Council Begins Plans to Start Municipal Pool

Federal Grant for Pool Will Total $42,841; City to Add $19,780

Members of the city council and park board last night began plans for a special city election asking authority to construct a $62,000 municipal swimming pool following word from Washington that a WPA grant of 45 per cent is obtainable for the project.
The federal grant for the local pool will be $42,841 to which the city must add $19,780.
Complete Plans
Plans and specifications for the proposed pool have been completed by the Bantz pool designers of Lansing, Mich.
A recreational pool 75 feet wide and 165 feet long and a diving pool 84 by 44 feet and 14 feet in depth along with locker and shower rooms will complete the swimming pool setup.

Citizens to Vote
Voters of Iowa City will be asked to approve the project, which will allow the city a modern pool with the latest type of purification system, at little or no increase in the board's levy.
Dr. E. J. Anthony, chairman of the park board, said last night that the election date, will be set as soon as local officials are advised of the necessary election procedure by the WPA at Washington.

READY FOR ITALIAN AIR RAIDERS

These two Ethiopian anti-aircraft gunners dig themselves an impromptu trench near Addis Ababa preparing to repel any air attack by Italians. Note the tenseness of their figures as they maneuver the gun in practice. Because of the shortage of ammunition among the Ethiopian troops the gunners have little opportunity to acustom themselves to these modern weapons of warfare. The recent lifting of the arms embargo against Ethiopia has aided them somewhat.

Many Flee As Flames Reach Malibu Homes, Razing Several

Fire Rages in Midtown Los Angeles After Explosion; Storms Sink Several Craft

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 21 (AP)—A brush fire roared out of control tonight near the Malibu summer homes of several movie stars—one of a series in five southern California counties that mounted damages toward $4,000,000 in unofficial figures.
Charles (Chick) Sale, his wife and two sons wrapped coats about their heads and plunged to safety through flames that for a time circled the actor's Malibu ranch.
Farrell Home Burned
The $10,000 Escondido beach home of Charles Farrell, actor, was one of those destroyed early today in the Malibu area.
No deaths had been reported but fears were expressed that a few victims may have been trapped in the Malibu area. Nearly a score of cowboys, for a time reported missing, freed cattle and horses in that sector before seeking safety for themselves.
Destroys Cabins
The fire in the Malibu hills, fanned by high winds, destroyed nearly a score of homes and cabins including 12 along the ocean front.
In midtown Los Angeles, a fire razed the six-story Norton building at Sixth and Broadway, causing damage estimated at $500,000. Sparks, igniting acetylene tanks used by workmen in remodeling a drug store, were believed to have caused an explosion which preceded the fire.
Many Injured
Scores of brush fire fighters received hospital and emergency station treatment.
More than 150 patients were evacuated from three sanitariums in the foothill region north of here. Sixty patients were removed from the Lavinia sanitarium in Millard canyon just before it was destroyed with a loss of $150,000.
Remove Patients
Attendants removed 43 patients from the Independent Order of Foresters' sanitarium in Upper Lopez canyon as fire burned near the grounds, but the buildings were not damaged.
Fifty patients and four ambulance crews were trapped for more than an hour at the Pauling sanitarium near San Fernando. Fire fighters beat back the flames while ambulances raced through to safety. The buildings were saved.
Hundreds of head of cattle in the Malibu area were believed to have perished.

Dissolves Friday

Parliament will be dissolved Friday, the general elections will be held Nov. 14 and the formal opening of parliament Dec. 3.

Rearmament Issue Shoved

The rearmament issue was shoved directly to the forefront as a principal campaign issue by the veteran Baldwin, who said:
"In the interests of world peace it is essential our defensive services should be stronger than today."
"Not Be Responsible"
"I will not pursue a policy or be responsible for the government of this country if I am not given the power to remedy those deficiencies that have occurred in our defensive services since the war."
This statement was heartily applauded. (See No. TWO, Page 3)

NYA Will Use 172 Grads In Iowa Schools

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21 (AP)—Aubrey Williams, director, announced today the national youth administration, would spend $108,100 a month providing part time employment for more than 4,000 graduate students in 136 colleges in 37 states and the District of Columbia.
Williams added that reports had not been received on 11 states, and that he expected the total to show an expansion over similar programs during the past two years.
All recipients, who get an average of $25 a month with a maximum of $30 for the first year of graduate work, and an average of $30 with a maximum of $40 for older students, include 2,448 candidates for master's degrees and 1,577 for doctor's degrees.
State allotments include a monthly grant to Iowa of $5,715, which will go to aid 172 students in three state educational institutions.

State Finds Method Of Getting Rid Of Excess Population

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 23 (AP)—Two motion picture chieftains professed tonight to foresee a possible exodus of highly paid movie stars from California because of the income tax.
The players themselves were silent.
Fears of the magnates, Joseph M. Schenck, president, and Darryl Zanuck, vice-president of Twentieth Century-Fox, were expressed in comment on the statement of William Randolph Hearst that he would close his "places" in California, and reside most of the time in New York because of the new California income tax law.

Saunders Bond Set at $5,000

Jockey Surrenders After Being Identified By Mrs. Mackinson

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Oct. 23 (AP)—Willie (Smoky) Saunders, the dapper little man who rode to fame in the saddle of Omaha in the Kentucky Derby last spring, was arraigned late today on a charge of murder in the after-the-party death of his gay companion, Mrs. Evelyn Sliwinski.
Set Bond at $5,000
Saunders' bond was fixed at $5,000 by Judge Luther Roberts of county court and his examining trial set for Oct. 31.
After county police formally charged the top-flight jockey with murder, Walter Schaeffer, a race track employe, named by Saunders as the driver of the automobile that crashed to death the 25-year-old married woman, was picked up near the Pimlico race track by Baltimore police at the request of Louisville officers.
Find Body on Road
The mangled body of Mrs. Sliwinski was found on the Ohio River road near here early Sunday. Mrs. Agatha Mackinson, 28, the victim's girl companion on the round of Louisville's "hot spots," told police Mrs. Sliwinski was beaten, thrown from an automobile and run over twice.
Saunders Surrenders
Sought by police after Mrs. Mackinson had identified him from a picture as a member of the party, Saunders came here today from Lexington, Ky., and surrendered. Denying he was to blame for the woman's death, Saunders admitted to detectives he was with Mrs. Sliwinski on her last ride. Stolid and composed, the jockey related that Mrs. Sliwinski became ill and asked to get out. He said he opened the door for her, let her out and the car drove on.

Reporter Follows Trail of Airmen Of Whom He Told

NEW YORK, Oct. 23 (AP)—The city desk of the Associated Press in New York has heard for the last time the clearcut voice over the telephone that said: "This is Lozier."
Arthur Lozier has gone from Floyd Bennett airport like so many of the ill-starred aerial adventurers whose takeoffs into the Lorelei skies he so competently reported. He is dead.
Wiley Post—Harold Gatty—Clarence Chamberlin—and all the valorous pilots who headed heavily laden planes out over the uncertain sea—Lozier knew them all, and he reported them all, fairly, swiftly, well.

Governor Allen Throws Hat In Senatorial Ring

BATON ROUGE, La., Oct. 23 (AP)—Gov. O. K. Allen rocked Louisiana's political structure today by disclosing that he had secretly qualified himself as a candidate for United States senator and one of his political associates, Louis L. Morgan, general counsel for the Louisiana highway commission, for governor in the January democratic primary.
The qualifications were entered secretly shortly before midnight Monday, the hour the democratic candidates' books were closed. The governor declined to say why he and Morgan had qualified. He left the political wisecracks to guess the significance of the step.
Until the Allen-Morgan qualifications became known, it was believed that the former Huey P. Long machine stood solidly behind the ticket headed by Judge Richard W. Leche for governor, and Allen Eljender, speaker of the state house of representatives, for senator.

Gunmen Shoot Down Former Beer Baron, Two Companions

NEWARK, N. J., Oct. 23 (AP)—Arthur (Dutch Schultz) Flegenheimer, colorful New York beer baron during the prohibition era, and two of his henchmen were shot down by two unknown assailants in a Park street chophouse tonight.
Schultz was critically wounded. Authorities at City hospital said they did not expect him to live. He was rushed to the operating room for an emergency operation at 11:30 p.m., shortly after lapsing into unconsciousness.
Two Companions
Police said his companions were Otto Berman, 46, and Bernard Rosenkrantz, 36, both of New York City.
The shooting apparently occurred without warning and the gunmen who fled through a back door of the restaurant at 12 E. Park street, presumably escaped in an automobile.
Another man, Leo Frank, 40, of Newark, described by police as a bystander, also was wounded.
Fire Score of Shots
Witnesses told police the gunmen fired at least a score of shots in the near-empty tavern. Both of Schultz' lungs were punctured and another bullet lodged near the heart.

Count Refuses To Be Made a Yankee Wrench by Monkeys

ST. PAUL, Oct. 23 (AP)—Count Ernesto Russo, member of the Italian diplomatic corps in Washington, discovered a delightful new expression today.
"A monkey wrench in the gears," he chortled. "Never have I heard it before but that is what Selassie is."
Here to tell the Exchange club "what is wrong with America," the count discussed the Italo-Ethiopian situation only briefly.
Pressed to say what is wrong with Italy, the count employed his new expression again.
"You cannot," he replied sagely, "make a monkey wrench out of me."

Baltimore Police Hold Schaeffer on Request Of Louisville Men

BALTIMORE, Oct. 23 (AP)—Walter Schaeffer, race track exercise boy, was formally charged with murder by Baltimore police tonight, at the request of Louisville authorities, in connection with the "good time" slaying of Mrs. Evelyn Sliwinski. He agreed to waive extradition.
Schaeffer signed a 15-page statement in which he denied he and Jockey Willie Saunders were responsible for the slaying of the young Louisville woman. He was interrogated by Detective Captain John H. Mintzness.
Police Lieutenant Alfred Cormack said Schaeffer admitted he had been driving the automobile in which Mrs. Sliwinski was riding a short time before her death.
Cormack, acting head of the Baltimore detective force, quoted Schaeffer as saying he, Saunders, Mrs. Sliwinski and Mrs. Agatha Mackinson had visited several Louisville roadhouses Saturday night and had had several drinks.
Schaeffer denied he was drunk. He said Mrs. Sliwinski was and that she had been drinking straight whiskey.
With himself and Saunders in the front seat of the car and the women in the rear, Lieutenant Cormack quoted Schaeffer as saying, they all had gone for a ride in the country. The women, he went on began to quarrel and both left the machine.

Find Corpse Of Racketeer

NEW YORK, Oct. 23 (AP)—The hatchet-headed body of "Pretty Louie" Amberg, 36, ugly duckling of the underworld whose police record ran back to 1914, was found burning in the back seat of a stolen sedan in Brooklyn today.
He was the third of five brothers to meet a violent end and the seventh to die, authorities said, in gang war over control of rackets along the East river waterfronts in the Navy yard section of Brooklyn and the Lower East side of Manhattan.
The corpse was found after firemen, called by nearby householders, extinguished the fire in the automobile. It had been wrapped under two blankets and bound with wire around the neck and ankles. There were nine deep wounds in the head and shoulders. It was badly scorched but fingerprints remained for identification. A can of gasoline was nearby.

Holiday Group Seeks Removal Of H. Wallace

MADISON, Minn., Oct. 23 (AP)—The Minnesota Farm Holiday association, which two years ago sponsored a farmers' strike, today climaxed bitter criticism of the agricultural adjustment administration with a demand for the immediate removal of Henry A. Wallace as secretary of agriculture.
"Since Secretary Wallace has not the decency to resign from office," a resolution, approved by approximately 1,500 delegates to the state convention, said, "and believing the AAA is putting the farmers of this country under dictatorship, we demand his immediate removal from office."
Copies of the resolution, which also reiterated protest against "this unfair plan of destroying food so necessary for human use when millions are starving, were ordered sent to President Roosevelt.
Earlier in the day the association adopted a resolution asserting evidence showed "the Wallace administration is actively engaged in stealing the corn hog vote," and demanding ballot counting be taken out of the hands of "pay-rollers who stand to profit by continuation of the program."

3 Boats Sink In Storm Off Alaskan Coast

SEATTLE, Oct. 23 (AP)—Three boats were sunk and 12 others were missing tonight after a storm off Coronation island on the southern Alaskan coast, coast guard headquarters reported it had learned from the cutter Cyane off Dall island.
Whether any lives were lost was undetermined, the coast guard said.
The message from Cyane read: "Cyane now in touch with situation at Coronation island. Will leave Rose inlet at 2 a.m. (Pacific standard time), in order to reach San Cristoval channel at day break. Trollers Ivin, Nelson and Premier reported sunk. Twelve boats unaccounted for at last report."
The Cyane did not list the names of the missing boats or the number of persons aboard.
Coast guard headquarters assumed the Cyane probably had contacted the lighthouse tender Hemlock which first reported to the lighthouse service at Ketchikan the Ivan, Nelson and Premier were sunk and two other boats were unreported.

Federal Judge William H. Holly announced he would read the script and rule on the producers' petition for injunction tomorrow.

What Do You Think?
Conducted By Betty Phelps

"Are we shivering?" chorused high school girls, coeds, and Iowa City matrons, when they ventured out in fall coats and sweaters this week to find balmy autumn breezes replaced by nippy winter gusts.

What kind of coat to buy is the problem which Iowa City women must face who have neglected the task of selecting a coat until the last breath of summer has really vanished.

In our rambles about town we saw everything from novelty swaggar coats for girls in their "teens" to highly styled furs for the dignified matron. Vivid plaids with "fish tail" swaggar skirts and pleated backs are virtually "on parade" throughout the town.

The matron, too, may suit her more conservative taste with a coat of dull plaid, tweed, or plain fabric. Coats of this type have straight skirts.

Black, wine, and green are predominant colors in the more dressy coats of rough fabrics. Collars—coon and wolf—are much larger than they have been for the last few years. Removable fur capes on many coats make them readily changeable for sports or "knocking about."

The military touch and Russian influence can be seen in the rows of buttons on the sleeves or down the front, and in the high Russian collars of caracul.

Fur coats are plainer than last year but more richly cut to flatter both mother and daughter. Black seal is especially popular and smart in appearance.

The younger set favors the swaggar type fur coat, three quarter length, made of kidskin, pony, or Mendoza beaver. Tailored styles with military trimmings are as prominent in fur as in cloth coats. Colored trimmings on fur wraps are definitely "out" this year.

With such a variety of materials, colors, and styles, there is no need for girls, young or old to frown and shiver another day over the coat problem.

25,000 Iowa Relief Workers Start Projects

Hill Plans to Put Iowa Unemployed Back To Work at Once

DES MOINES, Oct. 23 (AP)—L. S. Hill, Iowa WPA administrator, said tonight upon notification of release of funds by Washington that Iowa's eligible unemployed—about 25,000—will be put to work on WPA projects within three weeks.

The state administrator said the first of the projects will be started immediately, that others will follow within the next few days and that within three weeks they will be under way all over the state.

Confers With Keller

Hill's "go ahead" order was given in a conference with George J. Keller, deputy administrator. A. E. Michel, projects and planning engineer, and their assistants after he had received notification of the release of funds by Comptroller General McCarl.

Up to today the Iowa administrator actually had only $1,478,000 available to start work. Then Hill received word at noon the comptroller had boosted the amount to $6,026,896. Tonight in Washington the treasury announced approval of $1,632,398 additional for Iowa.

To Work Swiftly

"As fast as engineering facilities permit all of the estimated 25,000 unemployed 'employable' Iowans will be put to work on WPA projects," Hill said.

The 25,000 are those on relief rolls and certified as eligible for WPA employment. About 10,000 others will be eligible as of Nov. 1 who will be cared for in the CCC, veterans' administration, camps, river projects, PWA, highway work, and other work.

The WPA is authorized to shift funds from the FERA to the WPA administration, Hill said, and will borrow tools and equipment from that source temporarily. FERA engineers in the counties will close the books on their projects and they will be transferred to the WPA books.

MOST TRAGIC TALE

Ladies and gentlemen You've heard many sad tales Of weepings and moanings And tear-rendering wails But the story that I'm about to impart Is one that will break The hardest of hearts.

It concerns the career Of a would-be announcer His rise and his fall That had not a bouncer How he had worked hard Had risen to fame And naturally one day His big opening came.

He was to broadcast Mac West's air appearance Was this a break! Boy what a clearance! The stage was all set The mikes were arranged And Cal the announcer Felt suddenly strange.

Here was his chance The one in a lifetime The work had been hard And tough was the uphill The signal was given He was one the air His head was swimming And boys was he scared.

He cleared his throat And began to speak It started real low Then rose to a squeak Then the very worst thing That ever could happen In London or Paris Or gay mad Manhattan

What did this young Announcer get But a siege of the Hiccups—was he in a sweat. He held his breath Motioned for water, Felt just like a lamb Being led to the slaughter.

He had to speak The public was waiting He groused for some words But hiccups were rating So this is the speech: That everyone heard, A mixture of lies And a jumble of words.

"Ladies and gentlemen a National (hic) up Brings you a version Of Mac West's (hic) picture Paulene the (hic) Persian, Mae West's the gal (hic) Who sure knows her onions She's (hic)—I mean—well . . . Gh well—what's the use Why go on with all This brutal abuse.

The lights went out Cal fell like a lout His career was ended In that there's no doubt, And as they tenderly carried Him down a dark hall A trail of faint hiccups Was left—and that's all.

Now the moral of this most pitiful rhyme Is never hic up and see me some time.

avocado crops in Orange, Ventura, Riverside and San Bernardino counties.

In some areas, the crops damage was 50 to 100 per cent.

Eighteen oil derricks valued at $2,500 to $5,000 each were blown down in the Huntington Beach field.

Several Craft Sunk
Several small craft were sunk and others damaged at Newport beach and Cabrillo beach.

Ventura county fire burned along two fronts, one blaze threatening the Lake Sherwood resort, where hopes of several film personages are situated. The other was turned back from the new $1,000,000 Carmelito State hospital.

Starts at Midnight
The fire which started last midnight in the Altadena-La Crescenta area northeast of here, the most destructive in the four centers, was controlled late today, as were two blazes in Orange county earlier.

The worst property damage apparently was inflicted in the foothill regions north of here between Mt. Lowe and Mt. Wilson. Two score residences in this district of fashionable homes were destroyed, including an 18 room structure and two smaller ones belonging to the estate of R. J. and George Busch. They estimated the loss at $60,000.

Send Out Trucks
In fear that embers from the Malibu hills fire might be blown into the film beach colony, Hollywood studios late today sent trucks and a large force of workers to remove furniture from homes of players at the resort. Most of the homes are unoccupied except for caretakers.

At Los Angeles harbor, shipping was halted by high winds from 2 a. m. until noon today. United States navy shore boats remained on the davits. Officers and men on shore leave had to spend the night at beach cities.

Six Boats Wrecked
Six boats were torn from their moorings and wrecked at Cabrillo beach, coast guardsmen reported. At Newport beach, a fishing barge, a navy target vessel, and 15 smaller craft ran aground.

A Paramount film studio barge broke loose from its tug and disappeared with a screen set aboard.

More than 200 patrons spent the night aboard the gambling barge (Tango). They were removed early today.

plauded. But government opponents immediately challenged the rearmament issue in a bitter debate in which the efficacy of economic sanctions against Italy was termed doubtful and dangerous.

The conciliatory note to Italy and the defense of Britain's conduct in the Italo-Ethiopian dispute struck yesterday by Sir Samuel Hoare, foreign secretary, was carried forward today by Baldwin and Anthony Eden, minister for League of Nations affairs.

Spare No Effort
Both said no effort would be spared to work out a satisfactory settlement, agreeable alike to the league and to the two disputants, Italy and Ethiopia.

Eden said he hoped a settlement may yet be reached. But as statements from Baldwin down, took a pessimistic, long-time view of the end of the war, developments outside of commons gave further indications of the easing of Anglo-Italian tension, if not the main dispute, and of continuance of important negotiations.

Withdraw Troops
Italy advised Britain that one division of her troops will be withdrawn from Libya. In informed quarters belief was expressed that Britain might in turn order a couple of battle cruisers back from Gibraltar.

Baldwin declared rearmament is

Audience Enjoys "The R'mantic Age" Despite All Poor Qualities

By F. R. KLEIBACKER, Jr.

The curious spell of approbation which A. A. Milne seems to constantly weave over audiences was reiterated in no uncertain terms last night with the Hedgerow players presenting "The Romantic Age"—a play quite in keeping with Milne's conspicuous talents for whimsical, "Winnie-the-Pooh-y," sentimental persiflage, all salted down with several stiff shakes of the Tennessee morality to satisfy the average palate of the average theater-goer.

Enjoyed by Audience
Despite some torturous moments and spotty acting, "The Romantic Age" was enjoyed by the audience. This is perfectly consistent with the reputation accorded other Milne plays. The author and the actors can make them convincing. Unfortunately Melland and Gerbase weren't very convincing in their attempts to snare legendary romance.

Quest for Romance
And he does. There's no getting around that. Witness last night, witness the sternal enigma: the theater going public. A plot about a modern English girl's quest for a glamorous romance (and an eventual alliance, she hopes) with some cavalier who possesses all the legendary virtues (none of the vices of course) history and mythology could bequeath him is gobbled up. It's all right to write plays like that not directed at any particular country, but it is "a strengthening of the defensive services within the framework of the league for the sake of international peace, not for selfish ends."

He said that if rearmament, which it recently was reported would be

St. Patrick's Entertain At Annual Festival Celebration

By MARGARET GORDON

A lone paddle wheel, standing sentinel like, this morning surveyed the scene, strawn with serpentine and confetti, where only yesterday king carnival reigned for a day at St. Patrick's high school.

Fall festival, an annual event, instituted several years ago by parishioners of St. Patrick's church, was inaugurated yesterday with a chicken dinner served by members of the Altar and Rosary society.

Booths
Booths of variety lent the Mardi Gras aspect to the affair. Fish ponds, candy booths, and refreshment stands decorated in autumnal motif, afforded entertainment throughout the afternoon and evening.

Following the serving of supper to more than 800 persons, games of bridge and euchre were played in the manual training room of the school.

Dancing to the tunes of Dusty Keaton's orchestra terminated the day's fun fest. Appropriate appointments in the Halloween mode were effectively carried out in the lighting effects.

Chaperons
Chaperons for the dance included Mr. and Mrs. Jerry White, and Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Fitzpatrick.

Committee in charge of the dinner and supper included Mrs. A. G. Derksen, chairman, Mrs. L. C. Fitzpatrick, Mrs. J. F. Hogan, Mrs. Adam Scheetz, Mrs. M. E. Maier, Mrs. Urban Kelly, Mrs. Thomas Smith, Mrs. Donald McComas, Mrs. J. R. Hamilton, and Mrs. Edward Watkins.

Members of the Immaculate Conception sodality, under the direction of Marie Carrigan and Alice White, were in charge of the fancy work booth.

Mrs. Edward Watkins and Mrs. Paul Leuz composed the committee in charge of the card party.

Dance arrangements were completed by Mrs. White and Mrs. Fitzpatrick.

PARES, Oct. 23 (AP)—Two fleets of French warships moved out while Premier Pierre Laval, disclosing Benito Mussolini has agreed to his request to withdraw Italian troops from Libya, told his deputies he had warned Il Duce against invading Ethiopia as early as last April.

The navy ministry announced the cruiser Emile Bertin, flying the flag of Vice-Admiral Darlan; the cruiser Ducloux, flying the flag of Admiral Druin; and the cruiser Foch, flying the flag of Admiral Kuplez and Tourville and seven submarines, which sailed yesterday from Toulon, are "somewhere in the Mediterranean."

Members of the chamber of deputies' foreign affairs committee said the premier, whose opponents had accused him of promising Mussolini a free hand in Africa, told them he never has hidden from Mussolini the fact that France has associated itself with sanctions against an aggressor state.

M. Laval's determination to act fully in concert with Great Britain in the future was seen by the deputies in his statement, published in an official communique, that France will continue to seek a solution of the Italo-Ethiopian conflict "within the framework of Geneva."

Living An Enemy Credit

Those of us who have been following faithfully the news dispatches from Ethiopia cannot help wondering what is behind the strategy of Haile Selassie. By his constant denials that the Italians are using poison gas and dum-dum bullets against his people, the plucky little black man is building one of the strongest cases for world sympathy ever concocted in any civilized war.

Instead of crying that his women and children are being drawn and quartered by the ferocious invaders, Selassie is filling news dispatches from his country with bloody tales of fascist atrocities. Haile Selassie tells the world that the Duce's men are gentlemen fighters. No other oppressed nation has taken such a position. Selassie's non-resistance to the Italians may put him in a class with Gandhi, and the world knows that the "do nothing" attitude in India certainly created favorable opinion for India and at the same time aroused hatred of the British policy of imperialism.

Perhaps Selassie has clever advisers who realize that the atrocity stories which had a great deal to do with the Americans entering the World war on the side of the Allies, have been pretty well punctured by post-war revelations of senate committees and other special investigations.

Anyway, while the King of Kings may not be getting much protection in a material way from the rest of the world, he is amassing a world of opinion in his favor which may in the long run prove to be the thing that will eventually stop the Italians.

Nature has given every man some intelligence, but he must develop his own judgment.

No possession can surpass the worth of a friend who can be trusted in an emergency.

Every man should make sure his own past is defensible before he attacks others.

That Irritating Censorship Question

The Chicago mayor's banning of "Tobacco Road" on grounds of indecency brings again to public eye the moot question of censorship.

According to Everett Dean Martin man has been socially conditioned along the stony road to human progress to be intolerant, to be evangelistic, and to veritably worship conformity. Since the earliest times of worship either of morals, social ethics, or economics, has been the stress of civilization. Man has always wanted everyone else to bolster up his own thinking, feeling, and even sensing.

The philosophy on which censorship exists is mistaken. It is impossible for one human being, regardless of his moral righteousness, his intellectual capacity, or his financial status, to determine what is good for another person. The fact that two persons are alike either emotionally, mentally, or in physical makeup is a truth so obvious as to be generally overlooked in daily living. The fact that Mayor Kelly thought the play immoral when thousands of persons over the country have praised it, is eloquent proof of the impossibility of censorship.

It is a truism to say that morals are a product of the times. What is considered moral in one generation is branded as immoral in succeeding generations and vice versa. Yet the censor forgets this obvious fact when he assumes that it is impossible and worthwhile to separate the good from the bad.

It is doubtful if there is anything about which there is more disagreement than the moral code, so called. Is there any subject about which there is more personal prejudices and piqueheadness than right and wrong? Is there any pseudo public question about which there is more blind thinking and more hypocritical propaganda than morals? Decency can not be defined. It is a matter of human conditioning and perhaps even instinct.

When censorship is actually imposed a ludicrous situation inevitably results. The first effect is to call the attention of persons, moral and immoral, to the censored play or book. Often poorly written and inartistic books are given publicity in this way which the work does not merit. On the other hand, many artistic and significant books are effectively banned.

"Tobacco Road" already has been acclaimed as a great play. Audiences who have viewed it have overlooked the "immoral" part in their appreciation of the play's realistic interpretation of life in an actual section of our country. Must realism and truth be suppressed for a prudish attitude on "decency"? Mr. Kelly appears to think so.

We are apt to think that paid publicity establishes a fact.

None can be happy who cannot overlook temporary defeats.

Wise men never estimate pleasures by their cost price.

When Father Ducks Out for Ducks

If the boss doesn't show up at the office until about lunch time and when he does arrive he has a far away look in his eye, don't worry—it is just the duck season.

There is no accurate way, really, of telling just how many homes are broken up, family routines upset, and office systems dislocated by the duck shooting season.

When the smell of fall gets in the air and at night you can hear a faint, but persistent honking over town, duck widows and orphans might just as well retire from the field gracefully or become resigned to the inevitable. When father starts oiling up the old shotgun and spends night after night putting a shine on the barrel and peering through the sights, then it is time for the rest of the family to get organized for the annual hunting clothes search. Woe be unto the wife who so thoughtlessly gives away those worthless old pants and coats gathering moths in the attic. A true hunter never feels right until his outfit has seen 10 or 15 seasons.

A big executive may find it difficult to sit still for 15 minutes in his well heated office, but during these days he'll sit like a Moses in the bullrushes for four or five hours without a murmur.

Yes, duck hunting is great sport for everybody but the wives, children, and the ducks. Anybody want to buy a duck?

Silence is sometimes the masquerade of ignorance.

Prejudices are the millstones about the neck of justice.

Great hearts alone can appreciate the glory of the commonplace.

Pull Up Your Collar

If you have a racoon coat in storage back home some place, this winter would be an appropriate time to get it out.

According to all predictions, this winter is going to be a hard one. The prevailing brisk weather, the honking of wild geese migrating southward, and the unusually heavy skins of tiny woodland beasts this season are all undeniable evidence that we'll all be getting out our snow suits and winter clothing.

The greatest enemy a man can have is prosperity he has not earned.

Most men are religious when they get into a tight place.

Let us never confuse possessions with riches.

What Others Think

The following is from Roy A. Jarnagin's column in The Peterson Patriot of which he is publisher. Mr. Jarnagin was in Iowa City for the Iowa-Colgate game.

"We found the fraternity house at Iowa City a very pleasant place. The boys are a nice, clean set who enjoy their leisure moments but who work hard when it is time to work. There was little or no drinking in Iowa City during or after the game. The streets of Iowa City Saturday night were as quiet and decorous as the streets of Peterson on any Saturday night. To be sure everybody was happy over the game but they were quiet and orderly about it. The Sigma Nu house Saturday night was as quiet as our little home on Nob Hill. Our observation, after spending three nights at perhaps the largest fraternity house in Iowa City, is that all this talk of boozing and drinking at the university is all bunk. What there is of it and what there is bound to be at the Homecoming Nov. 9, will be done almost entirely by alumni and visitors to the game from out of town. Of the 48 boys at the Sigma Nu house there was not a single rounthead in the crowd. We have never seen a group of young men anywhere with which we had rather intrust the well-being of our only son."

Off The Record

The Roosevelt prediction for a given course is amusingly illustrated in a story about the president's handsome mother, Mrs. James Roosevelt.

She was late in catching the homeward bound boat at Cherbourg one year. The boat had left when she reached the dock. She could have waited for the next one. Instead she hired a tug, caught the steamer and clambered happily up the side on a rope ladder. She was then 70 years old.

Washington antiquarians are tantalized by the fact there is a rock in the city which came originally from Solomon's temple, but which now is an unidentified block in the huge state, war and navy building.

The war department has all the records on its arrival, but there is no record as to where the stone masons finally lodged it in constructing the walls.

The story illustrates why guards at the interior building swear by their chief, Secretary Ickes. A taxi pulled up one Sunday afternoon and a man with a portfolio demanded entrance at a closed door.

"Sorry, sir. Not open today. Use the center entrance," said the guard. "Why, do you know who I am?"

Representative Percy L. Gassaway of Oklahoma—be of the high-heeled boots—may be 50 years old, but that means nothing, or at least very little, to him. He still breaks in the more obstreperous broncos on his famous TX ranch near Coalate in Oklahoma's coal country. Washington hears that the congressman's favorite is an unruly outlaw named "Cap" that throws everyone except Gassaway.

Blustered the man. "I'm a congressman." "Sorry." "Well, I'll certainly tell you boss."

For an hour the guard quaked. The congressman came back to say, "Your boss backed you up. He said rules are rules, and he was glad to hear you didn't break them."

Senator Theodore Bilbo of Mississippi found himself agreed on a state issue with one of his old-time political enemies, Fred Sullens of Jackson. Their side of the argument was victorious and Bilbo received a box from Sullens. It contained a pair of elaborate suspenders in bright red—Bilbo's favorite color.

Three divisions of poetry will be used in the recitations, those divisions being didactic, in which a moral is taught, humorous, and dramatic.

12 to Finals

It is hoped that 12 students will be entered in the finals, which will be presided over by two judges to be selected later.

Winners of the first round of the humorous poetry division were announced yesterday. They were James McGreevey, Eldon Parizek, Patty Thompson, Ina Mae Hornbeck, Arlo Rogers, Barbara Holt, Arlene Riecke, Josephine Sidwell, Robert Ivie, Dorothy Zager, Dale Eymann, Marion James, Ruth Lillick, and Betty Martin. First rounds in the other two divisions have not yet been completed.

The poetry writing contest is sponsored by the English department, and marks the inception of an experiment in which students in that department will be given a chance to display their talents for original verses.

A New Yorker At Large

By JAMES B. RESTON NEW YORK—Even J. P. Morgan has fallen in his attempt to fashion an exclusive residential district in the heart of Manhattan. There's more equality than quality on "Quality Hill," that stuffy, pretentious quarter in the Thirties between Fifth and Park avenues.

Years ago when the business center of the island started moving uptown, the Morgans bought up as much property as they could get on that gentle slope between the great avenues. And though the Morgans still hold many of the substantial brownstone houses in the district, it seems there are others who have not been so successful as J. P., and these have rented their establishments to the highest bidders.

The highest bidders, unfortunately, have been restaurant owners, who have placed gaudy neon signs above the doors and novelties atmosphere and bad food at extortionate prices.

No building in the section, for even the stately Morgan library, seems quite so interesting as Mrs. Rogers Bacon's at No. 5 Park avenue. Fourth avenue becomes Park avenue at Thirty-second street for no apparent reason, and in the days when addresses were more important than they are today, the Bacon mansion was No. 1 Park.

Then one day someone decreed that Park avenue should start farther down the street and No. 1 became No. 5. Mrs. Bacon, wife of a former U.S. ambassador to France, considered this an insult and took the case in court, but though the old address was reinstated for a time, I see a rather red brick porch today.

Stuart Chase has become one of the town's most popular after-dinner speakers, and this is strange in a town where the theories of economists have cost countless millions.

In the summer it is almost impossible to get him away from his picturesque barn in Redding, Conn., but he will listen to reason the rest of the year. A quiet, deeply-tanned, sager little man of 47, he is one of the few economists in the city who can make Wall street listen.

Personally, he is one of our most fascinating individuals. He has been nursing a great hate for New York for years and says he comes in only as a sort of punishment for being happy all day long in the country. Out there, he has 14 men servants who handle all the work on his estate.

Screen Life

By HUBBARD KEAVY HOLLYWOOD—Real and unreal: "Most men think acting is 'sissy' work, but the women—say, they just about lose their minds when you mention a movie test." ... This, from Oscar Serlin, who has been a roving talent scout for Paramount for the last two years. ... He says it's no trouble at all to get a girl to pose for the camera, but eight out of 10 men become so self-conscious that even if they have talent, it doesn't show up. ... Serlin has interviewed 50,000 potential movie stars, but he has taken tests of only 100 of these. ... "Talking to a person brings out their 'screen personality,' if any," he says. ...

Out of 100 film tests, Serlin has sent 25 persons to Hollywood. ... These include Bette Davis, Lyle Talbot, Fred MacMurray, Joe Morrison, Lanny Ross and the late Dorothy Dell. ... Serlin makes pretty sure a candidate has something before he takes a test. ... They cost $1,000 each. ...

Flying Insurance Stars who fly now are buying insurance for the duration of the flight. ... Gladys Swarthout, going to Arizona for a week end, bought a $200,000 time-of-flight policy. ... The premium was a mere $600. ... And Gail Patrick, who is taking flying lessons, pays $500 a year for $100,000 worth of flying insurance. ... Tests are being made for minor roles in "The Green Pastures." ... Paul Robeson is being considered for the role of De Lawd, although movie player Clarence Muse is on the ground and may get it. ...

Francis Schide has been a "boom boy" for years. ... Well, ever since talkies advented. ... He controls the microphone, swinging it around on a boom so that it always is over the head of the player who is talking. ... The other day, an actor who looked like an Arizona telephone lineman was needed for a scene in "The Petrified Forest." ... None of them pleased Director Archie Mayo, who has this about Arizona filmmen: ... The usual P. S. at this point. ...

Holmes' Italian Film Phillips Holmes is back from Italy where he did what amounted to a command performance for Mussolini. ... He appeared in the Italian-made film "The Divine Spark." ... His next role here will be opposite Anne Shirley in "Chatterbox," in which he will be seen as an actor. ...

BITS ABOUT SPORTS

by Art Snider

A TALENTED kicker is of end- less value to a football team. His efforts can either win or lose a game. Bob Zupke believes that his accomplishments count 50 per cent toward a victory or defeat.

Kicking may decide the Illinois-Iowa game Saturday. Both teams have talented kickers—Crayne, of course, for Iowa and Les Lindberg, the "flying Swede" of Illinois. Although not a distance kicker, Lindberg is consistent, continually placing balls in coffin corners, much to the consternation of opponents.

Crayne is the best kicker Iowa has had in 10 years and is ranked along with Lindberg as the two ablest booters in the conference, despite the fact that Lindberg had little luck in yesterday's practice at Illinois. When Lindberg is out of the game, Ken Nelson, an end, kicks for Illinois. He performed effectively against the Trojans of Southern California while Lindberg sat on the bench.

ANOTHER phase of kicking, A place-kicking, finds Iowa weak. Only four points have been added after the 13 touchdowns scored this season. Bush Lamb, who is without an equal during practice, but poor in a game, is about the best in the squad, although Dick Crayne ranks close to him.

Points after touchdowns have won numerous games for many teams. Irving Nelson's kick won for Iowa over Minnesota in 1929; Paul Pardonner, who missed only four in 50 attempts, won several games for Purdue during his college career; Manders, formerly of Minnesota and now of the Chicago Bears, has brought a number of victories to the pro team by means of his toe.

Solem is still searching for a capable place-kicker. Failure to uncover one may cost Iowa a ball game this season.

In a radio interview with Frank Jaffe over the Iowa broadcasting system last night, Ossie Solem said "I have no convictions on the outcome of the Illinois game. We'll do all we can."

Here are some other statements made by the Hawkeye coach during the interview: "The Illinois line will average more than reports say they do. They have to be big or Zup wouldn't have them in there. Illinois is the fastest team in the country. Spurgeon and Lindberg are two classy backs and they have speedy interference that can stay out in front of them. Crayne, Bowlin, Haltom and Richards are all in bad condition. Crayne seems to have that ill-fortune that strikes a player in his last year, especially when he is captain. The three outstanding teams in the country are to be found in the Big Ten. Purdue is one of them. Indiana plays Ohio State Saturday. I've always said to watch the Hoosiers. They're going to knock someone off."

And Eddie Lynch — "Iowa's line is improving each week. Colgate's line was not up to the Big Ten standard. Reserves are good as far as they go but they are not as plentiful as in other conference schools. Iowa's line will outweigh Illinois some. The big Illinois men are on the bench because the present players are better. Iowa will not be weakened to any great extent if reserve ends are sent in."

The team leaves tomorrow morning at 9 o'clock. How about a rousing send-off?

Inter-Frat. Track Meet To Begin Tuesday

The first fall inter-fraternity track meet will be held next Tuesday and Thursday afternoons on the track west of the fieldhouse.

The first event will take place at 4:30. In case of bad weather the meet will be held in the fieldhouse.

Phi Delta Theta, the champions of last year's spring track meet, is the favorite, along with Delta Tau Delta and Delta Chi, second and third place teams.

Dick Bowlin, Phi Delta, and John Hild and Bob Lannon, both of Delta Chi, heavy scorers in the last meet, will be unable to defend their championships, being ineligible because of their activity on the football team.

Interest in this meet is high because of the excellent records that have been set in past inter-fraternity track competition.

HAWKS MAY SPRING AERIAL ATTACK

WIB HENRY TO KEN NELSON

U. Hi Prepares Pass Defense

Rivermen Will Strive For Fifth Victory Against Mt. Vernon

One of the hardest all around workouts of the year was the day's order as the University high football men passed, punted, blocked, and tackled their way to even better condition for their game at Mt. Vernon Friday afternoon. Expecting one of the hardest games of the year from Coach Leonard's aggregation, Kistler is leaving nothing undone as he drives his boys through the toughest week they have undergone this year.

After a snappy signal drill the Rivermen began their tolls in earnest when they split the teams and ran plays against each other. Near game spirit marked the entire scrimmage with the players running and hitting as though the inter-squad squabble were a blood contest.

Injuries which at first bid fair to ruin all the River school's prospects have entirely disappeared and Coach Kistler finds himself able to place a team on the field second to none he has had in several years. Contrary to the usual habit of football teams who take their victory too much to heart and decline after a few wins, the University high gridders are taking no chances by loafing on the job.

Mt. Vernon, with Head Mentor Leonard anxious to make a good impression this year, presents what Kistler considers his greatest ob-

25 Freshman Swimmers Awarded Special Haircuts

Twenty-five freshman swimmers hurried to the barber shop with a great deal of pride yesterday afternoon.

Not that getting a haircut is anything to be proud of, but when it is a "swimmer's special pompadour haircut," that's another story. It all started Tuesday afternoon, when Coach Dave Armbruster proposed that the most promising members of the frosh tank squad should be recognized in some way. Copying after the system now in use in a number of eastern universities, he urged that they submit themselves to a special type of haircut. The proposition was well received, and Illinois' passing combination, Wib Henry to Ken Nelson, is expected to provide plenty of trouble for Iowa when the two teams meet Saturday at Champaign. It was this duo which almost single-handedly whipped Southern California two weeks ago. Henry, a 185 pounder, is considered the equal of Jack Beynon, Illini pass-thrower last year. Nelson (lower left) is an end and weighs 179 pounds.

stails in the Eastern Iowa league championship climb. They claim the fastest back in the conference in Travis and also one of the best passing attacks, all of which is worrying the University high coach no end. After scouting their last week's game he seems quite willing to admit all points.

Friday's game at Mt. Vernon commencing at 2 o'clock, will be the Blue-clad's fifth clash of the season. All of the meetings have resulted in overwhelming wins for the Kistlerites with Monticello, the only team to cross the paystripe for a touchdown. Last year University high bowed to Mt. Vernon by a 13 to 7 count.

the squad was unanimous in adopting the plan. Armbruster selected 25 men for the distinction but impressed the others with the fact that improvement will assure them a place among the select. Those named were: Alsop, Collins, Edgar, Falk, Faust, Glenn, George, Gerber, Johann, Kershaw, Kaye, Lowry, McCullough, Meacham, Malinosky, Nolan, Parsons, Reich, Spratt, Sunstrom, Tennes, Trewin, Walker, Wilson and Yelland. The group discussed plans for purchasing colored skull caps to be worn until the hair becomes accustomed to its new position.

Bad Year for Football Stars

Five Major Teams Feel Sting of Old Man Injury

By HERBERT BARKER (Associated Press Sports Writer)

NEW YORK, Oct. 23—This football season, already notable for the awesome headache it has given the experts, likewise threatens to set a new high for removing star athletes from the scene of gridiron conflict via the ineligibility or injury route.

By a strange coincidence, these twin coaching nightmares have taken no fewer than five captains of top-ranking teams—Glenn Seidel, Minnesota quarterback; Bob Haley, Harvard quarterback; Ed Skoroski of Purdue, Jim Russell of Temple, and Joe O'Brien of Boston college. Long before the season opened, Notre Dame lost her 1935 captain through the death, from a blood stream infection, of Joe Sullivan.

Harvard loses Haley Haley fell foul of Harvard's rigid eligibility standards and was declared athletically null and void for violation of the rule forbidding acceptance of "outside assistance." Skoroski, one of the Big Ten's finest centers, was declared ineligible after it had been shown he played at Georgetown university before transferring to the Indiana school. O'Brien, whose Boston college Eagles sprang the biggest upset of the season in whipping Michigan State last week, was so badly injured in an automobile accident during the summer that he did not even participate in scrimmage this season until yesterday. Russell, a tower of strength in the Temple line, probably will be out of the game for two or three weeks as a result of the beating he took in the Carnegie Tech game last Saturday. He is suffering from badly strained muscles of the spinal column.

Seidel Out Seidel, field general of Minnesota's powerful Gophers, suffered a fractured collar-bone in the Tulane game and probably will play no more college football.

Seidel's injury, incidentally, calls attention to the tremendous losses the Gophers have suffered since they rang down the curtain on an undefeated season last year. Big Ten eligibility rules cost Bernie Bierman the services of Stan Kostka, Bill Bevan, George Svendsen and Art Clarkson. Jules Alfonso, another ace of the 1934 Minnesota action, recently was bowled out of play by scholastic deficiencies. Even without these five stars the Gophers have galloped right along but Bierman now will be hard-pressed to find an adequate substitute for Seidel.

Sniscak Dismissed In the south, John Sniscak, North Carolina guard, was dismissed from school after it had been discovered he previously had played for Catholic university. William Andorka and Albert Farrell were declared ineligible at Maryland after Sniscak had informed a Washington newspaper that Andorka previously had played at Fordham and Farrell at West Liberty (W.Va.) Teachers' college.

Crayne, Lamb Simmons Toss To Flankmen

Old Gold Eleven to Use Many Passes; Dick Bowlin, Haltom Out

With Capt. Dick Crayne, Oze Simmons and Bush Lamb pitching footballs all about the practice field yesterday to Homer Harris and Bob Lannon, the ends, indications are that the Iowa football team will be set to launch a strong aerial attack against Illinois Saturday at Champaign in the opening conference clash for both aggregations. The varsity enjoyed considerable success against the reserves and a freshman outfit, completing more than half of their tosses for substantial gains.

Varied Onslaught It is likely that the Hawkeyes will employ a varied onslaught against the Illini, mixing passes in liberally with their running game to keep the opposing defense spread.

Although excusing the first team from heavy work, Solem drove reserves against the yearlings in a hard scrimmage in which the varsity completely smothered the pseudo-Illini attack. The famed "tea-flicker," "grapefruit shift" and "razzle-dazzle" were used but with little effect.

Bowlin Still Out The squad was still partially depleted because of the injuries to Dick Bowlin, "Skeets" Haltom, Crayne and Joe Richards. Bowlin, his arm in a sling, attended the practice dressed in street clothing, as did Haltom. Richards was in uniform but took no part in the workout, while Crayne, still limping, engaged in only the passing drill. All four will be taken to Champaign.

Today the Hawkeyes will take their final home workout, which will probably be a light dummy scrimmage and signal drill. At 9:06 a.m. Friday, a squad of 33 players will enroute for Chicago, work out there in the afternoon, then proceed to headquarters at Danville, 35 miles from the scene of battle, where they will spend Friday night and most of Saturday morning.

Starting Lineup The starting lineup will probably find Lannon and Harris at ends; Walker and Leytze at tackles; Seel and McDowell at guards; Osmaloski at center; Lamb, quarterback; Akin and Crayne, halfbacks, and Simmons, fullback.

Thirty-one players have been picked for the trip, with two others to be added later. This is the squad list:

Ends — Robert Lannon, Wayne Masou, Frank Jakoubek, Homer Harris, Don Simmons and Gordon Matson.

Tackles — Corney Walker, Rudy Leytze, Eugene Liggett, Frank Gallagher, and Floyd DeHeer.

Guards — Bill Seel, Jim Kelley, Don Nelson, Jack Gallagher, and Floyd McDowell.

Centers — Ted Osmaloski, Dick Anderson, and Fred Lindenmeyer.

Quarterbacks — Bush Lamb, Dick Bowlin, Joe Richards, and Warren Haltom.

Halfbacks — Capt. Dick Crayne, Dwight Hoover, Paul Akin, Sheldon Gordinier, Scott Wagler, and John Hild.

Fullbacks — Oze Simmons and Shipley Farroh.

Illini Work Tricky Pass Plays, Laterals

CHAMPAIGN, Ill., Oct. 23 (AP)—Drilling in the coldest weather of the season so far, the Illinois football team went through a two and one-half hour workout today for the Iowa invasion. Coach Bob Zupke put two varsity elevens through a lengthy dummy scrimmage in which the regulars worked tricky pass plays and runs to near perfection.

Wib Henry, quarterback, threw eight out of 12 complete forward passes at the end of plays involving several laterals and much backfield ball handling. Jewett Cole and Bob Geieve, pony halfbacks, played on the first team while Les Lindberg, still recovering from a broken foot bone, was moved to the second squad where he had mediocre success in punting. Lowell Spurgeon also was at halfback on the second team.

Chattanooga Times Says Dana Bible Will Go to Tennessee U.

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., Oct. 23 (AP)—The Chattanooga Times will say tomorrow that Dana X. Bible, now coach at the University of Nebraska, is likely to succeed Major Bill Britton as University of Tennessee football coach unless Major Bob Neyland is signed soon. Bible, the story says, "is firmly backed by certain influential members of the athletic council, headed by N. W. Daugherty."

Little Hawks Celebrate For Homecoming

Tomorrow night is the big night of the season for City high fans. The big Red and White aggregation meets Dubuque on Shraeder field in their annual Homecoming classic. Last year Dubuque marred a perfect Hawkiet record by eking out a close 7 to 6 win at Dubuque. This year the Little Hawks enter the game with another spotless record of six victories and they are determined to keep it intact before a throng that may number upwards of 4,000 people.

At this time it is expected that all men will be ready for the contest, although some may not be in tip-top shape. Chuck Snider's knee is still bruised, and Alvin Miller's knee is still far from perfect.

Prolonged signal drill was meted out yesterday, scrimmage being reserved mostly for the second and third teams. Blocking, a factor that was missing to some extent in the Franklin game, was stressed and one new play was introduced. Ross resumed his old place at tailback, but his brief tenure in the line was no mere flight of Coach Cormack's fancy. Ross can still be moved forward to bolster up the line.

Dubuque served as Homecoming guest two years ago, and a great pep meeting is planned tonight to spur the locals on to victory. This afternoon, immediately after school dismissal, a big victory parade will commence at the high school. The march will continue after supper and wind up at Shraeder bowl, where a huge pile of boxes is ready for a blaze.

Track Meet Reaches Finals

Cretzmeyer Favored To Annex Honors In S. U. I. Classic

Hostilities will begin again this afternoon as the final seven events on the all-university track and field championships will be run off on Jessup field.

Francis Cretzmeyer, who piled up 18 points in the first half of the meet Tuesday, is again the top-heavy favorite to annex scoring honors. He is expected to capture first in the 110 yard low hurdles, the high jump, the discus throw and the running broad jump.

Ernie Grosser and Rhea Flambeau, who won the 300 yard dash and the 50 yard dash, respectively, in the inter-class track and field meet last week are expected to repeat their triumphs this afternoon, but their chances are less certain than Cretzmeyer's.

The following are the events and the contestants who are to participate:

110 yard low hurdles—Francis Cretzmeyer, Ray Latham and Bob Waples.

50 yard dash—Rhea Flambeau, Ernie Grosser, Francis Cretzmeyer, Bud Saunders, Pete Paschal, Ed Wiggins and Lester Mellin.

300 yard dash—Bud Saunders, Phil Spencer, Ernie Grosser, Milton Billig and Wayne Hicks.

Pole vault—Cecil Withem, Roy Scheibel and Ed Walker.

High jump—Roy Scheibel, Francis Cretzmeyer, Ray Latham and John Graves.

Running broad jump—Francis Cretzmeyer, Rhea Flambeau, Ed Wiggins and John Graves.

Discus—Francis Cretzmeyer and Ed Thompson.

Freshman Gridders Again Scrimmage Against Hawkeyes

First and second string freshman footballers went to the varsity practice field yesterday to produce the Illinois defense in dummy scrimmage against the varsity squad. This was the third consecutive day in which the freshmen have been pitted against the Hawkeyes.

"Dutch" Schmidt, assistant frosh mentor, spent the afternoon drilling the remainder of the squad on Iowa formations along with a blocking and passing practice.

Keller, Adrian New Captains

Sueppel Welcomed By 21 St. Mary's Aspirants at Drill

"Skip" Adrian, forward, a Jack Keller, guard, have been elected as co-captains of St. Mary's basketball team for the coming year. Both are veterans of last year.

Team cooperation and fund-raising were stressed when Coach Francis Sueppel sent his 21 cage aspirants through a brisk workout. The practices, which have been only six times this season, have formed the nucleus of a well-balanced team.

St. Mary's team, which has made an excellent record in past years, intent on repeating again this season. In 1930 the Marians captured runnerup title in the Stag Public schools tourney held in Chicago. Ambrose of Davenport nosed the out of the state championship 1932. During the last three years Sueppel's aggregations have won out of 47 games. They are one of two schools to compete in the national tournaments held in Chicago.

New Old Gold

Paul Grange of Waterloo is one of the outstanding men who has his application in for the fullback position on the freshman football squad this year. He is 19 years of six feet tall, and weighs 190 pounds.

Grange was a graduate of Waterloo high school at Waterloo in 1931 during which time he was one of the institution's outstanding athletes. He was a major letter man and captain of the football team for two years and a member of the second all-state team in 1934. During his freshman and sophomore years Paul won minor letters in the Mississippi Valley conference.

Grange has made a remarkable record in basketball also. He is captain and played guard on the West high basketball team that defeated in the finals of the state tournament in 1934. He was a former letter winner in this sport as topped it off by securing a membership on the all-state basketball team his last year.

Paul has taken a lesser interest in track. He was out for the pole vault on his high school team, but was forced to give it up after six months.

Revolta Wins P.G.A. Crown By Crushing Armour

Revolta Uses Magic Putter In Golf Finals

Scot Plays Gallantly But Loses 5 and 4 On Youngster's Day

OKLAHOMA CITY, Oct. 23 (AP)—Warted along by a glittering putter touched with magic, Johnny Revolta, black-haired Milwaukee youngster, today soared to the golfing heights of the P.G.A. National tournament with a crushing 5 and 4 victory over the veteran Tommy Armour of Medinah, Ill.

Over a course swept by frigid blasts from the northland, the 24-year-old Wisconsin player parred and birdied his way to end the gallant stand of the phlegmatic "Black Scot," who in his 40 years has won every major tournament a professional can win, and who today was bidding for his second P.G.A. crown.

Armour Is Good

It wasn't so much poor marksmanship on the part of Armour that brought his defeat. He went around in 75 this morning and was out in 37 this afternoon.

It was the steady sharpshooting of the Wisconsin lad with the Lincoln profile, combined with work on and around the greens that at times had an estimated gallery of 7,500 peep-eyed with amazement.

Revolta was even with a par through 27 holes. He went two over on the thirty-first to end the match that much over par figures.

He didn't three-putt a green, and one-putted 13.

Not Armour's Day

In contrast to that exhibition, Armour frequently was in trouble on his wood shots, and, as putter after putt failed to drop the old campaigner realized it wasn't his day.

Crouching down to get a line on a 15 footer, he mumbled: "I can't do it, but I'll try."

That it was Revolta's day appeared evident from the outset. Johnny birdied the first hole, and from that point on he pitched strikes, with the slouching, matter-of-fact Armour riding along behind. The "Black Scot" never so much as squared the match, and the sub-par 33 fired at him on the first nine left him three down.

Four Up at Lunch

Revolta slipped to a 37 coming home on the morning tour, but Armour had a 38, and they went to lunch, together, with the Milwaukee youngster four up.

Armour parred the first seven holes of the afternoon round, but went down one more hole in doing so. He won the nineteenth, only to have the sturdy youngster snipe at him with birdies on the twenty-second and twenty-third, both one putt greens.

Only a Question of Time

When they finished the twenty-seventh with Revolta six up, it was just a matter of how long it would last. The venerable Scot had been in tough spots before, but he never was six down at a 27 to a player as hot as Revolta was today.

Unperturbed, Armour matched his youthful rival par for par on the first three holes of the inside nine. He won the thirty-first when Johnny took his second six of the day, but when Revolta put his tee shot on the short thirty-second 10 feet from the pin, he knew it was the end.

Armour Outdrives Revolta

Armour outdrove Revolta consistently throughout the match, but the Milwaukee lad was the master on other shots. His pitches were accurate. His recoveries, on the rare occasions he was in trouble, were masterpieces.

It was Armour who, three years ago, at Boca Raton, Fla., told Revolta:

"Son, if you ever get your putting down you'll be a winner."

Revolta today admitted he was putting normally.

"I had the touch," he explained briefly.

No Sensational Play

Today's match was devoid of sensational play, aside from the continual, rippling sparkle of Revolta's work about the greens. The vaunt stand of Armour brought forth audible support of the gallery, not for any dislike of the genial Revolta, but because the stand of a veteran campaigner always makes the heart pump with sympathy.

Despite reported indifference, probably to influence the price, the Boston Red Sox want, and will get, Jimmie Foxx before the 1936 season starts.

NUMBER ELEVEN

taining a broken arm shortly after the season started. For light athletic amusement he plays tennis, kitenball and golf and has done some boxing and swimming.

Although Grange did not report for football until the season was well under way, he is rapidly advancing and showing himself to be the combination of speed and power.

Simmons Admits He's "Kinda Tricky"

CHAMPAIGN, Ill., Oct. 23 (AP)—They say that Oze Simmons, Iowa's fleet-footed Negro halfback, is modest and reticent but that he does admit he is "kinda tricky" on the gridiron.

This "tricky" business is just what is worrying Bob Zuppke as they administer the final polish to the Illini in preparation for the invasion of a powerful Iowa football team that tasted an impressive victory over Andy Kerr's Red Raiders from Colgate and found it so sweet that they hanker after a triumph over Illinoi.

Conceded He Was "Tricky"

Oze was putting it mildly when he conceded that he was "tricky," for against Colgate with the Hawkeyes trailing 6 to 0 and two minutes of the first half to play, he took a lateral pass from a teammate while racing at full speed twisted and squirmed out of the clutches of four Colgate players at the sidelines and ran 63 yards for a touchdown.

A performance like this Saturday might well spell doom for the Illini and that is why all week Zuppke has been striving to build up a defense for the agile Negro. Leo Stasica, fast freshman from Rockford, was being impersonating him, as Coach Doug Mills' freshmen pound away at the varsity with Hawkeye strategies.

Can Do Unexpected

But it is hard to prepare against the attacks of a halfback who is likely to defy all the tenets of the gridiron game and get away with it. Equipped with dazzling speed and hip action that is highly reminiscent, to say the least, of the master back, Red Grange, Oze can do the unexpected.

"Once past the line of scrimmage, the 20-year-old Texas Negro becomes a swifthing, dancing, whirling master of gridiron footwork," writes Eric Wilson of Iowa. "His undulating progress down the field becomes a series of hair-breadth escapes. Often he seems cornered by tacklers but as he swings along he stops deadstill, gives a flip of his hips, and a few mencing steps or a quick flurry of side-slipping hops, and is off full stride in an opposite direction."

Holds Ball in One Hand

"The colored lad often holds the ball in one huge hand," Wilson continues. "He waves it to the front and side, almost in the face of the tackler. But that isn't bravado. He says the motions help him to retain his balance for the stops, starts, sways and sprints. And he hasn't fumbled yet in 1935."

Starts Like House Afire

Oze started out last season as a sophomore like a house afire. Against Northwestern he tore off 166 yards in 24 trials from scrimmage, 124 yards returning seven punts and 19 yards bringing back one kickoff. He was hailed as a second Grange, which is a heavy burden to carry. Then Iowa's best blockers were crippled and Oze himself injured. He did not come back until the last game, against Ohio State, when he raced 85 yards with an intercepted pass for a touchdown. All season in spite of all his bad luck he averaged 5.1

yards each time he took the ball. Exploits Remove Doubt

They weren't so sure about Oze when the season started but his exploits against Colgate have removed all doubt. Against South Dakota previously he had returned a punt 51 yards for a touchdown, made another by a 60 yard run after receiving a lateral and blocked and tackled like a demon.

On top of his long run for a touchdown on Colgate, Simmons showed his line smashing ability when he plunged from the one-yard line for the Hawkeye's winning score. In 20 trials he gained 120 yards from scrimmage and was a factor in breaking up Colgate's passes.

Star in Texas

Oze weighs 180 pounds, 10 more than he did a year ago and stands 5 feet 11. He will be 21 years old next June. At Terrill high school in Ft. Worth, Tex., he won 11 letters in four sports, football, basketball, baseball and track. He was state Negro 100-yard champion in 1933. The fact that Gordon Negro jump star, was a student at Iowa, is said to have turned the thoughts of Oze and his brother, Don a reserve end, to Iowa.

"The game struggle of Oze and his brother against scholastic odds is a story of dogged perseverance," Eric Wilson writes. "Their high school preparation was none too solid but they stuck at it, although they had to attend summer school to become eligible. Their work improved until last year they were doing above average work in all their subjects."

Interest at Peak

Interest in the battle with the Hawkeyes is at white-heat. The game is universally considered to be the headline in the middle west this week and the leading sports writers from Chicago and other cities are picking it out for their weekly pilgrimage. Several sound news reels will cover the game, which will be broadcast by six radio stations, the largest number that ever put any Illinois home game on the air.

One of the heaviest "gate" sales in history is expected Saturday, so Manager C. E. Bowen is increasing the number of ticket booths in order that patrons may be handled expeditiously.

side, almost in the face of the tackler. But that isn't bravado. He says the motions help him to retain his balance for the stops, starts, sways and sprints. And he hasn't fumbled yet in 1935."

Coach Mills, who has brought first-hand reports of the uncanny ability of the Hawkeye halfback to Bob Zuppke, says that Oze in addition to all his other talents has the best stiff arm in warding off tacklers that he has ever seen.

Oze started out last season as a sophomore like a house afire. Against Northwestern he tore off 166 yards in 24 trials from scrimmage, 124 yards returning seven punts and 19 yards bringing back one kickoff. Bucks Taper Off

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Oct. 23 (AP)—The Ohio State football squad sought to improve itself today on both offense and defense.

It practiced throwing forward and lateral passes, intricate off-tackle and other line plays. The varsity also watched freshmen demonstrate the plays of Indiana, which the Bucks meet Saturday.

Badgers Show Speed

MADISON, Wis., Oct. 23 (AP)—The University of Wisconsin varsity showed speed and class today in a stiff scrimmage with freshmen using Chicago plays.

Tony Popp, Appleton sophomore, played sparkling defensive ball in the backfield, while the entire first squad showed marked improvement in pass defense, the weakest spot heretofore. Coach C. W. Spears used two full teams in the defensive drill and only three passes were completed, those for short gains.

EVANSTON, Ill., Oct. 23 (AP)—Ohio State beat Northwestern but the Buckeyes didn't take any fight out of the Wildcats. In a long defensive scrimmage tonight against Minnesota plays, the Wildcats showed more determination and fight than they have all season.

CHICAGO, Oct. 23 (AP)—Chicago's Maroons went through a long defensive scrimmage today against Wisconsin passes with results that failed to cheer Coach Clark Shaughnessy. After watching movies of the Purdue game, Shaughnessy replaced Clarence Wright at right tackle with Earl Sappington, who came up from the second squad. The only casualty in the Chicago camp was Harmon Meigs, right guard, who suffered a leg injury.

Harrier Squad Has Last Drill For Saturday

Coach George T. Bresnahan sent varsity harriers through a moderate workout yesterday on the track at Jessup field and then excused them from further practice for the remainder of the week.

Capt. Ray Pratt, Bob Nelson, Dick Beebe, John Sitko, James Lyle and Paul Nelson accompanied by Coaches George T. Bresnahan and Ted Swenson, will leave Friday morning to engage the powerful Illini combination at Urbana Saturday.

Max Wisgerhof and Bob McElroy, varsity "I" men will not compete this year because of jobs which interfere with practice. Ed Hass, another varsity "I" man, has had scholastic difficulties, as has Bud Saunders, freshman numeral man of last year.

To offset these losses, Coach Bresnahan has Bob Nelson, Dick Beebe and Jim Lyle. These men have had plenty of high school competition and will do much to make Coach Bresnahan forget his lost lettermen.

For the first time in years, not a big league manager will not be deposited this winter. Good bad or indifferent, all 16 of them are safe for another campaign.

It this evening, and will move on to Kalona Friday night.

If Delaney is able to participate the South-Siders should put up a good battle, for the men of Kalona haven't been much more successful than the Shamrocks in games won.

The 10 men were drilled on the forward passing game, and Father Ryan was still searching for a punter. Dumphy, who was in civilian clothes during the St. Joseph game, put in his appearance yesterday for the first time in a week. The Shamrock punter demonstrated that he has not lost his kicking ability during his self-inflicted absence.

The Irish will conclude their training sessions for the Kalona

Ed Thompson Javelin Winner

Boettcher, Alexander Follow Thompson In Rotary Throw

Ed Thompson walked off with the trophy yesterday at the annual Rotary club javelin throw held on Jessup field. Although he had never thrown the spear before the inter-class meet of last week, Thompson has improved rapidly under the direction of Coach Ted Swenson.

Thompson's throw of 137 feet 6 inches was just ahead of Herb Boettcher's mark of 137 feet 7 inches.

Jack Alexander grabbed third place with his fling of 135 feet 10 inches, while Rhea Flambeau stole fourth position with a distance of 118 feet.

Thompson will receive the traveling trophy and Boettcher and Alexander will be given medals.

MAKE MOVE TO OPPOSE OLYMPIC GAMES BOYCOTT

NEW YORK, Oct. 23 (AP)—Developments today indicated a concerted effort now is under way to counter act or challenge the movement for an American boycott of the 1936 Olympic games in Berlin.

At Niagara Falls, the national physical education committee of the Y.M.C.A. unanimously adopted a resolution favoring American participation in the Olympics after hearing the first-hand reports on conditions in Germany.

In New York, Brig. Gen. Charles H. Sherrill, one of the three American members of the international Olympic committee, who has just returned from a visit to Germany, put himself formally on record as opposed to the boycott and insisted Germany has fulfilled its Olympic obligations.

Meanwhile the New York Athletic club, one of the most influential athletic groups in the country, announced through President William A. Dalton that it will conduct an Olympic games tour to Berlin next summer. Plans contemplate handling a party of 50 members, with their families and friends.

In Chicago, it was understood Avery Brundage, president of the American Olympic committee, planned to make a sweeping reply shortly to Olympic critics, including Jeremiah T. Mahoney of New York, president of the Amateur Athletic union.

City High Will Present Play November 6-7

Because of possible conflict with the University of Iowa's annual Homecoming celebration, Iowa City high school's presentation of Tom Sawyer, a play adapted from the book of the same name written by Mark Twain, has been advanced a day.

Originally scheduled for production in the high school auditorium Nov. 7 and 8, the play will be presented instead Nov. 6 and 7.

A large group of students will take part in the actual production. Dramatic classes are now engaged in making costumes for the girl characters, the costumes to be used being copies of those worn in 1875, the year in which the story was written.

Contributions of costumes for the character of Mrs. Polly and other older persons have been made, these costumes being clothes actually worn in the 70's.

Boys in the dramatic class and Dramatic club are building scenery for the play in the attic of the school under direction of Charles Armstrong. They are building scenery for the village street, the school house, and Jackson's island, where the youthful heroes played pranks.

Frank Tallman, who has been active in school productions, has been appointed assistant to Lola Hughes, faculty director. Tallman will act as line reader.
