Saloon Banned by Empire State Liquor Laws

Consolation for dry losers in the recent repeal fight is seen in the adoption of a stringent set of liquor regulations by New York State. The old saloon is definitely banned. Liquor may be served with meals or without meals in licensed restaurants, but the drinker must sit at a table—no more bars or brass rails or back rooms. Retail liquor stores may sell beverages for home consumption on a strict cash and carry basis, purchases being limited to three quarts to a customer at one time. The regulations, framed by the State Alcoholic Beverage Control Board under chairmanship of Edward P. Mulrooney, may serve as a model whereupon other States may create similar control laws.

SETTLE Describes Journey to Stratosphere

Stephenson of the University of Chicago the scientific equipment which they had taken aloft.

"I hope we brought back something worth while for you," he said.

Picard on Scene
Dr. Picard came to the scene as the balloon was being made ready for shipment to Lakehurst.

"Hello, Pick," shouted Settle, grasping the hand of the man who originally was to have made the flight with him. Picard rolled up his trousers and waded out to examine the gondola, surrounded by water.

Telling over and over again to newcomers details of the flight, Settle said the balloon held 110,000 cubic feet of gas when he took off from Akron at 9:27 a.m., yesterday and that 50,000 feet remained before the rip panel was pulled.

Enthusiastic
After Commander Settle had taken off for Washington, Major Fordney, expressing himself as "enthusiastic," about the navy balloonist's piloting, exclaimed: "I'd go anywhere with him."

"The experience in the stratosphere was very interesting," he said. "It is a region with very little change in temperature. The lowest inside our gondola was about 46 degrees above zero."

He did not know what the outside temperature was because the automatic recording instruments had not been examined.

"No Weather"
"As for weather, there isn't any," said the major. "It's static all the time, with no clouds and no rain. The sky is beautiful, and there is perpetual sunshine. The clouds below looked to us just as they do from the earth."

"We had occasional glimpses of the earth, but only through a haze, and we could only make out the outline of the main topographic features."

Gas Expands
"We were not high enough to notice the curvature in the earth. The gas expanded as we went up with the gradual diminishment of air pressure. When we reached equilibrium at about 59,000 feet, the gas bag was completely expanded, and the bottom of the bag was wide open."

"We could look up into the top of the bag and with a little glass read certain instruments which were fastened there. There isn't very much to say about what we did while we were up."

"The commander was very busy with navigation, and my job was making as many scientific observations as possible. I went up specifically for that."

Tremendous Task
"Commander Settle had a tremendous task in plotting the course, getting information, and watching instruments."

"We hung around at a low altitude for about two hours before we were able to get the winds which steered us in the right direction. Over Alliance, Ohio, we were quite low. The commander kept jockeying the ship until he had a reasonable amount of land between our position and the Atlantic coast. Then we went up quite rapidly."

"We cannot yet tell the exact result of our recordings because they were recorded by scientific instruments which we could not observe directly."

Personal Reaction
"We didn't have time while up there to stop a moment and try to gauge a personal reaction. There was no time to indulge in emotions. We didn't get as much data as we would have liked to have gotten at any point, and there was very little time spent in looking out of the portholes at the sky."

"As we were coming down and getting close to earth," Settle said, "we are rapidly running out of land and altitude," we saw a good soft spot and made it. I said to him that it was a darned good landing."

The scientific equipment taken on the flight included two instruments to determine the curve of intensity of the cosmic rays as affected by altitude, and a spectroscopic to determine the ultra-violet limit of the solar spectrum against the high altitude.

By ANNE ADAMS

Designers have outdone themselves in the ingenious frocks they've created for you this season! There's elegance, color, diversity of detail and ample choice of fabric. This stunning model seems to combine all these points—the seaming is clever, and flatters the figure to slimmness; the large casual scarf knotted close to the neck introduces that vital touch of contrast against the dullness of a new mossy crepe. It would be wise to have several scarfs—and then, as another change, wear the neckline open as shown in the small sketch.

Pattern 1653 is available in sizes 14, 16, 18, 20, 22, 24, 26, 28, 40 and 42. Size 16 takes 3-3/8 yards 39 inch fabric and 3-4 yard contrasting. Illustrated step-by-step sewing instructions included.

Civil Works Project Ranks Grow to 108

Jubilant Workers Will Number 290; Start On Park, River

Fifty-nine more men start to work this morning on civil works projects at the city park and along the Iowa river, bringing the total up to 108 men now at work. Two hundred ninety unemployed will be put to work before the week is over. The first half of the total will be taken from the county relief rolls.

Everyone to Have Job
Dr. W. L. Bywater, chairman of the civil works committee here, said yesterday that by Dec. 10 or 15, every man in Johnson county who wants to work will have a job.

It was a jubilant crowd of men who were registered for work at the Social Service league office. "I hope I don't wake up and find I'm dreaming," said one, and "I wish you luck, too," laughed another. The 290 men who will be put to work under the civil works program will build an earth levee around the city park as a flood control measure. The men were removing underbrush from along the river yesterday.

Wallen Supervisor
Allen Wallen, former city engineer, is supervising the work and Prof. A. H. Holt of the college of engineering is acting engineer of the river levee project.

Along with the news of jobs, unregistered unemployed hurried to get their names on the list of the re-employment office. One hundred twelve persons registered yesterday, bringing the total number up to 820.

Dr. Woods Explains Rapid Suicide Rise in Medical Address

A few extra suicides in a small town or city results in a conspicuous and sudden rise in the suicide rate, Dr. Andrew H. Woods, director of Psychopathic hospital, said in a talk concerning the unusually large number of fatalities in 1932 by this means in Davenport, at a meeting of the medical staff of St. Luke's hospital there yesterday evening.

One-third of the suicide cases, Dr. Woods asserted, were committed by insane persons in Davenport in 1932. All of these cases show insanity of a depressed type. When mental diseases result in death it is the same sort of phenomenon as cancer or tuberculosis causing death, he believes.

If a man is infected with disease germs, the doctor noted, the chances of death vary according to the virulence of the germs and inversely with the strength of the man's resistance to those germs. This same principle applies in the tendency for suicide, Dr. Woods commented. When the future holds no more hope for a man his natural tendency is to end his life.

Sigma Delta Tau, Delta Delta Delta Win Hockey Tilts

The present standing of the tournament follows:

Former S. U. I. Student Accuses Omaha Man on Deathbed

Murder charges were filed against Dr. Louis N. Smernoff of Omaha yesterday as the outgrowth of an alleged illegal operation which resulted in the death of Eneatha Kenyon, 24, former resident of Iowa City and graduate of the university in 1931, according to an Associated Press dispatch. The girl was buried at Waterloo yesterday.

County Attorney Beal said the girl in a dying statement named Dr. Smernoff as the one who performed the operation at his private hospital. Evidence of an illegal operation was found in an autopsy performed by Dr. Sam McClenehan, coroner's physician. Dr. Smernoff surrendered to police and is at liberty on $5,000 bond.

Miss Kenyon resided here with her mother while she attended the university and moved to Omaha about a year ago, where she was employed at a hotel cigar stand. In 1930 she was chosen one of the "ideal" women students at the university.

Emma Felsenthal, S.U.I. Librarian, Cousin of Speaker Appearing Here

Speaking of famous relatives—Emma Felsenthal of the university libraries can claim a cousinship to R. D. Blumenfeld, former editor of the London Daily Express, who will appear here Friday evening in the course of a lecture tour through United States.

40 Year Career
During a journalistic career of 40 years' duration in London and in America; Mr. Blumenfeld has known most of the great personalities of the day, including Queen Victoria, King Edward, the Prince of Wales, Marconi, Edison, Pulitzer, General Grant, the former Kaiser, Ramsay MacDonald, Winston Churchill, and Lloyd George.

Born in Watertown, Wis., Mr. Blumenfeld was one of a large family, and he received early newspaper experience on the German weekly which his father, David Blumenfeld, edited. From work on his father's Democratic newspaper in a Republican Wisconsin, Mr. Blumenfeld rose to positions on the Chicago Herald, the New York Evening Telegram, the London Correspondent, the New York Herald, the Daily Mail, and the London Daily Express.

Positions Held
Reporter, editor of music and drama, correspondent of the United Press, news editor, editor-in-chief—these are among the positions which Mr. Blumenfeld has occupied during the course of his career. He retired in October, 1932, from the post of editor-in-chief of the Daily Express, but he remains chairman of the board of directors. He is called by his colleagues the "Dean of Fleet street."

When R. D. Blumenfeld was 23 years old, he was sent by an American press service to cover the Golden Jubilee in London. Imperial Britain on show fascinated him; he came back to America several times, but always returned to England, until he finally established a permanent home there.

Leads Party
During the Coolidge administration he came to the United States as a leader of a party of British editors on a tour financed by a peace organization.

It was in 1924 that Miss Felsenthal met her cousin, in London, and she was impressed by his extreme geniality. She spent one Sunday afternoon at his home in Kent, which is a two hours' ride from London and is near the road by which the Canterbury pilgrims passed. His house, which is 300 years old, has been modernized. Miss Felsenthal describes it as being unpretentious—rather the charming and peaceful English home, with a lovely garden on the grounds.

"Suave, Smiling"
C. Patrick Thompson describes Mr. Blumenfeld as "suave, smiling; dark-eyed, soft-voiced, shrewd, and subtle, with an ambassadorial presence and charm." He adds, "He could have been Sir Ralph, but he declined the honor; he preferred the acknowledgment of election to the British Tory stronghold, the exclusive Carleton club."

A reporter once asked Mr. Blumenfeld who was the greatest of all his friends. Mr. Blumenfeld named Jimmy Aylett, who was his week end cottage gardener 30 years ago. Mr. Blumenfeld said of Aylett, "He was 80. He was born next door, as his father and grandfather and great-grandfather before him. He knew the earth which gave to his spade and his hoe, and what he could stand and produce. He knew all about clouds and rain and sun. Simple Life

"Jimmy Aylett lived his simple, honest, beautiful life without violence, without temper, without malice. He went to church o' Sundays with a little bunch of flowers in his cleanly brushed Sunday coat. He had the courtesy and the gallantry of the courtier. He knew naught of London or the world. His philosophy lay in Mother Earth and what she would provide. He was kind to dogs and hated traps for rabbits. Always in his pocket there was an apple or a pear or a few dusty sweets for children."

Asked for further reason for such tribute to Aylett, Mr. Blumenfeld said, "He taught me above all things that the important things in life are not to be achieved in the making of money or in chasing of social rainbows."

Others in Family
Mr. Blumenfeld is not the only writer in the family; a daughter, Josephine, has written a number of modern short stories. Among Mr. Blumenfeld's books are "The Pick-Axe Club," 1885; "Exiled in England," 1896; "What is a Journalist," 1930; "R. D. B.'s Diary, 1887-1914," 1930; and "All in a Lifetime." In the general library of the University of Iowa may be found "In the Days of Bicycles and Bustles," which contains passages from his diary.

Dean Williams to Talk Tonight To Freshmen
"Engineering as a profession," will be the subject of a talk to be given before freshman men this evening at 8 o'clock in Iowa Union by Dean Clement C. Williams of the college of engineering.

He will show slides to illustrate this talk which is one of a series of freshman vocational forums, given under the auspices of the Y.M.C.A. for the purpose of aiding in the orientation of freshman men.

tion, through which the federal government is making grants and loans to political subdivisions for construction work. Several grants have already been made to the University of Iowa.

TVA means Tennessee Valley Authority, created to administer power development of Muscle Shoals and the Tennessee river valley.

SHD stands for Subsistence Homestead Division, which will aid in putting unemployed on farm lands which are at present not producing crops.

This list was complete at the time of its writing. Perhaps by the time it appears, more letters will be added. Each of these divisions stands for an admirable effort on the part of the administration to fight the depression, but the whole thing means that a system of bureaucratic government—an alphabetocracy—is growing up.

President Roosevelt has already indicated that he hopes to co-ordinate these agencies to make the administration more efficient. Everyone who has attempted to memorize all the letters and what they stand for will undoubtedly wish more power to him!

Women's Styles Today

(From the San Francisco Examiner)

Babette said in The Examiner recently: "Styles are not created for ages any more, they are created more for sizes and types. Take the well known swaggar suit, for instance. It is a style that looks equally well on a tall, somewhat stocky high school girl as it does on her equally tall and large boned mother."

This change in clothes designing tells us a lot about the spirit of the times. We are not so prone to put either things or persons in fixed categories. Time was when you could tell a man's or woman's age a mile off by looking at the clothes they wore. And a voter was either Republican or in the asylum.

But now, with Einstein throwing that mathematical monkey wrench into the nalloed-downness of even time and space, and with politics a free-for-all of mutations and upsets, our attire inevitably shows the change.

Don't fool yourself. You tell things about yourself in your choice of clothes—all the more now that the old standardized rules have been thrown away.

GOOD MORNING logo with decorative elements.

For many years now Thanksgiving has been a time of sad hopefulness rather than of rejoicing. It has been a time when one was rather hard pressed to find something out of the chaotic round of living for which he could be sincerely thankful. It has been a time when one seeking to find some cause for which America as a nation could be grateful could only note that matters might be worse. And it has been a time when one could not enjoy the traditional turkey dinner with cranberries without being worried by the vision of thousands of men and women and children for whom the day served only to intensify their miseries.

During the last hectic years things have grown constantly worse. Hunger, at one time nothing much more than a poetic concept, became a terrible reality in thousands of American homes. And with the general breakdown in business and industrial activity came a warping of the very fabric of our civilization. The terrors of despair made their way into the timbers of once strong institutions and weakened them.

Thus our educational system has suffered untold damage, not so much through the reduction of expenditures as from the deadening effects of a defeatist psychology grown out of depression and continuing misery.

But even in these unpleasant conditions there are the seeds of progress and betterment. With the breakdown of a commercial empire once thought to be founded on bed-rock has come a new and more wholesome concept of society and of the rights of men. Rather than plunging the nation into revolution, the experiences through which we have passed have given us a new view of human truths that had been forgotten.

The result is a magnificent, if belated, attempt to return to the principle of equality of opportunity upon which our commonwealth was founded. Here and there one can detect apparent flaws in the machinery, but the goal is clear and one can feel sure that we are headed back from individualism to civilization.

And just as the times have shown us certain fallacies in our concept of society and of man's relations to his fellow men, so have they indicated lines of future progress in matters of education.

We are beginning to wonder, for instance, whether enough stress has been given to the development of individual thought and achievement, whether facts have not taken too much precedence over understanding. And we have seen also how the educational system has been hardly adequate to fulfill the needs of such times of stress.

For these lessons of hard times we will have paid an enormous price. The blight of these four years will rest heavily upon our whole structure for many times four years. But if we can learn them thoroughly now and act accordingly they will have been worth even this hideous price. If we do not, we will have squandered something of incalculable value. —Don Pryor

BEHIND THE SCENES - IN HOLLYWOOD - STUDIO GOSSIP SCREEN COMMENT

HOLLYWOOD—If you can believe Al Jolson, even columnists are back-ward compared to a reporter who approached him in New York. "Mr. Jolson," said the newshound, "I understand your wife is having a baby." "Why, no," said Al, "that isn't so." "Yeah? Don't tell me!"

Smiling denials by Isabel Jewell fall to check the reports that she and Lee Tracy are plotting an early marriage. The gossips want to know, for instance, why the blonde actress is planning to catch the first airplane for Mexico City as soon as she finishes in "The Comeback" at Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer.

Hard to believe that the lovely Alice Joyce has a daughter old enough to go into pictures. Yet the first debutante to be signed by Jesse L. Lasky for his picture, "Coming Out Party," is Alice Moore, daughter of Alice and of Tom Moore. The young lady will donate her entire salary to charity.

Everybody rushed out, so that when the plane landed, 20 cameramen, including two still-men from the Paramount studio, were gathered in a semi-circle. And into this reception descended Mr. and Mrs. Bell, of Shingle Springs, Cal., a couple wedded 12 years. Mr. Bell is a copper-mining engineer and a radio-operator mistook it that Cooper was on the plane.

The real lad with the girls is Dick Powell. The papers printed about his birthday this week and he got 14 proposals of marriage in the mail. Ben Lyon has decided not to rib Bebe Daniels any more. As a gag, he piled the sink full of dirty dishes for her return from New York. Bebe took one look, dismissed the maid and made Ben wash them. . . . The auto-salesmen are all coming away from Stepin Fetchit with long faces this trip. The lazy colored boy isn't buying a thing. . . . Desert-Inners report that Constance Bennett's adopted son, Peter, goes horseback-riding every morning in overalls. . . . Connie and Gilbert Roland have been playing much tennis at Palm Springs. . . . Sister Joan, on the other hand, has been among the film crowd at La Quinta. . . . Johnny Weissmuller air-planes it to Lupe over the week-end.

Several days ago, Gail Patrick made a sensation when she donned a red bobbed wig to play a part in "Death Takes a Holiday." So loud were the praises that the one-time stately Gail has bobbed her own long dark hair and has had it curled at the ends to give an effect very similar to the wig.

Greene Will Talk Friday

Education Professor to Give Baconian Lecture

"Some objective bases for improving the English curriculum" is the topic which will be discussed by Prof. Harry A. Greene of the college of education at 7 p.m. Friday in chemistry auditorium.

Professor Greene is the second speaker to appear on the annual series of Baconian lectures which is under the auspices of the graduate college.

English Curriculum

"Since the curriculum of the school does not keep pace with life," Professor Greene feels that "it is imperative that constructive thought and effort be continually given to the maintenance of the curriculum at a level effective in a dynamic society. Particularly is this true in the field of English."

In his address, Professor Greene will consider the complexity of the English language and will discuss the lack of adequate authority on proper usage.

To Trace Approaches

He will discuss social usage and the establishment of standards of acceptable practice which are needed. He will also trace the objective approaches that have been made thus far.

This lecture, which is open to the public, will be broadcast over WSUI. Professor Greene's lecture, like the Baconian lectures, will not exceed an hour in length and will not, therefore, conflict with the university lecture to be given by Ralph D. Blumenfeld in natural science auditorium at 8 p.m.

As Walter Winchell might say— "Walter Winchell knew about things are 'that way' between Columbia university and the state of Iowa. The eastern institution rather boasts of the matter in this week's issue of the Columbia Alumni News, and three institutions of learning in Iowa can't deny the relationship.

It seems that 71 of the colleges and universities in the United States are headed by men who have received one or more degrees from Columbia. Iowa, strangely enough, leads all other states in employing Columbia "labor," for out of the 71 presidents, provosts, and chancellors, Iowa claims three at the helm of three of its organizations.

The University of Iowa is, of course, headed by President Walter A. Jesup, who is a graduate of Columbia. The other two members of the Columbia fraternity are President Harry M. Gage of Coe college and President Paul H. Buckholz of Dubuque university.

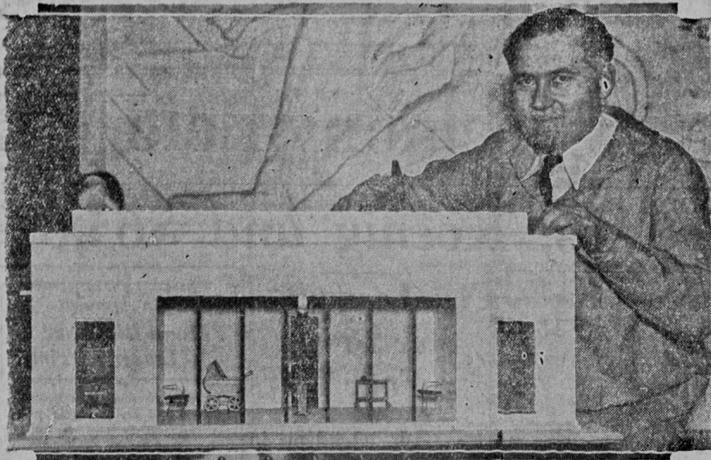

Chevrolet isn't the only one that can boast of "economical transportation." If evidence about the campus means anything. Take, for example the case of the motorcycle. A motorcycle in itself is not unusual, nor is a motorcycle with one passenger or even with two. But when five passengers are accommodated on a single machine, that's news. And that was the condition yesterday, with two hanging on the sides, one almost standing up, one in the saddle, and one in the "rumble seat."

Here's the week's example for students who just can't seem to get to work. It was a tiny brindled pup who was energetically digging for something beneath the splintery steps leading up the hill near University hospital. Starting before dinner, he dug for at least a full hour. By the time he had finished, the hole he dug was of the proper proportions to house his family. And then, so far as your reporter was able to discover, the poor dog didn't discover anything.

COTTAGES TO REPLACE SLUMS

Small and compact, but affording many new comforts, is the model of a family dwelling which Oskar J. W. Hanson, Chicago sculptor, submitted to the directors of the new government-aided, community-sponsored subsistence farms near Dayton, Ohio, which is to be established under the president's plan for establishing model dwellings to replace slums. With conditioned air and modern conveniences, the unit is to cost only $1,600.

ACTORS IN MURDER TRIAL DRAMA

Recent Discovery May Aid Medicine, Says Dr. Baker

If the recent report concerning the discovery of immune substances in the blood of patients convalescing from sleeping sickness by Leslie T. Webster and George L. Fite associated with the Rockefeller institute is true, according to Dr. C. Gregory Barer of the University hospital, it will prove helpful in combating the disease in epidemic form.

Polk County Leads With 19 Schools in Dental Health Plan

Polk, with 19, leads other Iowa counties in number of schools which are active in the 1933-34 operation of the University of Iowa's dental hygiene plan.

chronic or late stage, is deemed advisable only in the early stages. Moreover, it is very difficult to tell even at that time when to apply this serum.

Third place is held by Webster, with 14 schools, while fourth is shared by Palo Alto, Jasper, and Lyon, credited with 11. Scott and Washington have 10 each.

Undergraduate Readings Will Begin Sunday

Maxine Moore, A3 of Newton, will be the first undergraduate to appear in a series of Sunday afternoon readings which are under the auspices of the speech and dramatic art department.

Miss Moore will read a cutting of "Mamba's Daughters" by Dubose Heyward at 4 p.m. in the main lounge of Iowa Union Sunday.

"Mamba's Daughters" is a story of Negro lore. It was written by the author of "Porgy," a best-selling novel a few seasons ago.

Although this is her first appearance as a reader at the university, Miss Moore has appeared in three plays in University theater.

In "The Cherokee Night," which was presented in the theater last December, she was cast as Bee, a half-breed waitress. She also appeared in a premiere performance of "Oxygenerator," which was given in May.

In the opening production of the current season, "Both Your Houses," she played the part of Bus. She is a member of University Players and of Kappa Alpha Theta sorority.

This program, which is the second of its kind to be presented in the 1933-34 series, is open to the public. It is being presented under the direction of Eugene Bahn of the speech and dramatic art department.

Former Student Is Author of Book on Soviet Government

Bertram W. Maxwell, former University of Iowa student, is the author of a new book entitled, "The Soviet State," according to an announcement received here yesterday by Prof. Benj. F. Shambaugh, head of the political science department.

The new volume describes the Russian government under the social experiment of communism. It is the result of several years of study by Mr. Maxwell.

Mr. Maxwell was granted a doctorate in political science by the University of Iowa several years ago. He is now professor of political science at Washburn college.

Cambridge Debaters to Invade Iowa Campus Again Tonight

Discussions on military preparedness, the comparative merits of the American and British forms of government, and restriction of the press; speeches 18 minutes in length; crowds of 800 persons; and a debate with an English college in which the only Englishman was on the Iowa team, have featured the three previous appearances of Cambridge university on the Iowa campus.

When Roswell Johnson, A2 of Ottumwa, and Fred Moran, A3 of Jefferson, meet representatives from Cambridge tonight, it will mark the fourth appearance of a team from there at Iowa and will be the eleventh international debate to take place here since that custom began in 1924.

The first meeting with Cambridge was in 1925 and took place in the natural science auditorium. Harry Stevenson, John Denman, and Frank Horack defended for Iowa the proposition that "For a democratic nation, the American system of government is preferable to the British system." Michael Ramsay (a Scotchman), Geoffrey Lloyd (a Welshman), and Patrick Devlin (an Irishman) representing the English university of Cambridge were defeated by an audience decision of 442 to 270.

None of these men was truly English in the sense that he had been born and reared in England, but John Denman, speaking for Iowa, was born and grew up in Liverpool, gaining most of his debating experience in that country. It was in this contest that the speakers were allowed 18 minutes for their constructive speeches and an additional five minutes for rebuttal. The fact that more than 700 of the audience remained to cast their votes seems to indicate that they liked it.

The second debate with Cambridge, in 1927, also resulted in a victory for Iowa. The audience, by the small margin of 13 votes, agreed with the Iowa speakers that no restrictions should be placed on the press of this country. George Anderson of Hawarden, Burton Miller of Newton, and Herschel Langdon of Gilmore City met the Britishers in Iowa Union before a crowd of 800 persons.

Herschel Langdon was again one of the Iowa speakers when Cambridge came here in 1930. He was teamed this time with only one colleague, Roy McCall of Bloomington, Cal. Debating the proposition, "Resolved, that the present policy of military preparedness should be abandoned," the Englishmen, on the affirmative, won the vote of the audience 134 to 103.

These visitors found much to marvel at in our country. They remarked particularly on the beauty and habits of our co-eds, the American central heating systems, the low level of our movies and newspapers, and were much interested in the workings of prohibition.

So far, the University of Iowa has won two of the three contests with Cambridge. The fourth will center around the proposition, "Resolved, that the United States should adopt the principal features of the British system of radio control and operation." This follows the custom which has been more or less consistently carried out of selecting a topic on which the American and European philosophies disagree. Iowa will, as is customary, defend the American side of the question.

WSUI to End Play Series

The last of a series of five Italian and Roman plays which have been presented by the speech department on a regular Wednesday night program will be given at 8 o'clock tonight over WSUI.

In tonight's presentation, "Water Upon Fire," a modern Italian play, parts will be taken by Charlotte King, A3 of Kohoka, Mo., Edward Breheny, A1 of Atlantic, Mary Hammeman, A2 of Ft. Madison, and K. Irving Johnson, U of Laramie, Wyo.

Eugene Bahn of the speech and dramatic art department is directing this series of broadcasts.

This year's plan for the broadcasts is to present a play one week and a poetry recital the next. Plays that have been presented in the first series include "The Post Inn" and "Mistress of the Inn" by Goldoni; "Menechmy" by Plautus; and "Sicilian Limes" by Pirandello.

Mississippi's current pecan crop is estimated at 4,250,000 pounds by J. C. Holton, state commissioner of agriculture.

Clara Bow and two of the principal players in her latest starring production "Hoopla" now playing at the Strand theater.

"Burn Old Shoe" Tonight in Annual Ceremony Before Last Fray

Hawks Begin Final Practice for Nebraska

Capt. Moore Will Hurl Footgear Over Head Into Bonfire

Iowa's Hawkeyes, partially rested from their strenuous climax to a great Big Ten season, returned anew to hard work, yesterday, when Coach Ossie Solem sent them through their first outside drill of the week.

Today's drill, the final practice session of the year, will be marked with the ceremony, an annual one, of the "burning of the old shoe."

This tradition was brought to Iowa by Ossie Solem and was first instituted last year.

Will He Miss? The ceremony will be observed by both varsity and freshman squads grouped around a huge bonfire.

Capt. Tom Moore will hurl the shoe over his head from 20 paces and if it lights in the first, the tradition has it that Iowa will win its final game of the year.

There will be no restrictions in play Saturday when the Hawks and the Huskers meet. It will be the season's finale for both teams and there will be no reason to hold back any trick formations. Coach Ossie Solem has given his team instructions to open up with every play in the bag.

Brused and battered after two terrific conference battles, the Hawkeyes are once more rounding into fair shape after a three day rest from strenuous activity.

Crayne, Laws in Shape

Dick Crayne and Joe Laws, Iowa's offensive threats, will both be in perfect shape to end the season in spectacular style. Crayne has already made more yards from scrimmage than any other Hawkeye back except Aubrey Devine. His attempts have netted him 4.3 yards on every chance. Close behind him and tied with him for scoring honors with 36 points is Joe Laws. Joe has carried the ball on an average of 4.7 yards per chance though not having piled up quite as much yardage from scrimmage as his teammate Crayne.

Iowa's line, for the first time in several contests, will find the weight advantage with it. Nebraska's forward wall is comparatively light, averaging 183 from end to end. The Husker forwards, however, like Iowa, have a reputation for aggressiveness that has marked their play as outstanding all season.

Aerial Defense

Yesterday's practice session consisted mainly of the development of an aerial defense against Husker pass formations and the stressing of Iowa's own pass attack.

The team will leave for Lincoln tomorrow and no drill is scheduled before they leave. They will limber up muscles on the Cornhusker field, however, after their arrival in Lincoln.

Cornhuskers Enlarge Stadium

LINCOLN, Neb., Nov. 21 (AP)—Nebraska is getting ready for its football game with Iowa Saturday and John K. Selleck, the business manager, is going to do his part by providing 3,000 extra seats.

He announced today he will have 20 bleacher sections erected at the ends of the Memorial stadium field. An overflow crowd for the Kansas game Armistice day and a heavy advance sale of seats for the Iowa game led Selleck to prepare for a record crowd for the season.

Jones Worries Over Ramblers

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 21 (AP)—Before Southern California's football team departed for South Bend today, Coach Howard Jones cast a sincere vote of confidence in Notre Dame and its grid mentor, Hank Anderson.

"If you want my honest opinion," offered Coach Jones, "that game Saturday will make or break us so far as our remaining contest with Georgia and Washington are concerned.

"My scouts tell me the Ramblers have a lot better team than the scores have indicated. Maybe it hasn't taken advantage of its opportunities at times."

Coach Jones declared this annual game is one for which there is no yard stick, and tabbed it a toss up.

He feels that those who have taken it upon themselves to criticize Anderson for Notre Dame's unfortunate season have failed to recognize that material of higher caliber is one of the first requisites of a great team.

In the PRESS BOX with H. G. B.

IOWA once more will witness the shoe burning ceremony made famous by Ossie Solem while coaching at Drake. The process is simple enough, the captain stands on the south side of the north goal with his back to a huge pile of straw. Igniting an old football shoe, which has been soaked in oil, the captain of the team tosses the shoe over his shoulder, over the cross bar and into the straw pile. If he connects and starts the fire Iowa is slated to win, otherwise the Hawks will lose. Last year the custom was introduced here but with startling results.

Capt. Marc Magnussen connected with the straw all right but that didn't make any difference to Northwestern's Wildcats. In the weirdest game ever witnessed in the Big Ten, the Purple snowed Iowa under to the tune of 44 to 6. Everything the Hawks did was wrong and the climax was furnished when Ed Whalen, a slow moving guard, reached up and hauled down two Iowa passes and turned in runs of 85 and 74 yards to score. Not only do we hope that the ceremony works better this year but we are confident that no matter what happens tonight, Iowa will not go to pieces Saturday. Pittsburgh only gave the Huskers a small idea of what they will get from Iowa.

GOING to keep on yelling until it's all over. The train leaves for Lincoln at 2:05 Friday morning. That means that 2:05 Friday is the time for at least 3,000 fans to show up at the station to give the boys a real sendoff. Sunday morning at 9:40 the team returns. And that is the time for at least 5,000 Iowans to show up and give a real welcome for the team. Win or lose, it should make no difference. It's the last game of the year and those boys have given you a great team. Don't fall them.

Well, the Cubs, after smoking things up for a long time, finally came through and added Chuck Klein, one of baseball's greats, to their roster. At least twice every year the "Klein trade" rumor was aired and it came up so often that we seldom read it and paid no attention to it. It is not so surprising that the Cubs got Klein but it is rather surprising to consider what they gave for him. Gink Hendrick, Mark Koenig, both veteran infielders and utility men, and Ted Kleinmans, a rooky pitcher, plus an estimated $65,000. And just a year ago the Phils were offered Pat Malone, Charley Root, Kiki Cuyler and $100,000 for this sterling outfielder. The front office was even willing to throw Babe Herman in for nothing.

RATED as the greatest left handed hitter in baseball, Klein will do much to aid the cause of the Bruins. His lifetime major league average of .359 places him among the five leading batters of modern baseball and puts him in a position where he can take the lead before he finishes his career. Quite a ball player for such a small price.

1st Game Scores of Interfraternity Basketball Games

Scores of first games of interfraternity freshman basketball league, played last night in the north gym of the field-house:

- Sigma Pi, 17; Phi Kappa Psi, 13. Sigma Alpha Epsilon, 20; Alpha Tau Omega, 6. Phi Delta Theta, 46; Phi Gamma Delta, 4. Sigma Chi, 18; Theta Xi 13. Pi Kappa Alpha, 27; Phi Epsilon Pi, 2. Beta Theta Pi, 21; Delta Tau Delta, 9. Delta Upsilon, 22; Phi Beta Delta, 18.

Hanley Uncertain EVANSTON (AP)—Coach Dick Hanley of Northwestern was uncertain about his probable starting backfield for the Michigan game today as he attempted to bolster the Wildcat running attack. Wally Cruice, Harry Leeper and Ollie Olson all are nursing injuries from the Notre Dame battle.

NOTRE DAME DEFEATS WILDCATS

Scoring its second victory of the season, Notre Dame turned back the Northwestern Wildcats at Dycbe stadium, Evanston. The Irish scored when Andy Pilney streaked across the goal line in the second period. Mazziotti kicked the extra point. Picture shows, Elsnor, the Irish fullback tearing through the Northwestern line. The final score was, Notre Dame, 7; Northwestern, 0.

Iowa Cagers Face Opener

Play J. Millikin Here Dec. 2; Veterans in Old Positions

Evidently wanting to keep basketball eyes sharpened, Assistant Coach "Fops" Harrison devoted all of yesterday's Varsity cage drill to offensive work. Two teams were used to work the ball through a freshman team.

Less than two weeks now remain before the opening game with James Millikin university, Dec. 2. Right now it appears as if four of the starting players are easy to name. Johnny Grim and "Hawker" Selzer will be ready to step back into their guard positions and Howard Bastian, center, and Howard Moffitt, forward, will no doubt get the call again this season.

Just who will fill the other forward position is hard to tell at this stage. Johnny Barko, veteran of last year's team, Ivan Blackmer and Fred Schwartz, flashy sophomore, are outstanding candidates for this position. Blackmer has been playing at center in practice, but could easily be shifted to forward if needed.

Sid Rosenthal, promising sophomore forward who cracked a wrist bone in Friday's practice, will be out for at least three weeks. He had been showing up well in practice, being very shifty and fast with a good basket eye.

Starting tomorrow Coach Rolfe Williams will take over full charge of the team. He has been able to give but two nights a week to his men this far because of his duties as assistant football coach. The new floor should be ready for service the early part of next week. The lines have been painted and workmen started varnishing it yesterday.

Younan Wins Quad Net Championship in Stiff Battle, 6-2, 6-3

Tom Younan won the Quad tennis meet yesterday morning by defeating Ken Fuller 6-2, 6-3, in the two final sets of their match. The match was continued from the night before, when Fuller led two sets to one. In taking the two straight victories which were necessary for him to win the meet, Younan played faultless tennis. A momentary let-down could have meant defeat but Fuller's chance never came.

Younan is from Chicago. He played little tennis until entering junior college at Dubuque. While attending school there he took part in several meets. This is his first year at the University of Iowa and his first tennis experience here.

Illinois Concentrates on Running Game

CHAMPAIGN, Ill., Nov. 21 (AP)—Illinois varsity concentrated on running plays, especially those starting from a kick formation, in a long dummy scrimmage against the freshmen today. Grain Portman, speedy halfback, held his position on the first team as Frank Froeschauer stuck with the seconds; Casey Straw was used at Ivo Schustek's end position while the latter recuperated from minor knee injuries.

Students at Carnegie Tech presented Head Coach Howard Harper with a derby at the beginning of the season. The more superstitious ones believe this the reason for their victory of Temple, Xaxier, and Notre Dame.

Iowa Grid Party To Travel West Friday Morning

Two special Pullmans bearing the University of Iowa football party will head westward for the first time this season Friday at 2:05 a.m. on the trip to Lincoln, Neb.

More than 30 Iowa players will board the cars at 9:30 and will have more than half their night's sleep before the west-bound train picks up the Pullmans.

Arrival in the Nebraska capital, scene of the game with the Cornhuskers which closes the 1933 season, is scheduled for 10:15 a.m. The athletes will proceed at once to the stadium for a workout.

After eating lunch in Lincoln, the entire party will travel by buses to Beatrice, 40 miles south of Lincoln, there to rest until late Saturday morning, with headquarters at the Paddock hotel. The squad will return to Lincoln just in time to take the pre-game warm-up.

The return trip will begin about midnight, and Iowans will debarth in Iowa City Sunday at 9:40 a.m.

Blue in Easy Cage Workout

Two more candidates reported to the University high basketball squad last night, bringing the total number of members up to 22.

As Monday night, Coach Joy Kistler gave only a light drill in fundamentals. A general limbering up in basket shooting for the most part occupied the attention of the squad.

Coach Kistler will continue these light drills until the boys have been toughened into the regular practice period drills. With five letter winners from last year's poor team back, and about that number of reserves, the Blue and White mentor hopes to mould a team that is a decided improvement over last year's aggregation.

With hopes of opening the season with a game on Dec. 15, the river school will definitely take on St. Pat's on the Irish floor the following Friday, Dec. 22, and from this game play a schedule of 12 or more games before tournament time next spring.

Wisconsin Seeks Gopher Defense

MADISON, Nov. 21 (AP)—A defense that can stop Minnesota's hard running backfield was sought in the Wisconsin football camp today. Coach Spears revised the Badger defense and it worked against Gopher running plays executed by the freshmen but there was no Lund, Alphonse or Beise in the yearling backfield. The regulars' work was confined to practice on new pass plays while the reserves were busy on defense against the frosh.

Fraternity Speedball Championship Play

Pi Kappa Alpha and Beta Theta Pi will clash tomorrow at 4:30 p.m. on the athletic field west of the armory to decide the Interfraternity speedball championship. Neither of the teams lost a game during the season.

Delta Tau Delta did not play Alpha Sigma Phi yesterday afternoon, as both teams forfeited because a victory for either team would not have displaced the winners of the two leagues.

Dr. George A. Brown of the University of Minnesota graduate school of medicine stated that a few cocktails now and then won't raise your high blood pressure; they may help it.

Nat. League Star Sought Four Years

Hendrick, Kleinmans in Trade With Koenig for Bat Champ

CHICAGO, Nov. 21 (AP)—After almost four years of persistent trying, the Chicago Cubs finally have purchased Charles "Chuck" Klein, 1933 National league batting champion and one of the greatest left handed hitters in baseball, from the Philadelphia Nationals.

Two veteran utility infielders, Mark Koenig and Harvey Hendrick, Theodore Kleinmans, a southpaw pitcher recently purchased from Atlanta, and a bundle of cash, estimated at $65,000, will be given to the Phillies by the Cubs.

Relentlessly Sought Probably no ball club sought any player more relentlessly than the Cubs did Klein who in six seasons with the Phillies compiled the lifetime major league batting average of .359 and won the 1933 National league batting crown with a mark of .368.

The late William Wrigley, Jr., wanted him badly and at one time was reported to have offered $150,000 in cash for a straight sale.

Both Koenig and Hendrick have been in the National and American leagues for years. Koenig, a veteran of only 29 years, was with the New York Yankees and Detroit and then went to the Missions in the Pacific Coast league in '32.

Trade Veteran, Rooky Hendrick, formerly with the Yankees, Cleveland, Brooklyn, Cincinnati, and St. Louis, is 36 years old and batted .293 for the Cubs last season. Kleinmans was regarded as a fine pitching prospect at Atlanta, where he won 19 and lost 13 last season.

The new Cub star started his baseball career as an amateur at Indianapolis. His first professional engagement was with Evansville of the old Three Eye league in 1927. In 1928 he was sold by Ft. Wayne to Philadelphia for a price reported ranging from $200 to $7,500 and starred from the start, batting .360 his first season.

Expect Strong Action From Olympic Men

WASHINGTON, Nov. 21 (AP)—Expectations tonight were that the American Olympic association at its quadrennial meeting tomorrow will make strong representations to Germany against any restrictions on Jewish athletes at the 1936 Olympiad.

In view of fresh affirmations of non-discrimination from German Olympic representatives, however, it appeared problematical how far the group would go in threatening to withdraw Americans from the games or suggesting that the contests be moved from Berlin.

Hans Luther, the German ambassador to the United States, was invited to be present at the association's luncheon. He sent his regrets, however, explaining that he had a previous luncheon speaking engagement of several months standing.

The association will have before it a strong resolution adopted at Pittsburgh yesterday by the amateur athletic union, chief sports governing body of the nation. It urged that no American athlete be certified to the Berlin Olympics unless both the German government and Iowa State are gunning — not for the coach, but for faculty members who fix eligibility rules.

At both schools, old grads who had hoped for better things from their gridiron squads asserted athletes are compelled to meet scholastic requirements more rigid than conference rules demand.

The result, certain alumni groups contend, is ineligibleity of numerous promising candidates at critical times, and in many cases ultimate transfer to some other institution.

Missouri's football team got off to an unusually poor start this fall, losing to opponents rated much weaker. Iowa State defeated Missouri, but a wild protest came from Cyclone partisans after the University of Iowa had knocked off Iowa State handily in a renewal of traditional rivalry following a lapse of 13 years.

Coach to Appoint Iowa Basketball Leader 18 Times

The basketball captaincy in the 1933-34 University of Iowa season will be bestowed upon Hawkeye players 18 times, for Coach Rolfe Williams will continue his policy of appointing a captain for each game.

This marks the fifth season that such procedure has been followed by the Iowa coach. An honorary captain, whose name goes into the Hawkeye athletic archives as leader of the team, will be elected by the players at the close of the season next March.

Ben Selzer, all-conference guard who has returned for another season of competition, was elected honorary leader of last year's team.

Opening Game for St. Mary's Monday Night

Veteran Squad to Face Riverside on City High Floor

With several weeks of preparation already behind it, a veteran St. Mary's basketball squad is gradually tapering off in anticipation of its opening contest with Riverside at the City high floor, Nov. 27.

To the complacent observer, a coach who has a complete regular team returning and several promising candidates to boot, should not have much to worry about in regard to the coming season. However, at present this is not the case with Coach Francis Suplee, who no less than a fortnight ago, viewed the current campaign with great optimism.

Suplee's mild apprehension was caused by the poor showing of his cagers in a scrimmage Monday evening, one that was marked by what the St. Mary's coach referred to as "mechanical errors." The quintet, which had been functioning so well previous to the last scrimmage, was decidedly off color, and taking this development as a cue, Suplee last night began the process of getting his squad back into form.

After a blackboard session spent in the discussion of errors and faults in the play of his men Monday, the Rambler coach drilled his squad in the art of dodging, feinting, and evading opposing guards, with special attention being accorded to the forwards who did not contribute their quota of offensive strength in the last practice tilt.

The St. Mary's mentor plans to work his team hard until Friday, when a light workout is scheduled that is calculated to place the team in ideal condition for the Riverside game on the following Monday.

Connor Drills Inexperienced Irish Cagers

With only two weeks to go Coach Dick Connor is endeavoring to whip into shape an inexperienced St. Pat's squad with the exception of two lettermen, Denny Emanuel, guard, and Boyd who was a reserve forward on last year's squad.

Coach Connor declares that if he can find a center and a guard to team up with big Denny Emanuel that by the first of the year the Irish will give any of their opponents a good scrap.

Although with the exception of Boyd he has no experienced forwards he believes that he has plenty of good forward material.

At last night's practice Coach Connor drilled his squad on the fundamentals consisting of passing and shooting.

Twenty men are now on the squad but Coach Connor expects to cut it down to 15 by the end of the week.

Played Golf At Age of 7 and Has Kept in Shape by Stiff Tourney Play.

Ed Shelly, sophomore candidate for the varsity golf team, started playing golf at the age of seven years. Since that time he has participated in a number of tournaments, winning several.

Although Shelly is not an exceptionally long driver, his iron shots are very accurate and his ability to putt is unusual. Frequently he drops 20 and 30 footers.

He won his first tournament three years ago when he was crowned champion of the West Okoboji Golf and Country club. The following year he snared first honors in the annual Northwest Iowa Labor Day Open, defeating a large field of prominent golfers.

His sensational 66 in the Northwest Iowa Open at Spencer two years ago tied the course record held jointly by Joe Kirkwood, trick shot artist, and Art Andrews, pro at the Davenport Country club. Shelly finished third in this tourney.

Shelly was one of the low qualifiers in the state tournament at Okoboji last summer and was eliminated in the first round by Bob Miller of Iowa City who shot a par smashing 69.

Shelly is also quite a tennis player. Two years ago he won the city mixed doubles tennis championship at Ft. Lauderdale, Fla.

He played basketball and football at Milford, his home, but here he is confining his activities to golf. He is a commerce student and a member of Sigma Nu fraternity.

L. C. Cagers Scrimmage

Fundamentals Stressed With 24 Man Squad Participating

Coach George Wells gave his City high cagers their first scrimmage of the year yesterday as he continued to point them for the opening tussle against Lone Tree next week.

The scrimmage did little more than give Coach Wells an additional evaluation of his men, as the players have not yet rounded into a condition that will permit rigorous play.

The Little Hawk mentor continued to stress fundamentals during the workout, giving special attention to passing and handling the ball. Twenty-three of the 24 men who survived the first cut participated in the workout. Fred Ballard was absent.

Twenty members of Iowa City high's 1933 grid team and their coaches forgot the disappointments of a poor season last night when they acted as guests at a "chicken dinner" given by Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Williams, parents of Dale Williams, end on this year's eleven.

BLOOMINGTON, Ind., (AP)—A freshman eleven using Purdue formations gained consistently through the Indiana varsity today in a hard scrimmage. Jones, guard, and Zoll, tackle, were the only regulars able to stop the yearlings.

Dayton Fills Ohio State's Cage Schedule

Will Play Twenty Games While Defending Big Ten Title

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Nov. 21—With the end of football season only one game and several banquets away, Coach Harold G. Olsen's Big Ten championship Ohio State university basketball squad looked for the first time today at its completed schedule, and went seriously about its work.

Athletic Director L. W. St. John announced today that the University of Dayton has been scheduled for a New Year's night game at Dayton, filling the only open date on the card which includes 20 difficult games. High spots of the schedule: non-conference games against Ohio Wesleyan, University of Western Ontario, Pittsburgh, Princeton, Marquette, Notre Dame and Western Reserve; and two conference games each against Chicago, Indiana, Northwestern, Michigan, Minnesota and Wisconsin.

In compliance with the Big Ten's evolving schedule, Illinois, Purdue, and Iowa are dropped from the card this year, and Michigan, Chicago, and Northwestern are added. The Buckeye squad is already out of the blister stage. Coach Olsen has had them at work in the new Ohio State gymnasium three nights each week for the last month, and although several promising candidates are still playing football, the outstanding lettermen have been scrimmaging daily.

Five lettermen are available: Capt. Bill Hosket and Bob Colburn, Dayton; Bill Beltner, Dover; Fred Conrad, Wooster; and John Wilson, Garfield Heights. Conrad is still playing football. Lettermen lost from last year are Capt. Howard Mattison, Erie, Pa., Lew Hinchman, Columbus, and Herb Brown, Dayton.

The most difficult assignment of the Ohio State team at this time is to dodge successfully the scholastic bagabo, which seems to get in at least one good lick each season. Although the first game against Ohio Wesleyan will be played Dec. 9, the Big Ten schedule does not start until January 6. One week before Christmas, first quarter final examinations will be taken, so that Coach Olsen will not know what men will be available until the Big Ten games are ready to start.

Coach Olsen's problem is to find a big, capable guard to replace last year's Captain Mattison, and a forward who is fast enough and tall enough to give speed and rebounding ability to the front line. Red Wilson, who played enough last year to win his letter, will be fighting against several promising sophomores for the vacant forward position, while Fred Conrad and Ted Rosequist, Ohio's gigantic football tackles are both being considered for the one open guard position. At present Captain Hosket at center, Bob Colburn at forward, and Bill Beltner at guard are secure at their positions, although Colburn will not be ready until the second quarter.

Outstanding squad members from last year include Jerome Fisher, Cleveland; John Fugitt, Portsmouth; Garfield Griffith, North Baltimore; Ray Low, Dover; James Scott, Toledo; Wilfred Thies, Norwood; and Chester Wendt, Middletown.

Promising players from last year's freshman team are Bill Axline and Warren Whittingler, Zanesville; Hugh Hawley, Bucyrus; James Freshwater, Ostrander; Trevor Rees, Dover; Jim Pipoly, Struthers; and Bruce Layborne, Cuyahoga Falls.

The schedule: Dec. 9, Ohio Wesleyan at Columbus. Dec. 16, University of Western Ontario (London, Canada) at Columbus. Dec. 30, Pittsburgh at Pittsburgh. Jan. 1, University of Dayton at Dayton. Jan. 3, Princeton at Columbus. Jan. 6, Chicago at Chicago. Jan. 8, Indiana at Indiana. Jan. 13, Northwestern at Ohio. Jan. 15, Indiana at Ohio. Jan. 20, Minnesota at Minnesota. Jan. 22, Northwestern at Northwestern. Jan. 26, Michigan at Michigan. Feb. 3, Minnesota at Ohio. Feb. 10, Marquette at Milwaukee. Feb. 12, Wisconsin at Wisconsin. Feb. 17, Michigan at Ohio. Feb. 19, Chicago at Ohio. Feb. 24, Wisconsin at Ohio. March 3, Notre Dame at Notre Dame. March 5, Western Reserve at Cleveland.

New Coaches Have Success

Gar Davidson, Harpster, Tilson Among New Men Who Win

ATLANTA, Nov. 21 (AP)—As the national gridiron race swings into the November stretch a half dozen or so coaches can point to fine early results on new assignments.

Lieut. Gar Davidson has an unbeaten Army team, which showed its prowess in the 6-0 victory over Illinois and the 21-0 triumph over Yale. The young but white-haired officer took charge at West Point at a time when prospects looked dim.

What If 1 Finger Is Broken? There Are Nine Remaining

AMES, Nov. 21—As long as Russell Norgardt of DeWitt, freshman tackle, can get around he can play football, according to Norgardt himself.

This plucky freshman suffered a broken finger early in a scrimmage against the varsity one night last week, but refused to report the injury until the following day for fear he would be taken out of scrimmage.

Wegner, Hood Only Veteran State Cagers

Face Iowa in Opening Battle at Iowa City, Dec. 11

AMES, Nov. 21 (AP)—Coach Louis Menze has decided he may as well be optimistic about the coming basketball season for Iowa State college although he will start with only two veterans of last year's quintet.

Menze will build his team around Waldo Wegner of Evely, ransy center who was one of the most consistent scorers last year, and Frank Hood of Creston, who developed rapidly as a fine guard.

At the close of the semester he will add to his list of veterans Chester Anderson of Burlington, who is not in school at present.

Last year the Cyclones won but two out of ten Big Six battles but managed to score six victories out of seven non-conference games, three of them against Drake.

Five members of last year's reserve squad and a group of freshmen make up the rest of the varsity squad now drilling for the opener against the strong University of Iowa team Dec. 11.

The Cyclones will play non-conference games with Iowa, Coe, Grinnell and Drake before the Christmas holidays as warmups for the Big Six season which opens here Jan. 5 against Nebraska. Other non-conference teams on the schedule are Rockhurst college of Kansas City and Creighton.

The schedule: Dec. 11, Iowa at Iowa City. Dec. 12, Coe at Cedar Rapids. Dec. 16, Grinnell at Ames. Dec. 21, Drake at Des Moines. Jan. 2, Drake at Ames. Jan. 5, Nebraska at Ames. Jan. 12, Kansas State at Manhattan.

Jan. 13, Oklahoma at Norman. Jan. 18, Missouri at Ames. Jan. 14, Kansas at Ames. Feb. 10, Oklahoma at Ames. Feb. 16, Kansas at Lawrence. Feb. 17, Rockhurst at Kansas City. Feb. 19, Missouri at Columbia. Feb. 24, Nebraska at Lincoln. Feb. 26, Creighton at Omaha. March 1, Kansas State at Ames.

Fehring Out of Indiana Fray
LAFAYETTE, Ind., (AP)—Capt. Dutch Fehring was declared definitely out of Saturday's game with Indiana as Purdue's football team practiced today with Carl Heldt of Evansville, Ind., occupying the vacant tackle post.

LINCOLN, Neb., (AP)—Coach D. X. Bible tonight announced Oregon State college authorities had reconsidered and approved a stopover by which Lonnie Stiner's football team can meet the Nebraska Cornhuskers here Thanksgiving day.

But he has built a real contender out of one of the lightest elevens Army has had in years.

Harpster in Solid
Howard Harpster, the 26 year old head mentor at Carnegie Tech, entrenched himself with the Plaid supporters by his 7-0 win over Notre Dame, although the following week his Tartans were held to a scoreless tie by Washington and Jefferson.

Washington and Lee won but a single game in 1932, but under the driving tactics of big Tex Tilson the Virginia Generals have come back strong to the West Virginia, hold Yale to a 14-0 count and outplay Princeton all the way before bowing 6-0.

Although beaten by Illinois Wesleyan, Charlie Bachman saw his Michigan State team score on Michigan for the first time in years and later hand Syracuse a 27-3 lacing.

The Rams of Fordham, in their first year under Jimmy Crowley, came through their October assignments unbeaten, winning a major intercollegiate tilt with Alabama.

Stanley Helps Gators
Southern California's long string of victories was halted by Oregon State where Alonzo Stanley is making his debut as a head coach. Oregon's goal line has been crossed but once this year.

Dennis (Dutch) Stanley, a year older than young Harpster, has brought Florida its best team since 1928. The Alligators won their first four games, never allowing their opponents to pass their 35 yard line, then lost to Tennessee 13-6 after holding a one-touchdown lead over the Vols for three periods.

Although beaten by Army, Yale supporters are pleased with the work of Reggie Root, who went to Eli after coaching the University of Mexico eleven.

Buckeyes Face Illinois Team in Final Game

Expect Toughest Contest of Year From Men of Zuppke

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Nov. 21 (Special)—With the heavy hand of Michigan marring their Big Ten records, Ohio State and Illinois will fight for a place in the conference's first division here Saturday in the final game of the season for both teams.

To Ohio State football fans, Illinois' Coach Bob Zuppke is the nation's greatest football wizard. Even in the dreary early thirties when "Zup" sent nothing but his own magic on Big Ten gridirons, he managed to conjure the fear of Ohio men. And now that he has power enough to swing his wand, the Buckeyes are prepared for their most difficult game of the season in Ohio stadium.

Regardless of what happens in the football world for the rest of the season, the great fight of the Illini against Michigan will remain a feature of the 1933 season. And though beaten 7-6, Illinois on this game alone, will be conceded the edge over the best Ohio State team in years next Saturday.

For both Ohio and Illinois, 19 men will be playing their last game Saturday. Ohio seniors are Carl Bompeldi, Ted Rosequist, Marshall Oliphant and Jerry Fisher, Cleveland; Fred Conrad, Wooster; Carl Cramer, Dayton; Pete Delich, Gary, Ind.; Sam Drakulich, Salem; Co-captains Joseph Gallus, Vandergrift, Pa., and Sid Gillman, Minneapolis, Minn.; Louis Greenblatt, Messena, N. Y.; Joseph Heyman, Toledo; Earl Johnson, Prospect; Joe Livorno, Bellaire; Wilfred Thies, Norwood.

AMES, Nov. 21—Encouraged by the attractive schedule arranged for this winter, a large squad of wrestlers are working out daily for the 1933 Cyclone wrestling team. Although no definite dates have yet been set, it is certain that Coach Hugo Otopalik's wrestlers will meet Iowa, Nebraska and Missouri in dual competition, and probable that Iowa State will be the site for either the Big Six or National A.A.U. tournament.

From last year's great team, which stored away 18 individual championships in the National Collegiate, National and Midwest A.A.U. Big Six and State Collegiate meets, and tied for first team honors in the National Collegiate tournament, only Gilbert Golden of Ames, 125-pounder, and Gordon Rosenberg of Iowa Falls, 145-pounder, have returned this year. Both these men won Big Six and state collegiate titles last year.

The team will suffer most from the loss of Merrill Frevert of Rudd, George Martin of Eagle Grove and Robert Hess of Cresco in the 155-, 165-, and 175-pound classes respectively.

Good material is scarcest in the 118-pound class and the heavier classes from the 155-pound division up. Prospects in the 135-pound class were brightened by the return of Roland Lillie of Greenfield, who starred in the 118-pound class two years ago, but was ineligible for the team last year.

Other men who will be making strong bids for positions on the team are Henry Miller of Cedar Rapids and Glen Yarger of Massena, 118-pounders; Keith Cranston of Odebolt, Lawrence Smelser of Okaloosa, and Robert Williams of Atlantic, 126 pounders; Walter Smith of Ft. Dodge, and Wiley Buford of Bristow, Neb., 135-pounders; Wymann Maulsby of Dexter, Robert Thomas of Cedar Rapids, and Leonard Wilson of Newell, 145-pounders; Elmir Faulson of Minneapolis, Minn., Clyde Hoover of Marion, Ike Hayes of Cleveland, Ohio, and Dean Horning of Ames, 155-pounders; Marshall Thiayer of Ida Grove, 145-pounder; Donald Bell and David Matthews of Tabor, 175-pounders; and John Catron of Camp Crook, S. Dak., and George Goeltz of Belmond, heavyweights.

Father Harry Ryan Expected to Lead Shamrocks to Front in Parochial Football World

By IRVING KAHAN

It's a peculiar situation up at St. Patrick's high-when football material is plentiful, the Irish find themselves without a capable coach, one who can devote sufficient time to the instruction of players and to the organization of an effective system of play.

And when at last the long-sought coach is available, in the person of Father Harry Ryan, the promising material of other years is dissipated in some miraculous and unfathomable manner.

At least, that was the situation with which Father Ryan, coach of this year's edition of St. Pat football teams, was confronted when he optimistically took over the helm of the Irish in the early fall. It was to be but the fourth season in which a Shamrock eleven was to represent the school on the gridiron, but with the fair-to-middlin' record compiled by the team in the previous season, in the face of only part-time coaching, Father Ryan had visions of turning out a fairly strong eleven at the least.

But when he surveyed the group of under-sized, frail, and inexperienced aspirants who stood before him at the first practice, and who were virtually dwarfed by the hulking figure of Denny Emanuel, their captain, he realized in full the enormity of the task which he had undertaken—that of turning out a winning team from a squad composed in the main of men who had never so much as even handled a football to any extent.

But from the very start of his association with the game of football, Father Ryan has been accustomed to difficulties of this sort, serving his gridiron apprenticeship with a band of hardy semi-pros in Ardmore, Pa. How the Ardmore eleven struggled through game after game with few if any substitutes and insufficient equipment in bruising affairs is a topic of which the St. Pat's mentor never wears in discussing.

"I played every position on that club, but guard," he will tell you, "besides managing the team and booking the games. And when our quarterback was injured, I was forced to call signals from the full-back position."

Added to this period of football seasoning, Father Ryan came in contact with the game as it is played both at Penn State and Notre Dame, though he never had the opportunity of undertaking varsity play during the periods he spent at both institutions.

It has been a particularly hard row for the Shamrock coach to hoe, for he has had to cope with various times with inexperience, injuries and above all, the infestation of a general inferiority complex that for a time threatened to entirely shatter the morale of his squad.

However, football at St. Pat's is definitely on the upgrade, and when the Irish finally climb the hill to recognition, football critics in looking for the main factor in the development of the Green gridirons will inevitably acknowledge the efficient and accomplished coaching ability of Father Harry Ryan.

CHAPTER FORTY-FIVE

The people around town hadn't forgotten Tommy even if the papers had and Mom wished he would write often because somebody was always asking how he liked it, how his picture was coming along, when was it coming to Athens, and—What did he think about Clara Bow? Did he have any dates with Greta Garbo? Was it true that John Greenree was a dope fiend? And that Elsie Mountford, was drunk all the time?

Charlie Whitney asked about him. He told Mom he had a place for Tom in the factory after he graduated but that he couldn't afford to pay five hundred dollars a week or anything like that. He told Mom to keep in touch with him and tell him how Tommy was getting along and any changes he made since the job was still open at the factory even though times were getting hard because the factory needed young blood and Tommy was just the type he needed. . . he knew the town and had a lot of contacts and was so well educated.

Mom thanked Charlie for being so interested in Tommy and for the interest he had always taken in him since he was a little boy and she told him how well Pop always spoke of him too. Charlie laughed a little and seemed kind of embarrassed and Mom was, too. She had met him coming out of the bank. Then she asked how Dorothy was and told him how relieved she had been when Dorothy had come to tell her Tommy was all right that time he was hurt. Mom wanted to ask about the grandmother, too, but she couldn't bring herself to it because the old woman had never even wanted Charlie to talk to Mom when they were both young.

The neighbor ladies at the grocery store were always interested in Hollywood, too. Mrs. Flannigan always was wanting her to ask Tommy what had become of Tommy Meighan because he was her "favorite;" and Mrs. Johnson liked Wallace Beery because he was a real man and didn't put on any frills or fancies. Mrs. Farrell didn't talk much because it was easy to see she was jealous of everything Tommy ever did. The funniest one, though, was Butcher Brown who was always wanting to know if Clara Bow was asking for him and when Tommy was going to get a job in the movies for . . . his cat, Albert!

Cousin Emmy worried Mom for awhile. She had some big idea about getting a pass and going out to Hollywood to visit Tommy. Mom knew just how glad Tommy would be to see Cousin Emmy come piling in on him because he never could stand her, anyhow; yet, she was crazy about the movies and Mom believed that down in her heart Cousin Emmy thought she was pretty and could play-act herself. Mom told this to Pop and Pop said she'd be sure to break all the machines if they tried to take Emmy's picture. And there was another thing: Cousin Emmy was the kind who went crazy over sheiks and Mom knew, if she went out there and ever saw Clark Gable or Buddy Rogers on the street, she would be sure to run right up to them and yell out loud and make some kind of a fool out of herself, and Tommy wouldn't like that.

Mom's heart jumped . . . a telegram always meant something important and . . . Mom "always expected the worst"

Mom was afraid she would have to hurt the poor thing's feelings but, as luck happened, business was slack on the railroads and Cousin Emmy's husband got bumped and had to go back firing instead of running an engine; and that changed his hours and cut down the money and everything all around. Even then Cousin Emmy hinted around to Mom about her husband coming to live with the Randolphs while she went to Hollywood; but Mom pretended not to; but Mom pretended not to; but Mom pretended not to.

DRIVING THROUGH WITH FRIEND ARRIVE TOMORROW AFTERNOON LOVE TOM.

The first thing Mom did was sink right down on the door step without even shutting the door. Tom was coming home. It had been so long since she had seen him—she hadn't seen much of him for three years. And he was bringing a friend. Mom took one look at the room and jumped up. She got her shawl and hurried over to Mrs. Johnson's. Mrs. Johnson was all interested: "I see you get a telegram," she said.

Nobody ever missed a thing on that street, Mom thought; but she said: "Yes, Tommy's coming home and is bringing a friend. He's driving through. It came from Kansas City. Can I use your phone, Miss Johnson?"

"Just help yourself," Mrs. Johnson said.

Mrs. Johnson pretended to be busy in the kitchen while Mom phoned but Mom knew she was all ears so she just kind of hinted around to Cousin Emmy and Cousin Emmy, all excited, said she'd be right over and would fetch her good bedspread she had won at the bazaar and her floor lamp. And she must have few over because Mom had hardly got home when Cousin Emmy got in all out of breath; and when she saw the telegram she

200 Unemployed Will Go to Work on Natural Gas Pipe Line

United Light and Power Company to Furnish Jobs

Work Divided Between Iowa City, Rapids Unemployed

Two hundred Iowa Citizens will be put to work by the United Light and Power company next week on the construction of 40 miles of natural gas pipe line from Ainsworth to Cedar Rapids, according to an announcement made by officials of the Iowa City Light and Power company yesterday.

Work on the line is to be divided between unemployed men in Cedar Rapids and Iowa City, 200 men being hired from each town. Most of the men in Iowa City to be put to work on the project will be taken from the list at the county re-employment office, E. L. Fisher of the United Light and Power Engineering Construction company will supervise the work.

To Hire Next Week
Men will be hired next week and it is possible that some 200 men will be at work by the latter part of the week. Two groups of 100 men will work, alternating four day shifts of 10 hours a day. This enables each man to work about 35 hours a week for which he is paid 40 cents an hour. Transportation to and from work will be provided.

The manual labor cost on the portion of the line to be laid by men from Iowa City will be at least $30,000, according to the announcement. Machines will dig the trench for the pipe and the men will assist with the digging when necessary, lay the pipe, and fill in the trench.

Branch Line
The line, a branch of the east-west natural gas line which runs near Ainsworth, will carry natural gas to Cedar Rapids. It will pass about one mile west of Iowa City. No plans for bringing gas to Iowa City from the line have been made.

The group of men from Iowa City will begin at Ainsworth and work north 20 miles. The other group will start at Cedar Rapids and work south 20 miles. The 10 inch pipe will probably be unloaded this week. The project is expected to be finished by Jan. 1.

Stocks Recede Into Generally Lower Closing

Early Progress Gives Place to Mild Reactions

NEW YORK, Nov. 21 (AP)—The dollar was down again today, but speculative markets had difficulty making much headway on the upside and early progress in some directions gave place later to mild reactions.

Stocks fell back to a generally lower closing. U. S. Government bonds still were subject to selling pressure, though a firmer tone was evident in some other sections of the investment market.

Gold Price Rises
The R.F.C. gold price rose another dime, this time to $32.76, and dollars were heavy in foreign exchange trading, their gold value against the French franc being lower than was indicated by the Washington quotation. Gains by the leading European monies were again relatively small during security market hours.

Rails Firm
In shares, rails had intervals of firmness, but alcohol turned heavy on selling apparently induced by prospects of taxation. Metals accompanied them downward. Here and there an industrial got away from the rank and file, an example being American Can which touched 100 for the first time since 1931.

Indecision
Markets again seemed to have reverted to the indecision which had characterized them recently. Pressure against shares was light, suggesting a reluctance of traders to part with present holdings.

Business News Scarce
Aside from car loadings figures, business news was rather scarce. "American Metal Market" thought developments in the last two weeks "suggest strongly that a large proportion of the stocks of steel and manufacturers of steel accumulated during the bulge last summer has been liquidated."

Violation of deer hunting regulations is a felony in Missouri, punishable by as much as two years in prison.

Clapp Entertains Kiwanis Members At Noon Session

Prof. Philip Greeley Clapp, head of the music department, played piano selections from six famous composers, for members of the Kiwanis club at their noon luncheon in the Jefferson hotel yesterday.

The first movement of a "so called Italian concerto" by Johann Sebastian Bach and the middle movement of one of Ludwig van Beethoven's "pathetic sonatas" were played.

The professor played "Nocturne" by Francois Frederic Chopin, whom he called the "first of the great poets of the piano."

"Hymn of Love" by Franz Liszt was played, and a touch of the modern heard in a prelude by Claude Achille Debussy.

In recognition that this year commemorates the centenary of Johannes Brahms, the professor concluded with a Brahms rhapsody.

A letter from Emma Harvat, chairman of the board of directors of the juvenile home, thanking the Kiwanis club for its $50 contribution, was read by Prof. C. M. Uppgraf, president.

The nominating committee read the list of candidates for the Dec. 12 election of officers.
