As a result of the move, every property holder in the state will pay $1.10 less per thousand dollars of taxation on his personal and real estate holdings Auditor Storms estimated.

C. J. Burns, deputy state auditor, said today that the state auditor's plan was to place in the hands of every county treasurer and auditor detailed instructions as to how the replacement would be made.

The abolition of this year's second half property levy, announced by Governor Herring in an address at Springville, Ia., Tuesday, was the second state levy reduction to be made in a week.

Last week the state board of assessment and review announced the elimination of the entire state tax levy for 1935 which amounts to $6-400,000.

Proper recording of the replacement of the official records of the county as well as corresponding adjustments of the tax lists will also be explained in the instructions,
Burns stated.

In cases where the tax for the second half of the year have already been paid, it will be the duty of the county treasurers to see that a refund is made, Burns explained.

The manner in which the treasurer will give proper credit to the tax payer receiving the refund will be carefully outlined to avoid error and make the systems uniform in the various counties, Burns said.

Both expressed keen disappointment but were quick to assert they were going up again just as soon as the motor was repaired and they were rested—probably within a day or two.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 28 (AP)—
Seeking freedom from America's "Devil Island," Alphonse Capone, once Chicago's gangster chief, today appealed to the supreme court to reverse decisions of lower courts that denied his claim of conviction after the statute of limitation had expired.

It was the second time the erstwhile "public enemy number one" had asked the supreme court to review his conviction. His prison sentences aggregate 11 years and fines totaling $50,000, together with costs of prosecution, for violation of the income tax laws.

From behind his cell bars in the federal penitentiary at Atlanta,
Ga., Capone directed his attorneys
William E. Leahy and William J. Hughes, Jr., to take the new step. But the gangster was whisked away in secrecy from Atlanta to the government's prison for bad men on Alcatraz island, in San Francisco bay, before the petition was filed here.

The document charges that Capone was convicted on three counts in an Illinois federal court of violating the income tax law after the three-year statute of limitations had expired. The convictions, it cited, were on charges of income tax evasion
in the calendar years 1925, 1926, and 1927, while indictments were not returned until June 5, 1931.

State Eliminates Last Half of 1934 Property Tax

Plan to Place Order Into Effect Completed; Herring Reveals Slash in Address

DES MOINES, Aug. 28 (AP)—The mechanics through which county officers will place in effect the order of the state board of assessment and review eliminating the last half of the 1934 state property tax levy, was completed Tuesday by State Auditor Storms.

Second Tax Reduction Announced Within Last Week

As a result of the move, every property holder in the state will pay $1.10 less per thousand dollars of taxation on his personal and real estate holdings Auditor Storms estimated.

Revolt Places Eastern Prison On Emergency

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 28 (AP)—Sullen, silent revolt placed the Eastern state penitentiary on an emergency basis tonight.

Prisoners Refuse Food As Strike Shuts Down Shops

Orders to be prepared for any possible development applied alike to Cherry Hill, century-old fort-like prison where a strike closed down all industrial shops today, and to the new Graterford farm, 35 miles away, where stampeding felons caused $40,000 worth of havoc Saturday.

Machine Guns Ready

Two machine guns manned by experts of the state police, were mounted on the power house inside the wall of the suburban prison. Instructions to the gunners are to "let them have it" if an outbreak is attempted, said Capt. Elmer Leithiser, deputy warden in charge of the 1,600 prisoners there.

Unemployed? Then Here's Opportunity Knocking the Door

VIENNA, Aug. 28 (AP)—Too much work has driven Austria's hangman crazy, it was reported tonight.

The nervous and emotional strain connected with the execution of 12 Nazis and nine Socialists since February sent Johan Lang, famed as perhaps Europe's most meticulously dressed executioner, into an asylum the reports said, and an ordinary policeman put the last Nazi to death.

It was his custom, on entering the condemned man's cell, to doff his high silk hat and introduce himself with the words: "My name is Lang. I am the government executioner."

Heimwehr In Spotlight As Friction Rises

VIENNA, Aug. 28 (AP)—Steel-helmeted policemen tonight stood guard about the Heimwehr barracks in the Floridsdorf section of Vienna, but the government formally denied reports there had been hand-to-hand fighting between the two forces.

Officials admitted privately, however, that friction existed within the ranks of the Heimwehr, which is headed by Prince Ernst von Starhemberg, and this internal dissension led to today's police intervention.

Both Republicans, Democrats Nominate Hiram Johnson For Senate in Topsy-Turvy Vote

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 28 (AP)—Upton Sinclair, former Socialist who campaigned on the Democratic ticket for the gubernatorial nomination, tonight issued a statement in which he claimed his selection was a "victory not for me" but "for the new deal."

His statement, issued after his headquarters said nomination by the Democratic party appeared certain follows:

"Today's nomination is a victory for not me but for the people of California, and the first of many which they intend to win. It is a victory for the new deal."

"End Absurd Situation"
"It means not merely that the people of California are going to have their share of the new deal; but that they are going to bring the state of California into line for the national new deal and end the absurd situation under which the funds of the new deal are given to the state of California and used by a reactionary administration in an effort to wreck the new deal."

"We have been nominated as Democrats and we intend to function as Democrats and to apply the principles of democracy to industry."

"Nothing Revolutionary"
"A million and a quarter persons are dependent upon public charity in California. We intend to put these persons at productive labor make them self-supporting, take them off the backs of taxpayers, and stop the process of driving our state into bankruptcy. There is nothing revolutionary about this proposal and the entire nation will be doing it before the end of the year."

"No issue could be more clearly cut than the one which will confront our voters of California in November. It is progress or reaction, industry for social service or for private greed. Our people are thoroughly awake to this issue. They have built their own organization which nothing can break, and will go forward to the job and end poverty in California."

Helen Annis Ogilvie Weds Herald Stark at LeMars

400 Guests Attend Ceremony Monday Evening. In the candle lighted First Presbyterian church in LeMars, Helen Annis Ogilvie, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Stewart Ogilvie of LeMars, and Herald Stark of the University of Iowa music department were married Monday at 8 p.m. in the presence of more than 400 guests. The Rev. Harold Smith of LeMars performed the single ring ceremony. The church was decorated with ferns, palms, white gladioli and lilies. Ivory tapers defined the aisles and the altar was banked with tapers and lilies. Presents Organ Recital. Preceding the ceremony, Ruth Rothschild of LeMars presented an organ recital. She presided at the organ during the ceremony, playing as the processional Mr. Stark's arrangement of Brahms' "Fourth Symphony." Mr. Stark sang "I Love Thee" by Grieg. Members of the wedding party were Dorothy Mieras of LeMars, maid of honor; Marion A. Wenger of the Iowa Child Welfare Research station, best man; Katherine Ann Van Der Steeg, flower girl; and Donald Ogilvie and Marion Mieras, both of LeMars, and Glen Stark of Kearney, Neb., ushers. White Satin Gown. The bride's gown was fashioned of white satin with fitted lines and a short train. Tiny buttons decorated the length of the long, pointed sleeves of the gown. Her cap was edged with seed pearls. The tulle veil was edged with lace and had lace insertions. White rose buds and lilies of the valley formed her shower bouquet. Miss Mieras' long fitted gown was fashioned of pale yellow chiffon and she wore a matching turban of tulle, long white gloves and silver sandals. She carried Ophelea roses. Wedding Reception. Following the ceremony, 65 guests attended a wedding reception in the church parlors. The center of decorations was the wedding cake, baked and decorated by the bride's father. Sally Reinger played harp selections during the reception and Mrs. Russell Bowers sang a contralto solo. Mrs. J. J. DePree and Mrs. Bowers assisted with the decorations and reception. Mr. and Mrs. Stark left by motor for a honeymoon trip to Colorado and the Rocky mountains. The bride's going away costume was fashioned of light blue wool, fashioned sailor style and trimmed in darker blue. With it she wore dark blue accessories. Out of Town Guests. Out of town guests at the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. Marion A. Wenger and Harriet James of Iowa City, Mrs. I. B. Stark and Fern Stark of Kearney, Neb., and Mrs. Vandervecken and Florence Vandervecken of Ireton. Mrs. Stark graduated from the LeMars high school and attended the University of Iowa for the last two years, studying music. She

Seventy Per Cent Of Pharmacy Grads In Retail Business

About 70 per cent of the University of Iowa's pharmacy graduates now are in the retail business, either as owners or clerks, according to a survey made under the supervision of Dean Wilbur J. Testers. It was found that the remaining 30 per cent are divided among hospital pharmacists, laboratory workers, teachers, and salesmen. "Pharmacy has been the least affected by the depression of any profession. More and more, boards of pharmacy are insisting upon every drug store having a registered pharmacist on duty all of the time, older men are retiring each year, so graduates are placed in satisfactory locations within a short time," the report states.

White Satin Gown

The bride's gown was fashioned of white satin with fitted lines and a short train. Tiny buttons decorated the length of the long, pointed sleeves of the gown. Her cap was edged with seed pearls. Betrothal Of Prince George Is Announced

English Scion to Wed Princess Marina Of Greece

LONDON, Aug. 28 (AP)—A Balkan romance, its setting the picturesque Slovenian Alps of Yugoslavia, culminated tonight in the engagement of Prince George of England to wed the beautiful Princess Marina of Greece. Like any other young lover, King George's fourth son, asked first for the hand of the princess and then telegraphed home for his royal parents' consent. It was given gladly. "Greatest Pleasure." "It is with the greatest pleasure," the announcement from the palace said, "that the king and queen announce the betrothal of their dearly beloved son, Prince George, to Princess Marina, daughter of Prince and Princess Nicolas of Greece, to which union the king has gladly given his consent." An acquaintance that dated back five years to the young couple's first meeting in London ripened into love, London understood tonight, at the summer home of Prince Paul of Yugoslavia, where Prince George and Princess Marina are now visiting. Show Liking. The 32 year old scion of Britain's royal family and the 27 year old Grecian princess, known through Europe for her beauty, had shown liking for each other's company on the several occasions that Princess Marina visited London. Then Prince George, on vacation, went to visit Prince Paul at Blud, Yugoslavia. Marina, youngest sister of Prince Paul, was there, too. Rumors immediately circulated over the continent of their engagement but London refused to believe, all the more so because official denial was entered here over the week end. Confirms Report. The court circular tonight, however, brought confirmation of reports and the capital, recovering from its surprise, was soon discussing the royal romance with all signs of approval. Confirms Reports. A close friend of Prince George said tonight that he gave no indication before he left England of any intention of becoming engaged. The Prince of Wales, now holidaying at Biarritz, was one of the first to be let into the secret, it was said. No Wedding Plans. It was understood that no plans whatsoever have yet been made for the marriage. Before the ceremony can occur the king must give his formal consent by an order in council under the terms of the royal personages marriage act. It was rumored that the prince would accompany Princess Marina to see her mother and father in Greece before returning to England.

Iron Soldiers Are Groomed

Europe Prepares For Next War With Speed

LONDON, Aug. 28 (AP)—Confident the "next" war would be fought at high speed, Europe is grooming fast iron soldiers to do the job. While London and Paris army men tended to differ with the opinion Italian military authorities expressed today to the effect that trench warfare was obsolete, Great Britain and France nevertheless went forward with Italy in efforts to speed up the movement of troops. The League of Nations' armament yearbook published at Geneva today estimated the world spent between $3,471,000,000 and $4,399,000,000 gold for armaments in 1933. A great part of this, army men agreed, went for tanks, airplanes and other fast fighting machines designed to wage war at maximum velocity. Calculating the results of the recent armament surveys, Premier Benito Mussolini's military experts asserted the first onslaught of tanks and fast moving troop detachments would break through trench lines, force fighting out into the open and make the movement so rapid that nothing would be gained by digging new trenches. While willing to admit the speed of highly mechanized modern armies would radically affect the old stalemate of trench warfare, French military leaders said they still believed that trenches would continue to play an important part in warfare. They indicated their belief that the $100,000,000 fortified trench system built along the German border would turn back the first shock of an attack and give time for mobilization, asserting they held to their theory that the infantry is still the backbone of an army.

Two Killed in Crash

PIERCE, Neb. (AP)—Jens Christensen, 75, of Newkirk, Okla., and his wife were injured fatally late yesterday when the new (Ford) automobile in which they were riding struck a culvert on a highway six miles north of here. Permanent injuries were received by the plaintiff in this accident, the petition states.

Mrs. Popham Seeks $15,000

Asking damages of $15,000, Mrs. Amelia Popham filed suit against Mrs. Cora B. Case, Phi Omega Pi sorority chaperon last year, in district court yesterday. Mrs. Popham, wife of R. G. Popham, former judge now practicing law here, states that she was a passenger in an automobile driven by Mrs. Case on Oct. 16, 1933, and that faulty driving of the defendant resulted in an accident near Ainsworth. Permanent injuries were received by the plaintiff in this accident, the petition states.

Professor Waterman Publishes New Text Book on Engineering

Universities and colleges soon are expected to use a new textbook by Prof. Earle L. Waterman of the University of Iowa college of engineering. The book, "Elements of Water Supply Engineering," will be off the press of a New York publisher Saturday. It is designed for use in an introductory course.

Former Austrian Aide Says Dollfuss Paid Him to Work Against E. von Starhemberg

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia, Aug. 28 (AP)—Dr. Franz Winkler, former Austrian vice chancellor, said tonight in an interview that the late Chancellor Dollfuss paid him to work against the present vice chancellor, Prince Ernst von Starhemberg. The sensational statement by the prominent agrarian, who was ousted from one of Dollfuss' later cabinets, said attacks upon him in Austria prompted him to make the revelation. "I was charged with receiving large sums of money to vote against the new constitution," Winkler declared. "That was a lie. I did not receive a cent for this purpose. I did get from Dollfuss personally about $50,000 during the last eight months to be used for the purpose of freeing Austria from the influence of Von Starhemberg and Maj. Emil Fey, who Dollfuss said had brought all the misery of civil war upon Austria." In another recent interview in Czechoslovakia, Winkler, who is in virtual exile, accused the helmweh of plotting a putsch almost simultaneously with the Nazi putsch. He said the suddenness of the latter cut off the helmweh's plans. As a member of the agrarian party, Winkler was at odds both with the Nazis and with the helmweh during his incumbency in the vice chancellorship, and later.

Kidnapers Get Ransom Sum

Release Son of New York Manufacturer After Payment

CAMDEN, N. J., Aug. 28 (AP)—Ralph Sosis, 38, son of a New York necktie manufacturer, walked into Camden police headquarters tonight and told police he had been released by kidnapers here after his father paid a $10,000 ransom. Sosis said he had been released from a house on the outskirts of Camden. Camden police immediately got in touch with New York authorities and stated they learned Sosis had been reported missing by his wife and that his father, Aaron Sosis, had paid the ransom money. Sosis told police he was kidnaped in New York on Monday morning by four men. He said one of them was known by the name "Louis Fox." He was blindfolded and driven in an automobile for what he estimated to be three hours, Sosis stated. Then he was taken still blindfolded, into a sparsely-furnished room, tied to a chair with his face to the wall, and left there with two men on guard. Early yesterday, he said, his captors took him in an automobile to a nearby store where there was a telephone booth. He was told to telephone his wife at his home, 347 Beekman avenue, the Bronx, giving instructions on how the ransom was to be paid.

Steel for Service Bridge, Fine Arts Will Arrive Soon

Steel with which to complete the new service bridge across the Iowa river between Iowa Union and the new fine arts building will arrive early next week, according to George Horner, university architect. Spans between the already completed piers of the bridge will be made entirely of steel, painted limestone grey. KANSAS CITY PRO LEADS IOWA OPEN GOLFERS

McSpaden In Stroke Edge Over Wilcox

Billy Hall, Boone, Low Amateur With 76; 13 Crack 80

By LEYLAND SKELLEY (Associated Press Sports Writer) WAKONDA CLUB, Des Moines, Aug. 28 (AP)—Touring Wakonda's troublesome hills with deadly accuracy, Harold (Jug) McSpaden, Kansas City professional, smashed his way to a one stroke lead in the first 18 holes of the Iowa open golf tournament today with a splendid 74, one over par.

The Kansas City ace, who recently won the Oklahoma open title, carded a perfect 37 on the outside nine and came home with another 37 one over par, for the inside. Three birdies graced his card as he ignored the numerous sandtraps and stretches of timberland.

Young Billy Hall of Boone was the low amateur today, finishing with a 76 to tie Elmer Schacht, professional at the Golf and Country club, Des Moines for third place.

The squatty little Boone youngster had one bad hole on his round or would have tied for the lead. On the long 13th he took a 7, two over par. He pulled himself together, however, to complete the last five holes in one under par.

Only nine other players were able to crack 80 as the majority of the field, one of the biggest and finest in the history of the meet, fell victim to the treacherous Wakonda course.

Such recognized stars as Denver Miller of Des Moines, the defending champion Johnny Vavra of Cedar Rapids; and Hal Chase of Des Moines, former state amateur champion, and several other celebrities saw their scores mount into the 80's.

In fifth position back of Hall and Schacht was Joe Brown professional at the Woodside course, Des Moines, with a 77 while five players were tied for sixth with 78's.

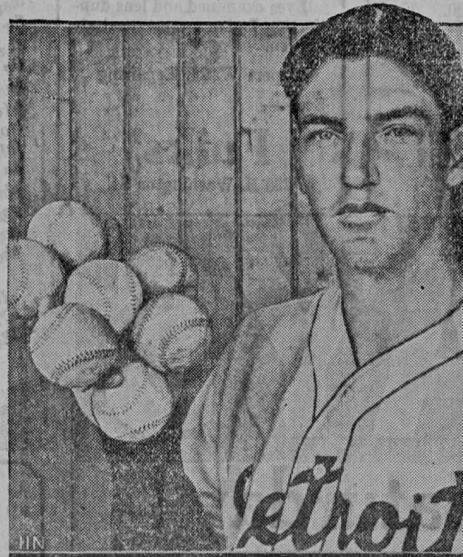

In the 78 classification were Johnny K-raft of Oelwein, northwest Iowa champion; Jack Hall, professional at the Waveland club, Des Moines; M. S. (Buzz) Denman of Des Moines; Alex Olson, Waterloo professional; and Bob McKee of Des Moines, four times state amateur king.

Art Bartlett Art Bartlett of Ottumwa, one of the state's veteran campaigners, was tied for seventh place with two comparative unknowns, Jim Brammer and James Davis, both of Des Moines. This trio scored 79's.

There was a host of 80's and 81's. The most prominent shooters in those brackets being Dave Bonella, league record...

Scoring Plays of Hawkeyes Listed in Football Yearbook

From Crayne's 90-Yard Kick-Off Return To Laws' Runs

From Dick Crayne's 90-yard return of a Bradley Tech kick-off to the 55-yard dash of Joe Laws with a Purdue punt, 10 University of Iowa scoring plays of 1933 are listed in the new edition of the intercollegiate football guide.

Honors among the Iowans are shared by Crayne, who next month begins his second season on the Hawkeye team, and Laws. Each has four scoring feats chronicled in the official publication.

Crayne's kick-off return for a touchdown ranked tenth in the nation. The burly fullback also is credited with the 55-yard sprint with an intercepted Minnesota forward pass, and 42 and 34-yard runs from scrimmage in the Iowa State game.

The other accomplishments of Laws were the winning 81-yard run in the Northwestern game, 27 yards against Purdue, and the 37-yard return of a Wisconsin punt.

Other Iowans whose scoring plays are published are Bernard Page, 42 yards from scrimmage against Wisconsin; and Dwight Hoover, whose 32-yard pass to Russell Fisher scored the first touchdown on the Badgers.

Hurler Belts Homer in 5th To Break Tie

Crowd Turns Out To Celebrate Grimm's Birthday

CHICAGO, Aug. 28 (AP)—The Giants finally turned the tables on the challenging Cubs today, although they were outlit 7-5 in another pitching duel, and won the third game of the crucial series 3 to 1. The triumph, after losing the first two decisions, enabled the Giants to increase their lead to 5 1/2 games.

Leroy (Bud) Parmelee, the young speedball pitcher, was almost unbeatable in the clinches and he topped off his fine mound performance by belting his second home run of the season to break a tie score in the fifth inning.

A good 22,000 crowd saw the game, boosting the total for the first three games of the series to the unexpected figure of 90,000.

Parmelee, who fanned seven, was in serious danger only in the inning the Cubs scored their run and let a runner get into scoring position on only one other occasion. Both times it was George (Tucker) Stainback, wavy-haired youngster from Los Angeles, who did the bothering.

After Augie Galan had reached third in the fourth inning on a walk, a steal and a wild pitch, Stainback bounced a single off Johnny Vergez' glove to score him. He led off the seventh with a double but Parmelee retired the next three men in order.

Scored, But No Hit The Giants tallied without a hit in the first inning when Hughey Critz walked, advanced on Bill Terry's sacrifice and came home when Galan hit Mel Ott's grounder through him. Parmelee's homer in the fifth was only the second hit off big Jim Weaver but the Giants put together two more, a double by Joe Moore and a single by Critz, for a "plush" run in the eighth.

Part of the big crowd which turned out despite the cold weather came to celebrate Manager Charlie Grimm's thirty-sixth birthday. He received a floral offering from his Chicago fans and a "ten gallon" hat from some Cub rosters from Cheyenne, Wyo.

Eastern Team Interested In National Race

Although the event is exactly three months distant, the first request for entry blanks for the National A. A. U. senior cross country championship run has been received by the University of Iowa.

New England A. A. U. officials, located in Cambridge, Mass., were the first to ask for blanks. The run, over a distance of about 6 1/4 miles, will occur Thanksgiving day, Nov. 29.

The Boston Athletic association, winner of third place in the 1933 championship, is interested in entering a squad of distance runners. Tom McDonough, member of the 1932 American Olympic team and runner-up for the National A. A. U. 10,000-meter title in the championship of the Boston contingent.

Coach George T. Bresnahan, manager of the run, expects to distribute some 500 entry blanks to universities and college, athletic clubs, and individual athletes who have placed in previous championship events.

Seed Perry 1st in Men's Nat. Singles

NEW YORK, Aug. 28 (AP)—Eighty-nine players were drawn today for the men's national singles tennis championship beginning Saturday at Forest Hills, Long Island, with Fred Perry of England, the defending champion, seeded first among four foreigners, and Francis X. Shields, named at the head of a list of 11 seeded natives. First round byes were given to 30 entrants.

Shields and Perry were placed at the top and bottom, respectively, of the upper half of the draw, with plenty of still opposition between them and a prospective meeting in the semi-finals on Sept. 7.

Seeded in order behind Shields were Wilmer Allison of Austin, Tex.; Sidney B. Wood, Jr., of New York; Berkeley Bell of New York; Lester R. Stofen of Los Angeles, Frankie Parker of Lawrenceville, N. J.; Bryand M. Grant, of Atlanta; Gregory Mangin of Newark, N. J., and John W. Van Ryn of Philadelphia.

Roderich Menzel, the giant Czechoslovakian, playing in the United States for the first time, was seeded at No. 2 on the foreign list, followed by Vernon G. Kirby of South Africa, and F. H. D. Wilde of England.

Shields, Grant, Kirby and Bell received first round byes in the upper half while Sutter, Lott and Perry, in the same bracket, were not as fortunate. In the first round Sutter meets Elmer J. Griffin of Forest Hills; Lott plays Marco Hecht, the University of Pennsylvania star, and Perry encounters Carl H. Schwelckhardt of Forest Hills.

Mark Arie In Shoot Victory

VANDALIA, Ohio, Aug. 28 (AP)—Mark Arie of Champaign, Ill., who has held almost every major title in the trapshooting world, today added the crown of champion of champions to his list.

He broke 197 out of a possible 200 targets to win a contest among state champions at the Grand American trapshooting tournament here.

Iowan Second A 72 year old marksman from Union City, Okla., W. A. Tabor, cracked 191 targets to take the veterans' fixture. John Peterson of Randall, Ia., was second with 190.

Trailing Arie by one target was Rod Cooper of Louisville, the Kentucky champion. His 196 assured him of at least a tie for second place.

Another Iowan Clyde Mitchell of Milwaukee and John Johns of Split Lake, Ia., were tied at 196 for the professional crown. They went into a shootout to break the tie.

The east-west team race also was undecided at a late hour. The west team finished with 192 out of a possible 2,000 and the easterners some of whom still were on the trap, had little chance to overtake them.

Benge Falters As Cards Rise To Shine, 2-0

Retires 16 in Order, Then Gives Four Straight Hits

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 28 (AP)—Ray Benge missed a place in baseball's hall of fame that is reserved for no-hit pitchers today when he had one bad inning. The result of that frame was a 2 to 0 victory for the Cardinals over Brooklyn, putting St. Louis one game behind the second-place Chicago Cubs.

After retiring 16 men in order, Benge was touched for four straight hits. Leo Durocher, Pitcher Paul Dean and Burgess Whitehead connected for singles that broke a scoreless deadlock, then Jack Rothrock slammed a double down the left field foul line for another tally.

The junior Dean allowed eight singles but kept them scattered to earn his fourteenth victory of the season.

Sidwell's Jrs. Romp on Iowa Supply 9 to 4

Sidwell's Juniors walloped the Iowa Supply Juniors yesterday at City park by a score of 9 to 4. In the first Sidwell's countered two while Iowa Supply chalked up one marker. The score at the end of the fourth was 6 to 4. A seventh inning rally by the winners netted three more runs and the game. Parker chucked for the losers. Mair was on the rubber for Sidwell's. He allowed five hits and fanned three. King led the attack on Parker with four hits in four trips at the plate. DeWitt, Kloos and W. Buckley got three-baggers for the losers. King was good for two and W. Burser for one for Sidwell's. The game was a postponed affair from the last round.

Lefty Grove Stops Indians As Boston Wins, 8 to 2

Victory Gives Red Sox Even Series Break

Errors Play Important Part in Winning Of Contest

BOSTON, Aug. 28 (AP)—Lefty Grove pitched well in spite of a cold, misty rain which blew in from the northwest throughout Cleveland's last game of the season here and his ability to handle the ball gave the Red Sox an 8 to 2 victory today.

The triumph gave the Red Sox an even break for the series, leaving them a game and a half out of third place.

Grove limited the Indians to seven hits, four of which came in the third inning, granted only one walk and struck out three. His opponent, Ralph Winegarner, managed to escape the consequences of wildness and his teammates' errors until the sixth inning. Then the Red Sox unleashed a six-run blast and won the ball game.

Batted Around

The score was tied at 2-2 going into the sixth. Boston batted clear ground as Lynn Lary opened with a double, beat Winegarner's throw on the bases and scored the first run. Bill Werber's single after Bobby had walked to fill the bases. The real trouble came after that. Bill Knickerbocker muffed the ball's pop fly, letting Grove score. Winegarner let fly a wild pitch, letting Bishop score. A walk loaded the bases again and Porter and Dick Ferrell hit singles, scoring the fifth run and leaving the corners jammed. Lary, up for the second time, drove in the final counter with a long fly after Morgan had hit a short one. Grove fanned to end the inning.

Errors

The first Boston error also resulted from errors as Hale fumbled two drives in succession after Bishop had opened with a single. Cleveland went ahead in the third when Rice singled, Averill doubled and Hal Trasky brought them both home with a single. The rally started after two were out.

The Sox tied it at 2-2 in the fifth on a walk to Bishop, Werber's sacrifice and base hits by Cooke and by Johnson.

BIG SIX

(By the Associated Press)

Four members of the Big Six got into action and of the quartet only Paul Waner could get a hit. The Big Six leader had to make five visits to the plate for that blow and as a result his average dropped two points to .367. Heinie Manush, who had only one bat, advanced to third place when his average went down only one point while Bill Terry, who had three times up, lost third. Mel Ott also suffered a three-point loss. Cincinnati In Twin Victory Over Phillies

CINCINNATI, Aug. 28 (AP)—Cincinnati's Reds made their fourth straight, their longest winning streak of the year, today by taking a double header with the Phillies for the third time this season, this time by scores of 8 to 6 and 2 to 1.

Lombardi's single in the ninth after Bottomley had doubled, Hafey singled, and Pool and Schulmerich had been passed, brought the second game victory.

Extra base hits accounted for the first contest, the Reds winning, though Canilli hit his first home run in 15 games and George Davis completed the circuit on a pop over second as Piet and Comorosky collided and Piet was knocked out.

Retired Wrestler Perfects New Hold Called "Iron Clamp"

UKIAH, Cal. (AP)—The old saying "there is nothing new under the sun" is disputed by Paul Poulos, retired wrestler, who after three years experimentation claims he has developed a brand new grip that may revolutionize the "grunt and groan" industry.

He calls it the "iron clamp." It may be applied to either leg. The hold is applied in a flying fall. His forearm is inserted in back of an opponent's leg, with the leg bent back. Then he locks his leg over the opponent's shin and ankle and clinches his toe in the stomach of the fallen man, lying face downward.

Yankee Suffers Rigging Mishap In 3rd Cup Trial

NEWPORT, R. I., Aug. 28 (AP)—Hard luck today forced Yankee of Boston, leading aspirant for the defense of the America's cup, to withdraw from her third engagement of the final trials with Harold S. Vanderbilt's Rainbow while leading her opponent by about three boat lengths.

Yankee's jumper strut, a part of the rigging which supports the top of the mast, broke and forced her to quit the contest.

The accident was a particularly bitter disappointment to Yankee's crew, for it came after she had overcome a lead of about 500 yards and passed Rainbow.

"Denny" Miller faced a terrific fight to overcome his disadvantage. He turned in an 82 today and was eight strokes back of the leader. To give a shooter like McCrary to big a lead is practically tantamount to defeat.

Iowa's main hopes for the remainder of the 72 holes were in young Hall and the several professionals within striking distance of the Kansas City player.

The field tomorrow will play another 18 holes with the low 33 remaining for the final 36 holes Thursday.

Soybeans Come Into Their Own to Replace Lined Oil in Paint

Soybean oil is apparently becoming a competitor of lined oil for the making of paint. Several world's fair buildings were painted with "soybean" paint last spring, that is, paint composed of 50 per cent soybean oil and 50 per cent lined oil. Instead of pure lined oil. Considerable quantities of paint are now being made in these proportions; and the mixture of these oils seems to be fully equal to the lined oil alone.

This should interest farmers for the reason that close to 50 per cent of lined oil used in this country is imported from Argentina, and if soybean oil can take the place of half the lined oil in paint making, a very large domestic market will eventually develop for this oil.

Soybean oil meal, a by-product resulting from the extraction of the oil from the beans, is a most excellent protein feed for all kinds of livestock. The larger the market that can be developed for soybean oil at home, the better it will be for farmers, because of the fact that the soybean is one of the food legumes that will grow on your soils.

Iowa Trotter Wins Feature Fair Contest

DES MOINES, Aug. 28 (AP)—Tommy Law, brown gelding by Peter Potemkin, owned by Art L. Blackwell of Des Moines, trotted to a closely contested victory today in the 2:14 "western stake" feature trot of the 1934 harness program at the Iowa state fair.

The Blackwell gelding won the first and third heats hand running, although always pressed by the field, which included a prime favorite, Tondinella Stout, a grand circuit entry from West Virginia. The second heat ended with Tommy Law second to Mar Gay, and ahead of Tondinella Stout.

Hazel Mack, brown mare owned by Frank Daily, Auburn, Neb., swept the second division of the 2:19 pace. The Lee McKiyo mare won by lengths in every heat, leaving the fight to the field for runnerup and pacing "heats in 2:06 1-2, 2:01 1-2, 2:06. Hazel Mack paced the last half mile of the third heat in the excellent time of 1:02.

A split race resulted in the fourth event, the 2:24 trot, when Pauline Potemkin, Scot and William King, a Charles Hardie horse from Des Moines, each took a heat.

The western breeders futurity proved a dud, with Sir Aegon Bay colt by Siskiyoo, and owned by Robt. E. Peterson, East Moline, Ill., a length better than Nick McKiyo owned by J. Brad Compton, Carthage, Ill., in both heats.

Explanation Of "Strange As It Seems"

The archer fish of the East Indies has a method all of its own for catching insect food. It has the ability to squirt a stream of water from its mouth with uncanny accuracy up to distances of five feet. It hunts along the shore for likely winged insects on over-hanging foliage, then disables them by drenching them with water. The insects fall into the water where they are eaten by the archer.

Direct descendants of John E. Grist have for more than a century published the paper he founded in 1833 in Yorkville, now York, S. C. Grist first called his paper, The Compiler, later changing the name to The Miscellany. His son, Capt. Lewis M. Grist, took over the paper in 1855, changed the name again to The Yorkville Enquirer.

His two sons, in turn, published the paper after the death of their father. One of the sons, W. D. Grist, was editor for 35 years until his death in 1925. The other, A. M. Grist, has since been in charge. Two sons and a daughter of the late W. D. Grist are now associated with their uncle in running the paper. They are Lewis M., Mrs. Frank D. and James D. Grist.

A member of the fifth generation of the Grists, young James D., II, is soon to learn the newspaper business in the Yorkville Enquirer's shop.

Vital Changes In Policy Of NRA Planned

Move Announced As Johnson's Salary Is Boosted

WASHINGTON, Aug. 28 (AP)—The national recovery administration is considering vital changes in policy as a means of cutting deep slashes in the ranks of the unemployed this fall.

This became known today at the same time as it was disclosed that Hugh S. Johnson, still firmly in control despite recent rows over reorganization, has had his salary increased from $6,000 to $15,000 a year.

Boosted Pay July 1
President Roosevelt boosted the pay of his recovery administrator last July 1, long before the differences with Donald R. Richberg, NRA general counsel, and Secretary Perkins came near the breaking point. Johnson had complained many times that he could not live on $6,000 and would have to return to private business.

It is while Johnson is now on vacation that his aides are studying a wide variety of proposals to step up employment before winter sets in, throwing added relief burdens on the federal and state governments.

Would Remove Restrictions
One plan which would involve a distinct departure from the previous emergency concepts of NRA would remove production restrictions in codes and attempt to put hundreds of thousands of men to work through a new economy of stimulated production and consumption made possible by greater purchasing power.

Another would seek to open additional jobs through changes in hours and wages such as was done in the cotton garment code. This method of approach would be made easier under the realignment of all codes into 22 groups which was announced yesterday.

To Prepare Plan Soon
With the fall season almost here, it was believed that some plan might be ready for presentation to President Roosevelt at Hyde Park, N. Y., when Johnson confers with the chief executive on the reorganization program. This meeting is less than two weeks away.

Kiwanis Club Hears Perkins, R. Fitzgerald

Prof. Rufus H. Fitzgerald, director of the school of fine arts, and Leroy C. Perkins, executive secretary of the federal housing administration in Iowa, spoke at a Kiwanis club luncheon in the Jefferson hotel yesterday.

The housing act is not a philanthropic gesture on the part of the government, but is a business enterprise, Mr. Perkins stated. He explained various provisions of the act.

Professor Fitzgerald described his recent tour of England, Scotland, and Wales, which he made with President Emeritus Walter A. Jessup and President L. D. Coffman of the University of Minnesota. Local guests at the luncheon were D. W. Crum, Leo Franzell, and Gordon Kent.

F. R. Reported Satirized In PWA Painting in East

NEW YORK, Aug. 28 (AP)—The New York Times says that a mural oil painting financed by PWA funds and satirizing the Roosevelt administration was placed today in the permanent exhibit of the Westchester Institute of Fine Arts.

The artist, employed as a relief worker by the public works administration, signed himself "Jere Miah II," the newspaper said. The president of the institute, Charles A. Birch-Field, would not disclose his name. Birch-Field said the artist demanded that his identity be guarded.

President Roosevelt is depicted speaking into a series of microphones, holding the shaft of one with his right hand and a fishing line from which dangles a large fish with his left hand. There is a crown on his head.

AAA checkers are still going over corn-hog contracts at the Farm Bureau office. Promises of release of at least part of the contracts are made, but the investigation still carries on.

State G. O. P. Approves Plan

Payne Suggests Change Of Apportionment Of Delegates

DES MOINES, Aug. 28 (AP)—A plan for changing the method of apportionment of delegates to Republican national conventions, presented by W. O. Payne of Des Moines, received the indorsement of the Republican state central committee here tonight.

His resolution contemplates proposing to the national Republican organization that representation in the national convention be changed to a basis of five delegates at large from each state and district delegates in the ratio of one delegate for each 20,000 Republican votes.

The national committee membership also would be revised so that it would include one committeeman or committeewoman for each 5 delegates from any state, each state, however, to have at least one member.

The proposed new rule, for example, would increase the New York delegation to a national convention by 13 members, or from 85 to 98. Iowa would have 27 instead of 22 delegates, Payne figured.

Council to Decide On Beh Offer At Meeting Tonight

Whether or not the city will turn its dealings with the PWA over to Carleton Beh, Des Moines broker, will be decided at a council meeting in the city hall at 8 o'clock tonight.

Mr. Beh appeared at the meeting Friday, and offered to rush through PWA arrangements for the sewage disposal and Burlington street paving projects if retained by the city for approximately $2,500.

A committee to investigate charges made by other companies for the same work was appointed and is expected to report tonight.

MORGENTHAU Forecasts Inflation Of $2,800,000,000

taken title to all the monetary gold in the country, paying for it at the $20.67 rate. On every ounce, it made a "profit" of $14.33, the difference between the purchase figure and $35.

The $14.33, when multiplied by all the ounces of gold held by the treasury, brought its total profit to approximately $2,800,000,000. Of this sum, $2,600,000,000 was set aside by law for the stabilization fund, with which the treasury has been seeking to keep foreign exchange quotations at desirable levels.

Fund Expires in 1936
The life of the fund expires in January, 1936. By proclaiming a continuing emergency, however, President Roosevelt could prolong it for another year. The inflation indicated by Morgenthau could not come about until the gold earmarked for the fund has been released.

The treasury secretary, in the course of his address, which was generally regarded as a highly significant statement of policy, also gave in figures his estimate of the cost of the new deal.

Against an increase of $6,000,000,000 in the national debt, Morgenthau asserted various assets should be deducted. He listed them as follows:

Lists Assets
An increase of $1,600,000,000 in the treasury's cash balance since March 4, 1933.

The gold profit, amounting to $2,800,000,000.

An increase in the net assets of agencies wholly owned or financed by the government, amounting to $1,095,000,000.

Morgenthau did not carry the proposition through to its arithmetical conclusion, but the cost of the new deal under this theory would amount to $505,000,000.

Center of Interest
The center of interest in the treasury chief's address, however, was his disclosure of the intended eventual use of the gold profits. To reduce the national debt by use of this profit, the treasury would issue currency against the $14.33 difference between cost and selling price per ounce and use that currency to retire maturing government securities.

The funds invested in these securities would then have to be reinvested in other ways, providing an expansion of the currency, or inflation, in exactly the amount of the government bonds retired by this method.

Target of Criticism
Many students of government monetary policy have predicted that the gold "profit" would be put to such use eventually. Its possibility was the target for a vigorous fire of conservative criticism when the gold bill was pending in congress last winter.

At that time administration officials minimized the inflationary possibilities of the gold profit. After the $2,000,000,000 had been deducted for the stabilization fund, the remainder was placed in a separate account, and not credited to the ordinary receipts of the government.

Morgenthau's statement tonight was the first by an administration official that the gold profit would be so used.

Similar Process for Silver
In its new silver policy, a process similar to that indicated eventually for gold, is being followed. The difference between the cost of the silver which the treasury is acquiring and its statutory value of $1.29 ounce is being credited to ordinary receipts as rapidly as the silver is made the backing for new issues of silver certificates. Since June 20, government's revenues have been increased by $32,559,006 in this way.

Johnson County Receives $2,255,000

Federal Farm Aid Total Will Reach Higher

Expect Money to Come To Double Present Figures

Although Johnson county farmers disagree on the ultimate effects of the "New Deal," they do agree that they have taken part in most national agricultural experiments ever attempted in this nation.

Approximately $2,255,000 has flowed into the rural areas of this county since President Roosevelt took office, and funds yet to come almost double this figure.

With this money have come many changes in the farm scene. Nearly 50 land owners have had their debts paid, usually in full, and are owing money to the federal government instead of to banks, individuals, or insurance companies.

Production Cut
Corn and hog production has been cut drastically, and farmers are receiving payments for keeping their plows out of the soil. Corn-crisbs all over the county are filled with thousands of bushels on which the government loaned money.

Besides these more direct measures, rural areas have met with the "New Deal" through the CCC, members of which worked on erosion control, planted trees, and fought chinch bugs. And, in the near future, they may become acquainted with the rural rehabilitation program.

The National Farm Loan association—NFLA—has brought the major share of federal cash here. It has loaned approximately $1,750,000, and, according to J. R. Baschnagel and Son, local agents, it will probably lend $4,250,000 more.

Credit Policies Liberalized
Although organized in 1925, the NFLA became most active in 1933, when credit policies were liberalized. Only one foreclosure has been made in this county since the local office opened, for the government prefers to readjust payments rather than to take over property.

Farmers may, by giving first mortgages, obtain loans up to 50 per cent of the appraised value of their property. A second mortgage may secure an additional 25 per cent. These loans are, respectively, for 35 and 12 years.

Second in cash returns and greatest in interest is the Agricultural Adjustment administration. The AAA was popular in Johnson county, one of the first to complete its contracts and to get the initial payments.

$190,000 Paid Here
By taking 21,677.3 acres out of production and by reducing hog production by 137,242 head, Johnson county farmers will receive a total of approximately $190,000 from the farm administration. Of this amount, $190,000 has already been paid.

The second installment of $209,500 is being held up while AAA investigators check local contracts. Checkers have been working in Iowa counties for several weeks, as the result of complaints in other states that Iowa got more than its share of benefits.

More than 700,000 bushels of corn here were officially sealed in this county, and farmers got approximately $15,000 in loans. Persons wishing to use their corn may have it unsealed by paying the government 47 cents a bushel, two cents more than the original loan.

Deadline Moved Forward
Corn debts were at first due Aug. 1, then Sept. 1, and the deadline has recently been moved forward to Jan. 1, 1935. At that time, farmers must first offer their corn to government agencies if they wish to place it on the market.

Lusk, Huron, S.D., Editor, Says State Is Staging Comeback

CHICAGO, Aug. 28 (AP)—South Dakota is already showing a comeback from the drought, said R. D. Lusk, Huron editor, here today after a tour of the farming area of his state.

Lusk, director of the committee on safer farming, set up in 1933 to ward off the drought's blows, said emergency crops new to that state are turning out well and will allow the farmers to feed substantial herds of livestock through the winter.

"Fields of millet, amber cane and Sudan grass came up rapidly after our recent showers," Lusk said. "The average farmer on relief had planted 35 acres of these forage crops, and now finds that he can feed out about 12 head of cattle."

"There is, in fact, more feed available now than there was last year. That's true in three-fourths of the farming area of the state. It is so because the drought was foreseen and these drought-resisting crops were put in in anticipation."

You could have purchased a franchise in the National Football league for $50 not many years ago. Now one costs $10,000, if you can find a seller.

Iowa Livestock Takes Most of Honors at Iowa State Fair Yesterday

Superiority In Horse Contests Demonstrated

32,000 Crowd Grows On Seventh Day Of Exposition

DES MOINES, Aug. 28 (AP)—Iowa-bred livestock tonight bore the lions share of purple ribbons awarded at the Iowa State fair today.

Particularly in the horse show, the strongest the fair has witnessed in years, did the Iowa bluebloods demonstrate their superior quality in capturing the championships.

The only out-of-state grand champion winner in the horse show today was Paul C. H. Engler of Topeka, Kan., who showed the grand champion mare in the Percheron division. The reserve also went to a Kansas, H. G. Eshelman of Sedwick.

Huddleston Wins
F. A. Huddleston, prominent Iowa breeder of Webster City, swept through the Shire division to win both the grand and reserve championships in mares. He took the grand championship on Donna and the reserve on Glona.

The Harvard Horse company of New Sharon, showing Footprint, captured the grand championship in the mare class of the Clydesdale division. Reserve grand champion went to Stringham Brothers of Dexter.

The Holbert Horse Importing company, of Greeley crowded out Green Hill farms of Muncie, Ind., for the grand champion mare in the (Turn to page 12)

Hogs Reach $7.90 High

Shortage of Supplies Prime Factor In Increase

CHICAGO, Aug. 28 (AP)—Hog values moved higher again today, reaching a new top price for the day of $7.90 a hundred pounds on the best grade of heavy butchers.

The continuing shortage of supplies was again the prime factor in the increase, as it has been since Aug. 3, when the bull movement began. Only 11,000 hogs were received here today as compared with 46,500 a year ago, when prices were in the neighborhood of $3.75.

A continued rise in the price of fresh pork was also seen as a direct result of the livestock marketing situation, with fresh pork chops, for instance, at 28 cents a pound, as compared with half that a few weeks back.

Demand for the good 200-300 pound animals continued today and they brought for the most part $7.75 to $7.85. Slightly smaller hogs, running from 140-190 pounds brought $6.75-$7.75 and packing sows $6.50-$7.20.

Average cost of drove Monday was $7.40, the highest since April, 1931, which, adding the $2.25 processing tax, brings the cost of hogs to packers to $9.65, the highest since October, 1930.

Cattle receipts were 7,000 commercial, 300 government, calves 1,500 and 200. Prices were strong for the better grades of fed steers and long yearlings, some ranging 25 cents higher, with a top of $10.50 for weighty steers and $10.25 for the yearlings. She stock shared the steer advance and were active. Bids were steady and vealers recovered Monday's loss, selling 50 cents and more higher.

Sheep, with receipts of 8,000, were slow, but prices seemed to be strong to higher and native and range classes both held at $7.25 upward.

FERA Employees Beaten by Pickets In Milwaukee Strike

MILWAUKEE, Aug. 28 (AP)—Four FERA employees, three of them project foremen, were beaten today by picket bands which roved about work sites in the city and county attempting to enforce the FERA strike.

Corn Prices Gain Slightly

Slipping Wheat Values Impart Weak Tone To Market

CHICAGO, Aug. 28 (AP)—Slipping wheat values gave a tone of weakness to the entire grain market today, the one exception being a comparatively sensational closing spurt of buying that lifted corn prices to a fractional net gain for the day.

The otherwise lethargic market was a drab affair that to a great extent reflected a general weakness at all leading world markets and an apparent hesitancy of traders here. Colorless fluctuations of black-board figures were the result of comparatively light business.

Wheat prices lost 1-8 to 5-8 cent a bushel but corn showed gains ranging from 1-4 to 5-8. Buying by professional leaders and some outside support reversed the early downward trend in corn and a sharp rise of more than a cent from bottom figures was witnessed shortly before the close.

Lower wheat prices at Winnipeg and Liverpool had a depressing effect here.

September wheat here closed at $1.01 7-8-1-62, only a fraction better than the mid-August price. May however, finished at $1.04 1-2-5-8, representing about a two-cent loss since August 15. September options of corn ended at 77 7-8 to 78 cents, almost three cents higher than a fortnight ago. May deliveries closed at 82 3-8-1-2, fractionally lower than the August 15 price.

Oats closed unchanged to 1-4 down, rye lost 1-4 to 3-4 and barley was unchanged to 1-4 off.

Soaring hog values gave strength to the provisions market and also were reflected to some extent in the corn and oats pits.

Farmers Face Pasture Need

Recommend Winter Rye For Early Spring Pasturage

It is not only necessary for a farmer to make an effort to utilize as many acres as possible this fall, in order to raise enough feed for his stock during the winter, but it is good practice also to think about the need for early pasture next spring. Winter rye is one of the best crops to plant for that purpose. Usually, rye intended for spring pasturage is seeded at the rate of six pecks per acre along in September, but if land is available and can be put in shape for seeding in August, better preparation to do so.

Early seeded rye may produce some pasture this fall and winter and if so a saving of winter roughage will be effected. Fall rye will produce pasture ahead of any other crop in the spring, and that is why it is gaining in popularity and why we would urge all farmers who will have need for early grazing next spring to sow a few acres early this fall.

Even if you have seeded sweet clover this fall for pasture next spring do not hesitate to sow a patch of rye, for it will be ready for grazing in early May, or two or three weeks ahead of fall sweet clover. After corn planting next spring, sow a patch of sudan grass—25 to 3 pounds of seed per acre—to supplement the blue grass pasture during July and August. Sudan grass seeded about May 20 will be ready for pasture by July or thereabouts. If that is too early for additional pasture, regulate the seeding accordingly. Sudan grass will usually stand a root which is six weeks after seeding, and that is about the right time to turn cattle into the new growth.

If you seeded sweet clover this last spring, and were fortunate enough to get a stand, or if the stand is thinner than usual, but good enough to leave, consider the advisability of sowing a bushel of rye per acre in the clover. Even if you have a good stand of the clover, the practice of sowing some rye in it is a very good idea. While sweet clover is an excellent pasture crop, it really furnishes more protein than an animal requires and that is the reason why rye seeded therein makes such a fine pasture combination.

Don't forget, however, that sweet clover comes on pretty fast the second spring, and when it is reinforced with rye, the pasturage furnished by the two crops will be extremely large. So be prepared to turn in plenty of stock as soon as growth is well started next spring.

Chinch Bugs To Find Hard Going in 1935

Next year the chinch bugs in Iowa will find a new type of barrier blocking their crawling pathways from small grain to cornfields.

At least this is the present belief of entomologists at Iowa State college. Two of them, H. M. Harris and G. C. Decker, have been working on a paper barrier, which appears to be better than the dirt-furrow and chemical type used this year. The paper has the advantage of preventing bugs from being blown across, which was one of the difficulties encountered this year.

The first paper type barrier was tried last year by Mr. Harris, and further work this year has demonstrated its value. In one county this year over 100 miles of paper barrier were constructed so that it has been fairly adequately tested. The paper barrier is made by soaking in creosote heavy tar building paper, red rosin roofing paper or heavy single corrugated paper. The paper is allowed to dry and is then cut into strips about five inches wide. These strips are pushed down into the loose soil so that about two inches are above the ground. Post-holes are dug at convenient intervals to catch the bugs as with the dirt and chemical barriers. The paper strip must be recrossed about every other day.

The cost between the paper and other types of barriers does not differ greatly. It takes a little longer to build the paper barriers. The college plans to issue a bulletin next winter describing in detail how to construct and maintain the paper barrier.

Old Hens Need Care During Hot Weather

The old hens need care as well as the young stock. When the temperatures go up the egg size usually goes down. Therefore, in order to keep the egg size as good as you can you should see to it that the laying house is comfortable. Be sure it is clean, that there is plenty of ventilation. Open the ventilators so the hot air which rises can be taken out of the house. Provide shade for the hens and plenty of fresh water, as most of the egg is water.

Wallace Plan for Ocean Traffic Sets Up Furore

When millions of dollars in wooden ships went up in flames.

A furore has arisen over the suggestion of Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace that foreign ships be allowed to carry American foreign commerce in order to earn more money to buy U. S. goods. Proponents of a domestic merchant marine point to the fact that it requires such traffic to exist, while opponents declare that enormous sums of money have been expended in vain, since American shipping due to high costs has been unable to compete with foreign lines. In the early colonial days, Yankee shippers were world famous for their enterprise, but not until the outbreak of the great war did the U. S. merchant marine expand while supplying the allies with provisions and munitions. Billions were expended for wooden and steel ships, most of which were destroyed or scrapped.

By MATTHEW BURKE
NEW YORK (I. E. N.)—America's merchant marine, bane of congressional controversy for decades has received another battering, in the opinion of political observers, with the suggestion of Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace that foreign shippers be allowed to carry a larger share of American tonnage in overseas commerce.

Since the early colonial days of the eighteenth century, shipping squabbles have stirred up the "muddy waters" of politics as to who shall build and own the cargo boats transporting American goods to foreign customers and bringing back merchandise in exchange.

Under the seamen's act of 1915, U. S. sailors are paid the highest wages of any seamen in the world. This, coupled with the high cost of shipbuilding has made it impossible for the American merchant marine to compete with other foreign flags. America did not always have merchant marine trouble.

In 1775, when the colonies were preparing to embark on the Revolutionary war, more than one-third of the vessels flying the British Union Jack were American.

Indeed, Massachusetts alone had one sea-going ship for every 100 inhabitants. The swift New England frigates, schooners and sloops carried turpentine, pitch, wheat, lumber and furs throughout the Atlantic, while more adventurous merchants pushed their way around Cape Horn into the far east.

The effectiveness of the colonial naval forces in the war of independence was due largely to the 449 commercial vessels equipped as privateers which preyed on British commercial vessels. During the war, shipping remained static, and by 1789 the large fleets had sunk to a low of 122,893 tons.

In 1794, however, they had expanded to 438,000 tons, mostly because the national government had levied high duties on imports carried in foreign vessels. For a number of years, more than 90 per cent of foreign imports were shipped under American merchant marine ensigns, an all time peak.

America's ship building activity has always spurred whenever the European war drums throbbed. A curious parallel between the Napoleonic period and the opening day of the World war a century later shows the effect of the world's shipping demands on the "Yankee" shipmasters.

In 1815, America's tonnage soared to 854,000, while the French and British were driving each other's ships off the seven seas. Under the devastating effect of Germany's submarine warfare, which sent many ships to "Davy Jones' locker," America's shipyards whirled with activity as vessels were built and launched as fast as they could leave the ways to carry bumper cargoes of wheat and munitions for the hard pressed Allies.

U. S. Overbuilds
With the entrance of the U. S. into the great conflict, the Emergency Fleet corporation spent billions of dollars to equip yards. More than 11,000,000 tons of overseas shipping were added to America's total. That the nation had overbuilt its needs was quickly demonstrated soon after the Armistice.

With Europe ceasing to require cargo boats, and coming back into the transportation business itself, whole fleets were anchored in ports. Private shippers demanded the government to get out of the traffic, but no one would buy the scores of wooden vessels. Many steel freighters went for a song and entire rows of the obsolete wooden "white elephants" were set afire.

Last year, U. S. foreign tonnage was down to 3,923,000, a million more than in 1860.

Sweet Clover, Alfalfa Draw Gopher Pests

Burrowing pocket gophers, which have been increasing in all sections of Iowa with the increased acreages of sweet clover and alfalfa, are destroying alfalfa roots in many areas, says A. D. Worthington, Iowa entomologist.

Pocket gophers feed principally on the roots. They prefer fair-sized, succulent roots, but apparently choose little further. Among the crops attacked are alfalfa, sweet clover, red clover, timothy and potatoes. They also feed upon roots of other garden crops, flowers, weeds and trees. Many more roots are stored for food than the animal ever utilizes.

Damage being done by the rodents in hayfields, particularly alfalfa, makes their control important, says Mr. Worthington. Trapping is successful in areas where the gophers are not numerous.

Special pocket gopher traps or ordinary steel traps can be used. When a trap is set for a pocket gopher it should be placed in the main runway near a fresh mound. When special traps are used they should be pointed toward the older mounds.

Much cheaper control is possible by the use of poisoned bait, such as carrots, sweet potatoes and parsnips. To prepare the baits, peel them and cut them into pieces about one-half inch square and about an inch long. The pieces should then be washed and well drained. Over the baits sprinkle powdered strychnine at the rate of one thirty-second of an ounce to a quart of cut bait, or one-eighth ounce to a gallon.

The bait should be placed into the main runway near a new mound, and the hole carefully closed to prevent light from entering.

Fish Will Aid In Killing Mosquitoes
A common source of mosquito breeding on farms is ponds which provide drinking water for live stock. Obviously, it is inadvisable to treat these ponds with poisonous substances, kerosene, or other material which will impart a taste to the water which would be revolting to live stock, and to drain them of course is also out of the question. If such ponds are made deep enough so that they will not dry up frequently during summer fish can be introduced which will feed on the larvae of mosquitoes.

Turkeys, 1935 Model, To Be Bigger, Heavier, Say Those in the Know

Shifting of styles in turkeys is under way, according to L. E. Cline of the Nevada agricultural extension service, who recently finished a study of the present market for the holiday birds. The 1934 model will be bigger and heavier, Mr. Cline says, reflecting a consumer demand for a different type of bird which has been increasing since last Christmas. The shift is a return to the turkey in greatest demand some time ago, the extension man says, and may be an indication of better economic conditions. In recent years the smaller birds have brought the best prices. Demands from restaurants and cabarets for larger breast meat has been an important factor in the change in consumer requirements. A premium of one or more cents a pound is now being paid for the heavier turkeys, while for the last two or three years the price was that amount under the sum paid for lighter birds. This condition always shows a decidedly healthy tone of the market, and if it prevails through the coming marketing season, as indications point, there will be a distinct advantage to the turkey producer.

Authorities Recommend Silos To Meet Short Crop Effects

Ames Experts Tell How To Build Temporary Feed Storage

Farm authorities these days have been turning their attention to the construction of temporary silos with which farmers may meet the challenge of seared meadows and short small grain crops.

F. N. Shultz, Iowa extension dairyman, and Byron T. Virtue, extension agricultural engineer, have prepared instructions on three types of temporary silos—trench, corn cribbing or snow fencing and "corn bundle." These silos, which can be built with but little expense will give fairly satisfactory service for a limited time.

A plow, slip or Fresno, a team and the labor of several men are about all that are necessary to construct an inexpensive trench silo which can be used successfully in heavy soil areas where there is little danger of caving or crumbling.

Long Trench Needed

It is suggested that the trench be dug narrow and long in a spot where there is good drainage and the surface water can be prevented from flowing into the silo. The sides of the trench should be sloped one foot for each four feet of depth. Twelve feet wide at the top, eight feet at the bottom and as long as necessary to meet feeding requirements are the usual dimensions. Between two and one-half and three feet of trench of these dimensions are necessary per cow for a 180-day feeding period.

It is not advisable to line the walls with planks or boards nor is it satisfactory to build the sides above the ground by using boards and banking with dirt.

The finer the corn is cut the better it will pack and less spoilage will result, experiments have shown. It is recommended that the silage be packed well with a tractor, truck or live stock driven back and forth through the trench. Water should be added freely to insure packing if the corn is dry.

Heap Silage

Of course, the silage should be heaped several feet above the ground to allow for settling. A layer of wet straw or chaff, 10 to 12 inches thick, covered with between four and six inches of moist dirt, makes a good cover. Sealing should be done immediately to prevent waste. More materials are needed for the corn cribbing or snow fencing type of temporary silo, although it may be quickly constructed. Materials necessary to construct one of these units should cost less than $25. Care must be taken to see that this silo is located on a level place, because there is the danger of it leaning or falling over and weaknesses in fencing may cause considerable spoilage.

The outside may be laid out, using a string for a compass. The first section of the fence should be set up around the marked circle; the ends lapped six to eight inches and securely fastened with wire. Line the inside of the section with a heavy reinforced kraft paper or a lightweight roofing paper, cutting in three or four lengths and lapping the strips about a foot to allow for expansion without tearing the paper. The bottom edge of the strip should lap over on the ground a few inches to form a seal at the bottom of the silo. To prevent holes being torn in the paper as the silage settles, use spring clip clothes pins to hold it in place while filling.

Line With Paper

This type of silo is constructed and filled at the same time. Filling is begun as soon as the first section is in shape. Fill within six or eight inches of the top. Put the second section of fence on top and inside of the first, lapping the ends about three inches. The second section is also lined with paper, lapping it over that of the first from four to six inches. When the second section is about half full, tie a band of No. 9 wire tightly around the middle of the first section. Additional sections may be added in the same manner.

But it is well, however, to keep in mind that the two silos will be better than a large one which will be in greater danger of toppling over. Three or four sections high is a safe limit for such a silo. The job that must be carefully done in filling both corn cribbing and corn bundle types of silos is that of tromping down. Weight should be equally distributed. Water may also be necessary.

The third type—corn bundle—was suggested by George Godfrey, assistant to the president at Iowa State College, to Mr. Shultz and Mr. Virtue. It is constructed by using corn bundles for the silo walls. Where care has been exercised in building and filling such silos have been successful.

Large Diameter

Experience points out that the diameter should be fairly large; most of these silos are built between 18 to 20 feet in diameter and rarely extend more than 16 feet high. The number of livestock to be fed should be taken into consideration before constructing this silo. Because of the large diameter, the number of livestock must be large enough to feed off the silage before it will spoil.

A level location similar to that of the corn cribbing type is necessary. It is also built and filled at the same time. Bundles like those used for filling the silo may be used for the walls. Bundles are laid around the circle, lapped about one-half. The order is reversed in the next row and the construction is continued in a like manner until four tiers of bundles have been laid. Filling is then begun.

When the silage reaches this height, lay a corn bundle at right angles to the wall with the butt extending into the silo towards the center, the tassels extending over past the wall. This is done every two feet around the wall to bring the silo in. Each succeeding unit of four tiers is built in the same manner. After the silo is about 10 feet high, pull in the wall as would be done in building a grain stack.

Meat Payroll Still Climbs

Employment Gains 2.1 Per Cent, Labor Figures Show

CHICAGO, Aug. 28 (Special)—Evidence of further improvement in employment and payroll conditions in the $2,000,000,000 meat packing industry was made public today by the Institute of American Meat Packers.

"An analysis of figures just published by the United States department of labor reveals that in both employment and payrolls, the index for the packing industry for July surpassed the average of all manufacturing industries—a situation which has now existed every month since September, 1930," the Institute announced.

"Based on the department of labor's index, which sets the average for 1923-25 as 100, employment in the packing industry in July of this year stood at 103.5, a gain of 2.1 per cent over June and an advance of 21.5 per cent over July, 1933.

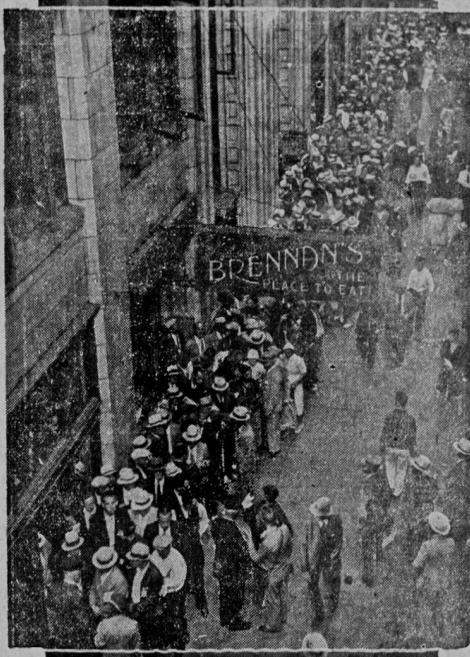

"Meanwhile, the industry's payroll index in July of this year was 91.4, a gain of 4.9 per cent over June and of 37.4 per cent over July, 1933."

The general employment index for all manufacturing industries in July was 78.6 and the general payroll index was 60.4.

CHICAGO TEACHERS RECEIVE PAY

Chicago's 18,000 teachers and other school employes who have waited months for their salaries did not mind waiting a few more hours in line for their long overdue pay checks. This line, which extended around three sides of the block, shows teachers at the entrance of the building where 35 cashiers began the disbursement of a $26,300,000 payroll to the teachers and civil service workers.

Injured Corn Should Be Put In Silo, Says Farm Expert

More feed for livestock can be obtained from corn injured severely by drought by putting it in a silo than in any other manner.

This is the conclusion reached by H. D. Hughes, head of farm crops at Iowa State college, after an exhaustive investigation of information available from all parts of the country.

Large acreages of corn in Iowa have so severely injured by drought and high temperatures that there is no longer any chance of getting a grain crop from it. Some of these fields should be cut without further delay in order to save as many of the leaves as possible. If a silo is available, the corn may be put into that; if one is not available, the corn may be shocked up and fed as fodder.

Corn Should Dry

It is important that immature corn be allowed to cure and dry somewhat before putting it in the silo; otherwise it will produce a soft dark and strongly acid silage, likely, to scour cattle if fed in large quantities. Because of the danger of leaf-rot from corn left standing, it probably will be best to cut the corn and then allow it to dry somewhat in the bundles or in small shocks. A better quality of silage is obtained if the corn is handled in this way.

If a silo is not available or if there is too much corn to put all of it in the silo, then the corn should be well dried out in the bundles before it is stacked or stored in the barn. If it is not well dried out, heavy losses may occur from heating.

Corn that is not being killed by heat and drought probably should be left as long as possible in the hope that rains may increase the acre yield of fodder even though there is no chance of it producing grain.

Pasturing Wasteful

Pasturing corn is usually wasteful. There have been reports from losses of stock pasturing drought injured corn, but it seems probable that these are due to digestive difficulties rather than to poisoning.

Sorghum checked by drought is known to be unsafe for pasture because of the frequent development of prussic acid which is very poisonous. Such a crop, however, can be cut and put in the silo or cut and cured for forage with entirely satisfactory results as the substances forming the poisonous acid break down and disappear during the curing process.

There have been a few instances when sudan grass seems to have developed this poison under the same conditions. Sudan, however, like the sorghum, is perfectly safe after it is cured. Danger when pasturing drought-stunted sudan is regarded as very slight. There is no evidence that the occasional losses reported where animals have been pastured on drought injured corn is due to the development of such a poison as develops in sorghum.

No "Fly-Free" Dates For Some Counties

No "fly-free" dates—dates after which it is safe to plant winter wheat—will be announced for southern Iowa counties this fall.

This decision was made by Iowa State College entomologists because of the great necessity for fall pasture crops in this area and because the Hessian fly population has been so greatly reduced by two years of extremely hot, dry weather.

Early planting of winter wheat will enable farmers to pasture the seedling this fall and yet obtain a satisfactory crop.

ATLANTA (AP)—The campaign of the Ku Klux Klan to unseat Senator Huey Long was reported well under way yesterday, under direction of Louisiana Klan officers but with advice and suggestions concerning the "method of operation" from national headquarters of the organization here.

What Others Think

Parliament Loses at Bridge

(From The Kansas City Times)

Waterloo bridge, one of the most famous of London bridges, is coming down and its destruction has produced a sizable storm of protest. For old Waterloo, unlike the other London bridge in the nursery song, is not falling down; it is being torn down with what the protesters describe as "indecent" haste. And it is being torn down, to make matters worse, by order of the London County council, which, for the first time in its history, is now dominated by a Socialist majority.

Parliament, which is an infinitely more august body than the county council and, incidentally, is dominated by a Conservative majority, had been carefully considering the case of Waterloo bridge for several years, without doing anything. Being saturated with sentiment for a structure that was opened by the great duke of Wellington in memory of the victory at Waterloo, parliament apparently had just about decided to leave the old bridge and concentrate upon a scheme to rebuild the nearby Charing Cross span, instead, when the upstart council jumped in and did irreparable damage to it, before parliament discovered what had happened.

It's a jarring blow to precedent. Suppose the county council decided to tear down the house of lords some day?

GOOD MORNING

It is time vituperation and bombast were laid aside in the controversy over the American merchant marine and some good solid thinking was applied to the problem.

The merchant marine has been a sore thumb on the hand of the United States since the war. Into it the taxpayers have poured uncounted millions of dollars, in exorbitant mail contract rates, in construction loans, in ships, in preferential legislation. From it their total gain is exactly zero, their loss astronomical.

Secretary of Agriculture Henry Wallace reopened the controversy not long ago when he suggested that we should let foreign ships carry more of our traffic. The remark brought a storm of bitter complaints from a number of strong-lunged minorities. As so often happens in loud arguments, both sides in this particular controversy are right.

As long as we insist that wars will never end and that we must maintain a navy like a sinker around our necks, an adequate merchant marine as an auxiliary to the fleet is essential, as we learned bitterly in 1917. How large the merchant fleet should be is a question for the naval experts to decide, without too much collaboration with the shipbuilders.

Thus, the question is almost entirely one of naval strategy, and the defensive needs of this country. As far as trade is concerned, we could get along very well if our whole merchant fleet were consigned to the bottom of the sea. In fact we would then be better off financially, for the whole thing, ships, crew and cargo, are largely furnished by taxation.

Until the war the merchant marine was not a problem of major importance. Sensibly, we let our goods be carried in foreign bottoms for the most part and settled only modest subsidies on a small fleet just to satisfy our national pride.

But when the war came a merchant fleet suddenly became vitally necessary. The government immediately took over the whole business, set up the United States Shipping board and Merchant Fleet corporation and began building ships. We sunk better than two billion dollars in a fleet that grew to be one of the largest business concerns in the world, operating 2,000 odd ships in every corner of the world.

But at the end of the war the hysteria for restoring everything but Uncle Sam's whiskers to private business enveloped the merchant marine along with everything else. The Shipping Board's great trade organization was broken up and the sorry process of giving away ships and money to good friends and promoters began.

Private business has never been able to make a go of the shipping game, and never will. It is a losing proposition. Every important nation is building more and bigger ships, at a time when the seas are loaded down with some 3,000,000 tons of excess hulls. It is a cut rate, cut throat business operated on taxes.

The ordinary, all-stock argument for the government keeping out of business because private enterprise can do a better job does not apply—if it applies anywhere—to the merchant marine. The only place it can possibly apply with a straight face is in enterprises that are self-supporting. But when a business becomes absolutely dependent for operation upon government subsidy, then it can no longer be reasonably argued that its control should be left entirely in private hands.

It was a colossal mistake when the government gave its holdings away in the first place, but of course that is done. But one mistake should not be the basis for the continuation of a poor policy.

There is only one sane solution of the merchant marine problem—government ownership and control. It would cost less in the first place, because it would centralize graft where it could be more easily detected.

But even more important, it would erase the unhealthy fiction of propaganda that the American merchant marine is the rosy-cheeked and self-supporting child of gallant patriots.

Behind The Scenes in HOLLYWOOD

By Harrison Carroll

HOLLYWOOD—Filmland's most unusual burglar has been shot and killed by Ruth Etting. The R-K-O singing star has a fish pond in her back yard filled with rare finny specimens. But, during the last two weeks, there has been a mysterious decimation of the fish. Ruth couldn't figure out whether they were being stolen or what. Getting up the other morning, she looked out the window and called for a rifle. A moment later she fired and—at a distance of 30 yards—brought down the thief.

It was a bird—apparently of the Kingfisher type. Ruth won't know just what until she gets a report from the University of Southern California.

The principals in the affair are not big names in the movies but the story is one of the funniest coming out of Hollywood in a long time. A film colony matron is said to have invited women friends over for lunch and for two tables of bridge. She planned to have creamed mushrooms and told the cook to prepare enough for second helpings. When the dishes went back, however, the cook called her mistress to the kitchen and apologized—she had set the remainder of the mushrooms on a chair and the dog had eaten them. The incident was passed off with laughs until the cook, laboring under excitement, again summoned her mistress to the kitchen. The dog was lying dead in the front yard.

Horrified, the matron called the family doctor, who came right over. After a hurried conference he went into the living room and broke the news. In the interest of safety the ladies should have their stomachs pumped out.

As the distracted hostess bid the last of her guests goodby the gardener in the next yard came over and touched his hat.

"I didn't want to ruin your party, 'missus," he said, "but your dog was killed by a car. I put him on your lawn."

Once more Hollywood friends have stepped in to aid Jim Thorpe in his long run of bad luck. The man who has been called the greatest of the all-Americans came to Norman Taurog the other day and asked for any kind of job in "College Rhythm."

Jim is too old to be cast as a football player any more and the coaches in the picture were already selected. But Taurog, who has used the great Indian star in all his football pictures, made a spot for Jim as co-technical director with Sam Barry of U. S. C.

KNICK-KNACKS
 Lupe Velez doesn't want to fly east with Johnny Weissmuller for that swimming meet but may do it if he insists... "The Merry Widow" developed censor trouble in only a few lines. But changing the rest of the sequence to fit caused several days of added scenes... DID YOU KNOW—

Washington Bystander

By KIRKE SIMPSON

WASHINGTON—Polignant memories of the "Stop Roosevelt" alliance of '33 must have filled President Roosevelt's mind when he looked over the initial cast of that unofficial alphabetical-by-product of the "new deal," A.L.L., the American Liberty League.

Here is "Friend Al" Smith cropping up again on the league executive committee; here is John W. Davis, Jouett Shouse, Ireneau du Pont and somewhere in the background, John Raabok. None of those names boded any good to the Roosevelt nomination cause in '32.

What does their new Liberty League alliance now, coupled with the names of Nathan Miller and Representative James W. Wadsworth from the old guard republican camp, bode for the "new deal" and the presidential "new dealer" himself in the future?

Spokesman Shouse, in announcing this new and strange political fellowship, replies to a query as to whether it is "anti-new deal" in objective, that it "definitely isn't anti-Roosevelt." How shall that be interpreted?

One And the Same
 Are not the "new deal" and the "new dealer" one and the same? Can anybody, even this new concert of political personages which sounds like the war-time "alleged and associated powers," be at the same time for the "new dealer" and against a supposed "new deal" policy conception that sets human rights above property rights? Shouse, naturally, declined to say how Mr. Roosevelt had received advance notice of the league. It may be imagined in the circumstances that he said nothing definite; that he thought of that old warning to beware Greeks bearing gifts. "We hope to prove of help to him (the president)," says Shouse.

Against Inflation?
 Yet there is another side to it. What is the drift toward radicalism which Shouse detects? There is no impressive movement in sight toward a change in the form of government. There is and has been continuously strong pressure for currency inflation as a means of redistributing wealth.

Twice the president has managed to hold off mandatory congressional action in that direction only by taking over statutory authority to do it and then not exercising that authority. When the next congress gets down to paying the tax pipe for "new deal" costs, the pressure for an inflationary method of doing it is certain to be great.

Is the league's "help" to be in that connection? It promises no immediate political activity now but a steady flow of "educational" matter.

In any event, A.L.L. will have to be measured by its fruits. It could signify a conservative breakaway in the president's own party. If it does, the fact that its present executive personnel is made up entirely of native or adopted sons of the east, most of them of New York city, with the exception of Shouse, is worth nothing. Why no politically important westerners or southerners?

Abolish Press Wires?

Here is Senator Thomas D. Schall of Minnesota, who has revived his charges in a second letter to President Roosevelt that the federal government plans to abolish private press associations in favor of a government news service.

Farley Sets Schedule For Speaking Tour

WASHINGTON, Aug. 28 (AP)—Postmaster General Farley said today the tentative itinerary for his next western trip called for speeches at Chicago, Council Bluffs, Omaha, Minneapolis and points in the Dakotas.

The trip will be made some time between Sept. 24 and Oct. 3, with Farley speaking in Chicago Sept. 28 at the opening of the Illinois state Democratic campaign. Dates for the rest of the speaking engagements are dependent on those arranged for the New York state Democratic convention.

Farley said he thought the New York convention will be held Sept. 24 and 25, after which he will go to Chicago, and then continue his swing through the plains states from there.

The Council Bluffs speech will be given before the Iowa rural letter carriers convention. Farley will make a political speech at Omaha the same day, then go through the Dakotas and Minneapolis. The sites of the Dakota speeches have not been selected.

 The Campbell Jersey farms of Jewell captured the grand championship in the female class of the Jersey show on Oxford Darline. Senior champion bull in the Guernsey show

Government Scientists Report on Complexions Of Tomato Aristocrats

Scientists of the United States department of agriculture who have made a careful study of tomato varieties in connection with the identification of the principal commercial varieties, found that the ideal color of a variety does not always develop to the same extent in different regions.

Under abnormally high temperatures, or when the fruits are exposed to the direct rays of the sun without shade from leaves, the characteristic rich red may not develop. Varieties that are of a rich brilliant scarlet in the central and northern regions of the country tend toward a greenish color under the higher temperatures of the south and southwest.

The rich red of canned tomatoes testifies to the fact that growers who have produced these perfect tomatoes for canners' use, have selected their crop, allowing them to grow under conditions which are best suited to their complexions.

was Radium S.W., shown by Cooper farms of Ardmore, Okla. R. E. Stutz and Sons company of Jamestown, S. D., continued today their sweep through the sheep classes, winning champion ram and ewe in the Oxford Down division. Champion ram and ewe Chester were shown by R. E. Pullin of Waterloo.

The fair on its seventh day gathered momentum, an estimated crowd of more than 32,000 bustling about the grounds. The estimated attendance, however, fell short of last year when more than 35,000 attended.

Civil War Vets Honored
 Today's program was dedicated to the annual group of bent and gnarled men who three score and 10 years ago shouldered muskets to preserve the union. The Civil War veterans gathered under a tent on the grounds in special celebration.

Featured guest of the day, Gov. Clyde L. Herring, was unable to attend and State Treasurer Leo J. Wegman represented him. Earl Murray, secretary of agriculture, was main speaker.

Competition continued in a variety of contests. The state fair checker tournament ended with J. P. Duffy, 54, of Des Moines, the champion.

Stuffed Green Peppers

4 peppers 1-4 teaspoon
1 cup corn paprika
1 egg yolk 1-4 teaspoon
1-2 cup soft celery salt crumbs 2 tablespoons
1 tablespoon butter
chopped 1 teaspoon
14 teaspoon salt chopped
parsley

Wash peppers, cut off tops. Remove seeds and pulp, discard. Mix rest of ingredients. Stuff peppers. Arrange side by side in small pan. Add 1-2 inch water. Bake in moderate oven 30 minutes. Baste several times during baking.

Cheese Dressing

1 teaspoon salt 1-4 teaspoon 14 teaspoon celery seed paprika 1-3 cup yellow 14 teaspoon dry cream cheese mustard 1-2 cup salad oil 1 teaspoon 3 tablespoons sugar vinegar

Blend dry ingredients, mixing with fork, add cheese, add 1-3 oil. Alternate remaining oil with vinegar. Beat 2 minutes. Chill. Serve poured over plain or vegetable salad.

Peach Cobbler

1-1/2 cups flour 4 tablespoons
1 teaspoon baking fat powder 1 egg
14 teaspoon salt 1-2 cup milk
Mix flour, baking powder and salt. Cut in fat with knife. Mixing with knife, add egg and milk. Pour soft dough over peach mixture.

Peach Mixture

1-1/2 cups 1 teaspoon peaches cinnamon
2-3 cup sugar 1-2 teaspoon
1 tablespoon vanilla flour 3 tablespoons
1-8 teaspoon salt butter
1 teaspoon salt 1-2 cup water

Blend peaches, sugar, flour and salt. Add rest of ingredients and pour into buttered shallow baking dish. Cover with dough. Make 4 holes in top. Bake 30 minutes in moderate oven. Serve warm.

Soft Cooked Eggs

3 eggs 1 teaspoon
3 cups water butter
1-8 teaspoon salt

Place eggs in water, set over moderate fire and slowly bring to boil. Let boil 1 minute. Turn off fire or remove pan from stove and let stand one minute. Break shells and carefully remove contents into warm cup, add butter and salt. Serve immediately.

If harder eggs are desired let them boil 2 minutes.

Cottage Cheese and Cucumber Salad

2-3 cup cottage 2 tablespoons cheese chopped
1 cup sliced celery
cucumbers 1-4 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon fine 1-8 teaspoon ly chopped paprika
onions 1-8 teaspoon 2 tablespoons 4 tablespoons chopped mayonnaise
pimientos

Chill ingredients. Arrange mounds of cottage cheese in centers on lettuce. Surround with rest of ingredients and serve immediately.

Browned Fish

1 pound fish fillet 1-4 teaspoon
1-3 cup flour paprika
5 tablespoons
14 teaspoon salt fat

Wash fillet well in cold water. Wipe dry with soft paper and chill. Sprinkle well with flour on both sides. Heat fat in frying pan, add and quickly brown fillet. Brown on both sides. Add salt and paprika. Cover. Lower fire and cook 15 minutes or until fish is very tender when tested with fork. Turn several times to allow even browning.

Peach Ice Cream Mousse

8 egg yolks 2 cups crushed
2 cups sugar peaches
1-2 cup water 2 teaspoons
2 cups whipped cream
vanilla

Mix 1 cup sugar with peaches, mash well and chill. Mix other cup sugar with water and boil 1 minute; slowly pour over egg yolks placed in double boiler. Cook slowly, stirring constantly, until mixture thickens a little. Beat well and cool. Add cream and pour into tray in mechanical refrigerator. Allow to freeze 30 minutes, remove tray, add vanilla and peach mixture. It will require about 4 hours in all for mixture to freeze. This is delicious, but of course very rich and small portions should be served.

If desired the mixture can be tightly sealed in mold, and buried 4 hours in 2 parts chopped ice to one part coarse salt.

Fruit Nut Bread

3 cups flour 1-2 cup figs
3 teaspoons baking 1-2 cup nuts
powder 1 egg
1-2 teaspoon salt 1-2-3 cups milk
2-3 cup sugar 2 tablespoons
1-2 cup raisins fat, melted

Mix ingredients and pour into greased loaf pan. Let stand 15 minutes. Bake 60 minutes in slow oven.

Chilled Fruit Punch

1 cup lemon 1-2 cups sugar juice
2 cups orange 3 cups water juice 8 cups iced
1 cup raspberry water
berry juice

Boil sugar and water 3 minutes. Add rest of ingredients. Chill. Serve

Add lemon juice, pour into tray in mechanical refrigerator and after 30 minutes remove tray and stir partially frozen mixture. Add beaten whites. Return to refrigerator and after 30 minutes repeat stirring. It will require about 4 hours in all to freeze this sherbet.

If desired the sherbet can be frozen by the regular freezer method, adding egg whites when mixture begins to freeze.

Shortcake season can extend over the whole year. When berries are gone, peaches and apples can be used for fall serving.

Bedford Hauls Water Supply

Daily Shipments Will Be Brought From St. Joseph, Mo.

BEDFORD, Aug. 28 (AP)—Approximately 20,000 gallons of water arrived here today by railroad tank cars to augment the city water supply which failed Sunday.

This was the first of regular daily shipments of 30,000 gallons which are to come from St. Joseph, Mo., until rains replenish the local supply.

It was decided at a meeting of the city council to raise the rate from 60 cents to $2.50 a thousand gallons until the present crisis is past. It is expected the increased rate will decrease the average daily consumption.

The water is being stored in the city wells until it is pumped into the city treating basins for use in the mains.

Schools will open Monday although for a time it was feared that the opening might be temporarily deferred.

Bond Market Quiet; Steel Issues Gain

NEW YORK, Aug. 28 (AP)—Irregularities developed in today's quiet bond market and the list, as a whole, was a bit easier at the close of trading.

Transfers totalled $8,214,000, par value, against $8,957,000 yesterday, and the Standard Statistics Co. average for 60 domestic corporate loans was off one-tenth of a point at 84.4.

Activity in some of the steel company bonds followed announcement of completion of negotiations for a merger of the Republic Iron & Steel organization with the Corrigan-McKinney Co. The best advance of the day was recorded by Republic 5 1-2s which at 97 1-2, showed a net gain of 7 1-4 points.

In addition to Republic 5 1-2s, the same company's 5s were up 1-2 a point at 103 1-4. Other steel gainers included Inland Steel 4 1-2s of 1978, up 1-8 at 100 5-8; Inland Steel 5 1-2s of 1981, up 3-8 at 100; National Steel 5s up 3-8 at 102 7-8; Otis Steel 6s, up 1-4 at 87 1-4, and Trumbull Steel 6s, up 1 3-4 at 100. Bethlehem Steel Refunding 5s, however, dropped 4 1-2 points to 105.

Rails exhibited a rather heavy tone coincident with overnight consideration of the roads' plea to the interstate commerce commission for an increase in freight rates. The more active carrier lines, principally of the secondary category, suffered losses of fractions to a point or more.

Most of the utilities and industrial issues followed an extremely narrow range.

Two Killed, 300 Injured as Oil Tanks Explode

CAMPANA, Argentina, Aug. 28 (AP)—Two persons were killed, two were reported missing and nearly 300 suffered injuries as 12 huge gasoline and oil storage tanks blew up here today, causing damage estimated at $5,500,000.

Two of those injured were reported to be gravely hurt, 12 others were in more or less serious condition while another 70 received hospital treatment.

It was estimated that 200 other persons were treated at their homes or at drug stores for cuts, bruises, and other slight injuries.

Milkmaid Champ

Lorraine Jennings, 22, of Ellwood, Ill., who won the milkmaid championship of Will county, Illinois, and in doing so set a new world's record, according to judges of the Pure Milk association. Miss Jennings milked 22.1 pounds of milk in three minutes to break the previous record of 21.3.

Nazis Expel Writer

After literary attacks on the regime of Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler, expulsion from Germany of Mrs. Dorothy Thompson Lewis, wife of Sinclair Lewis, has stirred comment in international journalistic circles. Mrs. Lewis recently criticized outspokenly the Nazi regime.

Stock Market Goes Lower: Trading Dull

NEW YORK, Aug. 28 (AP)—Back in the summer doldrums, the stock market drifted a trifle lower today in one of the duller sessions of the year. Turnover was only 404,220 shares compared with 534,200 yesterday.

The approach of Labor day and talk of a seasonal upturn in business over the next few weeks failed to whet the speculative appetite for equities.

The Standard Statistics Co. average for 90 stocks receded to 74.1, off four-tenths of a point, as the market gave up some more of the ground it won on last week's upturn.

American Can, U. S. Steel, General Electric, General Motors, American Telephone, J. I. Case, Montgomery Ward, Standard Oil of New Jersey and other leading trading mediums were unchanged or showed only small fractional changes at the close.

Steel shares did not respond perceptibly to the Republic-Corrigan, McKinney merger news. It had been under discussion for some time. Liquor shares encountered some demand on talk of improvement in that industry.

There was scattered fluctuation in some chemical shares, partly influenced by belief that if the threatened textile strike materializes it might influence demand for chemicals. Allied Chemical lost 2 points. Dupont, on the other hand, was a firm spot.

Rails eased further as the financial district studied implications of the railroads' move for higher freight rates. Evidence of a seasonal upturn in loadings was still lacking in individual reports of carriers. A little selling dribbled into textile shares.

Bondurant Man Faces Charge of Car Theft

DES MOINES, Aug. 28 (AP)—Raymond O. Kinney, Bondurant, Ia., was returned to Des Moines from Waterloo today to face charges of car theft. He confessed, deputy sheriffs said, to taking the car of Ardis Adams, Mitchellville, several days ago, when he was "starting north to find work."

Pleasantville Man Commits Suicide

KNOXVILLE, Aug. 28 (AP)—Howard Johnson, 41, ended his life today by hanging himself at his home in Pleasantville. His act was attributed to despondency over ill health. He had been badly wounded in the World war.
