The 73rd Congress Elections, Advance Of Recovery to Account For Next Actions

This is the last of a series of five daily articles.
By FRANK I. WELLER
WASHINGTON (AP)—The trend of congressional elections in November and the degree to which national recovery has progressed between now and Jan. 3, 1935, will go far in determining initial legislation of the next congress.
Whether members stand or fall on their records in the seventy-third congress is expected to influence re-introduction of many controversial bills, and the administration is committed to a full report on recovery before recommending a future program.
The president injected his ideas of permanent national reform into the congressional elections when he told congress of his desire for legislation providing adequate housing facilities for every American citizen, old age and unemployment insurance as a guarantee of livelihood, and the redistribution of population in a manner to give every person an opportunity for gainful employment.
The form of new legislation must be worked out by the White House before the next congress is convened.
Permanent Public Works?
Perhaps one of the most certain pieces of legislation ahead will be a bill seeking to provide a permanent form of national emergency relief. It is expected to suggest a permanent system of planned public works which can be expanded and contracted according to the unemployment situation.
The national industrial recovery act will expire during the life of the next congress and the anticipated bill would place in the hands of a permanent agency those features of NRA and PWA which, now administered separately, have to do purely with the spending of public funds to provide employment.
Inland Waterways
More permanent or "reform" legislation is anticipated in connection with Mr. Roosevelt's basis desire to see the development of inland waterways correct many of the nation's social and economic ills. By that time he will have the experience of the Tennessee valley authority to guide his plans.
In addition, a cabinet committee is studying the entire field concerned in the development of great natural areas as individual units. The whole question is tied up with cheap electric power, decentralization of industry, conservation of natural resources, transportation, and the relocation of population.
Whether the 30 hour work week for industry, proposed in early bills by Senator Black of Alabama and Representative Conroy of Massachusetts, returns to the congressional scene depends largely on what is done under NRA codes to expand employment and on the degree to which recovery advances.
The status of agricultural recovery will have a bearing on the question of federal control over commodity exchanges. The house passed a bill providing for it, but it was not considered in the senate. It, as is now indicated, the efforts of AAA to reduce surplus acreage is replaced by a program to expand production of previously distressed crops, a new effort may be made to regulate the speculative side of farm markets.
The fate of AAA may rest with the next congress. The president said in accepting it that the program was experimental and that if it didn't work he would tell congress frankly. That is believed to commit him to a report on its progress by 1935.
Silver and Bonus
Silver may play an important part in the next congress. If there is a general pickup in business and the president is able through his new tariff-bargaining powers to stimulate the foreign outlet for farm products, many believe the silver champions will not have the support of farm inflationists who previously pressed congress for currency expansion.
Likewise substantial recovery would check the chief argument for cash payment of the veterans' bonus.
Whether Mr. Roosevelt asks the senate to reconsider the St. Lawrence waterway treaty with Canada may depend largely on what happens in the November elections to those who opposed it.

Chicago Cafe Owner, Kidnaped, Returns Home

Case Mistaken Identity Says Kidnap Victim

Attorney Says 'Friends'
Of Sciacca Guilty
Of Abduction
CHICAGO, June 26 (AP)—Andrew Sciacca, cafe owner, reported kidnaped, returned to his home late tonight about 24 hours after he had been spirited away by six men posing as policemen.
The report of his safe return was telephoned by his wife to police a few hours after a guard had been withdrawn from the home to give the supposed abductors opportunity to contact the family.
Mistaken Identity
Sciacca said his abduction resulted from a case of mistaken identity despite the fact that a few hours before he returned an attorney representing the family said he believed the reputed kidnaping was done by the cafe owner's "friends."
The return occurred only a short time after Attorney Samuel Wexler, representing the family, issued a statement saying he was certain Sciacca was kidnaped "by his friends" and making an appeal for them to contact him.
Must Have Known Victim
Police tonight revealed that the men who spirited him away must have known their victim since they telephoned his house five minutes after they took him early today. Sciacca's telephone had an unlisted number and, police said, unless they know him they would not have had it.
Also, they said, they discovered that in prohibition days Sciacca had dealt in alcohol. Since repeal, police said, about 15 persons have been abducted by hoodlums turning from liquor profits to the kidnap racket in efforts to make easy money.

BULLETIN Missing Iowa City Youth Discovered At 2:30 This Morning

Nine year old Billy Hoff, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence T. Hoff, 801 E. Bowers street, lost in the woods in the cavalry range north of Iowa City since 7:30 p.m. yesterday, was found by a searching party of National Guardsmen at 2:30 this morning.
A detachment of the National Guard under the direction of Major Will J. Hayek and Sheriff Don McComas had searched the woods all night before he was found asleep in a car parked along the road.
The boy had been lost since 7:30 last night, when he disappeared while the family was enjoying a picnic on the wooded hillside.
Thinking he was asleep in the back of their car, the family drove back to their home in Iowa City before they discovered his absence.

Langdon-Davies Points Path For Recovery; Says America Not Ready for Leisure Age

British Author Declares
"New Deal" Depends
On Attitude
The ultimate success of the "new deal" will depend upon a reform in the American attitude toward civil service, John Langdon-Davies, British author, declared in a university roundtable lecture yesterday afternoon.
Addressing a capacity audience in the house chamber of Old Capitol, the speaker, British by birth and retention and American by recent adoption, pointed the path which American recovery should follow by the experiences of England.
Inefficient Banking
Inefficient banking system, lack of stock market regulation, faulty taxation and evasion of taxes, lack of unemployment insurance, poor relief which "infringes upon personal liberty," too much productive spending and not enough consumption, improper collective bargaining, and graft in civil service—all these the British writer saw as needing remedy in America, and as having been satisfactorily solved in England.
Declaring that the administration of the various recovery measures is charged with graft—that the new deal is "not only a great social experiment, but a great individual opportunity"—Mr. Langdon-Davies pointed to the "spoils system" as a stumbling block in the way of successful social control under the current administration.
British Plan Graft Free
The British system, in which civil servants in the higher posts are selected by competitive examination in the universities, has solved the problem and left the nation free from graft in administration, the speaker asserted.
"In England the civil servant looks upon administration as an engineer looks at a bridge—as a job to be done efficiently. He does not ask whether it is a conservative or liberal law he is enforcing, or what gain there is for him in it."
Need Social Insurance
"It is possible to carry out a scheme such as your new American experiment, which involves increasing government control, unless you have a group of public servants who look upon civil service as a chance to serve society, rather than as an opportunity for personal gain," he asked.
A primary need of the United States is unemployment insurance, Mr. Langdon-Davies asserted.
"In spite of our civilization, which

Tugwell Address Will Feature Conference
This Morning
DES MOINES, June 26 (AP)—Addressing the forty-eighth annual convention of the Iowa Bankers' association meeting here for the second day today, D. W. Bates, Iowa superintendent of banking, lauded the banks of the state but warned there never was a time in the history of the nation when the need for competent bank management was so essential.
Other speakers this afternoon included W. M. Rosen, president of the City State bank of Ogden, whose address, "Money—what is it?" traced the history of money through the ages; G. I. Danforth, vice president of the First National bank of Burlington, who spoke of the gold standard.

Dodge National bank, whose address was on "Investment of bank funds"; Joe Menges, cashier of the Alta Vista State bank, who talked on "Service charges and interest rates of time deposits"; and J. J. ## Fifty Pickets, Mob of 5,000 Halt Service

Demonstration Climax
By Smashing of Car
Windows
MILWAUKEE, Wis., June 26 (AP)—Fifty determined pickets and 5,000 sympathizers and bystanders tonight accomplished what union leaders predicted would occur at 4 a.m. today—a tieup of streetcar service.
Smash Windows
The pickets, some of them members of the three unions which called the strike at the Milwaukee Electric Railway and Light Co., and other volunteers, kept up a constant march past a busy intersection of the industrial district, climaxing the demonstration by smashing windows, ripping trolley ropes and tearing wire screens off the 32 cars of five lines.
Unable to budge their cars, which were huddled for four blocks near one of the utility's barns, motormen finally deserted their cars amid the applause of the crowd and marched to their offices with their cash boxes in hand.
Police Helpless
The 100 policemen summoned to the scene were helpless in the melee.
Finally, all hopes to continue service vanishing, plant operators went out and moved the battered cars into the barns. As the demonstration began four men were arrested, one on charges of disorderly conduct and three on open charges, Captain John Wesolowski said. The pickets began the parade by marching in the tracks and keeping the cars to a slow pace.

Cummings To Decide Fate

Legal Prosecution Of
Hosiery Mills
Possible
WASHINGTON, June 26 (AP)—A determined assertion by Hugh S. Johnson that the shutdown Harriman hosiery mills must make labor concessions to regain a blue eagle today put the question of the government's next step—legal prosecution—up to Attorney General Cummings.
"The prosecution part of the case is in the hands of the department of justice," Johnson said. "I don't know what the justice department is going to do. It's a little bit embarrassing."
For himself, answering Harriman charges of "persecution," Johnson said flatly:
"I have no doubt of the violation of the code. I have less doubt now than ever before."

Norris to Introduce Bill to Take Pickets From Post Office

WASHINGTON, June 26 (AP)—Senator Norris (R. Neb.) who is credited with more governmental reforms that fall to the lot of most men, has turned his attention to taking pickets out of the post office department.
Norris told newspapermen today he planned to introduce a bill at the next session of congress to put the postal department on a non-partisan basis.

Girl Continues To Give Testimony In Seduction Action

EDMONTON, Alta., June 26 (AP)—With tears streaming down her pale cheeks, Vivian MacMillan, testified today in her seduction suit against Premier John E. Brownlee that she resisted his advances for six months on every occasion when they were together.
"After the six months the relations between you became a habit," suggested A. L. Smith, attorney for the 50 year old premier, who denies the charge. "You had ceased resisting."
"Yes," replied the 22 year old former government stenographer.
Between interruptions caused by the tall, slender plaintiff's sobbing breakdowns, the attorney led her to repeat her entire story, starting with a visit of Brownlee to her home in Edson in 1930.

Frank Carson Dies Yesterday

Life-Long Resident Of City Succumbs To
Brief Illness
Frank C. Carson, a life-long resident of Iowa City, died at University hospital late yesterday afternoon, following a brief illness. Funeral arrangements had not been completed at a late hour last night.
Mr. Carson was the son of the late Thomas C. and Mary Josephine Carson. He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Bertha Carson, a daughter, Mrs. John Dorsey of Ann Arbor, Mich., and two brothers, Thomas Burke of Davenport and Robert Nichols of this city.

Girl, Bruised by Beatings, Suffers From Malnutrition

Receives Care First
Time in Sixteen
Months
JASPER, Ala., June 26 (AP)—Suffering from malnutrition and bearing bruises from frequent beatings neighbors said were inflicted by her foster mother, 12 year old Mary Virginia Johnson was resting in a hospital here tonight, receiving care and gentleness for the first time in 16 months.
The foster mother, Mrs. Earl Potter, under charges of assault and battery with a club, was at liberty under $400 bond pending a hearing next Monday.
Neighbors brought the plight of the frail red-haired child to the attention of authorities after Mrs. Thurston Mitchell last week had spirited Mary Virginia from the Porter home while the family was absent and taken her to a physician.
Gauze, from weeks of privation, her body bearing bruises and scars on the back and legs, the child was brought here yesterday by neighbors who underwent hospital expenses.
The child answered most questions in monosyllables but once she raised her voice to say "She whipped me because I couldn't do any more work."
Another time she said "I didn't have no shoes last winter and the work."
From neighbors who had watched the child dwindle from a lively red-headed girl with bright blue eyes to a gaunt, frightened skeleton, officials pieced together the story.
Mary Virginia was one of 10 children left with an invalid mother three years ago when the father died. One by one the mother placed her children with persons who wanted them, until only Mary Virginia was left.

Christie Dies From Fall At Sanatorium

Breaks Back as Ladder
Slips While Fighting
$2,000 Blaze
After breaking his back when he fell 30 feet from a ladder while fighting a $2,000 blaze at Oakdale sanatorium yesterday morning, Chester Christie, 24, died at 4:30 p.m. at University hospital. His home was in Cedar Rapids.
The fire started when a blow torch with which Christie was removing paint from the cornice of the administration building at the sanatorium burned through a joint and set fire to wood joists under the slate roof.
Ladder Slips
He was attempting to extinguish the blaze with a fire hose when the ladder slipped and let him fall.
Christie was a graduate of Iowa State college at Ames and had been employed on the painting staff at the sanatorium for the last three years, except for three months when he worked on a PWA project at Ames last winter.
Overcome
Another employe, E. H. Polisha, was overcome by smoke but suffered no serious injuries.
The blaze was extinguished by the Iowa City fire department after spreading beyond control of the light equipment at Oakdale.
According to Dr. J. A. Edwards, superintendent of the sanatorium, the damage will probably amount to $2,000, most of it caused by water.
The second and third floors, used as employe quarters, were abandoned when the fire gained headway on the roof. "The fire started at 8:45 a.m."
Christie's body was taken to the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Christie, at Cedar Rapids last night by the Turner funeral home.

F. R. Disposes Of Measures

Prepares for Address
Tomorrow Night
Over Radio
WASHINGTON, June 26 (AP)—President Roosevelt returned to his White House desk today, disposed of a number of bills passed by congress last week, surveyed the recovery campaign with his executive council and arranged for a talk to the nation over the air Thursday night at 9:30 eastern standard time.
The Thursday night address will be in the nature of a periodic report to the people on the state of the union.
Mr. Roosevelt broke precedent in formally vetoing 14 bills after the adjournment of congress, refusing to follow the constitutional custom of permitting objectionable measures to die simply by failing to sign them within 10 days after the end of the session.
Corn Climbs, Wheat Drops
CHICAGO (AP)—Corn went higher today and wheat lower, with an unusual amount of so-called "spread" trading—purchases of corn against simultaneous equal sales of wheat.
Roosevelt Sets Up Board
WASHINGTON (AP)—By executive order, President Roosevelt last night set up a labor board to deal with the Longshoremen strike on the Pacific coast.

Death Marks Ship Tragedy

French Vessel Sinks;
Loss of Life Still
Unchecked
LORIENT, France, June 27 (AP)—(Wednesday)—A passenger boat carrying 100 arsenal workers was rammed from the rear last night by another vessel and sunk with the loss of life still unchecked early today.
At least a score were feared to have been carried out to sea by a treacherous current flowing past the mouth of Lorient harbor. The official toll stood at six dead and six injured.
Quick work by heroic divers diminished the death toll, which at first was feared to be high. Dockworkers and sailors plunged into the waters over the sinking vessel and rescued all the passengers trapped in the ship's cabin.
Early today the boat was raised and towed to port at low tide.
The definite list of dead will not be known until officials of the Lorient arsenal make a check of workers' families for the missing.

Annual Men's Dinner Tonight Provides 'Emergency Relief'

New Deal in FFF—Food, Fun, Frolic—Will Feature Eighteenth Annual Dinner as Diners Come Prepared for Comfort

Following edicts laid down by the Republic "brain trust" last year, a new deal will arrive on the University of Iowa campus tonight.

Providing emergency relief for university men, the FFF will go into effect at 6 o'clock, when the men will meet for the eighteenth annual all-university men's dinner at Iowa Union.

Food, Fun, Frolic

The new deal in FFF—food, fun, and frolic—bears out its extravagant promises in its provisions. Established by a committee headed by W. G. Brooks as general chairman, it provides that:

All participants must "come prepared for comfort and pleasure." Coats must be "left at home." Pipes and bedroom slippers will be permissible as relief measures.

To Award Prizes

To encourage "compliance" with these provisions, prizes will be awarded to the man who is most comfortably dressed and to the one who makes the shortest speech.

Based upon recognition of the 22 years in which President Walter A. Jessup has been associated with the university, the program, announced yesterday by the committee in charge, will be presided over by Prof. Forest G. Ensign of the college of education.

Toasts by Staff Members

Toasts will be given by several staff members. Prof. Benj. F. Shambaugh, head of the political science department, will talk on "12-Synthesis '34." Prof. M. Packard, director of the summer session, on "12-Loyalties '34," and President Jessup, on "12-High spots '34."

Looking ahead from 1934, President-Elect Eugene A. Gilmore will go "Forward," and M. G. Davis will make a "pledge" for the future.

Musical Numbers

Musical numbers will be furnished by the all-state high school orchestra, under the direction of Prof. Charles Boardman Richter of the music department, and the all-state high school sextet. The menu, it is claimed, will be "interspersed with group singing," directed by Herald Stark of the music department.

BRITISH Author Points Path For Recovery

is said to be the highest the world has known, there has never been a time when men felt so insecure as they do today," he pointed out. "There is surely something wrong when 12,000,000 people can lose their employment suddenly."

The British system of unemployment insurance has not been a "dole," the speaker said. Though it has not been self-supporting, it has been based on a sound policy of insurance, much the same as other forms of combined risk insurance.

Criticizes Poor Relief The American system of poor relief, administered by "amateurs" who base aid upon uncertain "investigation," he criticized as an "infringement upon personal liberty. The English plan, based upon sound economic insurance, he said has given adequate relief without building "a nation of paupers."

The banking holiday of last year indicated that "the financial structure of a nation of finance and materialism had cracked," he declared. The abundance of small, insecure banks and lack of technical knowledge among bankers were chief factors in this "cracking," the speaker suggested.

British Banking Secure British banking, he said, has been secure because it is based on technical qualifications for bankers and on branch banking, with all banks controlled by five central strong organizations.

"Though England has had a depression longer and worse than America's, not a single bank has closed," the English writer suggested.

Stock market regulation is made necessary by the American gambler's attitude toward stock speculation. Mr. Langdon-Davies said. In England, stocks are an investment to yield a certain income; in the United States they are bought "in hopes of finding a bigger sucker" to buy them at a rich-quick profit, he pointed out.

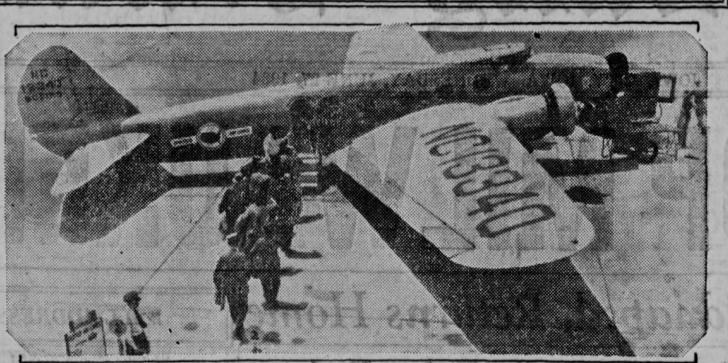

All Countries Plan "A few years ago you couldn't take a taxi without having the driver tell you he had just made $20,000 on the market. If you gave him a dime tip you were pretty sure it would be $50 soon through playing the stock market."

The American "new deal" is part of a world drift toward social planning," he declared. "There is no country in the world where the economic and social system has not cracked." Mr. Langdon-Davies said.

"A few years ago only one country—Russia—was planning. Now all of them are."

LOS ANGELES, June 26 (AP)—Armed guards today watched over the Beverly Hills mansion of William F. Gettle, wealthy victim of a recent $60,000 ransom kidnaping which failed, as authorities sought the writer of two extortion notes which they said Gettle received last week.

Officers said the notes told Gettle his home would be dynamited in efforts to destroy him, his wife and four children unless he left $6,000 at a designated spot in Westlake park, to compensate for his testimony against two women convicted in the kidnaping case.

Poderjaj May Be Indicted On Evidence

Authorities of U. S. Debate Move To Bring Charge

NEW YORK, June 26 (AP)—Authorities debated a move today to indict the dashing "Captain" Ivan Poderjaj on charges growing out of the mysterious disappearance of his bride, Agnes Tufverson, a few days after their marriage last December.

Police Commissioner John F. O'Ryan conferred with several of his assistants and an assistant district attorney, scanning every shred of evidence turned up since the prosperous 43 year old woman atorney disappeared and her husband sailed for Europe aboard the liner Olympic.

Poderjaj Held

The purpose of the conference was to decide whether there was sufficient evidence to justify seeking a perjury or grand larceny indictment against Poderjaj—whose other "wife" was found in Vienna in possession of Miss Tufverson's trousseau. Poderjaj is being held in Vienna pending a decision by New York authorities.

A presidential request for Poderjaj's extradition could be obtained, police said, if the grand jury indicted him on either charge.

To Investigate Loner

Meanwhile, the scene of the investigation shifted to the liner Olympic, on which Poderjaj sailed on December 22 with four trunks—two of Miss Tufverson's, one old one of his own and a new one purchased the day after his bride was last seen. The ship was to dock during the evening.

A squad of experts from the police laboratory was mobilized to examine the cabin he occupied during the trip—a theory of Miss Tufverson's disappearance being that her body may have been in one of the trunks.

Prof. F. T. Mavis To Lead Discussion At Vancouver Meeting

Prof. Frederic T. Mavis, associate director of the Iowa institute of hydraulic research in charge of the laboratory, has been invited to lead a discussion at the summer meeting of the American Society of Civil Engineers at Vancouver, B. C., July 12.

The subject of the discussion will be a paper on the "Flow of water through bends of quarter-turn draft tubes." The paper will be presented by Prof. C. A. Mockmore, head of the department of civil engineering at Oregon State college, and will discuss certain aspects of a graduate research project which is under the direction of Professor Mavis.

Professor Mockmore is a graduate of Iowa, having received his B.S. degree in 1920 and his C.E. degree in 1932. He was recently made the head of the combined civil and hydraulic engineering departments at Oregon State college.

They also expect to finish this summer one volume of a two-volume work which they plan to call "Collaboration in English Literature," dealing with the writings of Britain from "Beowulf" to the present time. The first volume will cover the period from

2 Churches In Merger

Reformed, Evangelical Groups Combine In Ceremony

CLEVELAND, Ohio, June 26 (AP)—A simple handclasp of two men tonight signalled the birth of a new denomination with more than 700,000 communicants—the Reformed and Evangelical church.

More than 800 delegates to national meetings of the Evangelical Synod of North America and the Reformed Church of the United States crowded into Zion's Evangelical church to participate in the merger ceremony.

All day the churchmen had participated in final meetings of the separate organizations. To each session came official notification from the other of sanction of the union, voted a year ago.

At 6:30 p.m., ministers and laymen, headed by their officers, formed two columns outside Zion's church. As the columns met, each reformed delegate took his place beside an Evangelical representative for the march into the church.

The official declaration of union was read, and Dr. Paul Press of St. Louis, president of the Evangelical Synod, and Dr. H. J. Christman of Dayton, Ohio, president of the Reformed church, clasped hands to symbolize the merger's consummation.

After a hymn and a prayer, the first communion service of the new church was conducted, with Dr. Lee M. Erdman of Reading, Pa., preaching the sermon.

The beginning of English literature to Samuel Johnson's writings.

Professor Scott and Miss Chandler have written another book, published several years ago, called "Phrasal Patterns in English Verse."

Professor Martin has been working on it since 1928 and has been aided by the advice and suggestions of the late President-Emeritus Macbride. The book is partly based on a book published in 1922 by the former president on "North American Slime Fossils."

The book is technical in nature and deals with the character of the minute protoplasm which for a long time puzzled scientists on whether it was animal or plant.

Paraguay, Bolivia Make Fresh Claims Of Victory In Battle

BUENOS AIRES, June 26 (AP)—Both Paraguay and Bolivia made fresh claims of victory in the northern part of the Bolivian front of the Chaco today as there was no sign of a halt in the battle which has been going on for two weeks.

A Paraguayan communique stated that country's forces had gained five kilometers in the El Carmen sector and indicated a fresh attack had been launched on the northern end of the line in an attempt to pierce the Bolivian defenses.

A communique from the Bolivian government claimed the defenders had repelled a Paraguayan drive against Laguna Lea in the same general area as El Carmen.

Homer Dill Lectures On Expedition

Adventures of a sea lion hunt and a sojourn with a tribe of Quillayute Indians were related by Homer B. Dill, director of the university museum, at a lecture in geology auditorium last night.

The talk was an account of an expedition to the northwest Washington coast to collect sea lions and other specimens for the museum. Eight sea lions were captured.

Incidents in the life of the Indians and stories told him by their chief, Hawatle, were given by Mr. Dill. He considered this his most exciting trip.

Colored slides showing pictures of members of the party, Indian canoes, their burial ceremonies, and pictures of the scenery of that part of the country were used to illustrate the lecture.

It was broadcast over WSUL.

Dill Will Conduct Tour of Museum Friday Afternoon

A tour of the museum beginning at the north end of the lower corridor of Macbride hall will be conducted by Homer B. Dill, director, Friday at 3 p.m.

Principal exhibits will be pointed out and their interesting features discussed by Mr. Dill. The tour will include bird and mammal hall, marine exhibits, ethnological display and the lower corridor exhibits.

Mrs. Harshbarger's father, Mr. Fisher of Shenandoah, who is state grand commander of the Knights Templar, will preside at sessions of the meeting.

The group expects to return to Iowa City tomorrow.

Washington Bystander

WASHINGTON—Speaker Rainey's post-session advice to one-term House Democrats to go "preach Roosevelt and the new deal" as the surest road to re-election proves, at least, that he likes his own "medicine." That is what he plans to do, now that his speakership responsibilities and the muzzle they imposed on such sermons in the house are behind him.

The speaker has a considerable number of speaking engagements on his schedule. To get about fast enough, he contemplates extensive use of air transportation despite his three-score and 14 years.

"Bottled Up"

The speakership has had its limitations for Henry Rainey. For the first time in all the 15 terms he has been in the house, there are no "remarks on" credited to the white haired Illinois dean of the membership. Outside his rulings, about the only statements from the speaker to get into the congressional record, except by courtesy, are his directions to the clerk to call his name that he may cast his vote. Rainey has done that more frequently than any predecessor, backing administration measures with rare exceptions.

To give vent to the speech thus bottled up within him, the speaker has had recourse to numerous dinners and what-not in widely scattered sectors. He has a record in that respect also in the order with which he preached Roosevelt early and late.

Garner Gets The Call

Curiously enough, with all Rainey's enthusiasm on tap, it was to the silent member of the administration's team of presiding officers on the hill that Democratic national committee strategists turned for what amounted to a formal opening gun of the congressional campaigns.

The job fell to Vice President Jack Garner. He did a bit of Roosevelt gospel preaching via a committee broadcast statement, but not the most persuasive tongue could induce him to do it in person.

Garner was on the train speeding to Texas and the fishing that delights him when his bit was handed out. That saved him the embarrassment of refusing to amplify or embroil on the prepared word if political reporters buttonholed him. It is quite likely to be the only Garner contribution to the campaign.

The fact that Garner was picked for the job serves to emphasize again the fact that the Texan has been doing a lot more for the new deal administration than to preside over the senate. His hopes of political retirement two years from now may not be realized.

Labor in a Haze

IT IS A MATTER of national regret that the closing of the Harriman hosiery mills will throw 653 men and women out of work in this crucial period, for several reasons.

It is unfortunate for the 2,000 or so persons who depend upon these laborers for existence; it is unfortunate as a dampener on rising national enthusiasm; and it is unfortunate as encouraging national dissatisfaction.

No one, of course, can deny the Harriman interests a right to express any opinion they wish on the policies of the national administration. But it is well to examine the history of the dispute before drawing any conclusions.

Last fall 300 workers went out of the hosiery mills on strike in sympathy with 23 workers whom they claimed the mills had refused to reinstate for joining the United Textile Workers union. The difficulty dragged along in confusion for some time, and finally came before the National Labor board for hearing.

It was the finding of this board that the Harriman mills had violated the code by refusing to deal collectively with its workers. On the board's recommendation, the code agreement was revoked.

Now it is the claim of the company that the removal of the blue eagle was unwarranted and was directly responsible for the closing of the plant.

There is no way under the present set-up to judge the justice of their claims. The national labor board is supposed to be an unbiased agency, and has rendered noteworthy service in the settlement of many strikes. But in the eyes of the public it does not enjoy the security of unquestioned detachment which is essential in a body of even quasi-judicial function. Its findings cannot, therefore, be accepted without question.

If the findings of the board were right, the Harriman interests can expect no sympathy. When the code agreement was signed, the stipulation that employees be allowed to bargain collectively without interference was clear. If the agreement was violated, as the labor board found, the company was definitely thwarting the best interests of society. And there is no place in modern society for a business which is willing to contribute nothing to it.

But for the public at large, there is no way of knowing who is right and who is wrong, a fact which bespeaks a serious weakness in the organization of NRA's employer-labor relations.

The national labor board is at best a temporary organization designed to fill a breach. Perhaps the set-up under the new one year labor bill passed in the last hours of congress will remedy the situation by putting the arbitration of labor disputes on a more reliable footing. Until that is done, only recrimination and bitterness without progress can be expected.

Reno, Nev., A.R.E. (Ancient Roman Empire)

IT MAY surprise the moderns who look upon Reno, the capital city of divorce, to realize that it is not purely a creation of modern decadence. Divorces play an important part in the political history of the old Roman Empire.

This is among the conclusions of Prof. Franklin Potter of the university's classical languages department, who has made a study of Roman marriages for political gain.

It seems that women were pawns in the political upheavals in the city of the Caesars. And, because men found it necessary to change wives with a change in political administration, divorce became a popular institution.

Which opens several avenues of thought and analogy. Those who find Reno a place of keen interest and varied delights may now find an historical comparison. They can point to Reno with pride and say something about "analogous with the glory that was Rome."

On the other hand those who wag doubtful fingers and find in Reno a work of the devil can be equally vociferous. For they can recall the decadence and fall of ancient Rome. It's all in the point of view!

What Others Think

Bryant Park Forever

(From the New York Herald-Tribune)
A spot on which General Washington, extricating his retreating army, was all but captured by the British, which later became in turn a potter's field and the site of a Crystal Palace, and was finally made a catch-all for subway shanties and centennials, can scarcely hope to rest in peace. So nobody need wonder, we suppose, that as Bryant Park actually emerges as a thing of peace and beauty once more, the desecrators arrive with a plot for a new name.

Bryant Park, indeed, they exclaim; let's have something up-to-date. And they put in a demand for "Lost Battalion Park." The fact that half a century of custom lies behind the name as well as a distinguished career interwoven with the finest of the city's traditions means nothing to these idol smashers. So does the presence of a memorial to William Cullen Bryant on the main axis of the park.

This ill-advised meddling with established names—that turned, for example, Blackwell's Island into Welfare Island—stands in sharp contrast with the spirit of intelligent progress exhibited in the new park now taking shape. The old park, at its best, was never suited to its use. There was too much landscaped lawn and too little shade. Now Mr. Robert Moses, with his rare ability for getting the right thing done and done quickly, is transforming the four acres of the park into just what it ought to be, a mid-town resting place for the weary, with plenty of plane trees, plenty of benches and just enough greensward in the middle to rest the eye.

The old stone fence and the old castiron railing are to be preserved along with the Bryant statue and the Lowell fountain. Only the shade will be new, and that, long overdue, will be a welcome addition to the resting places for the weary feet of waiters, strays and shoppers, surely as much to be considered as any waterfowl of the thin air.

The two gentlemen of the army who appear so proudly beside that big balloon in the pictures from South Dakota are the objects of furious envy as I sit here steaming in this torrid typewriter.

The stories that go with the pictures say they expect to sail 15 miles above the surface of the earth where the temperature is 50 or 60 or something like that below zero. It begins to sound like the vacation excursion of some congressmen.

Iowans, by the way, should be on the lookout when the balloon takes off. Calculations of the meteorologists show that it will travel six or seven hundred miles to the southeast during the 12 hours or so it is in the air. That would drop it somewhere in southeastern Iowa, western Illinois, or northeastern Missouri. It might come down on Old Capitol.

While it is waiting for favorable weather to take off (by the time this goes to press, it might already be in the air), prophets are busy predicting what air travel of the near future will be like.

One writer who seemed to know what is going on in the aviation world predicted the other day that planes would be darting across the Atlantic and Pacific oceans on scheduled flights, within the next couple of years at speeds of four or five hundred miles per hour.

The proper coordination of three little inventions already individually perfected is all, he indicated, that stands in the way of accomplishment. And the prospects are bright that this will be achieved very soon.

The three gadgets are: 1) the supercharger, to feed more air to motors which would otherwise suffocate in the rarefied atmospheres of high altitudes; 2) the variable pitch propeller, which can be adjusted at will by the pilot, and can be pitched so as to get a good bite into the thin air; and 3) the wing slot, by which the curvature of the wing can be changed to allow for slow landing speeds on fast planes.

Planes used on such flights will, of course, be air-conditioned and entirely sealed against the outside weather. Travel will be comfortable and beyond the reach of any but the most unusual storms. And it will be fast beyond imagining.

Having mentioned congressmen, perhaps a word of condolence is due for them. This is their year of woe, for it behooves them to forego the usual jaunts into the northern coolness at public expense for the less pleasant task of reminding their constituents of their sterling abilities.

One could not fall noticing the extreme dearth of investigating committees appointed during the final days before adjournment. Usually the last few days sees a grand rush for vacation jobs, always nicely chosen to fit in with cherished excursions into pleasant resorts or fishing grounds.

But this year only those congressmen who feel secure beyond question felt free to dive into the public purse for vacation spending money. The rest are out making speeches and shaking hands in the hot sun. They feel they just must earn their living somehow. —Don Pryor

Behind The Scenes in HOLLYWOOD

By Harrison Carroll

HOLLYWOOD—Good notices are an old story to the team of Mitchell and Durant, but Lew Ayres paid them the biggest compliment when they were assigned to his picture.

"What are leading men going to do when they get in with such fellows?" asked Lew.

"We had a make-up test yesterday and they even stole that."

With unbelieving eyes, the M. G. M.'ers have watched Greta Garbo come down to the studio every day for two weeks to get costume fittings for her new picture.

La Garbo usually does just about what she pleases and one of her whims is to put off costume worries until just before her picture goes into production. But this time, the starting date is still far away.

The studio has been one big question mark.

Low down is La Garbo thinks very much of Adrian. M. G. M. mentor, and is breaking her long habit so as he can get away for his first vacation in 12 years.

It won't last long, only three weeks, but Adrian is getting as far away as possible from the Hollywood atmosphere. He'll motor alone to Santa Fe and Taos, N. M., with the idea of getting a complete rest. And if he doesn't see a simple fashion, he'll be happy.

Gary Leon, the Santa Monica dancer who figured so torridly in the Fay Webb-Rudy Valles marital mess, has broken with his latest partner and will do a double with Tut Maco, blonde acrobatic dancer. The pair met when both appeared at the Biltmore Bowl here. They'll break their act at Agua Caliente.

Helen Lowell, who has kept that twinkle in her eye, says that being nearly 60 has its compensations—at least the Hollywood gossips do not report her as being "that way" about Dick Powell.

Wonder if it could be Lyle Talbot or James Dunn?

Gus Kahn, the lyricist, likes to tell this story on Samuel Goldwyn. And Ann Sothorn likes to hear him tell it.

Two years ago, when Sam was looking for a young singer for "Whoopie," Kahn and Walter Donaldson, his song-writing teammate, suggested Harriette Lake from the cast of "Of Thee I Sing."

"Never heard of her," Goldwyn is said to have answered. "We need a name."

Recently the producer summoned Kahn and Donaldson to write the tunes for his new Eddie Cantor picture. "And I have a discovery for the heroine," he told them. "Wait till you see her, wait till you hear her sing."

It was Harriette Lake, now famous in the movies as Ann Sothorn.

What young man-about-Hollywood has high blood pressure about the fan dancer at Agua Caliente and would marry her if she said yes?

Andrews Will Speak Today

History Professor Will Discuss Napoleon This Afternoon

"Napoleon—damned or deified?" Both phases of this question will be commented upon by Prof. George G. Andrews of the history department in a lecture this afternoon at 4:15 in the senate chamber of Old Capitol.

He will show how Napoleon was regarded by his contemporaries—what they thought of him, his ability, and how they liked him.

Professor Andrews will not confine his talk to contemporary views but will give an idea on how Napoleon has been considered since his death and of the changes that have come in the way in which he and his works have been regarded.

Because Napoleon did so much, made plans so vast, and came so near to achieving that perfection, Professor Andrews says he was inevitably bound to make many enemies as well as friends.

The lecture, which is the third of the weekly historical conferences, will be open to the public.

SEEN from Old Capitol

By TOM YOSELOFF

When in Rome, John Langdon-Davies does as Romans do. Yesterday afternoon, he came into the house chamber of Old Capitol for a lecture. He found his audience awaiting him coatless and with sleeves rolled up. Calmly he peeled off his coat, rolled up his sleeves, folded his arms, and started to talk.

He related an incident of his afternoon's visit on the campus. President Jessup had told him of the work done by the university speech department in speech pathology. So, he insisted, he was hardly flattered when the speech department called him and asked to be allowed to make a record of his voice.

"They wanted to study that form of speech pathology known as the British accent," he claimed.

This department suggests something else for the speech department to study. Having undergone a course full of gestures, I suggest a study of Mr. Langdon-Davies' gestures. He stood throughout his speech with his hands folded across his breast, never moving them to lend emphasis...

His definition of the British manner of government is worth repeating—if a bit questionable: "The conservatives always make the reforms. The liberals—or progressives—always agitate for the change for a generation; then the conservatives manage to slip in and very cleverly get credit for the legislation."

So this is jolly old England...

And he made this distinction between England and America—worthy of the comment which preceded the above: "We insure against fires—even, in England, against such a thing as twins; in America, I suppose, against such a thing as quintuplets."

Admitting that in America things are done in a big way, we must yet point out that THE quintuplets are Canada's—and Canada is England's. So this is England...

Jean Stout, the Iowa student whose voice is often heard via the ether and WSUI, is limping about the campus these days with an expression suggestive of dire situations. So this department investigated, and now wishes to report that Miss Stout

Potter to Give Sanskrit Talk This Afternoon

Prof. Franklin H. Potter of the classical languages department will lecture this afternoon at 4:15 in room 109 Schaeffer hall.

His address will deal with a general idea of the Sanskrit play, "The Shakuntla." Parts of the play will be read by Professor Potter.

The historical background of the play, an outline of it, and an analysis of the elements of interest in it will be discussed. It is the best known and probably most widely read of all Sanskrit plays, said Professor Potter.

This lecture will be the second of a series given under the auspices of the classical languages department. It will be open to the public and will be broadcast over WSUI at 9 o'clock this evening.

Youth Killed in Crash

WALTER HARRIS, 15, of Clarksville died yesterday of injuries received when a car in which he was riding overturned on the highway.

Audiences will laugh at gaudiness in the theatre in "Sing and Like It," with Nat Pendleton and Bert Kelton angling a show produced by Edward Everett Horton and starring Zasu Pitts—and it's all because the star can sing a mammy song to melt the gangster's heart. Ned Sparks partakes in the mirth in this picture now showing at the Varsity Theatre.

Johnson Writes On Stutterers' Attitude Toward Stuttering

"Stutterers' attitudes toward stuttering" was the subject of an article by Wendell Johnson of the speech department published in the April-June number of the Journal of Abnormal and Social Psychology.

Mr. Johnson's article was based on a clinical study of 12 stutterers who rated their relative degrees of embarrassment at stuttering in 50 given situations. Although the stutterers disagreed in rating degrees of embarrassment in different situations, it was concluded that it is easier to speak to a close friend than to a stranger.

Iowans Return... To Compete at Milwaukee... Dean Brothers Help Cards... Wrestling War Settled?

BY JACK GURWELL

COACH GEORGE T. Bresnahan and the University of Iowa track team of Sidney Dean, Mark Panther and Francis Cretzmeier, report that they are having an interesting return trip from Los Angeles where the trio of athletes competed in the N.C.A.A. meet last Friday and Saturday.

THE BOYS are hurrying back to compete in Milwaukee Saturday in the A.A.U. track and field meet. Like most of the athletes who competed in Los Angeles last week end, they are trying to get to Milwaukee in time to take a few preliminary workouts.

PAUL DEAN won his tenth victory in 11 starts today and is impressing upon the management of the St. Louis Cardinals the importance of the brothers Dean. The St. Louis club has won 37 games to date in the National League and more than 20 of the victories go to the Dean boys.

THE extensive use of the camera at athletic events should open a way for homecoming committees to make their program more realistic. Why not take moving pictures of all the big football games played on homecoming dates, label them, and store them away.

THE WAR for heavyweight wrestling supremacy was settled Monday night, for a while at least, when Jim Londos huffed and puffed a victory over Jim Browning, claimant of the crown for some years. The two are in a spot to stage again and again the battle for the championship of the world, only in different localities.

AMES, June 26—The appointment of LeRoy C. Timm as varsity trainer at Iowa State college, to succeed George Nelson, was announced today by George F. Venker, athletic director.

A 1931 graduate of the University of Minnesota, Timm has served as assistant baseball coach and as assistant to Trainer Dave Woodward at Minnesota, and as director of boys' activities at a New York city community center.

Timm comes to the Cyclone job with high recommendations from Woodward, Coach "Doc" Spears, under whom he played football at Minnesota, and Prof. Frank S. Lloyd of the Department of Physical Education at New York university.

PHILADELPHIA, June 26 (AP)—The Detroit Tigers defeated the Athletics 4 to 1 today, taking the lead, two games to one, in the series with the A's.

AMERICANS QUALIFY FOR BRITISH OPEN

Canzoneri Set For Comeback Against Klick

Winner Meets Ross For Lightweight Title Clash

By EDWARD J. NEILL (Associated Press Sports Writer)
NEW YORK, June 26 (AP)—A young fellow coming up and an old fellow sliding back fight 10 rounds in Ebbets field in Brooklyn tomorrow night for the dubious honor of swapping punches some time later on, with Barney Ross, champion of the lightweights and welterweights.

The newcomer is Frankie Klick, a right hand wallpiper from San Francisco, and the veteran is Tony Canzoneri, lightweight king until Ross dethroned him in Chicago a year ago. Klick and Canzoneri fought 10 rounds last winter here with the old title-holder winning a close decision.

There has been little indication in his most recent battles that Canzoneri, brilliant warrior up through the bantam, featherweight and lightweight divisions for the last 10 years, is ready to call it a career, though he apparently realizes that the stamina, the speed, and the pep of the old days have been impaired by time and action.

After Ross beat him for the second time in a 15 round bout here last September, Canzoneri outpointed Klick, knocked out Kid Chocolate and Cecil Payne, defeated Cletio Locatelli twice, and won decisions from Pete Nebo and Babs Arizandi. Klick's draw with Ross, and his narrow defeat by Canzoneri, were his major efforts after climbing to fame by knocking out Chocolate in Philadelphia last year.

PHILADELPHIA, June 26 (AP)—A pair of net huskies with a lot of what it takes in tennis—piled into the favored list in the national intercollegiate championships today and split seedings wide apart by registering startling upset victories.

Unsung in advance rankings and given but an outside chance to come through, these two—Kendall Cram of Tulane and Carl Holmes of California Berkeley branch—brushed aside two of the seeded list of eight as the field narrowed itself to 16 survivors and swept into the fourth round at the Merion Cricket club, Haverford.

Cram, who has taken Cliff Sutter's place as Tulane's top tennis man, ran out a 6-3, 6-4 triumph. Holmes, rallying after a slow start, crushed Pennsylvania's national intercollegiate king, sixth-seeded Marco Hecht, 2-6, 4-1, 6-2.

Others of the seeded stars also had their difficulties through the third round but all managed to overcome them to survive.

Gehrig Leads Yanks as Sox Set Back, 6-2

Make It Three in Row Over Sox; Gehrig's 20th Home Run

NEW YORK, June 26 (AP)—Led by Lou Gehrig, who drove in three runs with his 20th home run of the season and a double, the New York Yankees today took their third straight game from the Chicago White Sox 6 to 2 to retain the leadership in the American league.

Gehrig cracked out his homer in the third inning with the bases empty. In the first inning he doubled to score Jack Saltzgaver with one of the three runs sent across the plate by the Yanks in the initial frame.

Danny MacFayden flashed the best pitching he has shown this year, letting the Sox down with nine scattered blows.

The victory was costly however, as Early Combs, veteran outfielder, sprained his left ankle while fielding Joe Chamberlain's Texas leaguer in the second inning.

Cards Take 13-7 Victory Over Giants

Paul Dean Hurls 10th Win of Season, 3rd From Giants

ST. LOUIS, June 26 (AP)—Brother Paul Dean registered his third victory of the season over the world champion New York Giants today when the St. Louis Cardinals went on a hitting rampage to take the third game of the series 13 to 7. The triumph was Dean's tenth of the season as compared to only one setback, and was scored before a crowd of 13,000.

HITS WELL SCATTERED
Dean was tagged for 15 hits, including Mel Ott's 19th homer and Travis Jackson's 10th, but he kept the blows fairly well scattered while the Cards built up a commanding lead in the early innings off Al Smith and Joe Bowman.

Five Runs in 5th

Battle Rages As England's Golfers Lead

Sarazen, Denny Shute, Bob Sweeney Head Americans

By GAYLE TALBOT (Associated Press Sports Writer)
SANDWICH, Eng., June 26 (AP)—At the close of two days of the most brilliant qualifying round in the history of the British open golf championship, five Americans—four professionals and an amateur attending Oxford—were included tonight in a field of 161 eligible for the 72-hole battle starting tomorrow over the Royal St. Georges' course.

Scoring Honors
The qualifying round scoring honors were carried off by Bert Gadd, a 25 year old British professional, who scorched St. Georges this afternoon with a sizzling 69, which gave him a two round total of 140 and a one shot lead over his closest pursuers.

Invading Professionals
The invading professionals—Gens Sarazen, the betting commissioner's favorite, Denny Shute, the reigning champion, MacDonald Smith and Joe Kirkwood—made the qualifying grade with little to spare, but Robert Sweeney, the young Oxonian, blew himself to a dazzling 69 this afternoon and right into a select group of 12 that had aggregates of 145 or better.

"MA CINDERELLA" by Harold Bell Wright

SYNOPSIS Diane Carrol—young artist and wealthy orphan, more interested in her work than society—visits the little village of Pine Knob in the Ozarks. Her sunny disposition melts the usual frigidity of the mountaineers, toward strangers and they accept her as one of the "home folks"—all except Ann Haskel, whose word is law in Pine Knob. Diane, nevertheless, is fascinated by Ann about whom she has heard conflicting stories of generosity and hardness. The mountain woman seems to be avoiding Diane, but her good-for-nothing stepson, Jeff Todd, follows the artist everywhere. Ann has a son of her own, John Herbert Haskel, whom she sent away years ago, following the death of her first husband. One day, Ann comes upon Diane painting in Shady Creek Valley and curiously asks: "What be you a-doin' here?" Diane apologizes for trespassing. Ann's demeanor changes immediately and she says: "You're welcome. I got sense to see you ain't a hurtin' nobody." Seeing to relax and grow more friendly, Ann confides in Diane that, while the people of the woods are better than the society folks at the Lodge, still the backwoods would be no place to raise young folks who could be something if given a chance. Diane realizes that the mountain woman was revealing more of her life than she intended and the girl's heart went out to her. Then, abruptly changing the subject, Ann upbraids Diane for "doin' sich triflin' play-work as this year pitcher-paintin'." Next day, despite a heavy rain, Diane drives to the station to make reservations for her return to the city. The train pulls in and a handsome man steps off. Diane offers the stranded stranger a lift to Pine Knob. The station master warns Diane against returning in the storm but she decides to chance it.

"I am John Herbert Haskel." "I knew it!" exclaimed Diane.

CHAPTER XI When they came to the first creek after leaving the station, Diane stopped the car and studied the water intently. Her companion said nothing, but she felt that he was not wholly at ease. "This stream is not a bit higher than it was when I crossed it before," she announced, reassuringly, and plunged in. As the swirling flood of muddy water swept over the footbridge, the stranger shot a quick questioning glance at Diane. Then a smile of appreciation broke over his scholarly face and lighted his dark eyes. But Diane was too occupied with the car to notice.

"I am John Herbert Haskel." "I knew it!" exclaimed Diane. Diane continued, boyishly: "I haven't seen her since I was a kid. Been away at school, you know. But mother's been awfully good to me. And Judge Shannon has told me so much about her that I know exactly how she is—how she looks and everything—even if I was too young when I last saw her to remember much. From all the Judge has told me I can picture her: tall and stately, you know, with dark eyes and hair—like mine," he laughed, "and a certain air—carries herself like—like a patrician—you know what I mean. I suppose, though, her hair might be a bit gray now. Is it?" "Ye-es—oh yes, quite gray." "But she is still well and strong, isn't she?" he asked, anxiously, catching something in Diane's tone. Diane hastened to reassure him. "Oh yes, your mother is very well indeed." "She wouldn't be stooped and old like some women of her age. I can't imagine mother ever letting down like that." "No, no. Mrs. Haskel is not in the least feeble; I should say not; quite the contrary. She is very active, rides horseback, and— and everything." (To Be Continued)

Johnson County Farmers Get First Corn-Hog Checks Here

First Day Sees Farm Office Giving Out $40,000

Arriving an hour before opening time and standing in line throughout the day, scores of Johnson county farmers received more than 40,000 "New Deal" dollars in corn-hog payments at the farm bureau office yesterday.

There was little talk of chinch bugs or drought as the sunburned, overworked men waited in a queue that moved slowly down the hall.

Tell of Improvements

One farmer told another of improvements he would make with his money—a new hen house, and probably some needed machinery. Several women and children, farmers' families, chatted in a corner—perhaps of new dresses that the federal funds would provide.

All day long, from 8 a.m. until after 4 p.m., the line moved through the farm bureau office. Even in the afternoon heat the farmers were jovial, but clerks were wilted after several hours of handing out checks, issuing receipts, answering questions.

Checks ranged from very small to large amounts. The biggest was $1,702, the smallest, $5. They represented only a portion of the amount coming to Johnson county. This early payment comes to $130,378.25. The total, to be paid in full by winter, is $975,000, benefitting 1,815 farmers.

Although the regular payments started at 8 a.m. yesterday, the first check went to Glen Hope, vice president of the county corn-hog association, Monday afternoon.

Cashed Without Charge

Mr. Hope was one of the first two farmers in the United States to sign a corn-hog contract.

The First Capital National bank here was cashing the checks free of charge.

Payments today will be made as follows: 8 a.m., Oxford township; 11 a.m., Madison; 1:45 p.m., Penn; 3 p.m., Newport; and 4 p.m., Graham.

Smith Says Tax May Be Paid by Mail

The old age pension tax of $1 for 1934, which is due not later than July 1, may be paid by mail, W. E. Smith, county treasurer, said yesterday.

The tax is due from every resident of Iowa 21 years of age or older. Only inmates of state or county institutions are exempt from paying the tax.

Check, money order or currency may be sent in payment of the tax with a letter stating the name, age and address of the person for whom it is sent. Care should be taken in furnishing this information, Mr. Smith urged, so as to insure proper credit on the tax list.

After July 1 the tax becomes a lien on the property of the delinquent taxpayer or may be collected out of wages from the employer of the delinquent person. Failure to pay the fee within three years after the date it becomes due disqualifies the person from all benefits under the old age assistance law.

Local Reemployment Office Second in Placing Workers

With a total of 537 "runs" to date, the Iowa City district of the National Reemployment service holds second place among 15 offices in the state now competing in the "private placement major league." J. L. Eastridge, manager of this district, announced yesterday.

The rating does not include the placing of men on federal jobs. It is based solely on the number of men hired through the office by private employers.

"When a contractor on a federal job sends in a requisition for a certain number of men we send them out to him and he has no choice in the matter," Mr. Eastridge explained. "When a private employer wants a man, he is free to go through our files and pick out the man he wants to see. A private interview is arranged and if the man is suitable he has the job."

Persons enrolled in the office should see to it that they keep on the active list, Mr. Eastridge urged. Last week 44 men secured jobs through the office, not including men who were placed on PWA or other federal projects.

The second place rating is based on total placements in all 15 of the Iowa districts. First place is held by Ft. Dodge and third place by Red Oak. The contest began May 1.

The Iowa City district includes Johnson, Cedar, Jones, Iowa and Benton counties. Nisle N. Jones is manager of the local office and Minnie Ross is in charge of women's employment.

1866, in Iowa City and on March 28, 1888, married Edward T. Whitacre. They lived here until 1906, when they moved to Olathe, Colo. They have lived in Iowa City since their return here about a year ago.

Mrs. Whitacre was a member of the Rebekah lodge of Olathe, Colo., and a member of the Methodist church.

She is survived by her husband, Edward T. Whitacre, one sister, Mrs. John Bothell of Iowa City and a brother, Frank E. Spencer of Montrose, Colo.

No Trace Of Women Found

Police Seek Car Of Pair Who Held Up Willard's

No trace of the two women who staged a daring daylight robbery at Willard's ready-to-wear store, 119 E. Washington street, at 1:30 p.m. yesterday, had been found at a late hour last night.

Police in Iowa City and nearby towns were on the lookout for a dark Chevrolet coach bearing a Kansas license.

Two boys standing outside the store shortly after noon yesterday, but told clerks they were not ready to be waited on. As soon as the clerks left them, they grabbed a number of silk and knitted dresses valued at $175 from the racks and escaped through the front door.

A man, waiting in the car, helped them with their loads and then drove west on Washington street to Clinton where the car was last seen going north.

Two boys standing outside the store witnessed the robbery and gave some clues about the women, both of whom were large. They could identify the two women they said.

Mrs. Frank Selbach, manager of the store, said that five of the dresses were knit-wear, valued at $22.50 to $29.50, and three of them were silk, selling from $12.95 to $18.75.

Fitzpatrick of Iowa City put their names on the last page of number 18, and Nicholas J. Kost of Iowa City and Ann Blake of Kossuth started the new volume.

William C. Lacinia and Dorothy Krall of Iowa City brought the total number of licenses for this month's 43, a new record.
