Hamm Kidnap Jury Locked Up for Night; Hart's Abductors Lynched

Jurors Reported Disagreed On Fate of Touhy Gang; Rioters Overpower Guard in San Jose

Guard Maintained As 10 Men, 2 Women Deliberate

ST. PAUL, Minn., Nov. 27 (AP)—The federal court jury deliberating the fate of four Chicago men charged with the kidnaping of William Hamm, Jr., was locked up for the night at 11:25 o'clock tonight in a downtown hotel.

Reports were that no agreement had been reached. Consideration of the case began at 8:15 p.m. by the jury.

Secluded
Quartered on the eleventh floor of the hotel, the 10 men and two women were guarded by three bailiffs and no other persons were permitted on that floor.

Before court adjourned today, Judge M. M. Joyce said that if a verdict were reached tonight he would not receive it until 10 a.m. Tuesday.

Two Weeks Testimony
The jury began its deliberations after more than two weeks of hearing testimony in the trial of Roger Touhy, Eddie ("Father") McFadden, Willie Sharkey, and Gustavo ("Glimmy Gus") Schaefer, charged with the $100,000 abduction of the millionaire St. Paul brewer. Hamm was abducted last June 15 and held almost four days before being released on June 19.

Charge to Jurors
Judge M. M. Joyce, in his charge to the jurors which consumed one hour and a half, instructed them that they must determine the guilt or innocence of each of the four defendants under both separate indictments for the abduction last June 15 of William Hamm, Jr., wealthy St. Paul brewer.

The defendant charged in two indictments accusing them of transportation in interstate commerce of a kidnaped person held for ransom and conspiracy to transport. Both charges were brought under the so-called Lindbergh law.

Question to Determine
"The question to determine," Judge Joyce told the jury, "is were the defendants conspirators who kidnaped Hamm, did they kidnap him and did they collect ransom?"

Most of his charge to the jury was taken up with a thorough outline of the Lindbergh kidnap law.

Money Policy
Pushes Ahead

Morgenthau Returns To Washington, Instructed By Roosevelt

WASHINGTON, Nov. 27 (AP)—With instructions from President Roosevelt to keep the currency program going unchanged, Acting Secretary Morgenthau hastened back to Washington today and another high financial official headed down the well worn path to Warm Springs.

The plan for Governor Black of the federal reserve board to visit the president at the Little White House in Georgia set reports buzzing, none of them confirmed, that a new move in the monetary program was in the making.

Other developments of the day included:
1. Morgenthau said $3,748,000 of excess governmental funds had been invested in government bonds last week but declined to give comparable figures for such activities over previous periods.

2. Tom K. Smith, a St. Louis banker, accepted a post as adviser to the treasury on banking questions.

3. Morgenthau disclosed that a departmental committee was preparing recommendations on income tax legislation for the house ways and means committee.

4. The price for newly mined domestic gold was held unchanged at $32.76 an ounce.

Little Change In Temperature
Little change was registered in the temperatures for yesterday. At 7 a.m. the mercury registered 32 degrees. It climbed to a high of 60 degrees and then dropped to 47 degrees at 7 p.m. The low for Sunday night was 29 degrees, according to Prof. John F. Reilly, official observer.

Star Kidnap Witness

William Hamm, Jr., millionaire brewer of Minneapolis, Minn., pictured on the witness stand in court at St. Paul, as he testified during trial of Roger Touhy, Chicago bad man, and several confederates, who are accused of kidnaping and holding him for $100,000 ransom. Hamm was a disappointment to prosecutors, his memory proving faulty when called upon to identify accused as his abductors.

State Officials Give Approval To Lynchings

SAN JOSE, Cal., Nov. 27 (AP)—Frank approval from Gov. James Rolph, Jr., and other state officials for giving "a fine lesson to the whole nation" eased the taut nerves of this normally peaceful town tonight, scene of the lynching last night of John M. Holmes and Thomas H. Thurmond, confessed kidnap-slayers of Brooke Hart, beloved San Jose youth.

"Not in This State!"
"They'll learn they can't kidnap in this state," were the ringing words from the executive office in Sacramento. "If anyone is arrested for the good job I'll pardon them all."

Such was the assurance from the state's chief executive as the tense town came to a realization of the seriousness of the punishment dealt out in pioneer fashion by the mob that stormed the ancient jail and seized Holmes and Thurmond.

Thousands Cheer
In historic St. James Park, across the street from the jail, the victims were strung up to separate trees while thousands of men, women and children, looking on in carnival spirit, cheered with a lustiness that could be heard for blocks.

The governor's attitude brought a flood of messages to his office in Sacramento, some praising and some condemning him.

Second Kidnap Plot Reported

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 27 (AP)—Rulon C. McMurrin, vice president of the Los Angeles Rock and Gravel company, reported to police today the receipt of an anonymous extortion note demanding $250,000 for the safety of his family.

The note was left on the doorstep of his home, warning him to "watch the papers" to see where to leave the money to prevent a "disaster" to his family.

Maryland Militia, Fully Armed, Off On Secret Mission

BALTIMORE, Nov. 28 (Tuesday)—(AP)—The fifth regiment of the Maryland national guard early today left Baltimore and headed toward Somerset county.

The Baltimore Sun says the soldiers were sent to arrest nine alleged participants in last month's lynching at Princess Anne.

Officers in charge refused to make any statements as the soldiers, carrying full equipment and accompanied by trucks loaded with food, left the city.

Board Opens 29 Bids; No Decision Yet

Twenty-nine equipment and construction bids for improvement on psychopathic hospital and for the erection of the new fine arts building were opened yesterday by four members of the state board of education in senate chamber of Old Capitol. Consideration of the bids extended into the night, but as yet no contracts have been awarded.

Besides President George T. Baker of Davenport, other members of the board of education who were present are Harry M. Neas of Sigourney, Mrs. Cora Simpson of Decorah, and S. J. Galvin of Sheffield.

Special Committee
Mr. Galvin and President Baker are members of a special building committee with power to act in regard to the proposed university building program.

Eight companies submitted bids on the general construction, six for the heating equipment, six for the plumbing contract, and nine for the electric wiring.

A recent grant of $92,000 from the federal works administration at Washington brings the total grant from the federal government to $157,000, to be applied toward these projects.

Cobb in Charge
W. H. Cobb, university controller, is in charge of the funds. President Baker said that as soon as the low bid has been tallied, the building committee will check with Mr. Cobb, and if there is enough money to begin the improvements on Psychopathic hospital, which will cost approximately $10,000, and the construction of the new building across the river from Iowa Union, which is approximately a $160,000 project, the contracts will be awarded.

President Baker said yesterday that he expects the contracts will be let this week, and that work on the two projects will begin within the next two weeks.

Mayor Breene In Local Hospital

Mayor Harry D. Breene is a patient at Mercy hospital today suffering from a severe cold and pleurisy. He went to the hospital yesterday and will remain there for several days.

Slaying Suspect Killed

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., Nov. 27 (AP)—Minus Doolittle, 24, whom a grand jury refused to indict last February in the slaying of Albert McCoy, was shot to death tonight and Mrs. A. H. Bailey, mother of McCoy, surrendered to Sheriff Hausser.

whose abductors were lynched last night.

Dr. Joseph Karesch, Rabbi of the local Jewish synagogue, delivered the funeral sermon. He was assisted by the dean of studies of Santa Clara university, the Rev. William Gianera.

Six close friends of Hart, including some of his Santa Clara classmates, were pallbearers. There were no flowers. Fifty students formed a guard for the trip to Oak Park Memorial park. A motorcycle escort was provided. Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Hart, the parents, accompanied the cortege to the cemetery, where the remains were cremated and entombed in the family vault.

700 Expected At 'All-Iowa' Grid Banquet

Program Completed for Football Celebration Tonight at Union

Members of Pi Epsilon Pi, national pep fraternity, under whose auspices an "all-Iowa" banquet will be held at 6 o'clock tonight in the main lounge of Iowa Union, estimate that 700 persons will attend the banquet, which they plan to make an annual affair.

Jimmie McCollister, G of Davenport, and Phyllis Michael, A4 of Ottumwa, will represent the student body on a toast program which will follow the dinner. C. C. Shuttleworth of Cedar Rapids, will speak in behalf of the alumni.

During the program, William W. Boelter, assistant football coach, will present the 41 members of this year's football squad.

Coaches Ossie Solem, Roland F. Williams, and O. H. Vogel will also be introduced. The university band will furnish music, and varsity cheer leaders will have charge of yells and pep songs.

Prof. F. C. Ensign of the college of education has been chosen toastmaster. Marvin Payne, C4 of Des Moines, is chairman of a committee of members of Pi Epsilon Pi, who are in charge of arrangements for the dinner.

Tickets will be on sale at the Union desk until 1 o'clock this afternoon. Groups may still secure reservations.

Liquor, Movie Codes Okayed

Roosevelt Puts New Rum Trade Under U.S. Thumb

WARM SPRINGS, Ga., Nov. 27 (AP)—President Roosevelt tonight established federal supervision over the liquor industry, which becomes legal next week, and extended government control over 21 more businesses, including the motion pictures.

Effective for Repeal
Mr. Roosevelt signed the code governing the new whiskey trade in time to make it effective when national prohibition is formally repealed Dec. 5.

In a formal statement, the president declared: "It is hoped that the signing of this code (liquor) will prevent the confusion and uncertainty that would necessarily arise between the actual legal repeal of the amendment and the passage of appropriate legislation by congress in consequence thereof."

Trade to Cooperate
The liquor industry has not yet actually approved the president's code, but he said he had assurance "of their earnest desire to cooperate in every manner possible with the government during this emergency."

In signing the motion picture code, Mr. Roosevelt set up an authority composed, so far, of two prominent actors—Marie Dressler and Eddie Cantor—and A. Lawrence Lowell, president emeritus of Harvard university, to supervise the picture industry through a 90 day period during which there is to be made a study of "excessive salaries."

U. S. Official Comments On Hartzell Case

Reed Describes Trial's Highlights at Law Review Dinner

The fabulous Drake "estate" and the federal trial which led to the conviction of Oscar Hartzell in Sioux City recently were described by Harry Reed, United States district attorney for northern Iowa, at the annual Law Review dinner in Iowa Union last night.

As guest of the Law Review board, the district attorney commented humorously on the magnitude of Hartzell's claims, prominent among those being his alleged knowledge of a son of Sir Francis, whose estate was willed to his brother Thomas upon his death in 1590.

40,000 Still Faithful
"Despite testimony of Dr. Cross, head of the history department of the University of Michigan, that Francis Drake left no sons, fully 40,000 investors still have faith in his claims," Mr. Reed said.

Of all the investors who gave Hartzell sums aggregating $1,000,000, he found but one complainant. She told him that she had "invested five dollars with promise of a thousand per cent return," and that she had hoped for the fulfillment of her contract in vain.

His motto being "silence, secrecy, and non-disturbance," Hartzell collected $2,500 weekly through agents from those promised a share in the "unsettled estate," the attorney asserted. His expenditure of $10,000 yearly for cables to these agents was well repaid by the returns through their efforts, for investors willingly turned over sums of money to be spent in tracing their possibility of inheritance.

In London
Hartzell, prior to his deportation by the British government as an undesirable alien, spent the period since 1921 in London and environs, from which city he sent the letters that were used by the prosecution in his conviction.

Despite evidence including photostatic copies of the original will of Sir Francis, Reed said that Hartzell still protests the authenticity of his claims, and that he had no trouble in quickly raising $55,000 for defense purposes from investors.

Unusual Case
One of the most unusual cases to come to his attention, Attorney Reed declared that the Hartzell case, resulting in a 10 year sentence for the defendant, involved the use by the prosecution of a vast array of handwriting experts and history authorities.

The speech of the district attorney brought to a close a dinner at which Dean Eugene A. Gilmore presented plaques to the members of the Law Review board as tokens of their services in collecting the material in the current issue of the Law Review.

Herschel Langdon, law graduate in 1931 also addressed the Review board.

Bonds Stronger

NEW YORK (AP)—Bonds, especially U. S. government issues, exhibited further strength today as the domestic gold price was again unchanged and the dollar bounded upward in foreign exchange markets.

Alpha Chi Leaps Ahead to First In Hawkeye Contest

Another day of the Hawkeye sales battle finds Alpha Chi Omega in first place and Pi Beta Phi in second place. Alpha Delta Pi is third on the list.

The remaining positions from fourth to tenth are: Kappa Kappa Gamma, Theta, Gamma Phi Beta, Delta Gamma, Chi Omega, Alpha Xi Delta, and Theta Phi Alpha.

Dr. Wynkoop Has Her Turn At Repudiation

Attorney Says Police Put 'Confession' Into Her Mouth

CHICAGO, Nov. 27 (AP)—Dr. Alice Wynkoop was reported by her attorney tonight to have repudiated from her cot in the county jail hospital the statement that she shot her daughter-in-law, Rheta, as the girl lay dead on a surgical operating table.

Amazed
Police and prosecutors expressed amazement at the reported retraction, pointing out that the 62 year old woman physician had been emphatic in declaring she would not do so. They said, however, that the repudiation would have no effect on the state's case.

"Dr. Wynkoop replied, 'No, I didn't shoot anyone,' when I asked her whether she had shot Rheta," Attorney Frank Tyrrell said. "She told me the police had put the words of the statement into her mouth after they had questioned her for hours."

No Visitors
Prosecutors or interviewers were not allowed to visit Dr. Wynkoop in the jail, where physicians and Attorney Tyrrell described her as being "very sick."

Bio-chemical tests were being made to determine her condition. Federal officials said they were making a "routine inquiry" into whether she had complied with government regulations in using and dispensing narcotics.

Earl Bought Bullets
From Louis Shulkin, a gunsmith, police obtained a statement that he had sold to Earle Wynkoop, husband of the dead woman, bullets for the gun from which a shot was fired through her heart.

"He bought a box of .32 calibre bullets from me on Nov. 11," Shulkin said. "He wanted to buy three or four blank cartridges, too, but I wouldn't break open a box, so he took just the regular bullets."

Taught Use of Gun
Earle, also confined in the county jail but not allowed to visit his mother, has admitted teaching Dr. Wynkoop to use the pistol in the private garage at the rear of the old 16 room mansion where Rheta died in a basement operating room.

A warrant charging Earle with aiding to plot the death of his young wife was issued by Judge David, and a hearing was set for next Monday.

Definite Assurance Given By Herring of Increasing State's Quota to 53,000

Strike Halts Stock Yards' Operations

Chicago Market Nearly Paralyzed as Men Quit Work

CHICAGO, Nov. 27 (AP)—A fast spreading strike of stock yards workers practically paralyzed the Chicago livestock market today.

Start Walkout Sunday
Starting with the walkout last night of 800 members of the Live Stock Handlers Union, the force of strikers was swelled to around 8,000 when two other closely affiliated unions joined forces and suspended operations.

The union stock yards, largest livestock trading center in the world, was in confusion. At opening time hundreds of trucks and scores of freight cars were in the yards with no workers on hand to unload them.

The livestock handlers, "cowboys" of the yards, ask restoration of wages prevailing in 1928. There are only about 800 of these, but they are the "keymen" of the yards. They unload the stock, weigh it, feed and water the animals, drive them about and do other similar duties.

Commission house employees, clerks and other white collared workers tried desperately to keep the yards moving, but soon cut their efforts to a minimum. Packing plants managed to get their direct shipments unloaded in the killing pens and hastened to slaughter them. Railroads had hundreds of loaded cars jammed into the yards and mustered hastily recruited gangs of laborers to get the livestock into pens. By late afternoon, it was estimated that 85 or 90 per cent of the fresh receipts had been unloaded. Several railroads halted many carloads to nearby feeding stations.

Coughlin Raps F. R.'s Critics
NEW YORK, Nov. 27 (AP)—Father Charles E. Coughlin declared tonight at a mass meeting in defense of President Roosevelt's monetary program that the purpose of the "Wall street and Morgan attack on the administration" is to "ruin Mr. Roosevelt and build up Ogden Mills for president in 1936."

The Detroit priest made this declaration in urging his more than 6,000 listeners—packed in the mammoth hippodrome—to boycott newspapers that "pander propaganda through the mouths of Wall street and J. Pierpont Morgan."

"It's time to dump your Tory newspapers into the river," he said.

Wheat Losses
CHICAGO (AP)—Despite a spirited advance late today, grain prices failed to hold upturns, and wheat ended at a loss.

Counties Warned To Speed Up Listing Of Projects

DES MOINES, Nov. 27 (AP)—Definite assurance that Iowa's quota under the civil works program will be increased, probably to the extent of 20,000 men, was announced today by Governor Herring.

Harry L. Hopkins, civil works administrator in Washington, has decided in favor of Iowa's request for the increased allotment, the governor said.

53,250 Men to Work
Expansion of the Iowa civil works program will mean jobs for 53,250 men formerly on county relief rolls, instead of 33,307 as first planned, Chairman E. H. Mulock of the Iowa civil works administration predicted.

Warning counties to get their men on the job quickly and to hasten the drafting of additional projects, Mulock declared.

Slow Counties to Suffer
"Counties which are slow in putting men to work and getting actual work on the jobs approved will have their quotas reduced. Counties which show speed in preparing CWA projects will be given the quotas the slower moving counties lose."

Announcement of the present quota by counties and the disclosure that many counties had not obtained approval on CWA projects which would use up their quota, of men brought many delegations here today to confer with Prof. George Keller, Iowa engineer for the civil works administration.

30 Delegations
Approximately 30 delegations from as many counties discussed additional projects in their communities with Professor Keller, and almost 50 new projects were approved.

To date 26,481 men have been assigned jobs and 18,000 were scheduled to complete their first day's work tonight.

Those still on relief lists also received good news today in the government's announcement that a check for $318,000 to purchase foodstuffs and supplies for the needy in Iowa had just been received from Washington.

38 Invitations
A letter was dispatched to 38 Iowa cities today by the governor inviting municipal officers to have a representative here Wednesday morning if interested in establishing an airport in their city under a federal civil works appropriation for that purpose.

Preliminary plans for improving existing airports and for establishing new fields were laid at a meeting of 34 pilots and airport operators with Governor Herring yesterday.

13,486 More CW A Jobs to Be Open
WASHINGTON, Nov. 27 (AP)—The civil works administration announced today that 13,486 more unemployed would be hired at once on federal projects, bringing to 201,483 the number thus far given jobs on this type of work.

Administrator Hopkins said he believed state civil works administrations now have more than 1,000,000 men working on various projects at the prevailing wage of their communities. All of these workers have been taken from relief rolls.

He expressed the opinion that 2,000,000 will have been transferred from relief rolls by the end of this week and that 2,000,000 self-sustaining unemployed he plans to employ immediately afterward, will have been added by Dec. 5.

Belief Strengthened That Lindberghs Will Soon Start Homeward

DAKAR, Senegal, Nov. 27 (AP)—The belief that Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh may soon attempt a south Atlantic homeward flight was strengthened today with their arrival at Porto Praia, Cape Verde islands, a jumping off place for Brazil.

Whether the colonel planned to make the hop of nearly 2,000 miles to Recife (Pernambuco), or zig-zag back to African coastal ports was not disclosed, but because of his statement last week regarding an intention to proceed westward from Cape Verde, a transatlantic flight was considered more strongly indicated.

Local Merchants Discussing Plans for Football Banquet

Details of Mammoth Affair Will Be Revealed Soon

Arrangements for a mammoth banquet honoring the Hawkeye football squad were discussed yesterday by a committee of local merchants. Details of the affair will be announced soon.

Major John Griffith, Big Ten commissioner, is being considered as the principal speaker. The banquet, which is being sponsored by the Senior and Junior Chambers of Commerce, will, if former plans are completed, be one of the largest affairs ever held to honor an Iowa football team and will probably be held soon after Thanksgiving vacation.

It is expected that a number of prominent Iowa alumni and former Hawkeye players will be invited to the banquet, which will be held either at Iowa Union or the American Legion Community building.

The banquet will be the climax of a series of dinners given in honor of the "surprise" team of the Big Ten by local service clubs.

Enthusiasm for the dark horse of the Big Ten began with the victory over Northwestern, which upset all the careful calculations of the dopsters who gave Iowa a pre-season rating of not being quite of Big Ten caliber.

Victories over Wisconsin, Northwestern, Purdue, Bradley Tech, and Iowa State; a nip and tuck battle with the great Michigan team, a win by Nebraska on a freak placekick and a defeat by Minnesota make up the season which took Iowa from the Big Ten cellar position to fifth place and placed it in the football limelight.

Along with the rise of the Iowa team, which includes "Fire Chief" Joe Laws, Zud Schammel and Dick Crayne, who are all winning pieces on Big Ten teams selected by sports writers, football enthusiasm throughout the state mounted with clubs and organizations vying to do the Iowa team honor.

Horack Suggests Solutions To Present Problem in Education

League of Women Voters Hears Professor Urge County Unit System, Central Purchasing, State Aid Plan as Remedies

A county unit school system, centralized purchasing power of school supplies through a county purchasing agent, and a genuine state aid plan for schools were the three suggested solutions to the present school problem offered by Prof. Frank E. Horack of the political science department in his talk to the Iowa City League of Women Voters at a discussion meeting in the board room of the public library yesterday afternoon.

"Mandatory state legislation has been blamed by tax payers for the present condition of our schools," Professor Horack said.

Tenants
Resident voters in a school district, he pointed out, are often not tax payers but tenants living on the land of some tax payer who does not live in the community as a voter but who must bear the tax burden resultant from the tenants' action, often after the tenants who had taken the action have left the community.

"There is a strong movement in the present legislature to relieve the real estate tax payer," he continued. This movement is the reason for the demanded reduction of school costs, and legislation has been aimed at the salaries of teachers and the cost of transportation of pupils.

Consolidation
Better schools have resulted from consolidation, he said, but they have not been cheaper. Making home economics and manual training optional instead of compulsory aids in reducing expenses.

"I doubt that the Beatty-Bennett bill will be repealed," he said, in discussing that bill on school finance, passed in 1930. At present there are legislators who advocate its repeal, however, the speaker asserted. He believes that there may be alterations made in the bill.

It is a mistake to say that education is a state function, he declared, although there has been a centralizing tendency, for in spite of this tendency the state still insists that the local community bear the expense.

The quota of indigent patients from each county will be determined on the basis of population, using the ratio of county population to the population of the entire state, according to the new quota plan for indigent patients, Robert E. Neff, administrator of the University hospitals, explained in his address on legislation and the quota plan after Professor Horack's talk.

Estimate
An estimate of the number of state patients that can be handled by the University hospitals for the year beginning the first of August was set at 9,000, excluding private cases, those from other state institutions, and those which had their treatment started last year. With this number as a basis, each county will have its quota determined by its population ratio.

"The university hospital administration favors the quota plan," Mr. Neff stated.

Not Yet Legal
The new quota plan, he explained, is not as yet legalized, other than that it has been laid out by the state board of education, to which the power is authorized. Legislation is now on file, the administrator said, legalizing the plan with an elastic provision that each county may have a 10 per cent margin on the quota.

In presenting the conditions at the hospitals, Mr. Neff asserted that they are unable to take care of the patients asking for aid, due to financial limitations. The waiting list last spring was 5,000 with 25 to 30 emergency cases coming in each day.

Limitations
"There were times last year when we could not even take care of all our emergencies, due to the limitation of funds," he stated.

Other legislation now pending was discussed by members of the League following individual reports. Liquor legislation, the public utilities question, tax revision, banking legislation, and child labor were the topics reported and discussed.

Mrs. Evans A. Worthley, chairman of the efficiency in government committee, introduced the speakers.

Sees Hope for Better Future

Rev. Garrigues Predicts Human Rights Will Come Into Own

gauch and vigorous hope for a good future was expressed by the Rev. Caspar C. Garrigues, minister of the Christian church, in his Thanksgiving sermon Sunday morning. For the minister sees as the result of a world wide social concern, human rights coming into their own.

Judged by Standard

"All institutions are being judged increasingly by this standard of human welfare. Selfish capitalism, baronous rattle militarism, arrogant nationalisms, and divisive ecclesiasticisms are becoming to be as judged.

Three Elements

Three elements involved in the term "Thanksgiving" were pointed out: the acknowledgement of benefits, petition with expectation and the giving to the uttermost.

Spiritual Gifts

There are spiritual gifts in the world today which one can acknowledge, continued the minister, in that human values are at last slowly coming into their own.

Christianity's Potency

Of the potency of Christianity, the Rev. Mr. Garrigues exclaimed, "Our religion isn't dead, it isn't dying. Some ecclesiastical ways, thank God, are dying."

Where, O Where Has Penny Gone, Where Can She Be?

Penny, friend of all who come near women's gymnasium, has disappeared!

Penny is a small wire haired terrier, who Sunday afternoon left her home at 1235 Yewell street where she lived with her owners, Janet Cummings of the women's physical education department and Ruth Updegraff of the Iowa Child Welfare Research station.

Extended search during the afternoon and evening proved there were many white dogs in Iowa City, but apparently no Penny.

Penny is very small and friendly and knows her name. She has a brown face, a black tip on her tail, and black markings on her side. She shares honors with the well known sawdust canine as the mascot of women's gymnasium.

Maxine Moore Interprets Tale Of Negro Life

The purposeful machinations of the aged Negress, Mamba; the sacrifices of a strong yet childlike mother; and a daughter's crowning achievement in an operatic career made up the theme of a reading of Du Bose Heyward's "Mamba's Daughters" which was given by Maxine Moore, A3 of Newton, Sunday at 4 p.m. in the main lounge of Iowa Union.

Confronted with the task of interpreting six female characters, Miss Moore presented the deep and colorful voice of Hagar in a manner reminiscent of her credible performance as Bee, the half-breed waitress, in "Cherokee Night," which was given by University theater last year.

The deletions necessary in reducing the novel to suitable presentation length extracted some of the forcefulness of old Mamba, whose sole ambition was to lift her daughter's child, Lissa, above the level of her water front forebears.

However, the complacency of the old woman upon seeing her grandchild launched upon an operatic career, the note on which the reading ended, demonstrated in some degree her innate dominance over her own sphere.

A member of University Players and the first undergraduate to appear in the current series of readings, Miss Moore presented her reading under the direction of Eugene Babb of the speech and dramatic art department. An audience of 250 was present.

COKE

There are two kinds of coke used as furnace fuel!

Solvay Coke

This is a smokeless fuel made from a combination of two or more soft coals by putting the raw coal into a big oven and heating it until all of the smoke is driven off as gas. This gas is usually reclaimed and sold in the large cities for cooking purposes.

Solvay coke is coke made by the Solvay process. This results in a firm, very hard structure which does not break in handling.

Solvay coke makes a terrifically hot fire yet will not injure any heating plant if the ashes are kept cleaned out in the ash pit. Burns equally well in hot air or hot water plants.

The price is $12.75

Petroleum Coke

This coke is made from crude oil.

After crude oil goes thru the refinery and has taken from it all of the naphthas, gasolines, motor and fuel oils, tars, etc., which can be extracted by heat and pressure, there is left a solid, black, porous substance attached to the walls of the still.

This is called "petroleum coke" and is the solid matter left as a residue from crude oil in the refining process.

Petroleum Coke is smokeless and ashless. It is very light and bulky and a ton goes a long way in a fire. It has many of the advantages of oil heat, yet also the advantages of solid fuel.

It is very popular when once it is used in the home.

The price is $13.50

England and the League

THE SITUATION in England with reference to the League of Nations, points out a correspondent of The New York Times, indicates that Great Britain will do nothing officially to help pull the league through its present crisis.

International observers are quite agreed that the league is more powerless today than it has been at any time in its 13 years of existence. To put it frankly—the league is on its last legs, and those legs are exceedingly wobbly.

The initial step in the downfall of the league was taken by the United States. Fathomed by President Wilson, the league represented the flowering of his lifelong ambition—visionary it is true, but a goal which represents the acme of international human relationship.

But if the United States started the process of the league's disintegration, the other nations, who accepted the Versailles treaty, have carried on this process, until now the league faces nominal, as well as actual, downfall.

The important item in this process has been the refusal of nations to put teeth into the league's decisions. Article 16 of the covenant, which provided for means of enforcing its edicts, has been, from the very beginning of the league's activities, a mere dead letter for all the nations concerned.

The most severe and critical test the league faced came last year, when it accepted a report against Japan in the Chinese-Japanese troubles. Though all the major world powers were in agreement on the commission's report, Japan was able to flout the league's decision and stand against the world, without so much as a rebuke, to say nothing of actual enforcement.

Opposition to the league has been of two chief kinds. The first has come from the "die-hard" nationalists, who are irrevocably opposed to any sort of international set-up, and who complain of the "commitments" which the league might involve. This group could hardly be expected to support the league or any other agency created for a similar purpose.

A more logical and more constructive criticism has come from those who are in something of agreement with the league's principles, but who stand against its particular set-up. The chief criticism from this group has been the inequality of representation in the assembly. They object, and rightly so, to the idea of Costa Rica or Paraguay being represented on an equal footing with the United Kingdom, France, or Japan.

The trouble with the league is that it was born in a time of insanity and stress, when the aim of every statesman was to get as much as he could and give as little as he could. The result has been only what could be expected. Oppressed Germany has revolted; Japan has withdrawn; England is refusing her support; the United States refused support from the first; and now the league is ready to die.

There is little value in trying to save the skeleton of a machine which has shown itself so incapable. The world must look to a reorganization on a sound basis, distinguished from wars, treaties, and hatreds.

America Welcomes a World Citizen

UNDER THE assumption that Albert Einstein is a Communist, German police have confiscated all of his property "in favor of the Prussian state." His property included not only real and personal goods but also bank and other deposits.

When Mr. and Mrs. Einstein were planning their departure from Germany for the United States last winter the American consul in Berlin asked him if he were a Communist, to which he replied, "I don't propose to answer such silly questions." Mrs. Einstein testified that he was not and never had been.

Perhaps the aged, peace loving scientist isn't an ideal Nazi citizen, but America welcomes him and is proud to have him here.

America may recognize Germany as an abused nation at the hands of international diplomats and feel that it deserves a chance as well as any other nation, but we feel resentment and disappointment at this display of tyranny and abuse. We can't help but question the policy of a government which will not only restrict a man from adhering to his honest beliefs but will condemn him without valid evidence.

If Mr. Einstein is not a good German citizen he is a good world citizen, contributing to international progress with his scientific discoveries and his advocacy of international peace.

Mr. Tuttle Goes Shopping

(From The Christian Science Monitor)

These are the days when all over the land, mothers, fathers, aunts and uncles are dashing into stores in search of books with pictures, suitable for a little girl of six, who has blue eyes and does not like tapoca; or something that can be recommended for a boy of eight with red hair and lots of freckles who is "wild" about airplanes.

In common with thousands of his fellow-citizens, Henry Tuttle has been shopping for children's books. This is a job Mr. Tuttle insists on performing himself. He often says to Mrs. Tuttle that he considers it a positive duty he owes Junior, that he should select his books for him; and he goes about his weighty task in much the same way that he does taking Junior to the circus each spring. Charlotte Tuttle has often observed that whenever Henry's idea of what his duty coincides with his inclination, nothing can stop him.

It's an edifying sight to see Mr. Tuttle standing at the children's counter in a bookstore beamingly inspecting reading matter for Junior. Browsing, Mr. Tuttle calls it. It takes him a long time to make just the right selection, and it is necessary for him to examine quite a large number of books. One has only to see the rapt expression on Henry Tuttle's kingly face to know that he is not only on a buying expedition for his son but also on a joyous journey back to his own boyhood. This is what makes his "positive duty" so alluring.

Mr. Tuttle, incidentally, does make a careful selection for Junior. He is one of that ever-growing class of citizens who are convinced that what goes into a child's mentality is much more important than what goes into his—er—interior department. Mr. Tuttle visited a home the other evening which has not yet come around to this viewpoint, and what he saw there worried him not a little.

It was one of those fussy homes (so Mr. Tuttle told his wife) where the over-anxious mother is always taking little Oswald's temperature, counting the vitamins in the spinach and seeing that Sister puts on her rubbers the minute Indian summer has gone. It was one of those homes where mother love has been turned into smother love. And yet, with all this fearsome attention to the children's physical well-being, Mr. Tuttle did not see much regard paid to what went into their thinking. He observed a young man of eight in that home with a book in his hands that Mr. Tuttle was sure would do him a good deal more harm than an attack on two quarts of ice cream for breakfast. Mr. Tuttle was quite upset at the spectacle and on his return home felt prompted to give another careful inspection to the books he had just bought for Junior.

GOOD MORNING

One of the most promising of all the dozens of schemes for controlling liquor sales is the one man dictatorship being considered by the New Jersey legislature.

Under this system one man would exercise complete and final authority over the manufacture, transportation, and sale of all liquor consumed in the state.

From the standpoint of administrative efficiency this is probably the most sensible and simple plan of all. Assuming that the man holding the position would be of spotless integrity and beyond the reach of political influence, its advantages would be three fold: 1) It would center responsibility for liquor control where it could not be escaped, upon the shoulders of a single individual, 2) It would, by its very nature, simplify the whole problem by simplifying the administrative machinery, and 3) It would automatically remove liquor from the political maze by subjecting its control to such direct scrutiny.

All of which brings up one of America's most common mental ailments, the committee complex. It affects our whole national life, from the administration of our national government to the choosing of decorations for a university dinner.

Everything in the United States—outside of business—is done by committees. The Interstate Commerce commission—a committee—controls the railroads; the Federal Trade commission—a committee—supervises trade practices; every state has a half dozen or more committees to regulate utilities, run the schools, supervise prisons, insane asylums, and other institutions.

The fault, as far as the administration of government is concerned, lies with the legislatures and the congress. These bodies, committees themselves, are to government what the board of directors is to business. But they have the committee complex. When they wish to delegate part of their authority they delegate it to a commission and charge the commission with the administration of their policies.

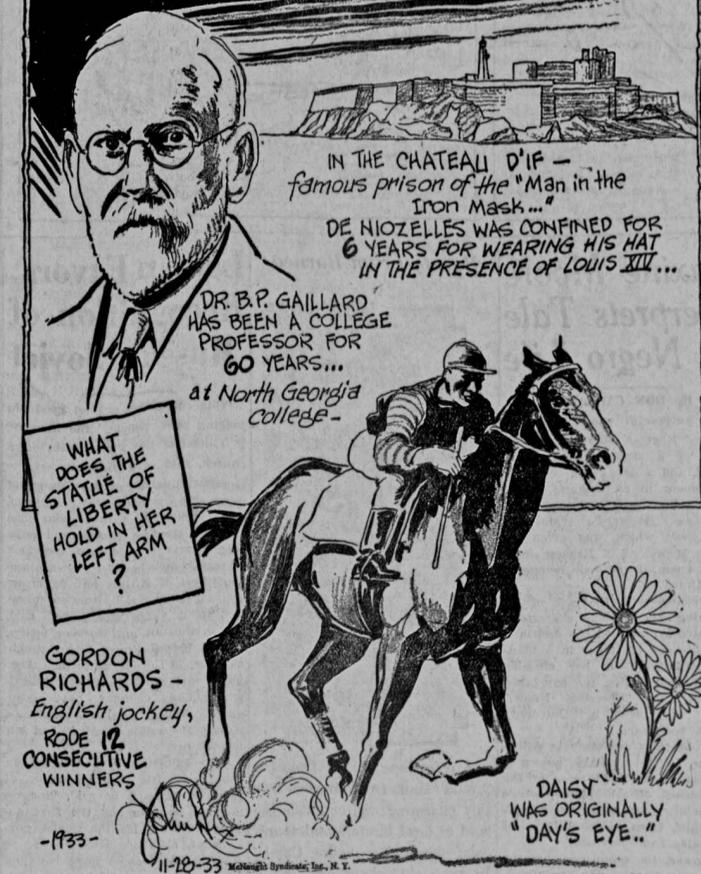

The board of directors in a business enterprise, knowing that a committee cannot possibly be efficient unless all but one member are merely rubber stamps, hire a general manager, tell him what policies the board has decided upon, and direct him to carry them out.

This tendency to rely on commissions instead of individual managers is in no small part responsible for the general disrepute into which the administration of government so often falls. It, even more than graft and corruption, is responsible for the business man's cry of "More business in government!"

The present national administration has not fallen into this traditional error. The whole recovery machinery is set up under responsible administrators and this has much to do with the remarkable efficiency with which the gigantic program is being carried through.

BEHIND THE SCENES - IN HOLLYWOOD -

STUDIO GOSSIP SCREEN COMMENT

HOLLYWOOD—Let the gossips make of it what they will but Constance Bennett and the Marquis Henri de La Palaise celebrated their second wedding anniversary like a pair of lovers.

The Marquis filled La Bennett's room with white flowers—roses, chrysanthemums, sweet peas and gardenias. He presented her with a valuable porcelain miniature that he brought from Europe.

Among Connie's gifts to "Hank" was a radio for his car.

The pair are giving a big party Saturday night for the Baron Jaunez, their house guest, who is returning shortly to Paris. Many of Hollywood's elite will be attending. Meanwhile La Bennett is reading a half dozen stories submitted to her by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer. She wants to get her picture done, so she can go to New York after the first of the year for the premiere of "Moulin Rouge." By that time, the Marquis' ball idol, "Lelong," also will be ready for release.

Hollywood's grapevine is buzzing with conjecture.

Is the sudden cooling of interest between Sally Blane and Russ Col-

Jumbo due to the arrival here of Dorothy Dell, "Miss Universe" of 1930, who was engaged to the crooner back east?

Miss Dell comes here to make pictures for Paramount. In case you've forgotten, she was a Ziegfeld Follies hit singing the crazy tune of a few seasons ago: "Was I Drunk, Was He Handsome and Did My Ma Give Me H—?"

The reason back of Pat de Cicco's fast trip to Sacramento was to offer Max Baer the lead in RKO's forthcoming "You Won't Sing, Eh?" He carried with him a copy of the script, for the cocky heavyweight's manager, Anell Hoffman, won't let Max make another movie unless he okay's the story.

Report has it that the tall fighter was offered the staggering sum of $3,500 a week for a 40 week contract with M-G-M. And that he can get as much as $5,000 a week for the one picture at RKO.

Close friends of the couple insist that Douglas Fairbanks will be coming back to Hollywood before long but that he and Mary Pickford will maintain separate establishments. Also that Mary will retain Pickfair for her home.

More than 200 different kinds of herbs are gathered in the western part of North Carolina and sold for medicinal uses.

QUICK GLIMPSES

The scavenger party, introduced by Elsa Maxwell to New York socialites, appears to have hit Hollywood again. At least, the night watchman at Sardis reports that an expensive limousine drew up at 4 a.m. A young man in evening dress jumped out, grabbed up the $300 mat in front of the restaurant, shouted "I've got it," jumped back into the car and drove rapidly away. Police 20 far have failed to discover the culprit.

Just one step this side of illness for many weeks, Claudette Colbert finally has had to take to her bed, thus holding up the Columbia production of "Night Bus." . . . Ned Sparks is another of the film colony to join the sick list. He's entered a sanitarium near San Bernardino for a brief rest cure . . . You'd never recognize Patzy Ruth Miller, she's gone so continental. Pat, Irwin Gelsky and Joseph Mankiewicz made it a threesome at the Clover Club the other evening . . .

This test is required of all applicants for admission to the college of medicine of the University of Iowa, by virtue of its institutional membership in the Association of American Medical colleges (see the university catalogue for the current year).

The medical aptitude test for University of Iowa applicants for admission to any school belonging to the American Medical association, for the year 1934-35, will be given promptly at 2 p.m. Wednesday, Dec. 6, in chemistry auditorium.

Each such prospective applicant is notified to call at the office of the university treasurer within ample time preceding the day of the test in order to pay the prescribed fee of $1 which goes to the Association of American Medical colleges for the expenses of the test.

The treasurer's office will issue to each student who thus pays this fee a card certifying that the fee has been paid, to be presented at the time of the test.

SEEN from Old Capitol

By TOM YOSELOFF

Frivol, University of Iowa's hyper-humor magazine, has come through with a new gag, of recent concoction. The claim made by its originator, that doughty managing editor of the mag, is that it's original. Of course, I have my doubts, but as a faithful reporter, here it is:

It seems that someone had the bright idea that there is something wrong with Iowa men, and the best way to find out is to ask Iowa women. So the sorority girls were sent questionnaires on the following questions: What's wrong with Iowa men? What about it? Can they take it? And Well? So, to make a long story short, the upshot of the thing is that the Frivol editors claim that, somewhere in the recesses of their dingy office, they have about 250 names of Iowa men—and the coeds' opinion of what's wrong with them. Of course, the coeds didn't answer the questions asked, but after all, one can't expect too much.

Anyway, the result is that the Frivol boys are threatening to publish the names in the next issue unless someone puts a stop to the business. Already, Managing Editor John L. Greene tells me, they've received five threatening letters which promise dire things if the names are published. But with characteristic daring, they're going right ahead. Of course, he neglected to say that they wrote all the letters themselves. No limit to what they'll do for space in this department!

alumni association was formed, with Prof. Grace Raymond Hebard of the University of Wyoming, liberal arts '82 and G '85, as president, and Prof. W. C. Rousser of the University of Wyoming, G '23 and '29, as secretary.

While approximately 75 men gathered in anxious little groups on the second floor of Old Capitol yesterday afternoon, in a room dense with smoke from contractorish cigars, bids submitted by themselves or by the companies they represented were opened by members of the state board of education. And although at 4:30 p.m. they were told that the contracts could not possibly be awarded yesterday, they still seemed too anxious to leave the scene of battle! I don't know what caused the happy mood, but one group was singing at the top of stentorian voices as they left the quiet, dignified atmosphere of Old Capitol. And were bystanders surprised!

Junior Law Club Delays Argument Till December 7

Because of a conflict in dates with the football banquet, the Junior Law club arguments, originally scheduled to take place tonight, will take place Dec. 7, and the trial which was to have been Dec. 5, will be advanced to Dec. 4. Attorneys for the third trial will be Hugh Chance, L2 of Davenport, and John Cutting, L2 of Iowa City, vs. J. Carlton Starr, L2 of Fairfield, and C. Frederick Beck, L2 of Mason City. Judge Charles F. Wennerstrom of the second judicial district will preside. Judge Harold Evans of the eighth judicial district will preside at the last argument. The attorneys will be T. Maxwell Anderson, L2 of Sac City, and Joe Nelson, L2 of Cherokee, vs. Arthur Sternberg, L2 of Woodbine, and Charles Whitebook, L2 of Iowa City.

Students Give Two Papers at Meeting

Fred Kunkel, E3 of Davenport, and Horace Redman, E3 of Iowa City, presented papers at a regular meeting of the American Institute of Chemical Engineers yesterday. Mr. Kunkel presented a paper on "Protecting pipelines against soil corrosion," Mr. Redman's topic was "Chemical warfare for crime and mob control."

Philo Club Hears Prof. Karl E. Leib Discuss New Deal

The outstanding features of the "new deal," which he described as old economic laws and common sense rather than new economics, were discussed by Prof. Karl E. Leib of the college of commerce at a meeting of the Philo club Sunday evening at Iowa Union.

Previous panics have not been so widespread because of the interdependency that existed among business enterprises, Professor Leib asserted. The present economic difficulties are the greatest in magnitude but not in seriousness. He said that an enormous market which was opened up by the World War, has disappeared after the completion of this conflict, and the economic situation has become more perplexing with the revival of manufacturing. Over-production and under-consumption have resulted in unemployment, thus causing our present economic troubles. "Never play another man's game if you don't know the rules," he said in commenting about the stock market. "We can place the blame for the stock market crash on no one but ourselves."

Ping-Pong Entries For Tournament Close Wednesday

All games must be played the same day scheduled, and shall be 21 point games. Excluding the semifinal and final rounds, two out of three games won will determine the winner. In all semi-final and final matches, however, three out of five games will be necessary.

Close of Hawk Grid Season Climaxes Remarkable Performances

1933 Eleven Gains Plaudits of Sport Fans

Individual Feats Mark Play of Surprising Hawks

Thanks to the resourceful coaching of Ossie Solem and the remarkable play of one of the most astonishing Hawkeye teams in history, the University of Iowa's 1933 football season is not one to be forgotten soon, or its galaxy of outstanding performances to be concealed under a "wait until next year" chorus.

For the team stamped indelibly into the records such features as three victories in five Big Ten games to share fifth in the percentage standing, the first win of any eleven over Purdue in two seasons, and a long series of brilliant performances in line and backfield.

Figures Tell Story Figures graphically tell part of the story. In winning five of eight games, the Hawkeyes travelled 1,920 yards from scrimmage, 538 more than their rivals could gain; piled up 131 points to opponents' 56 by making 20 touchdowns and 11 points thereafter to rivals; eight touchdowns, 5 points, and one field goal.

The Hawkeyes scored 11 of those touchdowns on plays originating from beyond the 27 yard line, including runs of 42, 34, and 31 yards from scrimmage, returned punts of 55 and 37 yards, and forward passes of 35 and 29 yards. Of forward passes, 26 per cent were completed, as compared with rivals' 25.3 per cent.

Iowans Turn Tables How complete was the reversal of Old Gold fortunes in one year is shown by the fact that Northwestern, Wisconsin, and Purdue, teams which won in 1932 by scoring 96 points to Iowa's 6, each was defeated as the Hawkeyes outscored them by a total of 47 to 13.

Minnesota, Michigan, and Nebraska were victorious, the Wolverines by four points and the Huskers by one. The other Iowa victims were Iowa State and Bradley Tech. Scoring at least one touchdown in each game, the Iowans' 60 points gave a tie for second with Purdue in Big Ten team scoring, but the average per game, 12 points, was superior to that of Michigan, scorer of 71 points in six games.

Crayne, Laws on Top Individually, the figures of necessity give honors to Dick Crayne, sophomore fullback, and Joe Laws, senior quarterback, since blocking and other feats which made possible many of the backs' performances do not appear in statistics.

Crayne rammed and raced his way to 655 yards from scrimmage in 161 trials, for a 4 yard average, the greatest distance traversed by an Iowa back since 1921, and he also was high scorer with seven touchdowns for 42 points.

To Laws goes the best average gain per play, 4.7 yards, for he made 421 yards in 89 attempts. He counted 30 points to top all Big Ten scorers in conference games.

Line Play Brilliant A line which was stubborn on defense and vicious on offense was one of the reasons for Hawkeye success. It was anchored by such men as Zud Schammel, a possibility for all-American guard honors; Capt. Tom Moore, an inspired center; Bernie Page, the 155 pound end; and Jerry Foster, giant tackle.

Great blocking and heroic defensive work was displayed all season by Dwight Hoover and Russ Fisher, the halfbacks, and Joe Laws, in addition to his work on attack, saved several games by sensational tackles and pass shatterings.

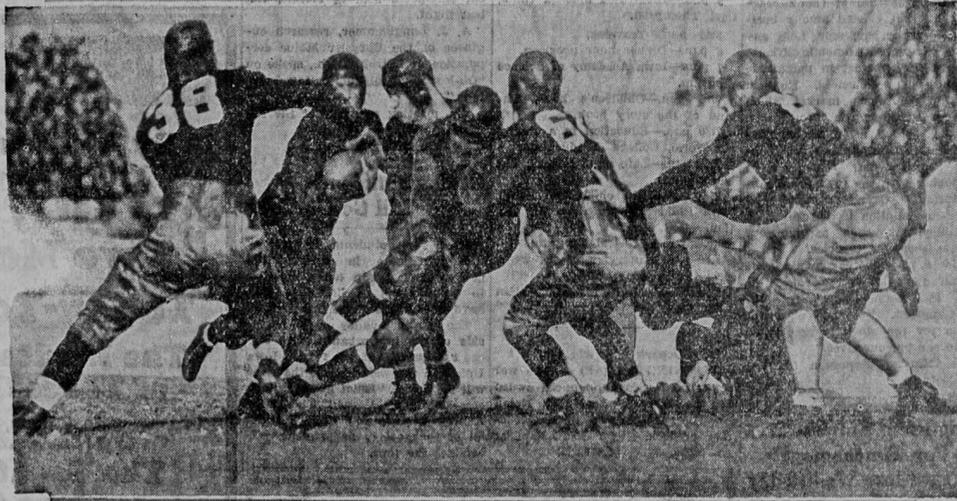

Although four regulars have played their last game for Iowa, seven men who were regulars will return in 1934. They are Dick Crayne, Dwight Hoover, and Russ Fisher, backs; Jack Gallagher, guard; Jerry Foster and Fred Radloff, tackles; and Bernie Page, end.

St. Mary's Swamps Riverside in Cage Opener

Belger, Consamus, Maher Lead Ramblers in Great Early-Season Power Display

St. Mary Defense Holds Opponents to Two Field Goals

By IRVING KAHAN

Scoring practically at will, a powerful, rangy band of Rambler dribblers last night buried St. Mary's high of Riverside under an avalanche of baskets to triumph impressively by a score of 43 to 8 at City high gym as a fair-sized but highly enthusiastic crowd sat in on the season's opener for the Iowa Citians.

The big Suplee-coached machine started slowly, sputtering through a tedious first session, then gathered up steam and ruthlessly swept through the ranks of the hopelessly outclassed visitors. After Maher and Belger tallied in the opening moments of the contest, the home team was never headed and romped merrily on its way, piling up point after point in easy fashion, with Maher, Consamus, and Belger leading the way.

Brilliant Defense The Ramblers showed plenty of scoring power last night, but the defensive play of the Blue quintet was even more impressive as Belger, Maher, Bradley, and Consamus combined their height with the fiery play of the diminutive Lumsden to completely throttle the offensive efforts of the Riverside five. The latter tallied but twice from the field, both goals coming with less than two minutes of play remaining in the final period.

The nature of the contest permitted Coach Suplee to experiment freely in an effort to determine his best combination. Adrian, alternating with Lumsden showed up favorably, tossing in five points during the period he played. However, it was the splendid passing and shooting of Belger and the effective under-the-basket play of the rangy Consamus and Maher that resulted in the bulk of the Rambler scoring.

No Match The team looked good last night but the Riverside squad was hardly a match for St. Mary's. A more satisfactory line on Rambler prospects will be afforded when the

In a wildly played preliminary, an erratic group of Rambler reserves started off impressively, bogged down miserably, and then put on a final spurt that fell a point short of their opponents to drop a nerve-racking 14 to 13 tilt to the Riverside scrubs. The Iowa Citians blew an excellent chance to win by missing two free throws in the closing minute of play.

Five Hawkeyes Honored in United Press All-Conference Selections

Prize Pupils! Ossie Solem, Harry Kipke, Bob Zupke Chosen By "Professor" for Valedictorian Honors

By PAUL MICKELSON Associated Press Sports Writer

CHICAGO, Nov. 27 (AP)—To the tune of the same old war songs of "beat Michigan" and "wait till next year," the old professor held his final Monday morning class for the Big Ten football coaches today.

Before gathering the coaches together, the old professor consulted with some of the pupils with the result that Harry Kipke of the championship Michigan Wolverines, Ossie Solem of Iowa, and the old timer, Bob Zupke of Illinois, were named as the three prize pupils.

Professor—"It was the general consensus that neither of these three exceeded the other this fall. Kipke coached his team to a fourth straight claim on the Big Ten title; Solem gave us all the biggest surprise in many a year with his ball club, while Zupke took what was generally regarded as only mediocre talent and missed a clear claim to the championship by two miserable points, and you, Dick Hanley and Billy Hayes were the hard luck students of the class. Outside the conference we did very well, winning 20, losing four and tying one. Now, I hope I'll see all your bright faces again next year."

BERNIE BIERMAN, Minnesota—"I'll be back next season, Professor, and if everything breaks well, we'll have a good season next year."

Professor—"Let's hear from you fellows, Harry, Ossie and Bob."

KIPKE—"I'm satisfied, our boys played a tough schedule in football's toughest league and they came through like the champions they are. We had a half dozen players who would have been standouts anywhere. We'll lose about three (Turn to page 7)

Schammel, Laws Placed on 1st Team

Crayne Named on 2nd 11; Moore, Page Honored

Coming as a climax to Iowa's greatest conference season in years was the announcement, yesterday, by the United Press association, of the selection of five Hawkeyes for all-conference honors. Schammel and Laws being picked on the first team, Crayne on the second team, and Moore and Page receiving honorable mention.

Only one team, Michigan, had more than two men selected for the first eleven, the Wolverines placing three. Minnesota tied with Iowa with two, while Purdue, Northwestern, Ohio State, and Indiana received one each.

Schammel at Tackle Zud Schammel, best guard in the Big Ten, was shifted to tackle, a position he played last year, due to a lack of good tackles and a dearth of guard material.

Joe Laws was selected for his regular quarterback post and received the vote over Boynton of Illinois due to his remarkable all-around performances. Selecting any one man in the conference for the center post was a hard thing to do, but the final vote gave the first team place to Chick Bernard, Michigan's great pivot man, with Capt. Roy Oen of Minnesota nosing out Tom Moore for the second team. Moore was given high honorable mention for his position as was Bernie Page at end. Page was the lightest end playing regularly on a conference team this year.

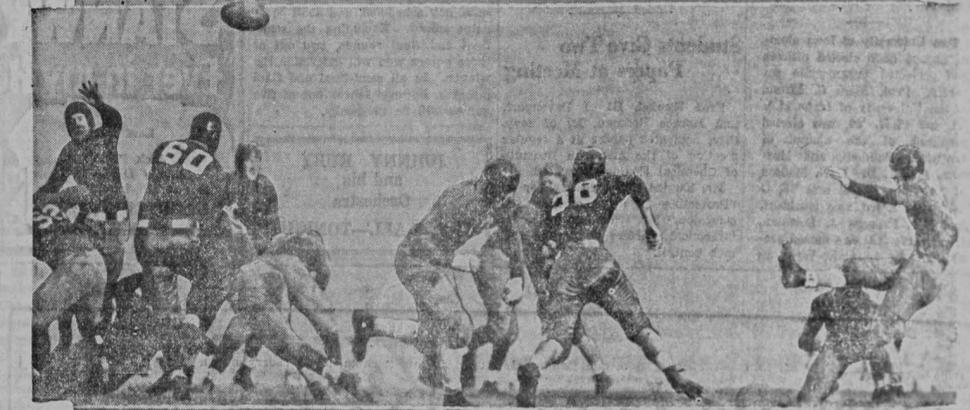

This is the first year since 1929 that Iowa has been honored in all-conference selections. In 1929 Ed Glasgow was named both all-conference and all-American.

Theophilus to Lead Iowa State Gridders

AMES, Nov. 27 (AP)—Donald Theophilus of Smithland, fullback on the Iowa State football team, was elected captain for 1934 by his teammates today.

Theophilus, who weighs 130 pounds, has been a leading figure in the Cyclone backfield for the last two years.

MICHIGAN BEATS N. U., WINS TITLE

So far as Northwestern university is concerned, they can sing "Michigan, Champion of the West," as long and as often as they please. The Wildcats, fighting to the end, were mowed down by the Big Ten champions, 13 to 0, to give the Wolverines an iron-clad claim to their fourth successive conference title. It was their second season in a row without a defeat and 35,000 fans saw them wind up the 1933 campaign with a record of five wins, one tie and no losses, to equal the record set by another Michigan team back in Fielding Yost's "point-a-minute" days. Everhardus, Michigan back, is shown successfully booting a kick from placement near the end of the first half.

Hard Break Hits St. Pat's

With the close of the football season St. Pat's hoped that the bad luck jinx that had followed them through the season had gone off to other stamping grounds. But a bad break again crossed the Irish path over the week end when Boyd, the best forward prospect on the squad, was confined to bed with scarlet fever.

The Irish hopes are gladdened a bit, however, with the appearance of Gough on the basketball court at last night's practice. Gough was the Irish school's star end and will add considerable speed to the Shamrocks. Coach Dick Connor will probably use him as a center or forward.

With Emanuel back Coach Connor is sure of one reliable guard. The other guard will probably be a race between Toomey and McNamara. Hanlon and Maher show up well at the forward positions but there are several sophomore lads who are going to push them hard.

After spending last week on fundamentals and getting his squad used to handling the ball, Coach Connor, last night, put them through a stiff practice.

Kistler Drills River Team

Coach Joy Kistler sent his University high cagers through another Monday night drill to open his second week of practice last night, giving them plenty of work to offset the week end of inactivity.

As has been the case in drills so far, stiff offensive scrimmage was the work handed out to the river school boys. For the better part of the evening the different sets of cagers worked the ball from up court down to the basket for short shots.

With a full squad at hand the Blue mentor is giving out plenty of work and should have some definite idea soon as to the caliber of his players, especially the reserves and new material.

Three noted chemists who studied in Munich 35 years ago met for the first time since their school days in a Chicago hotel lobby. They are Prof. Vladimir Ipatieff of Northwestern university, Dr. Moses Gomberg, professor at the University of Michigan, and Prof. Richard Willstaetter, the Nobel prize winner.

Civil Works Project Will Employ 185

Johnson County Men To Start Levee Work Today

Approximately 185 men will be working on civil works projects in Johnson county tomorrow, out of the total 291 allotted. Men are now being taken from the lists at the re-employment office, the 145 men having been taken from county relief rolls.

Work on Levee
Work on the levee, which will be constructed of earth, will begin this morning. The university will furnish a drag line on the river and a truck to haul dirt, with no money being spent from the civil works funds for this part of the work.

All the dirt for the levee will be taken from the Iowa river, which will be widened and deepened in some places. Work will begin at the interurban bridge.

Other Projects
Most of the men will be working along the Iowa river clearing brush. About 20 will be improving the city park and 23 will be at the state park site in Big Grove township. Others are working on the heat tunnel to the fine arts building, for which the contract will probably be let today.

It is expected that all of the 291 men will be at work soon. Projects and division of labor is as follows:

1. River levee, west side drainage and ripp-rapping Iowa river bank, work in 80 acres of city park, quarrying rock for parkways and ripp-rapping, storm water drain from Elm street east to river; 200 unskilled men, 10 semi-skilled men, three skilled men, one engineer and four foremen. Total amount to be spent on this labor is $42,336.

Tunnel
2. Tunnel on east side of Iowa river from Burlington street to Market street for service lines to fine arts building and law dormitory; 50 unskilled men who will be paid a total of $9,000.

3. Construction of dam for arti-

Groans and Limp

There were more groans, grunts, limps, bruises, sprains, lacerations and pained expressions around The Daily Iowan yesterday than there have been for two years, following a football game between the editorial and shop forces Sunday, in which the shopmen outplayed the copy writers to win 13 to 6. Spectators and players both agreed that they had never seen a game in which there were so many trick plays, everyone wondering what was coming next.

Holiday

Students at all Iowa City schools will get several days vacation this week for Thanksgiving. St. Patrick's school will start its vacation Wednesday noon and all other schools will dismiss students at the regular hour Wednesday afternoon.

Landslide Destroys Village
BOGOTA, Columbia (AP)—A village in Boyaca department was reported today to have been destroyed by landslides.

Indications are that from 10 to 25 per cent of Johnson county farmers will seal corn and receive government loans this year. Farmers receiving corn loans must carry out the plans of the corn-hog adjustment program for the reduction of surpluses.

Organization of the committee was completed Sunday evening at a meeting held at the Farm Bureau office. Omar R. Yodar was chosen chairman, Glenn Burr vice chairman, and M. F. Sullivan secretary-treasurer. The other members of the committee which was named by the state secretary of agriculture are Eugene Colony, and Raymond Edwards.

The sealers for Johnson county have not yet been announced.
