Declare War Certain If Oil Embargo Takes Effect

Il Duce Makes Plans of War In Emergency

Desperate Stand of Italy Causes League To Postpone Program

ROME, Nov. 28 (AP)—Official Italian dispatches said tonight that Daggah Bur fortress, Ethiopia's "holdout" point on the southern front, was demolished by a fascist air bombardment.

The announcement said two squadrons of five planes each flew over the fortress at intervals of four minutes. Each squadron dropped half of its bombs.

After circling the city for five minutes, the combined squadrons swooped down and let loose the remainder of the bombs and "fulfilled their assignments," the communique stated.

ROME, Nov. 28 (AP)—Responsible persons with high connections said tonight a war that might be a world war would be certain to result if the League of Nations places an oil embargo upon Italy.

These persons were not officials. They said Premier Mussolini, at a midnight session of the fascist grand council Nov. 18, adopted this three point program to be used if an embargo is applied:

Withdraw Ambassadors

1. Italy would withdraw her ambassadors and ministers from all "enemy" countries (those applying the oil sanctions).

2. Italy would quit the League of Nations.

3. Italy's "death squad" air force of the navy would strike immediately at the British fleet in the Mediterranean. This is reported to be a force of 125 pilots pledged to go to certain death. Each would carry one huge bomb in his plane, pick out an enemy warship and dive upon the vessel.

It would be a sudden, desperate war in an attempt to break through the ring of 52 besieging nations, these sources said.

This determination was said to have been given by Premier Mussolini to Sir Eric Drummond, the British ambassador, here last Saturday and through the Italian ambassadors to Premier Laval of France and Sir Samuel Hoare, British foreign secretary, on Monday and Tuesday.

Causes Delay

It was knowledge of this program, these sources continued, that caused postponement of a meeting of a League of Nations committee scheduled for tomorrow to consider an oil embargo.

Tracy Awaits Gallows With Poor Appetite

FT. MADISON, Ia., Nov. 28 (AP)—Reginald Tracy, the former Manchester choir singer convicted of plotting the murder of his wife, slumped tonight on a prison cell cot awaiting the grim "processional" to the gallows and death at 7 a.m., tomorrow.

Prison guards served him a chicken dinner, a Thanksgiving dinner—his last dinner—tonight, but reported his "appetite didn't seem to be so good."

"He hasn't been getting much exercise in a death row cell," one guard said, "and besides, well nobody eats any too well under such circumstances as a rule."

The Rev. John E. Reese, prison chaplain who spent two hours with Tracy today, said the condemned man is "resigned."

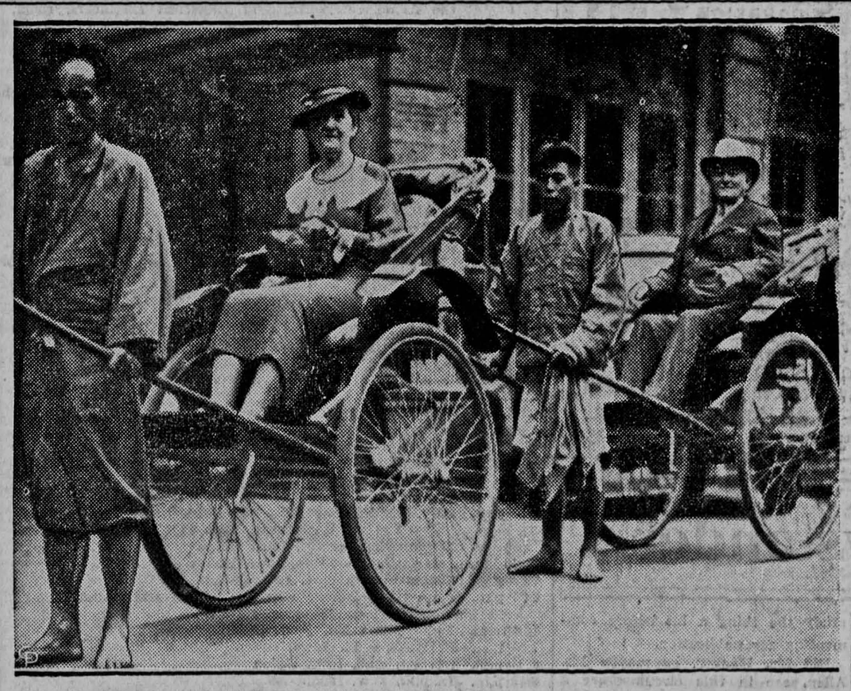
"Tracy told me," the chaplain said, "that he has no complaint to make.

"'I will take my medicine like a man'—that's the way he put it."

U. S. Troops Cause Chinese Speculation

WASHINGTON, Nov. 28 (AP)—A large question mark tonight shadowed the eventual status of American troops in north China in view of heavy Japanese military concentrations there and the seizure by Nipponese soldiery of control over the railway lines in eastern Hopei province.

GARNERS ENJOY JINRICKSHA RIDE IN CHINA



Garners go riding in China

One of the first things Vice-President John Nance Garner wanted to do when he visited China on a good-will tour was to ride in a jinricksha. And in the above picture, taken in Shanghai, he's doing that. The occupant of the first jinricksha is Mrs. Garner. The building in the background houses the American consulate general. The vice-president never had been abroad until he took this trip.

Selassie Will Lead Armies On Battlefield

ADDIS ABABA, Nov. 28 (AP)—Emperor Haile Selassie left today for Dessye to take command of his warriors attempting to repel the fascist invasion.

A huge military escort was provided for the ruler, who traveled by automobile. He was accompanied by Tecle Hawariate, former minister to France and representative at Geneva, who also is one of Ethiopia's best military strategists.

"I leave without knowing when I return or if I shall die for my country," the emperor told the abuna (high bishop) of Ethiopia's Coptic Christian church.

"But if I never return, I shall be happy knowing that you, my father, are in my place. Give me your benediction and do not forget me in your prayers."

Dessye is in eastern Ethiopia and is field headquarters between the northern and southern armies.

The government claimed today its attacks on the Italians were bearing fruit on both fronts.

Everett Colson, American advisor to the emperor, taking a brief respite from his arduous duties, celebrated Thanksgiving tonight with 30 other Americans.

HANNIBAL, Mo., (AP)—They will climax a year-long Mark Twain centennial celebration here with a dinner Saturday night on the one hundredth anniversary of his birth.

Winter Seizes Middlewest In Freezing Grip, Snow Flurries

Ice Covered Highways Cause Many Wrecks In Iowa; Mercury Drops to New Low

By The Associated Press

Iowa's first wintry blast reaped a toll of six lives today and held the state in a grip of snow and ice.

Scores of other persons suffered major and minor injuries in automobile accidents on highways glazed with ice and snow.

The dead:

John Schmidt, 42, of Sibley.

Mrs. Schmidt, 36, of Sibley.

Two daughters, Arlene, 13, and Marlyn 2.

Glenn W. Shomler, 45 of Boscobel, Wis.

His son, Ronald, 12.

The four members of the Schmidt family were killed, and two others seriously injured, when a Rock Island passenger train crashed into the center of their automobile at a crossing near the outskirts of Sibley.

Roger Schmidt, 16, and Margery, 18, were taken to a Sibley hospital where physicians said their condition was serious.

The family lived on a farm nine miles southeast of Sibley. Schmidt was driving to Sibley when the accident occurred. The train, running two hours behind schedule, crashed into the automobile as it presumably skidded onto the tracks. The four were killed outright. The crash demolished the car.

Highways Slippery

The weather was clear but the highway was slippery with glazed snow.

Shomler's car skidded on icy pavement near Eagle Grove and crashed into a moving freight train. Mrs. Shomler and three other sons were injured but not critically. The Shomlers were driving to Rockwell City to visit relatives.

Suffers Injuries

At Olin, Malcolm Walker, 18, of Morley, suffered a fractured skull and left leg when the car he was driving crashed into an eastbound Milwaukee freight train. Keith Conner, 35, of Morley, riding with Walker, suffered head injuries and cuts on his right arm. Both were taken to a Cedar Rapids hospital. The accident was one of eleven in the Cedar Rapids area in which 14 persons were injured.

The mercury, which climbed slightly upward during the day, edged back toward zero tonight. The weather bureau predicted zero weather for the northeastern area of the state tonight. In the northwest the bureau expected the mercury to drop to five degrees above zero, to 12 in the southeast and to 15 in the southwest.

Charles City reported a low of 12 degrees last night. The weather bureau said temperatures probably fell to zero in open sections of northern Iowa. Readings in the high teens and low twenties were general over the state.

Snow Still Falls

Flurries of snow still swirled in many sections of Iowa today. Highways were still hazardous tonight, but on main arteries of travel tracks were worn down through the glaze of ice, making travel less dangerous.

The highway commission was ready to swing into action but anticipated no likelihood of highways being closed by drifts. The snow ranged from a trace in the southern section to amounts sufficient to drift before the wind in the northern areas. The snow measured four inches over the fields in northeastern Iowa.

Hundreds of minor accidents were reported. Automobiles, despite the slow pace at which they crept over icy pavements, slid off into ditches. Rail and bus traffic was hampered, although not seriously.

Rain, snow and nearly zero weather collaborated to make driving conditions in Iowa City difficult over Thanksgiving. Rain began falling Wednesday evening but gave way to snow during the night. The mercury dropped to 18 degrees for Saturday's low and kept on diving Thursday, reaching the low of 13 degrees last night.

Snow and ice coated roads caused 16 accidents during the holiday's vacation. Only slight damage resulted and no one was injured.

Brazilian Government Claims Total Suppression of Revolt

Pres. Vargas Gains Strength

Revolution Lasts Only 4 Days With 138 Dead From Fighting

RIO DE JANEIRO, Nov. 28 (AP)—The Brazilian government announced the complete suppression of a communist-inspired revolt today and said 138 persons were killed in the four days of savage fighting.

The nation was rapidly returning to normalcy, although a "state of siege" is in existence.

Tells of Dead

President Getulio Vargas advised governors of the various states that estimates of the dead in Rio Grande do Norte and Pernambuco states totaled 100 and officials said 38 were killed here when a revolt was smashed yesterday.

Eighteen soldiers died in fighting around the barracks of the Praia Vermelha (Red Beach) and 20 others were slain when federal aviators bombed the aviation school.

Many Wounded

Among those killed here were six army officers, 15 sergeants and one civilian. An Associated Press survey of Rio de Janeiro hospitals showed 76 persons were taken to hospitals for treatment of wounds.

With the situation apparently well in hand, the federal government sought to arrest more socialist plotters. Some 1,300 soldiers of the regular army are under arrest and 300 of them have been taken to the isle of Flores, near the capital, for safe keeping.

Japs Tell of Chinese Secession Campaign In Chinese Armies

TIENTSIN, China, Nov. 28 (AP)—Japanese reports said today a Chinese garrison had rebelled against the Chinese national government and was marching northward to join a campaign of secession.

The reports aroused fears of bloodshed in the northern autonomy movement.

More troops of Japan arrived here today, while Chinese forces were withdrawn from the Tientsin-Peiping area.

Japan is rushing a huge air base to completion and when it is finished 50 airplanes will arrive for "maneuvers," Cheng Keh, the mayor of Tientsin, told reporters.

Gross Immorality Looked Into at U. Of Arkansas Frat

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark., Nov. 28 (AP)—An investigation into "gross immorality in a fraternity house affair" was continued over the Thanksgiving holidays today.

Acting President W. N. Gladson who yesterday announced seven men students had been expelled said the inquiry was not closed, and that several other students "and other persons on the campus" were under investigation.

He also said inquiry was being made to establish "any possible degree of guilt of a fraternity and a sorority."

U. S. Delegates To Leave For London Parley

WASHINGTON, Nov. 28 (AP)—America's delegation sails tomorrow for the London naval conference, frankly recognizing tremendous odds against success but determined on an effort to stave off a threatened armaments race.

The United States was represented today as determined to utilize every diplomatic means to carry out President Roosevelt's instructions to oppose sea power increases that will further pyramid mounting naval costs. The government was expected to seek agreements to reduce tonnages or maintain existing navies for another five or six year period.

Norman H. Davis, chairman of the delegation, has been drafting the address in which he will set forth American aspirations for the conference in its opening sessions.

The task before the conference, beginning Dec. 6, is that of seeking to limit naval construction after the Washington and London treaties expire on Dec. 31 next year.

Will File Brief In Hoosac Mills Case

BOSTON, Nov. 28 (AP)—A brief in the Hoosac Mills processing tax protest case will be filed with the United States supreme court Tuesday on behalf of the National Association of Cotton Manufacturers, Russell T. Fisher, association secretary announced today.

Fisher said the tax had cost American consumers nearly a billion dollars.

U.S. Celebrates Thanksgiving In Manner of 314 Year Custom

By the Associated Press

The nation again gave thanks Thursday (yesterday) for the blessings of a year, continuing a tradition dating from the Pilgrim fathers.

At Plymouth, Mass., where the first Thanksgiving day was observed 314 years ago, the famous rock of the forefathers' landing was a shrine for many.

Typical Celebration

This year's celebration there was typical of thousands of other American communities. There were family reunions, a drive to union services in Memorial Methodist church, and the essential turkey dinner with all the trimmings.

The national capital's holiday was marked once more by the absence of President Roosevelt. At Warm Springs, Ga., the president last night carved the turkey for 13 of the child patients of the infantile paralysis foundation chosen by lot to feast with him, Mrs. Roosevelt and their son, James.

Point Out Blessings

In Washington divergent causes for thanks were pointed out by new dealers and their opponents. Harry Hopkins, relief chief, asserted that those who have previously had well laden Thanksgiving day tables this year were joined by "several million who until recently were on relief rolls." Administration critics found cause for rejoicing in what they termed evidence of a tendency for the country to start calculating the costs of the new deal.

But over the land generally, politics were forgotten in a united assault on the bounty of the table, in the usual traditional football games, and in spreading cheer to the unfortunates. Hospitals, jails, orphanages, the homeless and the jobless were not overlooked.

Has Tragic Side

The holiday was not without its tragic side, however. Six persons burned to death in an apartment building at Ft. Worth, Tex. Twelve others were injured in the blaze.

Two earthquakes jarred Helena and were felt in other Montana towns.

And highway deaths mounted as sleet, snow and rain over much of the country, added to the hazards of holiday driving. More than a score of fatalities were reported.

41 Defendants Return Home

CHICAGO, Nov. 28 (AP)—Most of the 41 defendants and 200 witnesses in the Sir Francis Drake estate fraud trial had returned to their middle western homes today to fortify themselves with a Thanksgiving holiday against a resumption of the trial Monday.

Federal Judge Philip L. Sullivan consented to a three day adjournment so that the alleged agents of the Drake hoax and their good friends, the "investors," might go back to Iowa and neighboring states for the holiday.

When the proceedings are begun again next week, Judge Sullivan said he would investigate a defense complaint that a government witness contradicted his testimony after leaving the witness stand.

The witness was C. H. Achenbach a Boone chiropractor, who estimated yesterday that at least 300 of his fellow townsmen invested funds with the Drake estate.

China Clipper Sails On Last Lap of Its Trans-Pacific Flight

GUAM, Nov. 29 (Friday) (AP)—The China clipper headed along the final stretch of its first trans-Pacific airmail flight today, hopping from Apra harbor here at 6:06 a.m., (2:06 p.m., Thursday central standard time) for Manila 1,700 miles distant.

The hop was over an unblazed air trail.

The clipper is scheduled to reach Manila about 4 p.m., Friday (2 a.m., central standard time), after about 12 hours in the air. Captain Musick carried in his pocket an airmail letter for President Manuel Quezon of the island commonwealth from President Roosevelt.

Coal Measure Heads Toward Supreme Court

WASHINGTON, Nov. 28 (AP)—The Guffey coal act headed toward supreme court review tonight as tests of an even dozen new deal measures before the high tribunal were projected within the next year.

Five laws sponsored by the Roosevelt administration are now awaiting high court interpretation.

The Guffey act, intended to stabilize the bituminous coal industry, promised to become the sixth following a midnight ruling by the District of Columbia supreme court holding it partly invalid.

Five other pieces of challenged new deal legislation are slowly moving up through the lower courts, and lawyers are preparing a case to test the twelfth.

Cases already before the supreme court involve constitutionality of the agricultural adjustment, Bankhead cotton control, Tennessee valley authority and public works administration acts, and a minor section of the law which created the home owners loan corporation.

Austria Will Keep Munitions Treaty

VIENNA, Nov. 28 (AP)—Baron Egon Berger-Wladenegg, foreign minister, told the federal diet today that Austria will not take advantage of the opportunity to make war profits through non-participation in League of Nations sanctions.

"We will not misuse our special position," he said.

Laval Cabinet Wins on Vote

French Cabinet Receives Vote of Confidence, But Defeat Looms

PARIS, Nov. 28 (AP)—Premier Laval's anti-devaluation cabinet won an immediate vote of confidence, 345 to 225, today from the chamber of deputies in the first skirmish of the reopening parliament, but the danger of an eventual defeat still lay ahead.

A real test is expected when Laval's economy decrees themselves are debated. The question of disbanding so-called fascist leagues is tentatively scheduled for consideration Dec. 3, followed by debate on the budget itself.

The premier won his first battle in an attempt to force acceptance of his decree laws for the defense of the franc before the chamber discussed the fascist situation.

Edouard Herriot's radical socialists, who hold the balance of power, have indicated they will oppose the government on some decrees. They said today's vote giving financial debate priority over discussion of the fascist leagues "does not mean we accept all decrees."

While Laval's policy of trying to keep the Italo-Ethiopian war from spreading to Europe only indirectly is in play, it figures in the rivalry of political extremists.

Baby, Still Missing, Seventh Victim Of Gas Explosion Fire

FT. WORTH, Tex., Nov. 28 (AP)—Firemen searched tonight for a missing baby—a possible seventh victim—in the charred wreckage of a two story apartment building, converted into a flaming death trap by an early morning gas explosion. Six were known dead and a dozen persons injured.

Except for the four-weeks-old child, all the occupants of the building had been accounted for.

Among the dead was Mrs. Belle Stephens, 78, believed by firemen to have lighted a match near a leaky gas stove that caused the explosion.

Football Death Rate Up

THE FOOTBALL death rate figure this year is a hard one to face. Thirty-five of among the finest of American youth died as a result of or were killed in football.

In glancing at a sport section we saw the following headlines: "Youth dies of injuries received on grid;" "Delirious gridder runs 14 miles back home."

In the first item was the story of an 18-year-old boy who had been injured in a football game, and had taken suddenly ill. In a state of delirium he called signals for his team, and he died with the football fighting spirit still in his heart.

In the other story a football player suffered a brain concussion and was taken to a hospital. That night he left his bed and ran 14 miles back to his home. He appeared in school the next day where he collapsed and died.

We sometimes explain the death toll of the football season as being due to sandlot playing and playing without proper equipment.

But how are we going to explain the death of these high school lads who played under a coach and with the right kind of equipment? Facts are hard to face, but we must stop this increasing death rate.

The game is far too popular to try to stop. More drastic rules must be made for the game to protect younger players. The average high school player is two or three years younger than high school gridders of five or six years ago. Perhaps additional rules might save these immature bodies that cannot stand the same knocks as their older brothers in college.

The game meant a lot to these lads, but their lives meant a lot more to their mothers.

Practice What You Preach

"ONE OF Mussolini's first acts to 'civilize' the captured Ethiopian population in the north was to force boys 'between the ages of eight and 15' to work on the roads for the Italians for two lire (16 cents) a day."—New York Sun.

Mussolini's method of civilizing is modeled on the British policy in Kenya where there are 3,000,000 Africans. The greater number of these spend their lives in compulsory labor for the benefit of the 17,000 European settlers under a British made law named the "compulsory labor ordinance." The average family yearly income in Kenya is less than $25. Out of which a tax of $5 is paid by each owner of a hut and a poll tax of $3 is paid by all able males who are not hut owners. The European population is exempt from paying this tax.

In 1933, 8,561 persons were imprisoned for failure to pay taxes according to the official report of the native African affairs department. In Rhodesia, another British territory, armed police recently shot and killed a number of African copper workers who protested against raising the poll tax from 10 to 15 shillings.

It has always been a never ceasing wonder why governments will preach one code from the front balcony and do just the opposite in the back yard. The action of the British government in the Ethiopian crisis follows this philosophy.

If Britain is so anxious to safeguard the freedom of the Ethiopians, why does she continue to practice in her colonies those things that she objects to most in the Italian conquest?

Another Conference

GREAT BRITAIN has invited France, Italy, Japan, and the United States to participate in a naval conference at London Dec. 2. In view of the fact that these countries are all engaged in increasing their naval strength, it is difficult to see how an agreement can be reached.

American naval appropriations for 1936 reached 460 million dollars. Japanese naval appropriations for 1935-36 are approximately 529,683,000 yen and for next year are expected to top 600 million yen. France has maintained her navy at a level equal to the combined strength of Italy and Germany. At the beginning of 1935, Italy possessed a total of 359,522 tonnage in service; Germany 159,190 tons, and France 555,042 tons. Great Britain has built her navy up to 1,188,284 tons as against the United States tonnage of 1,084,910. Germany's naval strength is 35 per cent of the British.

Japan and the United States are also engaged in a naval aviation expansion program. Japan expects to have 1,000 naval planes by 1937 and the United States set to have 1,910 naval planes by 1939.

After studying these figures one will wonder why so much time and money is spent on naval limitation conferences when so little can be accomplished. Until a time is reached when representatives of the various countries of the world are empowered to act for their nations at these conferences, nothing in the way of effective armament reductions will ever be accomplished. If conference delegates do agree on certain things, they have no assurance that their governments will abide by decisions. Instead, a war scare back home will immediately sky rocket naval appropriations and the work of a conference is wiped out.

Armament races are expensive, as the taxpayers of the world know only too well. Real reductions in arms of the various nations will come only from taxpayers. Until then the world can hope for little relief.

Speaking of the recent pig wager on the Iowa-Minnesota game between Governors Herring and Olson a California paper comments, "Since when has it been improper to wager pigs on pigskin classics? Looks as if someone is trying to hog the limelight."

The Mexicans and the Brazilians certainly picked the wrong season for their revolts this year. Here we have a first class uprising in Brazil and all the high pressure war correspondents off in Ethiopia, and not a few in the far east where Japan is sticking a finger in the Chinese pie again.

What Others Think

BUDGET PROBLEMS

"By having a devil of a fight" Chairman Buchanan of the house appropriations committee believes the federal deficit can be pared for the fiscal year to begin July 1 next to not more than $500,000,000. Just how much of a fight it would be can be recognized from the analysis of the budget by Lewis W. Douglas in the current Atlantic.

Being somewhat more impatient about the matter than the people at Warm Springs, the former director of the bureau of the budget begins by imagining what it would mean to try to balance the budget in the current fiscal year. The deficit for this year, it will be remembered, was originally estimated at $4,529,000,000 but on Sept. 29 last the president published a revised estimate placing it at $3,282,000,000.

Mr. Douglas goes to work. First he slices relief expenditures to $1,250,000,000. He is compelled to include $1,000,000,000 for public works projects, because they have already been contracted for, but he would provide that no further contracts should be made. He does not include AAA expenditures, presuming that they will be balanced by receipts from the processing taxes—provided the latter are not declared unconstitutional. Allowing for interest on the public debt and expenditures for the regular departments no higher than the rate prevailing in August, 1934, he gets total expenditures of $4,950,000,000.

On the revenue side, he accepts provisionally the estimated income of the government for the current fiscal year of $3,797,000,000, though he believes that "there is serious doubt that this figure will be attained." But he converts the RFC and other government lending agencies into purely liquidating agencies, and thinks about $1,000,000,000 could be got from such sources. This gives him a total income of $4,797,000,000 and brings the budget within $153,000,000 of actual balance, exclusively of statutory debt retirement.

Then he gets into the year beginning July 1 next—the one Chairman Buchanan is now talking about. He assumes that the costs of government departments, relief, and interest on public debt remain exactly the same in the 1937 fiscal year as in the present 1936 fiscal year as it would be with his revisions. The cost of public works in 1937, however, if no new contracts were made, would fall from about $1,000,000,000 to $500,000,000. Revenues, he estimates, would remain approximately the same. Continuing the liquidation of the RFC and other credit agencies might produce about $900,000,000, but revenues ought to rise about $100,000,000 because of recovery, and so make up for the reduced liquidation proceeds. Thus the budget would be actually balanced in 1937, with an excess of $347,000,000 available for debt retirement.

This, it will be noticed, is slightly better than the chairman of the house appropriations committee hopes for, but it is enough to indicate how strict a rein on regular expenditures and how sharp a reversal of emergency policies will be necessary to achieve even Mr. Buchanan's goal.—New York Times.

A Washington Bystander

By KIRKE SIMPSON

WASHINGTON—Students of the Hoover "style" in public addresses as commerce secretary, presidential nominee, and president, profess to find a wide departure in the present style employed by the political mystery man of '36.

They see Mr. Hoover more epigrammatic, more inclined to popular catch phrases. Whether that is to be attributed to the genial influence of Ben Allen, his old friend, former secretary and publicity man and present frequent traveling companion, does not appear. Mr. Allen is a publicity specialist by profession but is reticent as to his exact status in relation to present-day Hoover comings, goings and outgivings.

As a striking example of this change in Hoover style, the former president's comment on the reciprocity pact with Canada can be cited.

"I presume it is more of 'the more abundant life'—for the Canadians," says Mr. Hoover.

That comes close to the campaign wise-crack category. There were glimpses of the same tendency about Hoover's Ohio society speech in New York and the earlier speech in Oakland, Cal., which signaled his active return to the political forum for purposes still to be fully disclosed.

Hoover Goes Western

There is another aspect to that Hoover dismissal of the deal with Canada as "just another instance of this hasty economic planning." As titular head of the G.O.P., the former president goes western. He sees only the farmer "hole" in the reciprocity "doughnut," and nothing of the industrial benefits rim. Yet, he had just come from conferences with party leaders in the industrial east, where at first blush the Canadian pact was being received with considerable favor.

And why the haste? The former president interrupted his westward journey long enough to deal out his brief shot at the Canadian pact. Meanwhile Senator Borah in Washington—the farmer angle on the pact would certainly seem to be his special meat—finds it desirable to study the thing a bit before commenting for publication.

Did Mr. Hoover, or maybe Mr. Allen, see in this circumstance a chance to "scoop" Mr. Borah right in his own backyard, the farmer west for which he undertakes to speak? Was it more of a move in the Hoover-versus-Borah tussle for republican leadership than a carefully digested verdict on the Canadian deal itself?

* * *

Vandenberg Attitude

The new republican western field headquarters in Chicago even beat Mr. Hoover to it. Director Harrison Spangler, however, was merely demanding postponement of the effective date of the pact fo national referendum purposes. Prospective Candidate Vandenberg in Michigan contented himself with a blast at "dictatorship by executive decree," avoiding discussion of the merits of the pact itself.

And that Vandenberg attitude, incidentally, represents a point of view on the republican side of which much more will be heard.

General Notices

Pre-Medic Students

This applies to all students now registered in the University of Iowa who expect to enter either our own college of medicine, or any other medical school in the United States or Canada, for the freshman year's work in the autumn of 1936:

Two years ago, sponsored by the Association of American Medical colleges, the medical aptitude test was taken by 10,569 students of 317 colleges applying for admission to approximately 90 per cent of the approved medical schools of the United States. This test is required of all applicants for admission to the college of medicine of the University of Iowa, by virtue of its constitutional membership in the association (see the university catalog for the current year, at the top of page 74).

The medical aptitude test for S.U.I. applicants for admission to any medical school belonging to the American Medical association, for the year 1936-37 will be promptly at 3 p.m., Friday, Dec. 6, 1935, in the main auditorium of the chemistry building.

Each such prospective applicant is notified to call at the office of the university treasurer within ample time preceding the day of this test, in order to pay the prescribed fee of one dollar which goes to the Association of American Medical Colleges to meet expenses of giving the examination, reading the manuscripts, tabulating the results, and making these outcomes available to the respective medical schools.

The treasurer's office will issue to each student who pays this fee a card certifying that the fee has been paid; and this card is to be presented by each student as he enters the main auditorium of the chemistry building just before 3 p.m., Friday, Dec. 6, 1935. An attendant will take up these cards as presented. H. C. DORCAS

A New Yorker At Large

By JAMES B. RESTON

NEW YORK—I have been meaning to write a column about the columns that are written about New York, most of which celebrate the columnist's idea of the yokel's idea of the city.

Now, the columnist's idea of the yokel's idea of the city is a wonderful thing. Actually, it is a fiction though, and according to this fiction the people over here are a strange, miraculous lot who speak with English accents, hobnob with Clark Gable, Beatrice Lillie or Irvin S. Cobb at dinner, reel along Broadway from one night club to another every night, and never go to bed before four in the morning.

Curiously, I have not found this to be generally true. I hear more midwestern tongues here than ever I did in Dayton, Ohio, or Champaign, Ill. And though it is my job to be on Broadway after dark, I have no trouble dodging the celebrities. Most of them have come to realize that it is wise to let the public keep the illusions created by the cameras, and the footlights, and the columnists.

* * *

It can scarcely be doubted that the rest of America resents New York. Indeed, if all the resentment built up by columnists against Manhattan could be concentrated into one great force, it would undoubtedly send the whole island flying out beyond the three-mile limit. Actually, what the columnist's fantasy does is to say to the readers elsewhere: "See how dull your lives are!"

Unless a man has money, you scarcely do him a favor to point out to him that here's a great show at $6.60 a seat. And the temptation is all the more cruel when a nickel subway ride will take you to the door of the theater. It may sound exciting to go shooting through the earth in a great tube at 40 miles an hour, but it isn't when you do it every day.

* * *

Broadway now offers nothing but the movies and, at this writing, some 26 legitimate shows. The movies are available now everywhere in the country before they are in New York, and there are really only about five first-rate shows in town, all of which probably will tour the country when they close here.

It is also true though that you can get some rooms here with a view. The city has a beauty of its own, a hard courageous beauty. But after all there's nothing like the miracle of a tree. I seem to remember now what a tree looks like. They are lovely in the autumn, as I remember.

Speaking of rooms and views, I cannot keep from telling you of the real estate agent who was showing me apartments in midtown Manhattan the other day. He took me into the back of a magnificent old revolutionary house on Forty-Ninth street, and led me through a long devious hall to a rear apartment. Then he opened the door, and said, with a note of discovery in his voice "Now here's a nice three-room apartment at $90. You see the sky from the bathroom window."

Undergraduates at CCNY will assist in the administration of student relief.

Because of a Tack

Betty McIver

Alleging that her movie career is blasted and that she will lose the sight of one of her eyes as a result of negligence on the part of a carpet company in leaving a tack on the floor, Betty McIver, above, filed suit for $100,000 in Los Angeles against the carpet company. Miss McIver charges that the tack flew up and hit her in the eye.

HOSPITAL COMPANY OFFICERS

Soldier-Doctors Build In Midst of Destruction

Construction in the midst of destruction is the paradoxical life for which the medical national guardsmen are trained for while their regimental and divisional comrades are taught the art of war, these soldiers practice the more humanitarian business of healing the sick, the lame and the halt.

Local Group

Iowa City has its own representative group of soldier-doctors in the 186th hospital company, 136th medical regiment of the Iowa national guard. It is their duty to treat the ailments of the peace time soldiers, a duty which assumes increasingly tremendous proportions during a period of war.

Six officers, five of them local doctors, head the 62 enlisted men in the Iowa City unit: Capt. George Maresh, Capt. Irving H. Corts, Capt. Harry P. Lee, Capt. Arthur S. Fourt, Capt. George S. Easton and Second Lieut. Earl J. Gifford. The latter serves as administrative officer.

Training Camp

The entire force is called into action during the annual 15 day camping period each summer, for the medical detachment must care for troop hospitalization and camp sanitation. While the other guardsmen are engaged in their mimic warfare, the "medics," as they are called in guard circles, care for the sick and injured.

Drills are conducted in the basement of the American Legion building every Tuesday night, and the company is now engaged in preparation for the yearly federal inspection rounds during which all equipment and guardsmen are inspected.

I Give Up

COMBINATION of Thanksgiving, first "real thing" snow of the year and holiday spirit brought out a bobsled yesterday, upon which some nine girls toured the city and environs. Sled and girls twice stalled in front of the Delt house and we would like to state that after each stall there was one less girl. However, there is nothing to the report. We did hear, though, that after each stop there was one less Delt at the house. We can't prove it.

* * *

Trend of the times: Bob Empkie, Phi Psi pledge, is making a week end visit with Betty Barrett at the Barrett home in Ft. Dodge. She has been reported feeling that way toward a boy in Ft. Dodge and he toward a girl in Council Bluffs. Someone, evidently interested, left me to grapple with the facts, but I falter and leave it up to you.

* * *

Trend of times, con't: Grant Holman, on the outside looking in since the last two days, will haunt the boys (says he) until Dec. 6, when his fraternity mates stage a masquerade party . . . East Dubuque, a bold barrister boy and Harriett Kenline—all meaning two kindred souls answered the call of the holiday early yesterday morning. . . .

* * *

Marcella Kurtz, that Theta Phi Alpha alum, has had us worried. Now that she loves and lives for Johnny Stout our heavy hearts heave in relief. But, Johnny, why make her waste away to a mere shadow of her former self by dialing 4349 all the time.

We hear that Bob Graham, Phi Delt flash, has been taking the mitt from Babe O'Neill lately. The wind has changed, it seems, and "Moody" Blitchen, the Bellevue boy friend, is now the man of, or for, her moods. All of which makes life more of a problem for somebody, and less for somebody else. Well, it's give and take.

Chicago low lights hold over (the last):

We didn't know that old slicker Dumbaugh was going with Fern Bruce. In fact, X-9 reports he was with another gal in Chicago. X-9 hopes he won't be angered with this, but in case he is our reporter claims membership in the League for Social Justice, and hates to see anybody disillusioned. Comes word Skeets Haltom was out late Saturday night, and with a beauty who reserves a night a year for him, just him. They get together, also, when they are home, you know. Now let's see —who's this . . . . who's this Haltom boy. . . ?

* * *

Here is something we didn't know. Z-3 nominates several girls for being good natured. He says Helen Larimer, Ann (with an "e") McGarvey, Izzy Conkling and E. C. (we violate a confidence if the print that last name) lead the pack in being good scouts. Heck, we had a little bit or two about one of the gals and now can't break up the mood. Anyway, good nature is always appreciated by we gents.

* * *

Mention has been made of Jay McNamara's feelings towards our being inaccurate in connection with a little yarn about him. Jay, we always oblige, and correct errors. The gal whom Jay called his own (Lois Rovane) and who up and was wed some few days ago does NOT live in Davenport nor Burlington. She resided in Keokuk. Is that okay? And that's all for today, folks.

City High Opens Cage Season Against Lone Tree Tonight

BITS ABOUT SPORTS

By ART SNIDER

FORDHAM'S defeat of the hitherto unbeaten New York Violet eleven yesterday now throws the issue squarely up to the two Texas schools, Southern Methodist and Texas Christian, as to who shall represent the "east" in the Rose Bowl classic New Year's day.

* * *

Both boasting immaculate records, these two mighty machines tomorrow will show the greatest assembly of football headline players in southwestern football history. No less than seven touted all-American candidates will perform at Ft. Worth before an expected throng of 40,000 which will leave only room enough for the game to be played.

* * *

Bobby Wilson, 150 pound halfback and the Southwest's leading touchdowner, tops the Mustangs' powerhouse. Wilson has not been stopped this year. When his running efforts are throttled, he backs up and fires passes through the air with style and success. The 220 pound Truman Spain at tackle makes it a point to stop the enemy running game and he is helped to achieve this aim by "Ironman" Wetsel, all-American guard candidate.

* * *

Harry "six yard" Shuford, the signal calling fullback, nicknamed such because he has averaged six yards a try this year, will be back to whang the line and block for Wilson.

* * *

Topping the invading Texas Christian juggernaut will be Capt. Darrell Lester, 1934 all-American center, while flanking him will be "Slinging Sam" Baugh, who is called the southwest's ace passpitcher. The massive tackle, Wilson Groseclose, is an all-American hope, as is Jimmy Lawrence, a line bruiser.

Their campuses only 32 miles apart, the game tomorrow threatens to unreel one of the greatest exhibitions in conference history.

Ed Thompson To Team With Ken Suesens

Three Veterans to Start Against Millikin Here Tomorrow Night

Ed Thompson of Marshalltown, husky six feet two inch junior guard replaced Al Buss, Keokuk junior, at guard on the starting University of Iowa basketball team yesterday as preparations continued in full swing for the opening fray of the season against James Millikin of Decatur, Ill., tomorrow night.

The shift gives the Hawkeyes two green men in the backcourt and three men with experience in the other positions.

Walsh at Center

Ken Suesens will team with Thompson at the guards, Matt Walsh will open at center and Capt. John Barko and Sid Rosenthal will appear at forwards.

Suesens was a standout on the Burlington high school team two years ago but needs considerable competition in big-time basketball before he can compare with the ranking guards in the conference. Thompson has had a year of competition with Marshalltown junior college, leaving him only two more seasons at Iowa.

Coach Rollie Williams devoted the session yesterday morning to fundamental floor drill and offensive work designed to break through the Millikin defense.

Millikin will present a veteran team of three seniors and two juniors, holdovers from last year's squad which averaged 42 points per game. Capt. Melvin Goldman and Jay Glynn, forwards, and Delmar Cox, who averaged 15 1-4 points per game last season, are the most dangerous men.

Irish Reserves Meet Midget 5

St. Ambrose Cagers Will Provide Test For Subs at Local Gym

St. Pat's basketball season gets under way tonight at 7:30 when the Irish reserves take on the St. Ambrose midgets. The Davenport club is the trial horse of the potential first string men at the Shamrock date's ability under fire will be tested.

Father Ryan, Irish mentor, plans on using all his men with the exception of Healy, Carrigg, Coen, Patterson and Leuz, all veterans of known ability. The probable starting lineup will be: Gatens, center; two sets of forwards will be used, namely: Nosbish and Floerchinger and Gutierrez and Demery, as well as two sets of guards, Carmody and Pinney and Aaron and Byers.

To Decide Forward Berth

This tilt will decide whether Gutierrez or Demery will occupy a first team forward berth when the Shamrock varsity meets Oxford here Wednesday in their initial encounter. Both of these tiny forwards have exhibited plenty of stuff with neither one having an inside track as yet.

Thanksgiving morning found the St. Pat's cagers working up an appetite as Coach Ryan meted out a two hour scrimmage to his men. The tentative first team came back yesterday and administered the seconds a defeat as Carrigg hit his stride and drove in for many counters as well breaking up many reserve setups. Leuz, another veteran, found his basket eye and dropped in numerous buckets from difficult angles.

Stanford Will Invite Conqueror in Texas Classic for Bowl Tilt

STANFORD UNIVERSITY, Cal., Nov. 28 (AP)—Stanford probably will invite the winner of the Southern Methodist-Texas Christian game Saturday as its Rose Bowl football opponent of New Year's day.

This was indicated today when Graduate Manager Alfred R. Masters of Stanford said he would not make a decision until the week end's games had been played. He had just learned of New York university's 21 to 0 drubbing by Fordham.

Carnegie Surprises Pittsburgh With Sterling Defense

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 28 (AP)—The do-or-die Scots of Carnegie Tech, on the short end of 10 to 3 odds, battled the football forces of Pitt to a scoreless draw in their twenty-second annual "neighborhood scrap" this afternoon.

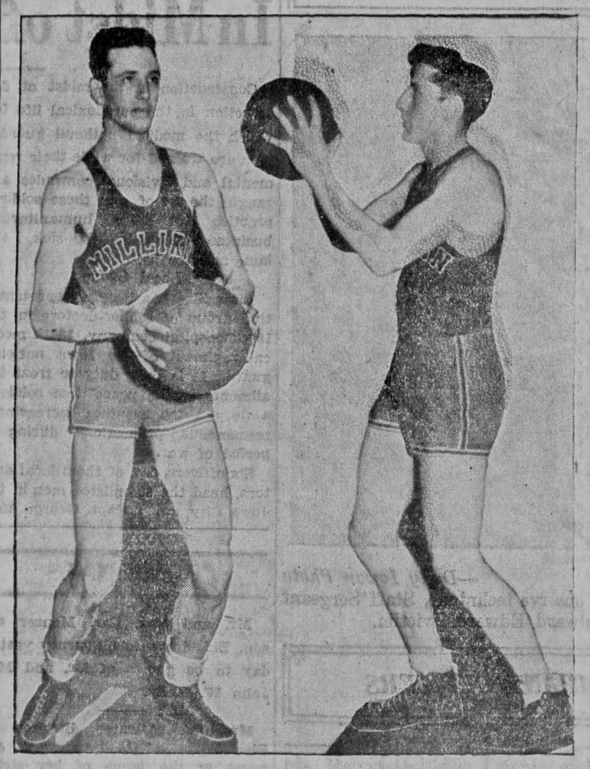
Approximately 25,000 roaring fans watched the teams struggle on the soggy gridiron and saw Carnegie, noted for its "upset" talents, courageously turn back every Pitt scoring threat and launch a few of its own. Tech only won two games this season but one of these was a victory over Purdue.

Pitt outgained the team "from down the street," 262 yards to 64.

Lewis Will Meet Rosenbloom in 10 Round Bout Tonight

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 28 (AP)—John Henry Lewis, Phoenix, Ariz., Negro who holds the light-heavyweight boxing championship, and Maxie Rosenbloom will meet for the fifth time tomorrow night in a 10 round non-title bout here.

FACE HAWKEYES TOMORROW



These James Millikin forwards, Melvin Goldman (right) and Jay Glynn (left), will lead the Decatur, Ill., five against the University of Iowa team tomorrow night in the opening game of the season. Goldman is captain.

NEW YORK GIANTS BEAT BROOKLYN

NEW YORK, Nov. 28 (AP)—The veteran New York Giants increased their lead in the eastern division of the National Football league today by drubbing the lighter and more inexperienced Brooklyn Dodgers 21 to 0, before a holiday crowd of 25,000 in the mud of Ebbets field.

The Giants now are two full games ahead of the Flatbushers.

Lions Rout Bears

DETROIT, Nov. 28 (AP)—The Detroit Lions, with a defense as brilliant as their offense, routed the Chicago Bears from the professional football championship race today, 14 to 2.

Earl "Dutch" Clark scored both Detroit touchdowns, added both extra points, and played such a strong game on defense that the best the Bears could do was get two points for a safety in the second period.

Charley Dressen was paid $10,000 to manage the Reds this year.

Temple Loses 7-6 To Bucknell Bisons

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 28 (AP)—Bucknell's football Bisons skidded and splashed their way to an unexpected 7 to 6 victory today over Temple in the season's final game, before 15,000 fans in the muddy, rainswept Temple stadium.

Washington Takes St. Louis Eleven

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 28 (AP)—Washington university won the mythical Missouri state football championship here today by blanking St. Louis university, 26 to 0, in the twentieth renewal of their 35-year-old gridiron feud.

Three Veterans Will Support Starting Five

Third Stringers to Face Cormack's Sophs In Curtain Raiser

Tonight is the night for City high's Little Hawk hoopsters to ring up the curtain on their winter hard-court season.

Coach Francis Merten's proteges will tangle with an unheralded quintet from Lone Tree in the season's opener for both outfits at 8 o'clock.

Three of last year's letter winners will probably grace the starting lineup tonight. These are Jerry Pooler, Capt. Alvin Miller, and Ed Breese. The other probable starters, Dick Amrine and Paul Ross, are carry-overs from the gridiron season who have demonstrated their court ability enough so as to warrant prominent berths on the Hawklet squad.

Ross Shows Skill

This is Ross' second year in basketball, but already he has demonstrated remarkable skill at his guard post. Amrine is a senior, but this is his first year at the Little Hawk school. He, also, is an excellent ball-handler, and is likely to keep his starting position throughout the year.

Wholesale substitution will probably be the order of the evening. Coach Merten will undoubtedly replace the starting five entirely before the end of the first period. The quintet going in for the starters will be composed of the following men: Kenny Jones, Jimmy Jones, both letter winners last year, Woody Maher, Owen Blexrud, and Jens Norgaard.

To Substitute Freely

Coach Merten does not intend to determine a regular starting club until next semester, when Breese and both the Joneses will be lost by graduation. Until that time, he will substitute freely whenever he thinks necessary.

In the warmup contest at 7 o'clock, Keith Hora, Bill Meardon, Don Graham, Howard Ash, and Paul McCune will comprise a starting third string varsity quint against Coach Herb Cormack's sophomore men, composed of Wayne Putnam, Arlo Rogers, Ted McLaughlin, Bill Buckley, and John Maher.

Officials are Shane and Larson of Iowa.

LINCOLN, Neb., Nov. 28 (AP)—A sensational comeback drive which carried the Cornhuskers 65 yards to a touchdown in the last two minutes of play gave Nebraska a 26 to 20 victory over the Oregon State Beavers in an intersectional football game here today before 25,000 persons.

Nebraska scored a touchdown in the first four minutes of play, and counted again nine minutes later on a blocked punt to start what appeared would be a walkaway victory. Oregon State went into the lead, however, early in the fourth quarter, and it looked like the tide had turned.

Thirteen line plays, with Lloyd Cardwell, Nebraska's ace halfback, carrying the ball seven times, shot the Cornhuskers back in front and they protected their advantage until the timer ended the wild scramble for touchdowns.

Cardwell scored two of Nebraska's four touchdowns, and Ralph Eldridge and Elmer Dohrmann accounted for the others. Sam Francis kicked two extra points on four tries for Nebraska. Joe Gray, star Oregon State halfback, scored the Beavers' first touchdown and Elmer Kolberg and Maynard Schultz made the others. Thomas Swanson kicked Oregon State's two extra points.

Fists Fly as Fordham Shatters New York University's Rose Bowl Dream

Rams Thump Violets, 21-0, Before 72,000

Opposing Tackles Swap Blows; Fordham Stops Aerial Attack

NEW YORK, Nov. 28 (AP)—A combination of "Rose Bowl prospect jitters" and an alert and rugged Fordham team smeared New York university's unbeaten and untied record today and shattered the Violets' hopes of participating in the annual post-season Pacific coast classic.

Before a Thanksgiving day crowd of 72,000—the largest ever to attend one of these intracity contests which started in 1899—the Rams overwhelmed the Violets 21 to 0, in a game which saw bad blood develop in the second period when the rival players engaged in a free-for-all fist fight.

The fisticuffs were inspired by Perry Geffen of N.Y.U., and Amerino Sarno of Fordham, opposing tackles, who squared off after a 15-yard penalty had been called against N.Y.U.. After order was restored by the officials, Geffen and Sarno were banished from the game.

Coming up for the sixteenth game of the series with a spotless record and one of the most widely publicized passing attacks in the east, New York university was virtually shackled on foot by Fordham's closely knit and powerful forward wall, and 20 per cent of the Violets' aerial thrusts were speared by Ram players.

Score by periods:

Fordham	14	0	0	7	—21

Colgate Coasts Over Brown

Red Raiders Hang Up 33-0 Victory Over Feeble Bears

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Nov. 28 (AP) Two extremes in eastern intercollegiate football completed their most unsuccessful seasons in many years today when Colgate coasted to a 33 to 0 victory over Brown's feeble Bears.

The air minded victors met defeat three times during the campaign, bowing to Iowa, Holy Cross and Tulane, to set a new Colgate low for an Andy Kerr-coached eleven and this Thanksgiving morning drubbing was the eighth upset the Bears suffered in nine starts.

Less than 5,000, one of the smallest crowds that has ever watched the famed Red Raiders in major action, silently endured steady rain and an overdose of one sided football.

Vanderbilt Upsets Favored Alabama 11 by 14-6 Margin

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Nov. 28 (AP)—Beneath cold, bleak skies, Vanderbilt's golden shirted Commodores thrilled 18,000 Thanksgiving day football fans this afternoon with a spectacular 14 to 6 triumph over Alabama's favored crimson tide.

The victory, Vanderbilt's first in the last six games between the traditional gridiron foes, clinched runner up honors in the Southeastern conference race.

Rankine Takes First Place in Berwick Race

BERWICK, Pa., Nov. 28 (AP)—Robert Rankine of Preston, Ont., ran home first today in the Berwick marathon for the third consecutive time, and set a new record for the nine miles, 385 yards. His time was 47 minutes, 35 seconds.

Finishing 200 feet behind Rankine was Eino Pentti, the Finn, who also beat the former course record. The old record of 47 minutes, 56 2-5 seconds was set in 1922 by Willie Ritola. A crowd estimated at 25,000 witnessed the race in a driving rain.

Arizona Tramples Drake

TUCSON, Ariz., (AP)—The University of Arizona, uncorking a powerful running and accurate passing attack, trampled Drake university 53 to 0 here yesterday in an intersectional football clash.

Ted Bland, ending his gridiron career with the Wildcats was the spearhead of the Arizona onslaught which started early in the opening period and continued unabated throughout the game.

Colorado Beats Denver

DENVER (AP)—Bill (Kayo) Lam, 154-pound quarterback spurred the Colorado university football team to a 14-0 victory over Denver university yesterday.

Penn Thumps Cornell, 33-7, In Annual Tilt

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 28 (AP)—In the mud and slime of Franklin field, Pennsylvania's football eleven wrote a successful finis today to an otherwise up and down campaign, by soundly whipping the "Win-Less Wonders" from Cornell, 33 to 7, in the forty-second renewal of their traditional rivalry.

Closing their season with their fourth win in eight starts, the Quakers were on top of the play from starting gun to final whistle, and were threatened only once—in the second period when the big Red, aroused and fighting after getting a break at midfield, scored its only touchdown.

Kansas, Tigers Battle to Draw

17,000 See Old Rivals Scrap Within 20 Yd. Lines to No Score

LAWRENCE, Kas., Nov. 28 (AP)—A cold, bleak, Thanksgiving afternoon ended today with Missouri and Kansas, rivals on the gridiron since 1891, leaving Memorial stadium glowing from the moral victory of a scoreless tie.

More than 17,00 chilled spectators saw the rival elevens battle through 60 minutes of good football with the pendulum of fortune swinging methodically from one team to the other, but never swinging quite far enough to bring more than mild thrills and chills to the gathering.

The goal posts could have been moved to the 20-yard lines, and each team would have scored only one touchdown. Once the Jayhawks advanced to the Missouri 16-yard line, only to see their hopes fade as Townsend Hader intercepted a pass. Once the Tigers advanced to the Kansas 14-yard line, only to see their hopes fade as George Hapgood intercepted a pass.

The rest of the time the rivals surged up and down the field, crisp, sparkling offenses getting under way only to be abruptly checked by a sturdy defense or an intercepted pass, or an occasional fumble.

Sooners Take 25-0 Victory From Aggies

NORMAN, Okla., Nov. 28 (AP)—Coach Biff Jones' University of Oklahoma Sooners won their final football game of the season here today by trouncing their traditional rivals, Oklahoma A. and M. college of Stillwater, 25 to 0. The Sooners scored 12 points in the second quarter and added 13 more points in the final period.

CARDINALS WHIP GREEN BAY TEAM FOR THIRD TIME

CHICAGO, Nov. 28 (AP)—The Chicago Cardinals scored their third victory of the season over the Green Bay Packers, 9 to 7, in a bitterly contested pro football game at Wrigley field which tied the western half of the National league race into a three cornered knot.

The triumph gave the Cards a record of six victories and three defeats, while the Packers have won seven while losing four. The Green Bay team has not tied any and the Cardinals have tied one. Detroit, winning today over the Chicago Bears, also had a .667 average, but had two no-decision games on the books.

All of the scoring in the game at Wrigley field came in the first half, with the Cards clinging desperately to their two point margin throughout the final periods.

Parsons Closes Grid Season With 28-0 Win Over Iowa Wesleyan

FAIRFIELD, Nov. 28 (AP)—Parsons college closed its football season today with a 28 to 0 victory over Iowa Wesleyan, traditional rival, before 3,000 shivering fans who watched through a light snow.

The Wildcats scored their first touchdown shortly before the end of the first half when Black passed 10 yards to Tincher over the goal. Two more scores were made in the third period, Norvell intercepting a pass to run 42 yards for one of the touchdowns.

Doug Lovett's 11-yard run brought the final touchdown in the last quarter.

Dick Crayne Comes Through '34 Campaign In Customary Brilliant Fashion Despite Poor Record of Team

(Editor's Note: This is the third of a series of four articles concerning the football career of Richard C. Crayne, one of the greatest backfield men ever to play for Iowa).

By SEYMOUR ZUBALSKY

After a highly successful first year of Big Ten football, Dick Crayne was now ready to resume playing the game that he loved above any other.

Great things were expected of Crayne after the way in which he had performed as a sophomore. With an added year of experience the football fans thought he would be well near unstoppable. The tremendous speed and power in his legs had carried him over more white yard lines than any other Iowa back since Aubrey Devine.

Then again wasn't the Iowa team expected to do great things? After all they had only lost three games in the preceding season, and had only lost three regulars, and Minnesota, Michigan and Nebraska were three of the best in the country. But fans everywhere made the mistake of not realizing that the three men that were lost were of the highest caliber and had been the backbone of the Iowa eleven. Two of the three were all-Big Ten, Zud Schammel and Joe Laws, and the third, Tom Moore, was recognized as one of the outstanding centers in the conference.

Overlooked Lack of Reserves

Another mistake that the so called experts made in predicting what success the team would enjoy was that they overlooked the scarcity of reserves.

The Hawks did not disappoint their followers in their first few games. They overwhelmingly defeated both South Dakota and Northwestern.

In the South Dakota game Crayne was the Dick Crayne of 1933. He crashed the line and ran the ends so effectively that when the game was over he had an average of a little over 10 yards a try for each time he took the ball.

Runs Well Against Wildcats

In the next game Dick almost duplicated his performance of 1933 when he ran all over Northwestern. Time after time his foot would send the ball soaring down the field to extract his teammates from a difficult position. He ran with irresistible force bowling over anyone who stood in his way. And when the contest was over the score stood 20 to 7 in favor of Iowa.

It would be well to mention at this time that playing with Dick in the backfield were three of the finest blocking backs ever to wear Old Gold uniforms.

Dwight Hoover, Russ Fisher, and Herman Schneidman were the unsung heroes who cleared the way such ball carriers as Dick Crayne and Ozzie Simmons. No backfield man, no matter how good, can get any place without men to clear the way.

Toboggan Slide

From the Nebraska game on, the team began to decline. Once started they slid down the chute rapidly. And the main reason was that the Hawkeyes were deprived of the services of all three of their blocking backs.

This left a big gap in the offensive maneuvers of the team. They were beaten consistently and the season was declared a failure.

But this meant nothing at all to Crayne. He played on in spite of all the injuries. Despite the mediocre ability of his teammates Crayne always managed to come through when it was needed most. He was the one bright spot in a season of darkness for the Iowa football team.

Always Fought

Never did he give up the driving, smashing tactics that made him one of the most feared backs in the Big Ten. He threw his passes accurately, as Minnesota can testify. One of his passes were responsible for one of the few touchdowns scored upon the Gophers that year.

His kicks still went as high and far as they had formerly. A 105 yard kick against Indiana in a sea of mud is ample proof of this.

Every team that was played by Iowa felt the power of his smashing type of defensive play. With little interference he smashed his way through opposing lines, seldom being stopped without some small gain.

Gained Praise of All

Every team that Dick played against was loud in praise of his play. They proclaimed that he possessed everything that a great football player should have. Such coaches as Bernie Bierman, Bo McMillin and Noble Kizer said that Crayne was absolutely the best back that they had come up against all year.

And all these honors in spite of the record made by the University of Iowa team. They won two, lost five, and tied one. They were overwhelmingly beaten by Minnesota 48 to 12, and Ohio State 40 to 7.

Once the season was over "Baldy" received the premier honor that can be accorded to an athlete, that of being adjudged by his teammates the most valuable man on the football team. He finished high in the final ratings of the committee that was to pick the most valuable man to his team during the 1934 season. The concensus was that if Crayne had played on a winning team he would have won the honor, in spite of the fact that he was only a junior and still had a year of competition left.

Kentucky Trounces Tennessee for First Time in 10 Years

LEXINGTON, Ky., Nov. 28 (AP)—Kentucky defeated Tennessee today for the first time since 1925 and by the convincing score of 27 to 0. Interception of passes by Davis and Skaggs paved the way to two touchdowns and the brilliant work by Johnson, Simpson and McMillan proved too much for the Volunteers.

Washington U. Beats St. Louis

ST. LOUIS (AP)—"Bounding Bob" Hudgens led Coach Jimmy Conzelman's revamped Washington university eleven to the mythical Missouri state college football championship yesterday as the Bears closed the 1935 record books with a 26 to 0 victory over the St. Louis university Billikens.

Maryland, Syracuse Draw

BALTIMORE (AP)—Putting up a desperate battle which kept them far ahead for three quarters, the University of Maryland held favored Syracuse university to a scoreless tie here yesterday in a downpour of rain. About 5,000 fans saw the muddy fray.

Distribute 100 Baskets Here

Charitable Offerings Culminate Service Of Three Faiths

Approximately 100 baskets were distributed among indigent Iowa City residents yesterday as a culmination of the union service Thanksgiving morning at 10:30 at Macbride auditorium.

Members of Jewish, Catholic and Protestant creeds participated in the Thanksgiving day interpretation service. After the invocation by the Rev. Herman Strub, assistant pastor of St. Mary's church, a string quartet composed of Lois Smith, Dorothy Johnson, William Plant and Hans Witschi, presented a musical prelude.

About 150 University of Iowa students and Iowa City residents heard the president's proclamation, following which a union thank offering amounting to approximately $35 was collected. This sum will be given to social service representatives for distribution among Iowa City's needy families.

Iowa Citians delivering brief addresses on the meaning of the seasonal holiday included Joseph Braverman, who spoke for members of the Jewish faith, Mrs. Thomas Farrell, representative of Catholicism, and Prof. M. Willard Lampe, who spoke for Protestant creeds.

This union service was the first of a series of campaign drives to bring seasonal good cheer to impoverished Iowa City families.

"— THE CHURCH AROUND THE CORNER"

The interpretation of a West Virginian country church as conceived by Bill McCloy, G of Iowa City, is shown above. It is a novel expression of the church in which his great great grandfather was a former minister, and in which his cousin is at present minister.

Bill McCloy, Diver - Painter, Proves Water and Oil Do Mix

By HELEN DATESMAN

Bill McCloy, G of Iowa City, has proven there are exceptions to the scientific fact that "oil and water don't mix."

An all-American fancy diver, Mr. McCloy, the son of Prof. Charles H. McCloy of the Iowa Child Welfare Research station, is also an accomplished oil painter.

It was in China, where he was taken by his parents when one year of age, that McCloy acquired a rich background for the career of an artist. His father founded and was professor of the first physical education school in China, which was established as a unit of the Southeastern university of China.

Impression

Portrayed in one of his oil studies is an impression, set down on canvas, which he gained from a visit in a small West Virginia town. While attending the services of the country church there, at which his cousin preached the sermon, the novelty and eccentricity of the pious surroundings molded his impression into a vibrant reality.

McCloy gained the distinction of being an all-American fancy diver while an undergraduate student at the University of Iowa where he received his B.A. degree in 1933. The following year he took a graduate course in art at Yale university, and at present is an assistant to Prof. Norman C. Meier of the psychology department.

Education in China

He received his grammar school education in Nanking and Shanghai until he was 13 years of age, at which time Professor McCloy returned to the United States. The dual artist attended the Phillips academy and entered the University of Iowa when his father came here in 1930.

Mr. McCloy is a member of Phi Beta Kappa, national honorary scholastic society, received the Sanxay prize, which is awarded annually to the senior in the college of liberal arts who shows greatest promise for a learned career, and was awarded the E. R. Johnson scholarship prize.

"A Dual Artist"

Bill McCloy, G of Iowa City, is a potential artist of the younger generation. His "realized impression of the country church" is one of many exceptional paintings which he has completed.

Greenwald Invents Superior Machine for Detecting Lies

A machine for measuring emotions, which its inventor believes may be a better lie detector than the ones used at present, has been recently invented by D. Ulrich Greenwald of the psychology department.

The device, which measures electrodermal responses, was recently tested informally in the laboratory. The subject of the experiment was asked to choose 10 cards out of a deck, and the cards were re-shuffled. He was then questioned as to which he had seen, while the machine recorded the change in electrodermal responses. In nine cases out of 10 the experimenter was able to detect the subject's lies.

Handy

The device is so constructed that it may be connected to an ordinary light switch. The current is cut down to about .001 amperes and runs through electrodes fastened to the observer's palm. The differences in resistance between the two electrodes is then recorded by means of a beam of light playing back and forth on a photographic plate.

The lower nervous centers are affected by any change in an individual's emotional state, and any change in the centers is also made in the sweat glands. It is difficult to reach the lower nervous centers for the purpose of measurement, but as the sweat glands are close to the surface of the skin, the emotional changes may be measured in that way.

Difficulty

The difficulty in constructing the instrument was in finding a means of recording, when alternating current was used in portable machines. The current must be changed to direct before a record may be made, and this involves a very complicated mechanical arrangement. The problem was solved by the use of a copper oxide rectifier.

Galvanometer

"I never heard of a copper oxide rectifier being used before with a galvanometer," said Mr. Greenwald. The galvanometer is that part of the machine by which alternating current is changed to direct current.

Mr. Greenwald has built machines for the University of Western Ontario, in London, Ontario, and the University of Denver. He is now constructing one for the psychology department of the University of Iowa.

An article describing the machine appears in a current issue of the American Journal of Psychology.

"Birthright" Powerful Drama Of Jews in Hitler's Germany

By F. R. Kleibacher, Jr.

The most powerful play staged by the University theater since "Yellow Jack," appeared Monday and Wednesday nights at Macbride auditorium, with the presentation of Richard Maibaum's anti-nazi drama "Birthright."

For three or four years the papers have been full of acounts of alleged nazi atrocities in a campaign to disfranchise, even eradicate, those stained with Semitic blood. Whether or not these atrocities are as barbarous as reported, there can be no question of indubitable nazi fanaticism in dealing with a problem of their own creation—the right of the Jews to live as human beings in Germany. All of this has culminated into singular ferocity since the rise of Hitler to the dictatorship.

Opens Early

Maibaum's play opens before Der Fuehrer has been made chancellor. But his dictatorship is imminent, and the feeling is there. The feeling is one of chaos, terror, dread of tomorrow, rancour, seething unrest, distorted racial hatred the maelstrom of a disillusioned, befogged, crazed nation trying to find itself, the very feeling that enabled Hitler to sweep all before him because h gave Germany's lost gnrations a reason for living. And not the least important of the components of that reason is the sterilization by pure Aryans of the debilitating ocupation in Germany of the Jewish people.

Representative Family

The Eisners are a representative well-to-do German Jewish family. Jakob, the grandfather, is as tolerant and kindly and long-suffering and agedly wise as the Old Testament itself. In him is incorporated the history and immortality of the Hebrew race on earth. His three sons and daughters bear the brunt of the latest of a long series of persecutions which go back almost to the beginning of mankind.

Leopold, the merchant, Alfred, the professor, Hugo, the cashiered officer, Freeda, whose husband is a prominent society doctor are all subjected to the savagery of guerrilla warfare. And Jakob's granddaughter, Clara, who is in love with Friedrick Lowenberg, an Ayran of the highest caste, sees her love and her life shattered as ruthlessly as her brother, Willie, who is shot down by a firing-squad for the youthful folly of saying what he thinks, for opposing the nazi tyranny.

No Dogma

All this is done in terms of characters and emotions—the essence of good drama. There's no dogma and very little preaching. The characters are real, vibrant, convincing and not distorted for the sake of establishing a prejudiced point of view. Malibaum is careful to show both sides of the picture. That's why "Birthright" is one of the best propaganda plays in recent years, and as such is far more persuasive in arousing indignation than most of the lop-sided plays emanating from our left theater.

Well Knit Play

The production was well knit together, and on the whole, quite well directed. One had the feeling that the second act curtain should have carried a much more terrific punch than it did. The nazi soldiers were prety poor imitations of what the storm troopers really must be. The action came over static and labored. Outside of this instance and the inability of the off-stage sounds to consistently coordinate with the on-stage action, the play moved fluently.

Good Acting

It was replete with fine pieces of acting all the way through. Fine performances were given by Theatrice Hazard (Elga Eisner), Dorothy Brown (Hilda Federmann). Jane Fifer showed considerable promise in her portrayal of Clara Eisner. Fred Wilson (Leopold Eisne), Chauncey Fay (Jakob Eisner), and Robert Ritz (Alfred Eisner) performed well and nice jobs were also turned in by La Verna Goodman, Betty Braverman, Bernard Balaban, Wendell Halverson, La Vern Adix, and Morris Jones. The set, the costumes, and lighting fulfilled the requisites of the script.

Paul A. Brannaman, 32, and Bernice Iona Burgess, 26, both of Iowa City were granted a license to marry in Stark county Nov. 24, a special dispatch from the Kewanee Star Courier said last night.

Seals Mailed

Two thousand letters, each containing 200 seals, were mailed to Iowa Citians yesterday. Pictured on this year's stamps is an American girl of the 1860's. Three thousand and one hundred seals were also sent to Johnson county rural schools last week. Attorney Kenneth Dunlop and Ruth Osborne are directing this year's sale.

F. O. Wilcox's Book Analyzes League Work

What is the matter with the League of Nations?

Francis O. Wilcox, University of Iowa graduate now at the University of Kentucky, analyzes league weaknesses in his new book, "The Ratification of League Conventions," recently published by the Geneva Research center.

Failure of states to ratify agreements which their delegates have signed has seriously crippled the league, and it has no power to compel them to take action, Professor Wilcox asserts.

As a result of the modern nations' fear of entrusting power to a federal "super-state," the work of the league is greatly restricted even in carrying out plans on routine matters.

Government representatives may sign an agreement at a conference but since it must be ratified by the government at home, the agreement never goes into effect, because the home authorities do not present the bill.

The check and balance system of government is responsible for many of these delays, Professor Wilcox believes.

He suggests remedies: an advisory committee should be appointed to supervise conferences, and publictly should be given the dilatory countries.

The league has succeeded in many ways, and Professor Wilcox predicts a gradual growth toward international solidarity in spite of obstacles.
