YALE ECONOMIST BACKS ROOSEVELT

This Jury Can't Decide Wallington's Crown Shaky, But He Gets First.

By EDMUND LINEHAN

"What radio announcer has the best diction?" Bruce E. Mahan, director of the extension division, asked Prof. Clay Harshbarger's class in radio broadcasting a few weeks ago.

That seemed easy—so easy, in fact, that every one of the 30 students wanted to answer it. There were nearly 30 answers to the question.

Contest "Rules"

"Somebody must be wrong," said Mr. Mahan, a bit puzzled. "I'll put it another way. What announcer rates highest in pronunciation, articulation, tone quality, accent, and cultural effect?"

The lid was off. For quite a while all battle ensued, centering about the questions of how pronunciation differed from articulation, how accent from tone quality, what cultural effect was, and whether an announcer's personality shouldn't be allowed to enter.

Wallington Wins

By the time the smoke had cleared away, Professor Harshbarger had managed to get the names of the nominees on the blackboard. The election battle was even more furious. Finally, the totals showed that Jimmy Wallington had nosed out John S. Young, with Andrew Baruch, Ted Husing, and Alois Hayfill giving them a bath.

The backers of the losing candidates were die-hards, for the most part. They just wouldn't climb on the band wagon. Wallington, they argued, had been chosen because of his personality. Young was a far better announcer. Or Baruch. Or Husing. Or Havilla. Or almost anybody.

Got Award

It is a matter of record now that Wallington received the award for good diction presented by the American academy of arts and sciences. Mr. Mahan, for the fifth year, served as a member of the advisory committee of which Prof. William Lyon Phelps of Yale university is chairman. Mr. Mahan has accepted an invitation to act in the same capacity in 1934.

Oh, yes. Just one more word about the die-hards. They had a fleeting bit of consolation Sunday night when Wallington, announcing the Chase and Sanborn hour, stumbled on the word "psycho-analyst." After the hapless announcer had struggled with it for a few seconds, Eddie Cantor stepped in and pronounced it with perfect ease.

"And you got the diction award," cried Eddie. And the die-hards laughed and laughed.

Morgenthau Modifies Rule On Publicity

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22 (AP) — Acting Secretary Morgenthau tonight modified his secrecy order to permit treasury officials to give the press factual information without reference to himself or his assistant and publicity representative, Herbert Gaston.

It was added, however, that division chiefs would be held strictly accountable for all information thus given out pertaining to their divisions and under no circumstances must they divulge information on questions of policy.

William Ellsworth To Attend National Union Convention

William H. Ellsworth, A.A. of Omaha, Neb., was elected delegate to the National Union convention at Columbus, Ohio, Dec. 8, 9, and 10 at a meeting of Union board last night.

Rufus H. Fitzgerald, director of Iowa Union, and Theodore Rehder, manager of Iowa Union dining service and faculty adviser to Union board, will probably also attend the convention.

Seven Held in Police Probe of Strange Crime

Chicagoan Struck by Bullet During Operation

CHICAGO, Nov. 22 (AP)—The baffling murder of Mrs. Rheta Gardner Wynekoop, slain with a single bullet as she lay nearly nude on an operating table, had brought seven persons into custody tonight.

Those seven were the members of the household of her mother-in-law, Dr. Alice Lindsay Wynekoop, in whose home office the 23 year old wife of her son met death.

Suspects

"We suspect no one and everyone," said Police Capt. Stege as he ordered their detention.

Suggestive and perplexing elements of the tragic melodrama followed each other swiftly as detectives, coroner's physicians and the father of the slain girl, H. H. Gardner of Indianapolis, gathered at the west side home of Dr. Wynekoop to search for a motive for the strange crime.

Major Development

A major development was today's disclosure that the mother-in-law, who said she knew of no insurance upon the young woman's life, actually had taken out a $5,000 policy on Mrs. Wynekoop herself eight days ago. W. J. Brown, representative of the New York Life Insurance company, informed Coronet Walsh that Dr. Wynekoop had paid the first premium of $42.50 on the policy, of which she was the beneficiary, and which carried a double indemnity. Brown said the physician first had asked for a $10,000 policy.

Sentimental Letter

Dr. Wynekoop clarified one mysterious factor today by saying that she was the writer of a sentimental letter addressed to her son Earle but never sent. It was thought at first, his wife had written him before her death. Dr. Wynekoop said she decided not to mail it because it was too sentimental.

Bodine Heads Committee

Has Charge of Getting Faculty Subscriptions In Religious Drive

Prof. J. H. Bodine, head of the zoology department, has been appointed chairman of the finance committee which today begins soliciting the faculty to obtain funds for the purpose of maintaining the general religion office in Iowa Union.

The school of religion is maintaining this office as a general headquarters to help the 17 campus religious organizations in carrying out their religious and social service activities. Because of financial conditions the school of religion is asking the aid of the faculty.

Prof. Bodine has selected a member of each department of the university to solicit the other members of his department.

The Y.M.C.A., Y.W.C.A., Philo club, and Newman club have met and cut their budgets to the lowest possible figure, according to Prof. William H. Morgan, of the school of religion. They have agreed on a prorated basis. However, those who wish may give their donation to any club they desire.

Other clubs are the student groups of the various churches and the Negro Forum.

Confessed Slayers Of Hart Indicted In Extortion Plot

The date should be set back about a month, he said.

The house spent a busy day receiving bills among which was one by Representative Ryder of Dubuque authorizing board of supervisors on petition of a tax payer or a lien holder to compromise due and delinquent taxes for 1932 or any prior year by accepting as full and complete payment the principal amount of the tax plus 6 per cent interest from Nov. 15, 1933.

City Ready for Final Pep Meeting Tonight

For the last time this year Iowa City will get a chance to give the surprising Hawkeyes of 1933—a team which has already written its name in the hall of football fame—a rousing send-off.

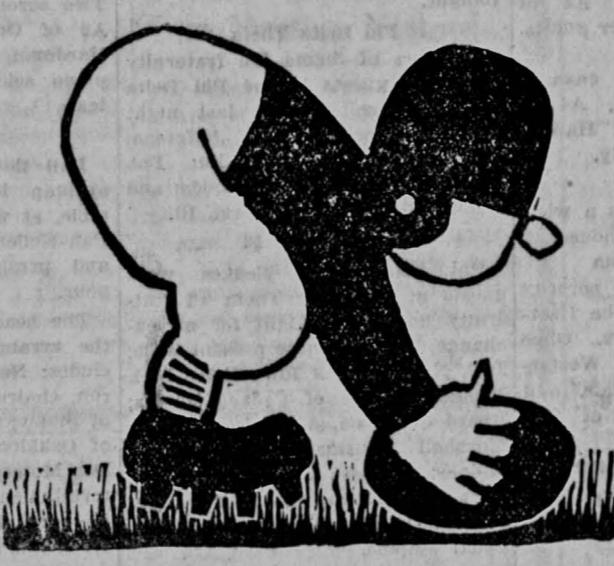

Tonight at 9:30 all university students, town people, and the band will meet in front of the east steps of Old Capitol to tell members of the team, who will all be there, what they think of their record and what they expect at Nebraska.

Captain Tom Moore will be there, Mayor Harry D. Breene and Coach Ossie Solem will talk, Zud Schammel, Dick Crayne, Russ Fisher—the band the music of "On Iowa." "We should have thought of this before," Mayor Harry D. Breene said last night. "If we had taken the team to the station on the fire truck two weeks ago they might have 'put out' Michigan."

Chief Laws was not, as was expected by members of the fire department, at the station yesterday working out on the brass pole or doing ladder exercises. However, his absence was not attributed to a lack of interest in his new position but rather to his duties on the Hawks eye team.

According to reports, a large group of students that everyone may help send the team to Nebraska.

And after everyone who wants to has talked—or at least shouted, the biggest fire truck in Iowa City will scream up Iowa avenue at 9:40 and stop at Iowa avenue and Clinton street.

The team which extinguished Purdue's championship hopes will crawl on the truck, after Honorary Fire Chief Joe Laws has donned his white helmet and taken his place in the front seat where he will man the siren, to go down Clinton street to the Rock Island station to the Pullmans.

The university social committee has suspended the 10 o'clock rule for sororities tonight, extending the time until 10:30 so —the cheerleaders—you—and your roommate—everybody will be there.

The band and the crowd will follow the fire truck down the street to the station to see the team on the train at 10 o'clock, to and Iowa Citians are following the team to the Cornhusker capital to watch Iowa's last battle of the season. Plans are now under way to meet the team here after the game.

Bird to Take Nagler's Post

Webster City Engineer Is Acting Professor Of Hydraulics

BYRON BIRD of the Currie Engineering company, Webster City, has been appointed acting professor of hydraulic engineering here. The appointment was necessitated by the recent death of Prof. Floyd A. Nagler.

Mr. Bird was graduated from Iowa State college in 1912. He was elected to Tau Beta Pi, honorary engineering fraternity. For two years following his graduation, he was assistant engineer with Alvord and Burdick, consulting engineers in Chicago.

Wisconsin Graduate

He then did graduate work in hydraulics at the University of Wisconsin, where he received a civil engineering degree.

From 1917 to 1919 he was engaged in war work, being captain in the engineer's corps, which rank he still holds in the reserve. Mr. Bird became professor of civil engineering at Texas A. & M. college. He taught hydraulic and sanitary engineering there until 1925.

At Iowa State

The following year he was acting professor in the same field at Iowa State college. He was also senior hydraulic engineer for the U. S. engineering offices at Kansas City, Mo., and Washington, and city engineer at Ft. Dodge before he began his work in Webster City.

He is a member of the American Society of Civil Engineers, Western Society of Engineers, American Water Works association, American Society for Testing Materials, and the American Society of Municipal Engineers.

Re-Elected President of Farmers Union in Battle With Editor

Predicts Man Likely Will Reach 15 Mile Mark

OMAHA, Nov. 22 (AP)—John H. Simpson of Oklahoma, who was today re-elected president of the National Farmers Union, tonight clashed with A. W. Ricker, editor of a St. Paul, Minn., farm paper, in a hotel lobby here as an aftermath of the wordy war between the two in connection with the union convention.

One blow was struck by Simpson. Ricker did not attempt to strike back and Simpson withdrew when his wife grasped his arm and led him away.

Prediction

As he made ready tonight to return to Akron, Ohio, from where he and Fordney started their venture, Settle predicted that man in the future might readily soar as much as 15 miles into the upper regions of space.

Whether the two men broke the world altitude record will be determined by the bureau of standards which is now studying the Settle-Fordney barographs.

Russians Hold Record?

Earlier this year two Russians claimed to have attained a height of some 62,000 feet in a larger balloon, but their record has not yet been accepted by the international aeronautic federation.

Trial Run

The accident occurred at 3 p.m. Tuesday while the giant craft, a six motored monoplane designed to carry 128 persons, apparently was making a trial run from Kharkov, site of an important Soviet aviation plant.

Among those killed were Chief Pilot Snegireff, the manager of the assembly branch of the Kharkov factory, engine constructors, workers in the aviation plant, mechanics, and the communist secretary of the factory.

Investigation Planned

A Soviet government commission was named to investigate the cause of the disaster and to fix responsibility. Details were withheld.

It was in his father's composing room that R. D. Blumentfeld, London editor and author, who will deliver the third university lecture in natural science auditorium tomorrow at 8 p.m., learned the alphabet.

"I learned my alphabet in my father's composing room," he once confessed in an interview. "The A's, and B's, and the C's became known to me at the same time that I learned the difference between 'long primer' and 'pearl'—but I used to hate 'pearl' because it was so small and hurt my fingers."

"I used to 'pit' a great deal, but after a while I was promoted, and at holiday time I used to set the list of unclaimed letters which came from the post office."

From this beginning, R.D.B., as he is known to his friends, rose to the position of editor of the London Daily Express, a post which he held for nearly 30 years.

During that period he has played an active part in European political and social affairs, and has been intimately acquainted with Queen Victoria, King Edward, the Prince of Wales, Marconi, Edison, Pulitzer, General Grant, the ex-Kaiser, Ramsey MacDonald, Winston Churchill, Lloyd George, and many others.

Mr. Blumentfeld will be feted at a luncheon tomorrow at noon in the river room of Iowa Union by Sigma Delta Chi, national professional journalism fraternity. Following the luncheon, Mr. Blumentfeld will make an informal address. Tickets may be reserved at the main desk in Iowa Union, or in the school of journalism office, at 40 cents each.

A New Role for the CCC

MUCH HAS BEEN said and written about the multiple values of the CCC—conservation of American forests, relief of unemployment, taking destitute boys off the highways, and providing discipline and healthful living quarters for them.

It remained for an eastern newspaper to point out another way in which the Civilian Conservation Corps could be of service, and is being of service in some instances. The CCC has shown itself to be a capable educational agency.

A survey at Ft. Slocum, N. Y., showed that out of the 200 boys in camp there, 127 had never finished grammar school, 53 had not advanced beyond the second year of high school, 16 were high school graduates, and only four had attended a college or university.

Further questioning showed that 134 of the 200 wanted to continue their education, and these boys asked definitely for instruction in 28 fields of learning, ranging from fundamentals of mathematics to applied aerodynamics.

About 25 men who had had college training were assembled and a plan of "social education" worked out. After five weeks training the men were sent to the various camps in the second corps area, and under their direction classes were organized.

The subjects in which instruction could be given at camp were selected, and textbooks purchased. Classes were organized in 40 minute lecture periods, four periods per night, and five nights a week.

The results as reported by the authorities in charge, were very gratifying, and the whole thing was put down as a successful experiment.

The experiment is interesting because it offers more or less conclusive proof on several subjects of controversy. It seems to indicate that, rather than too much education, as critics of American schools have claimed, America has too little of it. The fact that 67 per cent of a typical cross section of American youth recognized that they were limited by lack of higher education should prove enlightening.

One writer concludes that perhaps much of the unemployment which brought these young men to the CCC camps was due to this lack of education. One thing, at least, is certain: The experiment has opened a new and fertile field for the CCC—the task of molding the education and character of 300,000 young Americans.

Poets and the NRA

THE National Recovery Administration, not satisfied with its industrial and entirely utilitarian pursuits, is going in for art and culture, allowing the ranks of the poets to invade the cold sanctity of its dollars and cents halls.

When poets asked that a code of fair competition be drawn up to govern their craft, officials of the NRA were not at all daunted. They welcomed poetry to the ranks of steel and coal and gold and retail sales, and proceeded to set limits on inspiration.

Of course, it was inevitable that the press section, viewing the sight of gentle poets seeking the aid of hard-boiled industrialists and politicians, would be moved to express a cynical attitude toward the noble aims of art. Some of them went so far as to do a little poetry making themselves, and here is what they evolved:

"Man can not live by bread alone, the songsters say."

"But add, 'We'll move Parnassus to the NRA.'

"So now the muse's sweetest rhyme will be, 'Time and a half for overtime.'

After substituting a little perspiration for inspiration, the poets worked out a code which limits the muses to 35 hours per week in their hold upon the poetic disciplines of art, for which inspiration the poet shall receive a minimum of $100 per week. In case his poetry is syndicated, he shall receive a minimum of $200 per week.

The code failed to offer any information on what can be done in the case of poets who sit up all night in the throes of composition. Perhaps, as the cynical newspaper men suggested, they ought to demand time and a half.

Poets, say the guiding hands behind the code, are merely singing "the songs of gods," and are not the gods themselves. Very interesting. And an altogether fitting answer for the cynics in the press box! Perhaps in the present chaos there is nothing incongruous about poets and steel mill laborers casting their lots together.

"Manners Maketh Man"

(From The Christian Science Monitor)

A questionnaire on etiquette and manners has been issued by Dr. Ruth Strang of Columbia University, New York, to more than 4,000 boys and girls throughout the United States. The resulting replies, she says, in a survey just published, indicate that many junior and senior high school students are lacking in manners and proper social behavior.

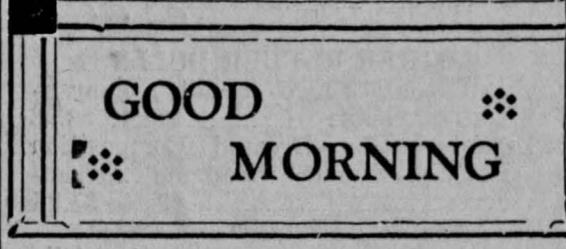

There will be facetiously disposed individuals, of course, who will wonder why the questionnaire was necessary. Any old codger, for instance, who has reached the advanced age of 30 not only knows what adolescence thinks of him, but has heard that opinion voiced with delightful candor picturesquely stripped of all diplomatic circumlocution. Therefore, he knows, without benefit of survey, exactly what to think of adolescence.

Returning to our muttons, however, and assuming the seriousness such a subject compels, it is to be noted that the survey states, "Misconceptions regarding the general principles underlying politeness exist to a marked degree among those students taking the test." But is it fair to push the blame entirely upon youth? Do not their more mature mentors sometimes err in their misconceptions as to the motive and purpose of good manners? Is not the inculcation of polite usages too often based upon the somewhat calculating suavity of a Chesterfield largely directed toward securing the approbation of one's fellows? And in what era since time began has juvenile individualism, merely to curry favor, willingly worn a mask to conceal its vehement conviction that it alone has the right of way?

There is but one path to the kingdom of good manners, and its name is the Golden Rule. The etiquette that smooths the way of boys and girls and grown-ups is compounded of the ancient and simple virtues of kindness and thoughtfulness:

For manners are not idle, but the fruit of loyal nature, and of noble mind, Tennyson tells us.

And surely no terser definition of right social behavior was ever given than that contained in the Master's sublime and compassionate utterance, "Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself."

For the ambitious purpose of "promoting student discussion of contemporary problems," the program of the newly organized "Students Forum" will get under way tonight in the cafeteria at Iowa Union.

Equally ambitious will be the subject for discussion which, according to what can be gleaned from the day's news, covers "The Economics of the NRA."

Prof. George Haskell and Paul R. Olson, both of the college of commerce, will present the subject in addresses. This presentation, it is hoped, will be of such a nature that it will provoke discussion on the part of the audience at the subsequent round-table.

The project has brilliant possibilities and its objectives are entirely commendable. Anything which might tend to provoke thought on the part of students is worthwhile and should be encouraged.

It is generally conceded that universities in the United States offer too little of this sort of stimulation. Whether that is the fault of the universities or the result of a peculiar American temperament is something for conjecture. But the fact that students in this country, though admirably specialized, are pitifully ill-informed in current affairs and public problems, is all too evident.

The Students Forum starts its career tonight with the odds against it. All experience has tended to show that students are not sufficiently interested in strenuous thinking to take part in active discussions of this kind, or to give such meetings preference over other, and perhaps less important, engagements.

But the depression has had two distinct effects upon student habits, and in this lies the hope of success. It has, first, eliminated many expensive diversions from the average student's daily round of activity. And even more important, its effects have been of such immediate concern to each individual student that he has begun to think more or less by himself.

The revolutionary character of this transformation cannot be appreciated unless one considers how thoroughly conservative and stereotyped the American student's mind has become before 1930.

In those days, when a university education was merely one of the various magic movements through which one went as a matter of course on his way to assured success, life was friendly and it was not necessary to think very much. It was only necessary to learn and to see that one's average at the end of four years was somewhere safely above the two point mark. Students accepted theory and dogma at face value and built up a formidable dull grey body of economic and social philosophy.

But with the depression all that is changed. Even the theorists and the dogmatists themselves are disagreed. The validity of some of the most fundamental concepts has been questioned. Consequently, the unthinking student finds himself in something of a muddle where he feels uncomfortably insecure.

Combined with this feeling of mental drifting is the equally uncomfortable sense that the present allowance and the future job can no longer be taken for granted.

All these circumstances, combining to make life a far more serious matter to the average undergraduate than it has been in the past, give some promise that the forum will succeed. We shall see.

BEHIND THE SCENES IN HOLLYWOOD*STUDIO GOSSIP*SCREEN COMMENT

HOLLYWOOD — Richard Dix is down on his back again and this time it's bronchial pneumonia. The star has two nurses in attendance and his condition is serious though not critical. Rich succumbed to his illness shortly after the death of Hugh Trevor. The two men were bosom friends for years. Rich got Trevor his screen test and gave him his first part in pictures. The pair were supposed to go to Palm Springs together on the day Hugh had his relapse from the appendicitis operation. Dix chartered a plane and flew back to Hollywood when he heard of Trevor's critical state.

Titled foreigners are thick in Hollywood but RKO scores a coup in signing up a reigning king to act for the movies. His name is Ratu Pope Seniloa and he is ruler of the Fiji Islands under supervision of Great Britain. This native chief, whose grandfather was the last cannibal monarch of the Fijis, plans to leave for Hollywood next month to take part in "The Sea Girl," a picture in which Joel McCrea and other RKO stars will be his fellow players.

Remember Muriel Window, the "Peacock Girl" of vaudeville, who married and divorced millionaire Arthur Hanford, Jr.? She flies into Hollywood Tuesday in an effort to crash the movies. It was the late Tex Guinan who dubbed Muriel "The original butter and egg mama."

QUICK GLIMPSES If Jack La Rue grieves for Janet Snowden, he conceals it nicely. The young Italian actor is escorting Jane Dix around the late spots these nights.... Paramount buried all right about Sally Rand's proposal to do her fan Sally in a two-reeler for RKO. The outcry was so loud that RKO may give up the project.... Bad weather forecasts had Katharine Hepburn scared to death before she flew east to go into rehearsals for Jed Harris' "Lady in the Lake." La Hepburn wanted to pull a sneak but all the photographers were on hand to see her off.

The movie village is full of royalty. Lord Chichester has been visiting John Farrow and Lord Ronald Pugsley is back in town. It was Lord Pugsley who gave that party last summer for Joan Blondell and who was amazed to read the next morning that his honor guest, Joan Crawford, had not shown up.

Dick Powell's proposals are the talk of the town. The total has risen to 30 now, with letters still coming in.... By way of belated correction, Fifi Dorsay did not take Dolores Del Rio's role in "Wonder Bar." Dolores still has the lead opposite Jolson. Fifi has another part.

Indoctrination in Schools Discussed by English Group

Whether indoctrination in schools is inevitable was one of the questions raised by members of the English department at an informal dinner Tuesday evening in the Triangle club room at Iowa Union.

Comments on certain phases of education made by the guest speaker, Prof. Norman Foerster, director of the school of letters, led to an informal discussion of the problem of indoctrination and propaganda which has grown out of recent educational developments in certain European dictatorships.

Attention was given to the question of what subjects can be considered legitimate for indoctrination within the school system.

That the American spirit of impartiality, of free thought, and of liberty of opinion is in itself indoctrinated from the earliest period in the child's education was another subject discussed by the group.

Meier Will Talk to Philosophy Club

Prof. Norman C. Meier of the psychology department will be the next speaker to appear before members of the Philosophy club at their regular meeting, Dec. 5.

For his topic, Professor Meier has chosen "Methods of aesthetic evaluation." The meeting will be held at the home of Prof. Beth L. Wellman of the Iowa Child Welfare Research station.

Richter, McCloy, Root Take Part in Annual Illinois Parley

"Skipper" Spencer, who rings the gong on the inter-campus streetcar at the University of Minnesota, lost his attempt to uncrown the state's checker champion, Morris M. Goldman—all on account of a newspaper photographer. For many months the "Skipper" has confided to students on his trolley his firm belief that he could upset the famed Mr. Goldman. Finally, he got his chance. They met over the little black squares in the Minnesota Union, an eager crowd milling about them. But when a photographer flashed his bulb, the conductor was so unnerved that he committed a mistake which spelled his defeat. He jumped his own man.

Charles B. Richter of the music department, Prof. C. H. McCloy of the physical education department, and Prof. W. T. Root, head of the history department, will participate in a three day annual high school conference and conference of Illinois superintendents to be held at the University of Illinois at Urbana, beginning today and continuing through Saturday.

Guest Conductor

Professor Richter will serve as guest conductor of the Illinois all-state high school orchestra in a concert to be given tomorrow afternoon. He will also discuss the Iowa High School Music association in a talk after the music section of the conference at 2 p.m. tomorrow.

McCoy on Two Programs

Professor McCoy will appear on two programs tomorrow. At 9:30 a.m. he will address the physical education section on "Current practices in relation to current needs in physical education." He will also speak at an annual dinner to be held at 6:15 p.m. by the Illinois State Physical Education association. His topic at this session is entitled "Present trends in physical education."

For the history section of the conference, Professor Root will discuss "History of the mistress of the house" at 9:45 a.m. tomorrow.

Student Forum to Hear Discussion on Economics of NRA

"The economics of the NRA" will be discussed at a meeting of the Students' forum, a newly organized discussion group, at 8 o'clock tonight in the cafeteria of Iowa Union, according to announcement made by Thomas Farrell, Jr., A2 of Iowa City, who is in charge of the group.

Various phases of the subject will be discussed by Prof. George D. Haskell and Paul R. Olson of the college of commerce. After the addresses, a round table forum will be held.

The purpose of the club is to offer a means of student discussion of contemporary problems, Mr. Farrell said. Faculty members will lead the discussions which will be held every two weeks. Students will be given opportunity to engage in the discussion. It will be a group for consideration rather than for formal speeches.

Members of French Club Present Play

Members of the French club presented a short French play, "La Faute est au Grand Inventeur," at a meeting held in the river room of Iowa Union last evening. Those who took part are: Lawrence J. Mausolite, A2 of Cedar Rapids, and Woodrow Beard, A2 of Ames.

The next meeting will be held Dec. 6, at which time Christmas carols will be sung in French.

Dean George F. Kay of the college of liberal arts gave his "Philosophy of life" at a regular dinner meeting of Tau Beta Pi, national honorary engineering fraternity, last night at Iowa Union.

Attending this meeting were faculty and active members.

Philosophy Club Hears Seashore

Admitting that in the field of psychology "there has been ample justification for the arising of schools of protest," Dean Carl E. Seashore of the graduate college presented his personal attitude toward the various changes that are being made in the field of psychology in an address, "Eclectic psychology versus isms." His address was given before members of the Philosophy club who met at the home of Prof. Bonno Tapper of the philosophy department.

Agreeing that the innovations which have grown out of experiments have enriched the present conception of experience and behavior, Dean Seashore added that many of these new schools have been characterized by a weakness common to reformers: that of trying to see the entire universe through a "peep-hole."

"Judging from the history of thought," Dean Seashore pointed out, "it seems certain that we must expect and should heartily welcome the recurrent innovations, but the permanent body of psychology will grow along the line of the middle of the road."

The middle of the road psychologist he characterized as the type that forges straight ahead, but remains relatively unnoticed and unsensational.

St. Louis Doctor Will Talk Before Zoology Faculty

Dr. George H. Bishop of Washington university college of medicine, St. Louis, Mo., will speak before the zoology faculty at a seminar tomorrow at 4 p.m. in room 307, zoological laboratories.

A discussion of attempts to evaluate for certain simple reflexes and sensory events, the effects of kinds, and number of nerve fibers activated, frequency of stimulation, and duration of the stimulation period will be included in Dr. Bishop's address on "Quantitative estimation of nervous activity."

Pain, touch, respiration, and blood pressure in connection with the above factors will also be considered by Dr. Bishop.

Dr. Bishop, who is a dynamic speaker, according to Professor Bodine, head of the zoology department, will be the first out of town lecturer to address a zoological seminar this year.

Laws Will Decide "Must The Woman Always Pay?"

The second Junior Law club argument to be held this evening in the practice court room of the law building at 7:20 will attempt to put an end to the old saying that "It's always the woman who pays and pays," by proving that it's sometimes a man who pays. Judge Frank Bechly of the sixth judicial district will preside.

Henry Y. Smith was driving into the World's fair in Chicago, and had reached the city of Rock Island, Ill. While passing John X. Jones' department store, located on a corner, his attention was distracted, and his car left the sidewalk, crashed into the front of the store, and destroyed a large glass window worth $200.

Jones Sues

Upon Smith's return to Iowa City, Jones filed his petition in the district court of Johnson county, claiming damages against Smith because of his negligence in his operation of his automobile which resulted in the destruction of the window.

Smith was duly served with notice of the commencement of the action, and filed a demurrer to the petition of the plaintiff, on the ground that the court had no jurisdiction over the subject of the action stated in Jones' petition. He maintained that the action asked for recovery of personal damages for injury to property located outside of the state of Iowa. The trial court sustained the demurrer.

Jones Appeals

Tonight Jones will appeal on the grounds provided by the Iowa Code, section 11035, which states that action for injuries to real property may be brought either in the county where the property is located or where the defendant resides.

The attorneys for the appellant, Jones, will be Dale Missildine, L2 of Des Moines, and Warren Sparks, L2 of Oskaloosa. Melvin Dakin, L2 of Garner, and Jon Crawley, L2 of Perry, will be the attorneys for the appellee.

Capt. Tom Moore Makes Successful Toss of "Burning Shoe"

Ceremony Indicates Victory for Hawks in Final Game of 1933 Gridiron Season

Solem Metes Out Scrimmage Session in Last Practice of Year; Hawks Entrain for Husker Hangout Tonight

A waning fall twilight received a setback, yesterday, as mountainous flames leaped high over old Iowa field, lighting the sky and proclaiming the success of Capt. Tom Moore's overhead toss of the burning shoe, the highlight of the season's last gridiron practice ceremonies, and the prediction of victory for the Hawks in their final games.

The Iowa grid leader paced off the required 20 yards from the straw pile situated behind the north goal post, turned his back to the pile, and scored a direct center hit as he sent the ignited shoe sailing between the goal posts into the straws.

Snake Dance

A snake dance, led by Ossie Solem and Bill Boelter, heralded the successful throw as members of both the varsity and freshman squads paraded round and round the burning straw.

The varsity squad went into their last huddle on Iowa field for 1933 when they gave a cheer for the freshmen after the completion of the snake dance. The fresh returned the cheer, Coach Solem sent his regulars through a short calisthenics drill, and then both squads rushed from the practice field to the showers, not to return until the drills of next spring.

Before the closing ceremonies the Iowa mentor took advantage of the high tension prevalent among squad members to send his Hawkeyes through a snappy scrimmage against Husker pass plays as shown by the freshmen. Iowa linemen broke through to hurry the passers and the secondary was effective in breaking up all aerial attempts of the Hawks.

Crayne, Schammel Still Out
All Hawk regulars were uniform with the exception of Crayne and Schammel. Solem decided to give them as much rest as possible in order to have them in prime condition for Saturday's game.

Despite the success of the burning shoe ceremony, the Hawkeyes will be anything but overconfident when they take to the field at the Husker stadium. Coach Dana Bible's team has suffered one defeat all season and will be only so much the tougher because of that loss, sustained last Saturday at the hands of the powerful Pittsburgh Panthers. Even in defeat the Huskers looked well enough to draw the unstinted praise of eastern sports writers, receiving plenty of bouquets particularly upon their sterling defense that stopped several Panther goal drives within the danger zone.

Dad Schroeder Lists Rules of Greek Sports

Eligibility rules for fraternity intramural athletics were issued yesterday by Ernest G. "Dad" Schroeder, director of intramural sports.

All interfraternity competitions are governed by the following rules:

1. Participants must be registered in the university.

2. Men who have earned a letter in a university, college, or junior college are ineligible to compete in the sport in which the award was won.

3. Men who have earned a numerical in a university or college are ineligible to compete in the sport for which the award was won.

4. Men whose names appear on any varsity or freshman squad lists are ineligible for competition in intramurals. Should a man's name be removed from the squad list by the coach because of a lacking in ability, he shall then become eligible for intramural competition.

5. Men who are training with a sport squad during its official training season are ineligible to compete in intramurals.

6. A coach shall have the right to declare a man ineligible for intramural competition, if he determines that the man is of varsity or freshman squad caliber.

7. Any person who has competed in a major intercollegiate contest in a sport shall be ineligible to compete in that sport in intramurals.

8. Pledges of a fraternity must be officially registered as freshmen in the office of the dean of men to be eligible to compete in interfraternity intramurals.

9. Men eligible for interfraternity freshman competition are considered as being freshmen from an athletic standpoint; i.e., if a man enrolls in the university for the first time, whether he be a freshman or upperclassman, he would be considered as a freshman athletically until he has complied with the residence rule of the Big Ten conference.

All protests must be filed with E. G. Schroeder, field house, within 24 hours after a contest takes place.

New Additions Swell Swim Pentathlon Roll

With the addition of Otto B. Geist, Al of Buffalo, N. Y.; Paul D. Anneburg, M1 of Carroll, and Maurice J. Healy, M1 of Boone, there are now 12 men entered in the intramural swimming pentathlon.

The last possible date for entering the pentathlon is tomorrow by which time all swimmers must have completed their time trials for both the 50 yard free style and the 50 yard breast stroke.

30 Matmen Report for University Championship Workouts

JOE LAWS, FIRE CHIEF

A City high cage team to oppose Lone Tree in the season's opener next week began to take form yesterday as Coach George Wells drove his squad through a touch practice—their second scrimmage so far this year.

Characteristic pre-season ruggedness was much in evidence as players tried to shift from tactics used on the gridiron to those suitable on the court.

The session provided Coach Wells another opportunity to look over his material before he makes his final cut. This will come late this week, when 16 men will be picked for the varsity squad and the remainder delegated to the reserves, pending development.

Men who saw the most action yesterday were: Paul Paul, Richard Ash, Fred Ballard, John Steinmetz, Roscoe Ayers, Dale Williams, Allen Snyder, Alvin Miller, Jack Stork, Robert Herring, and Emil Sulek.

Trophies Galore Are Property of Outstanding Frosh Netman.

Southwestern Iowa is noted for tennis activity, particularly around Red Oak and Shenandoah, and one of the products of Red Oak is Cole-Houghton, ranked No. 1 in the "ladder" tournament of the Iowa freshman net squad. The rankings in this tournament were based mainly on what was known of the players' past records, and this boy has a remarkable record for a youngster.

Old-Timer

He has been playing tennis since as long as he can remember. Last spring, his last year of high school, he went to the semi-finals of the Iowa high school tournament, and in 1931-32, won the state high school doubles play. He has played in the Tri-State meet at Tarkio, Mo., winning the singles competition in 1932-33. Then this summer he paired with Nye of Shenandoah in winning the doubles crown in two of the southwest Iowa open tournaments, one at Red Oak and one at Shenandoah.

Good Record

Houghton is but 17 years old, but his record shows that he should give plenty of competition to any of the veterans when he becomes eligible for the varsity. He graduated from Red Oak high school in 1933, and is now registered as a freshman in the college of liberal arts. He is pledged to Phi Delta Theta social fraternity.

WE SHOULD TAKE THEM! Why? Because the shoe hit dead center in the pile of straw. What of it, didn't it burn the straw last year? And what happened then? Yes, but this was a dead center shot, not one on the one ring, but a bullseye. Get the difference? We worried earlier in the week about Iowa's ability to reach peak performance for the third week in a row. Don't you worry about it any longer! After charging through the frosh last night on both offense and defense, the Hawks held their ceremony and then, to work off enthusiasm, did a bit of sit-up exercising with the entire coaching staff joining in. This unusual participation ended with the junior members of the staff having a grand pileup on Ossie's well-padded form. They had all the zip and go of a gang just starting a season instead of one which was finishing as tough a schedule as any team ever faced.

One thing was missed last night. Last year Pops Thurtle piled right into the fire and hauled the shoe out to save as a keepsake. It took him nearly an hour of scooting, pounding, and dirt-throwing to put the fire out. During the process, which involved all the coaches and half the squad, he caught his pants on fire and had a real time of it. Last night, however, he was quite content to keep away, hiding in the outskirts of the crowd throughout the ceremony.

A column in the Chicago Daily News carries the following poem about the Hawkeyes:

IOWAY

Again within that hallowed hall
Where fame exalts her own
We grave in gold upon the wall
A name for years unknown;
A vacant niche is filled again,
Triumphant teams repay
The futile years and so restore
Our faith in Ioway.

Up from the broken, dank terrain,
Where all ambitions die,
She worked her way, thus to regain
Her place within the sky;
The giant corn still lifts its head,
The prairie zephyrs play
And hopes revive. We thought them dead
In you, O Ioway!

—J. L. B.
May never be ranked as great but it is a fitting tribute to a great team and a great state. We thank you, J. L. B.

Titular Card Will Span 4 Day Period

Dec. 13-16 Set as Date for Grappling Tourney

A squad of about 30 grapplers reported yesterday, as Coach Mike Howard posted the dates for the annual university wrestling championships. The meet to determine campus pull-and-tug titlists will span a period of four days with preliminaries and weighing-in coming Dec. 13, 14, and 15, and the finals Dec. 16 at 2 p.m. Contrary to previous custom, the affair will be held down in the field house wrestling room and not up on the varsity basketball floor.

Time Short

With less than a month in which to whip into shape, freshmen, veterans, and novice matmen are beginning an intensive training schedule that should, by Dec. 16, have the men in the necessary condition to go a full 10 minute route.

Some of the men who have been out since school started will continue working out but only twice a week in an effort to prevent possibility of going stale. For these men, rope skipping, calisthenics, running, and basketball are being met out by the Iowa mat men.

Only 2 Repeaters

Of last year's champs only two will be on hand this year to defend their titles. In the 175 pound division Capt. John O'Leary is the 1932 claimant back, while defending the 165 pound berth will be Pat Righter.

Competition this year will find varsity pitted against varsity for the most part with but few freshmen in the running for championship honors.

Yes or No?

There might be the makings of a basketball team, and then again there might not. Five letter winners and a like number of semi-experienced reserves make the shell of the current outfit.

Albert Gates Retires From Administratorship of P.G.A.

Will Give Legal Advice Instead of Orders After Jan. 1

By PAUL MICKELSON
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

CHICAGO, Nov. 22 (AP)—Albert R. Gates, once recognized as the dictator of American professional golf, today decided to give golfers legal advice instead of orders.

Effective Jan. 1, the gray thatched Chicagoan will retire as business administrator of the Professional Golfers Association of America, a post he has held three years, and act solely as legal counsel for the organization. His term as legal counsel was definite at least for one year.

Although a move has been on foot to oust Gates from his office as administrator for some time, his decision to retire was voluntary, said George Jacobus of Ridgewood, N. J., president of the P.G.A. Jacobus said the administrator's office would be abolished for the present in an effort to save expenses.

Jacobus was re-elected president at today's session along with other officers. Walter Hagen and Bobby Jones were also re-elected honorary vice presidents.

Ryder cup players henceforth will be exempt from competing in the qualifying round of the P.G.A. championships in those years when the international team matches are played against Great Britain, such exemption was voted after a large number of protests last fall from team players, who said they were not given enough time to get back from the matches in England and enter the qualifying round. A suggestion to automatically qualify the reigning national open champion in each P.G.A. title tournament was tabled, but chances were that it would be carried.

Picks Butler Bulldog Again

Jayhawk Coach Sees Washington in Second

OMAHA, Neb., Nov. 22 (Special)—It's a trifle early in the year to be picking conference basketball champions, but A. A. Schabinger, director of athletics and head basketball coach at Creighton university, has already forecast the final standings in the Missouri Valley conference. Butler University of Indianapolis, defending champions, are favored to retain the crown, Schabinger said, followed in order by Washington University, Oklahoma A. and M. college and Grinnell college, with Drake University and Creighton fighting it out for the cellar.

"Butler has too much polish this year for the rest of us," Schabinger said. "Washington will have practically a new team, with such brilliant players as Hafel, Hawkins and Hobbs; Oklahoma A. and M. has the greatest man-power in the conference, and Grinnell has its best prospects in years. Drake's situation is better than last year, while Creighton has taken a serious drub."

Final standings in the conference race last year found Butler in the lead, followed by Creighton, Washington, Oklahoma A. and M., Grinnell and Drake.

Eleven Times Iowa Scores On Long Runs

When Joe Laws, University of Iowa quarterback, galloped through Purdue's team for his touchdown runs last Saturday, he added further luster to the Hawkeyes' sensational scoring exploits of 1933.

For the Iowans have made 11 of their 19 touchdowns on startling plays which originated from between 27 and 90 yards of the goal lines, the average of the long scoring efforts being 43 yards.

Eludes Big Ten Feels

Laws shares honors with Dick Crayne, the fullback, in number of distance dashes, but the quarterback chose conference games to make each of his sorties, while Crayne made only one against a Big Ten rival.

It was Laws' 31 yard sprint which scored the winning touchdown on Northwestern and his 27 yard dash around end which started Iowa's drive to the win over Purdue. Crafty master at the art of returning punts, Laws lugged the ball 55 yards to make certain the defeat of Purdue, and took a 37 yard spin to cross Wisconsin's goal.

Crayne Gets Loose

Crayne's feats include runs of 42 and 34 yards in the Iowa State game, the 90 yard return of a Bradley kickoff, and the 55 yard sprint with an intercept Minnesota pass.

Other touchdowns from far afield are Bernie Page's 42 yard end-around play against Wisconsin; the forward pass, Dwight Hoover to Russ Fisher, which gained 35 yards in the Badger game; and the pass play of George Tyrer to Bernard Page good for 29 yards against Michigan.

Hilltoppers to Face Difficult Cage Schedule

Schabinger Must Rely On 2 Lettermen At Creighton

OMAHA, Neb., Nov. 22 (Special)—Football made an early exit from the Creighton university Hilltop stage here November 18, clearing the boards for a strenuous practice campaign in preparation for the 17-game basketball schedule arranged for Coach A. A. Schabinger's Bluejays.

In the face of a different schedule, including opponents from the Missouri Valley, Big Six and North Central conferences, Coach Schabinger must build a team from material that is regarded here as the least promising he has had in 12 years of coaching at Creighton—12 years in which his teams have won eight conference championships and have hung up the starting winning percentage of .725.

Only two lettermen remain in Willard Schmidt, Swanton, Neb., 6-foot 8 inch all-conference center, and Bob Miller, Gretna, Neb., guard. Three of last year's varsity reserves will be available, and several promising sophomores complete the meager roster.

The reserves are Lester Kockrow, guard and forward from Hastings, Neb.; Ronald "Skid" Skoda, center, and guard from Clarkson, Neb., and Mike O'Leary, guard, from Butte, Mont.

Promising sophomores include Jack Lomax, Omaha, forward; Emil "Box" Engelbreton, Huron, S. Dak., forward; Harold Murray, Omaha, guard; Max Egbert, Omaha, guard, and Ed Wilson, Omaha, center.

Graduation, transfers and injuries cut a wide swath in the squad.

Captain Arthur Kiely, all conference guard from Butte, Mont.; Tony Wiesner, center, and Fred Wiesner, guard from Hays, Kan., and Chet Binder, regular forward from Yankton, S. Dak., graduated last June.

Ray Dornberger, letterman at forward from Miller, S. Dak., and Leo Krick, promising reserve guard, dropped out of school this year, and Corry Collin, captain-elect and brilliant all-conference forward for the last two years from Huron, S. Dak., has been lost for the season due to a serious knee injury that also kept him from playing football.

Despite the gloomy outlook Coach Schabinger is holding daily workouts in preparation for the opening game December 9 against the University of South Dakota. Following that in rapid order the Bluejays must meet every other member of the Missouri Valley conference in two-game series, as well as such teams as Missouri, Iowa State and Kansas State of the Big Six; University of North Dakota of the North Central conference, and Creighton's traditional foe, Marquette.

The schedule:

Dec. 9, University of South Dakota at Omaha.

Dec. 15, University of Missouri at Columbia.

Dec. 20, Kansas State at Omaha.

Jan. 6, University of North Dakota at Omaha.

Jan. 12, Drake University at Des Moines.

Hopes to Offset Iowa Power With Plenty Of Speed

LINCOLN, Neb., Nov. 22 (AP)—Working on the theory that Nebraska's hopes for victory over University of Iowa in the inter-conference football game here Saturday rest on speed, Coach D. X. Bible today ordered only light exercises for his Cornhusker regulars.

"We will have to offset with speed the advantage of power which the Hawkeyes have," Bible said. He explained that the best way to attain the necessary speed is to bear down to hold the Wildcats in check.

FINALLY UNDERDOGS

COLUMBUS, Ohio, (AP)—For the first time at home this season, Ohio State will be the underdog Saturday when the Scarlet meets Illinois. Both teams are expected to "shoot the works" in an attempt to cinch the mathematical chance for the Big Ten crown. During Coach Sam Williamson's regime, the Bucks have won three and lost one game to Illinois. Today Williamson plays and mixed up some of their own passes.

ILLINI SCRIMMAGE

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. (AP)—Dummy scrummage again was the order of business as Coach Zuppke sent his regulars through their next to last drill of the season today for the Ohio State game. Frank Forschauer and Grain Portman alternated at left halfback on the varsity and Casey Straw continued at Ivey Schustek's wing position although Schustek reported in uniform and probably will play Saturday.

The squad will leave late tomorrow for Columbus after a final drill here.

WOLVES CHASE PUNTS

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP)—A short session at running down under punts comprised the Wolverines outdoor exercise today as Coach Shaughnessy drove the varsity through a hard scrimmage against the freshmen. Bergwanger, Zimmer and Nyquist were in the backfield with Sahl, who called signals.

MAROONS WORK SMOOTHLY

CHICAGO (AP)—Chicago's offense worked smoothly and effectively today as Coach Shaughnessy drove the varsity through a hard scrimmage against the freshmen. Bergwanger, Zimmer and Nyquist were in the backfield with Sahl, who called signals.

OLSON OUT

EVANSTON, Ill. (AP)—It appeared certain tonight that Ollie Olson, star kicker of the Northwestern Wildcats, will be unable to play against Michigan Saturday. Olson was injured in the Notre Dame game and wasn't much improved today. The Wildcats drilled on defense against Michigan plays and mixed up some of their own passes.

TO USE ONLY "FIGHTERS"

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. (AP)—Injuries continued to trouble the Indiana football camp today as Coach Hayes warned players he would use only "fighters" against Purdue in the attempt to regain the Old Oaken Bucket. Wendell Walker, fullback who aggravated an old injury, was not in uniform and Godbold, end, also was out of the drill. Ed Sprauer, center, practiced for the first time in a week.

CHAPTER FORTY-SIX

her flowered chiffon, which was overdone it but there was nothing Mom could say because Cousin Emmy had been so good about everything.

Then they set the table and got it ready for the evening meal and Mom kept moving things around to make it just right, changing the dish of preserves so it would cover the worn spot on the table cloth and moving the pickles. Tommy liked right in front of his plate. There was still a bare spot and she opened a jar of relish. Then she went to the store and no sooner had she stepped in the door than Mrs. Johnson and Mrs. Flannigan were right after her and Mom could see they were almost as excited as she was; but she didn't take much time to talk to them; although she did have to laugh when Butcher Brown told her not to forget to tell Tommy about getting a job in the movies for Albert, his cat. And Albert seemed to know they were talking about him because he did get up and started to walk with Butcher Brown. Albert was a real cute eat.

Then Mom went home and she and Cousin Emmy put on their aprons and trussed the chicken, made the dressing and stuffed it, and got it ready to slip in the oven; and Mom hoped Uncle Louie wouldn't go grabbing the white meat the first thing because Tommy always liked it best and his friend should have some, too. She thought it would be nice if Pop would carve and serve, then Tommy and his friend would be sure to get the best cuts because Pop wasn't selfish; but Pop always kicked like a steer when she asked him to serve. She would have liked to have given Uncle Louie a talking to beforehand but she was afraid, if she did, he'd be sure to get insulted and do something awful.

Then Mom was worried to death. It would be a job to get Pop to put on a white shirt and collar and to keep him from saying "pass the punk"; and Uncle Louie would be sure to start some kind of an argument and goodness knows what Cousin Emmy would be doing or saying because the poor thing was slightly already because a real movie actor was going to be there.

Then, while Mom was thinking, up came a roar from outside and she looked out and there was Tommy sitting in a swell car, looking in at the window and smiling. Another boy was with him and he was smiling too.

"It's Tommy!" Mom cried shrilly, running for the door.

"It's Jack Devere!" Cousin Emmy called, running after her.

To Mom: "You don't mind, do you Mom?"

Mom said, brightly: "Why of course not, Tommy, if you have to go."

"Well, I suppose we could stay; only we want to get there in plenty of time for the game so we can meet the fellows the night before; then some alumni will be there and I want to talk to them about some ideas I have in mind."

NEW YORK, Nov. 22 (AP)—The master boxer of the big fellows, canny old Tommy Loughran of Philadelphia, added another gem to his long, long victory string tonight as he outpointed Ray Impellittiere, newest giant of the ring, after a fitting referee had almost waded him out of the ring with a technical knockout defeat in the sixth round.

Schmidt Sees $50,000,000 Roads Project

Iowa City Senator Will Place Plan Before Commission

A $50,000,000 road program, which would include the building of four-lane highways and rock shoulderings of others, was proposed by Senator Paul W. Schmidt of Iowa City in Des Moines yesterday. He said he would place the plan before the state highway commission.

Iowa City on Roads

Iowa City, according to his plan, would be on both north-south and on east-west four lane roads. Senator Schmidt said his plan, carried out in a five-year program, would employ at least 10,000 men in the laying of between 1,200 and 1,300 miles of concrete costing about $45,000,000 and of four foot rock shoulder costing about $5,000,000.

Funds for the program would be obtained through loan from the federal public works administration. Senator Schmidt said, and would be repaid through receipts from the one cent tax on gasoline.

Military Highways

The proposed roads would carry out federal suggestions for furthering a system of military highways across the country. The four lane roads would consist of two across the state east and west, two north and south and a connecting link between the east and west roads in central Iowa.

This system would be built next to the present system of roads, Senator Schmidt said, giving the state 36 foot roads. The highways, he said, should be built in as straight a line as possible and should skirt, rather than enter, cities and towns.

Little Change

His plan contemplates little change in the routing of roads aside from a change in U. S. highway 6 over a proposed new route through Montezuma, which would shorten the distance about 11 miles.

One four lane highway would extend east and west across the state along U. S. highway 20, a distance of about 304 miles under his plan, and running through Dubuque, Waterloo, Ft. Dodge, and Sioux City.

Through Iowa City

Another would extend along highways 6 and 7, east and west, a distance of 288 miles through Davenport, Iowa City, Des Moines, Guthrie Center and Missouri Valley. Joining these two roads would be a four lane highway extending north and south through Des Moines and Ames along highways 65 and 15, a distance of 64 miles.

North, South

On the four lane north and south cross state roads one would be along U. S. Highway 161 and 11, a distance of about 224 miles, through Keokuk, Iowa City, Cedar Rapids, Independence, Oelwein and Decorah.

The other main north and south road would be along highway 71, about 224 miles, through Clarinda, Atlantic, Carroll, Sac City, Storm Lake, Spencer, and Spirit Lake.

"We stopped in Chihuahua City for the night and continued to Juarez and there was no attempt by any Mexican officials to stop us at the border," Tracy said. He said Bleier flew back to the Mexico capital and he and Price motored here.

Gesturing

"It's probable I was gesturing with my hands in front of my face, 'framing' a picture. But I didn't thumb my nose to anyone," Tracy said.

"I'm always 'framing' pictures, but that habit won't get me in trouble again. From now on I'm just going to try to act in 'em."

Officials Came

"The next morning some officials came around and told me I had offended somebody and we went over to the jail. I sat in an office under custody."

"A fine of a few dollars was paid and they let me go. The next day a policeman came around and asked me if I would mind apologizing to one more official, just to make things look better."

Greatest of Pleasure

"I said 'with the greatest of pleasure.' I went around to the prosecutor. I told him I was very sorry if I had insulted anybody."

"After that I was told I could do what I wanted to, there were no more charges against me."
