Keller Announces Increase of 22,500 Civil Works Jobs for Iowans

Women Will Receive 4,000 Of New Jobs

Almost 57,000 Iowans Now Included In Program

DES MOINES, Dec. 5 (AP)—An increase of aproximately 22,500 jobs under the Iowa civil works program, including 4,000 for women, was announced today by Prof. George Keller, Iowa civil works engineer.

The state allotment of 34,544 men was increased by 14,448 on a county quota basis, and in addition 4,000 men will be given employment on projects for the state highway commission and conservation department.

Projects for Women

Women will be given work on projects being outlined by Ina Tyler, social service director of the state emergency relief committee, and Agnes Samuelson, state superintendent of public instruction.

This brings the number of persons to be employed under the CWA program in Iowa to approximately 57,000. Assurances have been received from headquarters in Washington that funds will be forthcoming to pay for employment of this number, it was announced.

Revision

"With the increased quotas of men allotted to counties, it is particularly essential that the present projects be revised or new projects submitted to provide work for the additional men and to keep those now working from being laid off temporarily," Professor Keller said.

"Counties need have no fear of running out of projects in order to keep their quota of men at work. When the local work runs out, we are prepared to allot state highway and conservation projects to the area."

Numerous projects have been outlined by W. R. Root, highway maintenance engineer, and Prof. G. B. MacDonald of Iowa State college, director of the civilian conservation corps, has outlined approximately 80 conservation projects in the state.

Rose Chensky Passes Away At Age of 78

Mrs. Rose Chensky, 78, died at her home, 314 N. Governor street, at 6:15 p.m. yesterday after a lingering illness.

Born in Bohemia Sept. 4, 1855, she came to the United States with her parents when she was six years old. After living for four years in the East the family moved to Iowa City. She had lived in Iowa City for 68 years. She married Frank Chensky of Iowa City Oct. 12, 1874.

She is survived by four daughters, Mabel Chensky, Mrs. George Miller and Mrs. Charles Goss, all of Iowa City, and Mrs. Charles Fackler of Des Moines; one sister, Mrs. Kate Yavorsky of Iowa City, 17 grandchildren and 10 great grandchildren. Her husband preceded her in death March 24, 1917. One son, Harvey, also preceded her in death.

Funeral service will be held at the home at 3 p.m. tomorrow with the Rev. C. C. Garrigues officiating. Burial will be in Oakland cemetery. The Oathout funeral home is in charge.

Scarlet Fever Cases Reported

Thirty-three cases of scarlet fever in 20 Iowa City homes have been reported to Dr. I. A. Rankin, city physician. Five new cases have been reported in the last few days.

Six cases of whooping cough, a few cases of chicken pox and one case of mumps have also been reported.

Weather Hovers At Freezing Point

Temperatures continued to hover around the freezing point with the establishment yesterday of a high of 37 degrees. At 7 a.m. yesterday the temperature was 34 degrees and at 7 p.m. was 30. A low of 34 degrees was reached Tuesday night, according to Prof. John F. Reilly, official observer.

Texas Florist Goes Searching for Seeds of Seedless Tomatoes

AMARILLO, Tex., Dec. 5 (AP)—Bill Beechler is in a state of great perplexity.

Beechler, local florist, has succeeded in propagating a seedless tomato. The Associated Press recently announced his success, and Beechler has received letters from all of the states and Canada.

His perplexity, however, was due to the fact most of the hundreds of letters were requests for seed—of his seedless tomato.

Second Play Of University Season Opens

"The Late Christopher Bean" Adapted From French

"The Late Christopher Bean," adapted from the French by Sidney Howard, will be presented by University theater tonight at 8 o'clock in natural science auditorium, as the second production on the theater's community play series.

The cast will be headed by Jeannette Lloyd, A4 of Cedar Rapids, in the role of Abby, the old servant. Supporting her will be Elwood Ramay, G of Iowa City, as Dr. Milton Haggett; Betty Bebout, A3 of Burlington, as Hannah; Delma Reynolds, A3 of Willow Lake, S. D., as Ada, the doctor's elder daughter; Virginia Zellhoeffer, A4 of Waterloo, as Susan, the younger daughter.

George Guyan

George Guyan, A3 of Monticello, as Warren Creamer; Grant Fairbanks, G of Redlands, Cal., as Mr. Davenport; Russell Lembke, G of Sioux City, as Mr. Rosen; and Macdonald Carey, A2 of Sioux City, as Mr. Tallant.

"The Late Christopher Bean" is the story of posthumous fame which comes to an artist many years after his death. Into the home of a typical New England doctor, where the lamented Mr. Bean, the artist, lived, come art critics and dealers with offers of large sums for the much desired Bean paintings.

Plot Deepens

The doctor and his family immediately begin plotting means of gaining possession of the Bean masterpiece, a portrait of the maid, Abby. This old servant alone remains faithful to the memory of the late Mr. Bean.

The play was first presented in New York last year, an adaptation by Mr. Howard of the French drama, "Prenez Garde a la Peinture." The original company, with Pauline Lord in the role of Abby, is now playing engagements in various eastern cities.

University theater's production, under the direction of Prof. Vance M. Morton, associate director of the theater, will be repeated tomorrow evening and Saturday in a matinee performance.

Tickets may be obtained at the theater office, room 10, liberal arts building, or at the door.

Roosevelt Issues Official Proclamation Ending Long Regime of Prohibition Era

Asks Restoration Of Old Order of Law Respect

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5 (AP)—A doubly purposed proclamation putting an official end to prohibition and calling on Americans to help restore respect for law and order, was issued tonight by President Roosevelt.

The proclamation, an unusual one, was signed by the chief executive shortly after Acting Secretary Phillips had certified that 36 states had approved the repealing amendment.

The national recovery act made it mandatory that the chief executive proclaim the end of prohibition in order to abolish a series of special taxes.

The president made a special plea that no state authorize return of the saloon either in its old form or in a new guise, and said the objective being sought through a national policy was education of every citizen toward greater temperance.

In asking for cooperation with the government in an effort to restore respect for law and order, the president enjoined all citizens and others in the United States to confine their purchases of alcoholic beverages solely to licensed dealers.

"The policy of the government will be to see to it that the social and political evils that have existed in the pre-prohibition area shall not be revived nor permitted again to exist," he said. "We must remove from our midst the menace of the bootlegger and such others as would profit at the expense of good government and law and order."

He said the observance of his request for purchase solely from licensed dealers or agencies was made "personally to every individual and every family" in the nation, and would result in consumption of beverages which had passed federal inspection, in the break-up an eventual destruction of the "notoriously evil, illicit liquor traffic," and payment of reasonable taxes for support of the government.

The proclamation directed "specific attention" to authority given the government by the repeal amendment to prohibition transportation of importation of intoxicating liquors into dry states.

In concluding, the president said: "I trust in the good sense of the American people that they will not bring upon themselves the curse of excessive use of intoxicating liquors to the detriment of health, morals and social integrity."

Utah Vote Ends Prohibition

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5 (AP)—With a dash of ceremony, Utah late today wrote an end to national prohibition in a decree that opened the doors of liquor shops in 18 states.

Almost half a dozen other states were completing plans for legalizing sale under their own laws. The remainder of the nation remained dry.

Radio Broadcasts By Greek Groups Start Tomorrow

A radio broadcast tomorrow at 9 p.m. will be the first of a series of presentations over WSUI to determine which fraternity and sorority can produce the best entertainment.

Entry blanks have been sent to all fraternity and sorority houses on the campus by a committee of the Y.M.C.A., under whose auspices the competition is being arranged.

Each group will be given a 12 minute spot on the program. While at first the broadcast will last 30 minutes, it is planned to extend the time one hour later.

Houses to be represented on the first program will be announced tomorrow.

Child Labor Bill Ratified By Legislators

Iowa Becomes Sixteenth State to Pass Amendment

DES MOINES, Dec. 5 (AP)—Proponents for ratification of the proposed child labor amendment to the federal constitution successfully battled their way to victory today in the house which voted 61 to 42 approval of the measure.

Their way had been paved somewhat by senate action which approved ratification 41 to 6, but in giving them a favorable vote, the house reversed its action in the regular session when it killed the bill by indefinite postponement.

16th State

Iowa now becomes the sixteenth state to ratify the amendment which would give congress the right to regulate child labor.

The senate meanwhile took up and passed by a 40 to 6 vote the bill to authorize the state highway commission to adopt a program for the refinancing of the $95,000,000 outstanding in county primary road bonds.

Under the provisions of the bill which now goes to the house, the total annual bond maturity and interest will be set at about $8,000,000. Counties will have the authority to issue and sell refunding bonds to revise the amount of principal and interest due annually.

Committee Work

Both houses held only morning sessions and devoted their afternoon to committee work on the scores of bills in their possession, since raising the bars against the introduction of individual measures. The total number of bills in both houses was swelled to 475, with the introduction of 33 additional filed late yesterday.

It took the house two hours to make its decision on the child labor amendment, which unloosed a flood of oratory both pro and con.

Current Publication Features Story in Memory of Nagler

A story in memory of Prof. Floyd A. Nagler features the December issue of the Iowa Transit, published by the Associated Students of Engineering, which is now on sale.

This article by Kenneth E. Ristau, E4 of Davenport, gives the life story of Professor Nagler and tells of his career in connection with the University of Iowa.

"Inside Dope"

For a long time engineers have been thinking about the Dneprostroy dam in Russia, but it remained for John L. Greene, J3 of Fremont, Ohio, to get the "inside information." This dam which is on the Dneiper river has been given its name, says Mr. Greene, because the word is so hard to pronounce that foreign spies couldn't go back and tell much about it.

In describing the scenery Mr. Greene portrays the Russian farmers harvesting the wheat. They pull their harvester backwards and wonder why it won't work. He says when one walks along a road in Russia he has to walk on his tiptoes in order to see over the edges of the rut.

Uneducated

The Russian laborers, so the story goes, think that a turbine is something that fortune tellers wrap around their heads like a hat. In the surveying work they think that running a line is an effective way of putting one over with the girl friend and that slide rules are regulations governing a tobogganing contest.

According to Mr. Greene, the Russians had so much fun building this dam that they decided to have another one in Siberia, believing that competition is the life of trade.

Donald E. Nelson, E3 of Adel, is the author of an article titled "Military engineering at Iowa," which tells of military training at the university.

Alumni items concerning members back to 1900 are contained in the magazine. Also there are society articles describing the purposes of the various student engineering societies.

New York Greets New 'Old' Regime

NEW YORK, Dec. 5 (AP)—John Barleycorn came back to Broadway tonight from his 14 year exile.

The town had changed. So had he.

He was not the bleary eyed old man they drove into the wilderness 14 years ago, but a restrained patriarch who realized apparently that his popularity depended on his decorum.

Long Journey

Dusk was here when he came tearing across the country from Utah, but even then the multitudes had gathered at Times Square to welcome him.

They watched the story unfold in the lights that tell the news on Broadway. There was no shouting, only the usual noises—the rumble of traffic, the clang and bustle of the street.

Ten thousand eyes were glued on Times Square's lights—

"Utah voting!" the sign flashed.

A lull. A policeman's horse pawed on the pavement. The multitude shifted, swayed and sighed.

"Prohibition is dead!"

No Roars

The lights flickered the flash. The crowd whooped a few "hoorays," but it didn't roar. The letdown was obvious. It was all over but the shouting, but the throng didn't shout—it milled about and waited.

Newsboys took up the peal—"Prohibition is dead"—and a million lights repeated the story. Over on the Hudson, the frog-throated steamers began a sonorous symphony, a requiem for the era. The harbor boats whined prohibition's dirge, then began blasting salutes to John Barleycorn.

From four the corners he came to town. Trucks began scurrying away from liquor wholesalers, careened through the streets and disgorged their liquors at hotels and restaurants and clubs.

Ships and planes brought it in—rum from Cuba, scotch and rye from Canada, wines from France's slopes, the Rhine, the vineyards of California—

Crowds were waiting at the licensed bars when the first drink was poured.

Iowa Debates Northwestern

Local Team Upholds Negative Argument Of Question

Arthur Barnes, A2 of Eagle Grove, Robert Blakely, A1 of Onawa, and Collman Yudelson, A3 of Council Bluffs, will represent the University of Iowa in a Western conference debate against Northwestern Dec. 15, Prof. A. Craig Baird, director of university debate, announced yesterday.

The debate, which will be held at Evanston, Ill., is on the question, "Resolved, that there should be a constitutional amendment making permanent the powers of the president as of July 1, 1933." Iowa will uphold the negative.

Mr. Yudelson has engaged in numerous intercollegiate debates including Western conference contests with Purdue and Northwestern. He participated in the Midwest tournament held here last spring and is a pledge of Delta Sigma Rho, national forensic fraternity.

Mr. Barnes was a member of last year's freshman team which met Northwestern, and he also debated against several junior colleges. Mr. Blakely was a member of the Onawa high school team which last year won the class B high school championship. Both Mr. Barnes and Mr. Yudelson were finalists in state high school debate tournaments, competing on opposing teams in the 1931 finals.

The contest with Northwestern at Evanston was originally scheduled against the University of Illinois at Champaign, but the Western conference officials, acting in the interests of economy, found it necessary to make this change, Professor Baird said.

Merrill Shanks to Speak

Merrill Shanks, G of Mason City, will speak on "Methods of representing numbers" before a meeting of the Undergraduate Mathematics club at 4:10 p.m. tomorrow in room 301, physics building.

Favorite "Recipes" Once More Tickle Long-Dry Palates

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 5 (AP))—Gourmands of New Orleans were smiling tonight for the first time in nearly 14 years because of the return of wines and liquors.

French cookery has returned to its place in the sun after being in eclipse behind the blinds of speakeasies.

Lips smacked over the rare and delicate flavor of the Sazerac cocktail, indigenous to New Orleans. And a place in the menu was found for that subtle drink, the Ramos gin fizz, which has lured travelers for miles to New Orleans.

Formal ratification of repeal was announced to the city by the booming of cannon and the low, deep voices of steamship whistles.

Union Board Members Get Service Keys

R. H. Fitzgerald Makes Presentation At Dinner

The 15 members of Union Board and Theodore M. Rehder, faculty adviser, were presented by Rufus H. Fitzgerald, director of Iowa Union, with gold keys in recognition of service on Union Board at a dinner last night in a private dining room of Iowa Union.

Those who received keys were: Evelyn Benda, J4 of Iowa City; Ruth Fatherson, A4 of St. Paul, Minn.; Alice Walker, A4 of DeWitt; William Ellsworth, A4 of Omaha, Neb.; Roswell Johnson, A3 of Ottumwa; Robert Cook, A3 of Spencer; Arthur Jacobson, L3 of Waukon; Catherine Shaw, C3 of Pocahontas; Raymond Nelson, C4 of Davenport; William P. Jones, E4 of West Branch; Paul Greene, G of Iowa City; Donald Tope, G of Grand Junction, Colo.; Anton Braxmeier, D4 of Mandan, N. D.; Elmer Norgaard, P4 of Harlan; Sherman Deur, M3 of Lake View; and Mr. Rehder.

The NRA was the theme of the toast program, the N.R.A. representing Union Board. Mr. Rehder spoke on B.N.R.A. or the past of Union Board; Miss Benda spoke on N.R.A.A.D. or the Union Board of the present, and Mr. Jacobson spoke on N.R.A.A.M.C.M.L. or the Union Board of 1950.

Mr. Ellsworth as toastmaster represented Hugh S. Johnson, while Mr. Fitzgerald represented Franklin D. Roosevelt.

The keys are gold and have upon them a picture of the door of Iowa Union. Above the door are the words Union Board; below the door are the letters S. U. I.

Mrs. Rehder and Mrs. Fitzgerald were guests at the dinner.

University Graduate Awarded $500 For Engineering Paper

C. M. Stanley of Muscatine, graduate of the University of Iowa, is the author of "Study of Stilling basin design" which has been awarded the $500 Alfred Noble prize for the best engineering paper published this year.

Mr. Stanley is the son of State Senator Claude M. Stanley and Mrs. Stanley of Corning. He received his bachelor's degree in civil engineeriig in 1926 and his master's degree in 1928. The paper was his master's thesis.

Mr. Stanley is a member of the engineering firm of Young and Stanley at Muscatine.

Former Student To Publish First Book

St. Clair Smith of Newton, former student at the University of Iowa, will have her first novel, "I've Known a Heaven," published this spring.

One section of the book deals with the University of Iowa, where Miss Smith was a student after her graduation from Dana Hall, Wellesley, Mass.

The writer has published several magazine articles and stories under the name of Patricia Kelly. Her novel, however, will be published under her own name.

Inland Breeze Aids Couple In Start of 1900 Mile Trip Over Sea to South America

Expected to Complete Journey by 10 A.M. Today

BATHURST, Gambia, Dec. 6 (AP)—(Wednesday)—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh lifted his heavily laden red monoplane into the air at 2 a.m. today (8 p.m. Tuesday Iowa time) and with Mrs. Lindbergh at the radio headed across 1900 miles of open sea toward South America.

After a score or more unsuccessful attempts to lift the heavily laden plane in an almost dead calm, he was helped on his way by a light breeze from the interior which rippled the surface of the Lower Gambia river.

Message Sent

A message direct from the Lindbergh plane to Bahia, Brazil, relayed to Pan-American Airways in New York, reported their position at 3 a.m., an hour after the takeoff as 12:17 north latitude, and 17:50 west longitude, 115 miles at sea.

(The message reported a true course and was signed "Lindbergh").

For four days the Lindberghs had been balked by inability to lift the heavy load of fuel required for the longest hop yet attempted in their aerial survey tour of Atlantic ocean airways.

Excess fuel and baggage was jettisoned, and at 4:30 p.m. today the colonel went to the plane for a final inspection. Ready for the flight, the craft bobbed in a gentle swell before a picturesque row of native shacks bordering the river.

Good Weather

The colonel was informed that weather conditions insured a bright, clear tropical night for the takeoff.

The German steamer Westfalen, which had been in Brazil securing supplies, was due to return to its mid-Atlantic post yesterday, affording further security for the Lindberghs on their long flight. The Westfalen is used by the German Lufthansa line as a base for transatlantic flights, and officials of the line previously had offered the Lindberghs use of their facilities.

By veering slightly northward off a direct course to Natal, Brazil, they could also stop at St. Paul's island, a French possession in mid-Atlantic. Fernando de Noronha, a volcanic island 125 miles off the coast of Brazil offered another possible landing place.

14 Hours or Less

Calculations based on the known speed of Colonel Lindbergh's plane fixed the approximate time of a flight across the south Atlantic at 14 hours or less.

Their route, in a south-southwesterly direction, will carry them across the equator at approximately the location of St. Paul's island, a little more than midway distance.

State Director Approves Four New Projects

Will Add 143 Men To Johnson County Payrolls

E. H. Mulock, state director of the civil works employment program, yesterday approved four new projects for Johnson county. Employment for 143 men at a cost of $28,683.70 is involved in these projects, bringing the total number of men to be employed in this county to 434.

Projects

Projects approved are: taking up of 34 blocks of obsolete street railway track, costing $11,636.20 and employing 60 men; improvement of municipal airport and airport park, to employ 30 men and cost $5,510; improvement of schools and playgrounds at a cost of $6,048 and use of 32 men; and changing of a creek channel at Oxford, employing 21 men and costing $5,489.50.

The approval of the airport improvement project is the second of the kind in the state, $11,000 having been granted Monday for improvement of the Des Moines field. Some of the work to be done at the airport will be grading and leveling of ground. The work on the playgrounds at Roosevelt and Lincoln schools will be of the same type.

Submitted Monday

Iowa City's projects were submitted for approval Monday, after information had been received from Washington that the quota for the state had been increased from 32,000 to 53,250 men. Approval followed an announcement by Mr. Mulock that the Johnson county quota would be 434 instead of 291 as was formerly announced.

The addition of 30 men to those employed on the river projects brings the total number of men engaged in that project to 280. The men provided for by the new quota will be employed for the most part by the four newly approved projects, according to Dr. W. L. Bywater, Johnson county general chairman.

Strange Blood Disease Baffles Local Doctors

Mrs. L. E. Morris, 42, of Davenport, who is in a serious condition from a hemorrhage of the nose and kidneys lasting 10 days is being treated at University hospital, where physicians are attempting to diagnose the disease which has baffled a number of doctors in Davenport and vicinity.

Mrs. Morris was brought here yesterday by Dr. L. H. Ladage, Bettendorf physician, who has been attending her. He said he had tried all known methods of blood clotting, drugs and transfusions without success.

Mrs. Morris was visiting relatives near Springfield, Ill., when suddenly her nose began bleeding. When her condition became more serious she was taken to Mercy hospital at Davenport and then to the hospital here.

It is thought the disease may be leucocythemia, in which the white corpuscles of the blood are largely increased in number, with enlargement of the spleen or the lymphatic glands, and with pathologic changes in the bone marrow. It is due mainly to derangement of the blood-making organs and is attended with progressive anemia and a tendency to hemorrhage.

Boiler, Lierle Given Offices

DES MOINES, Dec. 5 (AP)—Dr. W. F. Boiler of Iowa City was elected president of the Iowa Academy of Opthalmology and Otolaryngology here today.

Other oficers named were Dr. D. M. Lierle of Iowa City, vice president, and Dr. L. A. Taylor, Jr., of Ottumwa.

Funeral Service Of Charles H. Kershner Planned for Today

Funeral service for Charles Henry Kershner, 54, who died at his home in Coralville Monday night after an illness of two years, will be held at 2:30 p.m. today at his home with the Rev. Harry D. Henry of the Methodist church officiating. Burial will be in the Coralville cemetery. The Beckman funeral home is in charge.

Mr. Kershner, born in Sullivan, Ill., Sept. 15, 1879, was a resident of Coralville the last eight years. He was a member of the Loyal Order of Moose and Modern Woodmen.

He is survived by his widow; a daughter, Vivian; and three sisters, Mrs. W. W. Butler and Mrs. George Payne, both of Decatur, Ill., and Mrs. George Schlem of Miller, Ark. He was preceded in death by an infant son.

Oklahoma Graduate Confers With Kay

George H. Lane, graduate of the University of Oklahoma, conferred yesterday with Dean George F. Kay, state geologist, regarding investigations which he is carrying forward on the interglacial deposits of Iowa.

Mr. Lane's home is at Newburg.

WEATHER

IOWA—Fair, rising temperature in west and north portions Wednesday; Thursday somewhat unsettled, colder in west and central portions.

"Symbolism in Chinese Art" Theme of Mrs. McCloy's Talk

Local Woman Speaks Before General Club Meeting

Decorative art and industry in China always go hand in hand, stated Mrs. C. H. McCloy, 209 S. Summit street, in speaking of "Symbolism in Chinese Art" at the general club meeting of the Iowa City Woman's club yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. E. W. Chittenden, 1101 Kirkwood avenue. "Every form in Chinese arts," continued Mrs. McCloy, "contains symbolic spiritualism, and is often connected with legendary characters."

Symbols Explained

The dragon, signifying force, was chief of the four prominent supernatural forms in Chinese legendry, commented Mrs. McCloy. Second in rank was the phoenix, symbolizing the five cardinal virtues of women: benevolence, uprightness, good faith, knowledge, and propriety. Five different colors used in depicting the phoenix symbolized the virtues, and are also symbolic of the colors of the earth and were used in the stripes of the first Chinese republic's flag. The unicorn, third in rank, signifies perfect good and appears chiefly in Chinese painting. Symbolizing faith is the tortoise.

Other sources from which art is drawn are birds, in which different birds represent the relative rank of men; and nature, from which more than 100 different flowers have been taken for design in pictures and embroidery, and in which trees and animals are used. Forces of nature also figure in art.

Geometric Forms

Geometric forms, the first kind of decoration to be used by the Chinese, are prevalent in their art, as are figures contributed by various religions. Other religious contributions are the eight immortals, the literati, significant of learning, and gems and semi-precious stones.

Chinese creations have always been made entirely by hand, and the demands of importers for mass production plus the introduction of machinery to China, has not only commercialized Chinese art, but has spoiled it, Mrs. McCloy believes, because it has removed from it the joy of creation which was evidenced in the old works of art.

Mrs. McCloy lived in China for 13 years, five of which were spent in Shanghai and eight in Nanking. Rugs, jewelry, costumes, panels, pictures, and porcelainware she brought from China were used to illustrate her talk.

Following the talk, tea was served from a Chinese tea urn.

Collect Gifts at Club Party

Guests, Members Will Contribute Gifts To Social Service

Gifts for the Social Service league will be contributed by boys and girls of all ages at a party for University club members and children of members to be held Saturday at 2:30 p.m. in the University clubroom at Iowa Union. Each child will bring a gift which will be placed around a Christmas tree.

Games will be played, and there will be story-telling for the younger children. Refreshments will be taken from the tree.

Marjorie Camp is chairman of the committee in charge of the party. Lucille Bruner, Mrs. C. A. Ruckmick, Mrs. C. W. Keyser, Mrs. E. T. Peterson, Laura Chennell, Mrs. J. V. Blackman and Mrs. F. T. Mavis comprise the committee.

Sorority Chaperon to Entertain Club

Instead of meeting Friday, the Friday bridge club will be entertained Thursday by Ada Culver, chaperon at the Alpha Xi Delta sorority house, at three tables of bridge.

Iowa Dames to Meet Tonight

Iowa Dames will hold their regular meeting this evening. In charge of the program are the 18 new members of the organization.

Church Women To Open Century Of Progress Bazaar

A World's Fair in miniature will be opened to the public at 11:30 this morning on the lower floor of the Congregational church for the Century of Progress dinner and bazaar to be conducted under the auspices of the women of the church. Exhibits, hangings, and decorations loaned by members of the church will represent 10 countries.

At noon a Chinese luncheon will be served. It is open to the public without reservation. The 6 o'clock dinner of national dishes may be attended through reservation.

A half hour program of the house of magic, miracles in color and sound, and folk dances will immediately follow the dinner. The bazaar will be open until 9 o'clock this evening.

Women See Tournament

Members of Physical Education School Return Home

Prof. Elizabeth Halsey, head of the women's physical education department, Jane Shurmer of the women's physical education department, and several members of the varsity hockey team recently returned from Evanston, Ill., where they witnessed the national hockey tournament.

A special feature of the tournament was the scoreless Thanksgiving game between members of the North Shore Women's association and a men's team composed of husbands and friends of the women's team. The game, an informal tradition of the North Shore association, had not been scheduled this year, but following protest of the men's team, the game was played.

The entire game was a comedy and neither side scored. Whenever the women's team threatened a goal through its superior passing, the opposing team gathered enmass between the ball and the goal, making a goal impossible. However, when the men's team managed to get near enough to the goal for a possible score, the drives became so hard that the players fell at the crucial moment or drove the ball so far ahead that the opposing backs picked it up and carried it back again.

This game is an indication of the active interest being shown by men for the game which has generally been thought of as a woman's activity. There is a United States Men's Field Hockey association which participated in the recent Olympics, to lose to the skilled Japanese and East Indian teams.

R. H. Hoops Weds University Senior

Florence Mae Robinson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Robinson of Coralville, was married to Raymond H. Hoops of Cherokee Aug. 24 in Lancaster, Mo.

Mrs. Hoops is a senior in the college of liberal arts in the University of Iowa. Mr. Hoops, a graduate student, received his B.S. degree from the university last February.

Mr. and Mrs. Hoops are living at 12 W. Burlington street.

Delta Tau Delta

A dinner guest at Delta Tau Delta fraternity last night was Hurst Kridelbaugh, U of Chariton.

Law Party To Be Dec. 15th

Barristers' Ball Date Set, Committee Named

Six seniors in the college of law form a committee in charge of the Barristers' Ball, a formal party presented annually by members of the Iowa Law Students' association. This year's affair will be held in the main lounge of Iowa Union Dec. 15.

Members of the committee are James P. Kelley of LeMars; J. Sherman Greene of Iowa City; Joseph Concannon of Keokuk; John R. Cronin of Des Moines; Floyd E. Ensign of Hawarden and Harold F. Reynolds of Dubuque.

Music for this party, which is an all campus dance, will be furnished by the Masked Marvel and his 11-piece orchestra of Des Moines. "Step" Black is a featured entertainer with this group.

Attorney-General and Mrs. John O'Connor, now of Des Moines but formerly of Iowa City, Judge and Mrs. James T. Gaffney of Williamsburg, and Judge and Mrs. Harold Evans of Iowa City have been invited to attend as special guests of the students' organization.

Kappa Phi Gives Musical Christmas Program Tonight

A musical Christmas program will be presented by members of Kappa Phi, Methodist sorority, at a regular meeting at the student center, 7 o'clock tonight. Dorothy Martin, A3 of Iowa City, is in charge of the program.

Myrna Wilcox, G of Stillwater, Okla., will read a Christmas story with musical background furnished by a trio of: Ruth Glasener, A1 of Iowa City; Janet Seger, A3 of Iowa City; and Rosalie Lindberg, A3 of Rockford, Ill.

Roberta Munro, A1 of Fairfield, will play a flute solo. During the remainder of the program carols will be sung by Miss Glasener, Miss Seger, Miss Lindberg, and Miss Martin.

Each member is to bring a gift to be given to some needy family in Iowa City.

Foreign Relations Club Will Meet

Mrs. Christian A. Ruckmick's review of several chapters of the book "Germany Enters the Third Reich" by Calvin B. Hoover, will be the main feature of the meeting of the foreign relations study club sponsored by the local chapter of the American Association of University Women today at 3:30 p.m. at Iowa Union.

The review will be given as a background for the study of the nationalist movement in Germany. Mrs. R. R. Whipple is the leader of the present study of the revolution in Germany.

Iowa City Rainbow Girls Attend Dinner

Eighteen Iowa Citians went to Washington, Ia., Monday evening to attend a dinner and initiation of the Washington chapter of Order of Rainbow for Girls.

The delegation included: Ethel Nelson, Marie Korab, Gladys Jones, Virginia Sidwell, Josephine Sidwell, Dorothy Sybil, Janet Speelman, Jane Gotch, Frances Wagner, Vergene Headington, Alice Eaton, Mr. and Mrs. E. P. Korab, Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Griffith, Keith Weeber and Mrs. W. J. Weeber, mother adviser of Rainbow.

Four Form New Carnival Group

Marie Korab, Beatrice Griffith, Vergene Headington, and Mrs. Minnie Wassam, member of the advisory board, comprise the recently formed carnival committee of the Order of Rainbow for girls.

Phi Rho Sigma

Phi Rho Sigma, medical fraternity, announces the pledging of Adrian Schroeder, M3 of Ft. Madison.

Dr. D. W. Ward of Oelwein was a recent dinner guest at the fraternity house.

Pi Lambda Theta To Open Program For Year Tonight

Pi Lambda Theta, honorary educational organization for women, will open its yearly program tonight at 7:15 in the women's lounge of Iowa Union.

At tonight's meeting, Principal Maude McBroom of University experimental school, will lead a discussion of the factors that have led to the present emergency in education.

A different phase of the emergency in education will be considered at each meeting. Meetings will be held each month throughout the remainder of the school year.

Graduate women, faculty members, teachers, and all women who are doing work in the college of education may attend these meetings.

Home Economics Director to Head Detroit Meeting

Prof. Frances Zuill, head of the home economics department, will leave for Detroit, Mich., tonight, where, as president of the American Home Economics association, she will preside at a meeting of the American Vocational association, to be held Friday morning at the Statler hotel.

Saturday, she will give a talk before a meeting of the Michigan Home Economics association in the Statler hotel. The subject of her talk will be, "Signs of advancement in home economics."

Professor Zuill will then go to Buffalo, N. Y., where she will speak at a convention of the western section of the New York Home Economics association Monday.

Knight Announces Change in Schedule For Baconian Talks

Changes in schedule for two Baconian lectures to be given before Christmas vacation were announced yesterday by Prof. F. B. Knight of the college of education, chairman of this year's Baconian committee.

Prof. Fred E. Haynes of the sociology department will give this week's address at 7 p.m. Friday in chemistry auditorium. Prof. Benj. F. Shambaugh, head of the political science department, will appear next week instead of Prof. George R. Davies of the college of commerce.

Professor Davies will appear on the series after the holidays.

D.A.R. Will Meet Saturday

Pilgrim chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution will entertain at a musical tea at the Delta Delta Delta sorority house, 522 N. Clinton street, at 3 p.m. Saturday.

Tipton's Woman's Clubs Hear Bose Talk on Orientals

"Our neighbors, the Orientals" was the title of a talk given by Sudhindra Bose of the political science department before the woman's clubs of Tipton last evening.

He talked briefly of the Philippine Islands, Japan, China, Turkey, and India, showing their progress and achievements, shortcomings, vices, and virtues. He also stated that the Orientals were human beings like "the rest of us" and that they did not differ greatly as regards the above mentioned qualities.

Mr. Bose writes for many Indian newspapers as he is the official American representative of the Free Press which is similar to our news services.

Aesthetic Evaluation Discussed by Meier At Meeting of Club

Aesthetic evaluation by jury is reliable in exhibitions where there are only a few outstanding pictures, but in shows which have a dozen or more paintings of nearly equal value, a jury of artists is apt to be guided by emotional opportunism, according to Prof. Norman C. Meier of the psychology department, who addressed members of the Philosophical club last night at the home of Prof. Beth Wellman of the Iowa Child Welfare Research station, 200 S. Summit street.

"Few persons have a consistent basis for their personal evaluations," Professor Meier asserted. "Among writers and critics in art, confusion and disagreement on the fundamental elements in art have hampered progress."

Professor Meier described an ideal jury as one of three members, all representing different viewpoints but none of them extreme.

Chemistry Group Gives Dinner Party

The first dinner party of the year under the auspices of the chemistry department will be held tonight at 7:30 in room 321 of the chemistry building, according to an announcement made by Prof. Frederic T. Mavis of the chemistry department.

Professor Mavis is secretary of Sigma Xi, a national honorary scientific organization.

Preceding the meeting in the chemistry building, a dinner will be served at 6:15 this evening in Iowa Union. Reservations for the dinner may be made at the main desk.

Alpha Delta Pi

A dinner guest of Alpha Delta Pi sorority last night was Mrs. Joseph Kinkade.

Sophomore Cotillion Will Open Party Season Friday

Garrigan Dance Band To Play At Annual Event

Iowa Union will be a colorful center of activity Friday night when students in "silks and satins," and "long tailed coats," dance to the strains of Jimmy Garrigan and his recording radio dance band at the Sophomore Cotillion, the first formal university party of the year.

Decorations will be carried out in a modernistic design. Before a black drop on which columns of cellophane will be arranged, along with unusual lighting effects, the orchestra will play.

Garrigan and his orchestra played for several years in Chicago at the Bismark hotel, and during their engagement there, were heard over WBBM and WIBO, Chicago. For one year the orchestra was featured at the Uptown Village, a north side night club, and during that period of time was heard regularly over WMAQ. It played at the Via Lago cafe for 19 months, broadcasting over WMAQ, WIBO, and the NBC network.

During the last two weeks of the Century of Progress, they played at the Pabst Blue Ribbon Casino. Recently they were featured at the Hotel Schroeder in Milwaukee, and the Fontenelle hotel in Omaha.

Tickets are now on sale at Iowa Union.

Masons Elect Koser to Head Local Group

Lee D. Koser has been elected excellent high priest of the Iowa City chapter, number two Royal Arch Masons.

Warren Norris was elected king; Clinton H. Smoke, scribe; Roy T. Lee, secretary; and Carl S. Kringle, treasurer.

Installation will be Jan. 1. Appointive officers will be announced later.

Y.W.C.A. Poetry Group To Meet

Members of the poetry appreciation group of the Y.W.C.A. will meet tonight at 7:30 at the home of Mrs. J. J. Runner, 205 Hutchinson avenue.

Triangle

Ivan Elmer Peterson of Laurens is visiting at the Triangle chapter house.

Milford A. Bergsten of Mediapolis, a graduate of 1930, has recently accepted a position with John Deere Implement company in Iowa City.

PERSONALS

Dr. and Mrs. Carl Stutsman, and daughter, Elizabeth, of Burlington, spent the week end with Mr. and Mrs. Walter M. Davis, 909 E. Burlington street.

Herbert Hauge, Des Moines attorney, spent Monday with Mr. and Mrs. Walter M. Davis, 909 E. Burlington street.

Woman's Club To Meet Tomorrow

Members of the Iowa Woman's club will answer roll call with suggestions for Christmas gifts at the regular meeting of the club at the Hawk's Nest cafe at 2:30 p.m. tomorrow.

Mrs. Ed X. Boyles is chairman of the committee in charge. Assistant hostesses will be Mrs. J. J. Zeithamel, Mrs. G. L. Lewis, and Mrs. Charles E. Nicholson.

Pi Kappa Alpha

Pi Kappa Alpha fraternity announces the pledging of David Evans, A1 of North English, and Louis E. Whitcomb, A1 of Vinton.

After Prohibition—?

"AS THOUSANDS cheered," prohibition passed out of the contemporary American scene last night. Or at least it did in 23 states. For out of the 48 states, less than half were prepared for the coming of the new era of liquor.

It is useless to repeat the dangers that lie in unpreparedness. The coming of a super-bootlegger, and the loss of revenue which might be derived from taxation are only two of the dangers which dry states in a wet era must face.

It should suffice to point out the folly of remaining without legal means of controlling the liquor traffic, when states on all sides are fairly flowing with liquor today. It is in this predicament that Iowa finds herself now, and it is from this predicament that she must extricate herself in the very near future.

A month ago it seemed that Iowa would be among the first states to pass new liquor sales laws. A plan was drawn up providing for a liquor control commission and state liquor stores to be the sole retail dispensaries of legal booze.

Since that time various objections to the scheme presented by the governor's commission have been advanced and substitutes offered for many of its provisions. Some of these objections have been valid ones and deserve careful consideration.

The most potent argument against the entrance of the state into the liquor business is the very great danger of political corruption in the matter of appointments to local jobs and the granting of licenses on the basis of party patronage.

On the other hand, it would be disastrous to allow private interests to exploit the liquor appetites of the people unless some practical means can be found to curb profits in such a way that the incentive to expand liquor consumption would be eliminated. Otherwise, it would be ridiculous for the state to spend money promoting temperance.

Unless some effective system can be devised to discourage rather than encourage large sales, state monopoly with its attendant dangers is the only reasonable alternative.

It so happens that a scheme that will do this very thing has been suggested. The commission would be given authority under this plan to fix profits to be derived from the sale of liquor, the percentage of such profits to be so fixed as to diminish in inverse ratio to the amount of gross sales. In other words, the more liquor a dealer sold, the smaller would be his profits. The commission also would have power to prohibit liquor advertising, so that the state would not find itself in the senseless predicament of competing in its temperance promotion with adverse propaganda on the part of liquor interests.

Some program such as this would seem to solve the problems connected with the private liquor business, while at the same time retaining in the commission complete control over abuses, checking private greed, and removing much of the danger of political graft.

It is imperative that Iowa lose no time in setting up a system of liquor control, but it is even more imperative that the system when it is adopted be the best that can be devised, whether it resembles any other plan or not.

After Years of Training

THERE IS something bitterly ironic about the cast and the directorial staff of the "Sing Sing Revue," which is being presented at the eastern prison this week by the inmates.

It is only fitting that the director should be Bernard Marcus, who once directed wisely but not too well the affairs of the Bank of the United States. Bankers' training evidently fits men well for the directors' positions, for another banker, John Reynolds, is casting director.

Particularly ironic is the role of Martin Bayless, a former hold-up man, who once frightened a stenographer so that she stepped backward into an elevator shaft and was killed. Bayless plays the part of a judge in a police court skit.

The orchestra contains a choice selection. The pianist is none other than Alexander Whinman, who was once a special deputy attorney general. In this capacity he got a chance at some of the easy money flowing from the Bank of the United States—and he was graduated to the orchestra.

His companion slaves to the muse of music and the state of New York are Martin Loonan, who worked a confidence game once too often, and Roy Miller, who killed a woman in Syracuse.

Perhaps, as the Bard of Avon suggested, the "world's a stage, and all the men and women in it merely players; they have their exits and their entrances. One man in his time plays many parts, his acts being seven ages." And perhaps it doesn't make a great deal of difference which part a man plays—his life is just a training for the stage.

GOOD MORNING

President Roosevelt said in his campaign speeches last fall that America has no more frontiers and that our problem now is to settle down to a consolidation of our gains. In a broad sense, and for the purposes of his argument, that is true. But there still are frontiers within frontiers which promise new fortune and new enterprise and might possibly plan an important part in revitalizing palsied industry.

Especially noteworthy in this connection are new developments in transportation which promise, through the momentum of competition, to set the wheels of several important industries in unaccustomed motion.

---

The most immediate prospect for such a renaissance can be seen in the belated development of extremely fast, light, economical rolling stock by two middle western railroads, the Burlington and the Union Pacific.

---

When the announcement was made several months ago that the Burlington already had under construction a new three car deisel-electric all aluminum streamlined train capable of an average of better than 90 miles and a top speed of more than 100 miles per hour, and that the Union Pacific had placed an order for similar equipment, few persons grasped the significance of this sudden display of progressiveness.

This development should have come in America many years ago, and could have easily enough if railroad men had been alert to their competition and their opportunities. And of course the consequent growing pains would have been less painful in the days of comparative prosperity than today when revenues must strain themselves seriously to cover fixed costs.

---

But the change is coming now, apparently, even if it means financial hemmorhage in many cases. For now that the Burlington and the Union Pacific have taken the lead, other railroads must follow or take their toys and go home.

---

For instance:

The new trains of the Burlington and the Union Pacific are expected to enter service soon after the first of the year, and a second Union Pacific train is under construction for service between Chicago and Los Angeles. The Santa Fe, competing for the same through traffic from Chicago to southern California, will perforce fall in line.

---

To protect its business on the Pacific coast, the Southern Pacific probably would follow with fast, light service from San Francisco to New Orleans. The Rock Island and the Rio Grande-Western Pacific would be forced to put on some of the new trains to save its business from Denver to the coast and along the Pacific. And the Great Northern, Northern Pacific, and Milwaukee roads would be forced to do the same to compete with the Union Pacific in the northwest.

---

The process would gather momentum like the proverbial snowball (the one going down hill). It is all as simple as can be. American travellers are very, very tired of the slow, dirty, cumbersome, plush covered blunderbusses in which they have been forced to ride. Modern trains are rather romantic and the engines roaring in the night look exciting and all that, but 40 miles an hour is a pretty slow average today and under the plush of the conventional train cushion there is a surprisingly small amount of comfort.

And modern dining cars are in the same class. America never did feel quite at home in the stiff-backed luxury of expensive dining cars, anyway. The new dining cars are to be sensible, light meal affairs where the food will be comparatively cheap and the service pleasantly simple.

---

What all this might mean to American business is the important consideration. Fifty thousand passenger cars costing about $30,000 apiece and representing a total investment of $1,500,000,000, are operated by America's railroads. In addition there are 4,000 dining cars costing a total of about $200,000,000 and several hundred locomotives at $60,000 apiece, besides a motley array of steel baggage cars, mail cars and sleeping cars which will be outmoded by the new equipment. Unless the new trains surprise the experts and prove impractical in actual use, all this will eventually be doomed.

---

That means replacement, which means prosperity in the equipment and allied industries. It also means practically no decrease in train labor, because, while firemen would be eliminated, the number of trains would be greatly increased, necessitating more train crews than there are today. And it means, in addition, lower fares, if engineering predictions prove accurate.

---

These are exciting conjectures. And it is when one considers the inevitability of such advances as these that the future loses much of its drab sullenness and becomes brightly promising.

—Don Pryor

BEHIND THE SCENES — IN HOLLYWOOD —

STUDIO GOSSIP — SCREEN COMMENT

HOLLYWOOD—The rules of love in America astonish Francis Lederer, Czecho-Slovakian matinee idol, whose heart interest, they'll tell you, is still Stefanie Duna, the Hungarian actress who played with him in his first RKO picture, "A Man of Two Words."

Like Will Rogers, Lederer admits that all he knows is what he reads in the papers and sees in American films but he can't understand breach of promise suits, heart balm actions and the flimsy divorce grounds upon which alimony is granted.

"Heart balm and breach of promise suits particularly amaze me," he says. "I had never heard of them before. How can anyone be compensated for lost love by money, or look upon love or marriage in terms of a living?"

The star thinks that American women are tremendously attractive, but believes they should learn that the basic quality of love is unselfishness.

"And I do not think it is unchivalrous to feel that love should be placed on a strictly idealistic basis," he insists. "It is only on such a foundation that it can be real."

Mr. Lederer is strong-minded about other things than love. RKO still hasn't recovered from his insisting upon shavng off his eyebrows and playing an eskimo in his first Hollywood picture.

W. C. Fields insists that all he is doing in "Six of a Kind" is to play straight to radio comedians Burns and Allen.

"That script is so bad!" exclaims Fields, "that, when Director Leo McCarey was holding it in his hand on the street the other day, a dog came up, looked at it and bit him."

It was a bad 10 days, but Dr. H. J. Strathearn now assures Paramount that Baby Leroy has safely passed through the whooping cough threat. The studio breathes a $29,000 sigh of relief and slows down a bit in its rush to finish "Miss Fane's Baby Is Stolen" before the infant star gave his first bark.

If anyone else had done it, Hollywood would have said grandstand play. But, coming from Sir Guy Standing, the remark created a moment of drama even for hard-boiled studio technicians.

They were preparing to film a scene in "Death Takes a Holiday," where the British actor and former sailor was called on to wear a number of war medals.

The property department brought them, all authentic decorations.

Sir Guy took them in his hand, looked at them for a moment, then quietly said:

"I can't do it. These medals probably were earned by men who became hungry and had to sell them."

The distinguished actor, who was a British naval commander at the battle of Jutland, sent home for some of his own decorations and went through the scene.

General Notices

To all students now registered in the University of Iowa who expect to enter either our own college of medicine, or any other medical school in the United States or Canada, for the freshman year's work in the fall of 1934:

Last year, under the auspices of the Association of American Medical colleges, the medical aptitude test was taken by 9,131 students of 546 colleges applying for admission to approximately 90 per cent of the approved medical schools of the United States. This test is required of all applicants for admission to the college of medicine of the University of Iowa, by virtue of its institutional membership in the Association of American Medical colleges (see the university catalogue for the current year).

The medical aptitude test for University of Iowa applicants for admission to any school belonging to the American Medical association, for the year 1934-35, will be given promptly at 3 p.m. Wednesday, Dec. 6, in chemistry auditorium.

Each such prospective applicant is notified to call at the office of the university treasurer within ample time preceding the day of the test in order to pay the prescribed fee of $1 which goes to the Association of American Medical colleges for the expenses of the test.

The treasurers office will issue to each student who thus pays this fee a card certifying that the fee has been paid, to be presented at the time of the test.

To all students who expect to graduate at the close of the present semester, on Jan. 30, 1934:

Each student who expects to receive a degree or certificate at the university convocation Jan. 30, 1934, must make formal application on a card provided for the purpose in the registrar's office, in university hall, on or before Saturday, Dec. 9, 1933.

It is of the utmost importance that each student concerned comply with this request, for otherwise, though qualified in other respects, it is very likely that he will not be recommended for graduation this semester.

Making application for the degree or certificate involves payment of the graduate fee at the time of the application, the payment of this fee being a necessary part of the application.

Call first at the registrar's office for the application card.

Works of Art To Be Shown

Exhibit Is of Paintings, Drawings, Sculpturings, By Stinsons

About 13 pieces of sculpture and 30 drawings and water color paintings by Harry E. Stinson, associate in graphic and plastic arts, and Mrs. Stinson, will be placed on exhibition Sunday afternoon at the Davenport Municipal gallery.

Seven pieces of Mr. Stinson's sculpturing which have been on exhibition during November at the Little gallery in Cedar Rapids will be included in the Davenport display. A figure of a discus thrower and a statuette of a hammer-thrower will also be shown.

Drawings by Mr. Stinson to be placed on display include; three European sketches; three Indian sketches made at an annual "powwow" at Tama; two studies of an athletic figure; and several sketches of nude figures for modeling.

In the group of water colorings by Mrs. Stinson are: a street scene at Monticello; "Golden Pheasant Dance Hall," which forms the nucleus of Lindy, Neb., 5 year old village; a Nebraska landscape; "Suburban Monday," a scene south of the railroad tracks in Iowa City; and several Stone City scenes.

Mrs. Stinson, formerly Ruth Eby, was on the instructional staff at the Stone City art colony two summers.

A reception will be given by the Davenport Municipal gallery Sunday afternoon. The exhibition will continue during December.

Travis, Horn Will Attend Meeting Of Education Society

Prof. Lee E. Travis of the speech and psychology departments and Prof. Ernest Horn of the college of education will attend a meeting of the National Education society to be held tomorrow and Friday at Columbus, Ohio.

The purpose of this meeting is to discuss material pertaining to the 1935 edition of the yearbook, "Educational Diagnosis." Professor Travis has contributed two chapters to this publication, "Speech defects" and "Mental defects."

Professor Tyler and Professor Whipple of Ohio State university, Professor Olson of the University of Michigan and rofessor Rankin of the University of Detroit will also be present at this session.

Professor Hixon To Address American Chemical Society

Prof. R. M. Hixon of Iowa State college will address the December meeting of the Iowa section of the American Chemical society on "Electron sharing ability of organic radicals" in chemistry auditorium tomorrow at 7:30 p.m. This talk will be preceded by a dinner which is being given in honor of the group at the Alpha Chi Sigma house.

The chief work of Professor Hixon has been in the organic chemistry of compounds found in plant tissues. He has written several articles concerning the commercial production of levulose. Some of his publications are: "Pyrrole and pyrrolidine," "Measurements with sodium and potassium amalgam electrodes," and "Catalytic reduction of nicotine and meta nicotine."

Prof. Shambaugh To Talk on Series Of Frosh Lectures

Prof. Benj. F. Shambaugh, head of the political science department, will be the last speaker to appear on a series of freshman vocational forum lectures which have been presented this year under the auspices of the Y.M.C.A.

"A liberal and cultural education" is the subject which Professor Shambaugh will discuss tonight at 7:30 in the river room of Iowa Union.

The vocational forum is open to all men in the freshman class.

Patton Will Speak At Law Luncheon

A Law Review luncheon will be given Tuesday, 12:05 p.m., at Youde's inn.

Prof. O. K. Patton of the college of law will take part in a discussion involving problems of jurisdiction under the general doctrines of the conflict of laws and under the American doctrines of constitutional laws. F. Arnold Daum, L3 of Buffalo Center, and other individual members of the Law Review editorial board will speak.

Greene to Make Two Radio Talks

The first of a series of two radio addresses to be given by Prof. Harry A. Greene of the college of education was presented last night over WSUI. The title of his lecture was, "Determining objectives." The program is called "Education in a changing world."

Professor Greene will appear again next Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. on the regular weekly broadcast given under the auspices of the college of education.

Freshman Debaters To Contest Newton High School Squad

Phil Allen, A1 of Onawa, and Walter McGregor, A1 of Des Moines, members of the freshman debate squad, will debate Newton high school here tomorrow, Prof. A. Craig Baird, director of university debate, announced yesterday.

The debate will be held at 10 a.m. in liberal arts auditorium. Iowa will uphold the affirmative side of the question, "Resolved, that the United States should adopt the essential features of the British system of radio operation and control."

The Newton team will be headed by Everett Lyon who last year won first honors in the state extemporaneous contest.

Eight Debate Winners Will Meet Tonight

The semi-final round of the second annual all-campus debate tournament will be held at 8 o'clock this evening. Contestants will meet in room 14, liberal arts building, for room assignments.

From an original field of 13 teams, all but four have been eliminated by three previous rounds. All entrants were permitted to debate twice, and half of the eight surviving were eliminated Monday night.

Pairings as announced for tonight by Wallace Ashby, A3 of Oelwein, tournament director, are: Donald Beneke, A1 of Laurens, and Arthur Sternberg, L2 of Woodbine vs. John Zoeckler, A1 of Davenport and Robert Griffith, A1 of Oelwein. In the lower bracket, Phil Allen, A1 of Onawa, and Robert Ross, A1 of Shenandoah, will meet Harriett Off, A1 of North English, and William Shepherd, A1 of Ottumwa. The first named teams will defend the affirmative.

The final round will be held next Tuesday in room 14, liberal arts building, and will be broadcast over WSUI, Mr. Ashby said. Faculty members will serve as judges.

Sydney Spayde Will Read Two Plays At Iowa Union Sunday

In the third of the current series of readings under the auspices of the speech and dramatic art department, Sydney Spayde, G of Rapid City, S. D., will use two plays by Kenneth Sawyer Goodman. The reading is scheduled for 4 p.m. Sunday, and will be given in the main lounge of Iowa Union.

These plays, "Dust of the Road" and "Ephriam and the Winged Bear," personify the fullness of the Christmas spirit.

Mr. Spayde, in addition to holding the position of director of the dramatic art department of Yankton college for the last four years, has directed the Little Theater of the Hills at Hisega, S. D., for the last two summers.

He played the part of Sneden in the University theater's presentation of Maxwell Anderson's "Both Your Houses" last month.

These readings are under the direction of Eugene Bahn of the speech and dramatic art department.

Dr. Fenton Speaks To Dental Society

Dr. R. A. Fenton of the college of dentistry spoke before a meeting of the Des Moines District Dental society at Des Moines, Monday.

OF FINE TURKISH TOBACCOS

—why Luckies taste better, smoother

On certain mountains in the Near East is a limited collar of earth—called in Turkish, "Yacca." Tobaccos grown there cost as high as $1.00 a pound. Carefully they are examined, leaf by leaf. Often it takes a man a whole day to select two pounds of certain of these fine tobaccos. Lucky Strike is the world's biggest user of fine Turkish tobaccos. For these tender, delicate Turkish leaves are blended with choice tobaccos from our own Southland—to make your Lucky Strike a cigarette that is fully packed—round and firm—free from loose ends. That's why Luckies taste better, smoother.

St. Mary's Trips Immaculate Conception of Cedar Rapids, 24 to 9

Impregnable Defense Too Much for I.C.

Consamus Leads Mates; Losers Get Only 2 Field Goals

By IRVING KAHAN
(Daily Iowan Sports Writer)

CEDAR RAPIDS, Dec. 5—Presenting an impregnable defense that kept its opponents in back court all evening, the powerful St. Mary's quintet rode impressively over a veteran Immaculate Conception five in a ruthless second half offensive to register its second consecutive victory of the season by a 24 to 9 score here tonight.

Consamus Authors Rout

Entering the third quarter with a slim 4 to 5 margin, for which Consamus, lanky centerman, was in a great measure responsible, the Ramblers drove unchecked through the Immaculate Conception defense to continue undefeated in their short but brilliant campaign of the current season. Consamus, who had controlled the tap and played sensationally during the first half, rose to even greater heights as he tallied three consecutive baskets at the opening of the third quarter to send the Cedar Rapids outfit reeling to defeat. Following suit, the basket-hungry Boeppelmen rained a torrent of goals in that hectic third period to sew up the contest and serve notice of their formidability to future opponents.

Get Only Two Baskets

It was truly a great Rambler team that sent the Greyhounds down in their opening contest of the year. And the Iowa Citians had to be good, for Immaculate Conception showed both power and deception. However, it was the impenetrable defense of St. Mary's that spelled doom for the home team. So effective was the guarding of the victors that the Greyhounds were able to throw up but four shots during the entire first half, and were held scoreless from the field in the final lapse of periods. And the Ramblers had to be airtight in their guarding, for Immaculate Conception showed excellent shooting form, tallying twice from the field on the four tries which the Blue quintet allowed them.

While the Boeppelmen held possession of the ball for the greater portion of the first half, the home team managed to hang grimly to the tail of the Iowa City quintet, as O'Meara retaliated to the scoring thrusts of Consamus, Maher and Bradley to trail by a scant field goal when activities came to a temporary halt at the close of the second quarter.

Came the Deluge

However, the last half was a complete rout. Whereas the Ramblers seemed to be retarded by the nervous tension which the highly excited crowd seemed to transmit to the players in the first half, it was a greatly changed group of St. Mary's dribblers that took the floor in the second half. The Blue quintet, somewhat steadied by Coach Boeppel's half-time talk, and fortified by a switch in method of attack, swept through the demoralized ranks of the home five as Consamus resumed his sensational scoring which netted him 12 points. But in this half, his teammates augmented the follow-up goals of the Rambler center as Maher, Bradley, Dolger, and Lumsden found the range to finally draw away from their opponents.

Fail on Free Throws

While the performance of the Ramblers on the whole was far above reproach, it was noticeable that the shooting of the Iowa Citians was a bit off color, especially in the free throw department where the Blue dribblers failed to convert a single try. The Immaculate Conception team, on the other hand, showed up quite well, in the few scoring opportunities that were presented to them and showed great accuracy from the foul line, a fact which kept the game fairly close during the first half of the tilt.

Lou Little's Columbia Lions Gird for Rose Bowl as Fortune Smiles

In the PRESS BOX with H. G. B.

HERE is a halfback any coach would like to have. You can talk about the yardage amassed by Purvis and Crayne but this lad doesn't have to bow to anyone. Hal Huffman, Iowa Wesleyan's halfback sprinter, averaged 10.14 yards every time he carried the ball during the season just closed. The Tiger speedster ran up a total of 781 yards from scrimmage in seven games, including one 70 yard sprint for a touchdown against Upper Iowa. He carried the ball 77 times. Although he weighs 158 pounds, Huffman can run 100 yards in 9.7 seconds.

Tonight is the night all Iowa pauses to look toward Iowa City and wonder who the lettermen will be and who these same award men will elect to captain the 1934 football team. The annual dinner tendered by President and Mrs. Walter A. Jessup is held tonight and somewhere around the hour of seven the letter winners are announced and the honored men then leave the room and vote for the new leader. Whoever it may be, one thing can be certain right now. His lot will be a far rosier one than that which faced Tom Moore a year ago when his mates made him leader of the '33 team. Good luck to you, captain of Iowa's rising football hopes!

THE disappointment over the selection of Columbia as Stanford's opponent in the Rose Bowl game has undergone a bit of a change during the day. Although it is true that the Lions have not played the high class of competition generally needed to gain national honors, one cannot help but give them credit when it is learned that they held their last three opponents to an average of less than three first downs per game. It is a great tribute to Coach Lou Little for he IS the Columbia team. In the last three years, the Columbia freshmen have won but one game and in the last two years not a single victory have they chalked up. Yet from this material Little has welded a team that ranks as the greatest in the history of the school.

An interesting story is told concerning the quick thinking of Capt. Cliff Montgomery, Lion quarterback. It was near the end of the half in an early season game and the opposing punter had just dropped one near the sidelines where an enemy end downed it in front of Montgomery. Walking up to the opposing wingman he said, "Nice play, old man. Just let me have the ball and I'll carry it out to the ten yard mark." The end, not a little flattered by such attention and knowing that a dead ball must always be carried out ten yards from the sidelines, handed it right over. Just at that moment, however, the referee's whistle blew and forstalled Montgomery's chance to put over a touchdown and gain credit for one of football's thinking masterpieces.

A REAL series of meeting for coaches is looming up in the near future. Friday and Saturday Big Ten heads will meet in Chicago to discuss budgets, and arrange minor sport schedules as well as do a bit toward improving the 1935 and 1934 football schedules. The track coaches, ticket managers, and publicity directors will also meet. Gym, tennis, swimming and baseball mentors will meet Saturday as will the basketball heads Sunday. Two other big meetings later in the month will occupy grid mentors. The Football Coaches Association meets Dec. 26-27 while the National Collegiate Athletic association meets a day later. Add to this a dozen or more meetings of minor athletic conferences and the coaches can look forward to a busy "holiday."

Annual Triathalon Held This Afternoon

The triathalon, held annually, will take place this afternoon on Iowa field at 3 o'clock. This event which consists of the shot put, discus, and the 25 pound weight was begun four years ago and has proven popular among the weight men of the track team.

Medals will be given to the first three men on both the varsity and freshman teams.

Marathon Champ

Robert Rankine of Preston, Ont., pictured as he crossed the finish line to win the annual 9-mile marathon at Berwick, Pa., from a field composed of the cream of international runners. Juan Zabala of Argentina, Olympic champion, dropped out of the race after starting against doctor's orders.

Huff and Puff Entries Swell

Annual Wrestling Meet Draws Large Group for Workouts

Entries to the annual University wrestling championships to be held Dec. 14, 15, and 16 swelled to 29 yesterday as an increased flurry of interest in the title affair was manifested by Mike Howard's proteges.

The group that has signed up for the tourney numbers among its members veterans, major letter winners, freshmen experts, and promising novices. All the men according to Coach Howard are, however, characterized by a common trait, lack of condition.

In response to the Iowa coach's efforts to whip them into shape in the short period of time available before the meet, almost all the men reported out yesterday and every square foot of canvas was in use throughout the afternoon.

Only two men who won titles last year have signed up to defend their laurels in the current tournament. They are Capt. John O'Leary in the 175 pound class, and Bob Larson in the 135 pound class. As a freshman last season Larson won everything in sight, easily beating all varsity opposition. This year he will contend for the 145 pound berth, however, as he is uninclined to sweat off some accumulated weight.

In other years competition between varsity and freshmen has been fairly keen. This season, however, the freshmen only threaten in two divisions and are then not conceded favorites. Bill Coppin at 118 pounds is the yearling to stand an even chance against Tom Monroe of the varsity while Dick Mulroney of the frosh is given a portion of the odds in the 126 pound class against Rollo Parmentor.

Major letter winners who have entered the tourney and who are favored to win are: Rollo Parmentor, Clarence Johnson, Pat Righter, and Captain O'Leary.

Coach Howard expects the number of entries to increase considerably before the dead-line Dec. 13. He offers as prizes gold and silver medals to winners and runners-up.

The list of entries follows:

118 pound—Bill Coppin, Tom Monroe, R. F. Millen.

126 pounds—Don Ferguson, Everett Hogan, Rollo Parmentor, Monte Edwards, and Dick Mulroney.

135 pounds—Kermit Buntrock, Art Johnston, H. C. Houghton, Les Sanger, and Maurice Herrick.

145 pounds—P. Burgund, Bob Larson, and Loren Heller.

155 pounds—Bob Venn, Clarence "Swede" Johnson, Don San Giovanni and Ken Wagner.

165 pounds—Pat Righter, and Earle Keilhoune.

175 pounds — Captain O'Leary, Frank Larson, and Allen Diddy.

Heavyweight—Jerry Rueber, Max Tuinstra, Woody Beard, and Elroy Maule.

Williams Gives Hawkeyes Stiff Defensive Scrimmage

Iowa Holds Big Victory Edge Over Cyclones, Winning 17 of 20

Once more the defensive laxity of the team, evidenced by those 11 baskets scored by the James Millikin five, came in for the major portion of the attention as Coach Rollie Williams sent his cagers through a two hour scrimmage session.

Throughout the greater part of the workout he kept the varsity on the defense against two sets of reserves. Johnny Barko, Howard Moffitt, Fred Schwartz and Ivan Blackmer held down the forward posts with Blackmer falling back and trading off with Howard Bastian at the center job. Ben Selzer, Johnny Grim, Ken Fuller and Al Bobby took care of the guard positions through most of the workout.

Big Victory Edge

Basketball between the University of Iowa and Iowa State, a novelty to the present generation, once was a semi-annual occurance and the Hawkeyes shot to victory with almost monotonous regularity.

Now the 1933-34 teams are preparing for the game in the field house next Monday night, the twenty-first since the series began in 1910 but the first since 1921.

After winning the first 11 games, the university now has a total of 17 triumphs and has averaged 22.6 points per game to the Cyclones' 16.6. Two of Iowa State's three wins were scored in 1921.

Defenses apparently were tighter 15 or 20 years ago, for such scores as 21-13, 20-16, 23-18 and 15-13 dot the series record. The most decisive victory for the university was the 26-9 game in 1916; Iowa State's was 24-12 a year late.

Besides Barko's return to the squad, further strength has been added with the return of Sid Rosenthal, speedy little forward who has been out for two weeks with a cracked wrist bone, and the reporting of Dwight Hoover. Hoover, a rugged defensive man, turned out Monday but has not as yet whipped himself into shape for competition with the varsity. Rosenthal will probably not partake of active work for some time, since he still must wear a brace on his left wrist and use that arm sparingly. Working only enough to keep in shape, he will be ready for use after Christmas.

Irish Cagers Face Opener

In an effort to give the St. Pat's high squad plenty of experience before their first game next Friday night when they tangle with St. Mathias of Muscatine on the home floor, Coach Connor last night sent them through a stiff scrimmage.

After running the squad through some new plays Coach Connor scrimmaged them against a quintet from Oakdale. Despite the fact that they are for the most part inexperienced the Irish squad is speedily developing into a powerful little aggregation both on offense and defense. What the squad lacks in heighth they have made up for by speed, with the elongated Emanuel carrying the brunt of the attack.

Baseball Candidates Take Early Workout in Batting, Pitching

About 25 baseball candidates worked out Tuesday evening in the fieldhouse under the direction of Homer Musgrove, assistant coach. The men took turns batting in the two cages with the pitchers taking turns at throwing to them.

The pitchers were: Landrum, Smith, Reese, Glaspey, and Engelhart, with Murtha and Becker receiving.

None of the men now working out have had any varsity experience at Iowa. The practice is optional with the men until sometime in February, when the varsity and freshman squads will be organized with all varsity men reporting.

Duggan New Student Rifle Club Leader

12 Iowa Riflemen Meet 14th Cavalry at Des Moines Saturday

Dr. Claude S. Duggan, a graduate student in dentistry, has been appointed president of the Student Rifle club, it was announced yesterday by Lieut. Col. Converse R. Lewis, head of the military department. He is an expert marksman and practices daily at the small bore gallery.

Duggan will work with Capt. Earl F. Paynter, director of marksmanship for the military department, in carrying out the activities of the club. Loyal S. Fairall, A4 of Humeston, is secretary-treasurer of the organization.

The purpose of the club is to furnish shooters for the varsity and R.O.T.C. teams. Regular practice is held on Tuesday and Thursday evenings on the small bore gallery of the armory.

Twelve Iowa riflemen will travel to Ft. Des Moines Saturday, Dec. 16 to fire two shoulder-to-shoulder matches with the 14th cavalry which is stationed at that post. Capt. Earl F. Paynter, coach of the rifle teams, will select two teams of five men each and two alternates to make the trip.

Men will be selected for the trip on the basis of previous scores fired and attendance at practice.

This is the first shoulder-to-shoulder contest of the season and will aid in preparing the men for the intercollegiate schedule which opens in January.

Sig Alphs Nose Out Phi Kappa Sigma, 21 to 20

Sigma Alpha Epsilon nosed out Phi Kappa Sigma, 21 to 20, in a hard, fast game played last night in the interfraternity freshman basketball league. Phi Delta Theta, a favorite in its section of the league breezed to an easy 32 to 17 victory over Phi Beta Delta, while the Sigma Pi quintet was suffering its first defeat at the hands of Sigma Nu by a score of 21 to 14.

Scores of the other games played:

Phi Kappa Psi 28; Theta Xi 12.

Alpha Tau Omega 20; Phi Epsilon Pi 6.

Delta Tau Delta 30; Delta Upsilon 20.

Phi Gamma Delta forfeited to Beta Theta Pi.

Three younger brothers of Jack Manders, famous Minnesota and now Chicago Bears fullback, are mainstays of the Milbank, S. Dak., high school team, which is bidding for a state championship.

The girl champion, now staying with friends in Boston, turned the letters over to federal authorities.

Oxford Drills Little Hawks

Work on Zone Defense and Fast Breaking Offense

The Little Hawk cagers received thorough drilling against a zone defense and fast breaking offense as they raced through a regulation practice game against Oxford high at the City high gym yesterday afternoon.

This was another of Coach George Wells' moves to have his men going at top speed when they play their first Mississippi Valley league battle against Grant high of Cedar Rapids here Friday night.

The Red and White played raggedly throughout most of the session, passing wildly and making many slips on defense. However they continued to show power and frequently drove through for baskets on this factor alone.

Fred Ballard was at center, Roscoe Ayers and Paul Mutchler were at the forwards and Richard Ash and Dale Williams at the guards on the starting lineup. Later in the game, the Little Hawk mentor shifted Ash temporarily back to center, Ballard to forward, and Ayers back to guard. Jake Snider, Dale Marshall, Alan Snyder, and John Steinmetz were other players who saw action.

In contrast with their ragged passing, the Wellsmen were hitting the loop consistently on their shots.

Biggest and Best Tackle Now Eligible

Return of Richavich To Bolster Team With Few Reserves

By EDWARD J. NEIL
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Dec. 5 (AP)—Now that good news has found Columbia's address on Morningside Heights, fortune has become a daily caller.

Hard on the heels of acceptance of Stanford's invitation to the Lion football team to compete New Year's day in the Rose Bowl at Pasadena, came word today that Joe Richavich, the biggest and one of the best of Columbia's tackles, has passed his midyear examinations and will be eligible to accompany the team west Dec. 19.

With reserves the biggest problem of Coach Lou Little, Richavich's return to eligibility filled Columbia's cup, already brimming at receipt of the first Rose Bowl invitation ever accorded a New York team, to overflowing. The 200 pound junior, an outstanding star as a sophomore last year, failed in his final examinations and was not permitted to play last fall.

Plenty of Tackles

His return gives Little five fine tackles in Joe Ferrera, captain-elect and regular left tackle, Paul Jackel, developed after Columbia's lone defeat by Princeton, Ed King, Joe Palenchae and now Richavich.

At the guards are a sturdy quartet in Larry Pinckney and Steve Dzamba, the regulars, and Al Davis and Jack Migliore, with two centers available in Al Ciamps and Newt Wilder, the latter the placement kicking counterpart of Bill Corbus, Stanford's All-America guard.

Only on the ends, where Tony Matal is a standout and Owen McDowell his wing mate, does Columbia lack suitable reinforcements.

The Lion squad, which broke training after the final victory over Syracuse 10 days ago, will report for practice again tomorrow afternoon.

"Everything We Need"

"We've got about everything we need, I guess," Little said today. "We'll just start the boys going again and try to get them back to the top."

The Lions run their offense from a combination of the Warner and Rockne systems, using a single wing back at times from a sort of oblong box formation. They come out of a huddle, a natty outfit in light blue with white certical stripes and white shoulder strips, and often run from full kick formation, with Cliff Montgomery, the dazzling triple threat captain and quarterback, back in the ball handling post.

Little's offensive is noted for its versatility and the deftness with which Montgomery mixes up his attack. Spinners, reverses, double and triple laterals all spring out of the same formations. When Al Barabas, 190 pound sophomore back is carrying the ball, the team specializes in quick opening playz. Barabas is considered the fastest back in the east getting up to the line of scrimmage.

While some fear is felt in quarters in the east for the teams' physical safety against the big Stanford squad, Columbia followers are not worrying. A master of defense, called in at times by professional teams as a consultant when opponents have sprung something new, Little seldom has been beaten by large scores.

His lines charge with great speed, love to tangle with big fellows, and do a lot of cross blocking. It's a stylish looking outfit in action. The professional players, who have seen everything from Nebraska east, say Columbia is the best coached team of the year.

George Coles, a tackle, is the strong man of the Virginia football squad. He is captain of the track team and puts the 16-pound shot 50 feet.

Boston Braves, Billy Herman, Wilson Set Fielding Marks

Cub Second Baseman Handles 466 Put Outs in 1933

NEW YORK, Dec. 5 (AP)—A new club fielding record for the Boston Braves and individual marks by Billy Herman, Chicago Cubs' second baseman, and Jimmy Wilson, St. Louis backstop recently traded to the Phillies, featured the National league's defensive performances for 1933, according to the official averages just released.

The Braves added two percentage points to their own previous league record, made in 1932 by finishing with a fielding mark of .978. The Cardinals, Giants, Cubs and Pirates all were bunched in that order, separated altogether only by a half point in the percentage column.

Hughie Critz of the Giants beat out Frankie Frisch, manager of the Cardinals, for second base fielding leadership by the thinnest kind of a margin—.98167 to .98165—but Herman took the record breaking honors for keystone workers. The Cub star with 466 putouts broke a National league mark that has stood since 1912 when Bill Sweeney of Boston collected 459 putouts. Herman also established a league record with 11 putouts in one game.

Wilson, with 18 putouts behind the bat on July 30 against the Cubs, surpassed the record of 17 set by John Deberry of Brooklyn in 1928. This was the game in which Dizzy Dean whiffed 17 Cubs for a new major league strikeout record.

Based on the official figures for regulars, an all star National league fielding team would line up as follows:

First base—Charlie Grimm, Chicago, .996
Second base—Hugh Critz, New York, .981
Shortstop—Leo Durocher, St. Louis, .960
Third base—Elwood English, Chicago, .973
Right field—Harry Rice, Cincinnati, .991
Center field—George Davis, New York, .988
Catcher—Frank Hogan, Boston, .99?
Pitcher—Lon Warneke, Chicago, 1.90 (most chances).

May Resume Broadcasting

Big Six Will Thresh Out Problems at Annual Meet

KANSAS CITY, Dec. 5 (AP)—The Big Six contemplates reinstatement of football broadcasts, which were banished in the belief they cut attendance, despite the fact at least two new attendance records were established in the conference with the radio absent during the 1933 season.

However, a cross section survey of the conference, representing Nebraska and Kansas State, the two leading teams, and last place Missouri, leaves in doubt as much as ever the reasons why the fans failed to check in their cash at the box offices.

Nebraska's champion Cornhuskers attracted the largest aggregate season crowd ever to jam the stadium at Lincoln, Kansas State played to the largest football audience in its history. Missouri's attendance dropped again to a lower level.

These factors will confront the athletic directors and faculty representatives when they gather in annual session at Excelsior Springs Friday and Saturday to thrash out their problems, particularly broadcasting.

S. Dakota on Badger Card

MADISON, Wis., Dec. 5 (AP)—The South Dakota State football team will meet the University of Wisconsin here Oct. 13, 1934, it was announced tonight by the Badger athletic board.

The agreement virtually completes the Wisconsin schedule for next fall. A game with Marquette university Oct. 6 is still under consideration.

Wisconsin previously scheduled games with Notre Dame, Purdue, Northwestern, Michigan, Illinois and Minnesota.

Record For Oil Burners

LONDON (AP)—Claim for speed records for the flying mile and the flying kilometer with a Diesel-engined automobile is advanced by Capt. George Eyston, British racing motorist. In a stream-lined sedan powered with an oil-burning bus engine, he average 101.9 miles an hour for the flying mile and 104.86 miles an hour for the flying kilometer.

Seeks Divorce

CHICAGO (AP)—Mrs. Lena Levy, sister and manager of King Levinsky, heavyweight boxer, filed suit for divorce from Daniel Levy today. Mrs. Levy charges desertion and asks no alimony. Levy is a sergeant of highway police.

West Coast Leads Nation In Football

Turns in Six Wins in Intersectional Battles

NEW YORK, Dec. 5 (AP)—As the smoke cleared away today from the nation's far flung football fields a recapitulation of the dying season shows the strong men of the far west again the leaders in intersectional warfare.

Meeting the better teams of the mid-west, east and south the westerners won six, tied one and lost only two for a winning percentage of .750, by far the best record of any of the four sections in which the country was divided for the purpose of comparisons.

Second to the far west were the representatives of the great midlands with 23 victories and four ties in 47 games, followed by the east with 27 victories in 56 games. The south trailed with only 10 triumphs in 34 games, the worst record in years.

Splitting the four major sections into smaller divisions, the two largest mid west conferences, the Big Ten and the Big Six go to the front row.

Led by Ohio State, which scored intersectional victories over Virginia, Vanderbilt and Pennsylvania, the Big Ten won eight games, tied one and lost only one, the 6-0 defeat handed Illinois by Army. The Big Six, with Nebraska as the leader, won four, tied three and lost one, the lone defeat being Pittsburgh's 6-0 victory over the Cornhuskers.

Georgia, despite the loss to U.S.C., was the south's leader in intersectional play with victories over New York university and Yale. Other important victories were the 7-0 defeat of Marquette by Mississippi and Tulane's 7-0 win over Colgate at New York.

Although most of its opponents were minor schools, Army showed the best intersectional record in the east with victories over Illinois, Coe, Mercer and Virginia Military Institute. The only defeat was at the hands of Notre Dame in the final game 13-12. Pittsburgh defeated Nebraska and the Fighting Irish but lost to Minnesota 7 to 3.

Veenker Aids State Record

Cyclones Make Better Showing in Last Three Years

AMES, Dec. 5—Though the record of Coach George F. Veenker and his Cyclone football team during the last three years is not sensational, it reveals unmistakable improvement over that of the three years previous.

In his three seasons at the helm of Cyclone football Coach Veenker and his elevens have built up a percentage of .478, representing 11 victories, 12 defeats and 2 ties in games with Big Six and non-conference foes.

During the three years prior to Coach Veenker's debut in Iowa State football, beginning with the organization of the Big Six loop in 1928, the Cyclones won only three games, lost 21 and tied one for a percentage of .125. In this same period Cyclone opponents scored a total of 336 points while the Cyclones were totaling 157 in 25 games. In the last three years, however, Cyclone opponents have found their scores coming harder and have counted 295 points to Iowa State's 250.

Cyclones of the last three years won four out of 14 conference contests while the Cyclones of the preceding three seasons won two out of 15. Outside the conference Coach Veenker's teams have been more successful, winning 7, losing only three and tying one in stiff competition with Iowa, Drake, Detroit, Simpson, Denver, Morningside and Central.

Iowa State elevens of 1928, 1929 and 1930 won only one and lost nine games in non-conference tilts with Illinois, Drake Loyola of the South, Rice, Grinnell and Marquette.

Veenker Football Improvement

Riches Story Irks Zeke

DALLAS, Tex. (AP)—Zeze Bonura, Dallas first baseman sold to the Chicago White Sox, didn't like a story published in a sports magazine which told of his family's reputed wealth. "My folks aren't starving," he said, "but they haven't got millions like that story said. Such tales make it tough for me to get a decent salary in baseball."

MacAlester Beats Simpson Quintet Easily, 30 to 15

ST. PAUL, Dec. 5 (AP)—MacAlester college advanced itself as one of the strong contenders among state conference teams by defeating Simpson college of Indianola, Ia., 30 to 15 in the opening game on the Mac floor here tonight.

MacAlester rolled into an early lead and held the Iowans to only three field goals during the entire game. The Macs had a 17-6 lead at the half.

CHAPTER FIFTY-SEVEN

Then things began to happen so fast — new things — that before Mom knew it everything was over.

The first was the piece in the paper about Tom's job. It looked so natural to see his picture again with his football suit and the hat on, looking out at Mom so brave and kind of fierce-like. Uncle Louie saw it first and came from downtown with the news. He showed it to Tommy and then gave it to Mom. It said that Big Jeff Randolph had been appointed backfield coach at Thorndyke for the next year and his duties would begin in September. It said that Thorndyke was calling him back to help the head coach because the Pilgrim backfield had lacked punch since Tom had left and it was thought he could teach the young fellows how to do things as he had done.

Uncle Louie stayed for supper and when Pop came in from the factory he hurried up to tell him but Pop went right on taking his shoes off; and when he took off his shirt and started to wash, he told Uncle Louie he was four hours late—that the news had been all over the factory all afternoon; and Uncle Louie said the paper had only been out two hours but Pop just looked at him and said:

"And what did I tell you about them not getting along without him?" Then Pop looked at Tom as if to say that he had a tough time with old codgers like Uncle Louie who didn't know anything about football. Then Pop said: "What's it pay?" And Tom said $3,000 a year; and Pop said, "and you don't have to play—just teach 'em?" and Uncle Louie stepped in and said, "sure, can't you read?" but Pop paid no attention to him; he just said, "that's what I call a job."

That was what Mom called a job, too—particularly because he was going to be a coach and didn't have to play anymore; and it was sure funny to see the people around town, the ones who had razzed him and looked down on him and all—they were the very ones who came around shaking his hand and asking him about what kind of a team they were going to have; but Tommy didn't bother much with them, Mom noticed; and it did Mom's heart good to see the ones along the street trying to pretend that they had never said anything against him.

But most of all it did Mom's heart good because it proved that Tommy was great, after all; and now that it was all over she was proud of him for the sensible way he had acted when everybody was down on him. Even after the news was broken he didn't seem excited—he seemed to be studying more than ever about things; and when he got Mom alone one night and she thought he was going to talk about it, she could hardly believe her ears. He was going to stand up for Pete, naturally, and he was asking who was going to be Steve's bridesmaid.

Mom really didn't know; Cousin Emmy had done a lot of talking but Steve hadn't really asked her; but on account of Steve meeting Pete so soon after she came to town and spending most of her spare time with him, Mom didn't know whether she really had any close young girl friend.

"That's what I call a swell job," observed Pop to Tom as Uncle Louie looked on admiringly.

"I figured it might be something like that, Mom; suppose you sound her out as carefully as you can—and if you think she'd really like it, Dorothy will be home by that time."

Mom thought it was sure grand for Tommy to take such an interest and she could see Pete appreciated it, too, and was almost as surprised as Mom—to say nothing of Steve; Mom could see she had been worrying a little, not wanting Cousin Emmy because a young bride wanted a young bridesmaid and not an old scrawny chatterbox who would like as not try to act like they did in the movies and act more important than the bride and ball things up generally. Steve was tickled pink and so Tommy said he'd ask Dot and she wrote right back and said she'd be greatly honored; and she said when she'd be home and just to let her know the date.

That was another thing that was bothering everybody—including the gossips along the street. Of course it had leaked out—trust Cousin Emmy for that, Mom thought—and the first time Mom went to the store after that, the three of them were right after her and although Mrs. Farrell didn't say anything Mom could see she had her ears open to catch anything that was said. So Mom said she didn't know the date yet because that depended some on Dorothy.

"Dorothy who?" Mrs. Johnson said. So Mom said Dorothy Whitney and the three of them almost popped the eyes out of their head.

"Is it gonna be a double wedding?" Mrs. Flannigan asked quickly; but Mom just smiled and said no, nothing like that but it was natural Dorothy should be the bridesmaid.

"Oh, she's going to stand up with them," Mrs. Johnson said. "I thought maybe since Tommy had a job they might be going to do it, too." But Mom said Dorothy was still in college and anyhow Tom's job had nothing to do with it anyhow because he had known it all along, the only difference being that he didn't know everybody else was so worried about him or he would have told them.

Then they began to throw out hints about getting invited but Mom put them off, Mrs. Flannigan said she supposed they'd be having a big time but Mom said both Steve and Pete was the plain kind and didn't want any fuss; then Mrs. Johnson said, yes, but they'd be having a big meal, anyhow and Mom said she didn't know yet as that would depend on the plans; and Mrs. Flannigan said it was sure to be a lot of work one way or another and for Mom not to be bashful about calling on them to help. So Mom thanked them, knowing all they wanted was to get their nose in some way and not miss anything.

Then Butcher Brown said to be sure and get her stuff from him; and Mrs. Flannigan asked Butcher why he never got married and he said he had a hard time fighting the girls off but he didn't want to make the rest of them sore so that when the ones who got left married somebody else they would be sure to deal with him as a man in business had to be careful; he said he was like Albert, he loved them all; and Albert opened his mouth and yawned and Butcher said if all the men were as smart as Albert they'd all have less trouble—and Mrs. Johnson didn't like it very well as everybody said her man was henpecked and never left the house he didn't have to give excuses.

Christian Church To Give Family Supper Tomorrow Evening

A church night meeting, supper and social hour for the families and members of the First Christian church will be held in the church parlors tomorrow evening.

Each family is requested to bring a covered dish and sandwiches. Mrs. George F. Hildenbrand is chairman of the committee on table arrangements and service. Supper is to be served at 6:30 p.m.

Musical numbers and other features of the program will be presented by the social committee of which Arthur O. Leff is chairman.

During the business meeting a financial statement will be made by Gladys Emerson, treasurer. Plans for 1934 will be considered. Dr. William M. Rohrbacher is chairman of the committee planning for the coming year. Other speakers of the evening will include Carl S. Cone, Arthur O. Leff, Marjorie Larson, Mrs. Andrew J. Page, Burton V. Fridenstine, Edward S. Rose and Leroy W. Spencer.

A large number of persons is expected to attend this annual meeting. Election of officers will be held in January.

Bates' Application Heard This Month

Hearing on the application of D. W. Bates, state superintendent of banking and receiver of the Farmers Loan and Trust company, to sell property in township 88 of Calhoun county to Mrs. Ruby M. Melody for $4,600, was set in district court yesterday for Dec. 13, at 9 a.m.

AROUND THE TOWN with Dick Fagan

Quiet

Although a number of Iowa Citians went to Rock Island to celebrate the death of the eighteenth amendment everything in Iowa City was quiet as the dry law passed into history.

Improvement

The landscape along the Iowa river across from Iowa Union is changing daily as more than 200 men put to work under the CWA clear brush, smooth out the ground and build an earth levee. It is expected that the spot, which has been an eyesore for a number of years, will be one of the most beautiful in the city.

Toy Shop

About this time of year Iowa City department stores begin having troubles with shopping fathers who insist on running all the toy trains and mechanical toys—grown-ups usually outnumber children about two to one in toyland.

Judge Evans Grants Decree to Will Hayek

Attorney Will J. Hayek, former city solicitor, has been granted a divorce from his wife, Mrs. Helen Hayek, in a decree signed by District Judge Harold D. Evans.

The case was tried and the decree signed Nov. 29. The notice of the divorce action brought by Mr. Hayek was served on Mrs. Hayek Nov. 22, and she agreed that the court might assume jurisdiction for the November term of court. She consented to an immediate trial.

Mr. Hayek was given custody of the two children, and Mrs. Hayek is to receive $25 a week alimony.

R. G. Popham was attorney for Mr. Hayek. Franco, Cash, and Healy represented Mrs. Hayek.

Cleo Yoder Wins Places in Chicago Live Stock Show

Davies Talks At Methodist Men's Meeting

"We must have faith," said Prof. George R. Davies of the college of commerce in a talk on economic recovery at a dinner meeting of the Methodist Men's club last night.

Professor Davies spoke optimistically, pointing out that the most important thing is that we have started trying to solve our economic and social problems.

"We must have codes of fair competition in order to be successful," he said.

He showed how that if cooperation in times of peace were carried out to the extent that it is in times of war that there would be no depression such as there is today.

This depression is, in the opinion of Professor Davies, one of the best things that has happened to the world, because it has made everyone think, and has prevented a worse catastrophe. It will tax the resources of humanity and science, and will thus develop a better system of social life, he contended.

"One of the most difficult things," he pointed out, "is for the social scientist to dissociate himself from the problems he is studying, so that he can look upon them in an unprejudiced and scientific manner."

"Today is a great turning point in history," Professor Davies continued. He said that we are on the road to the ideal civilization that the world has always dreamed about.

"America has today been forced to aid the people of the country to the extent in this, the "new deal" of about $12,000,000,000. She is starting to take care of the problems that she could have taken care of some years ago. It will not bankrupt us," he said. "We are able to take care of the masses of the people in a country with all the resources and science as our's has today.

"The world is headed toward an ideal, harmonius civilization. A new era is coming," he said.

Judge Orders Assets Sold By Receiver

D. W. Bates, state superintendent of banking and receiver of the Oxford State bank of Oxford, has been ordered by District Judge Harold D. Evans to compromise, settle, or sell all of the remaining personal assets of the bank on the best obtainable terms.

Judge Evans also ordered that the assets of the bank be appraised and that the sales be no less than the value set by the board of appraisers which includes George Clearman, J. F. Barry, and Fred Rapp.

The application for permission to settle the assets was filed recently in district court by the receiver, who pointed out that the personal assets are practically uncollectable and that he believes the only way to gain any proceeds is to settle the accounts for less than face value. A similar application made by the receiver of the Farmers Savings bank at Oxford is awaiting court action.

Some of the personal assets termed uncollectable in the Oxford State bank receivership are: bills receivable, $28,698.28; unpaid stock assessments, $6,250; and overdrafts, $9.77.
