Governors' Conference Urges Pegging of Farm Prices at Fixed Level

Olson Leads Demands for Price Fixing

Sessions Will Continue Today as 20 More Give Views

DES MOINES, Oct. 30 (AP)—A demand for pegging of farm prices by the federal administration emerged tonight as the most supported plan for immediate relief of agriculture advanced at a 10-state conference of governors and farm organization representatives here.

Nearly a score of speakers addressed the governors today, but 20 more to be heard necessitated continuance of the conference at 9 a. m. tomorrow.

Olson Leads
Governor Olson of Minnesota led the demand for price fixing. The business of providing the nation's food supply should rank as a public utility, he asserted, and as such should be accorded advances of fixed rates or prices accorded to other utilities.

"I believe we can fix the price at a reasonable minimum, based on Department of agriculture index figures," Governor Olson said. "That will be a start. We can expand as we understand the technique of the price pegging program."

Surplus
As to agricultural surplus, Governor Olson said he did not "believe that there is one beyond the capacity of the United States to absorb. It's a matter of distribution."

The governor's price fixing suggestion, included allocation of the amount of produce the farmer can market.

Embargo Unpopular
Governor Langer of North Dakota won an ovation from the 300 farm representatives present with his demand for an embargo on all farm shipment until prices can be pegged at a desired level.

Herring Lauded
Asserting that there have been so many demands expressed that the real desire of the farmers has been confused, Olson continued that "it is to the great credit of Governor Herring of Iowa that he has called us together to find out and to hear everyone."

Governor Langer, likewise favoring price pegging, asserted that his embargo on wheat had "served notice to all the world that the state will not be drained of its resources."

Litvinoff Visits in Paris on Way to U.S.
PARIS, Oct. 30 (AP)—Maxim Litvinoff, Soviet commissar for foreign affairs, was in the French capital tonight en route to the United States.

Although no official statement was made as to his plans, it was understood he probably would see Foreign Minister Paul-Boncour of France as he did Foreign Minister Van Nourath of Germany.

The New Dollar: Roosevelt's Program Devaluates Currency

(EDITOR'S NOTE: What happens to the dollar when the administration raises the price of gold? This is explained in the following article, four and last of a series.)

By RADER WINGET
NEW YORK (AP)—The gleam of gold back of the dollar is dimming, but the brilliance of the calculated rise in commodity prices casts a new luster over the market place.

As the price of gold increases under the New Roosevelt monetary policy, the de facto valuation of the dollar in terms of gold decreases.

But with each increase in the dollar price of gold, other commodities are in line for a similar price increase. That is the economic theory under which the Roosevelt plan is operating.

Can Devalue Dollar
Some economists believe actual and formal devaluation of the dollar would achieve the same result with a greater stabilization factor present. The president has the authority under the Thomas amendment to the agricultural relief act to devalue the dollar by as much as 50 per cent.

Should that power be exercised to the limit, the country would have a dollar which would be equal to about 11.61 grains of gold, and the price of gold an ounce would be about $41.34.

That level would be double the former standard price and about one-third the price of gold under the former standard price and about one-third the price of gold under the former standard price.

Reveal C. of C. Aided Hartzell
SIOUX CITY, Oct. 30 (AP)—The second week of the trial of Oscar M. Hartzell on mail fraud charges opened today as the government poured voluminous correspondence into the record.

13 Counts
Hartzell, promoter of the Drake estate, is accused on 13 counts of using the mails to defraud in connection with collection of funds to pursue claims to the sea captain's estate in the British courts.

Many cablegrams, expressing impatience with the curiosity and distrust of governmental officials and donors and a major part of them demanding additional donations, were placed in evidence today. The prosecution charges the correspondence was carried on by Hartzell with Amos Hartscock of Laurens, one of his agents, and others.

$700 to Cause
Hartscock revealed that members of the Sioux City Chamber of Commerce contributed about $700 to the cause after he had addressed the body.

Hartscock was being cross examined by Carlos Goltz, defense attorney, when he told of addressing the local Chamber of Commerce.

End to Coal Fight Looms

Roosevelt Negotiates for Lower Rail Rates

WASHINGTON, Oct. 30 (AP)—President Roosevelt negotiated with the steel industry today agreements for lower rail prices and designed to end labor difficulties in the industry's coal mines.

Out of the double understanding that resulted from the talks across the White House conference table, officials said tonight they expected employment to come for thousands of workers.

The operators of the mines owned by the steel and iron companies agreed to the demands of the miners for the check-off and to the election of mine representative for collective bargaining without discrimination as to membership in any labor organization.

A compromise was reached on a price of $36.375 a ton for new steel rails to be purchased by the carriers with a government loan.

This represented a middle ground between the $37.75 offered by the steel companies and the $35 demanded by the government.

It was the first reduction in years below the $40 a ton asked by the companies for steel rails and on that basis was expected to result in a saving of $6,900,000 to the railroads for the quantity they plan to buy.

U.S. Seeking British Help on Gold Plan

Seeks Understanding on Application to Avoid Monetary War

WASHINGTON, Oct. 30 (AP)—Anxious to avoid an unrestricted monetary war, the administration tonight sought an understanding with Great Britain on the application of President Roosevelt's plan to steady exchanges and increase prices by buying foreign gold.

For the London government, Sir Frederick Leith-Ross, treasury expert on international finances, interrupted his conferences on war debts to talk with American officials on the economic possibilities behind the presidential plan.

Predict Disappointment
Meanwhile, exponents of varied schools of economic thought shook their heads and predicted disappointing results. Slumping markets spoke the opinion of the nation's stock and grain traders.

Nevertheless, Mr. Roosevelt's assistants prepared to make purchases of the precious metal in European markets by Wednesday at the latest. Federal reserve officials were busy working out the details of the plan and promised an announcement through the White House as soon as they were completed.

Conference
Leith-Ross discussed the situation with Governor Black of the federal reserve board and Acting Secretary Acheson of the treasury. Both attended the White House conference yesterday at which the plan to broaden gold buying was decided upon. They will be prominent in carrying the program out.

While none of the three would disclose what was taking place, most observers regarded it as self evident that British fiscal authorities would not sit idly by and watch the dollar be further depreciated, with consequent loss to British manufacturers and exporters.

Smugglers of Liquor Worry U.S. Officials
WASHINGTON, Oct. 30 (AP)—More rum boats along the coasts and mounting liquor supplies at their home stations were interpreted today by coast guard officials as spelling trouble with smugglers if prohibition is repealed.

All along the coast line, they said, the number of liquor smuggling vessels is increasing. Between Cape May, N. J., and Nantucket Island, Mass., one official said, there now are approximately 50 rum boats, the greatest number since the so-called "rum row" in Long Island sound was the object of a federal drive in 1925. Three months ago there were not more than 30, they added.

Elsewhere along the coast, reports from patrol vessels indicated that rum smuggling was on the increase.

Matrimonial Stock Points Up
Cupid, Mussolini Happy as Lovers Obey Italy's Wishes to Encourage Bigger Population

ROME, Oct. 30 (AP)—For obeying Mussolini's wishes and marrying, 820 Roman couples, wed simultaneously today, received $40 bank notes and insurance policies from the state.

With 2,620 provincial pairs, all members of the working class, the Romans were married this morning in observation of the new Fascist "consecration of nuptiality" instituted by the premier to encourage a bigger population.

For them the precepts of "happy is the bride the sun shines on" and "wealthy is the bride the rain falls on" had especial significance.

It rained at the outset and they got $40 bank notes from the state and life insurance policies, the sun was bright later and they received the blessings of the pontiff gave them his best wishes and a special blessing. To each bride he gave a Rosary.

Opposition to NRA Contract Ruling Voiced

Two Battles Loom in Federal Stand on Code Compliance

WASHINGTON, Oct. 30 (AP)—The federal government's right to deny contracts to persons who have not given affirmative compliance to NRA regulations was challenged today on two fronts.

Injunction
A temporary injunction restraining the secretary of the treasury from awarding a contract on a proposed postoffice annex in New York City was granted by Justice F. D. Letts in the District of Columbia supreme court and hearing was set for Friday. The injunction was sought by a contractor whose bid was rejected on the ground that he had not complied with NRA requirements.

At the same time, the Ford dealer whose bid for trucks for the Civilian Conservation corps was thrown out, filed formal protest with the comptroller-general and asked for a ruling forbidding the award of the contract to the next lowest bidder.

Boycott May Spread
There were indications that the federal government's intention to boycott might spread to the states. O. W. Merrill, state highway director for Ohio, said no Ford automobiles would be purchased by his state if the federal government officially ruled that the company was not complying with the NRA provisions.

The first court challenge to the government's NRA activities was made by the George F. Driscoll Construction company of Brooklyn. The company said it was asked to bid on the New York postoffice annex Feb. 28 and that on Sept. 18 the treasury department asked for additional offers, with specification that bidders must comply with NRA provisions and the president's re-employment agreement.

Two Men in Auto Crash Improving
County Clerk Walter J. Barrow and Clarence E. Beck, Iowa City auto dealer, who were injured in the auto crash Friday night that took the lives of Frank L. Smith and Herbert J. Long, were reported to be improving yesterday. Both are in St. Joseph's hospital at Red Wing, Minn.

Mr. Beck was more seriously injured than Mr. Barrow, suffering a fractured shoulder and ankle. Mr. Barrow suffered a fractured jaw and other injuries. Both were badly bruised.

According to Iowa Citizens who visited with Mr. Beck and Mr. Barrow, Mr. Long was driving at the time of the accident and Mr. Smith was sitting in the back seat behind the driver. It was also reported that all the men, except Mr. Barrow, were thrown from the car as it turned end over end down the highway, when it failed to make a turn at the intersection of two highways which form a fork in the road.

Although press dispatches first attributed the accident to the breaking of the steering apparatus on the car, it was later found that the accident occurred by failure of the car to make the turn, according to reports.

Cap Pistol Chills Hearts of Farm Strike Picketers

MADISON, Wis., Oct. 30 (AP)—Attorney General James E. Finnegan today cowed a group of 30 farm strike picketers with the display of a cap pistol when they stopped his automobile on highway 18 a few miles south of here.

Finnegan, en route to his home in Milwaukee, stopped at a barricade on the picket lines. The pickets advanced and he drew the cap pistol which he said he carried for just such an occasion. The picketers halted.

The attorney general showed his badge of office and was promptly permitted to proceed.

Mob Smashes Tool Plants in Detroit Rioting

Strike Breaks Out in Fresh Violence as 5 Are Injured

DETROIT, Oct. 30 (AP)—Rioters sped in a motorized mob through Detroit's manufacturing section today, smashed hundreds of windows, hurled missiles at police, burned blueprints in the streets and overturned automobiles in the first serious outbreak of a month-old tool and die-makers strike.

Five Injured
Five men were injured slightly and six were arrested as police massed forces against the demonstrators. Tonight guards were posted about a score of tool and die plants, some of which were closed and barricaded as employers counted thousands of dollars in damage from the outbreak.

2,500 in Mob
The rioters, said by police to have numbered 2,500 men in more than 300 automobiles at the outset of the disorder struck swiftly at seven factories scattered throughout the manufacturing section, always ahead of the city's massed police, mobilized but unable to forecast the movements of the demonstrators.

Shouting and boeing, the men swept up to the factories, seized bricks and timbers, hurled them through windows, overturned automobiles in company parking lots, burned blueprints taken in raids on factory offices and terrorized employees.

Manager Fires
A manager at one plant fired several shots as the mob approached the place but said he aimed over the heads of the rioters.

Leaders of the tool and die-makers strike disclaimed any connection with the demonstration. Employers were connected with the disorder. Police said they believed "hoodlums posing as strikers" made up the mob. Officials said, however, that one group of rioters, after leaving the scene of one disorder, went directly to strike headquarters on the city's east side, where they dispersed.

1,000 Students Expected to Profit Through Unique Plan Begun by Board of Regents

Control Work of Corn-Hog Plan Started

WASHINGTON, Oct. 30 (AP)—The farm adjustment administration's $500,000,000 corn-hog production control campaign program will be shaped at four meetings to be held in the corn belt during the next two weeks.

Extension Workers
State extension workers and others in each region will attend as the first step in starting preliminary educational campaigns among farmers who later will be solicited to sign contracts agreeing to reduce their corn output 20 per cent and hog production 25 per cent in return for government cash.

Midwest Executives Will Study Relief for Farmer
Dr. A. G. Black, Ames, Ia., corn-hog production chief, Claude R. Wickard, Camden, Ind., Black's assistant, and a number of aides will conduct the meetings. The first will be at Indianapolis Thursday and Friday; the second at Kansas City, Nov. 6 and 7; the third at University Farm, St. Paul, Nov. 8 and 9, and the last at Chicago, Nov. 10 and 11.

Moyer Appointed
Ralph Moyer, Fairfield, Ia., farmer, who served as secretary of the national corn-hog producers' committee of 25 selected by farmers to work out the program with the administration, today went on the government payroll with the title "regional consultant." Cecil A. Johnson of Ames, Ia., was selected as an executive assistant to Black.

Black said that Moyer will "serve as coordinating officer between various state committees and extension service units and the administration in carrying out the program."

Committee Planned
Meantime, arrangements were being made for setting up a special committee in Iowa to cooperate with the extension service there in conducting the campaign in an effort to avoid friction between farm organizations in that state. Wickard said this committee would have five members and that it was unlikely that similar committees would be established in other states.

Administration officials were told during the day that meat packers expect to pass on in full either to consumers or to hog producers the amount of the hog processing tax which goes into effect at 50 cents per hundredweight on Nov. 5, increasing gradually to a maximum of $2 per hundredweight on Feb. 1.

Norman Draper, Washington representative of the Institute of American Meat Packers, said packers last year incurred an "out-of-pocket loss" of $15,000,000 and can not absorb any of the tax which is expected to raise $348,000,000.

Other Methods
Other methods of aiding needy students to obtain a higher education have been developed at various institutions. The University of Iowa was a pioneer in "education relief" projects, having foreseen the need for some plan two years ago.

The result was the establishment of Kellogg house cooperative dormitory. This house was opened only to those students who had no means of financing a college education with the regular costs of board and room.

At Kellogg house, each man was assigned a share of the housework, cooking, or work of a janitor. The result was that the cost to each of the 23 men who lived there last year was only $1 per week for room, and less than $1.50 for board.

The success of the Kellogg house project caused the board of education last summer to provide for the opening of an unlimited number of houses to accommodate needy students, both men and women. At present there are seven such houses, four for men, and three for women.

Other Schools
Other institutions, both in America and abroad, have used the Kellogg house plan as a model. The University of Indiana established a similar cooperative dormitory in the last year. A British association, formed to aid exiled professors from Germany and elsewhere, has been considering the use of a community plan based on Kellogg house.

Among the other universities which have adopted a plan to aid deserving students is Ohio State. Prior to the action of the Minnesota regents, university officials there, and the student paper, The Minnesota Daily, had been considering the launching of a campaign for a project similar to Iowa's.

Other aids of the University of Iowa to needy students include a limited number of fee exemptions of $50, a semi-cooperative dormitory plan at the field house for men, and at Eastlawn for women. Dormitory rates at the Quadrangle and at Currier have been lowered to meet present conditions.

University Club Hears Illustrated Lecture About Iowa

"A record of the glacial period is better shown in Iowa than in any other area of the earth," Dean George F. Kay said at a meeting of the University club held Sunday evening in Iowa Union at which were 100 members and guests, including 20 members of the congress of geologists from this country and abroad.

As a result of the glaciers and the winds, according to Dean Kay in his illustrated lecture, Iowa is rich in sand and gravel. Nearby where in Iowa the limestone and shales cannot be seen because they are covered by soils, sands, gravels and clays. Iowa, during the glacial period, which terminated about 2,000 years ago, was as dry as the uninviting as ice-covered Greenland and Antarctica are today.

Eighty-four persons attended the buffet supper preceding the lecture. Forming the committee for the speaker were Mrs. A. C. Trowbridge, Mrs. R. H. Fitzgerald, Kate Williams and Mrs. F. G. Higbee.

Kay Speaks at Meeting

University Club Hears Illustrated Lecture About Iowa

"A record of the glacial period is better shown in Iowa than in any other area of the earth," Dean George F. Kay said at a meeting of the University club held Sunday evening in Iowa Union at which were 100 members and guests, including 20 members of the congress of geologists from this country and abroad.

As a result of the glaciers and the winds, according to Dean Kay in his illustrated lecture, Iowa is rich in sand and gravel. Nearby where in Iowa the limestone and shales cannot be seen because they are covered by soils, sands, gravels and clays. Iowa, during the glacial period, which terminated about 2,000 years ago, was as dry as the uninviting as ice-covered Greenland and Antarctica are today.

Paul Dengler to Open S.U.I. Graduate College Lectures

Austrian to Talk on European Peace Thursday

Paul L. Dengler of the University of Vienna, Austria, will open a graduate college lecture series Thursday at 4 p.m., with an address in the senate chamber of Old Capitol.

Mr. Dengler's subject is "Austria and the peace of Europe." He has studied European conditions as founder and director of the Austro-American Institute of Education, at Vienna, and as editor of a book, "New Education in Austria."

His experience as an educator has not been limited to his own country, however. He has held positions in many universities all over the world. In the United States, he has served at Carnegie lecturer at the Universities of Colorado, Kansas, and Indiana. In addition, he has had teaching engagements at the University of California and the University of Denver.

His present lecture tour in the United States is under the auspices of the Institute of International Relations.

Mr. Dengler's lecture here will be delivered in English. According to Prof. W. T. Root, head of the history department, the speaker uses English fluently.

Commenting on Mr. Dengler's subject, Professor Root said: "As to his subject—there is no question of the importance of Austria's relation to the peace of Europe. It is a timely subject, and one of special importance."

This lecture, under the joint auspices of the graduate college and the history department, is the first of a graduate college series. The address will be open to the public.

NEW DOLLAR

Roosevelt's Plan for 'Managed Money'

third higher than the point at which the Reconstruction Finance corpora-

Monetary Powers Granted President

President Roosevelt under the Thomas amendment to the agricultural relief act is empowered to carry out any or all of the following monetary provisions:

- 1—To direct the federal reserve system to buy $3,000,000,000 in government securities directly from the treasury.
- 2—To issue up to $3,000,000,000 in "greenbacks."
- 3—To substitute bimetalism for the gold standard through re-monetization of silver.
- 4—To reduce the gold content of the dollar by as much as 50 per cent.

Dollar Depreciates

The standard gold dollar is valued at 23.22 grains of gold. Translated into the value of an ounce of gold in dollars, the result is $20.97, the standard that the country maintained for many years.

Today the value of gold is around $32 an ounce, which results in the dollar's being worth about 15 grains of gold, a depreciation of about 34 per cent.

It is the Roosevelt theory that the dollar's purchasing power for other commodities depreciates in about the same percentage.

The net result, says the theory, is that it should take more dollars to purchase a given amount of any commodity.

The Roosevelt plan is flexible in that the price of gold can be raised or lowered through the R.F.C. in order to bring a change in other commodity prices.

Stabilization Held Necessary

But there is one school of economists which insists the present plan is temporary in that the value of the dollar in terms of gold must be stabilized at a given level.

The president said neither he nor anyone else could know what that stabilization level would be in the future.

But should the administration decide the level had been reached, it would be possible under the law to reduce the gold content of the dollar from 23.22 grains to whatever amount would bring stabilization at a given level.

For the plan to operate most effectively, some economists say, it would be necessary for the country to return to the gold standard.

Prentiss Bust Put on Display in Iowa Union

A bronze portrait bust of the late Dr. Henry J. Prentiss, formerly head of the anatomy department of the college of medicine was placed on display at Iowa Union yesterday morning. It is to remain there a week.

The bust was presented to the university by the Alumni association of the college of medicine at a luncheon at Iowa Union on Homecoming day, and will probably be placed in the medical laboratories building.

Alce Littig Siems, who graduated from the University of Iowa in 1919 with a degree of B.A., made the bust from a portrait she painted of Dr. Prentiss during his lifetime.

Mrs. Siems, who now lives in Chicago, is the daughter of Mrs. Amy Littig, 328 Brown street, and of the late Dr. Lawrence W. Littig, who was formerly a member of the university faculty.

The Illinois Federated Art clubs honored Mrs. Siems and the University of Iowa in 1932 by asking permission to copy in plaster the bust of Lorado Taft, sculptor, executed by Mrs. Siems and presented to the university March 12, 1931. The original of this bust is now in Iowa Union.

"Intervention by Inertia" Enters International Relations

PRESIDENT Ramon Grau San Martin of Cuba raised something of an involved question last week, when he wrote, in a statement to The New York Times, that the refusal of the United States to recognize his government is in fact a new form of intervention—intervention "by inertia"—in the internal affairs of Cuba.

President Grau San Martin asserted that his government is stable, that it has been able to maintain "order and protect life, property, and individual liberty." Further, he asked for recognition on the grounds that to withhold this recognition means a partisan attitude on the part of the United States toward former Cuban governments. A third reason for recognition, he said, lies in the proposition that the withholding of it intensifies the ills of Cuba.

These are probably valid reasons for recognition, if they are true. But perhaps President Grau has forgotten already that his government was unable to prevent a brutal massacre of army officers in a Cuban hotel not long ago; perhaps he has minimized the vicious anti-American propaganda in Cuba.

But without stopping to argue that point, one should consider his new line of reasoning—that, by refusing to recognize his government, the United States is intervening, passively, just as surely as though American troops were posted outside his presidential palace.

The logical inference to be drawn is that every nation is duty bound to recognize all governments, or leave itself open to a charge of unfairness—intervention, President Grau calls it—in refusing to lead prestige.

International law and the world of diplomatic relations have always recognized that any government has the right to decide for itself which of its sister governments it shall have diplomatic relations with.

It's probably a safe guess that few international law experts will agree with President Ramon Grau San Martin's new interpretation. At least the world will await America's answer.

From Tiny Acorns

THE APPROACHING downfall of great national cultures is usually heralded by events of apparent unimportance. Rome, for instance, didn't bat an eyelash when Nero bought a fiddle; it remained for historians to discover the true significance of the purchase.

Today a movement was started in Russia which probably wasn't given a second thought by men who ordinarily think through to the heart of international political matters. But the movement certainly points to a future collapse of proletarian ideals.

The Soviet government, unaware of the far-reaching effect of its program, is trying to make Russia shrimp-minded. A score of high government officials apparently have their eyes only on the immediate problem: they don't want 400,000 tons of shrimps yielded annually by the Black Sea to go to waste.

This is just an entering wedge. From cracking the sticky shells of aristocratic shrimps, Russians may gradually take up finger bowls. A few months of that and they'll consider the frequent use of napkins and table linen. Before long neckties and two piece underwear will become common.

In a few years, if the Commissar of Sea Food continues his ruinous policy, both peasants and urban workers may begin to form joint stock corporations and commence thinking in terms of cost plus 15 per cent. Then the country will be in the grip of capitalism once more.

Another revolution will be in order.

Cider Time

(From The New York Herald-Tribune)

This is a cider year. There are apple years and cider years. A good apple year sends gentle rains, frequent but not so constant as to hinder the bees from getting about, from March until the fruit is set; and after these should come the long, warm, windless days of sun, in August and September, to sweeten and color up the leaf-screened crop. This season the months of ripening hereabout were not placid but tempest-shaken, and early drought was followed by late floods. As a result the yield of perfect fruit in New York state is small, but for compensation we have an ideal cider product—apples not handsome enough to barrel, but excellent for grinding, full of juice and tang. New England's pleasant academic rite of scuffling through fallen leaves out to the old cider mill on a glowing November afternoon will be well worth observation, for the fruit basket's loss is the brown jug's gain; and in the leveling process of time these inferior apples, as fine vinegar, will meet the dessert type in Waldorf salad.

Cider years afford further pleasures. They leave the crisp orchard grass full of windfalls—Northern Spies cracking open with juicy ripeness, mealy Vandeviers, tart Baldwins, not yet mellow; greenings ready for savory bakings with cinnamon or nutmeg, the last of the yellow fall pippins, conservative Dominies, delectable Lady Sweets, satisfying Smokehouses. Some still cling to the bough—frost-touched Sheepsnooses and Jonathans, a few little strawberry apples with a purple bloom. There are plenty of russets, but they need months in the earth cellar before they will shrivel to their tempting best. Flavors for every taste, mildly sweet and bitingly sour; pithy flesh and firm; shining smooth or rusty skins; colors from pale gold to speckled crimson—all are in the York State apples that autumn scatters so lavishly under the trees in a cider year. It is fun to pick them up in the brisk sunshine, to carry home their essence in an old-fashioned jug, to taste them made into hot dumplings and sauce, for which no flawless fruit is needed. Nothing smells better than apples cooking, whether for Brown Betty or turnovers, and when there are fewer rounded beauties for the barrel there are all the more for the fragrant oven and the flowing mill.

Il Duce recently brought 50,000 cheering Romans to their feet with this blast: "Italy must be the first nation in the world—in the skies, on land, and in the spirit." But the birthplace of Caesar will always remain a backnumber until it wins a Big Ten football championship. Just one of those things Mussolini takes too much for granted.

A former Northwestern university "ideal man" and "most beautiful coed" are now the proud parents of a baby who will probably be voted the "tot most likely to succeed" at an Evanston hospital before the end of the week.

GOOD MORNING

David Lawrence, editor and publisher of the United States News, took it upon himself last week to chastise the federal government for its stand against the payment of exorbitant salaries to the executives of large corporations.

"The inference of the week's events," said Mr. Lawrence, "is that stockholders of the large corporations do not have the inclination to discipline the presidents of their respective businesses and hold salaries down to lower levels, hence the government must benignantly step in and do it for them."

"Well, if a good natured word of caution be permitted, the power of example is still strong in the American concept of things as they should be. It might respectfully be asked: can government really teach private business how to manage its finances?"

"First of all, it is charged that corporation presidents should not have had such big salaries while deficits were being piled up. We might inquire, quite objectively, whether the federal government, which is running in the red at a rate that may exceed $3,000,000,000 by the end of the present fiscal year, has the moral right to advise any private corporation on its stockholders on the subject of economy or operating expenses?"

"For it is an unpleasant but nevertheless demonstrable fact that the general manager of the United States has not effected any substantial economy in executive salaries hereabout."

Mr. Lawrence ought to know better. Where, for instance, did he get the information that the stockholders of America's large corporations have anything to do with setting executives' salaries? Is this a new procedure, or is Mr. Lawrence thinking merely in terms of theory? Even in theory such matters are left rather definitely in the hands of the boards of directors.

It is highly improbable that stockholders whose dividends had disappeared would vote a $100,000 or $200,000 salary for any executive. It may be taken for granted that they would not, if the matter were referred to them, sanction an additional "bonus" of a million dollars or more.

Moreover, the American public has come into possession of too much handy information regarding the intricacies of corporation control to be so gullible as to believe that salaries in the high places are determined wholly on merit or that the stockholders in the average corporation exercise any appreciable power.

In the second place, just where Mr. Lawrence finds an analogy between such corporations and the government is rather difficult to understand.

In the first place, the extent to which the government is running in the red is due in large part directly to the failure of private business. The president's attitude toward high corporation salaries grows out of the fact that the government is being called upon to loan huge sums of the taxpayers' money to corporations whose executives draw fabulous incomes. That is why, through the RFC and the NRA, the government has been insisting that corporation officials' salaries be reduced to reasonable figures before the public is asked to help.

In the second place, salaries of government officials actually are under the control, indirect at least, of the stockholders, who in this case are the people of the United States. And no where in the government will salaries comparable to those in private industry be found. The president's salary alone can at all compare with those paid to executives of the large corporations. And it, while Editor Lawrence seems to have forgotten, cannot be increased or diminished during the president's term of office, according to the constitution.

It will be remembered, however, that President Roosevelt voluntarily returns to the treasury 15 per cent of his salary each month to conform with the general administrative reduction.

Mr. Lawrence apparently is catching at rather weak straws in a frantic attempt to find something to criticize.

BEHIND THE SCENES - IN HOLLYWOOD -

STUDIO GOSSIP

SCREEN COMMENT

HOLLYWOOD — Going the personal appearance idea one better, Bert Wheeler, Robert Woolsey, Thelma Todd and Dorothy Lee will join together in a musical comedy and make a swing through Texas, up the South Atlantic coast, the middle west and finally to New York.

The vehicle, "Dumb Bells," is all ready and the four-starred caravan will leave Hollywood soon after they finish "Hip, Hips, Hooray" at R-K-O. They plan to play engagements at Phoenix, El Paso, Ft. Worth, Dallas, New Orleans, Memphis, Detroit, and on to Broadway.

If you can believe its enthusiastic backers, "Dumb Bells" will not be the thrown-together show such as roadhouse audiences have been victimized by in the past. Tim Wheeler, Wheeler and Woolsey collaborated on the book and the veteran team of Kalmar and Ruby have furnished the songs.

Will James, the cowboy author, now out here to help Fox film his book, "Smoky," can't understand why all the Hollywood stars get so excited about football.

"I went to a game in New York

between the Navy and the Army," he says. "Every time anything interesting started to happen 50,000 people stood up in front of me."

Newspaper boys up north will be smart if they watch Fifi Dorsey and her fiancé, Maurice Hill, who left here last night by plane for San Francisco. Ostensibly, they went to see the football game and to allow Fifi to make a radio broadcast, but it would be easy for the pair to slip over to Nevada and be married. They weren't admitting any such plans yesterday, but Fifi let it slip that she doesn't want to take the vows in California.

Eddie Sutherland, who once intrigued Hollywood by giving a separation party, has done the unusual again by throwing a cocktail hour for the mothers of all the chorus girls who worked for him in "Too Much Harmony." The only star there was W. C. Fields, who dropped in for a few minutes.

La Garbo's pet Scotty is named "Wimpy" and it now comes out that the privacy-loving Swede is an ardent follower of the comic strips. The dog got its name because it's so fond of hamburger. Despite her aloofness to Hollywood, Greta also is said to follow the motion picture columns and the fan magazines closely.

Though Warner Brothers isn't saying, rumor insists that George Brent's contract will be suspended because he asked to be excused from the picture "Mandala" when the company already is on its way to location. Production Boss Hal Wallis and Associate Producer Robert Prehn had to put in a hurry call for Lyle Talbot, who got up practically from a sick bed to fly to join the troupe. The actor's doctors were leery of his going to work so soon after his recent injury but were finally won over.

DID YOU KNOW—

That Lewis Carroll, author of "Alice in Wonderland," is credited by many with the invention of the crossword puzzle? He called his game "Syzgyes."

That James Gleason was decorated for valor in the Spanish-American war?

Iowa Sends Nine Representatives to Geology Conference

Major problems in the field of sedimentation and similarities in the coal-bearing rocks of Iowa and Illinois were, according to Prof. Allen C. Tester of the geology department, the highlights of discussion at the first annual tri-state geological field conference held at La Salle, Ill., Saturday and Sunday, in which the University of Iowa was represented.

There were 60 representatives from the geological surveys of Iowa, Illinois, and Wisconsin, and the geology departments of the Universities of Iowa, Illinois, Chicago, and Wisconsin, and Northwestern university in attendance. The number of delegates for a meeting of this sort was unusually large, Professor Tester said.

Professor Tester, Prof. Joseph J. Runner, M. Buhle, Robert G. Hamilton, L. F. Lees, John H. Melvin, Glen Patrick, Elliot H. Powers, and M. L. Thompson comprised the Iowa delegation.

Organization for the continuation of these conferences was perfected at this session, according to Professor Tester, and it was decided that the group would convene in Wisconsin in the fall of 1934 and in Iowa in the fall of 1935.

SKIPPY—Satisfactory Substitutes

SEEN from Old Capitol

By TOM YOSELOFF

If she were the Prince of Wales, Alice Dickinson, G of Shreveport, La., would have been in the headlines today. Sunday, while she was riding horseback with Gean Morgan, A3 of Nashville, Tenn., and Eleanor Florence, A1 of Montezuma, Miss Dickinson was thrown from her horse, and sprained her ankle.

Her companions called William Small, from whom they had rented the horses, and asked him to come get Miss Dickinson—and Joe, the horse. After an examination at University hospital, Miss Dickinson was allowed to go to her room in Currier hall, where she must rest a few days.

The girls are consoling themselves with the fact that "Joe" came through his caving uninjured, and was able to make the three miles home under his own power!

There is probably no more important subject of interest to the entire world today than that of Austria, the new hotbed of European troubles. Observers are agreed that with Austria and Germany, to a large extent, lies the determination of the course of European affairs in the next few years. That is why the graduate college lecture of Paul L. Dengler, director of the Austro-American institute of education, at Vienna, on the subject, "Austria and the Peace of Europe," is just in time to be real news.

His address will be based on first hand information. He has studied contemporary Austria as founder and director of the Austro-American institute, a position he has held since 1926, and he has a wide background of Austrian history. He has lectured and taught at universities throughout the world—including such American institutions as the University of California, Denver, Colorado, Kansas, and Indiana. He has thus the added advantage of having seen things from both sides of the pond.

Dengler will lecture Thursday afternoon in the senate chamber of Old Capitol.

Traditional University Sing Scheduled for Sunday

Dads, mothers, friends, and students of the University of Iowa have been invited to attend a University sing to be held at Iowa Union at 3 p.m. next Sunday as a regular part of the Dad's day activities of the week end of Nov. 3, 4, and 5.

As a special feature a piano team composed of Bertha Heiland, A4 of Sibley, and Margaret Bell, A3 of Ollie, will play a medley of old-fashioned pieces especially for the dads.

Three hundred persons are expected to be present, and Herald Stark of the music department will direct them in singing, while Harry Thatcher, Jr., of the music department will furnish the piano accompaniment.

Old-fashioned numbers, popular pieces, and school songs make up the program. The selection will include, "Smiles," "Three Blind Mice," "The Bull Dog," "The World is Waiting for the Sunshine," "My Wild Irish Rose," "A Perfect Day," "Are You Sleeping?" "There's a Long, Long Trail," and "Old Gold."

The committee in charge of planning this part of the Dad's day program consists of Thomas W. Saam, M4 of Lansing, chairman; and Arthur H. Jacobsen, L3 of Waukon, and Anton Braxmeier, D4 of Mandan, N. D., assistants.

Rare Books, Manuscripts Show Development of Printing Arts

A display of rare books now on exhibit with the Ranney collection in liberal arts building has been designed to show the development of the printed book from early times. The display contains manuscripts, facsimiles of manuscripts, and early printed books, some of which have been loaned by Prof. Fred J. Lazell of the school of journalism, and Prof. Ernest P. Kuhl of the English department.

The earliest printed book in the display is, "Comments of St. Thomas Aquinas on the Gospels of St. Matthew and St. Mark," printed by Gunther Zainer at Augsburg in 1474. It is on hand made paper, wood bound, and covered with pigskin.

Other works on display which were made in the 1400's or earlier are: A missal written on vellum from the cathedral of Rouen written in 1375 and a facsimile of a page from Gutenberg's 42 line or Mazarin Bible the first book printed from moveable type in Europe, in 1466.

Books printed before 1500 found in the display, and loaned by Professor Lazell, include a French book of the hours with full page illumination; one of three known copies of the official documents relating to the trial of Savonarola; and some pages from the Nuremberg Chronicle, a history of the world to 1499 with three pages left blank at the end to write in the future.

Skull Practice Starts Preparation for Game With Iowa State

Missouri Win Peps Cyclone for Dad's Day

Then Comes Michigan, Boilermakers, and Cornhuskers

No scrimmage was held for Iowa's Hawkeyes yesterday as Coach Ossie Solem held skull practice. The squad did not suit up at all, Solem preferring to rest them after the hard contest at Minneapolis.

Today, however, the Hawks will be back in harness as they prepare for the Dad's day engagement with Iowa State. It will be the first of a long list of tough contests scheduled for November.

November's assignments set some sort of a record for severity; to turn back an inspired Iowa State eleven in the final home game, stop the march of Michigan towards its fourth straight Big Ten title at Ann Arbor the next Saturday, cast a monkey wrench in the smooth Purdue machine at Lafayette Nov. 18, and to ruin the record of Nebraska at Lincoln, Nov. 25.

Hawks Still in Race After winning two of three conference games, the Iowans now are in the first division of the Big Ten standing, and still have a chance for at least a tie—if they can overthrow Michigan and Purdue.

The team, now settled down to work for the renewal game of the Iowa State series, has compiled an impressive array of statistics in its four games. For instance, it has advanced the ball 1,105 yards, 1,034 by rushing and 71 by forward passes. It has made 45 first downs, and 12 touchdowns and six points thereafter for 78 points.

Rivals have made 669 yards, 515 by rushing and 154 by passing, but have scored only four touchdowns and two extra points for a 26 point aggregate. Their first downs total 33.

Respect Iowa State Iowa State is not being taken with the lack of seriousness which sometimes characterizes the attitude of a conference team against a non-conference foe. The Cyclones have a fast attack, led by William Allender, a shifty halfback, and Robert Elkins, a 183 pound back with considerable driving ability.

No serious injuries were suffered by the Hawks in the Minnesota game, although some of the pains from the battering probably will not subside until midweek.

20,000 Fans Purchase Tickets Desire of football fans to see the University of Iowa play Iowa State college once more after the long interlude probably will counterbalance the effect of the Hawkeyes' defeat by Minnesota in the matter of ticket sales.

Charles S. Gallher, business manager of athletics, expressed that opinion Monday as orders for the game at Iowa City Saturday continued to move into the athletic office at a brisk rate.

With advance sale now in the vicinity of the 20,000 mark, a crowd of between 30,000 and 35,000 is predicted, with a possibility that the Homecoming throng of 37,000 may be exceeded.

Stadium seats in both stands between the 20 and 28 yard line were being sold Monday, Gallher announced. Good sales at various branch ticket offices in Des Moines, Cedar Rapids, Davenport, Clinton, and Dubuque also have been reported.

Quad Tennis Race Moves Slowly; Hill and Dalers to Run Despite the perfect tennis weather the quad tourney has continued its snail-like pace with only two additional matches being played over the week end. C. Bruening won his second round tilt 6-2, 6-0, over J. W. Hinchliff and Tom Younan defeated M. S. Reeve 6-3, 6-2, 6-2, in their third round match.

The hill and dalers will run tomorrow afternoon at 4:30. Any late entries must report to Pete Aker before that time.

Delts Win Opening Speedball Contest Delta Tau Delta proved too fast and experienced for Sigma Phi Epsilon in the first speedball game of the interfraternity league yesterday and won 6-4. The game was close, however, and was not decided until the closing moments of the game when a furious Delt attack proved too much for the Sig Eps defense and scored two points in as many minutes. The next league game will be played tomorrow afternoon at 4 p.m.

"I" Club Alumni to Sponsor Athletic Smoker Dad's Day Week End

In the PRESS BOX with H. G. B.

WHERE does this idea of Iowa acting as a softener for Minnesota's coming conflict with Michigan get its inception? Is it from a bunch of cry babies who feel that Iowa has shot its bolt and now remains only good enough to make things easier for the contenders? What do they mean, "softeners"? Where do they suppose Iowa ranks? One defeat does not relegate it to the ranks of the also rans. The team is still very much in the fight for championship honors, make no error about it. It has no intention of making things easier for the other fellow unless it will help Iowa. You can bet your bottom dollar that those Hawkeyes will be in the Michigan game to WIN and not to soften the Wolverine for Minnesota.

Forget that Minnesota game. Iowa needs no alibis, and offers none. It was a real team that won, a team which will grant the edge to no one this year. It was not that Iowa was not a good team, the Gophers were better. Realizing that the line was tough, the Thundering Herd rolled the ends when yardage was needed. And when we say rolled that's just the word. Five men in front of the ball made it nearly impossible for the line to stop such an attack. Time after time the secondary had to come up and make the tackle and it was usually the tertiary, so powerful was the Gopher interference.

HEARD around the press box after the game: Watch out for that Iowa outfit next year... with the polish and power displayed here it will be next to impossible to stop them... never saw such a change in a team in one year... lucky thing the field wasn't dry or Crayne and Laws would have done plenty of shocking themselves... that boy Crayne is fully the fastest boy we've seen all year... only team that's played here that could give Pitt a battle.

That long dash of Crayne's for the lone score for the Hawks just added one more score to beyond the 35 yard line. With the exception of the one yard plunge for a score in the Badger game, all of Iowa's conference scoring has been from way out on the field. Laws went 38 yards to score against Northwestern; 39 against Wisconsin; Fisher 32 on a pass against the Cardinal; and Bernie Page 45, also against Wisconsin. With that kind of a threat, a team is always dangerous.

LOOKS like a real battle here Saturday. Iowa will be anxious to get back in its winning stride and Iowa State will be striving to continue where it left off with Missouri. Add the general conditions of state rivalry and it will make a red hot battle. Ticket sales indicate that about 35,000 will attend. Makes Iowa's total attendance figures read about 154,000. About as many as the last three years totaled.

Fight Patrons Aid Authorities

INDIANAPOLIS (AP)—Indiana's sports fans are buying guns and bullets for state police to use in their fight against lawlessness. Six thousand dollars, collected by state tax on boxing and wrestling shows, has been given to Al. G. Feeney, director of public safety, to spend in equipping the officers. Indiana state police were given full powers only last March, but at the time no fund was set aside from which to purchase machine guns, bullet-proof vests, gas bombs or firearms. So the officers had to buy their own small arms, and the department's other equipment consists of weapons taken from gangsters. Feeney, also the one-man athletic commission of Indiana, appealed to Gov. Paul V. McNutt. It was decided to take $6,000 from tax collections on sporting events and give the police force adequate equipment.

Ohio State Starts Intramural Program With Speedball Games

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Oct. 30 (AP)—Ohio State university's intramural athletic system has swung into action with 16 teams engaged in speedball contests. Before the year is out, 5,000 students will be enrolled.

THERE GOES CRAYNE!

Here's Dick Crayne of Fairfield, sensational University of Iowa sophomore fullback, whose plunges and shifty sprints will tax Iowa State's defense in the football game at Iowa City next Saturday. The 190-pound Crayne, who can start fast, pick holes, and whip swiftly into open territory aided by great blocking, has averaged more than five yards per trial this season. He's one of three sophomores in the backfield of the Hawkeye team. Even if he wasn't a star ball-carrier, he would be valuable for his deadly blocking and tackling and his distance punting. The university team appears for the last time this season in its own stadium, meeting Iowa State in football for the first time since relations lapsed in 1920.

Joe Laws Still Tops Big Ten With 3 Touchdowns

Fisher, Page, Crayne Rank High Among Loop Scorers Although he failed to score against Minnesota last Saturday, Joe Laws, fast-stepping Iowa quarterback, continued at the top of the Big Ten scoring race, his three touchdowns giving him a three point lead over Everhardus of Michigan. The Wolverine halfback has scored two touchdowns and kicked three points for a total of 15. Two other Iowa names were added to the list when Dick Crayne and Bob Rook scored against the Gophers to account for the Hawkeye points. Crayne joined Bernie Page and 15 other conference scorers in a tie for ninth place with six points, the result of a 60 yard dash down the sideline at Minneapolis. Rook kicked the point to tie with two others for thirty-first.

Other leading scorers include Purvis of Purdue, 13; Alphons, Minnesota; Carter, Purdue; and Renner of Michigan, all tied for fourth with 12 points. G. T. F. G. A. T. T. 17 Schools Enter 120 Men in State Title Harrier Race

Seventeen schools Monday had entered a total of 120 runners in the state interscholastic championship cross country run to occur at the University of Iowa Saturday morning. The entries include Ottumwa, champion for the last two years, and Muscatine, the 1930 titlist and runner-up in 1931 and 1932, as well as Clinton, North Des Moines, and Grant of Cedar Rapids, other strong teams. Coach G. T. Bresnahan, manager of the meet, said that the entry list will close Wednesday night. Other schools now enrolled are: Grand Mound, Iowa City, West Chester, LeClaire, DeWitt, Janesville, West Waterloo, Lamont, Cantril, Mechanicville, Brighton, and University High.

Kenneth Stephens, an end on the North Carolina State college football team, allowed opponents to gain a total of only 20 yards around his position in the first four games of the season.

Ex-Athletes to Be Honored at Get-Together

Informal Gathering to Start Friday at 7 P.M.

The time—7 o'clock, Friday night of Dad's day week end. The place—Jefferson hotel basement. The event—Second in the now traditional series of Athletic Smokers. Once again Iowa City alumni of the Hawk "I" club, varsity organization of major letter winners, will entertain returning former athletes at a two-day smoker. The first smoker held Homecoming was in the nature of an experiment and proved so successful that it was decided to incorporate them as a regular part of Hawkeye athletic celebrations. Dr. John Voss, Iowa City dentist and former hurler on the Hawkeye baseball team did so well in arranging the initial smoker that he seems to have drawn the assignment permanently. He will again be in charge of the program and will be assisted by active members of the club. Informality will mark the get-together. All athletes are urged to report at the smoker headquarters immediately upon their arrival in the city for registration. Active members of the club will be on hand at all hours of the night and day to greet returning alumni. Attendance at the smoker is expected to be high, with many former football squabs returning to take part in the Dad's day program. The club also issues an invitation to Iowa State athletes to make their headquarters at the smoker.

Longest Drive In the golf driving contest, each entrant will drive 10 balls, the longest ball winning first place. The competition is under the direction of Esther Ketting, A3 of South Bend, Ind. The archery teams, each composed of four members, will shoot 36 arrows from 30 yards. Louise Philpott, A4 of Boise, Idaho, and Janet Cumming of the physical education department are in charge of this contest.

Weekly Roll Call--

Kipke, Zuppke Both Silent on Victory Forecasts; Ossie Solem Praises Gopher Blocking

CHICAGO, Oct. 30 (AP)—All eyes turned instinctively toward Harry Kipke of Michigan and crafty Bob Zuppke of Illinois today as the old professor rapped on the table and opened recitations in the Monday morning Big Ten coaches' class. "It's Illinois' turn to try to stop Michigan in this football championship race," the old professor started in. "Ohio State and Chicago couldn't and if you can't do it, Bob, it looks like a couple of good teams from Minnesota and Purdue are going to be beaten out of a share at least because they couldn't decide their own game October 14." No Set-Up Zuppke—"That Army score against Yale (21 to 0) didn't make Illinois look like a set-up, did it? (Army beat the Illini 6 to 0). I saw Michigan run over Chicago and the Wolverines had everything you want in a team. Our cue seems to be to say nothing but saw a lot of wood and that's what we are going to try to do." Kipke—"Our boys showed flashes of brilliance against Chicago and mixed some good football with mediocre to indicate they still know the game, but I'm worried about Illinois. They have had two weeks to prepare for Michigan and probably have a million new plays to spring on us." Professor—"Is that true, Mr. Zuppke? Do you think you can beat Michigan?" But the coach with "thousand tricks" wouldn't say another word. Have Everything Clark Shaughnessy, Chicago—"Professor, I've never seen a better team than Michigan, why, they've got everything. They are way out of our class." Professor—"How does Michigan compare with Purdue? Your team has met them both?" Shaughnessy—"Oh, Purdue has a great ball club, too. No, I couldn't say which I think is the better." Professor—"What, if any, alibis have you for losing to Minnesota Saturday, Ossie?" Bad Breaks Ossie Solem, Iowa—"We had bad breaks against Minnesota but we would have lost anyway. When a team blocks the way Minnesota did it is bound to be effective against any opposition. We didn't play the football we have played in other games and we expect a full afternoon against Iowa State Saturday. They'll be primed for Iowa." Bernie Bierman, Minnesota—"Iowa didn't seem quite as far advanced as we were. Crayne is a great back for a sophomore. He's got everything. Northwestern will give us another awfully tough battle Saturday." Professor—"Dick, you look like you've been yanking hair out of your head by the fistful. What's the matter?" 3 Mistakes Dick Hanley, Northwestern—"Professor, if I live to be a thousand and one years old, I hope never to see a game like that Saturday against Ohio State. We made three mistakes and never were mistakes so disastrous. I never saw such a grand kicker as Kabealo of Ohio State. We've got to improve 50 per cent to have any show against Minnesota." E. C. Hayes, Indiana—"We expect some of our crumbles to be in the Ohio State game Saturday. We're the underdogs, Professor, but we'll try to give Ohio State a better battle than we did last year." Professor—"That's the way I like to hear a coach talk. Last year, you held Ohio State to a seven-all tie." Doc Spears, Wisconsin—"Purdue has too much power in the backfield for Wisconsin. Their backs were much faster and more experienced. Purdue has a good all-around team." Professor looked around for Noble Klier of the Boilermakers, but he had disappeared. "Probably too much Michigan talk," said the professor.

218 Pounds of Tackle!!

Jim Kelly, Freshman Grigger, Looks Tough to Foes

By EARL CLARK A shifty halfback makes a drive toward the right side of the line. The hole that was there vanishes as something big and hard stops him dead in his tracks, and the next thing he knows he is in the arms of old mother earth. For a moment the stunned halfback can't decide whether the bleachers fell in on him, or whether he had cracked into the stone wall down at the other end of the field. But after picking daisies and taking a short course in astronomy, the bewildered ball fater opened his eyes to see a big, black headed, fellow smiling down upon him. All-State And this big genial fellow is Jim Kelly. For two years Jim has seen would be ground gainers sprawling on various parts of their anatomy for the Central Sioux City high eleven, and for these two years Central high has been undefeated and has claimed the state championship. Jim has been an important cog in this strong high school football machine and last year he was named as an all state tackle. Versatile Kelly should have lots of football left in that powerful build of his. Although he is only 18 years old he weighs 218 pounds and towers to a height of six feet three inches. Jim has also played basketball in his prep school days but here at the university he is going to concentrate his efforts upon football. Then, he says, if he has time, he will go out for golf. Bad luck crossed Kelly's path early this year. After reporting for practice for only three days he broke his foot, but now, once more, he is setting the pace for the yearling tackles. Takes Pre-Law Not only is Jim an athlete but also a student. His main reason for coming to Iowa, he says, is to study law. With piling up football players, swinging golf clubs, and burning the mid-night oil over law books, Kelly is apt to be a busy lad. The university rifle club and members of the varsity and ROTC small-bore squads will meet Thursday evening in the armory to organize activities for the coming year. New students in the university who have been members of small-bore teams may report to Capt. Earl F. Paynter, director and coach of the teams, for immediate enrollment as members of the club. Other new men who desire to take up shooting, but who have never received any instructions, will be considered upon completion of the marksmanship course which is given to all freshman basic military students. In order that students who are busy during the day may have an opportunity to shoot, the small-bore range in the armory will be open from 7 to 9 p.m. on Tuesday and Thursday evenings. The squad emerged from Friday's game entirely sound in body and considerably improved in mind, and with this newly born confidence to drive them on, the Irish will go to North English with the determination of registering a decisive win in the final contest of the year.

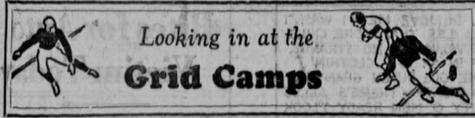

Kistlermen Prepare for West Branch

One more victory and University high can put in claim for the Eastern Iowa Eight conference title, but that win must be over the powerful West Branch eleven when they meet the river school next Friday. Coach Joy Kistler of the Blue only shakes his head when thinking of the game. Last week University high administered a smashing 28 to 7 defeat to Mt. Vernon to continue their undefeated conference and season record. The same afternoon West Branch won over Monticello, 7 to 0, defeating the team that held the Blue to a scoreless tie. This bodes no good for the local outfit, especially after last night's reporting of river school graders showed injuries to two of the regular players. Bob Myers, quarterback, turned up with a badly injured right knee and spent the evening under the heat treatment. Jack Hinman, guard, reported with a slightly sprained ankle. Numerous other minor hurts hampered the squad. Only a light workout was handed the squad, signal drill and an easy scrimmage being the order. Last Friday saw the Blue playing the game smoothly for the first time this season. Lorence Fuhrmeister and Bob Schoenbein turning loose powerful offensive thrusts. They will have to continue in the same vein to stop the West Branchers. The Cedar county outfit sports a fullback, Moore by name, who is touted as being more powerful than Fuhrmeister in about all phases of the game. "Ts said that Moore is as big as the river school star, faster, a passer, and a blocker. Two powerful backs will help him in the ball totting department. Annual Fall Javelin Throw Starts Today The annual fall Rotary Cup javelin throw will be held on old Iowa field tomorrow and Thursday from 3 to 4 o'clock. The competition is open to any man in school except varsity lettermen, and previous winners. The winner's name and distance will be engraved on the traveling trophy. Francis X. Cretzmeyer won last year. Bob Zuppke's teams in 21 football seasons at the University of Illinois have won 48 and lost five games, in intersectional competition.

Ryan Hands Tough Work to St. Pat's

Having finally tasted the fruits of victory, a confident group of St. Pat gridders buckled down to work yesterday afternoon for what may be the final contest of the season, that scheduled with North English high a week from Friday. Because of the sudden decision of the Mechanicsville high school to abandon football for the remainder of the year due to an unusual amount of injuries suffered by its players, the Irish will be idle this week, unless Father Ryan is successful in arranging a tilt before that time. With a glittering 6-0 win over Kalona, the Irish are naturally irked by this lack of an opponent. However, it is quite possible that some sort of scrimmage may be held against the alumni or a similar organization. A review of the Kalona game shows that the St. Pat's are finally responding to the patient coaching of Father Ryan. The team worked quite smoothly, and though somewhat out-weighted, managed to outcharge the opposing line consistently. Although the margin of victory was rather thin, the score in no way indicated the superiority of the Shamrocks over the Kalona eleven, for the team was at least two or three touchdowns better than that day. The squad emerged from Friday's game entirely sound in body and considerably improved in mind, and with this newly born confidence to drive them on, the Irish will go to North English with the determination of registering a decisive win in the final contest of the year.

Warm Weather, New Pins Hamper Bowlers

By DICK NORRIS Bowling in the Playmoor league last night was decidedly spotted, due to extremely warm weather and brand new pins which had to be hit harder than the Minnesota interference to make them stay put.

Lee Bailey sort of did himself proud in his last game, last night, when eight strikes in a row netted him 275 pins for high single game. Linder, a Bailey teammate, grabbed off the largest individual three game total with a count of 582 which is good enough any time.

The Kraft Boosters, a ladies team from Chicago, rolled at the Playmoor alleys Monday afternoon, against a local ladies team and took the three game series in spite of the good luck tokens of the Iowa City women.

Mrs. Lucy was high for single game with 166, and also for the series with 457. The Chicago ladies team total was 1914 as against 1753 for the home guards.

Trojan Trio Makes Big Attempt to Fill Shoes of Brothers

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Three brothers of Troy's grid greats of other years are helping defend the honors of the University of Southern California this fall.

While none of them has reached the heights of his illustrious elder, all three are figuring prominently in a football system which relies on a great manpower.

Frank Williamson, a running guard on the second squad, now a senior, found the dizzy pace set by Stanley, center and captain of the national championship eleven of 1931, too fast for him.

Johnny Dye followed more closely in the footsteps of George, who was first string center before Williamson. Johnny, as a senior is second string pivot man, not far behind Curtis Tovel.

King Hall, 217 pounds of sophomore guard, didn't start as promisingly as his little brother Bob, a 190-pound tackle. Bob smashed right into the first string lineup in his first sophomore game and stuck it out.

Football Upsets Mark Play in Every Section of Country

Leaders Today were Down at Bottom Last Year

By EDWARD J. NEIL (Associated Press Staff Writer) NEW YORK, Oct. 30 (AP)—A Rip Van Winkle of football, dozing off after consuming his Sunday diet of scores just a year ago, would never believe his eyes if he were to awaken today and look the situation over.

There's Michigan all right, sweeping on toward another Big Ten championship. Nebraska looks familiar in the Big Six saddle. Utah once more is manhandling the Rocky Mountain conference. And Michigan State beating Syracuse has a familiar ring.

The Mighty Fall But where are the headlines heralding the might of Southern California, the ferocity of Notre Dame, the unbeaten, untied, unscored upon Raiders from Colgate, the power of the Horned Frogs of Texas Christian, the eligibility of Pittsburgh's Golden Panthers for another Rose Bowl engagement?

Princeton Was Weak Princeton hadn't won a major game in four years. Georgia, beaten by Tulane and Vanderbilt, tied by North Carolina, was celebrating the first victory of the season, a 33 to 12 beating handed Florida. Holy Cross, Arkansas, and Louisiana State university. On the basis of last year's standings entering the crucial month of November, the situation today looks like a series of gross exaggerations. In brief, here's a thumbnail comparison of the present and a past that dates back one single year.

One Year Ago This is Monday, Oct. 31, 1932. Southern California, not even scored upon, had whipped Utah, Washington State, Oregon State, Loyola of Los Angeles and Stanford, and was waiting to pounce on California, Oregon, Washington, Notre Dame, and finally Pittsburgh in the Rose Bowl.

Notre Dame, after piling up 117 points on Haskell, Drake and Carnegie Tech, had bowed 12 to 0 to Pittsburgh in a tremendous upset. Colgate had scored 195 points, 35 of them against Lafayette. Among Pitt's victims was a fine Army team. Tennessee, having just beaten Duke, 16 to 13, still rode a two-year victory trail and Auburn, with triumphs over Duke, Georgia Tech, Tulane and Mississippi, was another southern terror.

Princeton Was Weak Princeton hadn't won a major game in four years. Georgia, beaten by Tulane and Vanderbilt, tied by North Carolina, was celebrating the first victory of the season, a 33 to 12 beating handed Florida. Holy Cross had just skinned past Catholic U., preparatory to losing to Harvard and Brown, being tied by Manhattan and Boston college. Oregon had tied Washington, lost to U.C.L.A. Fordham had just been edged out 3 to 0 by Boston college. Minnesota had just been knocked out of the Big Ten race by Purdue.

Minnesota is the terror of the Big Ten, the mid-west sensation, with successive victories over Pitt and Iowa after tying Indiana and Purdue. Fordham stands unbeaten, a 2 to 0 conqueror of Alabama. Oregon has beaten Washington, Idaho, U.C.L.A. Holy Cross has beaten Harvard and Brown in successive Saturdays. Georgia has beaten everyone, including New York U. 25 to 0. Arkansas is the new power of the Southwest conference, and L.S.U. has beaten Arkansas among others. Princeton is headed for an undefeated season.

Wired Picture But the wierdest of all is the picture today of last year's bell weather. Southern Cal has been tied by Oregon State and barely beat California, 6 to 3. Notre Dame has been whipped on successive Saturdays by Carnegie Tech and Pittsburgh, the latter bowled over by Minnesota. Lafayette held Colgate to a scoreless tie. Tennessee dropped two in a row to Duke and Alabama before beating Florida.

In fact if it wasn't for Army beating Yale 21 to 0, even Rip wouldn't believe it. Chinese students pay a yearly tuition fee of $4 in government universities.

THAT'S MY BOY! by FRANCIS WALLACE AUTHOR OF "HUDDLE"

SYNOPSIS The old home town—tiny Athens in the midwest—is awaiting the return of its most celebrated son, "Big Jeff" Randolph, for two seasons a national football sensation at famous Thorndyke, one of the most historic of eastern universities. Thorndyke's influences had lured Randolph east because he had been a high school grid marvel. On vacations, some of which he spent at home, Tommy (as he was known to his mom and Pop and other admiring Athenians) was "the glass of fashion and the mould of form" and an airy orator of household manners. Dorothy Whitney, daughter of the town's richest citizen, had been Tommy's high school girl friend but a rift had slowly come between them until the dazzling Thorndyke hero had become enamored of Elaine Winthrop, artist and daughter of a Wall Street magnate. Tommy is coming home for Christmas; Athens is astir with preparations for a testimonial dinner. Mom pays all of six dollars for a fine white shirt for Tommy and wonders if he will approve of Steve, his brother Pete's fiancée, who is so lovable but not at all like Dorothy or Elaine.

CHAPTER TWENTY-SIX These were some of the things Mom thought of while she got ready for Christmas, cleaning up the house and planning the dinner. She was going to have a big crowd with her own and Uncle Louie and then she had asked Pete if he wouldn't like to ask Steve and her father, since they were alone; and Pete had looked so pleased that Mom was glad she could do something nice for him because Pete was always doing things for her although he never complained. And when Pete told her to ask Steve and Mom did, poor Steve just took one look at her and started to cry without any warning at all, right before Pop and Uncle Louie so that the two of them got right up and went out which was more sense than Mom gave either one of them credit for; and Pete went out too. Steve was still wiping her eyes and sobbing and, when Mom put her arms around her and tried to comfort her, Steve broke down entirely and told Mom it was because she had hardly known her own mother and they had always been so lonely on Christmas, just she and her father and that was why she cried because she had always wanted a big Christmas and never thought she would get it. And the two of them, with only little black Nippy sitting looking up at them, had a little cry together because Mom had never had a daughter, either, and now, she told herself, she didn't care whether Tommy approved of Steve or not, because the poor kid was worth her weight in gold. When Steve started laughing while she was still crying and wiped her eyes and said everybody would think she was a goof, carrying on like that but Mom told her not to worry about that and that it did a person good to break down once in a while. Then they started to plan the dinner together and Mom was surprised how much Steve knew about housework; and she was glad, too, because it was going to be a big job with all of them around and the banquet and everything; and now she wouldn't have to call on Cousin Emmy to help and that would be a big relief because the poor thing only got in the way although she meant well, Tommy couldn't stand her chatter anyhow.

The banquet was going over big and it seemed everybody in town wanted to go and a lot from Smithville, too. Tommy made some of the All-American teams; he didn't quite make the big one but Jack Chalmers said this was because most of the ones on the big one were seniors and it was their last chance; and anyhow, he observed, since Walter Camp died they were all about the same, and everybody knew Tommy was All-American whether they all gave it to him or not. Mom didn't quite understand about the All-American but she naturally had an idea that everybody on it had to be an American and she didn't see why they didn't pick Tommy because he had such a good American name; but when she mentioned this to Pop he laughed right out in disgust because he was pretty sore about Tommy not making all the teams. "It's a joke!" Pop said. "Why don't they call it a No-American team or an All-Hunky Team or an All-Dago team with all the names on it. It's a wonder they give him any mention at all because he ain't got a 'sh' on the end of his name." "All them boys is American born," Uncle Louie said, "that is what makes our great democracy with fresh blood from all countries." "Rats!" Pop said, "it's like everything else, Americans don't get any show at all, it's the forriners who're running everything. Like as not Al Capone told them who to pick like he tells them everything else. He's running the country with all the crooked politicians." "You come from forriners," Uncle Louie said, "what're you talking about?" "I'm three generations in this country," Pop said, "my gran' father fought at Gettysburg. That's more than you can say." "On your father's side, he did," Uncle Louie admitted, "but how about on your mother's side—your mother's father came from Ireland and both my grandfathers was in this town to meet him when he come." "And where did they come from?" Pop returned triumphantly, "both of them Johnny Bulls—don't tell me." "I'm just as American as you," Uncle Louie insisted, "maybe more." "How do you figure that?" Pop demanded; and they went into a long discussion, over the same points they had argued as many times. Mom didn't mind all long as they didn't get too loud. Dorothy Whitney came back home about a week before Christmas, looking prettier than ever and quite a bit more grown-up. Mom thought, with a lot of new clothes she had bought over east. She was very nice when Mom met her down street and Dorothy mentioned that she and her father had seen Tommy play one day and how fine he had played. Mom thought it would be nice if she could ask Dorothy and her father to Christmas dinner, too, but she didn't because there was the old Grandmother and anyhow they would be having a big Christmas at their own house although it would be kind of lonesome with only the three of them. "When is Tommy coming?" Dorothy asked. "I'm expecting him any time," Mom said. "I haven't just heard when but I suppose he wants to surprise us. I suppose you've heard about the banquet?" Dorothy hadn't heard so Mom told her all about it. She thought it was kind of funny the way Dorothy looked because she didn't seem quite as proud as Mom thought she would, a little high-hat, Mom thought, but she remembered that Dorothy did have some of the old Grandmother in her, after all. Tommy surprised them, all right; he surprised everybody. Two days before Christmas a special delivery came. Mom had never had a special before and she was so nervous she would hardly sign her name. The first thing she thought was that something might have happened to him; but then, the football was over for the year and the letter was in his own handwriting. Still, she had a strange feeling while she opened it, with nervous chills running all over her. She read the letter and over. Tommy wasn't coming home. He was sorry but he had been invited to spend the holidays with some rich friends in New York, on Park Avenue, he said, as if that was something big although Mom didn't know just why. Then the rest of the letter was all about a wonderful girl he had met, an artist with a real studio and lots of money and she wanted to paint his picture and to have him meet her family. At first Mom had a sick feeling in her stomach and a headache; so she took an aspirin and laid down on the couch in the sitting room for awhile and then she began to feel a little better. Tommy knew what he was doing and he wouldn't stay away from home on Christmas unless it was the best thing to do. Yes, that was it. Tommy wouldn't want to miss Christmas at home and he would miss them as much as they missed him, and the least his folks could do would be to help him out and not make the poor boy feel any worse than he did. She told that to them that night when they had all finished eating as she didn't want to spoil their supper (it was ham and cabbage and both Pop and Pete always liked it). "The big bum!" Pete said. "Now, Pete," Mom started to say; but Pete got up and put on his coat and took Nippy and went out without saying another word. Mom didn't know what to make of his acting that way. Pop just looked at her funny and didn't say anything for a while but went into the sitting room and sat looking in the coal fire for a long time. Then he put on his coat and got a fresh paper of Mail Pouch and he went out, too. Uncle Louie kept on eating—he wouldn't have to get out of his room, now; Mom had been wondering what she would do with him and that was something off her mind, anyhow. She cleared up the supper dishes when Uncle Louie finished, washed them, put them away, shook the table cloth, wiped the draining board, swept up the kitchen, just as always, as though nothing had happened. It was a funny Christmas without Tommy. Everybody did as usual. Pete got up for early church, as he always liked to do, then came home and took a nap. Mom went to a later church and came home and Steve was there and they started to get the dinner. Pop went to late church. Uncle Louie had stopped going to church a long time back but he was up early and down town and back in time for dinner. Pete and Steve cut up a lot and little Nippy pranced around; then they all sat down to eat as though nothing had happened, as though nobody was absent. Mom tried to act as though nothing had happened, as though it wasn't the first Christmas dinner without Tommy, and she carried it off pretty well; but all the time her head was full of him and of every Christmas before and . . . she remembered every little toy Santa Claus had left for him and all the noise he had always made on Christmas.

R. Fitzgerald Lauds S.U.I. at Luncheon

Declares University Is Growing Culturally, Structurally

Iowa university, with its rapid growth structurally, is also growing culturally, said Rufus H. Fitzgerald, director of the school of fine arts in the university, at the Chamber of Commerce luncheon in the American Legion Community building yesterday noon.

Iowa Union, he said, is not just a clubhouse and pool hall as is the case in so many instances, but is a place for relaxation and cultural improvement.

New Building
Cultural advantages will be increased with the building of the new fine arts building just across the river from the Union, he said. He went on to say that work should start on the building before Christmas. Bids for the building will be accepted within the next three weeks. There is now available for the building the original $100,000 from the Carnegie foundation plus an additional $10,000 donated in two $5,000 checks by an anonymous giver. There will also be some money forthcoming from the government Director Fitzgerald said.

Describes Building
In his description of the building he said that it is to be in the form of an H with studios on the two sides and an exhibit hall in the center. It will be 220 feet long with a center section 70 by 40 feet. "We owe the rapid development of the campus to the ceaseless effort of President Jessup," he said, "and to the co-operation of the state board of education." He also said that he doubted if there was any other community more loyal to such an institution in its midst than are the people of Iowa City.

Shows Picture
Professor Fitzgerald exhibited a picture of the Iowa university campus as it was in 1916, when President Jessup came and then showed another of the campus as it is today. The whole campus west of the river has been built up since that time, he said, and a great deal of it east of the river.

It is hoped, he said, that in the immediate future the whole campus can be built in, with an addition to the south wing of Iowa Union, the library and a building to balance the nurses home on the west.

Should Visit
Each person in Iowa City should visit the buildings of the campus, said Director Fitzgerald, "especially Old Capitol, for it is in reality a shrine which we should visit often." The buildings being so familiar to the people of Iowa City, they are more or less taken for granted, he said.

Charles E. Wise of the U. S. department of commerce in charge of re-locating the airline between Omaha and Chicago was introduced. He expects to be here for the next six months, Dr. W. L. Bywater said in introducing him.

AROUND THE TOWN with DICK FAGAN

Hot
Yesterday was October's hottest day, with the mercury reaching a high of 79 degrees—some blame it on the heat the Iowa squad showed yesterday in skull practice after losing to Minnesota Saturday.

Dinner
Iowa City merchants will meet at the American Legion Community building at 6:15 tonight for dinner and to discuss the retail codes.

Last Round-Up
Iowa City police were busy yesterday afternoon chasing a horse all over the south end of town. The animal was finally led into the stock yards.

What Then?
What about the Iowa Citizen who came back from the game with arm bandaged? He says he wasn't in a car accident, didn't get in a fight—but what did happen?

Government Bonds Lead Market Fall

NEW YORK, Oct. 30 (AP)—Domestic bonds, led by United States government securities, turned rather heavy today as conflicting news developments apparently inspired fresh liquidation in both prime investments and secondary groups.

Sales totaled $12,448,000, par value. The average for 60 domestic corporate issues declined three-tenths of a point.

Among the more active rails, off fractions to 2 or more points, were some loans of Santa Fe, Allegheny Corp., Baltimore & Ohio, Chesapeake Corp., Chesapeake & Ohio, St. Paul, Chicago & Northwestern, Rock Island, Great Northern, N. Y. Central, Nickel Plate, Union Pacific and Wabash.

Similar utility and industrial issues included issues of American Telephone, Consolidated Gas, Goodrich, Inland Steel, International Telephone, McKesson, Portland General Electric and Postal Telegraph.

The federal list was more active than in some weeks with declines ranging from one-thirty-second to fifteen-thirty-seconds of a point.

Some foreign obligations advanced sharply as the dollar reacted. Bonds of Dutch East Indies, France, Japan and Poland held gains of 2 to around 5 points.

Stocks Drag Wheat Down

CHICAGO, Oct. 30 (AP)—Jolted by abrupt stock market disturbances, wheat values turned sharply downward at the last today after having risen 2 1-4 cents.

The advance of wheat was based chiefly on announcement of United States government moves to purchase foreign gold, and was also aided by almost 5,000,000 bushels decrease of the United States wheat visible supply in the last week, making the total supply in sight about 43,000,000 bushels less than at this time last year. Wheat price gains were knocked endways, however, when securities underwent a tumble.

Closes Nervous
Wheat closed nervous at the same as Saturday's finish to 1 7-8 cents lower, corn 1 1-4, 1 3-4 down, oats 1 1-8, 2 7-8 off, and provisions varying from 10 cents decline to 12 cents advance.

Attention of wheat traders most of the day focused strongly on news that the United States government would enter the world's gold market as a buyer. Brisk upturns of all grain prices were witnessed as soon as business here began, wheat quickly mounting to 23 cents above low levels touched two weeks ago, the season's bottom record.

Step jumps in British exchange were construed as bullish regarding wheat, and so too was a de-

Local Family Hurt as Auto, Wagon Crash

Death was narrowly escaped Sunday night by Dr. and Mrs. Isom A. Rankin and their three children when their car ran into a long pole protruding from a farm wagon.

Howard Paul, 9, and Frederick, 12, received severe cuts and bruises. Dr. and Mrs. Rankin and their daughter, Dorothy Neil, 10, were less severely cut.

Dr. Rankin, who was returning here from Des Moines, said he was unable to see the wagon because it carried no light. The long timber crashed through the windshield between Dr. and Mrs. Rankin into the head of their daughter, who was sitting between them, and into the back seat between their two sons, and then out through the back end, wrecking the car.

The farmer and his two young sons, riding atop the wagon, were uninjured.

Stocks Rally, Then Relapse

NEW YORK, Oct. 30 (AP)—The first reaction of speculative markets today to the government's extended gold purchasing program was a rally, but enthusiasm soon waned and prices suffered a relapse.

Stocks had a weak last hour and were down 1 to more than 5 points net. Previously, they had slid slowly downward from initial gains of about 1 to 3 points and were holding their own fairly well until Wall Street heard that steel production was much lower than a week ago. Reports to this effect, later borne out, seemed to stimulate active selling.

Mining shares led the early rally, which had for its basis the inflationary aspects which some traders thought they saw in the Washington news. However, gains by these stocks were largely lost. Elsewhere, late weakness was general.

American Can, American Telephone, Case, Allied Chemical and Union Pacific slumped 3 to 5 net. U. S. Steel was down more than 2; so were Westinghouse, New York Central, U. S. Smelting, Du Pont and Chrysler. The average decline in the Standard Statistics-Associated Press composite was just 3 points. Transactions totaled 1,489,130 shares, about half of which changed hands in the last hour.
