MORRO CASTLE DEATH LIST MOUNTS

Labor Submits Proposal for Arbitration of Textile Strike

Mill Owners Challenged To Accept Plan; Would Present Full Power to F.R.'s Board

Asks Shutdown of Mills During Negotiations For Settlement

WASHINGTON, Sept. 8.—Labor abruptly submitted the first peace proposal of the great textile strike tonight and "challenged" the mill owners to accept it.

With both sides preparing for a grim and crucial test of strength on Monday, Francis J. Gorman, national strike leader, called for arbitration, with all mills to be closed during the negotiations, and strikers and employers bound in advance to abide by the result.

"Important Announcement" "I come now to the most important announcement that has been made since the strike began," he said in a radio speech.

"Every conflict ends in peace. Peace must come to the textile industry. We now propose that peace formula.

"We Propose..." "We propose that the present presidential board become a board of arbitration. We propose that arbitration begin not later than Monday, Sept. 10, 1934.

"Challenge Management" "We propose this now, so that further murder of our fellow-workers may be avoided. We challenge management to agree to this orderly procedure toward peace."

George A. Sloan president of the Cotton Textile Institute, and other spokesmen for the industry could not be reached for their response to the Gorman proposal.

The mill owners, close observers were convinced, would at least insist upon resuming normal operations through the weeks that the board might find necessary for reaching a decision.

However, the Gorman proposal was regarded as a hopeful sign and the announcement was received with a disposition to believe that concessions might follow that would permit arbitration with the mills in operation meanwhile.

Determined to open a number of mills on Monday, employers devoted the week end to increasing protective measures. Labor accepted their challenge by increasing the scope of the walkout.

Gorman called out all workers in the upholstery, drapery, carpet, rug, pile fabric, plush and velvet plants.

Long, Walmsley Agree to Hold Election Minus Armed Forces

Citizens Group Draws Up Agreement For Peaceful Vote

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 8 (AP)—Under threats of bloodshed and complete martial law for New Orleans in Tuesday's Democratic primary, an armistice to keep all armed forces away from the polls was agreed upon tonight by Mayor T. Semmes Walmsley and his political adversary, Senator Huey P. Long.

Both Long and Walmsley factions accepted an agreement drawn up for a peaceful election by the executive committee of an organization of 100 citizens who issued a "call to duty" and enlisted recruits as a "non partisan" group of intervenors in the Long-Walmsley dispute.

Under this agreement Long's 2,000 state militiamen and Walmsley's 1,500 policemen with their arms will be barred from duty at the polls and the conduct of the election will be placed in the hands of an arbitration committee of five men who

19 Per Cent Property Tax Cut Indicated

Replacement in Some Counties to Reach 25 Per Cent

DES MOINES, Sept. 8 (AP)—A 19.41 per cent average reduction in property taxes for each Iowa county was indicated in a survey and allocation of three-point tax revenue released today by State Auditor C. W. Storms.

Earlier today, Chairman Ray Murphy of the state board of assessment and review, predicted that the property tax replacement next year would be as high as 25 per cent in some counties.

Average of All Counties The 19.41 per cent is the average for all counties as indicated by Auditor Storms' compilation. The reduction will be effected by the new sources of income from the sales tax, net income tax and business franchise tax, the tax board has asserted.

Money allocated to each county treasurer will be credited to individual direct property taxpayers when they pay the second installment of taxes due Sept. 1, 1935.

Allocation by Ratio Each county will receive its allocation of new tax money to an amount equal to the ratio the assessed valuation of property in the county bears to the total assessed valuation of property in the state.

The credit to the individual property taxpayer, in turn, will be in ratio of the assessed valuation of his property to the assessed valuation of all property in the state.

$9,000,000 to Be Allocated According to the auditor's table, $9,000,000 will be allocated to county treasurers next August. With elimination of the $6,487,000 state levy, this brings the total of predicted replacement to $15,487,000 for 1935.

The table prepared by the auditor's office showed some of the following anticipated apportionments of three-point tax money: Blackhawk county: $176,583 for general, $127,389 state levy reduction, total $303,972, per cent of replacement 16.07.

Dubuque county: $173,645; state levy replacement $125,162; total $298,807; per cent 14.12. Johnson county: $110,954; state levy $79,979; total $190,933; per cent 19.20.

Linn: $254,612; state levy $190,733; total $445,347; per cent 15.99.

Whites Battle 400 Negroes

Fight Turns Into Race Riot in Town in Maryland

PRINCESS ANNE, Md., Sept. 8 (AP)—A race riot between 200 white men and from four to five hundred Negroes was raging on the streets of this small town on the eastern shore of Maryland at 11:30 o'clock tonight. The entire Negro population was being driven from the town.

The trouble started when a Negro allegedly cursed a white man on the street and the two engaged in a fist fight.

Gathers Friends The white man, whose name could not be immediately learned, badly beat the Negro and drove him from the streets.

A few minutes later the white man started gathering his friends and, rapidly increasing as it marched down the streets, the crowd started for Negro town.

Forcing their way into a Negro restaurant at the north end of the town, the men found the already beaten Negro, dragged him out, and began beating him again.

In a few minutes, a battle royal was raging.

Negroes Flee The Negroes were scattered and the crowd of white men gathered in angry groups and began talking. A short while later they made a rush into Negro town and began scattering men, women and children.

Screaming and with blood on all directions—afoot and in automobiles, the whites after them with fists, clubs, bricks, and knives. Some of the Negroes fought back, but soon fled.

How many persons were injured and whether any were killed could not immediately be learned.

Senate's War Investigation Brings Protest

Argentina Sends Note To U. S.; Chile Asks Facts

WASHINGTON, Sept. 8 (AP)—Diplomatic representations by two countries, one a protest, reverberated today from the senate probe into war making materials—an investigation which senators said had only scratched the surface.

The Argentine government formally protested in writing to the state department against a statement by Senator Bone (D., Wash.). The remark was declared to have reflected upon the "integrity" of an Argentine official.

Chile Asks Full Facts The Chilean government also asked the state department for full facts concerning statements made at the hearings about its officials.

The Chilean embassy said the men in question would be either punished or cleared of "reflection." These representations and a protest against open hearings, made by the Du Pont interests, deterred the senate committee men not at all.

"Will Go On" "The inquiry will go on," said Senator Nye (R., N. D.), chairman of the investigating committee.

"Revelations thus far merely scratch the surface," said Senator Pope (D., Idaho). "They (the facts) reveal an ominous and menacing condition," added Senator Bone.

"No wonder peace walks on crutches," asserted Senator Vandenberg (R., Mich.).

Others to Follow Move Additional statements today by the committee men showed that the group generally agreed not only that similar foreign investigations should follow, but also that war should be stripped of its profits through government monopoly in munitions manufacture.

The consensus of committee men was that facts developed in the first week of hearings exceeded even their own expectations, and should stir other nations to check up the situation in their own provinces.

Youth Charged With Murder

First Degree Count Lodged Against Hitch-Hiker

SCHUYLER, Neb., Sept. 8 (AP)—A first degree murder charge was lodged here today against Harold Malmborg, 20, of Des Moines, the confessed slayer of his benefactor, Russell Goodwin, 42, a Genoa, Neb., salesman.

Still speaking dully and taking little interest in events, Malmborg was brought here this afternoon by Sheriff Phil Roether and Night Officer Stanley Ondraeck from Fremont. He was arrested last night at Hooper after being sought since Thursday morning when he shot Goodwin, who had given him a ride, and drove away in his car.

Vote in Maine Brings 'Bribe,' 'Fake' Charges

G. O. P.'s Accuse F. R. Of Making False Promises

WASHINGTON, Sept. 8 (AP)—Republican leaders, centering their efforts on Monday's election in Maine, today charged that the Roosevelt administration is seeking to "bribe" the voters of that state into support of the New Deal by holding out hope of a $47,000,000 public works projects.

The word "bribe" was used by Representative Bolton of Ohio, co-chairman of the Republican senatorial-congressional committee, Henry P. Fletcher, chairman of the Republican national committee, in a simultaneous statement asserted the revival of the Passa-Maquoddi power project in Maine by the administration was a "fake."

Hotbed of Politics Maine, which holds its election two months before the other 47 states, will elect on Monday a governor, senator and three house members. It has been a hotbed of politics for weeks, with Republican and Democratic forces throwing their best campaigners into the state in an effort to win, for the sake of psychological effect on other states.

At present, the Democrats hold two house seats and the governorship, while Republicans fill the senate and the other house seat.

Both Fletcher and Bolton predicted that Republicans would come out on top.

"Deal Some Body Blows" "I confidently expect a Republican victory in Maine on Monday," Fletcher said. "The New Deal has been dealt some body blows in the course of this campaign. Even life long Democrats refuse to stand for it."

"The fake revival of the Passa-Maquoddi power project is a gesture of despair. The administration knows it is a bluff."

Fletcher referred to Secretary Ickes' recent visit to the state where, as Bolton put it, the public works administrator "inferred, but not promised, that if Maine 'votes right' the money ($47,000,000) will be spent in the state."

A.A.U. Names Armbruster

Succeeds Bresnahan As Mid-West Group President

David A. Armbruster, University of Iowa swimming coach, was elected president of the Midwestern association of the Amateur Athletic Union Friday night by delegates to the annual meeting in Omaha, according to an Associated Press report. Coach Armbruster will succeed George T. Bresnahan, Iowa track coach.

Two of the three swimming records approved at the meeting were made by Hawkeyes. They are: 300 yard medley—Jack Sieg, a junior this year, 3:54.5; 150 yard backstroke—Richard W. Westerfield, Cedar Rapids, 1:46.4. Westerfield was a member of the Hawkeye freshman team last winter and is one of the best varsity prospects. The third record was that of Jack McGuire of the Des Moines Y.M.C.A., in the 100 yard free style with a time of 54.3.

Other officers chosen were: William Thomas of Omaha, re-elected secretary-treasurer; A. Y. Russell of Drake university, first vice president; A. A. Schabinger of Creighton university, second vice president and Irvin Levin of Omaha, third vice president. All 1935 Midwest meets were awarded to Omaha except the basketball tournament, to be sponsored by the Iowa Junior Chamber of Commerce.

Jury Acquits Neal Myers

Returns Verdict After Five Hours Of Deliberation

NORMAN, Okla., Sept. 8 (AP)—A jury of farmers acquitted Neal Myers today of a charge of murder brought in connection with the death of his college sweetheart, Marian Mills, 19.

Tears flooded the eyes of the 21 year old pharmacy student as the jury announced the verdict, overriding the state's contention that the University of Oklahoma beauty queen died last July from the effects of an illegal operation for which it sought to hold Myers responsible.

"I feel the memory of Marian Mills as well as myself has been vindicated by the verdict," Myers said as he left the court room.

The 12 male jurors deliberated five hours and 14 minutes, returning the verdict at 5:40 p.m. central standard time.

Judge Pace had instructed the jury it must acquit the pharmacy student or find that Miss Mills was an expectant mother at the time of her death, that Myers used an instrument in an effort to avert motherhood, and that the operation, if any, was not necessary to save her life.

Myers testified he had attempted many times to persuade Miss Mills to marry him. He declared he was innocent of any attempt to prevent her becoming a mother.

WSUI Request Is Returned

To Hold Up Application For Added Power Until Later

WSUI's application to the Federal Communications commission for more power was returned last week at the request of the University of Iowa, it was learned yesterday.

Officials of the university explained last night that the application is being held up pending a conference late this month of college radio station representatives, and a meeting early next month of the communications commission.

The application for an increase over WSUI's present limitation of 500 watts was filed in Washington about three weeks ago while a proposal to merge the local station with the police broadcast was under consideration.

The federal commission has indicated that it would make a complete review of the American radio system, but has not indicated what its attitude toward educational stations might be.

Estimates of Dead, Missing Vary From 117 to 225; High Wind Keeps Searchers Ashore

Federal Government, Ward Line Start Investigation Into Cause of Fire; Survivors Recount Tales of Horror

THE DISASTER IN A NUTSHELL

(By The Associated Press) CASUALTIES: Independent surveys indicate 117 dead or missing; New Jersey national guard estimates around 171. THE VESSEL: Morro Castle, 11,620 tons, turbo-electric liner, in operation by the Ward Line from Havana to New York, with crew of 240 and 318 vacation travelers. THE COMMAND: Capt. Robert Wilmott died of acute indigestion Friday night. Chief Officer W. F. Warms, in charge when fire started, remained with his ship as efforts were made to tow it to New York. THE FIRE: Started in library. Ship ablaze at 3:15 a.m. E.S.T. in the Atlantic eight miles off Asbury Park, N. J. and 30 miles from New York. SOS dispatched at 3:25 a.m. THE CAUSE: Some conjectured that lightning had ignited the vessel. The Havana agent of the Ward line denied sabotage. The line's headquarters awaited accurate information on the functioning of automatic fire control apparatus and what difficulty passengers experienced in reaching lifeboats. Some firemen reported no water pressure for the fire hose.

(Copyright, 1934, By The Associated Press) NEW YORK, Sept. 9 (Sunday)—The luxurious liner Morro Castle was destroyed by fire off the Jersey coast Saturday in one of the most tragic sea disasters of recent years, and early today between 117 and 225 passengers and crew were dead or missing.

The liner, flames still crackling over the mass of superstructure wreckage, was beached last night at Asbury Park, N. J., towed to the shallow water by the coast guard cutter Tampa.

Rescue Ship Captain Tells Of Disaster

Estimates Vary Of a total of 558 persons aboard, bound for New York from a Havana cruise, 441 had been tentatively placed in the list of survivors compiled by Associated Press reporters from groups washed ashore along the gale-swept Jersey coast or brought to docks here by rescue ships.

Jersey national guardsmen, mobilized from their encampment into relief squadrons, estimated there were 371 bodies in Jersey towns along the coast. This figure, however, was believed to include some duplications.

List Not Complete The Ward line, early last night, placed the list of survivors at 333—leaving 225 unaccounted for. Line officials said the list, of course, was not complete, and they made no further tabulations throughout the night.

As rapidly as possible, the militia and coast guardsmen were transporting the bodies to a central morgue hurriedly set up in the national guard barracks at Sea Girt, N. J., to facilitate identification by the long lines of relatives and friends.

Two Days for Identification It will be at least two days, coast guardsmen said, before all the dead will be identified.

Throughout the night, the nor'easter through which the Morro Castle was ploughing to her home port continued to beat down on the bleak coast.

Coast guardsmen were forced to keep their boats ashore. Search would have been futile in the heavy seas.

Around midnight, the storm abated somewhat and early today the rescue parties all along the shore prepared to search the waters again.

As the dead were being counted, the federal government and the Ward line, operators of the Morro Castle, opened their investigations and studied the reports of the origin of the fire.

Most survivors were in agreement (Turn to Page 2)

Survivors of Holocaust Tell Of Swimming to Avoid Death

(Copyright, 1934, by the Associated Press) SPRING LAKE, N. J., Sept. 6 (AP)—Fighting for their lives through fire and storm, swimming through the raging Atlantic for hours, exhausted but keeping on—forward, somewhere through the fog, was land or rescuer.

This was told tonight the stories of survivors of the Morro Castle morning of horror.

At a hospital in Point Pleasant Mrs. Abraham Cohen, rested from her terrible ordeal, told how she and her husband, both from Hartford, Conn., swam for six hours to reach land after jumping overboard.

"I heard something outside our cabin. At first I thought I was dreaming. I rushed to the door, opened it. Flames filled the hatchway. My husband awakened. We put on our bathrobes.

"We went out through the flames and finally made our way to the B deck. The decks were filled with screaming people. Everyone seemed excited. "The smoke hung low. The fumes almost suffocated us. People were milling and jammed close together. There didn't seem to be anyone who could keep the people quiet. "My husband and I made our way to the crowded railing and decided the best thing to do was to jump. We did. I guess we were plenty scared all right, but there wasn't time to think about it. "Once in the water, our first thought was to get away from the boat. There were others struggling in the water around us. But after we got started and swam awhile we didn't see any more people. We saw no life boats about it. "We struck the lights on the shore. The water was warm. The waves seemed to help us along toward the shore. Best of all, we kept side by side all the way. "We'd help each other keep afloat (Turn to Page 2)

Action At Last

SOMETHING resembling action was taken Friday night by the city council, when it voted unanimously in favor of proceeding with the proposed sewage disposal plant and agreed to present the proposition to the state board of education.

If the plan is to be built, it is to be hoped that negotiations are completed quickly so as to provide badly needed work for Iowa City's unemployed this winter.

Mussolini Blusters Of War

SIGNOR Mussolini's sinister actions and more sinister pronouncements are beginning to be tiresome to a world weary of blustering dictators and talk of wars.

Il Duce ranks high, as dictators go, but he is a dictator nevertheless and displays the unhealthy attributes common to them all.

If he is to be taken at face value, he believes in war not simply because he thinks it is necessary as a tonic stimulation to the Italian race. All one can say to that is that one feels sorry for a race in need of such stimulation.

If Mussolini thinks war is inevitable, he is following the best possible course to make it so. Already he enjoys a virtual alliance with Austria, and has incurred the active animosity of the Little Entente. If he pursues his present tactics to their logical conclusion, he will find need of his arms and men, and will deserve the condemnation of all the world.

Legends Of The Sea

THE MORRO Castle disaster yesterday morning brings to mind other accidents of the sea that have made lasting news, and impresses one with the scarcity of such stimulation.

The Associated Press yesterday recalled that the burning of the Morro Castle was the second major shipping disaster off the eastern coast of the United States in the last 80 years, a record to be respected. The other was the sinking of the Vestris off the Virginia Capes in 1928.

But the Titanic remains the greatest of them all. The story of its crash into a mid-Atlantic iceberg and the loss of hundreds of lives is already a legend of ocean shipping.

What Others Think

Reported With Regret

Two regrettable aspects of the football game between the Bears and the All-Americans have been insufficiently commented upon. In the first place, there was a public announcer system, but it didn't work very well. It mumbled; and in consequence the spectators had to observe for themselves what was happening on the field. Many of the younger persons present had never had the experience before and were plainly ill at ease. Some remained helpless and putting to the end, but it was noticed that, with a little help between quarters from old-timers, the brighter among the young people soon caught the idea. By the middle of the third quarter many of them, it was plain, knew where the ball was and in whose possession, without a word of help from any one. One young man was heard to say that though he wouldn't care to go through the experience again, it was fun of a sort while it lasted.

The other lapse has to do with cheer leaders. There were a number of them present on the field, but, as neither the Bears nor the All-Stars had a yell, there was astonishingly little for the cheer leaders to do. That, of course, did not prevent them from doing many things, generally concluding with a leap in the air, a hand spring and a double cartwheel. In contrast, the behavior of the spectators left much to be desired. Where good taste would have prompted every one to try, at least, to encourage one team or another, if only by barking or coughing in rhythm, there was only silence except when something happened to bring cheers spontaneously to the lips. It was difficult to believe that so well dressed and in all other respects so mannerly a crowd could show itself so inadequate to a great occasion.

End the Strike Now!

The growth of violence and the mounting toll of dead and injured in the textile strike, coupled with the appointment of a board of inquiry and mediation by the president, leave but one reasonable and tenable course for those responsible for the strike. It is to halt it, and at once, by the calling of a truce pending the outcome of negotiations by the impartial and officially constituted body.

To permit the strike to continue under the conditions that have developed and with the certainty of further violence would be to jeopardize the lives of workers, organized and unorganized, to endanger the safety of communities and to prolong disorder to an intolerable degree.

Francis J. Gorman, chairman of the strike committee, issues the ultimatum that "we shall agree to it (any arbitration that may be offered) only after we have closed all mills in all divisions of the industry." But the methods being used in an attempt to close the plants inevitably provoke strife. Flying squadrons are being sent from place to place to fortify local pickets who alone are insufficient in numbers to keep workers from the mills and force the closings. There is the situation that produces the violence as the authorities endeavor to preserve order.

The proposal that strikers themselves be deputized to "enforce the law" would mean simply that they be given a free hand to close the mills and to dominate the situation until a settlement agreeable to the one side had been obtained.

That is contrary to the whole spirit of orderly procedure, of helpful mediation and a fair adjustment of differences. If there is full confidence in the cause of the strike there can be a complete readiness to leave the final decision to the properly constituted body and to refrain from any interference in the meantime.

So obvious are the demands of the situation that public sentiment of the country will give its support to peaceable and impartial procedure. The purpose of labor will best be served by a counsel of reason and moderation. The strike should be halted while the justice of the issue is being established.

GOOD MORNING

It is to be hoped that the senate committee investigating the manufacture and sale of arms does not stop until its revelations serve to purge the militarists of their smugness and convince the American people that they and their government have been and are being used as the cheapest sort of pawns in a filthy business.

The part played by King George in the promotion of armament sales to foreign countries, while it brought gasps of astonishment in the committee room, was not surprising. As the head of the Driggs Ordnance Engineering company testified, the British royal family has been engaged for some time in the fine art of sales propaganda.

More intriguing from the American point of view is the fact that the United States army and navy have promoted the sale of domestic-made arms to foreign governments.

The note to the Driggs company from C. E. Robbins of Cedar Rapids, written in 1928 when he was assistant secretary of war, is especially interesting:

"It is the desire of the war department to encourage the manufacture of munitions in the United States by commercial manufacturers. The war department would be willing to release to your company the designs of our latest anti-aircraft material with the exception of certain secret portions, provided you had a contract with a foreign government for the production of a quantity of anti-aircraft material which you would agree to manufacture in the United States."

Since his service in the war department, Mr. Robbins has been a vociferous champion of a bigger and better army, more and better armaments, and orates volubly about the inevitability of war on the ground that "human nature can't be changed." In common with most men of the kind, he probably would raise the cry of Socialism and complain of the stifling of private initiative if it were proposed that the munitions business be taken over by the government.

It was also interesting to notice that a number of powerful, long range military aircraft have been sold by this country to Japan, against whom the militarists are constantly stirring up animosity in the United States.

And it was juicy news that the United States navy has been used, as Senator Nye dryly put it, "as a salesman's sample case." This remark referred to testimony, with pictures, showing that Turkish military officials had been given the freedom of American warships in 1929 to inspect armaments made by the Driggs firm.

That the armament business, and war itself, is nothing but a racket, cold-blooded and unnecessary, should be evident by this time to the most naive. Patriotism and national honor, in the face of all this testimony, are nothing but bait to entice the "dumb" masses into conflicts by which new demands for arms can be created.

It was encouraging to notice that President Roosevelt has promised the investigating committee the full support of the administration in its efforts to paint the racket as it is.

Behind The Scenes in HOLLYWOOD By Harrison Carroll

HOLLYWOOD, Cal. — Sandra Shaw Cooper is now one up on the Hollywood dog fanciers, who try to outdo each other in introducing new breeds.

Gary's handsome wife has returned from the east with Hollywood's first French poodle—an immaculate white specimen standing several feet high, which has to have a red ribbon tied around its head to keep its fleecy hair from falling down into its eyes.

Hardly the dog to go with Gary and his pipe, but then it's not Gary's dog.

A pest on those people, few as they are, who are criticizing Eddie Cantor for weaving his family life into his personal appearance talks and radio broadcasts. The comedian and his wife, Ida, are among the most devoted couples in the show business, Cantor's references to Ida and to his five daughters, add a homey touch to his humor that gets right down to the everyday life of his listeners. And I happen to know that the comedian has received many letters on the subject—many thanking him for unconsciously patching up serious quarrels in the lives of other people.

In the picture, "Menace," you're going to see a knife hurled into Bertton Churchill's back and you're going to cry "Fake." But the scene was a lot more real than you imagine.

The knife actually was hurled at Churchill. An invisible piece of wood, strapped under the actor's coat, received the point, but a miscalculation of a few inches would have skewered the actor's arm. Of course, Steve Clemente, the man who threw the knife, never makes mistakes. He never has in all the time he has worked for the movies. Just to give Churchill confidence, Jay Marchand, the assistant director of the picture, put a cigaret in his mouth and let Steve clip it in two from a distance of 10 paces.

The other way to film the scene with Churchill was to photograph a rubber knife hurtling through the air and then to make a quick cut to a real one quivering in his back. But then you would have missed the flash of the steel as it cut the air.

When an appendicitis operation sent Jesse Lasky, Jr., to the hospital a couple of months ago, the youthful author turned opportunist and asked all manner of questions about the life of nurses. Most of the answers went into the script of "The White Parade" on which young Lasky and Rian James were working.

The nurse who gave the information gets a job in the movies.

So a lot of you want to know how come Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., once attended the Hollywood School for Girls? Well, at one time in its existence, the school lifted the bars and accepted infants of both sexes. Doug, Jr., went there then.

Burns at Sea With 117-225 Dead

that the fire started in the library. There were reports from them, too, that lightning had struck the ship.

The commodore of the Ward line, J. E. Jones, in Havana, however, said it would have been impossible for lightning to have caused the fire.

Equipment Not Used
The liner was fitted out with the newest automatic fire fighting equipment. None of the survivors, however, said the apparatus was in operation.

It was a double tragedy. The ship was a funeral pyre as well as a holocaust of horror.

The master of the ship, Captain Robert R. Willmott, died last night, stricken on the bridge by acute indigestion. His body lay in the quarter aft the control room when fire broke out in the early morning hours.

Radio Decommissioned
The radio was decommissioned with the spread of the inferno and nothing was learned of the disposition of the body.

Captain W. F. Harms, chief officer, assumed command. With the few of his aides and crew that stayed aboard the ship, he abandoned the boat after the cutter had her securely in tow in the mountainous waves and boarded the Tampa.

Earlier, officials of the Ward line said the cutter would tow the ship of distress into New York harbor. But, as the storm continued to rage, it was decided to beach her.

Roper Orders Inquiry
In Washington, Secretary of Commerce Daniel Roper ordered his own inquiry.

Many survivors were in agreement in declaring the fire originated in the ship's library.

Some said lightning struck the liner.

Reports from Havana that it might have been sabotaged by striking dock workers were quickly denied, both by Havana officials and officials of the line.

Gaiety Aboard
Leaving Havana Wednesday evening, all was gaiety aboard the Morro Castle until news of the captain's death spread over the decks last night. By midnight, all was quiet. Most of the passengers were asleep in their cabins.

It was the last night out. Tomorrow they'd be home—but the morrow brought only disaster and terror.

This section of the Atlantic has known many disasters. Only a few miles to the south, down by Barreget Lighthouse, the Akron had gone down a year ago. Farther down, in 1928, the Vestris had sunk in a gale.

Wireless Crackles
At 3:23 a. m., the wireless crackled through the storm the news of the latest tragedy of the seas: "S.O.S.! S.O.S.! Morro Castle—Afire 20 miles south of Scotland lights."

Scotland Light is the welcoming beacon for ships plying north in New York on the coastal routes. But this morning, it served only to mark the spot of death.

Wireless stations notified coast guards. At once the seaboard was awakened for the rescue.

Message Ends
A few seconds later came word of the seriousness of the fire—only a few words, but ominous: ". . . Fire just outside radio room."

The message ended, the radio was gone, the outside world was cut off. Confusing were the accounts on board the flaming ship. Some survivors said there was no disorder, others said the decks were filled with milling, screaming throngs of men, women and children.

Smash Windows
Members of the crew in their quarters forward of the library—some of them saying the fire spread first to a fuel tank nearby—scrambled to the decks, smashed in windows of the cabins, hurried to the lifeboats.

The alarm spread. Fire! Fire—that dreaded foe of the seas, more feared than storms.

Passengers, clad in nightclothes, some wearing bathrobes, opened their doors, seeking to gain the decks. Many were forced back by the flames that raged through hatchway and passageway. They used the windows.

Some Paid No Heed
To reach the upper deck and the lifeboats meant braving the flames and the dense smoke, made all the more suffocating by the drizzle and fog that held it down low—like a shroud over a lifeless form.

Some passengers paid no heed, members of the crew said, to their orders to break through and head for the upper deck. They stayed on the lower deck. The B deck was one of the most crowded.

Only eight boats put away from the ship—these capable of carrying upward of 50 persons. But some had only a handful aboard.

Scores of persons jumped or slid down ropes to the sea—started swimming for the shore eight miles away. Worst on Port Side
The fire raged at its worst, apparently, on the port side. Here, only two boats were lowered from the davits. Six put off from the starboard side.

Most of those who made the Jersey shore in the lifeboats were members of the crew. They said, repeatedly, that they called for passengers to brave the flames to the upper deck; that they were finally forced to lower the boats with what few passengers were aboard after the flames started burning through the davit ropes.

Some survivors picked up from the dark and churning waters severely criticized the manner of the crew.

"Never Turned a Hand"
Benjamin Hirsch, Philadelphia haberdasher, declared members of the crew "never turned a hand to help us."

"When the alarm was sounded," Hirsch said, "there was a banging of tin pans and whistles and bugles were blown. On the deck, men and women were running from one side of the boat to the other. My wife and I ran to the rail. It was just as a furnace. I lost track of my wife in the confusion. I searched for her but to no avail. When it was too hot to stand on the deck, I jumped. I was picked up by a Monarch of Bermuda lifeboat. I don't know where my wife is."

There were many similar tales of tragedy. Mothers were torn from children and wives and husbands were separated.

The sea was littered with those who jumped from the decks of death.

Many of those we rescued slid down to our lifeboats on ropes. Others were picked up unconscious from the water.

We could see and hear the poor devils screaming and shouting for assistance. We put down our boats and went to them.

Hysterical
Staff Capt. Leslie Banyard in one of our boats picked up 32 persons. Most of them were hysterical and some were unconscious from being in the water so long.

By the time we got there the fire had pretty well engulfed the entire boat. A few men on the forecastle head refused to leave. They said they wanted to stand aboard.

Some of the victims were in night clothes and all were scantily clad. As soon as those poor devils put down, they hit a heavy sea, and the lifeboats were tossed about like toothpicks.

Beating Rain
Through it all was the beating rain, the fog and the whipping gale, making any effort to aid the passengers and crew doubly difficult.

There were 12 ambulance cases brought aboard and one dead woman.

We had but one doctor to take care of everybody, but one of our passengers Dr. F. J. Braeland of Philadelphia, assisted him and together they did heroic work.

Survivors
Tell of Swimming Until Rescued

now and then, one of us taking it easy for awhile. I guess we swam for six hours or so. People on shore rushed in to the surf to drag us out. They took us to the hospital."

There was another couple on board who, like the Cohens, stuck together and came through. They were Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Bodner, of Elizabeth, N. J.

Grabbed Ropes
Without waiting for boats, they grabbed ropes that were hanging from the port decks, slid part of the way to the water and jumped in.

"We swam around and floated," the husband said, "for five hours and were finally picked up by a lifeboat."

All around Spring Lake, summer estates of the wealthy were thrown open to survivors.

Tonight, the rain beat down. The seas still raged high. Fishing boats piled back and forth—still looking for either those alive or dead.

Stories to Tell
All along the shoreline were watchers. They too had their stories to tell.

One group, on the beach near Sea Girt, saw a raft tossed by the waves. A man was on it. The waves would wash it a bit nearer to shore. Many persons rushed into the water to aid. A wave would then carry it back out.

The man was in a weakened condition. He could hardly hang on. A huge wave upset the raft. The man wasn't seen again.

U. S. Senate Quiz Rips Secrecy From Zaharoff

The shadows of secrecy have been ripped suddenly from Sir Basil Zaharoff, Europe's "man of mystery" and prominent munitions magnate, with disclosures of armament sales at the probe of the senate committee investigating armament manufacturers in Washington. For a half century, the bearded Greek has moved across the world's diplomatic chessboard, making millions of dollars through the sale of instruments of death. His influence assertedly has extended over British, French, Czechoslovakian munitions firms and those in other countries. During the World War, Zaharoff and his associates are said to have profited to the extent of $1,000,000,000 by selling munitions.

WASHINGTON (IIN)—More light has been cast on the obscure trail of Sir Basil Zaharoff, Europe's noted "man of mystery" and munitions magnate, whose influence during the last three decades assertedly has been felt in upheavals of governments, dethroning kings and ousting of prime ministers, through testimony presented before the senate munitions investigating committee.

Revelations made by Henry R. Carse, president of an American submarine manufacturing concern, purported to show that the bearded multi-millionaire recluse of Monte Carlo, Paris, London, Nice, Athens and elsewhere, was paid large commissions for scaring up customers for munitions throughout the world.

It isn't the first time Sir Basil's name has cropped up in government investigations. In France and in England, where he controls powerful munition companies, his manipulations have been assailed in parliamentary debates.

Zaharoff is reported to have been the major cause for the fall of Prime Minister David Lloyd George and his cabinet in 1922, when the Near East British policy encountered disaster in backing Greece against Kemal Turkey.

Born Basellos Zacharias in 1849 of the Greek parents at some disputed spot in Asia Minor, he grew up an enterprising person. He studied at the English school in Constantinople, visited Great Britain several times, and then went to reside in Greece, where he became associated with a powerful politician.

Sir Basil never forgot he was a Greek despite the fact that he was a knight of the grand cross of the British empire, usually conferred only on English subjects, and holder of a grand cross of the Legion of Honor from France, rarely bestowed on foreigners. England knighted him for his war services.

At the age of 23, he became agent for Nordenfled, the great Swedish armaments firm, and literally sold every other salesman off the map. He speaks a dozen languages and that helped. Once, he sold a submarine to Greece, and then got an order for two more from Turkey, after warning the Sultan's advisers that to want their Greek neighbors might do.

By 1895, Zaharoff had an influential interest in Russian, English, French, Turkish and German munition factories, and when czarist Russia objected to his control of a syndicate that built warships for Rus-

Special Council Meeting Seen

PWA Loan Agreement Received; Expect Quick Action

A special meeting of the city council appeared likely last night to settle the light plant quest.

The problem was thrust before the council again yesterday with receipt of a loan and grant agreement from the PWA in which the government offers $917,000 for the construction of a municipal light plant on the condition that legality of the Simmer law, under which revenue bonds would be issued, be tested.

A letter accompanying the loan agreement pointed out that the PWA expected immediate action by the council, and insisted that the loan and grant would be made only if the Iowa supreme court upholds the law in a test case.

To test the law, city officials pointed out last night, the council probably would have to authorize the issue of bonds, and their legality would then have to be questioned by a request for an injunction to restrain the city from issuing them.

'Football May Reach A Peak This Season'

Solem Says Hawks Will Be Good But Not Too Good

By LEVLAND SKELLEY (Associated Press Sports Writer) DES MOINES, Sept. 8 (AP)—Bulish enthusiasm swept the Iowa football mart today only two weeks before Hawkeye teams start trading blows with early season opponents.

That 1934 might be a new high for Iowa elevens from a point of team skill, public interest and box office magnetism was the opinion of six major coaches in the state.

The most striking summation came from Morey Eby, the wily Coe college gridiron instructor, who said, "With the University of Iowa leading the way with prospects of one of its strongest teams, football enthusiasm in Iowa should reach its peak in 1934."

Openly optimistic, he continued, "The added interest is largely due to the fact that the public now realizes football is no longer a grueling, man-killing sport, but is a wonderful game for young men and boys."

A Good Team The Hawkeye mentor who surprised the gridiron world with a sensational winner in 1933 was a bit hesitant in forecasting the fate of his 1934 creation.

"Iowa State will show the best team it has had in a score of years. Drake will put on the field one of the biggest teams in its history, and with plenty of class thrown in. Coe probably will not be as good as its 1933 team, without its sparkplug, still, but good enough to lead its league."

Browns Fall To Senators By 5-1 Tally

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 8 (AP)—Washington Senators bade farewell to St. Louis for the season by whipping the Browns, 5 to 1, today, thus gaining an even break in the series.

For the season's play, the Browns held a big advantage with 14 victories in 22 games.

Coaches Still Spoofing Warner Humble As Lou Little Comes Into Sight

NEW YORK, Sept. 8 (AP)—Glenn Scooby "Pop" Warner was peering owlishly through his horn rim spectacles, dropping cigarette ashes as usual all over his capacious chest, and was just saying:

"Yes, sir, that Columbia team certainly did fool me," when along came Lou—Lou Little of the Columbia football heroes of the Rose Bowl.

"It was the first time they had met since Warner led the hoots last fall at the choice of Columbia to represent the east against Stanford in the Pasadena classic with the suggestion that there were a dozen teams in this section capable of beating the Lions."

"Harrumph," said "Pop," "er, ah, hello Lou. I guess I haven't had a chance to congratulate you."

"You sent me a letter," said Lou. "Harrumph," said "Pop." "Well," suggested Lou, "every fellow has a right to have one lucky day a year."

Most of the eastern coaches and officials were there at the McAlpin hotel for the annual rules interpretation meeting.

Warner, 63 years old and looking about half that, was up from Temple and all over the place. Little, Harvey Harmon from Pennsylvania, Jim Crowley of Fordham, Moe Daley from Army, Bill Bingham, Eddie Case and Adam Walsh from Harvard, Tuss McLaughry of Brown, Mal Stevens of New York U., "Ducky" Pond and "Greasy" Neale from Yale, Herb McCracken from Lafayette, Tom McCabe of Holy Cross, Lloyd Jordan from Amherst, Ray Van Orman of Johns Hopkins, Fritz Crisler from Princeton, Butch Cowell from New Hampshire, Harry Stuhldreher of Villanova and a lot more were swapping lies about their fall prospects.

Dvorsky, right field; Dean Shannon, Les Chelf and Jerry Pooler are utility players.

Race Driver Killed While Testing Car; Wife a Spectator

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Sept. 8 (AP)—Verne Ellis, 36 year old winner of numerous automobile races in the southwest, plunged to his death here today in a routine test of the machine in which he hoped to race to victory an hour later in the Mid-South fair speed events.

His wife, and several hundred spectators who had arrived early, looked on in horror as his tiny racing car he was warming up hurtled a fence on the south curve of the half mile dirt track.

The fellow who said he was optimistic about N.Y.U. Crisler tried not to show his complete satisfaction with the Princeton situation and McCabe ducked all insinuations that the second best team in the east this year will be Holy Cross. Pond and Neale looked worried and McLaughry was none too happy.

The high spot in lugubriousness for the meeting was supplied by Little, who has been worrying all winter about playing Yale in Columbia's first match this fall.

"All we can hope to do," he sighed, "is keep the score down."

Bengals Win 2 to 1 After Losing 4 to 3

Bridges Gains Revenge For Thursday's Hammering

DETROIT, Sept. 8 (AP)—The Tigers rallied to gain an even break with the Athletics in a double header today, winning the second game 2 to 1 in a brilliantly-played mound duel between Tommy Bridges and Merrit (Sugar) Cain after the A's had made it three in a row by winning the opener 4 to 3.

As a result of the split the victorious New York Yankees cut a half game of Detroit's lead, reducing it to 41 games.

Only Two Hits Detroit managed to get only two hits off Cain in the second game after Bill Dietrich had scattered 10 blows well enough to win the opener with the aid of Bob Johnson's thirty-first home run of the season, but the Tigers needed only the first of those two to win.

In the first inning Jo-Jo White walked and Gerald Walker was hit by a pitched ball. The pair worked a double steal to get into scoring position and Hank Greenberg responded with a single that brought them both home. The only other Tiger blow was a single by Charley Gehring in the fourth.

Gets Revenge Bridges, who was seeking revenge for having been knocked off the slab in yesterday's first game, took care of the rest by limiting the A's to a four hits, all of which came in the last four innings.

Philadelphia's only tally came in the eighth when Johnson's double brought Doc Cramer, who had singled, all the way home from first.

The A's jumped on Elden Auker in the opener, scoring all their runs before Detroit could tally against Dietrich. Singles by Cramer, Jimmie Fox and Eric McNair brought a run in the first; Johnson's homer came in the third; hits by Bing Miller and Charlie Berry, with an error by Marvin Owen and Finney's sacrifice netted a fourth inning run and singles by Johnson and McNair, with a wild throw by Owen spelled Auker's finish in the fifth.

One For Four It took the Tigers four hits to get one run back in the fifth and they (Turn to page 5)

Iowa Gridders Return, Ready For Sept. 15

With the opening of football practice scheduled for next Saturday, University of Iowa grid athletes will soon be returning for the practice sessions. Included in the group of early arrivals are Corny Walker, towering sophomore end from Denver, Colo., Dwight Hoover and Dick Crayne, backs, who have been spending the summer at Coach Ossie Solem's boys' camp in Minnesota, and Ted Osmalowski, who is scheduled to return to Iowa City this week end.

Several of the boys have been in Iowa City for the better part of the summer. Russ Fisher, this year's captain, Frank Jakoubek, sophomore end from Cedar Rapids, Don and Ozzie Simmons, sophomore end and guard respectively, Floyd McDowell, back or tackle, Marvin McAllister, reserve tackle of last year, and Gordon Matson, fine sophomore-end prospect.

For his play at Iowa, during the heyday of Coach Howard Jones on this campus, Slater was chosen second all-American tackle in 1921, and during his junior and senior years was all-Big Ten selection for the tackle post.

Slater is one of the few Iowa athletes ever to win four letters in any varsity sport. During his freshman year he was allowed to play, along with other freshmen good enough to make the team, because of Student Army Training Corps regulations in any school on the campus could compete on varsity teams.

Immediately after graduation, Slater commenced his 10 year professional football career, with the Chicago Cardinals, returning to the Iowa campus the second semester of each year until graduation to study law. He will also practice law in Oklahoma City.

Sports Hit By Storms

Ross-McLarnin Bout, Polo, Baseball Postponed.

NEW YORK, Sept. 8 (AP)—A tropical storm roaring up out of the southeast, today handed knockout blows to a world's title boxing bout, the East-West polo matches, the men's national tennis championships, major league baseball and a host of other small and large sports events scheduled for the eastern area.

Promoters of the Barney Ross-Jimmy McLarnin 15-round welterweight championship fight, twice previously postponed for 24 hour stretches, took no more chances on the present weather and put the fight over a full week, until next Saturday, Sept. 15.

Small Lake The first of the East-West polo matches scheduled for the Meadow Brook club on Long Island, was set back until next Wednesday with the second match to be played Saturday and the third, if necessary, on a date to be set later. International field looked like a lake today.

The men's tennis championships at Forest Hills, already three days behind schedule, were moved back another 24 hours. The final is now scheduled, weather permitting, for Wednesday.

Few Hardy Sports The major league baseball games rained out were wiped permanently from the schedule unless it should happen that the National league pennant race narrows down to a point where they might decide the winner, in which case they would be played. In this category was the St. Louis-Brooklyn doubleheader and the final game of the series between the New York Giants and the Chicago Cubs, both washed out.

The only sports rugged enough to withstand the attack of Old Man Weather were golf, horse and dog racing. The fields were cut down even there but the program went on.

Duke Slater To Coach Football

Fred "Duke" Slater, Negro tackle on the University of Iowa gridiron teams of 1918-21, and one of the greatest of Hawkeye athletes ever to wear a football suit, will coach at Douglas high school in Oklahoma City, Okla.

For his play at Iowa, during the heyday of Coach Howard Jones on this campus, Slater was chosen second all-American tackle in 1921, and during his junior and senior years was all-Big Ten selection for the tackle post.

Slater is one of the few Iowa athletes ever to win four letters in any varsity sport. During his freshman year he was allowed to play, along with other freshmen good enough to make the team, because of Student Army Training Corps regulations in any school on the campus could compete on varsity teams.

Famous Hawk Tackle Directs Oklahoma City Eleven

George T. Dunlap, Jr., of New York, current wearer of the crown, and Jess Sweetser, another New Yorker who captured the title over this same course 12 years ago, were the two exceptions. Dunlap and Sweetser drew first round byes, together with Johnny Goodman of Omaha and Lawson Little, the holder of the British amateur crown. They will start play Tuesday.

The "break" of the first round draw found the veteran Francis Oulmet pitted against Bobby Jones. In this case, however, the Bobby Jones is an 18 year old youngster from the Detroit district, making his first start in the national tournament. Young Jones was runner-up in the recent western junior championship.

In Opening Round Such other veterans as Jesse Guilford, Chick Evans, Bob Gardner, Max Marston, stalv's runner-up; Chandler Egan, titleholder in 1924-25, and Davidson Neron, as well as Ross Sumerville, Canadian winner of the U. S. crown in 1932, all learned whom they will face on Monday morning.

Until the U.S.G.A. announces, tomorrow, the remainder of the draw, including the set-up for the 68 players with byes, it will be impossible to tell how the distribution has affected the leading contenders or how many have been dropped into the same brackets.

Announce 1st Round Draw

National Amateur Golf All-Match Play For 1st Time

BROOKLINE, Mass., Sept. 8 (AP)—The old guard among the country's amateur golfers will have to go to work early and turn back the challenge of youth if it intends to make much progress in the thirty-eighth annual national amateur championship, an all-match play tournament for the first time in the present era, which starts over Brookline's historic country club Monday.

The United States Golf association today announced the draw for the first round and it developed that eight of the 10 former titleholders and present champion in the field were assigned opening day matches, mostly against young newcomers in the national competition ranks.

Two Exceptions George T. Dunlap, Jr., of New York, current wearer of the crown, and Jess Sweetser, another New Yorker who captured the title over this same course 12 years ago, were the two exceptions. Dunlap and Sweetser drew first round byes, together with Johnny Goodman of Omaha and Lawson Little, the holder of the British amateur crown. They will start play Tuesday.

Four Stations To Broadcast Grid Program

Broadcasts from four stations totaling one hour will be on the air Sept. 15 for the benefit of University of Iowa alumni groups celebrating the third annual Iowa football day.

Among the speakers from the university will be such men as Coach Ossie Solem, Rollie Williams, and Otto Vogel and Prof. Clarence Undergraff, chairman of the athletic board.

The series of programs will begin at 12:15 p.m. from station WSUI of Iowa City. Fifteen minutes later, IOWA-WOC of Des Moines will broadcast, to be followed by KWCR of Cedar Rapids between 12:45 and 1 o'clock, and WMT of Waterloo from 1 to 1:15 p.m.

Runyan, Laffoon Tied for Lead In Glenn Falls Open

GLENN FALLS, N. Y., Sept. 8 (AP)—Paul Runyan of White Plains, slim ruler of the national P.G.A. and 25 year old Ky Laffoon of Denver today tied for first place in the sixth annual Glenn Falls open with 72-hole total of 280.

Runyan made a gallant come-back to post a pair of 68s, three under par, in today's final rounds after being six strokes back of the leader at the halfway mark, while the golfing typhoon of the west coupled a 68 and 72 with his 68 and 71 of the previous days for the 72-hole aggregate, four under par for the distance.

Broaca Hurls Steady Game To Win, 7-1

Gehrig Hits 44th Home Run, Lazzari 14th Each With 2 On

CHICAGO, Sept. 8 (AP)—The New York Yankees continued to gain on the league leading Detroit club today when they put together an effective combination of home runs and steady pitching to defeat the White Sox 7 to 1 in their final encounter of the season.

As Detroit split with the Athletics, the Yanks gained a half game, trailing the Tigers by 41.

44th for Gehrig Lou Gehrig, George Selkirk and Tony Lazzari provided the circuit swats, Gehrig hitting his forty-fourth of the year and Lazzari his fourteenth each with two on base.

That took care of the Yankee scoring while Johnny Broaca handled the mound assignment. The bespectacled Yale alumnus allowed the Sox only five hits and three walks to get the better of George Earnshaw in the mound duel.

Earnshaw, seeking another 500 bonus, limited the Yanks to eight blows. But before Gehrig socked his homer in the fourth Red Rolfe beat out a punt and took second on the pitcher's throw past first base and Babe Ruth drew a pass.

Too Much Lead That gave the Yanks a lead Chicago could never overcome and Selkirk added to it a moment later by driving into the right field stands with the bases empty. The rest of the New York scoring came in the sixth when Ruth singled, Gehrig walked and Lazzari slammed his homer into the left field stands.

Prospects Fair for St. Pat's Grid Team

Six lettermen and four reserves form the foundation for St. Patrick's high school grid team this fall. The veterans are Toomey, Hogan and Duane, backs, and Burger, Carrigg and S. Williams, linemen. The four reserves, Connors, Love, Farrell, and G. Williams were linemen last year but G. Williams will be shifted to the backfield.

Emanuel, Gough, Boyd, Neubaer and Maher are the men who were brought by graduation. Material to replace all of these men but Emanuel is available. Emanuel, pivot man and key man of last year's team will be hard to replace and so far no one has been found to fill the gap left by his graduation. Joe O'Neil, scrappy lightweight who was groomed for the position in spring practice and who showed promise, is not out this fall due to work. Farrell, reserve tackle last year, has been used at the center job, and will undoubtedly get the call in the first game.

To make up for this, Coach Father Ryan has two veteran guards to strengthen the line. Carrigg and S. Williams, who were playing great ball at the end of the season last year, intend to start where they left off, and should smear plenty of opposition. These boys will be hard watching. Seaman, another guard candidate, will also be hard watching.

The tackle candidates are headed by Al Burger, who got a late start last fall. Hard work on Burger's part should see him develop into an outstanding player this fall. Love, Gatens and Miller are the other tackle aspirants with Love having the edge due to experience and size.

Green Backfield The halfbacks are headed by Leuz and G. Williams, both new in the backfield. Both show signs of developing into good backs. Leuz's passing and punting are above par and his ball carrying stamps him as a triple threat man. Williams, a good defensive player, will be used as a blocker. Elberts and Sullivan are two other men who will get a chance to display their wares in the backfield. Sullivan, new and inexperienced, will need seasoning. Elberts showed up well in spring practice, and will be used as a relief man. Toomey, last year's fullback, is back on the job, and should play a vastly improved brand of ball. Neubaer will be groomed as his understudy, and although light and green, has shown a willingness to mix it up.

The schedule this year calls for nine games: Sept. 23—St. Ambrose—here. Sept. 28—West Branch—there. Oct. 5—Vinton high—there. Oct. 12—Vinton—there. Oct. 21—St. Joe, Rock Island—here. Oct. 26—Kalona—there. Nov. 1—Brooklyn—there. Nov. 11—Sacred Heart, Oselwein—there. Nov. 18—St. Mary's, Clinton—here.

LOVE IS THE MOST WONDERFUL THING IN THE WORLD, AND I CAN'T SEE WHY FELLOWS LET THEIR CHINS SCRAPE ALONG THE GROUND OVER A GIRL. IF YA WANT TO ENJOY LOVE, DON'T LET PEOPLE KNOW IT, AND AS SOON AS THEY KNOW IT, FALL IN LOVE WITH SOMEONE ELSE. THAT WILL KEEP EM GUESSING AND THEY'LL NEVER KNOW WHO YOU'RE IN LOVE WITH.

Explanation Of "Strange As It Seems"

Strange as it seems, the voice of the nation's army is WAR. The letters WAR form the call of the U. S. Army Signal Corps. The WAR network of radio stations is far greater in extent and more powerful than any commercial radio communication system.

"I LOVE SONG"

By JOAN CLAYTON AND MALCOLM LOGAN

CHAPTER XXX "You wrote it?" Finn exclaimed. "Why didn't you say so?"

The question was ridiculous, but I could understand why the sheriff asked it. It was a testimonial to the confidence he had placed in the doctor. To some extent we had all shared that faith, for even I, prepared to some extent by Mark's speculations about the note that disappeared, was startled to hear the admission. The sheriff was more than startled; his tone was reproachful and injured.

John Calvert continued to smile. There was a reckless gaiety in his reply. "That's obvious, isn't it? Because I didn't want you to know."

I expected Finn to write himself into one of his sudden rages, but he had not yet recovered from his astonishment. He gulped and said, "What did you say in it?"

"Just what Felipa told you. I said I wanted to talk to her and I would come to the cottage the next morning to see her."

Mark was watching the doctor intently. It told him it was all impossible to obtain from his expression any clue to his thoughts. She sat on the edge of her chair. Her lips moved slightly and she looked as though she were about to cry. The sheriff tugged at his mustache and turned back to Felipa.

"Why did you run away?" he demanded. "Didn't you want to see Dr. Calvert?"

"She whispered." "She wet her lips. 'I was scared.' 'Scared of him?'"

"The girl nodded. The doctor said, 'I'll tell.' The sheriff interrupted coldly. 'Let her answer. Why were you scared of him?'"

"She hesitated. When finally she replied she kept her eyes averted from the doctor. Her voice was barely audible.

"I thought he killed Mr. Vail." "She cried indignantly. 'I never heard of anything so ridiculous!'"

"Dr. Calvert looked gravely at her. "Thanks," he said. "Where did you get that idea?"

"The sheriff asked. "You say you had a big fight that morning," she said. "I hear them. Dr. Calvert, he says to Mr. Vail, 'Some day I'll kill you, Vail, and Mr. Vail says, 'I was in the living room, and I hear them. Just before Dr. Calvert said that, I hear Mr. Vail say, 'You leave her out of this, Calvert, something like that.'"

"Is that true?" Finn asked. "It's true that we quarreled."

"You ran away because you were afraid Dr. Calvert would do something to you?" Mark asked the maid sharply.

Felipa nodded. "Then he knew you had heard his quarrel with Vail?"

"When the doctor made his rounds. He saw Mr. Vail last."

"How was it you were the only person who heard this quarrel?"

"Mr. Ruxton was on exercise," she answered. "Mr. Glendening was on the porch by his room and Mr. Cross, he was in his room with his door shut. They talk low, the doctor and Mr. Vail."

"Take her out," Finn said to the deputy. When they had left, he turned to the doctor. "Well, he said, 'What you got to say about it?'"

"It's true that Vail and I quarreled," the doctor answered. "I may have said I would kill him. I knew that Felipa heard us and I could tell that afternoon that she was afraid of me and suspected me. I wanted to see her and convince her that I hadn't killed him. When she ran away, she left the note I wrote her, and I took the opportunity to get it back. I quarreled with Vail, sheriff, but I didn't kill him."

"He was the calmest of us all as he stood there facing the sheriff. 'I don't know whether you believe me,' he added. 'I can't wonder if you don't.'"

"I do," Sue said. "You couldn't do it, I know."

"The doctor's whole face lighted up as he smiled at her. "I know you didn't, too, and I'll prove it!" Mark said.

"She stood up and looked at the doctor. 'Isn't there something I can do?' she asked. 'Can't I help you?'"

Wide Open Affair

The Iowa coach believes the Big Ten will be a wide open affair with Minnesota the pre-season favorite.

Referring to the Western conference, Solem said, "Minnesota apparently is the standard team, if there is any. However, Michigan, Purdue, Northwestern and Illinois will be at least the equal of last year's teams. Northwestern will be considerably stronger."

"Ohio State, with its crafty new coach, Francis Schmidt, will play spectacular and effective ball, as will Indiana under Bo McMillan. Wisconsin and Chicago will be the real surprises, good enough to upset any given team on any given day."

Improved Cyclone Team Despite a hard schedule and a scarcity of capable reserves, Veenear said he expected an improved team at Iowa State.

"We have a long, hard schedule and not too many reserves, but we expect to do better than last year," he said. "To say we would win a great many games, considering the schedule, would be taking in a lot of territory. However, we expect to give a good account of ourselves."

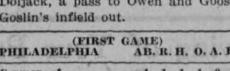

"We look for an increase in attendance and expect a sellout for the Iowa game at Ames."

Green was highly optimistic over Drake's chances, having a veteran team to place on the field. He also believes other major schools will have better teams, with special emphasis on Iowa.

Although he will have a number of new men, Baker, former University of Southern California hero, said, "Our prospects are some brighter than last year, but we are not saying too much just yet."

Cloud Smith to Give Three Act Comedy As Feature

Several hundred members of Iowa City civic organizations are expected to attend the Chamber of Commerce fall opening party at the American Legion Community building at 7:30 p.m. tomorrow, according to D. W. Crum, secretary.

Invitations have been sent to Junior Chamber of Commerce, service club, Business and Professional Women's club, and Altrusa club members, although the affair is open to the public. There will be no admission charge.

Featured on the program is Cloud Smith, University of Nebraska faculty member, who will present a three act comedy, "Davey Crockett."

Mr. Smith, for many years a Chautauqua performer, will take the six parts in his play himself, without makeup or costume changes.

The play was written after extensive research into original documents about Davey Crockett, and is highly recommended, according to Mr. Crum.

Children attending the party must be accompanied by their parents, it has been announced.

AROUND THE TOWN with John Pryor

Mystery

Copies of the PWA contracts for Iowa City's proposed light plant were sent from Washington, D. C., to Iowa City and Des Moines on Sept. 1. They arrived in Des Moines Wednesday. But the copies mailed to Iowa City failed to show up until yesterday, one day after the regular council meeting. Municipal ownership advocates are wondering whether or not the post office department is conspiring against them.

Traffic Jam

Iowa City, it would seem, has its own traffic problems. Cars were lined up for five minutes between Washington street and Iowa avenue on Dubuque street yesterday afternoon, waiting for several big trucks to move along.

Episode

Seen on Clinton street—an indignant mother forcing her small son to return an apple which the youth had "borrowed" from a grocery display on the sidewalk. The boy was more triumphant than ashamed, however.

Workers

Members of the General Workers organization will discuss problems related to trade unionism at their regular meeting tomorrow at 401 Iowa avenue. Officials of the organization have specially invited present and former union members to attend. The session will start at 7 p.m.

Proprietors of the Phyllis Herrick shop are now giving customers their change in clean, new bills, each bill neatly wrapped in cellophane. The face of the folder says "I'm as good as I look—Keep me in circulation. I'm from the Phyllis Herrick shop, Jefferson hotel building."

Shoplifter

After stealing a hat from the Montgomery Ward store here, James Brady, transient, was ordered to leave town or go to jail by Police Judge Harold Vestermark yesterday.

Released

Albert McKee of Des Moines, who recently pleaded not guilty to a charge of breaking and entering, posted $2,500 bond and was released from jail here yesterday.

CCC Officials Expect Dam for Lake Macbride Park Ready by Oct. 1

Work on Lake Macbride park is progressing rapidly, and CCC officials expect to finish the dam by Oct. 1.

The dam needs to be built up only about 10 feet higher before a concrete spillway is installed and before impounding of water starts.

As soon as workmen lay approximately 1,800 feet of sewer pipe to the lake bed, the outlet gate will be closed to permit several feet of water to stand.

CCC employees, in addition to constructing the dam, are building fish shelters where fish may spawn.

BOB AND HENRY

Gas Station Operators Explain Why Lee Tires Are Best.

When they entered business here last year, they carefully considered every tire brand and finally selected Lee tires as best for their customers, according to "Bob" Leinbaugh and Henry Herring, managers of an oil station at 323 E. Burlington street.

The Lee of Conshohocken tires are manufactured by one of the pioneer rubber companies in this country, Mr. Herring said yesterday. J. Elwood Lee founded it in 1883, and at first specialized in high quality rubber surgical goods. But as new uses for rubber were discovered, the company's production spread into these other lines.

In the early days of the automobile industry, the company started manufacturing tires, and it was upon the insistence of the founder, according to Mr. Herring, that a high standard of accuracy and quality was set up.

Since that time, Mr. Herring says, the tires have been noted for quality. Because the company has never accepted any "mass production" contracts involving large sums from automobile makers, it is able to manufacture higher quality tires at reasonable costs.

That quality has been maintained, Mr. Herring pointed out, is shown by the fact that Lee tires are guaranteed against all road hazards.

Just as they picked Lee tires, "Bob and Henry" selected Phillips "66" gasoline and oil as being the best they had seen during many years of experience in the business.
