Mrs. Liggett Seeks Aid of Government

Charges Local Law Will Not Enforce Justice

Refers to Murder Case of Another Writer Who Attacked Vice

MINNEAPOLIS, Dec. 11 (AP)—Frantic appeals for aid and intervention were sent to state and federal officials tonight by Walter Liggett's widow, several hours after she named Isadore (Kid Cann) Blumenfeld, as her husband's slayer.

Charging local and state authorities "will not see justice done," Mrs. Liggett telegraphed Homer S. Cummings United States attorney general, urging him "to put the force of the federal government into the case immediately so justice may be done in Walter Liggett's murder."

Sends Long Letter

By mail she dispatched a lengthy letter to Gov. Floyd Olson whose impeachment her publisher-husband had demanded in his Midwest American weekly.

"You must know from the frame-up prosecution of Walter Liggett, which failed so miserably when it was taken out of the atmosphere in which it was started and nourished," she wrote, "that he cannot obtain even after death, any kind of fair treatment at the hands of the present Hennepin county attorney or his staff.

"If further evidence of this is necessary, consider the murder case 14 months ago of Howard Gullford, (Gulford, who, like Liggett, attacked vice and liquor interests in Minneapolis, was slain a year ago much in the same manner as the former magazine writer and publisher.

Mrs. Liggett asked the governor to name a special prosecutor with full power to act in the case, "a man able, honest, fearless and uninfluenced by the many liquor, racket, business and political interests."

Doubts Identification

The value of her identification of the Kid was viewed in a doubtful light by E. J. Goff, Hennepin county attorney.

"I doubt if Mrs. Liggett's identification will solve this case," observed Goff. "There will be plenty other angles crop up before this is over with."

Kid Cann, termed a "gunman and bootlegger" by Liggett in the publisher's last issue of the Midwest American before he was killed, is a liquor salesman for the Chesapeake Brands, Inc., of which Meyer Schulberg is president. Schulberg, questioned by police, also was attacked by Liggett as a "bootlegger."

Identify Cann

Identification of The Kid came two days after Liggett's death, the second outbreak of big crime here in two years.

China Won't Flood U.S. Market With Potatoes Anyway

WASHINGTON, Dec. 11 (AP)—With the same solemn formality by which it decrees what wheat and cotton production should be, the AAA announced today that China may ship one and one-tenth bushels of potatoes into the United States this year without paying a tax under the new potato control law.

Charged with fixing import quotas generally on the basis of average imports from 1929 to 1934, officials found that 1933 was the only one of those years in which China shipped any potatoes to this country. The amount that year was a little more than seven bushels.

Cubans Delay Choosing Head

President's Duties Go To State Secretary Until Council Elects

HAVANA, Dec. 1 (AP)—The Cuban council of state met tonight, while political circles buzzed with rumors, but authoritative sources said the election of a provisional president to succeed President Carlos de Mendota had been postponed until tomorrow.

The powers of the chief executive were being wielded tonight by Jose A. Barnet, 75-year-old secretary of state, who took over the office automatically last night when President Mendota resigned to facilitate the holding presidential elections soon.

Carlos Manuel de la Cruz, presidential candidate on the liberal party ticket, issued a statement in which he accused the United States government of interference in Cuban politics.

De la Cruz criticized the recent plan worked out to reconcile political differences in Cuba by Dr. Harold Willis Dodds of Princeton university, who was invited to Havana by the Cuban government, as "clearly" showing "a well known interest of the chancellor of North America."

Gen. Mario G. Menocal, head of the Menocalista party, which forced the resignation of Mendota in elections, said Mendota's action was "a gesture of the most noble and patriotic quality."

The names of four men from whom the provisional president may be chosen were heard frequently in political speculation tonight.

They are Barnet, Andres Domínguez Morales del Castillo, Maxi-Milliano Smith, and Leonardo Anaya Murillo.

Drake Trial Cites F. R.

Letters Show Names of Great Men Used To Calm Investors

CHICAGO, Dec. 11 (AP)—President Roosevelt, former Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald of England and the NRA were mentioned in connection with recovery of the fabulous Sir Francis Drake estate in letters read today to jurors trying 41 alleged agents of the estate on small fraud charges.

Use Many Names

The correspondence disclosed that names of great men were used unstintingly in promoters' efforts to convince investors that their share of the $1,350,000 government claims was collected was safe in the hands of Oscar M. Hartzell and his fellow workers.

As the trial proceeded before Federal Judge Philip Sullivan today, Prosecutor Austin Hall read a letter from John Hensel, Auburn, Ia., defendant, to George Bang, a Lincoln, Neb., investor, which said in part:

"Closely Connected"

"If you can figure out just where and when President Roosevelt is going to get money to finance the NRA you will know when we can expect our checks. We feel the two deals (NRA and Drake) are very closely connected. This may not make good sense to you but nevertheless it is the whole story."

THEY WITNESSED SLAYING OF MINNEAPOLIS EDITOR

Mrs. Walter Liggett, wife of Walter W. Liggett, Minneapolis editor, who was murdered by two gunmen as he stepped from his car in the driveway of his home, is pictured, left, viewing the body of her slain husband. Both Mrs. Liggett and her 10-year-old daughter, Marda, right, were eye-witnesses to the tragedy. Five bullets penetrated Liggett's body.

Atlantic Air Service Nears

Commissions Meet To Arrange For Facilities For Crossing Ocean

WASHINGTON, Dec. 11 (AP)—British and American conferees agreed today to extend reciprocal landing and operating facilities in their respective countries for a projected trans-Atlantic air service.

Preliminary plans have been made by both the British Imperial Airways and the Pan American airline of the United States to operate such a service.

Experimental flights are expected to begin next summer.

The reciprocal landing agreement was reached as a result of a series of conferences held here during the last week by representatives of the British, Canadian, and Irish Free State governments with American officials represented on the inter-departmental committee for international aviation.

Representatives of the two airlines also participated.

Announcement of the arrangements was made shortly after President Roosevelt had expressed to the visiting delegation his hope for establishment of a trans-Atlantic air mail service.

Sir Donald Banks, director of the British post office, called at the White House with members of the commission from Great Britain, the Irish Free State and Canada, which is conferring with a United States commission on this subject.

"The president said he has every hope that before long will see the trans-Atlantic flights commenced," said Sir Donald.

At Last! We See Columbus Was Correct

WASHINGTON, Dec. 11 (AP)—New visual proof that the world is round, shown in a stratosphere picture snapped at almost 14 miles above the earth's surface, was displayed tonight by the National Geographic society.

Capt. Albert W. Stevens of the army air corps, co-sponsor of the stratosphere flight of Nov. 11, showed for the first time still and motion pictures taken from the balloon's record making ceiling. Society officials declared these pictures and other scientific data obtained out-rank in importance the setting of the altitude record.

Stevens, commander of the flight, and his pilot, Capt. Orvil A. Anderson, were awarded at the exhibition the Hubbard medals of the Geographic society "for distinguished achievement in scientific research."

The earth curvature picture shows a section of the horizon 220 miles long, more than three and one half degrees of a circle and about 1-100 of the total circumference of the earth.

Gov't to Rest Law's Defense

Bankhead Cotton Control Act to Go To Court on Briefs

WASHINGTON, Dec. 11 (AP)—The administration decided tonight to rest its defense of the Bankhead cotton control act on briefs already filed instead of resuming oral arguments before the supreme court.

This decision was one of a series of swift and unusual moves in a general revision of carefully laid plans for defending the constitutionality of new deal laws.

Will Argue Personally

Earlier Attorney General Cummings had announced his intention to argue personally tomorrow a government motion in the court battle over the act providing for regulation of utility holding companies.

Oral argument on the Bankhead act before the high tribunal was halted abruptly yesterday by the sudden collapse of Solicitor General Stanley Reed while he was replying to pointed questions from the justices.

"Fully Covered"

In a statement, the justice department said that at the time Reed suffered a slight fainting spell he was presenting "procedural" questions and that the issue of the act's validity was "fully covered" in the government's brief.

The case was brought by Lee Moor, a Texas cotton planter, against the Texas and New Orleans railroad which declined to transport Moor's cotton on the ground the ginning tax provided by the Bankhead law had not been paid. Moor contended the act was invalid. The government appeared in the case as a friend of the court.

"G" Men Nab Two Suspects In Kidnaping

OTTAWA, Ill., Dec. 11 (AP)—Two men arrested here today by U.S. justice department agents were reported to be suspects in the kidnaping of John S. Labatt at Ontario, Can., on Aug. 14, 1934.

A police official who declined to be quoted said one of the men was Russell Knowles, for whom the Ontario provincial government has offered a $5,000 reward.

Arrested Near Courthouse

The two alleged suspects were arrested within two blocks of the La Salle county courthouse by four federal men and a captain of the Northwest mounted police.

The last name of the second man under arrest was reported to be Webster.

End Long Search

The arrests, the policemen said, ended a 14 months' search that extended over the United States and Canada.

Today the prisoners were said to have spent four days in Ottawa before the federal men trailed them there. The agents and their quarry slept last night in the same hotel.

Arrested with the pair was Herman Herbst of Joliet, Ill. He was held in the county jail on a charge of carrying concealed weapons.

Great Britain Defaults Debt

WASHINGTON, Dec. 11 (AP)—Great Britain formally defaulted again today on her war debt to the United States, notifying this government that she did not intend to pay the $582,893,806 due Dec. 15.

A firm but polite note transmitted to Secretary Hull by Sir Ronald Lindsay, the British ambassador, said also that his government saw no prospect of being able soon to advance a proposed basis for the resumption of payments.

Britain is the first of 12 nations whose semi-annual installments are due Sunday to inform the state department of a refusal to meet those obligations. Similar notes are expected shortly from 10 others, which, like Britain, have been long in default.

Finland, the only nation which has continued to meet its war debt obligations promptly, recently informed this government that its December payment would be made as usual.

Austrian Challenges Power of Germany

Prince Urges Royal Control For Austrians

Vice Chancellor Asserts Rule by Otto Will Give Nation Power

VIENNA, Dec. 11 (AP)—Prince Ernst von Starhemberg, Austria's powerful vice chancellor, called for Austrian leadership of the Germanic nations in a startling challenge tonight to Adolf Hitler.

Then he opened the way for the restoration of the Hapsburgs by declaring the destinies of the nation and its one time royal house were identical, and by asserting nothing stands in the way of the return of the Archduke Otto if he accepts the national program of the assassinated premier, Engelberg Dollfuss.

Wage Campaign

Monarchists have waged an increasingly active campaign for the ascension of Otto, 23-year-old heir legitimate, who is living in Belgium. But recently certain followers of von Starhemberg have begun to suggest that he, and not the archduke, be made regent and eventually king.

Von Starhemberg, addressing the patriotic fatherland front organization, laid down a challenge to Hitlerism by asserting that ultimately Austrian beliefs must assume the control of central Europe.

"Those who believe they are Austrians but at the same time think Hitler is right must change their minds," the vice chancellor warned.

"There is only one way to solve the question of pan-Germanism. That is to give the leadership to the Austrians. We can no longer think of a great German nation but we must strive for an Austrian reich."

Lauds Hapsburgs

"The history of the Hapsburgs is Austrian history and if Austrians are thinking more and more of the monarchist form of government we can only say there is nothing in their hopes and aspirations which is contrary to the concepts of the Austrian government as it now is constituted.

"Why should the Austrian of today not reflect on the form of state which was sacred to him in the past, and speculate on the possibility of restoring such a government for the future?"

Assures Neighbors

"It is the domestic affair of Austria. I can guarantee that in consideration of this question nothing shall occur to disturb the peace of middle Europe or to worry our friendly neighbors.

"But Hapsburg leaders must adopt the governmental program which Dollfuss outlined and for which he was assassinated."

Perhaps Grandpapa Should Ask for A Pension as Well

DENVER, Dec. 11 (AP)—John B. Heilman appeared before old age pension officials today with his "boy" and asked for a pension.

"Age?", asked County Judge George A. Lufford, city pension authority.

"One hundred next July 24," came the quick reply.

Heilman's "boy," 73 years old, did not apply for pension, explaining he has a job but that he feared he might lose it someday and therefore his father believed it wise to apply for the pension.

The elder Heilman was a frontiersman in three states.

M. D. Testifies For O'Connor

Witnesses Take Stand After Judge Denies Motion for Acquittal

SIoux CITY, Ia., Dec. 11 (AP)—Defense witnesses in the gambling conspiracy trial of Attorney General Edward L. O'Connor testified today as to the whereabouts of O'Connor and of the late Park A. Findley on various dates in 1933 and 1934.

One witness, Dr. Harry A. Collins of Des Moines, testified Findley was confined in a Des Moines hospital from May 31, 1933, to June 10, with a gunshot wound. The same witness said he had talked with O'Connor on the four days between Oct. 25 and Nov. 3, 1934, at a Des Moines hospital where O'Connor's son was undergoing treatment.

The name of Findley, chief of the state bureau of investigation until his death last summer, had been brought into the attorney general's trial first by Bert Röllinger, convict who in testifying for the state said he paid Findley protection money and also made a $750 payment direct to O'Connor after meeting him through Findley.

The defense began the presentation of its witnesses this afternoon after District Judge Earl Peters denied a defense motion for a directed verdict acquitting the attorney general. Attorneys argued the motion yesterday and today after the state had rested following the testimony of its fifty-fifth witness.

In addition to Dr. Collins, the jury of seven men and five women heard the testimony this afternoon of Brig. Gen. C. H. Grahl, adjutant general of the Iowa national guard; Maj. Gen. Matt A. Tinley, of Council Bluffs; and R. R. Hobart of Des Moines, cashier of the Iowa-Methodist hospital.

Ethiopia Will Resist Moves To Give Italy Any Premium

London's Papers Play Program Offered To Give Concessions To II Duce in Ethiopia

(By The Associated Press)

Emperor Haile Selassie, although much of his kingdom is occupied by enemy troops, appeared certain Wednesday to reject a peace plan put forward by Great Britain and France.

Ethiopia's minister to Paris told Premier Laval his country would resist any move to give a "premium for the Italian aggressor."

Denounce Plan

Officials in Ethiopia denounced the plan, saying its acceptance would cause a revolt forcing Haile Selassie from the throne. They were bitter toward France and incredulous that Britain had approved the plan.

In quarters other than Geneva the formula evoked sharp disapproval.

Senator Borah in Washington attacked the proposal, asserting it would place Premier Mussolini higher than any man in Europe and would "dismember Ethiopia."

Flays Offer

The proposal to grant Italy certain of the northern Ethiopian provinces, he said, would not only make II Duce Europe's "most powerful figure," but would give him even more than he asked in the beginning. If accepted by the league, he added, that organization would become "a subservient instrument of imperialism."

Smaller nations of the League of Nations said they would stand fast against any violation of Ethiopia's sovereignty and the league covenant.

Officials in Geneva were nettled because no copy of the plan was sent there, although it was dispatched to Rome and Addis Ababa.

In London, British newspapers attacked the program and opposition in parliament continued. There were unconfirmed reports of a serious rift between Sir Samuel Hoare, foreign secretary who wrote the plan with Premier Laval, and Anthony Eden, minister for league affairs.

"Smaller states let down by France and Britain," was one newspaper headline.

Eden left for Geneva where a league committee is scheduled Thursday to take up the question of adding oil to the list of sanctions against Italy. But apparently this problem will be laid aside until answers have been received from Rome and Addis Ababa on the peace plan and Geneva has thrashed the question out.

In contrast to Addis Ababa, Geneva and London, the plan appeared to have a favorable reception in Rome. Premier Mussolini received official copies of it and was expected to reply within a few days.

Annual Session of U. S. Farm Bureau Closes

CHICAGO, Dec. 11 (AP)—Approval of resolutions recommending a balanced federal budget, endorsing the AAA and urging a managed currency brought the seventeenth annual convention of the American Farm Bureau federation to a close today.

Little Opposition

With little opposition and a minimum of debate the delegates expressed their favor of the report of the resolutions committee — culminating in what some members termed a straddle on the controversial reciprocal trade agreement between the United States and Canada.

The plank in the organization's platform of principles set forth: "We are in accord with the purpose of reciprocal trade treaties which is, primarily, to restore agricultural exports by judicious lowering of industrial tariffs, thus admitting more goods into this country and making it possible for us to sell more of our farm products abroad.

Must Follow Purpose

"We insist that this purpose be adhered to in framing reciprocal trade treaties and that there be no reduction in present agricultural tariffs on any farm product that would have the effect of holding or reducing domestic price levels below parity on such products."

Polygamy Or Religion?

Spencer Convicted For His Holy "Double Wife" Convictions

KINGMAN, Ariz., Dec. 11 (AP)—Twelve solemn-faced Arizona jurymen reached a verdict in four hours late today, convicting I. C. Spencer of "open and notorious cohabitation" for his polygamous life at a strange cult in isolated Short Creek, Ariz.

The raw-boned Spencer, father of 13 children by two wives, was the first of three persons from that community, 400 miles away, to be tried. No recommendation as to sentence was made. Three years imprisonment is possible.

"Have No Fear"

"I have no fear whatsoever of going to the penitentiary," Spencer said when he heard the verdict.

"I have a clear conscience because I have been following the dictates of my religion.

"My father went to jail for the same thing in Utah many years ago."

Will Carry On

John F. Barlow, bishop of the Short Creek cult, declared: "We are prepared to take this case to the United States supreme court if necessary." He previously had called the state's action "religious persecution."

See Deadlock In Naval Meet After Demands

LONDON, Dec. 11 (AP)—A deadlock threatened the international naval conference tonight after Japan's demands for a fleet equal to that of the United States and Great Britain were formally put forward.

Admiral Osami Nagano, head of the tonnage delegation, said a total tonnage basis for the three biggest sea powers should be fixed "as low as possible."

Argues Question

A French delegate, Jacques Stern, it was understood, told Admiral Nagano that naval strategists feel approval of Japan's demands would give Tokyo unquestioned naval supremacy in the far east, leaving the interests of other nations there at the mercy of the Japanese. Americans made no comment.

Faces Test

The three-day-old conference thus faces at its outset a supreme test of its ability to find a formula permitting nations to continue along the road to naval limitation, begun in 1922.

Great Britain, then the United States, is expected to oppose the Japanese demands at tomorrow's session. A deadlock then appears almost inevitable. No suggestions already made for a formula appear acceptable.

Lions Honor Wellman Boy

The first of two testimonial dinners in honor of Cleo Yoder, 19, of Wellman, was given by the Lions club at noon yesterday. Mr. Yoder's Angus steer, "Pat's Blue Ribbon," won the International Livestock exposition at Chicago last week.

Mr. Yoder told club members how he selected and cared for his steer. He explained that he had bought it as a calf because of its good qualities, and that he had figured out his own feed rations for the steer.

Likes Angus
Yoder believes that the Angus is the best breed and hopes to develop a pure-bred herd with the six heifers and the bull he owns. Upon being asked what he thought when he learned his calf won the grand championship, Yoder replied, "I didn't have any feeling for some time. When I recovered I had a thrill I probably will never again experience."

Praises Yoder
Yoder was introduced by Emmett C. Gardner, county agent, who praised him for bringing the international crown to Johnson county. Mr. Gardner expressed his appreciation for the cooperation the 4-H clubs have received from Iowa City merchants and the Lions club.

Plans for the club's Christmas party on Wednesday were announced by Robert Yetter, chairman of the party committee.

V. W. Nall, Dr. A. H. Joehnk and Lyle Goldsberry were guests at the meeting.

Denounces Slaying

CHICAGO (AP)—Col. R. R. McCormick, chairman of the freedom of the press committee of the American Newspaper Publishers association, last night characterized the slaying of Walter Ligest, Minnesota editor, as an attempt "to throw the entire press of the state under a reign of terror."

From Nations of the World Come Dolls of All Sizes, Shapes and Colors To Join the Collection of Cynthia McEvoy

By MARY FRANCIS NYE

Expensive Italian dolls, tiny Spanish señoritas, comic characters, Negro mummies, early American cuties, and Russian peasants are among the collection of 75 dolls which is owned by Cynthia Alice McEvoy, six-year-old daughter of the Rev. and Mrs. Richard E. McEvoy, 212 S. Johnson street.

In less than five years this collection has grown from a few dolls which were given to Cynthia by Elizabeth Hess, to an imposing collection of 75 dolls representing 11 nationalities.

Highly Prized
The most prized dolls in this collection are Rosa and Tony, large Lenchi dolls made in Turin, Italy. Several years ago, an Italian child was carrying a beautiful hand-made doll. Passers-by discovered that her peasant mother had made it, and immediately asked the woman to make them for public sale.

The bodies are made from felt. Rosa is a very pretty little girl with real blond hair dressed in quaint braids. She carries a broom and has a sweetly belligerent expression on her face. Her dress is pink and white checked felt, and she wears a dainty white apron.

Typical Boy
Tony is a typical little brown-eyed boy. His brown and wine-colored jacket and socks are hand-knit. Tiny leather oxfords are on his feet.

Two of the dolls in the original collection are small dolls with hand-painted faces. Their features are done with ink. One is dressed very plainly in rust-colored silk. The other wears a red satin bonnet, sash and slippers.

One of the most recent additions to the collection is a Mexican peasant wearing a sombrero. He is riding a donkey made from straw.

Russian Peasants
Two Russian peasant dolls in the collection were made by Prof. Mate Kildings, assistant professor of home economics in the University of Iowa.

Their faces are embroidered, and their hair made from yarn. The girl wears the traditional peasant blouse, with very full sleeves, and a bright yellow kerchief on her head. Three grotesque Indian figures are among the collection. One is a Hopi Indian katchina which was actually used by American Indians. It is a rain katchina which was used in a dance prayer for rain.

Bright Figures
The figures are brightly colored wood, with brilliant hues of green, yellow, red, orange and blue. Such modern figures as Chester Gump, Raggedy Sam, and Little Orphan Annie are included, as well as historical characters such as David Copperfield.

A small aviator, outfitted completely with leather goggles and boots, flaunts a yellow silk parachute. This doll was made in Paris during the war.

Among Favorites
A china doll about six inches tall is among Cynthia's favorites. It has real hair and eyelashes, and eyes that open and close. Hans, a large Dutch boy, is a recent addition to the doll melting pot. He is dressed in typical Dutch clothes, and carries two water buckets.

Mother Goose was not forgotten and is represented by the old lady who lived in a shoe.

Cynthia says of her collection, "Yes, I'm pretty proud of my dolls," and adds with a rather wistful tone, "If only I could play with them."

All Zoo Animals But Beowulf Resent Building of Park Lodge

By MARGARET GORDON

Sequestered sections of the city park frequently reverberate these days with throaty threats of Lucy, the lioness, as she expresses her irritation at the saw and hammer chorus which often interrupts her afternoon siestas.

Beowulf, the bear, restrains her verbal vituperations of the noise of construction crews because they supply her with an alibi as iron clad and many skinned as the proverbial onion for her major infractions of the Beatty-Bennett legislation, which she is violating for the third consecutive year by refusing to hibernate.

No Like 'Um
The object of the simultaneous frigid and torrid receptions on the part of various and sundry inhabitants of Zooville is the erection of a 24 by 45 protected picnic point.

This lodge, adjoining the woody southwestern tract, will be constructed entirely of native timber, the oak uprights having been selected from the number of dead trees in the vicinity.

With a roof of metal, the point will provide adequately for picnics in inclement weather. Two stationary native timber tables and attached benches will be included in the furnishings. A large stove will complete the arrangements.

Sorely Iried
This project, which is being supervised by William Fisher, park custodian, is being financed by funds from the community chest. Five men are employed in the erection of the lodge.

Hence the constant noné too melodious chorus of bores and bits irk or delight the individual souls of

Putting The Hooks to Scalpers

With the advent of the year's major university social functions, we may expect the usual amount of ticket scalping among the more speculatively inclined element on the campus.

Scalping, that racket of buying tickets to university parties and reselling them for exorbitant prices, is regrettable, but unavoidable under the present system.

Tomorrow night the famed "waltz king," Wayne Kings, plays at Iowa Union. The floor holds 600 couples, not comfortably perhaps, but nevertheless that is the number of tickets issued.

What if a sophomore woman has a date with a man, who is so unlucky as to lack sophomore standing by one hour, or perhaps is a junior, or a senior, or an old flame from the home town? She is out of luck.

Obviously the Sophomore Cotillion is no more a sophomore party than any other university party. If it is to be a sophomore party, as the case happens to be at the present time, then restrict it only to sophomores.

Of course there is always the thought that sending letters just for the sake of the stamps and to no one in particular is just a bit like cheating in solitaire.

On that contrary, we believe that if band hiring were turned over to a permanent body, such as the social committee, university students would dance to better music.

Another plan whereby scalping might be eliminated, especially in cases where the band is decidedly of big interest, would be to hire musicians for four hours instead of three, and sell 1,200 tickets instead of 600, thus allowing the purchaser to dance two hours at least.

Obviously a reform of some sort is needed to make university parties what they should be, all-university parties. It is a problem that should be worked out by the students themselves. It is their responsibility.

To the long list of crusading editors who have met death at the hands of their enemies, Monday was added the name of Walter Liggett, national literary figure and Minneapolis newspaperman.

Newspaper campaigns against vice and political corruption, or even stands in minor governmental matters have too often been looked upon as "yellow" or "radical." They are viewed as mere circulation builders with only business principles behind them.

Yet, when a man carries on his warfare against corruption, in the face of threats on his life as did Walter Liggett, there can be no doubt as to his sincerity.

It is not a question of agreeing or disagreeing with the ends toward which the editor was working. The situation rather rests upon his right to speak openly and fearlessly what he believes to be true.

To rise above sinister influences which would corrupt it, to be free and independent in its opinions—that is the principle on which American journalism is built and a purpose for which Walter Liggett died.

Japan Takes Another Step

While the eyes of the world centered on Mussolini's invasion into northern Africa, Japan with her characteristic cleverness made an invasion of her own into northern China.

Suddenly the United States and England awoke to the fact that the Japanese autonomy movement against Nanking's northern provinces was a violation of the nine-power treaty guaranteeing the "open door" of the orient to foreign trade.

There can be no doubt that the closing of the "open door" is Japan's objective. It would place every trade advantage on her side if she should gain monopoly of these Chinese provinces.

With all this in view she is not likely to consider the prospect of conflict with western nations a fearful obstacle. The United States and Britain formally let Japan know Thursday night that they are concerned about her advances in northern China.

The situation is typical of a nation not mad with greed and hatred, but carefully and coldly calculating advantages to be gained at any cost.

But there is one objective which they have placed before them and they are bound to get it by one means or another. In the intensity of desire, nations, like humans, sometimes forget.

Collectors Go Too Far: A hobby is a fine thing, but sometimes it is carried a bit far. The stamp collecting hobby, one of the most common, recently caused the U.S. mail service considerable worry.

A special group of stamps were printed for the first trip of the China Clipper. But the collectors received a severe set-back when these "no destination" missives were destroyed by the government.

Of course there is always the thought that sending letters just for the sake of the stamps and to no one in particular is just a bit like cheating in solitaire.

What Others Think: Yesterday the supreme court of the United States handed down a decision which, though of no vital importance in itself, involves principles which may later have a wide application.

While the decision was held narrowly to the particular case before the court, and while the judges gave warning that they were expressing no opinion, favorable or unfavorable, about other acts of congress, the implications of what Judge Cardozo wrote seem unmistakable.

HEAD OF A DOG ON NEWFOUNDLAND ONE-HALF CENT STAMP

A Washington Bystander

WASHINGTON — The industrialist author of the "Let's gang up" cry against the new deal may have thought better of it and retracted; but the National Association of Manufacturers, meeting in a "Congress of Business" in New York, certainly sounded the same note.

The speakers at that convention were just as blunt, despite more polite language. Their demands ranged from complete "liquidation" of the new deal, proposed by Alfred P. Sloan of General Motors, to the call for formation of a virtual big-business political party by President Clinton L. Bardo and others.

"Whether we like it or not, industry, much against its will, has been forced in sheer self-defense, to enter the political arena or be destroyed as a private enterprise," Bardo said.

"Revolutionary Theories": "Industry has not entered partisan politics but it is attacking the issues presented by fantastic policies threatening the American industrial system," said Robert L. Lund, chairman of the association board.

General Counsel James A. Emery referred sharply to "the alien and revolutionary theories lying at the foundation of the present and proposed policy of the administration."

"It is our obligation to contribute to a clear understanding of the deadly nature of these enemies of our economic and political progress," he said.

There seemed to be a sustained and cumulative "anti-new deal" campaign. The speeches had been prepared in advance, which suggested a definite organizational move in prospect. Published excerpts indicated a campaign of popular "education" against new dealism in general.

Talking to the People: Bruce Barton stated the case concretely: "My suggestion is that we stay away from Washington and attend to our business," he said.

Will Await Move: TRENTON, N. J. (AP) — Esbert Rosecrans, one of Bruno Richard Hauptmann's attorneys, said yesterday he and his associates probably will wait until a new execution date is fixed by Supreme Court Justice W. Trenchard before making another move to save the convicted Lindbergh baby killer from the electric chair.

Seize Seven Men: CHICAGO (AP)—Seven men, one of whom Police Captain Daniel Gelbert termed a little known member of the Dillinger gang, were seized yesterday for the kidnaping and $35,000 holdup Sunday of Milton Jackson, a New York jeweler.

S.U.I. Monthly Book Circulation Increases: A total circulation of 59,191 books in the university libraries for the month of November shows an increase of 3,100 over that of November, 1934, according to a report issued yesterday by Grace Van Wormer, acting director of university libraries.

Books sent out during the month as inter-library loans totaled 500.

A New Yorker

At Large

By JAMES B. RESTON

NEW YORK — Your correspondent wishes to report that Zoe Akins, the playwright, has been spending a lot of time in bed lately, and while there is likely to confirm your notion that your correspondent has lost his mind, he insists that the fact has significance.

Zoe Akins, whose play "The Old Maid" won the Pulitzer prize last year, always writes in bed, and she is back in town now with three new plays. She has been trying for years to write her plays at a desk, but can't do it. So there!

A fascinating, brilliant woman, this. Her life has changed completely since "The Old Maid" won the prize. She fled New York years ago to write scenarios for the movies, taking the script of "The Old Maid" with her, and after years out there she finally dragged the play out and let Harry Moses produce it. Its success has revived the old desire to write for the stage, so now she is back sitting for hours daily in the mellow old Empire theater helping with the staging of "O Evening Star," which is one of three new ones.

Every hour she spends away from her job in Hollywood costs her money. Her stay here to help with the play will cost her approximately $38,000.

Still, she scarcely needs to worry about money. "The Old Maid" is having great success on the road. Her cut amounts to about $500 a week from this. This amount will be augmented soon, for Federico Zuchino has translated the play into Italian, and it is also ready for the French and Swedish stages. An English company is being formed, and more than likely Peggy Wood and Ina Claire will play the leads over there next spring.

Miss Akins has a way of writing a successful play every few years which makes enough money to give her the leisure to do another. In 1928, she wrote "The Greeks Had a Word For It," which brought her about $115,000, and built her a magnificent house in Pasadena. And it is more than a possibility she will have at least one hit from the three new ones. Broadway probably will say that Miss Akins has written "O Evening Star" about Marie Dressler. It is a story of a woman who finds success in Hollywood in her later years, and while the facts are similar to the facts of Miss Dressler's life, Miss Akins disclaims any connection. George S. Kaufman has worked a great deal with her on this play. She was even willing to have his name used as her collaborator on the play, but he would not allow it.

Her other two plays are "The Human Element," a dramatization of a Somerset Maugham short story, and "Life of a Young Man," which was suggested to her by Theresa Helburn of the Theater Guild.

Her latest movie scenario is "Show Boat," and her most famous script for the movies, perhaps, is "Morning Glory."

The literary guidepost: "PAUL CEZANNE," by Gertrude Mack; (Knap). Publication of T. E. Lawrence's "Seven Pillars of Wisdom" has led to so much talk of enigmatic personalities that the mere mention of another is almost enough to damn him. Paul Cezanne, whose biography is just published by Gertrude Mack, was in many respects quite as remarkable a man as T. E. Lawrence. But let's not call him "enigmatic."

His legacy to art is huge, even though for nearly all Cezanne's life established art refused to admit him to its caste circle. The boy who was born and grew up at Aix-en-Provence, the friend and contemporary of Zola, became one of France's great painters, one who had original ideas and stuck to them even though it meant a life of curious misunderstanding.

But he did stick, and perhaps the reason can be found in Aix and its environs almost as much as in the family strain from which he sprang. Aix is one of the loveliest towns in the world, perfectly typical of France in some ways, and yet with a spaciousness which is certainly not French. It is a good nurturing ground for revolutionaries as Zola and Cezanne pretty well prove.

Mr. Mack has done a beautiful job of putting a painter into words. By the time one has traced Cezanne through his boyhood, through his long conflict with his father, through his love affairs and his family life and his quarrels, one understands the vein of iron which held him to his last. He had to meet derision, even, and derision is difficult for a Frenchman.

The whole matter is pretty well summarized in the story of Pere Tanguy, the vendor of paints and supplies. Pere Tanguy liked Cezanne's work although he couldn't tell why. To touch Cezanne's painting in return for supplies, and when he died had the best Cezanne collection ever assembled. But Pere Tanguy's collection just happened, so also did Cezanne.

E. P. Allen To Open Student Talks Today

Will Deliver First Of Philosophy of Living Lectures by Faculty

Ethan P. Allen of the political science department will deliver the first of a series of addresses by faculty members on philosophies of living this afternoon at 4:10 in the board room of Iowa Union.

Six additional philosophies of living conferences, to be presented under the auspices of the religious activities office in cooperation with the Y.M.C.A. and the Y.W.C.A. will take place during 1935-36.

Develop Contacts
The purpose of these informal meetings is to bring the faculty members and students together and to develop a more intimate contact between them. The sessions consist of a talk by a faculty member on his philosophy of life, which is followed by a discussion in which both faculty members and students take part.

Co-Chairmen
Co-chairmen of the philosophy of living conferences for the present academic year are Robert Rankin, A3 of Mason City, representing the Y.M.C.A., and Charlotte Rohrbacher, A2 of Iowa City, Y.W.C.A.

Following today's meeting, the series will be discontinued until after the Christmas recess.

The Iowa City postmaster, Charles A. Bowman, has turned prize fighter, and he's 64 years of age at that. At least, someone thinks he might show ring potentialities. His entry blank in The Daily Iowan's third annual Golden Gloves amateur boxing tournament was received in last night's mail. Mr. Bowman is a heavyweight, balancing the scales at 200 pounds, according to the application.

Tomorrow evening Iowa will meet Northwestern at Davenport, where the debate will be conducted under the auspices of the Davenport Chamber of Commerce, and on Saturday afternoon, an Iowa team will oppose a Wisconsin group here.

S.U.I. Botanists Experiment With "Biological Dynamite"

University of Iowa botanists are experimenting with a new "biological dynamite" which may eventually lead to a method of correcting abnormalities in the human body.

This new plant growth hormone, heteroauxin found in almost all animal cells and now being synthetically made in the botanical laboratories here, when applied to plants causes extreme reactions; such as formation of roots on stems, bending of stems and marked growth in cells overnight.

May Solve Problem
Produced by bacteria and molds, this plant hormone with which Prof. Walter F. Loehwing and L. C. Bauguess have been carrying out research, it is hoped, will solve the problem of cell division and enlargement, a key question in scientific circles. A plant organic acid, fairly soluble, it is a crystalline product in pure form and can be specifically dealt with.

The substance acts as a plant hormone, similar to those in the human body which regulate growth and sometimes cause abnormalities or a dwarfed condition. At present, experiments are being made dealing with the effects of this hormone on plants grown in sand culture which contain solutions deficient in various elements essential to good growth.

Aids Growth
When applied directly to the soil around the root system of plants, the hormone seems to facilitate growth, indicating that it is a growth-influencing factor of the organic matter in fertilizer. Plants used in such an experiment last fall were kept in the plant house in a special room which light was excluded and the effect of varying light intensities on response to the hormone was measured.

Other plants used in the experiments were kept in the greenhouse under normal conditions except for

Professor Thinks Horse Sense Prerequisite for Good Teacher

Understanding of children, general "horse sense," and a good foundation of psychological training, coupled with the average amount of brains are the modern requirements for teaching, according to Prof. Frederic B. Knight of the college of education.

He said, however, that "any person with the legal qualifications for teaching who is clever enough to get elected to a position is probably intelligent enough to teach." Nevertheless, social-mindedness and self insight are the two greatest qualifications for successful teachers, Professor Knight maintained.

Develop Tests
Teachers' aptitude tests developed by Professor Knight, G. M. Buch, Fred Telford and J. E. Bathurst are based as far as possible on questions which will give an indication to whether or not the above qualifications are possessed by the applicant.

"Social-mindedness and self insight are the most difficult factors to measure with paper and pencil tests, however," said Professor Knight, "and for that reason our tests are about one-third better than a random guess on a teacher's ability. They are a long way from perfect, but I believe they are far better than none at all."

Attacks Standards
Traditional standards of good teaching came in for attack by Professor Knight. "The teachers who rank as good disciplinarians and whose pupils get all of their algebra problems may be doing the pupils more harm than good," he said.

"If educators could ever make up their minds definitely on what they should do, much of what now is called good teaching would be against the law."

Included in Professor Knight's questions for teachers are topics on everyday affairs, questions in psychology, and touches on modern slang.

In the curriculum of the early universities, the first three of the seven liberal arts, which embraced grammar, logic and rhetoric, were known as the trivium.

"Within These Walls" Will Be Presented Sunday Evening

"Within These Walls," religious play centering around life in a Trappist monastery, will be presented Sunday at 8 p.m. in Macbride hall auditorium.

A joint project of the Columbia college players of Dubuque and the University of Iowa experimental theater seminar, the play includes music by the Columbia college vocal choir. The performance is under the direction of the Rev. Father George Stemm.

No similar presentation has ever been made in the University theater. "Within These Walls," written by Marcus Bach, describes the life in one of the four Trappist monasteries in the United States, at Gettysburg, Ky.

The discipline of the Trappist order is very austere, involving fasts, manual labor and perpetual silence except in the presence of superiors and confessors, or in choir.

Students from the University of Iowa who will assist in the production are Leland Clay, G of St. Charles, Minn., as technician; Millard Yarnall, G of California, Pa.; Ellen Galey, G of Ashland, Ore.; Ora Helton, G of Kirksville, Ky.; Robert Graham, A3 of Iowa City; and Albert Mitchell, G of Salt Lake City who directs the costume crew.

The showing of this group of water-colors and oils, inaugurated Monday and to continue through next Sunday, is under the auspices of a number of Burlington club-women.

Stoddard to Attend New York Meeting

BITS ABOUT SPORTS

By ART SNIDER

DAYS of speculation as to the new Iowa football captain were ended with last night's decision to adopt a game-leader plan. The move came as a distinct surprise because of it never has been a custom here. Fans who favored certain players were disappointed.

Although the balloting was done in strict secrecy, it is known that four players were the most prominent choices. Each had about an equal amount of support. Therefore, a majority was impossible. Thus, for the sake of harmony, the wise plan of having Coach Ossie Solem choose a captain for each game was voted in.

President Eugene A. Gilmore and Maj. John L. Griffith, Big Ten commissioner of football and the Iowa commissioner of athletics, were liberal in their laudations of the players at the banquet.

"Regardless of the results, the season was won," the president said. "By this I mean the team showed a fine sportsmanship and excellent ability."

Major Griffith praised Ossie Solem's system of football and the team's fine showing in the Minnesota game.

"Ossie teaches good old fashioned football that produces touchdowns," he said. "All teams return to this eventually. If you fellows compete in life like you did against Minnesota, you will be successful. You showed fine will to win and still you played clean, hard football."

The major asserted that he enjoyed inter-sectional games more than Big Ten contests because at the former he is allowed to cheer while if he displays any emotion in the latter class of games, he is accused of showing partiality.

"In the last 35 years, the Big Ten has won 70 per cent of inter-sectional games," he added. "This leads me to believe that we play best football and Iowa is one of the leading exponents of that brand of football."

In presenting the men for awards, Coach Ossie Solem told them to respect and uphold their letters. "I mean," he declared, "don't go walking down the street with a letter on and smoking a cigar. If you could see all the letters we get from old timers, who for some reason did not win their award, asking us to reconsider their cases, you would realize what it means later on in life."

THE IOWA basketball men are truly enthusiastic over newly-discovered ability. Tuesday night, for the first time this year, they displayed the state of mind, the relaxed confidence so characteristic of a Big Ten team. The victory over Carleton was the stimulant they needed more than anything else. It was more beneficial than a week of practice. The players have just begun to realize how much fun and how little work there is in basketball. Now they are likely to shake off all restraints and play even better ball.

The process of tiding that wholesome spirit over Saturday night and the Pittsburgh game confronts Coach Rolfe Williams. He realizes that this contest may be the turning point of the season. It may make the team or disorganize it. A victory over the Panthers would inspire the youngsters and give the veterans something to shoot at.

THE swimming season makes its unofficial debut tonight in the form of the Dolphin pageant, a production sponsored by the freshman and varsity swimming team. There is not a more energetic group on the campus than Coach Dave Armbruster's swimmers. The proceeds tonight go to finance the varsity squad through the season. They deserve support of students and townspeople during their three nights of "Olympic Previews of 1936."

Hawks to Try For 5th Time To Beat foe

Williams Pleased With Improvement of His Old Gold Protoges

Unsuccessful four straight times in their efforts to do so, the Iowa basketball team will again attempt to conquer Pittsburgh Saturday night in the fieldhouse. The Panthers, one of the east's ranking teams, will provide the only inter-sectional opposition of the season.

Two seniors and three sophomores comprise the starting Pittsburgh quintet. The mainstays are Capt. Dick Roderick, forward, and Pete "High" Noon, 6 feet 5 inch center. A pair of big sophomore guards, Robert Johnson and Edward Spotovich, are the leading veterans. Pitt defeated Washington and Jefferson, 41 to 35, in their first game.

Pleased with their improved showing in the defeat of Carleton Tuesday night, Coach Rolfe Williams worked the men easy yesterday but promised a heavy drill today and tomorrow. Probably the same lineup which opened against the Carls will start Saturday night.

The 52 points registered Tuesday night made the largest score ever made in the fieldhouse and one of the five highest scores in Iowa basketball history.

Iowa has now made 33 field goals to rival's 23; has sunk 15 of 23 free throws for 81 points in two games. Opponents have 60 points.

Report Meanwell Offered Golemske Drink of Whiskey

MADISON, Wis., Dec. 11 (AP)—A statement by Football Captain-Elect John Golemske, that Athletic Director Walter E. Meanwell had offered him a drink of whiskey was published today shortly after Dr. Meanwell denied "tampering" with Wisconsin football players in order to obtain a change of coaches.

The statement, which the Capital Times said was signed by Golemske and notarized, enlivened the Wisconsin athletic controversy resulting last week, when Golemske said he had circulated a petition for the ouster of Dr. Clarence Spears, head football coach, with the sanction of Meanwell.

Meanwell, who denied the charges of the captain-elect that he had investigated the ouster petition, said he did not have any comment to make now on the additional remarks attributed to Golemske.

Revolta Breaks Course Record to Snatch First In Sarasota Golf Open

SARASOTA, Fla., Dec. 11 (AP)—Johnny Revolta, the P.G.A. titleholder, blazed down the stretch in a champion's finish today to break the Bobby Jones club course record with a 65 and snatch first money in the Sarasota open golf tournament.

Five strokes behind Alvin Kreuger, of Beloit, Wis., the 54 hole leader, Revolta swept past the field in late finish and score a 274.

Victor Ghezzi of Dea, N. J., came home second with 76.

Illinois Trounces Wabash, 40 to 22

CHAMPAIGN, Ill., Dec. 11 (AP)—Breaking out with a 23-point scoring drive in the second half tonight, Illinois defeated Wabash, 40 to 22, for its second straight basketball victory.

Iowa Football Squad Votes For Game-Captain System

For the first time in history, a University of Iowa football squad decided to discard the captaincy vogue. Hawkeye gridgers last night voted to abandon the election of a leader for next season as a successor to Dick Crayne of Fairfield.

Instead, Coach Ossie Solem will appoint a captain for each game and an honorary pilot will be chosen by the players at the end of the season.

The decision was made after several minutes of deliberation following the annual dinner given the squad by President Eugene A. Gilmore at Iowa Union.

Although the plan of non-election is an innovation, the choice of an honorary leader is not, for the Iowa squad of 1930 selected Grover Higdon as honorary captain after playing the entire season without one. Mike Farroh and Marc Magnusson had been elected but because of alleged subsidization by the university, the Big Ten demanded their dismissal along with other Iowa athletes.

President Gilmore awarded 24 major "I" letters and 10 minor "I" letters to men recommended for them by the athletic board.

Guests at the banquet included Maj. John L. Griffith, Big Ten commissioner of athletics, Walter "Stub" Stewart of Des Moines and members of the board in control of athletics.

St. Pat's, University High Both Feel Confident of Triumph In Annual Cage Tilt Tomorrow

"Sure we can beat St. Pat's" was the answer given by Dave Foerster, No. 1 cager at University high school, when asked how he felt about the coming intra-city battle with Father Ryan's Irish.

Whether he is right or not will be known tomorrow night after the smoke clears away from what should be a hard fight all the way, regardless of which team wins.

In the past St. Pat's has enjoyed a decided advantage over Coach Kistler and his quintets, but University high students appear unusually optimistic about the Blues' chances this year. Kistler is doing his part to bring about a win, rushing his men through a hard workout each afternoon. And the team, sluggish at first, is beginning to respond to the weeks of practice. Smoothness is taking place of old time roughness and offensive patterns are being carried out without ruination of plays by the players themselves.

Especially in the reserves can improvement be noticed. Johnny Wyjack is slated for plenty of service at forward if he continues to improve, as is Jim Kent. Bob Miller, who looked good at first, is out with a hurt back, but should return soon and Spencer is looking good at guard. Waiting to seize upon Ted Hinman's place at center are Lackerend and Anclaux. The latter, a gangling six-foot-sixer, needs only to shake off a persistent awkwardness in order to become one of Kistler's best players.

Marians Work Hard for Cedar Rapids Contest

St. Mary's cagers, led by the stellar Skip Adrian, will travel to Immaculate Conception's court in Cedar Rapids tomorrow night and try to ring up the third consecutive victory of the year.

Coach Francis Suplee has been working with the reserves for the past week. Although no change is expected in the starting lineup, men who will see action are Halubek, Fay, Hennessey, Henderson, Chadak, Gerber, Strabley, Murray, and Knoedel. The first team was very impressive in the last game against St. Wenceslaus of Cedar Rapids. Players who will start tomorrow night are Skip Adrian and John Alberhasky, forwards; Jack Keller, center; and Bebo Schlenck and Louis Grim, guards.

Irish at Full Strength

Bob Coen's return brought the Shamrock squad up to full strength for the intra-city tilt. Coen should spell trouble for the Blues as he hasn't collected many markers this season and is due to go on a scoring spree.

Big Bill Leuz had another session in under the basket shots. The veteran center, although only six feet tall, has shown surprising ability in controlling the tipoff against taller opponents.

SIX FEET FIVE INCHES OF PITT CENTER

Dolphin Show to Open In Fieldhouse Tonight

Arlite Smith Will Dive For Dolphin Fans

Arlite Smith, one of the country's foremost feminine divers, and a prominent candidate for a berth on the United States squad which will compete in the Berlin games next summer, will be one of the featured artists at the "Olympic Previews of 1936," to be presented at the fieldhouse pool tonight, tomorrow and Saturday nights.

Miss Smith, whose home is in Calumet City, Ill., won honors in the women's national A.A.U. championships last winter, placing in both the low and high board events. She competes under the colors of the Lake Shore Athletic club.

Although the Illinois girl has been giving exhibitions in Chicago pools for the last two years, her appearance in the Dolphin show here will be her first in an Iowa tank.

Among the other titles which Miss Smith holds are the women's senior central A.A.U. and the Kentucky-Indiana A.A.U. crowns. She has been training during the last months for Olympic tryouts and will present a series of fancy dives from the high board in the local pageant.

Knockout For Uzcudun-Louis

See Record Indoor Attendance for Go At Garden Tomorrow

NEW YORK, Dec. 11 (AP)—Joe Louis, the slickest piece of fighting machinery since Jack Dempsey was riding high, wide and handsome 15 years ago, is confident he will stop Paulino Uzcudun in six rounds or less when they meet in Madison Square garden Friday night.

Near Record Gate

One of the largest indoor fight crowds in history is assured. It looks like a sellout and that means approximately 20,000 persons will be squeezed into the garden. A capacity house will bring a gate of around $120,000 or $125,000.

Interest in the 15-round event is 'surprising considering that Louis is a topheavy favorite. The garden has requests for more than 300 press reservations from out of town.

What money is being wagered favors the young Negro, making his twenty-sixth professional start, to score a decisive victory well under 10 rounds, but not to send the 36-year-old Spaniard down for the count.

Maplewood To Meet City Hi In February

Two surprising announcements were made yesterday by Coach Francis Merten, head cage mentor at Iowa City high school. The first was that the Hawket institution has secured Maplewood high of St. Louis, for a basketball game on the local floor Feb. 13. The second concerned a proposed game with Austin high school of Austin, Minn., state champions of Minnesota last year.

Maplewood is the suburb of St. Louis that boasted the great gridiron club last fall, being unable to locate opponents in their area after their fifth game, due to the over-

Phillies, Cubs Can't Agree In Klein Barter

Ask Chuck Klein and $25,000 for Young Pitcher, Curt Davis

CHICAGO, Dec. 11 (AP)—Blocked at every turn in their frantic attempts to match the baseball shopping spree of the Boston Red Sox and the world's championship Detroit Tigers, the New York Yankees today ended a hectic 24 hours by making a straight pitching swap with Cleveland.

Under the terms of the deal, which left baseball men arguing as to which team got the better of the bargain, the Yankees traded Johnny Allen to the Indians for Monte Pearson and Steve Sundra, a Cleveland rookie who pitched for Minneapolis and Newark last season. All three hurlers are right handed.

Will Keep Trying

After the deal was announced, Manager Joe McCarthy, a little weary of the cold shoulder he has been getting from rival owners each time he tries to buy an outfielder, said he intended to keep on trying. He admitted something more than the acquisition of Pearson and Sundra was necessary to keep even with the Red Sox, who have purchased Jimmy Foxx, and John Marcum, and the Tigers, who got Al Simmons yesterday.

The biggest deal of the day, featured otherwise by a new major league rule prohibiting all barnstorming after the close of the season, fell through when the Philadelphia Nationals demanded $25,000 in cash and outfielder Chuck Klein, their old idol, from the Cubs in exchange for Pitcher Curt Davis.

The Phillies also wanted a pitcher, either Pabian Kowalik, Roy Henshaw or Tex Carleton. Manager Charlie Grimm, keen for another starting pitcher, finally threw up his hands and said it was all off. They may get together.

Berger For Sale

His hands untied at last through the transfer of the Boston Braves to the leadership of Bob Quinn, Manager Bill McKechnie was reported ready to throw his great outfielder star Wally Berger, on the market for bait. McKechnie, naturally wants plenty for Berger in cash and players and probably will get all he demands.

The St. Louis Cardinals, feared every time they hint a deal because some one figures some one else is going to get the worst of the bargain, were idle. So was Bill Terry of the Giants, who gave up in disgust and returned to New York.

No Post-Season Games

By the united action against barnstorming, none of the world series players can compete in post-season games as the series takes up the 10 day limit. Club owners, furious because some of their stars barnstorm to Japan and other points east and west, were unanimous in the action.

Players, first basemen in particular, no longer will be permitted to weave nets around the web of their gloves under league penalties yet to be set. Foxx, Zeke Bonura of the White Sox and Hank Greenberg of the Tigers went to great pains in getting "butterfly mits" rival club owners complained.

Dr. Anthony Will Serve as Physician For Golden Gloves

Entries For Tournery Now Total 27 Men

By JACK GURWELL.

Dr. E. J. Anthony, who for the two past Golden Gloves tournaments has officiated as medical examiner and physician for the affair, will act in the same capacity for the 1935 Golden Gloves bouts. His services were and are volunteered.

With this important position of medical examiner, the question of who will judge the bouts remains to be answered. The three selections will be announced at a later date.

Early entry blank signers now total 27, with several not counted in this list awaiting to be checked for authenticity.

Jorgensen to Fight

These names have been added to the entry list: U. H. Ekfelt, 112 pound division; George Sudmack, 118 pound division; Arny Jorgensen and A. W. Lafferty, 126 pound division; Henry Heyon, 135 pound division; Charles Hutt and Everett Peay, 147 pound division; Grant Johnson and Harold Ahff, 160 pound division; Herbert Nieman, 175 pound division; and Robert Sherman and J. Trevor Davies, heavyweight division.

Several Solon CCC boxers, perhaps part of the colorful contingent which last year put up a rousing fight which carried one youth, Cecil Root, into the Chicago bouts, are planning to enter the local tournament.

One of the best of last year's fighters, Benny Floyd of Clarinda, has as yet sent no word of his intentions to enter, but he will likely come through with his signed blank before the first of February.

Floyd did write he has been doing title boxing. He is a student at Maryville, Mo., State Teachers college this year—and that it would take some time to get back into condition.

Many Seek Instruction

Coach Bob Rush reports he has been asked for instructions by more than a few interested in the bouts, and should sign up several athletes as soon as they feel they can work into condition before the preliminary bouts.

Matteson Gets Victory in 70 Yard Dash

Orval Matteson, sophomore sprint sensation, stepped the 70 yards in .072 to lead the sprinters in the fifth event on the sprint series program yesterday.

Ed Wiggins, Negro streak from Omaha, Neb., turned in a .073 to keep at Matteson's heels. Francis Cretzmeyer and Elliot Waples were clocked at .074 to take next best honors.

Summaries: Matteson, .072; Wiggins, .073; Cretzmeyer, .074; E. Waples, .074; C. Teufel, .075; F. Teufel, .076; Graves, .077; Billig, .077; Miller, .077; Phillips, .077; Lyle, .078; R. Waples, .079.

Upper B Takes 28-10 Triumph

Upper B last night established themselves as bidders for the title in the upper section of the Quad basketball league when they whipped Upper C 28 to 10. Fenton and Ferguson led the winners with eight points each. Finazzo was high for C with four.

Lower C won its second straight game when they took a 37 to 28 decision from Lower A. Long with 15 points and Knapp with 10 led the winners while Briggs with nine and Faust with eight were high for Lower A.

Upper B now heads the upper league with two victories while Lower C is leading the lower division also with two victories.

Kellogg Annex Beats Wilson House; Kellogg Triumphs by Forfeit

Kellogg Annex pulled the old iron man stupa last night to defeat the Wilson house 26 to 15, and a stubborn Manse five 28 to 26 in the only two games played in the cooperative cage loop.

In the first game, Harold Cummings garnered five points for the losers and John Howard scored 15 for the Annex.

In winning the second game, the Annex was aided again by Howard who dropped in 11 points. Felker, with 12 points stole scoring honors for this game and his all-around play was the feature of the Wilson attack.

The other two games on the bill were won by Wilson and Kellogg from Chesley and Jefferson on forfeits.

Simmons Comments
HOT SPRINGS, Ark. (AP) — Al Simmons of Chicago, commenting here yesterday on his sale to the Detroit Tigers, said "I will be glad to play with the world champions, but I hate to leave the White Sox."

All-University Wrestling Championship Prelims Begin This Afternoon

47 Wrestlers Make Tournery Largest Ever

Kielhorn, Guernsey To Compete in Meet Open to Undergrads

Today marks the day when 47 grunt and groan artists will tangle arms and legs in a mighty struggle for supremacy in the all-university wrestling championship tournament. The battles will start promptly at 4:15 p.m. at the wrestling room in the fieldhouse.

This combat represents the cream of the university mat aspirants, as eligibility for the event allows only undergraduates with or without previous wrestling experience. Many men of the caliber of Earl Kielhorn, Byron Guernsey, Frank O'Leary, Tom Monroe and Wilbur Nead are entered, assuring a nip and tuck battle from start to finish. Kielhorn was national A.A.U. 165 pound finalist last year and will undoubtedly figure strongly as a champion in the meet. Byron Guernsey is another prominent 165 pounder who will dish out a goodly portion of wrestling tricks.

Prelims Today
Preliminaries for the meet will begin today and continue at the same time tomorrow. Finals will be started promptly at 2 p.m. Saturday and will run until a champion has been selected in each weight class. The respective weights represented in the tournery are: 118, 126, 135, 145, 155, 165, 175 and heavyweight.

Interest in the skirmish has increased considerably over last year when there were 39 men entered as compared with 47 this year. Entries will probably continue to pile up, as registration does not close until noon today. Anyone wishing to enter may do so by contacting Coach Mike Howard at his office in the fieldhouse.

According to Coach Howard, there will be no admission charge for outsiders who wish to witness the fray.

Candidates Entered

The list of the candidates registered and their respective weights are: 118—Richard Millen, Gilman; Vernon Ekfelt, Delhi, Minn.; Eddie Kraftmeyer, Bettendorf.

126—Maynard Dix, Cedar Falls; Leonard Ellefson, Callender; Kenneth Bales, Ft. Dodge; Albert Tenness, Davenport.

135—Tom Monroe, Iowa City; Lee Blum, Hampton; Harry Long, Belle Plaine; Dean Reissner, Oskaloosa; Waldo Brooks, Dubuque; Robert Brooks, Dubuque; Joseph Main, Cedar Rapids; Charles Gray, Anamosa; Clair Groves, Mesena.

145—Robert Larson, Ft. Dodge; Robert Stewart, Pisgah; Robert McCullough, Algona.

155—Dewayne Guernsey, Waterloo; Ralph S. Johnston, La Junta, Colo.; Samuel Peavey, Reinbeck; Maurice Matthews, Tabor; Earl Chism, Fairbanks; Albert Johann, Des Moines.

whelming scores they piled up on the first outfits to face them. Davenport high school went down on Armistice day and managed to hold them to a one point victory. Maplewood will tangle with Davenport in basketball the night following the game here.

Gopher State Clamps
Austin high has written Merten asking for a date sometime during the holidays. As yet Coach Merten has been unable to come to a decision. Austin has six of the boys back on her squad that won the state title last year. Austin holds a decision over Mason City, Iowa state champs, the only loss on Mason City's schedule last year.

Meanwhile Merten is going on with his preparations for the McKinley game here tomorrow. A lengthy scrimmage was run off last night, and continued work on free throws was done. Dick Amrine worked out with the squad, and it is likely he will see action against the Cedar Rapids team tomorrow.

500 Tickets Sold For Cleo Yoder Honor Banquet Monday

President Eugene A. Gilmore of the University of Iowa and George Godfrey of Ames, assistant to the president at Iowa State college, were announced last night as two of the probable speakers at the Chamber of Commerce "Yoder dinner" to be held Monday night.

President Gilmore is expected to extend the congratulations of Johnson county to the lad.

Others to Talk
Several other prominent midwestern speakers will be invited to take part in the program, it was indicated last night. A group of professional entertainers will also appear on the program, although definite arrangements have not yet been made.

Chamber of Commerce officials announced that more than 500 tickets had been sold up to last night.

Just 32 Shopping Days Left Until License Deadline!

There are just 32 more shopping days before—no, not Christmas—but before penalties go into effect on the licenses of all motor vehicles for 1936.

The public is allowed one month of grace in the new year to license their cars, trucks, trailers and motorcycles. But beginning Feb. 1, penalties mount at the rate of one dollar per month for delay in license payment.

The all-time top for automobile licensing in Johnson county was 1929, when a total of nearly 10,000 number plates were issued. Then the number dropped off.

In 1934 a return climb was begun with the issuance of 8,500 licenses and an increase of 403 brought 1935's total to 8,903.

Officials at the county courthouse predict that the 1936 sale will show a still further increase, although the 1929 mark is not considered in danger.
