Home Frocks Can Be So Lovely

Pattern 1531

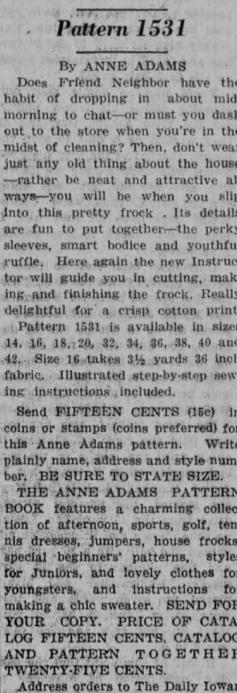

By ANNE ADAMS
Does Friend Neighbor have the habit of dropping in about mid-morning to chat—or must you dash to the store when you're in the midst of cleaning? Then, don't wear just any old thing about the house—rather be neat and attractive always—you will be when you slip into this pretty frock. Its details are fun to put together—the perky sleeves, smart bodice and youthful ruffle. Here again the new Instructor will guide you in cutting, making and finishing the frock. Really delightful for a crisp cotton print!

Pattern 1531 is available in sizes 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46, 48, 50, 52, 54, 56, 58, 60, 62, 64, 66, 68, 70, 72, 74, 76, 78, 80, 82, 84, 86, 88, 90, 92, 94, 96, 98, 100, 102, 104, 106, 108, 110, 112, 114, 116, 118, 120, 122, 124, 126, 128, 130, 132, 134, 136, 138, 140, 142, 144, 146, 148, 150, 152, 154, 156, 158, 160, 162, 164, 166, 168, 170, 172, 174, 176, 178, 180, 182, 184, 186, 188, 190, 192, 194, 196, 198, 200, 202, 204, 206, 208, 210, 212, 214, 216, 218, 220, 222, 224, 226, 228, 230, 232, 234, 236, 238, 240, 242, 244, 246, 248, 250, 252, 254, 256, 258, 260, 262, 264, 266, 268, 270, 272, 274, 276, 278, 280, 282, 284, 286, 288, 290, 292, 294, 296, 298, 300, 302, 304, 306, 308, 310, 312, 314, 316, 318, 320, 322, 324, 326, 328, 330, 332, 334, 336, 338, 340, 342, 344, 346, 348, 350, 352, 354, 356, 358, 360, 362, 364, 366, 368, 370, 372, 374, 376, 378, 380, 382, 384, 386, 388, 390, 392, 394, 396, 398, 400, 402, 404, 406, 408, 410, 412, 414, 416, 418, 420, 422, 424, 426, 428, 430, 432, 434, 436, 438, 440, 442, 444, 446, 448, 450, 452, 454, 456, 458, 460, 462, 464, 466, 468, 470, 472, 474, 476, 478, 480, 482, 484, 486, 488, 490, 492, 494, 496, 498, 500, 502, 504, 506, 508, 510, 512, 514, 516, 518, 520, 522, 524, 526, 528, 530, 532, 534, 536, 538, 540, 542, 544, 546, 548, 550, 552, 554, 556, 558, 560, 562, 564, 566, 568, 570, 572, 574, 576, 578, 580, 582, 584, 586, 588, 590, 592, 594, 596, 598, 600, 602, 604, 606, 608, 610, 612, 614, 616, 618, 620, 622, 624, 626, 628, 630, 632, 634, 636, 638, 640, 642, 644, 646, 648, 650, 652, 654, 656, 658, 660, 662, 664, 666, 668, 670, 672, 674, 676, 678, 680, 682, 684, 686, 688, 690, 692, 694, 696, 698, 700, 702, 704, 706, 708, 710, 712, 714, 716, 718, 720, 722, 724, 726, 728, 730, 732, 734, 736, 738, 740, 742, 744, 746, 748, 750, 752, 754, 756, 758, 760, 762, 764, 766, 768, 770, 772, 774, 776, 778, 780, 782, 784, 786, 788, 790, 792, 794, 796, 798, 800, 802, 804, 806, 808, 810, 812, 814, 816, 818, 820, 822, 824, 826, 828, 830, 832, 834, 836, 838, 840, 842, 844, 846, 848, 850, 852, 854, 856, 858, 860, 862, 864, 866, 868, 870, 872, 874, 876, 878, 880, 882, 884, 886, 888, 890, 892, 894, 896, 898, 900, 902, 904, 906, 908, 910, 912, 914, 916, 918, 920, 922, 924, 926, 928, 930, 932, 934, 936, 938, 940, 942, 944, 946, 948, 950, 952, 954, 956, 958, 960, 962, 964, 966, 968, 970, 972, 974, 976, 978, 980, 982, 984, 986, 988, 990, 992, 994, 996, 998, 1000.

NAGLER Succumbs to Illness

man, Professor Nagler had established a national reputation in the engineering field for his scientific work in connection with flood control, stream flow, and dam construction. He had written nearly 50 scientific articles and volumes on various phases of his work.

Honors
The American Society of Civil Engineers honored him in 1919 and again in 1920 with the Collingwood prize for his scientific work. In connection with his work on the Mississippi river project, in 1932, he won the Norman medal from the American Society of Civil Engineers. Professor and Mrs. Nagler were honored in New York city at the time when this medal was presented. In January of this year he was awarded the Cross award for continued research in his field by the American Society of Civil Engineers.

Positions Held

Positions held by Professor Nagler include: second lieutenant science and research division, U. S. Army Meteorological school; consulting engineer on numerous government projects from 1914 to 1930; drainage engineer in flow test, U. S. department of agriculture, 1921; senior engineer on river work, U. S. engineering department, 1927-30; work on Mississippi river projects with war department.

He was also a member of several engineering societies: Tau Beta Pi, Sigma Xi, president, Iowa chapter, 1930-31; American Society of Civil Engineers (president, Iowa section, 1932), and Society for Promotion of Engineering Education.

Tributes

Tributes to Prof. Floyd A. Nagler were made yesterday by George T. Baker of Davenport, president of the state board of education; President Walter A. Jessup, who is in New York city; and Dean C. C. Williams of the college of engineering.

Jessup's Statement

President Jessup's statement follows: "In the passing of Prof. Floyd A. Nagler, the university and the engineering profession have lost one of the most promising young men in the hydraulics field. Although he had already attained national recognition, there were broad fields of engineering endeavor which were waiting for the skill of his hand and the keen, analytical powers of his mind.

"His service to the city, university, state and nation has been outstanding during the last decade, and his passing is a very real loss to the university family."

Dean Williams

Dean Williams said: "In Professor Nagler's death, the university, the state and the profession have suffered irreparable loss. His going leaves the entire community fairly prostrate, for there was no worthy activity that did not have his sympathy and helpful co-operation. In everything that tended to make the world a better place to live he gave himself without stint or reservation.

"Professor Nagler was a talented man. Inheriting superior qualities of mind, heart, and integrity of ideals, and profiting by excellent college and graduate training, he entered upon his life work with the rare combination of native capacity, thorough education, super physical strength, the enthusiasm and high social purposes. As a scientist he arrived at great distinction notwithstanding his relatively few years; as a teacher he never failed to guide students not only to their intellectual best but also to their moral best.

"His researches brought eminence to the University of Iowa, and his wholesome personality, radiating optimism, courage and good will, was a steadfast force in all matters of policy in the affairs of this college. A productive scientist, an inspiring teacher, an illustrious engineer, a loyal friend and neighbor, an ideal parent, a devoted Christian, a great citizen, he will long continue to be an influence in the lives of those who knew him."

Eminece to University

"His researches brought eminence to the University of Iowa, and his wholesome personality, radiating optimism, courage and good will, was a steadfast force in all matters of policy in the affairs of this college. A productive scientist, an inspiring teacher, an illustrious engineer, a loyal friend and neighbor, an ideal parent, a devoted Christian, a great citizen, he will long continue to be an influence in the lives of those who knew him."

Dissatisfaction Cuts Deeply Into Ranks of Strikers

(By The Associated Press)
Disaffection appeared in the ranks of farm strikers today, and the movement to withhold produce from market apparently was declining in its two strongholds—two western Iowa counties and Wisconsin.

The Sioux City (Ia.) Milk Producers association wired President Roosevelt "Our members are back of you in your program to aid agriculture," and assured him that "there will be no milk strike in this area."

Requests Cooperation
The Farmers Holiday association, sponsor of the 20-day old strike, had requested the association to join the campaign to force payment of cost-of-production prices for farm products.

A wire to President Roosevelt also was dispatched by H. W. Brosamle, president of Plymouth county's new Law and Order league to oppose the strike.

Telegram
His telegram read: "The Plymouth county Iowa Law and Order league stands back of you in your valiant attempt to restore agricultural prices. We realize you have a big job. Our organization is pledged to aid everyone who wants to market his produce and support your efforts."

Abandonment Asked
Wisconsin strike leaders recommended abandonment of the movement, on condition that sufficient farmers, cooperating with labor, inaugurate a campaign to recall officials who opposed the strike. Farmers will vote Monday to determine whether the Wisconsin strike will continue.

Arnold Gilberts, president of the Wisconsin Farmers Holiday association, declared a suspension of the strike while in Des Moines last week to attend a midwest governors' parley on agricultural problems. The strike was renewed, however, upon his return to Wisconsin at the demand of several thousand farmers.

Helen Rushek Asks $2,500 From Chopek

Judgment of $2,500 is asked by Helen Rushek against John Chopek in a petition filed in district court yesterday. The petition, indicating the sum is due on board and room bills, is a counterclaim to a petition filed a short time ago in which Chopek asked judgment of $1,370.53 against Helen Rushek, Mrs. E. Rushek, and Helen Graf.

The plaintiff received as administratrix of the estate of Carl J. Chopek, fatally injured Nov. 11, 1928, while riding in a car driven by Harvey Secor, the sum of $1,370.53, all that remained from a settlement of $3,750 made by Secor. This was applied on the debt owed her by the defendant for unpaid board and lodging bills. In the event that Chopek does not recover $1,370.53 or any part of it she asks only the difference between $2,500 and the sum previously paid her. She is represented by E. C. Davis.

AFTER WHITE HOUSE PARLEY ON FARM AID

Governors of five western states and agriculture executives are pictured leaving the White House after conference with President Roosevelt on a plan for fixing the price of wheat, corn, rye and other products in order to improve the situation among farmers. Left to right are Secretary of Agriculture Wallace, Gov. Tom Berry, S. Dak.; Gov. William Langer, N. Dak.; Gov. Alfred Schmedeman, Wis.; George Peck of the department of agriculture, and Gov. Clyde Herring, Iowa. In rear, Governor Floyd Olson of Minnesota.

Plans 'Most Important Speech of Career' at Des Moines

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10 (AP)—Secretary Wallace boarded a plane bound for the corn belt late today to make what his aides described as "the most important speech of his career" at Des Moines tomorrow night.

Before he left, Wallace made it clear that during his brief visit in his home state he will seek to ascertain the true sentiment of the farm adjustment administration.

He was reported to have expressed the intention of making a hurried "check up" on whether the attitude in the corn-hog producing states is tending toward or against the principle of the price fixing, farm production and sales quota plan, laid before President Roosevelt last week by five middle western governors.

The chief executive rejected it on grounds that it would be "unworkable" and "unacceptable" to most farmers and that it would constitute "regimentation" of the agricultural industry.

During the next four days Wallace intends to spend as much time as possible in conversations with "dirt farmers" to gain their intimate opinions respecting the administration's farm program. He will spend Monday and Tuesday in Illinois and Indiana with farmers, in addition to making formal addresses at Chicago and Muncie, Ind.

Four Die in Plane Crash

Famous Surgeon Among Those Killed by Air Tragedy

PORTLAND, Ore., Nov. 10 (AP)—The bodies of four men, one of them an internationally famous surgeon, were removed today from the twisted wreckage of a transport plane which crashed on a hillside in a heavy fog near here last night.

Dr. Robert C. Coffey, 64, noted for his original contributions to surgery, Herman Cohn of Portland, and Arthur S. Trostler of Chicago, passengers, and Pilot A. W. Davis were killed. Their bodies were burned beyond recognition.

Injured
Four were injured and two slightly hurt. The plane had left the city airport only five minutes before it hit against a tree on the fog-shrouded hill and crashed sideways to the ground. All occupants of one side of the ship were fatally injured. The plane broke in two and burst into flames.

Stewardess Heroine
Libby Wurgatz, 22, of San Diego, stewardess of the air liner, was praised today as a heroine. The tiny girl several times pushed her way into the burning ship to assist in the rescue of others from the cabin.

She suffered only from shock. R. E. Pelouze, Portland investment broker, received a fractured kneecap; Dr. John Straumfjord of Portland suffered bruises and shock; Floyd Hart of Medford, Ore., escaped with a burned hand; E. J. Powers of Glendale, Cal., received bruises, and J. B. Woodworth of Oakland, co-pilot, suffered burns and a rib injury.

Legislators Will Have 2 Copies of Brookings Report

DES MOINES, Nov. 10 (AP)—At least one copy of the report of the Brookings institution will be available in each branch of the legislature Monday as the result of agitation in the house today.

In a brief session today 13 bills were introduced in the lower chamber, among them one for the repeal of the Iowa primary law. The Brookings institution report may be published if sufficient money remains from the sum appropriated to the interim legislative committee. A concurrent resolution had been prepared by house members to demand release of the report to legislators.

Witschi Addresses Zoology Seminar

Illustrating his lecture with slides of the various phases of his research work, Prof. Emil Witschi of the zoology department, addressed the zoology faculty concerning "Genes and inductors of sex differentiation" at a seminar yesterday at 4 p. m. in the zoology building. German zoologists have done considerable work in the field of sex differentiation, according to Professor Witschi. Frogs and fish are the chief specimens upon which these research men do their work.

RICE Attacks American Theater

fast, very little present, and a dubious future," he said.

A solution for this problem may be found in a community repertory theater, the speaker believes. Outlining such a project, he gave his plan for a theater which will build up a permanent repertory of dramatic material which "represents the spirit of America, as Ibsen represented the spirit of Norway."

This theater of the future would present performances of the dramas in its repertory at regular intervals, thus keeping alive over many years the best of the native dramatic work. Another possibility in the future is the creation of theaters presenting only a particular type of drama, as mystery, farce, or other form.

Russian Example
Though he asserted his desire to keep the stage free from propaganda, Mr. Rice pointed to the Russian stage as an example of the theater as a force in solving social problems.

In a lecture which the speaker described as "rambling, incoherent, and irrelevant," he traced the American theater to its present situation. Before the Civil war, he said, dramatics played an almost negligible part.

Good Old Days
After the Civil war there were about 50 years which are commonly known as "the good old days," which were probably not so good. If we were to see actors like Mantell and Barrett, described by our grandfathers, we would probably be disappointed.

"In that time actors went bellowing and roaring around the country, acting in plays which were decidedly mediocre, and occasionally murdering the classics and making a Roman holiday for themselves."

Lowest
In an age when acting receives the chief interest, it is almost certain that dramatic art is at its lowest, he asserted, explaining the lack of a native American theater in the post-Civil war period.

The third period began in the 1890s, Mr. Rice said—when men and women in metropolitan centers became "sophisticated"—people who went to Europe or who read about Europe," the speaker explained. Dating from this time the theaters appealed to the upper classes, who could afford to pay high prices.

Native Materials
After the World war, playwrights began to supply the American stage with native material, and if anything worthwhile has appeared in American drama it is a growth of this period, the playwright declared. Concluding on a note of optimism, Mr. Rice told his audience that there is hope for a better theater in the future, as there is hope for a better social order. The fulfillment of this hope, he said, must rest with the rising generation.

Aimee's Son-in-Law Scoffs at Rumor of Trouble With Wife

SEATTLE, Nov. 10 (AP)—William B. Smythe, husband of Roberta Semple Smythe, daughter of Aimee Semple McPherson Hutton the evangelist, scoffed today at reports from Los Angeles hinting a rift between him and his wife.

While preaching in Angelus temple last night Mrs. Smythe was quoted as saying: "I would be very happy if my husband could see things as I do. But—we just don't think alike. He has read so much philosophy that his head is fairly buzzing with ideas. My creed is very simple. If he objects to my work—well—I'm afraid that's just too bad."

Two Iowa Citizens Attend E. P. Heizer Funeral at Hinton

Mr. and Mrs. L. O. Leonard, 10 N. Van Buren street, are attending the funeral of Mr. Leonard's cousin, Edward P. Heizer, former editor of the Sioux City Journal, who died at his farm home near Hinton Wednesday night.

Mr. Heizer was a graduate of the college of law of the University of Iowa in 1878. He is survived by his widow, a son, and two daughters. At the time of his death he was living on his farm near Sioux City, to which he recently retired. He was postmaster at Sioux City for four years, and previous to that he was editor of the Journal.

Iowa Loses a Teacher—America Loses an Engineer

THE DEATH of Prof. Floyd A. Nagler yesterday represents a loss to the University of Iowa and to the entire nation of a teacher and an engineer who had risen to great heights in his field of specialization.

Though he was still a young man, only 41 years of age, Professor Nagler had already received widespread recognition for his work as an expert in hydraulic engineering. Beginning as a government research engineer, he gave two decades to the study of drainage and river work, and left nearly 50 articles and books as a result of this study.

Under his direction the Iowa Institute of Hydraulic Engineering was developed to the point where it has become of nationwide importance. At the University of Iowa government experts and army engineers came to study proposed water works involving millions of dollars.

It was for his work in connection with inland waterway projects on the Mississippi river that he was awarded the Norman medal by the American Society of Civil Engineers, an honor conferred upon him in New York city in 1932.

Last January the same organization again conferred upon him a high honor, the Croes medal, thus making Professor Nagler the only scientist ever to receive both of these high awards.

But in addition to his work as a scientist, he was a great teacher. Students who have worked under him and faculty members who worked with him have joined in their tribute to his memory. Perhaps the greatest tribute which could be paid him is contained in a statement by Dean C. C. Williams:

"...his wholesome personality, radiating optimism, courage, and good will, was a steadfast force in all matters of policy in the affairs of this college. A productive scientist, an inspiring teacher, an illustrious engineer, a loyal friend and neighbor, an ideal parent, a devoted Christian, a great citizen, he will long continue to be an influence in the lives of those who knew him."

Filipinos Follow Their American Cousins

WITH THE granting of the franchise to women Thursday, just before adjournment of the insular legislature, the Philippine islands became the first country in the far east in which women are allowed to take part in the government.

Woman suffrage was put on the same basis as that of men. In order to vote, women must be 21, literate, and own property valued at $250 or more. The franchise will not be extended to them until Jan. 1, 1935, however—the date on which the new law becomes effective.

Women will thus not be permitted to vote in the general triennial election next June, at which time the question of accepting the American proposal to give the islands their independence in 10 years will come to a vote.

This is just another example of the American influence which has brought unbelievable advances in the Philippine islands in the last three decades. During that 30 year period the islands have gone from the position of a backward country, without education, sanitation, or modern scientific advances, to a position of comparative security in government and social life—a leader in the east.

It was through the suggestion and urging of Gov. Gen. Frank Murphy that the native legislature passed the bill in the last minutes of their session. For years the National Federation of Women's Clubs has been backing such a bill.

The Filipinos are following the lead of their American cousins. Bit by bit they are advancing to the point where they will be fit for the independence which was promised them 30 years ago.

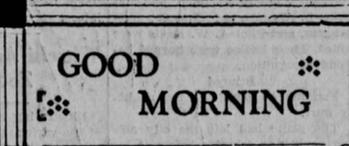

Where Was Arno's Manager?

(From The Kansas City Times) Doubtless it is beginning to dawn on Curtis Arno Peters, alias Peter Arno, whose choice in art subjects is almost invariably happier than in sparring partners, that he overlooked a good deal when he neglected to be born a gentleman, as was pointed out to him in a cafe brawl in Hollywood Sunday night by his old pal and friendly critic, Drexel Biddle Steel, of the Philadelphia Drexels and Biddles and the Bethlehem Steels. It seems that a regrettable altercation arose during a small dinner Mr. Steel was giving for forty guests, the cause of which quarrel varies with the telling; but it appears to have ended suddenly when Mr. Arno "started one" toward Mr. Steel's jaw, and Mr. Gordon Butler, Princeton All-American end and Mr. Steel's business manager, rushed in and knocked Mr. Arno under a table several inches over. Incidentally, Mr. Steel seems to be very well satisfied with his manager's business ability. According to Mr. Steel, it started when he introduced Mr. Arno to a guest as a person who was born a man, but not born a gentleman. Mr. Steel's insistence on this point indicates that it is to be taken rather less as a rebuke than as a statement of critical opinion, just as if it applied to one of Mr. Arno's pictures instead of to himself. Now is where Mr. Arno's lauk of breeding asserts itself. Instead of accepting Mr. Steel's remark as a valid criticism from an expert, he takes umbrage; and instead of resolving to do better next time, he tries to prove the fault isn't there by using force in place of reason.

By contrast, observe Mr. Steel under the circumstances. In accordance with section 1 of the Gentlemen's code, he arranged to be born a gentleman. Likewise observing section 2, which as laid down by the late William Howard Taft reads that "a gentleman is one who will never unintentionally give offense," Mr. Steel insulted Mr. Arno without a trace of ambiguity. And then—and this is the most interesting point of the situation, turned the details over to his business manager. Where was Mr. Arno's business manager?

We shouldn't wonder if it later came out that Mr. Arno hasn't any business manager. Well, if he's to continue his career in Hollywood among gentlemen of birth, he'll have to have one. A new crop of business managers will be available in about a month. Consult Grantland Rice's choices for the first All-American team, avoiding those receiving honorable mention, as their business ability is not of the best. Tackles or defensive halfbacks probably are to be preferred. And as for the grudge Mr. Arno says he is carrying—gentlemen of birth don't carry grudges. They delegate them to their business managers.

The semi-final step toward complete state capitalism in Italy was taken Thursday when Premier Mussolini announced that the government, under a new decree, would be authorized to guarantee both principal and interest on bond issues of private companies, regardless of the financial condition of the companies.

Since the public in Italy, as in America, prefers government to private securities, it is probable that the action will mean eventual government financing of all industry, which means complete government control of all industry.

Mussolini's first move under the new decree—a government guarantee for a 400,000,000 lire bond issue for the Piedmont Telephone company—is an informative example of the power it gives to the government.

Mussolini first caused an enforced reduction in the capitalization of the Piedmont-Hydro-Electric company, one of the four largest Italian corporations, then separated this company's telephone services and set up the Piedmont Telephone company, for which the government guaranteed bond issue was announced.

And it is interesting, also, to note that all the machinery of this new government service will be handled by the industrial reconstruction institute, an organization similar to our own Reconstruction Finance corporation. Whether Italy has merely progressed farther than the United States, or whether there is any analogy to be drawn at all, is a matter for conjecture.

Now that Greece has once more indicated that extradition treaties are not to be recognized when dealing with "malefactors of great wealth," a New York court has retaliated by freeing a Greek convicted of murdering his wife in his native land.

Present day procedure in extradition cases appears to be based to a very small extent on logic. Why a Greek court should feel constrained to pass on the merits of an American case against Mr. Insull, who made his home in America, is hard to understand. The fact that there is an American charge against him should be sufficient reason for extradition, and treaties, one would think, should be clear on that point.

Perhaps when the senate investigating committee reveals a few more cases where Cuttens and others have sucked $12,000,000 or more out of the public without risking any money of their own in the process, some economic fundamentalists will hesitate before telling us that our millionaires have all "earned" their money.

This investigation has seemed to many rather futile, but it is really one of the most important activities of the government during these disillusioning years. It has shown the American public that the old bogey of Wall street has been even worse than a bogey and it might lead to some worthwhile legislation.

Incidentally, it was refreshing to learn that Pe-cora had been defeated in his race for the district attorneyship of New York city. His place is right where he is. —Don Pryor

Work of Scientists Proves Eternal Existence of Faith

Italian Doctor Praises Men of Science in S.U.I. Lecture

"In spite of war and the events which shake our trust in humanity, the continuous, unflinching work of men of science is the proof of the eternal existence of the faith and will to help those who suffer," Dr. Arturo Castiglioni, professor of the history of medicine at the University of Padua, Italy, declared last night before an audience of 300 in the chemistry auditorium.

Speaking on the subject, "The conception of infection and contagion through the centuries," Dr. Castiglioni asserted "that this conception may be distinguished in three great periods.

"Divine Origin"

"Conviction that all diseases have a divine origin is a metaphysical attitude by which humanity is dominated is the most significant of these classifications," he said, describing the first of the three. The second division is philosophical or speculative in conception, with philosophy apparently more essential than medical science. Scientific and experimental medicine which considers experiment as the ground for every research, completes this historical grouping.

Sanitary Legislation

Dr. Castiglioni briefly traced the ancient dispositions of sanitary legislation. The study of the Babylonian tables proves, according to this medical historian, that the ancients attributed the disease bearers to small animals.

"From this information it can be conceived that in these remote times the importance of parasites in the spreading of infective diseases may already have been known."

Black Plague

Towards the latter part of the thirteenth century, after the epidemic of black plague, the conception of contagion became more definite. Specially appointed officials were chosen to remove filth from towns, and no sick persons were allowed to enter these communities. All sorts of precautions were adopted to preserve health, including the construction of quarantine anchorages and the installation of sanitary legislation.

Must Know History

In order to make possible, Dr. Castiglioni concluded, a correct opinion of the present and future, we must bear in mind the necessity of knowing the history and work of other peoples.

"Thus I think that from the universities of all the countries the great flaming torch must still shine on the ways of progress on land and sea."

NATIONS Bow in Memory of War Dead

Over a hundred thousand German and French unidentified soldiers were dead on the field of battle, Professor Bush said, and since it was impossible to bury them or identify them, three of the corpses were placed in caskets and a blinded soldier chose one of the three to become the "unknown soldier"—symbol of all of the dead.

England

This corpse was buried beneath the Arch of Triumph and a flame was lighted over the grave which has never been extinguished.

On Armistice day, this shrine is visited by pilgrims who pay tribute in a beautiful service which is, Professor Bush feels, the more impressive because of its entire freedom from militarism.

Wilfrid Riddet, A.S. of Lancashire, England, says that the ceremonies in his native land are likewise simple and impressive. Most of the observance in London, he says, centers about the tomb of the unknown soldier which is at Cenotaph, near Trafalgar Square.

Canada

Canadian Armistice days are similar to America's and England's, according to Lyle Hamilton Armstrong, G. of Unity, Sask., Canada. The period of silence at 11 o'clock this morning, will be, as it has been in the past, extended to two minutes in length. The Canadian War Veterans organization which compares to the American Legion, usually has charge of community observances in Canada.

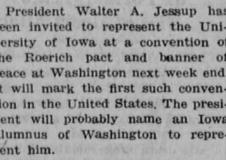

J. E. Perpinan, G. of Villareal, Philippine Islands, says the schools in his home land play a prominent part in the observance of Armistice day. They have programs to show the futility of war.

President Walter A. Jessup has been invited to represent the University of Iowa at a convention of the Roerich pact and banner of peace at Washington next week end. It will mark the first such convention in the United States. The president will probably name an Iowa alumnus of Washington to represent him.

The Roerich pact and banner of peace has for its purpose the protection and neutralization of works of artistic and scientific importance throughout the world. Conceived by Prof. Nicholas Roerich, the idea was first presented to the Russian imperial government in 1904. It was again suggested at the beginning of the World war, but it was not until three years ago that it received the approval of the museum committee of the League of Nations. Since then it has received the support of famous men and women the world over.

The idea is to protect art galleries, museums, universities, and libraries in time of war by flying a banner which shall stamp the institution as neutral. The banner, according to its creator, shall serve art and science centers in the same way that the Red Cross emblem serves physical health. The banner design represents three spheres within a circle of majenta, on a white background.

Many well known Americans are honorary members of the group backing the plan in this country. Iowa's Governor Hering is an honorary member, and Secretary of Agriculture Henry Wallace, another Iowan, has been chosen "protector" of the group.

One of the "right hand men" on Byrd's south polar expedition is Arthur A. Zuhn, who was formerly a student at the University of Iowa. He is serving as assistant to Professor Poulter of Iowa Wesleyan college, Mt. Pleasant.

Hoyt C. Franchere, an Iowa alumnus, represented the university at a celebration marking the inauguration of Harold Clarence Jaquith as president of Illinois college, Jacksonville, Ill.

is an impressive one, and that preparations for it are made for weeks in advance. The governor-general's proclamation was made early last month.

So throughout the world today, a moment of international silence, suitable tributes, and a calmness which has replaced the initial frenzy, announces to the "men who sleep in Flanders fields" that the world has not forgotten!

National organizations and individuals place wreaths on the tomb, and suitable addresses are given. Although Armistice day is not a school holiday in England, Mr. Riddet says, programs paying respects to war heroes are held in every school.

Canadian Armistice days are similar to America's and England's, according to Lyle Hamilton Armstrong, G. of Unity, Sask., Canada. The period of silence at 11 o'clock this morning, will be, as it has been in the past, extended to two minutes in length. Direct PWA Building Project

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10 (IIN)—With the incorporation of a Public Works Emergency Housing corporation to build low-cost apartment houses throughout the country, the New Deal's war on squalor has gotten away to a flying start in a drive that is planned to end with the elimination of slums in no less than 20 key cities of the nation.

Double-Barrel Plan

The Housing corporation, which will function as a subsidiary of the Public Works administration, is designed with the two-fold object of making a sizeable gain in the ranks of the unemployed and at the same time providing improved living conditions for workers of the nation.

The corporation will engage in "constructing, reconstructing, altering and repairing of low-cost housing projects or slum clearance projects, apartment houses, homes and structures of every nature and kind," according to a statement by Secretary of the Interior Ickes, who, with Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins and Robert D. Kohn, director of the housing division of the PWA, will guide the destinies of the latest child of the New Deal.

Uncle Sam Builder

Although no amount has been named, it was unofficially intimated that the initial fund would be approximately $200,000,000, which sum may be increased if necessary.

The corporation is to have broad powers under the provisions of the Recovery act. It may engage in anything that a private contractor may engage in, but Secretary Ickes made it clear that the policy of the advisory board will not be to interfere with or compete against legitimate private business of such nature.

In addition to buildings, the corporation has power to locate, lay out and maintain roads, avenues, parks, playgrounds, recreational facilities, sewers and bridges. It may also equip, furnish and operate homes and buildings of every nature. This indicates that not only may Uncle Sam build model homes on former slum sites but he may also act as the landlord.

Although actual figures are lacking at this time, it is predicted that apartments built under the new program may be rented for seven or eight dollars a room per month.

Many Cities in Line

Already many key cities of the nation are studying slum clearance projects in which local authorities

will cooperate with the Housing corporation of the PWA.

New York has chosen the site for its model housing area, a former slum district covering approximately 219,738 square feet. Here will rise a number of 12-story apartment houses for wage earners. Sunny, airy rooms will take the place of squalid tenements, and inhabitants may lounge on grassy lawns instead of on the fire-escape as heretofore.

Cleveland, too, is planning slum clearance, as is Boston, Indianapolis, Raleigh, N. C., and Chicago. Cleveland alone plans to spend $30,000,000 within the next year for the purpose of wiping out unsightly tenements and providing better cheap homes for its workers.

However, the success of the entire project depends upon the acquisition of low-cost land in continuous blocks which will involve the destruction of slums. Some of the sites already acquired cost less than $1 per square foot. More will have to be paid in some places, but Secretary Ickes plainly intimated that no site will be approved where any attempt at "jacking up" the price is detected.

will cooperate with the Housing corporation of the PWA.

50,000 High Schoolers to Enter Academic Contest

Those Iowa school pupils who prefer mental to physical competition again next spring will have their chance for academic glory.

It was announced yesterday that the University of Iowa will conduct the sixth annual academic contest, the huge school and individual competition will draw some 50,000 pupils from more than 200 high schools.

All Pupils Compete

When his school enters, each pupil who is taking any of the 17 contest subjects automatically becomes a member of the "first team." The rules require each boy and girl to compete in the "every-pupil" contest of May 8, when the entire enrollment of institutions are pitted against each other.

By their performances then, more than 1,100 of the finest scholars will qualify for the state individual championship event, in which the competition is strictly between pupils. This has been scheduled for June 4 and 5, Prof. E. F. Lindquist, director of the entire affair, declared.

Contest rules for the third successive year remain practically the same, he said. Testing in each of the events will consume one hour, schools are divided into classes according to enrollment, and each competitor is eligible for several awards.

West Waterloo Champion

West Waterloo has won the grand state award for the last three years. By classes, the 1933 champions were: A, West Waterloo; B, Lamont; C, Hubbard; and D, Jefferson township of Shueville.

Events in which tests will be given are: ninth year algebra, general science, first and second year Latin, English correctness (9, 10, 11, 12 grades), plane geometry, biology, world history, American history, American literature, physics, economics, American government, and English literature.

Pharmacy Class Shows Display of Chocolate Candy

An appeal to the sense of taste with chocolates is made this week in the pharmacy window display in the main hall of the pharmacy-botany building.

Decorated in blue and Nile green, the window displays a well-known brand of chocolates, advertised as "America's most famous candy."

The window was decorated this week by Duane Jenkins, Andy Dooly, and Edward Stava, freshmen in the window display class of the college of pharmacy.

Copies to be distributed throughout the state of a new study in the psychology of art by Prof. Norman C. Meier of the psychology department have been received by Professor Ruckmick and Prof. C. A. Ruckmick, also of the psychology department, who edits the Iowa series of psychological studies.

The 14 members of the state board of education will each receive a copy as will 45 deans of colleges, professors, directors, and members of the psychology staff of the university.

Copies of the monograph will also be sent to 30 state libraries throughout Iowa. Approximately 40 students who are working for advanced degrees in the psychology department will be given books, and the 10 editors of the university series of Iowa studies will also be given copies.

Those who attended were: Dean George F. Kay of the college of liberal arts; Prof. Stephen H. Bush, head of the Romance languages department; Mrs. Edith Page, Mrs. Raymond Brugere, Mrs. C. E. Cousins, and Mrs. Bush.

Transit Features Progress of Transportation by Air

Improvements in instruments, motors, and airplane design; increased efficiency in maintaining schedules; and radio communication of weather and field conditions for guidance of pilots have all combined to bring the air industry to a height of achievement undreamed of a few short years ago, according to Alfred Phares, E3 of Iowa City, in "Development of air transportation" which appeared in the November issue of Iowa Transit, which is out today.

A new feature of Iowa Transit is a hearsay column of student comment, "I only heard." The problem of cosmic rays is explained in a story which outlines theories and opinions concerning this topic. Opinions are quoted from such representative authorities as Robert A. Millikan of the California Institute of Technology, and Arthur H. Compton of the University of Chicago.

In "Just an idea" Theodore A. Hunter, '23, sketches two experiments as examples of things that may be done in the way of research by students who have time and opportunity for individual work.

Prof. Lee Travis to Make Study of Davenport Children

Prof. Lee E. Travis of the psychology department is making a study of about 400 children of all ages in regard to the rate of conduct of nerve impulse in reflexes, at the Iowa Soldiers' orphanage in Davenport.

The purpose of this study, according to Professor Travis, is to discover the age which a child must reach before it possesses the conduction rate of an adult. Seventy meters per second is the nerve impulse of an adult and only 20 meters for the same length of time for an eight or nine day old infant.

It is hoped that this study will also result in some information regarding the conduction rates of a child at various ages.

Professor Travis will complete his research at the Davenport orphanage today. Charles G. Hazard, G. of Omaha, Neb., and Paul E. Griffith, G. of Iowa City, are assisting him.

Wolverine Memories Great Hawk Team of 1900 Downed Michigan 28 to 5; It Was Different in 1902

By OLD TIMER

Should the '33 edition of Hawkeye griders prove equal to the task facing them this Armistice day, they would obtain sweet revenge and perhaps be able to lay claim to a share of the Big Ten title.

It is high time that the lads from Iowa handed the Wolverines another beating. The two schools have clashed on the gridiron seven times through the years, and the Old Gold has won two, lost four, and tied one in the games played.

The first meeting can be pointed to with pride as the Hawkeyes triumphed 28 to 5, but there is at least one other game which causes Iowa followers to hang their heads in shame, that being the 1902 game, which resulted in a 107 to 0 victory for the Wolverines.

In 1900 Iowa's team was Big Nine and Western champion. It was coached by Dr. Knipe and it beat all of the Big Nine teams it met, save one, Northwestern holding the Hawkeyes to a tie in a game played at Rock Island, Ill.

John Griffith, later assistant coach at Iowa, and an Iowa City boy, was captain of the 1900 eleven. Clyde Williams, later baseball star with the Central Association and

"Ghltions" You know that Noah Webster says that "Wolverine" means "glutton." And the Wolverines have been gluttons for pouncing upon titles in recent years.

One of the season's most pleasant surprises, Iowa goes to Ann Arbor hopeful but with no more than an outside chance of defeating Michigan. Illinois' splendid showing against the Wolverines, however, has done the Hawkeyes frame of mind no harm, and a battle royal appears certain.

The Illinois-Northwestern game is a little off the pace as a championship attraction, but promises to be one of the toughest battles of the day. The Illini have a slight edge in the records and hope to trip the Wildcats for the first time since 1928.

Purdue Favored Coach Kizer of Purdue will lead his team against Notre Dame, his Alma Mater. In spite of Notre Dame's three consecutive defeats and Purdue's impressive record, the Boilermakers do not rate much of an edge.

Indiana and Chicago will struggle for the honor of scoring a first conference victory of the season. The Hoosiers have done a little better than the Maroons so far, but the contest looks like a tossup.

Even with freezing weather predicted, attendance figures probably will get another boost. Iowa and Michigan probably will play before 50,000, with Northwestern and Illinois showing before a near capacity crowd of 40,000.

Swimming Candidates to Be Guests at Mixer Nov. 16

Armbruster Will Show Pictures of Olympics

A swimming mixer for all possible candidates of both varsity and freshman squads will be held on Thursday, Nov. 16 in lieu of the regular practice session of daily workouts which start on Friday, Nov. 17.

Pictures of Olympic champions in action will be shown in the river room of Iowa Union to give the men an idea of revamping their strokes for gain in efficiency.

Coach Armbruster will outline the plans for the coming season and several former Iowa athletes will speak before light refreshments are served.

Coach Armbruster is giving his men a rest after the Dolphin show before he plunges them into the regular training grind.

The action of the conference coaches meeting the first week in December will decide the meets to be held this year.

Good condition of the swimmers has so far limited practice to three days each week, spent in light polo workouts and easy swimming.

Letters to all possible candidates for both squads are being sent to invite men to attend the mixer.

Walter Jackson, a 13 year old Queensland schoolboy, has been winning secondary championships by using his two hands for both backhand and forehand driving strokes.

His service is unique. He places one ball in his pocket, throws up the other ball with his left hand, and immediately brings the left hand alongside the right on the racket handle before striking the ball.

Yale All-American of Former Years Dies of Heart Attack

Wrestlers May Meet Badgers Tentative Match Carded for Jan. 13 at Iowa City

NEW YORK, Nov. 10 (AP)—Burt Clark Chamberlain, an all-American tackle at Yale of the bone crushing era of football, died today at his home in Bronxville, of a heart attack at the age of 56.

His death broke another link between the football of today and yesterday as he continued coaching for many years after his graduation from Yale in 1898 and helped in the development of the game from the mass plays of its early days to the colorful open style of football of 1933.

The university wrestling championships have also been tentatively arranged for Dec. 15. The outcome of these matches will enable Coach Howard to begin picking his varsity team for the Wisconsin engagement.

About 20 varsity and freshman grapplers are working out now but the real reason for the varsity will not begin until this Monday when veterans of last year such as Loren Heller, Capt. John O'Leary, Clarence "Swede" Johnson, Rollo "Shorty" Parmenter, Bill Hass, and Bob Larson, Johnny Stephens, Elroy Maula, and Earl Chism freshmen, report.

Coach Howard is being assisted informally by Leslie "Red" Beers, former Big Ten and national 155 pound champion, who has returned from a coaching position at Purdue university to take up graduate work in the physical education school here.

AMES, Nov. 10 (AP)—The Iowa State Cyclones finished preparations for their fourth conference game today with a period of passing, kicking and signal drill. They will meet Kansas State here at 2 p.m. tomorrow in the feature of the Iowa Legionnaires Armistice day celebration.

Although Coach Veenker was uncertain as to the starting lineup, the most likely starters were Hood and Dana at the ends; Catron and Roe, tackles; Smith and Dixon, guards; Beyer, center, and Allender, Williams, Schafroth and Winter, in the backfield.

H. F. Wickham, Jr., Cape Girardeau, Mo., sportsman, brought down a wild goose 300 yards away with a 30-30 rifle.

Iowa Draws Today's Big Assignment

Battle With Wolverines Most Important Title Game

CHICAGO, Nov. 10 (AP)—Iowa draws tomorrow's assignment from the "stop Michigan" league.

Other members of the "Big Ten," with the exception of Minnesota, engage in battles of greater or less importance tomorrow.

Iowa's attempt to break Michigan's drive toward another title ranks at the top of the conference program, but intersectional tilts and old rivalries earn their share of the spotlight.

Little Chance One of the season's most pleasant surprises, Iowa goes to Ann Arbor hopeful but with no more than an outside chance of defeating Michigan.

Illinois' splendid showing against the Wolverines, however, has done the Hawkeyes frame of mind no harm, and a battle royal appears certain.

The Illinois-Northwestern game is a little off the pace as a championship attraction, but promises to be one of the toughest battles of the day.

The Illini have a slight edge in the records and hope to trip the Wildcats for the first time since 1928.

Purdue Favored Coach Kizer of Purdue will lead his team against Notre Dame, his Alma Mater. In spite of Notre Dame's three consecutive defeats and Purdue's impressive record, the Boilermakers do not rate much of an edge.

Indiana and Chicago will struggle for the honor of scoring a first conference victory of the season. The Hoosiers have done a little better than the Maroons so far, but the contest looks like a tossup.

Even with freezing weather predicted, attendance figures probably will get another boost. Iowa and Michigan probably will play before 50,000, with Northwestern and Illinois showing before a near capacity crowd of 40,000.

Long Distance No Handicap Dave Flage Proves Worth as Cross Country Man.

Wrestlers May Meet Badgers Tentative Match Carded for Jan. 13 at Iowa City

With the determination to achieve success as a distance runner along with a gradual increase in ability, Dave Flage has elevated his position in the longer runs to a place of honor with Phelps, Spears and Hunn in Iowa track history.

Dave lives on a farm near Waukon, a small town situation in the northeastern part of the state that claims the honor of being the home of one of Iowa's greatest quartermasters, the late Reuben Depping, who was drowned in the quarries two years ago.

Flage did not feature to a great extent among the leaders in the state distance running while in high school, although he captured both the track and football teams. His greatest win in prep school was the mile run in the Northeastern Iowa conference meet in 1929 and 1930.

His best time in this event in prep school was 4 minutes and 55 seconds. Flage completed his first two years of undergraduate work in Waukon junior college where he captured the track team there.

A desire for mathematics has persuaded him to confine his scholastic ability along this line and he hopes to receive a degree from that department next spring. He intends to instruct and coach after graduation.

Baer Begins Legal Fight

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Nov. 10 (AP)—Max Baer, contender for the heavyweight boxing championship, began one of the important battles of his career today.

The action is the culmination of a series of suits and counter-suits filed by Baer, J. H. Lorimer, Baer's former manager, and Anell Hoffman, his manager during the last three years.

Lorimer testified regarding the manner in which he became Baer's manager in 1930 and of the varied contracts drawn up.

Lorimer said he had acquired a 50 per cent interest in Baer's contract by advancing $5,000 to Baer so the latter could pay off a mortgage on his father's home.

Later he admitted this $5,000 was in the form of a check given to him by Hoffman and in turn handed over Baer by him.

A motorist near Whitesboro, Okla., bagged a wild goose which flew headlong against his windshield and was killed.

HAWKEYES Clash With Famed Wolverines

to its highest pitch of the season. New deceptive plays to be pitted against the prowess of the great employer of deception of the present day, have been rehearsed until perfect.

Coch Kipke has furiously driven the Wolverines through their first long scrimmage since the start of the season in an effort to rouse them to a fighting pitch.

Iowa's line, which showed in the Wildcat game some weeks ago that it is capable of opening wide holes for the backs, but which has been spotty ever since, is once again ready to turn in its best performance.

No team in or out of the conference has been able to gain consistently through the Iowa forward wall and Solem has worked on his ends and tackles to stop those devastatingly wide end sweeps so well employed by Minnesota two weeks ago.

Heavy Lines Tomorrow's game will be a struggle between two of the heaviest lines in the conference.

The Wolverine forwards will slightly outweigh those of Iowa and Coach Kipke will rely on the 215 pound Bernard at center, and Wistert and Petoskey, tackle and end, to turn back the Iowa off-tackle slashes that have proven such heavy ground gainers in the past.

Shoestring Catch of Pass Defeats St. Ambrose, 7-3

Simpson Downs Rival in Closing Seconds of Game

DAVENPORT, Nov. 11 (AP)—A shoestring catch of a pass, touched by three opposition players before he grabbed it, enabled Glenn Anderson, freshman end, to score a touchdown and give Simpson college a 7-3 victory over St. Ambrose in the closing minutes of their Iowa conference battle today.

Bucky Hansen, Saints all conference quarterback, had booted a 24 yard field goal a few minutes earlier in the final quarter and the home team appeared in a safe lead when the Methodists got their "break."

In possession of the ball in mid-field with still 10 yards to go on fourth down, Wallace, Methodist halfback, elected to try a pass. Three St. Ambrose players were under the ball and batted it around in the air on their 30 yard line, knocking it toward the sidelines, when Anderson suddenly appeared, snagged the ball before it touched the ground, and galloped to the goal line.

Simpson played on the defensive most of the game, twice stopping the Saints inside their 10 yard line. Lineups:

Layden Tells What He Thinks is Wrong With the Irish.

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 10 (AP)—Like the man in the street, the sandlot kid in tattered jersey and hundreds of thousands of others, Elmer Layden has his own ideas about "what's wrong with Notre Dame."

And just in case you have forgotten—Elmer Layden is THE Elmer Layden. Back in the '20s when the Irish were unbeatable he was one of the "four horsemen" and his 165 pounds flashed across many gridirons.

His Duquesne college team is unbeaten this season. "It's like this about Notre Dame," says Layden.

Then he illustrates. "Suppose a seaman goes to work for a great captain on a great ship. Suppose he works for this 'old master' (that's just what the Irish called the late coach Knut Rockne) for two years.

"Then suppose the 'master' is taken away and they tell the seaman, 'Here, you take over the ship, make all the ports just as the captain did and above all keep an even keel.'"

"The seaman has learned a great deal under the 'master,' of course, but even at that do you think he can step right in and do as good a job as the 'old master' himself did?"

"Well, Hank Anderson is a good coach, there's no doubt about that, but he's just got to have time to even up that keel."

"It may just be, too, that Anderson does not have the 'material Rock' had."

U. HIGH WINS Defeats City Rival for Title of the University high touchdowns, one on the sweetest passes of the game, good for 33 yards from Myers to Martin Warren who scampered a few steps for another touchdown.

Warren was entirely in the clear and needed only to leap high in the air to snare the ball. Coach Joy Kistler substituted freely a few minutes later after the regulars made their last sortie into the Red and White end of the field.

Marshall's pass went astray into the arms of Bob Schnoebelen on the 50 yard stripe and after the ball was pushed down the field through a freely substituted City high outfit to the 14 yard line the river school reserves took over the task of getting the last marker. Myers and Warren were the only original starters left.

With the help of a 15 yard penalty which placed the ball on the City high one yard line and another penalty to the one foot line, Fountain, who took Fuhrmeister's fall-back position, plunged across as the game ended.

And all this ground gaining and scoring was against the fightingest outfit that ever clashed shoulder pads on Shrader field. Iowa City high just couldn't get started. Even the excellent booting of Marshall, Fred and White halfback could only slightly hinder the Big Blue wave.

On the other hand, Coach Kistler's boys, rose to the heights in repelling the enemy for the championship. Bob Myers turned in his greatest exhibition of signal calling. Shifty Bob Schnoebelen and bruising Fuhrmeister hammered away merrily. And all this behind a line that was invincible, and a wall of interference that swept clear a wide path.

Justice and Brender, two watch charm guards, simply couldn't be held back. Martin Warren was in there fighting every minute. Those two rary tackles, Milt Schnoebelen and Carl Lehman, sifted through.

The outstanding work of James McGreevey equalled that of Bill Robinson, opposing center. Fred Ballard, a mighty fine end, played a whole of a game for his school.

As for Mike Mentzer, one of the steadiest of the river school backs, his play asked for no criticism. He smashed across his first touchdown of the year and was in there on every play.

The Big Blue wave piled up a margin of 248 yards from scrimmage against 73 for City high. Seventeen first downs were registered by University high to five for the losers.

This passes into athletic history the third meeting of the two schools and makes the tally even. One win has been scored by each team. Last year's struggle was a 6 to 6 tie game.

The small-bore rifle squad of Pershing Rifles, national honorary military society, has been selected for the year 1933-34, according to a special order issued yesterday by Don B. Martin, first lieutenant.

Each year a team from B company, here at the University of Iowa, competes in the postal matches held for Pershing Rifle companies all over the United States.

During the school year 1930-31 and again in 1932-33, B company won the silver trophy for the national championship. In 1932-33 the Pershing Rifle company at the University of Alabama took first place. This year the following team will attempt to bring the trophy back to the Iowa campus: Adrian I. Dautremont, A1 of Riverside; Robert H. Jones, A1 of Schleswig; Milton R. Morgan, A1 of Magnolia; Robert W. Wiley, P1 of Des Moines; Hollis B. Paulson, A1 of Council Bluffs; Jack Gordon, A1 of Council Bluffs; Carl B. Myers, A2 of Cedar Rapids; Connie Pickering, E2 of Iowa City; John A. Fay of Bellevue; Ronald A. Herring Refuses Embargo DES MOINES (AP)—Gov. Clyde L. Herring refused to declare Iowa a party to a 10 day embargo on farm products, proposed by Governor Berry of South Dakota in a telephone call. Governor Herring declared he did not believe the embargo would be effective and that he had no authority to join in the plan.

THAT'S MY BOY! by FRANCIS WALLACE AUTHOR OF "HUDDLE"

CHAPTER THIRTY-SIX

After three brilliant seasons as a varsity back for Thorndyke, "Big Jeff" Randolph is about to close his collegiate football career in the annual Tournament of Roses game on New Year's Day. Back home in tiny Athens, mid-west factory town, "Jeff's" adoring Mom is listening to the game on the radio. To her the giant "Jeff" is still her little Tommy of yesteryears who first starred at the football in high school so well that he was lured east to the wealthy and historic Thorndyke institution. Pop and Uncle Louie have gone downtown to hear the returns. One of the neighbor's children invites Mom to listen on his big set but she declines the invitation.

He ran back across the street, flying. Joie was a nice boy, and couldn't help it if his mother had put him up to it. She could keep her radio and Mom would never hear anything no matter how bad she wanted to if she had to listen to that one's. The boy was all right although Mom never could understand it, but she'd have a fine time over there watching Jenny Farrell's mouth trying to put on hypocrite smiles; and listening to the banty rooster dude who would like as not try to sell her some more insurance.

Anyhow, Tommy was playing a good game; so Thorndyke must be winning. . . . Yes, there it was, the first half was over and Thorndyke was leading 13-6 and oh, what a game this Big Jeff Randolph was playing, the announcer said. Then Mom heard it very plain:

"Yes sir, yes sir, Mrs. Randolph's little boy is certainly showing these Coast players how to play that old football game today."

Mom's hair stood up, almost, and her face got red and she had to sit down. She had heard her name mentioned on the radio.

All over the country it had gone! She hoped Jenny Farrell had that turned on so everybody in the neighborhood could hear.

Hardly knowing why, Mom decided she'd bake a chocolate cake which Pete liked so well; it would give her something to do during the second half and they would all be coming home hungry and full of talk anyhow when it was over; and Mom wasn't much interested anyhow since Tommy was winning and everything was all right.

So she mixed up the batter and put it in the oven and began putting the stuff on to warm and while she was at it, mixed up some biscuits; the noise was getting stronger on the radio, the announcer was trying to shout out the crowd; something was happening. Mom wiped the flour from her hands on her apron and put her ear close.

"Oh boy, oh boy, the place is wild. . . . Southern Cal has tied the score and is moving up the field toward the Thorndyke goal. . . . Seven minutes left to play, anything may happen yet. . . . The Trojans are hot, red hot and the Titans are tiring from the heat. . . . They've just taken time out. . . . That Big Jeff Randolph boy is trying to pep them up. . . . Has he played a game today? . . . He's mixed up in everything. . . . He's the whole Thorndyke team. . . . He's stopped the last three plays. . . . All right, they're lining up now, punt formation, Trojans' ball, fourth down, two to go, on the Thorndyke eighteen-yard line. . . . This is the play. . . ."

The Social Service league has furnished about 40,000 hours work for more than 250 men during the 10 months of 1933.

The relief program began in November, 1931, with just a few persons needing assistance, and is continuing at the present for those in the community who are in need.

"We have taught the one needing assistance, that work is a necessary corollary of relief," Miss Bruner pointed out.

A plan is in use which has been designed to meet the problems of all those who need employment to receive it, and to receive the kind of work for which they are most fitted.

Grain Prices Drop Lower

Final Rallies Fail to Save Wheat Decline

CHICAGO, Nov. 10 (AP)—Dumped into by preparations for a double holiday, grain prices underwent material setbacks today.

A disturbing factor was word from Liverpool that market confidence there had been shaken by demoralization of exchange rates.

Heaviest Drop

Wheat closed unsettled, 7-8, 1 7-8 under yesterday's finish, corn 3-4, 1 cent down, oats 7-8, 1 1-8 off, and provisions varying from 5 cents decline to an equal gain.

The furthest drop of wheat prices today was 2 3-4 cents, with the market showing considerable rallying power at times, especially in the late dealings.

Milder...yes I like that word about cigarettes

"When I think of milder cigarettes nowadays, I always think of Chesterfields."

"Because Chesterfields are milder. They've got plenty of taste and aroma to them but they've got mildness too! I smoke Chesterfields all day long"

—when I'm working and when I'm not, and there's no time when a Chesterfield doesn't taste milder and better.

"I'll put in a good word any time for a cigarette like Chesterfields—they're mild and yet they Satisfy."

Chesterfield the cigarette that's MILDER the cigarette that TASTES BETTER
