F. R.'s "Death Sentence" for Utilities Turned Back

Defeat Spurs Roosevelt To Renew Efforts

House Turns Down Proposal by 216-146 Vote Margin

WASHINGTON, July 1 (AP)—A stunning defeat by his big house democratic majority today spurred President Roosevelt to renewed efforts to write a legislative "death sentence" for unnecessary utility holding companies.

Immediately after the 216 to 146 house vote, smashing down this cherished new deal objective, Mr. Roosevelt conferred with Representative Rankin (D-Miss.), who then came back to the capitol to try to rebuild the party's lines.

Outwardly, Mr. Roosevelt's only comment, through a secretary, was an expression of hope that the "death sentence" bill would win on a final vote tomorrow. At that time a motion will be made to substitute the senate abolition bill for the house regulatory plan and a roll call will be taken as was not the case today.

Lobbying Charges
But despite Rankin's "confidence" of ultimate victory and intimations that Mr. Roosevelt may issue a statement seeking to rally his shattered forces, leaders looked for little change in the line-up.

The 216 to 146 division today was in a chamber where republicans are outnumbered more than three to one. It was taken in an atmosphere made electric by an intense cloak-room campaign, exceptional bitterness in debate, charges of lobbying hurled against both the White House and utility interests, and open warnings that democrats crossing President Roosevelt's wishes would be called to account at the polls.

Fight Not Over

The fight was not over for either winners or losers. The utility bill, after a final ballot tomorrow, must go to conference with the senate. The issue there will be whether the senate and Roosevelt approved provision to abolish all "unnecessary" holding companies by 1942 should stand—it was this provision the house defeated today—or whether the house language leaving abolition discretionary with the securities commission should prevail.

Capture 92 Mutineers Near American Base, Peiping Normal

PEIPING, July 1 (AP)—Chinese police and loyal soldiers successfully smashed at mutinous soldiers who were cornered today in the Tungchow region, base of American missionary activity.

Police captured 92 of the rebels 20 miles east of Peiping, almost at the gate of Tungchow. In the latter city are the American Board Mission school and a score of American missionaries.

The prisoners were the remnants of the 3,000 followers of General Pal Chien-Wu, who failed last Friday in a daring assault upon the gates of Peiping.

Chinese reports said troops fired on a group of civilians at the Grand canal today, killing three of them. Although Peiping appeared normal, garrison authorities said martial law would be continued. It also is in force at Tungchow.

Dynamite Blasts Out Part of Old Ledge Near Niagara Falls

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., July 1 (AP)—Two gigantic blasts of dynamite and black powder, witnessed by a crowd of 50,000 holiday visitors, tore an 11,000 ton slice off Table rock at the Canadian tip of Horseshoe falls today and sent it crashing to the gorge below.

The blasts reduced the rock, famous ledge from which honeymooners viewed the falls and often called "Honeywagon Point," to half its former size.

The explosions were part of the precautionary work by the Niagara parks commission to guard against possible rock slides from a one-inch crack that extended 200 feet along the table.

Minneapolis Elects 2nd Farmer-Labor Mayor

In Thomas E. Latimer

MINNEAPOLIS, July 1 (AP)—A former gold seeker in Alaska and Old Mexico, lumberjack and rail-roader in the Pacific northwest, and professor at the University of Illinois today became Minneapolis' second farmer-labor mayor.

He is Thomas E. Latimer, who came to Minneapolis to study and practice law 20 years ago after engaging in a variety of pursuits.

The new mayor was elected with the support of Floyd B. Olson, the nation's only farmer-labor governor.

Treasury Will Redeem Bonds, Makes Ready

Shifts $100,000,000 "Working Balance," Will Withdraw Notes

WASHINGTON, July 1 (AP)—The treasury today shifted $100,000,000 of gold profits to its "working balance" in preparation for redeeming a big block of government bonds and withdrawing all National bank notes from circulation.

No Inflation
In all, some $600,000,000 in the bonds and an approximately equivalent amount in bank notes are involved. Officials said they expected several months would pass before all the bonds had been presented for redemption and all the notes retired.

Although the process amounted to paying off government obligations with money made by reducing the dollar's gold content, officials said no inflation was involved because of the disappearance of the bank notes. They will be replaced largely by federal reserve notes.

Canal Bonds
The bonds the treasury is buying in are Panama Canal loan securities issued in 1916 and 1918. They bear what is known as the "circulating privilege."

This means that National banks may deposit them with the treasury, add 5 per cent in lawful money as a redemption fund, and issue bank notes to the extent of the face value of the bonds.

To Disappear
Aside from the canal loan bonds connected with the transaction which began today, other government securities to the extent of but $300,000,000 bear the "circulating privilege." Their life will end a month hence, and consequently National bank notes will disappear completely.

Mexico's New Cabinet Holds First Session

MEXICO CITY, July 1 (AP)—Mexico's new cabinet held its first session today, and a semi-official source said an order would be announced shortly, paving the way for scores of political and religious exiles to return to the country.

The cabinet, it was reported, discussed a decree already drawn up by President Lazaro Carenas instructing civil and military prosecutors to drop charges of rebellion pending against exiles.

There was no official indication that any action was taken to relax the anti-church campaign but a general belief prevailed that the government would move in this direction. Informed observers believed it might take the form of a withdrawal by state governors of decrees issued several months ago in 14 states closing all churches and expelling priests.

Japanese River Craft Must Stop Trespassing

MOSCOW, July 1 (AP)—An energetic protest declaring that the responsibility for the consequence of further trespassing in Soviet waters of the far east by Japanese Manchukuoan river craft will fall on the shoulders of the Japanese Manchukuoan authorities, was delivered in Tokyo today by the Soviet ambassador.

Mayor Martin Leaves For Washington

Will Investigate Iowa City's Application For Loan, Grant

Mayor Thomas E. Martin left yesterday afternoon for Washington, D. C., where he will investigate the status of Iowa City's application for a loan and grant for a municipally owned light plant.

The mayor's sudden departure followed a conference of city council members; Attorney H. H. Stipp of Des Moines, legal counsel for the city's PWA negotiations, and representatives of the Burns and McDonnell Engineering company of Kansas City, consulting engineers retained by the council for the light project.

Getting Impatient
Members of the city council were silent as to their exact reasons for dispatching Mayor Martin to Washington. But, it was indicated the aldermen are getting impatient waiting for PWA to make some decision on the loan and grant application.

The city recently filed an additional application asking that the grant for the plant be made 45 per cent of the total $917,000 in place of the 30 per cent which was in the original petition. A recent public works ruling raised the grant percentage.

Private Session
Though the loan and grant application was renewed when the municipal ownership forces obtained control of city government April 1, PWA has as yet made no decision. It is hoped by council members that Mayor Martin will be able to obtain definite information concerning the application.

It has been indicated several times lately that, if PWA fails to grant funds, the council will sell the revenue bonds to a private loan company.

The council was in private session last night.

Relief Chiefs Open 12 Month Program for 3,500,000 Jobs

WASHINGTON, July 1 (AP)—Roosevelt work relief chiefs opened the 12-month program intended to supply 3,500,000 jobs today by approving $316,278,881 in allocations and reverting in part to methods of the old civil works administration.

The works allotment board recommended that five of Harry L. Hopkins' state administrators spend $142,245,875 on projects of their own selection and not requiring prior Washington approval. This was the CWA method. The board said the step was designed to put a "substantial number" to work during July.

The Reason
An official announcement said the sum recommended—of which $4,123,000 was for administrative expenses—would give a year's work to 169,900, at an average of $812 per job for wages, materials and supervision.

Hugh S. Johnson's post as works progress administrator for New York city and the general's reputation as a dynamic worker, was believed responsible for the choice of the metropolis as the program's principal starting point. It was allocated $78,657,310 plus $2,350,000 for administrative costs.

Other Recommendations
Other recommendations by the allotment committee, bring the total to $316,278,881 included $100,000,000 for the civilian conservation corps, $50,000,000 for the national youth administration, $5,110,659 for 45 per cent donations on 40 non-federal PWA projects, $13,913,118 to the agriculture department for control of plant and animal diseases.

Says Attorney Killed While Being Robbed

Jean Miller Tells Of Dickinson Shooting, Ferris Got $150

DETROIT, July 1 (AP)—William Lee Ferris confessed late today, Prosecutor Duncan C. McCrea said, that he killed Howard Carter Dickinson, New York attorney, during a robbery which netted about $150.

Ferris' confession came after Jean Miller, one of three "party girls" who went on the fatal ride with the two men, had told the prosecutor that Ferris killed Dickinson.

Wouldn't Get Drunk
The woman told McCrea that she, Ferris, and the other girls, Loretta and Florence Jackson, were "in that business—picking up men we thought had money, getting them drunk and then robbing them."

"He wouldn't put his hands up, and I let him have it," Prosecutor McCrea quoted Ferris as confessing. "We got about $150."

"We thought he had a lot of money, so we agreed to get him drunk and rob him. But he wouldn't get drunk, so we took him out to Rouge Park and the girls got out and I told him to 'put 'em up'; but he didn't, so I shot him."

Dickinson's body was found beside the roadway to the park last Thursday morning.

Stories Confirmed
Ferris and the three girls were arrested in Ft. Wayne, Ind., Saturday.

Earlier statements they had given the prosecutor and Detroit detectives were conflicting, but the renewed questioning of the Miller woman brought the case to a quick denouement.

Her statement this afternoon, which paved the way for Ferris' confession, as reported by McCrea, coincided with Ferris' admission of the shooting.

She said the other women left the

Chaco Peace Parley Opens, Will Include Territorial Questions

BUENOS AIRES, July 1 (AP)—The Chaco peace conference called to convert the present truce between Bolivia and Paraguay into permanent peace formally opened today in the White room of Casa Rosada.

After prolonging the 13-day truce, expiring Wednesday, the conference expects to plunge immediately into execution of the Chaco peace protocol. This will include direct Bolivia-Paraguay negotiations toward the settlement of the territorial questions which precipitated the three-year war.

Proposal By Eden Creates British Uproar

Plan to Cede Land To Italy for Peace Stopped by II Duce

LONDON, July 1 (AP)—Government opponents raised a short storm in the house of commons when it was disclosed today Great Britain had offered to hand over a strip of its territory to Ethiopia in an effort to avert a war between Italy and the African kingdom.

Thumbs Down
Capt. Anthony Eden, diplomat who just returned from fruitless conversations with Benito Mussolini, explained the offer to cede the land. He said II Duce had turned thumbs down upon the proposal.

The idea was for Britain to give Ethiopia a seaport in British Somaliland and the latter was to make concessions which would satisfy II Duce and make him call off his warlike preparations.

Must Be Trust
Opposition leaders immediately demanded to know if the house would be consulted before British territory was given to foreign powers. Bluntly, Sir Samuel Hoare, foreign secretary, replied: "The commons must trust the executive department in these matters; if it is not prepared to trust the government, the whole basis of government is destroyed."

Abandoned
Hoare subsequently gave assurances it was not a question of going behind the back of commons but that the urgency of the situation required the government to take steps it thought fit to try to arrive at a satisfactory settlement. He emphasized that the territorial proposal has been abandoned.

Glenn Schmidt Appointed To Head Bureau

Glenn L. Schmidt of Iowa City was appointed official acting head of the state bureau of investigation in Des Moines by Attorney General Edward L. O'Connor, according to the Associated Press.

Mr. Schmidt, who has been unofficial acting bureau chief since early in April, will fill the vacancy caused by the death of Chief Park A. Findley in Louisville, Ky., June 12.

In January, 1933, Mr. Schmidt was named to the bureau of investigation and soon distinguished himself as an expert with machine guns and other firearms.

He is a first lieutenant in the 13th cavalry and adjunt to Maj. Will J. Hayek, commanding officer of the third squadron.

Spend Almost Month In Air, All Endurance Marks Broken

Fred, Al Land Plane At Meridian After 27 Days, 5 Hours, 34 Minutes in Air

MERIDIAN, MISS., July 1 (AP)—Fred and Al Key brought their plane, Ole Miss, to a safe landing at 6:06 p.m., (central standard time) today after breaking all existing endurance flying records by spending almost a month in the air.

A roar went up from 10,000 throats as the brothers made a perfect landing on the soggy field 27 days, five hours and 34 minutes after their takeoff on June 4.

The crowd surged around the plane and lifted the fliers from it after they had been greeted by their wives and children.

Both Happy
"It's been a hard old fight," said Fred. "I'm telling you it isn't any fun, but we're both happy now," added Al.

J. D. Sellers, Mississippi governor for the National Aeronautical Association, directing official of the flight, immediately wired the association in Washington that a new record had been established.

"Al and Fred Key came down voluntarily at 6:06, establishing a new world endurance record of 653 hours, 34 minutes," he telegraphed. "Pilots and equipment in good condition."

Sellers, the first person to reach the ship, immediately removed the barograph, an instrument showing minimum and maximum altitude, and said it was in perfect condition.

Eyes Bloodshot
The brothers were freshly dressed and cleanly shaven as they stepped from the plane, but their hair had grown "wild" during their "residence" of almost a month in the sky.

Their eyes were bloodshot and their faces flushed, indicating the strain they had undergone. They headed for a hotel to sleep.

The official world's record for sustained flying, set at 553 hours, 41 minutes and 30 seconds by John and Kenneth Hunter at Chicago in 1930, was topped last Thursday.

The unofficial record of 647 hours,

Two Killed In Strike Riots

Policeman, Striker Die as Officials Try To Scatter Meeting

REGINA, Sask., July 1 (AP)—Two persons were killed and more than a score injured tonight when a squad of steel helmeted Royal Canadian mounted police and city police broke up a mass meeting of 3,000 striking lock camp workers.

Rocks, Bombs

The police, traveling on horses and in trucks, swept down on the meeting, scattering the strikers into streets and alleys. Tear gas bombs were hurled into the crowd when some of the men became unruly.

Constable Charles Miller of the city police was killed. The other dead man was Dan McGee, identified as a striker.

Both were killed in the first of two clashes, when rocks and other missiles were hurled freely. In the second clash police fired into the mass of strikers.

Twenty Arrested

Most of the casualties occurred after the crowd started to return to the scene after the first rout. The mounties swung their batons and there was slugging on both sides. Stones and other missiles were hurled.

Twenty arrests were made.

Al waves greeting

Two virtual unknowns wrote their names in aviation history in spectacular fashion when Al and Fred Keyes, brothers of Meridian, Miss., shattered the world record for an endurance flight. In the aerial photo at the right, Brother Al is seen waving a greeting from his precarious perch on the motor mount of "Ole Miss" with Fred at the controls as they neared the end of their long flight.

Al Key Tells About Record Making Flight

(Editors note: An hour before the time scheduled for their descent to earth after 28 days in the air in the world's record-shattering endurance flight, Al Key wrote the following exclusive account for The Associated Press. His story, penned on the back of an aviation map, was written during the tense moments before the conclusion of the record flight.)

By AL KEY
(Co-Holder of World's Endurance Record)

(Copyright, 1935, By The Associated Press)

ABOARD THE "OLE MISS," ABOVE KEY FIELD, MERIDIAN, Miss., July 1 (AP)—Well, here we are floating around among the beautiful fleecy clouds, with the termination of our record-breaking flight a bare hour away.

It gives us a kind of sad feeling to have to end it all, but due to the probability of bad weather and the requests of numerous friends we have decided to land the faithful "Ole Miss" at 6:30 p.m.

Bad Weather
This decision was reached mostly because the heavy overcast has stretched the brace wires on the stabilizer, allowing it to flutter quite a bit, bringing great danger of its breaking off. This would cause an uncontrollable spin.

During the entire flight, we have been besieged with bad weather conditions. We have had to contend with everything from fog, hail and rain to violent thunderstorms, most of which have occurred at night.

Good Motor
Night after night we were forced to fly by instruments alone for three to four-hour periods. Due to the shorting out of a wire on the battery, we had a nice little fire to contend with but were successful in extinguishing it without any damage.

Our faithful airplane motor has functioned perfectly throughout the flight. It has never skipped a lick and has had no adjustments whatsoever during the flight. We attribute this to a good motor and good lubrication.

One Hundred Per Cent
Our two-way short wave radio, built by W. H. Woodruff (amateur), has functioned perfectly and was among the most valuable equipment carried.

Our refueling team, James Keeton and Bill Ward, Jr., was perfect, and so was our ground crew. In fact, everyone cooperated one hundred per cent and we want to express our sincere thanks to them.

We trust that this flight has again proved the reliability of aircraft engines.

Ruth Garrigues Married To W. F. Geiger in Ceremony Here

Bride's Father, the Rev. C. C. Garrigues, Officiates at Single Ring Candlelight Service in Christian Church Here

At a candlelight service at 8 o'clock last evening in the Christian church, Ruth Garrigues, daughter of the Rev. and Mrs. Caspar C. Garrigues, became the bride of Waldo F. Geiger, son of Mrs. Bertha Geiger, 213 E. Market street. The bride's father officiated at the single ring service, performed in the presence of several hundred guests.

Proceeding the ceremony Mrs. Dean Jones sang "At Dawning" by Cadman and "O Promise Me" by De Koven. Esther Belle Moor, presiding at the organ played "Andante Cantabile" by Tsaichowsky, Mendelssohn's "Wedding March," and "Ave Maria" by Schubert.

Flowers and palms banked the altar, illuminated by five tall candelabra.

Attending the couple were the bride's sister, Mrs. John Rex Dixon of Linneus, Mo., and the bridegroom's brother, Anton Geiger of Sleepy Eye, Minn. The bride was given in marriage by her brother, Caspar C. Garrigues, Jr., senior law student. Ushers were Don Brown and Francis Billick.

Rose Venice of Corde lace over white satin fashioned the bride's gown, which was cut princess style with a train and long tight fitting sleeves ending in points at the wrists. Her long white tulle veil extended from coronet style headdress, held in at the back with a row of gardenias. White silk linen sandals completed her outfit. The bride's shower bouquet was of orchids and lilies of the valley.

Her matron of honor, Mrs. Dixon, was attired in an empire style frock of lavender organza, floor length, accented with a royal purple velvet sash. She carried an arm bouquet of white rosebuds, tied by a ribbon of royal purple, and wore a wide-brimmed lavender hat.

The bride's mother wore a printed silk dress and shoulder corsage of fallsmian roses. A black lace frock with touches of pink at the neckline fashioned the dress worn by the bridegroom's mother, whose corsage was composed of briarcliff roses.

A reception for the bridal party and relatives of the couple took place at the home of the bride's parents, 1011 E. Washington street, immediately following the ceremony. A tiered bride's cake, topped by a miniature bride and bridegroom, formed the centerpiece of the table at which Mrs. Edward M. Cox of Kansas City, Mo., and Mrs. Harry Jay Kircherer of Peoria, Ill., presided. Forty guests were present at the reception for the bridal couple.

Mr. and Mrs. Geiger left for a two week honeymoon trip to New Orleans and other southern cities. At the conclusion of the trip they will return to Iowa City where they will reside. The bride's going away outfit was an ensemble of grey rough crepe and navy taffeta with a wide stitched collar. A navy stitched taffeta hat, navy sandals, gloves, and purse completed her outfit.

Out of town guests at the wedding were Mrs. Edward M. Cox and daughter, Martha Sue, of Kansas City, Mo., Mrs. Dixon of Linneus, Mo., Sorel Sanders of Creston, Mr. and Mrs. Anton Geiger and daughters, Thelma and Bertha, of Sleepy Eye, Minn., Mr. and Mrs. Harry Jay Kircherer and son, Harry, Jr., Alma Geiger, Mr. and Mrs. Jay Decker, and Edward Kunkel, all of Peoria.

Mrs. Geiger was graduated in June from the college of commerce at the University of Iowa. She was a member of Mortar Board, president of Phi Gamma Nu commerce sorority and of Kappa Beta Christian church sorority, secretary of the Commerce club, vice president of Chi Phi Pi commerce fraternity, and vice president of Beta Gamma Sigma, honorary commerce fraternity.

Mr. Geiger, 1930 graduate of the University of Iowa, is an alumnus of Alpha Sigma Phi fraternity. He is employed as manager of Racine's.

Mrs. Jones graduated from the University of Iowa, where she was a member of Alpha Delta Pi sorority. For the last three years she has taught in the junior high school at Ponca City, Okla.

Mr. Jones attended both the University of Iowa and the University of Arizona. He is a member of Sigma Nu fraternity and Phi Alpha Delta law fraternity.

The couple will live in Omaha where Mr. Jones is associate attorney at the regional office of the Home Owner's Loan Corporation.

Chief Petty Officer F. Hesp, heaviest man in the British navy, has retired from the service. The regulation hammocks for British sailors were not strong enough to hold him.

Perry Amick Weds Esther Griffith In Des Moines Service

Announcements have been sent out telling of the marriage of Perry Amick, A.3. of Sac City, to Esther Griffith of Sac City, which took place in Des Moines May 31.

Mr. Amick, son of Dr. and Mrs. R. A. Amick of Sac City, is attending summer session at the University of Iowa, where he is majoring in general science. Mrs. Amick is the daughter of Mrs. Grace Griffith of Sac City. The couple is residing at 527 College street, while the bridegroom completes his studies in the university.

Robinson-Garner Nuptials at Reinbeck

Marlys E. Robinson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bertram L. Robinson of Reinbeck, and Phillip E. Garner of Davenport were married Saturday at the home of the bride's parents.

Marjorie Robinson, who completed her sophomore year this spring at the University of Iowa, attended her sister.

The bride is a graduate of the University of Iowa, and was on the staff of University Elementary schools before teaching at Davenport.

The couple will motor to Seattle, and from there will sail for Alaska on their wedding trip. They will live near Davenport where Mr. Garner is engaged in farming.

Apparently little concerned as the result of her arrest and alleged confession to several highway robberies staged with her husband, H. Paul Stroud, Mrs. Edith Stroud laughed and joked with Kansas City, Mo., police and announced her husband "intended to plead guilty and get it over." Stroud, son of a Texas minister, who served 18 months in prison for motor theft, told police he and his wife staged two holdups in Omaha and one in Lincoln before invading Kansas City where they maneuvered four more robberies. Photo shows Mrs. Stroud and two recent portraits of Stroud, with and without mustache.

Rioters Draw Jail Sentences

Four Arrested For Perjury, Inciting To Riot in Mine Strike

GALENA, Kan., July 1 (AP) — Four men arrested in connection with strike disturbances in the Kansas sector of the tri-state lead and zinc mining field were convicted in military court and sentenced to jail terms Monday.

Steve Johnson, city marshal and constable at Trece, was convicted of having participated in rioting Friday at the Eagle-Picher smelter here. He was sentenced to 30 days in jail for rioting and 10 days for perjury. His commission was suspended.

Edward A. Cassell, Trece justice of the peace, was convicted of inciting to riot. His commission also was suspended. He was given a 30-day jail sentence, but paroled.

J. V. Hollingshead of Galena was given a 10-day sentence for perjury. Fred Wolf of Galena was sentenced to 10 days for rioting and perjury.

Edlee May Robertson Weds Doctor Pfeiffer

The marriage of Edlee May Robertson of Cedar Rapids to Dr. H. Earl Pfeiffer also of Cedar Rapids took place Saturday in Chicago with the Rev. A. M. Pennwell officiating.

The bride completed a secretarial course at the Southwest University of California, and for several years has been assistant to the secretary of the Mutual Fire and Tornado association. Dr. Pfeiffer attended the University of Iowa. He graduated from Northwestern university college of medicine, and is now a surgeon in Cedar Rapids.

After a trip through the northwest, Dr. and Mrs. Pfeiffer will be at home at the Commonwealth apartments in Cedar Rapids.

Leone Boegel Weds Former Iowa Grad

A July wedding of local interest will be that of Leone Boegel, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Boegel, and Chester Crowell, both of Cedar Rapids.

Miss Boegel graduated from Iowa State college at Ames where she was a member of Alpha Gamma Delta sorority.

Mr. Crowell attended Hamline university, St. Paul, Minn., where he affiliated with Sigma Phi Alpha fraternity. He received his master's degree from the University of Iowa, and while working on his doctor of philosophy degree here, was a graduate assistant. He will teach at McKinley school in Cedar Rapids next year.

Former S.U.I. Student Marries in Oelwein

Announcement has been made of the marriage of Dorothy Marguerite Ritchie of Oelwein to Thomas Orth Maley, also of Oelwein. The wedding took place June 24 at the Sacred Heart church in Oelwein.

Mrs. Maley is a graduate of Clark college at Dubuque. Mr. Maley is a graduate of the University of Iowa where he was affiliated with Delta Tau fraternity. He is now associated with the Armour company in Scranton, Pa., where the couple will make their home.

Engineering Professor Returns From Ithaca

Prof. Edwin B. Kurtz of the college of engineering returned Saturday from the national convention of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers at Ithaca, N. Y.

Professor Kurtz participated in the convention as chairman of the institute committee on student activities.

PERSONALS

Mary Wright of Chicago, graduate of the University of Iowa college of law and formerly of Des Moines, spent the week end at the home of her aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Dey, 507 N. Clinton street.

Mrs. George Horner, 308 Grand avenue, spent the week end visiting her aunt in Augusta, Ill.

Pamela Smith of Spirit Lake drove to Iowa City Sunday to visit her brother, Hollister, who is a graduate student in the university. From Iowa City Miss Smith will go to Madison, Wis., before returning to her home.

Mrs. W. M. Fowler and Ruth Aurner will return tonight from the Mortar Board convention at Lark Lake, Asheville, N. C., where they have spent the last week. Anne Crow, official delegate to the convention, will return to Burlington.

Betty Jane Crum, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Crum, 858 Magowan avenue, left Sunday for a 19 day trip to Denver, Pike's Peak, Estes Park, Cheyenne, and the Black Hills. Accompanying her are her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Frank J. Hearn of Moline, Ill.

Jay J. McNamara was a week end guest of Theodore Trout at a summer home on the Rock river at Sterling, Ill.

Prof. Zada M. Cooper, of the college of pharmacy, left Monday to visit with her brother at Villisca. Mr. Cooper will be gone for three weeks.

ETTA KETT—"Not to Be Changed."

By Paul Robinson

Tarkington Believes Modern Youth Unchanged From 1900

KENNEBUNKPORT, Me., July 1 (AP) — Both Tarkington believes boys of today—"no better or worse" than the lads of 1900—have less chance for adult happiness than those of the "horse and buggy age."

"Life ahead of the boy of today will be less free and easy," said the creator of "Penrod," that delightful small town boy character of pre-war days.

Reminiscing today at "Seawood," his beautiful summer home in this coastal village, the Indiana author's thoughts dwell on boys of the two eras.

Pleasantest Time

"The horse and buggy age was the pleasantest time for a boy to live," he said. "There is less liberty today; more paternalism in government will increasingly interfere with everybody. Years ago, too, a boy had more leisure to become civilized. He read more. Of course, now he has a better chance to live, through the advances of world progress. But progress doesn't mean civilization.

"The fundamental things in a boy's nature do not change. It is the externals. In one period a child wants a pony. In another, an automobile."

"No Better or Worse"

Taken by and large, the boy of today, Tarkington observed, is "no better or worse" than the boy of a quarter of a century ago.

Crime development among boys he attributed to lack of church and home influence and to love of adventure.

"In the days of 'Penrod,'" he said, "the principal influences were the home, church and school. A characteristic of that period was attendance at Sunday school. Today it is non-attendance—so many parents of this generation have no church. Lack of church influence seems to coincide with lack of home influence. That may sound like Puritanical doctrine but it is true, though I can't explain it."

Tarkington saw little civilizing benefit in moving pictures and radio for youth.

UTILITIES BILL BRINGS CHARGES

As President Roosevelt asserted "the most powerful and dangerous lobby ever created by any organization in this country" was attempting to defeat the section of the Wheeler-Rayburn bill calling for the abolition of "unnecessary" holding companies, Representatives George Huddleston of Alabama charged that both sides had been equally guilty in the use of propaganda for and against the measure. Photos show Huddleston, left, and Representative Sam Rayburn of Texas, co-author of the bill.

Miss McBroom To Speak at Convention

Maudie McBroom, principal of University Elementary schools, left Sunday for Kansas City, Mo., where she will speak at the Kansas City Teachers' college. She is presenting a series of lectures and holding conferences with teachers yesterday, today, and tomorrow.

Miss McBroom will also speak at an all-university women's dinner, given by Pi Lambda Theta, national education sorority, at the University of Kansas at Lawrence.

Doyle Stonehocker Weds Elsie Coulter

Announcement is made of the marriage of Doyle Stonehocker to Elsie Coulter of Burlington. The wedding took place at the chapel at Coe college June 15.

Mrs. Stonehocker is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. D. Coulter. The couple are both graduates of Coe college. Mr. Stonehocker received an M.A. degree from the University of Iowa.

Mr. and Mrs. Stonehocker will make their home in Burlington where Mr. Stonehocker will teach in the junior college.

FOUR HELD IN SLAYING OF HUGHES' KIN

Bernice Jensen Weds Engineer

Wedding Luncheon Follows Ceremony At Bride's Home

The marriage of Bernice Jensen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Yanda, 1730 Muscatine avenue, to Robert Benda, son of Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Benda, 1004 Church street, took place Sunday at 1 p.m. at the Yanda home. The Rev. Harry D. Henry, pastor of the Methodist Episcopal church, officiated.

The bride wore an iris blue net afternoon frock over blue taffeta and a shoulder corsage of Joan Hill roses. Alice Benda, sister of the bridegroom, who was the maid of honor, was gowned in yellow crepe and wore a corsage of briarcliff roses. C. F. Jensen, the bride's brother, was the best man. Harvey Jensen, nephew of the bride, and Lloyd McCall, the bride's cousin, carried the rings in pink roses.

Fern Sims served a wedding luncheon following the ceremony. A yellow and white color scheme was used in table decorations.

Mrs. Benda is employed by the Iowa Water Service company and Mr. Benda, a 1933 graduate of the University of Iowa college of engineering, is an engineer with the Great Lakes Pipe Line.

Mr. and Mrs. Benda will make their home in Coralville Heights at the conclusion of a short wedding trip.

Out of town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Russell McCall and son, Lloyd, and William Mathison, all of Castana; Earl McKay of Stevens, Minn.; Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Jensen and sons, Harvey and Clifford, of Chicago; and Ivan Klenk of Oxford.

TUESDAY, JULY 2, 1935.

Where's The Good Old Spirit

WHERE IS THE good old pioneer spirit of rugged individualism that has so colored the lives of Americans for the last three centuries? Harry Hopkins' Alaskan colonists are all in an uproar because of a mad dog scare, a shortage of reading matter, and because the radio programs shut off too early.

Shades of Daniel Boone and Buffalo Bill! What would those two old frontiersmen think of such complaints? They're probably emitting great guffaws from their cabins in the Happy Hunting Grounds at the fancies of these 1935 deluxe "pioneers."

Are we getting soft? Perhaps the saying of some wisecracker that we are turning from a nation of "rugged" individualists to one of "rugged" individualists contains more truth than poetry.

Our grandfathers and grandmothers came out here to Iowa on no government subsidies. They fought Indians and hunted or raised their own food. No government stood by to aid them with the latest inventions of science. They solved their own problems and helped to make America the greatest country in the world.

Of course, it must be taken into consideration that in any cooperative enterprise there are always weaklings who try to make their selfish complaints those of the group.

The majority of those northern colonists probably still have good old American pioneer spirit. We hope so.

We certainly don't want to go down in history as a generation of pansies. But this Alaskan experiment makes us wonder.

Seventy-five palatial yachts have been destroyed by fire near Ft. Lauderdale, Fla. Probably part of the "soak-the-rich" program.

Correst this sentence: "Common justice," said the new dealer, "requires us to reimburse those who were injured by the unlawful NRA."

Writers are listing words that sound best. When the kid has croup, you can't beat these: "Here's the doctor now."

It's Cheaper to Live

NEW YORK City's government has declared a two per cent sales tax on tombstones as a luxury.

Now, that was hardly the American thing to do, was it, New York? Here everybody's been laboring under the optimistic belief that old man depression was ready to call it a day.

But then you had to go and do this disillusioning thing. Yes, it's cheaper to stay alive, even if you do think it's a luxury to be dead.

Equality of sexes note: Girls at Bryn Mawr, our swellest college, read in the library with their feet on a table.

Waiting for good times is hard on modern youngsters. They weren't trained young by waiting for the second table.

Governor Lehman, democrat, has ordered an investigation of organized crime in New York city, and Tammany is a democratic organization, too.

International Complications Arise

EVERY DAY the international situation becomes more and more acute with boxing and beer drinking contests adding to the general din made by sword-rattling dictators.

needs to spank Ethiopia for holding back the "march of Italian civilization." Perhaps these contests ought to be held on some secluded Pacific island where no word of the outcomes will drift back to our warm-colored friends known as "dictators II Duces, and Herr Hitlers."

An Ill Wind

SCIENCE IS picking on the poor little fly again. A mushroom grower had difficulty with the little creatures when he used manure to fertilize the beds. An engineer rigged up a series of suction fans, drawing the flies over the refrigerated coils, and rendering them dormant.

The mushroom grower now ships them to frog growers, and this branch of his business now boasts as large proportions as the mushrooms.

Which only proves that it's an ill wind that blows a fly to a frog.

General Hugh Johnson now is to supervise a works program, on the theory that he is the sort of fellow who can give his employes just that.

Our favorite newspaper reported the other day the fortunate retrieve granted to the Utah man who, it said, "has been condemned to be shot by a firing squad three times," a punishment that will strike most anybody as somewhat excessive and unnecessary.

Breakfast Topics

Less than a year ago the American public became "munitions-conscious." Pamphlets, books, articles, editorials and speakers broadcast to a shocked and eager audience the international plots of the munitions makers—and a tide of popular indignation forced a congressional investigation of our arms manufacturers and their methods.

Now the storm is over, Bradock and Joe Louis, the NRA decision and the weather. But the munitions problem in the background, and the average citizen is hunting for something else about which he may become indignant or excited.

Arms makers are busy preparing to capture huge military appropriations, and all's right with the world.

This fickleness of the public mind makes lasting reforms very difficult to accomplish. As long as the bitter memory of the World war, for example, remained vivid there was little talk of or preparation for a "next war." But, now that ugly scars are all that remain of the mental and physical wounds received in that conflict, a war scare runs up the world's spine every few months and preparations race madly onward.

If every person remembered the errors of the World War, Munich's peace dreams might be much closer to reality today; if every person read and remembered the books exposing munitions makers, restricting laws might result; and if lessons taught in "The Road to War" by Walter Mills could be universally digested and remembered, any attempt to drag the nations of the world into another war would meet with stubborn opposition.

Mills, whose new book has been received with enthusiasm, makes it horribly plain to those who have forgotten war days how anti-German feeling was built up in this country by the efficient Allies propaganda machine, how the German side of the story was kept from the American public by the simple method of cutting trans-Atlantic cables, and how many of our statesmen and diplomats, caught in the blind current of opinion, did much to force this country into war against the hated "Huns."

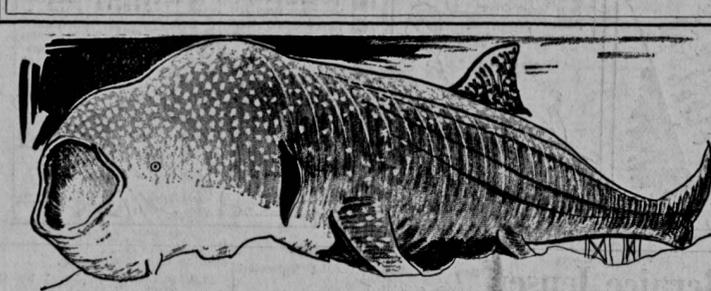

Whether or not America did right in entering the war on the Allied side, or in participating at all, is a moot question which is comparatively unimportant in preventing another war—but it is certain that our attitude in the world conflict was the child of propaganda, and it is that force which must be combatted by seekers of peace.

It has been much the same in every war. That "Uncle Tom's Cabin" was a powerful influence in forcing the north-south conflict, that Hearst and Pulitzer practically pushed us into the Spanish-American war is no secret, but the average American, remembering his high hopes of "saving the world for democracy," has been reluctant to admit that our part in the World War was largely directed by propaganda.

If we would candidly realize and admit that fact, and build up mental walls against present and future war propaganda, the maintenance of peace would be an easier task. But the public is forgetful, and many persons take seriously the Hearst stories of possible Japanese plots against this country.

What America needs, even more than the traditional five cent cigar, is a little old fashioned Yankee skepticism and a desire to hear both sides of every story. Otherwise—well, we went to war in 1917, didn't we?—John Fryor.

WASHINGTON—Unless some authoritative administration explanation of the strange White House and senate maneuvering over handling of the presidential wealth tax proposals bobs up to give things a contrary slant, the senate "round-robins" can claim the only victory. They, alone, can be discerned to have gained exactly what they wanted, what they signed up to achieve—definite pledges by democratic leadership of wealth-tax action at this session.

History Students: The written examinations for candidates for advanced degrees with majors or minors in history will be given Friday, July 5, in room 208 Schaeffer hall.

Majors in English: The final examination for the B.A. degree will be held Saturday, July 13, from 9:30 to 11:30 and 1:30 to 3:30, in room 88, University hall.

Library Hours: The University libraries will be closed Thursday, July 4. Reserve books may be withdrawn for overnight use at 9 p.m. Wednesday, July 3, and will be due at 8 a.m. Friday, July 5.

University Directories: An additional supply of summer session directories is now available in the Department of Publications, 117 University hall.

Lists of Students by States: Lists of students by states have been compiled. If you have need for such a list, call at 117 University hall.

First Term Graduates: Every student who expects to receive a degree or a certificate at the University Convocation Thursday, July 18, 1935, should make his formal application on a card provided for the purpose at the registrar's office on or before Saturday, July 6, 1935.

It is of utmost importance that each student concerned comply with this request immediately, for otherwise it is very likely that a student who may be in other respects qualified will not be recommended for graduation at the close of the present semester.

Making application for the degree or certificate involves the payment of a graduation fee ($15.00) and also the cap and gown fee ($1.00) at the time the application is made. . . the payment of these being a necessary part of the application. Call at the registrar's office for the card.

The petition of the Association of Senior Class Presidents that a fee of $1 be assessed to cover the cost of the caps and gowns for Commencement has been granted. Therefore this additional fee of $1 is to be hereafter paid by each candidate for a degree at the time he pays his graduation fee.

Heretofore the normal rental fee for bachelor's caps and gowns has been $2 and for doctor's caps and gowns $4-5. The service for handling the taking of orders and the distribution of the academic apparel will be explained to students when information about Commencement is sent out from the alumni office.

H. C. DORCAS, registrar.

Ph.D. Reading Examination in French: The examination for certification of reading ability in French will be given Tuesday, July 16, from 6 to 9 a.m. in room 314 Schaeffer hall.

Dubuque High School Students Win Highest Ratings for Contest: Three Dubuque high school students won the high ratings in the contest to celebrate the tri-millennium of the birth of Horace, according to an announcement by Prof. Norman D. Foerster, director of the school of letters.

The winners of the contests were Phillip Renier of Columbia academy, first; Mildred Anderson, Visitation academy, second; and Joseph Evans, Columbia academy, third.

The contest was conducted on a nation wide scope and contestants were to translate some of the Odes of Horace. The names will be reported to the national committee.

Color Film Shows Marching Bands At Prep Music Festival: A color film showing the marching band contest at the tenth annual high school music festival this spring will be shown today at 4 o'clock in room C-5 East hall.

Two sound films "Oxidation and Reduction" and "Molecular Theory of Matter" will also be presented in the series of demonstrations given by the visual education department of the extension division.

Screen Life

By HUBBARD KEAY

HOLLYWOOD — Watching the wheels go 'round. We happen in on a touching little scene being whipped up for "Dr. Socrates": Ann Dvorak hears a squealing kitty on the porch, opens the door, picks it up. Sounds simple, but it isn't. The cat, a movie cat, is so well-trained that he won't squeal.

"So you won't talk!" says a burly prop man. "I'll fix that." In a few minutes he returns with another cat—and a piece of liver. He puts the second cat in a cage and dangles the liver in front of it. The cat squeals. He's hungry. Now the scene can be taken. One cat has his picture taken with the Dvorak girl, and his double does the mewing. That's how movies are made.

'Tough' For Foster: It is the first days of "The Last Days of Pompeii." In other words, the spectacle has just gotten underway. At a banquet table sits Preston Foster, who has a wordless scene to perform. It is a religious ceremony, consisting of sprinkling some powder on a fire in an urn. There is no dialog, merely action.

"This is going to be tough," Foster announces. The camera runs and Foster gets it the first time. "I'll tell you boys," he says, "acting like that takes something out of you." Director Ernest Schoedsack, with exaggerated emphasis, compliments Foster, who bows to mock applause.

Things are quiet on "The Real McCoy" set. Actors, cameramen, electricians and prop men are sitting. James Dunn has time to eat a delayed breakfast. The director, Robert Florey, reads his morning newspaper. The "drama" is taking place in a far corner of the set. Over there Bryan Foy is in earnest conversation with Claire Dodd who, a talkative extra player informs us, has announced that she has laryngitis and that, moreover, she doesn't want to play the part because it makes her too unreal, too much the villain. The conversation between Foy, whose job as supervisor includes keeping everybody happy, and Miss Dodd continues for 15 minutes. Then Foy announces that everyone is ready.

'Wrap It Up': "The Three Musketeers" is before the cameras again. No Fairbanks in this version as the swordsmen who saves a queen considerable embarrassment, but Walter Abel, from the stage, is its dashing hero.

"Now, we'll take it," says Rowland Lee, the director, "and let's try not to drop any stitches this time." It appears that some of the players in the scene at hand—in which Athos and Porthos are trying to rent a room for D'Artagnan—forgot their lines. But everything is "wonderful," says Lee, after this take. "Wrap it up." And that means that the scene is satisfactory.

A New Yorker

At Large

By JAMES B. RESTON: NEW YORK—While this is subject to change without notice, New York's three wealthiest young women have suddenly vanished from the list of "marriageable fortunes."

The latest to go is "Trina" McCormick, daughter of the former Ruth Hanna McCormick and granddaughter of the late Joseph Medill, founder of the Chicago Tribune. The other two, of course are the unpredictable Barbara Hutton and Doris Duke.

Miss McCormick has been dabbling in New York's society for years, though it must be admitted that she did her best to keep out of it. Unlike Countess Barbara in this respect, she cares nothing for the Park avenue set, and whenever she could arrange it she was away to her 400-acre hunting estate in Virginia. This estate, complete with a spacious colonial house and riding stables, was a present from her mother three years ago. She is more interested in her golf handicap and these stables than her standing in society either here or in Chicago or in Washington, where she spends much of her time.

For years now, Joseph Auslander has been teaching at Columbia and writing poetry which always somehow managed to miss getting the Pulitzer prize. Then he married a young girl, who won the prize with her first volume of poetry. She, of course, is Audrey Wurdeman, and on her first visit to New York after the announcement of the award, Joseph Auslander found himself in an embarrassing position.

Miss Wurdeman's agent in Seattle, where she was when the announcement was made, wired the New York papers that Miss Wurdeman was on her way east. When she arrived here, her telephone never ceased to ring. Tired from the journey, she slept in her room all during her first afternoon, and Auslander sat by the telephone and said repeatedly, "No, I'm sorry you can't see Miss Wurdeman. This is Joseph Auslander, her husband." After an afternoon of this, in which he asked the reporters to call the following morning at 10, he evidently could stand it no longer, for he was with his wife before the appointed hour.

Prof. Tiffin To Give Lecture On Psychology

A lecture on the "Psychology of Speech" will be presented by Prof. Joseph H. Tiffin of the psychology department in chemistry auditorium at 7 p.m. tomorrow.

The lecture, illustrated with slides, will summarize the work done in the phonetics and psychology laboratory in analysis of speech and voice.

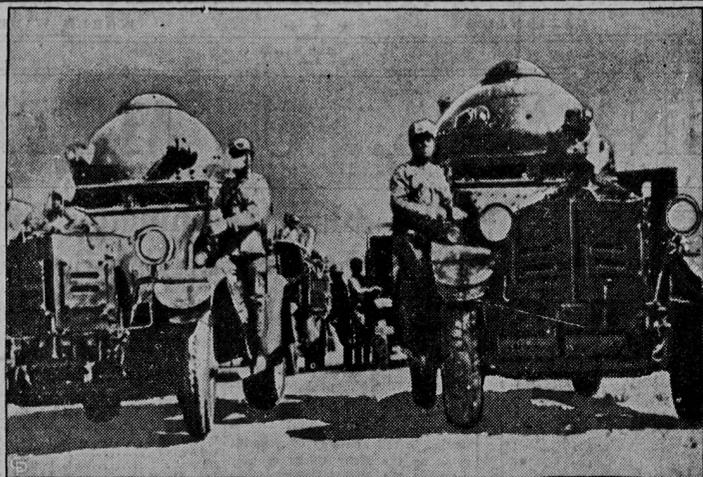

Professor Tiffin will describe the apparatus used in the laboratory in studying the voice as a medium of emotional expression, and will give the results of analysis made of radio announcers, salesmen, public speakers and actors of the New York stage.

This analysis of actors of the New York stage was made a year ago by Professor Tiffin when he recorded the speeches of actors and actresses in current Broadway productions as a project in experimental phonetics as applied to the voice in the theater.

Professor Tiffin received his bachelor of arts degree from the University of South Dakota in 1927. He took his graduate work at the University of Iowa, getting his M.A. in 1928 and his Ph.D. in 1930.

In 1931 he entered the staff of the university as assistant professor in psychology and speech where he has done work in recording and analyzing sound waves.

READY TO MOVE ON PEIPING — BEFORE CHINA ACCEDED

This, the first original photograph to arrive from the disputed area in North China, shows Japanese tanks, manned, ammunitioned and fueled, ready to roll toward Peiping as an outgrowth of anti-Japanese manifestations. When the ultimatum that Japan sent to the Chinese government was acceded to, the tanks did not go on to the walled city, former capital of China. Later, when Chinese factions began fighting in Peiping over the "surrender," the tanks again were held in readiness.

Prof. Hawley Prepares For New Course

Preparation for a new course, Religious Backgrounds of American Culture, to be offered next year in the school of religion is being made by Prof. Charles A. Hawley in Boston, Mass., this summer.

During the last year Professor Hawley has been a frequent contributor to the Iowa Journal of History and Politics, a quarterly publication of the State Historical society.

He was one of the contributors to the book, "The Church Looks Ahead," published in 1933.

After receiving his bachelor of arts degree from Hamilton college in 1916, he entered Union Theological Seminary from which he received his S.T.B. in 1919 and his S.T.M. in 1920.

In 1922 Professor Hawley took his Ph.D. at Columbia university, and in 1927 became a professor in the school of religion at the University of Iowa.

Mrs. Hawley will visit her home in Athol, Mass., while her husband conducts his research in the libraries of Boston. They will return to Iowa City in August.

Homer Dill to Talk In Third of Series Of Museum Lectures

Homer R. Dill, director of the university museum, will present a lecture, "Sea Lions and Birds of the Northwest," tonight at 8 o'clock in the geology auditorium.

The lecture will include an account of an attack by a pack of sea wolves upon a collecting group while it was towing a giant sea lion near an island in the northwest Pacific.

Indian legends as told by an old chief will supplement the lecture. This is the third of the museum series of four lectures.

New York Fashion Parade

By MARGARET GARRAHAN International News Service Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK, July (INS)—We've never worn a rubber bathing suit... but we don't have to to appreciate the salient point of the new versions just out. They have little perforated gunnale effects just above the waistline—by way of "self-beling" (which is exactly what they're called) So headmades, no more going around feeling as though you have the whole ocean parked inside your suit. Dry in a jiffy, too, and pack like nobody's business.

Something that's gained a terrific foothold for beach wear is the trig three-quarter slack. Meandering through one of the shops in the Fifties we saw just the one we'd like to have for our own—even though we don't take to these things as a rule. But this is absolutely yummy

...with a mannish checked gingham skirt (a widely-belted one that you can wear outside), and bright sailcloth trousers in the three-quarter manner... and a little bandanna to match the top... There's a poncho for the beach, too—rather too glorified to be merely a poncho but called that nonetheless—of a vertically striped coarse cotton dubbed African loin cloth. The skirt is just bathing suit length, and the open sides and neck are rough. Belted, too, with a dangling loop in front, and has two big ball buttons at the throat.

When you see 'em don't say we didn't tell you... for those chapaux la la Italian Renaissance artists already are snoot-ing about the local shops. Mostly berets... and one very attractive one is a high, off-the-face beret that frames your face and profile magnificently... There's another that's flat and sits only slightly tilted with a big quill stuck across the front that reminds us of Henry VIII, or maybe it was one of the French Charleses. Another, of vel-

Ford to Give Auto Pageant

Ford lawn party, the first traveling auto show, will inaugurate a series of performances at 2 o'clock this afternoon at College Hill park, S. L. Updegraff of the Burkett-Updegraff Motor company announced yesterday. Tomorrow night's show will conclude the lawn party.

Three performances will be included on the evening's showing at which Al Morey and his orchestra will play. The public has been invited without charge.

The outdoor show will present a display of Ford V8 passenger cars, trucks, and commercial units in operation, Mr. Updegraff stated. The orchestra will give a two hour Fourth of July program from 12 p.m. to 2 p.m., Thursday at the Oakdale sanitarium.

ATTORNEY KILLED While Being Robbed Says Ferris

automobile at the park and heard shots while they were out.

"Then Ferris pulled the body out, after taking off the coat and vest," the prosecutor quoted her as saying. "The Miller woman related, McCrea said, that the stopped in the city to 'get our stuff' and then drove to Chicago.

The confession McCrea attributed to Ferris differed in some details from the woman's statement which preceded it, but the discrepancies were minor.

A Mistake
Ferris said Jean Miller and Loretta Jackson had got out of the car. Loretta Jackson was with him in the front seat, and Dickinson was alone in the back seat.

Ferris said he crawled over to the back seat and tried to search the attorney's pockets, Dickinson resisted and he fired a shot into the man's side.

He said Dickinson, before dying, cried: "You kids are making a mistake." Ferris related that he removed Dickinson's coat and vest, pulled the body from the car and then fired two more shots. One, he said, missed but the other entered the victim's head.

This agreed with the facts, as Dickinson was shot once in the body and again in the head.

Big Dough
"I guess the _____ won't talk any more," Loretta Jackson quoted Ferris as saying after the last shot was fired.

The plot to rob Dickinson was devised, Ferris confessed, by himself and the three women in his hotel room. They had become acquainted with Dickinson last Tuesday night in the bar room of the hotel, where they said he offered to buy them drinks.

They arranged to meet Wednesday night, and Dickinson's body was found a few hours later.

"He looked like big dough to us," Ferris told the prosecutor.

Let Him Have It
"We decided to get him drunk in his room the next night (Wednesday) and roll him, but he wouldn't get drunk. We got him to go for a ride with us and I went to Rouge park. I stopped the car and Flossie and Jean got out. Bobbie (Loretta) stayed in the front seat.

"I told Dickinson to stick up his hands and he tried to fight me off. Then I let him have it. I threw the body out and took the coat and vest off, and Jean and Flossie went through the pockets while we drove back.

"We decided Detroit was too hot for us, and so we went to Chicago and then the girls went to Ft. Wayne to try to get work. I met them there the next day and that night we got pinched."

Clarence Berg Gives Lecture On Chemistry

"The digestive tract is a sieve which permits passage of water soluble products of the great chemical process, digestion," said Clarence P. Berg in a contemporaneous chemistry lecture yesterday on "The Digestive Process."

The food particles taken into the mouth, much too large to be transferred to the blood, are reduced several times in the tract by secretions and the resultant enzyme actions. Digestion of the food is a necessity according to Mr. Berg for there are no large ducts provided to facilitate passage into the system.

The tract is not smooth nor motionless but is corrugated and in constant motion to allow complete action of the secretions. There is constant constriction and relaxation. The process of digestion described as hydrolysis, changing to soluble form, includes the enzyme actions of salivary, gastric, pancreatic, and other secretions.

The enzyme is not fully understood, according to Mr. Berg, and will not be until the enzymes can be analyzed. The enzyme has not as yet been isolated, but is thought to be a relative to proteins.

From experiments made it has been proved that there are at least six enzymes some of which react like proteins in producing hives on the skin.

Next week Prof. Perry A. Bond will deliver a lecture on "Solubility."

Staff Members Return From Annual Meet

The group of 12 staff members of the university libraries which attended the American Library association annual conference in Denver last week returned to Iowa City yesterday.

The delegation from Iowa presented reports and entertained at breakfast for former and present Iowa staff members, according to Grave Van Wormer, director of university libraries.

A paper "The New Serials Department," by J. Harris Gable, superintendent of the serials department, was read by Miss Van Wormer, chairman of the committee on recruiting for library service at the conference.

The breakfast for all Iowans, including former staff members, was attended by 29 persons, including John B. Kaiser, librarian at Free library in Oakland, Cal., formerly university library director; Jane E. Roberts, head of the order and catalogue department of the public library in Akron, Ohio, formerly university library director.

Jackson Towne, librarian at Michigan State college, formerly superintendent of departmental libraries here; and William H. Carlson, librarian at the University of North Dakota, formerly departmental libraries superintendent here.

All former Iowans gave accounts of their present work.

There were 2,000 persons present at the A.L.A. conference. Librarians and others interested in books came from all parts of the country.

John W. Studabaker, former Iowa, now United States commissioner of education, talked before the delegates Saturday.

FLYING BROTHERS Shatter All Existing Endurance Marks

23 minutes and 30 seconds, set in 1930 by Dale Jackson and Forest O'Brien at St. Louis, was passed at one minute after noon today.

Throughout the day the fliers flew the "Ole Miss" in a wide circle high above the Key field, keeping the plane within easy landing distance of the airport.

Dreamed of Record
As word that the brothers expect to land at 6:30 spread, roads leading to the airport began to fill with cars bearing enthusiastic friends.

Elaborate plans for receiving the fliers were made under the direction of the Meridian Junior Chamber of Commerce which sponsored the flight. The last refueling contact was made at 7 a.m.

The Keys for seven years dreamed of setting a world endurance record had made two previous unsuccessful attempts.

The first flight a little over a year ago ended after 123 hours because of engine trouble, and the second was terminated after 170 hours because of inclement weather.

Al was at the controls when the "Ole Miss" was landed today. He circled the field three times only a few hundred feet above the ground, and slipped in from the north of the field to make a perfect three point landing, unhampered by a flat tire on the right front wheel.

Feel Numb
A threatening rainstorm from the northeast brought the intrepid fliers into port 24 minutes ahead of their original schedule.

It was with extreme difficulty that police lines were able to hold back the surging, eager crowd.

"This is the happiest moment I ever experienced," said Al. "Me too," echoed Fred.

The brothers said their sense of equilibrium was not greatly affected by nearly a month's continuous flying, "but our sense of feeling has been affected," said Al.

"You get so where you feel numb after the constant whirling around in the air."

"What are your immediate plans?" "Boy, our immediate plan is to get some rest; after that I'm not quite sure."

In Good Fettle
The sturdy little ship in which the brothers accompanied their aviation feat appeared to be still in good flying fettle when brought to earth.

The Key brothers launched their ambitious flight on a "shoestring." The plane was borrowed from a friend, Bill Ward, Jr., and the financial backing necessary to insure continuation of the flight has been supplied by the Meridian Junior Chamber of Commerce.

The "Ole Miss" traveled 52,320 miles since the takeoff June 4—far enough for the fliers to have circled the earth twice.

Fred Key calculated that the motor had made 58,860,000 revolutions "without a bobble."

Four hundred and thirty-two contacts were made with the refueling plane, with 107 gasoline and oil transfers made.

No Sale!! June Brides Are Fewer During Depression Years

June marriage license business reached its peak in 1931 with 49 licenses issued at the Johnson county court house, according to records in the clerk of district court's office.

This year June weddings netted only 37 licenses from the county court house.

The next best "June bride" year was 1934 when 48 licenses to wed were issued.

In 1932 the business took a slump with only 16 licenses issued during June. In June, 1933, the business picked up to 26 licenses.

In the last June before the "crash" in 1929, 42 couples obtained marriage licenses, while 38 were licensed in 1930.

Squeegie Will Remain With Old Cellmate

JOLIET, Ill., July 1 (AP)—Squeegie, the bird in an unglided cage, had his chance at a pardon from Stateville prison today, but scorned it for his steel and concrete home in cellblock C.

The manner in which Squeegie eschewed liberty brought a snuffle to John Post, 65-year-old convict, who has been Squeegie's master, confidante and cellmate since a day in 1933 when he found the horned lark fluttering in the prison yard with a broken wing.

Post, sent up from Ottawa, Ill., for burglary, mended the fracture and spent his last $1.50 for birdseed. Squeegie moved into Post's cell, where he sang all day while his partner worked in the prison power house. Evenings, Post took Squeegie out for airings on his shoulder.

But Post has still a year "in stir" and today suggested to Warden Whipp that Squeegie, in all fairness, should get his pardon. Accompanied by the warden, the old man went out into the yard, plucked Squeegie off his shoulder perch and tossed the lark into air.

With a pained expression, Squeegie circled once, then soared over the wall. But before Post and the warden crossed the yard, Squeegie was back. He roosted on the one-time burglar's shoulder.

"I'll keep him," said Post.

Solons Request More Funds In Road Program

WASHINGTON, July 1 (AP)—A farm-to-market road program to take from $75,000,000 to $300,000,000 of work relief funds tonight appeared probable.

Middlewestern congressmen in a personal conference with President Roosevelt today asked allocation of $60,000,000 and some of them confidently expected close to that sum to be allotted for a nation-wide rural road program.

The president was quoted by some of the close to 30 congressmen who called on him as saying the 25 per cent of road allocations required to go to secondary roads should be increased to 37 per cent. This would mean $74,000,000 of the $200,000,000 already allocated for streets and highways would go to the rural roads instead of only $50,000,000, the minimum requirement.

A 37 per cent allotment would run up to $296,000,000 if taken out of the full $800,000,000 proposed for road work by congress in a tentative allocation in the $4,880,000,000 work relief fund.

Direct federal supervision of the rural road program was contemplated, the president indicated to the congressional delegation. Whether it would take the form of a separate rural road administration as suggested by the house farm bloc committee which pressed for extensive rural road building or state works progress administrators remained uncertain.

Representative Utterback (D-Ia), chairman of the farm bloc farm-to-market road committee and chief spokesman at the session with the president, said plans for a setup were nearing completion.

Utterback told the president a $600,000,000 program would make it possible to put $1,000,000 men to work for a year and $1,200,000,000 program would make it possible to put 2,000,000 men to work a year.

Tigers Close in Upon 2nd Place With 4-1 Win Over Cleveland

Auker Pitches 5-Hit Ball; Lee Permits Eight Blows

DETROIT, July 1 (AP)—The Detroit Tigers moved within four points of second place in the American league standings when they whipped the Cleveland Indians 4 to 1 today behind the five-hit hurling of Eileen Auker, the submarine hurler.

The league champions connected with only eight safe blows off Thornton Lee but they took advantage of practically every opportunity with the result they altered the standings to read: Cleveland .573; Detroit .574.

College All-Stars Meet Bears In 2nd Grid Classic August 29

CHICAGO, July 1 (AP)—College football will get its second crack at the post graduate, or professional version of the game on the night of Aug. 29 at Soldier field.

A year ago a band of college stars, seniors who were members of 1933 teams, battled the Chicago Bears, then champions of the National professional football league, to a scoreless tie before 80,000 spectators in the Chicago Tribune's first annual all-star game.

Senior stars, from 1934's college eleven, again elected by a nationwide vote of fans, will this year tackle the Bears—no longer pro champions, but still a great team.

Fans Will Vote The fans will start voting July 6 through the Tribune and 104 other newspapers in 34 states.

Creighton Head Resigns

OMAHA, Neb., July 1 (AP)—Arthur A. Schabinger, athletic director at Creighton university for the last 13 years, today resigned his post, effective July 31.

Johnny Allen, one of the New York Yankees' four "dollar-a-year" men at the star of spring training, has won six of his first eight pitching starts.

Cubs Pound 4 Red Hurlers For 8-4 Win

CINCINNATI, July 1 (AP)—Shelving four Cincinnati pitchers from the hill, the Chicago Cubs defeated the Reds in the third night game in major league history tonight, 8 to 4, before nearly 20,000 paid customers.

believed him the best athlete in town. Upon further questioning I was informed that he has won championships in tennis, canoeing, basketball, baseball, football, ice hockey, track, speed ice skating, and has won many incidental awards in swimming, golf, boxing, and softball.

During a game a few weeks ago I sat beside a girl who seemed to take a special interest in Ebert, and somehow things worked out that Ebert played an especially good game at bat and at short, and I in my cheering touched a vital spot to her, as we spoke together from that time on until the end of the game.

It is no wonder then that I should sort of laugh at times, when your paper glorifies some Kelly player who has done nothing really worthwhile, when some player on the same team actually plays a good game and has a "back ground" that is remarkable yet goes un-noticed. I almost forgot, a university professor told me that if John Ebert is the same as Sylvanus Ebert, he also is an outstanding mountain climber having climbed most of the major peaks of the United States.

I would like to sign my name to this paper, but I prefer to remain just a fan. My point in writing probably still is unknown to you, as it should be—there being no point—but I just wanted to let you know how a baseball fan feels about the sporting editors write-ups of the same event. Maybe sometime we will meet and I can make known my identity.

STORMY LOVE

A YOUNG NAVY MAN'S ROMANCE

READ THIS FIRST: Following a whirlwind romance in Shanghai where he is attached to a U. S. gunboat, carefree Lieutenant Valentine Preston is married to Lia Gamine, an American southerner.

whom he first observed while en route to say goodby to Janice Edding, his childhood sweetheart, as she sailed for the Puget Sound Navy Yard where her father, Captain Edding has been assigned. Val left Janice in a huff, ran into Lia again, and learned she was alone in the world except for an aunt in Peiping and a father she had not seen in years who was exploring in the Gobi desert. Val finally takes a drink into love and within a week they were married. When Val's orders arrive, transferring him to Puget Sound Navy Yard, Lia is bitterly disappointed at the thought of leaving China. Brad Norris, a classmate of Val's who has just resigned from the navy to accept a lucrative offer with the Cordray Aviation Co., meets the Prestons at Seattle. At Bremerton Lia joins Brad, his wife, Sue, and some friends of theirs in several drinks, but Val declines. On the way to the commandant's reception, Val finally takes a drink and the party stops at Officers' Row to inspect the Prestons' new home. Finally they arrive at the reception in gay spirits. At the reception they meet Maurice Cordray, the aviation executive. Suddenly Val hears Janice Edding singing and he is elated. Cordray invites Lia to try for a part in connection with a masked ball he is sponsoring at the Navy club.

CHAPTER 19

EVEN THOUGH she pretended it was in fun, Val found Sue's manner toward Lia exasperating. Moreover, he was nettled by her repeated interference in the Prestons' affairs. "By all means do what you can to make the Masque a success," he applauded Lia. "For one, know your part in your grand style." Cordray pressed the palms of his shapely hands together. "Excellent!" he approved. "And now, since the time is short and we must discuss rehearsals, costumes, that sort of thing—why not all of you come and dine informally with me tonight? Norris will bring you along to my place. Dinner at seven."

only a short distance from the State street gate and standing in its beamed living room Val Preston smiled grimly to compare this pleasant place with the drab bungalow Lia and he had just quitted. On leaving the admiral's tea the Norris had set them down at their new quarters to freshen up a bit before Cordray's dinner. A half hour later when Brad's siren sounded again in their driveway, they had run out with all speed, eager to escape the dreary house that had proved to be even more depressing than Sue had promised.

Here in the softly-lighted luxury of Cordray's home Val looked about him to see a Japanese servant with a silver tray of cocktails and hors d'oeuvres ambulating among the gay groups of girls and junior officers from visiting ships who made up the party. Cedar logs roared in the big fireplace at the far end of the room three broad steps mounted to a level where a grand piano stood invitingly open; book-filled shelves framed the deep windows; a sweep of white wall bore a collection of rare Pennell etchings; against the dull red of drawn window-drapes vases of tall ivory calla lilies were effectively placed.

"Of the guests only Jan and Kent Townley belonged on the station. Townley, coming to shake hands, annoyed Val by saying, "But I thought it was to be Paris! How is it that the navy's choicest play-boy turns up in this dull neck of the woods?" Settling down, Preston said:

"With murder in his heart Val presented him to Lia and was disgusted at her warm response to the grand conversation he was further irritated when the handsome Townley managed an adroit withdrawal and separating Jan from the others, bent above her talking so earnestly as to make himself conspicuous. These were the things that made him loathe this bird, Val raged. What was the big sap doing? Making love to her? Her shining head tipped back, Jan smiled up at her admirer. To the younger officer the relief of the announcement of dinner put an end to the offending tableau.

Within the oak-paneled dining room, when their host seated Lia at his right and Mrs. Field at his other hand, Val became conscious of the sullen glow in Sue Norris' red-brown eyes. Cordray also must have glimpsed that smoldering spark for he smiled across at Brad's wife to ask in his most ingratiating tone, "Will you play hostess for me tonight, Miss Sue? Mr. Preston at your right, Browne at your left—" he went on placing his guests.

The "Miss Sue" Val judged, was Cordray's temperamental, was informality and the proper dignity of an important man toward his employer's wife. He followed Sue to her chair and seated her. She looked dangerously beautiful in the glow of the tall candles that matched the yellow primroses in the glass bowls and brought out the bronze lights in her shining hair. It was characteristic of Sue that she wanted always to take first place. It seemed to please her, however, to preside over Cordray's rich dinner, Liqueur glass and rare Georgian silver.

A soft voice beside Val interrupted his thoughts. "My pall And what did you mean by taking your bride I was an Amazon with big feet? I weigh just under 116, Mr. Preston, and wear a four and a half, triple A."

she did not press her advantage. It was pleasant, he thought, to chat with Jan again. He liked watching her attractively animated face with the rather high cheek bones and the clear, wide-set eyes. When she was deeply interested she still had the old childish mannerism of pursing that provocatively lower lip that was like a red rose petal.

There were brief moments, however, when he sensed a baffling change in Jan. In repose something in her expression puzzled and eluded him. It was a sort of fleeting sadness, a momentary impression of some overwhelming experience, a glimpse of waters running too deep for him to fathom. Why, damn it all, it was as if—as if Jan had been a fresh scar across her happy, carefree youth.

What rot! She was laughing now. He had signalled soda into his glass he asked Jan, "What does one do to amuse himself here? Hook rugs?" "If you like. But if you crave something a shade more virile there are golf, tennis, sailing; winter sports at Mt. Rainier; hunting and fishing in the Olympics or the Cascades. The most beautiful motor drives in the world lead from one's very doorstep."

"Help! You've been reading a prospectus, honey. And what about rainy nights like this?" "Oh, occasional dinners, dancing, bridge. The rain gives one a chance to catch up on the reading he may not have had time for until now. Besides, there are many interesting people in the Yard and good conversation around a fire on a stormy night satisfies the soul."

Conversation around a fire! He had lived the hectic life of the east until he had forgotten people did things like that. The idea had its appeal, no doubt; and yet he said, "Sounds swell for after 40, but what about now?" "I am 22 and I enjoy every minute of it."

He shook his head dubiously. "You can't really say that. I don't know how many of you had a grander time in the Asiatic. How can you settle down to this?" "When you've navy in your blood you make the most of every fresh experience, don't you? Of course I loved China. It was gay and exciting. But it's exciting to wade a stream with a silver trout, like a steel spring curling and darting at the end of your line. Then, did you ever master two strips of wood so that they bore you over the snow as fleetly as a magic carpet? Oh, it's swell country, Val, and they call it the Charmed Land. Nice name, isn't it? And it fits. Back of Bremerton are the little farms of Norse sailors where they fill great baskets of eggs for market; thousands of Easter lilies grow in their small greenhouses; in the summer they pack barrels of strawberries that are covered with sugar frozen and shipped away for the hat bewberies of mid-western soda fountains."

He swung about to find Jan laughing up at him. As she slipped into the chair beside her he met some evasive reply and was grateful that

E. C. Gardner Announces Achievement Day Program July 12

Home Project Works Feature Plans For Day

2 Sessions Will Be Held in American Legion Building

Complete plans and program for Johnson county's annual Achievement day, July 12, were announced by Emmett C. Gardner, county agent, yesterday.

The program, which will open for two sessions in the American Legion building at 10 a. m., will show home project works of more than 200 Johnson county farm women.

Township exhibits must be placed and ready for judging at 10 a. m., July 12.

Appointment Reception Committee

Farm Bureau officials yesterday appointed a reception committee for the event composed of Mrs. S. K. Stemmmons, chairman, Mrs. B. L. Hatz, and Mrs. W. L. Snider.

A committee of Farm Bureau men will be appointed later this week to plan for a cafeteria lunch at noon. Persons attending the Achievement day events are asked to bring picnic baskets.

The morning session program is as follows:

10 a. m., Judging of township exhibits.

11 a. m., meeting will be called to order by the county chairman and community singing will be led by Elmer Williams. Rose C. Reeve, county girls' club chairman, will speak.

11:30 a. m., selections from the opera "Bohemian Girl" by the Johnson county 4-H club girls.

Afternoon Program

The afternoon program, following a noon lunch, is as follows:

1 p. m., community singing.

1:15 p. m., health talk by Dr. J. D. Boyd.

1:30 p. m., Mrs. Ellsworth Richardson of Albia, state chairman of the Farm Bureau women's committee, will speak.

2 p. m., song by 4-H club girls.

2:15 p. m., playlet "Keeping Accounts" by Lincoln township ladies.

2:30 p. m., Mrs. Sarah Porter Ellis of Ames, state demonstration agent, will speak and announce the placings of home project exhibitions.

3 p. m., announcement of next year's project work by Mrs. Edward Strub of Iowa City.

Charles O'Donnell To Head New Motorcycle Club in Iowa City

Charles O'Donnell was elected president of the newly organized Gypsy Motorcycle club at its first meeting Sunday morning.

Plans for a field meet to be held here late in August were discussed. The club will enter a float in the Fourth of July parade, it was indicated.

Charter members at the meeting included Alvin Green, Louis F. Mahan, William Duke, Jaro L. Soucek, Robert Stevens, and Henry Soucek.

Evans Hears Divorce Action in Trees Case

Divorce action of D. C. Van Trees against Mary F. Van Trees was heard by District Judge Harold D. Evans in district court yesterday.

The couple was married in Marysville in 1875. The plaintiff charges desertion in the petition, filed by B. F. Carter. Attorney Henry Negus represented the defendant.

Judge Evans took the case under advisement.

Three Executors For Fuhrmeister Estate Named by Judge Evans

District Judge Harold D. Evans yesterday appointed Ella May Neltner, Martha E. Kroul and Ernest W. Fuhrmeister executors of the estate of their mother, Lucinda Fuhrmeister. A property disposition to the children was made in a will drawn in 1925.

Tried Again

Following heavy rains Sunday, the Iowa river tried again yesterday to do damage in Iowa City territory, but failed as the river held to a stage of 9.2 feet from late yesterday morning until early this morning. The river was .7 of a foot above flood stage yesterday.

Draining Park

City officials announced yesterday that a sand bag embankment will be thrown up at the bridge outlet and the water will be pumped out of the lower section of the City park in preparation for the Fourth of July celebration Thursday.

Pryor to St. Paul

Don Pryor, who recently accepted a position with the United Press at Chicago, has been transferred to the St. Paul bureau of the association, according to word received here yesterday. Mr. Pryor is a former editor of The Daily Iowan.

Prayer Service

The Union prayer service will be at 7:30 p. m. tomorrow at the home of Ben Switzer, 904 Iowa avenue. Paul Clippinger will lead the service. All friends have been invited to attend the meeting.

Let Flags Fly

Chamber of Commerce officials yesterday urged all Iowa Citizens to display American flags on the Fourth of July. Chamber officials hope to see flags fly in front of every business house Thursday.

More Clean Up

Trucks will be in wards three and four today to pick up rubbish which Iowa Citizens have been urged to place at the curb in front of their homes during the Chamber of Commerce annual clean up drive. The trucks will pick up debris in the fifth ward tomorrow. Material to be hauled away must be placed in containers. The containers will be left if a note to that effect is placed on the box or basket.

DEATH SENTENCE Gets Death Blow From House

will head the senate conference, said after the house vote that the measure would be brought into line with Mr. Roosevelt's wishes or "dead-joked." The White House had no immediate comment.

The stunning measure of Mr. Roosevelt's house defeat ranked it with the earlier house vote to override his cash bonus veto.

Galleries Tense

The floor and galleries were tense when the voting was reached today. Representative Eicher (D-Iowa) offered his amendment to substitute the senate's "death sentence" for the house interstate commerce committee's regulation of holding companies.

Eicher and Representative Cooper (R-Ohio) were designated as tellers. They took their places on either side of the center aisle leading out of the house well. Those representatives favoring Eicher's amendment passed through first and were counted. Then its opponents filed up the aisle. Most representatives remained on their feet to await the result of one of the new deal's most stirring battles.

So great was the confusion and so rapidly did members press past the tellers that it was impossible to record more than a handful of those voting for or against.

Applaud Result

Announcement of the tally was hailed by applause and cheers from those who won over the administration. No record was taken of those voting on one side or the other. But some of the leaders were observed to split on the "death sentence" issue as they went forward to be counted.

Speaker Byrnes voted on Mr. Roosevelt's side. But Representative Boland (D-Pa), the democratic whip, voted against the president's demands. Most republicans voted against abolition.

While the republicans were openly pleased with results of the heated intra-democratic squabble, they were out to qualify the utility measure.

All Play Activities Continue At 2 Local Summer Playgrounds

Announce Plans For Track Meet, Cast Of 'Order in the Court'

Play activities at Horace Mann and Henry Sabin school grounds were proceeding at full speed as the third week of the recreational center's summer program began yesterday morning.

An attendance of 1500 was recorded Saturday night at the close of the first two weeks of the program. Margaret Mulholland, supervisor, said that hundreds more are expected to take part in the organized games and crafts if rains do not hamper outdoor work.

Girls Tetherball

In the girls' tetherball tournament at Horace Mann yesterday, Miriam McLaughlin, 12, and Dolores Elchler, 13, won first and second, respectively, for the senior group. Phyllis Moore, 10, and Laura Jean Mott, 11, won first and second for the juniors. The tournament for boys at Horace Mann will be this afternoon.

Plays

Besides the two plays, the evening program Saturday will include tap dancing and folk dancing exhibitions.

The following cast has been selected for "Order in the Court": Barbara Ricketts, Jimmy; Robert Williams, Robert; Dolores Moore, Robin; Edith Slavata, Bluebird; Joyce Jones, Kingbird; Dorothy Casper, Crow; Marjorie Casper, Catbird; Loretta Lakin, Owl; Magdalen Lenoach, Blue Jay; and 12 children as the jury.

Local Officials Urge Precaution In Fourth of July Celebration

A general list of "don'ts" to protect Iowa Citizens during the most dangerous day of the year has been suggested by Police Chief C. O. Paine and Fire Chief George Casper.

"The suggestions are offered for 'safe and sane' celebrations," Chief Paine said.

"Plan your auto trip carefully. Start early and avoid the rush hours. Watch out for hikers and picnickers. Don't drive when too tired. Drinking and driving don't mix.

"Don't run unnecessary risks while swimming. Don't dive in shallow water. Don't go beyond your depth. Don't enter the water too soon after a meal.

Avoid Fireworks

"Don't celebrate with fireworks and firecrackers. Watch your community celebration instead. Don't fool with firearms.

"Be careful. Let Independence day be a day of the flag, not of the firecracker. Use common sense in celebrating in order that this great day may bring happiness to all and sorrow to none."

In a series of Fourth of July "don'ts," Chief Kasper reminded citizens that the first proof of patriotism is in home safety protection.

"Don't shut your eyes to the real Fourth of July hazards," he said, "such as fireworks, automobiles, drownings, fire, and all similar types of accidents. Don't forget that safe fireworks for your children can be found in the community stores.

"Don't neglect to see that your fireworks are safe if you must have home fireworks.

Watch Dangers

"Don't hold firecrackers in your hand while they are being lighted. Don't explode firecrackers in any kind of container.

"Don't wear a celluloid eye shade, the ignition of which may cause the loss of eyes, hair or head injuries.

"Don't neglect wounds. Have them dressed at once by a physician. The danger of lockjaw from Fourth of July burns and injuries is great."

Hayek Files Petitions For Judgments Here

Two petitions were filed in district court yesterday morning by Will J. Hayek, attorney for the receivership of the Johnson County Savings bank, asking judgments totaling $4,130.18.

One action asks $3,030.18 against J. B. Howell of Marion and E. B. Howell of Ottumwa. The other petition seeks $1,100 from Al Murphy and Marie Murphy.

Both actions are based on promissory notes.

Mayor Martin Fines Six in Police Court

John Murphy, Jr., of Iowa City was fined $35 and costs of $2.98 and sentenced to 10 days labor for the city on a petty larceny charge before Mayor Thomas E. Martin, in police court yesterday.

O'Donnell, Tucker Give Pleas of Guilty On Theft Charges Here

Dan O'Donnell and James Tucker pleaded guilty to information charging them with driving a car without the owner's consent before District Judge Harold D. Evans yesterday morning.

The men were released on their own bond after County Attorney Ed Baldwin had recommended the case continued for sentence.

O'Donnell and Tucker were picked up by police a week ago last Saturday night in a truck which they had stolen from its parking place near the public library. They received jail sentences at that time from Justice of Peace T. M. Fairchild in police court on intoxication charges.

Young Hero! Local Youth Drags Companion Out of Pool After Mishap

Maynard Adair, 16, probably saved the life of a companion who couldn't swim yesterday afternoon when he dragged Arthur Ingalls, 15, from a swimming hole north of the new theater building.

According to bystanders, Adair, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Adair, 1833 Rundell street, saw Ingalls fall from a plank in the middle of the pond, which is about 40 feet across and nearly 23 feet deep.

Remembering that Ingalls had said previously he could not swim, Adair plunged in after him. Catching the struggling youth by the hair as he came up the first time, Adair swam with him to shore.

Ingalls, suffered no ill effects from the episode and was back in the water 10 minutes later.

With the recent rains, the hole has become a popular swimming spot. It has a sand bottom and the water is fairly clear, being fed by springs.

Nearly 20 boys were in the pool yesterday when the accident occurred about 2:30 p. m.

South Bethel Church Members to Observe 98th Anniversary

Members and friends of the South Bethel open country church, seven miles south of Tipton, will observe the ninety-eighth anniversary of the church's founding July 14.

The Rev. C. G. Lusted of Nashua, former pastor of the church, will preach at the 11 a. m. service. Mayor Earl Morton of Tipton will speak at a 2:30 p. m. meeting.

At 8 p. m., Clifford Peterson of Rochester, a University of Iowa student, will preside at a young people's meeting.

Wrestling Match To Feature Community School Entertainment

A boxing and wrestling match will comprise the Iowa City Community school program tonight at 8 o'clock. The main attraction will be a mat tussle between Walter Verana, 170 pounds of Iowa City, and T. J. Crippen, 165 pounds of North Liberty.

It is planned to carry the program out in true Madison Square style, with referees, judges and trainers, and the entire program will be broadcast over a fictitious ICCS coast to coast network.

William Corbett Simpson, who died recently at Leeds, England, at the age of 88, joined the Royal Marines in 1864.

Heiress in Court

Money troubles and not the usual romantic complications brought Merry Fahrney-Parker-Pickering-Bisner of Oak Park, Ill., back into the headlines. The heiress to patent medicine millions sought to have voided documents which she signed waiving her share of the $1,000,000 estate left by her late uncle.

Clerk Reports 32 Convictions

Thirty-two persons were convicted of crimes and misdemeanors in Johnson county district court during the court year which ended yesterday, according to an annual report of Walter J. Barrow, clerk of district court.

The Louis Clay murder case came up for hearing as the headline case of the year. Clay, first person in Johnson county to be charged with murder during the last two years, was convicted of murder by a county petit jury and sentenced to the state penitentiary for life by District Judge D. V. Jackson of Muscatine.

Robert R. Thompson was convicted of manslaughter after an automobile which he was driving struck David Haney, 18, fatally injuring him as he was riding a bicycle on E. Burlington street last December. Thompson was convicted of manslaughter, sentenced to eight years in the state penitentiary, and fined $1,000.

During the court year, 10 persons were charged with breaking and entering, two were charged with operating a nuisance, one with keeping a gambling house, and one with illegal transportation of liquor.

Eight cases were dismissed without trial.

Kutcher Issues Seven Permits

Seven building permits totalling $13,875 were issued during the month of June, according to the monthly report of C. A. Kutcher, city inspector.

Permits were issued for three residences for a total estimated cost of $13,500. Building of three garages at a total cost of $275 was authorized and one remodeling permit was issued.

Community School To Feature Boxing, Wrestling Tonight

A boxing and wrestling card will furnish the program for the Iowa City Community school meeting tonight at the American Legion building at 8 o'clock.

The main attraction will be a wrestling match between Walter Verana, 170 pounds, of Iowa City and T. J. Crippen, 165 pounds, of North Liberty. The grapplers will wrestle to a fall or finish.

The sports program will be carried on in Madison Square garden style with the accompanying referees, judges, and trainers. The matches will be broadcast over a fictitious national hook-up.

County Board Renews Five Class B Beer Permits at Session

The Johnson county board of supervisors renewed five class B permits yesterday. Two more were filed for consideration at the next board session.

Permits issued yesterday morning were for Lloyd Beese at Suttiff, Barta Becka at Coufals, Lee Schneider at Cosgrove, Albert Wakefield at the east edge of Iowa City on U.S. highway No. 6 and Stephen Corner at Newport.

Last year the board issued 10 permits to establishments in areas outside the incorporated towns and cities of the county.
