosts Market

Stocks, Staples Soar as 'Inflation' Measure Is Announced

NEW YORK, Oct. 24 (AP)—The foreign exchange market decided the new RFC gold price fixing plan was decidedly inflationary today. A severe tumble in the dollar gave stocks and staples another sharp boost.

Prices Wobble
Prices on the New York stock and commodity exchanges and the Chicago board of trade wobbled uncertainly during much of the day, and it was not until pronounced weakness appeared in the dollar during the afternoon that brisk buying developed.

By that time the Chicago wheat market had already closed, with yesterday's upturn whittled down by 1 to 1-2 cents a bushel by profit-taking sales. Cotton at New York, however, finished $1 to $1.35 a bale higher, silver futures gained nearly a cent an ounce, hides rose as much as 1-4 of a cent a pound, and rubber about 1-3 of a cent.

Advance Expected
Just how inflationary the RFC's gold buying program will be remained a matter of conjecture, but rumors in speculative quarters were that the initial price due tomorrow would be at a substantial advance over recent prices of around $30 an ounce, and might be as high as the peak of $32.18 reached last September. Rising gold prices indicate a depreciation in the gold value of the dollar.

Hectic Buying
Hectic buying of gold mining issues swept through the share market, and commodity shares generally, such as copper and rubbers, were strong. Brokers said there was much shifting of funds from shares calculated to be unlikely to benefit from inflation into commodity shares.

Some conservative quarters in Wall street expressed the opinion that speculators were being rather hasty in jumping to the conclusion that the RFC gold buying would immediately be used to cause sudden, sharp depreciation of the dollar, inasmuch as President Roosevelt in his Sunday night address to the nation had stressed sound money and maintenance of the government's credit, and said that the price lifting program might take two or three years.

28 Cent Assessment on Each Bushel Will Become Effective November 5, Wallace Decees

Prosecution of Hartzell Opens at Sioux City

Government Begins Its Testimony on Drake Estate Scheme

SIoux CITY, Oct. 24 (AP)—The trial of Oscar M. Hartzell, facing 13 counts of using the mails to defraud in connection with his attempts to establish title of the Sir Francis Drake estate, got underway late today as John Sparks, Sioux City postal inspector, began the government's testimony.

Sparks told of Hartzell's arrest as the boat on which he was deported from England docked in New York. He identified several letters which he said he had presented to Hartzell and Hartzell had acknowledged signing. The contents of the letters were not divulged, but it was indicated that they would be presented in evidence later.

Will Return to Stand
Sparks was examined by D. C. Browning, assistant United States district attorney, and will return to the stand tomorrow. He was called following the completion of opening statements by the opposing counsel.

Carlos M. Goltz, making the opening statement for the defense, said he would prove that the estate of the sixteenth century explorer went to a son and that in the course of its passage through various descendants, a man named Drake living in Missouri gained a claim to the estate.

Government Claims
The government attorney, Harry S. Pratt, special assistant federal attorney general, claimed the original estate went to a brother and later descended through his family.

Pratt took up most of the morning reading the 53-page indictment charging Hartzell with using the mails to defraud in collecting funds with which to carry on a legal battle in England. It contained 15 counts of use of the mails to defraud, two of which were withdrawn by the government because of questions as to the manner in which the communications involved were transmitted.

Difficulties
Included in the purported communications read in the indictment were some referring to difficulties arising because of investigations made by the government during the Hoover administration and at about the same time by Scotland Yard.

35 Killed in Train Wreck

Paris-Cherbourg Flyer Crashes, Injuring at Least 50

EVREUX, France, Oct. 24 (AP)—Thirty-five persons are known to be dead and 50 injured in the wreck of the Paris-Cherbourg express train near Saint Elier, nine miles from here, today.

At least 12 of the dead were women. No American names appeared on the casualty list.

The express was rounding a sharp turn when the accident occurred. The engine and four coaches hurtled from the tracks, off a 33 foot viaduct, and into the Rouloir river. The firemen and engineer died in their cab. The derailed coaches were crushed on the river bed. Many of the deaths were caused by drowning.

The death list mounted rapidly as many of those most seriously injured died in hospitals.

Senator Pierre-Adolphe Dudouyt, 72, narrowly escaped drowning, but was pulled from the wreckage. Most of the victims were French. The train was the regular express which leaves Cherbourg early every morning.

The cause of the accident was not immediately determined.

Expect Move to Finance Control Program for Farm Products

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24 (AP)—A processing tax of 28 cents per bushel on corn was fixed today by Secretary Wallace with the approval of President Roosevelt.

The fifth to be levied on one of the seven basic commodities defined by the farm adjustment act, the tax becomes effective Nov. 5, the same date that the hog processing levy applies.

To Finance Program
The tax on corn and hogs is depended upon to finance the production control program for corn and hogs at a maximum cost of approximately $350,000,000.

Wallace said the rate of 28 cents per bushel of 56 pounds was the difference between the average farm price for field corn and "the fair exchange value of field corn."

"Parity" Price
The fair exchange value is "parity" price, or the amount which corn must bring to have the purchasing power it had in the period from 1909 to 1914.

The question of whether the full difference between parity and the present price of corn would cause such a reduction in the consumption of corn that it would result in the accumulation of surpluses will be considered at a hearing in Washington on Nov. 2.

Processing taxes on products that compete with corn and hogs, among them sugar and beef products, are under consideration.

The corn tax regulations prescribe conversion factors that fix a tax for all floor stocks held by processing establishments, wholesalers and others, on the date the tax goes into effect. Presumably, retailers will be given 30 days to get rid of stocks on hand.

Corn Products
Corn products which will be taxed as floor stocks include corn meal, corn flakes (breakfast food type) pearl or table hominy, corn starch, dextrines, glucose syrups and sugars, corn oil, corn gluten feed and corn gluten meal.

The conversion factor is arrived at through determining the amount of corn which goes into the finished product.

As in the case of wheat, corn processed by a farmer or members of his household is exempted from the levy.

Amount Uncertain
No estimate of the amount expected from the tax on corn was made by the administration, although the greater part of the grain is fed without processing.

The levy on hogs starts at 50 cents per hundred pounds of "live animal." It will be increased at intervals until it is $2 per hundred pounds by next Feb. 1. This rate is to continue through the 1933-34 and 1934-35 hog marketing years.

Processing taxes have been levied also on wheat, cotton, and tobacco, and one is contemplated for milk.

Reveal Cuba Met Interest With U.S. Cash

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24 (AP)—Payment by Cuba of interest on bonds held by Americans with money loaned by the Chase National bank was brought to the attention of the senate banking committee today in its peering into the close links between the giant financial house and former President Machado.

Concurrently with this disclosure by Ferdinand Pecora, counsel for the committee, senators were told by A. M. Williams, one of the counsel for the banking interests, the financiers would go to the American state department for help if necessary in preventing defaults or aiding in collection.

Williams' statement followed a sharp controversy between A. K. Geiger, a Chase vice president, and Senator Couzens (R., Mich.) over whether the state department could participate in efforts of private bankers to collect obligations.

Most of the victims were French. The train was the regular express which leaves Cherbourg early every morning.

The cause of the accident was not immediately determined.

University Club Members Indulge in 'Tasty' Evening

World's Fair Dinner Given Last Night by Organization

"Twas just a matter of 'tastes,' literally and figuratively speaking, at the University club last night.

"Twas just a matter of taste in clothes and taste in foods when club members, in costume, served typical national dishes of five foreign countries at the 'World's Fair' dinner given by the organization in the clubrooms of Iowa Union.

Mrs. Seashore
Mrs. Carl Seashore, October club chairman, wore a Scandinavian dress. Mrs. Bruce E. Mahan was attired in a Swiss gown belonging to Mrs. Emil Witschi. A Hindu "sari" was worn by Mrs. J. A. Eldridge.

From Roumania came the costume Mrs. E. D. Plass wore and which Mrs. William Morgan owns. A Moravian gown, the property of Lulu Smith, was shown by Mrs. A. C. Trowbridge. Wearing a Czechoslovakian dress was Helene Blattner of the speech department. This dress also belongs to Miss Smith.

Alice Brigham
The garb of an Arabian "abba" was illustrated by a gown which Prof. A. C. Trowbridge loaned to Alice Brigham of the home economics department.

After going through the turnstile, the 60 guests were served smorgasbord, a type of Swedish appetizer. An Italian dish, fricasse of chicken, and a Polish vegetable were next on the menu. A German potato salad followed. French pastry and lemon ice were the desserts.

Decorations

Tapestries and wearing apparel from additional foreign countries decorated the tables and walls of the club rooms. Mrs. E. A. Gilmore contributed articles from the Philippines. Chinese apparel was displayed by Mrs. C. H. McCoy, that from Albania by Mrs. E. D. Plass, that from Switzerland by Mrs. Witschi, and that made by Indians by Mrs. Sundhinda Bose.

Dr. Zella White Stewart wore the typical costume of a Hindu. To carry out the Century of Progress motif, were a House of Magic, a color transformation, an aquarium, a rickshaw, and a sky-ride.

House of Magic
J. L. Fetter, instructor in the college of engineering, presented the House of Magic by a demonstration on "Sound on a light beam."

Prof. C. J. Lapp of the physics department demonstrated the color transformation.

Belgian Folk Dances

The six students in the physical education department who gave Belgian folk dances are: Marjorie Dewees, A3 of Keokuk; Jesselene Thomas, A3 of Marshalltown; Marcella Cunningham, A4 of Winterset; Dorothea Newland, A3 of Drakeville; Esther Idema, A2 of Iowa City; and Belle Markovitz, A3 of Iowa City. Mrs. Vera Marsan accompanied the dancers.

Headed by Mrs. Seashore, the committee in charge of the affair was: Mrs. Mahan, Mrs. Trowbridge, Mrs. Eldridge, Mrs. L. G. Lawyer, Mrs. Plass, Miss Blattner, Mrs. Rufus H. Fitzgerald, Miss Brigham, and Kate Wickham.

Local Pythian Sisters Have Anniversary

The forty-third anniversary of Athens temple No. 71, Pythian Sisters, was celebrated Monday evening at the K. of P. hall. A potluck supper was served at 7 o'clock to approximately 85 persons, members of the temple and guests from West Liberty. Lodge colors, red, blue, yellow, and white, and Halloween pumpkins decorated the dining room.

Following the dinner, Norma Leeney and Jack Grady appeared in two song and dance numbers and Marion Wood gave soft shoe and tap dances. Tribute to the past chiefs was paid by Mrs. Myrtle Wood Smith, and Dorothy Sutton gave the welcoming address. An illustrated story of Damon and Pythias was told by Ernest Ruby, chancellor commander of the Corinth lodge, and Clarence Conover, past chancellor commander.

Mrs. Amelia Hildebrandt, president of the Past Chief's club, appointed the following officers: Mrs. Sylvia Boone, most excellent chief; Mrs. Emma Schuppert, past chief; Mrs. Gertrude Bouck, excellent senior; Mrs. Anna Hamilton, excellent junior; Mrs. Leona Fromm, manager; Mrs. Elsie Flig, mistress of records and correspondence; Mrs. Mary O'Hara, mistress of finance; Mrs. Ida Slaybath, protector; Mrs. Beulah Chechok, guard; Mrs. Genevieve Brandstatter and Mrs. Mary Pilcher, flag escort; Mrs. W. F. Hohmann, musician. Other past chiefs present were Maude Yude, Carrie Chapman, Rose Ramsay, Clara Hill, Hazel Jones, Ruth Crayne, Ethel Tallman, Ethel Beach, Goldie Miller, Lola Harmon, Carrie Kloos, and Pearl Whitehook.

Present officers of the temple who served as hostesses are: Dorothy Sutton, most excellent chief; Mrs. Mildred Kircher, past chief; Mrs. Julia Edwards, excellent senior; Mrs. Myrtle Smith, excellent junior; Mrs. Leona Pearson, manager; Mrs. Ruby Harper, mistress of records and correspondence; Mrs. Mary Tucker, mistress of finance; Mrs. Dolie Fillenworth, protector; Mrs. Esther Miller and Mrs. Ruth Crayne, guards.

An informal hour, with short talks by the guests, concluded the ceremony.

Prof. Clara Daley to Speak Friday at Wylie Guild Supper

The Wylie Guild of the First Presbyterian church will meet at 5:30 p.m., Friday, supper being served at 6 p.m. Prof. Clara M. Daley of the university history department will speak on "Mexico" at the meeting.

The committee in charge of the meeting includes Agnes Rankin, chairman, Nancy Corlett, Emily Dell Davis, Mrs. J. W. Brown, Lola Hughes, Edna Fleffner, and Edna Wilson.

J. Perpinan Writes Article in Journal

"Vocational education in the Philippines" is the title of an article by J. B. Perpinan, post-doctorate student and former research assistant in the Iowa Child Welfare Research station, published in the October issue of The High School, a national journal of secondary education.

He says that the greatest need of the Philippines today is economic development. "Realizing this, vocational schools have been established, but this particular type of school does not appeal to Filipino children."

Honor Group to Meet

Omicron Nu, national home economics honor society, will hold a business meeting and social hour in the home economics dining room tomorrow night. Alumni of the university are invited to attend.

New Scout Troops Bring Total to Six

With the organization of two new Boy Scout troops in Iowa City, Troop 7 with R. J. Kidder as scoutmaster and Troop 10 led by Thomas Kelly, there are now a total of six troops ready to serve the community, announced Glen G. Fordyce, local Boy Scout executive.

"The outlook for a very intensive Scouting program was never better," said Boy Scout Executive Fordyce. "All of the troop leaders are men deeply interested in Scout work and are all that is possible to make for this year a success. We particularly urge all parents who have boys of Scouting age to have them join any of the troops in the city."

Troop 2, located at the Henry W. Longfellow school and led by Frank Kinney, assisted by C. O. Dahle, meets Wednesdays at 7:30 p.m. This troop serves the needs of the boys in the southeast section of the city.

Troop 5, scoutmaster Thomas Martin, meets Wednesdays at 7:30 p.m. at the Congregational church.

Troop 7, sponsored by the Henry Scribner P.T.A., meets Tuesdays and is managed by R. J. Kidder assisted by Don Paden.

Troop 8 of the English Lutheran church, led by Fred Jones, meets Monday evenings.

Troop 10, in charge of Thomas Kelly and Joe Scannell, meets Monday evenings at St. Patrick's church.

Troop 14 of the Methodist church, meeting Monday evenings, is headed by Frank Swisher assisted by Frank Fisher.

Olsen Urges More Police

Says Sheriff's Office, Police Station Are Undermanned

County Attorney F. B. Olsen declared yesterday that Iowa City needs a larger police force. This was emphasized by County Attorney Olsen in his talk on the duties of the county attorney to the Kiwanis club at its noon luncheon in Hotel Jefferson.

"I think we are undermanned on the police force and in the sheriff's office."

"Energetic, But Small"

"We have a good, energetic police force," but, Attorney Olsen explained because of its small size we cannot have a police force with training such as in Des Moines, Cedar Rapids, and other places."

The county attorney believes that Iowa City, because of its special problems with the university should have more night policemen.

More on Night Duty

"There are three or four men on duty, but there should be more at night than in the daytime. . . they are willing, but should not be worked overtime. . . of course this is a problem of finances."

Attorney Olsen explained that in the larger cities where the police are specially trained they are able to take care of the gathering of evidence in cases themselves, but that here the county attorney must be ready to go down to the police station any hour of the day or night to collect evidence and statements while they are fresh.

Attorney Olsen revealed that the sheriff works 14 hours a day and has one deputy who is busy all the time.

Problems Ahead

"I think we are going to have plenty of problems this winter. . . but if we can get the cooperation of the citizens of this community we will do everything we can to help the community along," he assured.

The many administrative and advisory duties of the county attorney were explained. In mentioning cases of juvenile delinquency, Attorney Olsen commented on the privacy of the hearings, and added that in all cases where a man's personal life is especially involved, "Publicity is the worst thing that can happen."

Solem Speaks

Kiwanian Coach Oleson Solem was called on to give a comment on how the team came through. He replied, "I could tell you how they came through—they came through all right. They hadn't been working very hard. There had been some injuries and we didn't want to take a chance on other injuries. Because of that they were a little bit ragged. As for Minnesota Saturday, we'll see about that."

Dean C. Ackerman Reports on NRA Situation of Papers

A report on newspapers and the NRA code is found in the October issue of the Iowa Publisher, issued recently.

The report, made by Dean Carl W. Ackerman of the school of Journalism, Columbia university, contains many statements of the positions taken by some of the larger papers in the country. It gives a picture of the situation as it is today.

An editorial dealing with the same subject is also found in the Iowa Publisher. "What printers learned at Chicago," is the title of another editorial which deals with the exhibit of Gutenberg press and the Mainz Gutenberg museum at the Century of Progress exposition.

Two other articles in the October issue of the Iowa Publisher are, "Dudley Reid's hexameters have stimulated a university poet," and "Dreadful dime novel of the past mild compared to books of the present."

The issue also contains a feature entitled, "Among our S. U. I. alumni." The bulletin of the Iowa Press association gives a brief review of what has taken place at the various conferences held for the purpose of finding ways and means to meet the possibilities ahead in connection with the NRA.

LaGuardia Ruins a Spoils Campaign

NOTHING COULD have been more disastrous to an otherwise splendid example of the principle of democratic election in practice than Mayoralty Candidate Fiorello LaGuardia's racial charge against his independent opponent, McKee.

In the Fusion ticket, which LaGuardia represents, New York city had an opportunity to remove itself from the quagmire of corruption, or at least, mismanagement, from which it has been suffering in the last few years.

On the brink of bankruptcy, it seemed that the combination of partisan forces to defeat Tammany and its principles was the ideal answer to what was wrong with New York.

The candidates had put up an excellent battle, and—rare thing in a political campaign—they had managed to stick to the real issues confronting the city: taxation, municipal economy, and all that this involves.

So far, so good—then LaGuardia struck upon the brilliant idea of appealing to the voters by the time honored trick of claiming that his opponent is hostile to a certain race, in this case, the Jews.

Basing his statement on something that McKee had said nearly two decades ago, LaGuardia proceeded to reason that it would be inimical to the best interests of the Jews, who constitute about one third of New York's population, if they were to elect him.

Political observers were agreed that LaGuardia, with the force of the Fusion ticket behind him, had an excellent, in fact almost a certain, chance of beating Tammany and O'Brien. Then McKee entered the race, and evidently LaGuardia assumed that here was a candidate whom he must fight with the common, mud-stained methods.

Whether LaGuardia's charges are true has little to do with the present story. The fact remains that they had nothing to do with the issues of the election.

The fiery Italian, popular with many New Yorkers, lowered his own standing with thinking persons in New York very much. He has opened a series of attacks and counter attacks which have obscured the vital questions, and which perhaps will cost his backers the opportunity of beating Tammany.

French Capital— to Manchuria's Aid?

ACCORDING TO THE New York Times, an understanding has been reached for the investment of French capital in Manchukuo. The preliminary agreement provides for a long term loan of about $60,000,000, and the matter merely "awaits approval of the overseas ministry in Tokyo."

What this loan may involve is indicated in a history of Franco-Japanese relations in the Far East. As early as 1907, France and Japan had reached an agreement ostensibly providing that the independence and integrity of China must be protected. But they mapped out special interests in the regions of China adjacent to their territories, including particularly those lying near Korea and Indo-China. The two governments are bound "to support each other for assurance of the peace and security in those regions."

In 1917, France entered into another secret agreement with Japan assuring Kiaochow to the latter. Up to 1923 both the Russo-Japanese and the Anglo-Japanese alliances had died out, but the wires between Japan and France have never been broken.

During the course of the Japanese aggression in Manchuria, reports about Franco-Japanese understanding, secret agreements, and the like were frequently heard. The incident taken by France in the occupation of the Coral Islands in the South China sea and the renewal of activities in Yunnan, while Japan was consolidating her portion in Manchuria and North China may have been an indication of cooperation. In any case, France under the treaty of 1907 is bound to support Japanese action in Manchuria, for it is the area specified under Japanese special interest in the treaty.

Apparently this time the French financial aid to Manchukuo is a part of long continued cooperation with Japan. But it is more than that. The League of Nations, early in February, adopted the Stimson doctrine of non-recognition of Manchuria. It was agreed that loans to the puppet state must not be made. This French investment, "though it comes as a loan," in using The New York Times' words, "not to Manchukuo but to the Japanese-owned South Manchuria railway," violates, in fact, the spirit of the league resolutions.

The Washington weekly review, Affairs, sees this French loan as "closer relations" between Japan and France and as, specifically, "one of the French answers to American refusal to cooperate at the London conference." The New York Herald-Tribune, on the other hand, sees nothing in this to indicate that France intends to recognize Manchukuo, for, it reasons, that would mean breaking with the league, and France is in no position to do that.

Scram Takes It on the Lam

(From The New York Herald-Tribune)
The underworld jargon which has become the common parlance of detective fiction and the forces of law and order is going to be banished from the New York police department's vocabulary. So decrees Commissioner Bolan, and Dr. Frederick B. Robinson, president of City College, has undertaken to furnish teachers for a course in correct English to be given at the Police Academy. So far as the town's nineteen thousand officers are concerned, "mugged" will now be "photographed," and "scram" in the hortatory will "take it on the lam" in favor of "pray absent yourself." In a word (correctly pronounced), the king's good English will hereafter reign in the stead of a dialect as "salty" and colorful as ever was the jargon of Villon's partners in the "free feeds" of "The Great Testament."

Somehow, however, the project would have about it certain dubious qualities even if it were entirely practicable. It is all very well for the grammarians to ordain "complaint" for "sequel" and "narcotic" for "hop," but it is another thing to abolish a characteristic and even rusty lingo that has been evolved over generations in the adjacent worlds of crime and crime prevention. Just as, to quote non-criminal examples, "dornick" is a far more flavorsome word than "half a paving brick" and "herdic" better than any other description of an ancient horse cab, so "dip" will probably still be a pickpocket and "mouthpiece" a lawyer despite Dr. Robinson's best efforts. These things have a way of staying on, and, after all, why shouldn't they?

GOOD MORNING

Scarcely three months have passed since the London economic conference, heralded with loud trumpeting as the prelude to a belated millennium, curled up and died. It is interesting, in view of current happenings, to review the reasons for its decease.

It will be remembered that the conference got into shoal water almost immediately after it convened when the American and French delegations could not reach an agreement on currency. France, having hoarded gold with almost fanatical zeal for more than a generation, insisted that international recovery depended primarily upon stabilization of currencies and the maintenance of the gold standard. The United States, having just embarked upon a new policy of price raising, was unwilling to subordinate its internal program when the inevitable result would be lower prices and stiffened credit.

It will be remembered also that England played a more or less neutral game, although she leaned a trifle toward the American attitude, and that Holland, Switzerland, and certain other strong gold countries stood by France.

This controversy killed the conference. At that time there were a few persons who contended that such arguments over the internal currency policies of nations had no rightful place in the deliberations of the conference. Among these were President Roosevelt and Secretary of State Cordell Hull. Almost without exception, journalists and diplomats hooded and jeered at the notion, insisting that the first and most important matter to be decided was that of currency stabilization.

Some attempted to point out that these gags couldn't see the pasture for the barn, and that if they would step back where the view was clearer they would be able to see an open field ahead. But they liked the barn.

Early yesterday morning the government of Premier Daladier fell by a vote of 329 to 241. It was overturned, let it be noted, in the face of his warning that unless the budget were balanced inflation would be inevitable "within five or six weeks."

Of course one is mindful of the fact that Daladier's downfall was not the result of a direct vote on inflation; it came because of his proposal to slash the salaries of government functionaries in order to balance the budget and avert inflation.

Yet when one recalls the wild applause with which the chamber of deputies and the populace of France greeted M. Daladier's flaming denunciations of inflation while the London conference was in progress such a short time ago, the apparent indifference with which his warning was received yesterday is amusing and somewhat ironic.

The currency tables, in fact, seem to be turning slowly but surely. France, after a long and valiant attempt to maintain the status quo at all costs, seems at last ready to bow to the inevitable and acknowledge that the gold standard is not an immutable natural law. And the United States, feared by France and the other gold nations at the conference as a reckless disciple of rampant dollars, is embarking upon a new program of real monetary stability.

In spite of the adage about spilled milk, one wonders what might have been accomplished at London had the fog of currency been lifted.

Book Bits

(From Youth and the Bright Medusa, by Wills Cather)
... I saw again the tall, naked house on the prairie, black and grim as a wooden fortress; the black pond where I had learned to swim, its margin pitted with sun-dried cattle tracks; the rain gullied clay banks about the naked house, the four dwarf ash seedlings where the dish-cloths were always hung to dry before the kitchen door. The world there was the flat world of the ancients; to the east, a cornfield that stretched to daybreak; to the west, a corral that reached to sunset; between, the conquests of peace, dearer-bought than those of war.

STRANGE AS IT SEEMS—By John Hix

For further proof address the author, inclosing a stamped envelope for reply. Reg. U. S. Pat. Off.

Margaret, the "mother of criminals," was one of two sisters who married the two sons of one "Max Jukes," a backwoodsman descendant of an early Dutch settler in New York state. The descendants of this union, it was revealed after a study of the family, were a strange assortment of criminals, delinquents and paupers. Of 1200 descendants known, the lives of 709 had been investigated. Of this 709 there were 280 who received public support at some time, 140 criminals who served a total of 140 years in jail and prison. Most of the entire family showed a high percentage of mental and moral delinquency, and cost the state in 75 years about $1,308,000. Although the family is an actual case, the name "Jukes" is a false one, chosen to protect the worthy members of the family when the report of the study was made public by the Prison Association of New York.

SCREEN COMMENT

Among the cinema stars with a sense of humor is Marion Davies. Someone heard that they were trying to get Baby Le Roy to play in "Going Hollywood" and asked Marion about it. The star smiled, replied: "Yes, but she sent the script back; said there wasn't enough dialogue in it."

Occasionally success doesn't make them forget. That's why I want to tell you about Sunny Boyne. Until 12 years ago, vaudeville lovers laughed at the antics of Clarke Gable yesterday. The studio isn't sure there won't be added scenes for "Dancing Lady," so they can't let him get away but for five days. With no time for his Wyoming bear hunt, Clark has changed his plans and will fly to Arizona to bag a deer. With him will go Baron Max von Romberg, Santa Barbara socialite and sportsman.

Wheeler and they became highly successful. Then, the other day, Woolsey discovered that his old partner was in Hollywood, her health regained, starting all over again by the toughest route of all—battling the extra ranks. Bob got busy. He took Sunny out to R-K-O and told them how good she was. She had the thrill of getting a part in the comedy, "Hip, Hips Hooray."

Disappointment was in store for Clarke Gable yesterday. The studio isn't sure there won't be added scenes for "Dancing Lady," so they can't let him get away but for five days. With no time for his Wyoming bear hunt, Clark has changed his plans and will fly to Arizona to bag a deer. With him will go Baron Max von Romberg, Santa Barbara socialite and sportsman.

Director W. S. Van Dyke is getting many an amused glance at M.G.M. Word has just arrived that Dorothy Kamesuk, "Garbo of the Arctic," whom Van directed in "Es-kimo," has named her new baby Van Dyke Kamesuk. The youngster was born in Seattle recently when the Eskimo mother and her husband stopped off for a day and a half on the way back to their northern home in Prince of Wales Island.

S.U.I. Trains Relief Agents

Institute Will Attempt to Prepare Iowa Workers

The intensive training course for social workers of Iowa which will be given here Friday and Saturday as a feature of the institute on relief administration, is a part of the university's program of cooperation with the Iowa emergency relief committee.

Under the joint auspices of the extension division and the division of social administration, the institute comes as an outgrowth of Gov. Clyde L. Herring's desire to have the winter's relief work in the hands of trained agents.

Relief work in 85 counties throughout the state is under the direction of the state committee. Graduates of the university and other trained workers are in charge of the activity in some of these counties, but many others are in the hands of relatively inexperienced persons, according to Emil Sunley, head of the division. It is largely for the benefit of the latter group that the institute has been planned.

Prof. Ina T. Tyler of the extension division is at present on leave from her duties here, and has been appointed by Governor Herring as director of relief in Iowa. Other members of the social administration staff of the university have also been active in the state relief work, and have arranged for the institute here.

Administrators of relief from many sections of the United States will attend the institute and appear on the program as speakers. Sessions will be held in Old Capitol.

Philo Heads Discuss Program for Year

Executives of the Philo club held a meeting in the school of religion offices, and the program for the year was discussed. This will again consist of open forums, study circles, social functions, and a sacred concert to be given early in December. Last year this concert was broadcast over station WSUL.

The Philo club officers are: Samuel Bernson, M3 of Waterloo, president; Charles Farber, M2 of Davenport, vice president; Betty Rapoport, A1 of Cedar Rapids, secretary; Sylvia Koff, A3 of Marshalltown, chairman of committees.

Truly Philosophy, Mainly Psychology; Whose Club Is It?

In its thirty-seventh year on the Iowa campus, the University of Iowa Philosophy club is facing the paradox in which the majority of its members are psychologists.

The reason is simple, according to Prof. Herbert Feigl, newly elected president. "It is the tradition of the club to treat subjects dealing mainly with psychology, rather than philosophy."

The club was organized in the university in 1896 bearing the title "philosophy." That was during the period when psychology and physics were still considered part of the philosophical field.

As science and psychology progressed through the years, there developed between these fields and philosophy a certain antagonism; philosophy came to be somewhat in disrepute among scientists.

This, Professor Feigl believes, was to a large extent the fault of the philosophers who made speculations independent of scientific facts. At present the fields of psychology, science, and philosophy are beginning to appreciate the desirability of fruitful cooperation.

If there is to be any such cooperation, philosophers must no longer seek "short-cuts" to truth, but must base their analyses on the discoveries and concepts of science, and scientists must realize that their own assumptions and methods need philosophical clarification and analysis.

The line-up of writers for the first issue of the Journal of Business is very imposing. The issue, to be out early next week, will contain at least five articles by men of national note in various fields of government and business.

Ralph Hitz, president of the Hotel New Yorker, will contribute an article on "Hotel Operation." That Hitz is well qualified to speak on this subject is attested by the fact that the New Yorker is said to be one of the few metropolitan hotels which have shown a profit in these trying times—according to Elmer G. Davis, business manager of the new Journal.

Departing from discussions of architecture, lighting, and color, Robert Randolph, an official of the Century of Progress exposition, will tell of "Business prospects of the Century of Progress." A discussion of advertising in industry, by D. W. Coutlee of Merck and company, is also included.

Harold Ickes, secretary of the interior, will explain the workings of the federal public works program. Another government project holding nationwide attention will be discussed by General Hugh Johnson, in "A message of the NRA at Washington, D. C." Editor of the Journal for this year is Louis J. Melleck, C4 of Sioux City.

Barnes Tells of Milk Supply in Iowa Public Health Bulletin

Dr. M. E. Barnes, professor of hygiene, preventative medicine and bacteriology in the college of medicine, is the author of an article, "The public milk supply and the public health," which makes up the third quarterly issue of the Iowa Public Health Bulletin. Copies of the publication were received here yesterday.

An historical study of the use of milk for human consumption is made by Dr. Barnes, who finds that milk was used as a human food about 4,000 B. C., near Ur of the Chaldees. Milk, in ancient times, was used in the raw state only by Anglo-Saxon people, the other users making butter by churning or a preparation known as "Ghee" by boiling the cream.

From this early beginning, the use of milk has grown until in recent years approximately 11 billion gallons are consumed annually in the United States.

Dr. Barnes' study deals to a great extent with the milk supply in regard to public health and with the means taken to procure the highest degree of purity and sanitation in the retailing process.

Among the facts brought out by Dr. Barnes is the result of a survey made in Iowa last year in which the extent to which milk is pasteurized is brought out. Investigators found that pasteurized milk was available in two towns of slightly less than 2,000 population; in 50 of the 84 cities of the state with populations of 2,000 to 10,000; and in 21 of the 23 cities with a population in excess of 10,000. The total number of pasteurizing plants was 163, and these supplied milk for approximately one-fourth of the population of the state.

In summing up the article, Dr. Barnes states, "Although an adapted food, cow's milk is the most valuable single article of diet available to man, provided it is free from contaminating organisms. . . . To guard against these dangers is a responsibility shared alike by those engaged in the milk industry and local boards of health. . . . Those engaged in the milk industry may be considered to be rendering a public service which, in its direct benefits, surpasses those of any other industry or group of industries."

Health Department Examines Thousands, Inspects Foods

Monthly reports of the university department of health for August and September, released yesterday, indicate that three divisions of the department made several thousand tests and examinations during this period, and that there were only two students involved in the communicable disease division.

The inspection division, which supervises water supplies, swimming pools, milk supplies, and sanitary conditions in university buildings, dormitories, and eating places, examined 922 samples and establishments during August, and 578 in September. Water examinations made up the greatest number of tests for both months, with milk examinations ranking second in number.

Water, Milk

During the two months period, 859 samples of water and 245 samples of milk underwent inspection.

Inspections of buildings, sanitary equipment, food handling establishments, dairies and milk plants, food storage, and refuse and garbage disposal totaled 247 for July and August, and in August three nuisances were investigated. Those in charge of the division also made 39 miscellaneous inspections during these two months. The cumulative total of investigations since July 1, 1933, number 2,339 cases.

Student Health

Student health and out-patient division reports that consultations, room calls, and health examinations totaled 671 for August, 1,278 for September, and the total for the year, 662 up to and including September 2. Health examinations constitute the majority of the total figure. This is accounted for by the required examination of all new university students.

In the communicable disease division, four cases, two student cases of encephalitis, and one each of scarlet fever and typhoid, were investigated during September. One case of diarrhoea, one diphtheria carrier, and three cases of poliomyelitis were reported by the division for the preceding month.

5,011 Inspections

Summarizing the report, the department of health has made a total of 5,011 inspections and examinations up to Oct. 1 this year, in carrying out the aims of the division to control the students' environments from a hygienic standpoint, to teach the principles of healthful living, and to provide suitable care for students who are in need of medical attention.

quote a paragraph from his letter:

"My wife called my attention to something floating high above the Iowa goal posts. It was hard for us to believe our eyes but there about 200 or 300 feet above the goal soared a hawk. We thought at first that someone had cleverly managed to fly a kite to that pertinent position. The bird was a large gray one with a wing spread of about two and a half feet. When it moved its wings we knew it wasn't just a kite, but a real hawk—flying above the Iowa goal at a critical time. It flapped its wings as it faced the breeze and kept directly aloft for perhaps two minutes, then banked and soared away just over the flags on the eastern wall."

New Organization Will Have First Meeting Nov. 4

The first general meeting of the University of Iowa Alumni Reserve Officers' league will open with a luncheon at Iowa Union Nov. 4.

The league is a new organization for all active commissioned graduates of the Iowa R.O.T.C. It has been formed under the direction of Lieut. Col. Converse R. Lewis, head of the military department.

The primary purposes of the league are: to maintain 100 per cent of the commissioned graduates of the Iowa R.O.T.C. on the active list of the Officers' Reserve corps, to unite its members as officers and alumni of Iowa, and to promote the cause of national defense.

A copy of the code of regulations of the league and a letter urging all commissioned graduates to attend the luncheon on Dad's day has been sent to the graduates. Following the luncheon officers for the year will be elected.

Nolf Will Speak to Zoology Seminar

L. O. Nolf of the zoology department will speak to the zoological seminar on "Cross infection experiments with certain Termitoda larva," at 4 p.m. Friday in room 307 zoology laboratories.

Mr. Nolf received his Sc.D. degree at Johns Hopkins university in 1931 and is now an associate here.

This lecture is the third in a series given for the purpose of acquainting faculty members with research work being done at this university.

Graduate Engineers Obtain Appointments in Two Companies

Two recent graduates of the college of engineering have accepted positions in the last week according to an announcement made yesterday by Prof. H. O. Croft, head of the mechanical engineering department.

Donald E. Farr of Waucoma, M. E. '32, is one of a small group chosen by the Westinghouse Electrical Manufacturing company for special training in the field of works management.

Curtis M. Shew, M.E. '33, will tour the south as representative of a firm specializing in the teaching of elementary commercial courses by correspondence. He will work under the direction of Herbert Bruns, M.E., Iowa, '31.

Tau Beta Pi Will Initiate Seven Today

Active members of Tau Beta Pi, honorary engineering fraternity, will initiate seven pledges and honor them with an annual fall banquet at 5 o'clock this afternoon. Instructors in the college of engineering who are members of the organization will also attend the meeting.

After the initiation, which will be held in the auditorium of electrical engineering building, the banquet will be served in the private dining room of Iowa Union.

Prof. Christian A. Ruckmick of the psychology department will be the principal speaker on the after dinner program. He has chosen for his subject, "Empathy."

Short talks will be given by Martin L. Bardill, E4 of Dubuque, who will represent the initiates, and Kenneth E. Ristau, E4 of Davenport, who will speak in behalf of active members.

Mr. Ristau is chairman of the committee in charge of initiation and general arrangements. He is being assisted by Nathan Harold Kaiman, E4 of Glenwood, and Earl R. Ewald, E4 of Sigourney.

Graduate of S.U.I. is Chosen Editor of Fraternity Magazine

Albert S. Abel, graduate of the university, was chosen editor-in-chief of "The Rescript," magazine of the law fraternity Gamma Eta Gamma, at a convention held in Chicago last month.

Mr. Abel received his B.A. degree in 1927 and the J.D. degree in 1930. While in school, he was on the editorial staffs of The Daily Iowan, the 1929 Hawkeye, and the Iowa Law Review, and a member of Gamma Eta Gamma, Phi Delta Gamma, Order of the Coif, Zetaphian Literary society, Men's Forensic council, the winning university debate teams in 1926 and 1927, and the Supreme Court day argument team in 1930.

Seel Hurts Ankle in Practice; Solem May Suspend Scrimmage

Huge Guard Expected to Return Soon

Hoover Tosses Ball in Long Passing Session

Bill Seel, Cedar Rapids sophomore, was carried from the field yesterday with an ankle injury that was thought to be a bad sprain or a possible fracture, but which x-rays disclosed to be nothing more severe than a bad bruise.

The injury to the huge guard, another in the long series that has made its appearance in the Hawkeye grid camp, may cause Coach Ossie Solem to suspend further scrimmage sessions. Solem was thinking seriously last night of abandoning them.

The injury will not keep the 200-pound guard from practice according to Dr. Arthur Fourn, medical adviser, who said that Seel would probably return to practice tonight.

After Seel left the field, Solem spent the rest of the session working Lloyd Hoffman, huge tackle, into the guard post. Hoffman was a regular tackle at the start of the season but an injury in the Northwestern game put him on the sidelines where he has remained. In all probability he will give way to Seel when the latter returns.

With scrimmage suspended, Solem sent the regulars through a long passing drill with Dwight Hoover doing most of the throwing.

It is with little actual relish that Solem can look forward to his return to his own school, at least on the basis of past records. Not since 1921 has an Iowa team defeated the Gophers at Minnesota. That year Aubrey Devine and his championship eleven wrecked the homecoming hopes of the Swedes, 41 to 7.

This gives Iowa another chance to set some kind of a record, such as they did against Wisconsin. They can snap this losing streak and still remain undefeated by spilling Minnesota.

Since 1923 Iowa has lost by the following scores: 20 to 7 in 1923; 23 to 0 in 1925; 28 to 0 in 1927 and 24 to 0 in 1931. The only consolation has been in winning three out of five on the home field during that time.

The war-cry at Minneapolis rings out "Shock Iowa." And a powerful though twice-tied Gopher eleven is set to do just that. Alert, smart, fast and deceptive, the Minnesota team little resembles the former bone-crushers which have represented the school. Six sophomores of more than usual ability mix up in the Swede lineup to give it a great defense and a slowly increasing strength on offense.

Pur Lund needs no introduction on any football field but two of his sophomore mates are doing plenty of damage. Julius Alphonse and Sheldon Belse, halfback and fullback, will make it tough for the Iowa line.

In the line the most interesting duel will be between the rival captains and centers, Roy Oen of Minnesota and Tom Moore of Iowa.

Irish Meet Kalona Here

Will Be Only Home Contest for Green

Those who had a hand in the drawing up of the St. Pat's football schedule neglected to provide a homecoming game for the Irish. However, Friday's tilt with Kalona should fill the need as satisfactorily as could be desired, for when the Shamrocks romp out on Iowa field on that date, it will mark the first and only time this season that the Irish will perform in the capacity of the home team.

It is true that in facing University high, the Green gridders played before a home crowd, but in that instance the former school was the agency through which the contest was staged. It hasn't been especially pleasant for the downtrodden St. Pat's team to perform without the encouragement of home town rooters, and it is for this reason that the team views the oncoming affair with the Kalona eleven with something akin to optimism.

That a change in the luck of the Shamrocks is due, is felt by the entire squad, and with the added incentive of playing before a home crowd to spur them on, they are determined not to pass up this opportunity to turn in a win as they have in all their other contests to date.

In the absence of Faher Ryan, the team was put through their customary paces under the supervision of Denny Emanuel, the Irish captain. New plays for the Kalona contest will be given the squad in this afternoon's session when Coach Ryan again takes charge of the Green.

City Hi Plans for Homecoming With Dubuque; U. Hi at Mt. Vernon

In the PRESS BOX with H. G. B.

ALTHOUGH Dr. Arthur Fourn feels that Bill Seel, 200 pound sophomore guard, will be back in the lineup tonight, there is little doubt that he will be severely handicapped by the injury to his ankle. Not in many years has Iowa been afflicted with so many football injuries. Broken ankles, chipped ankle bones, broken ribs, and sprained ankles have been flying around as free and easy as anything. Looks like Iowa is going to have to buck everything a team could imagine. So far the opposing teams haven't thrown the Hawks for the losses injuries have.

Looking around at freak schedules we find the St. Pat's team and the Fordham Ram holding almost opposite ends of the situation. Fordham plays eight games and does not leave the home campus for a single one of them. Makes it tough on the boys who like to travel but it is a big help when it comes to winning games.

MOVING home we find that St. Pat's plays but one of its games at home and that is on old Iowa field. The local school is one of the few participating in the game without the advantage of a home field. It is a credit to the players that they will endure such hardships just for the sake of playing the game. Must be that old Fightin' Irish!

On our desk just now is a letter from a graduate of eight years ago which voices the new spirit the entire state holds. The letter reads: "Just a line to let you know that no one was afraid of the Big Bad Badger and who is afraid of the Go-Go-Gopher?" The writer is right. No need to be afraid of Minnesota BUT, there is plenty of reason to respect the power of the Thundering Herd. Every bit as big as Iowa, every bit as fast, and every bit as tough, the Swedes intend to stop the sensational rise of the Hawks.

SELLING like hotcakes, the first supply of tickets to the Minnesota-Iowa game was exhausted and a good start made on a second block of 1,000. More than 1,500 had been sold yesterday noon. At this rate, Charles Gallher, athletic business manager, said that there would probably be around 3,500 Iowans attending the game. A year ago only about three times that many cared to see the Gopher and Hawk mix on Iowa's own turf. Indeed a revival in football interest.

There will be a special train from Cedar Rapids Friday morning which will carry the team and hundreds of fans. For the most part cars will carry the Hawk-eyes to the game. Several new names have been turned in to the travel bureau mostly seeking passengers. Still a bit of misunderstanding, however. The bureau does not intend to do more than make it possible for the rider-seeker and the car owner to get together. It will be impossible to advertise the prices or to give personal service.

THERE will be another large crowd here the week end of Nov. 4 when Iowa State and Iowa resume football relations. At present the indications are such that a total of 30,000 or better is expected. With the 49,000 that saw the Bradley and Wisconsin games added to this total, one of the most successful seasons, financially, for many years is certain. Add 50,000 to 60,000 for the basketball season and the bank roll should present a little less limp appearance next year.

Here's what happens to football players when they can no longer play. Harold Templeton, a leading end candidate at Iowa State this fall until he aggravated a leg injury, has turned cheer leader at State. He's one leader who should know how much pep is needed to help the team. What's more, though, he'll know when not to lead yells, which is even more important. Too often, an excited yell leader will call for a cheer just at the time when quiet is most desired.

EACH Iowa conference school should get a crack at Western Union this season and help set a new record for total scoring. The last two games found the Telegraphers on the short ends of scores that totaled about 120 points. A week ago Morningside's leading halfback, Glenn Littrell, led the conference in scoring with 30 points he scored against Union. Then last Saturday Michalski, Upper Iowa fullback, took

Pep Meeting, Parade Will Lend Color

Little Hawks Work Hard for Conference Contest

By KERMIT BUNTROCK

It's homecoming for Iowa City high Friday and plans are being made accordingly. Coaches, students and alumni are joining in the effort to bring spirit to a high pitch and assure success for the event.

A mammoth pep meeting will be held at the high school, beginning at 3:38, and immediately following this, the students will parade through the downtown districts to generate interest in the game.

Yells, songs and pep talks will feature the meeting at the school. The Boosters club, an organization formed to further City high activities, has made plans to secure representative speakers. One of the speakers will be from the athletic department of the University of Iowa, one will represent the Boosters club, and another will represent the alumni.

A 16 page program, containing more than a dozen cuts of coaches, squad members and individual luminaries will be published in time for distribution shortly before the pep meeting. Interesting data on the team and other City high groups will also be included in the booklet.

Badges, symbolic of homecoming spirit, will go on general sale tomorrow morning, according to present plans. Their sale will be under the direction of the Red and White staff.

Parade plans are under the supervision of Vern Miller. J. H. Steinmetz, and H. I. Jennings represent the Boosters club in charge of the general program.

Keeping pace with the extensive preparations that are being made, Coach George Wells last night sent his men through another spirited workout in preparation for the big game with Dubuque, the central event of the homecoming celebration.

For the second successive night, the regulars showed unusual snap and aggressiveness. George Eakes, again stood out in the long scrimmage session that was given the squad. Eakes, only a freshman, has been improving rapidly and his plunging is expected to play a big part in City high's offensive against the powerful Dubuque team.

The regulars took a look at Dubuque formations as performed by a reserve eleven. The reserves, using the typical Dubuque reverses and multiple passes, fooled the regulars for a time.

Coach Wells continued to keep Fred Ballard, regular fullback, at the end position to which he was shifted yesterday. The Little Hawk mentor made this move in the hope of stopping the end runs of Theatrice Gibbs, star Negro Dubuque halfback. Ballard is big, and a good tackler.

Plan English Air Derby for Prizes Totaling $75,000

LONDON, (AP)—A purse of approximately $75,000 will be at stake in a London-to-Melbourne air race which will be open to flyers of all nations and will be held next year.

The race will be staged in connection with the 1934 celebrations of the centenary of the state of Victoria and the city of Melbourne.

It will be divided into two parts, a speed race and a handicap contest. A flyer may compete in both races in the same flight.

Competitors in the speed race will be required to land at Baghdad, Calcutta, Singapore, Darwin and Charleville, while the contestants in the handicap race, besides being required to land at these points will be allowed to stop at authorized checking points at intervals of 500 miles.

Bruises Have Ames Coach Badly Worried

AMES, Oct. 24—Pondering a lack of good reserves with whom to replace first string men bruised in the Nebraska and Oklahoma games, Coach George F. Veenker opened the week's practice yesterday with callisthenics and other limbering up drills. He said he would work his men easily this week in order to get as many injured players as possible back into the lineup for the Homecoming game with Missouri, Saturday.

The Oklahoma battering added Donald Theophilus of Smithland and Magnus Lichter of Algona to the injured list. Theophilus, fullback, hurt his leg just above the ankle and Lichter, center, bruised his shoulder. It is doubtful that either will get into the game with Missouri.

Paul Berger of Manchester, Mo., suffered a cracked rib, but will be in condition to start against the Tigers. Marlowe Williams of Des Moines and Wilbur Winter of Alden, who saw no service in the Sooner scrap because of

Hawk Boxing Coach Thinks Title Deserved by Carnera; Sharkey Only Paper Champ

By BOB RUSH (As Told to Leo Durian)

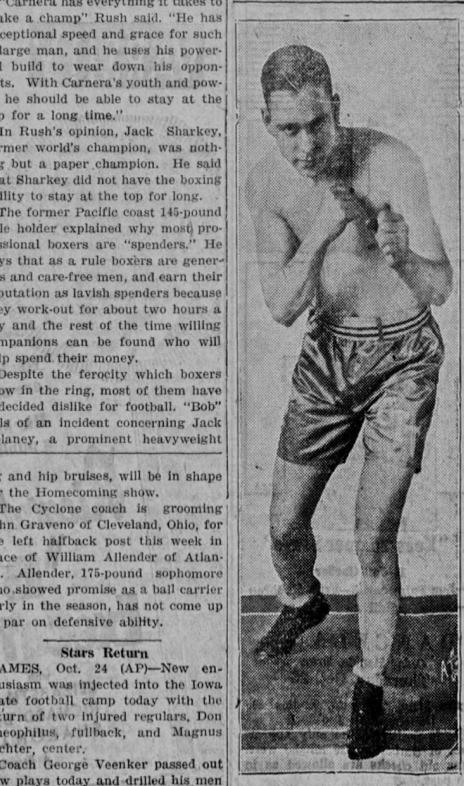

Despite the fact that he won the world's heavyweight championship under questionable circumstances, Primo Carnera is deserving of the title, in the opinion of Bob Rush, new university boxing coach.

"Carnera has everything it takes to make a champ," Rush said. "He has exceptional speed and grace for such a large man, and he uses his powerful build to wear down his opponents. With Carnera's youth and power he should be able to stay at the top for a long time."

In Rush's opinion, Jack Sharkey, former world's champion, was nothing but a paper champion. He said that Sharkey did not have the boxing ability to stay at the top for long.

The former Pacific coast 145-pound title holder explained why most professional boxers are "spenders." He says that as a rule boxers are generous and care-free men, and earn their reputation as lavish spenders because they work-out for about two hours a day and the rest of the time willing companions can be found who will help spend their money.

Despite the ferocity which boxers show in the ring, most of them have a decided dislike for football. "Bob" tells of an incident concerning Jack Delaney, a prominent heavyweight

Meeting of 'P' Club Tonight at Union to Plan for Dad's Day

Members of Hawk "P" club, university letter winners organization, will meet tonight at 7:30 at Iowa Union, according to an announcement made by Dutch Schmidt, president.

Plans for Dad's day will be discussed and committees appointed to take care of all necessary work. All members are urged to be there promptly at 7:30.

Track Champs Decided Today

The track team took its final workout yesterday in preparation for the University championship meet to be held at 4:15 today and tomorrow in the old stadium.

These clear cold days may be ideal for football but they hold many hidden dangers for fine, high-tensioned muscles of a runner. If the cold and wind persist throughout the meet it will probably slow up some of the men's time. However judging from the performances turned this fall there should be several University freshman records broken.

Green jerseys will be given to the winners.

Schedule:

Today

4:15-60 yard high hurdles, shot put, pole vault.

4:20-100 yard dash.

4:25-880 yard run.

4:25-300 yard dash, running broad jump.

Thursday

4:15-110 yard hurdles.

4:15-220 yard dash.

4:25-1 mile run.

Light Drill Meted Out to Blue Eleven

Play Against Monticello Ragged and Far Below Par

Although Coach Joy Kistler thinks his University high football team needs a little pepping up, especially as to line play, last night's practice found only a fairly light scrimmage in store for the river school athletes.

University high turned in a none too impressive performance last Friday against Monticello, gaining a scoreless tie in their homecoming feature contest. Loose ball handling and below par line play stopped the river school boys from showing their best.

But besides handing out line drill, curtailed because of cold weather, the Blue and White mentor handed several new plays to his charges with instructions to get at them immediately.

The second practice of the week found few injuries. Bob Schmoebelen's injured back seems to be shaping up all right. Mike Mentzer still is bothered by a side injury but, by keeping it well taped he is able to participate in workouts.

This Friday University high journeyed to Mt. Vernon for the third loop contest, hoping for a victory to help the Blue on its way to conference honors.

Improvement Medal Given to Freshman

Raymond Pratt, freshman cross country runner from Correctionville, was voted the winner of the first medal awarded by the athletic department for the greatest improvement since the opening of the season. Although not the speediest man on the freshman squad, varsity hurriers voted his improvement creditable to any cross country team.

The squad concluded time trials yesterday by turning in one of the fastest three miles during the last two seasons. Dave Flase, winner by 59 yards over John Sitko, freshman, turned in a time of 16:25, faster time than he negotiated the distance in the meet Saturday with Wisconsin.

Coach George Bresnahan plans to take a large squad to the meet Friday with Carleton. Although Carleton was defeated Friday in a race against Drake, they are reported to have a strong squad. Moreau, one of the best runners in the Midwest conference, placed second behind John Tompison of Drake. Iowa was defeated two weeks ago by Drake by the same score Drake defeated Carleton, 18 to 37.

RETURN TO WORK
COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 24 (AP)

—Ohio State's Big Ten grid squad resumed practice today after a day off to recuperate from Saturday's defeat at the hands of Michigan. Coach Sam Willaman lined up the same team that started against the Wolverines but indicated several changes are planned. The workout was brief with a kicking drill preceding a scrimmage between the freshmen and the varsity.

RESERVES WORK
MINNEAPOLIS, Oct. 24 (AP)—Coach Bernie Bierman turned his attention to reserves today, scrimmaging them against freshmen while an assistant handled the first string.

The latter, in dummy scrimmage, spent some time on plays formed for Julius Altfome, sophomore half, who shined against Purdue and Pittsburgh. George Rennie, regular right half of a few weeks ago, who was lost because of a fractured fibula, entered the scrimmage but jumped out after three plays with the same leg bruised.

Fair Fans Admitted Free
PORTLAND, Ore., (AP)—Women football devotees got a break when Oregon State and Gonzaga performed in the local stadium. They were admitted free, excepting a federal tax.

Name Days for Bird Shooting

Six Half Days Next Month Set Aside for Pheasants

DES MOINES, Oct. 24 (AP)—Iowa's pheasant hunting season this year will consist of six half days of shooting on Nov. 10, 11, 17, 18, 24, and 25, the Iowa fish and game commission decreed today.

The hunters will be allowed to shoot male birds only, the hunting territory including practically the same counties opened for shooting during 1932. The hunting day will be from noon until sundown.

The six day schedule holds good where hunting will be limited to birds. I. T. Bode, state game warden, is expected to announce the counties under the four day restriction soon.

Final decisions on the pheasant season were made by the fish and game commission during a lengthy session Tuesday afternoon during which the commission made a last minute switch in the tentative schedule previously announced.

Ex-Simpson Football Star Makes Good

Elvin Richards Coming Along as Pro Gridder

By EDWARD J. NEIL
(Associated Press Sports Writer)
NEW YORK, Oct. 24 (AP)—During the last summer, when the sun was hot and the beaches crowded, Steve Owen, coach of the New York Giants professional football team, got a letter, post marked "Garden Grove, Ia." From probably the only other fellow in the country who was also thinking about football.

"I think I could be a pretty good back," the letter said. "... weight 190 ... Simpson college last three years ... led Iowa conference in scoring two years ... I'll pay my own expenses cast for a tryout ... name is Elvin Richards."

"Come on Along"
Steve comes from out that way and he has been football giant blooming unnoticed in many a small college way station, far from the beaten track of the all-American selectors, but none the less might for that. He wrote back briefly, "Come on along."

So Elvin "Kink" Richards, a stocky, quiet, drawly kind of a boy from Iowa, came along east and has been coming hard and fast ever since. Last Sunday, when the Giants beat the Brooklyn Dodgers, "Kink" came along from his own goal line to the 30 with a kickoff, then mandered the remaining 70 to the opposite goal line on the next play. He has already been reimbursed for his expenses east.

"Bigger Thrill"
"Kink" talked about it today, in a sort of tooth pulling way because he naturally has little to say and in addition he's still a bit awed by it all. He's only 22.

"I get a bigger thrill out of pro football than I did in college. It's a grown up thrill. The crowds are bigger, and this is New York."

"It's harder than college football, and yet it's easier too, in a way," he went on. "You have to run harder because you don't need to save yourself. There are plenty more on the bench just as good. It's easier because every man playing with you is a star, or he wouldn't be there. When you get into the clear you know they're down the field mopping up. They don't miss."

Rates King Best
It doesn't seem strange to "Kink," who taught last year in a high school in Stuart, Ia., and played semi-pro football on the side, that the unknowns from the small schools provide the backbone of the professional game.

"The best football player I ever saw was Lynn King, Drake quarterback in 1929," he said. "He could do anything with a football, though he only weighed 155 pounds. But you heard of him in the east. The biggest thrill I ever got from a game he gave me watching him run 30 yards in the last couple of minutes of play to beat Iowa State 21 to 20. They kept hitting him, but he kept going."

Skill Studying
Richards plans to study physical education here while playing football so that in three years time he'll be able to go back home to an important post. In the meantime he's seeing all the eastern colleges and college football he can. Princeton and Columbia did not impress him last Saturday.

"That little Garry Levan can sure take it," he said. "But I'd heard so much about Cliff Montgomery, maybe I expected too much. Columbia didn't block well, tackled sloppily. I was disappointed." He grinned to himself then. "Maybe," he said, "I'm getting spoiled a little."

'Tis a Shame! Penalized Player Too Sad to Play!

RIO DE JANEIRO, (AP)—Soccer is the national sport in these parts and, like baseball in the United States, has its occasional fisticuffs and not occasional arguments.

But just imagine Babe Ruth declaring he was "too sad" over a called strike.

Sadness, said Player Lino, one of the stars of Rio's professional Vasco da Gama soccer team, was one of the reasons for the eleven's defeat by Palestra of Sao Paulo in a contest in which a penalty against Lino figured prominently.

"I told the referee," Lino asserted, "that upon my word of honor I had committed no foul, and I swore by all that is sacred to me; the referee, in the face of all that, only shrugged his shoulders. You can't imagine how sad I was."

Fight Fans Getting Wary
NEW YORK, (AP)—Madison Square Garden hit an all-time low in advance sale for a boxing match when only $200 was in the till a few hours before the opening program of the winter season, starring the Leaveweights, McCorkindale and Peerrone.

Michalski Leads Conference Scorers After Three Games

Littrell of Morningside, Ranks Second to Peacock

DES MOINES, Oct. 25 (AP)—Upper Iowa's high stepping Peacocks seem to have a stranglehold on all the honors being passed out in the Iowa conference.

Michalski, plunging fullback for the Payette school, grabbed off the leadership in the Iowa conference individual scoring race and was a big factor in shoving Upper Iowa to the top of the circuit standings by defeating Western Union 46 to 6 last week.

Michalski led the assault with three touchdowns. In his other two conference appearances this year, he scored two touchdowns each against Buena Vista and Penn, giving him a total of 42 points.

His seven touchdowns top in field in the matter of scoring by this route. His team mate, Sungalla, quarterback, heads the field in scoring points after touchdowns with five to his credit.

Closest rival to the high scoring Michalski is Glenn Littrell of Morningside, who also took advantage of Western Union opposition to score five touchdowns, giving him 30 points.

Augie Luther, midjet quarterback for Luther college, went on a scoring spree last Saturday to count three touchdowns and four points after touchdowns against Dubuque univer-

Gopher Coaches Ride Herd Over 197 Freshmen

MINNEAPOLIS, (AP)—George Tuttle, University of Minnesota freshman football coach, has a lot of "children," but not so many that he doesn't know what to do with them.

He has divided his 197 freshman football hopefuls into four approximately equal squads, each of which has its own coach. They will play a round robin series, each team scrimmaging against the varsity from the round robin will have as its reward a banquet with the table groaning under many dishes.

The squad emerging as champion only occasionally served:
1. No postponements permitted.
2. Games will consist of two 15 minute halves with a five minute rest period between.
3. All games must begin on time.
4. Officials must be obtained by the managers of the competing teams and must be agreed upon before the contest.

Schroeder also warns the managers of the fraternity teams that all entry blanks for the cross country run have been sent out and that they must be in by Oct. 30. The race is to be held Nov. 2.

CHICAGO (AP)—A 14 year old Negro boy ran amuck with a revolver this afternoon in a south side candy store, shot one man to death and wounded four others. All were Negroes. The boy escaped.

That's My Boy!

AUTHOR OF "HUDDLE"

SYNOPSIS
"Big Jeff" Randolph, now in his second year on the Thorndyke varsity and one of the nation's greatest football stars, has had a brilliant grid career ever since his high school days in little Athens, a mid-west factory town, where Mom and Pop and the rest of the family are now listening over the radio to the game between their boy's great eastern university and Indiana State. "Big Jeff" is just Tommy back home which he visits on vacations and starts with his social-sporting splendor. He's gone somewhat high-hat with the seal of Thorndyke upon him and has drifted away from Dorothy Whitney, daughter of the richest man in Athens—the owner of the glass-works in which his Pop labors. . . . Thorndyke is leading, 7-0, thanks to a touchdown pass by "Big Jeff," as the game goes into its latter half with Charlie Whitney, Athens' team captain, and Jerry Randall, in the haze through packing the Stadium.

CHAPTER TWENTY-ONE
The late afternoon chill was upon the crowd in the Stadium. Jerry Randall offered his flask to Dorothy; she declined; but Charlie Whitney accepted and then Jerry had his drink. He smiled at the girl: "You women amaze me. Look at Elaine Winthrop down there."

Dorothy nodded. She had been noting the young woman in the short leopard jacket; for reasons different than Jerry's.

"That little jacket—and her legs out like a couple of orphans. Freddy's sitting there wrapped up in a bearskin coat and pickled in gin but she hasn't had a drink yet." "Perhaps she doesn't like it," Dorothy said.

"Don't fool yourself. She's a deep well, that lady, and there's nothing she doesn't like." "Who is she?"

"Plenty. Back Bay, Park Avenue, plays around with art—the kind of social register which tinkles Broadway columns."

Jerry wasn't usually so informative but he had had many drinks to help him keep warm. Elaine Winthrop had come through for Dorothy's estimate. Those legs Jerry had noticed were twin bits of shapely slim bamboo; every touch of her revealed the artist.

"Come on, Jeff, do something," Jerry complained.

A note in his voice caught Dorothy's attention. It hadn't been an inspiring game; after the first sudden touchdown the Indiana team had changed its defensive tactics, switched them smartly according to Charlie Whitney—and Dorothy knew her father had a good knowledge of football. He answered now: "It's a tough game, Jerry. Those boys from home are getting better as they go—and I imagine they're giving Tom a good rough afternoon unless I'm mistaken."

"A hero is supposed to be heroic," Jerry maintained, "that's what he's here for."

Indiana had been stubborn, defensively, but inept on the offense. Now the Thorndyke line seemed to sag suddenly, to grow limp. Red jerseys began to pour through—and behind them came Carlton, the Hoosier fullback, bowling his way, head to his knees and the ball buried somewhere within the cavern of his short arms and belly.

They crossed midfield—a short pass made first down on the Thorndyke 37-yard line.

"Well! Charlie Whitney said. The stands were alive to the situation, sensing one of those sudden crackups of good teams. Indiana shouted for its men to come on for a tie and a moral victory; Thorndyke implored: "Hold that line! Hold that line! Take it away! Take it away! Stop Carlton! Stop Carlton!"

Cold shadows were upon the field but the men of Indiana hopped and charged into position with the fire of reprieve—the quick, buoyant spring of unexpected release. They were taking it. They encouraged each other. Carlton was surrounded by his happy teammates after each charge; and each time, after surrendering the ball to the referee, he jumped back to his position, his fist in the air, beating the air with staccato jerks.

"He's marvellous," Dorothy whispered.

Thorndyke dug in desperately each time the crimson wave hurled it back. Fresh men ran out from the Pilgrim bench, fresh men with clean uniforms, dancing step, fire and determination. They were met by Tom Randolph after they reported to the referee; he pushed them into position; pounded their backs; shouted at them.

Tom was backing up the line, roving from side to side, trying to diagnose the plays; he was in every play but the crimson march went on.

"What's the matter with him?" Jerry demanded. "Why don't he get in there?"

There was a touch of sharpness in Charlie Whitney's answer. "They're sending two men on Tom—riding him out of the play; they've been doing it all day; he's stopping most of them as it is—but he never gets a clean shot at

Sub-Machine Gun Bought by Supervisors

Sheriff to Get Gun That Shoots 600 Bullets Per Minute

A sub-machine gun, which will shoot 10 times a second, was purchased by the county board of supervisors yesterday for the county sheriff's office.

As gangsters, equipped with machine guns, are being ousted from the urban districts into the rural areas by clean-up campaigns, the board and sheriff thought it advisable to have protective equipment equal to that used by the modern criminal.

The gun is made by the Auto-ordnance corporation, a subsidiary of the Colt Arms factory at Hartford, Conn., and was sold to the county by the Hawkeye Protective Appliance company of Des Moines, which is associated with the Iowa State Sheriff's association. The guns are sold only to sub-divisions of the government upon approval of the U. S. department of justice and are not transferable.

Almost three-fourths of the counties in Iowa are equipped with machine guns now, as the fight between officers and the Barrow gang at Dexter this summer pointed out the need for modernizing the protective equipment of law enforcing bodies.

The gun uses standard .45 calibre automatic bullets and also shot cartridges which spread into a six foot circle at 25 yards. The bullets have effective penetration at 600 yards. Although the gun will shoot 600 bullets a minute, it is usually fired in bursts, shooting four or five bullets at a squeeze of the trigger. The gun can also be set to fire single shots.

Dollar Slump Affects Bonds

Trading Volume Grows Under Conflicting Market Trends

NEW YORK, Oct. 24 (AP)—Slumping international dollar rates brought a revival of inflationary psychology in the bond market today, and prices of prime investment and secondary issues generally moved in opposite directions.

Trading volume expanded under the conflicting trends and sales totaled $12,018,000, par value, against $9,039,000 yesterday. The average for the 60 domestic corporate loans advanced one-tenth of a point.

The sharp rally of European currencies gave some foreign bonds another substantial light.

The inflationary wave had a depressing effect on United States government securities with losses ranging from one-thirty-second to eight-thirty-seconds of a point.

Gainers
Gainers of 1 to 2 or more points in the lower-priced divisions included some issues of Allegheny corporation, American and Foreign Power, Baltimore and Ohio, Chesapeake Corp., St. Paul, Chicago and Northwestern, Rock Island, Chile Copper, Erie, LaCade Gas, Missouri Pacific, N. Y. Central, Nickel Plate, Portland General Electric, Southern Railway and U. S. Rubber.

Losers
Among losers of fractions to 2 or more were bonds of American Telephone, Santa Fe, Union Pacific, Central Pacific, Central of New Jersey, Great Northern, K. C. Terminal, Standard Oil of New Jersey, and Virginian Railway. Lehigh Valley Coal 5's of 1964 dropped 13 1-2 points on a single sale and Missouri-Kansas-Texas 4 1-2's, similarly, lost 8 1-2.

Late Buying Puts Stocks Up 6 Points

Forthcoming Control of Dollar Reflected by Markets

NEW YORK, Oct. 24 (AP)—Active buying in the last hour carried stocks up 1 to 6 points or more today after earlier hesitancy. With the dollar sharply depressed against foreign currencies and gold mining issues on the stock exchange consistently strong as traders expectantly awaited the price at which the government would make its first gold purchase under the new plan, sentiment again seemed to have veered toward inflationary possibilities in the forthcoming dollar control. Wheat was down 1 to 1 1-2 cents net after an erratic session, but stocks put on their best display after grain markets had closed. Cotton was up a dollar or more and the minor staples strengthened.

AS ROCKS FLEW IN SILK RIOT

Foreign Bonds
Foreign "gold country" bonds, especially those of France, had a boom, while our own federal issues eased. The French franc, notwithstanding the cabinet upset, made an extreme rise of around one-quarter cent and sterling rallied more than 16 cents. The dollar's gold value, as measured by the franc yardstick, slipped to the vicinity of 67 cents; its low, reached several weeks ago, was 63 1-2 cents.

"Gold Bloc"
The stock exchange's "gold bloc" responded to a lively speculative demand; so did the non-ferrous metals. Homestake forged ahead 26 points, American Smelting, McIntyre, and U. S. Smelting about 6, and Alaska Juneau, Cerro De Pasco, Dome and Kennecott roughly 2 to 4. Alcohols strengthened after early indisposition, and the tone of steels and other industrials improved markedly when the rally got under way. Utilities lagged, as they did during the inflation market of last summer, while rails, helped by a sprinkling of favorable September earnings figures, enjoyed considerable improvement.

Silk strikers and sympathizers are shown stoning police on guard at a silk dyeing plant in Paterson, N. J., a few moments before the police retaliated with bullets and tear gas. Three were shot and several injured with missiles. Below steel-helmeted police are shown bundling arrested rioters into the "Black Maria."

Congregationalists Thank Henry Fisk for Work on Church

The planning committee and members of the Congregational church expressed their appreciation to Henry Fisk for the work he has done as advisory architect in the remodeling of the church.

The finished work was viewed for the first time by the congregation Sunday morning.

The objective of Mr. Fisk's work was "to bring each detail of rehabilitation into harmony with the prevailing Gothic features of the original church."

Improvements have been made in lighting, heating, and ventilation. The congregation plans further improving of their church in the future.
