FIVE CENTS IOWA CITY, IOWA SATURDAY, DECEMBER 30, 1933 NUMBER 180

F. R. PROPOSES NEW TARIFF POLICY

Council Postpones Municipal Ownership Discussion Until Next Week

Other Major Propositions Also Delayed

Aldermen Say Time Is Not Yet Ripe For Special Poll

The expected climax of Iowa City's controversy over the construction of a municipally owned light and power plant faded out last night when the whole matter was postponed until next Friday.

A resolution calling for a special election on the question of public ownership early in 1934 was tabled on Alderman Woodward's motion on the ground that the time was not ripe for a vote.

Deadline Set for Schwob

Walter E. Schwob, special engineer who is preparing a survey and estimates on construction and operation costs of a public plant, was given until Jan. 5 to complete his final report. The deadline for filing applications for loans from the Public Works Administration has been extended, Alderman J. Van der Zee explained.

The whole matter—presentation of the engineer's report and consideration of resolutions for calling the special election and for making the application for a 20 per cent grant and a 70 per cent loan from the government—will be taken up next Friday night.

Brief Summary

Mr. Schwob, at the request of Mr. Van der Zee, gave the council a brief summary of his findings, although he explained that the report was not complete.

Praising the efficiency and high standards maintained by the Iowa City Light and Power company, he urged that, in case the city should decide to set up its own system, it take care to maintain the same service and standards.

10 Years to Pay

He estimated that, at the reduced rates recently announced by the light company, the city could pay for a plant within 10 years, allowing for 6 per cent interest. If operations were to begin in 1935, he said, there could be a yearly balance after 1945 of approximately $150,000.

He said he would recommend, however, that the city adopt a longer period for amortization so that reductions in the light rates could be made within a shorter time after construction. On the basis of a 15 year financing plan, he estimated that rates could be reduced 10 per cent in 1937.

Basis for Estimates

All his estimates of revenue and costs, he pointed out, were made on the basis of the low low rates to take effect here Jan. 1, and assuming that electricity would be furnished without cost to the city. He made it clear, however, that this saving in cost of electricity to the city would not offset, by several thousand dollars, the amount of taxes now collected from the Iowa City Light and Power company.

His report includes estimates for the construction of systems using both steam and diesel type power plants. The total cost of a steam plant, including engineering, legal, and supervisory charges, he set at $17,000 and of the diesel, $33,700.

Operating Expenses

He estimated the operating expense of the steam plant would be 1.44 cents per kilowatt hour in 1935 and of the diesel plant, 1.21 cents. Considering the probable growth of Iowa City, he predicted that these costs would fall by 1950 to .72 cents for the steam plant and to .829 cents for the diesel plant. These figures were based on the assumption that Iowa City would grow to 18,000 population by 1950.

Reports Supplied by I.C.L.P.

Mr. Schwob explained that all his figures on the present and past operating expenses and volume of business were taken from reports supplied by the Iowa City Light and Power company. He reported that the company had cooperated with him freely throughout the conduct of his survey.

Baby Sue Trammell Doing Nicely After Emergency Brain Operation

BALTIMORE, Dec. 29 (AP)—"The baby is doing very nicely. She should be ready to go home in two or three weeks."

Thus Dr. Walter E. Dandy, noted surgeon, tonight reported the probable success of the delicate brain operation he performed this morning on five months old Sue Trammell, flown 1,400 miles from Houston, Tex., to Baltimore, in what her parents believed to be a race with death.

"She came out of the ether all right and is taking her feeding nicely," the surgeon, who has been frankly annoyed at the attention the case attracted, concluded.

This morning, when Sue went into the operating room, hospital attaches said that the baby's life depended upon the outcome. The "very dangerous" operation might kill her, they said, but without it she certainly would die.

Two hours later attendants wheeled the baby back to her room. Dr. Dandy and his assistant, Dr.

Silver Bloc Is Organized By Senators

Wheeler Claims 44 Will Urge Bi-Metallism, Free Coinage

WASHINGTON, Dec. 29 (AP)—A powerful senatorial silver bloc organized today behind a program for remonetization of the white metal and claimed enough votes to put it through provided President Roosevelt does not come out openly in opposition.

"Won't Block President"

Disclaiming any attempt to block the president's silver purchase policy and describing his proposal as supplementary, 18 senators from the west and south attended a conference called by Senator Wheeler (D., Mont.) and, after less than an hour and a half of discussion, unanimously adopted the following resolution: "We favor bi-metallism—the free and unlimited coinage of both gold and silver at a ratio to be established by law."

Nine Approve by Proxy

Nine other senators were listed by Wheeler as having approved the proposal by proxy.

In addition, he claimed 17 others were sympathetic, making a total of 44 in all, or 11 more than the vote cast last April for Wheeler's bill for free coinage of silver at a ratio of 16 to 1 with gold. Wheeler's bill was defeated then 44 to 33, with 18 not voting.

Among the 44 claimed for free coinage today were 33 Democrats, 10 Republicans and one Farmer-Labor.

Legislators Ask to Scrap Stamp Notes

Mandatory Dismantling Of Poor Relief Plan Proposed to Senate

DES MOINES, Dec. 29 (AP)—The stamp note plan of poor relief, approved by the last general assembly and placed in operation by a number of counties, today advanced toward the discard in the special assembly session.

Mandatory discontinuance of the plan by the counties and redemption of stamp notes outstanding is provided for in the bill by Senator George Wilson of Polk which was passed by the senate without an opposing vote.

Used in Other States

Fathered by Rep. Charles J. Zylstra of Sioux, the plan provided for the issuance of stamp notes by counties for poor relief. Modeled after a system used at Hawarden, the plan later was employed in other states.

Wilson told the senate that the plan has proven a costly experiment and that Polk county, for one, was anxious to divorce itself from it as promptly as possible.

Counties Would Take Up Notes

The mandatory provision for discontinuance encountered some criticism but Wilson said other counties did not object to this. Counties would be required to take up the outstanding stamp notes with their own funds.

Working busily, the afternoon session of the senate which passed the Wilson bill also defeated, by a 21 to 21 vote, a house measure which would have reduced the poll tax from $3 to $2.

Change in Agency Fees

A house labor committee bill changing the license fee for employment agencies passed the senate by a vote of 21 to 16, after some debate. In place of the present graduated scale for agencies on a population basis it substitutes a flat fee of $50 for all agencies.

Iowa City 'Chiefs' Discuss Business Out in California

While other officials carried on the regular routine of business, two leaders of the Iowa City administration met this vacation in California.

According to a card received yesterday by City Clerk George J. Dohrer, Harry D. Breene, mayor, and Joe Laws, honorary fire chief and star Iowa quarterback, visited at Palo Alto recently.

"Happy New Year to all" says the post card sent by Mayor Breene, who is visiting his nephew, Dr. Frank Breene, at San Jose. The mayor will return Jan. 2. Chief Laws is practicing with the eastern team which will meet the west Jan. 1 at San Francisco.

Roosevelt to Make Separate Trade Recommendations To Legislature for Each Nation

Extension Of 'Gold Recall' Act Rumored

Even Federal Reserve May Be Ordered To Turn in Currency

WASHINGTON, Dec. 29 (AP)—From the latest steps by the Roosevelt administration in its monetary policy, there arose in unofficial circles in the capitol tonight the definite impression that an exhaustive study was being conducted into the desirability of calling into the treasury all of the nation's monetary gold, whether held by the federal reserve system or privately owned.

Impression Spreads

The impression spread following the promulgation of new treasury orders fixing narrower restrictions upon gold hoarding and an assertion by Prof. George F. Warren, an author of the president's monetary program, partially endorsing such a course.

Acting Secretary Morgenthau declined to answer questions about reports as to whether such a step was in contemplation. His only reply was: "I can't discuss that." In the past he has not hesitated to deny reports for which there was no foundation.

Connally Urges Move

Senator Thomas (D., Okla.) has said the justice department was studying his bill to bring this about. Senator Connally of Texas urged a move in this direction upon the president yesterday and, while he would not say what Mr. Roosevelt's reaction had been, he expressed confidence today that such a plan would be followed.

On the other side of the question, it was regarded as inevitable that a move of this nature would arouse vigorous criticism from such Republican spokesmen as Senator Reed of Pennsylvania as well as from the leading congressional monetary and banking authority of the president's own party, Senator Glass of Virginia.

Backers Declare Plan Will Aid Expansion Of Trade Abroad

WASHINGTON, Dec. 29 (AP)—Foreign trade recommendations, probably in a form greatly different from the old universal application of tariff treatment to all countries, will be sent to congress by President Roosevelt.

The president, in letting it be known today that suggestions would be made to congress, kept details of the tariff proposals to himself.

Give and Take

It was expected, however, that the program would be shaped about give and take negotiations, involving bilateral agreements with other nations as distinguished from the previous policy of many years standing of establishing solid tariff walls around the United States.

The previous solid wall would have low stretches or holes chopped in it by the trade agreements.

Expansion Predicted

The fundamental argument of those backing the plan is that it will expand foreign trade and give markets abroad for the production surpluses that now perplex the United States.

The president has been described as lacking full power to negotiate individual reciprocal trade agreements. For this reason, it was expected that one of the primary points of his tariff recommendation to congress would be a request for authority to enter into these barter with foreign powers.

Other Points

In addition to the legislative side of the tariff program, there also enter other questions to be solved. One point, already suggested by an inquiry from Germany regarding liquor import quotas, involves the "most favored nation" clauses in the trade treaties this country holds with other powers. The "most favored nation clause" is an agreement between two powers to extend to each other any trade benefits granted a third power.

The government, in its negotiations up to now, has avoided complications arising out of the clause by adhering to this theory:

Theory Explained

That it is unwilling to extend to any nation trade advantages already granted one nation in a reciprocal agreement if that third nation has material for a similar trade exchange.

Until recently, European nations had not appeared in this picture. The reciprocal agreements were primarily with South American nations where markets and materials existed at both ends of the agreement. Should the reciprocal agreement power be given to the president for use in European barter, it might necessitate the working out of a new method of such dealings.

Export Corporation

The question of establishing an export corporation already is under study by the Roosevelt administration. One of its functions would be to serve as a selling agency for American products in foreign markets.

20 Killed In Revolution

500 Arrests Follow Bloody Uprising In Argentina

BULLEIN BUENOS AIRES, Dec. 29 (AP)—A state of siege was declared for an indefinite period tonight by the Argentine government as the result of a revolutionary plot leading to violent disorders in four provinces.

Buenos Aires, Dec. 29 (AP)—A radical anti-government revolt in Rosario and Santa Fe, northern Argentina, resulted today in at least 20 deaths, injuries to 100, and the arrests of nearly 500 persons.

Government spokesmen declared the country was quiet, but a strict censorship was maintained on telegraph lines and police described several other cities as centers of radicalism.

Most of those killed were soldiers at Rosario. Many were wounded at Santa Fe. A smaller disturbance occurred at La Plata when angered groups tried to capture the marine, fire, and police stations, shouting "Viva Revolution."

The outbreaks were a sequel to two radical conventions which declared themselves opposed to the election of one-third of the national chamber of deputies in March.

At Santa Fe police fired into crowds milling about police headquarters. In Buenos Aires 50 persons, armed and wearing red and white armbands, were arrested.

Manning Trial May End Today

Ottumwa Is Alternately Termed as "Czar," "Benefactor"

OTTUMWA, Dec. 29 (AP)—With three final arguments today in which Mayor Edward C. Manning was described both as a "czar" over city finances and a "popular benefactor" of the city of Ottumwa, it appeared that his ouster trial would come to an end by tomorrow afternoon.

L. J. Duke pleaded with Judge A. O. Wakefield for three hours and a half today in behalf of the Manning management of Ottumwa affairs. In addition to praise for the mayor and criticism of Governor Herring, the defense counsel launched into a challenge of the constitutionality of the Iowa budget law.

He followed Jo R. Jacques, special prosecutor, who had upheld the budget law's legality and indicted the Manning administration as "outrageously extravagant."

Hard Path For Liquor Control

Opening Discussion In Iowa House Foretells Tedious Journey

DES MOINES, Dec. 29 (AP)—The state liquor control bill has a long tedious journey ahead of it in the house, it was indicated today as that body began informal discussion of its contents.

It further was apparent that the measure is facing numerous amendments, judging from questions asked of members of the liquor control committee.

After more than two hours discussion only six of the 86 sections had been covered and the house adjourned without knowledge of whether the discussion would be resumed tomorrow.

The first attack came when Representative Strachan of Humboldt assailed the name "Iowa Temperance Act." He suggested that it be known as the "Iowa Intemperance act."

Representative McCreery of Linn then suggested that the name be changed to the "Iowa Liquor Control Act."

A motion then was made by Representative Gallagher of Iowa to name the bill the "Iowa Liquor Control Act" and the motion carried by a vote of 60 to 30.

Cold Lingers On in East

New York, New England Feeling Sub-Zero Temperatures

(By the Associated Press)

Sub-zero weather held New England and New York in bitter thrall down last night, sending the mercury down to unfamiliar depths.

Boys took their daily dip in a Boston public pool at 17 below, the lowest temperature ever recorded in that city. Two persons died of cold, and an epidemic of frostbites kept the doctors busy in Boston and its environs.

The uplands of New York state and its eastern neighbors felt temperatures in the sub-zero forties and fifties, while across the breadth of Canada there were readings from 20 to 60 below.

In the Sudbury-North Bay region of Ontario's wilds some hardy fellow went out long enough to check the thermometer reading of 64 below, the lowest officially reported on the continent.

Rumanian Premier Murdered

Young Student Shoots Ion Duca, Wounds Deputy

SINAIA, Rumania, Dec. 29 (AP)—Premier Ion G. Duca, head of Rumania's new national liberal government, was assassinated here tonight by a member of the anti-Jewish iron guard, which he outlawed a few weeks ago.

The assassin, a student, waylaid Duca at a railway station as he was about to board a train for Bucharest after a conference with King Carol.

No Chance of Failure

Taking no chances of failure, the assassin fired four shots from a revolver into the premier's head and then hurled a hand grenade which wounded Duca's companion, Dr. M. Costinescu, a deputy.

Police arrested the assassin, who said he was Nicholas Constantinescu. Two alleged accomplices also were arrested.

Duca, 55, lately had been an outstanding figure in an international fight to suppress a rising wave of anti-Semitism in Europe. Authorities said both the student and the men arrested with him were members of the anti-Jewish and Fascist iron guard which was outlawed by government decree Dec. 10.

Extraordinary Session

The Rumanian cabinet met in extraordinary session shortly after the assassination and ordered a roundup of known members of the iron guard.

By midnight, word from Bucharest said 1,300 had been jailed in that city alone.

Duca, prime minister only since Nov. 12, arrived in Sinaia this afternoon and was welcomed by Finance Minister Bratianu and political friends.

King Carol's automobile was waiting for him and he was conveyed to the castle, where he was closeted for two hours with the monarch. Afterwards, he and Bratianu dined with a former mayor of Bucharest.

29 Convicts Flee Prison After Battle

ATMORE, Ala., Dec. 29 (AP)—A desperate band of Negro convicts, part of 29 Whites and Negroes who escaped from the state prison farm near here early today, moved north tonight heavily armed after killing one man and wounding three others in their drive to freedom.

The Negroes, seven in a group, within a half a mile of the scene of the break, shot down Grover Kirby, a farmer, who with another farmer named Parker, sought to check their flight across the fields. Kirby died in a hospital here and Parker was in a serious condition at Century, Fla.

Millions More Necessary For Aid-Hopkins

WASHINGTON, Dec. 29 (AP)—Harry L. Hopkins, the relief administrator, said today that many more millions would be needed to carry emergency relief work up to July 1, the beginning of the next fiscal year.

He estimated that $100,000,000 would be needed to care for persons on relief rolls. More money will be needed he added, to carry on the civil works program to May 1, when it is hoped that the public works building will be sufficiently under way to take over the civil works load.

This money, however, will come from the public works administration.

At the White House it was said recently that $250,000,000 would suffice.

$10,000 Fire at Norwalk

NORWALK (AP)—Damage estimated at $10,000 was caused by a fire which destroyed the C. F. Crow general store and a barn, and damaged three other buildings.

Litvinoff Sees Peace Ahead

Predicts Closer Relation Of U. S., Soviet Will Accomplish Much

MOSCOW, Dec. 29 (AP)—A "further deepening" of relations between the United States and Soviet Russia in the cause of peace was predicted today by Foreign Commissar Maxim Litvinoff.

Before the congress of the all-union central executive committee Litvinoff reported on his recent talks with President Roosevelt that led to recognition, which he described as the surrender of the last fortress on the capitalistic anti-Soviet front.

"Having entered into contact with us," the commissar told his 400 listeners, "America immediately found differences on a national or state scale between herself and us to be non-existent and that debatable questions were easy to settle."

"More than that, being herself interested in the maintenance of peace, America saw in a contact with our union a powerful factor for the maintenance of that peace, and correspondingly valued cooperation with us in that direction."

Phi Beta Pi To Close Session

Seventy Members of Phi Beta Pi, National Medical Fraternity, Including Delegates from 44 Universities, Ended the Third Day of their National Biennial Convention Here Last Night with a Turkey Dinner at Red Ball Inn.

The convention will close today with the election of national officers and with the passing of fraternal legislation.

Samuel P. Leinbach, M.D. of Belmont, archon of the local chapter, and Dr. Lawson G. Lowery of New York City, N. Y., national moderator, were the principal speakers. Entertainment was also provided by Johnny West of the Casino, Jessie Archibald of Cedar Rapids, and Bill Dalley, night watchman of Children's hospital, who gave a humorous talk on the "Iowa Farmer."

William Floyd Randall, M.D. of Denison, was chairman of the banquet, and Dr. Gayden was toastmaster.

Joseph Kost Dies At Home of Son In Cedar Rapids

Joseph J. Kost, 74, died early yesterday morning at the home of his son, Paul Kost, in Cedar Rapids.

Surviving him are the widow, four sons, Paul and Mathias of Cedar Rapids and George and Nicholas of Iowa City; and five daughters, Mrs. Rudolph Kindle and Mrs. Vern Dana of Iowa City, Mrs. Earl Scott of Cedar Rapids, Mrs. Fred Wing of Waterloo, and Mrs. Tom Bratich of California.

Funeral service will be held Tuesday at 9 a.m. at St. Mary's church here. Burial will be in St. Joseph's cemetery.

Bankers' Schedules Of Charges to Depositors Cancelled by Johnson

WASHINGTON, Dec. 29 (AP)—All bankers' schedules of new high charges to depositors, announced to go into effect with the first of the year under NRA's code, were cancelled tonight by Hugh S. Johnson in an order which revealed an extraordinary "misunderstanding."

Simultaneously with the order stopping all schedules, Johnson summarily dismissed C. N. Weisiger, Jr., deputy administrator in charge of the banking code who had been instrumental yesterday in having the press division of NRA announce that Johnson had approved the plans of the code authority.

Municipal Light Plant In Ohio Town Slashes Rates for Electricity

GALLON, Ohio, Dec. 29 (AP)—Two thousand two hundred consumers of electric current from the municipal electric light and power plant here received a Christmas gift from the city council Wednesday—a reduction in rates.

The cut is the second within a year. The new rate is three and a half cents a kilowatt for the first 50 kilowatts, three cents for the next 250 kilowatts, .028 for the next 2,200 kilowatts, .015 for the next 97,500 kilowatts, .01 for all over 100,000. Last December the highest rate was four cents a kilowatt for the first 100.

The city of Gallon pays nothing for its street lights, which are supplied by the municipal plant. There is no service charge to consumers. The minimum charge is 50 cents monthly, with a 5 per cent penalty for non-payment of bills after the twelfth of each month.

Four Sentenced, Paroled

A Bouquet to Senator Paul Schmidt

THURSDAY the Iowa state senate passed, 36 to 2, a bill sponsored by Paul Schmidt of Iowa City prohibiting the atrocity commonly billed as a "walkathon."

Now walkathons aren't, as those who have seen them will confess, exactly walkathons. They are, if we may take the liberty to express it, a compilation of brutalities covering a period of weeks and sometimes months during which a varying number of contestants are made to run, dance, hop, skip, sing, and—in rare instances—walk.

Sometimes they are chained together—several of them—and forced to "go around" a certain number of times for the plaudits and pennies of the crowd.

The contestants appear on the "floor" at intervals during the day and night, intervals that consume a greater part of the 24 hours. Some few minutes are allowed for receiving medical treatment, nourishment, and brief moments of sleep.

The great attraction at these walkathons seems to be the sight of limping, bandaged young men and women who occasionally trip and fall or faint and sprain ankles or carry their partners.

If the contestants are too weary to entertain the sightseers the promoters provide orchestras and cheap vaudeville acts. Refreshment concessions and others do a flourishing business.

It's all very lurid and cheap and detestable and disgusting. The fact that walkathons are profitable in Iowa, is however, a great deal more disgusting.

Iowans with a sense of decency and, perhaps, humanness, will welcome the Schmidt bill into law.

Out of the Frying Pan—

RECENT complaints of high prices and poor quality of legal liquor makes it seem that in stepping from prohibition to legality the United States has stepped out of the frying pan and into the fire.

Intervention by congress has been threatened to insure that legal wine and whiskey will measure up to a decent standard, and will be sold at a price which is not exorbitant.

Intelligent voters who struck the eighteenth amendment from the constitution did so in most instances with the understanding that the states would set up machinery to control the flow of legal liquor, that America should not be swallowed up by a monster of its own creation.

Thus each state has in fact taken upon itself the duty of protecting its citizens from liquor of the bootleg type and worse. The threats of congressional intervention are proof that in many cases this duty has not been fulfilled.

Whatever one's sympathies in the liquor question, it can hardly be denied that, with the traffic in legal liquor definitely here, some intelligent means of control must be created throughout the country, to prevent worse conditions than existed before the days of prohibition.

The federal government, through warnings of congressional action, has served notice on the states that it is prepared to act if the states can not.

They Understand Money's Meaning

(From The Daily Illini)

Prof. Irving Fisher of Yale university yesterday made known a list of 19 men "who understood the real meaning of money."

"There are doubtless several others," the professor adds, "whose names do not occur to me just now, as well as others, especially among the younger economists, whom I do not even know. There are also some business leaders."

The 19 fortunates named are Prof. George Warren, Cornell university; Prof. Harry G. Brown, University of Missouri; Prof. F. A. Pearson, Cornell university; Prof. J. Harvey Rogers, Yale; Prof. Willford I. King, New York university; Prof. John R. Commons, University of Wisconsin; Dr. Warren McPerson, New York City; Prof. Edwin M. Kemmerer, Princeton; Prof. Cyril James, University of Pennsylvania; Prof. John H. Williams, Harvard; and Prof. Jacob Viner, University of Chicago.

Bankers listed are Frank A. Vanderlip and George LeBlanc, and Reginald McKenna, London. The foreign economists named are John Maynard Keynes, England; Cassel, Sweden; Frisch, Norway; Schultze and Gaverwitz, Germany.

Of the world's millions these few are named as the ones who understand the real meaning of money. What, may we ask, is the real meaning and value to thousands of people all over the world. Do they bother about the theoretical or practical side of the question? True, it can be said that through the theoretical study of the question by those who understand it, a solid foundation can be built to enable many of those now starving to enjoy some of the fruits of a well established income.

It seems to us that there are thousands in the world who themselves know the real meaning of money, and can explain their view of the question more graphically and pointedly than the favored few can theirs.

GOOD MORNING

Yesterday morning I commented at length on the navy's plan announced the day before contemplating a $500,000,000 program designed to bring the American fleet up to the limit provided by the London agreement by 1935.

It was pointed out that this program, requiring an extra annual appropriation of $100,000,000, could not possibly further, but would very likely impede, the progress of world peace and disarmament.

Also yesterday morning The Daily Iowan carried on the front page the text of President Roosevelt's speech at the seventy-seventh anniversary of President Wilson's birth, setting out his own proposal for the realization of the peace that the whole world desires. How this proposal can be reconciled with Secretary Swanson's plans it is difficult to understand. It was a three-point program:

1) "Let every nation agree to eliminate over a short period of years and by progressive steps, every weapon of offense in its possession and to create no additional weapons of offense. This does not guarantee a nation against invasion unless you supplement it and implement it with the right to fortify its own borders with permanent and non-mobile defenses; and also with the right to assure itself through international continuing inspection that its neighbors are not creating nor maintaining offensive weapons of war.

2) "A simple declaration that no nation will permit any of its armed forces to cross its own borders into the territory of another nation's. Such an act would be regarded by humanity as an act of aggression and, as an act, therefore, that would call for condemnation by humanity.

3) "It is clear, of course, that no such general agreement for the elimination of aggression and of the weapons of offensive warfare would be of any value to the world unless every nation, without exception, entered into the agreement by solemn obligation. If then such an agreement were signed by a great majority of the nations on the definite condition that it would go into effect only when signed by all the nations, it would be a comparatively easy matter to determine which nations in this enlightened time are willing to go on record as belonging to the small minority of mankind which still believes in the use of the sword for invasion of and attack upon their neighbors."

This, unquestionably, is the most practical and the simplest plan for disarmament and peace yet offered to the world, though it will be difficult for many nations to credit its sincerity in view of our present big navy policy.

But that can be easily remedied. If this is President Roosevelt's firm conviction, nothing stands in the way of putting it into practice. The only logical and consistent course now open is for him to recommend with all the force at his command the approval of such a plan by congress this winter, and at least a temporary halt in the construction of armaments.

Such action would involve the United States in none of the one-sided obligations which we have come to dread. But it would, definitely and completely, put this country on record in favor of a specific and practical plan for peace, and would, through the force of example, lead many other nations to respond with similar action.

It is useless to grate about the yearning of the world for peace. There simply is no question about it. If a proposal for scrapping all armaments immediately were put to a vote of the world's billion and a half inhabitants, what would the answer be?

But the people have had nothing to say about it. President Roosevelt Thursday night said, "Through all the centuries and down to the world conflict of 1914 to 1918, wars were made by governments. Woodrow Wilson challenged that necessity. That challenge made the people who create and who change governments think. They wondered with Woodrow Wilson whether the people themselves could not some day prevent governments from making war. It is but an extension of the challenge of Woodrow Wilson for us to propose in this new generation that from now on war by governments shall be changed to peace by peoples."

President Roosevelt has himself proposed a plan by which this can be accomplished. And it is such a simple plan, and one through which it would be so easy for the United States to take the initiative without jeopardizing a single interest, that its proposal by the president involves a solemn obligation upon him to take a step unprecedented in disarmament diplomacy—action. So far there have been only words. —Don Fryer.

HOLLYWOOD — A desire for a Honolulu honeymoon is what holds up the marriage of Christine Lee and Ricardo Cortez, who were scheduled to take the vows in Hollywood on Christmas day. The actor is trying to negotiate a three weeks' leave of absence from Warner Brothers and, if he is successful, he and the beautiful young divorcee probably will be married on the day they sail for the Hawaiian Islands.

Iowa City's Social Life At High Pitch During Holidays

University's Christmas Vacation Fails to Keep Local Younger Set or Grown-Ups From Spending Dull Season

Campus walks have been deserted this week, and the windows of houses in fraternity and sorority row have been dark, but activity in Iowa City has been going on just the same. Members of the younger set have met for luncheons and bridge parties, and the same sort of social routing has kept older Iowa City persons from spending a dull holiday season.

A few parties are being planned to watch in the new year, but, in the main, young 1934 will be ushered in at strictly informal gatherings of friends in homes about the city.

Moore's Plan Dinner For Three Families

Dr. and Mrs. Paul M. Moore, Jr., 526 W. Park road, will entertain the members of three families at a New Year's day dinner at their home Monday.

Sharing the courtesy will be the Ernest Horns, the R. A. Kuevers, and the Baldwin Maxwells.

Philippine Students To Entertain 24

Five Philippine students will entertain 24 of their friends tonight at a dinner at the home of Prof. Estella M. Root, 419 Park Road. The affair will commemorate the anniversary of the execution of the Philippine national hero, Dr. Jose Rizal, who went to his death Dec. 30, 1894.

A feature of the affair is the awarding of prizes for the best costumes. These awards went last year to Mrs. Ira Mosley and Thomas Welsh.

Furnishing dance music during the evening will be Bob Schneider's orchestra from Waterloo. Programs and decorations will center around the old time feud of the two gangs which are territorially divided by Iowa avenue. Special entertainment will alternate with the program of dances.

Wienekes to Have New Year's Dinner

Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Wieneke, 920 E. Burlington street, will entertain at a family dinner at noon on New Year's day.

Sharing the courtesy will be Mr. and Mrs. Charles Wieneke, Mrs. Minnie Horton, Carrie Wieneke, Laura Wieneke, and Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Wieneke.

Helen Perkins To Entertain Today

Helen Perkins, daughter of Prof. and Mrs. E. M. Perkins, 1041 Woodlawn, will entertain informally at two tables of bridge this afternoon at her home.

Light refreshments will be served during the afternoon.

Gretchen Kuever Hostess at Bridge

Gretchen Kuever, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Kuever, Melrose circle, entertained at a bridge tea for 12 friends yesterday afternoon. Miss Kuever is vacationing from Stephens college in Columbia, Mo.

Prize winners at the affair were: Helen Perkins, high, and Margaret Olson, low. Silver tapers decorated the tables from which refreshments were served in the middle of the afternoon.

Florence Morse To Wed Oliver Scholz Early in Next Year

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Morse of Cedar Rapids recently announced the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Florence, to Oliver O. Scholz of Cedar Rapids, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Scholz of Guttenberg. The wedding date has been set for early in 1934.

Miss Morse attended Coe college in Cedar Rapids, and has been an employee of a jewelry store there for the last three years.

Mr. Scholz is a graduate of the college of pharmacy of the University of Iowa. He is a member of Beta Phi Sigma fraternity. He has recently been associated in the drug business in Cedar Rapids, but will leave at the end of the week for Oelwein where he has accepted a position in a drug store.

Reveals Engagement At Noon Luncheon

Featuring a luncheon given by Helen Osborn, daughter of Mrs. Max Osborn of Council Bluffs, in the pine room of Reich's cafe Thursday noon was the announcement of Miss Osborn's engagement to Logan Reif, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Reif of Kalona.

Both Miss Osborn and Mr. Reif are University of Iowa students. Miss Osborn is a sophomore liberal arts student and Mr. Reif is completing his last year as a commerce student.

Ruthelaine Smith Has Bob Sled Party

Taking advantage of the "white Christmas" season with its snow and goodly supply of sleds, Ruthelaine Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Smith, 421 R. Lucas street, entertained a group of friends at a sled party Thursday night.

Guests met at the Smith home, and then went on a two hour ride on the sled, returning later for refreshments and an informal evening.

Guests were: Vivian Anthony, Kathleen Norris, Ethel Nelson, Marie Smith of West Liberty, Mary Eleanor Johnston, Albee Leighton, Arlene Filbeck, Beulah Glatton, Mr. and Mrs. Howard James, Manley Rose, Gerald Marsh, Bruce Bundy, Edward Taylor, Peter Putnam, Clayton Singleton, Donald Secret, and Raymond Hangerford.

Miss Smith will return at the first of the year to Lindenwood college at St. Charles, Mo., where she is a student.

Mrs. Bordwell, Mother To Entertain Twenty

Mrs. Percy Bordwell and her mother, Mrs. Dent Yates, 111 E. Bloomington street, will entertain 20 guests at a luncheon this noon at their home. Decorations will follow the Christmas motif.

An out of town guest at the affair will be Mrs. Asa Horn, mother of Prof. Ernest Horn of the college of education. Mrs. Horn is a resident of Missouri.

Christian Endeavor Plans Entertainment

Members of the Christian Endeavor group of the Christian church will combine a regular meeting and a watch party tomorrow evening at the home of Helen Kadlec, 430 E. Ronalds street.

The Rev. C. C. Garrigue, pastor of the church, will have charge of the meeting. Light refreshments will be served and the evening will be spent informally.

Petersons Honor 24 at Dinner

Dr. and Mrs. Frank R. Peterson, 126 Koser street, entertained at a formal dinner at their home Wednesday evening for 24 guests. Honored at the affair were Dr. and Mrs. C. C. Bunch of St. Louis, and Dr. and Mrs. D. W. Jenkins of Burlington.

Christmas decorations were used

Waterworks, Gashouse Mobs to Meet At Bowery Brawl

For the eleventh consecutive year, members of Iowa City's two rival "gangs," the Waterworks and Gashouse groups, will meet to settle all disputes at the Bowery Brawl tonight at Varsity ballroom. According to tradition, the ancient rivalry between these two gangs is settled during the intermission of the dance.

A feature of the affair is the awarding of prizes for the best costumes. These awards went last year to Mrs. Ira Mosley and Thomas Welsh.

Furnishing dance music during the evening will be Bob Schneider's orchestra from Waterloo. Programs and decorations will center around the old time feud of the two gangs which are territorially divided by Iowa avenue. Special entertainment will alternate with the program of dances.

A group of Iowa City high school alumni sponsors the affair yearly. This year's committee includes: Waldo Geiger, chairman, Don Brown, and Roy Koza.

Leroy Spencer To Head Country Club During Coming Year

Leroy R. Spencer was elected president of the Iowa City Country club Thursday afternoon at the annual meeting of the stockholders held at the Iowa Typewriter company. Mr. Spencer succeeds Ralph Parsons in office.

George H. Frohwein and Vern Bales were re-elected first and second vice presidents respectively. Judge Harold D. Evans was chosen a member of the board of managers with term to expire in 1935. Board members elected with terms to expire in 1936 were: Carl Strub, Walter Barrow, Harold L. Hands, and George D. Koser.

Hold-over board members are: Prof. R. A. Kuever, Prof. George W. Stewart, Prof. H. L. Rietz, and Dr. A. W. Bennett, 1934; and Glenn Griffith, W. R. Horrabain, and W. B. Gipple, 1935.

S. U. I. Students Enter Race For Rhodes Honors

Gilmore, Prange, And Ristau to Compete In January

John A. Gilmore of Iowa City, Gordon Prange of Davenport, and Kenneth Ristau of Davenport, all University of Iowa students, will appear with eight other candidates Jan. 4 before the state Rhodes scholarship committee here as aspirants for the four scholarships to be awarded from the midwest district.

Each Rhodes scholarship provides for two years of study at Oxford university and a possible third year in Europe upon the satisfactory completion of the first two and the presentation of an outline of study. The 11 candidates to be interviewed at Old Capital were chosen from applicants who competed on the basis of their credentials. Two of these will represent Iowa in the district interviews Jan. 8 at Des Moines, which will include representatives from Iowa, Missouri, Kansas, Nebraska, Minnesota, and South Dakota.

Other Candidates The eight men who will be interviewed here next week with the three university men are: John K. Mahon and John H. Powers, both of Ottumwa, Swarthmore college; R. W. Times of Tama, Cornell; Jack Maxfield of Council Bluffs, Grinnell; Eldon Jackson of Perry, Drake; Donald Stewart of Des Moines, Drake; George Higgins of Boone, Iowa State; and Robert Hawley of Ames, Iowa State.

The state committee is composed of: President John S. Nollen of Grinnell; Prof. Carl W. Strom of Luther; Prof. J. W. Woodrow of Iowa State; Prof. S. Kerby Miller of the University of Missouri; and Prof. Jacob Van der Zee of the University of Iowa political science department.

Lapp Announces Nation-Wide Program of Tests in Physics

Teachers' Association to Tabulate Results in Major Schools

A nation-wide physics testing program, in which most major universities and colleges are expected to participate, will be underway in January under the auspices of the American Association of Physics Teachers.

This has been announced by Prof. C. J. Lapp of the University of Iowa, chairman of the five-man committee on testing. The test forms will be distributed Jan. 20, he said.

A total of 91 questions will be included, with mechanics, heat, and sound as the topics. More than half of the queries will be on mechanics. Results will be analyzed, tabulated, and sent to each co-operating institution.

It is planned that later tests will cover magnetism, electricity, modern physics, and light. Physics professors of 14 institutions have aided in the formulation of the examinations, according to Professor Lapp.

With some 22 universities and colleges cooperating, tests on a smaller scale were given in 1932 and 1933 to measure achievement over basic material.

Important facts discovered by this survey were the great variability in individuals in a single class, with the best man sometimes making 20 times as much as another student; variation from school to school, and unusual achievement of single individuals.

Gallery Selects Pelzer Painting

"Indian Summer," a painting by Mrs. Louis Pelzer of Iowa City, has recently been selected to hang in the Joslyn Memorial Art gallery in Omaha during 1934. The painting was one of two selected to hang in the gallery for the Iowa-Nebraska exhibition of paintings.

According to Mrs. Pelzer, the painting is a fantasy of the view just beyond Curtis bridge on the Cedar Rapids road. It was completed last October.

SEEN from Old Capitol By TOM YOSELOFF

For many years it has been suspected fact that bootleggers do not drink their own liquor, restaurateurs don't eat in their own cafes, and auto salesmen don't drive the cars they sell. But it remained for a thorough investigation by this department to determine whether home economic students at the University of Iowa eat the food they prepare.

A little research shows that the women can take it as well as make it, when it comes to their food. True, many of the students were in the dark on the subject of where their food ultimately ended its career, but a few of them volunteered the information that the students do sample the food, though they don't eat much of it. They started out at the beginning of the year with jellies and canned goods, and at the time this study was made they were looking forward with high expectations to cheese-making, Limburger, incidentally, led in popularity.

The knowledge of the home economics department's "cooks" was soon exhausted, however, and the investigation was carried to the faculty. Prof. Edna A. Hill finally divulged the secret. Here it is:

The students pay no laboratory fee, and the department must therefore practice rigid economy. Thus the food is prepared in such small quantities that a sample is in many cases all there is of it—perhaps luckily. In a few instances, when the amount of food prepared is larger, special uses are made of it. The plan used by the University of Iowa is similar to that used by the other state-controlled schools.

City High Falls Before Powerful West Waterloo Attack, 39-18

Play of Marshall and Ballard Outstanding as Little Hawks Turn Out Best Game of Year

Marshall High Point Man With 10 Counters; Height and Polish of Wahawks too Much for Iowa Citizens

By HARRY BURRELL (Daily Iowan Sports Editor)

WATERLOO, Dec. 29—Iowa City high played one of its best games here tonight, but could not overcome the guiding wizardry of Paul Grange and went down before the West Waterloo attack, 39 to 18.

Despite the undoubted identity of the winner, the Little Hawks put up a great battle all the way. The play of Dale Marshall, high point man with 10 counters, and Fred Ballard was the outstanding feature of the game.

For Ballard it was an occasion of great moment. Although he scored but two points, the tireless Little Hawk center was outstanding and played through his first game this year without fouling out.

The winners possessed too much height and polish for the Iowa Citizens and Grange's maneuvering of the team was faultless. He tied Elmer Bratten, a teammate, for second high scoring honors with eight points.

Junior Varsity Wins, 30 to 27

WATERLOO, Dec. 29—Trailing West Waterloo 10 points midway in the second quarter, City high's Junior varsity started a sensational rally that lasted throughout the game last night and the Little Hawk Juniors edged out a 30 to 27 win.

Unable to penetrate the tight zone defense of the Wahawks, Ed Breeze led the Red and White team with four long shots. Breeze's long counter split the Old Rose and Black defense and allowed the winners to drive in for several short shots.

With the score tied at 21 to 21 at the start of the final period, the Soucek men put the pressure on and held a 29 to 23 lead with three minutes to go. A free throw by Jens Norgaard stopped West's rally with but five seconds to go.

Breeze led the scoring with 12 points. City high was deadly from the foul line, sinking 30 per cent of its free throw attempts.

Marians Prep for Powerful St. Joe's Five

St. Mary's debaters entered upon the serious portion of their preparation for Wednesday's game with the crack St. Joe's of Rock Island, yesterday, though the efficiency of the team was somewhat reduced by the fact that Ray Consamus, Rambler center, was still absent from practice because of an injured ankle.

The Rock Islanders are being touted as the strongest team the Ramblers will meet this season, as a result of their impressive and unexpected win from Trinity high of Bloomington, Illinois state parochial champion. Consequently, a capacity crowd is expected to jam the City high gym on the night the St. Joe's invade Iowa City, and it is with the intention of rising to satisfy optimistic demands of their followers, that the Ramblers are digging in harder than they have in a long time, in preparation for Wednesday's shindig.

In an effort to conserve the strength of his team, and allow Consamus' ankle sufficient time in which to strengthen, Coach Suplee will rest his men over the week end and then administer a stiff, constructive drill Monday. A light signal session will close the practice schedule for the Rock Islanders on Tuesday evening.

Kansas Teachers Win

MANHATTAN, Kan. (AP)—The Kansas State Teachers' college of Emporia, holding a close lead all the way, won its second basketball game of the season from Kansas State college tonight 24 to 21. The Emporians took the lead after eight minutes of the first half with a score of 5 to 4 and led 13 to 6 at the half.

"Egg" Manske, Northwestern's star football end, made 15 personal fouls in his first professional football game this season, being ejected on the four-foul rule in the first three games.

Thornhill Uses Final Two Days Drill on This Work

PASADENA, Cal., Dec. 29 (AP)—With their New Year's day football adversaries less than 48 hours away from the battle field, Stanford's Indians today set about a two day schedule of learning as much as possible about Columbia's plays.

Coach Tiny Thornhill postponed until the eleventh hour the necessary chore of preparing a defense for the attack he expects from Lou Little's Lions. All this week as the Redskins practiced they have been using the well known Stanford style of play.

Hopes for Best The big coach hoped for the final two workouts to have all his sick and injured players back in uniform so the dress rehearsal for defense could be put on with a full cast, but a stray cold germ caught Bobby Grayson in its grip and the star ball carrying back was temporarily out of action.

However, there was no thought here that Grayson would not be able to start the game Monday and right with him will be Monk Moscrip, injured end, and probably Wes Muller, star center, who has been seriously indisposed.

No Stanford scout saw Columbia play this season, so Coach Thornhill is not supplied with a blue print of the intricate criss-cross shift from which the Lions go into the line of scrimmage but he had a general idea of the formations and these he has imparted to the Reds.

Columbia alumni are bobbing up from almost every section of Southern California and many of them will have a chance to cheer for their alma mater for the first time since they left.

Hawkeye Cagers Swing Through Stiff Scrimmage

After a morning session of the usual drill in fundamentals, the Hawkeye basketball squad held its lengthy scrimmage during the afternoon session in the fieldhouse yesterday. The entire squad were held at work in the smoke filled fieldhouse, competing with the activities of the men working hard toward completion of the second deck of bleachers.

Every cager received a stiff workout as Coach Rollie Williams tried various combinations of players for the stopping of the University of South Dakota team in the after vacation opener next Tuesday night. With Ben Selzer recovered from the foot injury and Johnny Grim on hand, the regulars performed as a unit.

Steady Rain Fails to Stop East's Team

Schammel Will Start; West Outfit Holds Chalk Talk

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 29 (AP)—Through steady rain this afternoon coaches of the Eastern and Western squads drilled their players in final heavy workouts for the annual East-West charity football game here New Year's day.

The fields were wet and slippery, but the players sloshed through practice (that included light scrimmage on the part of the Easterners and defensive preparations by the Western luminaries).

Mixed Scrimmage Coaches Andy Kerr and Dick Hanley of the East team mixed up a scrimmage session during the two hour turnout, meanwhile switching players in and out of positions in an effort to determine the best starting combination.

Wet weather was the least of their worries, according to Coach Kerr who pointed out the Eastern boys "thrive on rain."

"We get plenty of this kind of weather back east," Kerr said. "Here you fellows run to cover after the second rain drop, but it doesn't bother us. I don't think it will affect our play if it rains all day next Monday."

Backfield changes were made again with both Charley Soland of Colgate, and Paul Pardouner of Purdue, alternating at the quarterback position on what is expected to be the eleven that lines up for the kickoff. Healtie Peathers of Tennessee, was used frequently at the left halfback berth, as was Herman Everhardus of Michigan, Mike Sebastian of Pittsburgh, and Joe Laws of Iowa, took turns at right half and Nick Lukatski of Notre Dame, and Ed Danowski of Fordham, divided the fullback duties.

While the rest of the team that will assemble for the kickoff has pretty well been decided upon, the coaches said they would not be ready to make an announcement until the day before the game.

The rain that doused the East's Stanford university field also soaked the Westerners' gathering ground at the University of California. After a 45 minute turnout, Coaches Percy Looey, and Grim Hollingsberry, brought their charges inside for a chalk talk.

Signal drill and concentration on defense made up the West's practice. "They've got the plays and now it is a matter of polishing up," said Coach Looey.

Rise of Football, Basketball Teams Heads Iowa Athletic Rally in Western Conference

Laws, Schammel, Crayne, Moore, Ricke, Dean, Selzer, Blackman, Bastian, Grove, Harman Turn in Sparkling Individual Feats

Iowa and 1933! That means Iowa and recovery, Iowa and a great athletic comeback. True, the Hawkeyes won no titles and came no closer than third place, but from third to last is a huge gap and that's where the Hawks were just one short year ago.

To the Hawkeye athletic fan, 1933 means the year of the Uni-versity of Iowa football and basketball upturn after seasons of depression, brilliant team performances in baseball and swimming, and sparkling individual feats ranging from Bill Ricke's 60-bit 100m pitching epic to Joe Laws' long touchdown sprints.

All Contenders While no Iowa team finished in first place, the football, basketball and basketball teams were dangerous contenders for titles throughout the season, each finishing in the first division in the final standings.

Foremost was the swift comeback of the football team, ranked by Associated Press poll as the tenth most sensational achievement of any American team in any sport, amateur or professional.

Two Upsets Winning three of five conference games, Iowa was responsible for two of the greatest upsets of the year. The Boice-coached team won its first conference victory in four years when it upset Northwestern, 7 to 6, in the opening game and defeated by giving Purdue its first defeat in 21 contests.

Along the way the Hawks barely lost to Michigan, 18 to 7, thrashed Wisconsin, 24 to 7, and defeated Iowa State in the renewal game of the traditional series, 27 to 7.

Great Oiler Team In all the history of the school no Iowa basketball team never was able to win 15 games in a single season until Coach Rollie Williams' quietest turned the trick last year. The final count found only five defeats on the list, and eight of 12 conference games were credited to the Hawk dribblers.

After dropping the first two conference games, the team won six straight. High points of the season were the 25 to 23 win over Purdue, first All-American game on the home court in four seasons, the 24 to 25 triumph over Michigan in the last two minutes, and the 23 to 23 upset of the previously unbeaten Ohio State team before an Iowa record crowd of 5,500.

The for Fourth The baseball team, playing a shortened schedule, won three while losing two to Ohio in a tie for fourth in the conference. The swimmers were fifth in the conference meet. It was an off season in track, wrestling, tennis and gym, but the golfers won their third straight state championship and the cross country team captured three of five meets.

New Hawkeye coaches and teams carried on despite financial embarrassment from January to June was one of the greatest examples of determination in Iowa history. In all sports except football and basketball, the depleted treasury made it necessary for the athletic board to withdraw support.

Giants' Great Showing Outstanding in Year of Unexpected on Diamond

New Yorkers Never Below Third in March to League Pennant in Senior Circuit

Three Big League Pilots Fired During Year, Three More When Season Closed; Red Sox Rejuvenation Major Event

By HUGH FULLETON
(Associated Press Sports Writer)
NEW YORK (AP)—For all practical purposes, the 1933 major league baseball season could be summed up in two words—"The Giants." But for all the great record of the new world champions, amazing as it was unexpected, there were plenty of other things happening on and off the ball fields during the year.

The fans never quite got over their surprise at the showing of the Giants, even after they had watched the mighty Washington Senators in the world series. Flated at the start of the season as a probable second division club, Bill Terry's scrappers stepped into the thick of the race as soon as the season started and never even threatened to drop out of it.

At no time were the Giants below third place, and the only time they were that low was for a few days at the end of May. They swept Pittsboro into the lead on June 10 and stayed there, clinching the pennant Sept. 19 and finishing with a 5-3 game margin over the Pirates.

Few dared to pick them over the doughty Senators, who had beaten the 1932 champions, the New York Yankees, at their own game. But in the showdown the Giants, with their "town meeting" strategy, which called for innumerable conferences on the field, won four out of five games.

Post-Season Flurry
Behind the triumphs of Bill Terry's club in the struggle for the title lay the broad picture of a whole baseball season, with its broken records, its failures, its surprises and its heartbreaks. And the post-season doings, winding up in a flurry of excitement at the major league meetings in December, were almost as important as the race itself.

The mortality rate of managers reflected the shortage of gale receipts. Three big league pilots felt the axe during the season and another trio went looking for jobs soon after the campaign ended.

Roger Peckinpaugh of Cleveland was the first to go, giving way to Walter Johnson in June. Then the St. Louis Cardinals replaced Gabby Street with Frankie Frisch, and their townsmen, the Browns, followed suit, obtaining Rogers Hornsby from the Cards to replace Bill Killefer.

Marty McManus, who didn't fit in with the reconstruction plans of Thomas Yawkey and Eddie Collins when they took over the Boston Red Sox, was released at the end of the season. Dan Howley of Cincinnati and Ducky Harris of Detroit also were dropped.

Red Sox Rejuvenated
Yawkey's purchase of the Red Sox was one of the major events of the year. The young millionaire began pouring money into the coffers of clubs who had players to sell and in the frantic trading at the winter meetings assembled a team which threatens to go places in the American league next season.

Despite passage of the Sunday sports bill in Pennsylvania, which promised to bring them financial relief, the two Philadelphia clubs were the big losers. Connie Mack, veteran manager of the Athletics, disposed of his great southpaw, Lefty Grove, to the Red Sox, along with Duke Waldner and Max Bishop. George Earnshaw, the big right hander who had been at odds with the manager all season, went to the Chicago White Sox. Mickey Cochran, brilliant catcher, went to Detroit to succeed Harris as manager.

The Phillies, after resisting all offers for several seasons, finally sold Chuck Klein to the Chicago Cubs.

Four Stars Stand Out
On the playing field, Klein, the only National league batter who could keep up the pace of previous years against the "dead" ball; Hubbell, by far the best hurler in the National league's "pitchers' year"; Jimmie Fox, the lone survivor of the array of stars who won three straight pennants for the Athletics; and Lou Gehrig, the Yankees' iron man, were the outstanding figures.

Gehrig, besides continuing in his role as one of the best sluggers, showed fame as a man of endurance when he played in every game and set up a new major league record for continuous service. At the end of the year he had a mark of 136 consecutive games, surpassing the old record of 137, established by Everett Scott. The Yanks, who went through the entire 1932 campaign without being shut out, continued the streak until Lefty Grove blanked them on Aug. 3 to end the record string after 368 games.

The Outing of Manush
The all-star game, between the big league players of the two leagues at Chicago in July was won by the American leaguers 4-2. During the winter the magnates decided to change the game an annual event.

The world series excitement reached its peak in the fourth contest when Heinie Manush, Washington outfielder, was tossed from the game by Umpire Charley Moran. This action, almost unheard-of in world series competition, caused a riot and stormy fury.

Parker Continues Sensational Pace in Indoor Tourney

NEW YORK, Dec. 29 (AP)—Frankie Parker, the 17 year old Milwaukee tennis flash, continued on his sensational way to the national indoor junior tennis championship when he swept into the semi-final round by virtue of another straight set victory in the quarter finals at the 1th regiment army courts today.

ROY, N. M., (AP)—Bill Baker killed a 200 pound buck in his "back yard"—only three miles from his home. But he had to travel a circuitous route through canyons—a jaunt of 60 miles that took him almost a day—to haul his kill home in a motor-car.

Single Men Protest
SIOUX CITY (AP)—A protest against their inability to obtain jobs on government projects because they are unmarried was sent to President Roosevelt by 400 single men of Sioux City.

CHICAGO, Dec. 29 (AP)—Marquette university's basketball team made it two out of three against Big Ten competition when they defeated Chicago tonight by a score of 31 to 24.

The Hilltoppers have defeated Northwestern but have been beaten by Doc Meanwell's Wisconsin team 22 to 39. The win over the Maroons tonight gave Marquette a record of four victories out of five games played.

Placed by the tall forward, Morstadt, Marquette took the lead at the start of the game and kept it. Morstadt, who was high scorer for the evening, made 14 out of his 16 points in the first half. Marquette led at the rest period, 22 to 14.

When the teams came back on the floor again Bill Harlow, playing his first game for Chicago, and Bill Lang, another sophomore, brought the count up to 19 to 22 before the Hilltoppers scored. From then on Gorychka led the visitors' attack and the score stood at 31 to 24 when the game ended.

Bill Lang's eight shots from the middle of the floor which resulted in five baskets were the only offensive tactics which the Marquette team didn't stop.

raising plans such as dances, exhibitions, and skating rinks and because of donations from class funds, the teams were able to compete in fairly representative schedules and, none of the sports were abandoned.

There was no dearth of individual brilliance in practically every sport. Some of the picturesque views from this panorama:

Joe Laws, second all-American quarterback, winner of the Chicago Tribune trophy for the Big Ten player of greatest value to his team, and leading conference scorer; Francis Schammel, named on three major all-American teams at guard; Tom Moore's inspired play at center which gave him all-American honorable mention; and Dick Crayne, who made more yards from scrimmage than any Iowa back in 11 seasons.

Bill Ricks, who pitched the only no-hit no-run game in Iowa history; Sid Dean, who placed in quarter mile of the national collegiate and national A.A.U. meets; Ben Seizer, Iowa's first all-conference basketball player since 1927; Charles Blackman, who pitched victoriously in five of six games, including a pair of two-hit and fourth-inning performance; Howard Bastian, giant center who made 134 points in basketball; Bruce Grove, who placed in two Big Ten distance swimming races; Ralph Harman, state intercollegiate golf champion.

"Redouble," said Haverholt. Patricia passed, feeling that the end had come. There was nothing in her hand; the bidding made her sure that there was nothing in Wally's. Wally passed and Dorothy passed. A dead silence followed. No one stirred.

Baer Wanders From Ring to Court; Sued for $150,000 by a Miss Starr and is Very Angry Indeed

NEW YORK, Dec. 29 (AP)—Maxwell Adelbert Baer, who wanders with equal facility from prize ring to stage to law court, is back consulting his lawyers again, and he says he's mad enough to fight.

A summons to answer within 20 days in state supreme court the complaint of Bee Starr, circus aerialist, in a $150,000 breach of promise suit, was handed Baer early today as he completed his chores in one of Broadway's night clubs.

The aerialist charges that Baer promised to marry her and broke his promise. She said the humiliation, distress and chagrin she suffered caused her to become ill. The promise was made on Nov. 30, she said.

The summons did several things to the curly-headed husky from California who knocked out Max Schmeling in one of the big tussles of the past summer and who is scheduled to fight Primo Camera for the heavyweight championship next June.

First, it sent him to the office of the sheriff asking if something couldn't be done to stop people from taking legal advantage of a little fellow. He was told there was no law against suing people.

It wound up his career as a night club entertainer with a howl of "never again."

It brought him the services of a bodyguard, and aroused in him a deep and fervent desire to return to the comparative safety of the prize ring.

Finally, it brought forth the statement that as far as Miss Starr, who is in vaudeville here, is concerned, he "not only never met the lady, but can't even remember ever having seen her."

"She says I've caused her extreme anguish and distress and have brought upon her the contempt of her friends," he says. "Why I never did that to anyone but Schmeling. I don't even know her."

"I'm all through with night clubs. It's so tough now they won't even let me read my own mail any more, girl was resentful and jealous. She was sorry that Dorothy did not have Haverholt's company. She would infinitely have preferred to slip off by herself, to try to wipe out the memory of the afternoon, to begin the long and bitter calculations that would go into her plans for the future. One hundred and twenty-seven dollars, a debt of honor, a debt that must soon be paid. If she moved to a cheaper place, if she skipped lunches, if she could borrow a little from Leda,

"A penny for your thoughts," said Haverholt, as they slid out into traffic.

"A penny is not nearly enough." "Are you worrying about what you owe me?"

"Worry is a mild way of putting it," confessed Patricia, feeling easier now that matters were on a lighter basis. Dorothy's absence helped. After all, the sun was bright, the sky was blue. She was bowling along in a smart car. The heavens had not fallen. She glanced at the tall gray-haired man beneath the wheel and said frankly, "A hundred and twenty-seven dollars is a lot of money to me. Naturally, I'm worrying."

"I'm afraid I can't," Patricia told him levelly. "Within three weeks I shall pay you every cent."

"I wasn't going to suggest tearing up the I. O. U.," he returned. "Was that what you thought?" he inquired, enjoying her confusion.

Hot-checked, Patricia denied it. Naturally that was what she had thought. Julian Haverholt was a most surprising person.

"I shall keep your I. O. U. until you redeem it," he pursued, "for two reasons. For one, I'm sure you're not a welfcher and for another I'm not in the habit of doubling for Santa Claus. I have no intention of changing my habits even when so charming a young lady as yourself is involved."

"Then I shall go right on worrying," Patricia put in dryly.

"But you needn't," the man paused, continued. "You said today that you didn't have the money with you. Have you got it any place else?"

"No," said the girl, low.

"And where do you expect to get it?"

"That's my problem, Mr. Haverholt."

"At the Beaucarme?" he hazarded.

"And what if I do? That's my concern too."

"Do you really like playing with the tin-horn sports, the quarter-on-a-corner gamblers, the has-beens and the never-wills? Why, Patricia, tell me why?"

"She told him nothing. Her glance was stony. Haverholt persisted.

"Why not let me take you in hand? I'll show you how to earn a hundred and twenty-seven dollars in less than twenty minutes. I'm willing to overlook your rotten performance this afternoon. I still think I can make you into a real card player."

"You're very kind," said Patricia ironically.

"I have my moments of generosity," acceded Haverholt simply, seemingly missing the irony. "I'd like to teach you bridge that is bridge. You needn't be grateful. I'm more than willing."

"Oh, are you?" said Patricia mildly. "And what about me? Suppose I'm not willing?"

"It's a free country," remarked Haverholt and let the matter drop. His indifference disturbed her, gave her a curious feeling of let-down and pique. They drove on in silence. Would he really say nothing more? Apparently he would do just that. For when he spoke he asked her where she wished to be dropped. Patricia informed him. Her tone was flat and tame.

Five More Swim Marks in Star Meet

Spence, Bridges, Knight Lead With Record Performances

MIAMI, Fla., Dec. 29 (AP)—Five national swimming records were swept into the discard today for a total of nine and a mark established in a previously unrecorded distance, in the first two days of the Olympic stars meet in the Miami Biltmore pools.

Leonard Spence, New York A.C. breast stroke ace, was in the lead with three national records for the cumulative score, with Anne Govednik of Chisholm, Minn., Alice Bridges of Whitinsville, Mass., and Lenore Knight of Homestead, Pa., trailing him with two each.

One Each
Miss Govednik and Miss Bridges garnered one each today to add to their singles of yesterday. Ralph Flanagan captured the only other record broken in today's competition.

Miss Knight had to content herself today with equalling her own record of 3:28 2/5 for the 300 yard free style short course. She smashed two national marks yesterday.

Spence's victories came over the 500 meter short course route, cracking the previous mark of eight minutes flat by 12 and 4-5 seconds. He was clocked at the 500 yard line in his meter swim for a time of 7:04 flat.

The previous time for the distance was 7:18 3/5. Both records were established by Nelson Millard in 1930. Spence yesterday swam the 500 meter long course in 8:01 1/5 to establish a time for a previously unrecorded distance.

More Records
Miss Govednik was timed at 2:58 1/5 seconds to better the previous 300 yard breast stroke mark by nine and one-fifth seconds. The former time was swam in 1932 by

News of "Lone Star" and "Texas Girl," two horses purchased from the riding academy of W. H. Small on Lafayette street by John B. Snow of London, has recently been sent to Mr. Small.

"Lone Star" is being trained for polo, but the grooming is light at present until the gelding becomes accustomed to the English climate. According to Harry Beby of Melton Mowbray, England, trainer of the two horses, "Texas Girl" is one of the "sweetest natured horses" he has ever trained, and is his favorite.

The horses were purchased by Mr. Snow last spring when he and Mr. Beby were guests in the Merritt C. Spedel home, 621 S. Summit street. They were sent to England and placed in the custody of Mr. Beby at his Meadowcourt farm.

Mr. Snow is the owner of "Delaneige," winner of fourth place in the Grand National last spring. "Delaneige" is being trained for another run in the same race next spring.

"Improperly," a government stallion cared for by Mr. Small at the local academy, was pronounced the stallion in the finest condition of any he had inspected by a war department inspector who called recently in Iowa City. For this excellent condition, a bride was awarded the local academy.

Katherine Rawls, of Ft. Lauderdale, Fla.

The Minnesota girl yesterday covered the 100 yard route in 1:21 flat, breaking by four and 1-5 seconds Agnes Geraghty's time at Massapequa, L. I., in 1927.

Flanagan bettered by 10 and one-fifth seconds Buster Crabbe's time in the 500 meter long course free style. Flanagan was clocked at 6:30 1/5. Crabbe established his record at Honolulu in 1931.

The fifth national record of the day came when Miss Bridges splashed the 50 yard back stroke distance in 33 1/5, supplanting the previous mark of 35 3/5, set by the late Sybil Bauer at night in 1923.

Grand Rapids Youth Confesses to Murder of Young Deaf-Mute

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 29 (AP)—Captured at the end of a murder search that led from Michigan to California, William McMann, 20 year old electrician, admitted to detectives here today that he was the killer of Margaret Pevey, 20 year old deaf mute of Grand Rapids, Mich.

"I loved her, but she played me a dirty trick," Detective Lieutenants Landley and Bazler quoted the youth as saying in explanation for the slaying of the girl last week in Grand Rapids.

Roosevelt Plans Protections For Small Merchants

WASHINGTON, Dec. 29 (AP)—President Roosevelt began formulation today of plans to solve two problems arising from administration of the national recovery act—the protection of the small merchant from big business competition and the retention of the principles of the Sherman anti-trust law.

He was described as looking favorably on a suggestion advanced by Senators Borah of Idaho and Nye of North Dakota, Republican independents, to establish a board under the recovery agency to look after the complaints of the small merchants.

Endurance Pilots Continue Flight; May Land Today

MIAMI, Fla., Dec. 29 (AP)—Through thunder, fog and brilliant sunshine, Frances Marsalis and Helen Richey continued to fly today to build a new refueling endurance record for women.

They were in their tenth day aloft as they completed their last refueling contact of the day and received sufficient fuel to take them well into tomorrow.

Urges City To Make Jobs For Its Unemployed

Local Residents Should Let Out Odd Jobs, Says Worthley

With less than 900 of the more than 1,700 registered unemployed enrolled on civil works and public works projects, a plea was made yesterday by the Rev. Evans A. Worthley, director of the Iowa City re-employment bureau, for local residents to make full use of the available labor in doing odd jobs about their homes.

Suggested Tasks

Such work as cleaning sidewalks and yards, fixing fences, garages and roofs, remodeling rooms and making additions, painting and interior decorating were suggested as possible means by which citizens might aid in solving the unemployment problem.

"Don't Cloud Seriousness"
The Rev. Mr. Worthley pointed out that CWA and PWA funds are doing an immeasurable service in alleviating the local situation, but warned against allowing the benefits of these efforts to cloud the seriousness of the present condition.

Lemon to Review Year's Happenings

The Rev. W. P. Lemon will review the major happenings of the last year at the morning service tomorrow at the Presbyterian church.

"The meaning of 1933" is his sermon topic.

At Chicago university the dean of students is sending a questionnaire to obtain accurate information regarding their financial condition.

AROUND THE TOWN with

DICK FAGAN

Official

Mrs. Pearl C. Morrissey was granted a divorce yesterday from Clinton G. Morrissey on a charge of cruel and inhuman treatment. District Judge Harold D. Evans reserved jurisdiction over two minor children until further court orders.

Month of Grace

Motorists who wish to store their cars in 1934 will have a month of grace, until Feb. 1, in which to turn in their 1933 license plates and sign a storage affidavit, at the county treasurer's office. Word that the legislature has extended the time from Jan. 1 was received by County Treasurer W. E. Smith in a letter from L. E. Wallace, superintendent of the state motor vehicle department.

Slippery Hills

Sleds will have the right of way between 2 and 5 p.m. Saturday, Sunday and Monday on three different hills in Iowa City, according to Police Chief W. H. Bender. The three hills are: Brown street, from Governor to Dodge; Harrison street, from Clinton to Capitol; and Washington street from Muscatine avenue to Pearl street. Guard rails and policemen will keep automobiles off the streets at these times.

It's the Law

Whether one likes to remove snow and other inconvenient encumbrances from sidewalks or not, the city government insists that something be done about it. The city ordinance provides that if the job is not done within 10 hours the street commissioner shall do it himself without notice and the costs shall be assessed against the property owner. Complaints have been received at the city hall, and Engineer J. F. Spratt suggests that residents look after their walks, or else.

Henry W. Mahnik and Alice Read, both of Davenport, were given a marriage license yesterday at the office of Clerk of Court Walter J. Barrow.

Jury Returns Racketeering Indictments

Second Batch Charges Giant Conspiracy in Chicago

CHICAGO, Dec. 29 (AP)—Charging a gigantic conspiracy to prey on all of Chicago's building construction, coal hauling, excavating, and city contracting, the grand jury returned another batch of indictments today in the campaign to drive racketeering from the city.

"Three Fingert Jack"
The indictments named William "Three Fingert Jack" White, successor to the slain George (Red) Barker as boss of outlaw unions and trade associations, and 16 others as having extorted money from legitimate trade—a quarter million dollars from the coal business alone.

So powerful was the illegal combine headed by White and the notorious Trucking and Transportation Exchange, prosecutors said, that a fair start had been made toward levying a daily fee on every motor truck used in building construction, coal hauling, and other work in the city.

Force Used
Other charges were that the 17 defendants, enforcing their dictates by sabotage and threats of strikes by outlaw unions they controlled, forced contractors to rent trucks, steam shovels and other equipment from certain firms, influenced letting of contracts, made unreasonable demands and called two strikes of city employes to enforce them, and literally drove business men into bankruptcy to fatten their own pocketbooks.

Second Major Move
It was the second major move of State's Attorney Courtney to rid Chicago of racketeering. In the first, he obtained indictments against an alderman, a prominent attorney, and even Al Capone on charges of racketeering in the cleaning and dyeing and the carbonated beverage industries.

Funeral Is Planned For Leah Yoder

Funeral service for Mrs. Leah Yoder, 75, who died yesterday morning at the home of her son, Omar Yoder, near Sharon Center, will be held tomorrow at 2 p.m. at the Evangelical church in Sharon. The Beckman funeral home is in charge.

Mrs. Yoder, formerly Leah Nifenecker, spent all but one year of her life in or near Iowa City. She was born in Sharon township March 28, 1858, and made her home there following her marriage in 1881 to Noah Yoder. In 1912 the Yoders moved to Iowa City where they lived at 611 Oakland avenue.

When Mr. Yoder died in 1924, Mrs. Yoder continued to make Iowa City her home until 18 months ago when she went to Tacoma, Wash., to spend a year in the home of a son, Dr. Edwin C. Yoder. She returned six months ago to the home of her son, Omar, where she remained until her death which followed two years of failing health.

She is survived by her two sons; two sisters, Mrs. Dan Slichter of Iowa City, and Mrs. Elizabeth Green of Keota; and one brother, U. S. Nifenecker of Iowa City.

COUNCIL Delays Action On Light Plant

League of Women Voters was read to the council commending them for their action in obtaining the survey. Also resolutions by the newly formed Municipal Ownership league urging a special election and full consideration of the proposition were presented, as reported in The Daily Iowan yesterday morning.

Amendment To Zoning Ordinance

After a serio-comic public hearing, an amendment to the city zoning ordinance was passed including a 100 foot lot north of the College street park in the business district. M. J. McGovern, who holds a lease on the property intends to open a funeral home there.

Strenuous objections were raised by Dr. John Voss, who wanted the council either to refuse Mr. McGovern's plea or to include the block south of the park in the business district also, and by W. F. Murphy. Mr. Murphy, who insisted that the College street park is "the most beautiful park of its kind in Iowa," decried the encroachment of business establishments in an area hitherto reserved for residences.

The council passed the ordinance admitting Mr. McGovern's property, with the understanding that other adjoining property will be included later. Attorney L. C. W. Clearman appeared with Mr. McGovern.

Other business of the meeting included: Acceptance of a settlement negotiated by City Attorney Thomas E. Martin by which the assessments against the Englert and Varsity, together with the old Garden theaters, were reduced. The Central States Theaters corporation had begun litigation, claiming that the city's assessment was exorbitant. The new assessments are: Englert, $6,000 in 1932 and $5,400 in 1933; Garden, $2,000 in 1932; Varsity, $2,250 in 1932.

Issuance of street improvement and sidewalk improvement bonds totalling $3,482.75. Acceptance of a recommendation by the city planning commission and the city park commission for authority to construct a recreational swimming pool with CWA funds.

Approval of a refund of $50 on the cigaret permit of the Shrader Drug store, which will go out of business Jan. 1, according to the executors of the estate.

Adoption of a resolution to ask the state comptroller to reconsider his recent decisions and to allow the city to make a higher levy for the fire department, making a total increase in the tax levy of about $700. All members of the council were present. Alderman James Stronks was elected chairman of the meeting, in the absence of Mayor Harry D. Breen, who is vacationing in California.

Latin Americans Laud F. D. Stand On Intervention

BUENOS AIRES, Dec. 29 (AP)—The declaration of President Roosevelt that the United States is opposed to armed intervention was welcomed in Latin America today as confirmation of a promise by Secretary of State Hull that American nations need not fear United States interference during the present administration.

Drug Group Elects Rose Secretary

Edward S. Rose of Iowa City was named secretary of the Cedar-Iowa-Johnson-Muscatine District Druggists association at a dinner meeting Thursday night at the Jefferson hotel. Henry Louis, also of Iowa City, was named the delegate to the state convention from Johnson county. Twenty-five druggists attended the meeting.

W. L. Walters of West Liberty was elected president, and T. J. McCabe of Victor was named vice president. Other delegates to the convention are: L. R. Henderson for Muscatine county, O. L. Creswell for Iowa county, and S. L. Gordon for Cedar county.

Ways in which druggists may improve their service to the public provided the theme for after-dinner discussion. Speakers included: Olin E. Hill of Clinton, president of the Iowa State Pharmaceutical association; J. W. Slocum of Des Moines, secretary of the state association; W. T. Harper of Ottumwa, president of the J. W. Edgerly Co., and Verle C. Smith, also of the Edgerly Co.

Plan Funeral For Edward Bronson

Funeral service for Edward Bronson, 77, who died Thursday evening at the home of his sister, Mrs. John Draker, 812 Kirkwood avenue, will be held this afternoon at 2 o'clock at the Oathout funeral home. The Rev. Harry D. Henry, pastor of the Methodist church, will officiate. Burial will be in Oakland cemetery.

Mr. Bronson spent his entire life in Johnson county, coming to Iowa City in 1923 from a farm southwest of Hills to make his home with his sister. His death following a lingering illness.

Corn-Hog Contract Campaign Launched by U. S. Government

Johnson Co. Officials To Receive Directions In Few Days

WASHINGTON, Dec. 29 (AP)—The campaign to obtain signatures to corn-hog reduction contracts was started today by the farm administration with the issuance of administrative rulings and directions to field workers.

First copies of the rulings and directions were airmailed to state extension directors in Iowa, Illinois, Indiana, Ohio, Missouri, Kansas, Nebraska, South Dakota and Minnesota. Copies to county and community committee workers will be sent within a few days.

"Really Begun"

"The completion of the administrative rulings and directions for handling the contracts means the corn-hog reduction campaign has really begun," Dr. A. G. Black, chief of the corn-hog section of the administration, said.

Secretary Wallace said the rulings seek to make the contract clear and insure a fair deal for everyone concerned.

For the most part they concern landlord-tenant relationships, but also make exceptions to application of the reduction program and define methods by which production figures or producers may be checked by local committees.

Payments Shared

Fair division of all money paid as benefits in return for corn acreage reduction is provided for in the ruling which declared that tenants under a crop-share lease during 1934 shall share payments with the landlord on the same percentage basis as the division of the corn crop under the 1934 lease.

In cases of cash rental in 1933 the benefit payments during 1934 are to be distributed equally between landlord and tenant.

Hog Payments Divided

Hog payments are to be divided in proportion to the respective contributions of the producer and landlord in the annual average number of hogs produced for market from 1932 and 1933 litters.

Provision is made in the rulings for farmers who sold sows during the emergency buying campaign last summer. Such producers in figuring their estimates of production during the base period will be allowed to add four pigs to their fall farrowings of 1933 for each sow sold.

Hog producers who do not intend to continue in business may assign their eligibility to reduction and benefit payments to another person providing the latter was not engaged in hog production during the last two years.

Producers who sign contracts are exempt from reduction if their average planted acreage of corn during the last two years was less than 10 acres and if their average number of litters, when farrowing during the last two years was less than four.

The rulings also stipulate what crops may be grown on acreage retired from production and provide that such crops cannot be harvested for hay.
