New York Fashion Parade

By MARGAET GARRAHAN
(International News Service Staff Correspondent)

NEW YORK, June 5 (INS)—"Vital" is the way they're describing the new fall things to be placed before our marvelling eyes shortly . . . and although they're jealously guarded in all the sanctums' innermost nooks we hear . . . that the very sporty swaggers is turning formal, of all things . . . the coats are running to swirling full skirts . . . evening gowns are slim, sly-like sheaths with fish trains and such, and daytime clothes are fuller skirted and shorter. Chapeau No. 1 will be a turban and those dizzy little crowns—already giving way to things more substantial—will be the most bygone of bygones . . .

Meanwhile there's the present to consider and each shop seems to have its pet foolishness. One is delighting passersby with whole window full of what-the-well-dressed-rancher-will-wear—everything so gay and batty you begin to yearn for the wide open spaces right on the subway platform. They have swashbuckling blue jeans combined with a red and blue checked gingham shirt and hammered metal belt, and a bright woolsen trouser skirt with a natural chamois blouse (laced with strips of bright green suede to match green inserts on milady's boots) that'd make any gal look like a gypsy. There's a beautiful white fringed suede bolero and trouser skirt, too—to be worn with a cerise silk shirt, turquoise scarf and Indian beaded gloves . . .

Beach and cruise wear is another weak spot—and a back-buttoned pair of pj's with a don't-give-a-darn bolero, all done in candlewick muslin, their ace. White gabardine goes into a honey of an evening gown for cool nights at sea—a sweeping affair of tempered Empire design with a big sailor collar banded in blue. Then there's a blue denim fishing suit with fitted jacket and short Hindu trousers . . . a tremendous plaid linen cape with a hood attached—meant for wear over either a bathing suit or cotton evening gown . . . a sailing suit of white sateen—this, slacks with a loose hooded tunic . . . and another weather outfit—high-waisted short slacks and tuck-in blouse, also hooded. Both have slide fasteners, storm sleeves and cupper-equipped packets—plus water-proofed silk linings . . . and they come in jade, red, copper and royal as well as white . . .

An artist friend sends us this—

Gentlemen:

Here's a rough idea of how I looked before I got acquainted with Arrow Sanforized-Shrunk shirts. Look at that floppy shirt—the collar has gone haywire, the cuffs have an attack of wanderlust, the bosom has buckled so much I was ashamed to show it. No wonder I was having glamour trouble!

Things are different now. Arrow shirts have come into my life. The collars fit perfectly, the sleeves are in my correct size, and remain that way, and the tailoring looks like a custom job. Life for myself, my friends, and my mirror, is certainly less irksome since I adopted Arrows—thanks to Cluett, Peabody & Co.

Sincerely,

F. G. COOPER

THE DAY IN WASHINGTON

(By The Associated Press)

Democratic Leader Robinson predicted no NRA legislation except the "skeleton" extension measure at this session despite hints that President Roosevelt had carefully left the way open for expansion of the recovery agency.

Utility holding companies received a fresh attack from the usually quiet Senator Brown (D-N.H.) who branded the holding system a "racket."

Four government agencies studied plans for a survey to discover the needs of the nation for new homes.

The house passed a bill authorizing the construction of army air bases to guard Alaska, Panama and the frontiers from attack.

Secretary Wallace sent to congress the revised AAA amendments designed to "make certain" the continuation of the processing taxes.

The house labor committee amended the Wagner labor disputes bill to place its basis on the right of congress to regulate interstate commerce, thereby seeking to avoid possible supreme court objections to the measure.

The house labor committee got under way with officials of the American Retail Trade Assn. Inc., saying they had been unethical in their dealings with governmental officials and congressmen.

Rally 'Round the Roundhouse

Look Behind Scenes During Railroad Week

You'll be welcome 'round the roundhouse in Iowa City during railroad week, June 10 to 15.

The "iron horse," which has recently been hanging up new laurels for speed and safety, will be "at home" to Iowa citizens at the Rock Island roundhouse during Railroad week.

Local Rock Island officials announced yesterday that the public will be invited behind the scenes of railroaddom. Persons will be made welcome at the roundhouses, regular shops, and other plants of the transportation field which has been called "America's industrial backbone."

On Its Mettle

It is needless to say the locomotive is now on its mettle because of recent speed achievements. The iron horse is not only ready to haul a record-breaking host of summer excursionists over scenic western America, but as in the past, it is prepared to help drag America out of a depression, according to Harry G. Taylor, chairman of the Western Association of Railway Executives.

Railway officials said that the "good ole iron horse" will be slicked up for visitors during Railroad week. The visiting public will see the headlights, drive shafts, driving wheels, and signal lamps gleaming and shining.

Worship Safety

In the railroad shops the visiting public will witness, perhaps for the first time, how railroaders wor-

Plans and specifications for the lodge are being furnished by the office of J. Bradley Rust.

The building will be under the direction of the board of directors of the Iowa City lodge. Members of the board are: Mr. Kurtz, president, Leo E. Kohl, Charles Benda, William Parizek, George Oharra, Attorney Will J. Hayek, Phil H. Katzenmeyer, Anton Meintzer, and Charles Lacin.

Richberg Expects To Leave NRA

exception of those features and provisions held invalid by the court," Robinson told reporters. "I do not expect further legislation on the subject during the present session."

"Unquestionably the study of the problem will continue. Effects of the decision will be taken note of and when and if conditions indicate the necessity for further legislation it will be presented."

Meanwhile Donald R. Richberg, NRA chief, left a discussion with President Roosevelt saying that he did not expect to head the temporary NRA and hoped to stick to his previous plan of quitting NRA as soon as possible after June 16. No decision had been reached, he said, on the form the new organization would take.

Complete Surrender

Representative Snell, the republican leader, in a formal statement, interpreted the president's proposal as "more in the line of a complete surrender than you would expect from the present occupant of the White House."

"It seems to me," Snell said, "that if the NRA had so many redeeming features as its supporters and propagandists have told the American people it had, that it is certainly surprising to have it abandoned without any effort whatsoever of preserving those parts of it that admitted to be of benefit to the people and probably could be taken care of within the limits of the supreme court decision."

Receives Proposals

Mr. Roosevelt received two proposals today for continuing NRA principles. One, from Senators Nye (R-ND) and King (D-Utah), would have the authority of the federal trade commission over fair trade practices broadened. The other, backed by Secretary Perkins' interstate conference on labor contracts, favored treaties between the states as the approved method.

President's Purpose

The president's purpose now, as expressed in informed quarters, is to let the nation compare conditions under the codes with conditions since their abandonment and reach its conclusion whether the supreme court's interpretation of federal power as outlined in the decision demolishing NRA is to stand.

Staff at Work

To that end Mr. Roosevelt proposed keeping a part of the NRA staff at work gathering comparative statistics on industry before and after NRA ran up against its supreme court debacle and see that the government buys only from manufacturers who observe standards of minimum wages and maximum hours.

Drafting of necessary amendments to the already approved senate resolution to extend NRA until April 1, 1936, was begun today.

Democratic leaders expressed con-vidence a resolution making the NRA measure a special order could be obtained and the measure would be approved by Friday night.

Every Delegate To Help Shape New Platform

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., June 5 (AP)

—Every delegate to the "grass roots" conference of republicans from nine midwestern states will have a hand in the shaping of the platform under plans announced today.

Temporary Chairman Harrison E. Spangler of Iowa disclosed headline addresses would be limited at the rally here next Monday and Tuesday and every delegate would be requested to submit his resolutions and suggestions.

Take Stand

Spangler and his associates predicted the meeting will take a stand on all political and economic questions to be involved in next year's presidential campaign.

So far, only three men have been definitely named as major speakers—former Governor Frank O. Lowden of Illinois, who is to oppose President Roosevelt's suggestion for constitutional changes; Spangler, the "keynoter"; and John D. M. Hamilton, Kansas committeeman and permanent chairman.

Speak at Tomb

Arthur M. Hyde of Missouri, former secretary of agriculture will speak at Abraham Lincoln's tomb.

"The centralization of government," Spangler said, "as proposed by President Roosevelt, is not controversial. All republicans in the middle west oppose it."

Change Name

From Earl B. Searcy, G.O.P. leader in the Illinois senate, came the suggestion that the conference "consider changing the name of our party from republican to 'the American party' or 'the nationalist party,' if necessary, in order to make all patriotic Americans opposed to any change in the form of government feel at home under its banner."

Capital Punishment In Modern Society

WITH THE double hanging of Elmer Brewer and Patrick Griffin, slayers of a Black Hawk county deputy sheriff three years ago, at Ft. Madison yesterday morning, the age old question as to the place of capital punishment in modern society arises in the minds of all thinking people.

If hanging, shooting, gas chambers and other forms of capital punishment could make some restoration for the lives taken by killers, then there might be some justification for it. If society felt that the hanging of her enemies might automatically reduce danger of further crimes, then capital punishment would be a decided benefit and the rapid extermination of criminals would make the country safe.

What Would You Do?

IF YOU ARE a conscientious objector to war and bloodshed, what would you do if facing a problem such as that of Philippe Vernier, a young French clergyman? Vernier was condemned to solitary confinement in a military prison because he did not want to "be trained to kill."

At his trial, he told the court: "I recognize the right of the law to condemn me, but I cannot recognize its right to take possession of my conscience. I believe that the French law which obliges all young Frenchmen to kill or prepare to kill is contrary to the truth."

Vernier, 26, received a sentence of two years. Upon expiration of the sentence he will again be asked to do military service and, if he refuses, he will return to solitary confinement. This may go on until he is 50 years of age.

Less Speed, Fewer Accidents

WITH SUMMER school will come an increase in traffic violations for the police to handle. As is typical of a college or university town, cars speed hither and thither at astounding rates of speed, and 'top' signs are often completely ignored. The recent traffic drive by Iowa City police has been of some aid in quelling the urge of many motorists to get from somewhere to somewhere else in the least possible time, regardless of traffic regulations, but even the most arduous efforts of the police force cannot completely quench this enthusiasm.

There have been national safety weeks, and other methods to bring before the public eye the necessity of a little care in driving, but woefully enough the effect usually wears off in a few days. Not all of the offenders are students, but a great many of them are, and it really reflects no credit, inasmuch as it may be the 'smart' thing to do, as many seem to consider it, for them to have the reputation of being reckless or 'daredevilish.'

Perhaps if all of those who are in a hurry would take an extra minute to stop at arterial highways, and observe other traffic regulations, there would be fewer fines to pay and a greater surety of getting to their destination in one piece.

The following ten points might be well worth remembering:

- 1. I will know and follow the rules of the road and obey all signs and signals.
2. I will know my car and keep it in safe condition.
3. I will suit my speed to conditions to the traffic, to my clear view ahead, to the state of the road, the time of day and the number of hours I have been driving.
4. I will never pass a car near the crest of a hill, on a curve, or at an intersection.
5. I will not fight for the right of way.
6. I will give understandable signals of what I am going to do.
7. I will be patient in traffic.
8. I will be courteous to pedestrians.
9. I will try to make up by my driving for what some others may lack in skill or caution.
10. I will remember that it generally takes two to cause an accident.

Is The Depression Over?

"SO CLOSE TO the forest, you can't see the trees"—or rather, Maj. L. B. Angus, visiting British economist, says that Americans are so close to the scene of the depression that they do not realize it is practically over.

Major Angus is credited with several sensationally accurate predictions of economic trends in both England and America, and so his forecasts can at least be listened to with some degree of respect.

The economist is sure that monetary problems are the underlying cause of the depression, and believes the quickest, safest, and surest way to solve unemployment is to inspire business confidence.

Major Angus speaks in very broad terms. In fact, they cannot miss. Of course it is logical that employment will increase with the return of business confidence. But how is confidence to come and, what is more important, from where is it to come? Major Angus does not say.

The Bonus Issue in '36

NOW TEMPORARILY stopped by presidential veto, the Patman bonus advocates have decided to delay their cash payment drive until the 1936 reverse election campaign in hopes that the voters will reverse Roosevelt's and the senate's decisions.

If bonus advocates expect the people of this country to vote only on the question of making cash payments to veterans, they are liable to be disappointed. In the first place, to which party are they going to offer the honor of waving the bonus banner? That the cash payment question is one which transcends party lines is evidenced in the 1936 reverse election campaign.

Unless, veterans of the country become as a unit entirely anti new deal, their cause will not be welcomed by the republicans and it is not likely that Patman bonus supporters are going to enthusiastically clamor over the Roosevelt band wagon in 1936. The issues of next year's campaign are going to be far more fundamental than a single question of cash payments to veterans.

What Others Think

(From The Kewanee Star-Courier) Those same sports writers who for years have extolled the baseball greatness of a hulk of a man who was young America's greatest hero, today, regrettably perhaps, inserted a line in their copy, "Babe Ruth is all done." That's a cruel epitaph but all the previous glory and all the money in baseball can't stave it off.

The saddest feature of the whole Ruth and Boston affair is, however, that it leaves baseball's most idolized figure bowing out of the picture with a sour taste in his mouth. He quits with recriminations against the only club in the leagues willing to give him a chance this season despite the handwriting on the wall last season which declared that the Bambino could no longer strike terror into the heart of an opposing pitcher by brandishing his mighty bat.

It would have been better from a sentimental standpoint if Babe Ruth would have walked out of baseball's portals in the zenith of his career, honored for his past successes instead of becoming a target for tradition in sports, "a hero today, a bum tomorrow." But athletes rarely follow this course. They fall heir to their own infirmities, become embittered at the ways of fandom which soon forgets more glorious yesterdays. Babe Ruth today treads dangerously close to this sad fate.

A Washington Bystander

WASHINGTON — Some "new deal" political aides of high rank do not brush aside lightly the suggestion that a new twist of the long and dramatic affair of "Friend Frank" Roosevelt and "Friend Al" Smith may be ripening for next year. The year none too sure, privately at least, that Smith could not be induced to head a fusion conservative ticket and have another try at the presidency.

No "new dealer" will talk for publication in this vein, of course. The White House probably would step violently on the toes of any who did. Yet, privately, some fellow democrats who have known him long believe it possible Smith might listen to fusion candidacy proposals if they came to him strongly enough supported.

If so, it would be the first instance anyone can recall of a Smith "bolt" from party regularity. He may have been seriously near it in '32 after Roosevelt's nomination at Chicago; but in the end he teamed up and did high service in New England, New Jersey and New York for the Roosevelt-Garner ticket.

By KIRKE SIMPSON

As a stalking-horse candidate, to lure conservative democratic votes away from "Friend Frank" next year for the purpose of opening the way to the White House for a regular republican candidate. The first hurdle the fusionists probably would have to take in an effort to draft the brown derby to their uses would be to convince its wearer of their sincerity and that there was a real chance to elect him. He would not seem to have much to gain otherwise. Al Smith needs no advertising for private business purposes.

Something like a definite split between eastern and western republicans and abandonment by eastern party leaders of all hope of reviving the G.O.P. organization not only for '36 but even for '40, would seem to be a necessary preliminary to a real rightist fusion plan to be headed by a democratic conservative. At a guess, Smith and his intimates are getting more amusement than anything else to date out of the fusion talk.

Sure Defeat Preferred The business of practical politics has not changed very much since 1912, however the cast and the issues may have shifted. In that year and against the dominating personality of another Roosevelt, republican elder statesmen accepted as cheerfully as they could the virtual certainty of defeat at the polls rather than surrender control of party machinery to party liberals. By steamrolling Theodore Roosevelt out of a nomination, they invited the Bull Moose movement and its eight-year consequences. They seemed to hold the party name and mechanisms more valuable than immediate control of the government in Washington. Their 1920 come-back proved the soundness of their strategy.

Screen Life

By HUBBARD KEAVY

HOLLYWOOD—The Pi Beta Phi sorority of the University of Arkansas tried to telephone Jean Harlow late one night. They wanted to tell her something about her newest picture, "Reckless."

Falling to hear Jean's voice at this end of the line, they were put out to the extent of telling the reporters about it. That's the way Jean found out, about the call.

People are always trying to call up movie stars and invariably they are disappointed. When Joe heard about it, he tried to phone Mrs. Brown but because he had forgotten his newest number, he couldn't get Mrs. Brown or even the Brown servants on the phone. Joe pleaded, coaxed and probably cussed. He became furious. He demanded to know his phone number. But he might as well have demanded the moon. He didn't learn how the rest of the Browns fared in the quake until he received a telegram the day following.

A New Yorker At Large

By JAMES B. RESTON NEW YORK—Elsa Maxwell, after a turn on the stage in one of the season's unsuccessful plays, has gone back to her job of arranging unique parties for the town's society. The town's society may not be going the limit on its parties these days, but Elsa is finding plenty to do, nevertheless. If you'd like to turn your house into a ship for the party, Elsa knows where to get an army of movie carpenters to do the job. Or if you don't mind spending your money, she'll arrange to have your house haunted. In fact there's nothing Elsa can't arrange if given time and money.

Man Nailed to Cross

LONDON (AP)—An all-black outfit, carried out on very simple lines, has a distinction all its own. Sometimes a relief is introduced by colored jewelry. Pink crystal and coral, or chunks of jade, are effective. Pearls also have their place with a black dress, but diamonds appear richer when worn on pale shades of materials.

It is no wonder that New York loves the night. In almost every respect, it is then at its best, for the squalor and filth of its tenements and grimy factories are submerged, and the glory of its tall buildings is magnified in the artificial light.

The best example of this is along the East river fringe of Manhattan. Directly back of the docks stand a puzzle of low dingy warehouses and back of these then a long interrupted line of fabulous apartment buildings. In the daytime, the noise and smoke of the factories submerge the strong beauty of the apartments, but at night, when the wheels stop turning and the riverfront wretchedness is swallowed in the darkness, these apartments glow with their thousand lights and stand majestically against the sky.

And, if anything, the river itself is more lovely at night. Even the impudent, mishapen little tugs take on a magnificence they could never attain during the day. On the dark, moving water, they somehow manage to be mysterious, their weird, glowing little multi-colored lights gleaming on the water.

The cast of the town's "hit" musical, "Anything Goes," has found a new way to kill time while off stage. They play billiards in one of the dressing rooms.

S.U.I. Makes Profit of $36,916.99 on Year's Athletic Program

Football Tops List as Money Making Sport

Basketball Second in Financial Earnings; Other Sports Lose

DES MOINES (AP)—The University of Iowa made a net profit of $36,916.99 on its athletic program during the fiscal year ending June 30, 1934.

A report submitted yesterday to State Auditor C. W. Storms by G. W. Worden, supervisor of institutional audits, showed net income was $119,018.22, of which football produced $75,172.97 and basketball $9,076.41.

While the university lost money on all other sports, it had a balance of $36,916.99 after expenses such as salaries to coaches, and interest on stadium and fieldhouse bonds were paid. Losses ranged from $20.04 on tennis to $2,271.56 on track and $2,134.91 on baseball.

Total Balance

The auditors found that of the eight football games played, the Iowa-AMES game produced the least revenue, $5,270.89. Revenue from other games varied from $4,221.16 for the Iowa-Nebraska game to $30,059 for the Iowa-Minnesota contest.

The university completed the year with total balance of $452,239.68. Total receipts were $5,266,077.55. Total expenditures were $4,977,055.51.

Of total receipts, $2,321,766 was a state appropriation. Of total disbursements, $2,414,755.86 was spent for education and research, a decrease of $459,147 under the previous year. A total of $1,597,095 was spent in instructional costs, a decrease of $275,945 mostly accomplished by a $240,452 reduction in salaries paid professors and instructors.

Cafeterias Lose

The auditors reported that food service operations of the university showed a profit of $14,711, virtually all of which was realized at men's and women's dormitories. The university cafeterias showed a net loss of $1,122.27 and the Memorial Union cafeteria a net loss of $6,394.

"Ratio of food cost to sales at the Union cafeteria appears much greater than warranted," the accountants commented. "We recommended this problem be given further study."

The report also stated that 36 per cent of rents due the university on university property were owing at the end of the fiscal year and declared that "in view of the seasonableness of the rents charged, this condition appears unwarranted."

Other major items of revenue were:

- Sales of investments, $1,059,856;
- tuition and fees, $632,155;
- dormitory and dining service, $272,857.

Bug Warfare

Farmers Plan New Campaigns Against Chinch Bug Plague

The dusky, devastating horde of chinch bugs—bane of the existence of the Iowa farmer—is due to be met in even more mortal warfare this year as corn growers over the state entrench to withstand the insidious onslaughts of the corn-destroyers.

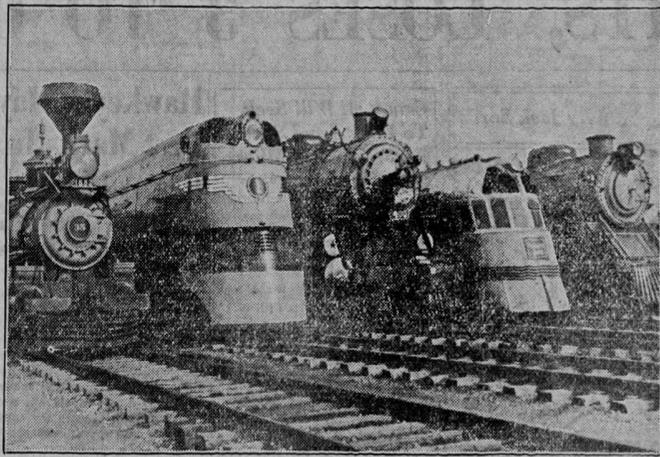

Well, not literally, but according to plans outlined yesterday by County Agent Emmet C. Gardner, Johnson county farmers will at least meet the chinch bug on his own ground. Blissus leucotermis, as the little six-legged insect is known in some circles, will meet up against fortifications in the way of low, creosote soaked paper barriers, when he attempts this season's migration from the small grain fields.

Creosote Barriers

Creosote barriers which have been used in the past will also be used, but the paper fences are proving more effective in all kinds of soil and weather, and have the added advantage of preventing the bugs from being blown over into the corn fields by winds of 10 to 15 miles an hour.

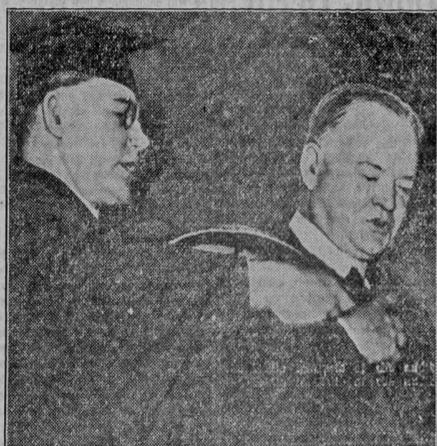

Erection of the fences is made, according to extension circular 213,

Human Fly

1000 Watch Stunt Man Climb Side of Jefferson Hotel

More than 1,000 persons watched each of the two performances of D. D. Rowland, Pittsburgh "human fly" yesterday when he climbed to the roof of the Jefferson hotel, via the east wall, using no equipment other than his hands and feet.

Taking the upward jaunt in his stride as just another day's work, Rowland had time to pause on his ascension, to nonchalantly blow his nose while hanging from a ledge by one hand.

Upon his arrival at the top, Rowland "tested" the strength of an inner tube by hanging from it by his feet with his body dangling in mid-air, which might be described as "very thin air."

A climb to the top of the flag pole and a "bread basket" balancing act at its peak were the main features of the dare-devil's maneuvers on top of the building.

Concluding his act, Rowland walked blindfolded along the edge of the roof with his wife astride his shoulders.

Bates Warns Iowa Bankers

Declares They Must Reduce Interest On Savings Accounts

DES MOINES, June 5 (AP)—D. W. Bates, state banking superintendent, warned Iowa bankers today that they must all reduce interest on time and savings accounts to 2 1/2 per cent.

If some bankers under state supervision continue to ignore the order, the banking superintendent said, steps will be taken to force compliance.

Bates spoke before the annual meeting here of the Iowa Bankers' association.

Fair Treatment

He emphasized that he expected bankers to treat customers fairly, but contended that at this time, when most banks are having difficulty finding a suitable outlet for loans, there is no reason why they should pay a larger interest rate.

Bates also criticized bankers who refuse to make a service charge. "There is no excuse for not making a service charge," he declared. "A bank is like any other business. It must operate at a profit to continue in existence. I do not want any banker to rob his depositors, but I want to see the time come soon, when every Iowa state bank will make a service charge."

Coming Back

Bates declared "banking is coming back into its own." He warned, however, that in some communities there are banks with "no future" which either should consolidate with stronger institutions or move to a locality where there is more need for a bank.

He declared that although the Iowa law allows a bank to be organized with $10,000 capital, the state banking board will not approve organization unless the proposed bank has $25,000 capital and $5,000 surplus.

Adopt Resolutions

Resolutions adopted by the association opposed branch banking in Iowa, compulsory membership of state banks in the federal reserve system and a proposed congressional measure which would allow postal savings banks to open checking accounts.

Reduction of postal savings interest rates to 1 1/2 per cent was urged. The association council will select its next convention city from among Cedar Rapids, Ft. Dodge, Dubuque,

Governor Adds Two New Members To Board Personnel

Dean Chester A. Phillips of the college of commerce, Prof. George J. Keller of the college of engineering, and Prof. Arthur C. Trowbridge, head of the geology department, were named today as members of the Iowa state planning board by Governor Clyde L. Herring.

Dean Phillips is a member of the board and is also chairman of the business, industry, population and social trends committee. Professor Trowbridge is state geologist and is chairman of the water resources committee; Professor Keller is a member of the state board.

Board Remains Same

The personnel of the board remains the same except that Agnes Samuelson, state superintendent of public instruction, and T. R. Agr of the engineering division of Iowa State college were new members appointed to the board.

Other members of the board are Dr. Walter L. Biering, state health commissioner; Fred Bothen, president of Meredith Publishing company; Dr. W. C. Boone, state fish and game commissioner; Jay N. Darling, chief of the United States biological survey; Mrs. Henry Frankel, state board of conservation; Mrs. Fred Jarvis, state Federation of Women's clubs; P. F. Hopkins, chief engineer of FWA; Mrs. Grace Gilbert King, state board of conservation; Frank D. Paine, head of general engineering at Iowa State college; A. E. Rapp, state fish and game commissioner; Fred R. White, chief engineering of the Iowa state highway commission; William P. Woodcock, state board of conservation; Mrs. H. S. Vincent, state Federation of Women's clubs; and Philip H. Elwood, of Ames, director consultant.

In announcing the appointments Governor Herring indicated that he had been assured by federal officials that financial aid will be continued in spite of the failure of the state legislature to approve the planning board as an official function.

Kiwanians to Attend Showboat at Cedar Rapids Next Week

Many Iowa City Kiwanians and their families will attend the Kiwanis showboat which will be presented by the Cedar Rapids club on the Cedar river at Ellis park, June 13, 14, and 15. Funds raised by the entertainment will be used for work in behalf of underprivileged children.

The showboat this year will again be a replica of the old time Mississippi river showboats which entertained river folk in the nineteenth century.

An entirely new program has been arranged with a talented cast presenting skits, song numbers, blackouts, dances, and comedy numbers. The show will run a full two hours. Performance will begin each evening at 8 o'clock.

BITS ABOUT SPORTS

By ART SNIDER

J. HERMAN DEAN, the Dizzy one, has spoken again. In so many words, he says the Cardinals give him no small number of royal pains in the neck.

The loquacious one charges his mates with non-support, non-attentiveness to the significant matter of making runs, and characterizes the outfit as wholesalesly infected with an insect parasite known as the louse.

This charge, bearing such a strain of censure and reproach, is of course a distinct shock to those citizens believing harmony reigned in the Red Birds' nest.

As a matter of fact, it has been quite evident for some time that Diz's contemporaries have little use for him and his "I" and "me" attitude. Ducky Wucky Medwick demonstrated that the other day when he threatened to perform a plastic surgical operation on his features.

Not only Jay's egotism, but his temperament also have the Cardinals learned to nauseate. It has been said that the flinger has taken it as a gesture of mutiny if a catcher failed to snatch a pop foul into the second tier of the grandstand, and would become a blustering peacock.

Dean's career in the majors thus far is running parallel to that of Arthur "The Great" Shires, a citizen who talked himself right out of the big show. Both are experts in the sport, but their natures are fighting them and their associates.

Starting today, some 162 of golf-dom's greatest will smote a silly white pellet about goffer's graveyard in an effort to gain the prestige that goes with winning the National Open title.

The Oakmont course has been characterized as the "test of tests." It has one less than 200 bunkers and something like 223 yawning traps—all of them situated as to make inevitable resting points for the agate.

Since no bold wayfarer has been able to traverse the course and have enough strength left to tell the tale, the presence of manholes, trap doors and winding stairways has not been definitely established. Skulls and bones of prospectors have been found around the nineteenth hole.

'Tis rumored that a number of contestants will wear snow shoes to keep from sinking into the sand out of sight. Workmen will probably be present with pulleys and scowp-shovel to pull all out of the canon-like traps. Par out is 37; par in, if they ever get in, is 35.

An ultra-special treat is promised Iowa City diamondball fans Sunday night. Spore Graves and his colored Globe Trotters will attempt to clown their way to a victory over the Kelly Oilers at Kelly field. These tricksters were formerly the Iltentat world champions. Thus far this year, they have won 19 and lost two.

Included in their lineup are three Negroes who played with the basketball team that appeared here against Racine's Lunch last winter. They boast of "Tarzan" Thornton who has pitched three no-hit no-run games in between his clowning this year and Tommy Anderson, a fireball pitcher.

Corum Picks Best Heavies

Says Max Baer, Joe Louis, Buddy Baer Are Prizes of Ring

NEW YORK, June 5 (AP)—If this column was called on to name the three most valuable heavyweights in the prize-ring today, it would list them as follows:

- 1. Max Baer.
2. Joe Louis.
3. Buddy Baer.

This may look like an over heavy, even ridiculous, vote in favor of the Baer family, but it happens to be the way we feel about the heavy-weight situation. If, heaven forbid, we were a fight manager dependent on boxing for a living, and couldn't get either Max Baer or Louis, we'd take Max' big little brother, Buddy.

It is our guess that Buddy is a better fighter today than Champion Max Adolbert was at a corresponding age and that, given the proper breaks he will go further and last longer than the more spectacular Max. He has youth, ambition, fair speed, courage and a good punch and his only weakness, as we see it, is that he may be content to rest over long in the shadow of his idolized elder brother.

IOWA GETS TWO HITS, LOSES 3 TO 0

Western State Teachers Win In First Game

Blackman in Good Form; Dietz Hurls For Victors

KALAMAZOO, Mich., June 5 (Special)—The two hit pitching of "Dutch" Dietz was too much for the University of Iowa this afternoon and Western State shut out the Hawkeyes, 3 to 0.

Tomorrow, the two teams conclude their series following which the Iowans move over to East Lansing to meet Michigan State in a two-game series. Lefty Brandt is scheduled to hurl for the Teachers while they, in turn, will probably get a look at the slants of Lowell Gosser of Iowa.

Whiffs Six

Dietz did not issue a walk this afternoon, permitted only two men to reach third and struck out six. Charlie Blackman, on the mound for Iowa, was also in great form. He was nipped for eight hits, four of which came in the sixth inning. He issued one pass and struck out eight.

Of the two blows Dietz allowed, one was a triple by Mason in the second inning and the other was a single by Clausen.

The victors scored first in the fourth frame when George Miller got the first of his three hits, went to second on Blackman's balk, and scored on Scory's bingle.

Score in Sixth

Four hits were bunched in the sixth for another run and the final tally was made in the eighth when George Miller singled, stole second, and scored when Catcher Hoover made a bad throw as he was trying to steal third.

The Hawkeyes threatened only once when Mason tripled with two out in the second, and again in the sixth Halton lived on a fielder's choice and got as far as third on Pickett's hit but could get no further.

Baer Clowns In Workout

Boxes 12 Rounds With Sparring Partners, Punch Weak

ASBURY PARK, N. J., June 5 (AP)—It was probably all for the best that white-haired Will Brown, free-speaking New York state athletic commissioner, wasn't here today to see Max Baer, heavyweight champion, prepare himself for his fifteen-round title defense against Jimmy Braddock in New York a week from Thursday.

Boxes 12 Rounds

Baer worked exactly the same clowning routine for 12 rounds that he put on for Will's edification the day the commissioner visited him here before the heavyweight title match with Primo Carnera. There wasn't even a word changed in the script, and Baer looked just as inefficient as he did the day he aroused Brown's ire so completely that Will threatened to call off the title match.

Boxes 12 Rounds

Baer boxed 12 rounds with five different sparring partners, one of whom, Bob Frazer of Seattle, is held together by adhesive tape, and in the entire 30 minutes Max didn't land a single solid punch. He says his hands are hurt, but that's considered a naive phrase of ballyhoo that has been devised to give Braddock, a weak box office challenger, all the better of the build-up.

Baer laughed, did his rubber-legged dance, grimaced, talked to the scanty spectators dozing in the sun, repeated the same funny remarks he's been using for years, and in general looked just as he always has looked in training.

Can Call Punch

But in his dressing room the champion said he believes he can call the punch and the round on the Irish challenger whose record showed little until he disposed of Art Lasky last winter.

"The only way I can lose this fight is to drop dead in the ring."

American Davis Cup Tennis Team Leaves For European Play

NEW YORK, June 5 (AP)—A canny combination of youth and experience, the American Davis cup team sailed today for Europe in quest of the International tennis trophy this country lost in 1927.

The veterans, Wilmer Allison, Sidney Wood and John Van Ryn, may carry the full burden in the inter-zone finals against the European zone survivor but there's an outside chance that Gene Mako and Donald Budge, youthful Californians named to the team for the first time, may be called upon for doubles duty.

Despite expert predictions that their bid for the cup is foredoomed to failure, the team members were quietly confident as they sailed on the Washington.

Sandler Wins In Singles; Ames Cops Doubles Crown

ROOSEVELT 13, WEST WATERLOO 12. AMES 7, EAGLE GROVE 7. MUSCATINE 4.

AMES, June 5 (AP)—Bob Sandler, one-armed Roosevelt high junior, fought his way through four matches to win the state high school singles tennis championship today as the Des Moines school successfully defended its team title by counting 13 points.

Mosier and Owens of Ames copied the doubles title by defeating Gilley and Jolly of West Waterloo, 6-7, 6-4, 6-4.

Defeat Jean

The Roushriker ace easily won the first set from Jean, 6-3 but was carried to 9-7 in the final set.

The Ames doubles champions went into the finals by eliminating Woodward and Nicholas of Washington high, Cedar Rapids, 1934 titleholders, 6-4, 6-2.

West Waterloo was second to Roosevelt for team honors with 12 points. Ames counted seven points for third and Eagle Grove and Muscatine tied for fourth with four.

Jones and Mann Lose

Iowa City high school's doubles team of Jones and Mann was eliminated in the second round by Woodward and Nichols of Cedar Rapids, 6-1, 6-2, after the Little Hawks had previously downed Notestine and Griswold of Eagle Grove, 6-1, 6-0.

Kelly Oilers Point for Clash With Charles City Tomorrow

Ladies to be Admitted Free; Strongest Lineup Expected

With intentions bent on getting back into the win column against Charles City tomorrow night, the Kelly Oilers went through their final stiff workout last night at Kelly field.

In contrast to the game at Boone Monday, the Oilers will be able to present almost full strength against the Lions. Otto, who was confined to bed with an illness, has recovered, but will not be in tip-top shape to pitch the tilt thus placing the burden again upon Ted Fay, John Ebert, short stop, and Waldo Geiger, outfielder, will also return to the lineup.

"Ladies' Night" will be held in connection with the contest tomorrow night. Manager "Jake" Kelly said yesterday. All women will be admitted free of charge.

Four Games On I.S.A. Schedule

Boone's 12 to 0 shelling of Iowa City Monday night places them at the top with four wins and no defeats. Charles City registered its first win of the campaign Tuesday night by defeating Ames, 7 to 6. John Deere trounced Marshalltown Tuesday 12 to 2 to climb into sixth place.

Campbell Will Seek To Boost Land Speed Record to 300 Miles

LONDON, June 5 (AP)—Reaching one of his rapid-fire decisions, Sir Malcolm Campbell announced today he would take his mighty Bluebird to Utah within a few months in an attempt to boost the world land speed record to 300 miles an hour.

The famed British sportsman, who set the present automobile record at 276.816 miles an hour at Daytona Beach, Fla., last March, will try for a new mark on the dry bed of the Great Salt Lake near Saldard.

The veteran dare-devil first declared he would be ready to shoot by July, but later amended that to "or maybe August or September."

Bahram Wins 156th Epsom Downs Derby

500,000 Watch Aga Khan's Entry Top Field by 2 Lengths

EPSOM DOWNS, England, June 5 (AP)—Coming from behind in the final quarter like a truly great champion, the Aga Khan's unbeaten Bahram took the measure of 15 of the English turf's ranking 3 year olds in the one hundred fifty-sixth running of the derby over Epsom's rolling downs today.

Until the eve of the race the first odds-on-favorite since 1907, the heavily backed Bahram, quoted finally at 5 to 4, stepped across the finish line at the end of the mile and a half two lengths clear of the 50 to 1 shot, Sir Abe Bailey's Robin Goodfellow. Another half length to the rear came Lord Astor's Field Trial, followed by Theft, also flying the green and brown silks of the Aga Khan.

Victory Anticipated

The king and queen and upwards of a half-million of their subjects, packing the rain-soaked Downs, anticipated the victory.

In chalking up the second derby victory for his famous owner—Blenheim having won in 1930—Bahram ran the distance in 2:36. The time was two seconds slower than the track record made by Hyperion two years ago and equalled by Windsor Lad last year, but was considered good in view of the condition of the turf which was soaked by an early morning rain.

Theft Takes Third

The Aga Khan, religious and spiritual leader of more than 100,000,000 Moslems, sent out the most powerful entry in the history of the race, but Bahram was the only member of the trio that lived up to expectations. Theft, third choice in the betting, ran an even race but Hairan, second choice at 11 to 2, could do no better than seventh.

Lord Derby, whose colors twice have been carried to victory in this classic, had to be content with fifth with Fairhaven, with C. W. Gordon's Sea Bequest sixth. Mrs. Corrietta Goorney's Assignment, the only American-owned horse in the race, was eighth and was trailed in order by Fairhair, First Son, Peaceful Warrior, Screamer, Japetus, Fry II, Battered and St. Botolph.

Berry Carries On After Rex

RALEIGH, N. C. (AP)—North Carolina State college this June graduates one of her greatest all-around athletes—Ray Rex—but already campus observers have singled out a potential successor to the Deatur, Ill., husky.

Connie Mack Berry, a Greenville, S. C. product, is the lad designated by State fans to pick up the torch of athletic skill which Rex carried so brilliantly through football, basketball, baseball and track campaigns.

Berry earned freshman numerals on grid, court and diamond and would have starred in freshman track as a weightman if State had first year track. His best sport is basketball, in which he scored an average of 16 points a game for 11 games he played at center. Many critics thought him the state's outstanding freshman basketball player.

He plays left end in football and excels in pass receiving, and in baseball plays third base or pitcher, whichever position needs him most.

Jimmie Dykes Out Of Game Till July 4

CHICAGO (AP)—Manager Jimmy Dykes may be out of the game until July 4, the Chicago White Sox were advised yesterday. An X-ray of his right ankle, injured at St. Louis Tuesday, disclosed that while no bones were broken the ligaments were badly torn.

Hawkeyes May Best Marks In Central Meet

Panther, 880 Relay 4 Doped to Establish Records Tomorrow

Competition will be so keen when the array of track stars gather at Milwaukee tomorrow night for the Central Intercollegiate meet, that more than half of the records are expected to be broken. Two of them will be subject to assaults by Iowans.

The record in the half mile relay is doped to fall beneath the spikes of Iowa's quartet of sophomores which has surpassed the listed world's mark. Mark Panther, defending javelin throw champion, is a strong threat to set up a new standard in his event.

Panther May Break Mark

Panther set a new Central record last year with a toss of 211 feet 3 inches. If weather conditions are favorable, it is more than likely that the country's foremost spear thrower will establish a new distance. Unbeaten in six meets and holder of the Drake, Big Ten and state records are his accomplishments this year.

Iowa may land places in the fifty other events it will enter. Jimmy Owen will be one of the principal opponents of Jesse Owens of Ohio State in the 100 yard dash, and Nelson and Dooley will both oppose him in the 220. Dooley ran the event in 21.3 at the conference meet in the one hundred fifty-sixth running of the derby over Epsom's rolling downs today.

4 Events for "Cretz"

Although Francis Cretzneyer will compete in four events, his best chances for high places apparently are in the low hurdles and broad jump. Skinner and Page, who have shared honors in the 440 this year, are possible place winners. Page is Big Ten indoor champion, and Skinner won the event at the fast pace of 49.6 in the state meet, running on a soggy track with a stiff wind facing him half the way.

Should the mile relay men display some of the form they exhibited in the Kansas relays, they will be tough customers to down. It will be the first time since the Kansas carnival that the combination of Briggs, Skinner, Page and Dooley have been used together in the event. Their best time is 3:16.3.

Leaving by automobile this morning at 8 o'clock, the eight-man Iowa contingent will be set to compete in the preliminaries tomorrow afternoon.

Johnson Socks Home Run With Four On Bases in Fourth

NEW YORK, June 5 (AP)—Cherockee Bob Johnson, the Athletics' clouting king, belted his thirteenth home run of the season when it counted for the most today and as a result the seventh-place Athletics defeated the league leading Yankees, 9 to 7.

Johnson, the big league leader in home run hitting, produced today's wallop in the fourth inning with the bases filled.

Senators Break Losing Streak, Down Red Sox

WASHINGTON, June 5 (AP)—Lefty Grove walked Cliff Bolton with the bases filled in the tenth inning today to force in the winning run and give Washington a 5 to 4 victory over Boston—the Senators' first win in their last nine starts.

After Manush had singled and Myer was safe on Werber's error, Powell walked, to fill the bases. Schulte forced Manush at home. Then Grove, seeking his fourth win of the year, issued the free base that forced Myer in with the winning run.

Boston led 4 to 3 going into the eighth inning but Bluege scored the tying run on Powell's grounder. The Senators had scored once in the first and twice in the second when Bolton walked and Kugel singled, both scoring as Almada let Kugel's hit get past him. Reynolds hit a home run in the second and Almada scored on Bolton's wild throw in the third. Johnson crossed the plate on Reynolds' fly in the fifth and Werber tallied on Cronin's grounder in the seventh.

Detroit Edges Out Indians 5-4

Bridges Registers 7th Win; Darkness Halts 2nd Game

DETROIT, June 5 (AP)—Tommy Bridges hung up his seventh straight victory with the Detroit Tigers this afternoon, getting a 5 to 4 decision over Cleveland with a sizzling two banger in the ninth that scored Gerald Walker with the winning run. Walker's run broke up a 4 to 4 tie with one out.

It was the first game of a scheduled doubleheader, but with rain delaying the opener for an hour and a half, the second contest was called for darkness at the end of the sixth with the teams tied at four all.

The Tribe was leading 4 to 2 when the home half of the sixth opened, but a mighty home run by Mickey Cochrane, his first of the season, and successive singles by Gehring and Greenberg coupled with Golin's long fly to Averill produced two runs that tied the score and spoiled Cleveland's chance for a split.

(Associated Press Sports Editor)

OAKLAND COUNTRY CLUB, Pittsburg, June 5 (AP)—A spectacular 67, five under par, by "Light-horse Harry" Cooper of Chicago for his final practice round, followed by a drenching rainstorm and two concessions by the United States Golf association to critics of Oakland's widely heralded hazards, combined to soothe some of the apprehensions of the big field gathered for the national open championship, if not actually to "soften up" the layout for the start of the 72-hole tournament tomorrow.

The prospects were deceptive, however, and by no means entirely reassuring to those who outwardly are hoping for the best but privately fearing the worst.

Order Furrows Removed

Over the protests of club officials, who have prided themselves in making Oakland one of the toughest courses in the world, the U.S.G.A. ordered the treacherous furrows removed from the sand in two dozen bunkers around the greens, but there are some 200 other traps in which the ridges will remain to harass the player who gets into trouble. In some bunkers, the furrows will be only partially eliminated, with the idea of making it impossible to use a putter in getting out.

More worried about what will happen on the tricky, undulating greens than the bunkered terraces, players received with more enthusiasm the statement of John G. Jackson of New York, chairman of the U.S.G.A. tournament committee that the pins will be located in "fair" places for the first 18 hole round of championship competition tomorrow.

Jackson said he personally would supersede the placing of the cups to afford a better "break" than the boys have encountered in practice.

Cooper Goes Under Par

Cooper, who was beaten in a playoff by Tommy Armour at Oakland for the 1927 national open crown, identified onlookers with his superb performance before the storm broke this afternoon, but he remarked afterward, "I wish I had saved that one."

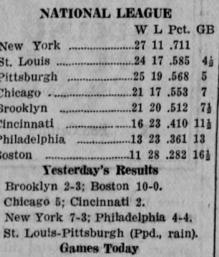

Out in 33, four under par, with the aid of an eagle three on the 47-yard ninth, Cooper also had five holes, went over par on only two short holes and required only 29 puts for the entire round.

Cooper's score was two strokes under the competitive Oakland record, a 69 shot by Al Epiphosa in the 1927 tournament. It was much the best practice performance witnessed in preparation for the championship although Perry Del Vecchio, Greensburg, Pa., professional, later came in with a fine 69 to demonstrate that the "softer" course could be done even (Cooper) more than once.

Tunepus Impressive

Otherwise, the "softer" course was the most lacerating of the work-outs, the final "Tunepus" were far from impressive. Wee Bobby

Dodgers Split Doubleheader With Braves

Boston Wins Second Game 10 to 2 After Dropping First, 3-0

BOSTON, June 5 (AP)—Some fine pitching by Van Lingle Mungo and Fred Frankhouse, plus a powerful Boston attack upon George Earnshaw and Johnny Babich enabled the Dodgers and the Braves to divide a doubleheader today.

Mungo saved Boston only five hits in five separate innings to win the opener 3 to 0. It was his seventh triumph of the season. Frankhouse came back with a seven-hit hurling job to take the afterpiece 10 to 2.

Klein, O'Dea Clout Home-Runners to Aid in Three-Run Rally

CHICAGO, June 5 (AP)—With homers by Chuck Klein and Ken O'Dea accounting for the three run victory margin, the Cubs again defeated Cincinnati 5 to 2, today for their third straight victory.

Larry French went the route for the Cubs and although touched for eight hits compared to the five his mates notched off young Gene Schott, was steadier with men on base than the Cincy rookie right-hander.

French struck out seven, fanning five out of six batters to face him in one stretch from the third through the fifth, and walked none.

O'Dea, catching his first full game as a major leaguer, doubled in the sixth to score ahead of Klein's third homer of the season and then powered a round-tripper himself with the bases empty in the eighth.

Hubbell Stops Phillies, 7 to 4 After Giants Lose 1st Tilt, 4-3

Jackson Returns To Lineup; Wilson Nine Chases Fitzsimmons

PHILADELPHIA, June 5 (AP)—The Giants had just one bad inning in 18 today but that was enough to give the Phillies a 4 to 3 victory in the first game of a doubleheader and an even break for the day. The league leaders rallied behind Carl Hubbell to win the second encounter, 7 to 4.

Starting with bright prospects as Travis Jackson, injured team captain, returned to third base, Mel Ott shifted back to right field and Dick Bartell took his place at shortstop, the Giants ran into difficulties in the first inning of the opening encounter. Big Freddy Fitzsimmons was ineffective and the Phils scored enough runs right off the bat to give them the decision despite Leon Chagnon's brilliant relief pitching.

The second encounter was a different story as Carl Hubbell, although touched for ten hits, struck out seven and avoided serious trouble all the way. The Giants hammered Bucky Walters, the converted infielder, for eight hits and five runs, driving him out in the sixth. They got seven more off Johnny Pezullo and Chief Ebel Moore.

Mel Ott provided the most telling blow of the second encounter, a triple with the bases full in the fifth.

The Big Six

A pair of rivals for the last position in the American league section of the Big Six, Charley Gehring of Detroit and Rollie Hemsey of St. Louis wound up in a tie yesterday after both had improved their batting averages. Gehring made three hits in seven times up for a four-point gain while Hemsey picked up two points with one blow in two official trips to the plate. Their .355 averages left them tied with Jos Medwick for last place and just one point behind Jimmie Foxx, who took a six point drop with one hit in five attempts. Bob Johnson hit two out of five, poling out his thirteenth homer, to maintain his .410 average.

Explanation Of "Strange As It Seems"

Strange as it seems, the poet Abu'l-Qasim Mansur Pirdausi spent 35 years writing a poem seven times longer than Homer's Iliad—and when he finished he was so unsatisfied with the payment he received for it he showed his contempt by giving the money away. Then to top it off he wrote another shorter poem, as tingling satire on the sultan, and prudently went into exile.

Pirdausi's 60,000-verse poem was written for and dedicated to Sultan Mahmud of Ghazni on a basis of 1,000 dirhams of gold for every 1,000 verses. The poem traces the history of Persia from 3600 B. C. to the seventh century after Christ, instead of collecting his thousand dirhams of gold every time he finished a thousand verses, Pirdausi let the balance accumulate until the poem was completed. In the meantime, however, the sultan had gone off the gold standard so far as poems were concerned, and when payment arrived for Pirdausi it was 60,000 dirhams of silver instead of gold.

The poet, who was taking a bath at the time, divided the money (about $2,500) three ways, giving one third to the servant who brought the silver, another to the servant who drew the bath, and the rest to the servant who brought him a drink of beer.

Sultan Mahmud, 10 years later, had a change of heart. He forgot the satire, and sent Pirdausi enough money to retire on—but by that time it was too late. The elephant bearing the money entered the city just in time to meet the poet's funeral cortege.

Bridges Registers Halts 2nd Game

DETROIT, June 5 (AP)—Tommy Bridges hung up his seventh victory with the Detroit Tigers this afternoon, getting a 5 to 4 decision over Cleveland with the aid of Gerald Walker with the winning run. Walker's run broke through to tie the game.

In the first game of a scheduled doubleheader, but with rain threatening, the game was called off for the opener for an hour and a half, the second contest was for darkness at the end of the fifth with the teams tied at 1-1.

Bridges was leading 4 to 2 when one half of the sixth opened, and a night home run by Mickey Vernon, his first of the season, gave the Indians a 3 to 2 lead. Bridges singled by Gehring and Vernors coupled with Gehring's sacrifice to tie the score and fly to Averill produced the tying run that tied the score and Cleveland's chance for a victory.

Sutton Selects Parade Group

Red Cross First To Enter Float in Big July 4 Celebration

Members of the parade committee for Iowa City's big Fourth of July celebration were named last night by Dorothy Sutton, newly appointed chairman of the committee.

The committee will consist of Mrs. Dessal McGinnis, Mrs. Beulah Chebeck, and Ruth M. Frerichs.

The Red Cross was the first group to enter a float in the parade, which will be the first of its kind here in recent years.

Organizations and groups from surrounding towns as well as local firms, groups, and persons are invited to enter floats according to Miss Sutton, and entries and suggestions should be sent to her at the Chamber of Commerce office in the American Legion building.

Plans call for the parade to start at 10:30 a.m. from the American Legion building and to proceed through the business district and up N. Dubuque street to the City park.

Two German bands composed largely of high school musicians will entertain the crowd with several concerts throughout the day. Alumni musicians are invited to play with the bands. All interested persons are urged to report at the band room in the Iowa City high school building tomorrow at 2 p.m.

Planned by the Parents' Music auxiliary, the celebration will be supported by local firms, clubs, and civic organizations. Cards advertising the occasion are being furnished by the Junior Chamber of Commerce.

PWA Grant for Light Plant May Grow Larger Under New Ruling

Around THE TOWN with Bob Griffith

Federal Gifts For Projects Increased to 45 Per Cent

Iowa City may receive a PWA grant of $412,650 instead of $275,100 for the proposed $917,000 municipal light plant, if the city's application is considered as approved after May 24, Alderman Jacob Van der Zee said last night.

Under a recent public works administration ruling, cities and towns are entitled to grants of 45 per cent and loans of 55 per cent on each project. The light plant application was filed under the old 30 per cent grant and 70 per cent loan terms.

Alderman Van der Zee said that he had received word from George M. Griffith, assistant state PWA administrator, explaining that applications approved before May 24 must be carried through on the old 70-30 terms.

A letter was sent to PWA headquarters in Washington, D. C., yesterday by MOL leaders for a ruling on the city's application.

Whether or not the council can secure a 45 per cent grant instead of a 30 per cent may have some bearing on the possibilities of private funds to finance the plant in place of PWA money, it was indicated.

Burns and McDonnell, consulting engineers for the project, reported to the last meeting of the council that the cost of the plant might exceed $917,000 if it is submitted to restrictions imposed by PWA. The engineers pointed out a growing tendency of contractors to bid higher on government work projects.

GOTHENBURG, Sweden (AP)—Quadruplet calves, three heifers and a bull, were born to a cow at Starr-kull, near here. They weighed about 20 kilograms (44 pounds) each.

It makes a striking evening frock which Countess Antonin de Mun is wearing this spring. It is designed with a full lower skirt and a draped corsage forming a bow effect in front.

PARIS (AP)—White cotton percale printed with small green figures rowed from the tennis court are something different in summer styles. Flower covered visors, made like an exaggerated tennis visor held in place by a band around the back of the head, are designed by one prominent modiste for restaurant dinner wear. Another evening visor is made of black velvet with two black birds of paradise sweeping backward from the sides.
