least preserved—it was on an at-

Soviet Russia, he asserted, is a place where the unexpected is always happening.
Was Warned
I went to Russia with the warnings of my friends that I would starve; they even sent me huge packages of food and soap. When I arrived in Leningrad, I found massive luxury. We were met by a band and taken to a luxurious hotel suite.
"We ate good food in a dining room that had been a showplace of Russia before the revolution. We visited art galleries and museums, and strangely enough, I saw the best exhibit of modern French art
I have ever seen there."
The Russians, he said, seem to always "mix things up," but sometimes they always turn out all right in the end.
Travelled Second Class
I was traveling second class, but they got me mixed in with a first class group of tourists, and they took me to the first class hotels.
On the trains, you always spend 15 minutes finding your luggage—if you're in the first compartment of car five, your luggage is certain to be in the first compartment of car three or four.
"This is nice, though," he added.
"It gives you a chance to meet all the people on the train."
Saw 15 Plays
Professor Sowers attended the Moscow theater festival in September. In 11 days he saw 15 plays and operas and three moving pictures.
The tradition of the Russian ballet is being continued, he said. During his visit he saw "The Swan Lake" ballet, performed by 200 dancers and lasting four hours.
Among the other shows he saw were a performance of Shakespeare's "Twelfth Night," "Camille," done with clowns to mock the bourgeois drama, and Gogol's "Inspector General."
"Great Energy"
"In general," he pointed out,
"there is great energy in the Russian theater. Actors have been released from the stage conventions, and they are just beginning to release the playwrights from propaganda."
The Russians are greatly interested in the theater, and have made of it as an instrument of propaganda.

found in such places as a student's notebook, the men's room at Mac-similar spots where native art may exist.

The Russians wear no beards.
At least, Prof. W. Leigh Sowers of the English department couldn't find any beards in Leningrad and Moscow, he told Times club members in Iowa Union yesterday after-

Woodward Will Resign Council Position at Tonight's Meeting

House Group May Call On V.F.W. Head

NEW YORK, Nov. 22. (AP)—Rep.
John W. McCormack, chairman of the congressional committee investigating General Smedley D. Butler's charges he was "approached" to head a fascist dictatorship movement, asserted tonight that James E. Van Zandt, national chairman of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, may be called as a witness.

Van Zandt had said at Minn.
N.D., that the movement actually existed, and that four men, including himself, had been approached to lead it. The others were, he said, Major General Douglas MacArthur, chief of staff of the U. S. Army, Colonel Theodore Roosevelt and Hanford MacNider, former commander of the American Legion, of Mason City, Ia.

La Guardia Laughs At Butler Charges

CHICAGO, Nov. 22. (AP)—Mayor Fiorello LaGuardia, of New York, today laughingly described the charges of Gen. Smedley D. Butler that New York brokers suggested he lead an army of 500,000 ex-servicemen on Washington as a "cocktail putsch."

Citizens of the Saar basin, in their

Carnegie professor of history.

TVA Duties Prevent Work In Iowa City

Prof. Sherman M. Woodward of the college of engineering, republican alderman from the second ward, will resign his city position at a meeting of the council tonight, he announced to The Daily Iowan yesterday.

Professor Woodward's duties as engineer on the TVA project with headquarters at Memphis, Tenn., have prevented him from attending council sessions since early this year. He was elected in 1933, and municipal light plant ownership advocates counted strongly on his vote.

Officials Fail To Agree On Sewage Plant

The first actual conference between city, state, and university officials over problems blocking the further progress towards construction of Iowa City's sewage disposal plant ended in a virtual deadlock yesterday afternoon following a two hour session in the city hall.

Conference Between City, University Ends In Virtual Deadlock

University engineers contended that primary treatment of sewage involving only two filters was sufficient. The Currie Engineering company had placed four filters in plans drawn up for the city, though the state board of health required only three, it was said.

General Smedley T. Butler again startled America when the former Marine corps commandant and stormy petrel charged he had been offered $3,000,000 by New York financiers to march upon Washington with 500,000 men and set up a fascist dictatorship in the United States. Vigorous denials by men he mentioned as "backers" of the movement followed publication of But-
shortly after his retirement several years ago, with scenes of the Capitol in Washington and trucks which brought the various bonus armies to the city in recent years.

A future in which air commerce, flying routes over the Arctic, will play an important part in world affairs was foreseen by Vilhjalmur Stefansson, polar explorer and author, in an illustrated university lecture in Iowa Union last night.

Before an audience of 1,800 which packed the main lounge of the Union after hundreds more had been turned away, the former Iowa student "debunked" age old superstitions concerning the Arctic and pointed the way to future progress in opening the north.

Quiet, Unruffled

A quiet and unruffled debunker, Mr. Stefansson brought back to the campus he left 30 years ago his scientific discoveries and laid them before his audience to support his faith in the northern civilization of the future.

Cochran Talks, Shows Slides to Garden Club

Mrs. Breene Succeeds Mrs. Lloyd Howell As Assistant Head

Colored slides of Iowa gardens and illustrations of flower arrangements accompanied a lecture given before members of the garden department of the Iowa City Woman's club by Lee Cochran, superintendent of the extension division mailing room, yesterday at 3:30 p.m. at the home of Mrs. F. C. Young, 336 Beldon avenue.

Illustrations of formal, informal, rock, and pool gardens used during the lecture were of gardens all over Iowa.

Mr. Cochran described proper and improper flower arrangements and showed slides of each kind. Too many flowers and a few of them crowded together are the principal things wrong with arrangements, Mr. Cochran pointed out. They should look as natural as possible, he added.

Containers have a great deal to do with good and bad arrangement, he said. Slides used for the lecture have been sent from Ames.

Mrs. C. E. Seashore talked about the improvement on the road from Iowa City to Cedar Rapids. This year the department is sending bulletins to farmers instead of offering prizes for the most improvement.

At the business following the talks, Mrs. F. T. Breene was elected new assistant chairman to succeed Mrs. Lloyd Howell, who resigned.

A committee of the department is now making plans to distribute plants to hospital patients at Christmas time.

Launch Farm Rehabilitation Program Here

Committee Will Buy, Equip, Lease Farms To County Needy

Victims of the farm depression will be given another chance to establish themselves on farms through the rural rehabilitation program for Johnson county, Hubert E. Pye, case worker of the Social Service league in charge of the rehabilitation movement for the county, said yesterday.

"Persons who have been farmers will be set up on farms and will be given all necessary equipment including animals, seed, machinery and adequate buildings. The farms will range in size from five to 80 acres, and will be leased by the Iowa State Emergency Relief administration for a period of one, two, or three years," Mr. Pye said.

Two Types
"Two types of persons will be given a chance to obtain a farm home: those who have lost out during the depression through no fault of their own, and those who have worked as farm hands.

"The character, desires, and hobbies of the persons applying for farm homes will be thoroughly investigated before their application is granted. Persons on relief because of industrial depression will not be considered by the rehabilitation committee.

"Fifteen applications have been filed to date. We are ready to place several but have not found property to lease. The government guarantees the rent and leases the farm.

National Moves
"This program is one of the national moves to overcome the depression by lending money. All of the money necessary to buy machinery, stock, pay rent, and other expenses will be repaid the national government by the individual. Expenses of setting up the farms will be kept as low as possible. Support and cooperation of the neighbors of these re-established farmers is necessary to make the movement a success," he said.

Member of the recently selected Johnson county committee are: Elmer Coulter, Frank Krall of the county board of supervisors, Rufus C. Choate, resident engineer of emergency relief administration; Dr. W. L. Bywater, administrator of emergency relief in the county, and Mr. Pye.

The committee will take care of the detailed arrangements for obtaining farms and will instruct the new tenants when necessary.

Civil service systems of the federal, state, county, and city governments, with a comparison to the British civil service organization will be the theme for a new League of Women Voters study group organized by several of the local league's representatives Wednesday, at a meeting in the public library.

The group, part of the league's department of government and its operation, will meet alternate Tuesdays from 10 to 11 a.m. The first meeting is scheduled for Dec. 4.

Organizers of the new study group are Mrs. Evans A. At the first meeting Mrs. Cherrington will present an historical background of the civil service attempt in the United States from 1789 to 1820. Mrs. Worthley will continue the history from the Jackson regime, the beginning of the spoils system, to the end of the Civil war.

At succeeding meetings the program will be a talk by Mrs. Ralph Ojemann on expansion and some corrections of the civil service system from the reconstruction period to the present time; a delegation by Mrs. Mengert of the British system; and discussions conducted by Mrs. Flisk and Mrs. White, respectively, on the state and local (city and county) civil service offices and the men who occupy them.

Eunice Prien Leads Girl Scouts Song Fest; Plan Camp

"Shoo, fly don't bother me! Shoo, fly, don't bother me!" echoed in the halls of the American Legion building yesterday afternoon as Girl Scouts gathered for a song fest with Eunice Prien, visiting Girl Scout staff member.

This old Southern air, revived by Ethel Barrymore in "High Jinks," was one of the singing games Miss Prien presented to the girls yesterday. "Here We Go Round the Mountain" was another. She taught a variety of rounds and ballads such as "Rise Up O Flame" and "The Keeper."

Songs form a large part of the program of the meeting with the local Girl Scout leaders last night.

Plans for an outdoor camping at the Rotary Boy Scout camp tomorrow at 11 a.m. were made by the leaders. Ham broiled on an open fire with pineapple and cheese will be the main dish for the meal. Game ways of preparing for hikes, nature games and second class test work were the highlights of Miss Prien's training course last night.

We found out that the best tobacco for use in a pipe grows down in the Blue Grass Section of Kentucky, and it is called White Burley. There is a certain kind of this tobacco that is between the tobacco used for cigarettes and the kind that is used for chewing tobacco.

What Others Think
The Race Has Started
 (From The Kansas City Star)

Ever since the end of the World war the danger of an international armament race has been constantly cited as a compelling reason for the conclusion of a general agreement on the part of all nations to limit their preparations for war. The argument has become so familiar that there is a tendency to ignore the fact that it no longer applies. As the Austrian government has just declared in its appeal to be relieved of the involuntary disarmament imposed by the peace treaties, an armament race is now already in progress. What the world has feared has overtaken it, and those observers who deplored the lack of achievement at the disarmament conference so far have been abundantly justified.

This development, however, only increases the importance of the work of the conference. A major disaster to western civilization is measurably nearer as a result of the current arms competition. The need for an agreement has shifted. The governments of the world no longer are being called upon to prevent an armament race; they are having to stop one. The rearming of Austria hardly would be a contribution to that cause. On the other hand, the proposal of the United States for a strict control of the armament trade by licensing and publicity, while a minor step, is at least headed in the right direction. The principal hope in the present situation is that its increased urgency will produce the cooperation essential for the safety of the world.

Cultural Notes On The Iowa Campus

WE ARE disgruntled. It irks us to see students handle a knife or spoon as though it were a shovel. Nor is it pleasant to see a piece of bread buttered, folded like a blanket and devoured in two bites. Rules of etiquette are of course as unknown as the Book of Kells, but the reading of a few fundamental suggestions might not be harmful.

Drinking soup from a bowl is a healthy custom, but hardly an appetizing display. And anyway, soup spoons really do work if one knows how to use them.

But it is not in the matter of etiquette alone that we are irked. The Iowa campus has been covered so frequently and so thoroughly with manure that the lawn should soon resemble the Argentine pampas (isn't that where the grass grows so tall?)

But we would almost rather do away with the grass if it is to be acquired at such a price. After all, persons with poor manners can be avoided, but it is virtually necessary to walk across the campus. If the lawn must be fertilized, one remembers a government bulletin somewhere which mentioned several cheap fertilizers that would be far cleaner and would not call for a clothes pin on the nose.

New Days For The Farmer

PREDICTIONS by Iowa State college economists of increased prosperity for farmers in the coming year was by far the best news that has reached this portion of the country for many a year.

The farmer has been the victim of steadily declining economic fortunes for so long that his relief has acquired the status of a traditional problem. Political parties have spent most of their time for a generation professing their good intentions and vying with one another in the extension of sympathies. But the farmer has found that sympathy will not raise the price of farm commodities, nor halt the skyrocketing cost of farm machinery and other things he has to buy. He has been caught between the cogs of inexorable national and international developments in the economic machinery and the too often harmful efforts of politicians whose interests were centered in the industrial and financial areas. Repeatedly promised relief never came and the mortgage became heavier year by year.

The farmer came to the point where he hardly expected deliverance, and considered taking things into his own hands. Occasionally he did, and found that he could at least cause a few healthy shudders in important quarters.

During the present administration he has been given more consideration than he has ever before received at the hands of government aid and natural conditions at last promise results which might restore his lost position and defeat the mortgage.

Revolutions And Secret Sessions

THE RECENT large noise about schemes for replacing the United States government with a fascist dictatorship should lead no one to rash conclusions. General Butler has a reputation for making large sounds with small whistles; on the other hand, it is not at all impossible that certain interests have given much thought to such plans for revolution. If they have, the public should know about it.

The American people have been led for so long to believe that their danger lay in the imminence of a communist revolt that they have not realized the greater danger of a fascist movement.

Fascism holds more danger for this country merely because it commands the sympathetic support of more financial power and would command more blind allegiance on the part of already strong groups of reactionaries.

The American system of government can and will withstand the attacks of all such movements, whether fascist, communist or whatever, as long as they are forced to argue their cases in the open. The committee on un-American activities should bear this fact in mind during the promised investigation and put an end to its secret sessions, for which there is no possible excuse.

—Don Fryor

GOOD MORNING

The journalism building has been listening to the winds of so many winters that yesterday's cold bluster made it mean like an aged cow lost in a blizzard on the plains.

Like the cow, it has so many corners for the wind to whine around, and so many loose ends dangling forlorn and miserable. So it stands, hunched in a decrepit heap in the midst of an unfriendly world, and groans a plea to die.

The journalism building on winter nights is filled with more unutterably painful sounds than the graveyards of superstitious fiction.

Forty-four years of use for purposes totally incompatible have left it wondering and complaining and dejected. But there is something brave in its dreary whining, a sense of unrecognized importance and of great events in which its own part is remembered only by the creaking rafters and the groaning joists.

It began proudly and righteously as a mustering place for soldiers of the cross. It harbored many a meeting of earnest young people trying to find the "way of light" through the wicked brambles of the "gray nineties."

Perhaps it wonders, like the rest of us, how many of them found it and whether those who did have followed it. That was a long while ago, and many of those who worried then about the little inconsequential and planned great lives have died; others have perforce decided that it made no difference after all, and some, a very few, perhaps are winding up their accounts in the warm and peaceful satisfaction of lives well spent and ambitions realized.

But the old building in its jaundiced age cannot waste too much time with these. It had hardly come of age when the calm current of existence became ruffled and the forces which once counseled peace and love began preaching hatred and murder.

The journalism building had a part in that, too, but not one of which it is very proud. Of course war time anything one could do for the "cause" was worthy, but to house the indiscreet savours of the country who suffered from what was called in those head-biding days "social diseases," was not something for a respectable building to shout about from its towers and chimneys.

So it keeps rather quiet about it, and only chuckles a little sometimes when the wind strikes its funny bone just right and sends reminiscent echoes through the vast empty spaces of the attic.

And after that, when it had been cleansed with a thorough washing, the building with its new worldly wisdom took part in the post-war debacle. It saw the coming and the going of prosperity and spiked beer, and shook meanwhile with the ominous and unsteady rumble of presses and strange machinery.

It has suffered since through constant shifting of its walls and the not too considerate transformation from its ancient purposes to its present turmoil. It has been patched and painted, repaired and propped so often that it must feel by now it is fuddled to be old.

All this while it has watched the growth of new buildings all around, and has seen the center of activity shift until it was lost to sight across the river. In all this movement it has been largely neglected, until even the meager grass on its parkways became ragged and its waterspouts spilled the torrents of storms wildly down its sides, eating old mortar from between the bricks.

But it is in the winter, when the frantic north wind wheels with insistent questioning around its gaunt corners, that it speaks its most sorrowful recital and threatens to crumble despite props, patches and repairs.

Behind The Scenes in HOLLYWOOD
 By Harrison Carroll

HOLLYWOOD, Cal.—Up until the time they slipped away from their wedding reception, Ginger Rogers and Lew Ayres didn't know where they were going for their honeymoon. It's a fact. Filmdom's newest bride and groom had talked of moving to Monterey and they also had the offer of a "friend's" cabin in the mountains.

They were still debating when he made a perfect escape from the wedding party at the Ambassador hotel. And, in the end, they settled the matter by flipping a coin.

The mountain cabin won.

No furs and feathers for these honeymooners either. When they headed out of town, Ginger was wearing a sport coat, knitted pajamas and a beret, while Lew was attired in corduroy trousers, a lumber-jack shirt and a slouch hat.

What well-known comedian is so embarrassed? In a high-stake game the other day, he could play the hand only one way, to win the pot. A kibitzer ducked out of the room, called the comedian on the phone and told him what was in his opponent's hand. The ruse was discovered but not before the comedian had paid off anyway.

A beauty contest winner who succeeds is news. About a year ago a Detroit paper sent Agnes Anderson out to Hollywood.

She arrived thrilled and hopeful, got the promised contract at M. G. M., but nothing happened. Unlike so many beauty contest winners, however, Miss Anderson has intelligence and stick-at-it-ness. She studied at the studio school and she landed one part at the El Capitan theater here as the nurse in "Men in White." Then she began playing up and down the coast wherever she could get a job.

The other day brought her reward—an important part at M. G. M. in "Vanessa." And, not to name any names, but some important people were being considered for the role.

Dengler Offers Peace Solution For Austria

Suggests Alliance Of Central Europe Would Oust Nationalistic Mood

A united central Europe with Vienna as the nucleus was presented as a sound solution to Austria's problems yesterday by Prof. Paul L. Dengler, visiting Carnegie professor of history, in a talk which opened his second series of lectures under the auspices of the history department. The address was given in chemistry auditorium.

"Even before the war, these countries were never too friendly, and patters have not been greatly helped since that time," Professor Dengler asserted. "The safe family, fighting the same family wars, but under different roofs. Their slogan evidently: 'Dear neighbor, I hate you!'"

Czechs Superior

Czechoslovakia on the north, Jugoslavia on the south, and Hungary on the east; they are remnants of the Austria-Hungarian empire. Czechoslovakia is the strongest, culturally, financially, and geographically. She has secretly cherished a "hurt" feeling, because her political views were left out altogether, in the formation of the old Austrian-Hungarian empire. Jugoslavia, with her many conflicting races and surrounded by enemies, is much weaker. Hungary, the patriotic country, has much the same problem as the Czechs. She feels insulted because her intricate language is scoffed at by her neighbors.

Up to Younger Generation

"These countries," he said, "feel no sympathy towards each other. The only hope is that the young people will have the desire to go out and errand."

get acquainted with their neighbors. They are far from an understanding, but 'when there's a will there's a way'."

Austrians and Germans have always been friendly individually, even though their governments were not in accord.

"My sincere wish," said Professor Dengler in closing, "is that some day, Austria and her neighbors may reach a happy solution to their disagreements, and I hope some day to see them all united with Vienna as the center of government."

Prof. Bordwell of Law College Writes Article for Law Review

"A wiping out of equity would leave the law hopelessly inadequate," writes Prof. Percy Bordwell of the college of law in an article in the November issue of the Iowa Law Review, which was published yesterday.

"Equitable relief overshadows relief at law. Most of the artificial barriers between law and equity, however, have been removed and it should be possible to have a well-knit, harmonious system of law and equity beyond anything that has existed in the past," he points out.

Professor Bordwell traces the history and development of equity from its inception in the fourteenth century to the present time in the United States.

Other articles appearing in the Iowa Law Review are: "Attacking a Defective Pleading," by Dwight G. McCarty; "The Evolution of the Doctrine of Discovery and Its Present Status in the State of Iowa," by Buell McCash; and "Equity Jurisdiction in the United States Courts with Reference to Consent Receiverships," by Stanley L. Sabel.

Under the same cover with the Iowa Law Review appears the Iowa Bar Review, official publication of the Iowa State Bar association. It deals with affairs of interest to members of the association. The Iowa Bar Review is a new publication on the campus and this is the first time it has appeared in conjunction with another periodical.

SEEN from OLD CAPITOL by TOM YOSELOFF

Some notes about the first snow of the year.

Vilhjalmur Stefansson, coming to lecture here for the first time in three or four years, arrived just in time to see the first snow. Which is a rare consideration shown by the weather in his honor. Iowa City, known for its hospitality, looked like home to the Arctic explorer.

Wilson Fall of New Orleans, a sophomore here, saw snow yesterday for the first time in his life. Although he has seen 25 summers—yes and 25 winters, too—he had never before seen snow. Mr. Fall modestly explained it in this manner: "I've never been where it snowed."

However, he does not believe that he should be ostracized for that reason. When anyone comments on his lack of experience in the art of snow seeing, he asks: "Have you ever gone through a winter without seeing snow?" That gets 'em.

This department offers some woe and ate for the Spinster's Spree, and the woman can sell a Hawkeye, too. A young man, who describes himself as "6 feet tall, tolerable dancer, stammerer," offers to buy a Hawkeye from any woman who will take him to the Spinster's Spree. It sounds like a good bargain here, and I will give the necessary information to any sorority saleswoman who is interested. And no shoving in the line.

Prof. L. Charles Raiford of the chemistry department has a sense of humor, or something. It seems he asked the other day a question con-

Frederick Kent Designs New Type Manuscript Camera

Manuscripts, newspapers, books, or diagrams, of any size, can now be photographed for permanent records with a camera designed by Frederick W. Kent, university photographer.

The camera is modeled after the Recordak, a machine used extensively in commercial houses, which requires the use of expensive materials and can photograph only uniform size subjects.

The special feature of Mr. Kent's camera is that it takes pictures at a faster and less expensive rate, and of any size. Five hundred pictures are photographed without reloading. They are projected on a screen at book size. Prints also can be made from the films to put into book form.

The instrument has especial value for research workers whose work requires the use of rare manuscripts. Such an instance occurred last week when some members of the medical staff wanted certain data on brain surgery.

The data is contained in a journal which was compiled 30 years ago. There were only 100 copies printed, and presented to various institutions throughout the world. It is impossible to buy one at the present time.

The medical college was able to borrow a copy from the Mayo clinic, Rochester, Minn., for one week. But one week was hardly long enough to examine the complicated diagrams in the text for research workers who intend to spend years on the study of brain surgery.

The journal was brought to Mr. Kent's photography laboratory in the physics building. He photographed the 400 pages of the manuscript in less than 30 minutes, and the journal is now permanent university material to be projected in complete form on a screen whenever it is required.

Lasky Fights Levinsky

Heavyweight Set-up Hopeless if Kingfish Triumphs

By CHARLES DUNKLEY (Associated Press Sports Writer)

CHICAGO, Nov. 22 (AP)—The highly scrambled heavyweight boxing situation may become entirely hopeless if King Levinsky, Chicago's reformed fish merchant, succeeds in defeating Art Lasky, of Minneapolis, regarded as a genuine menace to Max Baer's reign as world's champion, in their ten-round battle in the Chicago stadium tomorrow night.

Levinsky is presented with an opportunity to upset the heavyweight structure and a suspicion that he may be able to do it is expected to attract 15,000 customers who will pay perhaps $40,000 to view the battle. The Minneapolis Hebrew, who defeated Levinsky on points in Los Angeles last summer, is being aimed towards a championship match with Baer and if he is able to beat Levinsky, a match with Max Schmeling at Miami in February will follow.

Baer on Hand
The importance of tomorrow night's fight is reflected in the fact that Baer, the champion, hauled himself out of a sick bed in Mexico and will arrive in time to witness the bout. Another reason for his presence will be a four-round bout in which his gigantic brother, "Buddy," weighing 243 pounds will tangle with Frank Ketter, sturdy Chicago wallpaper. Max will second his brother in this bout.

Baer is convinced that Lasky is the man he will have to fight when he defends his heavyweight championship next June and the chief reason for his Chicago appearance is to take advantage of the opportunity to study the Minneapolis boxer's style.

Lasky and Levinsky came through their training in splendid shape. Levinsky is expected to weigh 202 pounds, the lowest tonnage he has achieved since he convinced Jack Sharkey a year ago that retiring was a good idea. Lasky's handlers say he will scale about 199 pounds.

Levinsky, who has a habit of scoring upsets, realizes that victory will shove him to the top of the heavyweight challengers and for that reason is determined to triumph.

He Was Sick
"When I fought Lasky last time I was sick," Levinsky boasted. "Lasky knows that. He will not knock out the old Kingfish. He will wind up on the floor himself. He ain't nothing but a herring nose palooka. He was lucky in that last fight, but I am ready for him this time."

Lasky is just as determined to win impressively to insure matches with Schmeling and Baer.

Tomorrow night's bout will be the first promotional venture for the fistie firm of Jim Mullen and Nate Lewis, veteran matchmakers with a national reputation in the sport.

HAWKEYES CLOSE SEASON TOMORROW

Solem Takes Squad of 33 To Columbus

Odds Favor Buckeyes; 8 Sophomores Appear To Start for Old Gold

Our Hawkeyes headed east yesterday afternoon, departing Iowa City from the Rock Island station at 2:50 for Columbus, O., where they are scheduled to tangle with Ohio State's high scoring Buckeyes. Tomorrow's contest will close the somewhat dismal University of Iowa grid schedule with, fans fear, a convincing defeat.

With Coach Ossie Solem and his squad of 33 gridders go faint hopes that the Hawks will walk off the field victors in this season's finale. Hopes are for a good showing, however. Iowans are banking on play from sophomores, indicating finer prospects for next year. Certainly there will be no visions, as preceded this season, of a Big Ten championship.

No Final Workout
The Iowans left minus the usual departure day light warm up drill, rain and snow flurries cancelling this. A short session will be staged in the Ohio State stadium this afternoon, however. This week's drills have been hampered by rain and mud, causing Wednesday's workout to be held in the fieldhouse. Against a weighty team such as Ohio State a wet playing field might be a help, but even a muddy gridiron can hardly hold off what is apparently inevitable.

The Iowa line, impotent all season, should be bolstered by sophomores who have borne the brunt of play in the last three games. On the basis of this week's drills, it appears that the starters will be Corney Walker and Frank Jakoubek, ends; Jim Kelley and Rudy Leytze, a junior, tackles; Clarence Dee and Floyd McDowell, guards; Ted Osmalowski, center; Capt. Russ Fisher, quarterback; Paul Atkins and Johnny Hill, halfbacks; and Dick Crayne, fullback.

3 Veterans in Lineup
Captain Fisher, Leytze and Crayne are the only veterans, and Fisher will be the only man not available next year.

Tomorrow's contest will be the intercollegiate gridiron swan song for nine seniors on the Iowa squad. The seniors are: Capt. Fisher, Fred Radloff and Jerry Foster, tackles; Harold Weber, center; Marvin Kuhn, guard; Bernie Page, end; and Herman Schneldman, Bill Ash, George Teyro, halfbacks.

With little hope that a running attack will be able to dent the Buckeye forward wall that outweighs the Iowans with a mean of 203 pounds to 189, the Hawkeyes have worked on forward passes this week as much as a slippery field and a wet ball will allow. Although Page, chief pass catcher until the Purdue game, will be out of action, Jakoubek has been fitted into the gap.

Baffling Buckeyes
Defensively, the Hawks have been taught to expect anything from Coach Francis Schmidt's lads—swift dashes by Dick Heekin and Frank Boucher, plunges by Damon Wetzel, fullback, and a baffling assortment of forwards and laterals which sometimes give the Buckeyes the aspect of a basketball team on the wrong playground.

One reporter, two photographers, a gentleman of the road slightly in his cups, and a small, white, wire-haired dog were on hand to observe the Hawks' departure.

Cubs, Pirates Swap Players at Baseball Mart

Athletes Get Chance To Take Turkey For Thanksgiving Dinner

A chance to take home the Turkey for Thanksgiving dinner will be given to all men who are not engaged in varsity athletic competition tomorrow at 4 p.m., when the annual Hawkeye run will be held over the two mile course on Finkbine field.

A traveling cup will be awarded to the winner of this event, and 25 ribbons, a turkey, goose, duck, and a hen, will be additional prizes.

Ed Hass, now a member of the cross country team, won the race last year, covering the course in 10:45.

George Teyro To Help Coach U. Hi Cagers

Kistler Will Arrange Cage and Grid Cards At Meeting This Week

In an effort to raise basketball out of the slump into which it has fallen in the last two years, officials at University high school have secured the services of George Teyro, University of Iowa football star, to aid Coach Joy Kistler in turning out a winning team at the river school this year.

With 25 men out for practice, the squad will be divided into sophomore and varsity teams. Kistler will have full charge but in order to devote more time to his varsity squad will turn the reins of the "spoh" aggregation over to Teyro, who will not begin his new duties until after the Thanksgiving vacation.

Kistler plans on taking the sophomore team on all the trips that the varsity makes to play games with other similar quintets in the Eastern Iowa conferences. As yet no games have been scheduled, but the University high mentor plans to make out a schedule, at the annual meeting of the conference officials.

Tomorrow's contest will be the intercollegiate gridiron swan song for nine seniors on the Iowa squad. The seniors are: Capt. Fisher, Fred Radloff and Jerry Foster, tackles; Harold Weber, center; Marvin Kuhn, guard; Bernie Page, end; and Herman Schneldman, Bill Ash, George Teyro, halfbacks.

Bobby Jones to Play Exhibition Match On Pacific Coast

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 22 (INS)—Bobby Jones, the king of golfers, will play an exhibition round here Sunday at the San Francisco Golf and Country club.

Jones will be paired with Stuart Hawley, Jr., northern California champion against Lawson Little, British and American amateur champion, and Ernest Pieper, Jr., San Jose, Cal.

The match will be a charity affair, the proceeds going to a children's home maintained by the Junior League of San Francisco.

Hawk Runners Take Optional Workout in Preparation For A.A.U. Meet Here Thursday

With only a few days remaining before the running of the thirty-seventh annual National A.A.U. cross country meet, Coach George T. Bresnahan is rounding an eight man team into shape that should make an impressive showing against their older and more experienced rivals, here on Thanksgiving morning.

The squad took an optional workout last night on the Finkbine course, that found most of the men working on sustained speed and endurance, building up a reserve of both, to be turned loose against such entries as Ray Sears, Billy Zepp, Eino Pentti, Tom Otley, and Joe Mundy. One of the last long distance time trials for the Hawkeyes will be held this afternoon at 4:30, when the squad will cover the 10,000 meter course, the same distance that will be run in the national meet.

Another national champion, William Dreyer of Barrington, Ill., was added to the roster of distinguished runners who will compete here next Thursday.

Dreyer, a 30-year-old unattached athlete, last June won the national 10,000 meter junior title in the A.A.U. track meet at Milwaukee. He has taken five of nine races at various distances this year and finished second in three.

The Illinois runner informed Coach Bresnahan that he will hitchhike to Iowa City early next week and will practice over the 8 1/4-mile turf course. He has been training for the long race all fall.

Within the past week, additional distinctions have been won by other individuals and teams which have entered the national race. Tom Otley, Olympic athlete, won his second consecutive national intercollegiate title in New York Monday, finishing the six mile course with a lead of 200 yards.

Largely because of Otley's win, and the third place of J. N. Gardner, sophomore runner, Michigan State college was able to retain its team championship. The Spartans, after defending their Central Intercollegiate crown Saturday, will send a full team here.

The Milrose A. A., which will attempt to take the team title for the third straight year, easily won the Metropolitan A.A.U. race, with Eino Pentti, national senior 10,000 meter king, beating his Olympic team mate, Louis Gregory, by 40 yards. Gregory has won five American championships in distance races since 1929.

As has been the case in most of the national meets of the past, the Thanksgiving day run will be one of quality rather than quantity. Practically the entire field of competitors will be composed of men who at some time have held the national sport spotlight.

Grapplers Will Come to Grips In University Meet Dec. 12, 15

All Undergraduate Men Eligible Except Those With Varsity 3 Years

Coach Mike Howard has completed plans for the all-university wrestling tournament. The final round will be staged Dec. 15 at 4 p.m.

All entries must be made before 5 p.m. Dec. 11. Weighing-in will take place Dec. 12 until 2:30 p.m. and two pounds overweight will be allowed.

Elimination by preliminary matches will last two days, Dec. 12 and 13, beginning each afternoon at 4:15. Any undergraduate student will be eligible to participate in the tournament, except those who have already had their three years with the varsity.

About 40 entries, 12 of them freshmen, are expected to take part in the meet. Coach Howard is anticipating some good matches, especially those which will involve freshmen against the upper classmen. Byron Guernsey and Don Maland, Mid-West A.A.U. champions in the 118 and 145 pound classes, respectively as well as Iowa high school title claimers, will be fresh representatives expected to make showings in the tournament.

Earl Kiehorn, National A.A.U. champion in the 165 pound division, and Robert Larson, a 135 pounder, are varsity men who will be hard to beat.

The grapplers will struggle under the regular intercollegiate rules. Ten minutes will be the time limit on each match with three minutes allowed for overtime periods.

There will be contests in all eight classes. Gold medals will go to first place winners with silver medals to second place winners in each division.

Dizzy Dean, Pitcher Of Baseballs, Wants $25,000 Next Year

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Nov. 22 (AP)—The price Jerome "Dizzy" Dean will charge the world champion St. Louis Cardinals for his 1935 services will be $25,000—not one cent more nor less—he said tonight.

Dizzy, whose words had a business like tone that belied his nickname, said that when he was in St. Louis recently, Sam Breadon, owner of the Cardinals and Branch Rickey, business manager, offered him $15,000 and offered his brother, Paul "Daffy" Dean, $7,500 to sign contracts for next season. The Deans refused, Dizzy said.

Tentative Card For City High Cagers Drawn

Wells Hands Squad Passing, Shooting Session

The City high Little Hawks were divided into two squads in yesterday's practice, the freshmen and sophomores being segregated to form a separate team. After the division 17 men remained as varsity candidates.

Coach George Wells gave his men a long drill on passing fundamentals and on shooting from the territory immediately surrounding the basket. Taking into consideration the fact that yesterday was only the second session of the year, the squad shaped up well.

Dave Barry Charged With Bank Swindle

CHICAGO, Nov. 22 (AP)—Dave Barry, whose "14-count" as a referee in the 1927 Dempsey-Tunney fight brought him national attention today was named with two associates in larceny warrants charging a $55,000 swindle of the Amalgamated Trust and Savings company.

Barry, his business partner, Joseph Baiata, and Abraham Karatz, former St. Paul, Minn., attorney, were the only persons of 10 taken into custody who faced formal charges tonight in connection with the bank manipulations described by Otto Van Derck, 23 year old clerk who revealed the dealings voluntarily to police.

Prosecutors said the warrant naming Barry and his two associates was hastened to halt habeas corpus action brought on behalf of Barry, who with the others is now held in lieu of $10,000 bond each.

Irish Practice Fundamentals

New phases of fundamentals were introduced to St. Pat's cagers in a lengthy drill held last night. Coach Father Ryan mapped out a new style offense and defense for the Irish.

Four candidates are making strong bids for first string positions with Leuz and Toomey, only veterans returning. Coach Ryan has been using the lengthy Patterson at the center position with Healy at forward.

Two me, Coen, and Carrigg, have been working with Toomey at guards. The former has been getting the call in practice sessions with Carrigg alternating at guard or forward.

The speedy little Healy has demonstrated unusual ability in hitting the hoop and despite his lack of size may be the scoring spark which the basketball needs for victories.

Lindstrom And Larry French Sent to Bruins

Pittsburgh Gets Bush, Weaver and Herman; Wrigley Cub President

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Nov. 22 (AP)—The tireless hunt of Chicago's Cubs for a first class southpaw hurler finally succeeded today at the big major-league player mart when they obtained their long sought prize, Larry French, along with Outfielder Freddie Lindstrom in a straight trade with Pittsburgh for Pitchers Guy Bush, Jim Weaver and Outfielder Babe Herman.

In swinging the deal, the Cubs beat Manager Bill Terry of the Giants to the draw. Terry offered Carl Hubbell to the Pirates for Lindstrom and French and planned to send Lindstrom to the Cubs in exchange for Outfielder Kiki Cuyler.

Long Sought Lefty
Not since 1920 when big Jim Vaughn's star was setting were the Cubs able to get a left hander of established worth until they pulled the outstanding dal of the Louisville meeting today.

They had Art Neft several years ago but he was on his way out then. And while they still hoped to complete the big reorganization of their hurling staff through the (Continued on Page 7)

Don't Wait—Like This Fellow Did!

Wells' principal problems seem to be the development of one or two men who are dangerous shots from well out on the floor, and a system of attack which will utilize fully the height of the men.

Tentative Schedule

County Relief Plan Given

Wilson Announces Aid for Needy By Work, Direct Help

A new system of work relief is being planned for Johnson county, Frances Wilson, executive secretary of the Social Service league, announced yesterday. All plans for winter relief are tentative pending approval from the State Emergency Relief office at Des Moines.

"There will be two types of relief this winter, work relief and direct relief. Families on work relief will be given no assistance through direct help," Miss Wilson said.

"Work relief plans are expected to provide enough money to pay food bills, rent, fuel, clothing, and other necessities. Families will be, in this way, given a chance to plan their own budgets. Grocers have given their estimates of food costs for the winter, and these figures are used in formulating the work relief plans."

"All able-bodied persons will be on the work relief rolls. However, if families fail to succeed in budgeting their income, they will have to go to the direct relief in which they handle no money at all," Miss Wilson said.

"All of the plans for taking care of Johnson county poor are tentative until approved by the state officer in Des Moines. It is possible that a plan similar to the one in this county will be used in many other Iowa counties this winter," she said.

An age when the mere pressing of a button will change the color of your clothes, redecorate your house, and give you a sun bath at night was predicted yesterday at a Rotary club meeting by O. P. Cleaver, division engineer of the Westinghouse Lamp company of Chicago.

With the aid of slides and several newly invented types of light bulbs, Mr. Cleaver pictured a routine day in the life of some future man, for his audience.

"No longer will man be wakened by an alarm clock in the morning," he said, "instead he will be gradually brought out of his sleep by means of an electric sunrise and soft chimes. He will eat breakfast in a room flooded with artificial sunshine and then go to his windowless, television equipped office," he said.
