KIDNAPED BOY ALIVE, OFFICIAL SAYS

Patrol Chief Says He Will Be Returned; Others Silent

Report Renewal Of Activity at Home Last Night After Day of Quiet

TACOMA, May 30 (AP)—The terse statement of a prominent Washington state officer that kidnaped George Weyerhaeuser "will be returned alive" suddenly pierced almost impenetrable silence tonight surrounding the boy's abduction.

Officially breaking the veil of secrecy about the $200,000 ransom negotiations for the return of the little heir to a lumber fortune, Chief William Cole of the Washington state patrol declared:

Would Not Explain "The Weyerhaeuser boy will be returned to his parents alive." Chief Cole's remarks, which he did not augment, were the first to come from an officer who has permitted use of his name since nine-year-old George was abducted last Friday noon on his way home from school.

Probe Report British Columbia police also investigated a report that a car containing three men and a boy said to resemble little George had been seen near Agassiz, B.C., last night. A search of tourist camps in the vicinity was conducted without success.

Hitler Offers Treaty Draft

Sends "Air Locarno" Plans to Original Signers of Pact

LONDON, May 30 (AP)—Adolf Hitler today offered Europe his draft of an "Air Locarno"—the first specific German proposal for peace bulwarks on the continent.

Copies of the draft were sent simultaneously to Britain, France, Italy and Belgium, the four governments with which Germany signed the original Locarno convention designed to guarantee western Europe's frontiers.

Tonight the British foreign office was giving the German plan, details of which were kept secret, close study, but authoritative sources said Britain's answer would demand that Germany, simultaneously with signature of the air convention:

- 1. Join some general armaments and security agreement, and
2. Return to the League of Nations.

Usually well informed sources said they followed the general lines of the "Air Locarno," first proposed in February, which had in view not only mutual guarantees of the Locarno powers against air attacks but also limitation of air armaments.

These quarters said Germany insisted that the full French first line air strength of 1,700 planes be taken as the upper limit for restriction.

Bellboy Dies HOLLYWOOD (AP)—A movie-acting hog, Bellboy, handsome Hampshire boar from the Midwest, is dead. It was disclosed yesterday at the McKinley home for boys at Van Nuys, to which the animal was given after appearing in the film "State Fair" taken from the novel of Phil Stong of Iowa.

MINERS PLAN STRIKE OF 450,000

After calling at the White House to discuss the effects of the supreme court decision outlawing NRA, John L. Lewis (right), president of the United Mine Workers, summoned his aides to begin preparations for a strike in the soft coal fields which he said would begin June 17 and which would affect 450,000 workers.

Merry-Go-Round One Suit Follows Another — But You Figure Out These Legal Difficulties

Pointing out that Mrs. Basu Kumar Bagchi, wife of the defendant in a $10,000 alienation suit filed in district court Wednesday, received a divorce from M. L. Tandon Oct. 11, 1933, Attorney R. C. Davis declared last night that the petition is an attempt to counteract an $11,200 damage action now on file in Los Angeles county superior court in California.

Mr. Bagchi of India, who will receive his Ph.D. degree in psychology at Commencement Monday, June 4, filed suit in Los Angeles to collect $11,200, representing an $5,000 note and six year's interest, against Swami Yogananda, head of the Mt. Washington philosophic and religious center in Los Angeles, for services rendered over a period from 1922 to 1929.

Disciple of Yogananda Tandon, an Indian and disciple of Yogananda, asks $10,000 damages for the "alienation of his wife's affections" by Bagchi, who he claims "wrongfully and maliciously acquired an improper influence over his wife."

According to Attorney Davis, representing Mr. Bagchi, Mrs. Bagchi, then Gladys Weber of Los Angeles, Cal., married Tandon in New Mexico March 13, 1931. Mr. Bagchi, Mr. Tandon, and Miss Weber were at that time followers of Yogananda at Mt. Washington.

After Mrs. Bagchi's marriage to Tandon, she and her husband returned to Mt. Washington where she found work in a contractor's office. On Sept. 15, 1932, according to Attorney Davis, Mr. Tandon was ordered back to India by immigration officials. He returned in February of 1932. In October, 1932, Mrs. Tandon was granted a divorce from Tandon by Judge Dudley S. Valentine in Los Angeles county superior court for non-support.

Adventurer Tells Full Story Of Finding Missing Aviator

(Copyright, 1935, By The Associated Press) COLON, Panama, May 30—Tom Roche, the German-American adventurer, tonight produced a battered diary to corroborate his oft-cited tale that Paul Redfern, the American aviator who has been missing nearly eight years, is alive in a South American jungle.

Redfern, he claims, is crippled and living with Indians — too badly smashed up in a plane crash to move without the assistance of an expedition.

Produces Diary Roche reached the canal zone recently from South America, was arrested as a vagrant, and told his tale of Redfern. He dug out the diary today from his duffel in the baggage room of the Cristobol pier. It is written partly in English, but mostly in German. On the inside cover of the book, there is the penciled notation: "In case something happens to me, here is the truth of Paul Redfern, missing aviator, 1927, plane NXX773, Tom Roche."

Gave Address Roche claims this to be the address given him by the aviator. Asked why he never told American government officials in Trinidad or Venezuela his story, Roche replied: "I was nuts with fever all the time."

Dr. C. A. Hearne, the chief quarantine officer of the Panama canal in Cristobal said that Roche "had one of the worst cases of malaria I have ever seen" when he reached the zone.

Premier Flandin Overthrown By Vote of French Deputies

Nation Bows In Memory Of Its War Dead

Many Communities Join in Renewal Of Pledge

(By The Associated Press) The pledge of the nation to forever keep hallowed the memory of those who fell in its wars was repeated throughout the land yesterday.

In Metropolis and Hamlet, impressive parades moved through the streets as the ranks of blue and gray and khaki formed anew on the 68th Memorial day.

Martial Display It was a martial display with a wistful touch. The ranks of the silvery-haired veterans of the Civil war were pitifully scanty. Many a town had none left to do honor this year.

But straight and strong, the troops of the Spanish-American and World wars, regular army soldiers and younger members of patriotic organizations filled in the gaps.

Thousands turned out to see the parades, visit the cemeteries, pay homage at churches, or assemble at battlefields.

Disabled veterans in government hospitals hearkened back to the stirring days of conflict as 21-gun salutes were fired at army posts.

Governors Speak At the Antietam battle field, Governor Harry W. Nice of Maryland pleaded for a perpetuation of those "mobile principles" which inspired the Civil war soldiers.

At Gettysburg, Governor George H. Earle of Pennsylvania called for an end of "economic despotism, as completely as Abraham Lincoln ended the bondage of human beings." At the Kenesaw mountain battle ground, where 12,000 Union soldiers are buried, survivors of the Blue and Confederate forces held ceremonies for their departed comrades.

Indians and whites joined in the dedication of a rostrum at Custer National cemetery in Montana. There lie the bodies of the United States troopers massacred with General George Custer in the battle of Little Big Horn.

Forsaking Takes Part The A.E.F. commander, General John J. Pershing, participated in services in France for the 38,500 Americans interred there.

In London, the American Legion placed a wreath on the Cenotaph in White hall and United States Ambassador Robert W. Bingham decorated the tomb of the British unknown soldier.

Six Cripples Wage Strike

Refuse to Get Out Of Office; Demand Jobs for 200

NEW YORK, May 30 (AP)—Six young paralytic cripples waged a hunger strike in the department of welfare offices today, determined to remain there until they had obtained jobs for 200 members of the unemployment league for the physically handicapped.

The six, three girls and three men, called at the headquarters of City Relief Administrator Oswald W. Knauth yesterday and after unsuccessfully seeking an interview with him refused to leave.

The offices, which are on the 20th floor of the Lower Broadway building, were closed today on account of the holiday and except for a few watchmen who were under orders not to molest them, the six strikers occupied the place in solitude.

As they passed their 24th hour with only a sandwich and a few chocolate bars for food, a disturbance developed in the street below when a committee of sympathizers sought to visit them.

Police used clubs on a few members of the crowd that gathered, but quiet was restored when two members of the committee were permitted to enter the building. They were accompanied by a physician who examined the strikers.

Fails in Plea For Power To Defend France

(Copyright, 1935, by the Associated Press)

PARIS, May 30 (AP)—The towering Premier Pierre-Etienne Flandin was overthrown heavily tonight in his demand for dictatorial powers to defend the franc, and Fernand Bouisson, presiding officer of the chamber attempted immediately to form a new government.

The deputies ended the premier's confidence by a vote of 533 to 202 after Flandin had fainted from the strain of his personal plea for support in fighting speculators.

The overthrow of the cabinet came after an impassioned plea from the towering premier for powers to forestall financial panic—a plea that was rejected by the chamber on a vote of confidence.

Flandin Faints The government had already started a raid on speculators accused of attacking the franc and prosecution officials announced the doors of at least one "financial establishment" were sealed. Several other institutions were reported to have been closed.

After his supreme effort to save his government, Flandin fainted in an anteroom of the chamber, and returned to his home, entrusting to former Premier Edouard Herriot the defense of his government.

Herriot made a strong plea to save the country from "political chaos," but he swung over only a few votes, his own radical socialists voting against the government.

Weak and haggard as the result of injuries suffered recently in an automobile accident, the towering premier took the rostrum in the tense, heavily-guarded chamber to announce that Louis Germain-Martin had resigned his finance portfolio.

An outspoken opponent of devaluation and the government's standard-bearer in preliminary stages of its battle to get parliamentary authorization to effect financial economies, Germain-Martin stated stonily as his chief announced that he himself would take the finance portfolio.

Asks Power Resting his bandaged arm on a cushioned support, the premier asked earnestly for power to issue legislation by decree to fight speculation and "give the country a psychological shock that will restore confidence."

Stabilization is the solution of the crisis, he said, "and would be the forerunner of prosperity."

While police and mobile guards surrounded the parliament building, Leon Barety, reporter for the chamber finance committee, graphically pictured the imminent danger of panic.

"Gold withdrawals increased alarmingly last week," he told the deputies, reaching 1,500,000 francs (about $9,000,000) Tuesday.

Police Lack Clues On Disappearance OMAHA, May 30 (AP)—Omaha police lacked any clues tonight to the whereabouts of Betty Barbara Clark, 15, of Lincoln, and Helen Nervig, 15, of Sioux City, who disappeared from Omaha last Sunday.

Raging Floods Cause Deaths In Colorado

Seven or Eight Die As Torrents Sweep From Mountains

COLORADO SPRINGS, May 30 (AP)—Scattered floods roaring down from the eastern Rocky mountain slope covered two towns, left an estimated seven or eight persons dead and wrought havoc with highway and rail traffic tonight.

Three were dead here, V. Cimino, who was swept from his horse in an attempt to rescue others, and an unidentified man and a woman who were brushed from the top of their stranded motor car.

Capt. Pete Cramer, of Colorado Springs was reported lashed to death by swirling water on Fountain creek while attempting to save persons on a house-top.

Three other persons, unidentified were believed to have been killed when the torrential Monument creek hurled a wall of water upon a house and rolled over it.

At Colorado Springs power, electric and gas service was disrupted, and train and highway traffic was washed out bridges and came perilously close to railway stations.

A torrent rushing down Kiowa creek struck Elbert, a small village 26 miles northeast of here.

A telephone operator, maintaining her post as the waters roared by, said she saw eight business buildings collapse before the torrent. The town's 300 residents fled to the highlands. Scores of homes went down under the boiling flood.

Japan Issues Warning, Delivers Demands to Chinese Government

TOKYO, May 30 (AP)—A stern warning and strong demands, based on charges of Chinese treachery, anti-Japanese agitation, terrorism and alleged violations of treaties, have been delivered to the Chinese national government, it was officially admitted today.

There were strong indications that the Japanese war lords again would act as they did in September, 1931, when the conquest of Manchuria began and control of the entire policy toward China was taken from civilian hands.

Garner "Mum as the Oyster" About Political Possibilities

WASHINGTON, May 30 (AP)—Vice-President Garner has nothing to say about the likelihood of his being the second name on the democratic presidential ticket in 1936.

He made it very clear today that whatever Postmaster General Farley, or others, may say about the matter, a mere mention of it is sufficient to send him into a silence as deep as that of the broad sage brush plains of his native Texas.

"I'm mum—mum as the oyster," he said, "I can't talk about that. There's nothing I can say about it all."

F. R. Remains Silent About Plan for NRA

President Talks To Advisers; Statement Expected Soon

WASHINGTON, May 30 (AP)—A mounting tabulation of price-cuts and wage slashes was maintained today at NRA headquarters, while President Roosevelt still felt for the public pulse before deciding what to do about NRA.

The chief executive went into the muddled situation with Donald Richberg, Secretary Perkins and members of the national industrial recovery board in a two-hour conference which discussed remedies generally but reached no conclusions.

Prevalent opinion was that some announcement might be expected from Mr. Roosevelt tomorrow although even that was still uncertain and was based principally on the fact that he has a press conference scheduled for tomorrow morning.

Leaving the president's office, Richberg in apparent good humor parried the questions of reporters generally, but did disclose the compilation of code abandonments which his aides at NRA were tabulating.

The plan is, he said, to make this record public, possibly tomorrow as a specific example of the immediate results flowing from the supreme court's decision that NRA's code structure was unconstitutional and therefore void.

The White House kept close check, too, on letters received. Of some 2,000, said Stephen T. Early, one of the White House secretariat, only three urged final abandonment of NRA, with the remainder advocating its continuance in such form as the terms of the court opinion would permit.

The Japanese war lords again would act as they did in September, 1931, when the conquest of Manchuria began and control of the entire policy toward China was taken from civilian hands.

Gilmore, Bush Address 600 At Commencement Dinner

Prof. Fitzgerald, Prof. Ensign, Ruth Aurner, Sidwell Smith Also Speak at Annual Affair; Senior Class to Give Mark Twain Room

"If the university has accomplished anything for you, it is because you have come to know some teacher who has given you inspiration," President Eugene A. Gilmore told more than 600 candidates for degrees and guests at the annual Commencement supper at 6 o'clock last evening in the main lounge of Iowa Union.

"This is more than an evening meal before we go out to the day's work tomorrow. This supper is a gathering together to unite on finding what our sojourn here has meant in preparation for the future," President Gilmore explained to the graduating class, stating one preparation for the future which has been gained at the university, he said "the relation of the student to the teacher will survive the years."

Bush Speaks

Calling on Prof. Stephen H. Bush, head of the Romance languages department, President Gilmore turned over to him the traditional talk to the graduating class.

"The present generation of graduates' attitude toward the future is one of personal responsibility for solving the destinies of the nation," said Professor Bush. Realizing that those problems can't be solved by untrained men, the solution rests upon college graduates who must solve their problems in a broad way, he said. The present generation's attitude toward the future was contrasted by Professor Bush to that of their fathers, whose great purpose was to find a place for themselves in life, and to their grandfathers, whose outlook was always individual, diagnosing everything of moral and spiritual value.

Prof. Rufus H. Fitzgerald presided as toastmaster at the supper and extended to all graduates a permanent welcome to Iowa Union, the "university hearthstone."

Ensign Talks

Speaking in behalf of the alumni, Prof. Forest C. Ensign, former president of the Alumni association, advised graduates to regard themselves as a real part of the alumni organization. "The success of the University of Iowa now rests in your hands, rather than in those of older alumni who will gladly give way to the power of young manhood."

"Wherever we are, let us resolve that a portion of our community will be forever Iowa," said Ruth Aurner, A4 of Iowa City, speaking in behalf of women graduates. "Whatever success comes to us is by our own abilities, nurtured on this campus, she said.

At graduation we first fully appreciate those who have made it possible for us to attend college, those who have made our life here pleasant, and the friendship we have had while on this campus, said Sidwell Smith, E4 of Iowa City, spokesman for the men graduates.

To Give Room

A Mark Twain room, with all the atmosphere of a river steamer's pilot cabin will be the class of 1935's gift to the university, said Melvin Dakin, L3 of Iowa City, chairman of the senior memorial committee. The room, which now opens directly upon the Iowa river at the west end of the river room in Iowa Union, will provide the setting for the pilot house.

From the outdoors, entrance into the pilot house will be gained through a wheel house, with a paddle wheel to be secured from an abandoned river steamer. Ironwork stairs will provide access to the bridge and sunporch above.

During the dinner hour By Golly's orchestra played popular tunes from the balcony. Professions of peonies decorated the speakers' table, placed upon a long platform at the north end of the lounge.

Speakers' Table

Seated at the speakers' table were President and Mrs. Gilmore and their daughter, Elizabeth; Professor and Mrs. Fitzgerald, Professor Ensign, Professor and Mrs. Bush, Miss Aurner, Mr. Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Dakin, Mrs. Walter A. Jessup, and Prof. and Mrs. Frederic G. Higbee.

Places were laid for a faculty host and hostess at each table. Serving as hosts and hostesses were Dean and Mrs. George E. Kay, Prof. and Mrs. Charles Bundy Wilson, Lois Blanche Corder, Lola Lindsey, Blanche McGurk, Dean Wilber J. Teeters, Prof. Zada Cooper, Dean and Mrs. Carl E. Seashore.

Dean and Mrs. Clement C. Williams, Prof. and Mrs. Edward Bartow, Lieut. Col. and Mrs. George F. N. Dalley, Prof. and Mrs. Clarence M. Updegraff, Dean and Mrs. Alvin W. Bryan, Prof. and Mrs. Benj. F. Shambaugh, Dr. and Mrs. John T. McClintock, Prof. and Mrs. George D. Stoddard.

Mrs. Adelaide L. Burge, dean of women, Prof. M. Willard Lampe, Dean and Mrs. Chester A. Phillips, Prof. and Mrs. Elmer W. Hills, Prof. Frances Zull, Mr. and Mrs. Henry G. Walker, Prof. and Mrs. Herbert Martin, Prof. Frederic T. Mavis, Prof. Henry L. Rietz, and Mr. and Mrs. William H. Cobb.

Reception

The graduating class will be guests of President and Mrs. Gilmore at the annual senior reception from 4 to 6 o'clock this afternoon. The reception will take the form of a garden party in the hill-top gardens, overlooking the Iowa river, behind the president's home, 102 E. Church street. In case of rain, President and Mrs. Gilmore will receive the graduates-to-be in the main lounge of Iowa Union.

Assisting President and Mrs. Gilmore will be Dean and Mrs. Kay, Dean and Mrs. Phillips, Dean and

Couple Marry In Iowa City

John R. Lindemann, Geneva Hunter Wed In Methodist Church

Geneva Esther Hunter, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George M. Hunter of Scott township, and John R. Lindemann, son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Lindemann of Scott township were married at 8 p.m. Wednesday at the Methodist Episcopal church in Iowa City. The Rev. Harry D. Henry, assisted by the Rev. Sylvester E. Ellis officiated at the single ring service.

Attending the couple were Mary Bowman, maid of honor, and Dwight Hunter, who was his brother's best man.

Preceding the ceremony Mrs. John C. Clendenin sang two solos. Mrs. Maud Whedon Smith played a 15 minute processional and Mendelssohn's wedding march at the organ.

A reception in the church parlors for 150 guests and relatives followed the ceremony.

Mrs. Lindemann, graduate of University high school, received her degree from the University of Iowa in 1934. She is an alumna of Sigma Kappa sorority and Eta Sigma Phi, honorary classical language graduate of University high school, was a student in the college of engineering for three years and was a member of Kappa Eta Kappa engineering fraternity. The couple will be at home after June 15 east of Iowa City, where the bridegroom is engaged in farming.

Women Will Entertain Four Former Students During Class Reunion

Mrs. K. B. Judy, 217 S. Governor street, and Mrs. F. L. Stevens, 214 S. Summit street, are cohostesses to four former University of Iowa students who have returned to attend their twenty-fifth class reunion this week end.

Their guests are Mrs. L. Joseph Eno of Bradford, Mass., Mrs. Marcus Zinsmaster of Des Moines, Mrs. Harry Reese of Sioux City, and Hazel Manatley of Fairfield.

Members of Club Observe Day With Various Activities

Memorial day was celebrated by Iowa City country club members with a variety of activities on the golf links and at the clubhouse yesterday.

A family supper, served at 6:30 last evening, was an innovation in activities at the country club. Places were laid for 40 persons at one long dinner table, decorated with bouquets of spring flowers.

During the afternoon a women's bridge party was in progress, directed by Mrs. George Froehne. High score prize was won by Mrs. R. N. Norris, and the second prize by Mrs. C. O. Ingersoll.

Men members played a round of golf during the morning. Mixed two ball foursomes were played in the afternoon. In charge of these foursomes were Mrs. Martin Shoup, Frank Pardubsky, Mrs. Albert Droll, and LeRoy S. Mercer.

Junior High School Girls Present Style Show for Mothers

Fashions were predominant when girls of Iowa City junior high school entertained their mothers at a style show and tea in the high school gymnasium Tuesday afternoon.

The girls, who were directed by Helen McCleery, modelled garments which they had made during the semester. These creations included aprons, blouses, pajamas, and school and sports dresses. Music and dances were presented by several class members for entertainment during the exhibit. Following the style show the girls served tea to 100 guests.

Arthur M. Steindlers Leave Iowa City On Trip Through East

Dr. and Mrs. Arthur M. Steindler, accompanied by Dr. Steindler's mother, Madame Caroline Steindler, and their two nephews, Frank Junk, and Hans Ehrenhoff, left Iowa City Wednesday morning for a motor trip through the east.

They will stop first at Norfolk,

Va., then drive to Philadelphia where Dr. Steindler will present a paper at the American Orthopedic association convention June 5 to 8. His family will drive to Boston, New York city, Washington, D.C., and other eastern cities while he attends the convention. They will return Iowa City June 17.

Hollywood Fashion Parade

By ORRY-KELLY

HOLLYWOOD, Calif. (INS)—Today is Grab-Bag day . . . We plunge our sturdy thumb and forefinger into the mysterious sack of new fashion tricks, and see what we pull out . . .

What's this? An evening gown? Nope! It's a nightie! And give a look! . . . there's a train . . . and a lot of ruffles . . . and a ruff around the neck . . . and long, full, sheer sleeves! Nightgowns, evidently, are taking their cue from the evening mode, and are plenty swish and feminine . . .

Let's look again. Ever hear of "the man with the green gloves"? Well, here's a pair of green gloves . . . only they're for ladies . . . and they weren't green when they came from the store . . . they've been dyed. Dyeing gloves is the newest Hollywood stunt . . . if you can't find them in suede or cotton-mesh of the exact shade desired, you dye them . . . these green ones were meant to go with a bunch of flowers in a tailored coat.

And I just dashed out into the studio wardrobe-workroom to see how a pair for Joan Blondell were coming along . . . they're going to be a swell shade of cerise, and Joan wears them in "We're in the Money" with a gray dress that has cerise coin dots, and a cerise hat.

Here comes a parade of bathing suits . . . too bad we haven't got a model handy to put them on . . . but never mind, this one speaks for itself . . . the lingerie influence has fought its way into the bathing suit field . . . Dolores Del Rio, Ann Dvorak, Mary Carlisle and lots of the girls have been wearing the ones that look like brassiere and panties . . . and now this one's like a snug teddy . . . of knitted wool lace, from Europe . . . and it's got Bette Davis's name on it, all ready to go to the beach.

Next, a dinner dress. But what's that material! As we live and breathe, it's suede . . . the whole thing. Navy blue suede, to be exact, soft and crushable and fitting the body as perfectly as a chamomile glove does your hand. It's floor length, has short sleeves, a high neck, and for trim, a row of wide, white suede bows down the front. Voris did it . . . just one of a number of new suede creations the Hollywood stars are going for.

Know what an "action back" is? Fullness, by pleats or gathers across the back of a jacket, usually, to give freedom for arm movement and a generally jaunty appearance. Loretta Young's gone that style one better . . . her newest dress in her own

Couple Returns From Wedding

Major, Mrs. Titus Attend Marriage of Son at McCormick

Major and Mrs. Elton L. Titus, 603 S. Summit street, have returned from a two week's trip to McCormick, S. C. where they attended the wedding of their son, Elwin Shirley Titus, who married Melba Thomas Corley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Corley of McCormick.

The marriage took place May 22 at 8:45 p.m. at the home of the bride's parents, with the Rev. D. R. Keller, officiating at the ring service. A reception at the home of the bride's parents followed the ceremony.

Mr. Titus received his B.S. degree from the University of Iowa college of engineering in 1931, and his M.S. degree in 1933. He is now employed in Knoxville as an engineer for the TVA. He is an alumnus of Triangle fraternity.

His bride is a graduate of Winthrop college in South Carolina.

Also attending the wedding was Fred Challa, University of Iowa graduate, formerly of Tipton.

Major and Mrs. Titus visited in Knoxville and in Tennessee on their southern trip.

U. S. May Get Three New States If Present Plans Go Through

WASHINGTON, May 30 (INS)—There'll be 51 stars in the American flag if three bids for statehood now being made are successful.

Puerto Rico has dispatched a committee from its legislature to urge the granting of statehood to the island, which now ranks technically as an American possession. A bill to grant statehood is now before the house committee on territories.

If Puerto Rico should become the 49th state, it would be the first state to be organized outside the continental limits. Alaska and Hawaii rank as territories, a condition which has usually been precedent to the granting of statehood.

American in Hawaii would also like to see it assume the status of a state. As a preparatory step they have been financing an aggressive publicity campaign to impress its status as a territory, rather than a possession, upon the states. Hawaii hopes to join.

May Succeed

Within recent months there also has been agitation for the creation of a new state from portions of South Dakota, Wyoming and Montana.

Details of the scheme communicated to representatives here indicate the plan is for the Black Hills region of South Dakota, the northern tier of Wyoming counties and several counties in southeastern Montana to secede and form a new commonwealth.

The movement is taken lightly here. Congress' approval would be necessary to the change.

A delegation of Black Hills citizens started discussion of the possibility of a new state after their overtures toward Wyoming looking toward annexation to that state were rejected. Several leaders in the movement mentioned the possibility of creating a new state out of the southwest corner of South Dakota. The talk spread to surrounding regions and before long

Catastrophe

Champion Hitch-Hiker Sprains His Best Thumb

CHICAGO, May 30 (AP)—It happened! A hitch-hiker hurt his thumb. It was no ordinary, run-of-the-road hitch-hiker either, but Mr. "Limestone Slim" Howe, of New Castle, Wyo., who claims to be champion of all the west when it comes to flagging rides along the highways. He told about it today in between rueful glances at his bandaged hand.

"In Cedar Rapids, Ia., I jerked my thumb without looking, he said, with a sigh. "It hit a stone post. I had to have it treated and actually pay my fare to Chicago. Here I am, disabled, stuck."

He gave this testimonial to his own abilities:

"There was something about my left thumb that motorists couldn't resist."

Of course, that was the one he injured.

Someone suggested that Howe could wag his way to New York with his right thumb. But he shook his head and explained:

"It won't work. When I hold up my right thumb everybody wants to give me a ride west. I can't go east with it."

Mrs. McGinnis Dies at Home Of Daughter

Funeral arrangements will be completed this morning for Mrs. Clara E. McGinnis, 81, who died yesterday at the home of her daughter, Mrs. A. T. Crawford of Coralville.

Mrs. McGinnis had lived most of her life in Iowa City and was an active member of the Methodist church. The funeral will be from the Crawford home and burial will be at Oakland cemetery. The body will be at the Oathout funeral home, Time for the service will be arranged today.

Clara E. Donaldson was born Aug. 18, 1853, in Pennsylvania. The family moved to Iowa City when she was 6 years old. She married Joe W. McGinnis here Nov. 5, 1872. Surviving here are 10 children, Dr. James F. McGinnis and Ernest of Santa Barbara, Cal.; S. A. McGinnis of Rock Island, Ill.; Clyde McGinnis of Cedar Rapids; Ray McGinnis, Joe McGinnis, and Wesley McGinnis, all of Iowa City; Mrs. Jacob Sheetz and Mrs. Frank Rohrer of Cosgrove, and Mrs. A. T. Crawford of Coralville. Twenty-five grandchildren also survive.

Marker Placed on Grave Of First Person To Die Here

A bronze marker was placed yesterday on the small tombstone of Cordelia Swan, first person to be buried in Iowa City.

The marker was placed at the grave with a simple ceremony conducted by the Pilgrim chapter of the D.A.R.

In presenting a brief history of the Swan family, Mrs. Sarah Palne Hoffman, recent of the local D.A.R. chapter, said that Cordelia was the daughter of Chauncey and Dolly Swan. She died Sept. 19, 1839, at the age of five years, four months, and 26 days.

"Mr. Swan was the most popular man in the community in its early days. He came here from Dubuque May 1, 1839. There were three cabins here when he arrived. He was the first commissioner, first superintendent of public buildings, and was in charge of the sale of building lots.

U. S. Foreign Policy

"WHILE WE HAVE not in every instance viewed problems eye to eye, yet our common outlook and the many traditions which we share have enabled us to work together in appreciation of the importance of a constructive policy favoring the promotion and preservation of peace."

Any indication that the United States might be ready and willing to cooperate with Great Britain in a drive for world peace is encouraging, though there should be no illusions in the minds of Americans as to results.

The British suffer no illusions about the likelihood of America's participation in any effective program calling for international cooperation.

One feels so certain that all these developments are imminent that it does not seem rash to consider them inevitable. Their inevitability, in fact, has been evident to everyone but the French ever since the world economic conference in London in 1933.

France has maintained her gold position only by the most heroic efforts, reminiscent of the fanatic zeal of the old extreme mercantilists who considered gold more important to a nation than food and shelter.

Under two years of pressure resulting from the devaluation of the dollar and the pound, France at last is beginning to lose some of her fanaticism.

Consequently, the world might as well get ready to make the best of eventualities and to look forward to another economic conference in the not far distant future at which some kind of stabilization agreement will be not only possible, but probable.

It will be remembered that the London conference came to a bitter end after a short session marked by complete confusion because the "gold bloc" nations insisted upon stabilization on their own deflated level before any other questions could be considered.

With the collapse of that conference, virtual war was declared between Great Britain and the United States on the one hand, and France and her gold standard allies on the other.

The first major victory came with the collapse of the Dutch guilder a few months ago. At that time it was obvious that the franc could withstand attacks against it only for a short while and at great cost.

Complete victory will have been won when Premier Flandin is denied the dictatorial monetary powers he is asking and his cabinet is replaced with another more sympathetic to the political predicament of the deputies.

Then the last great gold standard currency will have fallen from the golden throne. Assuming wise management, it will then find its place within a few months at something resembling its "natural"—an unfortunately ambiguous word—in relation to other currencies.

When that process has been completed, it will at last be possible for the nations to arrive at some acceptable agreement by which many of the vagaries of international currency fluctuations can be minimized if not avoided.

Japan And Stabilization

Of the numerous recent gestures in the direction of currency stabilization, none is more interesting than that which has just appeared in the Japanese newspaper "Asahi."

Clearly, there is a more genuine will today for stabilization than has existed since 1931. But beyond this the movement to date has made little progress. At the moment opinion is almost hopelessly confused over such questions as whether there should be an immediate return to gold at fixed parities, or merely a "pegging" of the principal currencies at levels mutually agreed upon, preliminary to an ultimate return to gold.

On one or two points however, it can be said that there is a fairly clear general understanding; and one of these is that Great Britain cannot possibly consider tying her currency to gold in the absence of some assurance from Japan that it will not seize the opportunity to improve its competitive advantage in British Empire trade by further depreciating the yen.

Good Morning

Even before this appears in print, France is apt to be well on the way toward abandonment of the gold standard, devaluation of the franc and all the other monetary "catastrophes" she has so religiously avoided.

One feels so certain that all these developments are imminent that it does not seem rash to consider them inevitable. Their inevitability, in fact, has been evident to everyone but the French ever since the world economic conference in London in 1933.

France has maintained her gold position only by the most heroic efforts, reminiscent of the fanatic zeal of the old extreme mercantilists who considered gold more important to a nation than food and shelter.

NRA Trouble May Extend Congress Term

WASHINGTON, May 30 (AP)—With congress nearing the end of its fifth month in session, the question mark that represents the future of the NRA today reared head as a threat to the hopes of senators and house leaders for an early adjournment.

Majority chieftains on both sides of the capitol contended that should President Roosevelt move to patch up his wrecked recovery administration with a system of voluntary codes, permissive legislation might be passed without changing the projected early adjournment.

But if a more ambitious plan should be attempted, such as writing a new recovery law or substituting a constitutional amendment, leaders conceded it would throw an adjournment plan into the discard.

The senate gave evidence of a determination to push ahead with the president's legislative program which must be acted on regardless of what happens in connection with the NRA situation.

While the disorganized house laid away the week, the senate did the pile of legislation awaiting its consideration, headed by the utility holding company bill and the social security program.

Debate was considered certain to be carried into next week on the utility bill.

A brief on constitutional questions prepared by attorneys for the federal power commission, upon which Senator Wheeler (D., Mont.) sponsor of the measure, relied, was being studied closely by Borah of Idaho and other senators.

They will be replaced by barbers, hair dressers, manicurists, stenographers, and typists.

The survey which dealt with a study of occupations of gainfully employed workers in Iowa from 1900 to 1930 was made by the population and social trends committee.

Female Workers According to data presented in the report, female workers were found in 150 of the 171 occupations listed, but only in 57 occupations did they comprise more than five per cent of the total number of workers.

Number Increases The percentage of the female population which is employed has been steadily increasing, and women gainfully employed form an increasing proportion of the working population.

In 1930 the percentage of women employed has increased from one seventh in 1900 to one fifth of the total working population in Iowa.

The greatest increase has occurred in the number of stenographers and typists. There were 5,941 women in that occupation in 1910 and 11,755 in 1930.

In 1900 seven out of every 10,000 female gainful workers were actresses and showwomen; in 1930 the figure had increased to 183; women photographers showed a similar increase.

IRA Trouble may Extend Congress Term WASHINGTON, May 30 (AP)—Congress nearing the end of the 48th month in session, the quarrelsome mark that represents the IRA today reared head and threatened the hopes of peace house leaders for an early adjournment.

Forty chieftains on both sides of the capitol contended that should Roosevelt move to patch up the wrecked recovery administration with a system of voluntary permissive legislation might be passed without changing the date of early adjournment.

If a more ambitious plan is attempted, such as a new recovery law or substantial constitutional amendments, it is conceded it would throw the government into the dust.

Rough and Tough Minister to Fight Accusing Enemies

DE RIDDER, La., May 30 (AP)—A minister who can write his name with a "six-shooter," wears a 10 gallon hat and likes horse races, flashed defiance through steel-blue eyes tonight in his jail cell as he branded "enemies" those who accuse him of killing a Texas officer.

Rising to his full height of six feet, two inches, the Rev. Edgar Eskridge, 40, announced he would wage the most bitter battle of his turbulent career to prevent being released to Orange, Tex., authorities for the slaying there of Police Chief Ed J. O'Reilly.

"However, I'll go back willingly with Texas rangers," said the dark-haired pastor of the Baptist church at Orange.

A vice-crusader and bitter critic of law enforcement in Orange county, Texas, he declined to discuss accusations that he killed O'Reilly because the officer arrested him on a charge of impersonating a Texas ranger during a raid Sunday on a night club.

O'Reilly, who was baptized into the church by the Rev. Mr. Eskridge, was slain on a street corner in Orange yesterday with a shotgun fired from a motor car.

"I stand on my two hind feet and never compromise my principles," the Rev. Mr. Eskridge said today.

Americans To Repair Great Wall of China

PEIPING, May 30 (INS)—After 2,000 years the Great Wall of China is to be repaired. American tourists and not the exigencies of national defense are behind the move.

Yearly hundreds of American visitors come to Peiping and make the short train journey to Chinglung-chiao on the Peiping Sulyuan railway. There they mount the Great Wall and wander over its stretches as it climbs the mountains.

Top surfaces of the brick work have been loosened while the various towers and crenellations have disappeared. This havoc of time and predatory natives is to be restored as part of a million dollar campaign fostered by American tourist interests to make Peiping a tourist capital and promote transpacific travel on U. S. ships.

At the same time a fund has been set aside for the repatriation of the 5th century A.D. Buddhist carvings at Tatum on the Peiping Sulyuan railway. Thousands of figures of the Buddha were carved in the living rock there but faces have been stolen for sale to American curio hunters and the temples allowed to collapse.

Critic of New Deal Receives Demo Position

WASHINGTON, May 30 (AP)—A stiff battle between Roosevelt and Talmadge forces in the Georgia preferential primary a year hence was forecast in democratic circles here today upon word of the governor's election as democratic national committeeman from Georgia.

The democratic high command apparently was not surprised over the selection of Talmadge as successor to the late Major John S. Cohen, close friend of President Roosevelt. Leaders said the senate executive committee is dominated by the Georgia critic of the "new deal."

Talmadge forces attempted unsuccessfully at the state democratic convention last September to oust Cohen by naming Rayburn Clay, Atlanta banker, as the national committeeman.

While Talmadge's election today to fill the vacancy caused by Cohen's death May 13, was held in democratic quarters to be in form, the democratic governor will attend but one meeting of the presently constituted national committee—the one to be called next January for the selection of a convention city.

The fight over whether he will be a committeeman after 1936 will come at the Georgia preferential primary next May, when delegates are elected to the national convention. A plan is afoot among Roosevelt followers to elect its own Georgia slate of delegates.

There is a possibility that if two slates are named in Georgia, the

Ceremonies, Parade Form Program In Honor of War Dead

Lest we forget! More than 3,000 Iowa Citizens didn't forget yesterday as they gathered at Oakland cemetery to honor the patriotic dead who paid with their lives on a hundred battle fronts.

Tribute to the American dead opened at 7 o'clock yesterday morning when the local American Legion post members and Boy Scouts decorated graves.

Honor Sailors
A ceremony honoring the sailor dead was conducted later in the morning at the Iowa avenue river. Members of the Women's Relief corps cast flowers on the river to conclude the tribute.

A colorful parade of patriotic organizations, led by Maj. Will J. Hayek, moved off from Clinton and Jefferson streets to Oakland cemetery at 9:30.

Legion Program
Following a short ceremony at the G.A.R. lot with J. L. Chamberlin presiding, the American Legion platform program was staged.

The program included invocation and benediction by the Rev. E. E. Dierks, reading of General Logan's order by John W. Ray, Lincoln's Gettysburg address read by James R. McVicker, "In Flanders Field" recited by Mrs. Ruth Crayne, and an address by Capt. Roy V. Rickard of the military department.

ADVENTURER Tells Story of Meeting Aviator in Jungle

Roche met three jungle Indians. They motioned to him to follow them. He paddled his cayuco to a small South American native boat up a little river and entered a large lake.

After two or three hours on this lake, he saw a village containing nearly 100 huts on piles six or seven feet above the ground. He endeavored to talk to them in both Portuguese (the national language of Brazil) and Spanish, but they were unable to converse in those languages.

There came a day when Chief Kirikirsoto of the tribe occupying the village came to him and pointed at the differences in the coloring of their skins in an effort to tell Roche that another white man was farther up the lake.

Drew Picture
"It took me two or three days to figure out what he was trying to tell me," said Roche.

Finally, with two guides, Roche entered the cayuco and paddled along the lake. One of the guides drew a picture of a bird on the sand and attempted to say by the sign language that a white man had flown down from the sky, adding, with more gestures, that he was hardly able to move.

Roche wrote a note which he dispatched with the Indian saying, "Please send me your name and condition on a banana leaf."

He said the Indian returned with a palm leaf on which was written in charcoal: "I am an American pilot and have been here five years and am crippled. Please come over to see me. Paul Redfern."

Met Redfern
Roche asserts that at the time he did not know who Redfern was. He says he went on till he reached a hut in which Redfern, helpless and unable to return alone to civilization, was living. He asked his Indian guides to assist him in carrying Roche out, but the guides, harboring the white man under a "medicine man superstition" refused to render aid.

He asserted that Redfern told him he took off from Brunswick, Georgia, at 3 a. m., August 25, 1927, on his birthday, in an attempt to fly to Rio Janeiro, having 500 gallons of gasoline and 200 liters of oil.

Redfern told him, he said, that on his flight he passed Mall Pilot Robert Moore near Bermuda and a Norwegian ship "Christian Crogh" 250 miles from Trinidad, the ship giving him his position. Later he flew over Margarita island and Campano, a little north of Trinidad, then saw the mall men in a motorboat going southwest in the direction of Orinoco at 3 p. m. (apparently August 29).

Hit Mountain
He said he intended to follow the coast to Brazil and passed 100 miles east of Gurata, 50 miles below Georgetown, passed Chutbough and San Andres, but he did not locate Cleveland or the Rio Ayapuca. He saw a fire burning at what he believes was Macapa at 8 o'clock that night and had intended to pass over the Rio Zinku, and the Mattoo Grosso and Maranao, but did not see him.

Then, Roche says Redfern told him, he crashed into a mountain. Roche declared that Frank Buck, the wild animal hunter, and Armand Dennis of the Eastman Kodak company, would hear out his claim that he was a jungle explorer. He claims he owns two farms near Auburn, New York.

In Memoriam

"Memorial day is not a day for celebration; it is a day for meditation," proclaimed Capt. Roy V. Rickard of the military department in a Memorial day address yesterday at Oakland cemetery.

"We honor the patriotic dead, not because they have departed from the earth, but because of what they did while they were here," Captain Rickard continued.

"The struggle for humanity these thousands of years has been for life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness. One by one, the shackles of bondage have been cast off until in America today, we are living in the freest country God's sun has yet shone upon.

Privileges
"We must not forget that every privilege we enjoy—the rights of freedom of the press, free speech, freedom in religion, personal security, and the opportunity to provide for ourselves and our children have been purchased for us with the sweat, treasure, and blood of these patriots whom we honor today. They paid with their lives on a thousand battlefields.

"More words have never given us one of these rights. No treaty, no declaration, no proclamation, no resolution, no statute means a thing until backed by a determined physical purpose. Words which are not or can not be backed by deeds are mere futilities.

Sacred Trust
"The true American regards the rights of his citizenship to be a sacred trust handed down by the patriotic dead. We are the stewards of this heritage. These talents are always in jeopardy. Every generation must earn its own salvation. We cannot depend upon the virtue and strength of our fathers to protect us from the sins of today.

"The institution of self-government which we covet so highly stands to be banished from the earth unless it is made virile and strong. The few remaining self-governments of the world must hold their own against the dictators if they are to endure.

Nation Will Endure
"The American nation will endure unless it becomes overrun with the type of man who thinks the world owes him a living without his effort, or who says his country owes him security without sacrifice on his part, or who suffers others to lose their souls in order that he may save his own. This type of individual, of which we have too many, is a pervert of special privilege and alien to the spirit of democracy.

"Those who believe that we need a watchman at the gate are often called hard names and are accused of having selfish interests in silk and military titles and war profit. We are even accused of wanting war. No one ever charges the policeman with wanting crime or the fireman with wanting fires. I say to you, in no uncertain terms, that soldiers and sailors do not want wars, but like floods and fires, they come.

Laws Fail
"Many hold that wars have been outlawed and therefore any preparation to resist them is a waste of time and funds, if not a crime. To outlaw war is not nearly enough. Moses outlawed theft; men still steal. He outlawed murder; men still kill. He outlawed perjury; men still bear false witness. It would be just as easy to outlaw fire and flood as to outlaw war. When the state of war exists, all laws have filled except the law of war.

"War is not a cause but an effect. It will cease when the causes cease, or when one combatant imposes his will upon the other, not before. If wars are to be obliterated, the cause must be eliminated," he concluded.

Station Speaks
WASHINGTON (AP)—A call for citizens to visit "hot displeasure" upon "those who seek to alter the constitution and enhance their own powers by subterfuge and indirection" was sounded in a radio speech last night by William H. Stayton, secretary of the American Liberty league.

The game in the second to put the Elks ahead, but the lead was short-lived, for the junior chamber came back with a pair of scores in the half of the same inning.

After the first half of the fourth the game was called by mutual consent of both the players and donkeys. The spectators, weak from laughing, and the Elks, weak from chasing the ball and urging obstinate donkeys, made for the exits, leaving the victorious junior chamber team grouped about the pitching mound howling their success to the skies.

Victory Junior Chamber of Commerce Triumphs Over Elks in Classic Ball Game

Cantering down the stretch in high gear, Iowa City's Junior Chamber of Commerce last night made good its boast and broke the tape with the 1935 donkeyball title securely tied to a halter, after trouncing the Elks 7 to 1 before some 700 boisterous fans at Kelly field.

It was a bitterly bucked contest, and at times assumed the aspect of a wild west rodeo. But the junior chamber possessed a more persuasive way with the mounds, and emerged from the dust proud and unbeaten, though slightly bent in back and limb.

"Pinky" Wilson, with the donkey-sense of a Texas sage, captured the hitting honors by maneuvering a grey, spindle-shanked animal, resigned to its fate and offering little protest, as did most of the others, around the bases and over the plate twice.

John Sullivan, struggling around left field on a brown donkey, which exemplified the spirit of docility, made most of the putouts. He had a private contest with his animal, seeing which could perspire the most. Sully claimed the victory.

For the Elks, Bill Horrabin gathered what laurels there were by loping his donkey over home plate in the second inning for the lone Elk tally.

However, it was Gus Pusateri, clambering off and on his mount from a shortstop's position, who got the big hand from the crowd. Gus had a little difficulty mounting, and a little more staying on, but his fielding was determined, if a bit unsure.

Perry Oakes did the pitching for the winners. Despite the fact that he and his catcher, Tyman, were the only Junior Chamber of Commerce players who did not have to ride while in the field, he was the lone casualty. Oakes was hit in the eye by the ball in the early stages but finished the game.

Waldo Geiger drew a cantankerous grey donkey the first time he went to bat. A long struggle returned the donkey winner. The next inning Geiger went to the outfield, and the last inning he went behind the plate.

The junior chamber's impression of "murderer's row" lived up to expectations by providing 1,412 laughs and three home runs. Fred Robertson, Austin Brisbois and "Pinky" Wilson were the long-distance clowns and clouters.

Brown, riding fourth for the Elks, had the dubious honor of making the last out in the first half of the fourth. The junior chamber had knocked in five of their seven runs

Parents Plan Celebration For July 4th

Music Auxiliary To Arrange Affair At City Park

With only little more than a month until fire crackers will be bursting in mid-air on the Fourth of July, members of the Parents' Music auxiliary of Iowa City high school are laying plans for a celebration which they hope will be "the biggest and best" in the city's history.

All profits from the day's activities, which are to center at City park, will be used to send the high school band to the national contest next year. Having won superior rating in the state for the last three years, the Iowa City band is eligible for the national meet without further competition.

Two ball games are being planned for the program's main features. It is possible that a parachute jump will be attempted at the afternoon session. Another highlight of the afternoon will be a bathing beauty contest. Mrs. Harry Jenkinson will direct the contest.

An event new to Iowa City will be a log rolling contest on the Iowa river. The high school band will present a series of concerts throughout the day.

The auxiliary is planning to have the usual "rats" and pop stands on the grounds. Dancing will be featured at the park pavilion both afternoon and evening. The whole affair will be closed with a display of fireworks.

Plans for the celebration are under the general direction of Mrs. Albert Graham, chairman of the celebration committee.

Group Fears Child Labor Will Return

NEW YORK, May 30 (AP)—Fear that invalidation of NRA industrial codes "means a return of child labor" was expressed tonight by the National child labor committee.

The committee said it would redouble its efforts to obtain ratification of the federal child labor amendment and expressed a hope that a temporary stop-gap would be found meantime.

"It is unthinkable that child labor should be permitted to regain a foothold in American industry," said the committee. "Yet with the end of the NRA codes the employment of children will again be legal in many states, in some even under 14 years."

"Moreover, with the removal of present wage restrictions, it will again be profitable for unscrupulous employers to exploit low paid children, and reputable employers will be forced to meet their competition."

Meanwhile shops, factories and business offices were closed over Memorial day, bringing a temporary lull in price cutting competitions and giving executives an opportunity to reconnoiter the situation.

With ratification by 12 more states needed before the child labor amendment becomes law, the child labor committee said it would be early 1937 before its objective could be attained.

Install An Automatic Gas Water Heater

ANNOYING, isn't it—this business of turning a A faucet marked "Hot" and finding that the water runs luke warm or cold?

Time after time there's the trip to the basement to light the heater before bathing—Or the necessity of heating a teakettle of water before shaving—Or the delay and inconvenience of awaiting Hot Water for dozens of other household tasks.

But, listen, please! All of this bother and fuss is unnecessary nowadays. An automatic gas water heater in the home will solve the water heating problem once and for all—will guarantee plenty of Hot Water with the turn of a faucet, no matter what the season.

Investigate the automatic gas water heater soon.
