Experiment to Tradition

Dad's Day of 1922, Held in February, Is Now Annual Affair of Fall; Inaugurated by A.F.I.

Dad's day at the University of Iowa in 1922 was an experiment. Today it is a tradition.

Unlike the celebration of Dad's day this week end, the first event of this kind took place in the winter, Feb. 24, 1922. But the purpose of this traditional occasion today, honoring the dads and showing them the university in its normal working order, has been intensified and not altered.

This university event was started by the A.F.I., senior men's honor organization, with Edgar Goodrich in charge. Students at that time were asked to send invitations to their dads. Today the university sends out invitations.

Witness Basketball

Dads who attended the first Dad's day participated in Diamond Jubilee Foundation day and witnessed the Iowa-Minnesota basketball game.

Just as the University of Iowa has grown during the last decade, Dad's day has grown as a tradition. In the Capitol in those days was disconcerted from the west side of the campus. But dads participating in the activities today will find the east and west sides of the campus knit together.

When this annual event was started, university officials prided themselves if 100 dads attended. In recent years as many as 1,000 dads have registered.

"Royally Entertained"

Following the initial Dad's day activities, The Daily Iowan in commenting about the affair said:

"Visiting fathers were royally entertained yesterday at Iowa's first Dad's day. While no elaborate program of speeches and formal meetings had been arranged, the dads were busy from early morning till late night attending classes, looking over the many buildings, browsing through the museums, and glancing over a book or magazine in the library while waiting for their son or daughter.

Yesterday morning a continuous stream of dads filed past the president's desk to exchange handshakes with the university executive, and to chat a few moments on university life, and the work of the university . . .

"Refreshing of Memory"

"The inside views of the class rooms interested the dads as much as any other part of the celebration. It was a refreshing of memory for those who were old grads; it was a novelty for those who took their first glance of college life. As one expressed it, he discovered that college professors are ordinary human beings much different from the picture held by many who have not seen them for themselves.

"After a long day of sight-seeing most of the dads declared themselves ready for the big number on the schedule, which was the dinners prepared at the various fraternities, sororities, Quadrangle, and Currier hall. The main feature at most of the dinners was meeting the boys or girls, but at the Quadrangle a short program was held in honor of the dads at the close of the dinner.

"All Favorable"

"From every source, comments on the success of Dad's day were all favorable, and while a conservative estimate placed the number of visitors at 100, this accomplishment will warrant the establishment of another Iowa tradition."

In 1923 Dad's day was under the auspices not only of A.F.I., but Quadrangle, Currier hall, Staff and Circle, and other university organizations. At that time the late Prof. Clarence Wassam of the college of Commerce suggested that "within a few years Dad's day at Iowa will be one of the biggest university affairs."

Today this annual event is no longer an optimistic prediction or a dream. Prof. Rufus H. Fitzgerald, director of the school of fine arts, in speaking of Dad's day a few years ago, said that "The growth of interest in Dad's day has been in proportion to the growth of the Iowa campus."

Since that time the university has expanded even more and Dad's day has entrenched itself even further in the hearts of all those in any way associated with the University of Iowa.

Municipal Light Plant Loan Rescinded

The offer of the PWA loan and grant of $917,000 for a municipal electric light and power system in Iowa City was formally rescinded by PWA authorities in Washington, D.C. yesterday, according to the Associated Press.

Reallocation of $4,491,000 in 33 rejected loans can now be made by the PWA, officials stated.

The city council here voted to reject the offer of the loan Oct. 5.

University Elementary School

This is American Education week. The children in junior primary have made invitations to their parents to visit school this week. A small group of parents is invited for each day. The children of these parents are hosts and hostesses for that day. They show their parents around the room and serve them at lunch time.

During Education week the first grade children became interested in finding out where rural children go to school.

In order to find out about a rural school, they plan to visit East Lucas No. 3, taught by Miss Neffanager. The first grade will go to the edge of town by bus Monday morning, and walk the remaining distance to the school house. The children plan to take their lunches and stay all day.

The third grade has four teams of kick ball in physical education. They are the Cubs, Bears, Badgers, and Boston Bulls. So far the Bears have won the most games. Robert Van der Zee is the captain of the Bears.

Raymond Kloos is ill at Mercy hospital. We are studying how the pioneers built their cabins. We hope to visit the log cabins in the park soon.

Marilyn Leeper, Bruce Adams, Elizabeth Ann Peck, Helen Pollock, and Arlene Hunter wrote the news items for this week's news.

Miss Sprague, the University elementary school's new music teacher from Bloomington, has been seriously ill. She was taken to the University hospital Monday night. The sixth grade students have missed her very much, and are writing her letters.

The Library Board

The library board met with Maude McBroom Wednesday, Nov. 7. Those present were Adams Lambert, Bobby Alderman, librarian and assistant; Mary Neuzil, third grade; John Dane, fourth grade; and Bobby Tapper, fifth grade.

The fifth grade announced for meetings of the board for the first semester are Nov. 21, Dec. 5, and 19, and Jan. 9 and 23.

Cards were checked for overdue books, or errors in filling or filing cards, and the children notified.

Bulletin Board

The bulletin board is featuring a display for American Education week. Under the heading, "Do you know that?" is a display of graphs and typewritten cards of facts regarding education.

Following are a few of these interesting facts. There was a decrease of 50,000 in one room schools from 1918 to 1930. Only 17 cents of each dollar of public money is expended on education or 12 cents for elementary schools, 8 cents for high schools, and 2 cents for colleges. There are 84,000 teachers who received less than $450 last year—they taught mostly in rural schools. Sixty per cent of school buildings in the United States are of the one room type. Since 1930, kindergartens in 57 cities have closed. Cost of keeping a child in school for 1933-34 was $67 as compared with $80 for 1929-30.

There are short quotations from Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt asking for cooperation in education so that we can have informed public opinion in the United States, and so that we can fulfill ideas of our forefathers of a place where everyone should have reasons to live for their country. Also in a short quotation Walter B. Pitkin tells why machines cannot displace the need for human services.

Prof. Frederic Mavis Predicts Rain, Drought Extremities for Year

Extremes of rain and drought were predicted by Prof. Frederic T. Mavis, associate director of the institute of hydraulic research at the University of Iowa, in an address yesterday before the convention of the Missouri valley section of the American Water Works association, according to an Associated Press dispatch last night from Omaha, Neb.

"We still have greater extremes of wetness and dryness to anticipate, and modern plants must be equipped to meet the unusual situation," said Professor Mavis.

Water pumping and treating plants of Omaha and Council Bluffs were inspected by delegates, from the five states included in the convention.

Protestant Students To Discuss War, Peace

Student representatives of the various Protestant churches will discuss "War and Peace" at the Christian church auditorium tomorrow at 8 p.m. The meeting is under the auspices of the Interchurch Student council with Arthur Leff leading the discussion. HOLLYWOOD. (AP)—Mrs. Elizabeth Mayer, known on the stage as Elizabeth Sanger in the '90s, died at her home here yesterday. She was a member of the Florida sextette.

Writers Need Closer Study, Says Speaker

An intimate personal knowledge of his people is needed by a good historian. Prof. William M. Macmillan, former faculty member of All Souls college, Oxford, England, told a round table discussion group in the Senate chamber of Old Capitol, yesterday afternoon.

"History derived from documental records and extensive research is not enough," said Professor Macmillan. "It should also contain an intimate and personal knowledge of the people involved."

"A good historian uses history not as a detailed statement of official governmental records, but as a means of getting away from such," he said.

Professor Macmillan has been touring the United States in response to an invitation by the Phelps Stokes foundation, New York. He is making a comparison between Negro conditions in Africa and the United States and will soon leave for the West Indies to continue his study.

Hearing on Disputed Adoption Set for Nov. 15 by Judge Gaffney

Hearing on the attempted adoption of Kenneth Parrott, 3, by Mr. and Mrs. Yanausch over the protest of Mr. and Mrs. Charles F. Parrott, the child's parents, was set at 9 a.m., Nov. 15 by District Judge James P. Gaffney yesterday.

The legal controversy over the custody of the child began last month when the Yanausch family filed a petition for adoption of the boy, who has been living with them for more than six months. Judge Gaffney postponed the hearing after the parents, backed by the Iowa City branch of the communist party, termed it "legalized kidnaping."

A plea of resistance was filed by Mr. Parrott last week in district court, denying that the family had given permission for the Yanausch family to take the child.

W. J. Russell of Manson, Iowa attorney for the International Labor Defense, will represent the parents in the case, Mr. Parrott announced last night.

Executive Committee Of State Association Of Judges Meets Here

Walt Kelly, the town's leading marksman, didn't use his gun to bag a wild duck at Washington and Gilbert streets last night. The duck, evidently wounded from an encounter with shot from some hunter's gun, landed on Iowa avenue and Gilbert street where it took off again and flew to Washington street where Mr. Kelly, with the aid of Night Captain Joe Dolezal and Policeman George Speaks, effected the capture.

Steepjack
Lewis Badger of Marion was the gentleman calmly painting the cross on St. Patrick's church yesterday afternoon. He spent the greater part of the afternoon approximately 185 feet from the ground, suspended by only a narrow leather belt.

A Brother

Wrong Place
A lady stayed all night in the men's files at the National Reemployment office, said Albert C. Weber, district statistician, who found the woman when he came to work yesterday morning.

"I do not know how long she might have been there among the 500 men's cards in the file box," Mr. Weber said, "She was only a filing card."

New Approach to Band Music Will Feature Concert by Kryl Symphony Band Thursday

By MARIE HENTZ

New to many Iowa Citizens will be the type of band music with which the Kryl symphony band will open the university concert series next Thursday evening at Iowa Union.

Familiar are bands of the military, circus, or jazz type to everyone, but comparatively new to the concert world is the essentially musical symphony band of the Kryl organization character. Not street marches or other numbers of the kind usually associated with bands, but works of such composers as Smetana, Dvorak, Rimsky-Korsakov, Liszt, and Goldmark will predominate in the Kryl concert.

Symphony Technique
"Capriccio Espagnol," by the enlightened liberal, Rimsky-Korsakov, is included on the Kryl program, adequately illustrates the technique of the symphony band. In this composition the Russian musician has included solo passages for all the melodic instruments, even the percussion ones. His works appeal not only to the technical musician, but also to the general public as well, even though requiring a high standard of orchestral playing.

Exemplifying his interest in the folktales of his country is "The Snow Maiden," an opera of prehistoric setting, from which "The Dance of the Tumbler" has been chosen for the Thursday concert. Alive to the national color of his country, Rimsky-Korsakov re-created for Russia the art of her people in such historical folktales as "The Snow Maiden."

Oriental Element
Also included on the Kryl program will be the familiar and much loved "Flight of the Bumble Bee" which illustrates the Oriental element, always a salient characteristic of Rimsky-Korsakov's works.

Marie Caslova, violinist, will play "Concerto for Violin, No. 2 in D Minor," by Wieniawski, a little known but excellent Polish violinist and composer.
Other solos to be included on the program will be those of Irma Clow, harpist, and the conductor, perhaps better known for his unusual technique on the cornet, Bohumir Kryl. Miss Clow will play "Concert Yule," by Albertrotter, and Mr. Kryl, "Souvenir de Moscow," by Ley.

Tickets on Sale
Tickets for the entire course of five concerts, including the Kryl symphony band, Joseph Szigei, Barlett and Robertson, the St. Louis symphony orchestra, and Nina Morgana, will remain on sale until Nov. 15, at the music studio building, room 15.

Independents, Sigma Delta Tau Win Games

Sigma Delta Tau defeated Delta Delta Delta in two National league volleyball games, and the Independents defeated Alpha Delta Pi in a National league volleyball game yesterday afternoon in the third round of the women's intramural round-robin volleyball tournament.

Two games will be played this afternoon at 4:10. They are: National Alpha Delta Pi vs. National Sigma Delta Tau and American Alpha Delta Pi vs. American Sigma Delta Tau.

Works of Morley Range From Realism to Fantasy

Christopher Morley, who will open the Times club lecture series Monday at 8 p.m. in the American Legion building, must have been a modest man!

For, unlike most young poets, he chose no ambitious title for his first work, a slender volume of verse. With alarming frankness, he titled his book "The Eighth Sin." The "sin" he committed more than 20 years ago as a student at Oxford is now a prize in the collections of American booklovers.

First Novel Popular
His first novel, "Patriarch on Wheels," which he wrote upon his return to America from England in 1911, still remains one of his most popular works. He introduced in this novel, Roger Miffins, Prince of Bookshelves, shrewd, quaint, ruling his world in his bookshop on wheels.
Two collections, one of poetry and one of essays, followed, and then he wrote "The Haunted Bookshop." In 1921, his "Tales From a Rolltop Desk" appeared, and in one of the stories in this collection, "Referred to the Author," was the beginning of his "naive theology" which forms a large part of his later book, "Where the Blue Begins."
Leaves "Post"
In 1924, Morley left his position on the New York Evening Post to work on "Green Escape." But he couldn't seem to complete it—there were too many distractions. So he, accompanied by Mrs. Morley and their children, left New York for France. In a little cottage near Mont St. Michel, they spent the summer while the author completed his book.

It was here that Morley found an "exploding bathtub," since made famous in "The Enchanted April."

Professor Woodward To Visit Engineers

Prof. S. M. Woodward of the college of engineering, now on a year's leave of absence, will visit at the college of engineering for a week beginning Nov. 19. During his stay he will confer with graduate students and will meet with certain of the engineering classes.

SEEN from OLD CAPITOL by TOM YOSELOFF

Arthur Barnes believes in subtlety in debate. Mr. Barnes, one of Iowa's star arguers, effectively squelched his opponents in a practice debate the other night, with this reasoning:

"My colleagues," he said in summary, "have already plowed the ground, and all I can do is to skim over it lightly. However, I suppose that by the time our opponents finish dealing with it, it will be very fertile."

In the display window in pharmacy-botany building, the pharmacy students have placed a picture of "Daddy" Russ Fisher, Hawkeye football captain, and his young son. It was rather difficult to see the association with pharmacy, so we put the hounds on the trail. Louis Zopf of the pharmacy department explained the thing.

"The reason for the picture is that the pharmacists hope Saturday will be Dad's day—Dad Fisher's day."
Those are noble sentiments, Mr. Zopf. We hope so, too.

Gordon Elliott, secretary in the graphic and plastic arts department, takes vigorous exception. Mr. Elliott was the subject of a feature story in a recent issue of The Daily Iowan, in which reference was made to "handsome physiognomy" and "curly hair." Mr. Elliott, in all modesty, didn't mind the "handsome physiognomy"—but he insisted that he has never had curly hair. Oh, well, Mr. Elliott, just put it down as a new wrinkle . . .

An inquisitive student writes to ask why in the name of tar-nation or whatnot Sheriff Don McComas is deputizing so many more men on the occasion of Dad's day than ever before.
"Is it," the writer inquires, "because, after having examined, seen, and dealt with Iowa students, the sheriff is afraid of what the dads might do? Is he judging them by their children?"

We hadn't thought of that. But, of course, the explanation may be that until the dads arrived, so many deputies were not needed . . .

Thursday night was German night at the Knights of Columbus. From the sauerkraut and weiners consumed, there could be no doubt of that. There is only one suggestion from this corner. The "hot dogs" didn't look much like German dogs—they were far too fat to be dachshunds.

The age of romance and mu-is not dead. Or, if it is, it came to life again in the small hours of Friday morning in Smith's cafe. Four students, evidently imbued with the colorful spirit of the last generation—or something—sat at a table, consumed coffee, and indulged in songs of a day long gone. Among the selections with which they favored the others in the cafe were "Sweet Adeline," "Down by the Old Mill Stream," "They Call Her Fervidous Sal," and some nameless ditties.

Perhaps they were just preparing to welcome the dads today in proper 1930 style . . .

That's a horse of a different color: This happened in the class of Prof. George D. Haskell of the college of commerce. Discussion centered around that famed donkey who stood to death, because he stood at a point equidistant from three haystacks and couldn't decide which way to go. The professor asked something about the opinion of the class in regard to the animal. A smart young man volunteered an answer.
"He made an ass of himself," he punned out.

Drought Plan in Making

Library Circulation Increases by 3499

An increase of 3,499 volumes in October over the corresponding month last year, with a total circulation of 60,339, is shown in the monthly library report issued yesterday by Grace Van Wormer, acting director of university libraries.

Of the total, 111 volumes were sent to students taking extension work, and 76 were loaned to other libraries. These figures also show a slight increase over last year.

Hockey Club Plays In Tourney at Madison
The Iowa City Hockey club played in a midwest hockey tournament yesterday at Madison, Wis., instead of the W.A.A. club, as announced in yesterday's issue of The Daily Iowan.

The names listed as players were observers at the tournament.

'34 Graduates to Get Bulletin Supplements

Russ Fisher as "Dad" Takes Center of Group In Dad's Day Display

The students of the college of pharmacy who arranged the window display yesterday in the pharmacy-botany building chose the commemoration of Dad's day as their theme.

Bob E. Yau, C3 of Cedar Rapids; Wendell Lee Schaffer, P1 of Washington; and Ronald B. Pearson, P1 of Iowa City, arranged the display. Against an old gold and black background, full sized individual photographs of the football team are arranged diagonally on either side of the display. Under the caption, "Dad's Day," is a center picture of Capt. Russell Fisher and his son.

BITS

ABOUT SPORTS

Pep Meeting . . . An Old Iowa Athlete Reports . . . College Spirit . . . Hie Yourselves To The Stadium and Back The Team.

I CAN remember the time, and only a few short days ago, when a throng of four spirited souls hid themselves to the railroad station to cheer the Hawkeyes on to Indiana, where they played the Hoosiers to a scoreless tie.

One of those was Nyle A. Jones. You will undoubtedly inquire as to who this gentleman is. Back in 1901, '02, '03 and '04, Mr. Jones played on Iowa football teams, winning a letter each year and captaining the Hawks his senior year.

He has been located in and about Iowa City since then, and has taken great interest in Iowa athletics. At present he is manager of the national employment service in Iowa City.

Here are his ideas concerning pep, spirit, and the Iowa team: Iowa City, Iowa, November 9, 1934

Sports Editor, Daily Iowan Dear Sir— I just returned from the bonfire and pep meeting—one of a more handful compared to the number who should have been there.

For the last 30 years, I have been very much interested in that intangible, all-important something, which we call college spirit. May I attempt to define college spirit, as it has suggested itself to me, during these years of observation.

True college spirit has its origin, not in the throat, or any form of noise, but rather, deep down in the heart. Genuine college spirit is conceived in sympathy, tempered with justice and understanding, and is absolutely devoid of destructive criticism. True college spirit sees the best that is in every man, and does not let that best become submerged or perhaps forgotten because of the fact that the sum total of the scores may be in favor of the opponents.

Genuine college spirit is effervescent—it fairly bubbles forth and cannot be suppressed. It needs the services of the yell masters, not to draw it forth, but rather to direct it into uniform channels. True college spirit fairly impells one to go to the station, when the teams leave for their trips, to assure them that those who must remain behind, will be four-square behind them throughout the entire game, regardless of results, and that same spirit will carry one to the train when the teams return, to rejoice with them in victory or what is far more important, to reassure them that our confidence in them has not been shaken, if the scores are against them. Last, but by no means least, true college spirit and good sportsmanship are synonymous. A good sportsman is always fair. A good sportsman is at all times, courteous, especially to the visiting opponents and their followers.

I have the utmost confidence in Ossie Solem and his able assistants. I can assure you, without reservation (having known football men for the last 35 years) that every man who will wear the Old Gold tomorrow will give to Iowa the very best that he has, every moment of the game. I am proud of the team for what they have done this year. No team in the country fought harder. Had they lost every game, fighting as they have fought, they would still deserve the heartiest support of every loyal follower. The team is going to fight tomorrow. Can they count on us to fight with them?

Let us remember, please, that the college spirit on this campus, is the sum total of the college spirit resting in each individual heart so let each one of us search our own hearts to see just what degree of college spirit rests there and then let each one of us rededicate ourselves to a true and genuine college spirit and with this as a foundation, let us go down on the field tomorrow and back the team as no team has ever been backed before. If we will do this, tomorrow night, we shall all be happy.

Yours truly Nyle W. Jones

THIS expresses the sentiment of some of the fellows that go out and play football. He should know, as the players now know, just how much good backing means. After all, if you can cheer yourselves into a frenzy when the team is winning, you can repeat when the Hawks are in a slump. Anyway, give it a try.

Ottumwa High Runners Will Defend Title

Preps to Be Guests Of University For Iowa-Purdue Game

By RAY COX More than 100 contestants representing 16 high schools throughout the state, will be on the starting line this morning at 11 o'clock for the running of the thirteenth annual interscholastic cross country championship meet. The race will be over the two mile course on Finkbine field starting and finishing on the track west of the fieldhouse.

Ottumwa was crowned team champion last year and will be defending its title as well as trying to win for the fourth consecutive year. Johnny Schmidt, star freshman cross country runner, is the only member of the 1933 team who will not be in today's event. John Beebe, who placed thirteenth last year and Clifford Gardner, who placed eighth, will both be in the race.

Dale Wood of Mechanicville, who won the individual honors last year and the entire field will be out to beat the course record set by Mathew Bolsom, of Oskaloosa, in 1932, when he covered the two mile course in 10:47.6.

The 15 schools entered, besides Ottumwa, include: East High, Des Moines; Finchford Consolidated, Janesville; Roosevelt, Des Moines; Ft. Dodge, Ft. Madison, Hudson, Iowa City high, University high, Lamont, LeClaire, Mechanicville, Muscatine, Newton, Oskaloosa, and East high of Waterloo.

Five men may start for each school, but for scoring purposes, three men will constitute a team. After three men have finished, the remaining contestants will be talked according to their respective positions in the race.

To Facilitate Scoring The washer system will be used to facilitate scoring of the event, as it has been used in previous years. (Continued on Page 9)

LITTLE HAWKS WIN CITY GRID CROWN

Gain 13 to 7 Revenge For Last Year's Defeat; Count On 2 Long Scoring Dashes

Pooler Returns Kickoff 92 Yards Following U. High Score; Eakes Romps 39 for 2nd Marker; Capt. Brender, Foerster Sparkle for Losers

By WILLIAM SWEENEY A fighting City high eleven, determined to avenge a crushing defeat suffered in the 1933 game, functioned perfectly on two occasions last night, and in so doing downed a plucky University high team 13 to 7 in the annual battle between the two teams for the Iowa City prep title. The game was played before some 2,000 fans on Shrader field.

Undismayed by the 19 yard scoring dash of Dave Foerster, slashing Blue and White halfback, in the second quarter, the Little Hawks fought back, and blocking with unerring precision, cleared a path for Jerry Pooler on the following kickoff which enabled the diminutive Hawkllet speedster to dash 92 yards across the goal line.

Eakes Gets Loose Again in the third canto, with the ball resting on the University high 38 yard line, fullback George Eakes swung around left end and never stopped until he had planted it in the end zone.

The flashing form of Eakes, heretofore primarily noted for his blocking, kept the University high defense split all during the game. Time after time he knifed through the line into the open with a brilliant display of open field running, often to be stopped by the last man between himself and the goal.

Snider Spills Em Although Eakes earned the spotlight, the blocking and tackling of the team as a whole was almost as spectacular. Ham Snider, playing his first game as a starting tackle, performed like a veteran, spilling men time after time on the line of scrimmage.

Ferguson, Ballard, Elberts, one could go on and commend every man with justification. Pooler's interference on his kickoff return will long be remembered in local prep circles.

Foerster Stars For the defeated University high eleven, the smashing off tackle slants of Foerster, one of which gave the Kistlermen their touchdown, were outstanding.

Giving Foerster valuable aid were Capt. Abe Brender, Tom Horn, and Thomas Howard Fountain and Johnny Wyjack added many a yard at critical moments, and in addition kept the City high score down by beautiful pass defensive work.

The huge throng was given a taste of the thrills awaiting it when City high took the opening kickoff, marched to the Rivermen's 34 only to be set back by a penalty. A moment later the Blue and White eleven took up the offensive and with Foerster alternating with Fountain at carrying the ball drove to the Iowa City 12 yard line.

Norgaard Breaks Through Norgaard broke through and tossed Foerster for a 14 yard loss to the 26 yard stripe on the next play and the drive ended.

Scarcely had the second period opened when Pooler fumbled a bad pass on his own 19 yard line, where it was recovered by Horn.

On the first play Foerster went around right end, cut back outside of tackle, and shaking off three tacklers, stumbled over the goal line for the first touchdown. Westcott crossed up the defense by plunging for the extra point, making the score 7 to 0 for the Kistlermen.

Pooler Dashes 92 Yards Scarcely had the rejoicing University high fans settled back in their seats when Pooler gathered in Lenz' kickoff on his own eight yard line. Weaving slowly across the field behind quickly forming interference, he moved unchallenged to the 40 yard line. Here Brender made a frantic effort to down him but a pretty rolling block by Miller cut him down, and Pooler outdistanced all pursuers to the goal line.

Big Paul Ross took the ball on a fake-kick formation and converted for the extra point, tying the score at 7 to 7.

Shortly before the half ended, the Wellsmen set off goalwards again. Jones returned a punt 21 yards to the University high 35 yard mark. A penalty set them back temporarily, but on the next play Fred Ballard leaped high to snag Jones' pass for a first down on the 24 yard line. Another pass, this time to Duros was good for another first down as the half ended.

Eakes Scores The two teams battled ineffectually for more than half the third quarter, with neither threatening seriously. Foerster kicked to Pooler who returned eight yards to the 50 yard stripe. Pooler and Eakes made it first down on the 39 yard line. On the next play Eakes again took

World War Friends Plan Service For Promoter Joe Kelly

DES MOINES, Nov. 9 (AP)—The body of Joe Kelly, boxing promoter, who was killed near Mason City today when his car hit a parked automobile, will be returned here tomorrow, it was announced tentatively tonight.

A sister, Mrs. Peter Tamburo, left here late tonight to return the body to a funeral home here where it is to remain until Monday morning. World war friends of Kelly have arranged a military funeral with service tentatively scheduled for Monday.

Sooners Set For Cyclones

Huge Crowd Will Watch Seventh Tilt Between Loop Rivals

NORMAN, Okla., Nov. 9 (AP)—Thousands of Oklahomans, encouraged by the Sooners' 31 to 0 lashing of Missouri last week, are expected to file in Owen field stadium here tomorrow to watch Oklahoma and Iowa State fight out an important Big Six tilt.

It will be the seventh game between the Sooners and the Iowa Cyclones, coached by George Veenker.

The game is expected to feature some of the fanciest punting witnessed for a long time. Both teams boast punters far above the average. Fred Poole of Iowa State has been hailed all season as one of the best punters in the Big Six conference and Cash Gentry of Oklahoma has been booting out some spirals that were not to be taken lightly.

The game tomorrow is scheduled to start at 2:30 p.m.

Coaches Lewie Hardage and Bo Rowland refused to be pessimistic as the Sooners wound up a light drill today in final preparation for the Iowa invaders. Both admitted, though, that they expect Iowa State to be plenty tough and Hardage commented "that any team which marches from its own 15-yard line to a touchdown against Nebraska, and scores 31 points in whipping Iowa is bound to be tough."

Oklahoma was expected to have a slight weight advantage in the line, averaging 187 to 185½ for the Cyclones.

Oklahoma has scored 45 points to opponents' 32 in five games.

reserves, including Jack Gallagher and Bill Seel, guards; Jerry Foster, Lloyd Hoffman and Rudy Leytze, tackles; and Jack Shea, Harold Weber and Merrill Robb, sophomore centers.

The above presents practically the sum and substance of the Iowa team, minus, of course, a few tricks that will be used in an attempt to score on the Boiler-makers.

Besides scoring, however, is the problem of stopping Purvis and Carter, who have been playing havoc with the majority of their foes this fall. An inspired team, such as the Iowa outfit of last year, might again drop Purdue from the list of title contenders. But the visitors, no doubt having in mind that 14 to 6 disaster at Lafayette last fall, are in no mood for a repetition.

Marquette In 14 to 0 Victory Over St. Louis

Ray Buivid Scores Twice on Brilliant Runs in 2nd Period

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 9 (AP)—Marquette university's Golden Avalanche swept across the gridiron at Walsh stadium tonight to defeat St. Louis university 14 to 0.

Ray Buivid, Marquette halfback, counted two touchdowns in the second period. He took over the first on a wide end run for 30 yards early in the period, then supplied the extra point from placement. Ten minutes later he intercepted a pass from Hurley of St. Louis and ran it back 70 yards for the other marker. Again he supplied the point kick.

It was the first defeat of the season for the Billikens.

St. Ambrose Wins, 7 to 6

Hands Simpson First Defeat on Home Field Since Season of 1929

INDIANOLA, Nov. 9 (AP)—Fallure to kick goal after a touchdown in the second quarter cost the Simpson college football team its first defeat on the home field in five years tonight when the strong St. Ambrose eleven squeezed out a 7 to 6 victory to retain its share in the Iowa conference leadership.

Coach Judd Dean's Methodists rammed home their touchdown as the result of a spectacular pass from Chet Wallace to Clarke, Simpson end, which netted 25 yards and put the ball on the St. Ambrose 6-yard line. Blackie Wells picked off the remaining yards in two tries to score the touchdown. Adolph Carlson's goal kick veered off to the right.

Simpson held its 6-0 margin through the half but St. Ambrose came back with a cyclonic running attack in the third quarter. Receiving the kickoff, the Saints never relinquished possession of the ball until they had slammed through for their touchdown. Dvorsky, rugged St. Ambrose halfback, led the onslaught, scoring from the two-yard line after a sustained drive of 80 yards.

Minett, whose long range punting was a big feature in the St. Ambrose victory, kicked the extra point which gave St. Ambrose the victory.

to stop the "touchdown twins," Purvis and Carter, whose sweeping end runs and long passes are Purdue's keenest offensive weapons. Boiler-maker forwards, however, will outweigh the Iowans by about 12 pounds per man, with standouts in the persons of Capt. Carl Heldt, 203 pound right tackle, Ed Skoronsky, 203 pound center, and the two pass receiving wing threats, Hass and Loeb.

That Purdue can be scored upon has been demonstrated by Notre Dame and Chicago, both scoring a trio of touchdowns. The Boiler-makers concentrate on offense, but should meet a little opposition in this department when Simmons and Crayne swing into action. Both are distinct threats, with Crayne, besides being a ball totter, ranking as one of the best kickers in the league.

Iowa Holds Edge In the 13 game series, Iowa holds a 7 to 5 edge in games won. Purdue, however, has captured four of the last five games.

Additional Sports News on Page Nine

Additional sports news will be found on page nine of the Daily Iowan.

Included in the page are Big Ten and Big Six roundup stories, an account of the Parsons college victory over Dubuque university, Huey Long's ideas on where and who Louisiana State university should play, and the possible scheduling of Art Lasky and Max Schmeling for a fight in Miami.

Chicago Stars May Not Play In Ohio Game

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Nov. 9 (AP)—Chicago is going into its Western conference game here tomorrow afternoon against Ohio State on the short end of the odds, regardless of whether Jay Berwanger, the Big Ten's leading point-getter, is able to take his place in the Maroon backfield.

Berwanger, spark-plug of the windy city team, has not practiced all this week, and did not don a uniform this afternoon as his mates worked out at the Ohio stadium. Coach Clark Shaugnessy said he would not know until game time tomorrow whether his ace will be able to play.

The same situation prevails in the case of Ned Bartlett, another flashy runner and "pinch-hitter" for Berwanger.

Champs Head Boston Team In Nat. Meet

Boston A. A., Winner Of New England Title, To Run Here

Boston athletic association, champion of New England and with two former national titlists in its lineup, is a probable entrant in the National A.A.U. championship cross country run at the University of Iowa Nov. 29.

Thomas Kanaly, manager of the Boston team, has informed Coach G. T. Bresnahan that seven men probably will make the trip to Iowa City to race over the 10,000 meter course on Finkbine field.

Tom McDonough, who won the national junior 10,000 meter title in 1933 and was runner-up in the senior race in 1933 and 1934, will head the B. A. A. team. He finished fourth in the cross country race at Chicago a year ago.

Others stars of the eastern outfit include Mike Portanova, winner of the national A. A. U. junior 3,000 meter steeplechase in 1933 and former holder of the record; and George Kelly, New England A. A. U. 800 meter champion.

The Bostoners were a close third in the national harrier title race last year and easily won the New England title this fall with McDonough finishing first.

Dads and Legionnaires Welcome

THE DAILY IOWAN joins today with the city and the University of Iowa in extending a sincere greeting to Iowa dads and to the American Legion.

There is something about Dad's day which sets it apart from other official events. On that day all of us become more consciously aware of a generation of change, and wonder whether it can be called a generation of progress. When Dads were in school things were so vastly different, and yet so much the same. Ways of doing things have not greatly changed, but attitudes in many respects have undergone radical transformations.

These changes, of course, are not readily observable, because most Dads have themselves changed during the intervening years. Not many of them have retained their old conceptions, but have advanced with the times and probably would not recognize their yesterday's selves. But they can remember.

We hope they approve of the work we are doing here today, and do not regret those monthly checks which make it possible. We thank them, and bid them heartily welcome.

Preparing to Combat A "Nuisance"

THE announcement by Sheriff Don McComas and university officials that the problem of excessive liquor consumption will be combatted this week end is significant because it recognizes that the problem exists.

It would be futile to play ostrich and pretend that students and visitors do not drink when a university athletic occasion offers an excuse. There were too many signs of excess drinking at Homecoming to disregard the situation.

The attitude toward drinking has changed in the last few years; it is no longer a crime for a person to drink liquor. But the change in state law gives one the license to make a public nuisance of himself. When "messy" drunks interfere with the pleasure and comfort of spectators at an Iowa football game or make a walk on the city streets a hazardous project, it is time to recognize the problem.

There is a question as to how much good Sheriff McComas' warning and the deputizing of the ushers at the Iowa-Purdue game will do. Surely no one is naive enough to believe that it will eliminate drinking, or even greatly reduce it.

But these steps will have the effect of indicating to Iowa City and to the state that an attempt will be made to discourage the sort of drunkenness that was prevalent at Homecoming. That the university, through President Gilmore, has backed McComas, indicates that it will do everything possible to protect its reputation in the state and to combat a growth of drunkenness which constitutes a threat in the state.

Congressional Conflict Gets Under Way

WITH the election hardly over the gargantuan democratic majority showed signs yesterday of the internal conflict which is bound to develop, when northern members of the house began a drive for the speakership.

This contest, in which representatives from north of the Mason and Dixon line protest continued control of the democratic party by the south, gives sinister promise of spreading into more important issues than the speakership.

The question of relief and the manner in which it is administered is bound to cause friction even among the democrats. There are those who, like the politically uncertain Senator Borah, feel that far too much waste has been connected with the distribution of the enormous relief funds. Those of us who live in Iowa, and can boast of a model relief organization, are not acquainted with the situation in other states where these funds too often have leaked in the wrong places.

And already the problem of inflation has begun to gather momentum, with Senator Thomas repeating the old refrain and Senator Key Pittman beating the drums for payment of the legion's bonus.

With disagreement on these and other problems becoming more and more acute, the country can expect its new congress to break into blocs of minority powers which will prove embarrassingly hard to control.

What Others Think

Heirloom on Display

The more fashionable jewelers in London are reported to be busily engaged these days in cleaning and repairing family heirlooms and ornaments, in preparation for the wedding of Prince George of England and Princess Marina of Greece. It may be assumed that the English aristocracy, aided by a few distinguished guests from the continent, will put on a fine piece of pageantry for the royal ceremony in Westminster Abbey. In fact, England is perhaps the one remaining country in Europe where such a lavish spectacle can still be staged today, and if the present scale of inheritance taxes is continued there, it may not be long before even the English aristocracy will not be able to revive the pomp and circumstance of a past era.

GOOD MORNING

For many years the task of passing upon the fitness of foreign literature for importation into the United States has been relegated to a treasury expert who, though he knows the ins and outs of balance sheets and tax collecting, probably is not the world's best qualified censor of the obscene.

But he did it valiantly, and now that the system is to be changed after so long a time he deserves his share of praise. But more is due the official, whoever he may be, who was responsible for the change.

The government now has engaged a specialist who knows what it takes to be a good censor—Huntington Cairns of Baltimore, literary critic and lawyer. From now on the public, though it undoubtedly will disagree with Mr. Cairns almost as frequently as it did with the treasury man, at least will be less inclined to argue.

Of course it will never be possible to reach a common agreement as to what is art, but Mr. Cairns will have a head start over the rest of us, because he will have to decide and the rest of us will have to take his decision.

His appointment is another example of the Roosevelt government's alarming tendency to do things as they should be done, and to call upon critics of the administration to help administer. After all, that is the best way in the world to quiet criticism.

Mr. Cairns happens to have been one of the most valuable opponents of the government's censorship policies, just as Chief Collier of the Indian service was, before his appointment, the severest critic of the Indian service. And it happens that both men know their fields.

Once again the supreme court of the United States, this time in a unanimous opinion, has upheld the controversial New York Milk Control act, thereby establishing a new landmark in the legal history of the new deal.

This is the second time the now famous law has come before the highest court and has been sustained. The first case (Nebbia v. New York), it will be remembered, involved the question as to whether or not the constitution of the United States prohibited a state from fixing the selling price of milk. It was brought by Mr. Nebbia, a small grocer, who had been arrested for giving a loaf of bread with every quart of milk.

In that case the supreme court followed the reasoning so long employed by Oliver Wendell Holmes and Justice Brandeis when, in a 5-4 decision, it upheld the statute and in a broad way the right of states to determine for themselves their own experiments in social legislation.

The present case was brought by the Hegeman Farms corporation, which challenged orders forcing it to pay producers a fixed minimum price on fluid milk and contended it was forced to operate at a loss. The company contended that the minimum purchase price and selling price did not allow a margin sufficient to provide a fair return on investment.

With the question of constitutionality out of the way in the previous decision, the court was unanimous in support of the decision by Mr. Justice Cardozo which held that poor management by the Hegeman Farms corporation was a necessary hazard it would have to accept.

Though these two cases do not affect the new deal directly, they do to a large extent by inference, since the attempt to control the output and price of a product in New York is similar to the same sort of legislation by other states and the federal government.

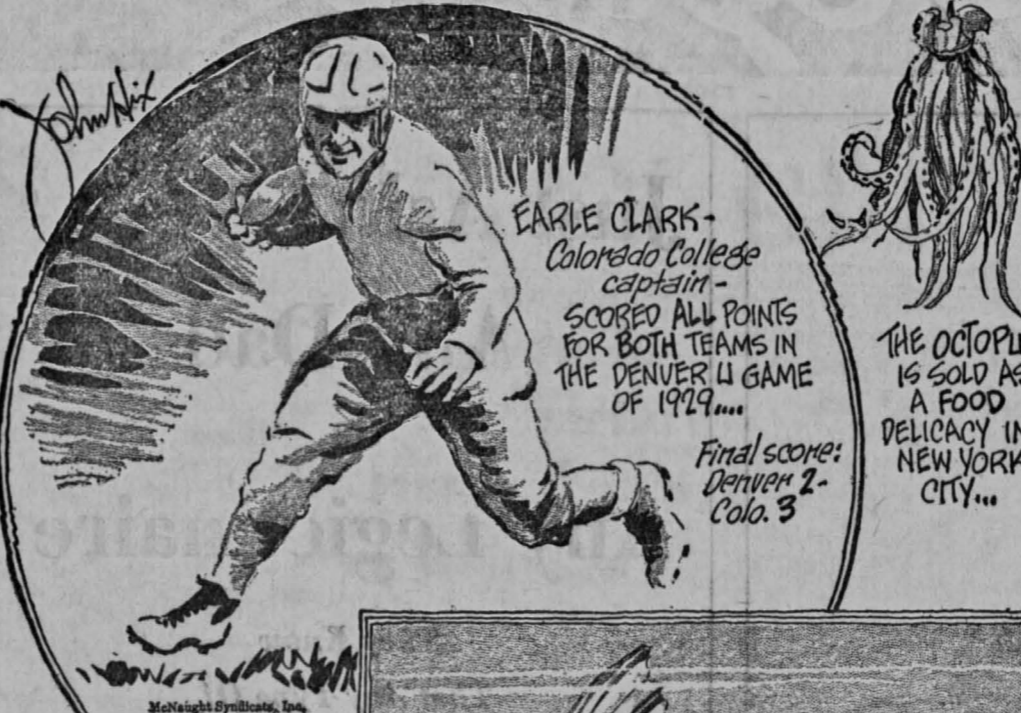

Bright hopes over possibilities of textile labor's offer of cooperation with employers in the stimulation of demand for products of the industry have risen high. Francis Gorman's overture to George Sloan proposing a joint employer-employee organization to improve the business in their mutual interest has been hailed as the first evidence of such amicable intentions in American industry-labor relations.

But idealists should not allow their sentiments to run away with their reason. If such cooperation can be achieved it will of course be a long step forward. But it will not solve any of the fundamental problems which bring friction between American capital and labor. These will have to wait on the slow process of evolution.

Behind The Scenes in HOLLYWOOD By Harrison Carroll

HOLLYWOOD—Young as she is, little Mary MacArthur, the "Act of God" baby of Helen Hayes and Charlie MacArthur, shows tendencies to follow her mother's footsteps to the stage.

Miss Hayes, who has just arrived in Hollywood with her daughter, relates the following incident that occurred at the family home in Nyack.

Mary organizes into a back-yard stock company. She decided to put on her mother's latest hit, "Mary of Scotland," with herself playing the leading role.

All went well until it came to casting the role of Lord Bothwell. None of the kids could pronounce the name successfully.

For a moment Mary was stumped. Like a resourceful director, however, she presently summoned a neighborhood boy to her side.

"I haven't christen you Lord Bath-room," she said.

And the play went on.

Take it from Reginald Owen, a well-known feminine star recently delivered the squelch elegant to a hard-boiled motor cop.

Bowling along at a fast clip, she was given the siren and rudely halted.

"Pull over there, what do you use your head for?"

The idol of millions came back sulkily:

"I use it to make $100,000 a year with. What do you use yours for?"

The worms have turned.

For several weeks, Bert Wheeler and Robert Woolsey have been sliding into the two barber chairs at the R-K-O studio just before the football broadcast went on. Ordering haircuts, massages, manicures and shaves they have monopolized the vantage points until the game was over.

The other Saturday was different. Bill Seiter and Glen Tryon paid two extras $5 apiece to take the chairs an hour before game time; they held the fort until Bill and Glen walked in at game-time to claim the chairs.

Maj. Charles J. O'Sullivan, father of the impish Maureen, turns out to be a slightly bald but distinguished looking ex-soldier who lost an arm in the British retreat from Mons. Indicating paternal blessings to his daughter's match with John Farrow, he brings the English writer a membership in the English Yacht club. When John's boat comes down from Seattle, the flag will be promptly installed.

Incidentally Hollywood now learns that the little O'Sullivan's grandfather was the lord mayor Cork and that her brother is a cadet in the military academy at Sandhurst.

What well-known comedian (he usually plays dumb gangsters) has developed the pretty habit of getting tight and calling the newspapers, claiming to be some prominent star and announcing that his wife has left him?

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 9 (AP)—Football expert Huey Long today declared that wherever his Louisiana State Tigers plays a post-season game—that's where the "boll" will be. "I'm getting mighty tired of these sports writers saying L. S. U. 'may be invited' here and 'may be invited' there," said Football Expert Long, to use his new self-bestowed title. "That's a lot of hokum and we resent that 'invited business.' There's too many 'bowls' now—the Rose Bowl, the New York bowl, the sugar bowl, the cotton 'boll' and all the rest. Wherever we go, they'll be lucky we agreed to play there."

Explanation Of "Strange As It Seems"

Miss Liberty was an ordinary black pop-eye fish until the World war came along. True, she was a high-class fish, like all black pop-eyes, but not outstanding. Her name was not Miss Liberty then.

Liberty was probably the only fish that ever staged a Liberty Loan drive.

There was nothing wrong with blackmail as it used to be paid in England—it merely was another word for rent. The term did not include all rents, however, but was limited to rent paid in labor, grains, or metals not sterling—i.e. "black money," hence the name.

Group Represented In Parade; Canvassing Chairmen Chosen

Official opening of the Johnson county Red Cross roll call drive will be at 10:30 this morning when Girl Scouts, led by a Boy Scout guard of honor, will represent the Red Cross in the Armistice day parade, Robert L. Larson, chairman of the roll call committee, said yesterday.

The national drive will open tomorrow, and will be promoted by nation wide radio broadcasts tonight at 9:30 to 10:30 p.m. and Nov. 14, by Mrs. Roosevelt, Mrs. Herbert Hoover, Harry L. J. Bradley Rust, publicity chairman, is designing several window displays for downtown stores. A short Red Cross movie is being shown at the Varsity theater this week, and in other theaters later in the campaign.

Proclamation

The following statement was issued by Mayor Harry D. Breene in regard to the sale of poppies by the American Legion auxiliary in Iowa City today:

To the Citizens of Iowa City: I, the mayor of Iowa City, do proclaim Saturday Nov. 10, Buddy Poppy day for the veterans of foreign wars of the United States:

Every orphan deserves a chance for happiness equal to that enjoyed by the average American child. This opportunity is given the orphans of veterans by the V.F.W. National home at Eaton Rapids, Mich., maintained by the Veterans of Foreign Wars of the United States.

Proceeds from the annual sale of Buddy poppies make possible the maintenance of this orphanage. Buddy poppies also offer a source of employment and relief for needy and disabled veterans in their home communities. For these two very real reasons, we all should wear Buddy poppies on Buddy Poppy day Saturday, Nov. 10.

Harry D. Breene, Mayor.

Mrs. Petkin died intestate in Chicago in 1933, and all Illinois property was awarded to her husband by the courts of that state. The Iowa City property was not in the jurisdiction of any but Iowa courts, Judge Gaffney ruled.

250 Ushers To Aid Policemen

Drinking at Game Is Out, Declares Chief W. H. Bender

More than 300 men will aid in law enforcement today in Iowa City and at Iowa stadium, according to W. H. Bender, chief of police.

Eight additional policemen have been added to the regular city force of nine officers and the sheriff has sworn in 25 special deputies and deputized 250 Iowa-Purdue game ushers.

In addition, members of the national guard will direct traffic west of the river, while the police force will have charge of traffic east of the river.

Leave Cars at Home

Chief Bender warned against carrying large sums of money to the game because of pickpockets, leaving homes unlocked before and after the game, leaving cars unlocked at the stadium grounds, and urged that local persons leave cars at home.

"I don't care how you local folks get to the game, 'Use the subway or elevated or walk. It doesn't matter, just so you leave your cars at home. We will have enough of a traffic jam anyway, without local cars," Chief Bender said.

Drinking at the stadium will not be tolerated, he declared.

Churches Denounce War; Will Talk on Peace Armistice Day

Protestant Churches Will Unite Tomorrow In Anti-War Sermons

"The Church Speaks for Peace." will be the general theme of sermons delivered in all Iowa City Protestant churches on Armistice day, tomorrow.

This year's Armistice day program is an outgrowth of action taken recently by national councils of the local churches in which they have spoken out boldly in their repudiation of war as a means of settling international disputes.

The national platforms against war, as adopted by the various churches, include definite action against compulsory military training in schools and colleges, and the right of a person to be exempt from military service, providing he is a conscientious objector.

Unitarian Churches

The Unitarian churches have adopted a program of peace through education and have recommended that every possible action be taken whether alone or with other religious sects, to help toward the prevention of war, the Rev. Evan A. Worthley, pastor of the local church, stated.

Quoting from a resolution passed by the Methodist Episcopal church in May, 1932, the Rev. Harry D. Henry of the Iowa City Methodist church said yesterday, "We recommend the establishment of a bureau in the department of state whose duty will be to promote education for peace." He also stated, "We petition the government to grant members of the church who may be conscientious objectors of war the same exemption from military service as has been granted to the Society of Friends."

"The Baptist church has always stood for the supremacy of conscience," the Rev. E. E. Dierks of the local church said. At a recent national convention the Baptist church repudiated war and the enlistment or drafting of any Baptist student who conscientiously objected to war.

Rev. Garrigues

The Rev. C. C. Garrigues of the Iowa City Christian church, quoting from a resolution passed at an international convention last October said, "We believe that conscientious objection to war is a natural outgrowth of the principles of Christian good-will and desire for world peace. We condemn all practices and customs that develop the spirit of war by making our young people think in terms of war."

The Episcopal church has denounced war because it is the result of "greed for gain, is wicked in design, and contemplates the wholesale destruction of human life." The Rev. Richard E. McEvoy, pastor of the Trinity Episcopal church here, said.

The Rev. Llewelyn A. Owen, pastor of the Iowa City Congregational church said that at the national council meetings in 1934 a council of social action was organized and given a budget of $60,000. The council has the same status as the missionary boards and will determine for the members of the church what is fact and what is propaganda in armament investigation and naval expansion programs.

Student Groups Meet Tomorrow Night To Discuss War Attitudes

Attitudes on war and peace will be discussed by members of the student groups of various Iowa City churches at their meetings tomorrow night. Following a separate discussion at each church, members of all groups will meet for a general discussion at the Christian church at 8 p.m.

The Interchurch council has designated certain questions which will be discussed, or answered with "yes" or "no." Questions for discussion concern sanctioning or participating in future wars.

Yes and no questions are concerned with the compulsory feature of the R.O.T.C., manufacture of armaments by the federal government, armed intervention by the United States government where the lives of U. S. citizens in other countries are concerned, and the official attitude of the churches of America about war.

Wylie Organizes Observers For Meteoric Display Nov. 16-17

November's flashing meteoric display, the earthward parade of the Leonids, will fall under the scientific gaze of observers at five Iowa stations.

For the fifth successive year, Prof. C. C. Wylie, University of Iowa astronomer, has organized the parties to function at Iowa City, Des Moines, Davenport, Dubuque, and Mt. Pleasant.

At the rate of two or three per minute, the meteors will dart down from the northeast sky between 2 and 4 a.m. Nov. 16 and 17, Professor Wylie declared.

The 1934 display, however, will attain neither the profusion nor brilliance of those of other years. This is an "off" year for the United States, whereas England is due for a heavy shower of the comet particles.

At the university, a party of about 10 persons, half of whom are trained observers, will work from the press boxes of the stadium. Using reticles, their objectives will be to obtain the total number of meteors within a 50 degree circle, and, working in co-operation with Davenport and Mt. Pleasant, to calculate the real height.

Leonids, according to Professor Wylie, are the most famous of the meteor showers. They first were seen about a thousand years ago, with spectacular flights occurring at approximately 33-year intervals.

Leaders of the observations at other Iowa points are R. E. Criddle of Iowa Wesleyan college, Mt. Pleasant; John Theobald of Columbia college, Dubuque; Paul Annear of Des Moines, and Arthur DeVany of Davenport.

FOUR CIGAR STORES

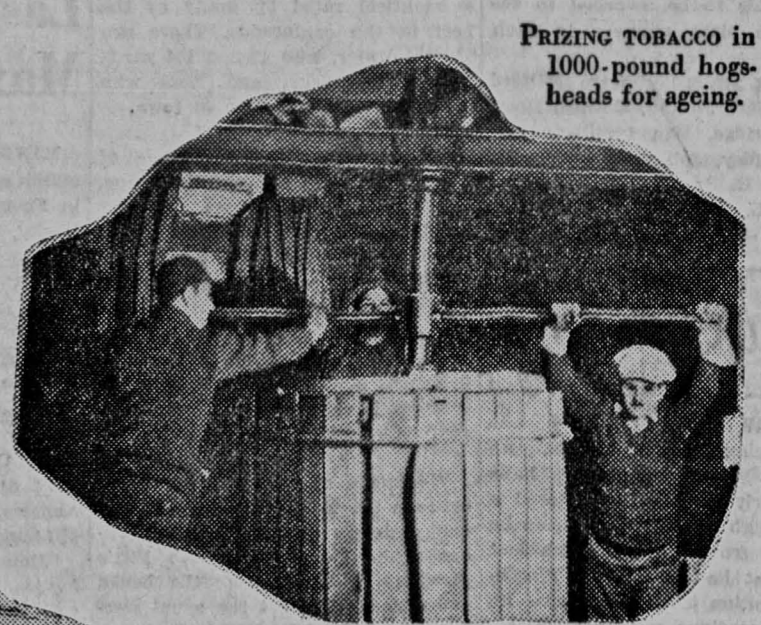

To age and mellow tobaccos just right to give Chesterfield its milder better taste...

it takes Time

WE have tried a good many methods to age cigarette tobacco, but we have never found any method that equals the slow old-fashioned plan of ageing it in wooden casks for two years or more.

All the tobaccos we use in Chesterfields are aged this way.

It takes time, money, and miles of warehouses—but it's the one way to make a milder better cigarette.
