BANNER YEAR LOOMS FOR S. U. I.

Council Refers PWA Light Contract to City Attorney; To Report at Next Meeting

Protest to Sewage Plant Heard At Session

Charging intentional delay on the part of other councilmen, Alderman Jacob Van der Zee threw the city council meeting last night into an argumentative uproar when he attempted to force action on the PWA contract for a municipal light and power plant here.

"Let the contract lay around until it rots. I suppose that is your purpose," he said in disgust, after hearing majority protests against the proposed plan. "It's very apparent that you are playing into the light company's hands."

Referred to Martin Other councilmen, who finally referred the PWA contract to City Attorney Thomas Martin for a report at the next meeting, argued that they were too busy considering natural gas and the sewage disposal project to spend time on the light plant contract.

Earlier in the evening, the council was disturbed by a strong protest against a provision of the sewage disposal plant, presented by the Iowa City Taxpayers association.

Louis F. Mueller, president, pointed out that the Iowa code provides that property owners may be held liable for unpaid sewer rents, which must be charged to pay for the project.

Calls It Unfair Stating that he had no objection to the plant except on this point, Mr. Mueller asserted that it would be grossly unfair to make property owners pay rental fees for water used by tenants.

The Iowa law, he said, specifies that unpaid rental charges shall constitute a lien against the property.

"If the city council does that, it can also make the property owner pay taxes on other goods used by tenants," he argued. George Koser supported Mr. Mueller by stating that tenants could not be forced to pay higher rentals, thus placing sewage charges on property owners.

No Action Taken No action was taken by the city council on this protest, the first officially entered against the plant.

The light plant controversy was opened by the reading of a communication from the Iowa City Municipal Ownership league, which urged councilmen to "recognize the opinion of the many."

In accepting the PWA contract, councilmen would be "acting in compliance with the will of the majority," the letter stated. It closed as follows: "The hurt to democratic pride which you, as the elected leaders of Iowa City, insist on inflicting upon the voters endangers the very roots and purposes of our government. That government might well not exist at all which fails to recognize the opinion of the many."

Breaks Calm Later in the meeting, after the question had apparently dropped from sight, Alderman Van der Zee broke the calm by asking "What are you going to do about the light plant? The government is offering you a grant and a loan. We can get the plant for $600,000 at four per cent."

"Personally, I would rather pay rates on this basis than on $1,600,000 at nine per cent, as we have for the last five years."

After stating that there are plenty of good managers to run a municipal plant, Alderman Van der Zee vigorously denied that he "has a hook-up with P. F. Hopkins (state PWA engineer) like certain people have been trying to pin on me."

"I have never approached Mr. (Turn to page 8)

Farm Mortgage Moratorium Is Ruled Illegal

Federal Judge Cites Discrimination In Decision

BALTIMORE, Sept. 19 (AP)—United States District Judge W. Calvin Chestnut today declared the farm mortgage moratorium amendment to the national bankruptcy act unconstitutional, in that its five year clause discriminates against mortgage creditors in favor of bankrupt farmers.

Judge Chestnut's finding, included in an opinion filed in federal court here this afternoon, was based largely upon the following two points which he stressed:

Removes Creditor Protection (1) The amendment removes the protection which the laws of each state give a contracting creditor and doubles the protection given a farmer debtor—thereby tending to confiscate the property of the creditor in an effort to save the farm of the debtors.

(2) The amendment tends to supersede the right retained by each individual state in the operation of its courts and to abrogate contracts legally entered into and, in the case at hand, consummated.

Dismisses Petitions Judge Chestnut made his declaration in dismissing petitions filed by William W. Bradford, Belair, Md., farmer, and Charles A. Compton, Carroll county farmer, who sought stays to prevent mortgage foreclosure proceedings under the moratorium amendment.

The Bradford case was the first 12 have been brought to court in this section under the Frazier-Lemke act, passed by congress last June. A similar case is pending in federal court in Louisville, Ky.

Keenly Interested "The English government and other governments are keenly interested also in the sales of munitions their countries produce," Jones added.

Carlton W. Rich, another representative of Federal Laboratories, broke in to tell Senator Bone (D. Wash.) that "I am told the English ambassador interested himself in a prospective sale in Montevideo to the police force and even arranged to have Montevideo police sent to London for training."

Attempts Gas Sale He explained that Federal Laboratories also was attempting the sale of tear gas and other weapons to the Uruguayan authorities.

"Other governments interest themselves also," Jones said. "American firms get little help from their officials compared to the assistance given by European officials to their nationals."

John W. Young, president of Federal Laboratories, protested the introduction of letters filled with references to bitter and critical statements to his concern—and even by his own agents. The committee paid little heed to his complaint.

Insurance Plans Dropped CALLANDER, Ont., (AP)—W. H. Alderson, spokesman for the Canadian Red Cross society and guardians of the Dionne quintuplet sisters, said today all negotiations looking toward insurance for the 113-00 infants had been cancelled.

Lemke Rebukes Judge's Decision DES MOINES, Sept. 19 (AP)—The decision of a Baltimore federal district court judge declaring the farm mortgage moratorium amendment to the national bankruptcy act unconstitutional tonight drew a rebuke from Congressman William Lemke of Fargo, N. D., one of the authors of the amendment.

Lemke was in Des Moines preparatory to addressing a meeting of the Iowa Farmers union here tomorrow.

"The amendment is constitutional," Lemke declared, "it has been so held by the judiciary committee of the house consisting of 25 lawyers including some of the ablest in this nation."

"It was held constitutional by the judiciary committee of the senate, the attorney general, the attorneys in the department of justice, the lawyers of the farm credit administration and the attorneys of the departments of the treasury and agriculture."

Lemke helped to draft the amendment passed by congress last June and known as the Frazier-Lemke amendment.

AAA May Set 1935 Goal Of Corn Crop at 2,250,000,000

Figures Considered As Result of Regional Meetings (Copyright, 1934, By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 19 (AP)—Definite indications tonight were that the farm administration would set a goal of between 2,250,000,000 to 2,350,000,000 bushels for the 1935 corn crop.

These figures are being seriously considered by AAA officials as a result of recent regional meetings with corn-hog producers and legal opinion that the farm administration will be compelled to combine a corn and hog production control program next year.

Freshmen Begin Registration Process Today

Absence of Breeze Causes Postponement Of Cup Race Series

NEWPORT, R. I., Sept. 19 (AP)—Not a breath of air flicked the rolling seas off America's yacht racing capital today, so there was no fourth engagement of Britain's blue bolt Endeavour and the America's cup defender Rainbow.

In the window of a Fifth avenue store in New York the ancient cup that cost some hundred guineas over 83 years ago and millions of dollars worth of racing sloops since must have steadied in its trembling base as the day passed without adding to the tremendous advantage the Englishman already enjoys—two clear-cut and convincing victories in two official starts.

France Called Arms 'Broker' In Testimony

Munitions Investigation Brings Allegations Of Salesman

WASHINGTON, Sept. 19 (AP)—The French government was depicted before the senate munitions committee today as a "broker" for arms sales in South America.

Frank S. Jonas, chubby South American representative for the Federal Laboratories, Inc., of Pittsburgh, said he had been told of French activities many times during his years of dealing with Latin American countries.

"The English government and other governments are keenly interested also in the sales of munitions their countries produce," Jones added.

Carlton W. Rich, another representative of Federal Laboratories, broke in to tell Senator Bone (D. Wash.) that "I am told the English ambassador interested himself in a prospective sale in Montevideo to the police force and even arranged to have Montevideo police sent to London for training."

Enrollment of Upperclassmen Starts Tomorrow, Saturday

Increase in Students Indicated in Advance Reports

TODAY'S PROGRAM 8 a.m.—Pharmacy freshmen meet, room 308 pharmacy-botany building.

8 a.m.—Registration of freshmen begins. 8 p.m.—All freshmen, men and women, meet at Iowa Union.

(Complete program of Freshman week events on page 1 of campus section this edition.)

Freshmen will begin the process of registration this morning, opening the three day period of enrollment. Although graduate students may register today, upperclassmen must enroll in the periods assigned them some time tomorrow or Saturday.

The number of students who have obtained advance registration materials in the first three days of this week indicates a large increase in university enrollment, particularly in the college of liberal arts, university officials said last night.

No Definite Estimate Although they could make no definite estimate on the percentage of this increase, they predicted that the increase would be at least as high as last year's increase over the year before, which totalled about eight per cent.

The first meetings of freshmen in the annual Freshman week program were concluded yesterday afternoon and freshmen in the colleges of liberal arts and engineering are now ready to begin the formal process of registering.

Pharmacy Freshmen Meet Pharmacy freshmen will register following a meeting this morning in room 308 pharmacy-botany building. The first step in the registration (Turn to page 8)

Ship Engine Orders Heard Light, Power Strike Ends

Last Commands Would Have Left Liner Circling

NEW YORK, Sept. 19 (AP)—If obeyed, the last order from the bridge to the engine room of the Morro Castle would have left the flaming liner circling about the ocean, a whirl of death and fire, evidence at the department of commerce inquiry showed today.

The engine room crew, however, disobeyed the order and put the engines into neutral.

This testimony was given by an 18 year old Massachusetts Institute of Technology student, William Wesley Tripp, who was on the tragic voyage from Havana as a cadet engineer.

Tripp, whose praise of the engine room crew was echoed by Dickerson N. Hoover, head of the steamboat inspection service and conductor of the inquiry, read into evidence the copy of orders he scratched down from the bell sheet as the crew down below worked in the intense heat and dense smoke.

School Aid Demands Swamp FERA WASHINGTON (AP)—The federal government is spending $2,400,000 a month to provide work for 46,000 unemployed teachers, but that isn't enough—new demands for funds to keep schools open are just about swamping the FERA.

Plucks Guilty CRESCO (AP)—Milton H. Cheney pleaded guilty tonight to a charge of manslaughter before Judge T. H. Goheen.

Steamer Crew Arrested BUENOS AIRES (AP)—Threats of mutiny silenced by the guns of an Argentine marine patrol boat, 14 members of the crew of the Greek steamer Aiki were under arrest here tonight.

Bandit Suspects Held GREENCASTLE, Ind., (AP)—Jack Hewitt, 35, of Dubuque, Ia., and Lawrence Brown, 23, Tulsa, Okla., were held here tonight for Dubuque authorities, who have warrants charging them with auto banditry.

Lion Escapes From Cage In Parade; Thousands Panicked

Brings Down Pair Of Horses; Trapped, Shot Down

RICHMOND, Va., Sept. 19 (AP)—With thousands of persons scurrying to escape his fury, a lion tore through his wagon cage today, threw a circus parade into panic and brought down two horses by the throat before he was trapped and killed with high-powered rifles.

Cries of terror came from the spectators of the Hagenbeck-Wallice circus parade, through Richmond's main thoroughfares, as the lion, in his rage, clawed down the door of his cage.

The lion—one of those being trained by Clyde Beatty for his circus act—stood bewildered for a moment in the street, amid the chaotic crowds.

Then he reared up, crouched again, sprang for the throat of the lead horse of a circus wagon. Cracking whips of the drivers drove him off the horse a moment later, but after feinting first toward one side of the street and then toward the other, he turned back and seized a second horse, pulling it down and (Turn to page 4)

Wisconsin Vote Viewed as New Deal Approval

Third Party Strength Also Seen After Primary

WASHINGTON, Sept. 19 (AP)—The tremendous vote recorded by Democratic candidates in Wisconsin's primaries yesterday was viewed in administration quarters today as a new sectional approval of the "new deal."

At Democratic headquarters it was contended that the returns indicate a definite turn of the state from its old political lineup.

On the other hand, it was noted the total vote was far short of that in 1932 when the Democrats captured a senatorship and the governorship for the first time in 30 years.

Republican chiefs felt for the most part stressed the fact that neither Senator Robert M. LaFollette, the Progressive candidate, nor the Republican senatorial candidate John B. Chapple, Ashland editor, was opposed. They contended it was thus impossible to forecast the outcome in the November elections.

Third Party Strength Seen Although votes cast for Senator LaFollette and his brother, Philip F. LaFollette, Progressive gubernatorial nominee, were far less than the total votes cast for Democratic candidates, Senator Gerald F. Nye, North Dakota Independent Republican, expressed the view that the third party movement was increasing.

"I think the movement has shown decided strength," Nye said in looking over the LaFollette returns. "It is going to be my pleasure to cooperate to the extent of going into Wisconsin next month and making some speeches in support of both Bob and Phil."

E. H. Everson of St. Charles, S. Dak., national president of the Farmers Union, lambasted the farm administration and criticized agricultural colleges and national farm leaders in a fiery address before the convention this afternoon.

Everson, who ridiculed the idea of over production, asserted he has found the "vast majority of farmers go not have feed and seed for another crop."

"There will be no over production in this land of ours until the wrinkles disappear from the empty bellies of the unemployed," Everson declared.

Union Employees Okay Agreement For Arbitration DES MOINES, Sept. 19 (AP)—Union employees of the Des Moines Electric Light company tonight ratified, without dissenting vote, the agreement which early this morning ended the one-night power strike.

Ratification of the agreement by the employees was announced by W. B. Petty, international representative of the Electrical Workers union, following a meeting of local utility company members.

The ratified agreement assures that there will be no further strike or lockout pending negotiations. It also provides that, under specific circumstances, the Des Moines Electric Light company and the Iowa Power and Light company will negotiate a contract with the local union and in event that the negotiation fails, the company will submit the matter to arbitration. Under the agreement there will not be any change in the wage scale before Jan. 1, 1935, it was said.

League of Nations Hears War Dangers In Far East Lessen

GENEVA, Sept. 19 (AP)—Busy with efforts to end war in South America, delegates to the League of Nations heard tonight that the danger of war in the far east has lessened.

A day of debate as to the best way of halting the conflict in the Chaco Boreal was lightened by the assertion by Russian spokesmen, made privately, that relations between Japan and Russia have improved.

The Russian sources also stated their belief that both Japan and Germany, recent withdrawals from the league, may be induced to return. Other quarters held similar hopes but declined to forecast their quick realization.

Union Meeting Hears Proposal Of Farm Strike

Accuse AAA of Putting Farmer in "Straight Jacket"

DES MOINES, Sept. 19 (AP)—A charge that the farm administration is "putting the farmer in a straight jacket" and a proposal to call a farm strike unless the government gives farmers immediate "consideration" were entered tonight into the minutes of the eighteenth Iowa Farmers Union convention.

The proposal to the strike was offered by John Chalmers of Madrid, vice president of the union, who declared that "now is the opportunity time" to strike. Unless farmers strike now they will be missing "the opportunity of a lifetime," Chalmers asserted.

His proposal received loud handclaps and shouts of approval from an audience of from 1,000 to 1,500. Prospects that the convention would adopt a resolution to strike at tomorrow's session were viewed as strong by union officials. Chalmers said he would be "the most disappointed man on earth" if the convention did not adopt such a resolution.

E. H. Everson of St. Charles, S. Dak., national president of the Farmers Union, lambasted the farm administration and criticized agricultural colleges and national farm leaders in a fiery address before the convention this afternoon.

Death Toll In Strike Reaches Thirteen Total

Violence Flares; Board Of Mediation Report Near Completion

BULLETIN MACON, Ga., Sept. 19 (AP)—Thirty-three striking textile workers were arrested by Bibb county sheriff's deputies tonight in a raid on a meeting of workers in the woods near the Payne mill of the Bibb Manufacturing company.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 19 (AP)—Strike tension flared into club-swinging violence in scattered textile centers today as the presidential mediation board neared the completion of a report putting into matter-of-fact language the statistical and human elements of the great industrial conflict.

The thirteenth death of the walk-out occurred in North Carolina after a skirmish between pickets and national guardsmen. The local coroner investigated reports of drinking among the troops—a charge which was heatedly denied by their commanding officer.

Call Out Others Francis J. Gorman, national strike leader, announced tonight that a final decision had been reached to call out some 100,000 workers in the textile industry, previously unaffected by the walkout, at the beginning of next week, unless a settlement should be reached sooner. The workers are in the rayon, dyeing, knit goods, and rug and carpet plants.

Authority to take such action was voted by the unions involved to the executive council of the United Textile Workers. The executive council delegated that power to the general strike committee.

Guardsmen Disturbed Meanwhile, the day's disturbances in strike centers found guardsmen hastily mustered to quell a wild outburst at Waterville, Me. Pickets, hurling stones, charged a detail of police at the gates of the Lockwood cotton mill. The wind blew tear gas away from the strikers. Clubs were brought into play and six arrests made.

A survey of the Georgia situation, where martial law is in effect showing some 2,000 returning to the mills and a half-dozen plants reopening elsewhere. There were new mill-closings, too, and the number of strike-Idle apparently remained close to the 420,000. This was the figure indicated by an Associated Press survey yesterday.

Debate With British Students interested in forensics will have wide opportunity for debating and oratory. A debate with a British university, a radio debate with Bates college of Lewiston, Me., and a "model congressional session" will be highlights of the year's debate activities.

A program of university lectures will again bring to Iowa City leading Americans in the fields of literature, politics, and science. Will Durant, leading popular philosopher, has already been scheduled to appear here for two lectures late in January.

Speakers for university Sunday evening vespers services will include well known religious leaders. Opening the regular vespers program Oct. 7 will be the Rev. Charles Brown, dean emeritus of the Yale university divinity school.

Three Home Grid Contests Athletic events will play a large part in the lives of Iowa students. Three home football contests, with South Dakota, Minnesota, and Purdue, will occupy attention during the fall, with basketball, swimming, track, baseball, golf, and tennis receiving their share of attention later in the year and next spring.

This year University of Iowa students will have an opportunity to participate in an event which has not occurred here for 17 years—the inauguration of a new president of the university.

Inauguration Oct. 4 Eugene A. Gilmore will be formally installed as the new Iowa head Oct. 4. An elaborate program of addresses, parade, luncheon, and reception will mark his installation.

In addition, there will be conferences, club meetings, and dozens of mine events. All of these, combined with the ever present business of classes, will make the year a full one for Iowa men and women after next Monday.

Iowa Union Open House For Freshmen Set for Saturday

Freshman Week Committee to Officially Explain "The Hearthstone of Old Gold" to New Students at First Party

Titled "the hearthstone of Old Gold," Iowa Union will be introduced officially to all freshmen and incoming students at an open house Saturday from 8 to 11:30 p.m.

Upperclass members of the committee of 150, which is aiding in Freshman Week activities, will conduct new students on a tour of the entire Iowa Union building, showing the honored guests the purpose of each room and acquainting them with the whole plan of Iowa Union.

From 9:30 to 11:30 p.m. new students are invited to participate in any or all of the activities provided for their entertainment: dancing in the river room or cafeteria, bridge, checkers, chess games and group singing on the sunporch, ping pong in the game room, listening to radio programs in the main lounge, reading in the library, and refreshments at the soda fountain.

Admitted by Ticket

New students will be admitted by giving, to ticket takers at the door, coupon J of their Freshman Week coupon book. Among upperclassmen, only assisting committee members, who will all wear their badges, will be admitted.

Each freshman will be given a souvenir program of Iowa Union, which explains the various departments, their staffs, and the history of the building, a favorite meeting place of university students.

Prof. Rufus H. Fitzgerald, chairman of Freshman Week, and Claude Hogan of Cherokee, student chairman of this week's activities, will take charge, with the assistance of subcommittees and their chairmen.

To Explain Lobby

In the lobby, Robert Dalbey of Des Moines and Ruth Garrigues of Iowa City will head the committee in charge of acquainting newcomers to this section of Iowa Union. The lobby's main desk gives university information of all kinds and varieties, in addition to handling party reservations, selling tickets for university activities, checks out playing equipment, and operates a postoffice substitution where sorority and fraternity mail is distributed to Greek lettered boxes. On the permanent staff in the lobby are Loyse Fisher, desk clerk, assisted by Mrs. W. L. Schramm.

The tour then proceeds to the main lounge, where Mrs. A. H. Ford is hostess, and Helen Reich associate hostess and activities adviser. This room, where Elizabeth Fuller of Mt. Airy will head the subcommittee in charge, is the university's living room, in which all university parties and other large gatherings are given.

Housing, Employment

On the north side of the main lounge are offices of the housing service, director's office, radio station, and library.

Taking charge of student residences are Prof. F. E. Holmes, manager of the housing service, and Imelda Casack, secretary.

Auxiliary Instruction School This Morning

Mrs. Ethel Lippert of Burlington will conduct a school of instruction for committee chairmen of the American Legion auxiliary in the first district this morning at the American Legion Community building. Following the school, luncheon will be served.

Library Privileges

WSUI, the University of Iowa radio station, broadcasts athletics, music, classwork, and other university activities from its Iowa Union station, where Carl Menzer is director-announcer, and Mrs. Pearl Bennett Broxam is program director.

Books and privileges of the Iowa Union library, where students find quiet recreation between classes, will be explained by a committee headed by Virginia Allen of Atlantic. Evelyn Hansen is librarian.

The tour next includes the sunporch, study room and center for bridge, dancing, luncheons, teas, and organization meetings. Gertrude Mowry of Newton will take charge of explanations here.

Tour Southward

Touring southward from the sunporch, new students will be shown the Iowa Union soda fountain, popular eating place for collegians, where breakfast, lunch, dinner, tea, and just "cokes" are served.

Available to anyone desiring a meeting place or party room, the private dining rooms will be shown by Ann Louise Crow of Burlington. Various types of table appointments, available for parties here, will be on display.

David Mansfield of Odgen will conduct the touring party through the kitchens and storerooms of Iowa Union. The river room, whose committee chairman is Catherine Shaw of Pocahontas, appears next on the itinerary. It is here that parties, dinners, bridge tournaments, art exhibits, and organization meetings take place.

Party Lane

The newly furnished modernistic party lane, promenade for parties and place for study and a chat, men's and women's check rooms, and conference rooms will be displayed by a committee headed by Charles Tye of Orange City.

Cafeteria service for lunch and dinner is offered in the grill room, where Einar Jensen of Toledo, Ohio, will head the subcommittee in charge.

The dining service office, with Ted M. Rehder as manager, and Mrs. Nell Alderman as secretary, adjoins the grill room.

Roosevelt P.T.A. Group to Meet At School Tomorrow

To formulate plans for their second year, members of the Roosevelt Parent-Teacher association will meet for a business and pep meeting tomorrow at 3:45 p.m. at the school. The social committee will serve refreshments.

Mrs. Eva Ormand, president; Mrs. R. V. Miller, vice president; and C. J. Butterfield, secretary, will serve as officers for the group.

Membership, social, publicity, program, and record book committees for the year have been announced. Mrs. L. A. Douglas, Mrs. Louis Crow, and Mrs. E. F. Records compose the membership committee. Mary Flanagan will have charge of publicity. Mrs. W. A. Roben, Mrs. C. J. Butterfield, Mrs. Arthur Noel, and Mrs. A. Ratzlaff comprise the social committee.

The program committee is composed of Mrs. V. R. Miller and Mrs. D. A. Armbruster. Mrs. B. O. Mattles, Mrs. J. S. McLaughlin, and Mrs. A. U. Scales are members of the record books committee.

Mrs. Speidel, Mrs. Mercer Golf Hostesses

Mrs. Merritt Speidel and Mrs. LeRoy Mercer will be hostesses at the weekly golf match played by women members of the Iowa City Country club at 9:30 a.m. tomorrow.

Don Young, club professional, will direct the playing, and the hostesses will take charge of arrangements for the luncheon, which will be served in the club house immediately following the games.

50 Couples Attend K. of C. Party

More than 50 couples attended the dancing and card party given by the Knights of Columbus at the club house on east Washington street last night. At the close of the evening refreshments were served. The committee in charge of the affair was Claude Toomey, Clyde Hincliffe, and Harold Donley.

Dean of Women's Office To Release Pledge Lists Today

Rushes, Sororities Await Issuance At 3 P.M.

For sorority members and rushes, anxious hours will pass slowly today until 3 o'clock, when names of pledges will be given out from the dean of women's office. After nerve-racking decisions reached last evening, the rushes' preference cards and sororities' bid lists were submitted to Thomas G. Martin, attorney in charge of pledge announcements.

Shortly after 3 o'clock this afternoon, when rushes will be notified by special mail service of the sororities which they have pledged, they will be greeted by sorority members who will transport them in cars to chapter houses for formal pledging.

O. E. S. Initiates Beth Fuiks; Next Meeting Oct. 3

Beth Fuiks of Iowa City became a member of the Order of Eastern Star at an initiation service conducted at the Masonic temple last night.

Miss Fuiks, member of the Order of Rainbow for Girls, was awarded a majority certificate last June at a grand assembly in Cedar Rapids.

Mrs. Emma Weeber, who awarded her the certificate, welcomed her into the chapter.

The next meeting of the order will be Oct. 3 at 7:30 p.m. After the business meeting a memorial service will be conducted for members who have died during the last year. The meeting is open to any friends of the order.

Pai-Yu-Lan Club Will Meet Tonight

Mrs. Margaret Caldwell, 1630 Wilson avenue, will be hostess to members of the Pai-Yu-Lan club tonight at 8 o'clock. Mrs. Clarence Smartie will be assistant hostess. Kathryn Letts has charge of the program.

Coralville Heights Club Meets Today

Freshmen, New Students To Meet Faculty at Reception

President Gilmore Will Head Receiving Line At Union Tonight

All freshmen and new students, both men and women, will be greeted tonight at the Freshman reception at 8 o'clock in Iowa Union, where they will be introduced to faculty members, the administrative staff, and fellow students. A committee of 150 upperclass students will guide and introduce the incoming group.

To Be Met by Committee

In the lobby of Iowa Union, freshmen will be met by a committee member who will introduce them to President Eugene A. Gilmore, who will introduce them in turn to the receiving line. In the reception group will be Dean George F. Kay of the college of liberal arts, Dean Wilber J. Teeters of the college of pharmacy, Dean C. C. Williams of the college of engineering, Robert

E. Rienow, dean of men, and Adelaide L. Burge, dean of women.

From the palm decorated lane in the lobby, the new students will be escorted by committee members, all of whom will wear an insignia, to the Iowa Union grill, where the actual reception will take place. Pairs will adorn the grill-room in which refreshments will be served. String Quartet to Play: A string quartet will play incidental music throughout reception hours. Musicians will be Harold Cerny and Max Gilbert, violinists; Vivian Kuhl, cellist; and Stephen Williams, pianist.

The committee of 150 selected men and women upperclass students will assemble at 7:30 to receive instructions. Claude Hogan of Cherokee, Freshman Week student chairman, and Cherie McElhinney of Washington, reception chairman, will take charge.

PERSONALS

Dean Alvin W. Bryan and Dr. Erling Thoen, both of the college of dentistry, attended a meeting of the Fayette Dental Study club in Oelwein Tuesday. They met with superintendents and principals of Fayette county schools.

Cornelia Cameron, research assistant in geology; Laura Ladd, research assistant in anatomy and histology; and Ruth Pieper, executive secretary of university publications, have returned from a two week vacation trip to the Adirondack mountains.

Prof. Marjorie Camp of the physical education department returned Wednesday from Hazelhurst, Wis., where she is director of the Joy camps. She was accompanied by her sister, Mrs. John S. Kennedy of San Francisco, and her niece, Joyce

Kennedy, who will visit at her home, 211 N. Capitol street, before returning to California. Miss Kennedy has been a camper for two years at Joy camps and has visited her aunt, Mrs. Kennedy visited her daughter at camp.

Marian Benish of Cedar Rapids, 1933 graduate of the University of Iowa, is visiting Mrs. Erling Thoen, 1626 Kirkwood avenue. Miss Benish is also stopping at the Delta Delta Delta sorority house.

The New Year Its Promises

TODAY ACTUAL registration for what promises to be the greatest year in the history of the University of Iowa begins. Registration figures show tentatively substantial increases in enrollment, proving that depression still is more of a stimulant than a depressant in Iowa. But good prospects for the years are not limited to enrollment figures alone, although these indicate a continued healthy condition in the field of education as a whole. The university never stands still, and this year advances are being made in every branch of university life, from football to economics. New theories, new processes, new methods are being tried and tested, and others which have passed through the proving stage are being applied with confidence. The total result is an even more liberal policy of instruction and training. This year, more than ever before, the university offers the opportunity to every student literally to make of himself what he wants. This liberality and increased freedom puts upon the shoulders of the students an added responsibility to themselves and to the state which provides the institution. They should take advantage of every opportunity to broaden themselves so that when they leave they will have no regrets for having missed anything of value. Confident of a year of real achievement, The Daily Iowan joins with Iowa City and the University of Iowa in a sincere greeting to all students, new and old.

Italy Moves Proudly Backward

WITH THE pleasant pronouncement that "The functions of the citizen and the soldier are indivisible in the Fascist state," Benito Mussolini Tuesday decreed that every male from eight to 33 years of age be subjected to compulsory military drill. Italian newspapers were reported to have hailed this jingoism as a "revival of the spirit of the ancient Romans." Thus, amid cheers and ballyhoo, civilization in country after country marches proudly backward. At the present rate we shall soon see enthusiastic revivals of such wholesome ancient customs as human sacrifice and wholesale matricide. Christ and God will be abandoned in glee while "enlightened" nations take up the worship of wooden images and hang garlands on sacred cows. In keeping with the present spirit in which Italy travels at high speed in reverse, the world might soon expect to see the Coliseum dusted off and utilized for the old Roman holiday, gladiators and all. Just in case the Italians have overlooked it, it might be well to point out that the spirit of the ancient Romans was not a spirit which commanded universal respect. Also it would be worthwhile to mention that the ancient Romans, for all their swarthy power, were forced to borrow what little culture they acquired in other lands. But Mussolini is not much concerned with this. He merely wants to go backward as fast as possible, if he has to arm prospective mothers to do it.

Sportsmanship and "The Old Mug"

IF THE old tea merchant, Thomas Lipton, were alive, he probably would derive more genuine enjoyment than anyone else from the British Endeavour's flashy performance in the America's cup races. For Thomas Lipton, who failed time after time in expensive attempts to recapture "The Old Mug" for Britain, was a superlative sportsman, and it would have gladdened his sportive heart to see another Britisher give a drubbing to an American boat. The cup still is not secure for England, but the first two races demonstrated beyond doubt that Endeavour is a faster boat than Rainbow and, given an even split on the breaks, cannot lose. For years the American press has sung praises for Thomas Lipton's sportsmanship. Every defeat found him just as enthusiastic as before, and always ready to give all credit to the victor. Now we might have the opportunity to test the sportsmanship of our own sportsmen. To lose the "mug" will not be an easy thing to yachtsmen who have spent fortunes to keep it in this country.

What Others Think

The Dickens Hoax

(From The Kansas City Star)

By way of confessing to his readers how "literary" he is, Carl "Snort" Brown, Atchison Globe columnist, submits the following evidence that he is a Dickens reader, and condenses one of Dickens's novels in this manner:

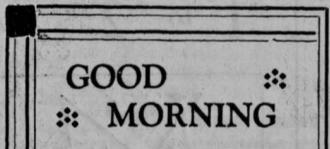

"To please her papa, a girl 20 years of age married a man of 50. A year after her marriage she met a young man. So she and her husband separated, and she married the young man. And that's all there was to it."

It was nothing less than cruel of Mr. Brown thus to dismiss all the veteran Dickens readers of our acquaintance with this abrupt revelation of their favorite author's plot-weakness, and at the same time dismaying them further by showing how they've been reading Dickens all these years without achieving any grasp of what little plot there is. When we read Mr. Brown's terse and devastating synopsis, we were frankly at a loss to know which novel he was describing. Other Dickens readers around the office were equally at sea. Then all at once the humiliating truth dawned upon us.

The fact is, we have all been reading Dickens in the wrong manner. We have been reading in a sort of literary fool's paradise. We have been content to find a certain real or fancied charm in his good humor, his pleasant style, his gift for satire and multifarious characterization, but we have been missing the main thing all the time, which Mr. Brown now points out for us—the plot. We aren't sure even now which novel Mr. Brown has exposed for us. We fancy it is "Hard Times," but we are uncertain, because all we remember, in our thoughtless reading of "Hard Times," was the eminent practicality of Mr. Gradgrind, the unyielding hardness of Mr. Bounderby, and unimportant further details like the misfortunes of Stephen Blackpool.

It is a fearful thing to be yanked up in middle age and shown how we have been led along an empty trail all these years by the artfulness of a long-winded hoaxer like Dickens. The tragedy is that it's probably too late now to mend our ways, and the chances are that we'll go along the rest of the way occasionally dipping into "David Copperfield," in spite of its plot, which is:

A boy whose father is dead grows up and marries. His wife dies, and after a time, he marries again. That's all there is to it.

Sympathy with the New York city fusion administration because of its enormous task of building an orderly city government on the ruins of Tammany is not sufficient to excuse the resort to gambling as a means of raising public funds.

The gambling bill, passed by the board of aldermen and the board of estimate Tuesday, provides a municipal lottery to furnish part of the money necessary to care for the city's unemployed.

Public lotteries of this kind are not new, even in the United States. They have been used to furnish money for the founding of universities. But they passed out of the picture many years ago when it became apparent that the end, no matter how worthy, does not justify such means.

America looked with decided disapproval last year when France established a national lottery by which the government could profit from the gambling instincts of the people.

From the standpoint of monetary results the plan is undoubtedly a good one. The gambling instinct is much stronger than the taxpaying instinct and money flows freely.

But the legalization of red light districts as a source of municipal revenue would be just as lucrative and just as simple. And it is only a short step from a municipal lottery to a municipal red light district.

Far more important than the question of a particular lottery's propriety, however, is the plight of a civilization which finds itself forced to admit that it cannot carry on the functions of government without resorting to such means.

That is exactly what New York has done. The lottery bill was adopted after long months of planning, scheming and contriving in an effort to find some other way in which to raise money which had to be raised.

The government of New York cannot be too severely censured. The destitute must be clothed and fed, in one way or another. If the city cannot find ways and means, the destitute themselves eventually would take the matter into their own hands.

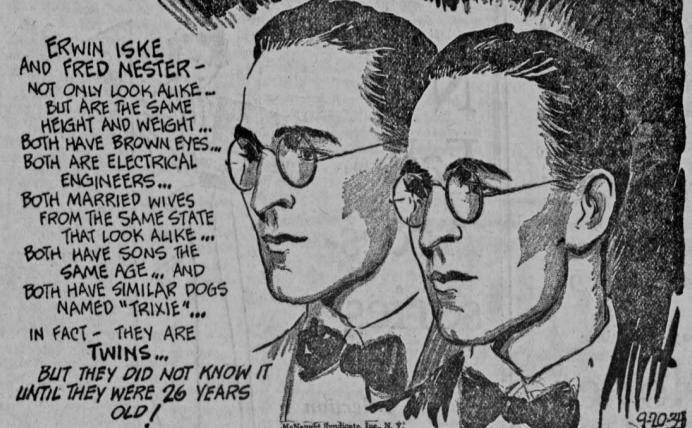

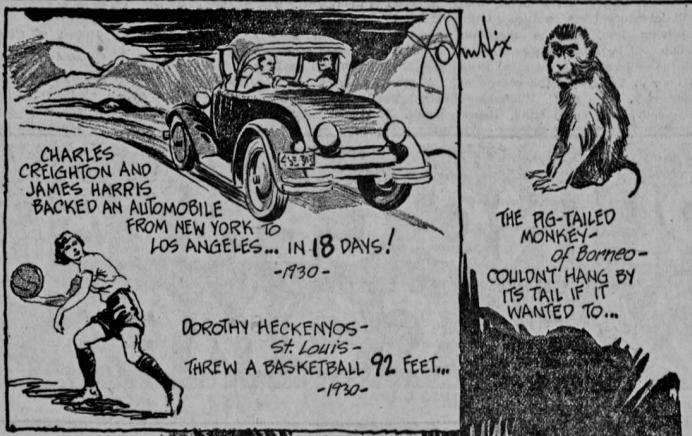

This, of course, could not be tolerated. But neither, apparently, could government devise legitimate plans for doing the job itself: It resorted to illegitimate means.

If the lottery proves a money maker, and the destitute are cared for, there should be no rejoicing. For a decent government there can be no compromise with decency. To do so is an admission of decay.

—Don Pryor

Behind The Scenes in HOLLYWOOD By Harrison Carroll

HOLLYWOOD—This is real drama—the story of David Holt, 7 year old youngster now hailed as Shirley Temple's rival. A few weeks ago David became an overnight sensation by stealing the picture, "You Belong to Me," from Lee Tracy and Helen Mack. Now he has just signed a seven-year contract with Paramount at a starting salary of $150 per week.

But the amazing part of the story is that, a year ago, the youngster's family arrived out here with only $198 and the determination that David was to become a movie star. His mother says she dreamed of it before the kid was born and has been drumming it into his baby ears since cradle days. She even persuaded her husband to give up his job in Jacksonville, Fla., to come to Hollywood.

"They made the trip in a car and a trailer, which they had built themselves. They didn't know anybody out here, and didn't have a chance in a million. Finally, they interested Max Shagrin, a Hollywood agent. He worked hard for the youngster but it was tough.

And the very freak way in which the kid got the job that made him famous sends shivers up the spine. Director Al Werker tested dozens of youngsters and finally chose Dickie Moore. But a day or so before the picture was to start, Dickie got a mastoid infection. On the deadline, with no time for further tests, Werker chose David Holt.

Lowell Sherman's weird sense of humor made him No. 1 candidate to direct the late Thorne Smith's "Night Life of the Gods." Now that he's got the job, it is cropping out in typical fashion.

Next to the Sherman troupe, Director John Stahl is directing "Imitation of Life." Stahl is very painstaking and doesn't like interruptions. As usual, his set carries the sign: "Positively No Visitors."

But, since the other day, everybody has been tittering. For, on the adjoining set there has appeared a sign: "All visitors welcome. See Lowell Sherman work at last. $1 per head."

This time-juggling is beyond me, but the M.G.M.ers are crowing that many of the Paris predictions for fall were called by their Adrian several months ago. For instance, in "Chained," Joan Crawford will introduce the hoop-skirt for evening wear, the long-neglected hand-muff and the three-quarter length cloth coat with extravagant fur trim youngsters and finally chose Dickie KNICK-KNACKS—The real romance in Nelson Edy's life, he insists, is a non-professional, who "wouldn't come to the studio, even if I asked her to" . . . John Beal is disconsolate. His bride, Helen Craig, had to leave to rehearse a stage play in New York. And John remained in Hollywood for Katharine Hepburn's "Little Minister" . . . Charlie Farrell and Bill Gargan are having a swell time in London. I know because they cabled me some news the other night and sent another cable retracting it next day. Just clean fun . . . Jimmy Durante and a party of eight friends descended upon Agua Caliente for a week . . . Sam Hellman has been painting the late spots red in celebration of the sale of his first play, "The Golden Sunshine." It kids California. Louis Lee Arms, Mae Marsh's husband, is co-author . . . And Buck Jones, the hardy fellow, has just celebrated his eighteenth wedding anniversary.

The success of "Flying Down to Rio" has inspired Producer Lou Brock to give the rest of South America a break. His new musical, "The Song of the Gaucho," will celebrate the authentic customs of Argentina, Paraguay and Uruguay.

At the opening university vesper service, President Eugene A. Gilmer will introduce the student and professional religious leaders of the campus and community. Prof. M. Willard Lampe will give an address, "A Text for all the Faiths." Father P. J. O'Reilly will be the chaplain. ### MUNITIONS

Probe Reveals France As Arms Broker

letters he had written to Raoul Leon, federal agent in Buenos Aires, were read, in which Jonas called Young a "nippy" among other things. Young laughed heartily. Later, he disputed a statement attributed to an official of the United States Ordnance engineers of Cleveland, and a manufacturer of gas and other munitions, which said the Cleveland concern held the New York police department "in the palm" of his hand.

Denies Using U. S. Credit—The committee was informed today that Dr. S. K. Alfred Sze, the Chinese minister, had denied upon instructions from his government, that China had used any of its $20,000,000 American credit for wheat and cotton purchases to buy munitions.

The Chinese minister, calling at the state department, said that he had requested Secretary Hull to ask Senator Nye, (R., N. D.), chairman of the committee, to produce any evidence he had to substantiate the allegations.

"Being Investigated"—"We have had charges before us that some of the credit was used to purchase munitions," Nye commented. "The charges are being investigated. There is enough evidence to make a study of the truth of the allegations seem worth while."

So numerous have been the international protests that the committee today made a public appeal for support of the investigation which has drawn official complaints from several governments.

Addressed to South America—The committee's message was adressed specifically to the citizens of South America, where many government officials have been mentioned in connection with graft which greased the way for arms sales.

The statement was calculated also to bolster public sentiment in the United States for the continuance of an untrammelled inquiry.

of persons crowded around the building, disregarding police warnings and hampering the efforts of circus employees who held up a strip of canvas to form a runway into which the lion might be forced and eventually put back in his cage. Fearful that someone might be injured an order was given to shoot the animal and a door was cautiously opened while Earl Lindsey, circus auditor, fired four shots from a high powered rifle. Three shots took effect in the beast's neck, it was learned later, but he still was alive when Marvin Kramer, one of his keepers, borrowed a policeman's revolver, entered the building and approached closely to fire the finishing shot into his head.

The net results of the "hunt" were one spectator, John Kelly, slightly wounded in the forearm by a flying bullet; one young lion, highly prized by Beatty, dead, and hundreds of persons almost equally frightened and thrilled. Meanwhile the circus parade had proceeded in regular order. The lion's escape was made from the first animal cage in the caravan when it had moved only a few blocks from the circus grounds. Crowds lining streets farther toward the downtown section had no indication anything out of the ordinary had happened.

University Lectures, Vespers Scheduled for Coming Year

M. Willard Lampe Will Speak at First Service

PROF. M. W. LAMPE
—Opens Vesper Series

University lectures and the university vesper series form a part of the most important student activities at the University of Iowa. On the university lecture series, a senate board headed by Prof. Benj. F. Shambaugh, head of the political science department, schedules addresses by prominent men and women in the fields of arts and sciences. The first lecture scheduled for the coming year will be by Will Durant, well known writer on philosophy and politics. Mr. Durant will appear here in January. Several other lectures will be arranged, the season to begin next month.

The vesper series features Sunday evening addresses by American religious leaders of various faiths. About six or seven vesper services are scheduled annually.

Prof. M. Willard Lampe, director of the school of religion, will be the speaker at a special vesper service for Freshman week, to be held next Sunday at 8 p.m. in Iowa Union. Among the other vesper speakers for the coming year will be: Rev. Charles R. Brown, dean emeritus of the Yale university divinity school, and graduate of the University of Iowa in 1883, who will speak here Oct. 7.

The Rev. Robert R. Reed, Presbyterian minister of Columbus, Ohio, who will speak Oct. 28; and the Rev. Charles C. Morrison, editor of The Christian Century of Chicago, who is scheduled to appear here Nov. 11.

To Appear at Rockford College Inauguration For Chalmers

Prof. Norman Foerster, director of the school of letters, has accepted an invitation to give one of the two addresses at the inauguration of Gordon Keith Chalmers as president of Rockford college, Rockford, Ill., which was announced yesterday. The other address will be given by President Chalmers. Rockford college is the second oldest college for women in the United States. In the first graduating class was Janis Addams of Hull House in Chicago.

Professor Foerster received his B.A. degree from Harvard university in 1910, his M.A., from the University of Wisconsin in 1912, and his D.Litt., from the University of the South in 1931.

College Principal in India Praises Shambaugh's Course

The course on approaches to a liberal and cultural education—the campus course—of Prof. Benj. F. Shambaugh, head of the political science department, received high praise in an article by James H. Cousins, principal of Mandanapalle college, India, in the current issue of Educational India.

Group Will Honor Bride at Luncheon

Gretchen Kuever and Margaret Miller will honor Mrs. Charles Van Epps, a recent bride, at a bridge luncheon and linen shower Saturday at 1:30 p.m. at the Kuever home, 5 Melrose circle.

Mr. Cousins, who lectured here several years ago, and who spoke here in favor of synthesis in education, sees in the campus course a step in that direction. "The campus course," the Indian educator, at one time a staff member of the City College of New York, wrote, "brings together a series of studies that are usually dealt with as specializations, and, being so dealt with, are denied the illumination and joy that come of interacting study."

Marguerite Connor Frederick Kriz Wed

At a ceremony performed in the presence of immediate friends and relatives, Marguerite Connor, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Connor of Mechanicsville, and Frederick J. Kriz, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Kriz of Coralville, were married Tuesday in the St. John's church at Lisbon at 7 a.m. The Rev. William McNamee officiating.

an arm bouquet of Joanna Hill roses completed her outfit. Her cousin, Opal Wyjack of Coralville, who attended her as bridesmaid, wore dark brown with matching accessories, and carried Talisman roses. Clifford Connor, the bride's brother, was the bridegroom's best man.

Instrumental music was played by the bride's aunt and cousin, Mrs. Carrie Connor and son, Lawrence of Solon. Mrs. Marie Burger of Iowa City sang at the communion of the mass, and following the ceremony. Luncheon was served to the bridal party and relatives at the home of the bride at high noon. A bride's cake formed the centerpiece of the dining table, decorated in pink and white.

Mr. Kriz, graduate of University high school, is employed by the River Products company near Coralville.

Michigan On the Spot

All Kipke Wants Is Another Big Ten Championship.

(This is another of a series on major college football prospects).

By MERLE OLIVER (Associated Press Staff Writer)

ANN ARBOR, Mich., Sept. 19—Michigan will be "on the spot" in the Western conference again this fall, with a successful season assured for any one of its football coaches, provided his eleven can put an end to the rule of the Wolverine.

And all Coach Harry Kipke wants in the coming campaign is another Big Ten championship for the Maize and Blue. Standing in the way are Chicago, Illinois, Minnesota, Wisconsin, Ohio State and Northwestern, all regarded as stronger than in 1933. These six teams from the Western conference will be met in October and November, in addition to Michigan State and Georgia Tech.

A Lurking Viper
Illinois and Minnesota are considered the most dangerous, although in the toughest collegiate football territory "one is likely to find a rattlesnake in any bush."

The Maize and Blue has lost four outstanding football men who produced and prevented scores in 1933, Charles Bernard, center, Ted Petoskey, end, Francis Wistert, tackle, and Herman Everhardus, halfback. Sophomores must be groomed to replace them this fall. Both regular guards, Carl Savage and Johnny Kowalk, also are gone, as is Captain Fay, halfback.

Johnny Regecz
The 1934 team will be constructed around Johnny Regecz, fullback last season who probably will play at halfback this fall. Regecz's specialty is long distance punting, but he also is Michigan's best bet as a ball carrier. Cedric Sweet, a sophomore, is in line to take his place at fullback.

The Wolverines admit they will have a strong defense. How often they score will depend largely upon Regecz's work. Bill Renner will be on hand again to call signals and throw passes.

The right end of the Michigan line will be guarded by Willis Ward, Negro track and football star for two years.

Golds Defeat Blacks 8-6 In Practice Tilt

Crayne Makes Run Of 70 Yards For A Touchdown

Coach Ose's team divided his squad into two teams yesterday afternoon, the Blacks and the Golds, with the latter outfit pining back the ears of the rival Blacks in a long scrimmage, 8 to 2.

The Blacks' starting lineup included what has been tentatively called the first string, including Corney Walker and Bernie Page at ends; Fred Radloff and Lloyd Hoffman at tackles; Jack Gallagher and Floyd McDowell at guards; and Osmalowski at center for the line; with Dick Crayne, Dwight Hoover, Capt. Russ Fisher and Ose Simmons forming the backfield quartet.

Opposite this crew were John England and Gordon Matson, ends; Jim Kelly and Rudy Lovize, tackles; Frank O'Leary and William Seel, guards; and Merrill Robb at center; the backfield being made up of George Teyro, calling signals, Bob Moore, John Hill and Herman Schneldman. Neither team remained intact for long, however, as a steady stream of replacements were sent in by Coach Solem.

The Blacks opened the scoring on the third play of the 45 minute contest when Crayne broke through the right side of the line and galloped 70 yards to a touchdown. A few minutes later, however, he was pushed and attempted a pass from behind his goal line, where he was tackled, thereby giving the Golds two points.

An up-and-down battle followed until the final minutes of the game, when passes by Halton helped advance the ball deep into Black territory, with the touchdown being scored just before time was up.

Play was ragged on the whole. Ose Simmons was held in check and big Ted Osmalowski proved a stand-out on defense. The kicking of Crayne, Joe Richards, Teyro, Halton and others who sat in with the backfield at various times, was not impressive.

Jerry Foster, senior tackle, and Gail Lundberg, sophomore who played guard with the first string Tuesday and yesterday morning, were excused from practice in the afternoon, with Floyd McDowell taking Lundberg's place and being the only first stringer not substituted for.

Yesterday morning's drill was in

Yanks Finally Humble Tigers By 5-2 Score

Tigers Need Four More Games at Most For Title

DETROIT, Sept. 19 (AP)—After being held scoreless by Detroit pitchers for 20 consecutive innings, the New York Yankees turned on Eddie Auker today and broke the spell when they scored a run in the third inning to make a start that developed into a 5 to 2 victory.

The defeat reduced the Tigers lead over the second place Yankees to six and one-half games but Mickey Cochrane's men still needed only four victories or three, if they beat the Yankees in the final game of the series tomorrow, to clinch their first pennant since 1909.

For five innings it looked as if Auker might whip the Yanks but in the sixth he was found for a single, two doubles and walked two batters. The result was three runs and (Turn to Page 7)

Northwestern, Husker Games Interest Iowans

Hawkeye fans apparently are just about as much interested in the Nebraska game at Lincoln as in the Northwestern contest at Evanston, it appears from ticket sales at the University of Iowa athletic department.

Sales for the first two road games of the 1934 season are running practically even, although the Northwestern game of Oct. 6 is a Big Ten battle.

Interest in the Nebraska game of Oct. 13 probably is due to the interstate and inter-conference aspect of the affair, as well as the fact that Iowa will be seeking revenge for the 14 to 13 defeat of 1932 and the 7 to 6 loss a year ago.

Each university has reserved a choice section of the stadium for Iowa fans and each charges the same price—$2.20.

East Wins Polo
WESTBURY, N. Y., Sept. 19 (AP)—Four young whirlwinds on horseback blasted the defenses of the high-geared western team in his today and galloped to an astounding triumph for the east in the first match of the inter-sectional polo championship series. The final score was 10 to 8.

Giants Rally in 8th to Drop Reds

6-3 Triumph Jumps Lead To 4 Games

Stage Uprising in 4th; Cards Idle At Boston

NEW YORK, Sept. 19 (AP)—With one big inning the New York Giants tacked another half game onto their National league lead today, defeating the Cincinnati Reds 6 to 3 to increase their advantage over the second place Cardinals to four full games.

The cards again were rained out at Boston.

Going into the last half of the eighth with the score tied at two-all, the Giants put together four hits, a base on balls and an error to score four runs. Before they subdued the Reds in the ninth, however, Manager Bill Terry was forced to call Adolfo Ball from the bullpen to put down a threatening rally.

Beryl Richmond, the Reds' recent southpaw acquisition from Baltimore, kept the Giants' hits well scattered until he blew up in the eighth. He was matched by Leroy Parmelee, however, until the Giants' big right-hander was taken out for pinch hitter in the seventh. Joe Bowman, Al Smith, and Luque finished the game with Bowman getting credit for the victory.

BIG SIX

(By the Associated Press)

With three hits in five times at bat, Heinie Manush, Washington's slugging outfielder, yesterday advanced within one point of a tie with Lou Gehrig for the American league batting leadership as three members of baseball's Big Six showed gains. While Gehrig was going hitless to lose two points, Manush boosted his average to .356. In the National league, Bill Terry with four hits showed a gain of four points to send his average to .350, eight points below Paul Waner, who lost a point despite two hits in a doubleheader. John Moore took undisputed possession of the third position in the senior league's trio with three safe blows in four trips to the plate.

The standings:

COUNCIL

Refers Light Contract To Martin

Hopkins with an offer of the management here. The accusation is ridiculous. There are plenty of good managers."

After some discussion of provisions of the contract, Alderman James Stronks said, "I'd like to let this thing lay over for quite a while, while we consider natural gas and the sewage disposal project."

"Until it rots" "Let it lay over until it rots. I suppose that is your purpose," the municipal ownership advocate snapped.

Alderman Roscoe B. Ayers, who has led Aldermen Stronks, John Memler and Edward Sybil in opposition to city ownership, said that council members hadn't had sufficient time to study the contract.

"It's been here 10 days and I have had time to read it two or three times," replied Alderman Van der Zee.

The contract was turned over to City Attorney Martin for consideration, but the argument went on.

"Working for People" "We are working for the people of Iowa City," said Alderman Stronks, "and we think that natural gas will save them 25 per cent."

"Then why aren't you interested in saving them more than that on their light bills?" Alderman Van der Zee queried. "It's very apparent that you are playing into the hands of the Light and Power company."

"We have other projects to work on," Alderman Ayers offered.

"I know it," Alderman Van der Zee said. "The sewage plant project has been used to fight the light plant from the start."

Supported by McGuan Alderman Ayers answered that the reverse is the case, and the battle closed shortly afterwards when the municipal ownership leader left the meeting. He was supported by Alderman M. J. McGuan, who definitely showed his position for the first time.

Also taken up at the meeting was a letter from the city planning commission, which requested more time to consider a petition seeking permission to build a filling station on Riverside drive.

Request Granted The request was granted, and commission members will discuss the matter with their consultant, Jacob L. Crane, Jr., of Chicago, when he comes here Sept. 28. In a letter to the commission, Mr. Crane recently pointed out that there are 43 service stations now operating here.

A PWA contract granting $18,500 for the Burlington street paving was signed. Hearing on a proposed levy to pay for the city's share of the paving cost was set for the next meeting, Sept. 28. "This doesn't mean a raise in taxes by one cent," Alderman Van der Zee pointed out. "The money will really come in yearly street maintenance payments from the state highway commission."

Alderman Stronks presented another report on natural gas, giving results of a trip to Cedar Rapids which investigating committee members made with a representative of the Iowa City Light and Power company and Daily Iowan staff members.

He also quoted from letters sent here by officials in other Iowa towns. All of these endorsed natural gas.

The committee will not make a report, he said, until it visits Muscatine, although no serious objections to the gas have been raised.

Mrs. Schropp, Jr., 28, Dies; Funeral Plans Not Complete

Mrs. Isaac Schropp, Jr., 28, of Oxford died yesterday morning at a local hospital after a brief illness. Funeral arrangements had not been completed late last night.

She is survived by her husband, Isaac Schropp, Jr.; three sons, Donald, Russell, and Kenneth; two brothers, John DeGood of Marengo and Albert DeGood of Ft. Riley, Kan.; one sister, Mrs. Adolph Berg of Marengo; and her parents, The Oathout funeral home is in charge.

Chesmore Funeral Rites Tomorrow

Funeral service for Fred W. Chesmore, 50, who died at his home, 15 W. Harrison street, early yesterday morning, will be tomorrow at 2 p.m. at the Oathout funeral home with burial at Oakland cemetery.

Mr. Chesmore, who has been a resident of Iowa City for the last six years, is survived by his widow; a son, Wayne R. Chesmore of Joliet, Ill.; two daughters, Dalma and DeVoe, both of Iowa City; one brother, Charles Chesmore of Dryden, Mont.; and a sister, Mrs. Hattie Heron of Worland, Wyo.

CHICAGO, Sept. 19 (AP)—So far this year, the 1934 showing of a century of progress exposition has done a business of $9,517,610, not counting the gate receipts, the books showed today.

That much was taken in by all concessions, between May 26 and August 31, said Comptroller Marvin M. Tvetter in the first statement on how the 1934 world's fair is doing financially.

To come out even, as no similar exposition ever did, it would need an average daily attendance for the rest of the year of 115,000 persons—16,500,000 in all. This would require a spurt; so far, the average attendance has been 98,500, Tvetter said.

But it is sure to end with at least $7,500,000 of its $9,724,200 in borrowed capital paid back, he said. Another ten per cent payment—$814,000—will be made on October 1.

It will take a million dollars to demolish the fair and move it away from the lake shore, Tvetter estimated. For its entire plant, costing in all about twenty million dollars,

Aid Rushed To Stricken Nome

NOME, Alaska, Sept. 19 (AP)—Another rush to Nome was in the making today, but it will have little resemblance to the gold rush of 1898 and subsequent years when eager fortune seekers raced to the Klondike and the Yukon.

This time it will be a rush of supplies and a battle of man against time and temperature.

Hoping to rebuild the fire-stricken city in part at least before the arctic shuts out all shipping a few weeks hence, the citizenry laid plans for quick transportation of lumber and other construction materials as well as food and medical supplies. The Alaska Steamship company the fair counts on only $100,000 in salvage.

It owns single buildings—among them the travel and transport hall—built at a cost of more than $1,000,000.

But the costs of its big moving day will be terrific, Tvetter said. Particularly if it must dig up its sewer system and take down the skyride.

Outside of what he spent at the gate, and anything he may have spent inside the various "villages," the average visitor in 1934 spent only $1.01 1/2. Last year he spent $1.20.

At the close last year, the management was in the red, considering everything, by $7,725,954.

The figure Tvetter announced with most pride was an item of $1,334,000 which the fair has paid as the expense of running on an ordinary business financing plan. That alone, he said, is more than any previous world fair ever paid back. It includes $1,400,000 in interest on its notes.

Credit Corporation Offers Farmers Aid

Johnson county farmers desiring to purchase cattle for feeding and who lack the necessary money may obtain loans from the Production Credit corporation at Cedar Rapids if they have a large amount of surplus feed, Roy J. Lukanitsch, secretary of the corporation, announced yesterday.

The Production Credit corporation will put farmers in this territory in touch with cattle and sheep raisers who have stock for sale, Mr. Lukanitsch said.

procedure is the obtaining of materials at the north door of Macbride hall for undergraduates and in the graduate college office for graduates.

The registration procedure to be followed by students in the various colleges is as follows:

New students never before registered in the university, or transferring from one college to another, may obtain admission cards in room 1, university hall. They will then go to room B5, to sit for photographs and make appointments for health examinations.

Fees Assessed Liberal arts, commerce, education, and graduate students will have fees assessed in room A1; professional students will have fees assessed in room 1.

Students who have not had their photographs taken in connection with a former registration should go to room B5 to sit for photographs. All students will pay fees in room 2.

Professional students will then go to the offices of the deans of their respective colleges, to complete the process of registration.

To Iowa Union Liberal arts, commerce, education, and graduate students will go to Iowa Union to complete their registration. Liberal arts, commerce, and graduate students may confer with advisors for approval of study lists in the main lounge or sunporch. Students will then plan their time schedule in the main lounge, and present their approved study lists with time schedules to class card distributors for final assignment to classes.

Final Step The final step in registration is the presentation of materials to checkers in the river room of Iowa Union. Liberal arts, commerce, and education registration will be checked by "Liberal arts and commerce checkers," and graduate registration will be checked by "Graduate" checkers.

Fraternities, Sororities Start New Finance Plan

Takes Care Of Finance, Accounting

Three-Fourths of Iowa Chapters Belong To Service

About three-fourths of the fraternities and sororities on the University of Iowa campus are now members of the University Fraternity and Sorority Business service, a new non-profit corporation organized last spring.

Operated by the participating member chapters on a confidential basis, the organization provides an accounting and budgetary service to handle details of fraternity and sorority business, and makes it possible for members to participate in cooperative buying.

The service was organized last spring by four fraternity-minded members of the university faculty with the cooperation of fraternity and sorority members and the Pan-Hellenic councils.

Ten Directors

The corporation is controlled by a directorate of 10 persons, five of whom were appointed by the president of the university and five elected by the participating groups. Faculty members are: Prof. Rufus H. Fitzgerald, chairman, Prof. O. K. Patton, Prof. S. G. Winter, William H. Cobb, and Prof. Clara M. Daley. Student members are Edward J. Kelly, Lester E. Swanson, Clifford B. Bowers, Harriet J. Kelly and Margaret Parrish.

The board of trustees meets each month and approves contracts for purchases, programs for collection of accounts, and such other matters as may be presented for its consideration. The board of trustees takes no action with reference to any group participating in the service, but it does concern itself with all general problems affecting fraternities and sororities on the Iowa campus.

S.U.I. Gives Space

The University of Iowa furnishes office space and equipment for the use of the corporation. It also furnishes light, heat, janitor service and supplies, water, ice and equipment maintenance. The expenses of the services as far as participating groups are concerned are therefore limited to salaries and office supplies, of which stationery, printing and stamps are the most important items. Each organization purchases its own ledger, journal and other bookkeeping equipment, which is all uniform. The cost of the service is based on actual membership and ranges from $100 to $300 per year depending upon the size of the group.

Complete Services

The services of the University Fraternity and Sorority Business service may be divided into four sections: accounting, bookkeeping and clerical services; buying service; collecting service; and general services. No effort is made to dictate in matters of policy or operation to any group; as a matter of fact, the only object of the corporation is to provide a service department to take care of the business and finances of the participating groups, extending to them all of the facilities of a well equipped business office and trained personnel for every possible use they can make of it.

Profit and Loss Statements

Each month the service prepares a detailed profit and loss statement and a statement of financial condition, which are presented to the officers and alumni of each fraternity and sorority to guide them in properly administering the affairs of their organization. The report includes a monthly and year-to-date comparison with the budget of the group so that the officers have continually before them a measuring stick with which to control the income and expenses.

Need Service Department

For many years fraternity and sorority treasurers have taken in and expended sums of money ranging from $12,000 to $20,000 per year, with little or no supervision or knowledge of business methods and practices.

In the past few years it has been clear throughout the fraternity world that there is a need for an outside, continuous service department to take care of financial details.

Accounting Services

The accounting services of the University Fraternity and Sorority Business service are complete, comprehensive and carry full protection against loss of funds through carelessness, mismanagement or embezzlement. The records of each group

Students Edit Publications

Student Publications Board Controls Five

Students at the University of Iowa publish six publications, including magazines dealing with various professional fields, and The Daily Iowan.

Five of these publications are under control of Student Publications, Inc., directed by a board consisting of five students and four faculty members. These are:

The Daily Iowan, a daily newspaper published by students in the school of journalism.

Frivol, monthly humorous publication published eight times during the school year.

The Transit, engineering monthly published by the Associated Students of Engineering.

The Journal of Business, quarterly magazine published by the Commerce club of the college of commerce.

In addition to these, the Iowa Law Review is controlled by a separate board selected from junior and senior students in the college of law. The Law Review is published quarterly during the academic year.

Cooperative Dorms Again Opened to Needy Students

Year's Education At Iowa May Cost Only $175

In its effort to make a college education available to everyone, the University of Iowa will again conduct cooperative dormitories for men and women.

In these dormitories, which have become a part of the regular university dormitory system, room and board may be secured at a maximum cost of $250 per week. Last year some 150 students lived in the six houses.

Work Assigned to Each

All the work is on a cooperative basis, each man or woman being assigned a particular duty each day. In this way living expenses are cut to the very minimum.

On a semi-cooperative basis will be the field house dormitory where room may be secured for $1 per week. Board is not available here, however, and this arrangement is especially designed for men who have board jobs, or who wish to eat at the Quadrangle cafeteria just across the way.

Semi-Cooperative

A limited number of women will again be admitted to Eastlawn, women's dormitory, this year on a semi-cooperative plan. They will work one and one-half hours per day, and will receive one-half the cost of board for this work.

The minimum room rent in Quadrangle will be $72 per year, for rooms with restricted service, and $85 will represent the minimum in Currier hall.

A limited number of fee exemptions of $30 per semester will be made available to needy students.

On this basis, university officials have calculated that a year at Iowa need cost no more than $175 in the cooperative dormitories, with a fee exemption, or $225 without. At the field house dormitory, this would be $265 with the fee exemption, or $325 without.

Women on the semi-cooperative plan at Eastlawn may secure a year's work at Iowa on a minimum of $250 with the fee exemption, or $310 without. At Currier hall the comparative figures are $357 with fee exemption, or $417 without, and at the Quadrangle they are $310 with fee exemption, and $370 without.

These figures include all necessary and incidental items, but do not include such items as clothing, laundry, travel, and similar expenses.

Honor Societies In Speech, Dramatics Lure Many Students

Election to honor societies in speech and dramatics is the goal of several hundred students in these fields annually at the University of Iowa.

For men and women outstanding in dramatics, Purple Mask is the society which marks the honor of achievement with membership annually. Last year, an auxiliary group, Scarlet Mask, was organized. In forensics, Delta Sigma Rho, national honorary speech organization, is the goal which looms at the end of years of debate and oratory.

Iowa Frosh Must Drill In R.O.T.C.

Training corps—soon becomes a part of the life of every freshman man at the University of Iowa.

Under the terms of federal law, the university is required to give military training courses. A basis course, lasting through the first two years of college work, is required of every male student in the university.

Advanced Courses

Advanced courses are also offered. These are voluntary, and students receive a small pay for taking them. Each year a group of students is selected by the commanding officer as eligible for advanced work.

When freshmen register they make a deposit for uniform and equipment in the R.O.T.C., and they are soon drilling at the armory on the west side of Iowa river. Classes meet twice a week for drill.

Three Great Events

Three outstanding events mark each year's work in the R.O.T.C. They are the Military Ball, inspection by outside army officers and Governor's day review.

The Military Ball, traditionally the first party in January of the new year, is the most sparkling formal affair of the university social season. Here staff officers and student officers mingle with the honorary cadet-colonel and public officials.

In the spring federal inspection brings every company of the R.O.T.C. to near-perfection, in the attempt to secure high ranking.

Governor's Day

The final event of the year is Governor's day, when the entire cadet regiment marches in review and drills before the governor of the state and other high officials.

The Iowa R.O.T.C. this year will be under the command of Lieut. Col. George F. N. Dalley, who came here several weeks ago to succeed Lieut. Col. Converse R. Lewis. Colonel Lewis, who was ordered to an eastern post, had been commandant here for six years.

All Beliefs Represented

The school, organized as a unit of the college of liberal arts, has a faculty, headed by Prof. M. Willard Lampe, composed of members of all three beliefs.

Based on the assumption that religion is fundamental in character education and should be included in the curriculum of any school, the school of religion makes itself felt on the campus not only through its credit courses. It plays a part in the work of student religious organizations, and also cooperates in the university vesper services. At these Sunday night meetings nationally known leaders in religious thought are speakers.

Groups Cooperate

Organized under the commission on religious activities, the student religious groups cooperate in projects of campus-wide nature.

On the commission are representatives of campus religious organizations including the Newman club, Philo club, Y.M.C.A., Y.W.C.A., and the student groups in local churches such as, Morrison club, Westminster student council, English Lutheran Student association, Roger Williams club, Congregational student council, Youth Fellowship, Negro Forum, and Ministers union, and the school of religion, together with faculty members.

Prof. William H. Morgan, appointed by the school of religion, assists in the cooperative enterprises of these groups under the commission. His office as well as the headquarters of the commission is in Iowa Union.

Regular Meetings

Men and women students, interested in discussing problems of vital importance to them, conduct regular programs meeting Sunday morning for exchanging ideas, Bible study, or to listen to addresses by university

Social Propriety

University Rules Regulate Many Student Functions, Activities

Getting in on time is less of a restriction for today's University of Iowa coed than it was for her sisters a decade or two ago. Although 10 o'clock week day hours are the same for 1934 as they were years previous, on Fridays and Saturdays, women students today have 12:30 hours in comparison to the 11 o'clock hours previously enforced.

In former years, when 11 o'clock week end hours prevailed, students were, however, permitted to remain at university approved parties until midnight, returning to their residences by 1:30.

"Late" Nights

Today, women attending the four all-university formal, Sophomore Cotillion, Military Ball, Senior Hop, and Junior Prom, may remain at the dances until their closing hour, 1 a. m., and must return to their residences by 1:30.

Social regulations as stated in the information sheet for chaperons and presidents, require that "undergraduate women must sign out for the 12:30 and 1:30 nights, giving the place to which they are going and the social function they will attend."

Also, women remaining out after 10 p. m. during the week for university events or for such work as reporting, play practice, or broadcasting, must sign out. These reports are left weekly at the office of the dean of women.

Other Regulations

Other regulations set forth in the information sheet are:

The closing hour for all houses and dormitories shall be 10 p. m. each night except Friday and Saturday nights and the night preceding a holiday, when the closing hour shall be 12:30 a. m.

The list of places approved for social functions for university students includes: all university buildings, fraternity and sorority houses, and those places which are approved by the social committee and are on file at the office of the dean of women.

Properly Chaperoned

All social functions for university students must be chaperoned by approved persons, reported to the dean of women at least two days before the function. Two couples are required as chaperons for smaller group parties.

Permission is given for impromptu parties at chapter houses, provided such parties, together with the name of an acceptable chaperon, are reported to the Iowa Union main desk at the time.

Fraternities and similar organizations shall not entertain young women at their houses without a chaperon whose name shall be reported either to the Iowa Union desk or the office of the dean of women. It is a violation of social regulations for a young woman to call at a fraternity house or accept a dinner engagement at one which does not have a housemother or chaperone provided for the occasion.

Encourage Tea Dances

Dancing parties may be given only on Friday and Saturday nights or the night preceding a holiday. Mid-week dancing at Iowa Union is encouraged between the hours of 4 and 5 p. m. every day except Sunday.

If a young woman stays overnight at some house other than her regular residence, she shall do so with the permission of the dean of women.

Written Notice

All university women wishing to leave the city overnight must file a written notice in the office of the dean of women at least 24 hours in advance.

University social regulations are always in force and are not voided by holidays or vacations.

Religious Organizations Play Large Part in Student Life On University of Iowa Campus

The school of religion, now in its eighth year as a unit of the University of Iowa, has an organization unusual in state controlled universities in the United States.

Besides offering credit courses in the history and literature of religion, it seeks to bring together in common interests the students of all faiths—Protestant, Catholic and Jewish—without the sacrifice of beliefs.

All Beliefs Represented

The school, organized as a unit of the college of liberal arts, has a faculty, headed by Prof. M. Willard Lampe, composed of members of all three beliefs.

Based on the assumption that religion is fundamental in character education and should be included in the curriculum of any school, the school of religion makes itself felt on the campus not only through its credit courses. It plays a part in the work of student religious organizations, and also cooperates in the university vesper services. At these Sunday night meetings nationally known leaders in religious thought are speakers.

Groups Cooperate

Organized under the commission on religious activities, the student religious groups cooperate in projects of campus-wide nature.

Prof. William H. Morgan, appointed by the school of religion, assists in the cooperative enterprises of these groups under the commission. His office as well as the headquarters of the commission is in Iowa Union.

Regular Meetings

Men and women students, interested in discussing problems of vital importance to them, conduct regular programs meeting Sunday morning for exchanging ideas, Bible study, or to listen to addresses by university members. These groups are gathered together in student organizations in each church in Iowa City.

They again gather Sunday evenings for supper, "fellowships" or "fireside hours." Worship and discussions led by student members follow these programs.

Townpeople and university staff members meet with the students to help them plan and carry out their discussions, meetings, or social events, and to contribute to the activities of the religious groups.

Professional Students Maintain Organizations In Various Departments

Students in professional courses at the University of Iowa have organized societies consisting of the student bodies of the various professional groups.

Among such organizations are: American Institute of Electrical Engineers, Chemistry club, Iowa section of the American Society of Civil Engineers, American Society of Mechanical Engineers.

Commerce club, Medical Students council, Student branch of American Institute of Chemical Engineers, Associated Students of Engineering, Dental Students association, and the Associated Students of Journalism.

To provide for this expected increase in population, Iowa City must look forward, he says. Beautification of the city should be the foundation for planning here, and provision must be made for the orderly growth of new subdivisions.

In the near future, Mr. Crane will present a final report which is expected to contain recommendations as to business and residential zoning, street beautification, placement of schools and community playgrounds, regulations on subdivision improvements, and the location of parks.

Council Has Power

Although the city council will have final power to carry out or discard these recommendations, the city planning commission may suggest the council's course of action.

The plan is being drawn to provide the city government with an orderly outline of correct civic procedure in future years.

News Bulletin Tells Of University Events

Alumni of the University of Iowa are kept informed of campus news through the University of Iowa News Bulletin.

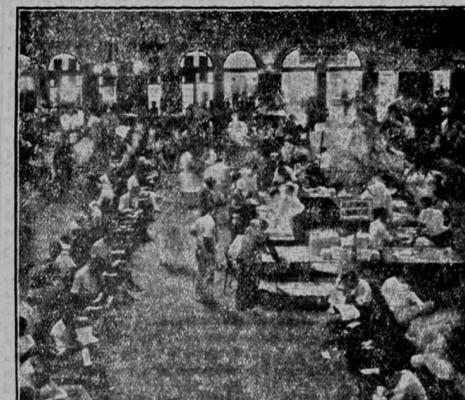

The Bulletin is a monthly three-column, 8-page publication, edited by Prof. Fred Pownall, director of university publications. It is sent to alumni and prospective Iowa students, and contains general campus news, book reviews, sports, and other articles of interest to Iowans.

Iowa City to Start Coming Year With Planning Scheme

Jacob Crane Predicts Great Population Increase

Iowa City will start the coming year with a definite principle of long range planning, based on a report to be submitted soon by Jacob L. Crane, Jr., of Chicago, retained by the city planning commission this spring to draw up an improvement scheme for this community.

Mr. Crane helped formulate the Iowa state plan of long range development, and is now working on similar projects in other states.

In a recent report to the local commission, he predicted an increase in the city population to 21,000 and a University of Iowa enrollment of at least 15,000 in 20 years.

These estimates are based on population growth figures from 1920 to 1930. In this period, the city population raised 35 per cent, and enrollment jumped 80 per cent. The growth of Iowa City closely follows advances in university enrollment.

There were 31,000 students in Iowa schools of higher learning last year, 25 per cent of which were here. In 20 years, Mr. Crane predicted, 100,000 out of the 200,000 young men and women in Iowa eligible will be in colleges and universities. If the University of Iowa's quota remains the same, enrollment here will be 25,000 without counting out of state students. Mr. Crane judges 15,000 a conservative estimate.

To provide for this expected increase in population, Iowa City must look forward, he says. Beautification of the city should be the foundation for planning here, and provision must be made for the orderly growth of new subdivisions.

In the near future, Mr. Crane will present a final report which is expected to contain recommendations as to business and residential zoning, street beautification, placement of schools and community playgrounds, regulations on subdivision improvements, and the location of parks.

Although the city council will have final power to carry out or discard these recommendations, the city planning commission may suggest the council's course of action. The plan is being drawn to provide the city government with an orderly outline of correct civic procedure in future years.

Pre-Registration Gatherings Usher in Freshman Program Of Orientation of Newcomers

Social Events, Qualifying Examinations On Schedule of Traditional Week Of Activity for New Students

Meetings of several freshman classes yesterday afternoon ushered in the annual program of Freshman week, through which new University of Iowa students will become acquainted with the university and with student customs.

Other meetings, scheduled for this morning, will conclude the series of pre-registration gatherings, at which enrollment procedure and general university customs were explained to the newcomers by faculty members.

Freshman week activities, arranged by a faculty and student committee of more than 150, is designed to enable freshmen to orientate themselves in their new surroundings and to eliminate the unregulated and often hazardous old custom of "hazing" for incoming students.

The period of orientation was inaugurated several years ago, and has become a regular feature of the beginning of each academic year.

All freshmen were expected to be in Iowa City yesterday afternoon for preliminary meetings. Freshmen in the colleges of liberal arts and engineering met with faculty members and registration officials yesterday afternoon, and a similar meeting for freshmen in the college of pharmacy has been scheduled for this morning.

First year students in all three of the colleges will register this morning and this afternoon, following the pharmacy meeting at 8 o'clock in room 308 pharmacy-botany building.

Tonight at 8 o'clock all freshmen, both men and women, will meet in Iowa Union, where they will be introduced to students prominent in campus activities and to leading members of the faculty, including the president and the deans.

Tomorrow and Saturday mornings will be occupied with freshman qualifying examinations, to be given in the field house. Student activities in the university will be presented by campus leaders at a meeting for all freshmen in Macbride auditorium tomorrow at 1:30 p. m.

The Iowa Union grill will be the scene of a mixer tomorrow at 8:30 p. m. for all new students living in all university dormitories. The feature social event of the Freshman week program will be open house at Iowa Union Saturday at 8 p. m. for all students. Open house, inaugurated last year, will feature dancing to three orchestras, games, reading, and other entertainment which all the Union facilities make possible. Last year about 3,000 persons attended this event.

The first vesper service of the year, the annual special service for Freshman week, has been scheduled for 8 p. m. Sunday in the main lounge of Iowa Union.

The final event of Freshman week, the annual induction ceremony, will take place on the terrace west of Old Capitol Monday at 7:50 a. m. For the first time in history, the induction will be broadcast this year over station WSUL.

President Eugene A. Gilmore will give a brief address, his first in that capacity. The ceremony will be over in time for the first class of the year at 8 a. m.

Students and faculty members will meet to pledge their loyalty to the ideals of the university, or to renew their old pledges. Led by the executive officers of the university, the ceremony is one of the most colorful events of the year.

President Gilmore will administer the oath of loyalty, and, as the last words of the pledge die away, Old Capitol bell will once again announce the opening of a school year. And the new students will be officially members of the University student body.

The Freshman week committee is headed by Prof. Rufus H. Fitzgerald, chairman of the university social committee.

Professor Fitzgerald will be assisted on the faculty committee by eight other staff members. They are H. C. Dorcas, university registrar; Prof. Frederic G. Higbee, director of convocations; Prof. M. Willard Lampe, director of the school of religion; Adelaide L. Burge, dean of women; Robert E. Rlenow, dean of men; Prof. Lonzo Jones, assistant dean of men; Theodore Rehder, director of Iowa Union dining service; and Helen Reich, associate hostess of Iowa Union.

In addition, 148 students will serve on the committee. They are: Claude Hogan of Cherokee, chairman; Marc Magnusson of Clinton, Melvin Dakin of Garner, Fred Moran of Jefferson, Robert Olson of Lansing, Sherman Deur, Wayne Wishart of Memphis, Mo., David El-

Many Alumni, Former Iowa Students Marry Last Summer

Several Couples of Recent Months Plan To Reside in Iowa City, Continue Work in University

Numerous were the reports received, as summer months rolled by, of recent University of Iowa graduates, and students last year who were married during vacation weeks. Many classmates of brides and bridegrooms served as attendants to couples, who were recently seen upon this campus.

Bourland-Archibald
Ruth Bourland of Chicago and William S. Archibald of Avon, N. Y., were married at 5:30 p.m. June 4 at the Delta Zeta sorority house, following Mrs. Archibald's graduation from the college of liberal arts. Attending the couple were Phyllis Rogers of Coon Rapids and Robert McElroy of Muscatine, both students. Mrs. Archibald is an alumna of Delta Zeta sorority. The couple is now at home in Chicago.

Blaine-Joseph
Two University of Iowa students, Earla Blaine of Hampton and Daniel Joseph of New York, were married in Chicago June 2.

Mrs. Joseph, chosen sophomore representative woman last year, was a member of varsity debate squad, recipient of the sophomore class scholarship, and secretary in office of the speech department. Mr. Joseph, a junior student last year, was chosen a member of University Players. The couple spent the summer in Iowa City.

Morrison-Hoskinson
Cora Morrison, 1932 graduate of the college of liberal arts, and Calvin Hoskinson of Riverdale, Ill., graduate of the college of commerce in 1933, were married June 12 at St. Mary's rectory in Iowa City.

Attending the couple were Ethel Keller, Delta Gamma sorority sister of the bride, and Glen Pray, Theta Xi fraternity brother of the bridegroom. Mr. Hoskinson was captain of the 1933 track team.

Mr. and Mrs. Hoskinson are now at home in Riverdale, Ill.

Parizek-Garwood
Two graduates, Helen Parizek of Iowa City and Darrell Garwood of Des Moines, were married here at St. Wenceslaus church June 9. Their attendants were Mrs. Russell Fisher and George Parizek. Mr. Garwood, graduate of 1933, is an alumnus of Delta Upsilon fraternity and of Sigma Delta Chi, professional journalism fraternity. The couple is now living in Des Moines.

Lecthy-Bettag
Now residing at Norwich, Conn., two former Iowa City resident students, Alice Lecthy, who completed her sophomore year in the college of liberal arts, and Dr. Otto Bettag, 1933 graduate of the college of medicine, were married at St. Wenceslaus church June 20.

Mrs. Bettag became a member of Phi Mu sorority, Women's Athletic association, Y.W.C.A., Home Economics club, and president of Hamlin Garland literary society. Dr. Bettag is an alumnus of Alpha Omega Alpha, honorary medical fraternity, Beta Gamma Sigma, honorary commerce fraternity, Sigma Xi, honorary scientific society, and Phi Chi medical fraternity.

James-Buckner
Mr. and Mrs. Raymond C. Buckner, who are living in Iowa City now, were married June 25 at the home of the bride's parents in Cedar Rapids. Mrs. Buckner is the former Geraldine James.

Mr. Buckner, who completed his sophomore year, was president of Acacia fraternity, member of the Interfraternity council, and Pershing Rifles last year. He will continue his studies at the university.

Osborn-Reif
Helen Osborn of Coralville, university student for the last two years, and Logan E. Reif of Kalona, Beta Kappa, will do research work this year in the phonetics laboratory. The couple is now at home at 1222 E. Burlington street.

Greenfield-Brown
Grace Greenfield and Clarence Brown, both Iowa City graduates of the university, will be married in October, it was announced last month. Miss Greenfield, 1933 graduate of the Home Economics department, is an alumna of Chi Omega sorority, and Omicron Nu, honorary Home Economics society. Mr. Brown graduated in 1932 with a major in physical education.

Hahn-Schiltz
Portia Hahn of Coffeyville, Kan., and Hal Schiltz of Sigourney, both alumni of the university, were married at the Methodist church here July 26.

Prof. Fred Lazell of the school of journalism and Leona Huber of university libraries attended the couple.

Mrs. Schiltz, an alumna of Chi Omega sorority, debated on the varsity squad. Mr. Schiltz, a member of Sigma Delta Chi, professional journalism fraternity. Both graduated in 1933.

Swisher-McGinnis
Both Iowa City students, Dorothea Mae Swisher, 1934 graduate of the college of commerce, and Clifford McGinnis, who will be a senior in the college of engineering this year, were married Aug. 4 at the First Methodist church in Rock Island. The couple is at home in Iowa City.

Speidel-Johnson
A 1933 and 1932 graduate, Antoinette Speidel of Iowa City and Wallace Johnson of Council Bluffs, were married at St. Mary's church Aug. 11. Attendants of the couple were Lavona Kohl and Vern Messer, both of Iowa City.

Mr. and Mrs. Johnson are now at home in Council Bluffs. Mrs. Johnson is an alumna of Theta Phi Alpha social sorority and Theta Sigma Phi, honorary journalism sorority. Mr. Johnson was a member of Chi Kappa Pi commerce fraternity.

Hogan-Dull
At St. Patrick's church in Iowa City, Agnes Hogan of Tiffin, 1933 graduate, and Burton Dull of Cherokee, senior law student, were married Aug. 21 at 7 a.m. A wedding breakfast was served to 30 guests at Red Ball Inn, immediately after the ceremony.

Mrs. Dull is an alumna of Alpha Delta Pi sorority, and the bridegroom is a member of Phi Alpha Delta law fraternity. The couple is living in Iowa City, where Mr. Dull will complete his law course.

Many Social Events Provide Entertainment for All Students

Non-Group, Dormitory Parties Prove Popular

Just as each group has its special purpose, so does each campus group have its special party. New students are constantly amazed at the multitude of festivities, other than all-university dances. Not only do extra parties abound in the Greek world, but in the non-fraternity realm as well.

Students not affiliated with Greek groups still have opportunity to enjoy gay weekends on the University of Iowa campus, because the winter social season is just as crowded for them as for their Greek classmates.

At Least One Party
Each season brings with it at least one party from every dormitory on campus. Formal dinner dances are, of course, the biggest and most talked of gatherings slated on the social calendar. Springtime and Christmas time are favorite formal seasons.

Formal dances, without the dinners, are less elaborate but more frequent, and still simpler parties are radio parties given often by dormitory social committees on Friday and Saturday evenings, in the parlors and lounges of the dormitory residences, where students are free to entertain as frequently as in chapter houses.

Organize Committees
So much for organized residence groups, whose social committees plan a gala season for their lodges. Such committees, elected by the student residents themselves, arrange for orchestras, entertainment places, when the parties are not within the dormitory itself, decoration schemes, and entertainment. Iowa Union is expected to be a popular place for parties this year.

All university students may, of course, attend university formal, but a less expensive method of entertainment appears at Iowa Union open houses, where collegians may select one of three orchestras for dancing, play ping pong, bridge, and even chess, watch programs, and meet all their friends for a chat.

Turnovers Turnout
Turnovers Turnout, a new type of party introduced last year, admits only non-fraternity students living in town residences, rather than in dormitories. Thus another party is added to the list of entertainments provided for non-Greek students.

Campus groups oftentimes abandon their scholastic purposes and meet for a social gathering such as a dinner dance, just dinner, or just dancing, all of which are popular. Commerce clubs, home economics clubs, and similar organizations in university departments entertain thus, one or several times yearly.

University Groups
Music and gay laughter are provided through university groups as often for the non-Greek students as for the Greeks. Orchestras for larger parties may be imported from nearby towns, but the more informal gatherings with campus bands furnishing melodies are equally as popular, and almost every student will praise the radio parties at which either the entire dormitory or smaller sections of it will entertain.

Party lane, Iowa Union's newest place of entertainment, is open daily to all students who care to drop in for a hand of bridge, so the card fiends are thus provided with their favorite recreation. Ping pong may be played at Iowa Union at any time, day or evening, and proves popular with students seeking relaxation between classes or at the end of a busy day.

Thus social calendars are filled for each university student who desires to attend the many festivities, gala and modest, offered for his entertainment.

Iowa Has Chapter Of Phi Beta Kappa, National Honor Group

A chapter of Phi Beta Kappa, national honorary scholastic society, is maintained at the University of Iowa.

Students are selected for the honor twice annually. At the close of the first semester the five senior students ranking highest in scholarship are selected.

At the close of the academic year, senior students who have maintained a four-year average of 3.25 in all their college work are named to membership.

List of Rooms Now Ready

Services of Housing Office Available To Students

Lists of approved rooms for undergraduates and rooms and apartments for graduates and married students are now available at the university housing service office in Iowa Union, Prof. Fred E. Holmes, director, announced yesterday. All students must live in quarters approved by the university, Professor Holmes pointed out. He urged that all new students secure approved lists immediately.

Approved Rooms
Approved quarters include the university dormitories—the Quadrangle, Currier hall, Eastlawn, Westlawn, and the new Law Commons, fraternity and sorority chapter houses; university cooperative dormitories; and private homes.

Rooms in private homes are inspected by the housing service, and they must meet certain university requirements in regard to cleanliness, heating, lighting, and furnishings. Regulations concerning quiet for study hours and proper social conduct must also be observed.

Service Available
The service of Professor Holmes' office is available to students at any time, he said. The office is just off the main lounge of the Union.

S. U. I. Publishes Series on Studies

Results of studies by students and staff members of the University of Iowa are made public through the University of Iowa Studies, published semi-monthly. These publications cover about a dozen different fields of study, and are published through the cooperation of the board of publications and the graduate college.

World in Arms
PARIS (AP)—It is estimated that 65,000,000 men had been mobilized by the time the World war ended.

Religion Has Organization

Campus religious organizations is a name applied to the combined religious student groups on the University of Iowa campus.

Prominent among these organizations are Y.M.C.A., Y.W.C.A., the Newman club (for Catholic students), and several other groups.

Headquarters of the campus religious organizations is in the lobby of Iowa Union. Prof. William Morgan of the school of religion serves in an advisory capacity, and maintains his office in association with the campus religious headquarters. The purpose of the combined organization is to facilitate student cooperation in religious matters of a campus wide nature, such as fund drives or other cooperative projects.

Iowa Students Compete For Lowden Prize

Five academic prizes and a for-ensic award made possible through a donation of former Gov. Frank O. Lowden of Illinois are the subjects of annual competition by University of Iowa students.

A prize of $50 is awarded annually to those students who do the most outstanding work on the university debate teams. This prize may be divided as the directors see fit.

A prize of $25 is offered to the student presenting the best notebook in any lotany course, and a similar award is open to geology students.

Two prizes of $25 each are offered to students in Latin and Greek, and a prize of $50 is offered annually to the best sophomore student in mathematics. The latter award is based on a comprehensive competitive examination.

Hospital Guards Health of All University of Iowa Students

Health Department Watches Sanitary Conditions, Diseases

On the University of Iowa health department, to a large extent, depends the safety of nearly 10,000 students who come to the Iowa campus every year.

In the health department has been perfected an organization that keeps constant check on the daily life of these students, who have gathered here from all parts of the United States.

The food and living conditions of each student are carefully watched, in a variety of ways, of which the student is often unaware. Cases of illness are watched by the student out-patient department.

Three divisions are contained in the health department, each of which administers aid to the university in its particular field. These divisions are the inspection division, the communicable disease division, and the student health and out-patient division.

To the inspection division falls the duty of keeping constant check on water and milk supplies, swimming pools, and sanitary conditions in university dormitories, buildings, and food-handling establishments.

The variety of its work is shown in its report, which lists inspection of city and university water supplies, university swimming pools, university wells, and hospital distilled water, testing milk samples, inspection of buildings, dairy and milk plants, food storage places, and garbage and refuse disposal.

Prof. Hinman at Head
Headed by Prof. Jack J. Hinman, the division must make daily investigations. Bacterial counts are made every day on the water supply, and constant check is kept on the purifying systems.

Farms and pasteurizing plants have cooperated with this division in its work, and inspection officials also cooperate with the student housing service in maintaining sanitary conditions.

Under the direction of Dr. A. V. Hardy, the communicable disease division investigates all cases of contagious diseases which affect students either directly or indirectly.

Keep Check
A check is thus maintained on the source and spread of communicable diseases, and the division is enabled to notify all who may be affected, immediately. In many instances the quick work of this division has been responsible for preventing the spread of diseases which had been discovered.

Routine health examination of all students entering the university and of all food-handlers are made by the student health and out-patient division. In addition any student may avail himself of the opportunity of further examination.

If any illness is found the student is immediately notified and advised what course to take. Students may then seek medical care of a private physician or at University hospital, where a small charge is made.

Physical examinations are required of everyone who handles food in any university dining room or cafeteria, or at fraternity and sorority houses.

Any student who has a disease or is a carrier of disease is automatically barred from service, and permits are granted only to those who measure up to the physical standards set by the division.

The student out-patient division is a feature part of the health service. Full-time doctors and nurses are employed and a large part of University hospital is devoted to this work. Students seeking medical aid are treated, and a small charge is made for hospital or room service.

Physicians are maintained at the field house and at women's gymnasium also, to treat students receiving injuries in physical education courses or in other exercise.

Many thousands of students come under the care of the health department every year.

Phi Kappa Psi Men Win Annual Relay In Sorority Event

Phi Kappa Psi relay runners captured the fraternity event in the sorority relay carnival held annually around the first of February.

Tabb, Latham, Cook, McCollister, Phillips and Dean made up the baton passing crew that swept to victory over Alpha Phi Alpha runners. Sigma Alpha Epsilon was third.

Graduate College Gives Three Degrees

Three degrees are granted by the graduate college of the University of Iowa. They are master of arts, master of science, and doctor of philosophy.

Each of these advanced degrees involves a course of regular classroom and laboratory study, as well as the completion of an acceptable thesis in the chosen field which will make some addition to the sum total of human knowledge.

Home Games

Northwestern football fans will have to travel little to view the Wildcats this fall. Six home games have been scheduled with Marquette as the opener. Iowa follows the Hilltoppers, then Ohio, Wisconsin, Illinois and Notre Dame in that order.

PROF. M. E. BARNES
—Heads Health Department

Faculty Members In Research Clubs

University of Iowa faculty members have organized several clubs for the purpose of research study or discussion of problems and discoveries in various academic fields.

Among such clubs are: Baconian club, Political Science club, Humanist society, Philosophical club, and Research club. These clubs hold regular meetings during the school year.

Degrees Granted At Four Convocations

Degrees are granted by the University of Iowa at three Convocations, one at the end of the first semester, and one at the close of each summer term, and a Commencement held in June.

The great majority of the June graduates are those receiving their first degrees, and advanced degree-seekers make up the bulk of the graduates at each of the other gatherings.

FRATERNITIES

Join New Finance Corporation

entering the service are analyzed to determine the assets and liabilities, and a complete and detailed budget is prepared on the basis of past operations of the group.

The budget is approved for each organization by its own officers and alumni. As is true in every phase of operation, the detail work is done by the employes of the service but the authority and approval must come from the group itself.

All books and accounting records are prepared and kept in the office of the service, but the actual collection of cash is made by the officer of the group and deposited to its bank account. The checks for payment of all bills must also be signed by the proper officer, thus leaving control of the cash in the hands of the fraternity or sorority officer, but providing for a continuous check of the funds through the keeping of all records in the college of the service.

Collecting Service
As a part of the general service, the University Fraternity and Sorority Business service offers a collecting service which may be used at the option of the group. The collecting service provides for certain regulations enforced by the university which prevent a person owing a bill to a fraternity or sorority from receiving his or her degree or transferring credits to another institution.

The use of such collection methods is, of course, optional with each individual group, but if it desires it, the regulations will be enforced. The service also attempts collection of old alumni accounts through the use of bills and collection letters. In years past it has been found that several hundred dollars can be collected each year through this method.

As a matter of fact a large part of the cost of the service can be saved through collection of these otherwise bad debts.

Secretarial Service
The University Fraternity and Sorority Business service also offers several special services. One of the most important of these is the secretarial service. Alumni mailing lists are prepared and brought up-to-date, new letters are mimeographed and mailed, minutes of corporation meetings are taken where such meetings are held in the offices of the service, and all business letters and correspondence are taken care of. A complete business file is kept for each group so that all correspondence is preserved from year to year, as well as all other important papers and documents. Schedules of insurance in force are prepared and kept up-to-date and when a fire loss is incurred, the service sees that the agents are notified and the loss properly adjusted.

Property Maintenance
Another special service has to do with property maintenance. Here again the University Fraternity and Sorority Business service acts only as a service department with the actual plans being made by officers and alumni. If the alumni decide the house is to be painted, they ordinarily first discuss the advisability of painting with the service to determine whether sufficient funds are available, the service will request bids from several reliable painters and prepare necessary specifications and contracts. These bids are then presented to the committee of the organization for acceptance, relieving them of all the detail work for which they are ordinarily neither paid nor thanked. The same procedure is used for all other matters, whether it involves cleaning of the rugs or purchase of a new stove. Such service is, of course, optional but many organizations appreciate it because it safeguards them completely as far as quality, performance and price are concerned.

Caretaker Service
In the summer months the service often acts as caretaker, supervising the care of the lawn, building, and equipment. It also provides caretaker tenants and sees to any other matters during the summer when officers and alumni are not available.

Rushing Service
One of the most valuable services rendered by the University Fraternity and Sorority Business service to its participating groups is a rushing list. The names of all persons who are entering the University are obtained from the office of the registrar and are listed by towns by employes of the service, after which they are mimeographed and mailed out to the various rushing chairmen. During the past summer, rushing chairmen of both fraternities and sororities have found such lists invaluable and, as a matter of fact, many men and women who contacted before they entered who might never have been reached through any ordinary methods. This rushing assistance will be even more elaborate and complete next year.

Matabeles Act in Film Play
BULAWAYO, Rhodesia (AP)—Natives are making the first Rhodesian talkie, an 8-reel film, in which a young Matabele warrior wins the girl of his choice despite the wiles of an enormous old chief. The all-native cast includes aged tribesmen who fought the Boers 40 years ago.

P. E. K.'s Win Paddle Race Down River

Two Phi Epsilon Kappa paddlers, Adolf Jacobsmeyer and Anton Zukas, raced to an easy victory by four lengths over Roy Bodine and John Henderson, Delta Sigma Delta, in the annual inter-fraternity canoe race last year, paddling from just below the island to the Iowa avenue bridge.

Frank Turner and Fred Holsteen of Phi Kappa Psi were third, with fourth place going to Fred Moore and Bob Barel, another Delta Sigma Delta team.

Jacobsmeyer and Zukas, in racing over the course, about a mile and a quarter in length, in 8:09, broke the three year reign of Bodine and Henderson as champions.

The inter-fraternity affair is held in connection with a river activities program which includes the university swim, over practically the same distance, and an open canoe race.

Commission Plans "Modernistic" City

If present plans of the Iowa City planning commission are carried out, the business section of this community will have a very modernistic appearance in the future.

The commission has tentatively decided to recommend the modernistic style of architecture—illustrated by the Nall Chevrolet company building or the Varsity theater—to persons constructing new business structures. Several architects have agreed to draw up plans for submission to such builders.

S.U.I. Provides Varied Types of Professional Training

Seven Colleges, Two Schools Offer Professional Training To University of Iowa Students

Combines Practical Work and Theory In Schooling

Freshmen interested in training for the professions find at the University of Iowa ample opportunity to do so. The seven colleges of law, medicine, dentistry, pharmacy, engineering, education, and commerce, and the two schools of journalism and nursing offer facilities for those who wish to prepare for a professional calling.

The college of law is the oldest west of the Mississippi. Although it is primarily interested in training students who intend to follow the actual practice of law, yet it also meets the needs of those who desire a knowledge of law in connection with business or other fields of activity.

Special Attention to Iowa
It strives to develop in each student the ability to practice law anywhere that the system of Anglo-American law prevails. Special attention is given to the needs of those who intend to practice in Iowa.

The law college desires to promote legal scholarship and research, and to develop an understanding of the relation of law to the other social sciences. Three years of liberal arts work are required for admission to the three year course, which leads to the degree of juris doctor.

60,000 Legal Volumes
Included in the law building are offices, classrooms, study rooms, a library of approximately 60,000 volumes and a court room for laboratory purposes.

The college of medicine course requires a two year premedical course in the college of liberal arts for entrance. The requirements of all state licensing boards are met by the college of medicine, and it is on the accredited list of the Royal College of Physicians and Surgeons of England. The college of medicine buildings on the west campus include the medical laboratories, general hospital, children's hospital, and psychopathic hospital.

Actual Experience
Students in the college of medicine have opportunity for actual medical experience in the dispensary under the direction of attending physicians. Conducted in connection with the college of medicine, the school of nursing is designed to provide thorough instruction and experience. The University hospitals serve as a practice field for the student nurse.

Graduate Nurse
There is a preparatory period of four months, during which time the novices become familiar with elementary nursing procedure and hospital routine. The three-year nursing course requires the student's full time. Upon graduation, the nurse receives a school pin and the certificate of graduate nurse.

A liberal arts and nursing course covering four years and two summer terms has as its reward a graduate nurse certificate and a B.S. degree.

Four Year Dental Course
The college of dentistry offers a four year course which requires high school graduation and one year of liberal arts work for entrance.

The modern brick building which houses the college of dentistry contains laboratory facilities for 250 students. Other classes are held in the medical laboratories. A dental clinic is held in the college of dentistry infirmary on the fifth floor of the dental building.

College of Pharmacy
Students wishing to become prescriptionists, drug inspectors, food and drug analysts, or manufacturing pharmacists may enter the college of pharmacy. The only prerequisite is high school graduation.

The classes of the college of pharmacy are held in the botany-chemistry-pharmacy building, the medical laboratories, and University hospital.

Engineering Classes
The college of engineering classes are held in the engineering building, mechanical engineering laboratories, electrical engineering building, and the hydraulics laboratory.

The courses of study are designed to insure a thorough grounding in the fundamental principles underlying all engineering practice. Students may specialize in civil, hydraulic, sanitary, mechanical, electrical, or chemical engineering.

Associated Students of Engineering
The entire student body is organized as the Associated Students of Engineering. Student branches of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers, the American Institute of Electrical Engineers, the American Institute of Chemical Engineers and the Society of American Military Engineers have been organized on the campus.

The college of education seeks to correlate the forces of the university which contribute professionally to the preparation of educational leaders in high schools, normal schools, colleges, supervisorships, principals, and city superintendents. It provides opportunities for research in all these fields, in addition to the courses offered.

Practical Work
The University high school, elementary school, and school for crippled children, and the preschool laboratories are used for observation and practice work. Opportunities for graduate work are offered in addition to the four year undergraduate course.

The college of commerce offers a two year course based upon a pre-commerce course in the college of liberal arts. It is designed to build up in the experiences of the student a fundamental understanding of the structure, operation, and function of the social and economic organization. It embraces the fields of commerce, economics, sociology, and social administration.

Aid to Business
The bureau of business research which was organized in connection with the college of commerce, seeks to give direct aid to business interests of Iowa.

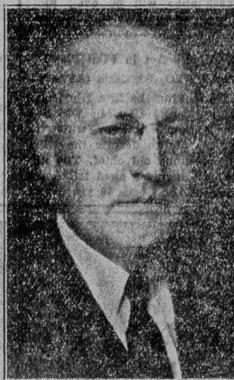

The school of journalism, a division of the college of liberal arts, offers a four year course with the opportunity of specializing in any of four fields. The fields are: the editorial side of a newspaper, the country weekly, or free-lancing and the house organ.

Actual experience, in addition to theory, is gained in the publication of The Daily Iowan, Hawkeye, the university's yearbook, and Frivol, the university's humor magazine.

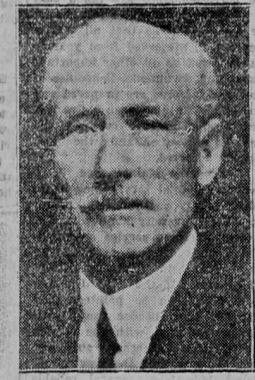

A certificate of journalism and a bachelor of arts degree are awarded journalism graduates at the end of

Sorority Chaperons Must Be Versed in Many Occupations

Dietitian, supervisor, building inspector, collector, hostess, confidante, and adviser on everything from how to hem curtains to the best method of conquering a cold—a sorority chaperon is all these.

Her job is neither simple nor short, since she must arise early to see that the day's meals are planned and ordered and remain awake until all the sorority members have returned. Then too, she must be always on hand when guests arrive, as well as to see that the room temperature is correct and all house equipment is in working order. A thousand odd jobs of all varieties are in her hands.

"Contacting Messenger"
First of all, the chaperon is the contacting messenger between the sorority and the university. She must see that university regulations are understood and enforced by the members.

Next, she is head planning commissioner for her group's comfort and welfare. In this capacity, she plans meals with the cooperation of an appointed member of the group. If the chapter house needs repairs or supplies, it is she who handles such jobs as calling the carpenter or the coal company.

Walking Directory
She must be a veritable city directory, telling the Greek letter women where to catch buses, find officers, and buy paint, and she must be prepared to answer all manner of questions from sorority members.

Another of her capacities is that of nurse. It is to her that the girls apply for treatment for everything from hay fever to corns. She it is, too, who suggests hot soups, tea and toast, or other dishes comforting when one must stay in bed. In the occasional times of epidemics she is an indispensable aid.

To her falls the task of keeping up payments and reminding the girls to pay their bills. When Marjory has spent the money her father sent her for board and room for that "gorgeous dress she just couldn't live without" and decided to pay her bill when another allowance came along, it is the chaperon's business to be patient and see that the same thing doesn't happen next month.

As a friend and confidant many sorority chaperons are only exceeded by their girls' own mothers. Over and over again they must hear the stories of how Susan got Joe's pin and how Mary and Jack broke up again. They must listen with sympathy to disappointments and give expert advice in all matters. They must offer encouragement to girls who find that college work is more difficult than they had expected.

Remembers Alumnae

When old girls return it is the duty of the chaperon to remember their names and all the details about them, what it was they were interested in and what all their special honors were while they were at school.

Mothers and fathers of the girls must be given special attention when they are entertained at the sorority house, and chaperons must convince them that they are watching carefully after the welfare of their daughters. The chaperon must also be a pleasant person to meet each girl's escort when she returns from a "date."

Must Be Perfect Hostess
In all ways she must be a perfect hostess: entertaining other chaperons at bridge, standing in the receiving line for an open house party, acting as chaperon for one of the many dances, entertaining and planning for last minute dinner guests. It is she who makes the final arrangements and preparations in emergency entertaining.

Versatile and likeable—that's the sorority chaperon.

PARTIES SCHEDULED FOR S.U.I. SEASON

Social Events Will Assume Active Role in Student Life

All-University Formal, Informal Parties Scheduled

With eager anticipation new students are looking forward to their introduction to all-university dances, enthusiastically described by returning collegians who are contemplating the festive social calendar for 1934-1935. Included in the round of parties this year will be numerous sports dances, semi-formals, and formals at Iowa Union.

Already organized groups are planning new decoration schemes and methods of importing orchestras from nearby cities to furnish tunes for this season's schedule of gay week end parties, the first of which will be the Informal Frivol Frolic early next month. Dates for remaining parties will be announced by the social committee after its meeting in a few weeks.

Season in Full Swing
Just before Christmas, the social season, until then quiet except for the Union Board's Homecoming dance and A.P.I.'s I-Blanket Hop, during Dad's Day week end, will start in full swing and will continue through winter and spring months until school closes next June.

The Sophomore Cotillon, as planned at present, will be the first all-university formal dance. Occurring before the Christmas vacation, it will be one of the four 1.30 hour nights, which includes the Junior Prom, Military Ball, Senior Hop, and Cotillon.

Three Dances
After Christmas vacation, parties will be gay and brilliant for several weeks preceding examination week, when festivities are abandoned for study.

During late winter and spring months, all-university parties will include three dances, the Junior Prom, Senior Hop, and Freshman Party, given under the auspices of these classes, and various organized groups' annual dances.

In this category are the cadets' Military Ball, the journalists' Pica Ball, law students' Barrister's Ball, for which the date may precede or follow the Christmas recess, business students' Commerce Mart, and Pi Epsilon Pi's Pep Jamboree.

Each of these parties will include in its program of entertainment its special characteristic custom of announcing its queen, selected and kept secret by the entertaining group, or its students whom they honor for personality, achievement, or for quite opposite non-sensical qualities such as "worst line on campus."

Women Entertain
University women, too, will have their share in entertaining at collegiate dances, given by the University Women's association, and the Annual May Frolic, at which Mortar Board members will comprise the committee in charge.

Other dances, open to all students, which may be added to the social calendar, will not be announced until after the university social committee meets.

City, S. U. I. Cooperate To Aid Children

City and university will combine to provide a recreational program for local children this fall and winter.

Directed by the Iowa City board for recreation, physical education students will lead sports and other activities at school playgrounds and in the recreational center on S. Linn street.

This summer, a number of university students assisted Luella Heckmeyer, director of recreational work, at the Longfellow school playground. The playground was the first project of its kind ever tried in Iowa City, and many children used its facilities.

At the recreational center, children are taught games and handicrafts or may read in a small library donated by Iowa Citizens.

The center and playground are the beginnings of a movement here to provide ample facilities for supervised play. Agitation for this has been carried on for many years by local women's groups and other organizations.

Farmers Making Ties
BEAUMONT, Tex., (AP)—Hundreds of drought-stricken farmers between Beaumont and Longview, Tex., turned to railroad the making as a means of livelihood.

Soviet Colleges Opened to Aliens
MOSCOW (AP)—Soviet universities have been ordered to open their doors to foreign citizens and permit the new students to take entrance tests in their own languages.

United States Attracts Germans
BERLIN (AP)—The United States was the land of promise for 1,748 of the 2,441 emigrants from Germany in the first quarter of 1934. The second largest group, 271, went to Brazil.

Iowa Citizens May Attend 14 Churches

Special Programs For University Students Offered

No university student need neglect his religious duties while away from home with 14 different denominations represented among the Iowa City churches.

Nearly every local church sponsors organizations especially for students and in some cases university pastors are provided to meet religious demands of the students.

Student Appeal
With the opening of school, local churches are perfecting their winter program with special emphasis on those things which are apt to appeal most to the student.

The young people's organizations at the various churches nearly all have open forum discussions of the leading problems of today where the student may listen to experts selected from the university speak on different subjects or they may express their own opinions and ideas. The following is a list of Iowa City churches, their locations, and the pastors connected with each:

- List of Churches
- Trinity Episcopal, 332 E. Court, the Rev. Richard E. McEvoy; Congregational, 30 N. Clinton, the Rev. Llewelyn A. Owens; Methodist Episcopal, Jefferson and Dubuque, the Rev. Harry DeWitte Henry; Christian, 217 Iowa avenue, the Rev. C. C. Garrigues; First Presbyterian, Market and Clinton, the Rev. W. P. Lemon.
  - Zion Lutheran, Johnson and Bloomington, A. C. Proehl; St. Mary's, Jefferson and Linn, Msgr.

A. J. Schulte; St. Patrick's, 224 E. Court, the Rev. Patrick J. O'Reilly; St. Wenceslaus, 603 E. Davenport, the Rev. E. W. Neuzil; First Church of Christ, Scientist, 722 E. College; First Baptist, 227 S. Clinton, the Rev. Elmer E. Dierks.

Ethelhem Chapel, 916 E. Fairchild, Dr. M. A. H. Jones; St. Paul's Lutheran chapel, Jefferson and Gilbert, the Rev. Julius Friedrich; First English Lutheran, 129 N. Dubuque, the Rev. W. S. Dyringer; and Menonite Mission, Orchard and Benton, Norman Hobbes in charge.

S. U. I. Museum Recreates Colors, Beauties of Nature

The museum of natural history in the hall of natural science is more than just a place to spend a rainy afternoon.

It is also more than a place "to do" as many read the encyclopedia, or visit the art galleries. Its contents are beyond the capacity of the human mind to catalogue for future use in just a day, or even many days.

By far the most striking exhibit is the Laysan island cyclorama, arranged by Director Homer Dill, and C. A. Corwin, at the north end of the third floor. The work of Director Dill in preserving and mounting the specimens gives the illusion of life. The panel background painted by Mr. Corwin is so realistic that one scarcely realizes where the mounted exhibits and the foreground leave off and the picture begins.

The mammal hall at the opposite end of the third floor contains specimens ranging in size from the tiny shrew to the huge bison and walrus. The ethnological exhibits contain some examples of Mexican, Eskimo, African, and Indian art, chiefly needlework and tapestries.

But the entire appeal of the museum is not intellectual or even curiosity-satisfying. In the bird hall and the insect and butterfly collections artists and designers can find inspiration. It is impossible to imagine the beauty of the gorgeous blues and greens of the peacock's plumage and the beetles' armored backs. Yellows, scarlets, crimson, purples, violets, oranges, golds, rose, blue, shimmering black, snow whites—all these hues and more adorn the feathered creatures—and are again brought to life in the museum.

Facilities For Transportation Numerous Here

Variou Services Make City Center Of Travel

Iowa City may be easily reached at anytime by automobile, bus, train, or airplane.

The Roosevelt highway, U.S. 6, all paved and running east and west through Iowa City, is a connecting link from Davenport to Des Moines and Council Bluffs.

U.S. highway 161, an outlet from Iowa City to points north, is also a paved highway and connects with the Lincoln highway, running east and west, at Cedar Rapids. The three eastbound and three westbound interstate busses traveling the Roosevelt highway every day give Iowa City adequate service.

Train Service
Seven passenger trains daily over the Rock Island line, four westbound and three eastbound, give Iowa City excellent railroad service. Beginning last year the Rock Island, with other principal railroads in the country, set special round trip rates for students. The tickets may be purchased at home to be used for the opening of the school session and the return ticket is good at the close.

The Cedar Rapids and Iowa City Railway company, with six interurban cars running daily between Iowa City and Cedar Rapids, makes the larger town to the north easily accessible.

Air Route
In addition to train and bus service to Iowa City from surrounding points, the United Airlines' airport, south of the city, is one of the stops on the United Airline route from New York to San Francisco. Three eastbound and three westbound Boeing airliners stop at the airport every day.

Those interested in visiting the 1934 World's Fair, now on in Chicago, may fly there in an hour and 20 minutes from the local airport. Des Moines is only 50 minutes away.

Transportation in the city is provided by a fleet of modern busses operated by the Iowa City Street Railway corporation and five taxi companies.

"Oldest Settler"
SYRACUSE, Kan., (AP)—The "oldest settler" in the region of Syracuse, Kan., is Gene Overton, 56, who was born in the town.

Iowa Will Offer Saturday Classes Again This Year

For students who do not wish to enter residence in Iowa City or who have positions elsewhere, the University of Iowa will again offer a plan of Saturday class sessions this year.

The system provides for regular university credit, on the basis of work covered over a period of 10 Saturday class sessions, one every three weeks.

Courses are offered in various departments of the university, and are of value especially to teachers who find it possible to leave their cities for the trip to Iowa City every three weeks.

The Saturday classes are under the auspices of the extension division.

Angas to Lecture
NEW YORK (AP)—Maj. L. L. B. Angas, British economist who predicts a boom for America, will lecture here this fall.

Fifteen Men Have Headed University

Fifteen men have served in the highest executive position in the University of Iowa—that of president.

President Eugene A. Gilmore holds the position now, having taken office last July. He will be inaugurated Oct. 4.

Other presidents of the university have been: Amos Dean, 1855-9; Silas Totten, 1859-62; Oliver M. Spencer, 1862-7; Nathan R. Leonard, 1867-8 (acting president); James Black,

1871-7; Christian W. Single, (president pro tempore) 1877-8; Josiah I. Pickard, 1878-87; Charles A. Schaefer, 1887-98; Amos N. Currier, 1898-9 (acting president); George E. Maclean, 1899-1911; John G. Bowman, 1911-14; Thomas Macbride, 1914-16; Walter A. Jessup, 1916-34.

WHY is SIDWELL'S called Hy-Score milk?

Why We Say Sidwell's Is Hy-Score Milk

SIDWELL'S MILK IS obtained from carefully selected dairy farms that are subject to frequent, rigid inspection.

But Sidwell's go farther than that to insure milk of the finest quality obtainable for Iowa City.

As an added inducement each of the farmer-producers supplying us milk that scores 90 or better (see score card) receives a bonus of 10 cents for each hundred pounds of milk. These scorings are made twice each week and give a constant check on the quality and cleanliness of the milk coming to our plant.

All milk distributed by us is bonus quality milk. That's why we say Sidwell's is HY-SCORE Milk.

Pasteurized in our modern dairy—it is pure, rich, safe milk—purchased by us at a premium—sold to you at no more than you would pay for ordinary milk.

SOPHS STRENGTHEN HAWKEYES

Ossie Solem Leads Hawkeyes Out of Depths of Big Ten; Takes on Added Duties Now

Will Serve as Director of Athletics in Addition To Head Coach Duties; Open Style of Play, New Spirit Marks Style Here

By RON TALLMAN
From the depths of the Big Ten's second division to a top ranking place in Western conference circles. Such has been the rise of University of Iowa football fortunes under the able direction of Oscar Martin Solem, now entering his third season as head Old Gold mentor and at the same time taking up the added duties of director of athletics.

The advent of Ossie as Iowa's ninth gridiron coach in the fall of 1932 came at a time when Hawkeye spirit was at its lowest ebb as a result of dismal seasons which had followed the ouster from the Big Ten in 1929. As the big, genial master of the intricacies of offensive and defensive football prepared for his third campaign in what has come to be known as the country's toughest collegiate league, prospects are for a continuance of the rise in spirit and accomplishments which started with the sensational team of 1933.

Brought New Style
When Solem came to Iowa City from Drake, he brought with him a style of football new to Old Gold fans, replacing the powerhouse football of Burt Ingwersen, his immediate predecessor, with speed, shifts, numerous passes, open formations, daring attacks.

The success of his style of play, developed during 11 seasons as mentor for the Bulldog institution in which he sent his team against the best in the mid-west and the country to accomplish a better than .500 average, was demonstrated last fall. Imbued with the new spirit and hope which Solem brought to the successor of the stricken Hawkeyes, and fully versed in his mode of attack, the Iowans, fortified with the best material in recent years, not only turned in their first Big Ten victory in several seasons, but gained three triumphs in combat with five conference teams.

Three Big Ten Wins
Numbered among the foes were the once mighty Northwestern Wildcats, swept off their feet by the fury of an Old Gold attack long denied; Wisconsin, a "breather" for the team which in the previous season had been submitted to the disgrace of a one-sided drubbing; and great Purdue, the "unbeatable" team. Minnesota handed the Iowa eleven its first defeat, and its most one-sided of the year, but Michigan, conference champion, managed only a 10-6 win over the Hawkeyes and Nebraska eked out a 7-6 triumph on a windswept field.

The season also saw Iowa resume relations with Iowa State to the tune of an easy win and hand Bradley a drubbing following the stiff battle with Northwestern. From every standpoint the season proved a huge success as the Hawkeyes rallied behind Coach Solem to attain a new high in recent achievement and at the same time once more regain the respect of the Western conference, alumni, fans and the football world as a whole.

Must Replace Stars
Now, faced with the task of replacing three truly great stars in scamping Joe Laws, the terror of opposing teams last year with his devastating returns of punts, "Zud" Schammel, all-American guard, and Capt. Tom Moore, center, Iowa, with Solem at the helm, looks to even greater things. Material on the upgrade ever since the former Minnesota line star took over the coaching duties, once more has set a high standard. Returning veterans are prepared to continue the fighting exhibitions of a year ago, and a good crop of sophomores stands ready to battle to the last for positions on the first eleven.

Solem is faced with a tough schedule in which he meets five of the Big Ten's outstanding teams in addition to non-conference conflicts with Iowa State, Nebraska and South Dakota university. Yet he predicts a team that "will make it interesting" for every opponent, and promising another fighting aggression.

Hawkeye Beef Brigade Has '34 Membership Of 9 Men; Most Weights Lower

If Ossie Solem so desires it he can send plenty of weight against the Hawkeye football opponents this fall. Nine men on the new squad will top the scales at 200 pounds or more while more than half of the 58-man squad will tip the beams between 170 and 190. Only seven men will weigh between 150 and 170, according to the official weights.

Lloyd Hoffman leads the heavy men with 235 pounds while George Teyro, the two letter winner quarterback from Sibley, is the lightest man with 151 pounds. Eleven of the men range from 190 to 200, 14 are from 170 to 180, and 17 are from 180 to 190. Following are the weight classifications:

200 and Over
Hoffman, 235; Shea, 212; Kelley, 210; McDowell, 205; Foster, 204; Robb, 202; Leytze, Seel and O'Leary, 200.
190 to 200
Crayne, Gallagher, Hass, Hoover, Lundberg, McAllister, Mau, Nelson, Rueber, Santee and Walker.
180 to 190
Ash, Fisher, Harris, Hawkins, Johnson, Kuhn, Lauman, Moore, Osmaloski, Radloff, Wagner, Dee, Lindemeyer, Monsen, Matson, Schwirke, and Terhune.
170 to 180
Cain, England, Enich, Gordinier, Haltom, Hild, Jakoubek, Kann, Lee, Richard, Schneidman, O. Simmons, D. Simmons, and Turner.
160 to 170
Norris, Gosser, Wallace, and Weber.
Akins, Page, and Teyro.

Joe Laws—Most Valuable Man To His Team

The brilliant career of Joe Laws, shifty Colfax quarterback, was brought to a fitting close last year when he was voted the most valuable player to his team in the big Ten conference by a vote of officials, coaches and sports writers and was awarded the Chicago Tribune trophy—considered the highest honor a

Names of Iowans To Be Difficult For Announcers

"The great American game" Iowa might have a lineup that goes—or sounds—something like this: Osmaloski, Lundberg, Radloff, Shea, Robb, Seel, Crayne, Gallagher, Jakoubek, Gordinier, England, Santee, Hoover, Leytze, and on, and on. The radio announcers are to be envied, but, after all, it's still "The Great American Game!" And what was that somebody said about names in the Notre Dame lineup?

Armstrong Believes Iowa's Football Team And Ossie Solem Are Right In There

That the University of Iowa football team will be second best in the country this season, and that Coach Ossie Solem is the second best coach in the country are the opinions of Ike Armstrong, University of Utah coach whose teams have dominated the Rocky Mountain conference for years. Coach Armstrong ranks only Southern California and its coach, Howard Jones, above the Hawks.

A story in a Pacific coast paper gives Armstrong's answer when he was asked to give his rankings of the strongest teams in the country for this season. His rankings: 1. Southern California. 2. Iowa. 3. Minnesota. 4. Princeton. 5. Stanford. 6. Alabama. 7. Michigan. 8. Purdue. 9. Columbia. 10. Pittsburgh. 11. Illinois. 12. California. 13. Denver. 14. Nebraska. 15. Notre Dame.

It will be noticed that five of the Big Ten teams are listed. Several of last season's strongest outfits, including teams that made exceptional records, have been placed well down in the list. Columbia, the team from the east that licked Stanford in the Rose Bowl game last January, is rated ninth. Notre Dame will fall to make much of a splash if Coach Armstrong's rankings are correct. Right above the Irish is Nebraska, while both teams rank below Denver university, about which little is heard in the football world. Armstrong falls to include his own Utah outfit, despite the fact that the Utes have been beaten in the last few years only by three of the strongest teams on the west coast.

Following Jones and Solem in Armstrong's selection of the best coaches, comes Noble Kizer, Purdue; Pop Warner, Temple; Bob Zuppke, Illinois; Bernie Bierman, Minnesota; Bill Spaulding, U.C.L.A.; Jimmy Phelan, Washington State; "Tiny" Thornhill, Stanford; Jack Sutherland, Pittsburgh; Bill Ingram, California; and Clipper Smith, Santa Clara.

Two former University of Iowa gridgers "made" Armstrong's choice of an all-time all-American football team. Duke Slater, Negro tackle, and Aubrey Devine, quarterback, who played under Howard Jones when he coached the Iowans to two Big Ten championships, in 1921 and 1922, were the Iowans. Armstrong names his team: Ends—Baston, Minnesota; Muller, California; and Lester, Ohio State. Tackles—Slater, Iowa; and Weir, Nebraska. Guards—Cannon, Notre Dame; and Hoeffelinger, Yale. Center—Wallace, Iowa State. Quarterbacks—Warburton, Southern California; Devine, Iowa; and Clark, Colorado college. Halfbacks—Thorpe, Carlisle; Grange, Illinois; and Gipp, Notre Dame. Fullback—Nevers, Stanford.

Schammel Closes Great Career As All-American

In 1932—an average tackle; last fall—he closed his career with all-American recognition as a guard. That was the rise by Francis "Zud" Schammel, Iowa's great defensive blocker, a main cog in the team that astounded experts with its phenomenal comeback, and present line assistant to Coach Ossie Solem.

Schammel's work in the vastly improved Old Gold line was outstanding throughout the season and he was acclaimed as "the Big Ten's greatest lineman." He was unanimously chosen for most

Captain Fisher Appears Likely Choice For Quarterback

Daily Iowan Sports Editor

After four days of practice, Coach Ossie Solem's third University of Iowa football team has assumed the makings of another fine eleven. Whether or not it will resemble, equal or surpass the performance of last season's team remains to be seen.

Most Iowans were familiar with the situation that faced the Hawkeye mentor on the opening day of drill, Sept. 15. That problem was the replacing of his trio of aces of last fall, Capt. Tom Moore, center, Joe Laws, the punt-returning, shifty-hipped quarterback who was given the Chicago Tribune's "most valuable player in the Big Ten" award, and Francis Schammel, all-American guard.

Not only must these boys be replaced, but the glaring weakness of last season, the lack of capable ends, still prevails. Coach Solem has several promising sophomore candidates for each post, however. Whether this untried contingent of newcomers will prove a panacea for the present football ills remains to be seen.

Search for Quarterback
The backfield returned intact with the exception of a quarterback. Coach Solem has moved Capt. Russ Fisher into the berth, and several sophomores, including Lawrence "Skeets" Haltom, flashy sophomore, and Sheldon Gordinier are available. George Teyro, two major "T" winner, has been working the signal-calling post and might get the call. It will take a mighty fine athlete to nudge Dick Crayne from his fullback position. The Fairfield junior, so sensational a performer last year, has returned pounds heavier and should be able to fling his bulk at the enemy with the same old power and speed plus the added advantage of a year's experience. Coupled with his kicking ability is an improved passing ability.

Oze Simmons
Dwight Hoover remains at the blocking halfback post, he being with Fisher one of the best defensive backs seen here in some years. A sophomore has to fit into the backfield picture somewhere, and Oze Simmons, dusky speed boy from Ft. Worth, Tex., has been showing up well along with John Hild of Hedrick, Bob Moore, and Herman Schneidman, two year veteran.

No back can hit the line hard if he can't get that far. Ball toters pierced the line last fall because of Moore, Schammel, Radloff, Page, and a few others. Coach Solem has a flock of yearlings with ambitions to clinch starting assignments at every post.

A Veteran End
Bernie Page is the only regular end to return. The 5 feet 10 inch, 155 pounder from Newton has been getting the call at left end, but will have to hustle to protect it from a crop of fine looking sophomore wingmen. Gordon Matson of Alta, a 185 pounder, standing 6 feet 2 inches tall, has been making a great bid for a post, along with Corney Walker, 6 feet 4 inch Denver, Colo., boy, Bob Santee of Iowa Falls, as tall and as heavy as Walker, Frank Jakoubek of Cedar Rapids and John England of Montgomery. Tackle posts are being worked by three veterans, with pressure being asserted by several yearling huskies in an attempt to wrest away the right to be included in starting lineups. Fred Radloff, perhaps the lightest tackle in the Big Ten last year, has been worked this fall, along with Lloyd Hoffman, 220 pound Sibley junior, and Rudy Leytze, experienced player. Jerry Foster is another of last year's "T" winners on hand. Big Jim Kelly leads the sophomore candidates.

Sports Popular With Women

Participate in Program Harmonizing With Seasons

University women participate in a varied program of athletic events the year around. Intramural sports for women have come to play an important part in university life on the Iowa campus.

The program, as well as being provided for recreation, is organized and constructed so that every woman has the opportunity to participate. Many of the sports are organized and scheduled in harmony with the seasons. Some of them, including hiking and swimming, however, are participated in the year around.

Hockey is the most popular sport in the fall, with tennis and archery drawing a big following. All three of the sports are continued in the spring. In the spring, baseball, horseshoe pitching, tennis and golf take up the girls' time.

Basketball, volleyball and swimming are the indoor sports organized with various teams competing in a league affair. With old man winter comes skiing and tobogganing. Shuffleboard, badminton and deck tennis are games for those who like less strenuous sport.

Veterans To Boost Hawk Mat Chances

One National A.A.U. champion and one man who went to the semi-finals of the National Intercollegiate will form the mainstays of Coach Mike Howard's wrestling team this year.

Earle Kielhorn and Bob Larsen are the grapplers. This pair will co-captain the coming team. The two will be the nucleus about which another powerful team may be built. Coach Howard and his 1934 wrestling team, one of the most aggressive in recent years and third place winner in the Western conference meet in Bloomington, Ind., suffered only one defeat throughout the entire dual season.

The Hawkeye grapplers lost one out of five meets, winning from Wisconsin by the topheavy score of 29½ to 4½; tied Chicago, 16 to 16; beat Minnesota, 21 to 15; tied Iowa State Teachers, 16 to 16; and lost to Ames' powerful aggregation, 19½ to 12½.

Iowa's third place in the Big Ten conference meet at Indiana was largely the result of second places won by Kielhorn and Larsen. The only University of Iowa entry in the National Intercollegiate, Larson, lost out in the semi-finals. In the National A.A.U. affair at Ames, Kielhorn was crowned champion of the 155-pound class. Although the team will suffer through the loss of four veterans, Capt. John O'Leary, Clarence Johnson, Rolla, Parmenter, and Pat Richter, through graduation, Coach Howard will have several good yearling prospects to fill the openings. If they prove to be as valuable as those of last season, there is no need for worry.

all of the all-conference teams, but his greatest honors came at the close of the season when he was named All-American guard by the Associated Press and the United Press as well as on several other All-American selections.

Three Major 'I' Men Back With Cagers

Coach Williams Has Good Sophs To Draw From

Coach Rollie Williams, University of Iowa basketball coach, will have three returning major "I" men about which to mould his 1934-35 cage outfit.

Ivan Blackmer, rangy Iowa City athlete who used his 6 feet 3 inches to advantage at either the center or forwards' posts last season, John Barko, 6 feet 2 inch forward, and Johnny Grim, small but lightning-fast guard, are the returning letter winners.

Another Trio

In addition to the above mentioned three is a trio of minor "I" winners, Al Bobby, guard, Sidney Rosenthal, guard who might not return this year, and Freddy Swartz, a forward.

Three regulars, Howard Bastian, towering center, Howard Moffitt, forward, and Ben Seizer, one of the best guards to wear an Old Gold uniform in recent years, have graduated, leaving positions to be filled by sophomores or last season's reserves.

Coach Williams has a better than average group of sophomores from which to draw material, however, and will be able to put a team on the court which will be the equal of the opponents in height, if in nothing else.

Height Advantage

Matt Walsh, 6 feet 6 inch center from Council Bluffs, will give the Iowans a decided height advantage at center over all but a few foes. One of his rivals for the pivot position will be Bob Santee of Iowa Falls, 6 feet 4 inches tall.

Ted Osmaloki will lend his 6 feet 1 inch frame to the back court, where his height will be augmented by another tall one, Robert Kelly, a Burlington athlete standing slightly better than 6 feet. Ed Kunkel of Davenport and Al Buss of Keokuk are also sophomore guards to be watched.

Sophomores Forward

Coach Williams, while not able to be on hand during football practice, will have his boys taking semi-weekly drills during the fall months to keep them in shape for the Big Ten season.

It is hoped that reserve strength, sadly lacking after the second semester of last season, will place the Hawkeyes on an offensive and defensive level with other opponents.

P. K. A. Takes High Honors With Leather

Boxing Grows Quickly In Popularity On Campus

Pi Kappa Alpha boxers had things their own way for the most part in the inter-fraternity tournament, staged last April in the field house. Including one semi-final bout, the victors took five of the seven fights to acquire 42 points.

Alpha Sigma Phi was second in points scored with 31; Phi Kappa Sigma, third with 20; Phi Kappa Psi, fourth with 6; Sigma Chi, fifth with three; and Alpha Omega finished at the bottom of the list with one marker.

The tourney was anybody's affair until the last two bouts on the card, the light-heavyweight and heavy-weight frays. Leo Cain, city light heavyweight champion, and Dwight Hoover, runner-up in the heavy-weight class of The Daily Iowan's Golden Gloves tournament, took their matches to give Pi Kappa Alpha the meet.

In the 147 pound class, Meehlovit, P.K.A. fighter, won a unanimous decision from Larson of Alpha Sigma Phi. The other final bout going to the fraternity champions was in the middleweight division, Kirkeby defeating Paul, Alpha Sigma Phi.

Boxing is one of the sports that has gained in popularity on the campus during the last year or two. Possibly the Golden Gloves tournament and the university boxing championships have influenced this up-grade trend. This coming year promises a greater rise in the sport's participation.

Greek Cage Crown Won By P. E. K's

Every winter the boys along fraternity row commence to plan for basketball tournaments. Last year more than 250 men from 24 fraternities turned out on the hardwood floor to vie with each other for the championship.

The four fraternities which emerged as sectional winners in the play for the inter-fraternity title were Phi Kappa Psi, Delta Upsilon, Sigma Phi Epsilon, and Phi Epsilon Kappa.

'No Pep In Third Team!'

Jones Has Only 30 Candidates, But Won Big 10 Title

Thirteen years ago Head Football Coach Howard H. Jones bemoaned the fact that "only 30 men reported for football practice" and "the third team had no pep," according to The Daily Iowan of Sept. 24, 1921. It is possible that three coaches made up what was lacking for a complete third team.

To quote the story, in part: "Belding sent long spirals arching slowly down the wind, while the Devines, Locke, Shuttleworth and the other backs caught and returned them in short dashes with interference. The linemen then indulged in bucking the big swinging dummies, a pair at a time would crouch opposite their bulky "opponents," as the ball was snapped, would charge savagely, under the critical eyes of the coaches, pushing the dummies high in the air.

"While the backs left off the punting practice to dodge and start running at right angles to their stances, the linemen divided into two groups and set opposite each other in a blocking session. Heldt and Thompson continued their civil war, making it interesting for the spectators. Once Thompson complained of lacking a headgear, and Heldt handed him his. Slater had Anderson against him, and handled him fairly easily. Mead and Thompson battled determinedly, and Hunter found a lively opponent in Minick. Finally this game was given up for the afternoon and three teams lined up for a session at punting signals."

Jones must have had a tough time of it that year. He managed to win the Big Ten championship with his purported lack of candidates for the squad. He had one all-American in Aubrey Devine, and some of the most outstanding linemen produced at Iowa in Slater, Heldt, Mead, Minick, and Belding. The year following that Gordon Locke was an all-American back.

And "no pep in the third team."

ed the 1932-1933 champions, Sigma Alpha Epsilon, thereby gaining possession of the championship trophy, which is a full sized, silver replica of a basketball.

The annual free throw tournament is also held in connection with the fraternity contest. Each man is allowed 15 shots from the foul line in the preliminaries, the 20 men caging the highest number of shots for each fraternity forming the fraternity's team. Last year Morrissey of Delta Tau Delta won the tourney.

Close Race For Grid Honors In Big 10 Looms

Minnesota Apparently Holds Edge on Basis Of Vet Material

Watch Minnesota, but look out for the rest.

That's the opinion of coaches, experts and fans alike throughout the middlewest as discussion of the impending Big Ten football race arises.

On pre-season calculations—all ways unreliable in this, the toughest college league in the country, and this year more uncertain than ever—the veteran Gophers of Bernie Bierman appear to hold the edge. But through the entire conference optimism reigns more generally than in years, with promising newcomers yet to be reckoned with forming the foundation for most of the expectations.

Iowa Looks Stronger

Michigan and Purdue, in recent years the leading teams in Western conference gridiron struggles, suffered big losses through graduation, but again expect to be right at the top. Iowa's own Hawkeyes, the surprise team of 1933, look to be stronger year to year ago if a promising crop of sophomores successfully plugs the gaps left by the graduation of several outstanding key men.

Illinois, with a good nucleus of veterans, looms as a real "dark horse" threat, while Ohio State under a new coaching staff should assert itself with a wealth of big, husky material available. Northwestern, a surprisingly weak outfit last fall, seems certain to stage a comeback. Chicago should continue the improvement noted in 1933 and may become a real menace to plans of would-be titleholders, while both Indiana and Wisconsin expect stronger aggregations.

"Season of Upsets"

A "season of upsets" may well be the title applied to the campaign about to begin before it ever begins, with "underdogs" more than likely to rise up and knock down "favorites" as the season goes along. From every standpoint, the year looms as a "fan's year" with the surprises apt to come with more frequency than for a number of seasons.

In less than a week the teams, now in the midst of heavy preparations for the cannonading to come, will give the first inkling of what can be expected when they open their schedules against non-conference foes, many of them doing away with the traditional "setups" to take on first class opponents from the start.

Battle Royal

A week later the battle royal—as it almost certainly will be—will get underway as conference team meets conference team in the start of a knock down-drag out campaign for top honors.

In the meantime, speculation as to the ultimate winner or winners will run rampant, with differences of opinion being more evident than in many seasons.

The best we can do is look over the prospects, join the arguments and mingle our exclamations of surprise with the rest as this Big Ten football battle carries through the next two months and a half.

In brief, here are the prospects at each of the conference schools:

MINNESOTA: Bierman is definitely "on the spot." The Gopher mentor this fall will be able to place the same team on the field, man for man, that battled through last year's campaign without defeat with the exception of one man, Capt. Roy Oen, scrappy little center, having been the only man lost by graduation.

With an all-veteran team built around the great all-American back, Pug Lund, it is easy to see that the optimism of the Gopher fans is certainly justified. But Bierman's task will be anything but easy. Principal of his problems will be the development of a sure-fire scoring punch, dismally lacking a year ago when the Minnesotans battled through four games.

IOWA: The "surprise team" of 1933 is expected to become the "wonder team" of 1934 by Hawkeye football fans. And so like Bierman, Coach Ossie Solem will find himself facing a tremendous task. Lacking the services of Joe Laws, all-conference quarterback and "game breaker," "Zud" Schammel, the great all-American guard, and Tom Moore, the captain and center of a year ago, Solem will have to plug these key positions with incoming material.

A veteran backfield outfit, headed by Dick Crayne and Capt. Russ Fisher, and backed up by promising reserves should at least be as strong as a year ago, with the ability of sophomores, likely looking prospects as freshmen, to come through under fire the determining factor in the line. The Hawkeyes seem certain to cause all of their opponents trouble, with a good chance of winning a big percentage of the engagements.

MICHIGAN: Always contenders. That sums up the Wolverines year in and year out. And again, even with such important cogs as Chuck Bernard, center, Wistert, tackle, and Petoskey, end, all stars of the first caliber, missing, Coach Harry Kipke looks to his wealth of sophomore material to come to the rescue.

The necessary veteran material to provide something for the newcomers to be built around should be furnished by Captain Austin, tackle, Ward, end, and Regecz, long distance kicker. Watch these Wolverines.

PURDUE: Probably the hardest hit by graduation, the Boilermakers expect to again be in the thick of the race as Coach Noble Kizer gathers his forces in an effort to start a winning streak which was abruptly ended last fall by the Hawkeyes.

Purdue will sorely miss "Dutch" Fehring, big tackle, and Paul Pardonner, clever little field general, but with Duane Purvis, an all-American halfback, to start with, the offense should hardly suffer. Upon the success of the line will depend Purdue's chances.

ILLINOIS: Bob Zupke is again smiling, a fact which bodes no good for the rest of the conference. With a strong crew of veterans returning and exceptional sophomore material on hand, if the stories of last fall's frosh outfit are true, the Illini will make themselves heard from every Saturday of the season. A year ago, a one-point defeat by Michigan kept them out of the conference title.

They'll be out to put the Champaign school back at the top this year. Zupke always bears watching and this year particularly.

OHIO STATE: Francis Schmidt

may be the answer at Ohio State. The new mentor, drafted from Texas Christian university, will undoubtedly receive the benefit of the potentially powerful material which seems to bless the Buckeyes annually, but which hitherto has generally failed to develop. Expected to be one of the factors in the race a year ago, the Ohioans faded badly when internal strife reputedly disrupted the team.

Schmidt will probably develop a powerful offensive team, much like the ones which made him known throughout the country while coach of the Texas school.

NORTHWESTERN: Dick Hanley had a bad season last fall, so look out for the Wildcats this year. Strong on defense, but weak on offense. That was the story in 1933 for the Wildcats. With much of their defensive power remaining and a likely looking crew of sophomore backs coming up, big things may well be expected of the Purple before the season ends. Hanley's team may develop slowly, but once it gains headway it will be hard to stop. The Hawkeyes should find them a big problem in the opening game, with the outcome likely to be a toss-up.

CHICAGO: Definitely on the upgrade. That sums up the Chicago situation, Clark Shaughnessy made big steps along the road of improvement a year ago, and now, with better reserve material coming along, he may bring the Maroons back to the grid glory that was once theirs. Jay Berwanger, the big Dubuque, Ia., boy, and "Swede"

Nyquist, a pair of outstanding backs on a fair team in 1933, will make it troublesome for opponents this year with any sort of assistance.

WISCONSIN: Coach Glen Spears is turning to sophomores at Wisconsin in an effort to improve the surprisingly weak eleven of last fall. And it appears at this early date as if he may meet with success. The veteran material is not of exceptionally outstanding quality, but the year of experience gained last year under the good doctor's style of play should put them in a good position.

INDIANA: The Hoosiers start out under a new coach as does Ohio State. Bo McMillan, formerly at Kansas State college where he turned out consistently strong teams, steps in at a time when Indiana grid fortunes are anything, but promising. Hoosier backers expect nothing sensational, but believe that McMillan will bring about considerable improvement with the material he has at hand. It is not too far-fetched to believe that the Hoosiers may even do a little surprising before the year is over.

He'll See a Good Game!
A certain Minnesota student remarked that, if he didn't see another football game all year, he'd see Iowa and Minnesota lock horns on Oct. 27.

Run, Frosh, Run---

Yearlings May Race To Win Honor Of Ringing Bell

Something new in the way of foot races may be instituted on the Iowa campus if plans now in the tentative stage are developed.

The Hawk "I" club has an idea calling for a freshman race from the stadium to old Capitol. Here is the plan.

When Iowa wins a football game, the freshmen will line up along the north goal line. At the crack of the starter's gun the frosh will race down the field, climb the steps at the south entrance to the stadium, and speed past the field house, across the river, and up the hill to Old Capitol. The first runner to arrive will rush into the building and pull the bell rope.

The winner will have his name engraved upon a plaque presented for the occasion by the Hawk "I" club, the plaque to be hung in the river room of Iowa Union.

Besides the engraving of the winner's name, he will receive an "I" book at the beginning of his sophomore year.

Big 10 Coaches Utilize Various Styles of Play

Michigan's "Punt, Pass And Prayer" Very Successful

Systems of football as used by various Big Ten football coaches in attempting to pursue a path to a Western conference grid title are of different types, usually growing out of the system used by coaches under whom training was received. Modifications have been instituted at schools as conditions demand.

From Dick Hanley's Warner system to Noble Kizer's Notre Dame method of offense and defense the tactics range. Usually the Big Ten mentors stick to one style through a period of years, though this is not usually the case at small schools where a coach must build his attack around the material. A set of feet, shifty backs who utilize speedy end dashes and passing would call for a Warner system of attack.

Northwestern has used the system perfected by the former Stanford and now Temple grid wizard, and Coach Hanley expects to continue its use. He piloted the Wildcats to a few Big Ten championships through the use of the double and single wingback formations.

Northwestern's line has been noted for its big, brawny athletes, powerful enough to protect the halfbacks stationed out near the ends and the quarter and fullback, fairly close in. This stationing of the backs is conducive to a more than average deceptive game and is effective in forward passing.

The answer to the criticism that the spreading of the line to cover up the wingbacks weakens the center, is in pointing out that the defensive line and backs spread with the offense, particularly to take care of the wingbacks, with a corresponding weakness in the defensive line. A good fullback can gain ground through the center with this system as well as with any other. It is not normally a conservative system of play.

Radical Style Indiana football this year will present a radical change from the type of game usually seen in Big Ten football games. "Bo" McMillan, opening his first year in Western conference play, believes in the unorthodox. While at Kansas State the new Hoosier mentor used tricky plays and his so-called "five man backfield." The latter involves holding members of the line in the backfield territory until just before the ball is snapped, then as called for by the play, either the linemen or a member of the backfield steps into the line position. The shift is calculated to fool the opponents as to who is, and who is not, an eligible receiver of passes. This mixing of backs and linemen presents a confusing attack. McMillan lost only one game last year at Kansas State. Coach Bob Zuppke of Illinois has no set style of attack, his offensive formations varying, as a rule, with the material and situation at hand. He uses everything from strict power plays to speed and deception. This year, with an excellent passer in Jack Beynon, Zuppke may spring a few wingback formations as offensive gestures. Some of his systems are original, some copied, but whatever they are, the Illini will respond with plenty of power.

Ohio State will present a new coach, Francis Schmidt, who has moved north from Texas Christian. Schmidt's style of play is unknown at present but if it is anything like that used in the south, a brilliant passing game augmented by speedy, end-running backs and charging forward walls can be expected.

Michigan, under Head Coach Harry Kipke, uses an offensive-defensive style of play utilizing the opponent's mistakes and breaks of the game. It is a basic tenet of "Hurry Up" Yost's football creed that "possession is worth more than possession." His protegee and successor, Kipke, had no equal as a "spot kicker" during his college days and as head coach at Michigan continues to emphasize all phases of the kicking game, sticks steadfastly to the zone theory of strategy and keeps his rushing attack in check until quick punts or "breaks" in the form of recovered fumbles or intercepted passes present scoring opportunity.

"A punt, a pass and a prayer"—that is called the Michigan system. Kipke has a good kicker, a good passer, a powerful line, lots of luck, and plays the percentages. The Wolverines let the other fellow rush the ball on the wrong side of the 50 yard stripe and waste his energy in his own territory. Comes a fumble, a recovery by Michigan, and a scoring attack is instigated.

The remaining five Western conference teams have attacks built around some form of shift, this calling for a head quarterback with the faculty of immediately discovering the weak spots in an opponent's line and pointing his ball carriers at that weak spot. The shift concentrates the power at the least protected spot in the opponent's defense, at the same time employing fast breaks in the form of spinners, feints, reverses and other deceptive plays.

The Notre Dame system and the Minnesota shift, the latter evolved by the late Dr. Harry Williams of Minnesota, are used by Chicago, Wisconsin, Minnesota, Purdue and Iowa. Kizer at Purdue uses the Notre Dame system of shifting, having learned his stuff under the old master Knute Rockne. Coach "Doc" Spears of Wisconsin, Bernie Bierman of Minnesota and Ossie Sojem of Iowa use the Minnesota shift with variations as does Clark Shaughnessy of Chicago. This is not hard to understand as the quartet of Big Ten mentors received their football training at the Gophers institution.

Fieldhouse --- Athletic Site Facilities for Every Sport Available To Freshmen

Athletically inclined freshmen will find a place on the University of Iowa campus in which to pursue any sport they desire—the spacious field house, located on the west side of the Iowa river and the sporting heart of the university.

Equipment for every sport engaged in by the university can be found here, and the incoming students will have every opportunity to take advantage of the facilities. For everything from swimming—in the field house is one of the two largest indoor pools in the world—to fencing, and even football, there are facilities.

Five Courts

Five basketball courts, including the varsity court, make possible the fine program worked out for this winter sport. Intramural and independent teams play throughout the basketball season, climaxing activities with a tournament to determine university supremacy. Fraternities, dormitories—all get a crack at the title.

Each spring sees boxers and wrestlers vie for the university championships in the field house, and ample training facilities are provided for the workouts. Coach Howard handles the grapplers with a boxing coach provided for this rapidly growing ring sport.

Huge Gym

Fencing and gymnastics take up half of the huge gym room which can be cleared of apparatus and utilized as four separate basketball courts at once. Plenty of wall space to give handball players unlimited opportunity to exercise in this sport. Tap dancing, drawing a rapidly increasing interest, is conducted in classes here.

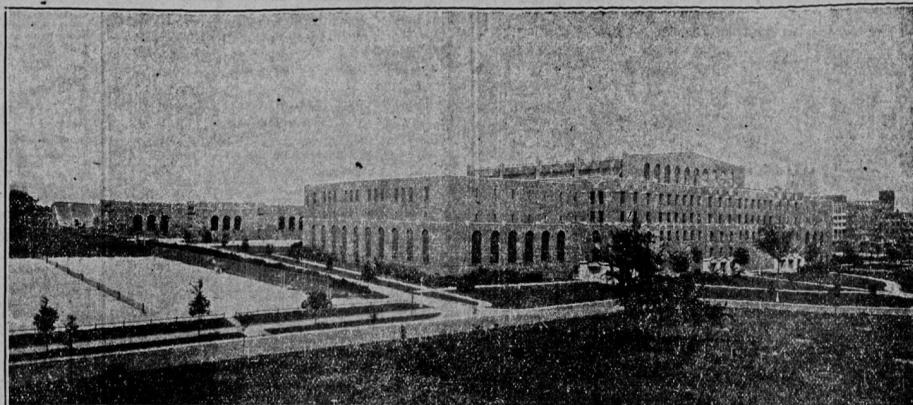

Track facilities are exceptional, one of the largest indoor tracks in the conference being in the field house. Running six laps to the mile, the oval has been the training ground for boys who have made Iowa athletic history. It is available, along with jumping and vaulting pits, at all times.

Tennis, golf, baseball—there isn't a sport that doesn't make use of the field house. Two tennis courts are ready for play, one on the canvas covered basketball floor and the other beside it on the dirt. Nets are used to check the balls from bounding to the ends of the cavernous building.

Golfers use the wire inclosed cage by the running track to practice driving before Finkbine field, just behind the field house and stadium, is in condition to play.

Both the R. O. T. C. and univer-

Faced With Task Of Filling Key Posts With New Men

Iowa's baseball fortunes, which showed a decided improvement last spring, will next spring depend largely upon the ability of a host of promising sophomores to plug the gaps created by the graduation of outstanding key players.

The loss of Capt. Herman Schulte-henrich, a ranking star for three years at second base and a regular infielder through most of the Western league season, this summer with Des Moines, will be keenly felt, as will the absence of "Dutch" Schmidt, versatile catcher, Frank Drager, star outfielder, big Glen Baker, the steady first baseman, and peppery Ken Blackman, outfielder and catcher.

Fall Practice to Start
Coach Otto Vogel, although unable to personally conduct drills in that he will be occupied with coaching the line for Ossie Solem in football this fall, will place the squad in charge of an assistant and will city rifle teams have the second floor over the offices of the military department for practice purposes.

There is a plentiful supply of lockers in the basement, with the shower room leading off into the tunnel that enables those who would swim to more easily have access to the pool.

Issue a call for all varsity men not engaged in other sports to report for fall practice Sept. 24.

The fundamental training gained in the drills, which will feature five and seven inning games until the weather becomes too cold to continue work, is expected by Coach Vogel to give his new men, and veterans as well, a running start on the campaign of 1935.

The pitching staff, if it comes through as expected, will undoubtedly cause the Hawkeye mentor little worry. Headed by Capt. Gene Ford, the staff will include the outstanding southpaw, Charley Mau, and Francis Pickeral and Dale Landrum, reserve men of last spring who had some experience.

In addition to these men, Vogel will have a big field of promising sophomores from which to pick his moundsmen. Lowell Gosser, Malo Reese, Dick Moran, and Ted Osma-loski are numbered among the outstanding of these prospects, with George Kanouff, Benedict, Druker, Roelfe, Gurter, McDonough, Lange-man and Mehrins likely to develop.

The loss of Schmidt will cause a big problem in that Ken Blackman will also be missing. The outstanding of the receiving prospects are Nelson, Plass, Evans and Jim Murtha, sophomores, and Bill Wiegand and Becker, juniors. There is a possibility that Stan Bazant, regular third baseman of two years ago and last year used to fill weak spots wherever needed, may be shifted behind the plate. He showed good promise in practice work last year.

The infield will likely by the biggest problem with the task of filling the places of Schulte-henrich and Baker facing Vogel. Bob Mason, hard hitting shortstop, will be back, as will Johnny Stephens, the diminutive third baseman. There is a possibility that Mason may be shifted to second with Weese, a reserve in 1934, taking his former post. However, the presence of several good sophomore prospects, particularly Taylor, a standout as a freshman last spring, must be taken into consideration. Other sophomores coming up are Hess, Crawford, Reed and Ranney.

But the firstbase post will undoubtedly be battled for by two of last year's outfielders—Clausen, big rangy left hander, and Underwood, right hander. There is a possibility Vogel may alternate the pair between the initial sack and the right field spot. Bisanius, a good man, will put in a strong bid for the position as a regular as well.

In addition to Clausen and Underwood, Vogel will have two other men with some varsity experience last year in Murphy and Norris for the outfield.

Coaches Lining Up Trackmen For Fall Season; Good Roster Expected in All Departments

Varsity Men Backbone Of Team; Sprinters Most Plentiful

By HARRY L. TENNANT

With practices for fall sports right at hand, coaches are meeting as many athletes as possible to inform their pupils when and where to appear for the initial practices. One of the busiest coaches is George T. Bresnahan, head track coach. With the assistance of Ted Swenson, freshman track coach, plans are rapidly being drawn up which, it is hoped, will help produce one of the most successful years the University of Iowa has ever enjoyed.

COACH BRESNAHAN—Faces Good Season

The first official session for cross country and fall track will be Sept. 25, although preliminary steps such as obtaining equipment and physical examinations are scheduled to be completed shortly after registration.

Cross Country

Cross country and fall track will occupy the first two months of the school year. Coach Bresnahan will again attempt to shape a well balanced team from what appears to be one of the largest harrier squads to report for that sport. Although the Hawkeye runners last year were able to hold their own in major competition they will miss the services of Dave Flage to no small degree. If previous year marks mean much to a coach, Bresnahan can point with pride to accomplishments of his freshman runners last year. Prospects for the coming year tend to rival the great track years of the 1920's when Charley Brookins, Eric Wilson and other champions of the cinders wore the freshman jerseys.

Iowa held an elevated position on the cinder track during the two years previous to the Olympic games in 1932, but the freshman teams were far from champions as compared with the present array of runners. Edward Gordon, Henry Canby, L. D. Weldon and the late George Saling reached the height during this period but they did not compete on the same freshman teams.

Good Marks

One has merely to look at marks made by the yearling runners in winning the 1934 conference meet to reach a conclusion that, barring eligibility and lack of funds to attend school, the Hawkeye cindersmen have possibilities of being top notchers in any competition.

Most plentiful are the sprinters. A statement last spring by coaches of track informed there were no less than eight freshmen capable of running the 100 in 10 seconds and under. This does not include those of last year's varsity squad. Interest this season will center on the sprinting of four of last year's freshmen, Jimmy Owen of Maplewood, Mo., Carl Nelson of Clinton, Andrew Dooley of Centerville, and Wilson Friggs of Atchinson, Kan. Official time records all of these men with races under 09.9 numerous times throughout the fall and spring sessions.

Win Frosh Meet

These men took five of 10 places in the freshman conference meet in which Iowa yearlings won by a score of 54. Owens did not compete in the 100 yard dash, but he no doubt would have annexed another place for the Hawkeyes. In the quarter mile run, Wilson Briggs came through for a first place with the mark of 50.1 seconds. Eugene Skinner of Omaha tied with Dooley for third place and Van Phillips of Iowa City placed fifth in the same event. Every man covered the distance in less than 51 seconds.

In the hurdles, Hawkeye freshmen fulfilled one good bid. Jack Lindstrom of Downers Grove, Ill., won the 120 high hurdles in 15.2 seconds and placed second in the 280 yard low sticks in 24.5 seconds. In the pole vault, Stanley Carlson of Floris gave indications of being the nearest rival to the now four year old marks of Henry Canby. The broad jump found two freshmen able to jump creditable distances, Al Buss of Keokuk and Maurice Kauffman of Cedar Rapids.

Varsity

The varsity of last year will constitute the backbone of the squad. Particularly will the performance of two Juniors be outstanding—that of Francis Cretzmeyer of Emmetsburg in the hurdles and jumps and Mark Panther of Burlington in the javelin. Cretzmeyer, in his one year of competition, has bettered any former Hawkeye athlete's mark for scoring of points. He competed in six events regularly in major competition. All Hawkeye followers will watch Panther, 170 pound javelin thrower. Panther stirred comment last season when he began the track year by barely tossing the spear over 130 feet and raising his mark throughout the season to 211 feet. He was tossing it regularly more than 200 feet at the end of the year.

Although many newcomers are expected to give additional strength to the team Coach Bresnahan regrets the loss of Sidney Dean, consistent point winner in the 440 yard dash and the sprints. Dean anchored the relay teams and many times crossed the finish line first after being given the baton in a rear position. The newly elected captain, Bernard Page has been a regular quartermiler on the squad for two years and it is not likely that he will be upset by any of the yearplaces on the high bar and side horse, McCloy took second and third on the flying rings, and Bolte took second place on the parallel bars. Iowa managed to out score the Minnesota gymnasts as far as first places were concerned, but the Gophers bore up too strongly in team strength and managed to win in total of points. Captain Bolte and Rockwood were the stars of the Iowa team.

Iowa garnered fourth place in the Big Ten meet in Chicago, Rockwood placing third in all-around individual championship scorings. Bolte's third place on the parallel bars finished Iowa's scoring in the final contest of the season.

Last Year

This will probably be the last year that the Hawkeyes will use old Iowa field for practice purposes. Present plans call for the moving of all athletic equipment to the stadium and the territory directly west of the field house.

Six Athletes Winners Of 68 Letters

Take six boys and you have—six Loys; nothing unusual in this. But when the six boys have won between them 68 letters in sports in their respective high schools you have something else—athletes who might turn into Iowa football stars in the near future. The six were freshman luminaries last fall.

An average of the total would find 11 1-3 letters going to each athlete for his high school competition. This could not and did not happen, however, so we find the boys winning from 10 to 12 letters.

"Dozen Class"

In the "dozen" class are Lawrence "Skeets" Haltom, a brilliant performer for Osceola and Creston curing his prep school days; Gordon Matson of Alta, a rangy, powerful boy who will make a bid for an end position on the Iowa varsity this fall; and Floyd McDowell of Jefferson. Each won four awards each in football, basketball and track.

Ozzie Simmons, the colored speed merchant from Texas, and Bob Santee of Iowa Falls hold up their share of the average by capturing 11 letter apiece in high school athletics. Simmons has the most variety in his collection, winning four letters in football, two each in basketball and baseball, and three in track. Santee took three in the fall sport and four each in basketball and track.

Won 10 Letters

Gail Lundberg, promising guard candidate from Northwood, earned 10 letters competing for Northwood high school in football, basketball and track.

These boys might not do so well in the letter winning department at

'Dad' Schroeder Plans For Extensive 1934-35 Program

Chapters Compete For Individual, Group Recognition

Intramural athletic activities have become an important cog in the wheel of inter-fraternity relations on the University of Iowa campus. The development of inter-fraternity relations has reached a high degree within the last few years, and athletic contests between various houses include contests ranging from horse

The purpose of this extensive athletic program is not to develop a high degree of skill—varsity sports take care of this—but to give the men enjoyments and benefits of competitive play with the added interest of a natural campus rivalry. The intramural athletic activity play is to make it possible for every student to engage in some sport or sports.

Individual and group awards are competed for. To the fraternity displaying the greatest interest in different sports as a whole throughout the year is presented the participation cup, symbolic of a year of intramural athletic achievement. Delta Tau Delta has been the most consistent winner of this participation cup, taking the trophy three times in a row.

This year another extensive program is being planned for the Greek athletes. Under the direction of E. G. (Dad) Schroeder, it will be developed to the advantage of all houses on the campus. The up-grade trend of competition in 1933-34 may well be repeated in 1934-35, with even more men included than the near record group of last year.

Selzer Signs With National Champions

Ben Selzer, whose sensational play at guard with Coach Rollie Williams' University of Iowa basketball team won for him all-conference recognition, has signed to play this winter with the Tulsa Oilers, National A.A.U. champions. Selzer is in the Oklahoma city at the present time.

Gymnasts In Poor Season

Although prospects for Coach Albert Baumgartner's gym team of last season were marred by the failure of Kringle and Cassell, who were expected to figure prominently to maintain eligibility, the 1934 gymnastics season found the squad vastly improved in individual place winners over performers of recent years.

The Hawkeyes failed to gain a single victory, finishing close behind Illinois in the first meet here, with Nebraska placing last. With only Bolte and Rockwood able to place, Chicago won easily in the following Windy City dual, Rockwood garnering second in the high bar event and Bolte taking third on the parallel bars.

The narrowest loss of the season was turned in as Illinois triumphed over the Hawks for the second time of the season in a meet at Champaign. An early Iowa lead was nullified by Illinois' sweep of the tumbling event, last on the program. Rockwood and Houser won first places of this year. Although Page will probably prove an excellent anchor man in the relay events it is likely that Coach Bresnahan will attempt the plan he put in use in 1929 by having two relay teams in a single race. From all indications Iowa will have sprinters for more than three relay teams in the short-

Returning Varsity, Freshmen Swimmers Bolster Iowa's Chances for Winning Squad

Above, a moment of strategy as Iowa's coaches go into a huddle. Right, a record through watches an Iowa basketball game in the fieldhouse in the 1933-34 season.

Backed by a powerful, well balanced hand of Hawkeye swimmers that includes every member of last winter's varsity augmented by newcomers from the strong freshman squad, Coach David Armbruster faces the coming season with hopes for another winning team.

Last year's combination of sophomores and juniors carried the Old Gold colors through its most successful season, won five out of six dual meets, and placed second in the Big Ten championship meet held in the Iowa fieldhouse tank. This 16 man squad will have the added strength of freshman captain Dick Westerfield and his yearlings who won two of three telegraphic meets.

Varsity Captain

Bruce Grove, Tulsa, Okla., will captain the varsity this season. Coach Armbruster having decided to do away with the practice of naming a team leader for each meet. A 440 swimmer, Grove was runner-up in the conference meet his sophomore year and third in this event last spring, competing with a sinus infection. The other varsity middle distance swimmer, August Anderson, may decide to stay out of school this year, but will probably be seen in action. Anderson pushed Grove all year and the time may be ripe for him to come through.

In the fancy diving, both high and low board, Iowa had two of the best men in the middle-west—Bill Busby and Anton Zukas. Busby has for two years taken second to Degner of Michigan in Big Ten conference and dual meets, but the Wolverine ace has graduated and Busby should reach his most effective performing season this winter. Zukas pushed his teammate all season, lacking only in experience. This summer the Rockford, Ill., junior has been hot, winning the midwestern outdoor A.A.U. diving championship besides numerous other titles. The junior should be ready to give the steady Busby a good fight.

Several Return

Iowa has several varsity back and breast stroke swimmers of more than average ability. Wilber Wehmeyer, St. Louis, Mo., went under the university breast stroke record of 2:37.9, held by Rollie Evans, by almost a second. Jack Sieg, junior from Tulsa, can swim either the back or breast stroke in creditable fashion. Sieg splashed the 150 back stroke in university record time and performs consistently around .54 in the 100 yard free style. He is the midwest indoor A.A.U. champion in the 300 yard individual medley event (back, breast and crawl strokes), and in the 100 yard back stroke.

Adolph Jacobsmeyer, another St. Louis athlete, should, in the opinion of Coach Armbruster, develop into one of the best sprinters and middle distance men in the conference. The junior holds practically every university free style record. He swam the 440 well under five minutes, an outstanding performance. His best time for the 100 yard free style is 53.2. Jacobsmeyer's fellow speed artist, George Ernst, was one of the outstanding sprinters in the country last season. He captured second in the conference 50 yard sprint, while in the national collegiates he turned in a fast time in the preliminaries but finished fifth in the finals. Ernst can hit .54 in the 100 yard free style and is a consistent back-stroke performer.

Another Outstanding Swimmer

The remaining outstanding member of the returning varsity squad is Allen Hurley, Stillwater, Okla., who has developed into a fine swimmer. Hurley holds the midwestern A.A.U. indoor championship for the 500 yard swim. This summer in the outdoor championships, he took second to Grove in the longer affair but won over Grove in the 220 yard free style.

Dick Westerfield, Cedar Rapids sophomore, is considered a prospective Iowa ace. Holder of the midwestern A.A.U. indoor and outdoor 150 yard back stroke championships, Westerfield cracked the university long course record with a time of 1:51 for the event, bettering by more than five seconds the mark which had stood since 1927.

Won 100 Yard Back Stroke

Westerfield finished two feet behind Sinkiewicz of the Detroit A.C., nationally known speedster, in the A.A.U. meet held in the Camp Dodge pool this summer, and ahead of Paul Wolfe, Los Angeles A.C., west coast ace. In the same meet, he won the 100 yard back stroke for men ahead of Allen Hurley in 1:08. Westerfield's presence will give the Hawkeyes a top ranking star in back stroke, an event in which they have been weak the last several seasons.

Ray Walters is another freshman star of last season whose presence will bolster the varsity. He competes in the sprints. His mark for the 100 free style is well under the mark of 53.2 established by Jacobsmeyer. In the dual with Illinois, Walters clipped off a time of .52 for the 100.

Creditable Performances

Although studies and outside work took care of most of Fred Haskins' time, the Des Moines sophomore gave some creditable performances in the breast stroke. He holds the record for the midwestern outdoor A.A.U. swim and this summer took second in this event.

Haskins and Walters captured many firsts in freshman dual meets and with Westerfield as the third man set a new university record for the 300 yard medley relay.

Other members of the incoming sophomore squad are: Fred Moore, Des Moines; Homer Bradshaw, Des Moines; Kenneth Booth, Davenport; and Frank W. Turner, Corning. Sprints and free style; Arnold Chris-

Kukuluski--Madzeleski--

Toriello, Kresowski, Kuminski, Nodolski and Dykstra

It's fine football weather we're having. The fall zip and tang is in the air. Soon pennants will be bravely waving in the cool air, bands will be blasting forth those old college tunes, and somebody will be penalized 25 yards for clipping somebody else. Sure we like football—but give us that good old football name.

Names fit the person, strangely enough. We all know the timid soul, Mr. Jones. John Smith is another well known moniker. But how about Chester Kukuluski. What does Thos. Georgopoulos sound like

Why, they sound like football names.

Boys with names such as those have been known to rise to gridiron heights. All-American berths await such athletes.

All-Name Roster

Lets figure out an all-name, all-American grid roster. Around the Big Ten are a few boys who might, if the incoming material about which we have heard is not too lengthy, make our squad.

From Indiana and Minnesota come the ends, Ralph Schilowski and Dominic Krezowski, husky athletes who have potential ability. What Minnesota again? Bruno Vercuski hails from the Gopher institution as a tackle. He will have as a teammate the above mentioned Chester Kukuluski of Old Purdue, Kukuluski a veteran football namer with the bearing and ease of an old campaigner.

For guards? Well, lets see. There's Robert Holtzrichter of Illinois and Joseph Madzeleski. Purdue again.

Lost

Replacing Barrellski Krasawaski as quarterback, lost through graduation after a glorious career, will be Dannie Toriello. My gosh, folks, he, too, hails from Old Purdue.

Toriello seems the only backfield man sure of his job. The fullback position will be a fight between Chris Daisasso of Indiana and Stanley Nodolski, who has been moved back from his guard post. Hello Purdue again.

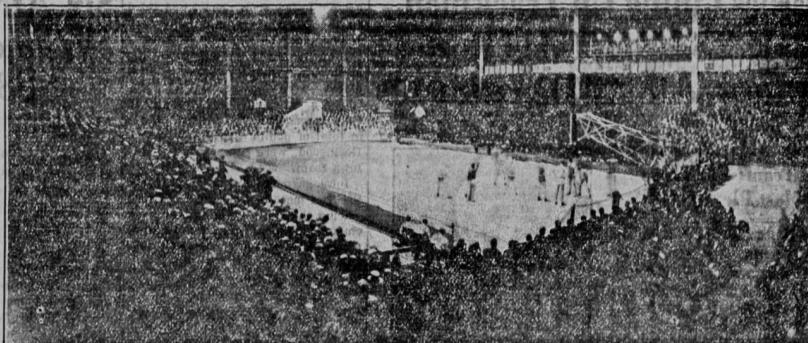

Our halfbacks are pretty fair, also, although some frosh blew in today. All-state football names and stuff like that.

ten, Hammond, Ind., and George Nissen, Cedar Rapids, diving; George Cossou, Jr., Des Moines; Richard Gates, Cedar Rapids, and C. Lambert Trowbridge, Iowa City, breast stroke; and Mark Hintz, Oelwein; William Comehr, Des Moines; and Joe McConnell, Yonkers, N. Y.

Above is a group of Hawkeye coaches who will direct the Iowans through their 1934 football season. To the right a mammoth crowd of spectators witnessing University of Iowa basketball players take on a Big Ten opponent. Scenes such as this were not rare last winter.

Antenucci, Ohio State, and another, Frank Kuminski, Ohio State again, will make the grade as halfback candidates. Although they are pretty fair in a way, what about Donas Dischinger and Rolland Oberchain, both of Indiana? Hot stuff, hey?

Reserve List

Well, fans, that about completes the varsity roster.

Reserve prospects who will do until something better turns up include: Gene Dykstra, Indiana; Frank Kumiskey, Ohio State; John Kleinhans, Ohio State; Mark Klonowski, Minnesota; ends: Ed Gryboski, August Kowalski and Mathew Tischler, Illinois, guards.

We have one more candidate. He will be out as soon as he checks out a suit, probably next week. Covington Arterburn is the gentleman, and he hails from that apparent home of all Big Ten all-name all-American athletes, Old Purdue.

Now if you grid fans can send a few good boys this way, just keep it quiet and send 'em in. A national championship grid name team is what we want this year before all the vets graduate.

Sigma Alpha Epsilon Triumphs in Greek Track, Field Meet

Sigma Alpha Epsilon stepped out last year to win the two-day interfraternity track meet held on Iowa field May 17 and 18. The victors clinched four firsts and three seconds.

Matt Walsh, Beta Theta Pi, was high point scorer for the annual out-door affair, taking first in the 60 yard high hurdles, shot put, high jump, and 120 yard low hurdles, and placing second in the discus for a total of 23 points.

Prof. Philip Greeley Clapp Announces Plans for Public Concerts by Music Groups

Four Organizations to Participate In Program

Plans for activities of the University of Iowa musical organizations for the coming academic year were announced yesterday by Prof. Philip Greeley Clapp, head of the music department.

Four organizations will be open to student musicians interested in becoming members. The university orchestra will be under the direction of Prof. Frank Estes Kendrie; the university band will be directed by Dr. O. E. Van Doren; and the university chorus and symphonic choir will be under the direction of Herald I. Stark.

Students May Tryout

Students interested in trying out for these organizations may apply to the directors in their offices in music studio building, Professor Clapp said.

Tentative plans call for the presentation of three public concerts by the orchestra, Professor Kendrie announced. The first will include the presentation of a symphony from the classical period, the second will present a symphony of the romantic or modern period, and the third will include a symphony by a contemporary American composer.

Work by Thatcher

A work by Harry Thatcher of the University of Iowa music department is under consideration for the third concert.

The orchestra will unite with the chorus to produce a choral work by Professor Clapp, entitled "A Chant of Darkness," according to present plans.

Mr. Stark will direct the chorus, which will consist of between 100 and 150 voices and which is open to all university students. The symphonic choir will consist of 48 selected voices.

Public Concerts

Public concerts by the chorus, the symphonic choir, and the university band are being planned for the coming year.

A committee headed by Prof. Charles Boardman Righter of the music department is now arranging for a series of concerts by famous musicians to be presented this year. Admission to the concerts will be by subscription.

Preliminary reports indicate that the music department will have a greatly increased enrollment this year. Additional practice space has been arranged for at 404 Iowa avenue to take care of the expected large number of students.

Two New Assistants

Two new graduate assistants have been appointed to aid in music instruction. They are Hugh Murray Baylor of What Cheer, who received a bachelor's degree in music here last spring, and Vivien Kuhl of Dav- enport, who was awarded a master's degree in music at the June commencement.

If enrollment meets with expectations, several other assistants may be appointed to aid in instruction.

Concertmaster Contest

The annual competition for the concertmastership of the university orchestra has been scheduled for tomorrow at 7:30 p.m. in room 110 music studio building.

Selection of a musician for this position will be made by Professor Clapp, Professor Kendrie, and Professor Righter. The concertmaster scholarship includes free tuition in violin for the coming year. Students interested may apply for permission to compete in the tryouts.

Iowa City's Airport Ranks Among Finest

One of Iowa City's outstanding points of interest to the student is the municipal airport on the paved highway south of the city. Here the fleet planes, carrying mail and passengers for the United Airlines, stop on their way from New York to San Francisco.

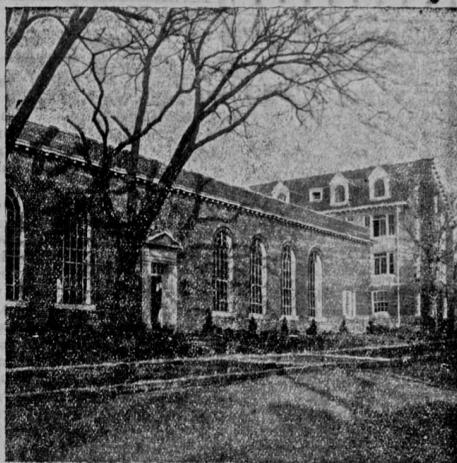

The first airfield in Iowa was built in Iowa City more than 13 years ago and it has been in constant service as Iowa City's station for the cross country lines. At first the mail was carried by old army planes, but now six planes a day regularly pass through the local port.

The planes, carrying 14 or more passengers or more than a ton of mail, fly nearly 175 miles per hour and are powered by 875 horsepower engines. The 193 acre field is now owned by the city, and with the $50,000 hanger erected by the Boeing company, the crushed rock landing strips, new lights and drainage systems, Iowa City has one of the finest fields of its kind in the middle west.

To Extend Air Service

WASHINGTON, (AP)—Extension of the airfield service to the Hawaiian Islands, and the addition of five new stops and 12 round trips on routes already established were announced today by the post office department. The new continental service, it was said, will increase mileage flown from 27,806,937 to 33,224,081.

17 Cases Submitted For September Term Iowa Supreme Court

DES MOINES, Sept. 18 (AP)—Seventeen cases were submitted to the Iowa supreme court at the opening of the September term today.

Ten of the cases were submitted orally. Among the 17 submitted was the appeal of Woodbury county in the ouster suit brought against F.

Price Smith, Woodbury county treasurer. The Woodbury county appeal was taken from the decision of the lower court which reinstated Smith to office after he had been suspended by the county board of supervisors. The county was ordered to pay the costs of the case.

County Attorney M. E. Duckworth of Woodbury county, represented the county in the appeal. George Yeaman and George Gorder argued the case for Smith.

Bilbo Wins 'Sippi Race

JACKSON, Miss. (AP)—Approximately 200,000 votes counted from Tuesday's Democratic runoff primary elevated former Governor Theodore G. Bilbo from a political slump into the United States senate.

County Attorney M. E. Duckworth and sent his opponent, Senator Hubert D. Stephens, into private life. The nomination is equivalent to election.

Iowa Students Find Varied Amusements, Sports in City

Athletics, Social Events Occupy Share Of Attention

Diversified indoor and outdoor entertainment and recreation for University of Iowa students will be many and varied this fall.

Picnicking, canoeing, and football promise to be the main outdoor attractions. As the weather becomes cooler with the approach of autumn, football will be predominant for young and old alike. This is indicated by the heavy advance demand for tickets for the three home games of this year's season.

For indoor entertainment, dancing, card parties, fraternity, and sporting social affairs, university parties, and the four local theaters will engage a share of the student's time.

Picnic Spots Abound
Iowa City and the nearby territory offers many facilities for fall pastimes. Picnic retreats may be found in the woods and hills close to the city. The city park is also a popular rendezvous for the lovers of the open spaces.

Situated in the park are tables and stoves for picnics and "hot-dog" roasts. Dancing at the park pavilion, which has been going on all summer, will be discontinued with the approach of colder weather.

Fourteen miles northeast of Iowa City is the newly dedicated Lake Macbride State park which is rapidly approaching completion.

Artificial Lake
Created through the efforts of the Iowa City Chamber of Commerce, the park covers many acres of wooded territory and will include a lake with eight miles of shoreline. Work on the dam, which is being constructed at the lower end of the valley through which Mill creek flows will be completed about Oct.

THIS may be necessary—

but this is NOT!

Beggars can't be choosers, but respectable folks can—and how many of them would choose a glass that has been on as intimate terms with as many people as the old "tincup" that used to hang on the pump?
Even if Vortex Cups were expensive you would want them—but... pish! tush!... their cost is insignificant. We loan you the beautiful gleaming dispenser, and you simply pay the low cost of the cups. Note that you can have either the cone shaped Vortex Cup or the flat-bottom Trophy. Get in touch with our distributor in your city.

VORTEX CUP CO.

Take your choice
VORTEX CONE SHAPED CUPS OR TROPHY FLAT BOTTOM CUPS
The cone-shaped Vortex is the world's most popular cup—and it is also the least expensive. The flat-bottom Trophy costs a little more and many people say "The flat-bottom is not used because a paper cup is simply flat, and it flows away—so why pay for the flat bottom?" We leave the decision to you—take your choice.

1. The water is being backed up to some extent already in order to show visitors what the lake will be like when the project is finished.
The lake bottom has been cleared and with the completion of the dam will be filled with water by winter, when it will be stocked with legal game fish from the state hatchery. Many Iowa Citizens and persons from Cedar Rapids have already built cottages at the lake site.
Another picnic spot frequented by many Iowa Citizens and students during the fall is the Cedar Valley quarry, near West Branch. Other picnic grounds that are extensively used are found in the hills which rise out of Cedar Valley.

Canoeing Favorite
Canoeing, which finds special favor with students during hot weather, is popular with students during the early part of the fall. Some canoeists combine picnicking with paddling and take lunches to the island near the city park or along the banks of the river on the way to Coralville.

Golf and tennis have been underway during the summer months and will continue to keep pace with other fall sports and recreations until late in the season.

Indoor Activities
Opening the social activities of the season will be open house Saturday night at Iowa Union. This all-university affair will be followed by other social events later.

Bridge players may find their haven at Iowa Union, with cards available at the information desk in the front lobby.

Those who are athletically inclined will not be disappointed. There are two golf courses in Iowa City, Iowa City Country club and Finkbine field; three swimming pools, women's gymnasium, field house, and the city park; and numerous tennis courts at the field house, library annex, and Iowa City high school.

With the university and four high schools in the city there are enough football, basketball and baseball games to satisfy any fan. And, of course, there are track meets, tennis tournaments, swimming meets, and even ping pong tournaments.

Worthy Competition Awaits Trapshooters

Students interested in trapshooting will find competition worthy of their best efforts at the Sunday shoots at the Iowa City Gun club south of the city near the airport.

The local Elks club has held the national Elks trapshooting championship for the last two years and members of the team are rated among the best clay pigeon breakers in the country.

Students in Social Service Get Training

Social service majors in the University of Iowa are given an opportunity to gain practical training in connection with their courses through the cooperation of the Iowa City Social Service League.

The league, which is in charge of the city's needy and unfortunate, gives the students actual experience in social case work.

From the Postmaster

"It is the desire of the post office department to cooperate at all times with the faculty and students of the university. May we at this time particularly call your attention to the mailing of parcel post or fourth class packages to and from your homes. Your laundry bags and other packages should contain only articles that may properly come under fourth class. Notes or letters inside the packages make it first class and postage due must be assessed accordingly.

"If at any time you have problems in connection with the postal service feel free to call upon any one connected with the department. We assure you fair and courteous treatment. For your convenience we give below some schedules which may be helpful:

General delivery and stamp windows open at 8 a.m. and close at 6:30 p.m. except Saturdays when they close at 1:30 p.m.

Money order window open at 9 a.m. and closes at 5 p.m.

Register window opens at 8 a.m. and closes at 5 p.m.

All windows close at 1:30 p.m. on Saturdays."

Postmaster
CHARLES A. BOWMAN

From the Chamber of Commerce

"It is always with the friendliest of feeling that those of us who are year-round residents of Iowa City welcome you back in the fall.

"The merchants of Iowa City, together with the service clubs, the city government, and other social and civic organizations, welcome you to take your part in the life of this city during the coming year.

"Ours is a university community, as inseparable from the atmosphere of young endeavor as are yourselves from the older influence of settled lives. The interest and the vigor which you bring with you each fall are invaluable in keeping the temper of this community always fresh and youthful.

"In the hope that together we shall be able to move forward as in the past to accomplishments of great value, I wish to extend to you this greeting in behalf of the Iowa City Chamber of Commerce."

CHARLES A. BECKMAN
Chamber of Commerce
President

Plan for Smoother R. E. Tracks
CHICAGO, (AP)—Construction programs which will straighten and smooth out railway tracks to make sustained speeds of 100 miles an hour possible are under way by half a dozen railroads, Elmer T. Howson, editor of Railway Age, said today.

Walmesley Starts Cleanup
NEW ORLEANS, (AP)—Mayor T. Semmes Walmesley, aroused by Huey P. Long's charges of vice and gambling in New Orleans, apparently set out today to clean up the city.

From the Mayor

"The administration of the municipal government of Iowa City takes especial pleasure and satisfaction in welcoming to our midst the student body of the State University of Iowa at this time.

"A reaction of genuine pleasure and delight is experienced by our people through again being privileged to enjoy the happy and colorful scene of aspiring youth, beauty and chivalry so predominately with us.

"An earnest desire and ambition prevails that our hospitality may prove acceptable and gratifying to you; that assurance of the interest and concernment in your welfare and well-being is of great importance to our community.

"We are deeply sensible of the ascendancy and responsibility of having such an outstanding educational institution as the State University of Iowa located within our confines. We aspire to do our part in perpetuating the noble and exalted traditions of the institution.

HARRY D. BREENE
Mayor of Iowa City

Police Chief Gives Advice To Student Automobilitists

Rules for student drivers were issued yesterday by Police Chief W. H. Bender. His statement is as follows:

"I hereby welcome the students, who are attending the University of Iowa, to Iowa City. We have experienced in the past a group of students who have proved to be of very high standards and law abiding.

"However, realizing that these students are from various parts of the country and from cities and towns where the city ordinances may differ from those in Iowa City and to familiarize them with our ordinances, I will attempt to give them a synopsis of the same.

"1. Parking of cars on public streets and in public alleys all night is prohibited.

"2. Parking of cars with left wheel to the curb in all parts of Iowa City is prohibited.

headlights and a tail light is prohibited.

"4. Operating cars without a driver's license in the driver's possession is prohibited.

"5. Entering an arterial highway without coming to a full stop at all times is prohibited.

"6. Riding on running boards and fenders and overloading is prohibited.

"7. Following fire apparatus at a closer distance than 300 feet is prohibited.

"8. I wish to emphasize and call attention to the speed laws in the limits of Iowa City, which are 25 miles per hour in residential districts and 15 miles per hour in business districts.

"Yours as a Public Servant"

SCENES IN UNIVERSITY CITY

A favorite picnic spot near Iowa City, where university students often go with a bit of lunch for an afternoon outing in the spring or early autumn.

The Iowa Avenue bridge and the wooded bluffs on the west bank of Iowa river, one of Iowa City's most beautiful scenic spots.

ness of trees and thick underbrush. Work progressed rapidly and on Dec. 16, 1841, the territorial legislature convened here for the first time. At this time communication with the outer world began to be considered seriously and a post office was established with a weekly mail from Muscatine. Before this any traveler who happened to be coming this way was handed the Iowa City mail to deliver if he thought of it.
By 1869, Iowa City had grown from a clearing in the underbrush to a city of 6,583 inhabitants. After the state capital was moved to Des Moines and the university established here, the progress of Iowa City became the progress of the university. At one time the city was the center of considerable industrial activity with factories for lightning rods, pickles, chairs, canning and brewing and with paper, flour, and woolen mills, but the smoke and soot of industrialism were abandoned and Iowa City became a university town.
That is the brief history of Iowa City up to the present day when the city has 15,343 inhabitants, not including students, which would make the population about 20,000. The city covers an area of approximately five and one-eighth square miles and has about 70 miles of paving.

Unfinished Business— Three Matters Await Action by Council This Fall

Three Iowa City projects, largely developed during summer months, will come up for consideration by the city council this fall.

First of these to receive attention is the proposed municipal light and power plant, for which the PWA has already made a loan and grant. Iowa City voters expressed their approval of the project in a municipal ballot early this year, but a city council bloc has defied efforts to make the plant a reality. Immediate action has been asked by the PWA, however, and final word on the matter is expected from the council soon.

Sewage Plant
A sewage disposal plant is much closer to realization. Council members have voted unanimously in favor of the project, and a PWA loan and grant has been obtained. The state board of education has been asked to pay 40 per cent of the cost, since the University of Iowa will use the sewage disposal facilities, and actual construction will probably start after the board answers the petition.

Natural Gas
The third issue to come before Iowa Citizens this fall concerns natural gas. At the present time, the gas company has no franchise, but it hopes to get one by promising natural gas. A city council committee is investigating the fuel at present, and will doubtless advise the city to accept the gas company's proposal.

NEW BEDFORD, Mass., (AP)—In an effort to boost attendance, the New Bedford team of the Northeastern league staged a wrestling show before starting to play in tournaments.

FOREST HILLS, L. I., (AP)—Frankie Parker, America's juvenile tennis hope, was a ball boy in the courts before starting to play in tournaments.

The Churches of Iowa City Welcome You to Their Services

The various churches and their pastors take this opportunity to welcome both new and old students to Iowa City. In order that they may become acquainted with the location of their respective denominations, the churches list below the names of their pastors and the location of their church. Become acquainted early.

An increasing number of people today find themselves unable to accept any of the established religions. They cannot accede to the various doctrinal items which they are told it is incumbent upon believers to accept, and the close identification of religion with the supernatural has alienated them. They find themselves involved with the business of living, and beyond their lives are no "threats of hell and hopes of Paradise."

Law Commons, Fine Arts Building Lead Program Of Permanent S.U.I. Expansion

Legal Students To Move Into New Quarters, First of Construction Projects To Be Completed Here

When University of Iowa law students move into their new home, the Law Commons, this week, that will mark the completion of the first of a group of building projects forming a long range and ambitious program of university expansion.

Although individual units in the building program had been planned for years, the program as a whole was first presented a little more than a year ago, when the state board of education applied to the federal Public Works administration for loans and grants to enable it to carry out its plan.

Several Projects

The application listed plans for the Law Commons, a fine arts building and theater, a service bridge across Iowa river, and the building of a levee along the banks of Iowa river.

The Law Commons will provide facilities for about 150 men. In addition to its function as a dormitory, it will serve as a self contained unit for the law college. In it will be dining halls, club rooms, library, and study rooms.

Part of a plan to make the college a complete unit on the west campus, one of the major purposes of the building is to lend cohesion to the work of law students.

Ready for Occupancy

Although workmen still must smooth out the "rough edges," the building is now ready for occupancy. It is expected that dining service will be available there early next week.

All law students, except married students and those living with their families in Iowa City, are expected to establish residence in the Commons. Excuses from this requirement will be granted for financial reasons, however, upon application to officials of the college of law.

The second unit on the west campus, already rapidly nearing completion, is the fine arts building, just across the river from Iowa Union. It is expected that this building will be ready for occupancy within the next few months.

House All Facilities

The fine arts building will house all the facilities of the university in graphic and plastic arts, now scattered in various buildings about the campus.

It will provide classroom space, offices, and studios. A spacious lounge will be used to exhibit the permanent art collection of the university.

Work on the fine arts building began June 3, when university officials attended ceremonies marking the laying of the cornerstone, as part of Commencement week program.

Iowa River Levee

Work on the levee along Iowa river was begun last winter with funds supplied by the Civil Workers. This project is by no means complete, however, and it is expected that the work will require many more months. Thus far, workmen have been engaged in building a toe-protection wall, to prevent erosion of the levee.

The service bridge across the river from Iowa Union to the fine arts building will carry power and service lines to the fine arts building and Law Commons. In addition, a footbridge will be provided to make the new buildings easily accessible.

Ready in Month

Strikes in eastern steel mills have prevented the completion of the bridge, because the steel necessary in its construction has been held up. The steel has now been delivered, however, and it is expected that the bridge will be ready for use within the next month.

Last of the projects, a new building for University theater, has been promised for several months. Delays in the completion of the plans has prevented the letting of contracts for its construction.

Revisions Necessary

Officials have been engaged in revising the plans to meet last minute conditions. They expect to have the plans ready for the opening of bids shortly, and work will get underway in time to have the theater ready by late spring, they hope.

When it is completed, the new theater will be one of the best equipped theaters in the United States. The stage has been planned to provide fully for the latest type of scene shifting equipment and workshops will be provided to give students complete training in theater technical work.

Many Other Projects

Many other minor projects have been underway or will be started soon. Remodeling of the Quadrangle and of psychopathic hospital was completed last year with federal funds. Repair of the field house roof, installation of a new ventilating system in Iowa Union, addition of another story to University high school building, and beautification of Iowa river and the west approach to the Union are the leading projects still to be completed.

University Debaters to Take Part in International, Radio, Western Conference Contests

Students to Try For Places on Iowa Squads

Complete plans for university debating and oratorical contests were announced yesterday by Prof. A. Craig Baird, director of university debate.

Plans include a debate with a British university, a national radio debate with an eastern college, Western conference contests for both men and women, an intercollegiate tournament and "congressional session," and numerous contests with various colleges and universities, not yet scheduled.

In addition, a program has been worked out for freshmen interested in forensics, and the third annual all-campus debate tournament is being planned.

The forensics season will formally open with a meeting for prospective debaters in the river room of Iowa Union Oct. 3. John Harrison of Oakland, president of Delta Sigma Rho, will preside, and speakers will explain the scope of the Iowa program.

The international debate, with Iowa competing against a university selected by the National Union of Students of England, will open the season's contests. This debate will be the eleventh annual international contest.

In the Western conference scheduled Iowa will debate the University of Minnesota here and the University of Wisconsin at Madison, Wis., Dec. 13. The question will concern federal support of public schools.

In March Iowa speakers will go to Evanston, Ill., to participate in the second annual Western conference tournament at Northwestern university. Last year Iowa lost only one contest at this tournament, tying with Northwestern for first rank.

Iowa women will debate the University of Minnesota at Minneapolis, Minn., and the University of Wisconsin here next Feb. 21. Several other debates will be scheduled for women's teams, Professor Baird said.

Plans are now being made for the first model congressional session here. Universities invited to participate will send representatives here to discuss questions of national political and social importance.

All students who have not previously engaged in intercollegiate debate are eligible to enter the all-campus debate tournament. A cash prize of $10 will be awarded the winning team of debaters.

In January university debaters will engage in an east-west radio contest against Bates college of Lewiston, Me. The debate will be broadcast over a nationwide chain.

Orators will have an opportunity to engage in the Jessup oratorical prize contest next spring, presenting original speeches for a $25 prize. The winner of this contest will compete in the contest of the Northern Oratorical league for the Frank O. Lowndes prizes of $100 and $50.

All students interested in debate may attend the opening meeting or apply to Professor Baird in room 11 Schaeffer hall.

"Yellow Jack" by Sidney Howard Will Open Season For Theater in November

Mable Announces Plan Of Local Group For Year

Dates for the presentation of the community series of plays by University theater were announced yesterday by Prof. E. C. Mable, director of the theater and head of the speech and dramatic art department.

The first play in the series will be "Yellow Jack," by Sidney Howard, to be presented Nov. 14 and 15 at evening performances and Nov. 17 at a matinee performance.

Three Other Plays

Three other plays have already been scheduled. They are "The Joyous Season," by Philip Barry, to be given Dec. 12, 13, and 15; "Alison's House," by Susan Glaspell, scheduled for Jan. 16, 17, and 19; and "Three-Cornered Moon," by Gertrude Tonkonogy, Feb. 20, 21, and 23.

Two dates remain open in the community series, which will consist of six plays. Plays for these dates are now under consideration, and will be announced soon, Professor Mable said.

The theater will operate under a new price plan this year. A season ticket, priced at $3, will admit persons to all six of the productions. Single admissions will be 75 cents, and all seats will be reserved. Story of Science

"Yellow Jack," which had a long run on Broadway last season, was written by Mr. Howard in collaboration with Paul De Kruif. It is based on the "Walter Reed" chapter of De Kruif's book of medical adventure, "Microbe Hunters."

The play deals with the struggle of medical science to conquer the deadly yellow fever of the tropics, in West Africa and Cuba. Howard is also the author of the current hit, "Dodson," and of "The Late Christopher Bean," produced here last year. He visited the Iowa campus about 18 months ago.

Successful Play

"Alison's House" was the Pulitzer prize winning play for 1930-31. First produced by Eva LeGallienne at the Civic Repertory theater in New York city, it has had considerable success throughout the country.

"The Joyous Season" is a study of character and faith. A new play—it was first produced last year—it presents a serious undercurrent through brilliant surface comedy. "Three-Cornered Moon" is a hilarious farce of two seasons ago.

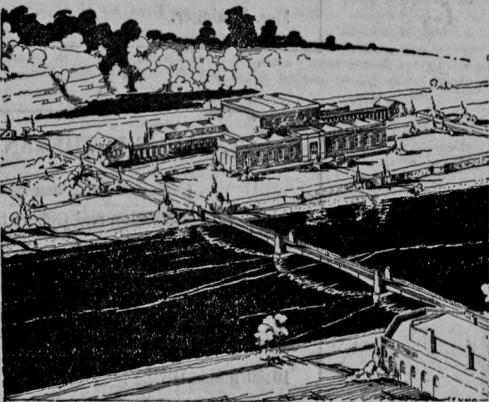

In addition to the community series, the theater will also work on an experimental series of new scripts by young playwrights. This series, carried on as a class project, will not be open to the public.
