PEACE OVERTURE FAILS IN TOLEDO

French Flyers Land in New York After Second Crossing of Atlantic

Rossi, Codos First to Make 2 Way Flight

Wing Vibration Halts Hop Short of New Nonstop Mark

NEW YORK, May 28 (AP)—The French aces, Captain Maurice Rossi and Lieutenant Paul Codos, conquered the Atlantic by air again today with new honors and, paradoxically, shattered hopes.

Heavy vibration of the wings caused them to land their silver monoplane, the Joseph Lebriz, at Floyd Bennett field at 1:38 p.m. (E ST)—clear across the continent from California, their nonstop goal when they left Le Bourget field in Paris 15 hours and 28 minutes before.

Second Westward Crossing
They achieved the fame of being first to fly the Atlantic in both directions and were the second to make the westward crossing from Paris to New York.

Their own long distance flight record, set last year from New York to Syria in the same ship, still stands.

The first words of the weary flyers reflected their disappointment. Then after a brief rest at a hotel—and a quart of chilled champagne—they agreed the flight performance was not so bad, after all.

"Very, Very Sorry"
"I am very, very sorry," said Lieutenant Codos in French at the airport. "We had enough gasoline to go. We had 3,000 liters left and I wanted very much to go on to San Diego and the Pacific ocean."

But the wings were vibrating, so we thought it best to come down." Captain Rossi, who piloted the ship to its landing, said as he climbed wearily from the controls: "I am not at all happy."

"Not Content"
"We are not content. We are disappointed not to be able to complete the flight for the prize."—Referring to the offer of $66,000 by the French government for the nonstop distance flight they had contemplated.

Rossi, whose elevation to a captaincy in the air corps was announced by the French government just about the time the Lebriz soared over the American mainland, finally observed:

"It is better to be here alive than a hero dead."

Motor Okay
"There was nothing wrong with the motor," said the short round captain as he and the taller, broad-shouldered lieutenant were escorted through a hurriedly-gathered and small crowd to the administration offices of the field for a few minutes respite.

"We fought terrific headwinds and the vibration was terrible."

Then in the quiet of their hotel suite they spoke fluently in French, saying that early in the day they determined to make New York their stopping place and be satisfied for the present.

French Thrilled By Flights Over Ocean

PARIS, May 28 (AP)—The French people were thrilled today by the unprecedented accomplishment of the nation's aviators in completing two transatlantic flights almost simultaneously.

Paul Codos and Maurice Rossi were the heroes of the hour because of their successful hop from Le Bourget to Floyd Bennett field, N. Y., but their glory was shared in aviation circles by the crew of the Arc-En-Ciel, which landed in Natal, Brazil, a short time after the Joseph Le Brix of Codos and Rossi touched ground in New York.

Such disappointment as was felt because the north Atlantic flyers were unable to complete their projected non-stop flight to California was more than offset by praise of their accomplishment and heroism.

For three women—the wives of the flyers and the mother of Rossi—news that the north Atlantic flight had been completed meant the end of hours of anxious waiting.

As soon as the air ministry had learned that Rossi and Codos were flying over America a message was sent to the air attaché of the embassy at Washington instructing him to advise Rossi that he had been promoted from lieutenant to captain and that Codos was named a commander of the Legion of Honor.

B. Iden Payne to Direct Elaborate Series of Elizabethan Plays Here

For the first time, B. Iden Payne, a well-known Shakespearean director who has often been guest director of University theater here, will spend both terms of the summer session in residence. An elaborate series of Elizabethan plays produced on a modified reconstruction of the old Fortune theater in London, and a group of coordinated courses in Elizabethan drama are being planned by Prof. Edward C. Mabie, director of University theater.

Three plays for public production will be chosen from this list of dramas by Shakespeare and contemporary writers: "The Knight of the Burning Pestle," "Merry Wives of Windsor," "Much Ado About Nothing," "A New Way To Pay Old Debts," "Endymion, the Man in the Moon," "The Shoemaker's Holiday," and "Bartholomew Fair."

Besides these plays, Mr. Payne will direct a number of private productions as classroom projects. Classes in stagecraft, stage designing, and costume designing will be conducted along correlated lines. University theater's modified reconstruction of the Fortune theater is being designed and built under the supervision of Arnold Gillette of the speech and dramatic arts department.

It is a copy of the theater originally contracted by Henslowe and Allyn and built by Peter Street. The original Fortune theater opened in London Aug. 8, 1600.

Not only the stage, but also the portion in front of the proscenium arch in natural science auditorium will be changed to resemble the old theater.

While it has been announced that Mr. Payne will direct a series of Shakespearean plays to be given at the World's fair in Chicago this summer, Mr. Payne has assured Professor Mabie by telegram that his scheduled visit here will not be affected or postponed.

"Torch Murder" Angle Arises After Finding of Burned Body

Young Woman Burned To Death in Garage At Sacramento

SACRAMENTO, Cal., May 28 (AP)—Her clothing soaked in kerosene and set afire, the charred body of Miss Virginia Johnson, attractive daughter of State Treasurer Charles G. Johnson, was found in an apartment garage here tonight and police said she apparently had been slain before being burned.

Identification of the body, from which the clothing had been nearly completely burned, was made by her uncle, J. A. Johnson, brother of the treasurer.

The state treasurer, a candidate for the Republican gubernatorial nomination, was in San Francisco tonight where he was notified of the tragedy. The girl's uncle, J. A. Johnson, is connected with the state division of weights and measurements.

Dr. George Fitzpatrick, a dentist, also identified the girl from the dental work he had done for her. She had been missing from her home and when members of the family heard of a young woman being found dead, they started an investigation.

3 May Regain 'Blue Eagles'

Local Cleaners Likely To Be Reinstated By Change in Code

The three Iowa City cleaning establishments which have lost their Blue Eagles during the last few months because they could not comply with the prices set by the national dry cleaners' code may be reinstated through an order issued last night by Hugh S. Johnson.

An Associated Press dispatch late last night said General Johnson had ordered the price-fixing arrangements of the national dry cleaners' code to be swept away. This would include everything but the labor provisions.

According to Earl Kurtz of Des Moines, field adjuster for the state NRA, General Johnson had ordered that the Blue Eagle be removed from the Varsity Cleaners yesterday. The cleaning company is run by Tom LeVora and is the third cleaning company here to lose the Blue Eagle.

The action removing the price-fixing clause from the code was taken under executive order issued by President Roosevelt yesterday, which permitted localization of codes for trades not well integrated on national lines. The order, the dispatch stated, followed months of unsatisfactory effort by NRA to enforce the cleaners' code.

Iowa City is one of three cities in the entire state where code violations have been cited, Mr. Kurtz said. Of these three cities, there are six establishments violating code practices, three of them in Iowa City.

Students Face Expulsion For Exam Thefts

Disciplinary Committee Will Take Final Action Today

Expulsion from the University of Iowa last night awaited two students reported to have confessed to the theft and sale of questions to be used in final examinations in three departments last week.

This was indicated by members of the university disciplinary committee, in whose hands the case has been placed. The names of the students implicated were withheld. Whether they will be made public will depend upon the final decision of President Walter A. Jessup, who will pass upon the committee's recommendations.

Prof. Forest C. Ensign, chairman of the disciplinary committee, said that the matter will be considered when the committee meets today. Proceedings of the group are always secret.

Whether any action other than expulsion will be taken against the two was not known yesterday. One person who is not a student is also known to have had a part in the sale of the examinations. Whether criminal charges will be filed was not indicated.

Further action may be taken against students who used the stolen examinations, disciplinary committee members said yesterday. Punishment for them will probably consist of failure in courses concerned. What course will be taken in the case of seniors otherwise eligible for graduation next week also remains to be decided.

Evidence which led to the reported confessions was presented to President Jessup yesterday, upon his arrival from New York city for a short stay here. It will be laid before the disciplinary committee this morning.

The evidence was secured by a faculty committee of three, appointed Saturday, following a meeting of the faculty of the college of commerce and several liberal arts members. The names of committee members were withheld.

The committee, assisted by commerce and English instructors, questioned students Saturday and Sunday. The "leak" was traced to offices in university hall, where the tests were stolen after they had been mimeographed.

It was known Friday that questions in examinations of the college of commerce and the English department had been stolen, and possibly one test in sociology.

Though many courses were rumored to have been involved, evidence was available to prove definitely that examinations in freshman English, principles of economics, labor economics, foreign trade, accounting, and money and banking were taken.

The thief removed the tests from university hall offices, and turned them over to distributors, who sold them by telephone to several fraternities and sororities. Prices quoted ranged from $3 to $10 early last week, but went lower as the examinations approached.

Questions in at least two of the six courses involved were changed before the examinations. In the others, students are being graded on the basis of work done all semester, rather than on the tests.

Germany To Arms Parley

Geneva, May 28 (AP)—A new move, revolving about the United States, to get Germany back into the tottering disarmament conference was taking form tonight.

The first hint of the attempt came from Louis Barthou, French foreign minister, who told the French press that Norman Davis, United States representative, would introduce a "most important" resolution at the opening of the discussions tomorrow.

F. R. Outlaws Arms Exports To 2 Nations

Breaks Precedent In Effort to End War In S. America

WASHINGTON, May 28 (AP)—President Roosevelt outlawed the sale of munitions in this country to Bolivia and Paraguay tonight in an unprecedented move to end the disastrous war raging for more than a year in the South American interior.

The chief executive signed a proclamation to that effect under authority of a resolution whipped through congress at his request and warned that all violations "will be rigorously prosecuted."

Others to Cooperate
The proclamation recited that he had been assured of the cooperation of other governments, without whose assistance his advisers believed tonight's action might fall far short of success.

Meanwhile it was learned that although willing in spirit other South American countries find that treaties with Bolivia and Paraguay guaranteeing a free flow of commerce are a serious obstacle to joining in concerted action. Diplomatic discussions are continuing.

No Precedent Followed
State department authorities could recall no incident in all American history to compare with the banning of the sale of arms in this country to the belligerents. There have been cases in which the Washington government has banned arms shipments to South American nations in which revolution and civil war were rampant. But there are no historical comparisons for stopping the sale of munitions to two fighting countries.

Jessup Returns for Graduation

President to Clear Up Affairs During His Final Visit

President Walter A. Jessup of the University of Iowa returned Sunday from New York city to wind up his affairs before he leaves his post here July 1.

President Jessup, who took up his duties as head of the Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching in New York city May 1, will remain in Iowa City for an indefinite period.

While here, the Iowa president will preside over the seventy-fourth annual commencement, witness the laying of the cornerstone of the new fine arts building, and attend to several routine details. He will also pass upon recommendations of the disciplinary committee in regard to the theft of examinations here last week.

Yesterday President Jessup conferred with members of the finance committee of the state board of education, William R. Boyd of Cedar Rapids, chairman; W. H. Gemmill of Des Moines, and William G. Noth of Des Moines.

Dean Eugene A. Gilmore of the college of law will become acting president of the University July 1, and will serve for an indefinite period.

Soviets Raise Prices, Wages

MOSCOW, May 28 (AP)—In its first public admission of drought damage to the wheat crop, the Soviet government today ordered the price of rationed bread increased on June 1.

The highest temperature reached yesterday in Iowa City was 87 degrees. Early yesterday morning the low recorded was 48 which rose to 53 by 7 a.m. The mercury had settled to a comfortable 73 by 7 p.m.

8 I. S. C. Students On Probation; May Receive Expulsion

AMES, May 28 (AP)—Eight of the 12 Iowa State college students charged with improper conduct during the recent off campus period episode on the Ames campus were placed on conduct probation here today, Dean M. D. Hesler announced.

More severe punishment, non-graduation or expulsion, may be meted out to them later this week, as well as to six others whose names were added to the list of offenders today, Hesler said. He declined to release the names.

Eighteen students now have been called in for questioning since the "senior bust" last week at which underclassmen and seniors staged a free for all at the country club where the seniors were holding their dance.

Negotiations Break Down After 2 Hours of Conferences; Place Blame on Companies Involved

Rioting Over Nation Marks Many Strikes

By The Associated Press
Here is yesterday's strike situation, as seen at a glance:

WASHINGTON—Francis J. Gorman, vice president of the United Textile Workers of America, said tonight a general strike of 300,000 textile workers would be called if an NRA order reducing cotton textile production by 25 per cent is put into effect.

TOLEDO, Ohio: The withdrawal of troops at an early date was declared likely by Governor George White, as peace negotiations between strikers and the Electric Auto-Lite company officials continued, bringing a truce after six days of rioting.

LAURENSBURG, N. C.: The fourth and last unit of Waverly Mills, Inc., was closed by strikers, following a riot Sunday night in which eight men were wounded, one possibly fatally.

SAN FRANCISCO: Tear bombs were hurled as violent rioting broke out anew on the waterfront here and in San Diego, sending eight men to the hospital, as shipyard and striking longshoremen were reported deadlocked in strike negotiations. Between 1,000 and 2,000 took part in the disorders.

PEKIN, III.: An appeal for national guardsmen was sent to Governor Henry Horner as 1,500 persons gathered at the gates of the American Commercial Alcohol corporation's distillery and kept all but office employes from entering. The action was in protest against the dismissal of a number of employes.

ST. LOUIS, Mo.: The return to work of half of the employes of packing houses ended a two-weeks' strike. The other half was to return within 10 days. A minimum work week of 32 hours was provided in the terms of a union contract drawn up by the regional labor board.

CLEVELAND: Rioting broke out in Playhouse Square, in the center of downtown Cleveland, when an attempt was made to operate cabs of the Yellow Cab company over the protests of strikers and strike sympathizers. Tugmen and tug operators met to seek a basis for a permanent agreement. The men recently ended a strike under a temporary arrangement.

WASHINGTON: In an effort to avert a threatened steel strike, Chairman Wagner of the National Labor board telegraphed M. F. Tighe, president of the Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel and Tin Workers to come to Washington for a conference.

DALTON, Ga.—The Real Silk Hosiery mills strike affecting several hundred workers here for five weeks was settled with workers accepting terms of an agreement announced in Washington.

GALVESTON, Tex.—The compress strike, halting movement of cotton from presses to docks for several weeks, was settled.

PITTSBURG, Kan.—An enforced idleness of three weeks ended at strip mines in the Pittsburg fields, but Kansas deep mines remained idle.

Students Who Know Needn't Read This

Students who know everything about the University of Iowa needn't read this story. For those who don't, the publications department has prepared packets of information, indexed, describing the campus, living conditions, and courses. They are now available free of charge at the publications office, room 117 university hall.

The folders were prepared for students who may be able to pass the information on to others interested during the summer.

Federal Mediator Says Parties Refuse Both Proposals

TOLEDO, O., May 28 (AP)—Negotiations for ending Toledo's violent automotive strike broke down tonight after two hours of optimistic conferences, and Charles P. Taft, chief federal mediator, blamed the impasse on the three manufacturing concerns involved in the walkout.

The three companies, said Taft, declined to either suspend operations entirely or to return striking employes temporarily to their jobs pending arbitration of differences. The latter plan was proposed by the federal government's representatives who intervened in the strike in the hope of achieving a settlement.

Proposal Abandoned
The companies are the Electric Auto-Lite company, center of recent rioting which claimed two lives, the Bingham Stamping and Tool company, and the Logan Gear company.

A proposal to place the issues in the riotous labor strife before the Detroit Automobile Labor board was abandoned by both parties last night, Taft said in a formal statement.

The two sides expressed a wish to proceed to direct negotiations to settle their differences, Taft said, but a series of parleys today brought only another checkmate.

"Insisted on Answer"
"We then insisted on an answer to our revised proposal of arbitration," Taft went on. "The union agreed to accept either alternative."

"The company rejected the proposal for a voluntary closing of the plant during negotiations, because it would close other manufacturing plants and would thereby break their contracts and subject them to suits for damages."

"They rejected the second alternative because the committee of their employes at work, meeting this morning, refused to agree. This committee of Auto-Lite workers is to meet tomorrow morning to discuss it further."

"Violence Has Ceased"
"We would point out that violence has now ceased entirely during the negotiations, and we hope an agreement may still be possible."

Before the final break came, a messenger from the union group hurried into a room where representatives of the Electric Auto-Lite, Logan Gear and Bingham Stamping and Tool companies were seated.

He bore what was reported as an ultimatum that negotiations were "all off" unless an agreement were tendered by the companies within 20 minutes.

That was at 7:45 p.m. Meetings Break Up
At 8:05 p.m. the meetings broke up.

Unofficial reports were that the companies had balked at the union's flat demand for a 10 per cent wage increase. Still further difficulty, it was reported, centered about the reinstatement of union members without prejudice.

All remained quiet down in the riot zone, which saw two men killed and nearly 200 injured in five days of savage combat last week. The rioting ended Sunday, as the three interested groups met together to solve labor difficulties at the three plants.

Cubans Waylay American Car

HAVANA, May 28 (AP)—Anti-American terrorists today followed up their attack on the residence of Ambassador Jefferson Caffery by waylaying the automobile of the first secretary of the embassy and breaking the windshield.

The first secretary, H. Freeman Matthews, was not in the car at the time. One of the four gunmen who forced the chauffeur to the curb remarked as he struck the windshield with his pistol: "This is for Matthews."

After the attack, Ambassador Caffery revealed that the shooting at his residence last night, resulting in the mortal injury of a soldier guard, was the second such attempt, the house having been fired upon three weeks ago.

Wheat Nears $1

Spain's Ex-Rulers Reported in Marital Rift

While little credence is placed in the Paris report that ex-King Alfonso of Spain is seeking an annulment from ex-Queen Victoria, it is recalled that a similar rumor was widely circulated when the then Spanish ruler visited the Vatican in 1926. However, observers say that such a move now would impair Alfonso's hopes of ever regaining his throne. The marriage between the granddaughter of Queen Victoria of England and Alfonso, who was born a king, took place 28 years ago, and was believed at the time to be the climax of a real romance. Since their exile from Spain, the ex-rulers have lived apart, Alfonso preferring to roam through African jungles after big game rather than living in Paris in the comparative obscurity chosen by his consort.

LONDON (IN)—While reports from Paris to the effect that an annulment of their marriage is being sought by former King Alfonso and Queen Victoria of Spain are greeted with open skepticism in court circles here, it is pointed out that since their exile from the land they formerly ruled the royal couple has been drifting farther and farther apart.

Alfonso, always a keen hunter, has spent a lot of his time in far-off lands seeking game while his spouse remained in Europe with her daughters, the Princesses Maria Christina and Beatrice. Rarely since they lost their throne have the ex-king and ex-queen been seen together. This, coupled to the fact that there have been previous reports of marital discord in the former royal household, gave rise to the current rumor that an attempt would be made to abrogate the royal marriage.

Many Obstacles Observers here are quick to point out, however, that there are a number of reasons why it would be poor statesmanship on the part of Spain's former king should he attempt to discard his queen at this time.

An annulment now, they say, would utterly destroy any hope of the Spanish monarchist party for restoration of the throne, unless Alfonso first consented to formally abdicate in favor of one of his sons.

Secondly, it is within the bounds of possibility that such a direct affront to the English royal family, of which the queen is a member, would cost Alfonso the support of powerful Great Britain in the event he ever does stand a chance of winning back his crown.

Thirdly, they point out, it is extremely doubtful if the Vatican would consider granting such an annulment. Unofficial representatives of the Vatican, questioned upon the matter, declared that annulments are not granted unless for grave moral and spiritual reasons. No such causes have been hinted at in the case of the Spanish ex-rulers, both of whom are devout Catholics.

Wed 28 Years It is recalled that when Alfonso, then known as "His Most Catholic Majesty," visited Rome in 1926 it was rumored that his presence in the Vatican was for the purpose of sounding out church sentiment towards abrogation of his marriage. These rumors proved unfounded.

Princess Victoria Eugenia married Alfonso 28 years ago. The wedding was one of the most brilliant ever seen in European royal circles. The princess, daughter of Princess Beatrice of England and granddaughter of the beloved Queen Victoria, was one of the most popular members of the British royalty. Her marriage to the young king of Spain, who actually was born a king, being a post-humous son of the former ruler, was regarded as the climax of a real romance.

During turbulent days of his reign, as well as through the sunny periods, Queen Victoria was ever-present at the side of her royal mate. She shared his joys and sorrows, and it was her comfort that helped to sustain him when the crisis came that made him practically a man without a country in 1931. Since then the ex-queen has made her home in Paris, while the ex-king has been trekking through African jungles after big game.

Coincidentally with the rumor of the marital rift, another report began to seep through royal circles that Prince Juan, youngest son of the Spanish ex-rulers, would shortly become formally engaged to Princess Maria, youngest daughter of King Victor Emanuel of Italy.

Perkins Discusses 'Doctrine Of Coercion' in Law Review

Does defense of compulsion excuse a gangster's "moll" for participation in her husband's crime? This is one of the questions discussed in the May issue of the Iowa Law Review, just released.

"The doctrine of coercion," which relates to the right for a person to be excused from whole or partial punishment for a crime because of compulsion by threats of another person, is written by Prof. Rollin M. Perkins of the college of law.

Sees Trend

Discussing the "doctrine" in its relation to the compulsion or threat of wife by husband, Professor Perkins says that "the view that the command of the husband will excuse the wife is no longer generally recognized if the husband is not present at the time of the act, or sufficiently near to be in actual control of the situation."

There seems to be, however, according to Professor Perkins a general belief that "less is required to constitute coercion of a wife than is needed for the compulsion of anyone else, but there is at least a legislative trend in the direction of obliterating this distinction."

Traces History

Tracing the historical evolution of the present doctrine, Professor Perkins discusses the ancient "benefit of clergy" of the exemption of the clergy from criminal jurisdiction in felony cases by lay courts. This "benefit," however, did not apply to women, consequently a woman might be subjected to severe punishment, while a man, accused of the same crime would get off lightly.

Soon the "benefit of the clergy" was extended to women and finally the "doctrine of coercion" came into being.

In conclusion Professor Perkins says, "the increasing activity of the gangster's 'moll,' who is frequently his wife, makes it highly desirable to remove this needless artificial barrier from the all too difficult path of law enforcement."

Professor Ladd

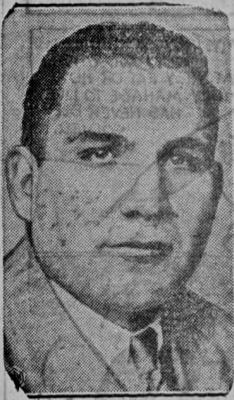

Professor Mason Ladd of the college of law is the author of an article on "Admission of evidence against estates of deceased persons."

A continuation of an article in the March issue of the Iowa Law Review on "Equity jurisdiction in the United States courts with reference to consent receiverships," was written by Stanley L. Sabel, graduate student of the Harvard Law school and member of the New York bar.

"After the mortgage moratorium—what?" is the title of an article written by Raymond J. Mischler, graduate of the University of Iowa college of law and member of the Iowa bar.

Reviews of law books are written for the issue by Prof. Percy Bordwell, Professor Perkins, and Prof. Paul L. Sayre, all of the college of law.

By Golly, Closing Successful Year At S. U. I., Lands 'Big Time' Job

Success is here, By Golly!

No mere generalization, that, For Cecil Golly, 34 of Spencer—the By Golly of Iowa music—is going out into wider fields.

By Golly and his Iowa Blues became a well-known name on the University of Iowa campus in the last two years, in the realm of the dance band. Recently the band was placed under the management of Kenneway, Inc., in Chicago, the agency which manages Danny Russo and other musical favorites.

The band, augmented by several additions to make a 12 piece organization, will soon begin a 10 weeks engagement in a resort at Sisters hill in Michigan, its first attempt in the "big time."

Mr. Golly is a student in Journalism and a graduate in music, as far as experience is concerned. He has set the "hard knocks" of a musical career.

Two years ago he and a group of other college musicians went to Europe, saying their way by playing. They landed in Germany, with very little money, several bicycles, and an ambition to see the country of the Rhine.

So they bicycled through Germany, earning their expenses by playing in the "beer gardens." After several months of adventuring, the men returned to the United States and their college work.

Last year By Golly's band became a household word at the University of Iowa, and this year, with the winning of the Big Ten dance band contest, it came into line for the "big time."

The orchestra won the right to represent Iowa through a preliminary contest at Iowa Union. With a somewhat enlarged organization, the band went to Purdue, and won the Western conference contest there.

As a result of this, the musicians were given an audition in Chicago recently, and were successful in landing under the Kenneway banner.

The Iowa musicians will play at "farewell" dances in the city park pavilion tonight and tomorrow night.

More,

... in STANDARD RED CROWN SUPERFUEL

"More Live Power per dollar" describes this important advance by Standard's refining engineers just as accurately as "more Live Power per gallon."

The amount of keen, responsive propelling power delivered by gasoline is the only true measure of its dollar-and-cents value. On that count, Standard Red Crown Superfuel gives you a full money's worth, plus. We know that. It has been established by tests of many gasolines.

A new car with a high compression engine requires Superfuel's responsiveness to perform at its best. And, if you have an older model which has begun to slow up, Standard Red Crown Superfuel is prescribed. Chances are there is still plenty of vigor in the motor. The extra Live Power in Superfuel will bring it out.

May we suggest that you get a tankful? Make Superfuel prove, in your engine, what has been said here about its economy and performance. Judge it critically—fairly.

Eliminating That "Fifth Wheel"

ALTHOUGH the senate last week voted down the amendment proposed by Senator Norris of Nebraska to eliminate the electoral college from American presidential elections, it is significant that the vote was so close that a shift of a few ballots would have meant victory for the reform forces.

It is true, as Senator Norris said, that the electoral college is a "fifth wheel" in the federal government. Placed in the constitution as a compromise between democracy and conservative forces and between the large and small states, it has now become a hindrance, contravening the very democratic principle which it represents.

Despite its obvious defects, that it allows for election of a president by a minority of the popular vote, that it serves no useful purpose, and that it provides another tool in the state political machines, there are political reasons for its retention in the constitution which will make it difficult of elimination.

Small state politicians are in favor of its retention because it gives the small states a proportionately greater voice in the election of the president, through the fact that the senatorial representation in small states is equal to that of the largest states.

State political "bosses" will do their best to prevent a reform in this direction. The electoral college, providing as it does, for a unit rule, gives the party in control of a state a powerful weapon, for it eliminates entirely representation of the minority party.

Opponents of the measure claim that it will bring about fraud in presidential elections. If the president is named by popular vote, the crooked votes of one state can offset the honest votes of another.

There are two fallacies in this reasoning. The first is that the same situation exists under the electoral college with even wider opportunities for graft. Under the proposed change, the minority could help to offset this graft, but today, with the unit rule, opportunity for machine fraud is ideal.

The second is that the argument is made too much of. In any democratic set up there is danger of graft. But this, surely, should not stand in the way of reform.

Because of the particular interests pointed out above, Senator Norris' amendment met defeat. The closeness of the vote promises future success, however, and Senator Norris is not one to give up the fight.

Zephyr — a New Era in Railroading

AMERICA watched excitedly Saturday as a streamlined modernistic railroad train sped over the rails from Denver to Chicago to set a new world's record for a nonstop railroad run.

As the "Zephyr" sped into Chicago at a speed of nearly 100 miles an hour, it set the mark for a coming era in railroading history in the United States.

America, with a railroad system far surpassing any other in the world, has seen an empire built upon 250,000 miles of steel rails tumble under the impact of newer forms of transportation—the airplane and the automobile buses.

Until a decade or so ago the railroads held undeniable supremacy in transportation. Airplane travel was uncertain, undeveloped, and far too expensive. Travel by automobile bus and truck was in the infantile stage of its development.

Within the last few years, however, the airplane has supplanted the train as a medium of speedy transportation. The railroads could not hope to compete with planes which spanned the continent in less than a day, at a cost just slightly higher than that of railroad travel.

And, incidentally, the police seem to have come somewhere near a realization that violent suppression of violence is sometimes a boomerang. At any rate, plans have been perfected for a gas bomb with a handle that will get so hot it cannot be picked up and thrown back.

What Others Think

Books and Safety Razors

A group of well-known men of letters has set up a library of the works of authors whose books have been burned during recent months in Germany. This library is in Paris, though many of the organizers of the scheme are British.

The suggestion has been made that the idea of the library might be widened to include all literary works that have ever been burned anywhere or at any time. If this plan were adopted, the library would house some unexpected volumes.

The essays and speeches of Tom Paine, who wrote valiantly on behalf of the American colonists during the War of Independence, would find a place. So would the first volume of Carlyle's "French Revolution," which was accidentally burned in manuscript by a servant of John Stuart Mill, thus leaving Carlyle with the task of rewriting his work from memory.

Reading of these literary bonfires of history, the common man or woman may perhaps be permitted to feel a touch of envy. The huge library of Alexandria was burned down in the Dark Ages apparently without difficulty, but, as Mr. H. G. Wells sorrowfully observed some time ago, to burn successfully a single book seems often almost an impossibility.

Setting fire to one's house is by comparison easy. Yet books have to be got rid of in some way. They accumulate like safety razor blades, and take up much more room. But if works as inflammable even as Karl Marx's "Das Kapital" will not burn without great coaxing, what is to be done?

The Observer takes a hint from Dean Inge, who recently went on a pleasure cruise, and seized the opportunity to throw Mr. Aldous Huxley's "Brave New World" overboard. Charles Lamb, it is recalled, used to throw superfluous books out of the window, but this seems somewhat hard on passers-by.

Small state politicians are in favor of its retention because it gives the small states a proportionately greater voice in the election of the president, through the fact that the senatorial representation in small states is equal to that of the largest states.

State political "bosses" will do their best to prevent a reform in this direction. The electoral college, providing as it does, for a unit rule, gives the party in control of a state a powerful weapon, for it eliminates entirely representation of the minority party.

Behind The Scenes in HOLLYWOOD By Harrison Carroll

HOLLYWOOD, Cal.—The artistic side of Hollywood takes expression on one of the important nights set for the Hollywood Bowl "Symphonies Under the Stars" nights this season.

On July 13 Francesca Braggiotti, wife of John Lodge, the Paramount leading man and son of the Boston Lodges, will be solo dancer in her own ballet production, "Ballet of the Seasons."

Miss Braggiotti, who is a professional dancer in her own right, will stage the ballet, design the costumes, sets and pay all the bills for the production. She will have the Philharmonic orchestra, with Sir Henry Wood conducting.

A Russian composer, Glazounov, has been engaged to do special melodies for her dance. Last year Miss Braggiotti staged and danced solo at the Bowl the ballet "Tales of the Vienna Woods."

Imagine Bert Wheeler playing a flute, and with his nose! One of the R-K-O star's ardent admirers sent him an exotic instrument from India, in appreciation of his work in one of the studio's musicals recently released in the Orient. It is a Hindu flute which is played by the nostril. Partner Robert Woolsey claims the gift was intended for Jimmy Durante.

One of London's gayer charity events is the mock trial staged annually for the benefit of King Edward's Hospital.

The yearly lark is looked forward to with great anticipation by the playfolk over there. This year Constance Cummings has the role of defendant for the fair name of Hollywood movies. Tallulah Bankhead will prepare a comic brief for the British picture.

Playwright Benn W. Levy, husband of Constance, will go on trial for deserting the stage to write for the screen. Alexander Korda will be prosecuted for producing pictures. The whole proceeds of this social frolic go to the hospital.

Here are some curious straws to show which way the winds of ambition are blowing. They come from the entries sent in to the Hollywood casting bureau for a film corporation's snapshot search for movie talent.

Of the entries from 18 states already heard from, three quarters of them are from women, mostly married, the majority for "leading roles." One rabbi and a minister sent in snapshots for movie careers. The blondes swamp the brunettes among the women; with the men, the reverse is true. A third of both sexes are college graduates, 90 per cent of the entries are from people with jobs.

Jeanette MacDonald breathed a thankful sigh and Ernst Lubitsch, Maurice Chevalier and other members of the cast of "The Merry Widow" were happy when the cable arrived telling of the escape of Jeanette's fiancé and manager, Robert Ritchie, in an airplane crash recently.

Ritchie, in Europe arranging concert dates for the M-G-M star, was the only passenger not hurt in the fatal accident which occurred while he was flying from London to Paris.

The Hollywood writing product goes up another notch towards the status of literature with the news that a New York publishing house will put out in book form Ben Hecht's script for "Viva Villa."

This will be the first time a Hollywood scenario has been printed in book form as is.

EXAMINATION SCHEDULE

Second Semester, 1933-1934. Wednesday, May 23, 8 a.m., to Thursday, May 31, 4 p.m. The regular program of class work will be suspended, and the following semester-examination program substituted for it. Classes will meet for examination in the rooms in which they have been regularly meeting (except classes in SPECIAL GROUPS, A, B, C, D, E and F, as shown in the form below; and Speech (2), (3), and (4) as shown at "N.B." below).

Table with 3 columns: 8-10 A.M., 10-12 A.M., 2-4 P.M. Rows list examination dates and subjects for Special Groups A through F.

CONFLICTS: In case of conflicting examinations the student should report to the instructor in charge of the first of the two conflicting subjects as listed within the particular SPECIAL GROUP rectangle above which is involved. (Read downward first in left column and then in right column.) The instructor will arrange for you a special examination. Report to him, or her, not later than the regular class hour May 16 or 17; if possible, May 9 or 10.

The first meeting of the class means the first lecture or recitation period in courses having both lectures and recitations, and laboratory periods; or in the case of courses involving only laboratory periods, the first clock-hour of the first weekly meeting. For example, chemistry 22 meets for lectures T Th S at 8. The first regular meeting is, consequently, Tuesday at 8,—and the class will meet for examination Thursday, May 24, 2 p.m., according to the tabular form above. Again, physics (12) meets twice each week, T F, for a three-hour laboratory exercise, 1-4. The period for the examination, is, therefore, Tuesday, May 29, 2 p.m.

N.B. All sections of Principles of Speech (2), (3), and (4) will meet on the days and at the periods designated below. Consult the bulletin board in room 13, Hall of Liberal Arts, for room assignments.

- 1. Wednesday, May 23, 8-10: Section F
2. Thursday, May 24, 8-10: Section C, 2-4: Sections A and D
3. Monday, May 28, 2-4: Sections H, I; Section G, Speech (4)
4. Tuesday, May 29, 8-10: Section G; 10-12: Section E; 2-4: Section B

"ODD" classes,—namely those whose first or only weekly meetings occur on Wednesdays, Thursdays, Fridays, or Saturdays, or which meet "as arranged," will be assigned for examination, as announced to each such class by the instructor in charge of the class, at one or another of the following periods:

- 1. From 4 to 6 on any day from May 23 to May 31, inclusive.
2. Any one of the examination periods assigned, as indicated above, for the examinations in the SPECIAL GROUPS, A, B, C, D, E, and F, since for such "odd" classes these five examination periods will be found quite available.

In connection with any such announcement it would doubtless be well for the instructor making the announcement to ascertain whether any member of his class is already under appointment for examination in some other class for the proposed period. To be sure, it is possible to have examinations in more than one class at any of these times,—if no student is a member of more than one of these classes.

According to one clause in the formal faculty action providing for a special semester-examination program, "the instructor may use the examination period as he sees fit provided he holds the class for the full period. He may have an oral or a written examination, or both, or neither. He may continue regular work or he may use the time for review, or for any phase of his work which may seem to him desirable at this time."

By TOM YOSELOFF

Athletic contests receive much publicity and glory, but this department today goes behind the scenes to tell you the story of another contest being waged on the Iowa campus. It all started when a boastful senior man announced with no little pride that he was not in the matrimonial market—that no woman was going to "catch" him.

Enter senior woman who accepted this challenge. To herself she oathed an oath and vowed a vow to get said senior man's first pin—and name. She started to work, determined to accomplish the job within the time she had allotted for it. Thus far her campaign has been a great success, and the man is falling with blissful unconsciousness into the matrimonial gosseps.

It's a great show for the spectators. Rumor has it that excitement is at fever heat, with the betting running to high odds.

One of the better little stories going the rounds concerns an incident Sunday afternoon. A carload of Iowa men moving along the highway north of Iowa City came upon a man and woman tramping along the side of the road. The woman was wearing one of these rather questionable garments minus a back, said to be ideal for sun bathing and other purposes of exposure. As the car passed the couple, one of the men looked back and recognized the woman.

"Look," he announced, "there's — I thought that was she. I was pretty sure there couldn't be two backs like that in one university."

Legion are the things which one or two may accomplish in a canoe. Boats that pass in the Iowa river often accommodate strange things, but this one wins the little chocolate covered medal for the week. While the man paddled the canoe Sunday evening with skillful strokes, the woman leaned back comfortably with her knitting and produced what will someday be garments!

Then there is the Alpha Xi Delta who has been exposed as the leading dancer of risque burlesque dances in the University of Iowa. It was at a picnic Saturday evening. Following an introduction telling of her past experience in side-shows (or was it vaudeville?) she performed astonishingly for the eager audience.

It may have been the heat of this performance, or it may have been a cigaret, which set fire to the coat of one of the men attending the same affair. He smelled smoke, arose, and wandered about looking for the fire. Someone shouted, "Your coat's on fire," and at the same time half a dozen standerby tried to smother the fire. The man showed them all away, calmly took his coat off, laid it down, picked up a stein of beer, spilled it over the blaze, picked up the coat, and continued with the party.

Exposed by a scop: One of the cleverer "crib" methods used in a late lamented examination has just come to light. The student involved typed his notes neatly on a sheet of ordinary paper, then carefully scribbled penciled lines all over the sheet. He then folded it to give it appropriate wrinkles. When he came to class, he laid the paper on the chair beside him, where he could easily read the typed notes peering out from under the scribbled lines. The instructor came by, glanced at what was apparently an old sheet of wrinkled, scribbled paper, and passed on.

Display Here Shows Books On Pharmacy

A complete set of United States Pharmacopoeia, probably the only one in the state, is being displayed in the show window of the pharmacy-botany building this week.

Accompanying the books, the first one of which was published in 1820, is a brief history of the introduction and development of the U. S. P. In 1880 Dr. Lyman Spalding of New York submitted the plan for the formation of the first official pharmacy book. The United States was divided into four districts each of which held a convention and elected delegates. The groups consisted of delegates from medical schools and societies.

It was not until 1840 that the colleges of pharmacy were allowed to take part in the making of the book. Dean Wuber J. Teeters, Prof.

Rudolph A. Kuever, and Prof. Zada M. Cooper, all of the University of Iowa college of pharmacy, were influential in the formation of the 1920 edition of the book.

The United States Pharmacopoeia contains official information about the making of pharmaceutical products.

Two students set up this display. They are: William Schalekamp of Sioux Center, and M. Clinton Peterson, P.S. of Creston.

ABOUT SPORTS
Ross vs. McLarnin... A Real Fight... Hawkeyes Faced With Tough Proposition This Week... Former Iowan Now Navy Star.

By RON TALLMAN

FROM all indications, 65,000 persons got their money's worth on Long Island last night as they watched Barney Ross take Jimmy McLarnin's welterweight crown in a ripping fight which was climaxed in one round when both men were knocked down.

Ross, one of the most popular fighters ever since the days when he was an outstanding amateur fighter as a member of the Chicago Golden Gloves team, did much to enhance his prestige by the win and McLarnin hardly detracted from his.

THE IOWA baseball team, knocked from the first division into last place in the Big Ten as a result of its double loss to Wisconsin last week end, has a tough row to hoe if it is to finish among the "upper crust" yet this season.

The two games here tomorrow and Thursday with Minnesota can do much to help the Hawkeyes out—two victories would once more give them a .500 rating. But the Iowans have already found out, earlier in the month, that the Gophers can be plenty tough. And then don't forget that game with Michigan at Ann Arbor Saturday. Michigan has proved on several occasions that it is a mighty good ball club.

COACH TED SWENSON has certainly had a prosperous spring as far as victories for his freshman tracksters is concerned. When the one-sided wins over Chicago and Northwestern yearlings were announced yesterday, triumphs four and five were marked up for the outdoor season.

A FORMER Iowan is making good in a big way at the United States Naval Academy. Clarence E. Haug, for three years a student in the college of engineering here, is regular third baseman on the Middies' baseball team where he has been making his presence felt both in his hitting and fielding. While here he was a member of Theta Tau fraternity and of Tau Beta Pi, honorary engineering society.

Ex-Grid Stars Visit in City

Mike Farroh one of Iowa's greatest athletes and Johnny Baker former all-American on the University of Southern California's 1931 and 1932 team stopped yesterday in Iowa City while enroute to Los Angeles to spend a few months.

Baker, head coach at Iowa State Teachers college, plans on spending the summer in Los Angeles while Mike intends to get his first glimpse of the west. Farroh has been coaching for the last two years at Independence.

Disatisfied with a career of coaching, Farroh asserted sometime ago he desired a different field. During his career here which was cut short by the wholesale ousting of some 20 athletes in 1929, Farroh was rated by experts as a potential all-American for the next season. He was elected to lead the Hawkeyes for that season and in less than 24 hours found himself ousted by the mix-up in the "slush run."

BARNEY ROSS BEATS McLARNIN FOR TITLE

NEW WELTERWEIGHT CHAMPION

BARNEY ROSS

Pounds Out Triumph In Savage Fray

Judges Disagree, But Referee Votes For Chicagoan

By EDWARD J. NEIL (Associated Press Sports Writer) MADISON SQUARE GARDEN, New York, May 28 (AP)—A little back-haired whirlwind from Chicago, glitter-eyed Barney Ross, wrote a brand new chapter in ringdom's fantastic history tonight as he added Jimmy McLarnin's welterweight crown to his own lightweight championship and ended the domination the Vancouver Irishman has held over Jewish ringmen for the past half dozen years.

He carved his new record into the books in the boldest, most daring manner, the way no one said it could be done, by out-slugging McLarnin, the dynamite, through 15 savage rounds to win the decision of Referee Ed Forbes after two judges had failed to agree on the winner. A crowd estimated at 65,000, paying $225,000 to see a match that sounded the knell for the depression in boxing, stood for several minutes as Forbes raised Barney's hand and roared their approval of the boy from Chicago's Ghetto who succeeded where his illustrious predecessor, Benny Leonard, failed against Jack Britton in 1922.

In the minds of that huge throng, largest since Jack Sharkey took the heavyweight title from Max Baer in this same arena two years ago, there was little reason for the indecision of the judges. Most of the experts agreed with them. From the second through the eighth round, the dynamic little Ross, tore into the bigger, heavier McLarnin and punched with him, welcoming every exchange as few men over the Irishman's 12 year career ever had dared to do.

Uses Left Hook He started blood seeping from Jimmy's nose in the fourth round with left hooks that crackled into the champion's head with the snap of a black snake whip.

In the ninth he got off the floor after a left hook half belted, half-pushed him from his feet, to thunder back into McLarnin with a retaliating southpaw smash that dumped Jimmy unceremoniously on his haunches in the resin.

Neither took a count in the round that turned the tide momentarily for the Irishman who in his thumping prime smashed out Kid Kaplan, Sid Terris, Al Sinner, Joey Sangor, Ruby Goldstein, and even the great Benny Leonard himself before colliding this night with a different type of Jewish fighter—a boy with a jaw of steel and the courage of a crusader.

Jacobs Gains Quarter-Final

American Titleholder Wins in French Tourney

PARIS, May 28 (AP)—America's champion and lone survivor, Helen Jacobs, of Berkeley, Cal., today easily gained the quarter-final round of the French hard court tennis championship in a day featured by the unexpected downfall of Fred Perry and G. P. Hughes of England, doubles titleholders.

Miss Jacobs, who alone remains from a starting band of five American Wightman players, won much as she pleased from Mary Harwick, an 18 year old unranked English player, 6-0, 6-1. Her opponent in the quarter-finals tomorrow will be Lolete Payott of Switzerland, who defeated Miss Jacobs in this event two years ago.

The sturdy, first-ranking American also progressed to the quarter finals of the women's doubles. She and her partner, Sarah Palfrey, of Brookline, Mass., advanced when their opponents, Cilli Assumov and Marie Horn of Germany, defaulted. Perry and Hughes were swept from the tournament by a dazzling cross-fire attack off the racquets of R. Menzel and Lazi Hecht, Czechoslovakian combination. The Czechs ousted the playing-through champions in straight sets, 6-4, 6-4, 6-2.

Lehr K.O'd SIOUX CITY (AP)—Saved from a knockout by the bell that ended the first round, Kid Lehr, Waterloo, 135, came back for the second and was stopped in that heat by Bus Breece, 134, Manhattan, Kan., four straight punches to the jaw floored Lehr in the first round.

33 Drivers In Big Auto Race

Expect Over 100,000 For Great Race At Indianapolis

INDIANAPOLIS, May 28 (AP)—A starting field of 33 cars was assured today for the twenty-second annual 500 mile race to be run Wednesday over the Indianapolis motor speedway course.

The time trials were completed late this afternoon and the rail birds went home to roost until race day. The course will be closed tomorrow so that workmen can put the huge plant in shape for the speed spectacle that each year lures within the gates a throng of more than 100,000 thrill seekers.

Thirty-one gasoline cars and two propelled by oil burning engines comprise the field for the Memorial day classic. In accordance with speedway rules, all of the contestants have demonstrated during the time trials that their cars are capable of averaging over 100 miles per hour.

Pleased by the crowds that have turned out to witness the time trials during the two week end, Col. E. V. Rickenbacker, president of the speedway, predicted that the forthcoming race would be witnessed by the greatest number of spectators in many years. The specifications, Colonel Rickenbacker said, have drawn more spectators this year than any year since 1930.

Hawkeye Track Men to Compete In Central Meet

A squad of about 10 athletes will compete for the University of Iowa in the Central intercollegiate championship track and field meet at Milwaukee, June 8, Coach G. T. Bresnahan declared Monday.

Although the team has not yet been picked, it is probable that it will include Mark Panther, Big Ten champion javelin thrower; Capt. Sidney Dean, quarter miler; Francis Cretzmeyer, who will be ready to compete in hurdles, broad jump, and javelin; Graham Moulton, Big Ten place-winner in both hurdles, and a mile relay team.

No Iowa athletes ever have competed in the central meet. The affair will be held on Marquette's track under arc lights Friday evening.

3 Games End Big Ten Play For Hawkeyes

Iowans Still Seek Third Despite Drop; Golf Team in Meet

The season's final home baseball games, the last conference contest, and the state intercollegiate golf tournament constitute the week's activity of the University of Iowa's waning sports season.

Minnesota, last year's champion, comes to Iowa City for baseball games tomorrow and Thursday. The Hawkeyes broke even in two games at Minneapolis earlier in the month.

At Ann Arbor Saturday, the Iowa nine closes its Big Ten season against Michigan, but this game is only the first of seven scheduled contests in the Wolverine state, for three colleges will oppose the Hawkeyes in successive games June 4 to 9.

So close is the competition for places in the Big Ten standing below first and second that the Iowans by losing twice to Wisconsin last week, dropped from a tie for third to tenth.

But by winning the last three games, the team yet can attain a final ranking of third. Iowa has won three and lost five, and seven other teams have dropped from four to six games, with only Illinois, the champion, and Indiana, second place occupant, winning more games than they lost.

Iowa's golf team will attempt to win its fourth consecutive state championship in the tournament at Newton Friday. The Hawkeyes never have lost the Iowa intercollegiate title.

Blackman Leads

Ken Blackman still leads his Hawkeye baseball teammates in hitting, but his lead was diminished 26 points as a result of his getting only one hit in eight times at bat in the Wisconsin series. Blackman's mark dropped from .405 to .378.

Bob Mason stepped into undisputed possession of second place by hitting safely five times in eight trips to the plate. Baker, who had been tied with Mason last week, saw his average drop to .302 which gave him fourth place among the regulars, behind John Stephens, who raised his mark to .324. Harry Frohwein became the team's leading hitting-pitcher with a mark of .333, when he connected for two hits in three times at bat in the games at Madison. The team average dropped to .285.

Iowan Becomes Record Scorer

With a total of 88.2 points in nine meets, Francis Cretzmeyer, University of Iowa sophomore, has become the heaviest scoring Hawkeye in track and field in modern athletic annals.

Cretzmeyer surpassed all his previous performances by making 19 points in five events against Minnesota. He now has more than the combined total of the next two ranking Iowans—Captain Sidney Dean, 45 1-4 and Graham Moulton, 40.

Slam Dash Events In Both Meets to Win Decisively

Iowa freshman tracksters completed their most successful year last week with victories over Northwestern and Chicago yearlings.

Iowa's margin over the Wildcatters was 89 to 42, and over Chicago, 94 to 37.

Against Northwestern the Iowans slammed the 100, 220, and 440 yard dashes and repeated against Chicago. In both meets Hugg won the 100 yard dash in 10 seconds with Owen second. Nelson, Owen, and Hugg finished in that order in the 220 yard dash and Briggs, Dooley, and Phillips won in that order for both 440 dash contests.

The Iowa mile relay team won from both teams in the fast time of 3:23.6. Briggs, Dooley, Skinner, and Phillips ran in that order. Jack Lindstrom won against Northwestern in the high hurdles, and took second in the 220 lows, and second in both hurdle races against Chicago.

Paul Nelson won against both teams in the mile run with a time of 4:33.2. Don Nelson also hung up two wins in the javelin throw with a toss of 180 feet 1 inch.

Iowa finished the season without defeat, including as victims Wisconsin, Purdue, and Indiana. All scores were top heavy victories. Purdue was defeated by more than 75 points.

Complete Program for Dedication of State Park Tomorrow

Group to Announce Winner Of $50 Prize in Name Contest; H. McGuire Heads Speakers

Gilmore, Breene Also To Talk; Herring May Attend

Eastern Iowa's second largest lake and most beautiful park, located at Iowa City's backdoor in Big Grove township and costing $500,000, will be named and dedicated tomorrow afternoon.

Everyone in this vicinity is urged by the committee to attend the program at the park site, which is just four miles northeast of North Liberty. The road is well marked and will be patrolled.

Plans are completed for the dedication, at which the name of the person winning the $50 prize for submitting the name for the park will be disclosed.

McGuire Heads Speakers

Heading the list of speakers is Harry McGuire, editor of Outdoor Life, and Acting President Eugene A. Gilmore of the university. Members of the fish and game commission, members of the local park committee, Mayor Harry D. Breene, the mayor of Cedar Rapids, and possibly Governor Herring will all be at the ceremony. Charles H. Maruth, assistant university registrar, will be master of ceremonies.

The university band and Clifford Berkeley's boy band will play.

An information booth, a refreshment stand and water are being provided at the park for the convenience of visitors who are requested to come early by the park committee and are invited to eat their lunch in the area. The program will begin at 2:30 p.m.

Will Dedicate Park to State

The park is the product of the work of a few enthusiastic Iowa City men working in cooperation with the state fish and game commission and the federal government. The committee, who started the project last summer, is headed by Dr. E. J. Anthony.

The 240 acre lake, with its eight miles of shore line, and the 800 acres of rolling woodland, with the exception of the cottage sites, will be deeded to the state. The fish and game commission will have charge of building a wire fence around the area, providing a custodian, stocking the lake with 200,000 fish, and constructing shelter houses and trails.

A large sand beach and recreation house will be provided for the public. Cottage sites will be provided with water, light and sewage facilities.

Work on the large earth dam which will impound the waters of Mill and Jordan creeks will be completed in late August, according to officials. Engineers have assured that the water supply will keep the lake clear and fresh.

The new manager will begin his work here July 1. He succeeds Carlton H. Myers, who held the position for 17 years.

He is the son of Joseph F. Porter, Sr., president of the Kansas City Light and Power company and director of the United Light and Power company. Mr. Porter held the position of assistant to the president of that company and was recently elected vice president.

The new utility executive is well known in Iowa, having lived in Dav-enport for 11 years, where he attended grammar school and high school. His father organized and was for many years president of the Tri-City Rail and Light company.

Mr. Porter moved to Kansas City with his parents in 1917. He graduated at the University of Missouri in the same year, joined the student army training corps and served until after the Armistice and the following year entered Stanford university. He received his bachelor of arts degree in 1921.

After graduation Mr. Porter entered the employ of the Kansas City Light and Power company. For several years he has served as assistant secretary and assistant treasurer. In 1930 he became assistant to the president.

Active in Relief Work

Mr. Porter was active in relief work in Kansas City. He was general chairman of the "Renovize Kansas City" campaign in 1933 which was financed by a $6,000,000 fund and which furnished work for thousands of jobless men. This activity was organized under the auspices of the Chamber of Commerce. He is director of the Kansas City Provident association which has charge of the direct relief in that city.

Boy Scout work has also been one of Mr. Porter's particular interests. He is a director of the Kansas City council, Boy Scouts of America, is a representative of his home city on the national council, and was general chairman of the national convention committee.

They will find him considerate and sympathetic toward their problems at all times, anxious to meet them personally and serve them to the best of his ability. He was raised in Iowa, has visited the state frequently and thoroughly understands conditions here.

"Mr. Porter has been a good citizen of his home town, giving freely of his time and energies to help all worthy causes and civic betterment movements.

"Although Mr. Porter is a young man, he has had and made the most of an exceptional opportunity to develop in the service.

"Coupled with his earlier training, his 13 years of practical experience in the details of administration have developed in him a thorough understanding of every phase of the gas and electric business.

"Mr. Porter is particularly well qualified and minded to keep our service in Iowa City at its present high level. He also understands the problems and appreciates the opportunities confronting the industry today.

Dick See Says:—"IT'S THE END OF THE TRAIL"

Well, folks, the end of the long, long trail is about here for the last of many brave and gallant men of '61. America pays tribute to the survivors of the blue and gray of the Civil War. I just barely remember when I was a kid, the shrill whistle of the fife as men from our town marched gaily off to war and how my mother tried to hide her tears as she hugged my oldest brother for the last time. He never came home.

Those were dark days in our house and in our country. But I thank God the old wounds are healed and the nation has grown to a greatness which we never dreamed of. Today we have a great man in the White House just as we had Lincoln then. We're lucky.

We think we got trouble now. Shucks, we don't know much about it. It is the boys who went to the front for us—the flower of manhood—who know most about that. In every war those who came home have proved themselves worthy citizens and builders. I only hope this "depression war" will have the same effect on us.
