GILMORE MAKES FREEDOM PLEA

Hawkeyes Leave for Northwestern Game Today

AS TIGERS EVENED SERIES WITH CARDS

The Detroit Tigers, coming from behind to tie the score in the ninth inning of yesterday's world series game with St. Louis, went on to gain a 3 to 2 12 inning victory and even the standing for the series behind the superb pitching of their 22 year old star, Lynwood (Schoolboy) Rowe. The above picture shows Goose Goslin as he singled to score Charley Gehring with the winning run in the twelfth. For complete details of yesterday's struggle, see page 6.

Solem Takes Squad of 34 To Evanston

Hundreds of Iowa Fans Will Follow Old Gold Eleven

Coach Ossie Solem and 34 University of Iowa gridders leave Iowa City this morning at 7:30 o'clock for Evanston, Ill., where the Hawks will attempt to snare and skin the Wildcats tomorrow.

With the team will go the hopes and backing of hosts of Iowa fans. Hundreds will follow today, tonight and tomorrow to personally view the battle certain to be staged in the 1934 Big Ten opener for both schools and the curtain raiser for the Old Gold's thirty-fifth Western conference campaign.

Receive Final Instruction

Yesterday afternoon on old Iowa field the Hawkeyes received final home instruction in checking Northwestern passing and land offenses. The squad ran through a few play formations of its own and called it a day.

How the home guard will fare at Evanston is problematical, as the Wildcats uncorked a brilliant passing game to down a powerful Marquette crew last Saturday, 21 to 12, while the Hawks were having little more than a field day against South Dakota yesterday.

Wildcats Seek Revenge

A year has passed since the Iowa boys pinned back the respective ears of the Wildcats in that 7 to 9 rout on Soldier field. It has been a long year and if memory serves well, the Northwestern athletes will be out to do battle with all claws sharpened.

As to the personnel of the Iowa squad, the injured list has subsided since the first of the week. Jerry Foster's injured leg has responded to treatment. Corney Walker is in shape after being bothered by a bruised hip for two weeks. Only Clarence Dee, sophomore guard, who suffered a torn ligament in the Coyote game last Saturday, has not recovered sufficiently to start the game.

To Workout at Evanston

The contingent of Iowans will board two Pullmans at the interurban depot on Front street for the trip to Cedar Rapids, where the Pullmans will be switched to the Northwestern line. Arriving at Evanston at 2:30 o'clock, the Hawks will have time for a workout in Dyche stadium this afternoon.

Following is the squad list: Ends—Bernie Page, John Englund, Corney Walker, Frank Jakoubek, John Lindenmeyer, and Don Simmons.

Tackles—Jerry Foster, Fred Radloff, Lloyd Hoffman, Rudy Leytze, Jim Kelly and Marvin McAllister. Guards—Jack Gallagher, Gail Lundberg, Clarence Dee, Bill Seel, Marvin Kuhn and Floyd McDowell. Centers—Oed Osmaloski, Jack Shea, Harold Weber and Merrill Robb.

Backs—Capt. Russ Fisher, Sheldon Gordinier, Lawrence Halton, Dwight Hoover, John Hill, Bob Moore, Joe Richards, Herman Schneidman, Oze Simmons, George Teyro and Bill Ash.

Jessup Praises Experiments In Educational Individualism

By MARIE HENTZ

Education must replace standardized methods with individual freedom, President Walter A. Jessup of the Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching said in an address at the inauguration convocation for President Eugene A. Gilmore yesterday at the field house.

Charging that certain agencies had fostered standardization, President Jessup asserted that the resulting uniformity must give way to greater liberty of thought among college students.

Experimental projects are being conducted by almost every college in the country to break down the mechanical standards of education.

"Among the older institutions," President Jessup said, "Harvard has led the way with her experimental emphasis on tutorial instruction and the comprehensive examination leading up to the program that is being put into practice this year in Cambridge wherein students of the upper classes are allowed to attend classes when and if they please.

"In the middle west, the University of Chicago and the University of Minnesota are experimenting with drastic reorganization and simplification of material accompanied by a new emphasis upon comprehensive examinations."

Other institutions that he cited as leading in experimental projects were Swarthmore, Southwestern, University of Iowa, and Columbia.

"Colleges," said President Jessup, whom President Gilmore succeeds, "in their mood of the moment are striving for new ways of permitting each individual student to move forward at his own rate, determined by his capacity, toward a degree that will be secured not by titling the academic mint and anise of hours of credit, but by demonstrating his own mastery of the essential things."

Traces Growth

In colleges realizing "there may be rich opportunities for progress through a policy of giving the individual" greater freedom for development, "official recognition will be given to the fact that human personality does not unfold according to rigid pattern or standardized mould."

President Jessup traced the rapid growth of colleges, their extensive building programs, and expanded courses. There are more than 1,400 colleges in America today, he said. In the period of rapid expansion most institutions found it impossible to escape the mechanical adaptations of the moment. Now, he pointed out, it is necessary for schools to abandon the standardized methods and to stress individual variation in amount and rate of instruction.

Expresses Appreciation

President Jessup concluded by expressing his appreciation for his own opportunity of working in the University of Iowa, "dominated as it has been by sympathy and cooperation not only of our own university family, but our sister institutions—Ames and Cedar Falls."

New Iowa President Gives Response to Baker's 'Charge' Of Installation Before 5,000

Iowa Honors 3 Former Presidents

Pleads for Education Free From Political Entanglements

For the first time in six years, the University of Iowa yesterday conferred honorary degrees, in tribute to the work of three former presidents.

The degree of doctor of letters was granted to Chancellor John G. Bowman of the University of Pittsburgh, George E. MacLean of Washington, D. C., and President Walter A. Jessup of the Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching.

Conferred by President Eugene A. Gilmore, following his formal installation in the field house yesterday morning, the degrees are the first honorary awards made by the university since 1928, when a degree of LL.D. was conferred upon the late President Emeritus Thomas H. Macbride.

Baker Presents Bowman

Chancellor Bowman was presented by George T. Baker, president of the state board of education. In conferring the degree upon Chancellor Bowman, who served as president of the University of Iowa from 1911 to 1914, President Gilmore said:

"In recognition of the power of your originality, the potency of your ideals, and the courageous spirit of your daring adventures in higher education as evidenced by your achievements as secretary of the Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching, as president of the State University of Iowa, as director of the College of Surgeons, as trustee of the national board of medical examiners, as chancellor of the University of Pittsburgh, and as builder of the Cathedral of Learning, I confer upon you the degree of doctor of letters."

Lowden Presents Jessup

Former Gov. Frank O. Lowden of Illinois, an alumnus of Iowa, presented President Emeritus Jessup, whom President Gilmore succeeds in office. The Iowa president's citation was:

"In recognition of your forceful leadership in national movements for the betterment of education in the sciences, arts, and professions, and in appreciation of the fine sense of proportion in the progressive emancipation of the intellectual, aesthetic, and spiritual values of higher education, as well as in the phenomenal expansion of the campus during the long years of your administration as president of the State University of Iowa, I confer upon you the degree of doctor of letters."

Former President MacLean was unable to attend the inaugural ceremonies because of illness. The degree was conferred in absentia, following presentation by Dean Carl Seshore of the graduate college. President Gilmore's citation was:

"In recognition of his achievements as secretary of the Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching, as president of the State University of Iowa, as director of the College of Surgeons, as trustee of the national board of medical examiners, as chancellor of the University of Pittsburgh, and as builder of the Cathedral of Learning, I confer upon you the degree of doctor of letters."

Three Die in Outbreaks; New Spanish Government Protested

Vicious Fire Of Soldiers Repels Attacks

General Strike Is Called; Rightists Fight to Survive

MADRID, Oct. 4.—Revolutionary outbreaks in which at least three were killed tonight came on the heels of a general strike which is challenging the authority of the new Spanish government.

Strikers stormed the Montana barracks, and were repulsed by vicious fire from soldiers of the republic.

In the Prosperidad district on the outskirts of the city strikers barricaded in a building exchanged hundreds of shots with a detachment of assault guards. Here also the demonstrators were defeated, and about 200 were arrested.

Meanwhile the rightist government of Alejandro Lerroux, only a few hours old, was making a desperate fight for survival.

It was understood that the new president, conferring while the bloody clashes were taking place in the streets of the city, had drawn up a decree of martial law. It was ready for instant promulgation, it was said in quarters close to the ministry.

"The situation is extraordinarily serious," said Diego Hidalgo, minister of war.

Liquor Store Opening Set

Wednesday Named By Commission; To Select Manager

The opening date for Iowa City's liquor store at 215 E. Washington street has been set for Wednesday by the state liquor commission, according to the Associated Press.

Hauptmann's Counsel Will Ask for Delay

Fawcett Declares Efforts to Extradite Will Be Resisted

NEW YORK, Oct. 4 (AP)—Delay in the trial of Bruno Hauptmann, indicted for extorting $50,000 ransom fruitlessly paid by Col. Charles A. Lingbergh for his first-born's return, will be asked by his counsel, James M. Fawcett. The attorney declared today he would resist any attempts to extradite the alien convict for trial on the baby's abduction and death.

His statement followed disclosure by District Attorney Samuel Foley of the Bronx that Hauptmann had in his possession maps of pertinent areas in the abduction.

Foley said Hauptmann had portrayed from memory minute details of these maps.

"We absolutely will resist," Fawcett said, "any effort the state of New Jersey may make to extradite this defendant.

"There has been such a mass of detail to be sifted that in the short time at our disposal it is difficult to prepare for trial. We are seeking to delay the case only in the interest of justice."

The trial is docketed for next Thursday.

Foley said the maps were found in a trunk at the Hauptmann home. Nine English-German dictionaries also were found.

RFC Plans To Pay for Banks

WASHINGTON, Oct. 4 (AP)—The Reconstruction corporation expects to advance about $6,000,000 to pay off depositors in about 400 small national banks now in the hands of receivers.

James Jones, corporation chairman, told newspapermen today plans were nearly complete to lend that amount on the assets of the banks upon application by the banks.

The assets then are to be turned over to depositors' committees, for sale at the best possible figure. Any amount over the RFC loans may be used for additional payments to depositors.

R.P. Jones to Run As Independent For Board of Supervisors

R. P. Jones of Oxford will run on an independent ticket in the election next month for the four year term of the county board of supervisors it was announced last night.

Mr. Jones, who was defeated by C. W. LaCina for the Democratic nomination by a narrow margin of three votes in the June primaries, took his papers out last Saturday and returned them to the county auditor's office yesterday with 471 signatures.

"I was asked to enter the race by my friends near Oxford," Mr. Jones said, "because the western section of the county has no candidates for the board among those nominated."

Mr. Jones, who is at present a member of the board, will face Mr. LaCina on the Democratic ticket and W. A. Meardon, Republican, in the election next month.

Bowman Defends Educational Expenditures Before Meeting

Educators To See Exhibits of Versatility

State educators attending the supervision conference here will see a remarkable display of versatility in the exhibition room of the elementary grades at the University experimental schools today.

Every class from pre-primary to seventh grade is exhibiting work which ranges from a pictorialization of the earth's history to hand made furniture.

The furniture, completely furnishing a small room, is the pre-primary grades' contribution. Green painted chairs upholstered in chintz, lavender bed boasting a quilt, dining table with a bright lunch cloth, and even a sink made of a large cake pan show the children's originality and labor in fashioning "our room."

Bookbinding, picture maps with everything from pony express to Zeppelins to show transportation growth in the United States, silk worms, pictures and story of Triassic, Cretaceous and other geologic ages, petroleum trees, crop studies, history of writing, Latin-American medicines, and an Indian village are only a few of the interesting things one may see.

Pioneer life is shown in every aspect of pictures and articles. Spinning wheel, hand loom, and a variety of food, among which is "apple leather," contrast that period with this.

All objects exhibited were planned and made by members of the grades as projects last year, and have been gathered together for the first time in this exhibition, Maude McBroom, principal, said.

United States Opens Action Against Insull, Associates

CHICAGO, Oct. 4 (AP)—From the books and records of some 75 corporations, the United States today began assembling proof in support of its claim that Samuel Insull's "Corporation Securities Company of Chicago" was only a weapon with which to take $100,000,000 from investors.

First witnesses were the office managers of New York and Chicago brokerage houses, the first of 75 or more who will be asked to identify records in the case. Defense attorneys questioned them at such length that only five could be heard, indicating that it may take a week to cover this preliminary testimony.

From the records, once they are identified, the prosecutors will attempt to show deals by which Insull and the others pushed assertedly the

Edwards Refuses To Break Down; Asserts Accident Killed Girl

WILES-BARRE, Pa., Oct. 4 (AP)—A searching cross-examination tonight failed to shake Robert Allen Edwards' story that Freda McKee, his sweetheart, was killed accidentally and not slain like the girl in "an American tragedy."

She fell against a boat during a midnight swim he testified today, and he hit her on the head with a blackjack because "I thought if there were some marks on her I would not be likely to be blamed."

"There is a real difference," he pointed out, "between a state university and a university state. The

"Should Train Men"

"While the university must function with due regard to the prevailing social philosophy of the day and should train men for leadership, it can not, without endangering its larger usefulness, assume direct responsibility for social reform and reconstruction," the new president warned.

"It should not become an instrument of indoctrination and propaganda."

"The notion has been expressed, and it has been disastrously tried in some jurisdictions, that a state university, operating through the members of its staff, should be an agency for the direct accomplishment of all kinds of government objects, many worthy, but as often partisan."

"May Be Difficult"

"It may be difficult to draw the line between research and the application of its results in the promotion of state activities, but it is a line which, if not drawn, will eventually lead to the impairment, if not the loss, of the university's freedom."

"There is a real difference," he pointed out, "between a state university and a university state. The

State Reemployment Director Tells Rotary Club of Service

"The national reemployment service is a non-partisan branch of government entirely separate from the federal relief administration," Hans C. Prind of Des Moines, state director, told members of the Iowa City Rotary club at a luncheon yesterday.

"The sole aim of the service, established under the department of labor last year, is to put men to work on jobs they enjoy doing," he said. "By doing so, we hope to run the relief agencies out of business," he declared.

"In every community where offices have been established," Mr. Prind said, "there are three groups which attempt to gain control of the service.

"Politicians attempt to force officials to give jobs only to party members." The other two are employers' groups and labor unions which are constantly trying to make the office a tool for their own ends, Mr. Prind said.

"Workers must realize that the service is a confidential government office and is striving to help them in every possible manner," Mr. Prind declared. To make the service a success, he said, the worker must be absolutely frank in giving his work history in order to find his correct position.

Plans for a permanent organization which would furnish vocational guidance to young and old, were advanced by the speaker. More than 50 per cent of the workers of this country are in the wrong jobs, Mr. Prind pointed out.

The statistical set up of district offices in the state was explained by the speaker. A daily report is filed in Des Moines by every county office and these figures are sent to Washington, D. C., where the president, within a week, may have a complete picture of the employment situation for the entire country.

Attorney Martin's opinion, filed Tuesday with the city clerk, recommends that the council may sign the PWA loan and grant contract for a municipal light plant in Iowa City, if it indicates a willingness to approve the project.

Mr. Pearson petitioned the council to build a gas station on Riverside drive in violation of the city zoning ordinance. The matter referred to the planning commission and its decision will be announced tonight.

the Wellman Process does this —

...it makes the tobacco act right in a pipe — burn slower and smoke cooler

In the manufacture of Granger Rough Cut Pipe Tobacco the Wellman Process is used.

The Wellman Process is different from any other process or method and we believe it gives more enjoyment to pipe smokers.

- ...it gives the tobacco an extra flavor and aroma
- ...it makes the tobacco act right in a pipe—burn slower and smoke cooler
- ...it makes the tobacco milder
- ...it leaves a clean dry ash — no soggy residue or beel in the pipe bowl

A Good Suggestion, Mr. Bowman

JOHN G. BOWMAN, president of the University of Pittsburgh and former head of the University of Iowa, made a suggestion yesterday at the inauguration luncheon which seems eminently worthy of consideration by university officials.

He proposed to President Eugene A. Gilmore that the university confer an honorary doctor's degree upon George T. Baker, president of the state board of education.

Surely no one, from the standpoint of service in the cause of education, could be more deserving of such an honor than Mr. Baker, who has been a member of the board since its formation in 1909.

For a quarter of a century he has played a vital part in the development of an educational system that today is surpassed nowhere in a nation which justly boasts the best educational system in the world.

Since he became president of the board his vision has been largely responsible for the development of the University of Iowa into the institution that exists today.

Honorary degrees, it is true, are sometimes considered empty honors. But when they are conferred only rarely and to those whose contribution is unquestioned—as has been the custom at the University of Iowa—they become a very real honor. It is that kind of honor which Mr. Baker's long and untiring service demands.

Is It the Dawn For Transportation?

AFTER years of indecision and inaction, it seems possible that a constructive legislative program for the railroads will be presented to the next congress.

Joseph B. Eastman, federal coordinator of transportation, already has completed a tentative program for such legislation and has placed it in the hands of various government officials for their study.

It will be remembered that in an earlier report, Mr. Eastman expressed the belief that eventually federal ownership and operation of the railroads would be necessary, but that it would have to be deferred until the country is better able to bear the burden of such a huge investment.

At that time he submitted two possible bills for consideration. One of them called for the creation of a national corporation to handle all the railroads, the other for the forced consolidation of all roads into regional groups. Another measure, introduced in the last congress, provided for federal regulation of interstate bus and truck traffic. It got no further than hearings before the house interstate commerce committee.

It is to be hoped that some action is taken by the next congress to untie the knot which has kept the transportation system in a strangle hold for four years. So far the government's efforts have been limited for the most part to such destructive projects as the Mississippi waterway, which complicated still more an already difficult problem.

Swords Rattle Again

IF THE world's workers would, or could, heed William Green's plea Wednesday to unite in order to avoid what seems to be another inevitable war, there might be cause for hope.

But they will not, even if they could. And meanwhile the rattling of swords continues more ferocious each day. General Mitchell in Washington announces grandiose schemes for an air armada designed purposely for use against Japan, and Japan sounds the gong for the start of a new round in the bout of propaganda.

There is always hope, but the forces of war are powerful and profitable. War talk has grown so loud in the last few days that there seems to be more than conjecture in the remark by a former British cabinet member this week to the effect that the beginning of the next war is only a question of months—that it will be either next spring or next summer.

What Others Think

The Silver Cat Out of the Bag

(From The Christian Science Monitor)
China's protest against American purchases of silver in the world market is unique. Generally the grumble is that countries are not buying enough world commodities, not that they are buying too much. But the mammoth silver purchases authorized by Congress—1,300,000,000 ounces when the annual world production is only 160,000,000 ounces—have a peculiar relation to China.

For several reasons China is the only country which could supply the tremendous amount of metal that the United States requires. What would happen then? Only that China would be left without its standard money. For silver is to China what gold is to the United States; it is standard money, and any undue loss of it must give rise to disturbing deflation.

For a long time experts have known that this would be the effect on China. But their voices have not been heeded. Silver spokesmen, seeking a disinterested argument in favor of silver purchases, have actually stated that the silver purchases would be beneficial to China. It was the higher price consequent upon the United States Treasury demand that was supposed to work the miracle. Higher prices would mean higher exchange for Chinese currency, and a higher exchange would make foreign goods cheaper in Chinese currency.

All that was wrong with the reasoning was that it was too simple. It presupposed that China would assent both to an artificial deprivation of its standard money and to its transformation into a dumping ground for foreign products. China has not till now expressed its true feelings on the subject because it was anxious to court American favor in its political troubles with Japan. That seems to be about the only possible explanation.

Mr. Alfred Sze has now let the cat out of the bag. The sight of it may alter the views of those who were persuaded to agree to the silver purchases by the mirage created by silver senators that silver purchases would develop the purchasing power of a billion Orientals. Already the Chinese government has established restrictions on the export of silver. Mr. Sze's protest sounds like a preliminary to an outright embargo. What measures Secretary Morgenthau will then take to get silver will be interesting to watch.

Yesterday the big hard maple that stands benignly at the end of the street was ready to give its jaundiced ochre leaves to the first insistent breeze.

I have watched the death of summer and the birth of autumn in that tree. Each morning its aspect is different, its complexion more brilliant with the growing fever of death.

That is the beauty of the autumn—the beauty of a flame in the fireplace that reaches high and scarlet before it dies into embers. And that is why the autumn's beauty is more poignant than spring's.

In the spring there is only life, new greenness, fresh scents of rain on fields in which there are almost audible stirrings. There is the movement of new things growing with no modesty. There is the ambition of the young season and the stimulating sense of things to be accomplished without hesitation.

There is the listlessness that comes with too much freedom and the languor of overpowering activity. There is the longing of days filled with too much brightness, and the confusion of life being born everywhere.

But it is a strange truth that without sadness there is no deep pleasure. Men like to be lonely and to dream of the death of things. That is logical, too, for it requires the sorrow of expiring life to prove the bounty of living.

And it is not unimportant that autumn, rather than spring, is the time when ambitions rise. It is only the tillers of the earth, whose lives are regulated by the seasons and must conform, who labor most while the earth labors. Yet even they find their reward only in the death of summer, in the brown old age of their crops.

And even they experience their greatest enjoyment in the sadness of autumn when the fields are brown and stubble and the moon of Indian summer is fiery in smoke haze. Then their celars are filled with apples and their granaries have reaped the bounty of death, and they are happy.

And that is the time when the rest of us begin to take the world in our hands most firmly and to get things done. It is an old truth that there can be no victory without an enemy, and there is no accomplishment without opposition.

So it is only natural that we should create less in the spring when there is nothing but creation everywhere and that we should labor in the fall when life is dying.

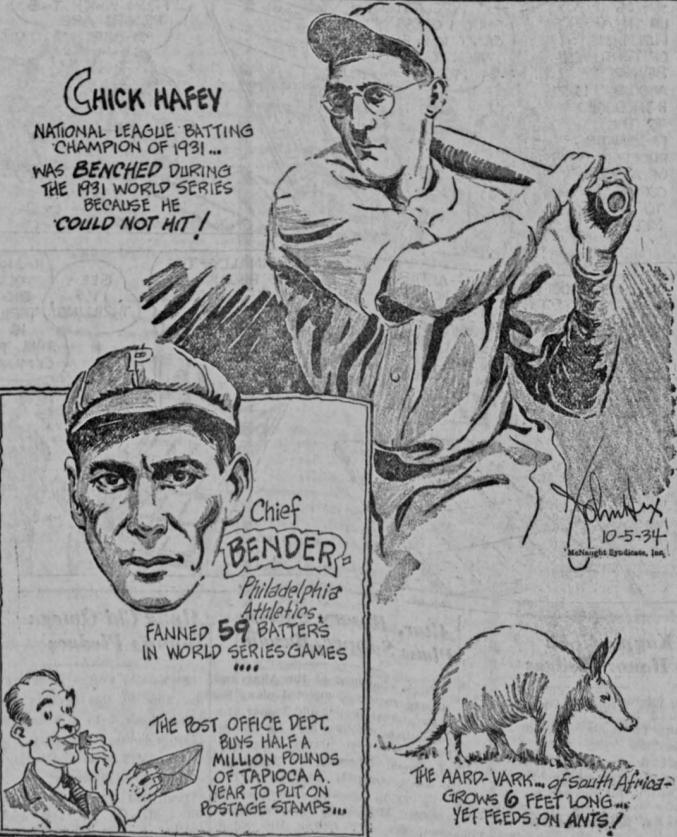

To appreciate the fall, it is not necessary to "sit on the ground and tell sad stories of the death of kings." It is necessary only to taste the sorrow of bright leaves flying, and to smell the perfume of dry leaf smoke; to feel the sting of sharp winds on the face, and to listen closely for the faint rustling sound of dead things seeking rest.

Or merely to watch the old hard maple at the end of the street; to watch each morning as it flames brighter and brighter before dying into embers. Perhaps that will be tomorrow.

HOLLYWOOD — Hollywood's latest party gag is to present each incoming guest with an official form, releasing the host from responsibility for anything that might happen during the evening.

Jack Oakie

The routine drew a big laugh from Hollywood, which is still buzzing over the one-punch battle between John Monk Saunders and Herbert Marshall at the Ernst Lubitsch party for Max Reinhardt.

Animal actors rise in value just like human ones after appearing in a successful picture. When Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer hired a little Spanish named Flush to work with Norma Shearer in "The Barretts of Wimpole Street," the dog's owner valued it at $65. Enthusiastic reports on the film already have boosted this to $1,500.

Sally Blane

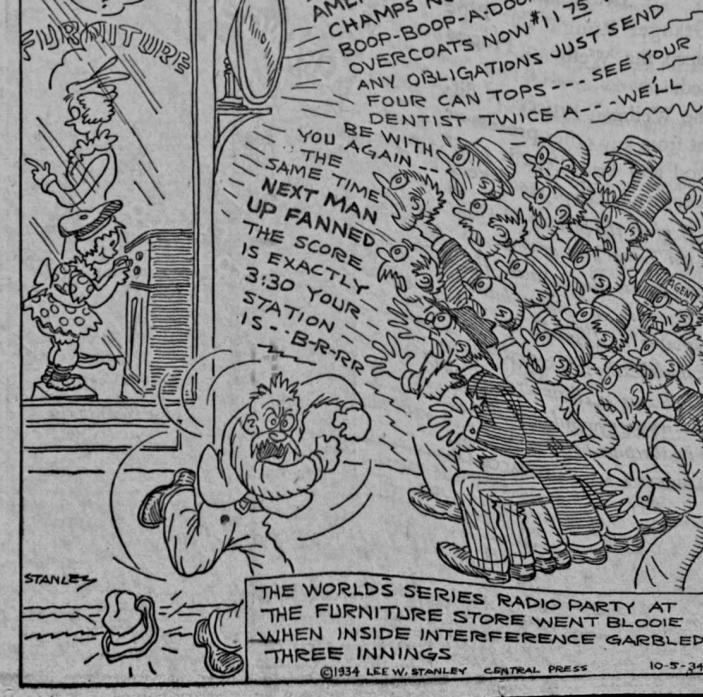

A hasty inspection showed no defect in the studio projection machine, the raw film or the camera that photographed the scene. The spots were still an unexplained mystery when the company prepared to resume filming on location the next day. Just by chance, Sally Blane happened to peer into the camera blimp. She gasped and fainted.

Hurrying to her aid, the crew discovered a poisonous black widow crawling out of the blimp.

Style hint: Adrian has just designed for Joan Crawford's private wardrobe a sweeping evening gown, blue like most of Joan's clothes, and bordered at the shoulder and hem by graceful corded loops. A three-quarter wrap of blue cotton lace completes the ensemble.

KNICK-KNACKS—Can there be another rift between Sylvia Sydney and B. P. Schulberg? The producer was at the Colony club without her for Gene Austin's opening, and was paying marked attention to Gertrude Michael. . . Astrid Alwyn and Al Kingston, the agent, were very much tete-a-tete at the same spot. . . It's all over between Willy Castello and Irene Coleman. She's gone back to the old boy friends, Barkley Johnson, refrigerator company official.

Mrs. Lila Briggs Scribbled As School Girl; Now Does Paintings

Editor's note: This is the ninth of a series of articles dealing with the lives of Iowa artists whose works will be represented in the first Iowa art library to open Sunday afternoon in the public library. The project, believed to be the first of its kind in Iowa, was conceived by Mrs. Louis Felzer, under whose direction it is being developed. The pictures, after being on display a month, will be available to private borrowers to hang in their homes.)

9. Lila Briggs

Mrs. Lila Briggs was "one of those kids in school who scribbled pictures in school books from the first grade up." She admits, in fact, that she "traded pictures for arithmetic problems." By all the past records of past geniuses, she was destined to become an artist!

She was born in the 'gay nineties.' But too late, she confesses, "to remember how gay they were."

From her youthful beginning she continued her art work, studying one year in the art department at Iowa State Teachers college and six months at the Art Institute of Chicago. Marriage interrupted her artistic training and her career as an artist.

It is just within the last three years that she has again taken up painting, and, consequently she considers herself an amateur—but ambitious.

A year ago she spent two weeks studying with Prof. Grant Wood at the Stone City art colony. Recently she has been active in helping to organize an art club in Waterloo, and this activity has taken much of her time.

Mrs. Briggs will have a painting in the Iowa City art library.

I got as a student on this campus. The teachers who started me off with it, as out on a fairyland upon the long road, are gone now except Professor Potter, Dean Seashore, and Dr. Patrick. To those who are gone and to these three I should like to say thank you.

"But words won't do that. Let me say that, because of you, the splendid town of 'Duna' and the 'Suwanee river' and Iowa City are all to me the same town."

George E. MacLean of Washington, D.C., president of the University of Iowa in the first years of this century, was unable to appear as scheduled because of illness. His address was read in full by Prof. Benj. F. Shambaugh, master of ceremonies.

Praises Growth

Former President MacLean praised the growth of the university under President Bowman and President Walter A. Jessup, and expressed his confidence of its success under President Gilmore.

"From the small ship I left, it has grown to be a monster Atlantic liner, under Jessup. As it sets forth today on a new voyage under a tried and well known captain, we may expect continued progress.

"It may be said that under the MacLean administration it was a period of faith; under the Bowman administration, of hope; under the Jessup administration, of charity, and now abideth faith, hope, and charity. The greatest of these is charity."

Lampe Chaplain

Prof. M. Willard Lampe, director of the school of religion, served as chaplain. Members of the board of deans and board of education occupied the speakers platform, together with the speakers on the program.

The "convocation extraordinary" was the first event on the day's program. Students, faculty members, and visiting delegates formed a colorful procession more than half a mile long, as they escorted the new president from Old Capitol across Iowa avenue bridge to the field house.

Old Gold drapes and fall flowers decorated the field house. The program was broadcast over stations WSUI and WOC-WHO.

intendents and principals. Chancellor Bowman declared that "nothing is extravagant in education if it actually gets something over in the life of the student."

The former University of Iowa president saw in education the responsibility for elevating the standard of life among the population.

Whether Iowans sink into a type of "peasantry" or live lives of beauty will depend upon the manner in which teachers meet that responsibility.

Describes "Happy Teacher" Describing the "happy teacher," Chancellor Bowman told his audience that the teacher must feel profoundly that he has something to give to his students and he must make his influence radiate throughout his community.

"The less of 'methods' and the more of character a teacher has, the better he will be," the speaker concluded.

Following the evening address, at which Dean Paul C. Packer of the college of education presided, Phi Delta Kappa was host at an informal luncheon on the sun porch of Iowa Union.

Three Addresses

Three addresses were presented at the opening session of the two day meeting yesterday afternoon in the senate chamber of Old Capitol.

A plan for testing in Iowa's elementary schools, similar to the academic contests of the last few years in the high schools, was explained by Prof. E. F. Lindquist of the college of education.

Developed by the college of education and the extension division, the tests will differ from those in the academic contest in that they will be non-competitive. Three types of examinations—silent reading comprehension, basic study skills, and basic language skills—will be given.

Fairchild Talks

A re-evaluation of education, which should seek four values as its ultimate aim was described by President R. W. Fairchild of the Illinois State Normal university. The goal of education he said should be in seeking character, citizenship, utilitarian, and leisure time values.

Prof. F. B. Knight of the college of education discussed the part of secondary education in the personality development of the child.

A program of demonstrations and conferences at the University experimental schools will occupy the at-

AS STATE DEMANDED DEATH FOR YOUNG EDWARDS

Death in the electric chair for Robert A. Edwards, youthful defendant in Pennsylvania's "American Tragedy" murder case, has been demanded by the state of the jury hearing the trial in the Wilkes-Barre courthouse. Edwards, who is accused of murdering his former sweetheart, Freda McKechnie, so that he could woo another girl, Margaret Crain, is pictured below, center, in the courtroom with Sheriff Luther Kniffen, left, and Deputy Lee Walker, right. The 1197 contract signers are eligible to vote on the following two questions:

"Do you favor an adjustment program dealing with corn and hogs in 1935?"

"Do you favor a one-contract-per-farm adjustment program dealing with grains and livestock to become effective in 1936?"

Balloting will be taken in each township of the county as follows:

Tuesday, 8 p. m., Pleasant Valley, Lincoln, Cedar, Liberty, Monroe, Penn and Sharon; Thursday, 8 p. m., Fremont, Scott, Big Grove, Hardin, East Lucas, Graham, Madison; Friday, 8 p. m., Union, Clear Creek, Jefferson, West Lucas, Oxford, Newport, Washington. Meetings will be held within each township.

Iowa Farmers Vote Nearly 3 to 1

DES MOINES, Oct. 4. (AP)—Iowa farmers tonight had answered nearly 3 to 1 in the affirmative to the farm administration's question, "Do you want another corn-hog program in 1935?"

First official returns of the corn-hog referendum compiled by the state corn-hog office tonight gave 7,120 for and 2,678 against another adjustment program. The returns came from 162 townships in 31 counties and were sent to headquarters by county allotment chairmen.

tion of the school officials this morning. Prof. Ernest Horn of the college of education and Principal Harry K. Newburn of University high school will lead the conferences.

Robbins of the college of education presiding. Prof. E. T. Peterson of the college of education will talk on "Education, freedom, dictatorship." Prof. A. H. Edgerton of the University of Wisconsin will describe "A practical guidance program for every secondary school."

"The problem of meaning in the social studies" will be discussed by Professor Horn. Prof. Paul Dangler, visiting Carnegie professor of history, will tell of "The crisis in education in Europe."

Chancellor Ernest H. Lindley of the University of Kansas will give the final address in the conference. He will talk on "Youth can not wait" at 8 o'clock tonight in Macbride auditorium. Prof. Forest C. Ensign of the college of education will preside.

Teachers To Convene Here

Instructors in High Schools Will Attend Annual Conference

More than 100 high school teachers are expected to attend the ninth annual conference of mathematics teachers of Iowa and neighboring states here Oct. 19 and 20. Headquarters for the conference will be the north room of Old Capitol, Prof. H. L. Rietz, head of the mathematics department announced yesterday.

This conference meets annually to consider recent developments in the teaching of high school mathematics to the end that new principles may be applied during the school year.

Speakers prominent in their respective fields scheduled to appear on the program include Raleigh Scholiving of the University of Michigan Clara D. Murphy of the Evanston Township high school, Evanston, Ill., and L. H. Whitcraft of Ball State Teachers college, Muncie, Ind.

Features of the two day session will be a "panel" discussion directed by Ruth Lane of University high school on "The value of mathematics in the high school curriculum," and a display of equipment and teaching aids for high schools.

GILMORE

Makes Freedom Plea

former can be a real university, the latter becomes inevitably an instrument of propaganda and political control.

In the mingling of education and political propaganda the Iowa president saw the possibility of destruction of free education similar to that in the "totalitarian" states of Europe.

"No Assurance" There is no assurance that we in the United States have been guaranteed an immunity from what is being done abroad not only to the state universities, but to all other institutions which are the exponents of liberalism" President Gilmore warned.

The solution, in his opinion, lies in progress toward greater individual freedom in education, in simplification of courses, in the realization that the chief object of all sound education is to teach a way of living rather than a way of making a living.

President Baker, representing the board of education, "charged" the new Iowa head with the performance of his new duties with the following installation charge:

Installation "Charge" Mr. Gilmore: On June 15, 1934, the Iowa state board of education acting under the laws of the commonwealth, by unanimous vote elected you to the office of the president of the State University of Iowa, and by that action invested you with the full power of chief executive.

On behalf of the governing board, faculties alumni, and students of the university, I welcome you to this position of high honor.

"And now, as president of the Iowa state board of education, I solemnly charge you with the faithful performance of all the duties, obligations and responsibilities of your office, and in accordance with the approved standards, the best traditions, and the highest ideals of the university, to the end that your administration may ever be a witness to the advancement of higher education among the people of this commonwealth."

Accepts "Charge" Addressing the state board of education, President Gilmore formally accepted the "charge":

"With full appreciation of the traditions and ideals of this university and keenly sensitive to the challenge of its past achievements, I pledge myself to discharge to the best of my ability the obligations and responsibilities of the high office into which you have inducted me, to the end that intellectual freedom and integrity shall ever prevail in this commonwealth; that learning, understanding, and wisdom shall characterize the sons and daughters of Iowa."

Chancellor John G. Bowman of the University of Pittsburgh, president of the University of Iowa from 1911 to 1914, told the assemblage that in the University of Iowa he had found the beginnings of his life's meaning.

Brings Greetings Bringing the formal greetings of the University of Pittsburgh to the new Iowa head, the chancellor declared that his experiences as a student here had opened his eyes to the richness of the world's potentialities.

"This morning it seemed to me I had been slow in discovering most of the world in which I have lived," the distinguished former Iowan said.

"The pattern did not fill with meaning until I became a student at the university. Here was wonderland. Things happened. Here was a river and woods up the river. Here were lovely girls. I read the Bible in Greek that first year—A haunting beauty had me which is dangerous to explain, yet simple to live through.

ABOUT SPORTS

On the Spot . . . Turn About This Year . . . Wildcats Say "Beat Iowa" . . . Mixing of Nations

WITH every other football team in the country on the spot we might as well have our Hawkeyes on the spot for this Saturday when Iowa opens its Big Ten season against Northwestern at Evanston. Unlike last year, critics have rated the Iowans way up there while the Wildcats come a little lower than was expected of them last year.

Iowa had everything to gain when Northwestern was met last fall. The Hawks remembered only too well the 42 to 6 defeat absorbed the year previous and were about ready to buck the stadium walls or tear up the streets to beat Northwestern. Well, they defeated the Wildcats. This year it is turn-about. Northwestern remembers.

LAST YEAR Dick Crayne got his initial Western conference in the opener at Soldier field, Chicago, and did right well. Crayne crashed the line and ran the Purple crazy and Joe Laws climaxed an afternoon of brilliant ball carrying and signal calling to sweep 32 yards around right end behind excellent interference for the only touchdown.

THIS defeat, totally unexpected by the Purple, has been a sore spot to the Wildcats. "Beat Iowa" is and has been the by-word at Evanston for a year. Tomorrow our Hawkeyes and the Wildcats will tangle with all the courage and resourcefulness possessed by both. Iowans are planning to accompany the team in large numbers.

Pity the poor football coach. Yesterday afternoon "Zud" Schammel, freshman coach, attempted to demonstrate the art of getting off a punt under fire. As the ball came back to him the opposing freshman line broke through and swarmed him down. Schammel ruefully picked himself up. "Now boys," he laughed, "it isn't right to tackle a coach."

LOOK TO the Haskell Indians for a mixing of nations in the building of a football team which will take on the Creighton Bluejays tomorrow at Omaha. Creek, Ojibwa, Arapaho, Choctaw, Pawnee, Blackfoot, Flathead, Delaware, Cheyenne, Chickasaw, Chippewa, Comanche, Sac Fox, Ute, Seneca, Euche, Pomo and Sioux—that is the Haskell congress of nations.

Goslin's Blow In 12th Pushes Win Run Over

St. Louis Scene Of Today's Fray; Paul Dean vs. Bridges

By ALAN GOULD
(Associated Press Sports Editor)
DETROIT, Oct. 4.—Surging back into the world series fight behind the superb pitching of Lynwood (Schoolboy) Rowe, 22 year old pitching giant from Eldorado, Ark., the Detroit Tigers came from behind today to capture a 12-inning baseball melodrama from the St. Louis Cardinals and serve notice that it's going to be a knock-down-and-drag-out battle for the championship of 1934.

Trailing by one run in a dazzling duel between Rowe and Lefty Bill Hallahan of the Cardinals, the American league champions tied the score in the ninth on Pinch-hitter Gerald Walker's single and triumphed in the twelfth, off another southpaw, Bill Walker, as Goose Goslin's rousing base hit to center brought Charley Gehring home with the winning run and clinched a 3-2 decision for the celebrated Schoolboy.

Over-Powered
Rowe signaled his debut under world series fire by hurling one of the most spectacular games in championship history. Belted for six hits and a pair of runs inside the first three innings, as the Cardinals got away with a characteristic spurt, the youthful giant steeled down and simply over-powered the National league champions the rest of the way.

Rowe yielded only one hit in the last nine innings, a long double by Pepper Martin in the eleventh. From the fourth to the eleventh, the Tiger thunderbolt was absolutely invincible as he retired 22 batters in order. Altogether only 28 Cardinals faced the boy wonder in those last nine innings. He struck out seven, including Joe Medwick, hitting star of the first game, twice and had the entire batting order of the National leaguers handcuffed with a bewildering assortment of speed, curves and a change of pace.

Shares Laurels
Rowe was the big hero for a howling crowd of 41,451 cash customers, a slightly bigger turnout than for the opening game, but he (Please turn to page 7)

Coaches Send Frosh Through Practice Game

Iowa freshmen football players closed the second week of drill yesterday with the usual warm-up followed by a practice game in which every man on the squad took part. Zud Schammel, acting head coach in the absence of Bill Boelter, drove the boys hard during the long session.

As in previous scrimmages, the practice game revealed that the defense is miles ahead of the offense. The coaches attribute this to the fact that offensive backs and linemen are still having trouble with the timing of the shift formation.

Because of the ineffectiveness of the attack, the game was one of stubborn line play and constant exchanging of punts. A new weakness became apparent when every man employed in the safety position had difficulty in handling kicks. On many occasions the team which had just punted regained possession of the ball after the receiver fumbled.

A new halfback joined the squad yesterday as Dick Bowlin of Chicago, recent transferee from Northwestern, reported for drill. The frosh will rest until Monday, there being no practice tomorrow because of freshman lectures.

Accompanied by Mrs. Vanderbilt, the skipper of the Rainbow, which defeated the British yacht Endeavor for the American cup, arrived amid great secrecy aboard the liner Bremen at Southampton, and was given a special pullman car to London to avoid detection.

Found later by the Associated Press, Vanderbilt smiled broadly when asked if he had any feelings regarding the cup series.

"There are no bad feelings as far as I am concerned," he replied. "I don't know how others feel. In any event, I have no intention of making derogatory remarks in a foreign country about any of its citizens."

Freshman Harriers Compete for Green Jerseys Today

Coach George T. Bresnahan announces that this afternoon at 4 o'clock the freshman qualifying run for the green jerseys will be held at old Iowa field. The distance will be one mile over a cross country course. All freshmen are eligible to compete and the first 10 men to finish will be awarded a green jersey with the word "Freshman" inscribed across the front. These men will be picked to run against the varsity in practice.

Yacht Skipper In Enemy Lair

LONDON, Oct. 4. (AP)—Still dodging any controversy relative to the recent yachting unpleasantness, Harold S. Vanderbilt, England's sporting enemy No. 1, slipped unheralded into London today for a three weeks' vacation.

Accompanied by Mrs. Vanderbilt, the skipper of the Rainbow, which defeated the British yacht Endeavor for the American cup, arrived amid great secrecy aboard the liner Bremen at Southampton, and was given a special pullman car to London to avoid detection.

Layden Shakes Up Notre Dame Line For More Speed

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Oct. 4 (AP)—Elmer Layden shook up the Notre Dame line today by placing Paul Schrenker and Rocco Schirall at the guards instead of Bill Smith and Augie Church in an effort to get more speed. A dummy scrimmage against Texas plays wound up preparation for the opening game of the season Saturday.

Art Lasky In Elimination Go With Hamas

NEW YORK, Oct. 4 (AP)—With a crack at Max Baer's title as the stake, two young heavyweights meet in Madison-Square Garden tomorrow night in the first indoor show of the metropolitan season.

The 10 round encounter between Art Lasky, Minneapolis giant, and Steve Hamas, former Penn State college football luminary, is the first of a series of winter elimination contests planned by the garden. The survivor likely will be pitted against Baer in a big open air carnival next June.

Later in the winter the other leading contenders among the big fellows will be trotted out to see what they can do. These include the late champ, Primo Carnera; Max Schmeling, also a former standard bearer, and the promising Jack Peterson, of England.

Promoters expect the curtain raiser to attract a crowd of 15,000 fans and a gate of approximately $50,000.

Woman Plays Brilliant Golf

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 4 (AP)—Staging one of the most amazing recoveries in the history of the women's golf championship, Mrs. Opal Hill, 44 year old Kansas City matron, today defeated Mrs. Leona Cheney, San Gabriel, Cal., on the 24th green in a thrill-packed climax to the quarter-final round of the 35th national tournament.

Van Wie Wins
Their marathon struggle completely overshadowed the other fourth-round 18-hole matches which saw Mrs. Glenn Collett Vane, Virginia Van Wie, the defending titleholder, and Dorothy Traug, 20 year old sensation of the early rounds, winning with plenty to spare.

Semi-Finals
Mrs. Vane, continuing her brilliant sub-par play, defeated Mrs. Burt Well, of Cincinnati, 6 and 5; Miss Van Wie won from Frances Williams, of Allentown, Pa., 5 and 4, and Miss Traug defeated Mrs. Carl H. Donner, Short Hills, N. J., 3 and 2.

Wellsmen Will Defend Clean Record Tonight

By WILLIAM SWEENEY
With three scalps already dangling from their belts the Iowa City Little Hawks will step on Shrader field tonight at 8 o'clock in search of a fourth at the expense of the Princeton, Mo., eleven. Despite the fact that the Hawkslets have emerged victorious from each of their first three contests, they will enter tonight's fray as the underdogs.

Great Record
The Southerners boast one of the best long-time records in intercollegiate circles. From the season of 1931 through the first part of the present year they have played 26 games, winning 22, losing a pair, and tying in the other two. This year they have started twice, winning both games with ease. Little is known about the personal make-up of the team, but in Seelye they are said to have one of the best tackles in Missouri football. Seelye tips the scales at better than 175 pounds and is captain of his team. Princeton averages about the same in weight as does City high. Their line is a little heavier, while the backs are a bit lighter.

Coach Wells kept the first string on the field for less than an hour yesterday, limiting their efforts to a snappy signal drill, followed by a dummy scrimmage. The third and fourth teams then made merry in a long scrimmage. With the exception of James, regular tackle, the first eleven is in good shape physically. James has been under par all week and will see but little action tonight, if he plays at all.

Jones May Replace Pooler
Wells may start Jones tonight in place of Pooler at halfback. Jones will add more beef to the team and although he is not as fast as Pooler, he is a capable passer and a fine kicker. However, Pooler will see a lot of action. He is dangerous in an open field, but his slight stature prevents him from playing a full game without weakening.

Princeton's starting lineup was not available last night, but the Little Hawks will take the field as follows: Ballard and Miller, ends; Soucek and Norgaard, tackles; Nelson and Elberts, guards; Ross, center; Marech, quarterback; Duros, Pooler or Jones, halfbacks; Eakes, fullback.

INDIANA
BLOOMINGTON, Ind.—Coach Bo McMillin talked by telephone with Major John L. Griffith, Big Ten athletic commissioner, then answered the critics of his five-man backfield system by drilling his Indiana University football team in some new variations of it developed for use against Ohio State Saturday. Red Stevenson, injured guard, was back in action today.

Irish Contest Blue on Old Iowa Field

The case of St. Patrick's versus University High comes before the public on old Iowa Field this afternoon at 3:30.

The Irish took a decided let-up in their workout last night, with today's struggle looming before them. New plays for the Rivermen's approval were rehearsed for the last time in a brisk signal drill. Final touches were also added to kicking and passing.

Injury Jinx
Being forced to make seven alterations from the original eleven of three weeks ago, Coach Ryan has had his hands full whipping the changed outfit into a functioning organization. Injury jinx took on the seventh man at West Branch last week, handing a sprained ankle to Ferrell, regular right tackle. With Ferrell definitely out of the lineup for two weeks, Miller is being used in the tackle role.

Leuz, the fleet-footed back who is playing his first season on the gridiron, has become the spark plug in the St. Patrick machine. Responsibilities of kicking, passing, and most of the ball totting will fall on his shoulders, and he is bound (Turn to page 4)

Looking in at the Grid Camps

CHICAGO, Oct. 4 (AP)—Coach Clark Shaughnessy shooed spectators away and locked the gates of Stagg field as he sent the Chicago squad through today's drill.

The Maroon coach indicated he would make several changes in the varsity lineup before the Michigan game a week from Saturday. He was dissatisfied with his ends and quarterbacking last week against Carroll college, and tried candidates for other positions in these spots today.

NORTHWESTERN

EVANSTON, Ill.—A sharp dummy scrimmage on forward passes, offensive and defensive, finished Northwestern's preparation for its opening conference game against Iowa here Saturday.

The Wildcats went through their chores with smoothness and snap, causing Dick Hanley to beam. The only change in the lineup will be George Potter at quarterback. Potter got in against Marquette last week, but did not start.

MINNESOTA

MINNEAPOLIS—A field lecture delivered by Coach Bernie Bierman at some length broke up Minnesota's football routine today as he advised the Gophers carefully of tactics for the Nebraska game.

Otherwise, the Gophers concentrated on polishing their own offense, while looking over Cornhusker running plays. Two newcomers, Stan Koska, fullback, and Ed Widrecht, tackle, appear likely to start Saturday.

OHIO

COLUMBUS, Ohio—Coach Francis A. Schmidt started tapering off his Buckeyes today for the battle with Indiana Saturday, when he will give the answer to the question that every football fan in Ohio has been asking—"What will Ohio State have this fall?"

The starting lineup of each team will find three sophomores, five juniors and three seniors, but Ohio will outweigh the invaders more than 10 pounds per man. The Buckeye eleven will tip the scale at 2,138 pounds, while Indiana's starting lineup will weigh 2,012.

ILLINOIS

CHAMPAIGN, Ill.—Coach Bob Zuppke hinted today that he might hold Quarterback Jack Beynon and Halfback Frank Froschauer out of the Illinois starting lineup against Washington university of St. Louis Saturday.

The star backs are in shape and ready to go, but Zuppke thought he might give Crain Portman and Wilbur Henry the starting jobs while Beynon and Froschauer do some unofficial scouting from the bench. The final hard drill of the week consisted of a dummy scrimmage to polish up the offense.

WISCONSIN

MADISON, Wis.—Weakness in passing on offense and defense was uncovered today as the University of Wisconsin football team began winding up practice for the Marquette game here Saturday. Fontaine and Jordan, alternate left halfbacks, showed improvement in returning punts. The squad appeared to be in good physical condition except for Ockerhauser and Exum who will be out of the game Saturday with injuries.

MICHIGAN

ANN ARBOR, Mich.—Asserting that he has a world of respect for the Michigan State college forward pass attack which netted 33 points against Grinnell college last Saturday, Coach Harry Kipke again gave regulars of the University of Michigan football squad a long workout on pass defense against freshmen using state plays today.

All of Michigan's varsity men, with the exception of Bill Renner, quarterback who is out with a fractured leg bone, will be ready to play against the invaders from East Lansing, in the opening game here Saturday.

DETROIT TRIUMPHS Over Cards Behind Rowe's Hurling

shared the Tiger laurels with Goslin, Walker and Ervin (Pete) Fox, light-hitting outfielder who drove in the first Tiger run in the fourth with a double and scored the tying run in the ninth, to make it possible for Detroit to capitalize the Schoolboy's spectacular finishing job.

Goslin, besides driving home the winning run, helped save the game in the third when his great throw to Mickey Cochrane, after Jim Collins' single, cut down Medwick at the plate and halted the last Cardinal attack of the afternoon.

Where they had piled up no less than five errors in the first game and performed miserably, the Tigers played errorless ball today. They were lucky, perhaps, to save the game after being held helpless in a succession of "clutches" by Hallahan's fine pitching with men on the bases, but they never quit fighting and they looked like an entirely different ball club at the finish.

P. Dean vs. Bridges

As a result of their thrilling conquest, the series stands one-all and it's anybody's baseball war now as the contending force headed tonight for St. Louis and the third game tomorrow on the home grounds of the National league champions, Paul Dean, younger of the Cardinal pitching brothers, will be assigned the task of picking up the family job where Dizzy Dean left off with an 8-3 decision yesterday. The Tigers will rely on their slim fast ball right-hander, Tommy Bridges.

The Cards still look to have the pitching edge on the whole, with the Deans yet to taste defeat and Hallahan the victim only of a super-finish today but they will need all their resources from now on to check the charge of the Tigers, who will be hard to beat the rest of the way. Until their spirited rally it looked as though Rowe's gathering mastery was going to be wasted. Repeatedly with men on bases the Tigers were impotent before the fast ball and sharp-breaking curve of Hallahan. Nine men were left on bases through as many innings before Detroit finally struck the blow that completely changed the complexion of the game and lifted the vast crowd roaring to its feet.

Big Guns Spiked

After a pair of useful but somewhat fluky two-baggers by Billy Rogell and Fox had produced the first Tiger run, in the fourth, the big guns of the Detroit attack were consistently spiked. Hank Greenberg twice fanned with men on bases. Rowe himself came up three times with runners aboard but he fanned three times before he came through, in the ninth, with a sacrifice bunt that sent Pete Fox, who had singled, scurrying to second base.

It was at this critical juncture, with the outcome in the balance, that Cochrane decided to substitute the right-handed hitting Gerald Walker for Jo-Jo White, lead-off man but a break in the Cardinal defense paved the way for Walker to come through with his vital base hit. The pinch-hitter lifted a weak fly midway between the plate and first base. First Bill Delancey, the backstop and then Collins started for the ball. Then both hesitated and before either one could make up his mind, the ball fell just inside the foul line and then caromed across it.

What a Chance!

Instead of two out, as the Cardinals should have made it, Walker had another chance and he quickly seized it by belting the ball on a line to center field, sending Fox home with the tying run. The blow also knocked Hallahan from the box. Another Cardinal southpaw, Bill Walker, promptly came to the rescue, trapped Gerald Walker off first base and then struck out Manager Cochrane, sending the battle into extra innings.

Rowe made only one mistake in capitalizing his belated opportunity for triumph. That was when he grooved one that Martin slapped for two bases in the eleventh, with one out, but the Schoolboy then fanned Jack Rothrock and retired Frisch on a pop fly to Gehring.

No Chance

Meanwhile Bill Walker gradually lost control, and was the direct cause of his own undoing in the twelfth. He escaped trouble in the tenth, when Frisch fumbled Gehring's sharp grounder and Rogell walked, but he set the stage for Goslin's winning wallop by walking Gehring and Greenberg in succession, with one out, in the last frame. The Cardinal southpaw's control was slipping so fast that he got only one strike across in 10 successive pitches to these Tiger hitters. The count was one ball on the Goose when the former Washington slugger connected and smashed the ball on a line to deep center.

Ernie Orsatti tried hard to handle the ball quickly and attempt to cut off Gehring at the plate but his throw was so wild that there was not the remotest chance for a play and the crowd was already pouring on to the field as the Tiger second baseman registered that deciding run. The home players were fairly mobbed by enthusiastic rooters and it took a detail of police to help them fight their way through the jubilant throng to the dressing room.

Explanation Of "Strange As It Seems"

The aard-vark, African insect-eating mammal, grows to be six feet long—yet, strange as it seems, its diet is composed almost exclusively of ants and termites or "white ants." One of the strangest appearing animals of Africa, the aard-vark is well suited by nature to hunt and capture ants. It would be almost helpless if forced to seek other food.

It has a thick-set body, arched back, short neck, and long narrow head. Its tongue and front claws, however, are its chief hunting equipment. With its powerful claws it digs into ant hills and termite nests, then with its long sticky tongue it catches its prey and sweeps them into its mouth. The aard-vark hunts by night, spending the day in its burrow.

It is hunted both by natives and animals for its meat, which is relished in spite of the fact that the flesh tastes strongly of formic acid from the ants. Although it has few teeth, the aard-vark is dangerous when at bay. It can kill a man with its powerful fore legs and long claws.

Not all tapioca ends up on the dinner table—an important part of it goes on the backs of United States postage stamps. The government uses hundreds of thousands of pounds of tapioca starch each year to make gum for stamps. In 1931, for example, 558,930 pounds of tapioca dextrine was used by the postal department.

Cyclone Coach Dissatisfied With Defensive Work

AMES, Oct. 4 (AP)—Dissatisfied with yesterday's defensive work, Coach George Veenker today sent the Iowa State squad through a stiff workout on fundamentals of Grinnell college plays.

Passing continued to receive major attention as Veenker handed out more new plays and it was indicated that at least six aerial plays will be ready for Cyclone use against Grinnell Saturday. Neal's wrenched shoulder still kept him from scrimmage work.

ST. PAT'S PLAY University High On Old Iowa Field

to cause trouble for the boys of Coach Kistler.

Play direction will be under the supervision of Hogan, 125 pound junior, who will call the signals from the quarterback position.

G. Williams and Berger complete the backfield quartet, being the brunt of the blocking and line bucking.

Although Father Ryan is dissatisfied with the play of his line, it will remain the same with the exception of Miller at right tackle. Love will take the corresponding position on the left side. Connor and Patterson will be at the wing posts, with Coen working in the pivot position between S. Williams and Carriage, the guards.

The Saints will be on the lookout for the offense of the Blue and White, which is built around Wyjack and Foerster.

A pre-season game between the two contenders resulted in a scoreless tie, showing the relative strength of the local rivals. Action should be plentiful in today's tilt.

U. Hi Ready

Coach Joy Kistler used two backfield combinations in last night's drill of rehearsing the offensive plays given in recent practices. Kistler expects a tough game with the Irish this afternoon and is making sure that the boys have the plays well in mind.

Bob Jessup, regular end who was forced from practice on account of an ankle injury was still on the sidelines during the practice session. He will probably not start the game Friday.

The probable starting lineup will find Thomas and Matthes at the wing posts; Goss and Lackender, tackles; Brender and Lenz at the guard positions; and Horn at the pivot position. The backfield will consist of Barron at quarter; and Westcott, Wyjack, Foerster and Fountain will be fighting for the other three positions. Foerster and Wyjack were the mainstays in last week's game, while Fountain is a regular from last year who was forced from the first game on account of injuries.

The U. Hi lads are all set for their intra-city battle against St. Patrick's here on old Iowa field Friday afternoon. The kick-off is scheduled for 3:30.

Homecoming Plans Made

Local Merchants To Decorate for Event; Will Close Stores

Iowa City merchants completed plans for street decorations and store closings for Homecoming at a meeting of the Retail Merchants bureau in Reich's pine room last night.

According to plans adopted, all Iowa City stores will close at 1 p.m. and remain closed until after the game. Streets will be decorated with strings of lights and large ear corn placards between lamp posts. In the middle of the ear, a football will be shown with a large black "I" in the center. Decorations are to be up the day before the game.

Coach Bill Boelter spoke on the University of Iowa football team and its prospects for the Northwest-ern game.

It was also decided, in view of the large number of tickets given out for the "House of Magic," to hold the electric feature in the field house Monday afternoon, Tuesday afternoon, and Tuesday night. It was to have been in the American Legion Community building. Everett Means, president of the bureau, presided at the meeting. More than 50 merchants attended.

City High School Music Auxiliary To Meet Monday Night

Mrs. Albert Graham announced yesterday that this year's program of the Iowa City high school music auxiliary, an organization composed of parents of high school musicians, will open with a general meeting in the band room of the administration building Monday, at 7:30 p.m.

As the purpose of the auxiliary is to promote music, one of its most necessary activities is to provide a fund for district, state, and national contests, Mrs. Graham said. The first project, directed by Mrs. R. V. McCollum, will be a house to house canvass by band and orchestra members in uniform Saturday, Oct. 13, to collect magazines, papers, wire hangers, and contributions for a rummage sale.

Members of the beginners committee are Mrs. Charles Beckman, Mrs. Lloyd Swartley and Mrs. W. W. Townsley. Mrs. T. G. Caywood and Mrs. Everett R. Means have completed a campaign for more instruments.

Installation Will Be Feature of American Legion Meeting Monday

Installation ceremonies will feature a meeting of the Roy L. Choppek post of the American Legion Monday, at 8 p.m. in the Legion club rooms.

District Judge Harold D. Evans, past commander, will be the installing officer. The following will be installed: Ellis D. Crawford, commander; Elmer Dewey, vice commander; Glen Means, adjutant; Delmer Sample, finance officer; Lou Clark, historian; R. V. Campbell, sergeant at arms; Frank Mezik, chaplain; and Capt. R. V. Rickard and Charles Fieseler, executive committee. Robert Schell is the retiring commander.

The yearly report of this year's officers will be made before the installation.

J. T. Toler, agent at Ottumwa, will probably be transferred to Iowa City, it was learned. F. A. Bogue, superintendent of the Iowa-Minnesota division of the Rock Island, made the announcement.

Mrs. Milligan will join her husband later.

Drought Relief Rates Reestablished by R.I.

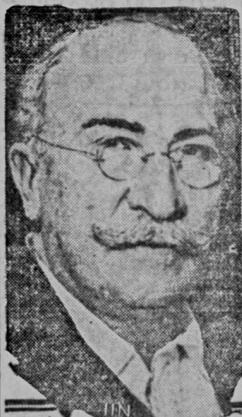

Rock Island railroad officials have reestablished drought relief rates for the drought area. B. J. Hauber, rate clerk, announced yesterday. The rate affects shipments of hay, grain, hogs, cattle, and sheep.

These rates, from 50 per cent to around 65 per cent of the flat tariff, will continue to Dec. 31 on most farm products. The emergency rates were discontinued Sept. 1, and have again been put into effect.
