CUBANS SEIZE REBEL STRONGHOLD

Hawkeyes Base Title Hopes on Tomorrow's Clash With Wolverines

Both Teams Need Win to Stay in Race

Ninth Game in Series Started 33 Years Ago

Two teams, one the conference champions for three consecutive years, the other the dark horse candidate to pull an upset, today eagerly await the whistle that will herald the opening of another Iowa-Michigan clash tomorrow afternoon.

The contest is of deep significance to both elevens. Iowa will be fighting desperately to retain its place in the conference title race. Michigan likewise, will be striving to retain its hold on a fourth consecutive title.

The Wolverines will also have another record to uphold—that of having defeated all their conference opponents in the last 13 starts.

Michigan Favored

Wise money favors Michigan to take Iowa in its stride and continue on to the title. Wise money, however, does not reckon on the spirit of that has entered the Hawkeye camp this week. Not since the early sessions of the season have the Hawks practiced with such fury and ability as they have displayed throughout the week's preparations for this game. Sophomore reserves have come to the fore with a display of power that has warmed the heart of Coach Ossie Solem and sent shivers of fear through the spines of the regulars.

Michigan's experienced, heavy line, reinforced by a capable, bone-crushing backfield has meted out severe punishment to all and sundry thus far, and has proved particularly disagreeable to opposing forward walls. Solem's newly developed reserves may prove the balance that will turn the tide in Iowa's favor, tomorrow, for he can now send in capable men for each line position with no loss of power to the team.

Four to Two

Though the Iowa-Michigan series had its inception way back in 1900, only eight games have been played between the two elevens. The Wolverines hold the series edge with four wins as against two for Iowa. Two games have ended in ties. The last meeting between the two conference foes was in the memorable fall of 1929 when a great Hawk team battled its way out of the title picture on a scoreless tie with the Wolverines.

The picture today is much the same as then. If Iowa wins tomorrow, they will be well up in the title race. Should they lose, title hopes will be but a memory. Even a tie will not help for the Wolverine has not been defeated nor tied this season.

The stage is set and ready for what may turn out to be the most talked of game in mid-western football. The curtain will rise tomorrow but in the meantime coaches of both elevens have their worries and their satisfactions to keep them busy.

Experienced Team

Coach Harry Kipke can feel secure in that he is relying on a team of veterans, not one of whom is playing his first year of big time stars of national prominence including the much heralded Bernard Astor and the rugged Wistert at tackle. In the backfield, play the consistently good punter, Reggez and the ball-tossing Everhardus, halfback deluxe.

To balance up his ledger, however, Kipke has memories—very vivid ones—of the lethargic manner in which his team deserted itself while eking out a one point win over the Illini last week. Only good fortune and the time's gun left the task of defeating the Wolverine up to Iowa.

Coach Solem takes his Hawkeyes to Ann Arbor, clearly doped as the underdog in tomorrow's battle. The position of underdog is not a new one to the Hawkeyes, though, and heretofore they have found it a pleasant one as the Wildcats of Northwestern can testify.

Rugged Forwards

Michigan will not present the only rugged line in the contest. Though slightly outweighed by the Wolverines, Iowa linemen have done better than hold their own this season and have established an enviable record for turning back plays.

Such stars as Schammel, Moore, and Foster will make the going tough for Wolverine backs. Ready

No Class Recess for Armistice Day

Armistice day will not bring any cessation of classes to University of Iowa students.

At 11 a.m., however, university faculty and students will join with city residents in a one-minute pause of silent tribute to the World war dead and the university band and selected members of the R.O.T.C. unit will participate in a parade.

Plan Revenue Systems for U. S. Liquor

Prohibition Agents Will Concentrate on Big Bootleggers

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9 (AP)—Disposition to concentrate on the sale of liquor was indicated today by federal officials as the policy that would govern their actions between now and the effective date of repeal of the eighteenth amendment.

At the same time, it was made clear that prohibition agents would concentrate their activities on the rounding up of big bootleggers and racketeers.

Moonshine Distillers

The drive for collection of revenues would bring federal agents into action along the line that their duties will pursue after repeal becomes effective on Dec. 5. This would include an endeavor to collect revenues from moonshine distillers.

The policy upon which federal officials were said to have agreed would direct their activities toward collecting revenues from liquor instead of prosecuting small offenders.

Saloons Opened

In many cities of the country, saloons have been opened wide to all comers. If such a policy was outlined were followed closely, it would put federal officials on the trail of revenues from the liquor sold and after the big liquor handlers rather than setting them on the operators of small liquor selling establishments.

The policy was outlined at about the same time that President Roosevelt went into a meeting with a special committee of cabinet officers to fix government policy on a multitude of questions affecting repeal.

Representatives Present

Meeting with the president were representatives of the state, treasury, commerce, agriculture, and justice departments.

From that conference came an agreement to permit a relaxation in the liquor import embargo to permit a replenishing of medicinal supplies between now and repeal.

It was also agreed to ask for only a moderate tax on liquors after repeal in an effort to discourage bootlegging and make it unprofitable.

Strub's Will Give Painting Lessons

An art department, consisting of life-time plaques painted in oil, was installed yesterday at Strub's department store. Mrs. E. M. McCallum of Omaha, Neb., is in charge of the department, and with every sale will give free instructions in plaque painting.

Mrs. McCallum received art instruction in Toronto, Can., and also took lessons from Thomas Workman of Peterborough, Can., and Mrs. F. Maumauh of Omaha. While in Omaha, Mrs. McCallum conducted a private art studio.

Johnson 'Amazed' at Farm Program's Midwest Welcome

'Would Have Stayed in Washington If I'd Known It!'

KANSAS CITY, Nov. 9 (AP)—Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, NRA administrator, declared upon his arrival here today from Omaha that he was "amazed" by the favorable reception of the Roosevelt recovery program in the midwest.

"If I had known the opposition was no stronger than what I find it to be," he said, "I certainly would have remained in Washington."

His trip through the midwest was arranged, he explained, for the pur-

Enrollment in Medicine May Be Restricted

Majority Report of Iowa Committee Would Set Limit on Graduates

Enrollment at the University of Iowa college of medicine will be restricted so that not more than an average of 75 students will be graduated each year, if provisions of a majority report of a committee appointed to study conditions at University hospital are adopted by the special session of the state legislature.

An Associated Press dispatch from Des Moines last night said that the report had been drawn up, and had been signed by five of the nine members of the committee. Dr. Oliver Fay of Des Moines, a member of the committee, indicated that he expected other members of the group to sign it. The report will then be submitted to Gov. Clyde Herring.

Entrance Requirements

It is planned to restrict enrollment by enforcing more stringent entrance requirements. The percentage of reduction which this would effect is indicated by the statement of hospital officials last night that 93 students were graduated last year, and the average over the last decade was 84. A smaller number is expected to be graduated this year. Officials declined to make any further statements on the proposed restrictions.

A minority report, which the dispatch said had not yet been written, is being prepared by Dr. E. E. Munger of Spencer. It is expected that the minority report will recommend moving the hospital unit to Des Moines.

Other Provisions

Other provisions of the majority report follow closely the provisions of a preliminary report submitted last April.

The recommendations are that half the basic hospital costs for indigent patients be charged to the counties from which they are sent; that indigents will be received by the hospital in case they can be received within 30 days—otherwise the counties will be required to provide care; that investigation of indigent cases be placed under the supervision of the county boards of supervisors; that the physician's examination fee be reduced from $5 to $3, and the escort's wages from $3 to $2 per day; that material for the hospital shall be purchased through open competitive bidding; that indigent patients will be responsible for the county's share of hospital costs, to be collected when possible; and that hospital costs be collected from patients other than indigents before they are admitted.

Finances

Provisions for placing financial affairs of the hospital in the hands of state auditing officials, contained in the first report, were stricken from this final draft. Several other changes were made in the preliminary report.

Dr. Munger's minority report is believed to be favored also by Senator Patterson, another member of the committee.

Other members of the committee are Senators E. R. Hicklin and Morris Moore, Representatives John Speidel and Paul W. Millhone, A. W. Erskine, and Dr. W. A. Sternberg.

Filipino Women Granted Suffrage

MANILA, Nov. 9 (AP)—Suffrage was granted the women of the Philippines today.

Pajama Clad, 30 Quadranglers Join in Adieu to Team

Clad in pajamas, Quadranglers last night paraded Iowa City streets to the station to tell the Iowa team that they didn't care much for the whole state of Michigan.

Reminiscent of the spirit of 1922, the 30 men in pajamas and 70 others in overcoats tramped around the train, where the footballers were preparing to "turn in" for the night, shouting for a Michigan defeat.

Goltz Illness Delays Trial

Court Postpones Mail Fraud Case Till Further Notice

SIOUX CITY, Nov. 9 (AP)—Illness of Defense Attorney Carlos Goltz today delayed further the continuation of the trial of Oscar M. Hartzell for mail fraud in connection with his prosecution of claims to the Sir Francis Drake estate.

Other Postponements

Goltz' illness caused postponements Monday and Tuesday, but he was able to appear yesterday. His physicians, however, ordered him to remain at home today and Federal Judge George C. Scott permitted further postponement.

Judge Scott indicated that the case would be postponed as long as necessary in order that Goltz might regain his health sufficiently to present a fair defense case. He is presently from quinsy.

One More Day

P. M. Young, Goltz' associate in the defense, told the court that, barring extended cross examination, the defense probably could complete its testimony in another day.

Government attorneys suggested that the defense make arrangements for another attorney to shoulder the burden of the active work in the court room, leaving Goltz to direct the proceedings.

Scott, however, ruled that Goltz had carried the bulk of the work thus far and in the interests of a fair trial record it was necessary that he continue to do so. He indicated that unless this course were followed it might be necessary to declare a mistrial.

Mercury Sinks to 20 Degrees Here

A new low temperature for the season, 20 degrees, was recorded yesterday morning, according to Prof. John F. Reilly, official weather observer. The temperature at 7 a.m. yesterday was 21 degrees and at 7 p.m. it was 23 degrees. The highest temperature recorded yesterday was 29 degrees.

Officials Sued

DAVENPORT (AP)—Judgments totaling $33,756.17 were ordered entered against J. Frank Reddy, former Scott county treasurer, Victor Paustain, deputy, and Charles D. Curtis, a clerk, in suits by the county to recover losses due to alleged embezzlements of Paustain and Curtis.

The general said that when he left Washington, he expected to be heckled at his public appearance, especially at those in the farm belt. "But I have not been heckled a single time," he said.

Johnson said that the farmers of Iowa and Nebraska had received him and his speeches "well."

Expect Early Decision on Soviet Stand

Preliminaries Over, F. R., Litvinoff Will Confer Today

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9 (AP)—Preliminaries apparently over, an early decision on Russian recognition was fore-shadowed by a conference arranged for tomorrow between President Roosevelt and Maxim Litvinoff, the Soviet state's foreign minister.

A band composed of one French horn, a snare drum, a clarinet, a trumpet and a nose horn ran through its repertoire of pep songs in Sousa style, while the wind whistled up pajama legs.

Bob's Grocery, 519 S. Dodge street, was ransacked and an attempt was made to rob Goldberg's Grocery, Bowery street, Wednesday night.

The thieves jimmied a window at Bob's Grocery to gain entrance. They took $12 in cash and merchandise. Included in the money stolen was a quarter with the impression of George Washington's head on it. There were only a few of these minted.

The door of Goldberg's Grocery was badly jimmied, but the would-be robbers were either frightened away or were unable to force the door open.

Proprietor of Oldest Local Business Dies

William E. Shrader, Veteran Druggist, Succumbs

William E. Shrader, 77, Iowa City's oldest business man, died at 5:15 yesterday from heart failure. Although Mr. Shrader had been sick for the last year he had been going to his drug store every day until yesterday.

Active Mason

He attended the public schools here and bought the drug store at College and Clinton streets 53 years ago. He served on the city council in 1899 and 1900, and was president of the school board for a number of years. He was an active Mason and lacked only two weeks of being a member of that organization for 50 years. He was also a member of the White Shrine.

Daughter, Son

He is survived by one daughter, Mrs. Stanley Tanner of Berkeley, Cal., and one son, Dr. John Shrader of Ft. Dodge. His wife preceded him in death 20 years ago. One son, Edwin, graduate of West Point, was killed in an airplane accident 12 years ago. Shrader football field was named in his memory.

His father, the late Dr. John Shrader, was a member of the faculty of the university college of medicine.

Funeral arrangements have not yet been completed. The body is at the Hohenhohum mortuary.

Snipers Active

At nightfall snipers were active and scattered rifle and machine gun fire burst forth throughout the city. Survivors said the walls had begun to crumble. Among the casualties were about 100 wounded rebels.

Dolphin Club Gives Banquet for Show Cast

Queen, Attendants Are Given Presents of Appreciation

Dolphin honorary swimming fraternity showed its appreciation to those who played major parts in "Redskin Revels," 1933 edition of the club's annual water pageant, produced last week, by a banquet and presentation of gifts at Iowa Union last night.

With Wentworth Lobdell, Hawkeye Big Ten diving champ for three consecutive years, serving as toastmaster, gifts were presented to the queen, Jeanne Anderson, A2 of Normal, Ill., and her four attendants, Ruth Millett, J4 of Memphis, Tenn.; Eugene Whitman, A3 of Pueblo, Colo.; Marie Jeffrey, A2 of Cedar Rapids, and Lucille Sve, A2 of Sioux City.

Griswold

Gifts were also given to the feature clown and acrobat, Larry Griswold of Chicago; electrical technician, Frank Nelson; adagio dancer, Catherine Grimm; three year old star, Sue Ellis, and Dolphin president and show director, Bill Busby.

Speeches were made by Coach Dave Armbruster, Irving Weber, Iowa's former All-American, and Bill Busby, present holder of that distinction.

Armbruster Talks

Coach Armbruster gave a brief talk on previous stars of the 14 year old Dolphin show institution. Mr. Weber remembered past shows and compared them with what he called the climax of them all, "Redskin Revels," and Mr. Busby thanked everyone as a group and individually for each member's part in the production.

More than 45 varsity and freshman swimmers, gymnasts, and others who participated in the pageant were present at the banquet.

Red Cross Roll Call Nets $1,212

The Red Cross roll call has netted $1,202.62 with approximately 1,000 members so far in the campaign, said C. O. Nolan, chairman of the Johnson county roll call, last night. This does not include pledges from Oakdale, Oxford, Tiffin, and Hills which will materially increase the total amount, Mr. Nolan said.

A follow up campaign will be conducted for the benefit of last year's members who were not solicited during the roll call. Persons who were out of town or out of their offices will be solicited also at this time. The campaign from now on will be conducted by mail and subsequent telephone calls, said Mr. Nolan.

"The roll call has been very successful so far," said Mr. Nolan, "and final results will exceed those of last year."

Witschi Will Talk to Zoology Faculty

Prof. Emil Witschi of the zoology department will discuss the problems of inductors of sex differentiation with the zoology faculty at a seminar this afternoon at 4 o'clock in room 307 zoology building.

Population Along Mississippi

As shown by the atlas, most of the population was distributed along the shores of the Mississippi river. In 1850 it was so called. And, of course, the atlas of that period shows Iowa City possessing the coveted star representing state capitals—a state capital with only 1,500 inhabitants!

Moreover, the Gilmore atlas lists only 50 of the 99 counties now known, with a total population of only 192,000 in the state as a whole.

Where long-established municipalities and thickly settled communities now stand, the map shows merely an expanse of green, broken only by an occasional rivulet.

A matter of 80 years may alter the complexion of a territory considerably, as is only too easily ascertained by comparison of a modern map with one of the age of the Gilmore atlas.

Tammany Tiger—
Down for the Count

THE TAMMANY tiger is down! He was defeated at the polls Tuesday not alone by the fiery Italian Fiorello LaGuardia and The New York Herald Tribune, as one might think. The Tammany tiger socked himself on the jaw.

Nearly a decade ago Tammany was defeated. There were a few who said then that Tammany was out, that New York had rid itself of the worst in its democratic government. But wiser ones looked back at the case of "Boss" Tweed, and realized that Tammany could never be beaten permanently. They reviewed the expose of the most gigantic graft ever uncovered in municipal government, the graft of Tweed and his gang, and New York's subsequent forgetfulness and return to the Tammany standard.

The election of nine years ago was not Tammany's downfall. It merely marked another of its temporary breathing spells. Tammany came back stronger than ever before the city's Democratic vote.

Once entrenched again, Tammany again started on its usual course, and the last decade, as a result, has shown a history of gross mismanagement of New York's municipal affairs.

The thing came to a climax with the mayoralty of Jimmie Walker. Oh, of course Walker wasn't crooked. But there were unexplained gifts and disappearing secretaries and mysterious bank accounts and expensive hotel suites and $40 shoes and healthful ocean voyages and—all anyhow there were things which were not quite savory.

The Seabury investigation started, the people of New York were really aroused, and just 14 months ago Mayor Walker, the "playboy" politician of New York, got out from under just in time.

McKee took his place as acting mayor. McKee was by no means a shining light in the political and democratic firmament, but he was a cleansing whitewash for the dirt of Walker's regime.

Tammany could not, of course, allow anyone who had set out to clean up after it carry its banners, so it refused McKee as a candidate and put in one of its usual graduates from the police beat ranks, John O'Brien. McKee wisely declined to run against him as an independent, but that the people had been aroused was indicated by the fact that nearly 150,000 wrote McKee's name on the ballot as their choice.

Mayor O'Brien's rule was unfortunate at this time. Though there seems to be nothing to indicate that it was exactly corrupt, the fact is that it did nothing to pull the city out of the financial hole into which it was sinking. It refused to make the necessary slashes in expenditures, preferring to take a chance on holding the allegiance of its ward politicians against the rising spirit of a minority of New Yorkers.

New York's Republicans got together with a few Democratic dissenters and decided that now, with the city facing bankruptcy, was the time to break Tammany's power. They selected as their candidate LaGuardia, whose name had always gone under the Republican heading, but who had never been considered a "party" man.

Tammany is down, but hardly out. For even the most ardent Republican or fusionist recognizes that, given half a chance, the tiger will return to the political ring, and will probably start again along the mismanagement route which means another cycle.

Ambition—
a la Mussolini!

A FEW MONTHS ago Mussolini kissed a returning hero on both cheeks, and thus officially welcomed back the man whom the world was applauding for the greatest mass flight in aviation history—General Italo Balbo.

A few days ago a government messenger delivered to General Balbo an official document ordering his transfer from his post as air minister to the governorship of Libya—buried away in Africa.

And Mussolini stepped into the position left vacant by the unwilling Balbo. So ended Balbo's hope and ambition, for Balbo was a threat, becoming far too popular for Il Duce.

In Mussolini's set-up there is no place for man with ambition. In all Italy no one may distinguish himself in any field, unless it pleases the fascist chief. He has effectively managed to keep everything under his thumb, whether it be political, literary, or any other field of human effort.

Friends, Romans, countrymen! We have come to bury Balbo's public service career. For it is said that Balbo was ambitious. . .

Football for Fun

(From The Christian Science Monitor)

Is intercollegiate football fun? Is it really a game for college youth, or are players pawns in public spectacles of tense, drudging "battles" built up from radio and press publicity and roaring crowds that whip excited players into an emotional frenzy of desperate competition?

Does the joy of rugged team play outweigh unbridled storms of public criticism for tactical mistakes, and the exaggerated sense of loss created by tomes of caustic news print that magnify defeat?

Questions such as these again arise as an aftermath to Saturdays of football competition on hundreds of college campuses from coast to coast. Football coaching positions, openly threatened, hang in the balance of victory or defeat, regardless of how much enjoyment a losing team derives from the teaching of its coach.

Two episodes stand out in this football season that throw significant light on these recurring questions. One is the story of Frank del Giorgio, California farm youth, whose opportunity for making the college football team depended upon the completion of the family's campaign in the fields. As a practical example of teamwork, the picture of 11 stalwart college youths getting in the Del Giorgio's alfalfa is unsurpassed. A 35 acre hay crop just couldn't stop their football fun.

Nor did a 200-mile overnight "hitch-hike" from Wilmington to West Point the other day daunt a University of Delaware student, a third-string guard whom the team was forced to leave behind for lack of funds. Thanks to an obliging motorist, the substitute reached the playing field in time to absorb a willing substitute's share of a glorious 52-0 beating.

Is football fun? Spectators may not always think so. But ask Farmer del Giorgio's boy, or Delaware's hitch-hiking third-string guard!

The story of the development of government from the simple, powerful, highly integrated, one man empire of Ghengis Khan to the complex organism of modern democracy is intricately interwoven with the story of the development of education and the spread of knowledge among the masses of the governed.

This is why so much importance attaches to the observance this week of "National Education Week," announced yesterday in a story in The Daily Iowan.

The significance of this week as a recognition of the vital part played by education in the formation of our type of government and of the necessity for even greater educational advance if that government is to survive, can be appreciated only when one considers the matter from the historical viewpoint.

Before the rise of the American form of democracy, it was generally conceded that the spread of knowledge among the masses was not only unnecessary, but unwise and dangerous as well.

This attitude was the result, not so much of greed or of a tyrannical tendency on the part of those in power, as of a sincere and apparently well-founded conviction that education of the common people would only encourage unnecessary dissension and disquiet.

This attitude was natural and sincere. Government by kings was an effective institution that was the result of long centuries of experience and chance. Its effectiveness—and, under ordinary circumstances, its integrity and justice—were satisfactory. Based upon the supreme sovereignty of one man, it did not depend upon universal intelligence for success.

It would be a great inspiration to me to play opposite Adrienne," says the young actor. "I could put sincerity into my work that audiences would be bound to feel."

In the flush of their happiness, both the players take issue with Frances Dee that two married people should not spend 24 hours of the day together.

"What could be more ideal?" they chorus.

Since it takes time to find a story, Adrienne and Bruce plan to sail for Honolulu, where they'll remain until their studios cable for them.

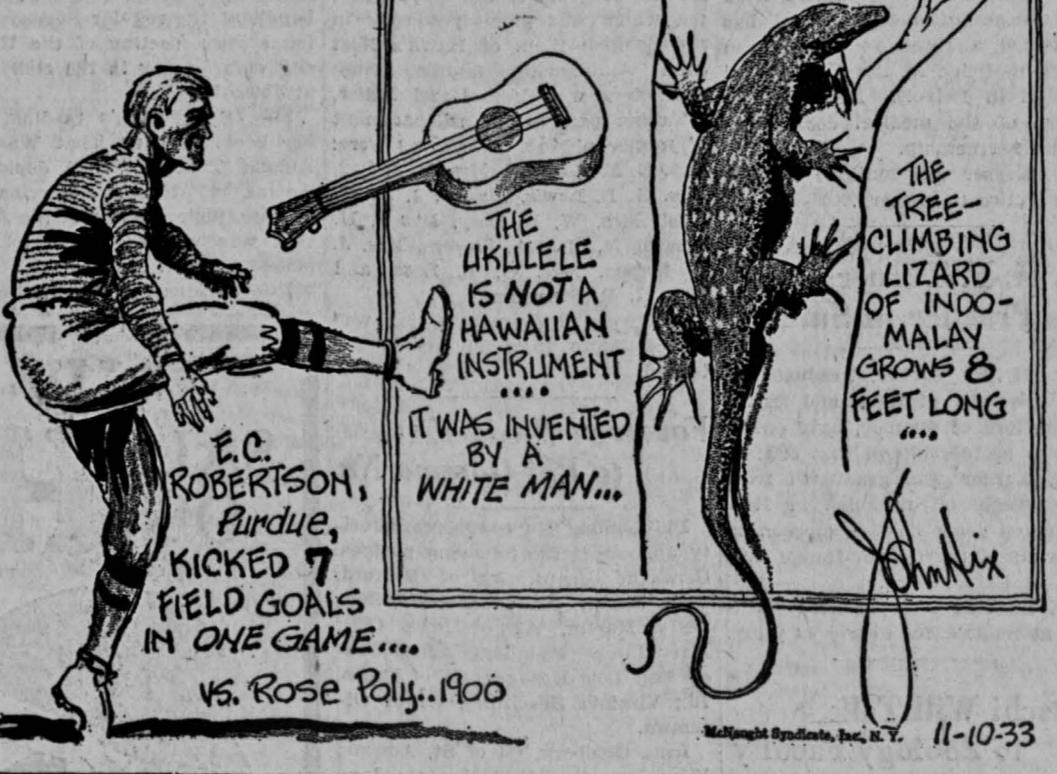

The pair announce plans for a honeymoon every six months. And

STUDIO GOSSIP

SCREEN COMMENT

By HARRISON CARROLL

HOLLYWOOD—Newlyweds Adrienne Ames and Bruce Cabot simply can't understand why Frances Dee and Joel McCrea don't want to appear in a picture together.

Honeymooning in the Beverly Hills home Adrienne and Bruce not only are willing to make screen love to each other but they have gone to Pandro Berman at RKO and asked that the studio find a vehicle for the two of them.

"It would be a great inspiration to me to play opposite Adrienne," says the young actor. "I could put sincerity into my work that audiences would be bound to feel."

they've already chosen the spot for the second. It will be the Phantom Valley ranch about 120 miles north of Denver.

Out at Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, they introduced Larry Fine to a Texas visitor as one of Tex Healy's stooges.

"What is a stooge?" asked the Texan.

Larry hemmed, hawed and finally blurted out:

"If I could tell you what a stooge was, I wouldn't be one!"

As this is written, Gary Cooper and Sandra Shaw are on their way to Phoenix, Ariz., with the Jack Gilberts. Will it be a marriage trip? The wires may bring the answer by the time this column is printed. You can take one thing for sure, however. The engagement of the lanky Cooper and the statuesque Sandra is absolutely definite.

To close friends, Gary denied just before he left here that he has any immediate marriage plans. He said the trip was to be a deer hunt.

The pair announce plans for a they're pleased to learn that the Roumanian beauty, Florize Constantine, whose name was constantly linked with his in Europe a few years ago, is right here in Hollywood! She was at the fashionable Colony Club the other evening and has been seeing the other sights of Hollywood.

Reached at her apartment, she told me: "I've been to New York and I'll stay in Hollywood for several more days. Then I may go to Honolulu."

The beauty, who speaks perfect English but with an accent, says she is not interested in picture work. She shies at discussing Charlie, who, of course, is quite occupied these days with Paulette Goddard.

America's richest heiress, Doris Duke, saw some film colony night-life after all. She was in a party at the Beverly Wilshire with Harry Croker, Eddie Kaine and several others. Two couples who drew many stares at the same spot a night later were Christine Lee and Ricardo Cortez, whom the gossips are marrying off, and Loretta Young and her constant companion, Spencer Tracy.

Professor From University of Padua to Lecture Tonight

Dr. Castiglioni Lectures, Writes Exclusively on Medicine

"The conception of infection and contagion through the centuries" will be the subject of a talk by Dr. Arturo Castiglioni, professor of the history of medicine at the University of Padua, Italy, at 7:30 this evening in chemistry auditorium.

Dr. Castiglioni is vice president of the Royal Society of the History of Medicine, member of the American Society of Medical History, and honorary member of the Royal Society of Medicine in London.

Outstanding in Field

According to Dr. Sigerst of John Hopkins university, where Dr. Castiglioni spent last month in delivering the Noguchi lectures, this medical historian is one of the most outstanding men in his field. Dr. Castiglioni's text book, "History of Medicine," is one of the best that has been written on this subject.

In 1931 Dr. Castiglioni delivered a series of lectures in South America. His itinerary included stops at the University of Buenos Aires, Rosario, Cordoba, Rio de Janeiro, and St. Paola. On this occasion he was nominated for the degree of doctor honoris causa at the University of Santiago.

Published Books

Dr. Castiglioni has published many books which have been translated into French, English, and German, and has written more than 100 essays in medical papers throughout the world. He is a member of the editorial staffs of Minerva Medica, Medical Life, and Pensiero Medico.

In 1928 he was chosen delegate of the Italian government to the international congress of medicine in Amsterdam, representative to the tercentary in London in 1929, and vice president of the International Congress of the History of Medicine in Rome in 1930.

Dr. Castiglioni comes here from the University of Nebraska where he delivered an Alpha Omega Alpha lecture last night. The Medical Historical club and the college of medicine are cooperating in bringing him to Iowa.

Prof. Porter Writes for National Municipal Review

City and county officials must be released from the mass of special taxation districts for greater efficiency in local government, according to Prof. Kirk H. Porter of the political science department, in "A plague of special districts," which appeared in this month's issue of National Municipal Review.

These special districts include school districts, park districts, drainage districts, forestation districts, road districts, mosquito abatement districts, and sanitation districts. Each district has its own set of officials and its own tax rate.

There are a number of diagnosed districts which coincide with existing

WAR ON IOWA FARM STRIKERS

Believe it or not, Vicki (People come and people go) Baum has a rival right here at the University of Iowa, in the person of none other than Chalm Houghton, a liberal arts senior. Mr. Houghton shamelessly steals the theme of Miss Baum's great novel, "Grand Hotel," for his latest, greatest work of art, "Grand Grocery Store," which appears in the current issue of Frivol, university humor publication, out tomorrow.

The story captures the spirit of the varied types which make up the milling throngs in Grand grocery store. And the baron, standing by his wares, wistfully remarking, "Still we have these damned rotten bananas to sell," is a touch of the grand genius. Those who have read "Grand Hotel" will easily recognize Mrs. F. Lem Chemn, the lady with the 900 pound Great Dane, Gruesome Kayah, who "tank I go home now," and Cringline, the twitting southerner.

That wit (?) who writes the letter series is again at large, and contributes another group to this month's Frivol. This time it is about the correspondence of the Ackard Motor company, and a Mr. McGeorge, who makes his home at Currier hall. It seems that Mr. McGeorge has learned something about advertising and Max Factor's makeup, and he offers his services to the motor company. The net result is that George drives an Ackard, and the Ackard Motor company ends on the rocks.

I have some doubt about the campus lowdown contained in the Hawk's Eye column. Some day I may even challenge Bob Morse, Frivol's latest editor, to prove the paragraphs of campus scandal. But if you don't mind having your scandal with a handful of salt there it is. And then there's a picture (hacked in wood) of "The Quad—a woman's paradise." And the cover contributor is none other than the ace of American illustrators, John Held, Jr.

If Mr. Morse doesn't quit putting out issues like this, he'll have a hard time living up to his ideal of a Frivol that is "Worser and worser than ever before."

Grey Box Recently Rediscovered Discloses Valuable Autographs

Placed in a small grey, cardboard box, and pushed into some dark corner, an autograph collection has lain unnoticed for many years in a room used by the university libraries for the storing of old books, and was found recently when an enlargement of this room was made.

An important part of this collection is an Abraham Lincoln document which was on display last May. It will be included in the entire collection which is to be arranged for display some time this winter by the library.

Signature of Lincoln

This old document bears the signature of the great Civil war president and also that of his secretary of the treasury, Salmon P. Chase.

Signed on Feb. 27, 1863, just a few months before the famous battle of Gettysburg, this document made Delos Arnold of Marshalltown, "assessor of internal revenue for the sixth district of Iowa."

It was given to the Hon. Charles Aldrich of Webster City, who donated many autographs and autographed letters to the university. Along with this document were found a picture of Mr. Arnold and a letter written by him to Mr. Aldrich when he gave the paper to Mr. Aldrich in 1894.

Thorou, Burroughs

Thorou, Burroughs, Holme, Lowell, and Washington Irving should be among the signatures in the collection of well known literary men, according to a clipping found with the collection, although this has no verification since nothing has been done with the autographs yet and its contents are not known.

The collection was first started by Mrs. Ada North, librarian from 1879 to 1892, when Mr. Aldrich made his donation. In the summer of 1897 a fire which destroyed the old library which stood near the site of the present physics building also destroyed a large part of the autograph collection. That which was saved from the fire was blackened and defaced considerably.

After the Fire

The clipping found with the collection also stated that after the fire of 1897, Mr. Wyer, who became librarian, put the collection in shape again. He was also instrumental in obtaining the signatures of several persons.

It further stated that novelty was added to the collection by the illegibility of some of the names and a

Iowa, Iowa State Teachers Meet in No-Decision Debate

The University of Iowa met Iowa State Teachers college in a non-decision debate yesterday afternoon, Iowa, represented by Paul Handel, A3 of Mason City, and Wallace Ashby, A3 of Oelwein, defended the proposition, "Resolved, that the League of Nations is the most practicable agency for the promotion of world peace."

The speakers for State Teachers college in this debate, which was broadcast over WSUI, were David Grant of Oelwein and James Curtis of Charles City. The debate was held before an advanced argumentation and debate class taught by Prof. A. Craig Baird, director of university debate, and is one of a series of formal and informal discussions being held weekly on problems of the day.

Charles Aldrich

The University library has received a valuable donation of autographs and autographed letters through the liberality of Hon. Chas. A. Aldrich of Webster City.

The collection contains the autographs (and in some instances the photographs or engravings of the writers) of noted statesmen, scientists, authors, etc., of this country and of Europe—Darwin, Huxley, Lowell, Silliman, Longfellow, Bryant, Whittier, Mrs. Sigourney, Rosetti, Bright, Lincoln, Greeley, and many others.

University High Tackles City High on Shrader Field Tonight

Both Schools Are Confident of Victory in Annual City Championship Battle

Little Hawks Seek Triumph Which Will Brighten Dismal Mississippi Valley Season

Red and White Expects Passing Attack to Bring Victory Over Rival; City High Never Defeated by Big Blue Team

By KERMIT BUNROCK

"We're ready, bring them on." This is the feeling that prevails at City high today as the Little Hawks await their annual city championship battle with the Blue and White of University high at Shrader field tonight.

For both teams it will be the major contest of the season. The river school will be making one more attempt to win its first grid victory over the Wellsmen. A victory for the Little Hawks, besides keeping their record clean against University high, will do much to make successful, a season that has been beset with reverses.

Interest Rises

Interest around City high, previously at low ebb from numerous defeats, has sprung up again. Students are enthusiastically backing their team and their enthusiasm has spread throughout the city—presaging the possibility of the largest attendance of the year at Shrader field.

Ever on the outlook for the comfort of the spectators, City high authorities announced yesterday that those who come to the game in cars would be allowed to drive up and park around the field. The officials hope in this way to keep the crowd warm despite the expected sub-zero weather.

To further heighten student interest, a special mass pep meeting will be held at City high this afternoon. Special speakers will appear on the program, and the usual pep yell and songs will be given by the students.

Confident

Confident of victory, the Little Hawks expect to reach the peak of their season's performance in the battle tonight. A relatively green team at the outset of the season, they have been showing marked improvement in nearly every game.

Their passing attack, which has been bottled up successfully only once so far this season, is expected to play a big part in the outcome of tonight's fracas. Either Dale Marshall or Paul Mutchler can pass with ability, with big Fred Ballard, now at right end, one of the best receivers. Ballard was on the receiving end of five passes in the Grant game last week.

Nine Graduates

Nine regulars and semi-regulars will play a University high team for the last time tonight. Paul Mutchler, James McGreevey, Dale Marshall, John Steinmetz, Bill Kittridge, Robert Jamison, Dale Williams, Herbert Williams, and Olin Zager are

St. Pat's End Grid Season

Denny Emanuel Closes Great Football Career

When Denny Emanuel leads his St. Pat gridmen from the field at the conclusion of the game with North English Saturday, followers of the Irish will have witnessed the last performance of one of the finest centers to have planted his cleats in the turf of Iowa City high school gridiron.

To imagine an Irish eleven taking the field without the bolstering and inspiring figure of the Shamrock captain will be difficult for St. Pat die-hards, for in the four years that football has been played at the south end school, there has been no other center than Emanuel, and from the evidence of his stellar, untiring performances, there has been no need for another. For three years a member of the all-city eleven and a practical certainty to repeat again this year, Emanuel will not be readily replaced on Irish lineups in the future.

In addition to Emanuel, eight others regulars, equally divided among the line and the backfield, will play their last game in a Shamrock uniform Saturday. They are Earl Gough and Mike Maher, ends; Robert Healy, Drew McNamara, and Frank Boyd, halfbacks; John Gordon, quarterback; Robert Burns, guard, and Merle Neubauer, tackle.

REALLY not much necessity of playing out the rest of the conference schedule for it's as good as in the well known bag for Iowa. That is providing they follow instructions and the other contenders will do likewise. At present the conference standings put the leading contenders in this order:

Michigan	3 0 0 .000
Purdue	2 0 1 1.000
Minnesota	1 0 3 1.000
IOWA	2 1 0 .667
Ohio State	2 1 0 .667
Illinois	1 1 0 .500

the players who will be lost by graduation.

Of these men, Mutchler and Marshall will probably be the most troublesome to the Blue and White. Both these players are adept at passing. Mutchler calls the plays and as a runner drives hard and goes places in a hurry after he gets in the open.

Shifty Runner

Marshall is the shifty type of runner, pivoting, and reversing when tacklers close in on him. He was in great form against Grant last week and will probably lead his team's running attack tonight. On defense he backs up the line like a veteran, sensing plays swiftly and bringing the runners down with vicious tackles.

McGreevey at center, Arthur Nelson and Vernon James at the tackles and Fred Ballard at end are linemen who are expected to stand out. Jens Norgaard, a huge freshman playing at guard will also probably make himself noticeable.

Eakes Hurt

The Wellsmen are in fair physical shape for their big battle, with the exception of George Eakes, who has been hampered with a badly sprained ankle. Eakes may not even start. If he doesn't, the fullback position will be filled by either Zager or Jamison.

Ministers Rap Nationalism

Local Group Pleads for Strengthening of Peace Forces

(Full text of proclamation will appear in The Daily Iowan tomorrow.)

Condemning the "narrow and aggressive nationalism of our day, the fear that is bred of distrust, the economic competition between nations and the excessive race for armaments," Iowa City ministers plead that Armistice Day be a day in which to strengthen the forces of peace.

Asking that everyone recognize that "the ultimate worth of any nation is not in aggressiveness, but in its contribution to the moral and spiritual life of the world" the leaders of Iowa City spiritual life now find the cause of peace "disappointing and even tragic."

The proclamation was written by the following ministers and associates: Elmer E. Dierks, Baptist church; C. C. Garrigues, Christian; Llewelyn A. Owen, Congregational; Julia M. Barber, Congregational; W. S. Dusinger, English Lutheran; Richard E. McEvoy, Trinity Episcopal; W. H. Morgan, adviser to campus religious organizations; H. D. Henry, Methodist Episcopal; Glenn McMichael student pastor of Methodist church; W. P. Lemon, Presbyterian; and Jean L. Smith, Presbyterian.

Palmer Talks to Rotary Club

In a talk on "Economic problems facing our country and their relation to government" before the Iowa City Rotary club, yesterday, Col. Charles Day Palmer, former army officer and world traveler, pointed out that "a business solution will be a solution of the national problem."

"We are all stockholders in the greatest business in the world, the United States government, unlimited," said Colonel Palmer. He continued, "As stockholders of the great United States business, we, the people, are its managers and admit we do not keep posted on what may make or break the government. If we applied that to our business, how long would business last?" he asked.

Upon the advice of his doctor to get out in the open air, Colonel Palmer hitch-hiked through 21 states. During these travels, he has kept a record of all interviews with the average person. Colonel Palmer found that the average person's attitude toward the government is that "It's too big to keep posted on the problems."

Guests at the meeting were Prof. Frank E. Horack, guest of Dr. W. R. White; Everett Chandler of Cedar Rapids, guest of Horace Stuck; James Courtwright of Cedar Rapids, guest of John Nash; George Gohmann of Burlington, guest of Dan Dutcher; Rotarian H. L. Ballenger of Las Vegas, N. M.; and Hon. James P. Gaffney.

Jung Outlines School Plans

Instruction Will Occur Twice Weekly; to Charge Fee

Plans for the Community school, formerly the College of the unemployed, were announced yesterday by Prof. Moses Jung of the school of religion, director of the school. The school this year will be open to anyone wishing to attend and will include popular lectures by university professors, dramatics, music, arts and crafts and cooking. Meetings will be held twice a week: at 7:30 p.m. Tuesdays at the American Legion Community building and at 7:45 p.m. Fridays at the women's gymnasium.

A number of the departments of the university have agreed to cooperate with the school, including the college of medicine, and the political science, history, psychology, chemistry, and physics departments.

A fee of 25 cents a month for each family is being charged to pay for incidental expenses. A committee of Iowa City ministers and laymen, headed by the Rev. H. D. Henry, pastor of the Methodist church, is raising money to pay for rent of the Legion building and incidentals. It is estimated that at least $100 will be necessary.

The Chamber of Commerce, the Junior Chamber of Commerce, the Lions club, and the Knights of Columbus have all pledged their support to the project.

The school proved successful last year with the attendance for some of the lectures being over the 600 mark.

Still Good

Although it's been told before it's still a good yarn—an R.O.T.C. officer was training a squad of Iowa freshmen at the armory yesterday when one of the young generals dropped his rifle.

"Do you want to buy that rifle?" asked the officer.

"Nope," said the cadet.

Expecting a "no sir," in accordance with army courtesy to an officer, the drill master again asked the question in a little harsher tone and again the cadet answered, "nope."

"Do you want to buy that rifle?" shouted the officer for the third time.

"How much do you want for the darned thing?" blurted the worried cadet.

Cupid's Holiday

There have been no marriage licenses issued by the county clerk for the last seven days. An average of one a day was issued for several weeks before the slump.

Mrs. Cooper Says Alimony Not Paid

District Judge James P. Gaffney yesterday ordered E. F. Cooper to appear in court Nov. 15, to show cause why he should not be punished for contempt of court for failing to comply with a court order of April 17.
