Okay Given F. R.'s Stand On War Debt

Opposes Legislation Of Question At This Session

WASHINGTON, June 1 (AP)—Congress tonight applauded a Roosevelt declaration opposing any legislation on war debts at this session and reiterating American willingness to hear the pleas of debtor nations for revision of their payment schedules.

In a special message to the national legislature, the president warned those nations, however, that the American people were "in a just position" to expect substantial sacrifices on their part and would surely be influenced by the use Europe made of the funds of its disposal.

No Specific References
Thus, without specific references, Mr. Roosevelt tied in the debt question with American efforts to end the armaments race which now threatens the world's peace, efforts renewed within the week at Geneva by Ambassador Norman Davis.

All factions of congress found Mr. Roosevelt's view to their liking. All commended the tone of the message and expressed the opinion that it reflected the sentiment of the American people. Among the leaders who are working to bring about an early adjournment, there was a general relief that no new legislation was requested.

Reviews Question
Mr. Roosevelt reviewed the entire debt question asserting emphatically the view that the people of the nation expected the debtor countries to make a determined effort to meet the obligations arising from America's war loans to them.

"The American people would not be disposed to place an impossible burden upon their debtors," the president said, "but are nevertheless in a just position to ask that substantial sacrifices be made to meet those debts."

Expect Understanding
"We shall continue to expect the debtors on their part to show full understanding of the American attitude on this debt question."
"People of the debtor nations will also bear in mind the fact that the American people are certain to be swayed by the use which debtor countries make of their available resources—whether such resources would be applied for the purposes of recovery as well as the reasonable payment of the debt owed to citizens of the United States, or for purposes of unproductive nationalistic expenditure or like purposes."

League of Nations Council To Examine Jungle Warfare

GENEVA, June 1 (AP)—An examination of the Chaco jungle warfare between Bolivia and Paraguay will be made by the League of Nations council, it was decided today, followed by recommendations for a settlement of the dispute.

The action will be taken under article 15 of the league covenant as the result of an appeal by Bolivia, which was agreed to by the Paraguayan delegate.

Under this article recommendations may be made without the vote of the belligerents.
Time will be granted both nations to make a statement, and it was indicated that this will delay any application of the proposed arms embargo against both.

President Roosevelt Sees Youngest Son Graduate at Groton

GROTON, Mass., June 1 (AP)—President Roosevelt today saw his youngest son, John, graduated from Groton school, just as he, himself, had been 34 years ago.

On the quiet of the campus, surrounded by members of his family, including his wife and mother, and chatting with old friends, the chief executive, who motored here earlier in the day from Worcester, saw the graduation exercises and later the athletic events that rounded out the afternoon program.

For one day at least, complete seclusion was his. Newspaper men who accompanied him from Washington were not permitted to enter the grounds of the exclusive school where privacy long has been a strict rule.

Stock Control Bill Approved By Congress

Both Houses, Without Record Vote, Pass Measure

WASHINGTON, June 1 (AP)—The stock exchange control bill reached the end of a long, dispute strewn pathway through congress tonight with final approval by both houses.

House and senate, without record votes, and with little debate, accepted the conference report compromising controversies between the two branches, and the measure was dispatched to the White House for President Roosevelt's signature.

Final Action
Administrative assurances to the industrial and financial world that the bill's rider modifying the securities act of 1933 would protect honest businessmen marked final action on the measure in the senate.

This assurance was voiced by Senator Byrnes (D. S. C.), an administration spokesman who led the move to modify the securities act. Byrnes conceded that under the present law corporation officials had been fearful of "strike suits," but added:

"Fair Statement"
"It is a fair statement that under the new law, the provisions as to the civil liability of the underwriter, or of the officers and directors of a corporation are so amended that no honest man need have any fear of the law as long as he is willing to give to the corporation in which he is an officer and in which he has invested his money, the same reasonable care that he gives to the management of his own property."
Byrnes spoke after the senate had adopted the conference report without a record vote. The unanimity of the action was in sharp contrast to the conflict and controversy which accompanied the bill's previous course through congress.

U. S. Bans "Chiseling"

WASHINGTON, June 1 (AP)—The government is putting its ban on "chiseling" liquor bottles that make 22 ounces look like full 32 ounce quart.

Toledo Electrical Workers Get Wage Increase; Call Off Strike

Will Effect Entire Personnel Of Company

TOLEDO, Ohio, June 1 (AP)—Persuading their employers to give them a 20 per cent wage restoration and other concessions, union electrical workers employed by the Toledo Edison company tonight called off their strike set for 7 a.m. tomorrow.

The wage increases, effective today, will go not only to the some 300 union members, but to the entire company personnel of 900 including stenographers and clerks.

Expect Automotive Settlement
At the same time, just before organized labor began a huge parade and mass meeting to announce plans for a general strike, Charles P. Taft, federal mediator, announced that a settlement may be expected soon in the automotive workers strike.

Included in the agreement accepted by the electrical workers was a provision forbidding them to participate in any sympathy strike.

Walkout Unnecessary
In labor circles, however, it was conceded that the successful conclusion of the electricians' negotiations and an end to the automotive strike would make a mass walkout unnecessary.

1,800 Relief Workers Walk Out In Dubuque

DUBUQUE, June 1 (AP)—Charging extravagance on the part of the Dubuque county relief officials and dissatisfaction with relief quotas, 1,800 relief workers today walked out on projects under construction.

At a meeting held in one of the downtown parks the workers decided to carry their appeal directly to Gov. Clyde L. Herring. No date was set for the trip to Des Moines for a conference with the governor.

The projects on which work was being done at the time of the walk-out included landscaping of local parks, improvement at the senior high school, municipal airport and city quarries.

Commencement Play To End Season's Series Of Productions

University theater will cooperate with the Iowa City Community theater in presenting this year's Commencement play, George M. Cohan's "The Baby Cyclone," tonight at 8:15 in natural science auditorium.

The play, which will be given its only performance this evening, will close the 1933-34 series of community presentations. It is under the direction of Elwood Ramay, G of Iowa City.

In Three Acts
Divided into three acts, the play will be shown in three sets designed by Arnold Gillette of the speech and dramatic arts department and Grant Fairbanks, G of Redlands, Cal. Lee Savage, G of Elgin, Ill., is stage manager.

Mr. Cohan's play concerns the trouble that arises between Mr. and Mrs. Hurley because of Mrs. Hurley's insistence on owning a Pekinese dog. A happy ending follows a number of situations that occur following the quarrel over the dog.

Mrs. Dale Yoder will play Mrs. Sutherland in the original production. The Rev. Glen McMichael, Methodist university pastor, will play Mr. Hurley, which was played originally by Spencer Tracy.

WASHINGTON, June 1 (AP)—The house bill to authorize posting of rewards up to $25,000 for the capture of criminals was passed today by the senate and sent back to the house for action on amendments.

Deadlock Halts Cotton Confab; Success Near

Johnson Confers With Textile Leaders At Washington

WASHINGTON, June 1 (AP)—An unexpected deadlock between labor and management developed tonight after efforts of Hugh S. Johnson, national recovery administrator, to avert a general strike in the cotton textile industry apparently were near success.

An all day conference of union leaders with Johnson, George A. Sloan, chairman of the cotton textile code authority, and Robert Bruere, chairman of the cotton textile industrial relations board, recessed abruptly until tomorrow when the opposing factions failed to agree on details of an adjustment proposal submitted by the NRA administration.

Johnson Irritated
As he left his office Johnson, visibly irritated, told newspapermen that the conference would be resumed tomorrow morning and indicated he still expected a satisfactory adjustment would be reached.

Details of the proposed agreement were not divulged, but it was reported the plan in general had been accepted by Thomas F. McMahon, president of the United Textile Workers, and other officials of his organization.

Walkout Threat Weakens
Despite the failure of Johnson to obtain an agreement tonight, prospects that the threatened walkout would materialize had lessened materially, Johnson indicated that he believed the opposing spokesmen were weary and ill tempered after some eight hours of conference in a stuffy, smoke filled meeting room and that differences remaining tonight could be adjusted satisfactorily tomorrow.

Socialists In Party Fight

"Old Guard" Routed In Dissension Over Dictatorship

DETROIT, June 1 (AP)—The left wing forces of the Socialist party tonight routed the "old guard" in the voting on committee membership and split the convention into bitter dissension in advocating a "dictatorship of the revolutionary masses" for the assumption of power.

The left wing, led by a coalition of the revolutionary policy committee and the New York militants, completely swept the resolutions committee; obtained all but one member of the platform committee and a majority of the resolutions committee.

Introduce Resolution
The leftists then introduced a resolution on international policy, assailing the methods of the Social democratic party of Germany, and urging an end to the historic Socialist policy of a belief in democracy.

This resolution contained the majority report of the American delegation at the Paris conference of the second international last year, saying as concerns the "road to power."

Funeral Service For Fred Merritt, Iowa Graduate, Set Today

Funeral service for Fred D. Merritt, former Iowa City resident who received his Ph.D. degree from the University of Iowa will be held at Mt. Vernon this morning. Interment will be at West Union.

Mr. Merritt, who died at his home in Mt. Vernon Thursday morning, graduated from the University of Michigan. He is survived by his widow, Ellen W. Merritt, two daughters, two sons, and two grandchildren.

Merchants in Cedar Rapids, Marion Will Get Scrip Suspension

CEDAR RAPIDS, June 1 (AP)—Twenty-five merchants in Cedar Rapids and Marion will be "indefinitely suspended" from the trade benefits of federal aid scrip, effective Monday, it was revealed tonight by Ben Tait, county relief committee chairman.

An investigator for the state relief office in Des Moines has disclosed "wholesale violations" of the scrip regulations, according to Tait. Most of these violations consist of giving relief clients articles not allowed on the face of the scrip, it was said. Among the taboos articles which merchants under the ban have provided, according to the investigator, are tobacco, olives, potted meats, leaf lettuce, and in one case lipstick and rouge.

Council Will Send Letter To Hopkins

Municipal League Plea For Investigation Taken Lightly

A letter of the Municipal Ownership league asking the cooperation of the city council in securing an investigation of the recent light election caused only a slight stir in an otherwise placid council meeting last night.

The council voted to send the letter to Harry F. Hopkins, state PWA administrator, at Des Moines. No other action was taken on the communication, which was an answer to charges made by the Iowa City Light and Power company in its protest to the PWA that there had been sufficient fraud and misrepresentation by the municipal ownership forces to invalidate the results of the election.

The letter of the Municipal Ownership league is as follows:
"To the Honorable Mayor and City Council of Iowa City:
"Whereas the Iowa City Light and Power company has made public charges of fraud and misrepresentation against the Municipal Ownership league of Iowa City in connection with the recent election in which a majority of the voters decided themselves in favor of public ownership of a light and power plant; and

"Whereas these charges will be forwarded to federal authorities as a further protest by said power company to any federal grant of loan aid in carrying out the municipal project as voted by the people:
"The mayor and city council of Iowa City are hereby respectfully

Tugwell Nomination May Fail Unless Robinson Takes Action

WASHINGTON, June 1 (AP)—All efforts at compromise failing, Senator Robinson of Arkansas, the majority leader, said today he planned to move to take the nomination of Rexford G. Tugwell as undersecretary of agriculture and place it before the senate for consideration.

Because of the opposition of Chairman Smith (D. S. C.) of the committee to confirmation, no action has been taken on Tugwell's name and the nomination will fall apparently unless the almost unprecedented move contemplated is resorted to.

Robinson said he planned to discharge the committee and force the Tugwell issue at the first convenient opportunity. Previously, he had endeavored to persuade Smith to call the committee together to consider

Moves Into State on Winds From West; Temperatures In 100's to Smash Heat Records

Expect Only 54.3 Normal Grain Yield

By The Associated Press
New and gloomier pictures of crop damage were painted yesterday by unofficial statisticians as June started to outdo May in the setting of records for heat and drought.

Four leading grain crops are expected to yield only 54.3 per cent of normal, according to an average of unofficial forecasts by four widely known crop reporting experts attached to brokerage firms on the Chicago board of trade.

Wheat Deteriorates
Deterioration of wheat has been faster than at any time in the history of American agriculture, one report said, amounting to 108,000,000 bushels in the last month.

E. W. Snow, one of the experts, described the drought as "the most severe and most widely extended at this date during the entire history of crop reporting."

Oats is expected to yield 56.6 per cent of normal, and rye 48.5 per cent. No figures were given for corn as it was said to be too early for estimates.

Snow in Montana
Rain cooled Montana and parts of Minnesota and North Dakota, but elsewhere temperatures reached all time highs almost without exception.

However, a snow storm followed a heavy rain into Butte, Mont., and another fall prevented a high school picnic near Walla Walla, Wash.

Rain visited St. Louis and Central Illinois.

Allotments Announced
Allotments totalling $5,476,000 for drought relief in 10 states were announced at Washington, with an indication the amounts may be increased before the month is over.

Trading in wheat continued briskly at Chicago and Minneapolis, but profit taking and reports of rain in Saskatchewan sent the market tumbling after prices had advanced more than four cents. The close was about a cent under Thursday's final prices.

Wheat and corn fields of the middle west, already badly burned out, sacrificed additional thousands of bushels to the sun god as all time heat records piled up.

102.3 In Chicago
An official temperature of 102.3 in Chicago at mid-afternoon set a new June mark there and was only .7 of a degree under the all time, any month record of 102.9, set July 21, 1901. At Morris, Ill., it was 107 degrees.

To conserve as far as possible all feed in the state for suffering livestock, Governor Floyd Olson of Minnesota declared an immediate embargo on all shipments of livestock into the state for feeding or grazing purposes. The executive order declared an "unprecedented emergency" exists because of the drought.

Iowa City Feels 102 Degree Heat; 103 At Burlington

DES MOINES, June 1 (AP)—A heavy dust storm brought added discomfort for Iowa today as the heat wave racked the high temperature marks of the month.

The dust moved into Iowa on winds from the west and rode eastward across the state. Visibility Unseasonal heat waves gave Iowa City, panting after three days of tropical temperatures, no relief yesterday.

Aided by a prickly humidity in making things uncomfortable for John Citizen, the sun pulled thermometer mercury up to a high point of 102 degrees at 2:30 p.m. A light powder of dust, carried here from Dakota fields, clung to damp hands and faces.

Even after sundown the heat continued. With only a suggestion of a breeze showing opposition, the mercury held to 80 degrees at 10 p.m.

was limited and much of the state was covered with a blanket of dirt. Although temperatures failed to reach the highs of the last two days, they again scaled the 100 mark in a number of cities and smashed previous June heat records in some instances.

Burlington reported 103 degrees early in the afternoon, while at Iowa City, Cedar Rapids, Davenport, Clinton and some other points the mercury had climbed to 102.

Keokuk's mark of 102.3 at 2:30 p.m. was said by the weather bureau to have smashed June heat marks of the last 60 years.

Uncover Big Poison Plot

Police Find Deadly Poison in Gum In Sacramento

SACRAMENTO, Cal., June 1 (AP)—What authorities believed to be a plot to poison an entire neighborhood was uncovered by police tonight when four sample sticks of chewing gum left at the home of Mrs. Georgia McKenzie were found to contain a deadly poison.

Similar sticks of gum were found on the steps of adjoining houses, but an analysis for poison in them will not be completed until tomorrow.

Mrs. McKenzie, a divorcee, said she found the gum on the front porch of her home when she returned from work last Tuesday night. She is employed as a telegraph operator at the Southern Pacific railway station here.

"I just dropped the sample package in my purse and thought no more about it until at work the next night," she said. "I opened one piece and as I touched it to my tongue I noticed it had a bitter taste so didn't start to chew it."

Iowa's Alumni Come Back Home

THERE are many... doubting the whole system of education supported by taxation. The answer lies with you and the other graduates of tax supported institutions, in the contributions which you make to the welfare of this commonwealth and of the nation.—Excerpt from the address of Charles Dutcher, president-elect of the Iowa Alumni association, at the Commencement supper Thursday evening.

Hundreds of alumni of the University of Iowa, graduates of the last 50 years or more, will return to their alma mater today, to participate in class reunions.

They are the answer to the problem, the challenge, which was stated by Mr. Dutcher Thursday evening at Iowa Union. In their contributions to the welfare of Iowa and of the entire nation, of which the university is justly proud, lies the value of a great educational institution.

The 27,000 graduates of Iowa have carried the influence of the Old Gold into every corner of the earth, in every field of human endeavor. They are the philosophers, the scientists, the business men, the teachers, the government officials, and many others who have given much to the state and nation which nurtured them.

Iowa's graduates are represented in President Roosevelt's cabinet, in the national senate and house of representatives, in many state capitals, on the benches of justice, in great metropolitan industries, in America's great universities.

Within the last week one Iowa man has risen to the post of president of a great university in the west, and another invented a scientific device in the east. Hundreds of others were doing equally important things in their own fields.

And Iowa has not forgotten her thousands of graduates who have gone "back home" to become school teachers, small business men, who have built homes and raised families, who have built Iowa with their good citizenship.

THE DAILY IOWAN welcomes Iowa's alumni back home. In their accomplishments lies the university's ultimate achievement.

Interpreting Today In the Future

CONSIDER the historian and archaeologist of the future. In the distance about 1,000 years a cornerstone of a great building will perhaps be unearthed, and the students of the past will set about to interpret the life of America in the twentieth century.

They will be amazed at the things they will learn. They will undoubtedly conclude that we were an odd race of beings. In the newspapers which come out of that cornerstone they will learn that the most important things in America were evidently criminals and quintuplets.

Column after column will be devoted to the escapades of a man named Dillinger, who became a national favorite in the ranks of our murderers. His personality, likes and dislikes, hobbies, and crimes will be described in detail, and will be supplemented by dozens of pictures.

On the same page a paragraph or two may be devoted to a great scientific discovery or a book which is destined to become immortal.

And on the same page columns will be given over to the story of the quintuplets. Bulletins every few hours announce to a waiting world the state of their health, the color of their clothing, the work of feeding them. Their mother and father become national figures, ranking with the politicians and movie stars in importance. The future historian will be puzzled about our civilization, often said to be the highest the world has ever known!

What Others Think

A Foiled Sophomore Sues

(From the Kansas City Star)
A damage suit for $25,000 brought by a sophomore student against Long Island university has been rejected by a New York supreme court jury. This is fortunate, because the young man's case fairly bristled with dangerous and subversive precedents. He was suing the institution on the ground that it had wasted his time. And the value of a college sophomore's time, if left to the sophomore, is $12,500 a year. It was a narrow escape not only for the Long Island college, but for a lot of other colleges, football coaches, and even business and political organizations unconnected with educational endeavor which may have fooled freshmen and forgotten sophomores in their ranks.

A bank teller who, after two years in the case, found that he was not yet numbered among the institution's multitudinous vice-presidents, might also sue the bank for his wasted time—which, incidentally, he might value anywhere from $5,000 to $50,000 a year. And a triple threat fullback, lured to college by a coach's promise to make him an all-American, might sue on a mere caprice or oversight on the part of Grantland Rice's all-American selection committee—but the imagination staggers before the sum such a grievance would amount to if reduced to terms of money by the fullback himself.

It was, indeed, a narrow squeak—so narrow that all other colleges will use care, we hope, not to waste their sophomores' time, now that we have an inkling of what their time is worth. Next time, there might be a couple of frustrated sophomores on the jury.

GOOD MORNING

"No one who has observed the course of political events since the war can legitimately regard with any confidence the prospects of democratic government."—Harold J. Laski, professor of political science in the University of London, writing in The Christian Science Monitor magazine section.

"The prospects of democracy over a five, ten or twenty year period are an easy guess. Democracy will grow steadily, as it has been doing for the last hundred years and especially for the last 20 years, not least during the last 12 months."—Alfred Zimmern, Montague Burton professor of international relations at Oxford university, in the same publication.

One of these men is wrong. Which is right and which is wrong is a question the answer to which will have a profound effect upon the lives of uncounted millions today and through innumerable tomorrows.

Upon the discovery of a sound answer depends to a large extent the satisfactory solution of today's problems, and the clearing away of dangerous confusions which bedevil far too much contemporary thinking.

But how are we to find such an answer? Any one acquainted with the field of political and economic thought will concede the eminent fitness of Professors Laski and Zimmern.

But the answers we get from these men are typical of the disagreement, if not the downright confusion, that is found whichever way one cares to turn. Two men on the street, though their discourse would be far less scholarly and authoritative, would give the same answers. There would be the same disagreement, the same confusion.

It is notable, and significant, that Professor Laski speaks only of a capitalist democracy such as we know in America, not of a socialist democracy, such as the Soviets profess to have in Russia. And his conviction that democracy faces a dark future is based on the inevitable conflict between the economic ruling class and the masses in a capitalist society.

For such a democracy to be successful, he insists, the holders of economic power must be willing to surrender some of the privileges their power entails to the masses, a sacrifice they can, or will, make only in times of easy prosperity.

It is also notable that Professor Laski accepts "the superiority of the democratic way of government to any alternative." But he insists that "... its necessary corollary seems to me to be the realization of the equality it postulates in the political realm in other spheres, notably the economic, of life."

This equality can be attained only through conflict, he contends, and "... a settlement in terms of conflict has no hope of permanence." The only alternative he sees is Fascism, in which "The capitalists destroy all the normal principles of constitutional majority rule, above all the right of free association and free speech, in order to preserve their economic power from the challenge of the masses."

Professor Zimmern, on the other hand, sees no serious obstacle in the way of democracy that does not face all other governments as well. The crisis, he contends, is not simply in democracy, but in all government.

The need in government, he says, "is a strong executive capable of making rapid decisions." Democracies are, and will, he is confident, meet this problem more satisfactorily and with more permanent success than other forms of government.

Well, what is the answer? Their disagreement, and the consequent confusion, seems to lie in Professor Laski's distinction between capitalist democracy and other forms. For it is in its capitalistic aspects that he finds the seeds of democracy's failure, not in its principles of political equality and majority rule.

Will democracy succeed if it is divorced from capitalism? If so, how divorce it? The man in the street will answer, and his answer will be final.

Behind The Scenes in HOLLYWOOD

By Harrison Carroll

HOLLYWOOD, Cal.—Male America, hang your head. You are miles behind your wives and sweethearts in clothes-consciousness.

That is what Carl Brisson, continental fistic champ, stage and screen star, says about you after five months in this country. The tall, rangy Dane, who has had everything from cigars to flannel trousers named after him, minces no words.

"American women," he says, "can go to Europe and fit in anywhere—much better, in fact, than a European woman could over here."

"But the men don't know how to dress. They wear brown shoes with dark suits, dinner-coat ties with pointed ends, belts instead of braces and dozens of other incorrect articles of attire."

Even the swankier men-about-Hollywood, could learn a thing or two, charges Brisson. You'd be surprised to know what famous male star he says is "just on the verge of being over-dressed."

Brisson estimates that the man of medium income should spend at least 12 1/2 per cent of his salary on his own clothes. How much, then, for the wife?

"Well," says the star, "Every penny he can afford."

A news item said that the Columbia Studio is spending $5000 to repair the damages caused by termites ants. Now comes a wire from Bob Woolsey and Bert Wheeler:

"Dear Harrison: These are not termites eating away the foundations of Harry Cohn's studio. It's Bert and me trying to get our share of 'So This is Africa.'"

Silliest thing I've read in weeks is the contention of a writer in a national magazine that Mae West is slipping because she has surrounded herself with a group of young intellectuals.

I suppose he means Jim Timony, Boris Petroff and Jack West, who are the blonde star's only intimates, or Morris Cohan, the Pasadena fight manager, Barney Ross, Tony Canzoneri and such two-fisted guys with whom Mae talks fight lingo.

You seldom are able to tie such a boner onto a hotel clerk, but this actually happened when Alice Faye was flying east to broadcast for Rudy Vallee and her plane was forced down in Albuquerque. With several hours to wait for clearing weather, the party went to a hotel, which had been notified of their coming.

When Alice stepped up to register, the suave young man at the desk exclaimed:

"Oh, how do you do, we've reserved a fine room for you, Miss Webb."

There's a story behind the movie debut of Mary Jane Moore, Gotham debutante, whose papa is chairman of the Butterick publications. When the young socialite was going to Miss Bennett's School in New Jersey, she and Betty Burness, now of the films, made a vow never to get married without the other acting as maid of honor. Several weeks ago, Betty was given a script of "The Life of Vergie Winters," and discovered that she was due to become a bride in the picture. Though it was only make-believe, she wired her chum, who came to California and played maid of honor when Betty married Frank Albertson before the camera.

Meanwhile, the heart-broken old man came here and got a job cooking in a restaurant. He tried to save money to get back to Thessaly, but small earnings made that difficult.

A telegram came recently. It was from James, saying he had traced his father from one city to another and would join him soon.

And two days later he arrived—with plenty of money accumulated while working in Detroit, Mich.

Now Thomas is getting ready to go back to Thessaly. James bought his passage, gave him $2,000 besides and said "write for more when that is spent."

E. H. LAUER

Washington Bystander

WASHINGTON — Any way you take them, the Illinois primary results size up as an initial victory for the new deal in the 1934 political season. There is no other way of accounting for what happened. The fact that it is described as the most peaceful election the state ever has known only adds to the new deal popular approval implications.
At first glance the defeat of Representative James Simpson, incumbent, for the fashionable North Shore tenth district Republican nomination to the house, would seem to be the high-light of the Illinois contest. The new deal was directly involved there. President Roosevelt's Republican right-hander in the cabinet, Secretary Ickes, saw to that.
Ickes is a tenth district voter. Whether he actually cast a ballot in the Republican primaries or not, he contributed to the victory of Ralph Church over Simpson and thereby insured one more new deal house vote in the next congress. Whether Church or his Democratic opponent wins in November—and it was nip and tuck last time—the Roosevelt program is destined to get another supporter.

Enthusiasm Significant
All that is very interesting to a far larger group than Messrs. Simpson, Church and Ickes and the other tenth district Republican voters. It touches on the Republican primary situation developing principally in senatorial battles in so many other states this year where the new deal is an intra-party issue.

But the great and unexpected enthusiasm with which Illinois Democrats turned out to do their stuff in their own primaries, where no new deal question was up at all, looms as of even greater import. Without anything like that to egg them on, the Illinois Democrats trooped to the polls in unprecedented numbers to renominate their men in congress. They showed up in about two-to-one proportions to the Republican primary voters in a normally Republican state.

Approval of New Deal
What can that possibly signify except that they wanted to set the seal of their approval on what has been going on in Washington since last election? Or does it mean that a lot of Illinois Republicans who "went Roosevelt" in '32 turned up as off-year Democrats this year?

Many political onlookers in Washington have been anticipating a back-swing of the political pendulum this year not only in restoration of a variously estimated number of house seats to normal Republican alignment, but also in the way of intra-party defeats in the primaries for sitting Democrats. The Illinois primaries afford no illustrations, actual or implied. The lake state voters seem content with things as they are.

PARABLE REVERSED

Prodigal Son Comes Back With Riches

BAINBRIDGE, Ga. (AP)—James Geottes is the sort of prodigal son who brings along the fatted calf when he comes back.
Many years ago he and his father, Thomas, natives of Thessaly, came to America but soon separated and were lost to each other.

The elder searched far and wide for his son but found no trace, and finally the youth was given up for dead.

Meanwhile, the heart-broken old man came here and got a job cooking in a restaurant. He tried to save money to get back to Thessaly, but small earnings made that difficult.

A telegram came recently. It was from James, saying he had traced his father from one city to another and would join him soon.

And two days later he arrived—with plenty of money accumulated while working in Detroit, Mich.

Now Thomas is getting ready to go back to Thessaly. James bought his passage, gave him $2,000 besides and said "write for more when that is spent."

PERILOUS PERCH

Fire Lookout 6 Feet From Crater's Edge

MINERAL, Cal. (AP)—Being a hermit is a passion as well as a profession with John Gransbury, lookout fire observer on Brokoff mountain in Lassen National park.

During the summer months he lives in a cabin six feet from the rim of a 1,200-ft. deep extinct volcanic crater and surveys the surrounding landscape for fires.

When the summer task is finished he moves to a little closed up resort known as Viola, to become caretaker, and is snowed in all winter.

When the wind blows, sometimes at a terrific rate, there is always the possibility of the little single-room cabin's being blown off into space.

Gransbury has held down the lookout job since 1924. He has hundreds of thousands of acres of valuable timber land, dotted with farms, ranches and small towns, under his surveillance.

INCUBATOR FOR QUINTUPLETS

Prof. A. C. Baird Announces First Plans for Intercollegiate "Congressional Session" Here

Invitations for Affair Sent to Number of Universities

Plans for the first intercollegiate "congressional session," in which a dozen large universities will participate, were announced yesterday by Prof. A. Craig Baird, director of university debate.

If the universities involved agree to the plan, the congress will take the place of a Delta Sigma Rho debate tournament which has been held here the last two years.

Date Not Set
Though the date has not been definitely set, the "congress" will meet in Iowa City either the first week in December or early next spring, Professor Baird said.

Each school will send as many representatives as it wishes. Three or four issues will be considered, according to preliminary plans. The "issues" will be selected by a member of President Roosevelt's cabinet.

Assignments in Advance
Several months before the session each representative will be assigned to one of three or four committees named to consider the specific issues. These committees will come to the "congress" prepared to introduce legislation.

Preliminary committee meetings will be held Thursday evening preceding the congressional session, and the session will take place on Friday and Saturday.

Will Elect "Speaker"
The representatives will elect a "speaker" and other officers, and will proceed with debate from the floor, debate to be limited to three or four hours on each issue.

The "congressional session" is a new type of debate being developed in American universities, according to Professor Baird. It is based upon parliamentary procedure in the national congress, and has a collegiate precedent in debating societies such as the Oxford Union in England.

Invitations Sent
Invitations have been sent to Iowa State college, Iowa State Teachers college, the Universities of North Dakota, South Dakota, Nebraska, Oklahoma, Texas, Louisiana, Florida, Colorado, Kansas, Wyoming, Denver, Utah, Missouri, Wisconsin, Minnesota, Illinois, Indiana, and West Virginia.

Notre Dame university, Kansas State college, Northwestern university, Purdue university, Pennsylvania State college, and Pittsburgh university.

Professor Baird has experimented with the idea of a student "congress" this spring. Members of debate classes in the University of Iowa participated in these "congresses."

Sioux Falls Student Named Outstanding At Columbia College

DUBUQUE, June 2 (AP)—Henry A. Billon of Sioux Falls, S. D., has been selected as the outstanding member of the 1934 Columbia college graduating class and will receive a $25 award given by Frank A. O'Connor of Dubuque and Omaha, general counsel of the farm credit administration of the eighth district.

The selection was made by his classmates and the faculty of the college.

Billon received almost perfect grades in his classes. In the 118 of the 120 hours required for graduation he received "A," the highest possible mark. In the remaining two hours he received the grade of B.

He also was editor of "The Loran," college newspaper, and was manager and speaker on the debate team which made a successful trip this spring, and he won first place in the annual French speech contest.

Heat Evidently got them. It happened about 3 a.m. Friday in the dead of the dark hour before dawn. Five university men were walking down the middle of Madison street dressed in only their shorts. All five had their trousers dangling over one arm, and were apparently happy. Wise men, those. But perhaps it wasn't the heat, after all. It may be that a plot is on foot to start a nudist colony in the midst of the university.

News item: One of the few classes continuing through this week is the women's recreational swimming class, which meets every afternoon from 4:30 to 5. The class will go on through Commencement, for the swimming pool seems to be much in demand these days. News item: The women's swimming pool will be closed Tuesday and the walls will be given a thorough cleaning.

So, they can't take it...

DIXIE DUGAN—"Slow But Sure." By J. P. McEvoy and J. H. Striebel

from Old Capitol
By TOM YOSELOFF

The alumni have officially taken the town today. Attracted by the gold medals offered to returning grads of 1884, 13 of them had registered up until last night. Their organizer, L. S. Kennington of Newton, was delighted with the number who turned out. He is used to keeping track of things carefully—he is clerk of the Jasper county district court—which perhaps accounts for the fact that he drops into the alumni office in Old Capitol every few minutes and asks cheerily: "Any more '84s in yet?"

Dr. John Sherbon is rather "leading a double life" on his visit here. From his home in Pittsboro, Pa., he came for the double purpose of the reunion of his class—medicine '04—and to visit his daughter, Alice Sherbon of the women's physical education department staff. Dr. J. F. Newell, a graduate of medicine in the class of '89, holds something of a record. He returned to the university yesterday for the first time since his graduation 45 years ago!

Another "double purpose" man is J. Leo Scanlon, of the 1914 class in engineering, who returned to visit his classmates and his brother, Dr. George Scanlon. The prize winning law class of 1884 already had a representative in town yesterday afternoon—Judge M. F. Edwards of Parkersburg. First alumnus from out of the state to register at the alumni office was J. S. Estes of Oklahoma City, Okla. This, incidentally, is the first time he has returned to Iowa, since his graduation in law in 1904. With him is Mrs. Estes.

The long distance record goes probably to L. A. Baker of Yakima, Wash., unless someone from far off arrives soon. Mr. Baker is attending the thirty-fifth anniversary reunion of his law class. A close rival is Mrs. Elizabeth Hendee Plank, who came all the way from Marlborough, N. Y. Mrs. Plank, Iowa's naturalists will remember, is the sister of the late Russell Hendee, well known explorer, who died several years ago on a trip of exploration.

And also for long distance add Cora R. Wirick of San Diego, Cal., and Lillian S. Moor of Monrovia, Cal., who made the trip to Iowa together. They arrived yesterday afternoon, and their first conclusion upon reaching Iowa City was that they had done wrong to go to California for its warm climate. Fraternity and sorority keys are being dusted for reunion time. Yesterday afternoon, the Phi Phi's seemed to lead in the representation of women's groups, with the Delta Gam's also well represented.

The heat evidently got them. It happened about 3 a.m. Friday in the dead of the dark hour before dawn. Five university men were walking down the middle of Madison street dressed in only their shorts. All five had their trousers dangling over one arm, and were apparently happy. Wise men, those. But perhaps it wasn't the heat, after all. It may be that a plot is on foot to start a nudist colony in the midst of the university.

News item: One of the few classes continuing through this week is the

S.U.I. Gives 2 Contracts

Local Company Low Bidder for Heating, Plumbing

The Larew Plumbing and Heating company of Iowa City was awarded the contract for plumbing and heating of law commons, now under construction, and the Des Moines Steel company was given the contract for construction of a footbridge, it was announced yesterday by university officials.

Rebidding for the plumbing and heating contract of the commons was necessary, because the original contract holder gave up the first contract awarded. The Larew company was low bidder on the work, which is approximately a $31,000 project.

The footbridge, which is approximately a $19,000 project, is the second part of the bridge for which contracts have been given.

Holder of the contract for the substructure of the bridge, on which utilities for three new buildings—fine arts colony, law commons, and University theater—will be transported, is the Stark Construction company of Cedar Rapids.

The footbridge will connect the new developments as well as the entire west campus with the east campus. It is expected that it will be ready for use by the time school opens again next fall.

HAWKEYES CAPTURE STATE GOLF CROWN

Vanderwicken Wins Collegiate Championship

Gardner 2nd; Fourth Straight Win for Iowa Four

NEWTON, June 1 (AP)—Burning up already sunbaked Newton Country club course with a 145 total for 36 holes, LeRoy Vanderwicken, University of Iowa golfer, Friday won the Iowa intercollegiate golf association championship for 1934.

He received the individual trophy offered this year by his coach, Charles Kennett.

Gardner Runner-Up He barely nosed out Jim Gardner, a teammate who carded 146. W. Hird of Drake university, trailed with 148. Vanderwicken was the low medalist for the morning round with 71. He faltered in with a 39 for the first afternoon nine but played a par 5 for his final round.

Gardner after taking 72 in the morning, jumped into the lead with a 35 after lunch, but could do no better than 39 for his last round.

Fourth Straight For the fourth successive time the University of Iowa four man team annexed the L. B. (Bud) Maytag team championship trophy. Vanderwicken, Gardner, Parker and Van Epps turned in a 611 total for 36 holes.

Drake was second with 630, and Iowa State third with a 645 total. The low medal prize for the afternoon went to Melenbacher of Iowa State college, who bagged a 73.

Twenty Seven Golfers Parker and Hird each took 28 putts for morning honors and Van Epps used his putter but 27 times in the afternoon.

Twenty seven golfers representing eight Iowa schools started the 36 hole grind Friday morning, on a gust-laden course, but the air cleared up somewhat during the afternoon.

Iowa Baseball Team Opposes Michigan Nine

Seven Game Road Trip Closes Season For Hawkeyes

The University of Iowa baseball team opposes Michigan this afternoon at Ann Arbor in the Big Ten finale for the Hawkeyes. A win today will mean permanent possession of third place in the season standings.

Gene Ford will probably take the mound for Iowa with Wister slated to hurl for the Wolverines.

Seven Games The Michigan game is the first of a seven game road tour through Michigan. Following the game at Ann Arbor, the Hawkeyes will travel to Ypsilanti to meet Michigan Normal in a two game series Monday and Tuesday.

After Ypsilanti, the Hawks will meet the Western State Teachers in two games at Kalamazoo, Wednesday and Thursday. Friday and Saturday will see the Iowans closing their season with two games with Michigan State university at East Lansing.

Hawks Third The Hawkeyes took undisputed possession of third place in conference standings by their double win over Minnesota with a record of an even break in 10 games. Michigan is right behind with six losses and five defeats. A win for Iowa this afternoon will settle the Hawks on the third rung.

The Michigan team, however, is gunning for the victory which will give them an even break and place them in possible tie for third. The following Hawkeyes made the trip: infielders, Captain Schulte-henrich, Baker, Mason, Weese, Stephens, Bazant; pitchers, Ford, Frohwein, Pickrell, Mau; catcher, Schmidt; outfielders, Blackman, Drager, Clausen, McEwan, Underwood.

BIG SIX

By The Associated Press While Joe Medwick's slump continued yesterday, Sam Leslie was the only Big Six member to do any effective hitting and his feat of connecting safely three times in six attempts in Brooklyn's long game against Boston gave him second place in the National league and fifth in the Big Six. His batting average went up five points to .373, only two points behind Harvey Hendrick, who automatically took the league lead while remaining idle. Medwick dropped 10 points as he failed to hit in four tries. Heinie Manush, the only American league member to play, hit once in four trips to the plate, losing three points.

The standing: G. A. B. R. H. Pet. Hemsley, Browns .29 106 13 44 415. Manush, Senators .41 172 31 67 390. Knickerbocker, Ind. .35 140 24 57 379. Hendrick, Phils .24 72 10 27 375. Leslie, Dodgers .40 150 18 56 373. Medwick, Cards .39 161 38 59 366.

To millions of Ohioans he is "the Governor," "Governor White," or "George White." But Ohio's governor refers to himself invariably as "G. White."

Cavalcade Tries for American Derby Win to Add to Kentucky

Hopes to Set Record of Having Won Both Race Classics

WASHINGTON PARK, Ill., June 1 (AP)—A slim chestnut colt named Cavalcade will try to the last ounce of his courage tomorrow to accomplish that which no other thoroughbred has been able to do for nearly 50 years—win both the Kentucky derby and the American derby. Spokane did it in 1889.

Cavalcade, owned by Mrs. Isabel Dodge Sloan of New York, winner of the Kentucky derby, with 10 others was named today to start in the $25,000 added American derby, which will be run before a crowd that may reach 40,000. It will draw a great throng because it is the first real horse race the American derby has been able to offer since its revival back in 1926 when Col. E. R. Bradley's Boot To Boot was the winner. The distance will be a mile and a quarter.

The Broome stable, which Mrs. Sloane owns, will start two horses as an entry—Cavalcade and Anarchy—with Jockey Mack Garner, who rode the three year old to victory in the Kentucky classic, astride Cavalcade, and his nephew Willie Garner on Anarchy.

Cavalcade, with his stable mate Anarchy, was installed favorite tonight at 2 to 1, despite the fact he is giving away eight pounds in weight to Discovery, which trailed him home in the Kentucky derby, 10 pounds to Mata Hari, the courageous little filly which set the early pace in the Kentucky classic and five pounds to Singing Wood, winner of the Withers stake in New York.

Bruhn Captain

MINNEAPOLIS, June 1 (AP)—Milton Bruhn, who has won two letters in football and another pair in baseball, late today was elected captain of the 1935 University of Minnesota baseball team.

Bruhn, who is a catcher, will be a senior next year. His home is at St. Bonifacius, Minn.

McManus' Hit Wins Contest By 8-7 Score

Braves Tally Six Times in Eighth on Two Home Runs

BOSTON, June 1 (AP)—The Braves and the Brooklyn Dodgers played the second longest and probably the oddest ball game of the major league season today with Boston coming out ahead 8 to 7 in the 16th inning. The only longer contest this year was a 17-inning affair played by Washington and the St. Louis Browns.

McManus Singles The finish came after Hal Lee singled off Art Herring, took second when Dan Taylor caught Wally Berger's long fly and Randy Moore was purposely passed. Marty McManus then shot a single through Al Lopez at third to bring home the winning run.

The Dodgers scored five runs in the first, driving Jim Elliott to cover. The Braves, in turn, knocked Less Munns out in the first but tallied only once. They made up for that by slamming Owen Carroll and Herring for six runs in the eighth, five scoring on homers by Pinky Whitney and Bill Urbanski. The Dodgers tied the count again in the ninth.

Score by innings: Brooklyn .500 000 002 000 000 0-7. Boston .100 000 060 000 000 0-8.

Batteries—Munns, Carroll, Herring and Beres, Sukeforth; Elliott, Mangum, Smith, Betts and Spohrer.

Pirates Rally

PITTSBURGH, June 1 (AP)—The Pittsburgh Pirates rallied brilliantly in the ninth inning today, putting on a three-run drive to win from the league-leading St. Louis Cardinals, 4 to 3, and simultaneously snapped a losing streak that reached five straight games.

"Wild" Bill Hallahan left-handed his way through eight innings in magnificent fashion, holding the Pirates to one run and four hits, but he blew up in the last of the ninth.

Arky Vaughan opened the rally with a single and Gus Suhr followed with a double. Harry Lavagetto, the coast league recruit, lashed out a single that scored both runners and tied the score at 3 all.

Winning Run Lavagetto went all the way to third when Outfielder Medwick fumbled the ball. Wally Reutter and Tommy Padden drew intentional passes. Pete Young batted for Waite Hoyt, who had relieved Ralph Birkofer of the Pirate's pitching duties, and fanned. But Lavagetto came home with the game winning run on Lloyd Waner's infield hit.

Birkofer and Hallahan waged a fine southpaw duel for eight rounds. The Cardinals broke a 1-1 tie in the eighth, scoring twice on Frankie Frisch's walk, his steal, Collins' triple and Davis' single.

The Pirates scored their first run in the fourth on Lloyd Waner's single and Pie Traynor's triple. The Cardinals tied it up in the fifth on Traynor's high throw of Durocher's grounder and Whitehead's double.

Score by innings: R. H. E. St. Louis .000 010 020-3 6 1. Pittsburgh .000 100 003-4 8 2.

Batteries—Hallahan and V. Davis; Birkofer, Hoyt and Padden.

Giants Nip Phillies

NEW YORK, June 1 (AP)—George Darrow's pitching and Irvine Jeffries' hitting almost beat the Giants today but the world champions finally came through in the ninth inning to defeat the Phillies 4 to 3.

The victory enabled the Giants to maintain their second place tie with Chicago and reduce the St. Louis lead to a half game.

Darrow outlasted Carl Hubbell in a southpaw battle but Philly errors got him in trouble in the seventh and again in the ninth. Finally after two singles, an error and an intentional pass loaded the sacks in the ninth Bill Terry drove in the winning run with a one bagger. Jeffries knocked in all three Philadelphia runs with a double and a homer.

Philadelphia .020 000 100-3 11 2. New York .010 001 101-4 11 0. Batteries—Darrow and Todd; Hubbell, Laque and Richards, Danning.

After 31 years of driving a taxi Charles W. Miller, who introduced "horseless carriage" taxis to Chicago, is still doing business at the old stand.

Athletics in 10 to 5 Win Over Yanks

PHILADELPHIA, June 1 (AP)—The Athletics picked on their former teammate, Jimmy Doherty, for a 10 to 5 victory over the New York Yankees in the opener of a three game series today.

The Mackmen collected a dozen blows, including Bob Johnson's tenth home run of the season, off Doherty and his successor, Burleigh Grimes, but it was a Yankee misplay which did the real damage.

Each team scored a run in the first inning. In the second Ed Coleman's single and passes to Pinky Higgins and Charley Berry loaded the sacks. Mahaffey rolled a grounder down to Tony Lazzeri and Tony heaved the ball so far over Red Rolfe's head into left field that all three runners scored and Mahaffey reached third. He came home a moment later on Rabbit Warstler's fly.

Athletics Lead that New York never seriously threatened as Mahaffey pitched effectively up to the last inning when three-baggers by Jack Saltzaver and Pinch Hitter Frank Crossett started a three run rally.

The Athletics picked up a run in the fifth and Johnson hit his homer behind Doc Cramer's single in the sixth. The last two Philadelphia runs were scored off Grimes in the eighth. Warstler singled and stole second and Cramer followed the feat with a triple and scored when Ben Chapman made a wild heave past third.

Score by innings: R. H. E. New York .100 000 013-5 10 2. Philadelphia .140 012 02-10 12 3. Batteries—Doherty, Grimes and Dickey; Mahaffey and Berry.

Cubs Take Reds

CINCINNATI, June 1 (AP)—Smashing the ball high and far out of the field for a home run, Gabby Hartnett gave the Chicago Cubs a three to one victory over the Cincinnati Reds today.

His smash, off Bennie Frey, sailed 100 feet above the clock on the far outfield fence, traveling fully 425 feet. Oldtimers called it the longest drive seen here. Driving in Jurges who had doubled, it put the Cubs in the lead, and Klein's double, permitting him to score on a fly, was merely trimming.

The Reds had held a 1-0 advantage until Hartnett's blast in the eighth, two singles plus a double play letting Koegel reach home in the second.

Score by innings: R. H. E. Chicago .000 000 021-3 7 0. Cincinnati .010 000 000-1 6 1. Batteries—Weaver and Hartnett; Frey and O'Farrell.

Boston Wins

WASHINGTON, June 1 (AP)—Twenty hits off Al Crowder, Jack Russell and the veteran Alex McColl gave the Boston Red Sox a 11 to 1 victory over the Senators today in the opener of their four-game series.

Crowder, whose victories were big factors in Washington's recent success on the road, lasted just two-thirds of an inning. The first-inning shower of doubles and singles continued as Russell went to his aid. McColl finally retired the side by catching a runner off base after the Red Sox had batted almost two rounds, made nine hits and as many runs.

Morgan, Reynolds and R. Johnson made it a field day for fattening batting averages, the latter two getting four hits each in five trips to the plate.

Score by innings: R. H. E. Boston .001 000 030-13 20 2. Washington .001 000 000-1 9 2. Batteries—Pennock and Ferrell; Crowder, Russell McColl and Phillips.

Frosh Track Stars . . . Marks Beat Varsity's . . . Owens Bests Three Marks . . . Looks Good for Ohio State.

BY JACK GURWELL

COMPARISON of times between the Big Ten varsity and freshman track and field meets brings to light the interesting fact that the frosh bested the varsity athletes in six of the 15 events and were close in other marks. Of the nine track events, the freshmen had better marks in four, and of the six field events the yearlings excelled in two. Every year there are freshmen who out run or out jump the varsity boys, this being more pronounced in the last few seasons. It goes to show that every year brings out better athletes and raises the age old question of when will the limit be reached.

JESS OWENS, colored comet of Ohio State, alone raked in three of the six better marks. Russell of Illinois took the Big Ten 100 yard dash in .10. Owens stepped the century in .09.6, and has been hitting this or better for two years. The Indiana speedster, Ivan Fuqua, took the varsity 220 yard dash in .21.7. Owens burned the cinders for the 220 yards in .31 flat. Switching to the field events, Owens out-leaped another colored ace, Ward of Michigan by more than a foot. Ward won at 23 feet 2 1/4 inches while Owens leaped 24 feet 10 inches. Ward's leap, however, was made in the preliminaries. He pulled a muscle the next day and did not better the mark. Ward, however, has made marks in competition that parallels those of Owens', and both at their bests would make an interesting match.

IN BOTH meets the high jump was won with leaps of 6 feet 1 inch. Three athletes tied in the varsity meet for the victory and all had, at some previous time, bettered the winning mark. Riegel of Illinois won the freshman title with a leap equalling the varsity jumper's. The two mile run was won in the varsity conference meet in the time of 9:33, by Popejoy of Purdue, who has been running close to this mark this season. Lash of Indiana won the yearling distance race with a time of 9:29.6, and that is rambling along. Lash also won the mile run in 4:28. Of course Hornbostel won his mile in 4:23.8 and was loafing. Hornbostel can hit under 4:12 if pushed. He did it against Cunningham at the National collegiate in Chicago last year.

THE OTHER mark to be bettered was the 220 yard low hurdles. Dugins of Northwestern won the varsity barrier race in 24.4. Bear of Chicago took the event for the freshman race in 23.7. This latter time approaches times claimed as records for the event. The 120 yard high hurdles were close races as to times, the varsity's being 35.1, against the frosh time of 35.2 by Jack Lindstrom of Iowa. Although the freshman mile relay quartet of Iowans failed to approach the varsity time of 3:15.9 by Indiana, their time of 3:23.6 was exceptional. Their average lap times would hit under 51 flat.

Helen Jacobs Plays Scriven For Net Title

PARIS, June 1 (AP)—Helen Jacobs and Sarah Palfrey tonight were resting, but none too comfortably, in the final brackets of women's doubles in the French hard court tennis championships as Jacobs prepared to challenge Margaret (Peggy) Scriven of England, for the singles title tomorrow.

The American combination, United States champions in 1932, played well within themselves in the semifinals as they defeated Susan Noel of England, and J. Jedrezowska of Poland, 6-1, 6-4.

However, they face the prospect of having to meet Elizabeth Ryan, the former Californian, and Mme. Reps Mathieu of France, the defending champions in the finals Sunday.

The favored Franco-American combination has not yet reached the final but they are overwhelming choices to defeat Dorothy Andrus of Stamford, Conn., and Mme. Jung Henrotin of France, in their postponed semi-final encounter tomorrow.

Both singles finals will be determined tomorrow, with Jack Crawford, the Australian star, seeking his second consecutive men's title.

Ross Defends One at Time
Fistic Fathers Settle Question of Which Title at Stake

NEW YORK, June 1 (AP)—Titles of the lightweight and welterweight of little Barney Ross, the New York state athletic commission today added the big blue eagle of the N.R.A.

The fistic fathers in formal session ruled that the whirlwind from the west, conqueror of Jimmy McLarin, in the future can do only one man's work at a time. He can defend but one of his two boxing titles on any one given occasion, and he must stipulate definitely in articles for the match beforehand just which one it shall be.

American Wightman Cup Hopes Get Jolt By Marble's Illness

PARIS, June 1 (AP)—A heavy blow was struck today at American hopes of retaining the Wightman cup, women's international tennis trophy, against England at Wimbledon June 15-16 when Alice Marble's physician announced she must give up tennis for this year.

The San Francisco girl, ranked third in the United States and counted on to play two singles matches against England, collapsed on the court a week ago Thursday during a Franco-American team series and has been in the American hospital since, apparently recovering from heat prostration.

Today her physician, Dr. Robert Dax, told the Associated Press her illness had become more severe and he has advised her to go home and give up tennis for the year.

Deans Talk Strike Then Back to Fold
Dizzy Wants Raise For Brother Paul; Will Hurl Today

PITTSBURGH, June 1 (AP)—Frank Frisch, manager of the St. Louis Cardinals, announced tonight that a one day "strike" of Pitcher Dizzy Dean, involving his brother, Paul Dean, has ended. Dizzy Dean will start against the Pirates tomorrow, he said.

PITTSBURGH, June 1 (AP)—The brothers Dean today reported their arms were too sore for pitching purposes and baseball writers immediately jumped to the conclusion their ailments were caused by Paul's salary, which Dizzy seeks to increase by $2,000.

No More Tosses
And loquacious Dizzy went so far as to say he would not throw another ball for the St. Louis Cardinals unless the club agreed to give brother Paul a new contract calling for a salary increase.

Dizzy's status with the club was uncertain tonight. The star right-hander said he had been signed by Manager Frankie Frisch. Frisch said he had taken no disciplinary action. Paul, serving his first year in big time, presumably remained in good standing.

Repeatedly Dizzy and Paul have threatened to "strike" unless Paul's $3,000 salary became $5,000, and to all purposes the "walkout" began today.

"He has a sore arm," Frisch said when asked why Dizzy didn't pitch against the Pirates today, as he was scheduled to do. "I didn't know it until we were in the clubhouse going over hitters."

"I developed a sore arm before we left St. Louis," Dizzy said, "but I pitched a game in New York and another in Philadelphia in spite of the pain and won both games. Frisch promised me in New York he would see to it that Paul got a raise, but last night he told me he wasn't going to do anything of the kind. I'm not going to run the risk of ruining my pitching arm working when it is sore."

Satisfied
"I'm satisfied as far as my contract is concerned, though I'm not getting half of what I'm worth, but it ain't right to expect Paul to pitch the way he can pitch for $3,000 a year. We've won 11 games between us, besides saving several games for the club as relief pitchers, and together we're getting only $10,000."

Paul said he injured his arm in yesterday's game at Cincinnati. "What Dizzy says is right," he added. "I was told in New York that I'd be fixed up when I got home and I took that to mean I'd get a new contract. Now Dizzy has been told we can get out of uniform if we don't want to pitch."

Suggestion Carried Out
When Dizzy said he could not pitch today because of the sore arm, Frisch suggested that he take off his uniform, which he did.

In St. Louis, President Sam Breadon of the Cardinals was reported very surprised when told of the Deans' "strike."

Paul has won 5 straight games this year. Five of Dizzy's six victories have been scored since April 29, when the Cardinals started a climb which carried them to the top of the National league.

Princeton Given Student Sport Field
PRINCETON, N. J. (AP)—Money for development of a new field for intramural athletics at Princeton university has been assured by Paul Bedford, '37, of Wilkes-Barre, Pa.

The field, work on which will be completed by next fall, is to be 500 by 300 feet, and will be named after Mr. Bedford, who is an alumni trustee of the university. Located at the southeast corner of the campus beyond Poe field, it will be the eighth athletic field to be developed for the use of students in the university.

Coast Boatloads Fear Each Other In 'Keepsie Race'

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Two far-western varsity crews which regard each other as "the boatload to beat" are bearing down on training preparatory to embarking for Poughkeepsie for the renewal of the rowing classic on the Hudson.

Al Ulbricksen, coach of the University of Washington huskies, says that if his men can outrow California their chances are good for winning the varsity main event. Ky Ebright, who coached the last two Olympic champion oarsmen for the University of California, returns the compliment.

"If we can get along just a little faster than we did at Lake Washington a few weeks ago and thus edge out the northerners we ought to be able to stay in front, provided water conditions are favorable," says Ebright.

All bets are off, they agree, if the water is rough. The mutual admiration is based largely on the fact this year's coast weather has made possible uninterrupted months of training, rather than on sectional loyalty.

Ulbricksen has been giving his huskies a taste of choppy water to fortify them against a contingency of that kind in the east. However, he has had three lads on the sick list part of the time and says his conditioning schedule is about 10 days behind time. They haven't shown recently, he says, the caliber they did defeating the Golden Bears by less than a length in the annual duel.

Versatile Bob Santee Won 11 Monograms; State Champion in High School.

By KERMIT BUNTROCK
He's versatile—and he's good. That indicates the athletic prowess of Robert Santee, six foot four inch pride of Iowa Falls, who has recently earned his third freshman numeral at the University of Iowa.

When sports followers back home learn of this feat, they won't shake their heads in wonderment. They won't even be surprised. They are accustomed to the exploits of this towering athlete, who as a prep star, won state-wide recognition in three sports: football, basketball, and track.

Eleven Letters
He won 11 letters in high school, four each in basketball and track and three in football. His greatest recognition in track came in his junior year when he won the state discus throwing championship with a toss slightly short of 130 feet.

His next year he placed third in each of the shot and the discus. In 1932, his senior year in school, he captured the Iowa Falls cage team through a sectional championship and into the finals of the district where they were defeated by the strong Marshalltown quintet. His scoring average for the year was nearly 18 points a game, and in one contest he marked a one man rampage with 33 markers. At the end of the season he was named on the second all-state team. Football Player

He played end on the football eleven, but punts that consistently hung in the air for more than 60 yards won him his greatest acclaim in this sport. Followers of Iowa Falls athletics still gesture with both arms when telling how in one game Santee stood on his own 10 yard line and with the wind at his back punted out of bounds inside his opponent's one yard line. In another game one of his punts traveled 75 yards in the air without the aid of the wind. His power to boot them high and far coupled with his strong defensive play led critics to pick him on the first all-state team in his senior year.

After graduation from high school, Santee attended one year of Junior college, but transferred to the University of Iowa last fall. During his first year here he has seen much action as an end on the freshman football team, as a center on the basketball quint and as a weight man in track.

More than usually tall, he packs 200 pounds on a well-built frame, and is fast and agile despite his bulk. He is naturally exuberant and is still fond of his home town, to which he makes frequent week end hitch-hiking trips.

Maybe
MILWAUKEE, Wis.—Gentlemen prefer brunettes, too! Members of the Marquette university track team have elected Bernice Rondeau, dark-haired journalism coed, as queen of the Central intercollegiate track and field championships in the Marquette stadium, Friday afternoon and night, June 8. A court of honor of six coeds will assist.

THE LONE WOLF'S SON

by LOUIS JOSEPH VANCE

CHAPTER XXXV
With the nose of his own gun digging into his back the exhausted cowed and speechless, while Maurice with his free hand skillfully went through his pockets. He found but one other weapon, aside from the ordinary pen-knife—a snub-nosed automatic, small enough to cuddle in the palm of one's hand, although scarcely less deadly than its fellow of the holster.

"Now you can turn back and wipe your face, if you like. But watch yourself—don't make me nervous." "Oh, yeah?" This was a mind snarl; the gunman, while proffering permission to mop the spilled whisky from his features, was seeking, if a thought too obviously, to reassess something of his fortunate ascendancy. "Hell, nothing! I could think of would make you any more nervous than you ought to be. Say, who do you think you are—and where? Where do you think you're going to get off, after this, in a hotel owned and manned and run by mobsters? This ain't Paris, fella, where you've got only frog cops to look out for, and a smart punk like you can get away with murder."

"No? Yet murder," Maurice in his most sullen manner pointed out, "murder in the full sense of the word is precisely what I shall get away with, my friend, if you put me to it. If you imagine I do not know I have taken my life in my hands, or flatter yourself that I haven't taken yours into them as well, you are the victim of a suicidal delusion. What do you think—that I fought my way to the top of the heap across the water to be browbeaten and bullied by some shabby American underworld? It is possible that, as you hint and hope, I shall not leave this place alive, but if I do not, it won't be for want of your best efforts to get me out unscratched. For where I go, you go too—bear that in mind, and come after with my finger on the trigger. And now that we quite understand each other—you do understand me now, don't you, monsieur?"

The gunman, sullenly eyeing the pistol, gave a sullen nod. "Let us get on, then. But remember that your life hangs on your giving me straight answers. Where is Miss Crozier?"

A jerk of the head indicated the vacant bedchamber. "In the room beyond that one."

"A prisoner? That is to say, locked up—I mean, is she alone?" "Ought to be by now. The only idea was to keep her folks' hands and delivered." "And how guarded?" "Just locked in—and the room-telephone dead."

"There is no guard set?" "Ah, the floor clerk's a wise moul put there on purpose to keep her eye on the door and let nobody pass in or out without she's been told to."

"But there is a communicating door from that bedchamber—I remember seeing it."

"Yeah—that's how they took her through."

"But you have a pass-key?" "The gunman with a curt laugh, shook his head. "Not any, fella. You're all wet this time, and don't let nobody tell you different."

"Think again."

"Ah! They ain't a chance on earth of your bulging in on that dame without the whole house knowin' it."

fighting mad; he was unmistakably just damned young fool enough to make his throat good if sufficiently provoked.

"Maybe I got a key," he volunteered. "I don't know as it'll turn the trick—it's my own room key, but most of the locks in this dump are interchangeable."

"Permit me to felicitate you on your second thought. And be good enough to precede me through the next room to the communicating door and try your luck with that key. I hope very truly, monsieur, for your sake, it will fit."

The grating of the lock behind her, the rattle of the knob, swung tried a new tack, emboldened by the addition of a witness to their number. "Tryin' to make a person believe," he sneered, "you'd shoot them down like a dog with a lead present?"

"Believe what you like," Maurice doubly retorted. "But do as I tell you, or the least you may expect is that I will—in your American phrase—bend this gun over your head."

He smiled reassuringly at Fenno, but the smile was fleeting; he had time to pay her no more attention till he had seen Isham sen- ed a. he directed. And even then his eyes were seldom all for her, but most of the time constant to his prisoner. "You're all right, Fenno? They didn't—they weren't brutal with you?"

"Brutal? But they did nothing, really, except tell me I'd find Father in here, and as soon as the door was open, push me through and lock me in! I've been half beside myself of course. What does it mean? What about Father?"

"I fancy this animal can tell us. What of Mr. Crozier, my friend? He was not of course, involved in any motor accident?"

"G'wan," the gunman growled. "As if you didn't know that was a stall!"

"You can't tell me where he is, then?" "How do I know? Fowler was sayin' something about your old man bein' out of town and not expected back before tomorrow night, but I wouldn't want to swear to it."

"And he has not been hurt in any way?" the bewildered girl persisted.

"Nah, nah! That was all a stall, like I'm tellin' you."

"To sure you here, Fenno, the better to rob you of the emeralds."

"Instead of leavin' them for your boy friend to take, lady, some time when he found time and felt good and like it—inside a week was what he promised Tess Boyce last night on the steamer."

Fenno, who in her agitation had, in an unconscious gesture of confidence, let a hand come to rest on Maurice's sleeve, now withdrew it and fell back with questioning eyes that all at once seemed abnormally large and dark.

Fast Field of Athletes Set For Carnival

Meet at Kansas City; Missouri Valley A. A. U.

KANSAS CITY, June 1 (AP)—More than 100 college and unattached athletes and approximately 165 high school contenders from nearby states will participate at the Wyandotte high stadium here tomorrow in the combined Central States Intercollegiate and Missouri Valley A. A. U. track and field carnival.

The University of Kansas, defending champion, is a favorite to repeat as Missouri Valley champion, but the 30 member Jayhawk delegation will meet a challenge from the Kansas State Teachers of Pittsburg, perennial track champions of the Central Intercollegiate conference. Seventeen college squads, flanked by freshmen entered unattached because they are not eligible for team competition, are in the scramble for the championship.

The feature race is at 800 meters, in which Glenn Cunningham of Kansas probably will try to better the near world record time of 1:51 flat which he established as a Missouri Valley mark here last year.

Cunningham will take a turn with the Jayhawk 1600 meter relay team in the only baton passing event on the 15 event program.

Seventy high schools representing six states are entered in the first Central State Intercollegiate meet. Kansas heads the list with 90 competitors, Missouri is second with 39; Oklahoma third with 26; Nebraska fourth with 21; Iowa fifth

Collegiate Sports Sidetrack Purpose Of Dr. F. W. Marvel

PROVIDENCE, R. I. (AP)—The man who has presided over the collegiate athletic destinies of a single institution longer than any other individual in the country started his career with the "understanding" with college officials that he was "never to have any connection with intercollegiate athletics."

Dr. Frederick W. Marvel of Brown, whose contact with intercollegiate athletics dates back to 1890 and who has been director at Brown since 1903, came from a similar position at Wesleyan university determined to devote his life to physical education work.

Ayres Wins High Honor

Gets "Highly Superior" Rating in National Band Contest

Thomas Ayres, playing a B flat clarinet, brought new honors to the Iowa City high school band when he received a "highly superior" rating in solo competition at the national band contest in Des Moines yesterday.

According to an Associated Press dispatch, Mr. Ayres was one of the five Iowa students to receive top honors in the solo contests yesterday.

This is the second honor earned by Iowa City band members. Paul Lyness received a superior rating in the trombone contest Thursday.

The high school band played in the class B round at the Shrine auditorium Thursday. The results of this contest will be announced this afternoon at the mass concert in the Drake university auditorium.

The other Iowa students who were honored yesterday were Betty Donaghue of Waterloo, xylophone marimba; Don Kessler of Cedar Rapids, and Orris Herfindahl of Mason City, B flat clarinet; and Dexter French of Dubuque, flute.

Herfindahl was named a contestant in the national scholarship contest to be held today and will compete for one of four $250 scholarships to the National Music camp at Interlochen, Mich.

$250,000 Cost Set For Administration Of State Sales Tax

DES MOINES, June 1 (AP)—State officials said today that the approximate cost of the administration of the new state sales tax will be $250,000. It is estimated that the tax will bring in $4,000,000.

An appropriation of $75,000 for administration of the tax was made at the time the bill was passed last winter. Any excess over this amount will be taken care of out of three per cent of the sales tax collections.

Conduits for Culverts Improved as Result Of Tests Made Here

Improvement in conduits to be used in highway culverts and drainage structures for airplanes landing fields has been the result of tests conducted in the Iowa Institute of hydraulic research.

Under the direction of Prof. F. T. Mavis of the college of engineering, a full sized culvert 32 feet long was erected in the river channel at the hydraulics laboratory, and tested by a staff of Iowa engineers.

The tests indicated the value of the roughness and hydraulic conduct of conduits of laminated wood. It was found that the capacity of a two foot square box culvert was increased 14 per cent by adding a bell mouth entrance one foot long.

For 1933, figures show, lumber shipments from Montana were 20,300,000 feet greater than in 1932.

AROUND THE TOWN with BILL MERRITT

A Hot Battle
The Iowa City fire department won a three day battle with the flames in the city dump yesterday. A crew of firemen has been at the dump ever since the fire began early Wednesday morning.

An Act of Chivalry
An elderly lady was seen leaning against the wall of Whetstone's No. 1 near exhaustion from the heat yesterday afternoon. Two young men came to her aid, and when last seen were helping her down the street.

A Dawg's Life
Heat may be just fine for some people, but it was mighty hard on a shaggy collie seen sprawled in the shade of a tree near the court house yesterday afternoon. As the sun moved, the shade moved, so that the distressed pup was occasionally awakened from his canine dreams. He followed the shade right around, apparently lacking energy or sense enough to move to more stable shade nearby.

Then What?
A local business man, usually buttoned up to the neck in very proper garb, appeared on the streets in that style yesterday morning. By noon he had shed his coat and vest. His tie came off and he unbuttoned his collar soon afterwards. Then he was seen no more. Perhaps he went home and got into the bath tub, like many another Iowa citizen.
