COURT CONVICTS MARGARET WALEY

Voters Will be Asked to Sign Petition For New High School Bond Election

25 Per Cent Of Electorate Required To Sign Petition

Estimate Project To Take 200 Laborers Nearly a Year To Finish Construction

Voters in Iowa City's last school election will be asked tomorrow to sign a petition calling a special bond election to finance 55 per cent of the cost of Iowa City's proposed $600,000 senior high school building, school board officials announced last night.

After one-fourth of last year's school voters sign the petition, the school board will set a date for an election on $350,000 school bond issue.

Plans for the new high school building, to be erected at the east end of College street, were announced yesterday morning by Willis W. Mercer, president of the board of education, and Iver Opsahl, superintendent of schools. The board met in special session yesterday afternoon for further consideration of plans for the model school building.

France Plans Huge Review

Best Show Since War Calculated To Still Revolutionaries

PARIS, July 13 (AP)—France's biggest military review since the days of the World war is expected to quiet any possible revolutionary ardor by rival political "troops" tomorrow—Bastille day.

The political partisans intend to march by the scores of thousands through the French capital—and authorities are nervous.

Both rightists and leftists have promised to maintain order, but Premier Pierre Laval is taking no chances.

Massed maneuvers of 600 aircraft will be held tomorrow over long columns of tanks, artillery, and all branches of the army and navy. The military display will be reviewed by President Albert Lebrun.

Even the name of Freeman as a likely successor to Governor Paul M. Pearson was received skeptically in some quarters. He is a Washington lawyer, Army Reserve corps major and former resident of Los Angeles.

Establish 11 New Regions

R. Tugwell Creates Rehabilitation Plots; Money Distributed

WASHINGTON, July 13 (AP)—Establishment of 11 regions for rural rehabilitation, and the distribution of $91,000,000 between the areas, were announced today by Rexford G. Tugwell, resettlement administrator.

The $91,000,000 was allocated recently to the administration by the president from the $4,000,000,000 works appropriation, and is for the six month period, July 1—Dec. 31, 1935.

Officials explained that no breakdown of the fund by states will be made. Under plans now being drafted, specific projects will be planned where the administration determines a need. Then individual allotments will be made within the regions for specific projects.

Coolie Swarms Work To Save Hankow's Dikes from Floods

HANKOW, China, July 14 (Sunday) (AP)—Swarms of coolies today strengthened dikes which threatened to open and loose the raging Yangtze river on the city.

Leaks have opened in places, and the river waters have penetrated to the heart of the city, driving the residents to upper floors and filling them with fear that the flood embankments cannot long stand.

Daughter Files Objections

DENVER, (AP)—Caveat and objection to the admission to probate of the will of Mrs. Belle Barton Bonfils, widow of F. G. Bonfils, the publisher, was filed in county court yesterday by Mrs. Mary Berryman, a daughter.

Reports of New Virgin Islands Administration Remains Unconfirmed

WASHINGTON, July 13 (AP)—Persistent reports of a new Virgin Islands administration headed by Charles William Freeman remained unconfirmed by the administration today under a blanket of silence imposed by the White House.

Even the name of Freeman as a likely successor to Governor Paul M. Pearson was received skeptically in some quarters. He is a Washington lawyer, Army Reserve corps major and former resident of Los Angeles.

Keep Away, Says Entente Hapsburg Family Warned That War Will Result If—

BUCHAREST, July 13 (AP)—The Hapsburg family was warned today by a powerful combination of Austria's neighbors to stay away from the non-existent throne of Austria.

Nicholas Titulescu, foreign minister of Rumania, announced that if the Hapsburg dynasty, which once ruled parts of Rumania, Yugoslavia, and Czechoslovakia, were restored, those three nations, now composing The Little Entente, would be forced to mobilize their armies.

The hand of Czechoslovakia was not apparent in the announcement, but it was considered also to carry the full weight of Yugoslavia, for it was made after Titulescu had conferred with Prince Paul, regent of Yugoslavia.

Said Titulescu: "The Little Entente policies with respect to a Hapsburg restoration have been settled on a positive basis, and mobilization would flow as a matter of course if the dynasty is re-established in Vienna."

House Ways, Means Committee Met Early To Speed Action

WASHINGTON, July 13 (AP)—A cross-fire of vigorous criticism and hearty praise—but with criticism sounding the louder—today rushed the president's tax plan to the bill-drafting stage.

In order to finish hearings today, the house ways and means committee met earlier than usual and sat later, giving up its usual Saturday recess. The sum and substance of what it heard was this:

A Demand

A demand from the Chamber of Commerce of the United States for a reduction of expenditures if not a balanced budget through economy.

Grand Jury Returns 16 More Indictments

Officials Seek Good Case In Land Slaying

CHICAGO, July 13 (AP)—Authorities pressed tonight for an "iron clad" case against all suspects in this city's latest melodrama of murder—the brutal "swamp slaying" of Ervin Lang.

Charles S. Dougherty, ace assistant to Prosecutor Thomas Courtney, assumed charge of the investigation as police continued their questioning of the alleged buyer of the murder, Lang's 43-year-old mother-in-law, Mrs. Blanche Dunkel.

On the basis of her story to prosecutors that she paid Mrs. Evelyn Smith, 35-year-old former burlesque dancer, $100 on a $500 pledge for the slaying, secret raids were made on Chinatown in an attempt to apprehend the one time show girl and her Chinese laundryman lover, Harry Jung. They were also sought in other cities.

But new traces of the pair were found here. In a rooming house on Ontario street where the couple allegedly stopped for 24 hours after the slaying, police discovered a shopping bag they said the Smith woman owned. In it were five blood-stained towels.

Assistant Prosecutor Francis McCurrie said this and other evidence and the purported story of Mrs. Dunkel that Mrs. Smith strangled Lang in her apartment after he had been drunk and drugged would be sufficient to send the trio to the electric chair.

Mayor Hayes, Asked to Quit, Will Refuse

Kraschel's Name Entered in Sioux City Testimony

SIoux CITY, Ia., July 13 (AP)—The Woodbury county grand jury today added a state agent, a sheriff and others to the list of persons indicted in a three-months investigation of alleged Iowa graft.

Agent C. W. McNaughton of the state bureau of investigation and Sheriff Ralph E. Rippey of LeMars, Plymouth county, were charged with conspiracy in the grand jury's third report. McNaughton also was charged with accepting a bribe.

Nearly Two Score

Nearly two score persons were named in 16 indictments returned by the jury, which two weeks ago indicted Attorney General Edward L. O'Connor and First Assistant Attorney General Walter Maley.

The grand jurors today also recommended removal from office of Mayor W. H. Hayes of Sioux City. The mayor, the jurors held, was negligent in allowing existence of the "lawless" conditions the jury said it found in Sioux City.

Removal

The recommendation, filed with District Judge A. O. Wakefield, asked that County Attorney Maurice Rawlings file a removal petition at once and that H. M. Haver and Ole Naglestad be appointed special prosecutors to conduct the removal hearing.

Then the jury recessed to Aug. 19. Its first report indicted 12 members of a reported Sioux City slot machine syndicate for conspiracy and State Agent William Arthur for alleged perjury.

16 Indictments

O'Connor, Maley and 18 others were indicted on a gambling conspiracy charge, two men were charged with slot machine conspiracy, and a perjury indictment was returned against Joe Siegel, Sioux City night club operator.

The 16 indictments returned today included:

Two gambling conspiracy to operate gambling houses, against Ike Sherman, Pete Mitchell, Mike Brennan, Gus Vagnius, Frank Pasha, Don Nickle, Tony Pasha, George Myers.

Secretary of State, Mrs. Miller, Selects Iowa's Highway Patrol

Chooses 50 From Group in Training At Camp Dodge

DES MOINES, Ia., July 13 (AP)—Secretary of State Mrs. Alex Miller today selected Iowa's highway patrol force.

She announced she had completed picking 50 probationary patrolmen from 75 applicants who have been in training at Camp Dodge since June 15. The names of the successful applicants are to be posted at the camp Monday.

The remaining 25 men are to be placed on the reserve list to be used for replacements when they are needed, Mrs. Miller said.

The final selection was made by the secretary of state in interviews today on the basis of 10 qualifications, which she said included:

Qualifications

Personality; appearance; physical condition; ability in motorcycle riding; knowledge of use of firearms; physical combat methods, first aid, and court procedure; grades in written and oral examinations during the training period; and ratings and recommendations of instructors.

"The job of picking 50 men out of the 75 was most difficult, inasmuch as practically every man in the group was very worthy of consideration," Mrs. Miller said. "The spirit and energy the men have put into their schooling is certainly gratifying."

With the probationary force completed, the camp swings into the final period of activity. The new patrolmen are to continue in their camp duties for an additional week under the supervision of Patrol Chief John Hattery and Assistant Chiefs Harry Nestle and E. A. Conley.

Supervise Schooling

Stanley Baker, an instructor from the National Safety council, is to be added to the camp staff to supervise schooling in drivers' license examinations.

The chamber of commerce argument was presented by three witnesses, objecting to the tax plan in general and its four points in particular.

Fred H. Clausen, of Horicon, Wis., opposed the graduated corporation income tax to replace the present flat rate; Roy C. Osgood of Chicago objected to increases in inheritance and gift levies; E. C. Alvord of Washington spoke against higher personal income tax rates.

Convicted in Kidnaping Will Be Sentenced Wednesday

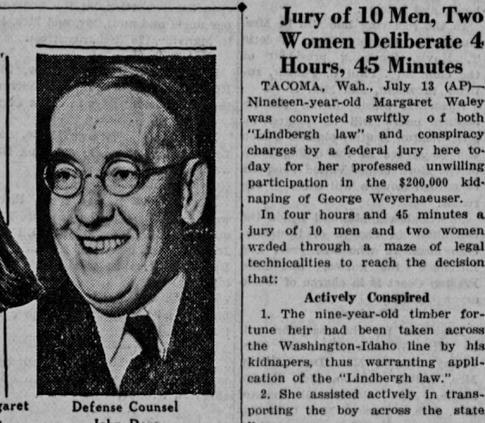

Mrs. Margaret Waley

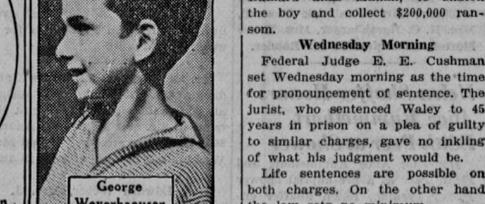

Judge E. E. Cushman

"My goodness, I hope that jury doesn't acquit me," said Margaret Waley, and it didn't. She was convicted of both the "Lindbergh law" and conspiracy charges by a federal jury in Tacoma, Wash. She was tried on charges under the Lindbergh law in connection with the kidnaping of young George Weyerhaeuser. Federal Judge E. E. Cushman, upon being informed Mrs. Waley was a dupe of her husband and the fugitive William A. Mahan, ordered the formal trial and named John Dore, former mayor of Seattle, as counsel for the young woman. Federal District Attorney J. C. Dennis represented the prosecution.

Jury of 10 Men, Two Women Deliberate 4 Hours, 45 Minutes

TACOMA, Wash., July 13 (AP)—Nineteen-year-old Margaret Waley was convicted swiftly of both "Lindbergh law" and conspiracy charges by a federal jury here today for her professed unwilling participation in the $200,000 kidnaping of George Weyerhaeuser.

In four hours and 45 minutes a jury of 10 men and two women waded through a maze of legal technicalities to reach the decision that:

Actively Conspired

1. The nine-year-old timber fortune heir had been taken across the Washington-Idaho line by his kidnapers, thus warranting application of the "Lindbergh law."

2. She assisted actively in transporting the boy across the state line.

3. She actively conspired, despite her protestations to the contrary, with her husband, Harmon M. Waley, and the fugitive William Dainard alias Mahan, to snatch the boy and collect $200,000 ransom.

Wednesday Morning

Federal Judge E. E. Cushman set Wednesday morning as the time for pronouncement of sentence. The jurist, who sentenced Waley to 45 years in prison on a plea of guilty to similar charges, gave no inkling of what his judgment would be.

Life sentences are possible on both charges. On the other hand the law sets no minimum.

The lump, stolid young woman, described by her attorneys as a child of abject poverty, took the verdict without a flicker of emotion.

Two Killed In Belfast Rioting

20 Injured, Also, In Celebration of 245th Battle Anniversary

BELFAST, Northern Ireland, July 13 (AP)—Two persons were killed and 20 injured in a second night of rioting that began yesterday with the celebration of the two hundred forty-fifth anniversary of the Battle of the Boyne.

In two days fighting between Catholics and Protestant Orangemen four have been killed and 66 injured.

Tonight's outbreaks were in York street, scene of the first day's disorders. The rioters defied curfew restriction and a triple guard of Belfast and provincial police.

Rioting broke out last night as members of the Orange lodge returned home after staging their annual mock battle 30 miles from Belfast to commemorate the Battle of the Boyne, 245 years ago.

Italy Disclaims Unfriendly Act

Asserts Italy In No Way Violated War Agreements

ROME, July 13 (AP)—Authoritative sources emphasized tonight that Italo-Ethiopian border incidents were not of Italy's choosing, claiming that Ethiopia was responsible for a series of unfriendly actions.

This attitude was expressed as these authorities, commenting on Secretary of State Hull's declaration in support of the Kellogg-Briand Pact, asserted that Italy in "no way" has violated that treaty outlawing war.

The suggestion was made that Italy would attend a meeting of the League of Nation council if that body should be convened to deal with the Italo-Ethiopian conflict, although it was stated that Italy would oppose "taking orders" from the council.

Great Britain Anxiously Awaits Mussolini's Massing of Troops

Experts Say Italian Army Best Equipped, Largest in Africa

ADEN, Arabia, July 12 (AP)—From this Persian gulf port Great Britain is anxiously watching Premier Mussolini's massing of troops in Italy's East African colonies of Somaliland and Eritrea.

Observers said today they considered the Italian army the most scientifically equipped as well as the largest ever sent into Africa. The preparations now under way indicate to military experts that an early assault on the 5,000-year-old independent stronghold of Ethiopia is contemplated.

Easily Observed

The military preparations at Massaua, Eritrea, across the gulf from here, are the most easily observed. That city now is a town of stevedores and newly-arrived troops, working without rest to unload the

Two Injured In Renewal Of Old Feud

BARBOURVILLE, Ky., July 13 (AP)—Bullets wounded a girl and a man when two families renewed an old grudge in this hill town tonight. Twenty shots whistled through Saturday night crowds on Courthouse square.

A passerby, Mary Gregory, of Manchester, Clay county, was shot in the wrist. Orange Gambriel was wounded twice in the shoulder.

The shooting was blamed on an old enmity between the Kinder and the Gambriel families of the Artemus section of Knox county. Barbourville is the county seat.

Officers arrested Charles Kinder after tonight's affray. He was recently freed on bond on a charge of killing Bert Gambriel, brother of Orange and Lath Gambriel. Bert was killed at Corbin, Ky., a few weeks ago.

Conspiracy
One, charging Joe Siegel with maintaining a liquor nuisance.

One indictment charging conspiracy, against: Ralph Rippery, sheriff of Plymouth county, and Louis Meyer, Le Mars cafe proprietor.

One indictment against A. M. Seff, William Seff, Louis Seff, Russell Brooks, charging conspiracy to operate slot machines.

One indictment against John Diebert, police officer, and Sam Stevens, charging conspiracy.

Bribes
One against Kirby Kerr, discharged police officer, charging receiving a bribe.

One against Nile F. Luke, discharged police officer, charging receiving a bribe.

One against John Diebert, discharged police officer, charging receiving a bribe.

The grand jury also returned indictments against five persons in connection with the beating of Mrs. Leona Flaa, whom it heard as a witness in an alleged disorderly house case not connected with the graft investigation.

Alvin Flaa, Joe Abraham, Oscar Abraham, Archie White, and Adam Boehm, who were included, were charged with assault with intent to commit murder.

Mayor Hayes, in a statement issued following announcement of the grand jury's recommendation, said he is "ready and willing to submit my cause to the consideration of any unbiased court or tribunal."

County Attorney Rawlings said he will comply with the jury's recommendations as far as possible. The jury also asked that H. M. Havner and Ole Naglestad, special prosecutors before the grand jury, be retained to assist Rawlings.

Mayor Hayes' statement follows: "Having been informed through the press that the present grand jury has seen fit to recommend that ouster proceedings be instituted against me, I desire to state that I have no intention of resigning the office of mayor. I have violated have at all times endeavored to serve my people. My entire time has been devoted to that work. There are in this city political enemies, who have been made so through my efforts to compel them to discharge many hundreds of thousands of dollars they grafted from property owners of this city by fraudulent paving jobs. Since I took this stand they have spent a large amount of money in the employment of detectives, special prosecutors and undercover men in an effort to discredit me. It is my belief that many well meaning citizens have been misled and that the present situation with respect to the charges made against me are the result of their efforts. I desire to say to the citizens of this city that I am ready and willing to submit my cause to the consideration of any unbiased court or tribunal."

Rawlings Statement
The statement of County Attorney Rawlings follows: "Having every confidence in this grand jury, I naturally assume they had sufficient cause to make the report just submitted. However, I have not had an opportunity as yet to personally ascertain the evidence or material on which the report was based and am therefore proceeding at once to procure this testimony or facts. There will be no delay in this matter. I shall so far as possible comply with the request of the grand jury."

Minutes of testimony before the grand jury by Clyde E. Mayer, slot machine dealer, were attached to the indictments and quoted Mayer as saying "... I have given Sheriff Rippery money in Sioux City in connection with slot machine business in Plymouth county."

Kraschel Mentioned
Mayer was indicted for conspiracy in the second grand jury report. The name of Lieutenant Governor Nelson G. Kraschel of Harlan entered testimony given by John M. Mayer of Omaha, as reported in the attached minutes. Mayer, brother of Clyde Mayer, was a grand jury witness Wednesday.

The minutes quoted John Mayer, as follows: "My name is John M. Mayer. I formerly lived in South Sioux City and am now living in Omaha. At the present time I am not engaged in any business. I formerly operated a restaurant in South Sioux City, Neb."

"After the syndicate pushed my brother out of the slot machine business here in Sioux City sometime during the month of November, 1934, my brother came to me and talked to me about trying to help him get back into the slot machine business here in Sioux City and told me he thought that Lieutenant Governor Kraschel could do that and wanted to know whether I would go with him and introduce him to the colonel as I knew him very well."

"I told him I would and we drove to Harlan, Ia. We met the colonel at Harlan. We came down to Frank Mayer's restaurant on the morning after we arrived in the evening in accordance with an appointment I made the night before. I introduced my brother to him and my brother talked with him about the conditions here in Sioux City and about the payoff and the racketeering that was going on and the slot machine game together with the liquor."

"We finally arranged to go on down to Des Moines, that he said he would have to see some fellows down there in order to work out the program. I only saw him once when we got to Des Moines. My brother had been to see him before I saw him. I met him in the Ft. Des Moines hotel and after we had visited a while he said to me: "Your brother is pretty well fixed financially, isn't he?"

"And I said he didn't have as much cash as he had a few years back, and the colonel said, well, it will cost him about as much again as he wanted to pay to get in on the slot machine game at Sioux City. Tell Clyde not to figure on going home today as it will take all day tomorrow."

"He also said there were some fellows from Sioux City that he was going to see, that they were coming up, and it would be better if they didn't see me and I didn't see them, that they might know who I was."

The lieutenant governor was not available tonight for a statement on the testimony.

New York Fashion Parade

HOLLYWOOD, Calif., (INS)—Add to your list of evening silhouettes—the Mediaeval.

Already, this season, we've seen enough influences on evening things to cover the entire map, excluding, maybe, Spain and the Scandinavian. There's been the Grecian, Persian, Arabian, Turkish, Hindu, and the 1914. Now comes the Mediaeval. And it has its points, girls—it has its points.

Hold your breath a minute while I unveil a little number in this mode that I've done for Delores Del Rio. It's a wedding gown... white satin... but hold on a second... remember those Sari gowns that had a sort of scarf hood draped over the head? Well, this one has it, not over the head, but over the shoulders and around the throat, under the chin... a Sari upside down (puh-lease) Very swathed-looking, yet delicately done... the scarf is held up with a hidden ribbon under the hair, and two clusters or orange blossoms at the earlobes finish it. Then a scarf flows from this to the floor... and she carries calla lilies.

The same idea could be taken over for evening... and in fact... an another number of chiffon done also for Miss Del Rio... For fall, when evening winds begin to chill, they'll be grand... best though when removable if the gown beneath is designed so that it loses nothing from the removal...

Best of all in the evening influences, however, is my old love, the Grecian. Hence, to the girl who can afford but one formal, I'd say in all sincerity... "Make it modified Greek"... It'll last longer, be less "faddy," and all in all, be a sounder buy.

In this mode, by the way, you can pay your money and take your choice... for you can have them with only the faintest hint of Athenian influence, or you can have them, like the Acropolis, "pure Greek." In the latter vein is one worn by Joan Crawford. A soft silver brocade with a white flower design makes it... Bodice is crushed, and draped full over one shoulder. Over the other, a length of white chiffon, gently pleated, emerges from a low neck-line, and trails over, becoming wider as it flows to the floor. There is a suggestion of a train, and fullness on one side-back.

Less extreme is Wynne Gibson's gown of white crepe, made from graduated gores put together with piping in silver metal cloth. Sleeveless, with a low, round neck, the costume is belted in stuffed silver tubes linked together.

The cape, doing double-duty for both of these two formals, is heavy white satin, lined and weighted. Fit across the shoulders is perfect... fullness emanating to a drop line in back back to the floor is accentuated by the shorter front... and a quilted military collar is finished simply with silver scrolls for buttons.

she had been under domination of her husband had brought a de-nouement from government attorneys who said she thus had been trying to hide behind the Mormon religion to escape punishment.

No Defense
Judge Cushman instructed the jury that a person's religious creed could not be recognized as a defense.

Waley recently pleaded guilty to similar charges in the Weyerhaeuser abduction and was sentenced to 4 years in prison.

Testimony, which started Tuesday, ended yesterday when the government concluded a brief cross-examination of Mrs. Waley.

She remained firm in her story that she did not know the boy who was being held for ransom until two days after the kidnapping when Mahan, whom she said she knew as Davis made death threats against her and her husband unless she kept silent.

Failed
Little George, who testified for the government, failed to identify Mrs. Waley as one of his kidnapers. Waley was brought to Tacoma under a defense summons but was not placed on the stand.

There's Many a Slip 'Tween The Thumb and a "Lift"

Editor's Note—This article was prepared for The Daily Iowan by a newspaper man of the old school. He worked almost two-score years in city rooms of large dailies but at present is unemployed. His observations are based on experiences while hitch-hiking more than 35,000 miles in 41 states. The writer is a native of New England but now lives in Texas. He visited Iowa City Saturday.

Hitch-Hiker

By W. E. Burbank
Roving Newspaper Scribe

Travelling by the hitch-hike method in Iowa is easy compared with other states of the union. Students coming to this city and returning to their homes have made it so perhaps in this particular section. No motorist has a desire to let the boys or girls walk if there is room in a car and my experience has been that the same applies to elder persons. There is a noticeable friendly attitude towards the fellow striving to get from one community to another.

Similar
Up in Wisconsin the same situation exists around Madison, it too, being a college city; also down in Austin, Tex., and other centers surrounding institutions of learning. There is one state, however, where it has become almost impossible to "flag" a ride on the highways and it has several large colleges—that is Huey Long's dominion in Louisiana. Last December it took me six days to cover the distance from New Orleans to Shreveport—325 miles—while two years ago I made the same trip between sunrise and sunset.

Hard-boiled as he may be, the much publicized United States senator even has his own car stop for hitch-hikers on occasions, not only giving his passengers the rides but usually handing them a piece of money when he drops them. One day I know that the "share-the-weather" picked up a woman and little girl, carried them into Shreveport and there bought them tickets to their destination in Ohio, adding a $10 bill for "seats."

They are good to the college boys everywhere and is a big financial contributor to their athletic funds.

Finding that college students out of Iowa City can get rides over almost any highway, other young fellows who are tramping in the country have taken to the practice of carrying a few old books in their hands while in this territory and camouflaging as students, hail motorists more easily. "While coming in this direction from Okaloosa I saw three such and they were also to get rides while other "thumb-waggers" got the glassy stare.

Among that class are some danger-road to "bum" his transportation wherever he wants to go is taking a chance when he or she gets into an automobile with a stranger. Now, I'll illustrate that claim by an experience of mine last August in Iowa.

Over in the southwestern part of the state one day, while I was traveling from Omaha to Kansas City, I had been dropped at a cross road south of Clarinda and was waiting for the next "Good Samaritan" to come along. Soon a big car wheeled onto the pavement from the west and slowed down right where I was standing.

Throwing open the door a young, well-dressed and neatly groomed man said cheerfully "Hop in, we'll carry you down the road a few miles." Two stylishly dressed young women occupied the driver's seat.

Little conversation passed between us and in about 15 minutes the car stopped, the chap with whom I sat saying "Sorry, dad, but we turn off here."

While I stood waiting for the next ride another car loaded with officers came tearing down the line and slowed down long enough to ask me what direction a car with a man and two girls had taken. I nodded towards the road and scratched my head for luck.

When I reached Braddyville—the Iowa and Missouri state line—there was an excited crowd gathered and discussing a hold-up and robbery of a small-town bank in the southwestern part of the state that morning. It had been staged, I learned, by a young man who escaped with $500 in a car driven by two girls. There's where silence was the better part of valor and I kept mum as to my experience.

Satisfaction Expressed Over U. S.-Soviet Russia Trade Pact

Russia to Increase Purchases 3-Fold Over Past 3 Years

WASHINGTON, July 13 (AP)—Ending 15 years of hit-or-miss commercial relations, the United States and Soviet Russia today concluded a trade pact under which the U.S.S.R. agreed to boost its American imports by 150 per cent over the average of the past years.

In return for the purchases of $30,000,000 of American goods during the next year, the United States granted wide tariff concessions to the Soviet. Experts here forecast privately, however, that the chief benefits to the Moscow government would be delayed, rather than immediate.

Practical Value
The Soviet, under the terms of the pact, is granted the benefit of all tariff reductions and other concessions made in the trade pacts with Belgium and Haiti, already effective, and in the Swedish agreement which becomes effective Aug. 5.

Few of the duty reductions made in those pacts are of practical value to the Soviet Union since it produces and exports very few of the articles on which the tariff was cut. Russia will benefit, however, from trade pacts with other nations signed during the life of the agreement.

ous characters, too. In my extensive travels I have talked with lads just out of reformatories who wouldn't hesitate to commit a crime if they thought they could get away with it. That element, though in the decidedly small minority, has made it difficult for those who are honest and harmless.

Students, many of whom are struggling against heavy odds to get an education, are worthy of assistance in every possible way. There isn't any more risk in picking up a stranger than there is in walking down the streets of this city after dark. In the latter instance a man is apt to be highjacked and robbed.

Chance
Anyone who goes out on the open self were driving through the Evangeline land in Louisiana, made immortal by Henry W. Longfellow's poem, when we stopped and let a chap get in behind us. We hadn't proceeded far when a gun was thrust between our heads with a command to turn off at the next side road and go where he directed. Naturally my pal at the wheel complied and for more than 40 miles over rough and unimproved roads we sped out into the sticks when the chap finally told us to stop and let him out. His parting salutation was "If you fellows say anything about seeing me I'll get you both some day."

Upon reaching civilization we learned of paces being organized to hunt down a young man who had committed murder the night before and, unconsciously, we had aided in his escape.

Hold-Up
One day I was riding towards Omaha with an officer who had picked me up. He stopped and let two young men take the seat behind us. They carried on a mumbled conversation but we were able to catch enough to learn that they planned a hold-up.

Quicker than a flash, and before the pair of culprits realized what was taking place my companion had his service gun leveled at them with a sharp command "Now, you boys get out and walk back in the direction from which you came. If either of you dares to look back before you get out of sight I'll shoot you both."

the pavement watching them disappear another car came speeding around the curve behind us and when the driver saw what was taking place he jammed on his brakes, leaped out and came running towards us with a cry "What's this, a hold-up? If it is you can have everything I've got and my car, too. If you want it, but please don't shoot me."

After explanations there was a good laugh and he proceeded thankful of being tipped off about the pair we had dropped or he surely would have picked them up, he said.

Comedies and tragedies are being enacted on the highways of the country every day. The editor of a Wisconsin newspaper told me recently he would not condone any article in favor of the hitch-hiker. There had been a serious hold-up on one of the roads leading into that city a few days before but after a long talk I convinced him to relent because that incident might not be repeated in years. In these troublesome times the inclination of the average person is to help his fellow man, or it ought to be, and that applies to this hitch-hiking problem.

Fear has been instilled into the heart of motorists by the broadcast over the radio and the appearance in newspapers of such atrocities and an army of innocent nomads is obliged to suffer. Up in Minne-

Will Attempt Another Flight

Dismantling of Ill-Fated Stratosphere Balloon Starts

RAPID CITY, S. D., July 13 (AP)—Dismantling of the ill-fated stratosphere flight base in the Black Hills began today as intimations came from expedition officials that another flight might be attempted from St. Louis.

What caused the giant bag, the largest in the world, to collapse an hour before the scheduled takeoff Friday morning, was still unsolved, although a secret investigation, started yesterday, neared completion. The findings of the investigation will not be made public here, officials said.

Captain Albert W. Stevens, flight commander, said he believed the mammoth bag could be repaired for another flight, possibly this year.

"If we have another flight," he said, "it will be from St. Louis."

Transfer of the base from Rapid City, the starting point of two ill-fated attempts, to St. Louis in event of a second attempt, he said, will be because assembly of equipment here is expensive and cycles of suitable flight weather proved too infrequent.

As the balloon crew spread out the big bag for inspection, an official photographer took dozens of pictures showing the entire area where the rips occurred. These views will be studied later by a committee of scientists who probably will conduct the further inquiry at Akron.

Less Alcoholic Deaths
NEW YORK (AP)—Quoting figures submitted by Chief Medical Examiner Charles Norris, the state liquor authority said yesterday that there was only one death from wood alcohol in New York city last year, compared with 10 in 1933 and 74 in 1930.

Not that there is a law against soliciting rides as well as against picking up anyone along the highways and state highway patrolmen try to enforce it rigidly, but the constitutionality of that legislation is being taken to the courts for an opinion, as are similar laws in other states.

Insurance companies bear down hard on their clients not to carry passengers, the American Automobile club urges members not to pick up strangers and in spite of such influences it yet is possible to go out and get rides in almost any direction, particularly in Iowa. An effort to adopt such laws at Des Moines recently was defeated, as it should be.

In the case of the thousands in the colleges of this great state it would be a disaster to make it hard for them to get free rides to and from their homes. Boys wearing CCC uniforms get rides easily and it often occurred to me if some arrangements might be made to advise motorists at a glance that hikers were students—that is if such a determined effort to rid the highways of hitch-hikers is to be made as the present national crusade against them indicates.

Continued unemployment keeps thousands roaming about the country, both men and women. As a rule the class on the highways are well dressed, neat in appearance, courteous and exercise diplomacy. In that way it is not difficult to get along. Most of them have left their home towns to try and hunt work elsewhere rather than "sponge" on relatives or go on the relief rolls. They are harmless and deserving of assistance. They comprise a class who long have been out of work and almost exhausted the funds they had saved.

Because it is so difficult to get rides the overland brigade has taken to freight trains and they constitute the real menace on the highways.

CONCLUDE TRADE AGREEMENT

A trade agreement whereby purchases will be made by Soviet Russia from the United States was concluded yesterday through the efforts mainly of Ambassador William C. Bullitt (left above) of the United States, and Foreign Commissar Maxim Litvinoff of Russia. The pact was the culmination of several months' negotiations which got underway in April, immediately after Bullitt's return from America.

When Opportunity Knocks

OPPORTUNITY KNOCKS but once, they say. And the school board certainly has opened the door by offering Iowa City a much needed new $600,000 high school building...

Aside from the fact that increased facilities for city high school students have been needed for the last 10 years, the board has chosen an excellent time to plan construction.

It is certainly a compliment to those in charge of board finances in that the $600,000 bond issue can be taken care of so easily at the present time.

The bonded indebtedness of the high school will be retired by May 1, 1937. Thus, in view of the fact that the present buildings are practically paid for, the board will be able to assume the additional burden without increasing tax levies.

Of all of the PWA applications on file for federal grants, the high school project is decidedly one of the most worthy of consideration. The U. S. government will make two valuable contributions to Iowa City, one temporary and the other permanent, if the grant is made.

To workers, builders, and supply men the high school undertaking will be a decided boon. High school children of this generation and many more to come will receive additional educational facilities that have been hard to provide in the past.

What Price Education: A CANDIDATE for Ph. D. degree here on the campus this summer is erped.

The other day he received a letter from a dean in a small college in the middle west offering him a job as assistant dean. In addition to those duties he was asked to teach two history courses, band and orchestra, and do a little coaching on the side.

Out of the wilderness of bigotry, false patriotism, and fascist attitudes, the words of President Hutchins of the University of Chicago come as a welcome sign that American educators will not let suppression throttle our schools without a battle.

The youthful president, head of one of the world's greatest universities, attacked those who wish to prevent teachers from mentioning communism, socialism, or other radical doctrines. Such suppression, he pointed out here Friday, would defeat its own purpose by making radicalism doubly attractive to students.

President Hutchins is right. A favorite argument of his opponents is "Look at Russia. Freedom of speech no longer exists in its schools. If we permit radicalism to spread in this country, we may have communism with its attendant evils. Why should we permit our teachers to discuss a system which is so obviously opposed to American principles?"

And why, we answer, if Russian suppression is so distasteful would similar tactics in this country be excusable? Do we have a right to say our teachers shall not discuss communism just because those in Russia cannot do anything but attack capitalism?

As a matter of fact, our teachers should be able, in accordance with truly historic American ideals, to discuss any form of government they please: Jefferson approved of occasional revolutions as healthy influences upon our national growth. But Hutchins does not demand this privilege—he merely asserts the right of our educators to conduct study and argument concerning radical subjects.

His wishes will probably be fulfilled. The recent red scare, is rapidly quieting down. In a few more months, when our sensational papers grow tired of the subject and turn to some other stock alarm such as a possible war with Japan, the politicians will forget student radicalism. And then, as Hutchins says, radicalism will not flourish.

—John Pryor

What Others Think: HOW MANY WORDS? The frequent revival of discussion of how many words it is necessary to know to get along in this world seems a little foolish. It has been said that a reader must have a vocabulary of 50,000 words in order to read the Times of London profitably. Advocates of artificial universal languages insist that every thought necessary to transmit is embraced by a vocabulary of 800 to 1,000 words. Authorities in China and Japan, believing English an important language to know, have compiled dictionaries of "all necessary" words. The Japanese book contains more than 800 words, the Chinese 850. The head of the Orthological Institute of London contrasts those dictionaries with the 800,000-word New Oxford Dictionary, which he seems to consider much too long. The Englishman said to have the largest vocabulary of any British statesman has a "working" vocabulary of 25,000 to 30,000 words and a potential vocabulary of 50,000 to 60,000 words. Highly educated scientists familiar with highly specialized subjects can get along with 60,000 to 80,000 words. Practicing lawyers need no more than 50,000. The implication is that 800,000 words is about ten times too many. But why all the excitement and heat? A layman with a little curiosity about a strange scientific word happens to run across may be glad to look it up in the big dictionary available at the public library. And there certainly is no harm, but considerable pleasure, in enlarging the vocabulary.

—Brownsville Telegraph

Gerald Thompson, confessed slayer of Mildred Hallmark, complains bitterly that the "papers" haven't given him a "break."

"There hasn't been a single article in the paper which has been favorable toward me," he is quoted as saying. When asked by a reporter if he thought he had a "break" coming from anybody, he replied, "Well I need all the good breaks I can get in this case. That's a cinch."

The need is admitted; the cinch is conceded. Thompson goes on trial July 22. Up to date, he has been treated with great consideration. He has not been molested by mobs. He has been treated sympathetically by Sheriff Olson. He will have competent counsel to defend him. It is probable that the jury which will be chosen to try him will weigh the evidence impartially and return a verdict on the facts.

A fair trial will be the only "break" Thompson has any right to expect. A "break," like mercy is due only to the merciful.

Mildred Hallmark also wanted a "break." She didn't get it.

—Peoria Journal

Webster City Freeman Journal: There is a lot of nonsensical talk about the constitution of the United States being threatened with extinction, but the constitution will be functioning long after this furor about its abolition has been forgotten. However, it will be amended from time to time in the future as it has been in the past.

LaGuardia or Baruch: Just who induced Johnson to renege after his experience with NRA, no one outside the new deal inner circle seems to know. Mayor LaGuardia is credited with doing it, by some observers. Others recall that it was Barney Baruch who introduced the general to new deal circles and who argued him into accepting the NRA assignment under the limitations with which it was offered.

A glance back at news headlines indicates that Johnson then was quite willing to take over the whole recovery act business, including PWA and the food industries. But he rebelled against the task when it was cut down by the president to NRA alone. It always has been understood that Baruch was enlisted by the White House to talk Johnson into the lesser task.

Going back through the files also invites the idea that Baruch joined with that portion of Johnson's friends who felt then and still feel that the time for him to have stepped out of NRA was as soon as the major codes were completed.

In a Hot Corner: Still another suggestion advanced

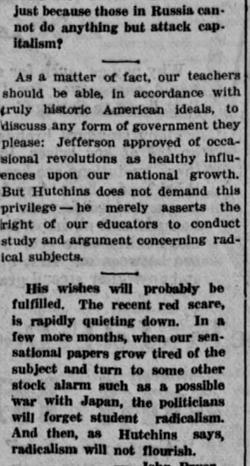

and a broken tooth. He had swallowed the bullet in his agitation.

Britain Watches Development: LONDON, (AP)—Great Britain, anxiously watching the development of the crisis between Italy and Ethiopia, received today with intense interest Secretary of State Hull's declaration in support of the Kellogg-Briand pact.

BOY FORETELLS DEATH: PRAGUE, July 13 (INS)—A 13-year-old boy accurately foretold his own death. Taroslav Taril, whose father died last March, frightened some boys who were bullying him by saying: "In two days' time I shall see my father again. If you don't stop bullying me I will tell him about you." Two days later he was drowned—on the very day he prophesied. He was playing with some other boys in a boat when he slipped and fell into a river.

A Washington Bystander

WASHINGTON — General Hugh Johnson's return to the new deal scene as director of New York work-relief operations under Director-in-Chief Harry Hopkins indicates that the administration is planning to dramatize its biggest recovery push.

Available figures indicate that just about one-tenth of the 3,500,000 employable relief beneficiaries for whom work is to be provided, will fall under Johnson's authority. If he can put the New York job over in a big way, as he did the opening NRA drive, it would highlight the whole national effort.

LaGuardia or Baruch: Just who induced Johnson to renege after his experience with NRA, no one outside the new deal inner circle seems to know. Mayor LaGuardia is credited with doing it, by some observers. Others recall that it was Barney Baruch who introduced the general to new deal circles and who argued him into accepting the NRA assignment under the limitations with which it was offered.

A glance back at news headlines indicates that Johnson then was quite willing to take over the whole recovery act business, including PWA and the food industries. But he rebelled against the task when it was cut down by the president to NRA alone. It always has been understood that Baruch was enlisted by the White House to talk Johnson into the lesser task.

Going back through the files also invites the idea that Baruch joined with that portion of Johnson's friends who felt then and still feel that the time for him to have stepped out of NRA was as soon as the major codes were completed.

In a Hot Corner: Still another suggestion advanced

and a broken tooth. He had swallowed the bullet in his agitation.

He was playing with some other boys in a boat when he slipped and fell into a river.

Senate Committee to Decide If Power Consumers Must Pay

Send Questionnaires To Participants In Abolition Fight

WASHINGTON, July 13 (AP)—An effort to determine whether consumers must pay for the power industry's fight against abolition of its holding companies was begun tonight by the senate lobby committee.

Elaborate questionnaires went forward to all companies known to have participated. They asked the source of funds supplied for the battle as well as information on how, when and where and by whom it was spent.

"Raid and Outrage" Already the committee was in one public controversy over material taken by its investigators. Philip H. Gadsden, chairman of the committee of public utility executives termed a "raid" and an "outrage" the seizure of his committee's records.

But Chairman Black (D-Ala) expressed "astonishment" at Gadsden's statement, issued after his return to Philadelphia. He noted Gadsden made no complaint when

She won a divorce after testifying "he was intoxicated and threatened to drive off a cliff on the road to Balboa, but fortunately we ran out of gas before coming to the cliff."

MURDERS 9th HUSBAND: BELGRADE, July 13 (INS)—Uljka Ballagitch, found guilty of murdering her ninth husband, has been sentenced to penal servitude for life. Her husband, Sheriff Ballagitch, was the best known player of the concertina in the Bosnian Sandjak, but was poor. His poverty annoyed his wife. Her previous eight had died natural deaths or had been separated from her by divorce.

Screen Life

By HUBBARD HEAVY

HOLLYWOOD—Studios just hate to chop up old sets. So old sets get older, cluttering up the lots, gathering dust and cobwebs and eventually falling apart.

The good sets, that have cabinet work on them and fancy plastering and imitation marble, are saved. The rough sets are sawn up and burned in an incinerator. They can't burn trees, though, for trees are made of plaster and wire. In the movies, no tree looks so natural as an artificial one.

Plaster creates a problem of its own. So much work is put into plaster statues that they have a corner on each lot all to themselves and occasionally they are used a second time. In a less temperate climate these lions and generals and civic virtues wouldn't last the winter out, but here, a junk yard boss gloomily predicts, they'll last forever. They may lose a fist or a nose after three seasons of rain, but this damage can be easily repaired.

May Look Like Junk: Most studios have a superstition about letting stuff go. The account books show that this also has a basis of logic. At least 60 per cent of what looks like junk can be used again.

A surprising lot of things are hired especially for a film. Furniture, in particular, is rented from Los Angeles stores. The stuff they use for decorating windows is rented to the movies for almost its worth. Directors get tired looking at the same things, so new furniture is constantly being changed.

One star, who had acted for two years running in a play, without a setick being changed on the stage all that time, made quite a row because in her second film a chair from her first had been put in. Boney Bread Winner

Some people collect bottles and make a living renting them to the movies. Skeletons, too, are hired and one, known as Old Boney, appears steadily in the spook films. In life, it probably was an Indian, who may have earned in its lifetime about 30 pesos. It enables its owner now to keep up with the Joneses very well.

The other day an eagle had to be rented. Trained eagles are rare birds, even in Hollywood, but the property department found one. It belongs to a sculptor who had hacked out a mile of statues for some exposition a few years ago. While camping, he caught the bird and tramped with it on his shoulder to Hollywood. He makes a better living hiring out the bird than he did sculpting.

A New Yorker

At Large

By JAMES B. RESTON: NEW YORK—Our shopkeepers, it appears, have concluded that it's a man's privilege to use or misuse a word as much as he pleases. And maybe it is. But you should see what they're doing to that poor word sale on the avenue these days.

I can remember when a sale was a reliable transaction in which you paid just about what a suit was worth instead of what it had been marked for several months. And they came only once in a while. Now if a merchant doesn't have a sale going all the time, he's practically ostracized.

One merchant on Fifth avenue has been closing out ever since I can remember. A permanent neon sign proclaims that he's on the "Last Few Days of Sale." Another merchant has boarded up the windows in an effort to prove that he's about to close, and this trick seems to work, for every time I go past, the shop is jammed.

The excuses given for holding these sales are astonishing. We are having mid-year sales, end-of-month sales, beginning-of-month sales, mid-month sales, "lease-expiring" sales, bankrupt sales, court-order sales, smoke sales, fire sales, water sales, anniversary sales and final sales. Yes, and "absolute-final" sales even. Imagine that, an absolute-final sale!

Eventually, words seem to change their meaning. For example, "Going Out of Business" means nothing of the sort. Usually it means closing your shop for a day and then moving down the street or over into the next block. And "Anniversary Sale" is as ambiguous as Gertrude Stein. It might mean the anniversary of last week's sale. And usually does!

And speaking of the shops, I was wandering through one of the larger department stores the other day, when a little, stocky, middle-aged Jewish woman began railing at a timid young girl in the dress department. Speaking in a broad New York-Hebraic accent, she roared that she didn't want this dress and was returning it. To emphasize the point, she threw it on the counter. The girl asked why she didn't want it, and the woman just insisted: "I—don't—want—it!"

After checking the sale, the clerk discovered that it had been made three months ago. So she insisted that the woman give some reason. Finally the woman said: "This dress—it got button button, button, on front. I don't like dat. I want it should be button, vait-a-minute, button, vait-a-minute!"

Playwrights, Producers, Critics Invited to World Showing

"Prologue To Glory" Will Be Here July 25

Representatives Of 15 States Will See Conkle's Drama

Playwrights, directors, and critics from approximately 15 states have been invited to attend the western theater conference to open at the University of Iowa July 25 when University theater presents the world premiere performance of "Prologue to Glory" by Ellsworth Prouty Conkle.

For the first time in the history of the theater the conference will be devoted exclusively with the experimental production of new plays in western theaters. In line with the regional movement in the fine arts, the conference will consider the problem from three points of view, that of the playwright, the director, and the critic and audience.

Highlights

Highlights of the conference will be the laying of the corner stone of the new theater at the University of Iowa on July 26 at 3 p.m., to be followed the next morning by addresses by Elmer Rice, New York playwright, and Harry Hopkins, Washington, FEPA administrator. The Saturday morning conference will be given over to the subject of "The Regional Theater, Its Organization and Possibilities."

President Eugene A. Gilmore will address the conference luncheon July 26 and George Middleton, Madison, Wis., playwright will continue the conference discussion.

Panel Forums

About 40 playwrights, directors, critics, and educators have been invited to take part in the conference. Panel forums will be conducted on the three subjects of the conference and persons especially active in each of the respective fields have been invited to take part in them.

A complete list of the persons invited to take part in the conference follows: From the playwright's point of view: Paul Green, Chapel Hill, N. C.; Lynn Riggs, Santa Fe, N. M.; Elmer Rice, New York City; Dan Totheroh, Beverly Hills, Cal.; Mr. Middleton, and Ellsworth Prouty Conkle and Virgil Geddes of Iowa City.

Points of View

From the director's and educator's points of view: Prof. Halilo Flanagan, Vassar college and director of the national theater project; Gilmore Brown, Pasadena Community playhouse; Prof. A. Dale Riley, University of Minnesota; Jasper Deeter, Hedgerow theater; Prof. Edward C. Mabie, director of university theater; H. Heffner, Northwestern university; Prof. Rufus H. Fitzgerald, director of the school of fine arts; Samuel Selden, University of North Carolina; C. N. Meredith, Dallas Little theater; Frederick McConnell, Cleveland playhouse; Robert Harshe, director of the Art Institute, Chicago; and Maurice Guesin, director of the Goodman Memorial theater, Chicago.

Also, Sawyer Falk, Syracuse university, Syracuse, N. Y.; A. M. Drummond, Cornell university, Ithaca, N. Y.; Russell Lane, University of Wisconsin; James Fiederick, Drake university, Des Moines; Sara Sherman Fryer, Grinnell college; Hazel Prayor, Cedar Falls; Bernard Lenrow, Iowa State college, Ames; F. Cowles Strickland, St. Louis Little theater, St. Louis; and Glenn Hughes, director of the university theater, University of Washington, Seattle.

Critics, Audience

From the point of view of the critic and the audience the following persons have been invited to attend the conference: Walter McDermott, Cleveland Plain Dealer; Boyd Martin, Louisville Courier Journal; Jack Reel, the Omaha Bee News; Reed Hynds, St. Louis Star Times; Landon Laird, Kansas City Star; Charles Collins, The Chicago Tribune; John Rosenfeld, The Dallas News; John O'Donnell, Davenport Democrat; Enoch A. Norem, Mason City Globe; Colvin McPherson, St. Louis Post; Herbert L. Monk, St. Louis Globe Democrat; and Barrett H. Clark, New York City.

Will Attend Conference

COUNCIL BLUFFS, IA. (AP)—More than 300 democratic committee women of the seventh district are expected to attend a conference opening here at 10 a.m. tomorrow.

Hutchins Attacks "Fact-Filling" Education, Tells Chicago Plan

New Educational System Success, Lecturer Says

organization, appeal to students and the reorganization of curriculum.

"Howling Success"

"We abolished many departmental courses in the first two years, incorporated the university high school into the college, and cut the number of administrative units from 84 to 12.

"I have never heard anyone say a good word for the credit system," he said in discussing changes in curriculum at the University of Chicago. "We cannot educate a person by counting up his credits. We abolished the credit system and compulsory class attendance. Students take seven comprehensive examinations in the hands of an independent board. On this basis of examination we test the student's ability to advance.

"From the standpoint of administration and appeal to students the Chicago plan has been a howling success. For our students, absence of regulations has been successful. It has brought better students to us and attendance at classes has actually increased since it is not compulsory.

Reorganization Incomplete

"We have been least successful in the third phase of the plan, reorganizing the curriculum. We have succeeded in giving a more general education and a better general education than is found in most places. But only four of the seven examinations can be called general. We have squeezed out literature, philosophy and the fine arts. The examinations are unsatisfactory because the curriculum is unsatisfactory. I mean it is unsatisfactory in that it is a tremendous mass of more or less coordinated agencies, and that it is not doing many of the things which an educational system should do.

"I would give two year courses in such studies as the fine arts, literature, philosophy, natural science, and in the history of science of society with a final examination at the end of two years," he said in discussing the development of a more general education.

Tells of Work

"I am skeptical of direct vocational training. We can do a better job of educating the students not through practical experience but by trying to train them to use their heads.

"We are not trying to speed up the educational process but to adjust a large university to the needs of the individual students," he said in discussing the work done at the University of Chicago.

"There is no such thing as a Chicago plan. In 1930 we had several plans and changes that we wanted to make in the curriculum and administrative set up.

"It is doubtful if God himself could run a university with 84 lines of responsibility," he commented in telling of the need for administrative reforms at Chicago.

The aim of the plan was to bring the methods and atmosphere of professional work down to the junior year in college. The plan was built on three factors, administrative re-

PWA grant, the crowded condition in senior high school, pressure of increased junior high school enrollment, and low interest rates on bonds were given as reasons for launching the project at the present time.

The new building will be erected on a large plot of ground at the east end of College street near Morning-side addition. The land was purchased four years ago by the board upon the advice of school planning experts.

The new school will include a swimming pool, boys' and girls' gymnasiums, an auditorium with a large stage, a little theater to seat 200, a band room, a library, classrooms, and offices.

Recreation Grounds

Tennis courts, ball diamonds, football field, and recreation grounds, which are being planned to surround the structure, will be used for physical education class work and recreation.

Later it is hoped to develop a competitive football field and track on the remainder of the land.

Members of the present school board planning the school addition are Mr. Mercer, president, J. A. Swisher, John Kedlec, Dr. W. E. Spence, Dr. George Maresh, Hugh A. Dunlap, and W. R. Horrabin.

Westlawn News

Marie Ahrens, N3 of Osage, Kathryn Kimm, N3 of Corydon, and Dorothy Ellsworth, N3 of Waterloo, were hostesses at a tea Thursday afternoon for friends in the senior parlor at Westlawn.

Tennis

Louise Shane, N2 of Pilot Mound, Maxine Ferris, N1 of Iowa City, and Theresa Lambert, N1 of Des Moines, have joined the group of tennis players in the Westlawn round robin play. Margaret Judesch, N2 of Des Moines, is leading in the number of matches played.

Clock Golf

Clock golf is a new recreation that has been added to the facilities at Westlawn.

Personal

Leona Brammer will leave today for a three week vacation. Sally Frazier has her sister, Mary, from Michigan as her guest. Lillian Shaper visited her home in Eldora over the week end.

Starhemberg Seen as New Chancellor

VIENNA, July 13 (AP)—

The growing power of Prince Ernst von Starhemberg, chief of the Heimwehr, Austria's fascist "private army," neared its crest tonight as the Austrian cabinet tentatively decided to place him in the post of chancellor.

The decision followed by a few hours an automobile accident near Linz in which Chancellor Kurt Schuschnigg was seriously injured, his wife, Frau von Schuschnigg, 34, was killed, and their son, Kurt Jr., 9 years old, was severely hurt.

Accidental

Authorities investigated the crash and reported it was purely accidental and in all probability due to the chauffeur's being affected by the heat.

An official statement said that the chancellor was able to leave the Brothers of Charity hospital at Linz for a brief prayer beside the body of his wife, Herma, but that he returned for additional treatment.

He was so shaken and his nervous shock was so severe that they advised him to give up the responsibilities of office for a while.

Into a Tree

The cabinet met immediately and concurred in the medical opinion, and it was regarded as likely that the ministers would suggest to the head of the government that he take an extended vacation. Prince von Starhemberg, as vice chancellor, would take his place.

The chancellor's heavy car swerved from the road near his summer home at Elbesdorf and crashed head-on into a tree. A preliminary inquiry indicated that the Schuschnigg chauffeur was overcome by the heat and lost control of the car.

Perkins Heads Special Bar Committee

Prof. Rollin M. Perkins of the college of law at the University of Iowa is chairman of a committee which will recommend to the American Bar association tomorrow that a psychiatric report be required before a prisoner is released, paroled, or transferred.

The recommendation of Professor Perkins' committee follows the recent declaration of J. Edgar Hoover, chief of the federal bureau of investigation, that the parole system constitutes a "national scandal," according to an Associated Press report from Los Angeles where the bar convention is being held.

"It is desirable," the committee said, "to keep within narrow limits the kind and degree of disorders of the mind which will entitle the defendant in a criminal case to an acquittal, and to adjust the machinery at the point of conviction to the end that disorders of the mind which are not sufficient for acquittal may result in treatment other than that provided for persons who are not mentally disordered."

St. Louisian Proposes 193 Story "World Mart" Depression Salve

ST. LOUIS, July 13 (AP)—Henri Rusch, former St. Louis city engineer, proposes a 193-story "world industrial mart" 2,000 feet high as a panacea for this depression-hit planet.

The architect would have the federal government build a colossal city block and containing all industrial, commercial and residential facilities.

The structure, to cost $223,000,000 would accommodate 250,000 persons, Rusch said. He describes it as "a world mart in which would be sold everything the world produces, housed in a building of colossal proportions which would attract visitors from other countries."

Needs Support

Rusch, 67, a gray-haired Dutchman, came here in 1904 after pioneering in reinforcing concrete developed in the Transvaal country of South Africa. He said he plans to present his elaborate drawings to President Roosevelt in the hope of getting federal support.

"I will give the plans to the government for nothing. It is my contribution to a troubled world," he said.

Shelled in white glazed terra cotta, the structure would have a steel skeleton encased in reinforced concrete, he said.

The lower 19 floors would be devoted to a world mart where foreign and domestic manufacturers exhibit their products. The next 37 levels would be for commercial and industrial enterprises.

Three stories would have recreational facilities—and there would be a 4,000-bed hospital on the next floor.

Apartments would be on the seventy-sixth to the one hundred sixty-sixth floors. A restaurant seating 6,000 would be at the one hundred sixty-seventh floor level and the university on the next floor.

An air travel station is planned at the one hundred ninety-third with a dirigible moored by a huge magnet into a cup-shaped dome.

Underground floors 75 feet beneath the surface would offer choice of train, automobile, street car or bus through subterranean tunnels reaching ground level three to eight blocks from the building. Incidentally, Architect Rusch has a patent on the tunnel idea—it prevents traffic congestion adjacent to the mammoth building.

chancellor was unable to recollect the accident. He and his son were thrown clear of the car. A nurse maid and detective escaped with only slight injuries.

Prince von Starhemberg notified the cabinet that he would return tonight by airplane from Italy where he has been on vacation. Because of his noble blood and his vast military following, von Starhemberg has been recognized for the last two years as one of the most powerful men in Austrian politics.

Wreckage Yields Evidence

VIENNA, July 13 (AP)—Wreckage of the motor car that almost cost the life of Austria's chancellor, killed his wife and thrust new power into the hands of Militant Prince Ernst von Starhemberg tonight yielded evidence of a defective steering gear.

Experts who conducted an examination of the death machine said they were convinced the steering gear was defective, but added they were unable to determine what had caused the condition.

Acting swiftly upon reports of the injury to Chancellor Kurt Schuschnigg, the cabinet tentatively decided to place von Starhemberg, chief of the Heimwehr, Austria's fascist

McCrary Wins Iowa Amateur Crown

Defeats Sioux City Golfer By 2 and 1 Score

Steingraber Loses After Gallant Play For 35 Holes

By L. E. SKELLEY (Associated Press Sports Writer) CEDAR RAPIDS, Ia., July 13 (AP)—Sandy-haired Bob McCrary, tenacious Des Moines Scot, exploded a 15-year-old jinx today as he won his first Iowa Amateur golf championship.

Twice winner of the Trans-Mississippi and once holder of the Iowa open, McCrary captured his first state amateur title today and 1 in a bitterly fought battle with Art Steingraber of Sioux City.

The two little fellows engaged in one of the tensest contests in tournament history. They matched stroke for stroke until late in the afternoon a large gallery tramped over the Country club's wooded course watching the stout-hearted shooters fight for an advantage.

Match Closed on 35th Not until late in the match did the turning point arrive. McCrary got a one up lead at the thirty-second hole when he dropped a beautiful approach shot four feet from the pin to get a birdie three.

He ran a 20 footer to the very lip of the cup and got a par four. Steingraber, off to the left of the green in two, pitched on within seven feet but missed. The putt would have given him another chance to square the match.

Steingraber, who went to the semi-finals of the 1934 meet, never was ahead this afternoon after the contestants finished the morning 18 all even. But the way-haired battler refused to concede the veteran McCrary an inch as he stayed within striking distance of the championship until the very last.

They were so evenly matched this morning they finished with identical medal scores, two 75's. They each won five holes during the first 18, Steingraber dropping an 18 foot downhill putt on the home green to square the match with a birdie 2.

Steingraber, the gallery favorite, cut his deficit to one hole on the twenty-first when he canned a 13 foot putt to get a birdie 3. McCrary was short on his second, smacking into a bank ahead of the green and his third sailed nine feet by the pin.

Halved 22nd They halved the 22nd with 4's, but McCrary shot 2 up again on the twenty-third. Steingraber went to the right of the green with his tee shot and Bob fired his clear over the green into a shallow ditch. He came back nicely, however, 15 feet past the pin, while Steingraber pushed his second across of the green. Art made a poor third and took two putts to get down. Losing the hole to McCrary's 4.

Both scored birdie 4's on the long twenty-fourth. On the 25th yard twenty-fifth, Steingraber slapped his approach four feet from the pin and made a birdie 3 to reduce McCrary's lead to one hole.

Gets Hole Back Bob's accurate putter got the hole right back on the twenty-sixth where he dropped a beautiful 30 footer for a par 4. Steingraber taking a 5 when he missed a four foot putt for a halve.

They finished the three-quarters mark with McCrary 2 up, both getting regulation 4's on the twenty-seventh. The twenty-eighth was halved in 4's but both got birdie 3's on the 425 yard twenty-ninth, McCrary sinking a 20 foot putt and Art got down from six feet.

Steingraber fought back to win the short thirtieth with a par 3 as the Des Moines player missed one of his few short putts for the halve.

Yanks Wear Selves Out In Effort to Win

Sox Blast Murphy From Mound In Fourth Inning

NEW YORK, July 13 (AP)—The Yankees wore themselves out today overcoming the effect of one bad inning and after they finally had tied the score in the eighth they had nothing left to meet Chicago's ninth-inning spurt and the White Sox won the series opener 8 to 7.

The defeat reduced the Yankees' lead to one game over the Detroit Tigers, who split a doubleheader with the Athletics.

Pat Malone proved ineffective as a relief hurler in the ninth and gave up the winning run without a hit. He passed Tony Piet, who went to second on Mule Haas' sacrifice and to third on Zeke Bonura's fly.

Reds Take Pitching Duel From Brooklyn

Teutons Take 2-1 Lead In Tennis Match

PITTSBURGH, July 13 (AP)—The Pirates and the league-leading New York Giants put on a weird exhibition of the ups and downs of baseball today and when it ended the Giants were on the long end of a 7 to 6 score and their hold on first place was just as firm as ever.

CINCINNATI, July 13 (AP)—A pitchers' battle between George Earnshaw, veteran Brooklyn right hander, and Al Hollingsworth, Cincinnati's rookie southpaw, terminated disastrously for the former today when the Reds put over three runs in the eighth to gain their third straight victory, 5 to 2.

Schmelting To Battle Louis

September Meet All Set; Baer Seemingly Out of Picture

NEW YORK, July 13 (AP)—Disclosing a shift in heavyweight fight plans which apparently eliminates Max Baer from the picture, promoter Mike Jacobs today closed negotiations for a 15-round match between Joe Louis and Max Schmeling, to be held Sept. 13 at the polo grounds.

Winner Meets Champ The winner, Jacobs said, will likely be matched with James J. Braddock for the world's championship in 1936. Braddock is now under contract to make his first title defense for the Madison Square Garden corporation, but Jacobs, head of the Twentieth Century Sporting club, does not consider this a barrier to his projected plans to promote a championship fight next year.

Originally Jacobs contemplated matching the Louis-Schmelting winner with Baer this October but the promoter now doubts whether the former heavyweight champion will attempt a comeback.

Unficed "I am not figuring on a fight for Baer," said Jacobs. "I don't think he wants to fight again but he may change his mind. We can recon- sider the prospects, if and when Max decides what he wants to do. He doesn't know himself now."

Frank Carideo Will Coach At Sippi State

ATLANTA, July 13 (AP)—The engagement of Frank Carideo, former Notre Dame all-American quarterback, as an assistant coach was announced today by Major Ralph Irvine Sasse, one-time West Point mentor and now head coach at Mississippi State college.

Carideo will report Sept. 2, and become a full-time aide, Sasse said, helping with the development of backfield material besides specializing in coaching the kickers.

The former Notre Dame star will round out Sasse's staff, which also includes Capt. Ross MacKechnie, formerly head coach at Mississippi State, and Capt. John Stokes, line tutor, who served with the major at West Point.

Record Entry List NEW YORK (AP)—Led by Cecil Smith and Winston Guest, two of the country's three highest ranking players, a record entry list of 11 well balanced polo teams will start play today in the National Junior championship at the Burnt Mills club at Bedminster, N. J.

Bruins Win Doubleheader

Whip Boston Braves 10 to 2, 3 to 1, For Sixth Straight

CHICAGO, July 13 (AP)—The Chicago Cubs ran a winning streak to six games today by turning back the Boston Braves, 10 to 2 and 3 to 1, in both ends of a double-header here for 11:00 here. The twin wins extended their season's record over the Braves to 12 out of 14.

SETS HOT PACE McCrary set a hot pace at the opening of afternoon play. He won the first two holes to press into a 2 lead. Off the nineteenth Bob made a sparkling approach and got a birdie 3 to better Steingraber's par four. He made another nice approach on the twentieth to score a par 4 as Art went one over the regulation figure.

Steingraber, the gallery favorite, cut his deficit to one hole on the twenty-first when he canned a 13 foot putt to get a birdie 3. McCrary was short on his second, smacking into a bank ahead of the green and his third sailed nine feet by the pin.

Gets Hole Back Bob's accurate putter got the hole right back on the twenty-sixth where he dropped a beautiful 30 footer for a par 4. Steingraber taking a 5 when he missed a four foot putt for a halve.

They finished the three-quarters mark with McCrary 2 up, both getting regulation 4's on the twenty-seventh. The twenty-eighth was halved in 4's but both got birdie 3's on the 425 yard twenty-ninth, McCrary sinking a 20 foot putt and Art got down from six feet.

Steingraber fought back to win the short thirtieth with a par 3 as the Des Moines player missed one of his few short putts for the halve.

Match Squared on 31st The match was squared on the thirty-first. McCrary got into all kinds of trouble. He drove back of a sand trap, then landed into the trap on his second and barely got on the green with his third. He

Senators Trim Browns Twice

Gain First, 11 to 7, Take Second, 10-4; Rookie Hurler Clicks

WASHINGTON, July 13 (AP)—The Senators won their first double-header of the season here today defeating St. Louis 11 to 7 and 10 to 4.

Four-run splurges in the fifth and seventh innings and a three-run barrage in the eighth gave Washington a big lead as Buck Newsom won over his former teammates after spotting them a three-run start.

Millard Hayes, rookie hurler, was impressive in his debut holding the Browns to seven hits in the second game. Washington pounded across four runs in the first inning and six in the fourth. St. Louis used four pitchers in each game.

Major League Batters Swing Futilely in Week of Few Hits

Arky Vaughan Loses 15 Points But Leads National With .391

NEW YORK, July 13 (AP)—What with the all-star game taking two days out of the program as well as bringing their league a defeat, the National league batsmen fared poorly during the last week with only a few exceptions seen among the leaders.

Hits Scarce
 Base hits were few and far between on the brief program for the week which wound up Friday and a half dozen blows made a pretty good total for any player. Two who collected seven apiece, Mel Ott of the Giants and Gabby Hartnett of the Cubs, moved up several notches in the list of leading regulars, from a tie for eighth place to a tie for fourth. They gained eight points each for .382 averages although Ott had 14 times at bat and Hartnett 16.

Arky Vaughan of Pittsburgh, who went into high during the previous week to bring his average up to .496, reversed suddenly and dropped off 15 points to .391. Although he still held the league lead by a wide margin, Vaughan hit only twice in 14 trips to the plate.

Rivals Trail
 His closest rivals, Joe Medwick of St. Louis and Bill Terry of New York lost one point each for marks of .361 and .349 respectively, each getting five blows through the week. Trailing them came Ott and Hartnett at .332; Pepper Martin, St. Louis, .331; Hank Leiber, New York, .327; John Moore, New York, .322 and Jim Collins, St. Louis, .320.

The day's heavy clouting in four tries and took a seven point loss while his National league rivals, Joe Medwick and Bill Terry, picked up five and seven points respectively. Medwick hit three out of four and Terry four out of five.

The Big Six
 (By the Associated Press)
 Bruce Campbell of Cleveland, who has been hitting at a fast clip for the past week or so, broke into the Big Six yesterday when he continued his slugging while Charley Gehring remained in a slump. Campbell picked up five points with two hits in three times up while Gehring hit once in nine tries for a seven point loss. Arky Vaughan also failed to break into

Nothing Sensational
 Neither, however, according to averages which include Friday's games, did anything sensational. Campbell gained eight points to move from a tie for tenth place to a tie for sixth with Johnny Stone of Washington, at .333, and Fox, just emerging from a slump, picked up six points to take over ninth position with a .328 average.

Otherwise, losses were the rule. Bob Johnson of the A's, retained first place in the select first 10, but lost six points to .352. Charley Gehring, Detroit's star second baseman, improved his mark three points and hopped from fourth place to second with .344. A 12-point loss dropped Wallie Moses of Philadelphia from second to a tie with Buddy Myer of Washington, for seventh place at .331.

Although he lost a point, Joe Vosmik of Cleveland, moved from fifth to third with .340, and Pete Fox, Detroit outfielder, who gained 22 points a week ago dropped from third to fourth place with .339, a loss of three points. Roger Cramer of Philadelphia, and Roy Johnson of Boston, were deadlocked in the last spot at .326.

Major League Batters Swing Futilely in Week of Few Hits

Arky Vaughan Loses 15 Points But Leads National With .391

NEW YORK, July 13 (AP)—What with the all-star game taking two days out of the program as well as bringing their league a defeat, the National league batsmen fared poorly during the last week with only a few exceptions seen among the leaders.

Hits Scarce
 Base hits were few and far between on the brief program for the week which wound up Friday and a half dozen blows made a pretty good total for any player. Two who collected seven apiece, Mel Ott of the Giants and Gabby Hartnett of the Cubs, moved up several notches in the list of leading regulars, from a tie for eighth place to a tie for fourth. They gained eight points each for .382 averages although Ott had 14 times at bat and Hartnett 16.

Arky Vaughan of Pittsburgh, who went into high during the previous week to bring his average up to .496, reversed suddenly and dropped off 15 points to .391. Although he still held the league lead by a wide margin, Vaughan hit only twice in 14 trips to the plate.

Rivals Trail
 His closest rivals, Joe Medwick of St. Louis and Bill Terry of New York lost one point each for marks of .361 and .349 respectively, each getting five blows through the week. Trailing them came Ott and Hartnett at .332; Pepper Martin, St. Louis, .331; Hank Leiber, New York, .327; John Moore, New York, .322 and Jim Collins, St. Louis, .320.

The day's heavy clouting in four tries and took a seven point loss while his National league rivals, Joe Medwick and Bill Terry, picked up five and seven points respectively. Medwick hit three out of four and Terry four out of five.

Odd Fellows Meet Paramounts Today

I.O.O.F. Nine Opens Part 2 Of Schedule

"Kootch" Smith To Pitch League Game At City Park

Meeting the Davenport Paramounts at City park, the Odd Fellows baseball team will open the second half of the Eastern Iowa Atlas League schedule today at 2:30 p.m.

The locals finished fourth and last in the first-half of the season and will be eager to get off on the right foot this afternoon.

The winner of the second half will play Muscatine Indians, winner of the first half, in a post-season play-off.

Manager Joe Whiting said the I.O.O.F. lineup will probably be the same with "Kootch" Smith and Les Glick forming the batteries. "Boo" Bright will be in reserve on the mound in case Smith falters.

The final league standings found Iowa City with one win in five starts, Davenport with two wins in five starts, Walcott with four wins in six starts and Muscatine with five wins in six games.

McCrary Defeats Steingraber In Iowa Amateur

Conceded the hole after missing a long putt.

McCrary got the hole right back with another brilliant bit of approach playing. After laying out a long drive, he lifted his second to four feet from the pin and dropped the putt for a birdie 3. Steingraber got his par.

The 560 yard thirty-third was a nightmare for both. Their drives landed in the rough five yards apart, McCrary came out in good shape but Steingraber ran clear across the fairway behind a group of trees. He played out safely and then made a brilliant iron shot across a creek to the corner of the green. McCrary also got over safely and they both got 6's.

They both got birdie 3's on the thirty-fourth. McCrary ramming in a 12 foot putt and Steingraber staying right in the match with an 8 foot attempt.

McCrary stopped the contest on the 35th. His drive, similar to most of his efforts during the day, was right down the middle and his second was on the green 20 feet by the pin.

Art hooked a drive almost into the gallery and his second landed to the left of the green down an incline. He recovered to pitch his third seven feet away but missed the putt that would have halved the hole after Bob had stroked his ball to the edge of the green.

Proposed New School Doubles Building Value

Will Push Value Of Public Schools Well Over $1,000,000

The newly proposed senior high school for Iowa City will more than double the total value of present public schools in the city bringing the total to well over $1,000,000.

The new school, to be located at the east end of College street, will be valued at $600,000 which is greater than the total value of all present senior and junior high and grade school buildings and fixtures valued at $568,500. The total value of Iowa City public schools upon the completion of the new senior high school will be $1,168,500.

Greatest Value

The new school will mark the greatest increase of school property values in Iowa City's history. The present senior high school erected in 1902 is valued at $117,428.

The Horace Mann school erected in 1917 is valued at $106,908, and the Longfellow school erected in 1917 is valued at $102,650.

The other schools in order of their value are: Henry Sabin, high school gymnasium building, Junior high school, Lincoln, Administration building, Kirkwood, and Shimek.

Lincoln Most Recent

The most recent school built is Lincoln school, built in 1928. The oldest of the present schools are Shimek and the Junior high school, erected in 1891. The administration building was erected six years earlier in 1885.

Fidelity Christian Endeavor Will Debate

The Fidelity Christian Endeavor will present a debate, "Resolved: That honesty is the best policy on the campus," at the Christian church at 6:30 this evening.

Speakers in the debate are: affirmative, Robert King and Charles Maxon; negative, Charlotte Rohrbacher and Mario Porterfield.

Larry Sibert Joins Strub's Store Staff

Larry Sibert has joined the Strub's store staff and will be employed in the drapery department. Glenn F. Porter, general manager of the store, announced yesterday.

Mr. Sibert was formerly employed at the Western Union Telegraph office and the Iowa News agency.

Chinch Bug Situation In Johnson County Is Becoming More Dangerous

The chinch bug situation in Johnson county is becoming increasingly dangerous in corn fields bordering small grain fields, according to Emmett C. Gardner, county agent.

Bugs migrated to several rows of corn from a rye field on the Melvin Main farm in Pleasant Valley township last week. Several other fields were examined in the county by Mr. Gardner, where he instructed farmers on barrier building.

Sees Migration

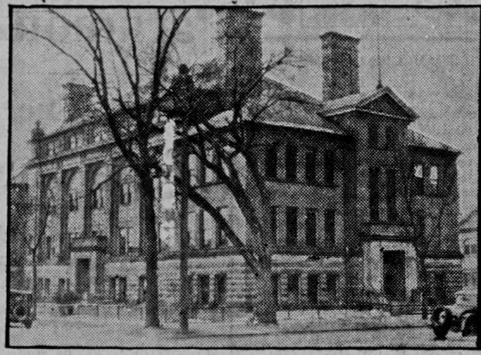

Near Downey, on the John Johnson farm, chinch bugs entered a corn field from an oats field. Mr. Gardner witnessed a migration of the bugs into a corn field from a nearby oats field after it had been plowed near Mt. Pleasant. A barrier was built between the fields but the insects were finding their way around it.

Behind Average

Mr. Gardner expressed the belief that extensive damage would be avoided if the rainy weather continued. Moisture will cause a deadly fungus growth among the bugs.

Corn and hay crops are reported to be about two weeks behind average. Most of the corn will be laid by this week and hay harvesting will be completed before oats are cut.

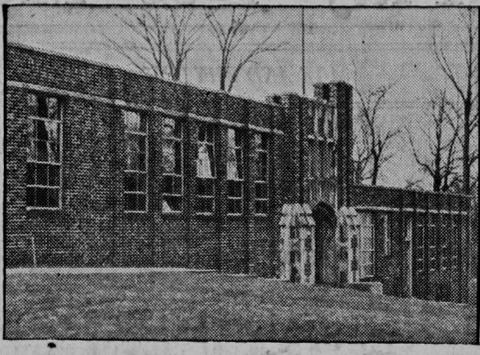

PRESENT HIGH SCHOOL AND GYMNASIUM WILL BECOME JUNIOR HIGH SCHOOL

Iowa City high school (left), erected in 1902 at a cost of $124,002, will become the junior high school upon completion of the proposed senior high school building. There are more than 400 students registered in junior high school, and 700 in senior high. The high school gymnasium (right) will also become property of the junior high upon completion of the new high school building. The gymnasium building also has facilities for manual training and home economics. The building was erected in 1913 at a cost of $52,575.

LAST SCHOOL ERECTED IN IOWA CITY

Lincoln school, located on the west side at River and Lee streets, was the last school building constructed in Iowa City. Lincoln school was erected in 1926 on a three and a half acre site at a cost of $30,606. The Lathrop school was built during the same year.

Five Building Permits Issued By Kutcher

Five building permits, including four new homes, were issued by C. A. Kutcher, city inspector, last week. The permits totaled $14,500.

M. J. Giblin received permits for three residences on Franklin street at an estimated cost of $3,000 each. Irving King will build a $3,000 residence on Dearborn street. Prof. Paul L. Sayre, 337 Magowan avenue, received a permit for $2,500 remodeling work and construction of a sun porch.

Local Music Auxiliary Will Hold Session

Members of the Iowa City Music auxiliary will meet in business session at the band room of the high school administration building tomorrow at 7:30 p.m.

A report of the Fourth of July celebration at City park will be presented by the celebration committee.

Auxiliary officials said last night that plans would also be laid for future activities of the organization.

Druggists Hold Picnic Today

Members of the Iowa City Druggists association will be hosts to more than 350 druggists and their families from all parts of Iowa at a picnic here today.

A golf tournament will start at 8 o'clock at Finkbine field, and a tour of the campus buildings will be made. At 1 o'clock, a basket dinner will be served at City park. A program of races and games will follow the dinner.

Projects and planning, finance, woman's and labor management. Hill will confer Monday with heads of similar divisions here, familiarizing himself with their plans for operating the new system designed to transfer the jobs from relief to work projects.

Representative Utterback (D-Ia) joined Hill in the extended conference with Westbrook on the organization plans.

Hill said he would be here all day Monday and possibly part of Tuesday before returning to Des Moines to speed an organization which can set the work relief program in motion.

Proposed High School Building To Relieve Student Congestion

If plans inaugurated yesterday morning for the erection of a new $600,000 high school building are successful, an ever increasing demand for more adequate public school facilities will be satisfied.

The present senior high school was constructed in 1902 when the city population numbered only 8,000. With the present population totaling 15,000 and attendance in the public schools here for the last 10 years, doubling, the necessity for new school facilities has been very evident.

Because of the absence of a library room in the senior high school, and the necessity of the gymnasium building serving both junior and senior high schools, the urgent demand for facilitation of high school buildings and equipment has long been recognized by school authorities.

The auditorium in the senior high school has long been condemned because of its lack of proper stage and seating arrangements. Due to the ever increasing number of students participating in musical activities, the music department is unable to offer sufficient courses to meet student demands.

More than 400 pupils were enrolled in the junior high school during the last year. Only a small per cent of those enrolled were able to be adequately cared for in the present junior high building which was erected in 1891 as a senior high school.

According to the present proposed plans, the junior high school will occupy the present senior high building and gymnasium, upon completion of the new structure.

The gymnasium at High School square was erected in 1913 and the administration building was built in 1885.

The auditorium in the senior high

Swisher Answers Power Company's Proposal

(Editor's note—The following communication is an answer to the Iowa City Light and Power company's proposal to allow the city a five year option to buy their plant and distribution system at $900,000 upon failure to maintain a 25 per cent reduction in electric rates. The statement was submitted by Alderman J. A. Swisher, chairman of the council light committee.)

To the Editor of The Daily Iowan: Members of the city council have not yet had opportunity to thoroughly consider and discuss the most recent proposal submitted by the light company. Since there is much public interest in the question, however, it may be well to present here some of the facts that must be taken into consideration in a study of the question. In presenting these data I am not expressing an opinion of the council or of any member of it, with regard to what may be the ultimate decision. Rather I present the following facts and comments for your consideration in view of the many aspects of the problem.

1. The courts have repeatedly held and experience has frequently shown that electric rates cannot be permanently fixed. But admitting for a moment that the proposed rates would be maintained without controversy for five years, would we then be any nearer to an ultimate solution than we are now? Do we want to begin this contest all over again five years hence? If we build an electric light plant now we might well have it one-third paid for by that time.

Subject to objections
2. But the rates suggested could not be enforced for five years, and the option which the company proposes is of doubtful value. Indeed, the option is subject to many objections. For example:

(a) It is doubtful if the option could be taken advantage of by the city after the authorization granted by the people in the election of April 17, 1934, has expired, and after the expiration of the term of the present council.

(b) If, as suggested by the company, the plant is worth more than $900,000 then the option is particularly objectionable because under its terms there would be a greater incentive than ever before for the light building to dominate municipal elections in order that the option might not be enforced.

Another Viewpoint
(c) From quite another viewpoint, the option may be considered as having no value. For there are those who sincerely believe that, far from being worth more than $900,000, the plant is not, in reality, worth anything that approximates that figure. Indeed, it is believed that a new plant can be built for that sum of money. That will be definitely determined not by an appraisal of the old plant, but by preparing plans and specifications for a new plant, and by submitting contracts to bids. Moreover, I may say that the mayor and members of this city council last week visited a modern plant at Piqua, Ohio. The generating equipment here consists of two 4,000 K.W. turbine-generators. Only one of these was operating last week to supply light and power for a city of 16,000 population. The entire plant built in 1933 cost less than $800,000. The Coralville plant, in contrast to this one, has been in operation for many years. If it is purchased, naturally, it will need more repairs than a new plant. Moreover, it does not at the present time generate all the electricity for Iowa City. A considerable amount of power is purchased from a high line extending from Cedar Rapids. In addition to this, it should be remembered that if Iowa City purchases this plant it will be faced with the probability of having to pay taxes to the town of Coralville for many years to come—an item which at the present time

Tug o' War

A "tug of war" was staged in front of the Hotel Jefferson on E. Washington street last night between a car parked too far out in the street and a police officer and two other Iowa Citizens. Needless to say, the locked auto won.

A Year Ago in Iowa City

Iowa City Boy Scouts laid plans for a Sea Scout ship. . . Dr. W. L. Elywater, FERA administrator for Johnson county, announced a work relief mattress is to open in Iowa City. . . The Junior Chamber of Commerce took over solicitation of the business district for the city and county "renovating and reemployment" campaign which is to give jobs to more than 1,000 workers. . . Francis "Zed" Schammel, All-American guard of the 1933 Iowa football team, is named assistant to Coach Ossie Solem.

Junior Chamber

The big summer meeting of the Junior Chamber of Commerce will be staged in the Academy grill room Tuesday at 6:30 p.m. Dr. H. H. Jacobsen has promised members some "clever" entertainment.

"Safe Driving"

Mrs. Eric Wilson will conclude her series of broadcasts on "Safe Driving" over radio station WSUI tomorrow night at 10:45. Mrs. Wilson will speak on "Safety in the Streets." Her son, Eric, Jr., will assist her in the program as she explained the dangers of riding bicycles, playing, and crossing streets.

Bicycle Day To Feature Week

Prizes Given for 3 Best Decorated At Playgrounds

A bicycle day, with prizes awarded for the best decorated bike, will feature this week's program at Horace Mann and Henry Sabin school playgrounds Thursday, Margaret Mulholland, supervisor, announced last night.

Prizes will be given for the three best decorated bicycles and for winners in speed races. Events of the bike program will open at 7:15 p.m. Thursday. Contestants will be grouped as to height with those below 60 inches in one group and those above in another.

Thursday afternoon girls will display their dolls in a show with prizes awarded for the cutest, largest, best dressed, smallest, oldest, and oddest dolls.

Movies will be shown at Henry Sabin grounds Tuesday and at Horace Mann school Friday. A puppet show will be presented in connection with the motion pictures at Horace Mann.

Junior Baldwin, Howard Clark, Howard Shaffeld, Robert Kuchner, James Morgan, Richard Fulton, and Harley Richardson were winners in yesterday's playground golf and horseshoe tournaments.

Grace Ferris to Sing At Congregational Church
