

Pi Lambda Theta Plans To Initiate Nine Tomorrow

Ceremony to Follow Weekly Dinner At Iowa Union

Pi Lambda Theta, national honorary professional education sorority, will initiate nine women, whose names have just been announced, at a ceremony following the weekly dinner tomorrow at 6:30 p.m. in the University club rooms at Iowa Union.

The pledges are: Edith Barber, A. of Cherokee; Mabel Benfer, G. of Bartlesville, Okla.; Celia Cursley, G. of Superior, Wis.; Gertrude Helfmer, Lethal Kiesling, G. of Creston; Erma Plaehn, G. of Reinbeck; Marion Norris, G. of Iowa City; Mabel Swanson, G. of Fonda; and an associate member, Elaine Dickinson of Grand Rapids, Mich., visiting instructor in the college of education.

The initiation ceremony will be followed by a musical program.

The local chapter of Pi Lambda Theta was established in 1917, one of the earliest of the 30 national chapters now organized. In addition to the 30 active chapters, there are 15 alumnae organizations in the United States. The University of Iowa division's membership totals 50.

Professional qualifications necessary to membership include grades in the upper quarter of the college of education; graduate students who have earned eight semester hours, six in education, upon this campus; evidence of professional interest and ability; and exceptional promise of success.

A small number of undergraduate students are chosen for membership. They must have earned 75 semester hours of credit, and show a record of successful teaching experience or laboratory teaching at the University high, elementary, or preschool.

Bernice Stormes will conduct the ceremony. Mabel Cummings will take charge of membership, and Katherine Clarke, of social activities.

Glass, Cork, Straw Find Style Flavor

By BARBARA BEAUFORT (Associated Press Fashion Editor)
PARIS, (AP)—Cork and glass have moved from the realm of "bottled goods" into the world of fashion.

Both have been borrowed by designers as "something new" to accent summer sports costumes.

Cork accessories, cut in ball or curved shapes and used in the natural state, step out with some of the smartest knitted sports frocks.

There are cork necklaces—balls two inches in diameter linked by metal links with a golden sheen—cork bracelets encircled by a nickel band and big cork rings worked with metal tracery.

Cork Ball Buttons
Nagornoff, a new designer of sports clothes, uses cork ball buttons to close the jacket of a navy blue knitted sports suit and cork tips to fasten the belts of frocks knitted of natural colored linen.

Glass appears in both buttons and clips. Flat round buttons of white glass close a three-quarter length swagger coat of white knitted wool designed for summer sports wear, and flat mirror clips clamp the scarfs in place on bright summer frocks for the country.

Even a hint of the straw which surrounds "bottled goods" appears in the mode, for raffia belts, trims and accessories are being seen.

Flash of Color
A green, red and blue raffia belt, worked in bold stripes and buttoning back and forth in an intricate way, adds a telling flash of color to a simple white linen sports dress.

An evening frock for resort wear designed of heavy white artificial silk has a bodice with no back at all except a cobweb tracery of black raffia, and yellow raffia envelope bags are shown to accompany the yellow straw hats and chamois gloves now so much in vogue as accessories to black town frocks.

Former University Student Wed June 9

Marguerite Gordon and Myron Koenig, both of Vinton, were married June 9 at the home of the bride's parents by the Rev. Charles Fort, pastor of the Vinton Methodist church.

Mr. Koenig graduated from Grinnell college, and received his master's degree at the University of Iowa in 1933. He has been for the last year engaged in the history department at Grinnell college.

Mr. and Mrs. Koenig plan to make their home in Boulder, Colo., where Mr. Koenig will continue work on a Ph.D. degree at the University of Colorado.

William Crissman To Marry Thelma Bain

The engagement of Thelma Bain, 1932 graduate of the University of Iowa, to William W. Each member will bring her own table service for the supper, served on the lawn surrounding Mrs. Evans' home.

Iowa Citizens Go to Lakes For Vacation

"Shall we go to the mountains or the seashore?" is not a troublesome question for vacation-bound Iowa Citizens. Their usual answer is "Neither," as they study road maps and fold bathing suits preparatory to a several weeks' stay at nearby lake resorts.

Even Chicago, starting at full steam on its second year of the Century of Progress exposition, cannot vie with Iowa and Minnesota lakes in attracting travelers. "Summer at the lakes" is Iowa City's answer to the yearly problem of where to spend vacation weeks.

Clear Lake, Okoboji, and Spirit Lake are the rendezvous of many Iowa City families who return year after year to their favorite cottages.

The hardships of these summer havens proves convenient to business men who drive every week end to visit their families and to enjoy the swimming, boating, and cool breezes which these resorts provide.

Those who would go angling, sort fishing tackle and follow the highways to the wooded lakes of northern Minnesota, Wisconsin, and even across the border into Canadian lakes, where such rough-and-ready hames as Bear Lake catch the eyes of camping enthusiasts.

Fortunate are owners of summer cottages at lake resorts, near or far, although the supply of cottages for rent proves that there's no trick at all to securing a vacation home whose front porch (screened, of course, because mosquitos can withstand a drought) looks out onto a lake, beach, and dock scene. Enjoying the practical beauty of such scenery will be scores of swimmers, seeking a refreshing dip, sail and motorboat pilots, canoeists and sun bathers.

With the completion of Lake Macbride park, Iowa Citizens can move en masse to summer cabins by the beach, where water sports and lake breezes like those of more distant resorts will be available without necessitating a longer drive.

Mrs. Worthley To Sail to Denmark

Mrs. Evans A. Worthley, 10 S. Gilbert street, and her mother, Mrs. Z. Dickinson of Sterling, Colo., will sail July 20 from New York city on the steamer Statendam for a two month trip to Denmark. They will visit friends of Mrs. Dickinson, a native of Denmark, and will return home early in September, stopping in England, Holland, and France.

While abroad, Mrs. Worthley will attend the international congress of religious liberals in Copenhagen next month.

Altrusa Club To Meet at Union

Altrusa club members will meet for luncheon and a business session tomorrow noon in the fountain room at Iowa Union.

"First Lady" Sees Fair In Record Time

CHICAGO, July 9 (AP)—Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt's visit to the world's fair, which started as a game of hide and seek and developed into a marathon, ended today in a walkaway for the first lady.

The wife of the president ended her whirlwind inspection of a century of progress apparently as fresh as when she began. In her wake were reporters, cameramen, members of her party, and assorted curious, all in various stages of exhaustion.

At the start of the day Mrs. Roosevelt submitted to an interview with the press and warned newspapermen that she intended to see the world's fair "like any other visitor" and that any attempt to follow her would result in a game of hide and seek.

The truth of her assertion became apparent upon her first visit to the grounds in the morning. Paying her own admission to the grounds, she entered the thirty-first gate at 10:15 a.m. with her brother, G. Hall Roosevelt of New York, and her secretary, Malvina Scheider.

Past Officers To Preside at Lodge Meeting Thursday

Past noble grands of the Iowa City Rebekah order, 416, will hold office Thursday at 8 p.m. at the regular meeting in the lodge room of the I.O.O.F. hall.

Champions Will Take Roles In "The Admirable Crichton" Cast

A cast of champions of champions in declamatory, debate, and dramatics will present "The Admirable Crichton," by Sir James M. Barrie, when members of the all state high school players give the play tomorrow and Friday in University theater studio.

The 25 high school students from many Iowa and one Illinois towns, ranging in age from 15 to 18, have had several years of experience, in most instances, in the field of speech. Dorothy Ellen Rambo of Creston was this year's winner of the dramatic division of the state declamatory contest reading the "Murder of King Duncan," from "Macbeth."

Reached Finals
In the state competition last year, she also reached the finals. Competing in a tri-state contest at Tarkio, Mo., Miss Rambo received second honors. Besides her declamatory work, she has been in her school's senior play and in an all-school play. She lists her hobbies as sport, reading, and music, but would like to do something connected with the stage as her life work.

John Colson of Marshalltown, who plays Crichton for the first performance of the play has taken part in declamatory, extemporaneous speaking, and has been in plays. In 1933 he went as far as district competition in declamatory, and also took part in extemp. He was in junior and senior class plays, and acted in productions of his home town community theater. A member of his school paper staff, he was also editor of its yearbook. His life ambition is to be a dentist.

Held Play Leads
Leads in both junior and senior class plays and a member of the casts of plays which have taken firsts in the play production festival here comprise the dramatic experience of Florabel Housion of Nevada. Although she is most interested in speech, she admits that dancing and other sports are her hobbies. She also played a cornet in her school orchestra and band.

Robert Fisher of Onawa who has the distinction of being one of the youngest members of the group has participated in the humorous division of declamatory. His hobby is reading scientific books, and his ambition is to become a scientist.

Plays, Debate
As president of his school speech club and a member of the dramatic club, Roy Stephenson of Spencer has been in plays and debate. His chief hobby is fishing, but he expects to become a lawyer.

Listing her ambition in speech to be an instructor, Martha Anne Clifton of Webster City has been in her school's junior and senior plays, and came to Iowa City as a member of the cast of a woman's club play. She has also been an active musician and took several language courses.

Robert Bell of Ft. Madison who will come to the university in the fall, has three years of experience in debate, and won the district contest at Burlington. He was in his senior play and came to the play production festival. Hunting and hology are his hobbies, and he wishes to become a doctor.

First In State
First in the state contest—that is the extemporaneous speaking record of Edward Fruetel of Aledo, Ill., who has also gone in for writing of his own. He says his hobbies are amateur radio and sports, but his life work will be law.

"Catching fish that don't bite" is the chief hobby of Elizabeth Ann Hoffmaa of Atlantic who has participated in the humorous division of declamatory. Sports and riding are her other favorites, but she wishes to become a journalist.

Journalism Favorite
Journalism seems to be a favorite ambition with members of the all-state group. Loren Hickerson of Mt. Ayr lists this as one of his foremost hobbies. In speech work he has participated chiefly in debate, being winner of a tri-state tournament at Tarkio, Mo., and a runner-up in the Drake tournament. He has competed in the oratorical division of declamatory. All sciences and sports are his hobbies.

Edward Harnagel of Des Moines has been active in debate, being champion of his city series, and ranking among the first eight in a state oratory contest.

Humorous Declamatory
Participation in humorous declamatory and as a member of Paint and Patches dramatic club, have comprised the speech work of Georgia Carle of Iowa City. Her chief hobby is ping-pong.

For all his years in high school, Mulford Studebaker of Madrid has participated in humorous declamatory. He has also acted in junior and senior plays. The possessor of a scholarship at Simpson college, he wants to become a business man.

Debating in the Iowa Nine and state league comprises the experience of Betty Holt of Iowa City who is a member of speech club and has participated in extemp. Travel, shooting, and journalism are her hobbies.

In Dramatics
Plays have been the main speech experience of Joseph Hadish of Cedar Rapids who this year was in his senior class play. He belonged to his school dramatic club, Gamma Delta Sigma. "Good looking girls" were listed as his chief hobby.

Irene Mikes of West Bend is taking her second year of work. She has been in declamatory, and won her school contest while in the eighth grade. Fishing and writing poetry are her main hobbies.

Winning the district in the state extemp. contest and his home oration contest, and participating in plays have been the chief interest of Merle Miller of Marshalltown. His hobby interests vary from basketball to journalism, foreign language, and poetry writing.

Rose Block
Another player interested in journalism is Rose Block of Atlantic who reached the district contest in humorous declamatory. She has also participated in plays and that and poetry are her major hobbies.

Three years in declamatory as a dramatic contestant, and plays and operettas comprise the speech experience of Isabel Greenburg of Algona. She is also a member of her school orchestra and works on the newspaper staff. Reading, swimming, hiking, and fishing are her hobbies.

A member of her school dramatic club, in the cast of the junior play, and journalism have been the main interests of Ida Helen Olin of Iowa City. She has one more year in school.

Declamatory Plays
Declamatory and plays have been the interests of Jane DeSpain of Marquette, who was a member of the cast of junior, senior, and all-school plays. She wants to teach school. Reading and basketball are her hobbies.

Donald Fry of Kalona has taken part in declamatory since his grade school days. Collecting pictures and autographs is his chief hobby and he admits that his life ambition is to be a movie actor.

SCENES IN AMSTERDAM WHERE NINE DIED IN RIOTS

Here are scenes from turbulent Amsterdam, metropolis of ordinarily tranquil Holland, where Dutch communists and gendarmes clashed in bloody hand to hand fighting over barricades in the waterfront workingmen's district, in which nine were killed and dozens injured over a dispute caused by reduction of the unemployment dole. Left, 12-story skyscraper, typical of the new Holland; right, shopping district near the police-surrounded battlegrounds.

News Briefs From All Corners of the World

No Unemployment?
BERLIN (AP)—Within two years at the most Germany will have solved the problem of unemployment, according to an analysis of the situation by Fritz Reinhardt, secretary of state.

Germany has 2,500,000 unemployed, but Reinhardt said that within six months this will be reduced by a million, although the coming winter probably will boost the total back to 2,000,000.

"Within two years at the most," he continued, "the unemployment problem will be as good as solved, provided the people follow the government program."

Division Will Present Two Films Today

The complete process of the manufacture of lenses will be shown in a three-reel silent film, "The eyes of science," which will be demonstrated by the visual education department of the extension division this afternoon at 4:10 in room C5, East hall.

In the film, which is being shown through the courtesy of the Bausch and Lomb Optical company of Rochester, N. Y., the bending of the light rays for various purposes by means of the lens will be demonstrated by diagrams. Various optical instruments, the telescope, microscope, spectroscope, ophthalmoscope, are considered in the film.

A one-reel sound film, "Flowers at work," will also be shown. The parts and the physiology of plant flowers are presented by animation and the different methods of pollination are shown by means of time-lapse photography interspersed with animation.

The relation of insects to cross fertilization of flowers and the modification of the form of flowers by cultivation are illustrated in the film.

There will also be an exhibit in room C5, East hall, a group of 16 mm. motion picture cameras.

Betts to Talk On Experimental Work In Reading Clinic

E. A. Betts, principal of Lomond school, Shaker Heights district, Cleveland, Ohio, will lecture on "The analysis and correction of reading disabilities," this afternoon at 3 o'clock in the auditorium of the electrical engineering building.

Mr. Betts, who received his Ph.D. degree from the University of Iowa in 1931, will base his lecture on experimental work done, during the last three years, in the Shaker Heights reading clinic of which he is director.

Seashore To Give Lecture This Evening

Harold Seashore of the psychology department will lecture at 7 o'clock this evening in chemistry auditorium on "The scientific analysis of artistic singing."

The lecture will be illustrated with slides of the singing of Lawrence Tibbett, Richard Crooks, Louise Homer, Arthur Kraft, and local staff members. These slides were made by means of phonography and some of the techniques discussed in previous lectures in the series by means of which the vocal productions were objectively recorded for detailed analysis.

Mr. Seashore will also discuss accuracy of pitch, the use of gliding attacks, portamento, phrasing, rhythm, and several problems of tempo.

Duck Lays Black Egg

DUNDEE, Ill. (AP)—And now come black duck eggs. Ed Holtz, farmer living near here, was amazed to find that one of his black ducks laid a black egg. The curious of the poultry-minded flocked to the farm so much that Ed took the egg to a drug store window here for display so he wouldn't be bothered so much by visitors when he went out to gather the eggs.

Clarence Berg Gives Lecture On Catalysts

A history of knowledge of the digestive processes from the spirits of the ancients to modern scientific thought was given by Clarence P. Berg, associate in biochemistry in his talk on "Biochemical catalysts" in chemistry auditorium last night.

Mr. Berg discussed the contributions of the ancient Greeks and the scientists of the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries to the study of the digestive processes. Modern scientific thought in this field began with the discoveries of John R. Young and Dr. William Beaumont, Mr. Berg said.

The study of enzymes, which are really biochemical catalysts, has been the key to the study of this field of physiology. These enzymes are necessary to bring about digestion of foods in the stomach, and also to speed up the reaction.

There are two main theories as to the mode of action of the enzymes and these have many variations. "But these theories are only working hypotheses; we shall progress as long as we use these hypotheses as guides and not as limitations," Mr. Berg said.

Dill to Talk About Mexico

Homer Dill, director of the university museum, will continue his weekly series of summer session lectures tonight at 8 o'clock in geology auditorium, with an address on "A zoological pilgrimage 800 miles into old Mexico."

Mr. Dill will describe an expedition to the southern republic made to secure specimens for the museum. He will illustrate his address with slides taken on the trip. His lecture is the fourth of a weekly series during the first summer term. The series will be concluded next week.

Tonight's address will be open to the public and will be broadcast over station WSUI.

SIAMESE TWIN FIGHTS FOR PERMIT TO MARRY

Denied permission to marry in New York and New Jersey because she is a Siamese twin, red-haired Violet Hilton and her would-be bridegroom, Maurice L. Lambert, orchestra leader, have decided to launch a legal battle for a license. This photo shows Violet and Lambert in an affectionate pose at the New York city license bureau, where they were first refused a permit to wed, looking on as a perhaps unwanted but unavoidable third party is Daisy Hilton, joined to her sister at hips.

TUESDAY, JULY 10, 1934

nothing short of miraculous if these plucky lads reached home without a dozen offers of employment and not a few offers of marriage. For, incredible as it may seem, they are all experts in home economics, which, as at least half the world knows, is just highbrow jargon for house-keeping.

These boys proved themselves AA-1 at every kind of plain and fancy home making. They can transform a kitchen floor into spotlessness in even time (no sweeping into corners); they can do a round of bed making under par and put before the delighted gaze of a diner a variety of soups, roasts, vegetables and pies with all the skill of a cordon bleu. Their example may prove the beginning of the way back to that joyous period when good cooking made a good meal and no one had invented the tasteless notion of vitamins, calories and balanced diets.

Not the least noteworthy achievement of these Ohio lads is the heroism they displayed in donning aprons and manipulating pots and pans. It must have taken courage of a high order. The average male would shrink from such an ordeal, however fitted he might be for the task. Now perhaps thousands of domestic-minded husbands, too timid to be pioneers, may be spurred on by this example to take their rightful places in the kitchen while their wives go out and earn the family living.

Also it would not be surprising if the brilliant performance of these Ohio lads should prove to be the first signs of active rebellion against delicatessen housekeeping, canned living and lethargic dish-stacking. And still another possibility arises. Women have been agitating for a long time for admission into every occupation open to men. And in large measure they have won their way. Now it is time for men to demand equality of opportunity in what has hitherto been regarded as woman's private realm.

So, go to it, boys. On your mark! Get your skillets and brooms ready—Go!

Bringing the Drama To Iowa's Schools

TOMORROW night a cast of high school students, studying on the University of Iowa campus under the direction of university staff members, will show the public the results of their month of work here, in their presentation of Sir James M. Barrie's "The Admirable Crichton."

If the experience of past years is a criterion, the play should be worthy of public view as an example of what can be accomplished through intensive training by high school boys and girls in the field of the drama.

The public presentation is the climax of the six weeks term in which the boys and girls come to Iowa each summer. It is the triumph for which they plan and work.

But it is more than that. Each year, when these students appear before the public, it marks the realization of an idea. Several years ago the all-state high school players were first organized. Drawn from the best actors and actresses who participated in the state high school play production contests, they represent the "champions of champions"—the cream of the state's dramatic crop.

Each of these boys and girls comes to the university with dramatics uppermost in their thoughts. For six weeks they study the drama, they live drama, eat drama, sleep drama. They go through their night of triumph, and they carry the best traditions of the drama that the university can give them back to every corner of the state.

Some of them may return to the university for further work in their chosen field. A few may make the drama their profession.

But for most of them their course will be back to their home towns, and they will take with them the drama which they learned here.

The project is thus a part of the university's contacts with the state of Iowa. Through the 25 or 30 young men and women who come here each summer the university can help to spread its culture through the state.

GOOD MORNING

"Today, as a practical matter, in many American communities there is no court for the man without means. To him justice is a luxury, the entrance fees of the courts prohibitive, their procedure a mystery. The money involved may be needed for necessities of life. If the owner of such a claim must wait a year or even a month for the court to reach his case and then longer still to collect his judgment, the law is of little value to him."—Harry D. Nims, "Law Courts for the Forgotten Man," in The Forum magazine.

The Plight of the Little Man in America's Courts of Law

has long been generally recognized, but until recently nothing had been done about it. So hopeless has been his chance of securing justice that there has been more than a little truth in the complaint that there is one law for the rich and another for the poor.

Take the case of a day laborer with a claim of $10 against his employer for back wages. His chances of collecting through the courts are practically nil. In the first place he could not afford the small cost involved; in case the defendant chose to contest the claim legal counsel would be out of the question; and he would be ignorant of the court's technicalities of procedure. Nine times out of 10 he would forget the claim, and leave justice for those able to pay for it.

A New High In Federal Efficiency

SECRETARY of the Interior Harold Ickes made a speech the other day. He talked to 4,000 men and women—Washington employes in the department of the interior and in the Public Works administration, of which he is chief.

What he said was reminiscent of a department store manager's speech at a "store meeting." He told them that he had observed, in his walks through the various departments, that men sometimes put their feet on their desks, that women powder their noses during office hours, that some employes eat their breakfast and read papers on government time. With praise for those who do not do these things, he issued a request that such practices be discontinued.

Though on first thought it seems a bit humorous that Mr. Ickes, whose finger tips control billions of dollars of work for the nation, should lecture employes on the necessity for efficiency to save pennies, a second consideration changes the humor into a happy omen for the nation.

When "big men" remember to look after the pennies, a new high has been reached in the matter of government efficiency in federal departments. And efficiency seems to be a keynote of the men who have taken charge in Washington in the last two years.

Though billions have been spent and are being spent to give men and women employment and to help "spend America back to recovery," to all appearances the administrators in Washington have attempted to spend that money where it will do the most good for the most people.

It might be worthwhile for lesser "big men" to adopt Mr. Ickes' department store tactics for efficiency. There has been altogether too much "nose powdering" on government time—in both high and low places—in the past.

Behind The Scenes in HOLLYWOOD

By Harrison Carroll

HOLLYWOOD—You'll have to guess his name, but a certain Hollywood producer pulled one of his very funniest remarks one recent week end. He picked up a couple of friends in Beverly Hills and started for the beach. The sun was shining, the air was balmy, and there was just enough ocean breeze to take the edge off the heat.

Leaning back into the deep cushions of his $15,000 car the producer sighed with satisfaction.

"Ah!" he exclaimed, "What a lovely day of the week for Sunday to fall on!"

The laugh is on Dorothy Burgess, and I think even she will admit it. Caught up in Hollywood's new urge to get away from crowds and things, Dorothy gave up her apartment and took a house in the Hollywood hills. She got away all right. The coyotes howl so much at night she can't sleep, and the other day a shrieking maid brought the news that a snake was crawling across the living room. And, to cap it all, Dorothy's cat has all the fur torn off its tail and whereabouts. Coyotes? Well, I'm only telling you what they say.

Maybe you know all about the Russian midnight Easter services, but my first sight of the unusual ritual was when Samuel Goldwyn staged one for "We Live Again," the new Anna Sten film. Fifteen hundred candles illumined the movie-mad replica of a Russian countryside church. The chant of the singers—only the human voice is used in the ritual—rose in impressive volume. Food for the pasha feast after the celebration prepared, incidentally, by Miss Sten's Ukrainian chef) was authentically Russian. Before it was eaten, priests and deacons kissed each other three times and then each member of the congregation. Later, the members of the congregation kissed each other. It was a master illusion.

Moffett Planning Extensive Housing Act Organization

WASHINGTON, July 9 (AP)—A regional organization reaching down into the various communities, but free from excessive overhead costs and tangles of red tape, is contemplated by James A. Moffett in spreading the benefits of the new housing act.

To bring this about, the new housing administration plans to make use of the present setup of the national emergency council. This consists of the heads of the various governmental agencies connected with the recovery drive but has its offshoots and local committees all over the country.

Thus the energetic Moffett aims to put the work of spreading loans for home construction and repair upon a voluntary basis, with local committees ready to give advice to all who apply for it.

Three Deputies

For his own organization in Washington, Moffett plans to appoint three deputy administrators, each would have charge of one of the three principal phases of the work to be done—home renovation and modernization; new home construction and the refinancing of mortgages.

The law of which he is in charge would have the government guarantee 20 per cent of the home building and repair loans advanced by banks, building and loan associations and other private financial enterprises.

In addition it calls for government insurance of first mortgages on new homes up to $16,000 and insurance of existing mortgages to a maximum of 70 per cent of face value. This is designated to reach cases where the Home Owners' Loan corporation is unable to supply refinancing relief.

Moffett, hoping to get $500,000,000 to work by fall and provide new employment for 5,000,000 men, plans a campaign of steady pressure, but with slogans and ballyhoo conspicuously omitted.

Credit Advances

One detail of this which he already has in mind is an effort to induce building supply companies, which would be among the first to benefit from a revival in construction, to call pointed attention to their own advertising to the credit advances which the home repair or builder may obtain under the law.

Thus, the advertisements of lumber dealers, plumbers, electrical supply houses and others soon may be spreading word of what can be done. Moffett wants them to emphasize that the process of obtaining advances is simplicity itself.

The prospective borrower just goes to his bank or building and loan association and applies for a loan. This agency does the rest, communicating either directly with the housing administration or through the regional organization which Moffett has in mind.

Lawrence To Talk Tonight

Professor to Speak On Disintegration of Elements

Ernest O. Lawrence, professor of physics at the University of California in Berkeley, will discuss "The disintegration of the elements" tonight at 8 o'clock in chemistry auditorium.

According to an article in the current issue of Time magazine, Professor Lawrence is the inventor of a 5,000,000 volt generator of electricity, which is the second most powerful in the United States.

Professor Lawrence was honored last spring with membership in the National Academy of Arts and Sciences.

In commenting on his lecture, Prof. John A. Eldridge said, "All throughout the middle ages transmutation of elements was the outstanding problem for the old alchemists. Since the discovery of transmutation by radio-active rays, by Lord Rutherford of the Cavendish laboratory in England in 1919, and the more recent discovery of artificial transmutation by high-speed protons and deuterons, the field of nuclear transformations has held the center of interest not only among physicists but among scientists in general."

"From week to week we read of the progress in this field. New ultimate particles—neutrons, positrons, deuterons—have been discovered. In all of this work Professor Lawrence has played a leading role in this country. His lecture tonight will undoubtedly be of the greatest interest to those interested in these remarkable advances."

The lecture tonight will be open to the public.

ARCHITECTURAL TRIUMPH

On Northerly island the Iowa City boys and girls who are named winners in The Daily Iowan's World's Fair tour contest will view this glorious architectural triumph. It comprises the Communications building and the Electrical building.

Inside the buildings is unfolded the narrative of electricity and its role in the drama of progress. As most of its applications are identified with recent years, the showing has the lure of adventure into the unknown, and contact with mysterious forces enslaved by science for man's use.

Secrets heretofore confined to the experimental laboratory are revealed. For instance, out of the seclusion of the scientist's sanctum sanctorum have come these miracles: the thyatron organ—the size of a piano, but combining the range, volume and musical quality of pipe organ and callopie; the fever machine—a device for increasing temperatures at will in fighting disease; communication of sound over light beams; the sodium lamp.

Score of other marvels, never witnessed by the public, receive their premiere at Chicago's 1934 World's Fair. Lectures and demonstrations of the wonder of electrical science will be continuously presented.

News and Reviews of THE NEW BOOKS

As the Presses Roll—

When George Bernard Shaw praises a book, that is news. G. B. S. wrote of the anonymous "Children of the Poor": "Children of the Poor" is certainly a whopper. Its only rival in intensity is young Lionel Britton's 'Hunger and Love' . . . Your book has a peculiar poignancy as a record of life of poverty in the world of the poor, where normal poverty is not disgraceful."

A quotation from Dr. Ralph Y. Hopton and Anne Balliol, in their recent book, "Bad Manners," on prehistoric etiquette, bears repetition: "Perhaps the best way to treat this subject is to quote a report by that famous scientist, the late Dr. Alonzo K. Blodgett. He spent seven years studying the manners and customs of the South Sea Islanders for the ethnology department of Swarth university. His final report was brief. It merely read: 'They have no manners.'"

Simon and Schuster, book publishers, recently made a sales report of books sold directly. It revealed that in eight years they had sold in the state of Mississippi exactly three books, totaling $3.08.

John Cowper Powys has completed his autobiography. It is now in the hands of the publishers and will be released Oct. 8, in honor of his sixty-second birthday anniversary.

The Princeton University Press reports receipt of an offer from a prospective author. The man writes that he has ready a book of poetry "after the order of Longfellow's 'Hawatha'—but better."

"Traders to the Navajos," a book on Indian life by Frances Gilmore and Louisa Wetherill, has received praise from Indians whose names translated are: Big Mud, Lost His Shoe, The One Who Won't Eat Goat, Gap Between His Teeth, Mustache's Son, Has Peaches, Scattered Whiskers, He Slept by the Water, and Son of a Man Who Looked Like a Bunch of Rags Thrown Down.

Two Books Give Different Views Of Arms Traffic

Iron, Blood and Profits, by George Selde; Harper, New York; $2.50; and Merchants of Death, by H. C. Engelbrecht and F. C. Hanighen; Dodd, Mead, New York.

Like mushrooms popping up during a rain, these books rose out of the recent, startlingly enthusiastic interest in and antagonism towards the international arms trust.

After working behind scenes for decades without much interference, munitions makers and their supporters have suddenly been thrown into the probably unpleasant public spotlight.

Best Sellers Beverly Nichols, with his "Cry Havoc," started the popular wave. Magazine articles added material for the growing indignation. And these two books appeared in time to ride into the best seller lists.

"Iron, Blood and Profits," although the most damning of the two volumes, has been second in sales. Selde has made a careful, thorough survey of the "world-wide munitions racket," and his book leaves the reader surfeited with evidence.

Too Good But Selde did too good a job for the popular market. The pages of "Iron, Blood and Profits" bristle with statistics, quotations from government records, and names. He makes few comments and offers no immediate solution for the cure of war except to "smash the arms manufacturers."

With its elaborate appendix and evident authority, the volume is more fitted for textbook use than for "just reading." The two authors of "Merchants of Death" approach the munitions traffic in a more readable way. With more logical order they trace this menace (or blessing, if you please) from the Middle Ages to the present time. American arms makers receive more attention from them.

Historical View Although "Merchants of Death" tells little or nothing of the munitions lobby in Washington, of the gun smuggling activities of European dictators, or the newspapers and patriotic societies backed by arms makers, it does present a more understandable historical picture of the various munitions companies.

Engelbrecht and Hanighen also suggest, after discussing other ideas, a method for the erasure of munitions makers and their wars—disarmament.

Those who wish to get a true picture of the arms situation should read both books. Where one misfires, the other lays down a barrage of verbal bullets. And, together, they are conclusive.

"Honor Thy Father and Thy Mother"

Years Are So Long, by Josephine Lawrence, Frederick A. Stokes Co., New York; $2.50.

Around the theme, "Honor thy father and thy mother," the author has written a story poignant in its appeal, touching the life of every man or woman.

High or low—rich or poor—everyone must some day face the questions: "What do I owe my parents?" and "What do they owe me?"

The interdependence of generations is ever present in this story. Barkley Cooper had been a book-keeper earning a comfortable salary and saving none of it. The cost of rearing and educating his five children, of maintaining a large house, and of providing his wife with a few luxuries had absorbed his income from payday to payday.

At 73, he finds himself without work and a home, so calls together four of his children (the fifth is in California and didn't choose to answer his letters) and puts the problem of future support before them. He discovers that the world has changed a great deal since his youth and his assumption that the children would welcome him and their white-haired mother as permanent guests is false.

After a frantic passing of heated arguments, the children—all of whom are married and have plenty of troubles of their own—agree that they cannot afford to maintain a separate residence for their parents. Neither, since for the most part they live in smallish apartments, can any of them offer a home to both parents.

Sorrowfully, the parents separate. Alone in the household of their children, allowed to feel useless because there is no longer any need for them in this world, facing endless and tragically empty days, each of them faces an adjustment beyond his falling capacity. In their own ways, of course, the children are to be pitied.

With varying degrees of patience, they endure the interference in their daily lives and the extra financial burden to which they are not really equal and which they feel to be fundamentally unjust.

All of these things are true, at least, for some people, in some places, but the characters seem of a composite character rather than as individuals. The story is made somewhat dreary by the fact that each of the children falls to find pleasure in association not only with old people, but also in every other association—their own homes, families, jobs, or anything else.

However, the problem of the separate households is ably and beautifully presented. One may at times feel deeply the indignities that fate and the family lay on the aging couple; and at other times squirm with sympathy for the younger ones. Simple and concrete terms are used to portray these questions which are nearly universal in application.

This book is not too sentimental in nature; almost tragic and dignified. It will make you laugh and cry while it makes you pause and face these great human questions.

Cuban Auto Buyers Hope For Tax Cut

HAVANA (AP)—Prospective automobile buyers in Cuba are watching current negotiations for a new Cuban-American trade treaty, hopeful that relief from heavy taxation will come to them.

Long burdened by high taxes, Cubans, as well as foreigners living in Cuba, believe something ought to be done about the high purchase price of automobiles as well as the costs of operation.

Here is what the motorist pays in the way of taxes when he buys a new automobile in Cuba.

- Customs duty—24 per cent of the automobile's value.
- Surcharge on customs duty—10 per cent.
- Consular invoice fee—5 per cent of the car's value.
- Twenty dollars per car for the tuberculosis fund.
- Seventy cents per metric ton for port improvements.
- One and a half per cent sales tax.

"ASSISTANT PRESIDENT" RESTS

Donald R. Rieberg, former NRA counsel, who has been styled as "assistant president" in his post as chairman of the new industrial emergency committee, appointed by President Roosevelt to preside over industrial matters during his vacation tour to the Hawaiian islands, is pictured with his wife and their daughter, Eloise, on the boardwalk at Atlantic City, N. J., while enjoying a short vacation from his duties in Washington.

Two and a half per cent on monthly payments if the automobile is purchased on the instalment plan.

Until a few weeks ago there was a 5 per cent luxury tax levied on all automobiles valued at more than $1,500.

But the motorist's troubles do not end with the purchase of the car. To operate it he must pay for his license plates, recently reduced 60 per cent to bring them to the approximate level of the average cost in the United States.

He also must pay for a driver's license.

He pays 13 cents government tax on every gallon of gasoline he buys plus a few cents duty and the 1-1-2 cent sales tax.

In spite of the heavy taxes, automobile sales in Cuba are on the up-grade.

In the entire year of 1933 only 440 new passenger cars and 463 new trucks were sold in Cuba. In the first five months of 1934 the figures were: 578 new passenger cars and 397 new trucks.

The peak year was 1929 when 5,688 new passenger cars and 2,549 new trucks were sold.

ABOUT SPORTS

Game Today . . . Wealth Of Material . . . Why Records Fall . . . Tours by Athletes . . . Jack Medica as U. S. Hope.

BY JACK GURWELL

WELL, today is the big day as far as most baseball fans are concerned. The National-American All-Stars do battle this afternoon at the Polo grounds—20 players to a squad—with about 45,000 fans slated to be on hand for the encounter. And what should interest Mr. Fan is that the players will be as chosen in the nation wide poll. In announcing the probable starting lineups, managers Joe Cronin and Bill Terry named the people's choices.

NEVER before has there been such a wealth of talent competing on athletic fields of this country in sports which figure in the Olympic games. Track and field, which seems to draw the most interest at these world classics held every four years, is loaded with super-stars that scintillate so brightly that one wonders if human endurance will ever cease and records ever fall. Will there ever come the time when a person is unable to defeat the champion?

AS FAR as we can see there always comes along the gent that is better than the winner, and the winner's best mark. Remember way back when Jole Ray was the world's best middle-distance runner and he could run the mile around 4:12? Fans would shake their heads if the question was raised as to running the mile in better time. Nurmi came along and lowered the mark two seconds. Since then the mark has gone steadily down until they speak of a four minute mile.

EVERY RECORD is bound to fall some day. That is the consensus after the witnessing of recent wholesale slaughtering of marks in track and field, golf, swimming, and other sports. What produces the phenomenal efforts is one thing that takes in a lot of territory—training. Take the proper attitude—physical and mental—and the will to do your damndest and something is bound to happen. And this can only happen by keeping the rules of training.

ONE OF the methods employed by the United States and other nations to keep their athletes in condition and in preparation for the Olympic games is to sponsor touring track and field teams—this keeping at high pitch the interest in sports and the games—that travel over Europe competing with various city and athletic club teams. Such a tour was that led by Coach George T. Bresnahan last summer. Such athletes as Glenn Cunningham, Ralph Metcalfe and others.

IN THE swimming world the outstanding nator in the world is carrying the colors of the United States. He is Jack Medica of the Washington A. C. of Seattle. Last week end in the National A.A.U. championships in Chicago he cracked the mile record and won the 440 yard free style with astonishing ease in near record time. He should be ready to carry this country's colors against what will undoubtedly be the country to beat, Japan, in 1936.

Odd Fellows Take 12 to 1 Baseball Win

By JACK MAHR

The Iowa City Odd Fellows baseball team yesterday trimmed the Solon Pirates 12-1 in a non-interesting ball game. T. Stahle, the starting pitcher for Solon, was knocked out of the box in the very first, he gave six runs on five hits. John Shannon and "Kooch" Smith pitched for the locals. Shannon allowed six blows and Smith four. Solon used three pitchers, T. Stahle, Unash and Pauba.

The locals scored six runs in the first inning when Dohrer scored on K. Blackman's single, then McQueen drove Ed Sulek and K. Blackman in with a single. Ebert and McQueen scored on W. Drizhal's hit and J. Whiting doubled scoring W. Drizhal.

The Old Fellows scored also in the third when two runs crossed the plate. The locals finished their scoring in the sixth when they scored four times. Ed Sulek drove in Smith with a single, then Unash walked H. Drizhal and it forced in Dohrer. McQueen singled scoring Ed Sulek and H. Drizhal.

Solon scored their only run in the seventh inning when Mattas came home on an error by McQueen.

IT'S "PLAY BALL" FOR ALL-STARS

Forget for Day Bitter League Strife to Present to Public Its Heroes; A Day for the Faithful

"We're Full of Hope," Says National Head; "With That Array of Hitters," Says "A's" President, "I Don't See—"

NEW YORK, July 9 (AP)—Major league baseball tomorrow forgets for a day the bitter strife of the middle stages of two heated pennant drives and gives up to the public its heroes for the all-star duel of the American and National league teams in the Polo grounds.

Wednesday it will be business as usual in the two major circuits, with the New York Giants fighting to stave off the surge of the Cubs in the National league while the Yankees pick up again the job of fending off the Detroit Tigers in an effort to make the metropolitan world safe for the first five cent world series since 1923.

But tomorrow is strictly the day of the faithful from one end of the land to the other as 52,000, all the National league grounds will hold, pack into the stands, while the rest of the 200,000 who voted the make-up of the two teams in a nationwide pole, along with hundreds of thousands more who didn't, listen in by radio to the resumption of hostilities begun with a 4 to 2 American league victory in Chicago last summer.

Terry-Cronin There was growing sentiment tonight that this might be the day of the National league, the team Bill Terry, manager of the world champion Giants, will lead from the first base against the blasting array Joe Cronin, leader of the Senators, directs from shortstop.

The last time these two tangled Terry had all the advantage as the Giants plowed Washington under in brisk and decisive fashion in the world series last fall. His great left handed screwball ace, Carl Hubbell, was of great comfort to him then, and again tomorrow it will be Hubbell for the National league stars in a southpaw duel at the start against Lefty Vernon Gomez, a pitching battle the baseball world has been looking forward to and arguing about for months.

Though the odds in Jack Doyle's book were 4 to 5 against either and take your choice, there is no questioning the fact that the entire spirit and morale of the National league has been strengthened with the rise of "Lucky" Terry and his Giants.

The American league rosters scoff at this. They figure, and probably with deep wisdom, that a fellow will need more than luck tomorrow throwing them down the alley to the helting array backing the American league hurler.

Left Handed Swingers Four left handed swingers head the list—Gehring of the Tigers, Manush of the Senators, Ruth and Gehrig of the Yankees—and of these the only man hitting under .350 is the immortal Babe. But he isn't doing so well last year, either, yet his home run clinched the all star game for the junior circuit in Chicago.

Backing these are three right hand hitters—Higgins of the Athletics, Simmons of the White Sox, and Cronin himself—and again the only man under .330 is the manager of the team. Bill Dickey, Yankee catcher, wings around .320 from the portside and precedes the All-American out, Gomez, in the starting lineup.

While Cronin's starting choices are definitely set, with Mel Harder of the Indians, Red Ruffing of the Yanks, Tommy Bridges of the Tigers, following Gomez on the mound in that order, there is still some uncertainty as to the National league lineup.

Hard to Convince Terry seems hard to convince that Gomez will start, but if he does—and Cronin insists he will—right

Joe Laws Leads Selections For Quarterbacks; Schammel Close 2nd for Guard Position

CHICAGO, July 9 (AP)—Early returns from the voting to select a team of 1933 college senior gridiron stars to oppose the Chicago Bears, national professional champions at Soldier field Aug. 31, indicate a preference for middle westerners.

Taking the top four men for each position except fullback, in which there were only three nominees, 19 were from the midwest, three each from the east and far west and two from the south.

Aaron Rosenberg, Southern California guard, and Beattie Feathers, Tennessee halfback, were tied for top honors with 664 votes each. The first tabulations gives the following result:

Vines May Give Exhibition At 'Sippi Valley Tennis Tourney

WSUI Will Broadcast Meet Finals For First Time

Two developments in plans for the University of Iowa's Mississippi Valley tennis tournament, to be played on the Hawkeye courts July 25, 26, 27, and 28, are sure to bring pleasure to fans and participants alike. One calls for the broadcasting of final matches by station WSUI and the other is the possibility of Ellsworth Vines, one of America's tennis greats, being here during the meet to give an exhibition match.

Broadcast Broadcast plans call for a stroke-by-stroke description of finals of the four divisions of play and will be the first of its kind from the university station as well as one of the first meet broadcasts ever staged in the middle-west. The four divisions include the men's and women's singles matches and men's and mixed doubles.

E. G. (Dad) Schroeder, director of the tournament, said that Vines' presence here depended upon whether or not he would be in Chicago the week of the tournament. Vines is in the employ of the Dunlop Rubber company and is making appearances in different parts of the country. He could easily make the trip from Chicago to Iowa City.

Trophies Here Seating arrangements call for bleachers seating 2,000 spectators. No admission price will be charged. As last year, matches will be played on the reserve library courts.

Trophies for winners in each of the four divisions have arrived and are on display at the Hausser jewelry store, near city hall. A traveling championship trophy in each event, to become the permanent possession of a titleholder winning a title of the championships three times, is offered by the board in control of athletics.

A's Trip Manchester 11 to 3 in Exhibition

MANCHESTER, N. H., July 9 (AP)—The Philadelphia Athletics had little trouble defeating the Manchester Northeastern league team 11 to 3 today. Bob Johnson and Eddie Rommel hit homers for the major leaguers while Dubeinstein, first baseman, performed the same feat for Manchester.

Score by innings: R. H. E. Philadelphia . . . 001 051 310—11 16 1 Manchester . . . 002 000 001—3 4 2 Batteries—Mahaffey and Hayes; McLaughlin, Gauch and Hedderick.

Last Night's Results Boone Coal Co. 2; Swaner's 1. Kelly Bros. 19; Brady's Grocery 0. Games Wednesday Fry Bros. vs. Iowa Supply. A and P Stores vs. Falstaff Beer.

By JACK GURWELL It took a rousing last inning rally for Boone Coal Co. to down Swaner's 2 to 1 last night at City park, but the Kelly Bros. diamondballers put on a record scoring show for four and one half innings to wallop Brady's grocery boys by a hair raising 19 to 0 tally.

Last night's diamondball attraction was staged before the largest crowd, just about, that ever turned out, but the fact that fireworks were scheduled to be on display directly following the contests probably helped the gate a little.

Coalers Hot However, fans and fireworks spectators got their time's worth—about all they spend is the time—when Swaner's fell to the fast stepping Boone Coalers. They were hot as their coal is advertised.

For five innings the two outfits fought tooth and nail with no scores resulting but lots of rallies and action of the kind that makes the people in the bleachers jump and shout.

Up to the sixth, when one run was scored by each team, Leo Torrance, Boone hurler, gave the diamondballers a 1-0 lead. In the fourth inning, in the whole seven innings he allowed only four safe binges, the one in the sixth that was instrumental in garnering the loser's lone tally, and two in the seventh.

B. White, losing pitcher, gave up one hit in the first four frames, two costly bingles in the sixth, and one in the last of the seventh, a double, that cost him a triumph. Three errors resulted from the fray, one by Boone and two by Swaner's. Torrance fanned three batters and B. White whiffed one.

Score First Swaner's scored first in the sixth when B. White walked, and came home on brother S. White's single after two mats had grounded out. Two successive hits in the seventh after two down went for nothing as Turcek fanned.

The Boone coalers came back in their half when McQueen singled with one down and was sent home on Purvis' double. The rally ended here, but in the seventh Sproutt, first batter to the plate, singled and came home on Dohrer's high pop after two batters were down which the Swaner's left fielder lost in the moon.

Kelly Bros., alias the Dixie Ramblers, performed right mightily over Brady's Grocery outfit, hitting freely and fattening the batting average no end. For four and one half innings the one sided contest raged, the game being forced to conclusion when the fireworks were sent off and all the kids swarmed over the field, making play impossible.

Hits for All All in all, the Kelly boys collected 16 hits in the abbreviated chase around, this including six doubles. Everybody scored once or more except Wallen, who grounded out once and was automatically out for lead.

Score by innings: R. H. E. Pittsburgh (NL) 000 002 000—3 10 2 Flint . . . 000 200 000—2 5 4 Batteries: Smith, Harris and Voltman; Smetzer, Myers, Hughes and Haerter, Trefz.

CHAMPAIGN, Ill., July 9 (AP)—The announcement of the 1934-35 basketball schedule for the University of Illinois tonight, failed to include the University of Iowa or any other Iowa institution although the Illini will meet Notre Dame for the first time in several seasons.

The schedule includes 18 games of which seven will be played on the home court.

Iowa City trapshooters will compete in the National Elks trapshoot at Kansas City in defense of their national title won last year.

Fred Radloff, 190 Pounds of Hawk Tackle, Works Many Jobs to Get Through School

By JACK GURWELL (Daily Iowan Sports Editor)

This is the first of a series of short articles which will appear in The Daily Iowan concerning University of Iowa athletes who will help carry Hawkeye football hopes through the 1934 Big Ten gridiron season.

They come and go, these athletes, playing their hearts out for Iowa in their three years of competition. But they like it—no they wouldn't be here. They like Iowa, they like Ossie Solem, and they like the two hours spent daily during the fall months on Iowa field in training for the Saturday afternoons when the Hawks take on gridiron foes in the annual Western conference race for under the Old Gold banner.

That is what Fred Radloff believes, as do the rest of Iowa athletes—and Fred and the rest have played lots of good, hard football under the Old Gold banner.

For two years Radloff has been a member of University of Iowa football squads, playing regularly last fall at right tackle. He has won two major "I's" and has one year of competition remaining.

The big fellow hails from Marshalltown where he played football—his only high school sport—for four years, winning three letters. He won all-conference honors in the Central Iowa circuit as right tackle in his senior year. Although Radloff's playing weight is now around 190 pounds, he competed in high school at 155 pounds and entered the university weighing 165, pretty light for a Big Ten tackle.

Radloff won his freshman numeral under Burt Ingwerson, Hawkeye football coach preceding Ossie Solem, and would have had his first year of competition under the fiery mentor but for an unfortunate injury to his knee before the season hardly had started.

Fast, Aggressive The Marshalltown senior, undaunted, rested his knee for a year, was out of school for a year, and came back in 1932 pounds heavier to report to Coach Solem, then in his first year as Iowa football coach. Radloff proved a fast, rangy, aggressive player, not afraid to charge low and hit hard. He won his major "I" in 1932 as a regular tackle and end, and came back last fall to prove a fighting mainstay at right tackle on the Hawkeye football team that started collegiate circles by smiting Northwestern 7 to 0 in the famous opening game of the season on Soldiers' Field, Chicago, and then going on to win two more while dropping the same number of games to Big Ten foes.

Radloff is one of the many Iowa athletes working their way through school and turning in a fine job of playing football. Besides engaging in many activities on the campus, Fred is a many job man this summer, making expenses and keeping in training for the gridiron season this fall.

Evenings Busy When you readers go out to City park to dance and are met at the gate by a tall, smiling, sunbrowned fellow who takes your money and hands out an evening's entertainment with the same grace and ease you are meeting Fred Radloff. This is one of his ways of paying his way through school. His evenings are busy from 9 to 12 o'clock on Wednesday, Friday, and Saturday evenings at City park dance pavilion.

But this isn't the limit of his activities about town. It's not early in the morning when he is off to work in the third frame.

That fateful third, in which everybody hit and in which 15 runs were chased across the plate, saw the Kelly boys bat around almost two times. Three more runs were scored in the first of the fourth by the winners.

Dean Shannon allowed not a hit. No errors were made by his henchmen—this can't be said for the grocerymen—and only three men faced him in each of the loser's three innings.

Eight Seniors Among "I" Men On Hawkeye 1934 Grid Squad; Four Vets in Line, Backfield

Fortified by two years of experience, eight seniors will be among the 15 major "I" men who are expected to lead the Hawkeyes in their first team members in 1932.

The veterans are evenly divided between backfield and line, and four of them were regular first stringers last year, while three others were first team members in 1932.

Jerry Foster of Cedar Rapids and Fred Radloff of Marshalltown are the senior tackles who were regulars in 1933, while Bernard Page, the 155-pounder from Newton was

They think football is the games. What they like best is the games. They think football is the games. That is what Fred Radloff believes, as do the rest of Iowa athletes—and Fred and the rest have played lots of good, hard football under the Old Gold banner.

Connie Mack Visits Scenes Of Boyhood, Celebrates 51st Anniversary of His Career

Brookfield Prepares Hearty Welcome For Veteran

NORT BROOKFIELD, Mass., July 9 (AP)—While the baseball spotlights shine on the all-star game in New York tomorrow one of the game's noblest patriarchs, Connie Mack, will be here in this little town, revisiting the scenes of his boyhood as he celebrates the fifty-first anniversary of the start of his career.

Early tomorrow Mack and his Philadelphia Athletics will step off the first pullmans that ever intentionally stopped here, into the arms of a reception committee headed by another world famous figure that North Brookfield learned to love long before Broadway knew him, George M. Cohan, idol of the American stage and one of baseball's most faithful followers.

Although the Brookfields, North, South, East and West, have named this long-awaited day "Connie Mack day," it will really be dedicated to the memory of another old-time ball player, Marty Bergin, a boyhood friend of the lean and aged Philadelphia manager, who has been dead these 34 years.

"I was born in East Brookfield," Mack explained today, "but the game was played in North Brookfield because that was Martin Bergin's home town."

First of all, Mack, Cohan and the Athletics will visit Bergin's grave, unveil a memorial for that one-time National league catcher, who once played for Boston, and then move over to the ball park where the Mackmen will play an exhibition game with the North Brookfield Armoreds, a semi-pro team. Cohan, whose earliest summers were spent here, will be master of ceremonies.

150 Prepare For Western Golf Tourney

Jack Westland Will Seek Title Again

OKLAHOMA CITY, July 9 (AP)—Several leading contenders in three 1934 major tournaments played so far flanked by numerous sectional and state champions, wound up practice rounds today preparatory to the western amateur golf championship which gets under way tomorrow with the first half of a 36-hole qualifying test.

The field passed 150 and was expected to exceed 200 with the addition of related tee entries. Included were defending champion Jack Westland, member of the U. S. Walker cup team, and two former champions, Johnny Lehman and the veteran Charles (Chick) Evans, all of Chicago.

Keefe Carter, another former western champion on whose home course, Twin Hills, the tournament will be played, was prevented by illness from entering, and Johnny Dawson, who has been touring the course near par in practice, likewise had not filed an entry.

Charley Yates of Atlanta, national collegiate titleholder, and the man he beat out of the championship, Ed White of Texas, both were in, along with Walter Emery of Oklahoma, 1933 collegiate champion.

Leland Hamman, a lightweight from Waco, Tex., who conquered Johnny Goodman to win the trans-Mississippi crown at Dallas recently, was entered, but Goodman was not. David Goldman of Dallas, trans-Mississippi medalist, telegraphed officials today he would play the first 18 holes of his qualifying round late tomorrow. The second 18 is scheduled for Wednesday, two 36-hole matches for Thursday and 36-hole competition through the finals billed for Sunday.

Pace-Setting Tigers Look Well in Tilt At Traverse City

MA CINDERELLA

by Harold Bell Wright

Years ago, Ann Haskel, dominant Ozark farmer, sent her fatherless son, John Herbert, away in the care of Judge Shannon, so that the boy could be educated properly. No one knew the heartaches this sacrifice caused Ann. In John Herbert's place, Ann raised a neurotic well-steps, Jeff Todd. Ann, Jeff, and Nance Jordan, Ann's housekeeper, live together on the farm. Following graduation from college, John Herbert returns home and is stunned to find his mother a crude mountain woman but he overlooks this in gratitude for all she did for him. Ann, on the other hand, is disappointed that her son is anxious to write, instead of practice law. John Herbert tries to explain to his mother that it is just as necessary to feed the spiritual appetite as the physical.

CHAPTER XXI. "But, Diane, the whole thing is so hopeless. It may take years for me to win a place as a writer."

"Of course it will be hard going for a while," she admitted. "Every writer has had to undergo a period of starvation. It seems to be the price writers must pay. But you'll manage somehow."

"What does she think you ought to do?" With bitter humor the last of the Haskels told her about his talk with his mother.

"Why did she ever send me away?" he concluded, hopelessly. "If she wanted me to be like these people, why didn't she keep me here in the woods and bring me up as she brought up Jeff Todd? Why did Judge Shannon let her do it? Why did she deceive me about—about things? Why did the Judge misrepresent mother to me? Couldn't they see what was bound to happen when I found out how things really were?"

Yan Mungo probably will follow Hubbell after three innings. The master minds of baseball moved into town with the athletes today and all were full of prognostications of one kind or another. Tom Yawkey, owner of the Red Sox, not only brought his entire team as spectators, but his office staff as well. "With that array of hitters," said William Harbridge, president of the American league, "I don't see how we can lose."

St. Joseph Keeps Even With Demons

By 9 to 5 Victory

OMAHA, July 9 (AP)—Guy Cantrell, former Texas league pitcher, paced St. Joseph to a 9 to 5 victory over Omaha tonight to keep the Saints in a tie with Des Moines for the first half Western league race which ends tomorrow night.

"I'd better wait a few days until I cool off a bit." She drew closer to him. "I'm so sorry about that, John Herbert. If only there was something I could do."

"There's nothing that anyone can do, Diane. On the whole it probably is fortunate that it happened."

"You see, Diane, it brought me to my senses. It was rather a jolt, I admit, but I needed it."

"Yes. When a fellow desires the moon it's a good thing if he can be made to realize how impossible his wish is before he lets himself go too far trying to reach it."

She turned her eyes away from something she saw in his face. "I don't think I understand," she faltered.

league head, cautiously. "We're full of hope." "I guess I'm the only one of 150,000,000 fans who doesn't—and can't—have a favorite," said baseball's high commissioner, Kenesaw M. Landis.

Explanation Of "Strange As It Seems"

Like any war or rebellion, the underlying causes of the Indian Mutiny against the British in 1857 were many and varied—but the spark that set off the conflagration was a dispute over what kind of grease was used on rifle cartridges furnished to native soldiers for their Enfield rifles.

Some say the grease was lard, others believe it was tallow, but, whatever it was, a low-caste civilian employe in the arsenal at Dumdum started the trouble by telling a high-class Bengal trooper that the grease was "unclean." The story spread from barracks to barracks. Officers in charge ordered the use of butter henceforth for cartridge grease—but the damage was done, and virtually all of the Bengal native army revolted.

15,000 See Postponed Fireworks

More than 15,000 spectators jammed into city park last night to view the fireworks display which concluded the Junior Chamber of Commerce Fourth of July celebration.

Streets leading to the park were filled with cars half an hour before the spectacle was scheduled to begin.

The display, one of the largest ever attempted in a local celebration, was put on by Thearle-Duffield company of Chicago, Ill.

In addition to the fireworks, two diamondball games were played and a dance was held in the park pavilion before and after the display.

Funeral Service For Mrs. Emma O. Moon Held Here

Funeral service for Mrs. Emma L. Moon, who died Saturday at her home in Cedar Rapids, was held Monday afternoon at the Hohen-schuh mortuary. Burial was in Oakland cemetery.

She was born in Iowa City, Feb. 8, 1850, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Johnathon W. Nixon. In 1884 she married Dr. A. C. Moon who for many years was a practicing physician in Williamsburg. In 1924 they moved to Cedar Rapids where Dr. Moon died two years ago.

Mrs. Moon was one of the charter members of chapter E of P.E.O. in Iowa City, having joined more than 50 years ago. She was affiliated with Eastern Star in Williamsburg.

She is survived by two children, Harriet Moon and Dr. B. J. Moon of Cedar Rapids.

Second Corn-Hog Payments Expected Here During Week

Second payments to Johnson county members of the corn-hog association are expected from Washington some time this week, County Agent S. Lysle Duncan said yesterday. Checks amounting to $209,518.35 will be distributed, bringing the total payments to slightly less than $425,000 within a period of a month.

According to figures released by the state corn-hog board of review, total hog payments during the year will be $668,210 as compared with corn payments of $288,881 for Johnson county. The average payment to contract signers is $537.50.

Checks will be sent to John O'Connor of Lone Tree who is treasurer of the Johnson county corn-hog association. Payments will be made in the Farm Bureau office on the second floor of the post office building, Mr. Duncan, secretary of the association, stated.

Zeithamel Named President of Local Coal Dealers Group

George P. Zeithamel of the City Fuel company was elected president of the Iowa City Coal Dealers association to succeed Harold J. Dane at a meeting in the American Legion Community building last night. Ray W. Yoder was chosen secretary-treasurer.

Mr. Dane, who was elected vice president of the National Coal Dealers association at the annual convention in Washington, D. C., recently, spoke briefly at the meeting about the national convention.

Plans for a picnic for members of the local organization are still incomplete, it was announced.

Jewish Group To Honor Dead Poet

To commemorate the poetic work of Chaim Nachman Bialek, who died recently in Vienna, the Jewish Literary club will meet tomorrow at 8:30 p.m. at the synagogue.

Joseph Braverman, president of the club will open the meeting and introduce the speakers of the evening, Prof. Moses M. Jung of the school of religion, Dr. William Malamud, Bernard Karpinos, Betty Braverman and S. Markovitz.

Chaim Nachman Bialek was in Vienna for an operation when he died very suddenly. He is considered by critics the greatest Hebrew poet during the last 500 years.

Counties Added To Iowa City District

In a reorganization of the National Reemployment service in Iowa two new counties have been added to the Iowa City district, Nisle N. Jones, manager of the local office said yesterday. Keokuk and Washington are the two new counties in this district.

A. J. Cook is manager of the Keokuk office and W. S. Glassburner is in charge of the office in Washington county.

The Iowa City district, of which J. L. Eastridge is manager, also includes Johnson, Cedar, Iowa, Jones and Benton counties.

Feeling Happy? You Won't In About Six Weeks, Scientific Study Shows

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the first of a series of articles on researches in science throughout the world, which will appear daily in The Daily Iowan.

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE (Associated Press Science Editor)
PHILADELPHIA (AP)—An emotional period about once each six weeks in which the male of the human species is prone to accidents is reported from the University of Pennsylvania industrial research department.

The period lasts from two or three days to a week. It is a time when a man feels "low," worried, apprehensive or slightly blue. It is a danger signal largely overlooked.

These studies are reported by Rex B. Hersey, assistant professor of industry and research associate. They were made upon several hundred male workers in the United States and Germany.

Emotional Tone Varies
In more than 400 minor accidents, more than half occurred while workers were in this "low" emotional state. This is very "diagnostic," Professor Hersey observes, because the total group of workers was emotionally low only 20 per cent of the time.

"Every male worker whom I have studied both in this country and abroad," the report states, "showed the astounding fact that emotional tone varies not only from time to time during the day, but also, for no accountable reason, seems to exhibit longer recurrent fluctuations in emotional states apparently characteristic of the individual."

"These recurrent emotional fluctuations in the workers studied in America averaged about five or six weeks in length, the time span for two men being only three weeks and for another nine weeks.

German Span Shorter
"In Germany the average span was at least a week shorter. Some of the workers in Germany had a span as short as 14 to 16 days."

"Once the average time of span was discovered it was observed that the fluctuations of each period around that norm was no more than a week—that is not more than a week longer or shorter. The span of younger workers was shorter than of older married workers, though this was not as true in Germany as in the United States."

In the reaction from these "lows" when spirits rose too high there was also danger. Under too great elation, workers grew careless and had accidents. The report estimates about 25 per cent of accidents occurring in such "highs."

Happy Worker Safe
Lack of sleep, Professor Hersey reported, as far as he had been able to observe, "shows rather little effect upon efficiency."

But it did lead to dangers of accident, for moments of dozing which did not interfere with efficiency, were danger spots for accidents.

"The happy worker," he finds, "is other things being equal, the safe worker. At present I wish to stress only three important items in achieving emotional balance. A man must have one or more goals toward which he is striving. He must feel he is making progress or that his marking time is temporary. He should also feel he is doing something worth while for someone in whose eyes he wishes to stand well."

County Will Continue In Drought Area

Because of the continued dry weather, Johnson county will be retained in the drought area established by the railroads until Aug. 4, County Agent S. Lysle Duncan, said yesterday.

The county was to have been withdrawn from the area last Thursday had weather conditions permitted.

Continuance of the county in the area has been approved by agricultural adjustment administration and by the interstate commerce commission.

Under rates provided by the railroads in the drought district, livestock may be sent to new feeding areas at 85 per cent of the usual freight charge and with the privilege of return shipment later at 15 per cent of the regular rate.

Grain and livestock feeds may be shipped into the drought area at two-thirds of the regular rate and hay can be sent at one-half the ordinary charge.

Upon presenting a special certificate signed by County Agent S. Lysle Duncan, the importer can claim the reduction of the freight charge. The certificates can be secured in the farm bureau office in the second floor of the post office building.

Professor "Fired"

Here is Dr. Ralph E. Turner, liberal and backer of social legislation, who has been dropped from his post as associate professor of history at the University of Pittsburgh. Dr. Turner, who was named the most popular instructor on the campus by the seniors two years ago, blamed his dismissal on "businessmen trustees."

CCC Will Enlist 27 New Recruits in Johnson County

Twenty-seven Johnson county men will be enlisted in the CCC this week as part of a state-wide expansion program, Dr. W. L. Bywater, county relief administrator, said last night. The major expansion plans were announced by Prof. G. B. MacDonald, Iowa CCC director, at Ames yesterday.

Approximately 45 men will be added to each of the 22 existing camps and 12 new camps will be established in the state, according to Professor MacDonald.

9,000 Enrolled
The additional enlistment, which will place about 250 men in each camp, will put Iowa CCC enrollment at a peak of nearly 9,000 men.

The 12 new camps being established as part of the national drought relief program are being organized as fast as the men are enlisted, said Professor MacDonald. He indicated work would be under way in most of the new camps by July 15.

The new camps will be composed of five park camps, five forestry camps and two special erosion control camps in southern Iowa.

Park Camps
Park camps are to be located at Hampton in the Bead's Lake state park, in the Fallsades state park at Cedar Rapids, the Dooliver Memorial park at Ft. Dodge, and at Lake Manawa at Council Bluffs. It is still uncertain whether the new camp at Maquoketa will be a park or forestry camp. Professor MacDonald explained. It was approved as a site for either.

Winterset, Atlantic, Moorhead, Maquoketa and Camp Dodge also have been approved as sites for forestry camps. Barracks erected at these sites last winter will be used for the new workers.

Work to Continue
Approval of definite sites for the two soil erosion camps has not been received but both camps undoubtedly will be located on the Iowa side of the Bethany, Mo., erosion control project, said V. S. Peterson, Iowa director of CCC erosion work.

Work in all of the camps will continue along the same lines as in the

R. G. Popham To Manage Farm Debts

According to an announcement by Federal Judge Charles A. Dewey in Des Moines yesterday morning, R. G. Popham, Iowa City attorney, has been named conciliation commissioner of Johnson county. By the appointment he will have charge of the local administration of the Frazier-Lemke farm debt bill.

Mr. Popham, a former district court judge in the eighth judicial district, is a member of the law firm of Popham and Hayek.

Appointment was made by Judge Dewey, who selected county conciliation commissioners for 48 counties in southern Iowa.

Keokuk, Washington, Jefferson, Henry, Van Buren counties and Johnson county are a part of the Washington division. Other divisions in southern Iowa are Davenport, Burlington, Ottumwa, Chariton, Des Moines and Council Bluffs.

Salvation Army Plans to Conduct Annual Canvass

The annual canvass of Iowa City by the Salvation Army will be conducted this week, Envoy W. L. Lowe of Des Moines, announced yesterday.

In order that contributors may know that their gifts are being properly handled, the army indicated, a receipt will be issued to each person who gives during the campaign. Accounting of funds will be made by E. B. Raymond of the First Capital National bank.

As general conditions are very severe at this time, Envoy Lowe said, and because no other campaign will be made this year, the army is hoping for a good response. All money collected will be used in the Iowa division, he said.

Prepare For Shortage Of Water Supply

COUNCIL BLUFFS, July 9 (AP)—Several dozen tank cars were lined up tonight on the Burlington railroad siding here, and city officials awaited word to dispatch water trains to Creston to meet an emergency.

Forty-two tank cars will be used in transporting approximately 500,000 gallons of water a day to Creston. Two trains will be run daily, each of the cars carrying about 12,000 gallons of water. The shipments are expected to continue until the shortage crisis at Creston is passed.

A crew of workmen installed 12 inch mains to the Burlington right of way yesterday, and eight three inch cranes were installed along the tank cars. Flood lights also have been installed for use when night filling of tanks is necessary. Tests have shown it takes 11 minutes to fill one of the cars.

New Fee Attached To Money Orders

Money orders cashed in post offices other than the one upon which they are drawn will be subject to an additional fee equal to the original cost, after Aug. 1, according to Postmaster C. A. Bowman.

Formerly a postal money order could be cashed in any post office. Mr. Bowman explained, but the practice is very expensive to the postal department. The new ruling is made to discourage patrons from cashing their money orders in other offices than the one on which the order is drawn.

Dick See Says: "Home Cookin' Is Good, But—"

Howdy, folks. Of course with an old codger like me it took years of ejaciation to get me to eat things from the bakery. I was sure there was no bread, rolls or doughnuts that could compare with the kind mother used to make. For years, my wife's been sweatin' and workin' to make little batches of bread and doughnuts for us.

She's been atellin' me that it was more expensive to do home bakin' and about six months ago she just declared a strike. (She was ahead of the rest of the world). Since then I've been introduced to all kinds of rolls, cookies, doughnuts and even pies from our local bakeries. At first I pertended I didn't like 'em and grumbled when they was set out. But here lately I've had to give in—all of them edibles was so darn tasty. So now I get just as much fun out of dunkin' a store-made doughnut as I did out of eatin' one Maw made. There's always a few more quarters jinglin' in my pockets at the end of the week, too. So if you folks ain't in on the grand things sold at the local bakeries better drop in today and give yourself a treat. And you keep your money at home, too.

BOARD GIVES SOLEM LAUER'S POST

President Eugene Gilmore Recommends Iowa's Head Coach as Athletic Director

Appointment Will Become Effective August 1; Action Expected by Observers Throughout State

Coach Ossie Solem was named athletic director of the University of Iowa by the state board of education today.

Begins August 1

Coach Solem will assume his new duties Aug. 1, when Professor Lauer will leave the university.

Because of the twofold nature of the athletic director's duties, it is possible that an assistant will take over part of the work.

The board approved Coach Solem's nomination for the post upon recommendation of President Gilmore. Though it was expected early last month, when Professor Lauer resigned, that the athletic board would meet to select a man to be recommended to the state board, it was understood here this morning that the athletic group had not met because of the academic nature of the position.

Instead, President Gilmore interviewed each member of the athletic board individually to obtain his views on the Solem nomination. Several board members had indicated earlier that Solem was the "choice of the board."

The new athletic director's salary was not named in the announcement by George T. Baker of Davenport, president of the board.

Came in 1932

The appointment of Solem has been expected by observers throughout the state. The Iowa coach has been favored by athletic board members and alumni because of his football record here in the last two years.

Appointed in 1932 following the resignation of Burton Ingwersen as head coach here, Solem faced the difficult task of rebuilding the Hawkeye grid squad. In two years he has succeeded in turning out a team which has regained Iowa's former position as a threat in the Western conference.

Solem was an undergraduate at the University of Minnesota, where he played on the Gopher team, and won recognition as an all-western fullback.

Signed Up at Grinnell

He started teaching in Minneapolis, but was appointed coach at East high school in Des Moines. From there he went to Luther college in Decorah, and just before the outbreak of the World war he was signed by Grinnell.

His participation in the war prevented the fulfillment of that contract. In 1921, he went to Drake university as head football and basketball coach, a position which he held for 11 years, until he was named to the Iowa staff as head football coach and assistant professor of physical education.

Set Coaching Record

Coach Solem also obtained an L.L.B. degree from Northwestern college of law in 1915. He is 44 years of age.

Solem, in his 11 years at Drake, set an all time record on the gridiron, turning out football teams which won about two-thirds of their games. His choice as head coach at the University of Iowa met with enthusiasm on the part of Iowa's fans and alumni throughout the state.

Advocate Changes In Administration Of U.S. Air Corps

(Copyright, 1934, By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, July 9 (AP)—Several major changes in administration of the army air corps are recommended in a report of the special committee investigating air corps activities which is to be made public next week.

The committee, headed by Newton D. Baker, war-time secretary of war, will meet at the army war college tomorrow to study the first draft of the report. If approved the report will be sent to the printers for publication and release, probably next Wednesday.

Rumor That Great Britain, France Agree

Think "Understanding" Reached Concerning Locarno Pact

LONDON, July 9 (AP)—A friendly "understanding" between Great Britain and France fortifying and bringing up to date provisions of the Locarno pact, was believed to have been reached between Sir John Simon, British foreign secretary and the French foreign minister, Louis Barthou.

While the actual results of the important sessions were bound up tight in official secrecy, it was understood France was warmly assured Great Britain has every intention of fulfilling all her obligations under the Locarno treaty.

Shadow Cast

At the same time a shadow was cast over Anglo-French naval conversations by Italy's refusal to modify her announced naval construction plans. It was understood that Barthou brought this strongly to the attention of British officials.

The French, it was reported, may feel unable to pursue extensively their pre-conference discussions in preparation for the 1935 naval parity until the full extent of Mussolini's plans is revealed.

"All the French want to know is whether Italy means business," said an informant. "If so, France has no alternative but to follow suit. If not, then there is a good chance for a Franco-Italian understanding."

No Political Pact

Unofficial sources interpreted reports concerning the "understanding" between France and Britain to mean technical collaboration of British armed forces is assured the French, in case Belgium ever is invaded.

All quarters were agreed, however, that Barthou had not suggested any sort of political pact and that none will be discussed.

Nations Seek Meaning of Nazi Attitude

By LOUIS P. LOCHNER Copyright, 1934.

By The Associated Press BERLIN, July 9—An apparent softening of the Nazi attitude toward Germany's neighbors and the great powers brought a siege of callers today to foreign diplomatic missions in Berlin, seeking to know the meaning behind the address of Cabinet Minister Rudolf Hess.

The official German version that this was the greatest peace speech of modern times did not seem to satisfy foreign observers, and significance was sought behind Hess' flattery of Louis Barthou, the French foreign minister, and his lavish compliments to the French nationals, especially to her war veterans.

Significance

The fact that Hess, recently mentioned as possible successor to Franz von Papen as vice chancellor, instead of Hermann Wilhelm Goering was chosen as spokesman for Nazi foreign policies also was commented upon as having possible internal political significance.

Rehearing Application Marks New Scottsboro Case Step; Negroes Get Indefinite Stay

MONTGOMERY, Ala., July 9 (AP)—A new legal step in the now nearly four year old "Scottsboro case" was taken today with the filing of an application for a rehearing before the Alabama supreme court, resulting in an indefinite stay of execution for the two Negroes under death sentence.

The rehearing application probably will not be acted upon before October as the Alabama supreme court now is in recess and to take action would necessitate calling a special session.

Supreme Court Next

In event the rehearing is denied, the court will again set a date of execution, with the next step to save the Negroes an appeal to the United States supreme court. Samuel S. Leibowitz of New York, chief of defense counsel for the nine Negro defendants, said this was a certainty if the Alabama courts should not reverse the sentences.

The Negroes now under sentence, Heywood Patterson and Clarence Norris, were convicted last December by juries that fixed their punishment at death. They were charged with attacking Mrs. Victoria Price, March 25, 1931, in mass attacks on a freight train.

When the Alabama supreme court affirmed the sentences on June 28 the date of execution was set for Aug. 31. The filing of a rehearing application, however, had the effect of staying it.

Rights Not Violated

In the opinion confirming the sentence for Norris, the court held that the constitutional rights of the defendants had not been violated through absence of Negroes from the grand and petit juries that indicted and convicted them.

An alleged violation of the fourteenth amendment probably will form the basis of the appeal to the United States supreme court. In each case several days were taken to submit evidence that Negroes had not served on juries in the state courts for many years in either Jackson county, scene of the alleged offense, or Morgan county, where they were tried.

300 Citizens Hang Negro In Louisiana

BASTROP, La., July 9 (AP)—A mob of infuriated citizens tonight lynched Andrew McLeod, 26 year old Negro farmer, who officers said confessed that he attempted to attack a 19 year old Bastrop girl Sunday morning on a highway near here.

Officers said there were about 300 persons in the mob. They assembled in this usually quiet seat of Morehouse parish and marched on the small brick jail.

Battered Down Door

With little trouble the mob battered down the jail door and took the Negro from his cell.

McLeod cried and begged the mob to let him live, officers said, but he was taken out of the jail, carried to the court house a block away, and was hanged from the branch of an oak tree on the court house lawn.

The mob dispersed and a few other citizens cut down the body.

The lynching was carried out quietly without demonstration. There was no night jaller on duty at the time of the attack on the jail, and Chief of Police B. C. Walton was reported out of town.

"Powerless"

Sheriff Fred Carpenter and his deputies said they were powerless to prevent the lynching.

Witnesses said the mob went quietly to the court house lawn with the victim in their possession. A rope was produced. One member tossed the noose over a limb of the tree while three other men held the Negro. Two others adjusted the noose about his neck and the victim was hanged. Thirty minutes later, witnesses said, McLeod was dead.

Witnesses said the mob assembled just after dark.

Five Killed, Others Injured as 20 Cars Of Train Overtaken

BULLETIN

LA VERGNE, Tenn., July 9 (AP)—One white man and four Negro itinerants were crushed to death today when a Nashville, Chattanooga and St. Louis railway freight train was derailed here and 20 cars overturned. A number of others were injured.

First reports were that eight were killed, but only five bodies had been found tonight. The white man killed was identified as James Stoddard of Indianapolis, Ind. He was reported on his way to Palm Beach, Fla.

Court Lifts Sentence On MacCracken

Case Believed Headed For Higher Court Decision

WASHINGTON, July 9 (AP)—A court's majority of opinion today wiped out—for the time being—the 10-day jail sentence imposed on William P. MacCracken, Jr., by the senate, but apparently the case was headed to the supreme court for the final word on the right of congress to punish those who defy it.

MacCracken, former assistant secretary of commerce for aeronautics, was tried by the senate and given the jail term last February after his refusal to deliver papers subpoenaed by the senate committee investigating air mail.

L. H. Brittin, former official of Northwest Airways, Inc., was also sentenced to 10 days in jail. He served without an appeal.

Two other airline officials, Harris M. Hanshue and Gilbert L. Givvin, were tried by the senate and acquitted.

The affair was a case of the inquiry which resulted in the cancellation of airmail contracts.

The majority of the District of Columbia court of appeals ruled, in effect, today that the senate had no right to punish MacCracken for "a past and completed action."

This was the contention by Frank Hogan, MacCracken's attorney, who said his client had purged himself of the charge against him by delivering the papers sought but that in any event the senate lacked power to punish him because the offense was over and done with before the legislative body brought MacCracken before it.

Officers Seek Four Bandits

Believe Gunmen Have Body of Slain Victim

FOND DU LAC, Wis., July 9 (AP)—Fleeing from here where they engaged in a shooting affray this morning, four machine gunmen and a woman companion tonight were reported headed for Milwaukee.

Police along each possible route were asked by Sheriff George Freund to watch all highways after Earl Rasch of Fond Du Lac told officers he saw the car speeding south.

Inside the car was believed to be the body of a man slain by the bandits in the fracas early today.

Rasch reported, police said, he had almost run into a battleship gray car which cut in ahead of him on main street.

Updegraff to Hold Job Of 'Assistant to the President'

Will Continue in Old Post As Executive Aide, Board Announces at Ames Meeting

Appointment Climaxes Varied Career Ranging From Term in Navy to Professor Of Law in Three Schools

Prof. Clarence M. Updegraff of the college of law was appointed assistant to the president of the University of Iowa by the state board of education this morning.

In a surprise move, the board named the Iowa professor aide to President Eugene A. Gilmore at a regular monthly meeting in Ames.

Announcement of his appointment came simultaneously with word that Coach Ossie Solem had been named athletic director of the University of Iowa. It was understood here that both appointments were recommended by President Gilmore.

Legal Counsel

Professor Updegraff will handle the legal affairs of the university, continuing in the position of legal counsel which he has held for some time. He will also represent the president in contacts with the state legislature.

He has had experience in the past at the state capitol in Des Moines. Last February he spent several days there as a representative of the university.

Professor Updegraff has had a varied career as a teacher, practicing lawyer, light heavyweight boxer in the navy, chairman of Iowa's athletic board, and city attorney.

Teaches Law

A member of the faculty of the college of law for eight years, he was selected to succeed Dean C. C. Williams as chairman of the athletic board about a year and a half ago, when the board was under fire for its action in the Break and Blackmer case.

Since that time he has risen in university circles, and has served as legal adviser for the university and for various boards and committees here.

He was born in Dallas Center June 10, 1893, of farmer parents. At the age of 16 he joined the navy, and during his four year enlistment he earned more than two years of high school credits.

In 1912 he left the navy and entered Iowa City academy, from which he was graduated in 1913.

Took Degree Here

After four years in the University of Iowa he was awarded a law degree in 1916. He was admitted to the bar and was elected city attorney of Iowa City, a post which he held for one year.

In 1917 he was named professor of law at Louisiana State university, where he served for two years. He then returned to Iowa as general counsel for Jacob E. Decker and Sons of Mason City.

After two years there he went to Washington, D. C., as assistant professor of law in George Washington university, where he was granted a B.A. degree in 1922. He then took a year's leave of absence to study at Harvard as a teaching fellow. There he received an S. J. D. degree in 1925.

Became Professor

He returned to George Washington as a full professor, and a year later, in 1926, was called to the University of Iowa.

Professor Updegraff is a member of the American Bar association, the Iowa Bar association, and the Association of American Law Schools. For four years he edited the Iowa Law Review. He is a frequent contributor to various legal publications.

Professor Updegraff will continue his usual courses in the college of law and remain as chairman of the board in control of athletics.

Prof. Herbert Martin Will Give Address

Students Seeking 174 Certificates, Degrees

Plans for the University of Iowa's first summer Convocation July 19 were announced yesterday.

Prof. Herbert Martin, head of the Philosophy department, will deliver the Convocation address, it was announced from the office of President Eugene A. Gilmore, and Prof. Fredrick G. Higbee, director of Convocations, announced that 174 degrees and certificates are being sought.

Martin to Speak

Professor Martin will give the only formal address at the meeting, which has been scheduled for 8 p.m. on the West approach to Old Capitol. His subject has not been announced.

The speaker has been associated with the University of Iowa for seven years. He was an undergraduate at Transylvania college, where he received a bachelor's degree in 1899 and the master of arts degree in 1900.

He studied at Yale university and was awarded a doctor of philosophy degree in 1905. Having come to the University of Iowa in 1927 from the staff of Drake university, he was made acting head of the philosophy department following the resignation of Prof. E. D. Starbuck. Professor Martin was named head of the department several months ago.

Usual Custom

The appointment of a Convocation speaker from among the university faculty is in line with a custom of several years standing. This exercises will be broadcast over station WISU.

As usual seekers of advanced degrees outnumber those who have applied for first degrees by about two to one. Out of the 174 applications, 112 are for advanced degrees, 55 are for first degrees of six kinds, and seven are for certificates.

The highest number of degree seekers—36—have applied for master of arts degrees, and 41 are hopeful of receiving the first degree in arts, bachelor of arts. Master of science and doctor of philosophy degrees have been applied for by 16 and 10 students, respectively.

B.S. Degrees

Bachelor of science degrees in four different classifications are being sought by 13 persons. Three have applied for graduate nurse and orthodontia certificates, one person is seeking a pharmacy degree, and one has applied for a certificate in journalism.

It is expected that there will be some shrinkage in the final number of graduates, because of failure to
