Haile Selassie Ready to Leave for Front as Bombs Deluge Enderta O'Connor Trial Witness Says It Might Bring Public Ignomy

Natives Rise Against Italy After Attack

Several Killed as Duce Answers Opposition With Air Onslaught

(By The Associated Press) ROME—Italy receives economic sanctions from 51 nations quietly and with flags flying; troops guard foreign embassies. MAKALE—Italian columns seek Ras Seyoum, believed concentrating for major battle; Gen. Emilio de Bono resigns supreme command and starts for Rome. PARIS—French officials admit all peace efforts are temporarily at a standstill. ADDIS ABABA—Ethiopia claims civil population near Makale was bombed and number killed for refusing to furnish food to fascists without payment. LONDON—Prime Minister Baldwin confers on situation with Foreign Secretary Hoare and League Secretary Eden.

ADDIS ABABA, Nov. 18 (AP)—The Ethiopian government said tonight Italian airplanes had bombed the civilian population of Enderta, near Makale, leaving a number of persons dead and wounded.

As Emperor Haile Selassie made ready to depart for the northern front, the government asserted the populace of the northern area around Enderta, which the Italians have occupied, had risen against Italian domination, because of resentment over the bombing.

An official announcement said the refusal of the natives to provide cattle and cereals to the Italians without payment had brought on the bombing.

To The Front Ethiopia's king of kings, said an authoritative source, probably will go to the northern front within 10 days, after which Ethiopia's forces will brace for their first strong opposition to the Italian invasion.

The capital heard other reports, however, that the emperor would depart tonight by automobile. A high authority said Haile Selassie would receive Ras Seyoum, Ras Kassa and Ras Mulugheta, leaders of three Ethiopian armies in the north, beyond Dessye, which is 175 miles northeast of Addis Ababa.

To Review Troops He was expected, this source stated, to review the troops of these three generals, and then move on to the southern front, without visiting the troops of Ras Ayele, operating in Walkait province.

"Real fighting may be expected during the first 10 days of December," said a source close to Haile Selassie. This authority asserted the main Ethiopian armies have not yet met the Italians.

Mussolini Faces Sanctions Today

ROME, Nov. 18 (AP)—Italy went into the economic trenches against 51 nations of the world today with her flags flying.

Troops and police throughout the nation guarded diplomats of countries which put into force economic sanctions last midnight as punishment for Italy's war on Ethiopia. But nowhere was violence reported. Helmeted soldiers were massed on narrow streets, isolating the quarter where the British embassy and consulate are located. Demonstrations had been expected, but there were none.

Authorities pressed a campaign in many forms for Premier Mussolini's "implacable resistance" to sanctions. Women assembled in various towns to discuss how economies should be effected in every home. Big business extended further its daylight schedule of work to save light and gas. Although most electricity is made by waterpower, the government is pushing electrification of railroads to save a tremendous amount of coal, all of which is imported.

2 Italian Columns After Ras Seyoum

MAKALE, Ethiopia, Nov. 18 (AP)—Two fast moving Italian columns began an attempt today to use a "scissors" action on the wily and inquisitive Ras Seyoum, commander of Ethiopia's northern army, and to disperse his followers.

THIRD PARTY PREDICTED BY 1940

Gov. Floyd B. Olson chats with Upton Sinclair. By 1940 a strong third party will be in existence in the United States, Gov. Floyd B. Olson of Minnesota predicted in addressing the American Commonwealth federation in New York. Governor Olson, who is shown above, left, chatting with Upton Sinclair, EPIC leader of California, asserts he believes the collapse of the new deal is "inevitable." The governor, who has announced his candidacy for United States senator from Minnesota on the farmer-labor ticket, visualizes as one of the principal aims of a third party the control of the rate of profit in industry, primarily by government ownership of key industries such as transportation and natural resources.

Worst Autumn Storm in Years Smashes North Atlantic Coast

Towns Flooded, Small Boats Smashed As High Winds Rage

NEW YORK, Nov. 18 (AP)—The worst autumn storm to hit the north Atlantic seaboard in nearly 20 years left extensive damage, snow and ice tonight over an area from Cape Cod to Cape Hatteras. The racing northeast, which blew down upon the east over the week end, moved with diminishing force out to sea today off Nantucket while wreckage-littered coastal communities made repairs and assayed property losses in the millions. Towns Flooded New York, New England, Pennsylvania and New Jersey bore the brunt of storm violence from winter's racing outsider. Whole towns were flooded by high tides along the Long Island and Jersey coast; as much as nine inches of snow fell on upstate New York; flooded ferry terminals crippled New York City's commuter service; 20-foot waves pounded the ice-encrusted snow drifts in Maine; small boats were smashed by wind and wave; several persons were killed.

Small Boats Smashed Three vessels at sea, caught by the raging inshore storm, made shelter Monday after coast guard and ocean shipping went to their assistance. Scores of small boats and pleasure craft were smashed or damaged in the New York area. At Long Beach, N. J., the two old iron steamboats sank at their wharves. Twenty-one sailors of a redonved submarine chaser jumped to safety when it was driven aground at Jamestown, R. I.

Expect Light Money Ruling Tomorrow

City Awaits Court Order On Spending Of Advance PWA Funds

A ruling on the city's request for the modification of an injunction to allow the expenditure of the $28,140 PWA light plant grant may be expected tomorrow, District Judge Harold D. Evans said last night. The modification order was taken under advisement in district court yesterday, following a hearing on the city's motion for modification. The $28,140, first allotment out of $413,000 set aside by the PWA for an Iowa City municipal light plant, cannot be spent until the injunction order, which restrains the city from using any funds other than future earnings or money from sale of revenue bonds to pay light plant bills, is modified.

Pay Engineering The $28,140 check, received by Mayor Thomas E. Martin and kept secret until yesterday, was introduced as evidence that PWA will pay engineering costs for the project. Mayor Martin said he has been holding the PWA money awaiting outcome of yesterday's hearing. The injunction was issued last August upon petition of C. A. Schmidt, J. J. Hanlon, and D. F. Fitzpatrick.

Broader than Intended Speaking as PWA counsel for the city, Attorney H. H. Stipp of Des Moines declared to the court his belief that the injunction issued in August was broader than was intended, since it restrains the city from expending PWA grants which he called "gifts with no strings attached."

City Solicitor Samuel D. Whiting also appeared for the city, while Attorney Wayne Cook of Davenport, Attorneys Dutcher, Walker and Ries, and Attorney Henry Negus represented the plaintiffs and the Iowa City Light and Power company, as intervenor in the action.

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va., Nov. 18 (AP)—To tell how tall small daughter is likely to grow, take her height at the age of seven. If she is tall, then she is likely to be tall as sixteen, when her growth is about complete. If medium at seven, she may always be so. If short then you need not expect a tall daughter.

Japanese Press Predicts Birth Of New Nation in North China

DECLARATION OF NEW NATION "POSTPONED"; Japs Watch Effects

TOKYO, Nov. 18 (Tuesday) (AP)—The declaration of an autonomous north China nation with Japanese protection may be "postponed" until Nov. 23 while leaders of the movement study the reaction of the Chinese government in Nanking, the Rengo (Japanese) news agency announced today. The agency had previously announced the new government would likely be proclaimed Nov. 20. The Japanese press united in predicting the creation of the new nation during the present week. While officials of the Tokyo foreign office were telling the press today that Japan would pursue a "policy of non-intervention" in the present crisis, Japanese dispatches from Peking asserted the prospective north China confederation would "lean heavily on Japanese army support."

Defendant Tells Of Missing Woman In King's Murder

AIX-EN-PROVENCE, France, Nov. 18 (AP)—A mid stormy court-room scenes, M. Krae, one of three Croats brought to trial for aiding the assassination of King Alexander of Yugoslavia, told from the witness stand today how a missing blonde woman and a mysterious "Petar" armed the terrorist band in France. But he insisted he knew nothing of the nature of his "mission" until he left Hungary for France, and declared he fled in horror from Versailles, where the king and Foreign Minister Louis Barthou of France were shot down on Oct. 9, 1934. "Petar"—suspected by prosecutors of being the slippery Dr. Ante Pavelich, accused mastermind of the plot, gave him two bombs and two revolvers, Krae testified. The woman he added, handed him 1,500 francs pocket money.

Doesn't Like Treaty

3 Defendants In Drake Trial Check Action

Selection of Jury For Famous Case May Start Today

CHICAGO, Ill., Nov. 18 (AP)—Three of the 42 defendants in the Sir Francis Drake swindle trial today won preliminary victories against the government and succeeded in keeping out of evidence thousands of dollars seized in raids on their safety deposit boxes. The rulings came from Federal Judge Philip I. Sullivan before a jury was drawn to try the defendants on charges of mail fraud—a fraud which the government charged drew $1,350,000 from the pockets of hundreds of middlewesterners who hoped for 5000 to 1 returns from the booty supposedly left by the sixteenth century sea rover. Otto G. Yant, allegedly one of the principals in the scheme, contended successfully today that his safety deposit box had been opened on a faulty search warrant when some $50,000 in English and American cash was seized.

The same plea was entered by Pearl C. Palmer, Galva, Ill., and a similar ruling suppressing the evidence, was made. Mrs. Minnie Hinz, a Chicago widow, won an order directing postal authorities to restore $21,000 they seized from her vault.

Judge Sullivan ruled there was "no doubt" the money was her own. She claimed the money was cash from insurance policies left by her late husband. No demand was made by Yant, alleged head of the Chicago offices of the group, for return of the funds seized, but Mrs. Palmer wanted her money back, and the court announced it would rule on the request later.

Approximately $110,000 was seized when the government broke up the operations here. Selection of a jury was expected to start tomorrow. Awaiting the trial with the 42 defendants were 220 prosecution witnesses. Assistant United States District Attorney Austin Hall said today they included disappointed "investors," historical and genealogical experts, as well as a Scotland Yard inspector and a London barister wise in the law of Queen Elizabeth's reign.

They will all lend their voice, Hall said, to the government's claim that Sir Francis left nothing richer than some quiet Devonshire pastures. Also present was Oscar Merrill Hartzell, brought under guard from Leavenworth penitentiary, where he was serving a 10 year sentence for allegedly directing the scheme.

Frank Stretz, Vera's father, is at left. With him is Mrs. Adelaide Stretz, his daughter-in-law. Dr. Gebhardt, German economist-financier, was found shot to death in his fashionable New York apartment.

"On to Northwestern" Slogan As Iowans Plan to Attend Game

New Canadian Tariff Evokes Loud Protests

WASHINGTON, Nov. 18 (AP)—Secretary Wallace extolled the new Canadian tariff treaty tonight as foreshadowing both increased exports and greater domestic consumption of American farm products. His formal statement capped a day of grim disagreement over the merits of the pact. There was a flood of statements, so voluminous, and in some cases so bitterly worded, as to evoke predictions the treaty might assume proportions of a 1933 campaign issue.

Increased Payrolls The cabinet officer, who yesterday sat beside Mr. Roosevelt as the president explained the trade agreement to the press, predicted from Leavenworth penitentiary, where he was serving a 10 year sentence for allegedly directing the scheme.

Reaction of American industry varied. Magazine publishers liked the reduction in the Canadian duty on their output, steel makers thought the pact meant little to them and automobile manufacturers congratulated the president. The northern Pacific grain trade thought the pact satisfactory.

From virtually all sectors of Canadian industry and agriculture, came expressions of satisfaction, while in London, official circles greeted word of the pact as "news of great gratification in this country."

Domestic markets found little to influence them on way or the other.

O'Connor Trial Witness Says It Might Bring Public Ignomy

Duckworth Regarded As Key Witness, Young Writer Examined On Witness Stand

SIoux CITY, Ia., Nov. 18 (AP)—Former County Attorney Max Duckworth, second witness for the state in the gambling conspiracy trial of Attorney General Edward L. O'Connor, refused to testify this afternoon on the ground his answers "might incriminate me and hold me up to public ignomy."

Duckworth, who resigned as Woodbury county attorney last May while ouster proceedings were pending against him, followed Lynn Gell, 24-year-old Des Moines free lance writer and first witness for the state, on the witness stand late in the day.

Questions Argued District Judge Earle Peters, who is hearing the case, excused the jury for the day while attorneys argued the legal question as to Duckworth's right to refuse. Attorney George Gorder, representing Duckworth, had not completed presentation of his argument when court adjourned until 9 a.m. tomorrow.

Special Prosecutor H. M. Havner contended that Duckworth waived his rights to refuse to testify when he testified before the Woodbury county grand jury and consequently cannot claim the right now. Gorder contended this would not apply, holding that the waiver must be in the same proceedings.

Key Witnesses Duckworth's name had figured frequently in the investigations made by the Woodbury county "grand" jury which indicted O'Connor and a score of others on charges of conspiracy to permit gambling and the operation of gambling devices.

Duckworth, Gell and several others had been regarded as the state's key witnesses.

The former county attorney first refused to answer when Havner questioned him today as to whether he testified before the May grand jury but Judge Peters overruled his refusal to reply to that question.

"Did you, prior to your appearance before the grand jury, sign an affidavit?" Havner then asked and when Duckworth refused to answer the question on constitutional grounds the court sustained his refusal.

Gell went on the witness stand this morning after T. E. Diamond of Sheldon, counsel for O'Connor completed the opening statements for the defense. Diamond asserted certain of the state's witnesses including Gell are "not to be believed" and that the Iowa attorney general is innocent of any wrongdoing.

Gell testified he was present at a meeting in Des Moines at which a plan for a statewide slot machine setup and payoff system was arranged and that he later told O'Connor about it.

Present at the conference, which arranged the setup, Gell said, were Walter Maley, first assistant to the attorney general; Joe Gagan, Des Moines bondsman and reputed protection payment collector; Tom Conroy, Des Moines beer distributor, and himself. Two shares of payoff money, he said, were to go to the attorney general's office.

No Getting Share Gell said he arranged a meeting with O'Connor at the request of Conroy, who was dissatisfied because he "wasn't getting his share" of the protection money.

The witness said he then told O'Connor of the slot machine protection organization, that Maley was running it, that collections were running from $5,000 to $8,000 a week, and that men using badges and credentials of Iowa State agents were making protection collections.

On cross examination Free asked Gell if he told the attorney general there was a slot machine protection setup at the talk Gell said he had with O'Connor the Saturday before Christmas, 1934.

"I did," Gell replied promptly. Gell said he was working for Conroy.

Plan New Air Mail Service

Schedule Will Provide Direct Service To Hawaii From Here

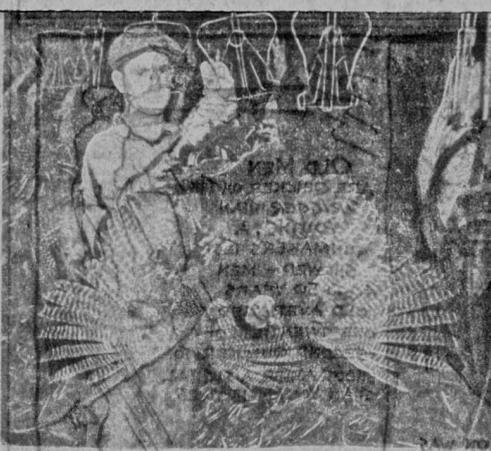

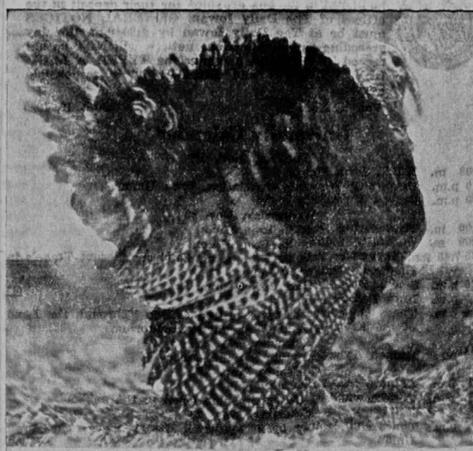

Direct air mail service from Iowa City to Hawaii, the Philippine islands and other trans-Pacific points will be inaugurated this week by United Air Lines and Pan American Airways, Jack C. Curtis, manager of the local airport, said yesterday.

This new schedule will provide six-day service on letters traveling nearly half-way around the world. Only 40 hours will be required to transmit letters from New York City and other eastern points to Honolulu with the new United-Pan American route. Time from the Great Lakes cities will be 35 hours and correspondingly less time from points west of Chicago.

The first flight with the regular air mail will start from San Francisco Friday. After four one-day flights to Honolulu, Midway Island, Guam and the Philippines, 4,000 air miles from San Francisco, the trans-Pacific clipper will connect at Manila with United planes.

The United States post office has issued a new trans-Pacific air mail stamp of 25-cent denomination for each half ounce. One stamp is required from San Francisco to Hawaii, two to Guam and three to the Philippine islands, Mr. Curtis pointed out.

Wellman Farmers Contribute Turkey Dinners for 1,250,000

A.C. Gingerich Started Farm 12 Years Ago

By FRANCIS COFFEY

Turkey dinners for 1,250,000! That's the contribution of Thanksgiving and holiday repasts which farmers in this vicinity offer to America.

The largest turkey packing plant in the world, Maplecrest Turkey Farms at Wellman is marketing 250,000 "birds" this year, 80 per cent of which reach the New York market.

Scientifically Raised
A. C. Gingerich, president and major owner of the immense industry, began the business of scientifically raising turkeys about 12 years ago on his Johnson county farm, five miles north of Wellman.

In 1926 he moved to Wellman where, in addition to his chick hatching business, started hatching turkeys on a small scale. In 1931 he started the new business of picking and packing the turkeys in a building of only 12x20 feet dimensions.

Business Expanded
The business expanded so rapidly that in 1933 the packing and feed plant was moved to a larger building, and by last summer the increased volume of business and turkey raising in this section of Iowa necessitated the erection of a new $25,000 plant with the former building being used only for the mixing of feed.

Cooperating with the turkey industry at Wellman are 110 farmers, many of them in Johnson county, who buy the young turkeys from the Maplecrest hatchery in the spring, keep them in confinement under Maplecrest's scientific methods, feed them grain prepared at the Maplecrest feed plant from a special formula, and finally sell the mature "birds" back to Maplecrest at the highest prices.

Boon to Employment
It is by this method that the Maplecrest industry has been able to put a uniform, high grade product on the eastern market where its turkeys are in demand by leading hotels and steamship companies the year around.

Aside from the industry's large contribution to agricultural income in this section of Iowa, it is a boon to employment in the town of Wellman.

Working under the capacity strain of preparing five carloads of turkeys daily for the usual Thanksgiving market, 200 persons are now employed in the plant.

Entering the plant after a season of feasting on dried buttermilk and oats flour, Mr. Turkey begins an 825-ft. journey which, after three baths, two wax dips and repeated

The above pictures tell the sad story of 250,000 "gobblers" and how they become Thanksgiving and holiday dinners at the world's largest turkey packing plant in Wellman. Upper right, a turkey on the Ed Slabough farm near Wellman struts before the camera. Upper center, Floyd Ayers is pictured hanging one of the "birds" on the 835 foot chain which transports the turkey through packing operations. Upper right, a turkey asks The Daily Iowan cameraman, "What's up?" Lower left, Dorothy Flanders is shown pinning a large bird. Lower right, Mae Eicher, a distant relative of Congressman Edward C. Eicher, is pictured inspecting a rack of turkeys in a refrigeration room.

Conducted By Jack Curwell

We wonder why the Pi Phi pick on one of the smoothest girls on this campus, and also a Pi Phi. There is no restriction on most of the Pi Phi late dates, but they pull the buzz on Elm Corbin for a very minor indiscretion. Must be some personal grievance when a girl of Emily's charm has to stay on 8 o'clocks until the first of December.

Carl Gleysteen of the Law Commons, a popular place we take it, is affiliated with the prize story of the month. It seems Gleysteen signed a contract (still, obviously the law STUDENT) with one of the Tiffin councilmen to participate in a writing contest. Said contract was signed late one evening, when rhyme, rather than reason, prevailed.

When the date for the aforementioned and contracted for milking contest arrived, there was no Mr. Gleysteen. Finally, the law student made his appearance, but only to defend his absence. His defense: That it was raining and that no one could properly judge a milking contest in the rain because one bucket might collect more water than the other.

DRY TOAST
Here's to you and here's to me. And if by chance we disagree To hell with you . . . Here's to me.

Wonder what motive is firing the active fingers of an enchanting Kappa pledge, Ann Gaynor. She spends her hours (spare hours) knitting a scarf for Grant Holman. Delt pledge who hails from her home town. It is Sioux City, incidentally.

It seems the girls at the U should get busy and play up to George Durin of Cedar Rapids before he takes that fatal step with his old flame, and home town product. Don't ask what U.

Our scouts assert this: Although Kay Germann, Pi Phi pledge, is one of the smoothest of girls around and about, she should not try to infatuate the lads in such an obvious manner. Also, said scouts point out that reserve library is also a place to study. We don't know what they are getting at.

Highway Bugs
It wasn't liquor that killed Old Ben, Nor women that stopped his breath; 'Twas an Austin somebody drove up his leg And tickled Old Ben to death. R.J.

Campus Lament—The time has come for D. Shelton to cast her eyes downward to recognize the badge adorning her attire as belonging to an absent man. It's nice to date; but why so often and exclusively with one man. How should we know?

It looks like Carolyn Coad, head man (head woman, rather) at the Kappa Alpha Theta house, has a glint of love in her eyes for her home town flash, who goes under the name of "Butter Cups."

Legion Plans Membership, Safety Drives

Plans for an extensive membership campaign along with a program of highway safety formed the greater part of last night's business meeting of the local American Legion post, which was the first presided over by Lou E. Clark, newly-elected commander.

Legionnaires on the membership committee include: Adjutant Clair Butterfield, chairman; W. H. Bender, Ellis Crawford, E. M. Dewey, L. E. Freswick, George Gay, Glen J. Means, R. S. Schell, Gerald Schilling, C. F. Smith, George Sterba, R. R. Vogt and W. J. White.

Arrangements are being made to post national highway safety bulletins throughout the city in collaboration with a congressional safety plan.

Entertainment for last night's meeting was arranged by Sam Harris. Members of the junior class of Iowa City high school presented parts of "Tom Sawyer," class play given earlier in the year.

The post's monthly chow will take place Monday night in place of the regular business meeting.

Quad News

William M. Hughey, G of Dayton, Ohio, was elected president of the Quadrangle association at a meeting of the council last night.

Other officers named are: Roswell D. Johnson, M2 of Octumwa, vice-president; Robert McDowell, D3 of Waterloo, secretary-treasurer; and Grover C. Platt, G of Council Bluffs, sergeant-at-arms. They will take office Dec. 2 and serve for one year.

Frank Dean Caters, C4 of Topeka, Kan., social committee chairman, reported that the Quadrangle dinner dances will be in the main lounge of Iowa Union Dec. 7. Ray Keyes' orchestra from Albert Lea, Minn., will provide the music. Members of the council urged continuance of radio dances in the Quadrangle lounge.

The budget committee reported its budget for the year, and suggestions regarding a larger game room were considered. The improvements committee was directed to investigate the possibility of new telephone arrangements.

Martin Perli, A2 of Whittemore, athletic proctor, presented plans for a trophy case to be installed in the Quadrangle lounge, and the council directed him to make further arrangements.

Benjamin Biever, A2 of Council Bluffs, chairman of the personnel committee, reported Quadrangle nominations for the Sophomore Cotillion committee.

Paul J. Laube, M4 of Dubuque, Quadrangle president, will retire at the next meeting of the council.

Student Volunteer Movement Meets

There is no trace of western influence on Hindu art. Kewal L. Motwani, Indian lecturer, told Student Art guild members at a meeting in Iowa Union Sunday.

In India, according to the speaker, no attempt at realism is made, rather painting is done from memory and imagination. Living artists of India are seeking the "sixth sense," he asserted, thus an intangible philosophy of life underlies Indian art.

Doris Smith will take charge of the evening's arrangements.

German Ambassador Says Americans Not Entitled to Interfere

ST. PAUL, Nov. 18 (AP) — Angered by the persistence of newspapermen to whom he had refused interviews, Dr. Hans Luther, German ambassador to the United States, evaded with "America is not entitled to interfere with German affairs"—questions hurled at him on his arrival here today.

Newspapermen were excluded later when he spoke at lunch before an inter-professional group, Aides subsequently refused a resume of his talk with the explanation his visit is "unofficial."

WASHINGTON, (AP) — A discharged navy sailor encamped himself, with his wife and two children, in front of the White House yesterday on Pennsylvania avenue with the announced intention of letting the president "see an average American family starving to death." Farewell To The Philippines

MUCH HAS been said and written about the Philippine islands, and many dismal warnings of complications in the far east have been uttered.

However, the same calamity howlers who so violently insist that the Philippines are our first frontier against the "Yellow Peril" are the same persons who denounce as acridly a war of aggression. It would seem that these two attitudes differ slightly. If we have no intentions of conducting a war of aggression, then what is the real need of this frontier? It only makes for a wider division of our forces in the extreme, unlikely event of a war of defense and has no real bearing on the safety of our country.

There never were more applicable words spoken than Washington's famous statement, "avoid entangling alliances." As long as we retain as much as a protectorate over the Philippines we have an alliance there that will do more to drag us into any possible eastern controversy than anything else that we can do or policy that we may follow.

We also hear much about the danger of the Philippines being annexed or controlled by Japan as soon as we relinquish our protectorate over them. But we forget that there has been rebellion after rebellion against our rule in the Philippines, and if we are so desirous of giving them a "square deal," and if it is not the possible trade advantage that holds the interest of the United States in the Philippines, then we must admit that to hold them against their will is not quite a "square deal." Immediately thousands of voices rise to protest, "But we are doing what is good for them." This is much as the father who tells his son, "This going to hurt me more than it will you," as they lie themselves to the woods. However, in the case of the father it is often true.

The people of the Philippines are eastern in their methods of thinking, in their physical make up, and in their religion. The only things about them which are western are those which we have taught them, and which are surface attitudes which may be forgotten the instant our influence is removed. Their sympathies are more with the orient than with the occident. There is an antipathy toward western influence that can never be overcome, and which will not allow an acceptance or understanding of western ways.

Disregarding that angle entirely, it still remains that withdrawal from the Philippines means avoidance of possible trouble in the east in the near future, one less entangling alliance, and a saving of "face" which might be lost in event of a forced withdrawal to avoid an unprofitable war.

True Criterion Of Sportsmanship

IOWA'S FOOTBALL team was defeated Saturday. As has happened so often in the past comments were exchanged thick and fast about the campus and town, and most of them were unfavorable. The truth of the old saying, "when you're winning you're a prince, but when you lose you're a bum," was quite apparent.

Everybody likes a winner, and as long as the team wins, the members are the idols of the campus, but let them lose one or two games and they come home to meet a lackadaisical, critical attitude.

The true criterion of good sportsmanship is the way in which any team, person or group loses. If they can lose gracefully without bitterness or complaint, they have the true sportsman's attitude. But the poor loser is the poor sportsman. Iowa did not lose Saturday because they wanted to, nor because they didn't care. They were in the game fighting every minute from the first kick-off to the final gun, but they were battling a team that was playing inspired football, that had met defeat three times, and was fighting with its back against the wall with a resolution to win that could not be downed.

Iowa had met, just the week before, one of the strongest teams in the country, if not the strongest, and had given it a battle that far exceeded any it had met before or is likely to meet during the remainder of the season. They played against a juggernaut that would take the heart out of the bravest, and played it to a standstill.

When they went to Purdue they were in neither mental nor physical condition to play a game similar to that which they played against Minnesota, but they fought desperately to the end, and were stopped in a final drive only by the timekeeper's gun. It is not pleasant to play your heart out and then come back to meet jibes and criticism, and it is not conducive to good football to know that there is little support. If anything, the time that cheers and real support are needed is at a time when you are losing. When you are winning that fact alone is enough to keep a team going, but to lose after a game fight and then meet a cold reception is disastrous. When Iowa meets Northwestern they will play their best, but their best will probably be better if they are given the support which they have earned by the same battles they have put up, both in victory and defeat.

Whom Can The Taxpayer Believe?

The truth will out, or will it?

New dealers in glowing phrases have justified the spending of the public's money on the grounds of achieving social justice, of realizing a new order in which human rights would be respected, and a new deal where the forgotten man would no longer be forgotten. Brain trusters attacked the profit motive and the capitalistic system. Adopting the black listing tactics of patriotic organizations, the brain trusters labeled all bankers, public enemies, No. 1. Country bankers, city bankers, international bankers, were indiscriminately herded in with the big, bad wolves; they were without social or moral responsibility, intent only on paying bigger bonuses to directors and of fleeing the public.

This week Marriner S. Eccles, chairman of the board of governors of the federal reserve board and one of the key men in the new deal finances, at a meeting of the American Bankers' association, solemnly said that all of the billions have been spent to preserve the capitalistic system, our institutions, and traditions.

Since Rexford Tugwell sent his trunks to Washington, blistering attacks upon the capitalistic system, our institutions and traditions, has been the order of the day, with such clowning antics as Gen. Hugh Johnson's "cracking down," the mysterious back door visits of Professor Moley, and the week end sestas of Professor Frankfurter and his pupils. Rugged individualism became a term of reproach. Traditions of thrift and individual initiative were no longer virtues in the new social order. In spite of the fact that the installment buying and over expansion were, admittedly contributors to the depression, the people were urged to be patriotic and buy, borrow money from the government, pile up more debt, spend, buy, buy, buy. The government loaning agencies assuming the same kind of practices condemned in the Tugwell advertising bill, and adopted the big promotional pressures of the high-pressure salesman.

All government spending was justified because of the severity and extent of the emergency. Human rights were to be put ahead of property rights. At last the jobless, the unfortunate and the lazy were to be supported by the taxpayers who had worked and saved.

In spite of the social protestations of the new dealers, socialists and liberals protest that the NRA and some of the other government policies only further entrenched the monopolies of the public utilities; the big business and the money powers. Economists warned that the labor policies of the new deal were a hodge podge of compromise to big interests; the codes were not perfect by any means and were often dictated by the monopolists.

Finally, the head of the financial set up of the nation's banks keeps a straight face and says that the money has been spent not to overthrow the capitalistic system, but to preserve it; not to discredit our traditions but to protect them; not to undermine our institutions but to stabilize them.

Now whom is the poor taxpayer to believe? He didn't know where and how the money has been spent, but he assumed that the administration was agreed on why the money had been spent.

John da Grassa, president of the American Football institute, declares with vehemence that gambling on football games has become a national mania and is involving thousands of young high school students at the moment. To check all this, he would put a stop to the practice of sports writers "predicting" the outcome of games everywhere. "Favorites" in horse racing, win about 85 per cent of the time, he says. Boxing favorites win 50 per cent of their contests, while in football, the favorites win about 85 per cent of the time.

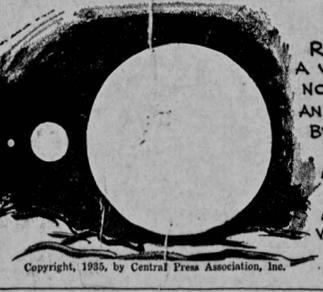

A class in radio broadcasting at Drake university conducted some experiments and discovered that the best way to make a noise sounding like a kiss on the air was to simply kiss the back of the hand. It sounds more like a real kiss than a real kiss itself, for heaven's sake.

Ted Shawn Dancers Receive Ovation by Responsive Iowans

By JESSE GORKIN (Daily Iowan Campus Editor)

With numbers varying from the serious labor symphony to the satirical folk themes, Ted Shawn and his ensemble of eight men dancers proved to a responsive audience in Macbride auditorium last night that the interpretation of the dance was a manly art.

So impressive was the perfect execution that time after time the company had to respond either with an encore or a fatigued but humorous gesture.

Presented in five parts, each representing a specific theme, the entire program was effective by its clarity, conciseness, and celerity. The leader of the troupe, Ted Shawn, played an outstanding role in the ambitious and varied presentation, being especially popular in "The Hound of Heaven," the interpretation of a mystic poem of Francis Thompson, and in "Ferruca Triana," a Spanish flamenco dance.

The 135 minute dance program opened with five selections which skillfully and colorfully visualized primitive rhythms. First executed was the "Ponce Indian Dance" done by five men, after which followed a solo by Shawn, the "Hopi Indian Eagle Dance," the "Singshale Devil Dance," which represented earliest medicine; the "Dyak Spear Dance," a solo accompanied by barbaric rhythms, and the "Maori War Haka" by Shawn and his entire ensemble. HOLLYWOOD - Warner Baxter set a precedent by answering this letter from a feminine "fan": "I am sending you a dollar bill. It is the last cent I have and I am giving it to you as a gesture of my great desperation. I need $125 right away. Please send it to me by return post. God will bless you." "I was obliged to reply in this case, so I sent her $10," Baxter admits, "and I am not quite sure whether I should have done that. The woman's need may have been actual, but she may have been a persuasive charlatan. I have no way of determining."

Nor has any other Hollywoodite who gets money-asking letters almost daily any way of finding out whether these requests are on the up and up. The racket has reached such widespread proportions that it has engaged the attention of postal officials, but except in a few cases where actual threats are made no action can be taken against the writers.

Clam Shells and Gold: "There is no conscious attempt by the majority of money-askers to employ blackmailing tactics," says Baxter. "Many of the letters are from women of good families, hard hit by the depression, who seem to think their alleged favorite should send them from $100 to $5,000 to help them out."

"Every player in town gets 'follow-up' letters when they fail to answer the first money letter. The second letter suggests a boycott and they say they will tell their friends how stinky and inhuman we are." Among the great sinners in the money-asking class are promoters of everything and anything, ranging from a man who wanted to start a business making lamp shades out of clam shells (William Gargan could have got in on the ground floor on this) to big money fellows like the one who tackled Ronald Colman. This promoter was by no means modest. He asked Colman for $50,000 to develop African gold property, saying he wished to reserve this opportunity for a British subject. Colman didn't answer him.

Any Old Suits? Adolphe Menjou's mail is full of requests for his old suits, which he never gives away, even to his friends or servants. Every woman star gets dozens of clothing requests weekly. Here is a typical example of the kind of mail Jack Oakie often gets: "My son looks just like you. Would you care to advance him enough money to send him through college?"

"For some unaccountable reason," says Jack, "dozens of fond mothers think I owe them something because their sons resemble me. Instead of money, I send them notes commiserating them on their bad fortune and a warning that they are infringing on my copyright."

Tiffin Plans To 'Can' Voices Of Thespians

Voices of New York actors and actresses will be recorded by Prof. Joseph Tiffin of the psychology department, who left Sunday for New York City to carry on research work in phonetics.

While in the east he will also participate in the program of the Acoustical Society of America at Harvard university, Cambridge, Mass., Dec. 6 and 7.

Last year Professor Tiffin and Prof. Edward C. Mabie, director of the university theater, recorded several dramatic selections by famous stage stars, analyzing them for the artistic qualities of good dramatic speech. They studied the pitch, intensity, and rhythm shown in such selections as the soliloquy from Eugene O'Neill's "Strange Interlude," played by Gale Sondergaard, and the Judge's appeal from Elmer Rice's "Judgment Day," played by St. Clair Bayfield.

This work is under the direction of the Rockefeller foundation and is supervised by Professor Mabie. This year Professor Tiffin plans to continue his recording and study of actors and actresses' voices.

At the Acoustical Society of America convention, he will give a talk on "The Harmonic Analysis of Consecutive Waves in the Vowel 'Ah' in Normal Voices and Before and After Surgical Removal of Nasal Polyps." This paper was prepared by Professor Tiffin in collaboration with Dr. Dean M. Lierle of the college of medicine, and Dr. John Black, graduate of the University of Iowa and now of the speech department at Kenyon university, Gambier, Ohio.

In the paper Professor Tiffin will tell how oscillograms were obtained of the word "top" as spoken by nine normal male voices and by five voices before and after surgical removal of the nasal polyps.

Among the recordings which Professor Tiffin made last year were the vaudeville address from Kauf-

Sudhindra Bose, In Address, Talks On Ultimate Civilization

Hills.

"If it is asserted that the orientals have not made much progress recently, it is because of the countless obstacles placed before them by those who are pleased to call the orientals unprogressive," Mr. Bose said.

"Had it not been for the external intervention, undoubtedly they would have shown greater progress in the realization of their ideas and ideals," he declared. "Oriental society is based upon the principle of religion and that religion always includes philosophy. In oriental thinking," he said, "religion and philosophy are one. The dominant note of oriental civilization is religious."

'Hot Pursuit' Law School to Give Plans for Chasing Criminals Closely

Prof. Rollin M. Perkins of the college of law has been invited by the interstate crime commission to submit a draft on "Hot Pursuit," which will allow officers of one state to follow criminals into any other state to make arrests.

The commission has invited several of the leading law schools in the country to submit drafts for legislation to remove many of the legal technicalities which have fettered the arms of justice and provided loopholes through which criminals have escaped.

The program of the commission was agreed upon in Trenton, N.J., Oct. 11 and 12. The next meeting will be in New York City where final drafts will be submitted Nov. 30 and Dec. 1. Judge Richard Hartshorne will preside at the meeting and the results will be broadcast by the National Broadcasting company over a coast-to-coast hookup.

Horace Birthday Anniversary Will Be Observed by Nations

The two-thousandth anniversary of the birth of Horace, the Roman poet, will be celebrated next month by educators and scholars in at least a dozen nations.

Prof. Roy C. Flickinger, head of the classical languages department, is originator and general chairman of the international observance. Height of the celebrations will be reached during the week end of Dec. 6, 7, and 8.

Every educational institution in Hungary will observe the anniversary, by official decree of the minister of education, according to Professor Flickinger.

In Italy, Benito Mussolini failed to support the affair because it was thought that it might spoil the Augustus Caesar jubilee of 1937. But plans for observance finally were made by the University of Milan and the Instituto di Studi Romani in Rome.

Among the other nations which have enrolled are the South American republics of Chile, Ecuador, and Argentina; Norway and Sweden, Finland, Spain, England, and France.

Universities, colleges, and secondary schools in practically every state will participate in the program, Professor Flickinger said. Students are competing in contests, doing special reading, and preparing plays and exhibits.

HAWKS TO DRILL IN SECRECY THIS WEEK

Vogel Reports Wildcats Are Loop's Best 11

Players Come Through Purdue Game Minus Serious Injuries

Strict secrecy will be the vogue at the University of Iowa football camp this week as Coach Ossie Solem strives to rally his Hawkeye gridders to top form for the season's final battle against Northwestern at Evanston, Ill., Saturday.

"Right now Northwestern has the best team in the conference," Coach Otto Vogel reported yesterday after watching the Wildcats trounce Wisconsin.

"They have learned to handle the ball," he added. Their early season defeats are attributed to fumbles. Against Purdue and Minnesota they drove down the field only to lose the ball on fumbles.

"Heap and Cruice are splendid ball carriers on a good all-around team," Vogel said.

the finale and thereby enhance their chance to tie for third place in the final standing. Indiana must upset Purdue Saturday to make this goal become an actuality.

All players came through the Purdue encounter with no serious injuries, Dr. Will Hayne said yesterday. Ozzie Simmons, who was removed in the final quarter, suffered only a turned ankle and will be ready for the Wildcat invasion.

Field practice was suspended in favor of a chalk talk and movies of the Northwestern-Wisconsin game last night.

After seven games, the Hawkeyes have averaged 255 yards on offense and held opponents to 163, statistics show. Of the 1,787 yards made by the Old Gold eleven, 1,459 have been amassed by rushing. Opponents have made 1,444 yards, 813 yards of which have been gained by rushing.

Other statistics: Forward passes attempted 63, 77; Forward passes completed 20, 23; Yards gained on passes 328, 331; Average yards of punts 35, 34; First downs 65, 52; Touchdowns scored 19, 6; Total points 122, 39.

Ozzie Simmons continued to lead the Hawkeye ground gainers with 5.5 yards per try or a total of 546 yards. The leading scorers are Crayne, 138; Simmons, 36; Hill, 18; Harris, 12.

EVANSTON, Ill., Nov. 18 (AP)—The Northwestern varsity was given the usual Monday moving picture and limbering up session today, but will get down to serious preparation for Iowa tomorrow.

After showing the athletes movies of the Wisconsin game, Coach Lynn Waldorf turned his attention to the reserves while the regulars ran signals in sweatshops for a half-hour.

Large Hawkeye Crowd To See Game Saturday The largest contingent of Hawkeye fans to watch a University of Iowa football team play away from home in several seasons probably will appear at Dyche stadium in Evanston for the Northwestern game.

More than 1,500 tickets of the allotment of 2,500 already have been sold, Charles Gallier, business manager of athletics reported, and the sale is increasingly brisk.

A special train will leave Iowa City late Friday afternoon and hundreds of persons will make the trip by automobile. It seems almost certain that the crowd of 2,000 which saw the game at Illinois last month will be surpassed by the one at Northwestern.

Dorm Thinclads Out to Beat Old 5 Minute Record Harriers from the eight co-operative dormitories will run over the nine-tenths mile Finkbine course this afternoon at 4:30. Whelstone House will defend the title they won last year.

Bloomington and Fielthouse "A," who placed second and third last year are also expected to figure heavily in the scoring. Robert Christians, Whelstone, was the individual champion of last year's run with a time of approximately five minutes.

WILDCAT SOPHOMORE SENSATION

Don Heap, Northwestern ball carrier, has proved to be one of the sophomore standouts in the Big Ten conference. The blond Wildcat has starred in the last two games, against Wisconsin and Notre Dame and promises to continue his laudable work against the Hawkeyes Saturday.

Ohio Lucky to Beat Illinois

Bob Zupke, Illinois: "Every body says: 'Fine work, Zup, but they paid off on Ohio State just the same. Tippy Dye made a nice run for the Bucks but believe it or not, we might have won or tied the game except that our midget, Jewett Cole, fell over one of his own men when he was loose. I suppose Chicago will come down now and play an inspired game. That Berwanger is always poison for us."

Clark Shaughnessy, Chicago: "He's poison to any opposing team, but he's on the injured list. I can see those Illinois trick plays right now."

Professor: "I wouldn't mind seeing Indiana and Purdue play Saturday. They always have a blood and thunder thriller."

Bo McMillin, Indiana: "It will take everything we've got to match Purdue. They have a group of vets while Indiana is going to be forced to use more than half sophomores in the lineup."

Ossie Solem, Iowa: "We lost to another great team at Purdue."

Professor: "It's tough. Your governor loses a pig; your team loses two games in a row. We're all losing weight."

New Record In chalking up his most important victory since leaving the sidewalks of New York to study engineering at the Michigan college, Bechtold was clocked in 26:23.8. Venzke was caught in 26:28. The time goes down in the books as a new record as it was the first time the event had been run over five miles—a mile shorter than in previous years.

Frat Mermen To Contend In Meet Tonight

Manager Evans Resigns From Cleveland Staff

Fraternity swimmers will vie for honors in the preliminaries of the annual inter-fraternity swim meet to be held tonight at 7:30 in the fieldhouse pool under the direction of David A. Armbruster, varsity swimming coach.

If the list of entries is as large as expected, the finals will be held Thursday evening, otherwise the championship races will take place immediately following the prelims.

The Delta Tau Delta splashers will be on hand to defend their championship won in last year's competition. Delta Upsilon and Phi Kappa Psi are also expected to make strong bids for honors in this year's classic.

The fast times chalked up in several events of last year's competition drew much praise from Coach Armbruster, and with several defending champs back again, tonight's meet promises to be a high-light.

The first three place winners in each event will be awarded gold, silver and bronze medals. A large silver trophy will be presented to the fraternity champions.

Dash Events In Quadrath'n This Afternoon

Iowa trackmen will compete in the second event in the annual sprint quadrathlon, the 330 yard dash, this afternoon at 4:30 in the fieldhouse.

With the 220 yard dash completed, two freshmen, Milton Billig and John Graves, have turned in the lowest time totals. Jim Lyle is the present leader of the varsity runners.

Thursday, the men will run the 440 yard dash, and the final event in the quadrathlon, the 600 yard dash, will be run next Tuesday. Each man must compete in the four events and the time taken by him to cover the four distances will be added together and the awards made on this basis.

Van Phillips, stellar middle-distance man, won the quadrathlon last year but he has not competed in any of the events yet. Andrew Dooley, varsity speed merchant, has reported for practice, but has not done any speed work so far.

Freshman Squad Enters Last Week Of Fall Practice

After serving as doormats for the varsity gridders all through the football season, the freshman squad entered into its last week of practice yesterday with a short scrimmage on Northwestern plays, formation and shifts.

The yearlings were taken to the varsity practice field after the scrimmage to show the Wildcat offense to the Hawkeyes before they begin scrimmage today or tomorrow.

Slapnicka Begins Career in Cedar Rapids

CEAR RAPIDS, Ia., Nov. 18 (AP)—C. C. Slapnicka of Cedar Rapids, Ia., has been named general manager of the Cleveland Indians for eight years, resigned today.

Alva Bradley, president of the Cleveland Baseball company, announced the resignation and said it had been accepted with regret. At the same time, Bradley announced the office of general manager was being discontinued and that C. C. Slapnicka, chief scout for the Indians for 14 years, had been appointed assistant to the president.

Marians Fight Evenly With Alumni Five

St. Mary's cagers fought on even terms with the alumni team last night in a practice game held at the City high gymnasium. Coach Francis Stueppel used 20 men in scrimmage, hoping to find a starting line-up for the game at Victor next Monday. The alumni held the edge of a 13 to 12 score as the first team left the floor.

In past years, the Ramblers have used a slow break with set floor plays. This season the aggression is small, however, and the team has been drilled with a fast break in the hopes of catching opponents off guard. This type of play shows promise of developing into a strong, offensive attack for the Marians.

Starting the game were Adrian and Alberhasky, forwards; Keller, center; and Schlenck and Grim, guards. Adrian was hot and hit the basket from all angles in the drill. The others are proving valuable men in building the offense around Adrian.

Information concerning the Victor team is that they are big, but inexperienced.

IRISH CAGERS RAGGED Ruggedness infected St. Pat's cagers yesterday as Coach Ryan put them through their first scrimmage of the season. The ball passing and fumbling can be partially attributed to the fact that the Irish have had but a week of training. Dick Healy set the scoring pace by dropping in buckets from all angles.

The men rating the first five were: Healy and Gutierrez, forwards; Patterson at the pivot position and Ebyers and Carrigg in the abck court. The men composing the second string were: Carmody and Coe, guards; Leuz, center, and Floerchinger and Noshish at the forward posts.

Pugh Shines After taking the reserves into camp, the varsity was pitted against the third team which it outscored but not outclassed. Eddie Pugh, diminutive forward, looked especially good as he literally stole the ball on several occasions.

A scare was thrown into the Irish camp yesterday when Demery and Carlton, pony forwards, turned up ineligible. It is understood, however, that these up and coming sophomores will be able to make up their work and regain their good standing. Johnny Gutierrez took Demery's place on the first string and showed signs of becoming a capable performer.

Overtime Work The first two squads were dismissed early by Coach Ryan and the Irish mentor devoted the remaining time to a scrimmage between the third and fourth aggregations. With so many men reporting each night, Father Ryan has to work overtime so that all his charges will have the opportunity to show what they have.

The Shamrocks have been developing slowly this season, but they should be a smooth working aggregation before their first tilt with Oxford here Dec. 4.

BLUES WORK ON OFFENSE After a long period of conditioning and drill on the fundamentals of pivoting, passing, and shooting, Coaches Joy Kistler and Herb Canine are now giving their University high cage candidates work on offensive formations.

Minus the services of Thomas, all-city center, around whom most of last year's attacking maneuvers were centered, Kistler is attempting to find a system to substitute for the

Gould Rates Southern Methodist As Nation's Best Eleven

Minnesota Is Ranked Second Behind S.M.U.

Saturday's Tilts Change Complexion on All Football Ramparts

By ALAN GOULD
(Associated Press Sports Editor)

NEW YORK, Nov. 18 (AP)—This week's college football ranking list is fairly well indicated by the latest developments from the combat zones.

Conceding in advance that there is little to choose now among the nation's leaders, here's our "top ten" for the time being:

1. Southern Methodist.
2. Minnesota.
3. Texas Christian.
4. Princeton.
5. California.
6. Rice.
7. Louisiana State.
8. Alabama.
9. Dartmouth.
10. Pittsburgh.

Minnesota Has Class

Minnesota, by crushing Michigan, for the first time this season displayed scoring power comparable to the 1934 Gophers. One such demonstration doesn't necessarily prove it's the same kind of a steam-roller, but there's no doubt now that Minnesota again is the class of the Big Ten, that it almost surely will whip Wisconsin to finish a second straight undefeated season and that the Gophers can dispute any rival's claim to national honors.

Southern Methodist remains at the head of the class for the reason that the "pony express" covered more ground and accomplished more convincing results than any other team last week. After shellingacking U.C.L.A. at Los Angeles on Monday, S.M.U. came halfway across the country and registered another impressive "road" victory, against Arkansas.

Texas Christian turned loose a terrific blast of power to trounce Texas, 28 to 0, and move several notches higher in the standing. Down in the southwest, where the brand of football on exhibition this year has the onlookers somewhat dazzled, the feeling has developed that the Texas Christians are even better than the Southern Methodists. They will have a chance to prove it on the last Saturday of the month. Meanwhile T.C.U. runs the risk of being knocked off this week by the Owls of Rice.

Princeton, whose high ranking thus far has been the subject of considerable debate, should be fully tested this Saturday by another unbeaten-untilled team, Dartmouth. Princeton unquestionably has everything needed to qualify them as a great team, except such opposition as top "clubs" of the Big Ten and southwest conferences have been lacking nearly every week.

California Gets Test

California has the opportunity to deliver the old convincer this week. The Golden Bears, who have yielded only a touchdown and a safety in nine games so far, meet Stanford in the "big game" of the Pacific coast season.

Alabama's stretch of five successive victories since mid-October is as impressive as the achievement of any other team in the country. LSU, who put together seven straight wins over tough opposition since losing a close decision to Rice in the opening game of the season. Dartmouth and Pittsburgh, making a powerful November showing, are the newcomers.

MICKEY MOURNS DEATH OF BOSS

Lower C Wins First Game In Champ Series

Long Scores Winning Touchdown in Last Minutes of Game

By BILL FERGUSON
(Iowan Sports Writer)

Scoring their lone touchdown with but three minutes to play, Lower C took the first game of the Quad championship series yesterday when they won an uphill battle from Upper B-2. The winning play was a pass from Knapp to Long after several of the winners' drives had been stopped short of the goal line.

The second game of the series will be played this afternoon at 4:15 on Jessup field.

Upper B took the lead on the fourth play after the kickoff when McGreehey broke through the line and tagged Knapp who was attempting to punt from behind his own goal line. This gave B a 2 to 0 lead with the game only a few seconds old.

Goal Kick Wide

Lower C made their first scoring threat a few minutes later when Fenton, Upper B back fumbled a punt on his own 17 yard line and C recovered. After two plays had gained a yard, Knapp tried for a field goal but the kick was wide.

Upper B then kicked out of danger but Lower C once more staged a drive which gave them a first down on the four yard line. They were stopped again when two passes were grounded in the end zone. B taking the ball on the 10 yard line as the half ended.

With Knapp doing the tossing, C unloosed a passing attack which carried them into scoring territory as the second half opened. Once again they failed to score when an attempted drop-kick by Knapp was wide.

Starting from their own 10 yard line, Upper B drove the length of the field, for a first down on the five yard line. In two tries they pushed the ball to the two-foot line, but were stopped with a four yard loss on the next play. A 15 yard penalty and an incomplete pass gave the ball to C on the 19.

Long Scores

Knapp again started throwing passes and Lower C once again drove deep into B territory, gaining a first down on the four yard line. After two attempts to pass had failed to gain, Long snared one of Knapp's tosses for the score.

A frantic last minute attack by Upper B was abruptly halted when Linneboom intercepted a B pass. Knapp then punted out of danger as the game ended.

Ken Fuller was the official.

Quarles Decisions Miller

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Normant Quarles, North Carolina scrapper, won a split decision over Freddie Miller, the featherweight champion, in a 10-round bout last night. It was a non-title affair. Miller weighed 130, Quarles, 130 1-2.

Win Streak Mired in Mud

Iowa 11's Prosperity Ends With Advent Of Wet Weather

By SEYMOUR ZUBALSKY

Coincident with the ending of the Iowa football victory string against Indiana, was the beginning of a string of rainy Saturdays that has played havoc with the Hawkeys.

This is not meant as an alibi for the Hawks because there is no denying that their opponents have played wonderful football on every occasion. Nevertheless the muddy fields have hindered the team from doing its best.

Ozzie Simmons Hampered

It has hurt the Iowa team more than any other because of one man, and that man is Ozzie Simmons. Simmons' success was due to his ability to get out of his tracks like a shot out of a gun.

Whenever the line opened any sort of hole whatever, he was off with the velocity of a bullet and through before they could stop him. Once in the clear he could do the rest by himself.

Mud Cuts Down Speed

For three succeeding Saturdays he has been confronted with a muddy field. The mud clogs up the cleats of the shoes and makes the footing insecure. Therefore Simmons' speed and running efficiency was cut down to a great extent.

Up until the first wet Saturday the team had scored a total of 104 points to 8 for the opposition. Since then they have been held to not more than one touchdown a game.

The chances of the Hawks have been hurt further by the injuries to Capt. Dick Crayne's foot. All of their opponents have been able to concentrate on Simmons because they realized that Crayne could not do much with an injured foot.

Perhaps this explains the collapse of the Hawkeys offense that functioned so smoothly in the opening games.

NUMBER TEN

Rapids, scout for the Cleveland Indians for the last 12 years, who today was appointed assistant to President Alva Bradley of the club, began his baseball career with Washington high school of this city where he pitched two years of prep ball, his team never losing a game.

Since then baseball has been Slapnicka's only profession. He was connected at various times with Cedar Rapids, Burlington, Marshalltown, and Delwin clubs in Iowa, with Rockford, Ill., Milwaukee, Vicksburg, Miss., and with Pittsburgh and the Chicago Cubs in the majors.

Pitched for Milwaukee

Beginning in 1912 he pitched for seven years for Milwaukee in the American association. He managed the Oelwein semi-pro team in 1921 and 1922 and later the Vicksburg club of the Cotton States League.

Slapnicka established a high record as scout for the Cleveland club. Many of its most capable players were obtained by him from the sandlots and minor leagues, some of his most recent acquisitions being Trosky of Norway, Ia., slug-ging first baseman, Mel Harder and Willis Hudlin, pitchers, and Odell Hale, infielder. He was also instrumental in signing Earl Averill, outfielder.

Slapnicka is 49 and a native of Cedar Rapids. He left here today for Dayton, Ohio, where he will attend the annual meeting of the Association of Baseball Leagues and from there may go to Cleveland.

Beavers Defeat Penn 18-0

OSKALOOSA, Nov. 18 (AP)—Led by Watt Keister, Buena Vista defeated Penn 18 to 0 here today in an Iowa conference football game.

The Beaver quarterback scored touchdowns in the first and second periods, and Don Van Pearson, end, counted the third touchdown in the fourth quarter.

Frosh Cagers Will Answer Call for Men Today at Fieldhouse

Freshman basketball players at the University of Iowa were scheduled to begin their season of drill this afternoon under the direction of Coach Bill Boelter.

The yearlings within the next week will furnish opposition for the varsity squad as the Hawkeys work for the season's opener Nov. 30 with James Milliken.

AMES, Ia. (AP)—Rain forced Iowa State indoors yesterday, and the Cyclones heard a scout report and a chalk talk from Coach George Veenker.

Button Up Your O'Coat For Ol' Man Winter Am Comin' Within Fortnight

By MARGARET GORDON
Button up your overcoats, and dig those overshoes out of your wardrobes, for Ol' Man Winter, if he holds true to a schedule he has maintained throughout the last 33 years, will descend upon Iowa City within a fortnight.

Dec. 1, three weeks before his formal debut, winter should be ushered into the local scene on the icy blasts of north winds.

Governmental Approval
That is the prediction of Prof. John P. Reilly of the mathematics department—a prediction which bears the stamp of governmental approval, for Professor Reilly is an official government observer.

Nor are winter prophecies the extent of Professor Reilly's predictions, for he looks forward to the spring of 1936 to foretell that that season will be "to revert to the veracious—all wet."

Returning to the precedents set by the last 33 years of weather condition, Professor Reilly cites the records when he calls attention to the fact that since 1896 the normal measure of rainfall has been 34.46 inches annually, while this year 35.35 inches of rain have fallen; which places 1935 .89 inches above preceding years. And to date, Professor Reilly points out, 1.69 inches above the normal amount of rain have taxed the absorption powers of the earth so extensively that future absorption will be impossible; hence a wet spring.

Again delving into the records, it was disclosed that the mean temperatures recorded this year deviated little from the normal. In comparing the first three months of 1935 and previous years, it was found that in January, February and March, 1935, the temperatures were 22.0, 29.0, and 41.6, respectively. The mean temperature for the same months over a period of previous years averaged 22.2, 23.5, and 36.3.

Cloudy Month
In commenting upon present weather conditions, Professor Reilly remarked that November has been an exceptionally cloudy month. He commented on the variations which took place between Nov. 1, when skies were 75 per cent clear, and Nov. 18, when they were unusually cloudy.

With 35 to 85 per cent of the days between Nov. 8 and Nov. 9 mild, a

"Sharing of Jesus and teaching comradeship among men are the bases of all disciples and parishes," the Rt. Rev. Frank L. McElwain, bishop of the Minnesota diocese, said in his sermon as guest minister at the Trinity Episcopal church Sunday.

"The difficulty in religious life today is establishing a personal relationship with God. Once we have attained this relationship we acquire an inner serenity that no obstacle can destroy.

"Jesus taught comradeship and fellowship among men. A criticism of religion today is a lack on the part of church-goers of this fellowship and the sharing with others what God has done with and for them," he declared.

Intellectuals In Italy Condemn
War Says Jung

"In Italy the intellectual people do not approve Premier Mussolini's colonial venture on the grounds that the nation is not rich or strong enough to undertake foreign conquests at the present time," Prof. Moses Jung of the university school of religion told Kiwanians at a luncheon in the Jefferson hotel yesterday noon.

Professor Jung based his opinions on an extensive Mediterranean tour that he took last summer. "It is almost unbelievable," he commented, "but I saw six year old tots drilling with guns at one of the schools that I visited in southern Italy."

"I was especially impressed by the inequality and the apparent helplessness of the people of the Mediterranean countries. The people are in a lower state than even the American depression's lowest point."

"Conditions of the people in Turkey and Syria are bad. But in Palestine I found a striking contrast. There several of the seaport cities had modern living quarters and an intensive effort is being made to improve living conditions throughout the country," he declared.

He praised the labor board in Palestine, which has done much to improve conditions there. He pointed out that the Jews entering the country are of the selected classes, fitted for the work of rebuilding Palestine.

Sing! Sing!
All-University "Sing"
Contest Planned
For Feb. 10, 12

Collegiate singing, popularized by the movies, stage and radio, will make its appearance on the University of Iowa campus when dormitories and chapter houses compete in an all-University "sing" contest, preliminaries of which will take place Feb. 10 and 12 at Iowa Union.

Competition is open to any of these organized campus groups. Ninety per cent of the group's membership must be included in the competing organization. In addition to their optional numbers, the men's organizations will be required to sing "On Iowa" and the women's groups, "Old Gold."

Judges from the music department will determine the four groups which will compete in the finals Feb. 17 in the main lounge of Iowa Union.

All-University "sings" are annual traditions in many colleges and universities and it is with the hope of establishing such a tradition that the contest is being planned here.

Betty Minkel, A4 of Ft. Dodge, is general chairman of the contest and is assisted by representatives of several campus organizations. The committee in charge is as follows: Ann Louise Crow, A4 of Burlington, Mortar Board; Tom Miller, A4 of Iowa City, A.F.I.; Marguerite Cook, A4 of Clarinda, Y.W.C.A.; Robert Rankin, A3 of Mason City, Y.M.C.A.; and Gladys Strayer, A3 of Cresco, University Women's association.

Let's Really Back the Team

IOWA FACES its last football game of the season Saturday afternoon, and it faces what will probably be one of the hardest games of the year. Both Iowa and Northwestern have been the "dark horses" of the Big Ten this year, and both teams have had surprising success as well as having met several defeats.

Campus organizations are uniting in their efforts to send the Iowa band to Northwestern for this final game, and are making plans for a special train to Chicago Friday afternoon. These organizations are doing their best to get the student body and Iowa citizens to really support the Iowa for this final game.

Say what you will, yet any man knows that it makes it just a little easier to win when a team knows that there are several thousand or a thousand students in the stands pulling for them to win, and that there are five thousand more on the campus who are backing them as well.

Iowa's band has not gone to any of the games away from home this year, and for the first two games at home was not very large or impressive, but now it is full size and capable of presenting as good an appearance as any band in the Big Ten.

With the proper kind of support Iowa has a good chance to win this game and finish in the upper division of the Big Ten. If the students and townspeople are as interested in the team as they have professed during the earlier part of the season, now is the time to show that support when it is really needed. Help send the band to Northwestern. Go to Northwestern yourself, and if you can't go, then be on hand to give the team a send off and to welcome it back whether it wins or loses.

More Money For War Gods

EIGHTEEN YEARS ago the United States entered the World War after remaining out of it for more than two years. The president had been re-elected on the slogan, "He kept us out of war!" Yet only a few short months after taking office for the second term we were at war with the central powers.

Today we are again faced with the possibility of another world war in the near future. Again the president has insisted that we shall remain neutral. Still we go on building up our naval and military forces to a stronger and stronger position every month. Untold billions have been put into these forces, and millions more are scheduled to go into them soon.

If we do not intend to carry on an aggressive war, and it is undoubtedly true that the people of the country do not want war of any kind, then what is the point of so much preparation? The chances of an effective foreign attack upon this country are still fairly remote. No nation is going to attack another nation of 120,000,000 persons with the facilities we have for defense. There is no further need of arming in this country, yet our administration continues to pour the dollars into cannons and battleships.

Conservatives Find Support

ELECTIONS IN England have resulted in the conservative party remaining in control. There might be a lesson in that for ourselves. England is reported to be well on the road to recovery, as are many other European countries. They have not resorted to the pump-priming devices that we have, but have got at the matter of ending the crisis in a more direct manner.

When conservatives came into control one of their first moves was a slash in government expenditures. They cut the costs of government down to the very bone, or as nearly so as possible. They did not follow a policy of spending, spending, spending, as we have done in the United States in our effort to prime the pump, but instead they sought to spend even less.

How well this system has worked was at least partially shown in the elections last week. The citizenry of the country apparently believe that the best has been done that can be done, for they retain the conservatives in control of the government. In the United States, however, we have turned toward the liberal, with a tendency toward radical, side of government. Money has been spent right and left on anything that was offered as a means for spending money. When some of them were found to be entirely impractical the only thing that was able to put even a partial stop to them was an action of the supreme court. As has been true throughout the history of our country, no commission or authority ever created by the government has quit of its own free will and accord, and most of them have just gone on and on indefinitely.

Perhaps if we were to follow the example of England and be a bit more conservative, cutting down on expenditures as much as possible instead of increasing them more and more every day, we might find ourselves on the road to recovery a little sooner. There are no short cuts out of a depression, and whatever way you may take it is still a long, hard grind.

What Others Think

A 64-year-old treaty between the United States and Italy was brought into the news last week. Ratified in 1871, it was originally to run for five years, but provision was made in it for its continuation automatically and indefinitely until terminated on twelve months' notice by one party or the other. No such notice has been given. And in view of this, attention has been called to one section of the agreement: (Article VI), which pledges both countries not to levy discriminatory duties on one another's products, and then goes on to say:

"Nor shall any prohibition be imposed on the importation or the exportation of any articles the produce or manufactures of the United States or of Italy, or from the territories of the United States, or to or from the territories of Italy, which shall not equally extend to all other nations."

Two questions have been raised: (1) Did the United States violate this provision when, acting under the neutrality resolution of congress, our government placed an embargo on the export of arms and munitions to Italy and to Ethiopia, but not to all other nations? (2) Would it constitute a violation of the treaty to extend this embargo to include oil, scrap iron, cotton and other war materials—a step which the Roosevelt administration believes would require amendment of the neutrality resolution, and a further grant of authority by congress?

Several theories have been advanced. One is that arms and munitions—"implements of war"—do not fall within the general category of commercial articles and so do not come within the terms of the treaty of 1871. A second theory is that international law, and the pattern of our treaty legislation, provide for the automatic lapse of such pacts when one of the contracting parties goes to war. Again, it is suggested that Italy has already violated the 1871 agreement through discriminatory acts inherent in the restriction of Italian imports. It is also pointed out that Italy has broken the Pact of Paris to which the United States is a party. Finally, it is argued that American practice provides that, in a treaty, and a statute, such as the neutrality resolution are in conflict, the one last adopted governs for administrative purposes. Here the Chinese exclusion act is cited as a case in point.

The question of the treaty of 1871 has not been raised by the Italian government. But, for the sake of keeping the record straight, as well as for the information of the American public, it would be helpful to have the state department's official interpretation of the present situation.

Man never is but always to be blessed. That applies particularly to the saving of our government and our society by the formation of a political third party steeped in radicalism. Governor Olson of Minnesota is sure that such a party is necessary and will be created. But in his speech in this city on Friday evening he was a little indefinite about the date. It might possibly be in 1936, but the probability is that it will be put off until 1940. All that is necessary, according to Governor Olson, is for every radical group or faction in the country to unite with every other in a grand harmony of purpose to destroy the profit motive and displace capitalism by socialism. This is a pretty large order even for forward delivery four years from now. Family quarrels are notoriously the most bitter of all, and at present the radical family is broken up into units fighting each other. The socialist party, for example, has just voted to expel all its left-wingers. Antagonisms like that are constantly developing between radical leaders, so that the era of universal brotherhood, with such grace, mercy and peace as Governor Olson predicts, may well have to be shoved along till 1944 or later. Such a hope deferred is not necessarily of the kind that maketh the heart sick, but it does make a good many heads swim.—New York Times.

A Washington Bystander

WASHINGTON—The latest republican national committee booklet, entitled "Roosevelt the Waster," has several highly interesting things about it. For one thing, it marks an end of any doubt as to the political wisdom of directly attacking the president himself, which committee strategists heretofore have avoided. The election this year, whatever other points may be read into them by rival political star-gazers, appear to have satisfied Republican National Chairman Fletcher's publicity crew that Roosevelt's personal popularity no longer bars frontal attack on the chief new dealer in person. The booklet starts right off that way, with a bang. The first sentence is: "President Roosevelt—spend-thrift—with your money."

A New Yorker At Large

By JAMES R. BESTON

NEW YORK—The New York Automobile show, where they charge a dollar to make you unhappy, is the most astonishing of our annual absurdities.

For 50 weeks of the year, salesmen will flatter, entice, bribe, trick or shove you into salesrooms to look at big shiny machines which cost a quarter every time the wheel turns. This is bad enough. But during the other two weeks they ask you to pay for the privilege.

The function of the annual show here, as nearly as I can judge from my wanderings, is to give the boys from Sycamore and Sloux City a whirl at the big town. You can't get into a theater while they're here, and when you want to walk across a hotel lobby to get a newspaper, you have to look both ways to see that there isn't a car coming.

The real intrigue and trickery of the show, however, takes place behind the locked doors of the hotel ballrooms. There the salesmen, managers and the press-agents—the villains—show the boys "how to put it over." They show them movies and tell stories of the nobility of industry, and if a salesman isn't willing to go out and die for dear old Pontiac when the week's over, it's not because he didn't get pepped, primed, pumped, fed, soaked and saved while here.

The speakers at these meetings are positively spiritual. I sat in on one session and almost joined when the gentleman finished. I was on the verge of giving him the money just to keep the business going, it seemed like such a noble and upright thing. I kept thinking though, of all the thousands of people who will be listening to these same speeches given in salesrooms and in homes and new cars for the next year. In fact, being a newspaper man, I'm a little more interested in the cut of this year's speech than this year's car. On the whole, I think the 1936 model is a little better. It rides easier.

But it is the singing, rather than carefully studied speeches, which troubles me. The psychologists in the sales departments have evidently started out with this premise: that a man can't sell anybody if he's not sold himself. This is undoubtedly wise, but I believe they carry the education of their men to extremes when they teach them to sing in praise of automobiles.

Mind you, I have no objection to salesman singing. Let them sing the reciting midnight through if they like. But they should keep their singing and their business separate.

Screen Life

By HUBBARD KEAVY

HOLLYWOOD — The hairdresser demanded the immediate presence of Genevieve Tobin when we'd no more than said "Hello." I suggested a meeting a half hour later, but the make-up man put in a bid for that time. The still man said "3 sharp, or else," and Genevieve thought I'd walk would see her free. I couldn't wait.

Genevieve had an idea that would save me some work. She'd ask the questions and write the answers—while her hair was drying. She did, with this result:

"My eyes are green and I detest oyster plant. I have 10 highland white terriers and they all love to swim. I never have worn black cotton stockings. I don't like electric clocks. I was born in New York City and I like buttered carrots."

Designs Own Clothes: "Are these random thoughts or not?" When I was a little girl I wore a red flannel chest protector. I design my own clothes and never wear green. My hair is reddish brown and my favorite color is blue, but I don't like blue-fish. I love brussels sprouts cooked with chestnuts. I like Jane Austen. I play the piano, harp and tennis.

"I have a five-acre farm in Montecito, Calif., and I like to water flowers, vegetables and fruit trees. I am unmarried and live with my mother and my brother. I don't know whether I'll ever get married. I've earned a sock in my life. I don't like Maxfield Parrish painting, poems by Don Blanding, or hash. I played with Leslie Howard in 'Murray Hill' on the stage, but 'Petrifed Forest' is my first picture with him.

"I never write poetry or paint pictures, because I don't know how. I hate living in a trunk and I like to play comedy parts. I am five feet three inches tall, but does it matter? I have never been on the top of a mountain.

She Likes Crumpets: "Once I looked through a telescope at the moon. I never milked a cow, rode a horse bareback, or fell off a bicycle. I never walked five miles through the snow to school. Once I had chilblains. I like Jacob Wasserman, Robinson Jeffers, and crumpets. I'm afraid of mice and spiders. I had measles, chicken pox and whooping cough as a child.

"I think all men should wear blue neckties. I don't like men who use coatpicks. I don't like people who say 'marvelous.' Tea in the afternoon is very nice. I think twilight is a fine word. I don't like women who swear.

"I guess that ought to be enough about me."

Roosevelt's Speech Among Year's Best Says Prof. Baird

President Roosevelt's speech at the dedication of Boulder dam will be included among the commemorative addresses of the year, Prof. A. Craig Baird, director of university debate, asserts in an article in the current issue of Vital Speeches of the Day.

This speech "upholds the American traditions of excellence in oratory," he comments in his critical analysis. "The Roosevelt diction is prosaic but it filled with nuances that stamp the president as perhaps our foremost public speaker."

Professor Baird has been appointed member of a committee of five to conduct a department of public speaking feature in this magazine. The department was created to show contributors how to analyze the form of speeches on the basis of appraisal satisfactory to public speaking teachers.

Prof. F. E. Bolton Is Author of Book On Wash. Education

Prof. Frederick E. Bolton, former head of the education department, is the author of "History of Education in Washington," written in collaboration with Thomas W. Bibb, president of Albany college, Albany, Ore.

According to this book, Iowa school laws were used in Oregon for several years under Oregon's provisional government. Legislators of Oregon expected to follow New York school laws, but as they had no copy of these laws, they used Iowa's.

Professor Bolton was here from 1900 to 1912, and during that time the education department became the school of education. It was not until later that it was known as a college.

Dean emeritus of the school of education at the University of Washington, Professor Bolton is chairman of the commission of the Northwest association on the accrediting of higher institutions.

Purdue Wins Iowa President Uses Incorrect Grammar in Telegram

President Eugene A. Gilmore lost a grammatical decision to Dr. Edward C. Elliot, president of Purdue university, in an exchange of telegrams before and after the Iowa-Purdue football game Saturday, an Associated Press dispatch from Indianapolis revealed last night.

The decision, awarded by Gov. Paul V. McNutt of Indiana, informal referee, grew out of the correct usage of the comparative and superlative forms of the adjective "good."

In the pre-game telegram, President Gilmore wired President Elliott, saying, "May the best team win." A purist, more fastidious in his choice of adjective forms, would have said, "May the better team win."

Dr. Elliott, displaying neither a disregard for the niceties of grammar nor the care of the purist, delivered the telling blow in his reply after the game.

"Not only did the better team win," he telegraphed, "but the best team won."

Could You Spare a Dime?

No Dime but Food, Bed at Relief Office

(Ed. Note) This is the first in a series of articles on the work of offices under the direction of the Iowa emergency relief administration. The writer recently made a study of the functions of this branch of government relief administration.

By MARY BURKE
"Can you tell me where we can get some food and a place to sleep?"

This is a typical question in the day's work of an Iowa unemployment relief office, where anyone in need of help, whether financial, medical, or personal may come to the office to personally interview the director of relief and receive a visit from the case worker.

Two Girl Hitch-Hikers
One night just before closing hours two girls walked into the office dusty and tired from an all day hitch-hike. "We'd like something to eat and a place to stay tonight," said one of the girls shyly but with an assumed bravado.

The director of relief questioned them as to their identity. Both gave names, ages, and addresses said it would be a nice vacation for me."

The relief director telephoned the mother, and found her statement to be true. She told the director, "Yes, I knew Jean didn't have any money, but I thought Loretta had about 15 cents."

Lunch on Hot Dog, Pop
The girls disclosed that since morning they had only eaten a hot dog and a bottle of pop bought them by a trucker with whom they had ridden.

The relief office provided supper, rooms for the night, and breakfast, and the two travelers were sent on their way the next day with enough money to last until they reached Loretta's home.

Loretta was very grateful. "You've been awfully kind to us," she murmured. But Jean was unmoved, turning on her run-over heel and marching out of the office.

Jobless, Deserted Women Apply
The man who has been unable to find a job, the child who needs his teeth straightened, and the woman whose husband has deserted her—all bring their problems to the relief worker. Most of the actual contact work with relief clients is done by the director of relief, who has charge of administering all county

Prof. Bush to Talk At French Meeting

Prof. Stephen H. Bush, head of the Romance languages department, will speak at a French club meeting at 7:30 this evening in room 211, Schaeffer hall.

A French dinner at 6 o'clock in Youde's inn will precede the meeting.

Reject Ineligible
A number of people, not actually eligible for relief, but "out for all they can get," apply, but their applications are usually rejected.

Not only local men and women but transients in need of a friend come to the office for assistance, as shown by the foregoing incident.
