Madison where she was to leave for Iowa City with another girl student of Ft. Madison. Her suitcase has been found in Ft. Madison railroad station and she was last seen Tuesday afternoon walking down the street at Ft. Madison after keeping an appointment at a doctor's office, according to an Associated Press dispatch.

Mrs. Lee, the Associated Press said, was notified of the girl's disappearance Wednesday afternoon and since then has heard nothing concerning her. She could offer no explanation for her daughter's disappearance.

This was the first experimental flight of the craft, an 11 ton ship capable of carrying nearly 11 tons of fuel.

143 Gangsters Rounded Up In N. Y. C. Drive

Police Respond to New Leader's Clean Up Ultimatum

NEW YORK, Jan. 4 (AP)—One hundred forty-three gangsters paraded into police headquarters today—herded together in a quiet all-night drive on known criminals as Commissioner John F. O'Ryan's administration began to function.

Under the glaring lights of the police spread, the first group taken as police responded to their new leader's demand to "clean up or get out."

The city was excited, the underworld worried as the news of the drive spread, but Commissioner O'Ryan, war-time commander of the 27th division, regarded it as routine.

"It just shows the men are on the job," said the commissioner, who has announced the department will not relax until known criminals are behind the bars or driven out of the city.

It was the biggest police drive since the regime of Commissioner Whelan A. Whalen, but it lacked the Whalen touch. He always announced his drives in advance.

The drive started before midnight and lasted until dawn—police and detectives forgetting their early morning naps, as they answered the promise by O'Ryan and Mayor La Guardia that there would be no political interference in police matters.

18 Go to Trial At Chicago In Racket Probe

Attorneys for Defense Claim Jurymen Are 'Hand Picked'

CHICAGO, Jan. 4 (AP)—An assortment of 18 labor union officials, trade association heads, alleged sluggers and terrorists, an alderman, a prominent lawyer, and a federal labor mediator went on trial today for a huge racketeering conspiracy.

Charges Preferred

They were charged with collecting thousands of dollars from the cleaning and dyeing, carbonated beverages, and laundry industries. It was the first trial in the drive which State's Attorney Courtney claimed has rid Chicago of racketeers.

Selection of the jury proceeded after defense attorneys had claimed in vain that the panel of veniremen was "hand picked."

Attorney Thompson declared the 300 prospective jurymen ready for qualification consisted of 300 names taken from a "term" box, and that prosecutors were acquainted with the characteristics of each individual.

Officials of the jury commission came forward to testify the names were drawn from both the "term" box and from a "general" box containing 15,000 names. Judge Finnegan then ordered the jury selection to start.

Force Used

The defendants were alleged to have formed outlaw labor unions and to have forced workers in the industries to take memberships in them. Firms in the industries allegedly were coerced into memberships in "trade associations."

Arms Accord Is Reached

Mussolini, Simon Will Give Up Proposals Not Usable

ROME, Jan. 4 (AP)—Premier Mussolini and Sir John Simon, the British foreign secretary, reached full agreement tonight on a policy of abandoning disarmament proposals incapable of being put into effect now.

An official communique said the two statesmen favored abandonment of such measures and adoption of others that offered practical fulfillment.

The communique was issued after a banquet given for Il Duce and Sir John by Sir Eric Drummond, British ambassador to Italy.

Pair Held For Embezzlement

PORTLAND, Me., Jan. 4 (AP)—Sherman Bowring, 20, and William H. Crowley, 33, were held Thursday on charges of embezzling 1,600 special knapsacks manufactured by an Orono firm for the Bolivian army. Police said the pair had used the knapsacks to camouflage truck shipments of liquor to Boston.

Workers Continue Search for Dead In Flood District

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 4 (AP)—As more than 1,000 workers continued the search for bodies, the fluctuating death list in the New Year's eve flood tragedy in Los Angeles suburbs was reduced to 38 in a coroner's report late today.

The number of persons still reported missing was pared down to 60.

Slow Progress On Liquor Bill In Legislature

Members Decide To Reconsider Vote On Reselling

DES MOINES, Jan. 4 (AP)—Slow progress was made today by the Iowa house of representatives in consideration of the liquor control bill.

After spending virtually the entire morning to pass an amendment, by Representative Mitchell of Webster, which would permit druggists to resell liquor on prescriptions of licensed physicians, the members back tracked in the afternoon and approved a motion to reconsider their vote.

Without a record vote the house approved a list of clarifying and corrective amendments by its liquor control committee. It also put its stamp of approval on another committee amendment which would permit manufacturers to purchase alcohol direct under special permit, but would require the posting of a $2,000 bond.

Among the approved committee amendments was one which would place the cost of the special permit at $3 and would change the name of the bill from the Iowa temperance act to the Iowa liquor control act.

Animated Debate

As the house adjourned for the day, the members were in the midst of an animated debate on an amendment by Rep. Durant of Hancock which would prohibit all local advertising of liquor. As the bill originally was drawn, the control commission would have had authority to permit use of advertising.

500 See Film On Plant Life

Despite inclement weather, nearly 500 persons packed chemistry auditorium yesterday afternoon to see the first of a weekly series of university film programs. Botany was the subject of the initial presentation.

"Time-Lapse" Photography By use of the "time-lapse" method of photography, three of the sound films gave a graphic account of the growth and development in the life cycle of the pea, the role played by bacteria in plant life, and the characteristics of a parasitic plant, the dodder.

A travelog film of the outdoor life of Java, the "flaming" isle, with its wealth of vegetation, both wild and cultivated, completed the program.

Favorable comment concerning the new venture with motion pictures was received by Prof. Robert E. Wylie, chairman of the film programs committee. Ushers will be provided for future presentations, Professor Wylie indicated, to seat the audiences expected to attend.

Geology Film Next While the film presentations were scientifically accurate, they were generalized sufficiently to be intelligible to the general public, members of the botany department pointed out.

Next week a similar presentation will be made concerning geology.

Labor Wants U. S. Control Of Railroads

Present Methods Of Financing Rapped As 'Destructive'

NEW YORK, Jan. 4 (AP)—The new alternative to the "destructive policy" of financing railroads, A. F. Whitney, president of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, declared tonight, "is government ownership and operation."

Addresses Mass Meeting

Addressing a mass meeting of the Farmer Labor Political federation at Cooper Union, the labor leader said that "since government money must be used to assist the railroads, railroad labor believes it is justified in insisting that the former unwise financial policies of railroad financiers be stopped and that the government take over the job of financing railroads."

To Relieve Industry "We propose," Whitney added, "that the government provide credit for the continued operation of the railroads, take the profit out of furnishing credit and relieve the industry of that evil and unnecessary load. The past destructive and reckless financial policies of the railroads... justify the demand that the government take over the whole job of financing."

"Only Alternative" If industrial and financial leaders continue to insist upon "a destructive policy of railroad consolidation with the consequent virtual wiping out of small communities throughout the nation and if private interests insist upon the freedom to follow such short sighted financial practices," Whitney said, "then there is only one alternative."

"And that alternative," he said, "is government ownership and operation."

Declaring that most consolidation proposals "are not designed with a view to the general welfare, but with the narrow and selfish purpose of enhancing private profits," Whitney said: "It is proposed to blot out small communities throughout the nation, impair the efficient nation wide railroad service we now enjoy, destroy the life insurance and other property rights of hundreds of thousands of American citizens—railroad workers and inhabitants of small communities—and add more than 300,000 men to the already intolerably large number of unemployed railroad workers."

Whitney said it is "contended by railroad managements and financiers that employees have no rights to the fruits of their increased productivity because such increased productivity has been brought about by expenditure of capital funds."

John M. Thompson Wins Recognition in Advertising Contest

Five advertising students of the university have been named prize winners in an advertising contest conducted recently by Small, Kleppner, and Seiffer, Inc., a New York advertising agency, for one of its accounts, the E. F. Foutger & Co. Inc., distributors of Vapex.

John M. Thompson, G of Des Moines, has been awarded honorable mention in the national contest, being one of 15 students so honored of 1,573 who participated. There were 45 recognized schools where advertising courses are offered taking part in the contest. Mr. Thompson's prize is a certificate of award.

He also won a check for $4 as first in the school prize, a secondary phase of the contest. Martha B. McKay, J3 of Eldon, won second school prize of $2. Jack A. Duval, A4 of Davenport; Phyllis M. Michael, A4 of Ottumwa; and Waldemar A. Schmidt, A4 of Sioux City, were given honorable mention.

Mr. Schmidt is a student in Prof. Norman C. Meier's class in psychology of advertising. The other four students are in the advertising classes of Charles L. Sanders.

Confirmation of Morgenthau, Landis Appointments Nearer

WASHINGTON, Jan. 4 (AP)—Stumbling blocks in the way of confirmation of Henry Morgenthau, Jr., as secretary of the treasury and James M. Landis of Massachusetts as a member of the federal trade commission tonight apparently had been removed.

Senate Republican leaders decided not to make a party issue of the discharge by President Roosevelt of William E. Humphrey of Washington, a Republican, to make a place on the trade commission for Landis.

The Landis appointment was one of those made during the recess of congress. Humphrey was removed by the president and took his case into the courts, contending he was ejected without cause and was entitled to his pay.

The nomination of Morgenthau to be secretary of the treasury today was assured of quick confirmation after the senate finance committee had unanimously approved it and Senator Long (D-La.) had announced on the floor he would not contest the appointment.

Morgenthau appeared in person before the committee and after a lengthy examination as to his qualifications by committee members and by Long, a non-member, regarding internal revenue bureau cases, all 18 senators voted for a favorable report.

Early Start Foreseen On Borrowing

WASHINGTON, Jan. 4 (AP)—A quick start on the task of borrowing $10,000,000,000 in six months is planned by the treasury.

Administration leaders are confident the banks have ample resources to absorb these flotations for financing the recovery campaign. This view was expressed today by a high authority in the treasury.

Exact Date Undecided

The exact date of the first issue and the type of paper to be offered is undecided, but it is considered certain to come long before March 15, when a $460,000,000 certificate issue matures.

An important factor in all treasury plans will be banking and business reaction to President Roosevelt's budget message, which forecasts a new public debt peak of $31,834,000,000 on June 30, 1935.

Public Opinion

Treasury officials said they believed Mr. Roosevelt's advocacy of holding "the total debt within this amount," and his view that the budget should be completely balanced in 1936 would help to crystallize public opinion in favor of the president's program.

It is evident the administration is relying on the assistance of the federal reserve system in accomplishing its borrowings—$6,000,000,000 of new money and $4,000,000,000 to meet maturities.

Federal Reserve Cooperation The system's cooperation is expected to be forthcoming. It is believed this problem was reviewed thoroughly by reserve bank governors at a recent meeting, while in the last week, Mr. Roosevelt has been in repeated conferences with Governor Black of the federal reserve board.

Latest reserve board figures showed the banks had $2,432,000,000 of government securities in their portfolios, an increase of $581,000,000 in the last year.

Above Legal Requirements

More than a month ago, the reserve banks halted open market purchases of government obligations, noting that member bank reserves were $800,000,000 above legal requirements.

It can be said definitely the treasury is not now considering resort to a "baby bond" issue or another Liberty loan campaign.

Some unofficial observers have recalled that, under his inflationary powers, President Roosevelt might enter an agreement with the federal reserve board for the purchase of $3,000,000,000 of federal obligations with an issue of United States notes.

No Substitution Officials declined to comment on this possibility, but President Roosevelt's budget contained increased funds for paying interest on the public debt, which did not indicate substitution of a non-interest bearing note for interest bearing securities.

Republicans Decide Not To Take Issue On Ousting

WASHINGTON, Jan. 4 (AP)—The nomination of Morgenthau to be secretary of the treasury today was assured of quick confirmation after the senate finance committee had unanimously approved it and Senator Long (D-La.) had announced on the floor he would not contest the appointment.

Morgenthau appeared in person before the committee and after a lengthy examination as to his qualifications by committee members and by Long, a non-member, regarding internal revenue bureau cases, all 18 senators voted for a favorable report.

Party Majority Augurs Good Sailing for Largest Peacetime Program in History of Nation

St. Lawrence Treaty Put On Calendar List

Protocol for World Court Adherence Not Included

WASHINGTON, Jan. 4 (AP)—The administration program for congress began taking shape at a White House conference late today with the St. Lawrence waterways pact written on the list for this session and the protocol for adherence to the world court being rubbed off.

Silver Prominent

Silver also came prominently to the fore in the president's discussion with congressional leaders today and there were subsequent intimations of new administrative moves on this subject with a diminishing prospect of legislative action.

Senator Robinson of Arkansas, Democratic leader, canvassed the whole legislative situation with President Roosevelt.

"We feel that the situation in Europe is so complex," he said, "that this is not an opportune time to proceed with the world court resolution."

Early Action Expected "A St. Lawrence treaty is on the calendar and I believe the senate will take it up in the early future."

The senate leader offered no predictions on the outcome.

This will give the senate something to do while the house is busy on its appropriation and revenue bills.

Robinson said he was confident congress could adjourn between May 1 and May 15.

Hopes Fading for 129 Miners

Day Long Efforts At Rescue Prove Futile

DUCHCOV, Czechoslovakia, Jan. 4 (AP)—Hope was abandoned for 129 entombed miners in the "Nelson III" coal mine tonight when, after day long efforts to conquer an underground fire which repeatedly broke out in the workings, engineers concluded there was no chance of reaching the men alive.

The only survivors of a terrific blast that imprisoned the workers were four who escaped immediately after the explosion. A total of 11 bodies was recovered, making the aggregate conceded death toll 140.

Nearly three-fourths of the victims were heads of families.

One generally accepted theory was that the explosion was caused by the combustion of coal dust.

No New Taxation

A total lack of reference to new taxation, combined with optimistic phrases as to the business outlook, encouraged Wall street to a rally which transmitted itself to the grain pits. Of the future, the chief executive said:

"It is evident to me, as I am sure it is evident to you, that powerful forces for recovery exist. It is by laying a foundation of confidence in the present and faith in the future that the upturn which we have so far seen will become cumulative. The cornerstone of this foundation is the good credit of the government."

Profound Effect

"It is, therefore, not strange nor is it academic that this credit has a profound effect upon the confidence so necessary to permit the new recovery to develop into maturity.

"If we maintain the course I have outlined, we can confidently look forward to cumulative beneficial forces represented by increased volume of business, more general profit, greater employment, a diminution of relief expenditures, larger governmental receipts and repayments and greater human happiness."

A Municipality Follows

VIEWING the federal situation, it is perhaps not surprising to learn that Fiorello H. LaGuardia, new fusion mayor of New York city, is asking that powers far greater than any ever granted a municipal executive be granted him, in order that he might reduce the city's inflated expense.

Just as President Roosevelt recognized that he could never accomplish the many things needed immediately, hampered by slow and often cumbersome action of the legislature, so LaGuardia has realized that he must act alone to effect the economies he proposes.

And just as in the case of the federal situation, the only considerable body of opposition has been from those who stand to lose materially by the president's action—members of the opposite party and certain financial interests—so it is to be expected that the loudest cries of horror in New York city will come from the long line of parasitic jobholders which drifted over from the Tammany reign.

This expectation, as a matter of fact, is already finding fulfillment. The first important opposition came from the most unbecoming quarter, from City Comptroller Prial. Cutting wages, says Prial in his most political manner, would mean breaking campaign pledges.

To which LaGuardia has fitly answered that the pledge was to maintain salaries wherever it was decently possible. This pledge, it is pretty safe to assure, is one that the great majority of long suffering New Yorkers won't mind the mayor's breaking!

The powers which LaGuardia asked in this emergency are the right to cut salaries, eliminate unnecessary offices, and co-ordinate municipal departments. There is nothing of a drastic nature in the changes which he proposes to make. Municipalities throughout the United States have long recognized the desirability of centralizing the executive powers of the city as much as possible.

The federal government has led the way for these municipal governments, and if LaGuardia succeeds against determined opposition, New York may also follow.

Wise or Die-Hard?

WITH the opening of the seventy-third congress, one question again becomes pertinent in political minds: What are the Republicans going to do about it?

The "it" means a multitude of things. First and foremost it means the party's own lack of anything which might be described as organization or leadership. It means the conspicuous success of the federal Democratic regime. It means the policy which the Democrats and the Republicans will pursue in this session of the congress.

The Saturday Evening Post, in a recent editorial, called somewhat vaguely for a "new" Republican party. The Republican New York Herald-Tribune advised the Grand Old Party that its present grave defect is its lack of young leaders. The party, it said, is overrun with old die-hards, who, in attempting to hold fast to what they have, are killing the few remnants of the party.

How true this assertion is will soon be seen. One method of suicide which is almost certain will be to put up a stubborn opposition to the policies of the president and the Democratic leaders in the legislative session, of the kind that the Democrats offered Herbert Hoover two years ago. The important difference is that popular support was with the Democrats then. It will not be with the Republicans if they oppose Roosevelt today.

If the die-hards among the Republicans attempt to discredit the work of the president, they will not only lose public support, but they will lend additional sympathy to the Democratic policies.

On the other hand, if the Republicans are wise, they will not oppose the president. Though this may not bring results in next year's elections, and perhaps not even in 1936, the party will be in a stronger position when the time does arrive for them to take over governmental reigns, either of states or of the federal government.

This is a real Republican crisis. If the leaders act wisely they may weather the storm, as they weathered Bull Moose and the Progressive movement of recent years. If they are die-hards, they will go the way of the old Federalists.

A New Year's Statement

By A. W. Robertson, Chairman Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company

The United States government is spending three billion, three hundred million dollars on public works. In 1932 the American people, at the bottom of the depression, spent approximately four hundred billion dollars in the buying of goods and services. These figures are startling. Even taking into account the various processes of turnover taken by our public works dollars as they multiply themselves, appearing and re-appearing in pay rolls in the purchase of materials, in consumer purchases, in retailer purchases, in wholesaler purchases, etc., etc., still this public works program of the United States government amounts to only a small fraction of what Mr. Public Citizen spent in one year of depression.

If we study these figures for a moment we see how much more important individual and corporate spending is than governmental spending. A 10 per cent increase in what the consumer, corporate and individual, spends would amount to forty billions of dollars, or more than 10 times the amount the government is spending on public works. A comparison of this nature shows definitely that the normal exchange of goods and services by persons and corporations is the base upon which business and business recovery must rest. Government cannot by spending or by law create good business. It can feed and clothe us, perhaps, for a time but it cannot legislate prosperity.

Practically all spending is for future needs. We buy clothes to wear tomorrow. If we knew we were going to die tomorrow we would not buy the clothes, or at least we would buy only one suit. We build houses to live in tomorrow. We build ships to sail in tomorrow. The buying and selling of goods and services is stimulated or retarded by persons and corporations directly as they have confidence in the future. Unless tomorrow has a pleasing and definite outline we put off buying until we see its outline more clearly.

Now that NRA, AAA, CWA, etc., are swinging into action, the future is beginning to take a more reassuring form than it had a few months ago. In other words, we are getting used to the present, so that our tomorrow begins to take on the form of something we understand and for which we can plan. As this concept becomes more definite in our minds, and we gain confidence in this tomorrow, our buying of goods and services will increase, which means the end of the depression and better times for everyone.

A Missouri college, 64 years old, was sold at auction the other day, the property including good will, the college colors and a halfback.—Des Moines Register

GOOD MORNING. Reactionary tongues will wag excitedly for the next few months over the president's message to congress, for he left himself wide open to that kind of criticism.

The loudest outcries will be directed against his final words in which he said: "I know that each of you will appreciate that I am speaking no mere politeness when I assure you how much I value the fine relationship that we have shared during these months of hard and incessant work."

"Out of these friendly contacts we are, fortunately, building a strong and permanent tie between the legislative and executive branches of the government."

"The letter of the constitution wisely declares a separation, but the impulse of common purposes declares a union. In this spirit we join once more in serving the American people."

This will cause an explosion among slogan philosophers that might easily work them into a frenzy of emotion and oratory. Chicago's two newspapers with the most advertising in America will have editorial hemorrhages as they attempt to lead the poor benighted public back to the constitution with exclamation marks.

But I suspect that the public is no more susceptible today to exclamation marks than to high pressure oil promoters. The public is experiencing a return to political as well as economic sanity.

The truth of the matter is that the Roosevelt-vietan cooperation between the executive and legislative branches at Washington is the most progressive and significant advance in governmental procedure that this nation has witnessed in many, many years.

Whether the constitutional separation of the executive and legislative departments was wise or not is a moot question. It is a fact, and for the sake of argument it might as well be considered wise. But because they are separately elected and their powers defined in the constitution does not mean they are under mandate to conduct the affairs of government like a dog fight, or that they are forbidden to work together toward a common goal.

So far the congress and the president have cooperated. The president has, as a president worth his salt should, formulated a definite administrative program with which to meet the problems confronting the American people and to prepare for a more sane national economy for the future.

This program he has submitted to the congress for its approval and the congress has, after deliberation, approved. In so doing, congress performed the only function for which it was designed—determining national policy. Details of this program as it fits the congressionally approved policy, have been left for the executive branch with its expert administrative agencies.

Conduction of government in this way deprives the congress of none of its constitutional authority or power, nor does it add a whit to that of the president. If after deliberation—or without deliberation, for that matter—the congress should decide upon some other policy, it would require only a roll call to effect a change. Distribution of power, in other words, remains as it has always been: the president is the general manager, the congress is the board of directors, and the people are the stockholders.

Professor Will Tell Of Depression In Lecture

Since coming to the university in 1894, Prof. Harry G. Plum of the history department, who will appear on a series of Baconian lectures tonight at 7 o'clock in chemistry auditorium, has assumed the roles of educator, author, and lecturer.

"Some aspects of an earlier depression" is the subject Professor Plum has chosen for his lecture tonight, which will be broadcast over WSUI.

He received his Ph.D. degree here in 1894 and his M.A. degree two years later. In 1906 he was awarded a Ph.D. degree from Columbia university, and the next year studied at the Sorbonne in Paris, France.

After the World war, Professor Plum was speaker for the League to Enforce Peace, and also in advocacy of the League of Nations. He is a member of the American Historical association, the Mississippi Valley History association, and Iowa Social Science association.

In 1918 he was representative of a United States committee of public information at Camp Dodge.

He is the author of "The Teutonic Order" and monographs on "The Monroe Doctrine and the War," "The Economic Interpretation of the Protestant Revolution," and "English history in the American High School." Professor Plum collaborated with G. G. Benjamin in writing "A Modern and Contemporary History of Europe."

Room Decoration Lifts Ping-Pong To Higher Status

The ping-pong room at Iowa Union, which has never been much more than a passage-way used in its idle moments by ping-pong players, is now developing a character of its own by means of a new paint job, which is to make it definitely a ping-pong room.

Its walls, which have always been a dismal basement gray, will be painted black halfway up and scarlet the rest of the way. Its ceiling is to be covered with aluminum paint, giving the whole a modernistic effect.

The offices of Iowa Union were repainted during the holidays, and the front lobby is now being done.

Debate Class Hears Address by Lampe

The present day attitude of churches on social questions was discussed yesterday at 2 p.m. by Prof. M. Willard Lampe, director of the school of religion, in a broadcast before the debate class of Prof. A. Craig Baird of the speech department.

Professor Lampe included the Catholic, Jewish, and Protestant organizations in his discussion of economic and political questions of the hour. His talk also covered the NRA and the Roosevelt program.

Lapp Honored At Meeting Of Physics Group

Prof. C. J. Lapp of the physics department was re-elected chairman of the testing committee of the American Association of Physics Teachers at a recent meeting in Boston, Mass. Other members of the committee are Prof. Frederick Palmer, Jr., of Haverford college; Prof. A. G. Worthing of the University of Pittsburgh; Prof. John T. Tate of the University of Minnesota; and Prof. H. W. Farwell of Columbia university.

Last year the committee organized a nation-wide survey of college physics to be made this year. Fifteen colleges and universities gave the same final examination in January, 1933, in preparation for the survey. Eight additional institutions joined the group in May.

Results were analyzed and keyed by the statistical bureau of the University of Iowa, and returns were sent to individual institutions. At present 130 institutions have signed up to participate in a further testing program, and a total of 200 is anticipated by Professor Lapp.

Former Department Head Visits Here

Hardin Craig, former head of the English department of the University of Iowa, arrived in Iowa City yesterday afternoon en route to California, after having attended the Modern Language association convention Dec. 28, 29, and 30, at St. Louis, Mo. Mr. Craig, who is now connected with Stanford university, left early this morning for his home.

Mr. Craig was a guest of Prof. and Mrs. Baldwin Maxwell, 900 N. Duquesne street, during his stay in Iowa City.

SEEN from Old Capitol

By TOM YOSELOFF

Over in Urbana, Justin McCarthy, columnist on The Daily Illini, University of Illinois paper, invites attention to my comment criticizing the Technograph, the Illinois engineering monthly, for its new policy. It seems that the Technograph has deserted the more serious aspects of engineering, and has gone in for more-or-less indelicate humor and "dirt."

Quoting the suggestion offered in this department about two weeks ago, that "writers would do well to give unto Caesar the things that are Caesar's and unto Winchell's, Mr. McCarthy comments: "Maybe Mr. W. S., the daring guy who wrote a letter to the editor commenting on the deadness from-the-ears-up of the college engineer would be able to explain to Mr. Yoseloff just why the staff of the Technograph is unable to make a paying proposition out of a technical engineering magazine . . ."

This department refuses to so far incriminate itself as to admit that college engineers are dead "from-the-neck-up." If Mr. W. S. is right, however, the logical solution would be to suspend the engineering publication, and allow the too-dumb engineering students to read the university comic magazine, which surely contains enough dirt so that a competing mag is not needed. At any rate, Mr. McCarthy and Mr. W. S., the opinion in this corner still remains what it was two weeks ago.

Law Professors Given Positions On Committees

Four members of the college of law faculty were given positions on various committees and round tables at an annual convention of the Association of American Law Schools held Dec. 28 to 30 in Chicago.

Prof. Percy Bordwell was placed on a round table on property. This round table will meet with one on legislation next year. Prof. Paul L. Sayre will continue as chairman of a committee on the review of law books.

A report on a committee on criminal law procedure was given by Prof. Rollin M. Perkins, who is the present chairman of an auditing committee.

Ramblers In Clinton; U. Hi at Tipton

After Seventh In Row From St. Mary's 5

Fear Letdown After St. Joe's Game; Should Remain Unbeaten

Somewhat spent, but greatly elated as a result of its sensational win over the crack St. Joe's five of Rock Island, a weary, but unbeaten band of Rambler cagers returns to the road tonight in a clash with St. Mary's of Clinton at the latter's floor.

The Marians will be guarding against the customary let-down typical of most teams that have emerged from torrid frays and encountered supposedly inferior opposition in ensuing contests and consequently, are not underestimating the strength of the Clintonites despite their mediocre record to date.

Loss Two While the Clinton five has fallen victim to St. Ambrose and Immaculate Conception, both of which were decisively beaten by the Sueppelmen, they will have an advantage over the invaders in that the latter will have had but one day of rest following Wednesday's grueling tilt.

Court a Handicap The fact that the contest is being staged at the small, tricky Clinton court will most likely detract from the effectiveness of the rangy Ramblers who have been often troubled in the past by lack of playing space in visits to the St. Mary floor.

Should Win St. Mary's of Iowa City has the talent, the coach, and the will to win. It is a team which will benefit greatly as a result of the close call in the Rock Island game. That it has the stamina to survive brutal and hard-fought contests is evident from Wednesday's events. Accordingly, the Blue quintet enters tonight's tilt a decided favorite to hang up its seventh consecutive win of the year. Only a let-down of the most amazing type can thwart a Rambler triumph.

Jr. Hi Teams Ready to Play

Miller, Kistler Round Out Yearling Fives

Facing a tough schedule and suffering the loss of all of last year's regulars, Coaches Clarence Miller, Iowa City high, and Joy Kistler, University high, are preparing their junior high school basketball teams to go to their first battle within the next two weeks.

The strong Wellman five, with no new additions to the line-up since last season, perhaps the league's greatest threat, will be the first to break in on the local teams, invading U. high Jan. 12 and City high Jan. 19.

Grinnell at Washington GRINNELL (AP)—A rapidly improving Grinnell college basketball team will open its Missouri Valley conference schedule against the Washington Bears at St. Louis Saturday night.

Cagers Prepare for Wildcat Invasion in Opening Contest Of Western Conference Race

After a day of rest following Tuesday's narrow escape, the University of Iowa cagers settled down to the serious business of preparing for a long conference season that opens tomorrow with Northwestern.

Coach Dutch Lonberg's Wildcats, co-champions with Ohio State last year, will present no such powerhouse as they did last year but will be much stronger than the record indicates. Beaten four times in six practice games, the Purple met such strong teams as Pittsburgh and Notre Dame and made creditable showings.

Johnson and Rieff, who ranked first and second in the scoring, are no longer active but Lonberg has a veteran outfit built around Co-captains Culver and Brewer that will cause plenty of trouble. The present Northwestern team will show a decided gridiron tinge in the husky and bruising play of Al Kawal and Eggs Manske.

Coach Rollie Williams sent his first team through a long defensive drill to perfect a stop for Northwestern's offense which is built largely around the center pivot, Working Ivan Blackmer and Howard Bastian against each other, the Hawkeye mentor pitted the varsity against a second team composed of Don Reed and Bob Leach, forwards, and Joe Richards and Dick Rudd, guards.

Assisting the two centers, who alternated from team to team on each play, were Howard Moffitt and Johnny Barko, forwards, and Ben Seizer and Johnny Grim, guards. The same six men will carry the brunt of the conference attack for the Hawks with Blackmer shifting from center to forward according to the flow of battle tide.

Freddie Atkinson Decisions Bud Green in Six Round Go

Rush Forced to Work Own Show; Bear Pins Backley

By CHUCK GRAHAM (Assistant Sports Editor) Bob Rush, new boxing instructor at the university—promoter by choice, and referee by necessity—pleased a crowd of better than 400, last night, with the opening boxing-wrestling show of the new year at the American Legion Community building, presenting a fast card of up and coming boys that made up in aggressiveness what they lacked in science.

Main Go The main go of the evening, a six round boxing match between Fred Atkinson, crafty colored fighter from Detroit, and Buddy Green, Lone Tree favorite, was fast and vicious all the way. Green tried to carry the fight but the Detroitier had too much science in his favor and stood off at long range, slinging straight lefts and long rights to Green's head.

Uses Ropes Atkinson used the ropes to advantage in the third, springing his way in close to Green to slap him around the ring. Green forgot science and came in wide open, swinging wildly. He was rewarded by being knocked down, partly due to a fast lunge of his own that didn't connect, backed up by a straight left from the fist of Mr. Atkinson. This was the only actual knockdown of the whole fight. The fourth round was slower and ended in a draw, but Buddy rallied and led the fight to take a slight margin in the fifth. The sixth and last round was clearly Atkinson's, the Detroit boy being hardly winded and getting stronger all the time, while Green was wearing himself out trying desperately for one lucky punch that would turn the tide.

White Wins Kid White of Mt. Vernon won a technical knockout over Chuck Madison of Cedar Rapids after one minute and thirty seconds of the second round of a scheduled four rounder. Madison was no match for the faster and smarter White, and was in danger all the way.

Blue Meets Strong Foe In Little 8

Conference Opener Will Do Much to Prove Local Strength

Tonight is the night that will show University high basketball fans just what is in store for the Blue cagers as far as Eastern Iowa Eight play is concerned. The Blue basketeers meet Tipton on the Tipton floor in the conference opener.

On the other hand, the Tipton outfit is one that possesses rangy players, speed, and a most potent some defense that fits their style of play. It is a team of veterans, veterans that last year won second place honors behind the fast traveling West Liberty quintet. With a fast breaking drive for the basket that collects the points, and a height advantage on defense, the Tipton club will be a tough outfit for the Blue to tangle with.

Coach Joy Kistler is uncertain as to his starting lineup, having experimented during the holidays and the practice sessions of this week in an effort to bolster his squad. With an eye to more scoring power through added height in the forward wall, Kistler has intimated that he might start Bob Jessup in the forward position as a running mate for Bob Myers, Thomas, who splits center's duties with Jessup, might also get the call to move to forward.

Need Height In either case, much height will be added. Either can ably fill in the center post. Bob Schnoebelen, speedy forward, has as a disadvantage his smallness. But with a little more polish, Schnoebelen will be a valuable man. Dave Foerster, who has come in for plenty of work at forward, is fitting in nicely, acquiring speed and polish. It is doubtful as to whether he will start the game, however. Charley Smith, veteran of last year, is also a suspected game starter.

There is little to choose between the guards, Fuhrmeister having a little edge in experience and steadiness. It is a toss up between Fuhrmeister and Fountain as to which will take the floor opposite Jim Barron. Barron has been in there all along and should rate the starting position.

Interfraternity Cagers Return

Five interfraternity basketball games were played last night on the fieldhouse courts. Following are the results: Triangle 33; Delta Sigma Pi 16. Sigma Phi Epsilon 19; Phi Chi 15. Delta Upsilon 17; Phi Delta Theta 11. Sigma Chi 20; Alpha Sigma Phi 12.

SALT LAKE CITY (AP)—Jack Dempsey, former world's heavyweight boxing champion, said tonight he and Mrs. Dempsey, the former Hannah Williams of Broadway, are expecting an heir.

Both men fought at 130 pounds. In the semi-windup Joey Slater of New Orleans shaded Jack Burns of Lone Tree. The fight was listless all the way, with neither fighter willing to test the other's power. Jimmy Bear, popular Cedar Rapids grappler, made his second successful appearance in a local ring, throwing Roughhouse Backley of Des Moines in 18 minutes and 30 seconds with an airplane spin and body press. Bear had the going easy and seemed to toy with his opponent until he was ready to pin him to the mat.

Because of an injury received while refereeing a match at Des Moines earlier in the week, Alex Fidler was unable to make his appearance, and Bob Rush acted as third man in the ring for all the matches.

LAFAYETTE, Ind., Jan. 4 (AP)—The basket eyes of Purdue's players were sharper than ever tonight as the Boilermakers overwhelmed an invading Mississippi college team 61 to 25. Purdue led 39 to 12 at the half.

Cotton, with 12 points, and Eddy and Fehring with nine apiece, led the Purdue scoring, while Anderson and Hitt each made eight for Mississippi. The game was the last warm up for the Boilermakers before they open the Big Ten season against Minnesota here Saturday.

Did You Know That Your New Electric Rate Schedule Is One of the Lowest In the State of Iowa?

Iowa towns of more than 10,000 and less than 50,000 population are listed below along with their prices for various consumptions of electricity.

Table with columns: MONTHLY CONSUMPTION, Average Cost for All Iowa Towns Between 10,000 and 50,000 Population, Cost in Iowa City Under the New Reduced Rates. Rows: 20 Kilowatt Hours ($1.43), 30 Kilowatt Hours (2.12), 40 Kilowatt Hours (2.76), 50 Kilowatt Hours (3.39), 100 Kilowatt Hours (5.35), 200 Kilowatt Hours (8.59).

From this data you will note that the Iowa City electric rates are low by actual comparison. If this company did not pay taxes, as is the case with municipal projects, its rates would be much lower. The company tax bill for 1933 was approximately $47,795.50.

Under the new rates you can actually increase your use of electricity from 20% to 70% without increasing your former electric bill a cent.

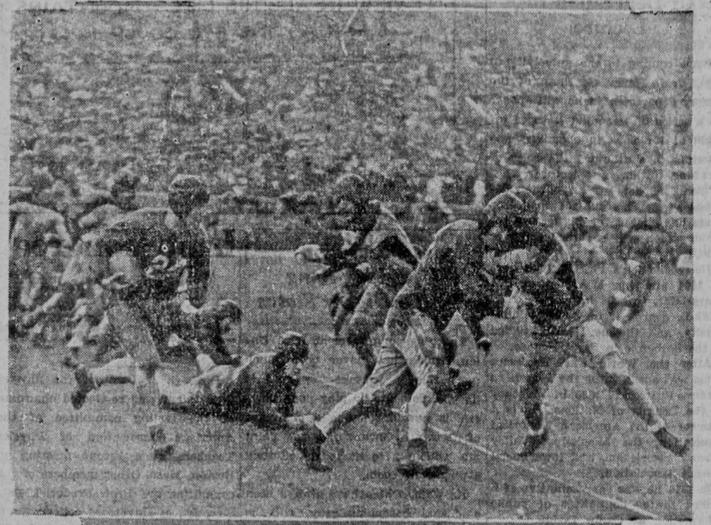

It is naturally expected that the reduced price will increase consumption—thereby partially offsetting part of the total reduction.

Table with columns: City, Population, Monthly Electric Bill for Various Consumptions (20, 30, 40, 50, 100, 200 K.W.H.). Giants Deny Voting Against Adoption of Uniform Baseball

Expect Better Hitting, Just as Good Pitching

NEW YORK, Jan. 4 (AP)—The impression seems to have got about that Bill Terry and his world champion New York Giants are a bit glib about the faster, standard ball that will be unveiled by the American and National league presidents in Philadelphia tomorrow.

So Charles A. Stoneham, president of the club, and Jim Tierney, the secretary, want it understood right now that nothing could be further from the truth; that the Giants, in fact, from Stoneham all the way down through Terry and the rank and file, believe they have everything to gain and nothing to lose by the change.

"As a matter of fact we voted for the change in Chicago when the decision to adopt a uniform ball close to American standards was made at the league meetings," Tierney insisted. "We weren't opposed to it, as stories from there indicated. And here's why:

"We talked it all over—Terry, Mr. Stoneham and I—and Terry told us he was certain he'd hit a faster ball at least 20 points better than the .332 average he had last season.

"He said there isn't a batter on our club who doesn't figure to improve his average a great deal with the new ball. Frank O'Doul, a smart, line drive hitter, should climb back to the top again. Mel Ott, a natural slugger, will be clouting into the stands. George Davis, Joe Moore, Johnny Vergez, all line hitters, will drive more balls through the infield.

The hitting part is generally accepted, but what about the effect of a faster ball on the superlative pitching that carried the Giants to the National league title when the hitters failed last season? Stoneham answered that as Al Smith would.

"Look at the record," he said. "You saw Carl Hubbell, Hal Schreder, Mauer, Dolfo Luque and Freddy Fitzsimmons pitch that American league ball to the Senators in the world series games in Washington."

Local Rainfall Below Normal During 1933

Iowa City rainfall was 5.35 inches below normal throughout 1933, according to statistics compiled by Prof. John F. Reilly, official weather observer.

Temperatures were higher here during the year than were averaged during the 37 years of Professor Reilly's observations. The highest temperature recorded for December was 61 degrees, this being considerably above the average high mark of 52.8 during the past 37 Decembers. The low recording for that month was 16 below zero in comparison to the average lowest readings of 8.5 below.

February and November were the driest months last year with but 23 of an inch of rainfall each. May, unusually wet, had 8.49 inches recorded. The total rainfall for 1933 was 29.22 inches which is 5.35 inches below normal.

KNAVE'S GIRL

By JOAN CLAYTON

SYNOPSIS To help support her stepmother and stepisters, young and beautiful Patricia Warren, a skilled card player, plays bridge for fifty cents an hour at parties given by the wealthy Mrs. Sycoot. Julian Haverholt, noted bridge expert, offers to make Pat his secretary and partner. His amorous advances cause Pat to decline his business offer much to her stepmother's chagrin. Pat meets Clark Tracy, the polo player and her ideal, at Mrs. Sycoot's. She is heartbroken to learn he is engaged to the socially prominent Marthe March. Bill McGee, a racketeer, is interested in Pat but she loathes him. However, afraid to refuse his invitation, she accompanies him to a New Year's Eve dance. He is shot by a rival gangster. Frantic, Pat rushes home only to be put out by her stepmother who says the police are looking for Pat. Unable to find employment, Pat turns to professional bridge. One day, she is stunned when Haverholt happens to be one of her opponents. She becomes unnerved and loses heavily. Haverholt takes her home and renews his bridge business offer. Pat accepts. While celebrating the partnership in Haverholt's home Clark Tracy and another friend, Philip Gove, arrive. Clark does not recognize Pat. Haverholt introduces her as his niece. After the men go, Pat is indignant at Haverholt's pretense. He explains he introduced her as his niece to protect her reputation.

CHAPTER SIXTEEN "And truly I was thinking of you when I introduced you as Patricia Haverholt. As you've probably heard, my own private reputation is none too spotless. I was trying to protect you for the future, really I was."

"Whatever you were trying to do," said Patricia, "I think it's best that we see each other no more until I can pay you the money I owe you. I'll get it some other way. I can't work for you. And it's impossible for me to live here in this house."

She moved away from him. Suddenly he stepped in front of her, in front of the door, and spread his arms.

"You can't leave like this, Patricia," he said, "I won't let you. Get out of my way," Patricia said. "I'm going home."

"No," Haverholt said stubbornly resisting her attempts to pass him. "I know that you plan to go home and cry all night and there's no sense in it. I won't have it. We're going to dine first."

"I'm not hungry, I tell you. Get out of my way. I want to go home."

"Of course you do," he agreed. "You want to creep into your wretched little room, fling yourself across your lumpy, uncomfortable bed and sob and sob. You're all set for an orgy of self pity. I see all the signs of it. It won't go down, youngster, not with me." He ended firmly. "Whether you like it or not, you're going to eat before you leave this house even if I have to resort to forcible feeding."

"You don't know anything about how I feel," protested the girl, half angry, half tearful. "If you did, you'd know that I simply couldn't swallow a mouthful. I—I'd choke."

"I know all about it," he declared in his own high-handed fashion. "You can eat. And, if you still feel wretched after a roast beef and baked potatoes I'll be surprised. Food is a marvelous anodyne for grief and worry and regret and all the sorrows that man is heir to. If every prospective suicide were compelled to eat one ham sandwich there would be—"

"Stop it," demanded Patricia. Despite herself she had smiled. She said resentfully, "Oh, all right, since I must, I'll dine with you."

Her capitulation was distinctly ungracious. Haverholt grinned triumphantly, seized her gloves and pocketbook lest she change her mind, took her hat. Beaming, he led her back into the living room, ensconced her in a comfortable chair, said: "I can have dinner sent in by the caterer around the corner. Or would you prefer a hotel?"

"This is all right," said Patricia coldly from her position on the outermost edge of the chair. Haverholt continued merrily: "The caterer it is then! Let's see now," he murmured, "how about squab and new potatoes and green peas and . . ."

"I'd rather have asparagus with hollandaise," the girl interposed absently.

Haverholt caught her eye. Patricia was a picture of confusion and guilt. Suddenly they both burst out laughing.

"And what do you say to strawberry mousse?" asked the man. "I say grand," she assented meekly.

Haverholt made his phone call. Thereafter, things moved with a swiftness and smoothness bewildering to Patricia, who had never dreamed of an existence so uncomplicated, so easy, so luxurious. Haverholt desired to dine at home. His cook was away. He didn't run to the corner grocery for a can of beans or to the delicatessen for potato salad and cold cuts. He merely phoned the caterer.

Within ten minutes after that call, two taxis drew up outside. A waiter, laden with a tray piled with many covered silver dishes alighted from the first. The second taxi disgorged another waiter, a table, linen, silver, everything requisite to a formal dinner party, even to candlesticks and candles and a low bowl of yellow roses.

High Temperature Melts Most of Snow

A 1 inch blanket of snow covered Iowa City and vicinity yesterday, John F. Reilly, official weather observer, reported. Because of the high temperature, most of it melted immediately.

The temperature varied little through the day. At 7 a. m. the thermometer registered 33 degrees, the highest for the day was 34, and at 7 p. m. it was back to 33.

From the Oklahoma Daily we read that a public speaking instructor flunked a student with the cryptic remark, "So you won't talk, eh?"

Jonas Takes High Honors With 234 Pins

Dunkel Cigar Team Wins Medal For Groups

By DICK NORRIS
N.R.A., C.W.A., or P.W.A. does not make the pins fall any better than they did before. Two men were in the 600 class, however, and 11 managed to get the coveted 600 or more.

The honors were all monopolized again last night, with some competition in the single game individual division.

Jonas was all to the good in the individual class by rolling 234 for high single, and a resounding 678 for the three. McInerney topped 600 by 14 pins.

Dunkel Cigars were the team medalists. Their 917 was away high for single while the total of 2652 was unapproachable.

City Bake lost two to Dunkel's, the Academy won a pair from the poultrymen, with Iowa Supply winning unanimously when Skelly Oil again failed to appear.

'Through Fooling and Being Fooled With?'—Van der Zee

Alderman Pledges To Get Speedy Vote On Light Plant

"I'm through fooling and being fooled with—I'm going to see that Iowa City gets a chance to vote on municipal ownership of an electric light plant," Alderman Jacob Van der Zee said last night.

Election Certain
Alderman Van der Zee said he will present a resolution at the council meeting tonight calling for an election, probably on March 1, and if the council turns it down or tables it, petitions with the necessary number of signatures of property owners from each ward will be presented to the mayor, who according to law, will have to call an election.

The session tonight promises to be the climax to the campaign to have a municipal light plant in Iowa City. Two new groups have been organized in regard to the question. The Iowa City Municipal Ownership league has been active for the last week circulating petitions and getting the required number of voters from each ward, and is backing Alderman Van der Zee in his fight to establish a municipal plant in Iowa City.

Rival Association
The Consumers' Protective association, organized Wednesday night, believes that Iowa City is not ready for an election and is campaigning for postponement. The Iowa City League of Women Voters and the Johnson County Taxpayers league both have endorsed Alderman Van der Zee's program.

The council seems to be divided on the question, two definitely favoring municipal ownership, three not favoring it, and two noncommittal. Mayor Harry D. Breene has not committed himself on municipal ownership but has indicated that the people of Iowa City should have a chance to vote on the question if they desire.

Franchise Expires
The 25 year franchise of the Iowa City Light and Power company expires a week from tomorrow. A substantial reduction in rates was made by the company last month.

Plans for financing the building of a light plant has caused much debate in Iowa City. Walter E. Schwob, consulting engineer, will report tonight on the cost of a plant and means of financing. It is planned to make application for a FWA loan and grant. The loan would then be retired from earnings of the plant. Whether the loan and grant can be obtained depends upon the decision of the federal FWA board.

Prison Trustees Are Back After Holidays

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Jan. 4 (AP)—Alabama prison officials tonight boasted of another Christmas parole record as a check showed that only four were missing among the 330 long termers who left Dec. 20 to spend the holidays at home.

These four were among the 292 long termers who had served more than two years behind prison walls in Alabama and were chosen by their wardens from the state's 5,000 convicts for the annual gift of paroles during the holidays for meritorious service.

In addition, the 38 Negro trustees went home and returned to a man at the end of their parole.

Airport for Boone
BOONE (AP)—A municipal airport is the ultimate aim of a CWA survey of a 60-acre tract adjacent to the city limits. The survey provided six men with jobs. The CWA appropriation was $367.

The $15,000 damage action of Sarah Records against Prof. B. J. Lambert will continue in district court at 9 o'clock this morning. Testimony of doctors in regard to the burns suffered by the girl was taken yesterday. Records claims that Professor Lambert was negligent in leaving a bonfire, in which the 4 year old girl was burned, near his home.

State Game Commission in Session Here

Discussion on Local State Park, Lake Possibilities

Members of the state fish and game commission inspected the state park and artificial lake site in Big Grove township yesterday afternoon. They met in an all day session at the Jefferson hotel to discuss developments of the park here and other proposed parks and artificial lakes in southern Iowa.

"I think it would be a very fine and fitting thing to name the wild life and flora sanctuary to be established at the state park here after Prof. Bohumil Shimek," Dr. W. T. Boone, chairman of the state fish and game commission said yesterday after a meeting of the commission at the Jefferson hotel. "There is probably no person in the state who is so interested or who has carried on such enthusiastic work in preserving the natural flora of Iowa," he said. Dr. Boone said he would make the suggestion to the local park board of the Chamber of Commerce.

Enthusiasm High
Enthusiasm for the Mill Creek project was expressed by all the members of the commission. Dr. W. C. Boone of Ottumwa said the artificial lake would be the second largest in a string of 12 artificial lakes in southern Iowa. He said that a wild life and natural flora preserve would be established at the park, which would include all plants native to this area.

With university facilities, including the zoology department, Dr. Boone believes Iowa City has a great opportunity for the set-up on the fish division of the lake project. He said that there is an excellent opportunity here for the scientific development of fish culture and added that the university should have the fish division.

Other members of the commission who met here include J. N. "Ding" Darling of Des Moines, D. H. Goedeers of Algona, A. E. Rapp of Council Bluffs and James R. Stepp of Jessup. Amos B. Emery of Des Moines of the national park survey; M. L. Hutton of Ames, chief engineer for the commission, and his assistants, H. W. Groth of Ames and Frank Ray of Des Moines; and W. W. Aitken of Ottumwa, fish propagation expert for the commission who will be here a few days to make plans for fish shelters and vegetation on the lake bottom; and I. T. Bode, state game warden, met with the commission.

Divorce Granted To Mrs. Edith Palmer

Mrs. Edith Palmer has been granted a divorce from Lloyd I. Palmer by District Judge Harold D. Evans. She was granted the right to resume her maiden name of Edith Allen and a property stipulation was confirmed. Attorney E. P. Korab represented Mrs. Palmer.

Federal NRA Mediator To Locate Here

A federal NRA mediator will be located in Iowa City within the next few days to help business men interpret their codes and to investigate complaints, it was announced yesterday by Prof. Dale Yoder, chairman of the local NRA complaints board.

Approval to the plan was given by the local board when it was learned from the federal NRA that a mediator could be placed here. The next meeting of the compliance board will be held at 7 p.m. Tuesday at the American Legion Community building. Business men seeking information on codes are invited to attend the meeting.

Information Filed By County Attorney

Information charging William Walsh with operating a motor vehicle while intoxicated has been filed at the office of the clerk of court by County Attorney F. B. Olsen. The information says that Walsh has been convicted twice before on the same charge.

Local Board Seeks Airport Improvement

Application will be made for CWA funds for labor to build a third runway at the Iowa City Municipal airport, Dr. W. L. Bywater, chairman of the local civil works board, said yesterday.

The runway, if approved, will be similar to the two which are now at the airport and will run northwest and southeast across the field. It will be about 150 feet wide. Members of the Chamber of Commerce airport committee and the city council committee are working on the project.

33 Men Employed On Local Projects Since New Year

Thirty-three men have been placed on the airport, pipe line, and CWA projects since Tuesday, re-employment officials announced last night. Some 56 men and women have registered so far this week.

Employers are now calling for skilled laborers, and skilled men are being placed on new jobs, leaving an opening for new workers.
