Hawk's Farewell Ball Will Bid Jessup Goodbye Tonight

New Campus Party to Become Annual Event As Farewell to Graduating I-Men; 600 Couples Will Attend

Vari-colored floodlights will illuminate the dance floor. A gold Hawk's head will appear on the covers of the black suede programs. A black "I" will be printed upon the Hawk. Groups Will Meet Sunday

Promotion of Good Will Is Purpose Of Service

A community religious service, to promote good will and understanding between the different religious and racial groups in Iowa City and to serve as an inducement to help banish mutual antipathy and suspicion in every city and town in the land, will be held in the Congregational church Sunday at 10:45 a. m.

The service is being held as a part of a great national "brotherhood" program inaugurated by the national Conference of Jews and Christians. It will be interreligious, inter-racial, and international in character. A Jew, a Catholic, and a Protestant will conduct the service and various European nations and eastern races will be present in the audience.

The National Conference of Jews and Christians, with offices in New York city, has appointed Dr. S. Parkes Cadman as national chairman. Under his leadership the following "Declaration of Brotherhood" has been broadcast to the American people:

"I intend to do unto others, of whatever race or creed, as I would have them do to me.

"It is my purpose to respect the rights of human beings, and to judge each fellow on his individual merits alone.

"I will oppose every organized effort to evoke fear or hatred of any religious or racial group."

This appeal for the observance of "Brotherhood Day" has the endorsement of outstanding Jewish, Catholic, and Protestant leaders in the United States.

The service at the Congregational church will be conducted by Prof. Moses Jung of the school of religion; Attorney W. J. Jackson, Iowa City Catholic layman; Walter A. Oliver, past president of the Negro Forum; and the Rev. Llewellyn A. Owens, pastor of the Congregational church.

Church School Has Exhibit, Program

Work and objectives of Congregational church school members are represented in the handwork, study material, books and posters which are on display in the classrooms at the Congregational church today and tomorrow from 2 to 4 p. m. Dramatizations, written by pupils and acted by two of the church school classes, were presented. Members of other classes gave short talks on "Our year's work," and international riddles and musical numbers completed the presentation. Serving as interpreters, who bound together units of the program, were Helen Hughes and Tom Ayres. An announcer from each class gave his contribution to the program.

Iowa Shows Appreciation For Good Music

IN THE LAST three weeks, the musical organizations of the University of Iowa have "come to life," after a sort of potential dormancy the first of the year.

The response from the university at large must be gratifying to the music department and the school of fine arts. For Iowa has shown that it can and does appreciate good music.

Each of the recent concerts by the band, orchestra, and chorus, attracted a large audience, which filled the main lounge of Iowa Union to capacity, and which gave signs of its approval in no uncertain terms.

Last night's performance of the symphony orchestra, in its rendition of Prof. Philip Greeley Clapp's composition, offered further proof that Iowa's students want and appreciate the best in music.

But the difficulty is that the musical organizations have given students a chance to hear them "in action" only in the last few weeks. Why should not the music groups make their program of performances a full year proposition, instead of coming to life only in the last month or so of school?

Surely the interest and appreciation which have been shown in these last concerts would warrant consideration by the music department and the school of fine arts.

Those Iowa students who remain in Iowa City over the summer have the opportunity to hear good music throughout the summer, through a series of weekly presentations. Could not a similar program be worked out for the school year?

Iowa students want the feeling and inspiration of beautiful music played by artists "in the flesh."

Good music only one month in the year is hardly sufficient to offset a full year diet of tummy jazz, as served by the radio and the talkies.

Education Moves Away From the Masses

THE ANNOUNCEMENT that Olivet college has decided to adopt a program based completely upon individual student effort, similar to that of the University of Chicago, Colgate, and several other American institutions, is significant not because the small Michigan school has "seen the light," but because this represents a definite movement in American education.

It is a movement of higher education away from the "masses." For popular education must of necessity be based upon standardization; basing education upon individual effort tends to restrict it to those students who are capable of research and study without faculty aid or coercion.

Since the beginning of the century, American higher education had been moving steadily in the direction of ever increasing popularization, and simultaneously in the direction of ever increasing standardization.

The new movement is the logical result of a reaction which made itself felt in the last four or five years. Partially, at least, this reaction was based upon the economic rigors of the times, but behind that lay the feeling of many educators that popular education had failed in a large measure.

Our colleges and universities were filled to capacity with men and women who were unfitted for higher study. Thousands of graduates were sent out into a world that could not absorb them. They were dissatisfied with the lesser things; they had an inflated idea of the value of a college diploma; they had an artificial class-consciousness, based upon four years of effort often wasted and a scrap of paper.

It was only to be expected that this condition would lead to a reactionary movement. Naturally enough, privately-endowed and controlled institutions have taken the first steps in restricting their enrollments and placing learning upon a higher plane.

Public institutions, forced by law in many instances to be lenient in their requirements, are still firm in their belief in the success of popular education. They see in standardization an opportunity to spread culture over the widest territory and through all sections of the population.

Popular education can hardly be said to have failed. Education is still an experiment. Perhaps the public colleges are right in their efforts to make learning popular. But the movement toward restriction of education can not be denied.

What has become of the man who, a year or two ago, was afraid to buy a new car or paint his house for fear the public would criticize him for being extravagant? He is today listed among the heroes who are showing confidence in the government and leading the way out of the depression by buying the things he wants and can afford. —Iowa Falls Citizen

What Others Think

The Widening Home

(From the Christian Science Monitor)
Critics who claim that the family as an institution began to fall when the microscope gave way to the cinema, and that home life went out with the Franklin stove and the post-card album, have been challenged. Speaking recently before the Chicago Association for Child Study and Parent Education, Prof. Paul H. Douglas, University of Chicago economist, had some pertinent things to say.

Professor Douglas pointed out that because members of the family are becoming more economically independent the family revolves less and less around a single industrial focal point, that individual interests are centered less and less in the household. But Professor Douglas declares that such a trend tends to enrich the home rather than impoverish it.

The members of the family, in other words are individuals whose horizons are retreating. They do not look inward to the family circle for their interests, but bring to the family their broadened perspective and richer understanding. The blare of the radio that has supplanted the wheeze of the parlor organ is a sign that outside interests are pouring into the circle, are changing the outlook and widening the horizon.

The real function of the family remains the same. But, through the widening circles of individual activities it is reaching out. The hope for the nations lies in the fact that the comradeship and affection of the family group is embracing more and more people, is proving that the home is the center rather than the circumference of the affections.

Behind The Scenes in HOLLYWOOD

By Harrison Carroll

HOLLYWOOD, Cal.—Countrymen of Karl Dane are smarting under the inference that the former film player would have gone to a pauper's grave if the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studio hadn't stepped in to pay the funeral expenses.

Jean Hersholt, as near excited as I have ever seen him, wants me to explain why the actor's body was allowed to lie unclaimed until Monday morning.

"None of us knew about his suicide until we read it in the Sunday papers," declared Jean. "Nothing could be done about it that day, but the Danish Relief association and a half dozen people called me up offering to bury Karl. We were ready to notify the morgue when the studio, without solicitation from anyone, took over the funeral."

Jean, who knew Karl in the old studio days, was one of filmland's representatives at the services. It was he who called various of his countrymen in Hollywood and took an active part in arranging the final rites.

A little group of English players and writers working out here ease their nostalgia by gathering every Sunday night for cold roast beef suppers at the Leslie Howards.

Here, may be found Nigel Bruce, the actor; Reginald Berkeley, adapter of "Cavalcade"; Monkton Hoff and Roland Pertwee, also slaves to scenarios; Madeleine Carroll, the actress whose beauty and charm have upset half the males in Hollywood, and the William Gargans. Bill is an Irishman but gets in on a rain check.

Later on, the entire party may move over to the Colony club where Howard, frequently in his carpet slippers, wins the title of Hollywood's most nonchalant patron of the midnight rendezvous.

In his more elfin moments, the rotund Herr Lubitsch rivals Vince Barnett or any of the Hollywood ribbers. A recent arrival to work in "The Merry Widow" is Bela Loblov, the violinist. Approaching the musician in businesslike manner, the director asked him to play the obligato "Vilna" into the microphone just as a test for his violin. Loblov put his soul into the piece while Jeanette MacDonald, Maurice Chevalier and the rest of the company stood raptly by. Then Lubitsch called for a playback. Like molten gold came the opening notes. Suddenly there came a faint discord, then a flow of plainly sour tones.

Loblov trembled, looked at his instrument with the stricken eyes of a man betrayed by his love. It was five minutes before a roar of laughter told him that Lubitsch had faked the play-back for a gag.

The local assessor's office was completely flabbergasted when Lella Rogers (Ginger's Ma) asked for a veteran's tax exemption and displayed an honorable discharge of a sergeant in the Marine Corps. Conferences and head-scratchings came to naught. The discharge was there and Lella's name was on it. The lowdown is, she got it for serving in the publicity department of the Marine Corps during the World war.

Many will say that will he talking through his hat, but Will Rogers insists that polo will soon become as popular a game as baseball is today. The comedian plays a mean chucker himself, and most of his youngsters are proficient at the game. To help popularize the sport, Will has turned his ranch over to schools and colleges for a practice field.

Program Committee Of Religious Group Makes Future Plans

The program committee of the commission on religious activities met yesterday afternoon in the religious activities office to discuss plans for next fall.

The committee considered a freshman conference, a freshman hand-book, an information bureau, church parties, and cooperation in the first vespers of the year. Prof. William H. Morgan of the school of religion is chairman of the committee.

The next meeting of the committee will be May 3.

A proposal made at the University of Minnesota to allow a two-day study interval before finals is striking a responsive chord in the Arts college faculty. Dean Royal Shumway admits that the proposal "has a bit of ground all right," his only objection to it being that "it may look as if we were providing an opportunity for cramming." As a possible alternative William H. Bussey, assistant dean in charge of the junior college, suggests that he would like to see the examinations spread out over a longer period than six days to avoid crowding.

Four Members Of Speech Department To Talk at Meeting

Talks will be made by four members of the speech department at a meeting of the Central States Speech association at Evanston, Ill., today and tomorrow.

Prof. Harry G. Barnes, a member of the association's executive council, will speak before that body. Bessie Rasmus will talk before the speech phonetics group. Prof. Lee Travis will address the speech correction section and Prof. A. Craig Baird will speak to the debate section.

Prof. Joseph Tiffin was also scheduled to speak before the speech phonetics group but will be unable to attend. He is recuperating from an appendicitis operation.

"Censored"—a short story, printed in the American Mercury, written by Dr. L. C. Wimberly, professor of English at the University of Nebraska, is one of 20 stories chosen by Thomas H. Uzzell and reprinted in his current anthology, "Short Story Hits, 1933."

Dillinger "Host"

SEEN from Old Capitol

By TOM YOSELOFF

Some bits of wit, wisdom, and humor from the lecture of Hamlin Garland, Iowa author, in the house chamber of Old Capitol Monday afternoon—as captured in flashes by your reporter:

"I have no delusions of grandeur left . . . the longer I live, the less value I place on myself and my work" . . . "I'm not sure I ever felt myself a great man, except after my first book was published . . . Now I have 23 of them" . . . "After having been commended by Will Rogers, and photographed beside Douglas Fairbanks, the wonder is that I am as modest as I am" . . .

"The critics of George Bernard Shaw should remember that when he is being unkind, he is laughing in the back of his mouth, and there is a twinkle in his blue eyes" . . . "My daughter has said that it amounts to an invasion when all the Garlands go to England together" . . . "Sir James M. Barrie is a little Scotchman, the son of a weaver, whose origin is as humble as my own" . . .

It took eight years to settle the question of what kind of walk should be built along the approach to the medical administrative offices. It seems that ever since the building was completed, the powers that be—probably in emulation of congress—have debated about the color, material, etc., of the proposed walk. Meanwhile, the temporary walk, of old boards, continued to serve as an "eyesore" for the Iowa campus. But now the whole thing is settled.

The new walk will be of red brick, to match the medical laboratories buildings. So a capable decision has finally been reached on a mighty question . . .

A new definition of the word, "genius," has just been announced by a certain University of Iowa professor. It all happened over the matter of a little word. The instructor, in the midst of his lecture, was suddenly interrupted by a student in the rear of the room, "D?" The teacher looked about, a bit confused, and after several doubtful seconds he found the word. Then he had a happy thought. "If anyone can't read my writing, it's a sign of genius," he declared.

The perpetrators of the deed affirm that it was all the fault of habit. Wednesday evening, Murray Schwarz, chief factotum at a local cafe, attended the Jessup reception for graduates, with two of his friends, with two of his friends. The three had just finished their ice cream and almond macaron (also salted nuts). The two friends nonchalantly stood up, handed their plates to Murray, and started to walk out. In an interview last night, Murray declared he had almost forgotten them.

Add original Iowa definitions: "Cynics are happy only when making the rest of the world as unhappy as they have made it for themselves."

NEW YORK (AP)—Stocks failed to do much with a spotty early advance today and ran into selling during the last hour when the tape fell a few minutes behind. Volume rose to 1,684,125 shares.

Gift of Dr. Shrader Depicts Advances Made in Medicine

Advances made in the field of medicine during the last 75 years is represented in a gift recently presented to the college of medicine by Dr. John C. Shrader, Jr., of Council Bluffs. He graduated in 1922 from the college of medicine.

The donation made by Dr. Shrader includes two artistic creations of John Rodgers, a prominent artist, known in the late nineteenth century for his clever statues. They depict some of the problems of the physician during the 70's and have been placed on display in the medical laboratories building.

These mementos, at the present time very scarce, were handed down to Dr. Shrader by his grandfather, Dr. John Shrader, one of the first members of the college of medicine staff.

Also included in the presentation is a medical set which was used during the period immediately following the Civil war. The crude instruments which compose this set, in contrast with the medical implements of the present day, are indicative of the progress made in medicine.

Printed on the plate which adorns the box encasing the set, now on display in the medical library, is the following notation: "Presented to Surgeon John C. Shrader by his officers and men of the 22nd regiment, Iowa infantry, in appreciation of his skill as a physician and surgeon and as a tribute of love and esteem from his comrades in arms."

It has been written of the late Dr. Shrader regarding his service in the Civil war that "no man in the service was more popular with his men and more constantly devoted to their interests."

Born in Ohio, Dr. Shrader settled in Iowa City after the close of the Civil war. Upon the organization of the medical unit here, he became a professor in obstetrics and gynecology. He later entered politics, and as a member of the state senate was instrumental in securing a legislative grant of $50,000 for the construction of a new medical building here.

He returned to his teaching duties at a later date, and served as dean of the college of medicine from 1891 to 1896. He died in 1906.

Lasswell Tells Of His Studies

Says Active Affiliation With Government May Be Dangerous

Active affiliation with government is an important factor in turning men and women against it, Prof. Harold D. Lasswell of the University of Chicago told an audience of 250 in chemistry auditorium last night. Discussing "Personality and culture" in a graduate college lecture, Professor Lasswell pointed out that political reactions in a given situation can be determined by a study of the "traits, skills, and subjective outlook of the people."

Past experiences with the government may lead the population to turn against it, he said. "The World war represented a significant break in all recorded societies," the Chicago professor declared.

He described the progress which has been made in his study of the psychological factors in politics and sociology. Viewing the political situation from the point of view of a critical student, the Chicago man declared that any political reaction can be analyzed for its psychological factors.

"The student of politics is interested in securing an analysis of who gets what, when, and how," he concluded. In a talk before a seminar in per-

U. of Illinois Professor To Lecture Here

"Progress in the identification of a new component of proteins which is essential for life" is the title of an illustrated address to be given by Prof. William C. Rose of the University of Illinois chemistry department tonight at 7:30. The lecture, which is in charge of the Iowa section of the American Chemical society, will be presented in chemistry auditorium.

Professor Rose, who is a noted biochemist, has been conducting a thorough research program, which has added knowledge to the subject of protein nutrition, according to members of the Iowa biochemistry staff.

Preceding the talk, Professor Rose will be the guest of the society at a dinner at Alpha Chi Sigma house.

Personality studies in Psychopathic hospital yesterday afternoon, Professor Lasswell stressed the influence of personality and its functions in an organized society.

Beye to Talk At Medical Meeting

Banker Talks At University

Speaker Tells Effect Of Depositor's Agreement

The effect of the "depositor's agreement" in eliminating the necessity of receivership proceedings was dealt with in an address given by Frank Warner, secretary of the Iowa Bankers association, in room 107, university hall, yesterday afternoon.

The speaker brought out that instead of forcing debtors into receivership and causing bank failures by unnecessary runs on the institutions, the agreement eliminated both evils in the same stroke.

By causing depositors to leave their funds untouched for a specified length of time, the "depositor's agreement" permitted the bank to function normally while the assets that could not be liquidated could be put into receivership and thus provide a longer length of time for the debt to be paid.

Mr. Warner said that this system could easily be applied to other fields of business besides the banking industry.

Referring to the corn loans Mr. Warner said, "Corn loans brought about an almost inconceivable payment of smaller debts in this state."

The address, "Bank rehabilitation and receivership prevention as aids to economic recovery," was given under the auspices of the college of commerce.

ABOUT SPORTS

By RON TALLMAN

TODAY we get our first look at Coach Otto Vogel's Hawkeyes against Big Ten opposition. Right now it's hard to say just how the fast stepping Old Gold nine will fare against "first class" opposition, but today should furnish the answer as to how far Iowa will get in the title chase.

Chicago will bring a reputedly strong team here which possesses both heavy hitting and good pitching, the same characteristics of the Hawkeyes, and as a result a pair of good games should be viewed here.

IN REGARD to Iowa's chances, it might be said that they are the best of the season now with Gene Ford back in form, Baker able to play and Frank Drager recovered from his injuries.

And it's not only a Big Ten win that the Iowans will be seeking, but a continuation of this marvelous winning streak which has extended to eight straight without defeat for the season. Like the Chicago Cubs, though, who were defeated yesterday, the Iowans are on somewhat of a "spot" as a result of their rampage thus far.

U. High Wins At Davenport

Blue Trackmen Show Superiority Over St. Ambrose

By BOB KENDRICK

(Daily Iowan Sports Writer)

DAVENPORT, April 26—Scoring power in all field and track events accomplished things for the University high squad here today at the St. Ambrose field as the Iowa City team swept 11 firsts, eight seconds, and seven third places to wallop the St. Ambrose outfit, 86 to 45.

The Blue rampage was led by Bob Schnoebelen and Capt. Martin Warren, who scored 36 points between them. Schnoebelen dominated track activities, his flying feet conquering the 100 yard dash, 120 yard lows, 220, and getting him a second in the 50 yard dash. Warren in turn paced the field events. The big weight man took the high jump, discus, broad jump, and a second in the shot.

The large squad of 29 men that represented the river school scored at will. Undisputed possession of the half mile, broad jump, and mile run fell to the river team. Weak spots were the 50 yard dash and half mile relay. St. Ambrose winning first and third in the dash and handling the relay easily.

Howard Fountain put the Blue team in the money early in the day by copping firsts in the javelin and 120 yard highs. Schnoebelen's timings were good for all events. He got a good start and won the 100 yard dash in 10 flat. Warren couldn't be touched in field activities, making one toss with the shot that amounted to 41 feet 3-2 inches and then forsaking his favorite event to compete in and win the high jump.

Little Hawks Bow, 78-45, To Muskies

Coach George Wells' Little Hawks put up a courageous but losing battle yesterday in their annual dual meet with Muscatine high at the letter's home arena and went down to a 78 to 45 defeat as a result of the superior speed and power of the Musky lads.

The score would undoubtedly have been much closer, however, if Muscatine had limited its entrants only to sophomores, as had previously been the agreement, instead of the entire varsity squad, with the exception of five members, who left to compete in the Drake relays this week end.

Despite this the Little Hawks made a creditable showing, garnering five firsts, five seconds, and five thirds.

The quintet of first places were accumulated in the 120 yard low hurdles, shot put, discus, 220 yard dash, and the javelin.

Dale Marshall led the scorers with victories in the shot, discus, and javelin for a total of 15 points. Paul Mutchler was second in number of points with second places in the broad jump, shot, javelin, and a tie for second in the high jump for a total of 10 and 1-3 tallies. Kittridge also came through for a first in the 120 low barriers, a tie with Mutchler and Miller for second in the high jump, and a third in the pole vault, while Eymann showed his heels to the rest of the field to breast the tape for five counters in the 220 yard dash.

INTRODUCING

Johnson, Outfield Reserve

George Johnson, reserve outfielder, may not be in the line-up as often as he would like to be, but his presence on the squad as a hitter will be made known when Coach Vogel feels the necessity of inserting a pinchhitter into a game when, and if, an occasion ever arises where a timely blow will sew up the ball game.

Hailing from Scranton, Ia., Johnson was a four sport man at Scranton high, winning letter awards in baseball, football, basketball and wrestling. The baseball team, with George as centerfielder, took the county championship four times in succession and twice were proclaimed district champions.

Johnson played fullback on the team that lost only three games in the four years that he was in school. Two of those years, the gridiron team went undefeated with "John's" playing an important part in its successes.

This season will end the Scranton athlete's college competition, during which he forsook all other sports in favor of his favorite pastime, baseball.

AMES, April 26 (AP)—The Iowa State college baseball team, displaying the greatest hitting power so far shown this season, picked up its second win of the year here today, downing Iowa State Teachers, 15 to 6.

Ford or Mau May Get Slab Assignment For Tilt

Coach Otto Vogel's high-flying Hawkeyes will start on their quest of the Big Ten baseball championship this afternoon when they meet Chicago in the first of a two-game series that will mark the opening of the conference schedule at Iowa Field.

Eugene Ford, ace of the Iowa pitching corps, will probably receive the assignment of adding to the Hawkeye string of victories which now totals eight straight, although Vogel may send his brilliant sophomore southpaw, Charley Mau, out to stop the Maroons who tote an unbroken victory chain of four links. The Chicagoans lost their first three.

Baker to Play
Adding to the confidence of the Iowans in their ability to take the visitors from the Windy City into camp, will be the presence of Glen Baker at first base. It was feared he would be unable to play because of a sore throat and fever which came upon him Wednesday. The giant first sacker recovered sufficiently yesterday, however, to leave his bed and visit the ball orchard where his mates were going through final preparations, and unless he suffers an unlooked for relapse, he will be out to continue his hitting streak which has carried him ahead of the rest of the Hawkeyes.

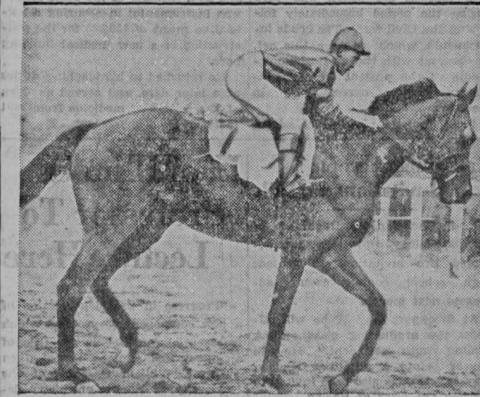

With the return of Baker to the line-up, Coach Vogel will be able to present the same battle-front which has been undefeated this year. Bazant who was being drilled to substitute for Baker, may be shifted to right field in case Ed Novak, Chicago's highly touted sophomore lefthander, opposes the Hawkeyes.

Heavy Hitters
The Maroon battering order will feature such dangerous hitters as Dave Levin, center fielder, Ralph Wehling, left fielder, and shortstop Bill Haarlow, who won recognition as a high scoring basketball forward in the conference last winter.

If Ford takes over the responsibility of taming the Maroons today, then Mau or Frohwein will ascend the mound in the second game tomorrow with the possibility that Kenny Blackman will be held in reserve to go in as relief, if necessary.

The University of Iowa golf team will test its strength again today at Finkbine field with the De Paul university team in the third meet of the season.

Coach Kennett will pit a strong team against the De Paul aggregation in an effort to continue the string of victories and build up a team that will penetrate Big Ten competition.

The Iowa team will include Vanderwicken, Jim Gardner, Ed Shelly, and Jim Parker. Vanderwicken, who was low man in the St. Ambrose meet will act as No. 1 man. He will be strongly supported by Jim Gardner and Ed Shelly both of whom won their matches against the Ambrosians.

Circuit Blow Comes With Adams on Base to Wipe Out Chicago's 4-3 Margin

Bud Tinning Victim Of Clout; Root Batted Out of Box

CHICAGO, April 26 (AP)—Sunny Jim Bottomley hammered a home run into the center field bleachers in the ninth inning today, driving in Pinch Runner Sparky Adams ahead of him to give Cincinnati a 5 to 4 victory and give the Chicago Cubs their first defeat of the National League season.

It not only was the league leader's first defeat, but marked the first game of the campaign in which the starting pitcher failed to finish, Charlie Root going away in the second inning after he lost control. The Reds led 3 to 2, until the sixth when the Cubs jammed over two runs, one of them Chuck Klein's fourth homer of the season, to go ahead.

Bud Tinning replaced Root and held the Reds scoreless until the ninth when Ernie Lombardi, batting for pitcher St. Johnson, doubled. Adams ran for Lombardi and trotted in on Bottomley's long sock.

Phils Beat Giants

PHILADELPHIA, April 26 (AP)—After suffering seven consecutive defeats in one of the most dismal starts of any campaign on record, the Phillies came through with their first victory of the season, downing the New York Giants 3 to 2.

Fidely Phil Collins, the veteran right hander, bore the burden of the victory, twirling five hit ball and only once allowing two hits in one inning. He was in trouble several times because of wildness, however, giving five walks.

Ethan Allen provided the winning punch in the sixth just after the Giants had tied the score for the second time. He clouted one of Fred Fitzsimmons' pitches into the left field bleachers for a home run, his third hit of the game.

Score by innings: R. H. E.
New York 0 0 1 0 0—2 5 1
Philadelphia 1 0 0 1 0—3 8 0

Batteries—Fitzsimmons, Bell and Richards, Mancuso; Collins and Wilson.

Braves Win, 2-0

BOSTON, April 26 (AP)—Tom Zachary, pitching with all the cunning learned in his years on the mound, got the better of the youthful Emil (Dutch) Leonard today and gave the Braves a 2 to 0 victory over the Brooklyn Dodgers. It was Boston's fourth straight triumph.

The game was decided in the first inning when Buck Jordan walked and Wally Berger and Pinky Whitney followed with doubles. The rest of the contest was a mound duel in which each team finished with six hits. Zachary's only bad inning was the ninth when he loaded the bases with two out.

Score by innings: R. H. E.
Boston 2 0 0 0 0—2 6 1

Batteries—Leonard and Lopez; Zachary and Spolner.

Cards Trump Cubs

PITTSBURGH, April 26 (AP)—A whistling seventh inning home run off the bat of Catcher Virgil Davis, with two on base, ended a suspenseful pitching duel today and gave the way for the St. Louis Cardinals to win their second game of the season from Pittsburgh, 10 to 1.

With Bill Hallahan, for the Red Birds and Red Ralph Birkhofer had fought on almost equal terms until the blow, which sent the Pirates' pitcher to the showers.

Buster Mills, a rookie from Columbus who was put into the lineup today by Manager Frankie Frisch in an effort to shake the jinx which has kept his team from winning a game since opening day, came through with two singles, a double and triple in five times at bat.

Score by innings: R. H. E.
St. Louis 10 0 10 10—14 6 3
Pittsburgh 0 0 0 0 0—1 6 3

Early Assault Saves Champions From Late Rally

WASHINGTON, April 26 (AP)—The faltering American league champions came to life with a barrage of base hits in the first inning of their game with the Boston Red Sox here today and went on to win, 10 to 7.

Manager Joe Cronin, harassed by weak stick work and none-too-good pitching ever since the season opened, wore a broad grin as his revamped Senators began to click.

Three erstwhile Washington regulars warmed the bench, as their overnight successors, Cecil Travis, Bob Boken and Dave Harris, helped to contribute the winning punch.

Score by innings: R. H. E.
Boston 0 0 5 0 0—5 11 3
Washington 5 3 0 0 2—10 15 1

Batteries—Welland, H. Johnson, Walberg, Pennock and Ferrell; Weaver, Russell and Berg.

Tigers Claw Sox

DETROIT, April 26 (AP)—Detroit's Tigers jumped back into first place in the American league here today, trimming the White Sox 2 to 1, with the help of Hank Greenberg's bat and Vic Sorrell's mighty arm.

The victory gave Detroit two of the three games in the Sox series. Sorrell went the route for the Tigers, giving only five hits, and never more than one hit in any one inning. Gaston worked seven innings for Chicago and gave six hits before he was relieved by Wyatt.

Score by innings: R. H. E.

Detroit 0 1 0 0 0—2 6 1

Batteries—Gaston, Wyatt and Shea, Ruel, Sorrell and Cochrane.

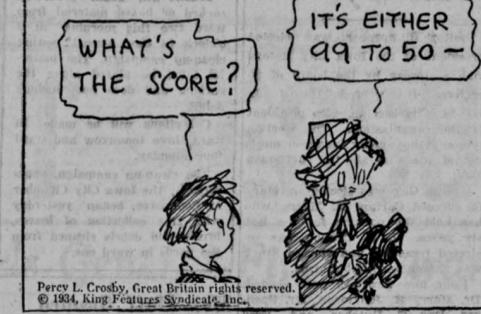

A's Trim Yankees

NEW YORK, April 26 (AP)—Joe Casarella, the Athletics rookie hurler from Jersey City, and Frank Hayes, the 19 year old sand-lot catcher, combined to give Philadelphia a 3 to 2 victory over the Yankees today.

Casarella scored his second victory over the Yanks as a relief hurler, holding them to three hits in 4-1/3 innings after replacing Roy Mahaffey. Hayes broke a 2-2 tie in the ninth when he walloped a double to send in Pinky Higgins with the winning run.

Ed Coleman's homer off Johnny Allen with Rabbit Warster on second in the third inning gave the A's their first two runs.

Explanation Of "Strange As It Seems"

A Strange As It Seems cartoon drawn in Washington, D. C., an aged mother and father living in New York state, a traveller in Alaska, a strange tombstone, and a man missing 20 years from his family—all these combined to furnish material for a strange story of the strange north country.

In 1930 Miss Florence Tobin of Ketchikan, Alaska, took a trip up the Stikine river, and at Wrangell saw a strange tombstone, a photograph of which she sent to my studio in Washington.

That fall, on Oct. 25, a drawing of the fire extinguisher tombstone, above, was published in Strange As It Seems. Mrs. Ray Broderidge, Stapleton, N. Y., saw the drawing, and recalled that her brother-in-law, Jimmy Broderidge, was last heard of 20 years before in Wrangell. On behalf of his aged parents she wrote to Miss Tobin, asking her to locate Jimmy.

Early in 1932 Miss Tobin located Jimmy at Beaver, near the Arctic Circle. He was a trapper. He promised to write home.

In the fall of 1933 Miss Tobin visited Staten Island and called on the Broderidge family. They had received Jimmy's letter—but the aged parents were firm in the belief that the letter was a forgery, written to make them happy.

Last winter Miss Tobin, back in Alaska, set out again to find Jimmy to give him news of home. Before she could get in touch with him word was received that Jimmy was lost on the trail. They found him two weeks later, frozen to death, his snowshoes under his arm. A zig-zag path back and forth across the trail testified to his last hours of delirium.

Now there is another tombstone up Wrangell way, in Alaska.

"THE LONE WOLF SON"

by LOUIS JOSEPH VANCE

SYNOPSIS

Michael Lanyard—formerly known as the "Lone Wolf," an underworld celebrity, but now a respected antique dealer—sails for America on the S.S. "Navarre." Aboard ship, he meets Detective Crane of New York, who hunted the "Lone Wolf" years ago. They talk of Lanyard's reformation preceding his marriage, and the tragic death of his wife and children while he was at war. Later, Lanyard sees a young man dart into the passageway leading to his (Michael's) cabin. He is startled and perplexed by the youth's resemblance to himself. Mrs. Fay Crozier, one of Lanyard's wealthy patrons, and her lovely daughter, Fenno are also on board. Despite Mrs. Crozier's denial that she had been negotiating for the Habsburg emeralds, Lanyard believes he has hit upon a guilty secret. He sees Crain hovering near and wonders why, because the detective claims he is no longer in the government service.

CHAPTER IV

"Who is that nice boy, monsieur?"—Fenno Crozier's voice penetrated this light preoccupation—"who thinks you are so fascinating?"

"Over there, at the other end of the chief engineer's table. Don't look, unless you don't care, for he's watching you like a cat—has been ever since you came in. . . Wait a minute. Now you may look—he's on his way out."

Lanyard, following her nod, saw leaving the saloon that young man the sight of whom up on a Deck had given him such a bad quarter of an hour.

"That handsome youngster?"

"He is, isn't he?"

"I'm glad you think so, because he strongly reminds me of some one I knew long ago and was very fond of."

"That's funny, because he reminds me, too, of somebody. . . I've a mind to tell you."

Fenno delayed impishly and Lanyard, though he withstood her gaze with entire composure, lamented the impulse in which he had indulged, he now perceived, at the risk of his secret. The man who thought to trifle with this girl's wit would more wisely pause and think twice about it. And the last thing Lanyard wanted was to have anybody pry into his confidence concerning that hallucination which had visited him in sequel to that brush before dinner. Hallucination was what he now reckoned it safest to call it.

"Do you mind my saying, monsieur, he makes me think of you?"

"To the contrary, I am much flattered."

"I'm glad you think so, because he strongly reminds me of some one I knew long ago and was very fond of."
