Thelma Todd's Death May Have Been Suicide

Officials Doubt Murder Theory Presented By Jury Foreman

4 More Persons Report Seeing Blonde Star Sunday Afternoon; Mystery Thickens

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 20 (AP)—Inquiry into the mysterious death of fun-loving Thelma Todd turned tonight toward consideration of a suicide theory.

Deputy District Attorney George Johnson said he definitely did not believe the glamorous blonde movie actress was a "monoxide murder" victim as previously suggested by George Rochester, grand jury foreman.

"Perhaps she was very despondent over something," said Johnson. "Perhaps she was fully aware of what she was doing when she turned on the motor of that car (her big phaeton in the Cliffside garage in which her body was found Monday)."

A coroner's jury held she probably died accidentally of poisonous fumes from the motor of her car, but recommended further investigation. A grand jury will begin hearing witnesses Monday.

Despite the detective theory that Miss Todd died about dawn Sunday after a Hollywood night club party—four more persons reported seeing the actress Sunday afternoon.

That brought to six the number of individuals who claimed to have seen her or heard her voice hours after the supposed time of death.

Johnson and other investigators discounted these reports.

The deputy prosecutor professed to see more significant things in the stories of persons who saw her late Saturday night and early Sunday morning—particularly her actions on returning to her Teach cafe, above which she and her business partner, Roland West, had connecting apartments. West said he inadvertently locked her out.

Another ramifications was the report of Alex Hounie, a waiter at the Trocadero cafe where Miss Todd was the honor guest at a party Saturday night, that he had received a post card on which was written "withhold testimony on kidnap trip."

Hounie also told police two men

Iowa Tax Suit Goes to Judge

Judge Dewey Gives Defense 20 Days To Submit Briefs

DES MOINES, Dec. 20 (AP)—The government's suit to collect athletic contest admission taxes from the University of Iowa was submitted late today to United States District Judge Charles A. Dewey.

Judge Dewey announced he would give attorneys 20 days to submit written briefs.

As attorneys completed their final arguments, Prof. Henry Rottschaefer of the University of Minnesota law college stepped before Judge Dewey and said:

"I want to thank you for the kind and careful consideration you have given the arguments in this case."

Judge Dewey smiled and said: "Well, I'm afraid I've been pretty rough with you, nevertheless."

Although the actual defendant is the First Capital National bank of Iowa City, the National Intercollegiate Athletic Association is interested because a decision in favor of the government will compel state schools to pay the admission tax.

The bank is the defendant because the action was taken to attach an account which the University of Iowa had on deposit there.

The account represents a sum

Prosecutor Delivers Closing Argument in O'Connor Trial

SIOUX CITY, Dec. 20 (AP)—Special Prosecutor H. M. Havner in a closing argument of the gambling conspiracy trial of Attorney General Edward L. O'Connor suggested to the jurors that they "consider and interpret the failure of O'Connor to take the stand to deny the charges against him."

The prosecutor told the jurors they have the right to "apply every day reasoning" to O'Connor's non-appearance as a witness in his own behalf and by a comparison with a hypothetical case said he believed an innocent man's normal reaction would be to deny charges someone had made.

He asserted in his two and a half hour address which was interrupted this evening by adjournment over the week end that the state in the six weeks long trial has "proved

Frigid Winds Hit Iowa As Mercury Falls

14 Below Reported As Whole State Records Low Temperatures

DES MOINES, Dec. 20 (AP)—Frigid north winds swept Iowa tonight but weather observers said extreme low temperatures which ranged downward to 14 degrees below zero probably would not be equalled.

The general forecast for northern Iowa was for 5 degrees below zero. Spirit Lake reported the lowest temperature in the state last night, 14 below.

Warmer readings were predicted for Saturday.

Fire

A 9 below zero wind hampered firemen who battled a $50,000 blaze in the Webster City business section five hours before bringing it under control.

The fire was discovered at the Brim furniture warehouse and spread to the Hutchinson Ice Cream company building, the Burnett dairy, the Webster City Auto Parts company, and the Monarch Food store.

Scientific Cause

Federal meteorologists said the cold snap resulted from a high pressure area from Saskatchewan, Canada, over eastern Nebraska and into Iowa. It will travel eastward over the state leaving more moderate temperatures and cloudy, unsettled conditions, they said.

Winter moderated his grip on the snow-mantled northwestern states tonight after extending his sway in a barrage of ice, drifts and biting winds over most of the nation.

Deaths From Cold

Upward of a dozen deaths, chiefly the result of treacherous pavements, scores of traffic accidents, and heavy demands on shelter and charity organizations were left in his wake.

On the Atlantic coast states sped snow storms which had covered most of middle America. It snowed during the day in near freezing temperature in New York City, and there were flurries in Baltimore and Washington. Snow and colder weather were forecast for New England during the night.

Borah to Back Liberal Plank In G.O.P. Fight

Would Back Himself In Republican Conclave Set for June 9

WASHINGTON, Dec. 20 (AP)—A spirited pre-convention battle between liberal and conservative elements of the G.O.P. was assured today through a formal declaration by Senator Borah of Idaho that he would "cooperate fully" with moves to make himself or some other progressive the republican presidential nominee.

Almost simultaneously with Borah's 159-word announcement that his primary 1936 objective was a liberal platform, word spread that the first Borah-pledged candidates for seats at the Cleveland convention June 9 were in the field in Wisconsin and Massachusetts.

In New York, also, W. Kingsland Macy, former republican state chairman, was reported to be heading a group of liberals who will try to capture the Empire state's 90-convention delegates for the Idaho senator in the April primary.

Senate republican independents, several of them close friends of the 70-year-old Idahoan as well as supporters of President Roosevelt, were not surprised at his formal effort to advance his own candidacy.

None, however, would comment.

Borah maintained that his chief purpose was to obtain a liberal platform with which to combat reelection of President Roosevelt. He took this public stand:

His friends wanted him to be the nominee, that was all right with him; if they desired some other progressive, that was agreeable to him, too.

"In other words," he said, "infelix."

Transportation Lines Preparing for Record Christmas Traffic

NEW YORK, Dec. 20 (AP)—Transportation lines over most of the eastern section of the nation were mobilizing everything but the office rocking chair today to handle what is anticipated as the greatest Christmas travel rush in years.

Railroads, steamship companies, air lines and bus companies alike report that every available piece of equipment will be in use over the peak of the holiday rush, expected over this week end.

Senator Schall Still Unconscious, His Condition "Grave"

WASHINGTON, Dec. 20 (AP)—Physicians attending Senator Schall (R., Minn.), in critical condition at Casualty hospital from injuries received in a traffic accident, said late tonight that he was still unconscious and that his condition remained "grave."

Examination of pulse, temperature and respiration indicated, however, slight improvement might be expected soon, they said in a bulletin made public shortly before midnight.

Family Paid Nothing For His Release

Government Agents Holding No One In Custody Says Nathan

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 20 (AP)—The department of justice revealed late today that the ransom demand of Caleb J. Milne's abductors was $20,000. None was paid for his release.

The statement was made by Harold Nathan, assistant director of the United States bureau of investigation, at a press conference late today.

He did not reveal the circumstances under which the ransom demand was made.

Asked if anyone was in custody or in technical custody in the case, Nathan replied: "No one is being held by us."

Nathan said federal investigators had talked with Milne in the Doylestown hospital, but declined to answer the question: "Has Milne given a complete account of the kidnaping?"

He said the clothing worn by Milne at the time he was found along a road near Doylestown last Wednesday was his own and reported the young man's condition was "better."

Asked why Milne was selected as a kidnaping victim, Nathan said: "Someone else could have been selected."

He declined to comment on whether federal agents have taken fingerprints during their investigation and whether the Milne family had received any notes previous to the kidnaping.

Milne, he said, will not be removed from the hospital today. Then he added with a smile: "Today ends at midnight."

Nathan stated all details of investigations by federal agents cannot be revealed because, he said, "You must remember that criminals read the newspapers."

International Naval Meeting Is Postponed

LONDON, Dec. 20 (AP)—The international naval conference adjourned today until Jan. 6 without an agreement, but some authoritative observers reported belief they discerned a slight weakening in Japanese demands for equality with Great Britain and the United States.

This view was not shared by all delegations and the Japanese representatives reiterated to the press that they must have fleet equality.

In some high quarters, however, it was pointed out that the Japanese told the conference in recent sessions they felt there was room for adjustment above or below the proposed common tonnage level according to the vulnerability of each power.

Explosion Of Vessel Kills At Least 31

SANTOS, Brazil, Dec. 20 (AP)—An explosion aboard a nitrate-laden Swedish ship in the harbor today caused the death of at least 31 persons, including three members of the crew, authorities believed tonight.

The vessel, the 3,019 ton freighter Britt Marie, sank almost immediately after the blast.

So great was the confusion along the wharves hours after the explosion that no accurate check of the death toll could be made.

Capt. John Anderson, captain of the vessel, said he had ascertained three of the crew were lost, two injured, while the others were saved.

Port officials said that about 50 stevedores were believed to have been aboard the ship at the time of the explosion and that about half the number succeeded in escaping with their lives.

Italian Claims Warriors Fled

Says Ethiopians Didn't Show Any of Their Famed Courage

ASMARA, Eritrea, Dec. 20 (AP)—An Italian eye witness to the three day battle of the Takkae related today that Ethiopian warriors, despite their reputed penchant for hand-to-hand fighting, fled in terror "when they came within cold steel fighting range."

The eye witness described highlights of the battle in retrospect as 2,000 wildly jeering Askaris made the Mai Tinchet valley ring with their shouts of victory.

Scattered segments of Ras Imru's attacking Ethiopians fled through the rugged mountain region, bombed by cleanup squadrons of battle planes.

The already heavy Ethiopian losses were piling up as planes continued to blast the retreating units, and as Italian scouting parties pursued them from the territory they attempted to invade.

Italians believe the enemy dead might reach 1,000 before the region is completely evacuated. An estimated 600 Ethiopians were slain in bitter hand-to-hand fighting in a mountain pass, or mowed down by machine gun fire. Nearly 300 Italians and Askaris were killed.

Postpone Leavetaking Of Clipper Once More

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 20 (AP)—Pan-American Airways announced late today another 24-hour postponement of the China Clipper's second flight across the Pacific, fixing 5 p.m. (central standard time) Sunday as the definite take-off hour.

Officials said the big ship would wait in order to carry late-arriving Eastern air express to Honolulu before Christmas.

One Meow Keeps Cat from Entering Government Mails

INDIANAPOLIS, Dec. 20 (AP)—A cat's meow prevented a cat from going through the mails today as a Christmas present.

A woman deposited a package tied with red and green ribbon on the parcel post counter.

A clerk placed it on the scales and as it jiggled he heard the meow.

France Offers Assistance As European War Clouds Hover

Turkey, Greece Join With Yugoslavia In Supporting British League Movement

LONDON, Dec. 20 (AP)—Great Britain has lined up at least four allies among the Mediterranean powers to support her in a possible war with Italy, it was disclosed today.

Satisfactory assurances for assistance in the event fighting develops as a result of Britain's support of the League of Nations have been received, it was reported, from Turkey, Greece, France and Yugoslavia.

Significant Talk

Significant talk of the preparedness of collective defenses of various countries prevailed in government quarters, in the wake of the death of the Anglo-French peace plan and speeches by officials in the house of commons yesterday.

Britain, a high source disclosed, is driving to secure pledges from other members of the League of Nations that they would aid her in case of an Italian attack.

The government clearly disclosed its concern yesterday that this country is the only state applying sanctions which has taken serious steps in the Mediterranean.

Until present uncertainties are cleared up, government sources said, the proposal of a league oil sanction against Italy is definitely laid aside.

Prime Minister Stanley Baldwin, whose government was upheld by parliament yesterday despite his admission of error in peace negotiations, struggled today to regain ground lost at home.

Partly Cleared

Although the air was partly cleared by house of commons debate, a backwash of rancor and criticism against Baldwin continued, lending color to a belief the prime minister's position is still somewhat shaky.

Baldwin himself had a busy day, conferring with King George and his many advisers. Baldwin must name a new foreign secretary to replace Sir Samuel Hoare, sacrificed to indignation at the peace plan.

Anthony Eden, minister for foreign affairs, returned from Geneva today and was non-committal. Eden has been mentioned as a possibility for foreign secretary, along with Sir Austen Chamberlain, who formerly held the post; and Viscount Halifax, now Lord Privy Seal.

Others Present

Other leaders, including Sir Maurice Hankey, secretary to the committee on imperial defense, and former Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald, were with Baldwin when he conferred with the king in Buckingham palace.

The house of commons adjourned today until Feb. 4 and before doing so the government was threatened with defeat on a surprise snap division on a labor amendment to the adjournment motion.

Three-fourths of the members had already left for home but government whips hastily rounded up enough votes—what a handful of conservatives filibustered—to be able to defeat the motion, 94 to 64.

J. Silverman Indicted

WASHINGTON (AP)—Joseph Silverman Jr., son of a Russian immigrant, who built up a million dollar business in excess army supplies, was indicted yesterday for conspiracy to defraud the government.

Japan Gives War Program

Japanese - Manchoukouan Soldiers Clash With Mongolians

TOKYO, Dec. 20 (AP)—Manchoukou is prepared to meet force with force on the Mongolian border, said a Rengo (Japanese) news agency dispatch from Hsinking, capital of the Japanese-fooled state.

Officials of Manchoukou will meet Mongolian "encroachments" with armed resistance, the dispatch added, in describing a frontier clash yesterday between Japanese-Manchoukouan soldiers and a Mongolian force.

A communique issued by the Japanese army headquarters in Manchoukou said a force of Manchoukouan soldiers guarding the border was encountered by 70 other Mongolian soldiers, armed with machine guns.

Observers Predict League To Request Armed Contributions

GENEVA, Dec. 20 (AP)—Some international onlookers, moved by Prime Minister Stanley Baldwin's statement that Great Britain alone has acted to keep peace in the Mediterranean, suggested tonight the possibility of a League of Nations council request for armed contributions from other powers.

Such a call for fighting units to protect the league covenant would not be for the purpose of aggression against Italy, these persons said.

But they pointed out it would serve to reassure Great Britain that her fleet is not standing singly in the Mediterranean to prevent a European conflict.

Under Article XVI of the league covenant, a request for armed contributions is possible. It was under this article that economic and financial sanctions, now more than a month old, were imposed on Premier blems to the objective, flexible as to the tactics.

"My primary objective," his statement began, "is a convention of liberal delegates which will write a liberal platform and name a liberal candidate. To that end I shall devote my efforts.

"If in any state or district the liberal forces think it will help the liberal cause to pledge the delegates to me, I shall cooperate fully with the plan.

Just as Fully "If, however, it is thought better to pledge the delegates to some other liberal, I shall cooperate just as fully."

Borah said that as he sized up the national political situation "a man would be seeking political immolation to take a nomination upon any other than a liberal platform."

"So the first thing to do," he continued, "is to get a convention committed to liberal principles. So far as my efforts count I am not going to permit personal matters, either my own or those of others, to interfere with the main purpose."

Borah, dean of the senate in point of service, issued his statement to define more clearly his position announced informally last night after State Senator Philip E. Nelson and former State Senator Bernard Getelman of Wisconsin had said Borah had approved their plan to run a Borah-pledged delegate candidate slate in that state's primary next April.

Soon afterward, William J. Campbell, Oshkosh, Wis., lumber man, announced he was a candidate for delegate, pledged to the senator.

Another Aid Robert M. Washburn, unsuccessful candidate for the senate against Senator Walsh (D., Mass.) last year, announced at Boston he would put a Borah convention delegation in the spring primary. Washburn is a former Bull Moose.

Whether Borah could gain sufficient support for the nomination from the dominant conservative group in the G.O.P. in view of his attitude on money and some other issues, was a matter of speculation.

Some have predicted he could certainly not count upon support from three of the independent group in the senate—Johnson, California, Norris, Nebraska, and LaFollette, Wisconsin—because of the close affiliation of that trio with the Roosevelt administration. Norris already has announced he would support Roosevelt for reelection.

One independent said privately today he was "sorry" Borah had announced because he was friendly to both the Idahoan and the president and he raised an embarrassing question for him.

Other senators who did not wish to be quoted by name predicted Borah could not get the necessary conservative help. Still others said if he came out victorious in three or four presidential primaries he would get the nomination.

Hollywood notables and film fans paid final tribute to Thelma Todd as her body lay in state. Miss Todd was discovered dead, slumped over the steering wheel of her car, Monday morning, Dec. 16. Hundreds of mourning friends filed past the bier of the once noted "Roman vestal virgin" beauty of the screen. The casket was draped with a blanket of white roses and lilies of the valley. Miss Todd's latest photograph is on the extreme right.

Marlene Dietrich Objects To Cost of Living in U.S.

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 20 (AP)—Marlene Dietrich, blonde German film star, said today life in America comes too high for her.

She said "excessive taxation, high rents and living costs in general take such a large portion of her salary that she has little left to save."

In February Miss Dietrich will leave for Europe and "very possibly" will stay there—"if I like it well enough."

"If America were my home, I would not object to the high income tax," Miss Dietrich said in her first interview in two years.

"It is very discouraging to earn a large sum of money and have so little of it left. Rents here are very high. To get a house with a tennis court and a swimming pool, which are necessary for a child, I must pay at least $1,000 monthly. Once I paid $1,200. That was when I took Marion Davies' beach house—the doctor said Maria should be near the ocean."

"I have maintained six guards for two years—since the scare, you know. (Miss Dietrich referred to extortion notes sent her two years ago.) I pay them very good salaries. I also have to have other servants—a cook, a maid, a studio maid, a chauffeur, gardeners, tutors for my daughter."

"In Europe one can live in an apartment without so much expense. I shall go to Paris to live with my husband (Rudolf Steier, film director) who is working there now. I have lived in France before and I know it is not so expensive."

"Unwritten" Law Defendant Receives 1-14 Year Sentence

PAXTON, Ill., Dec. 20 (AP)—After the husband had interrupted his trial for murder to plead guilty to the lesser charge, Judge Clyde L. Thompson imposed manslaughter and assault penalties on Martin L. Young and his wife, Margaret, for the "lover's lane" slaying of Oscar Rick.

Young, Oklahoma City oil driller, who had raised the defense of the "unwritten law," was ordered to the penitentiary for one to 14 years for the shotgun killing of his wife's admirer. The jurist pointed out the prisoner would be eligible for parole in 11 months.

The judge then sentenced the 29-year-old former school teacher—the third figure of a romantic triangle—who was accused of luring Rick to the death trap set by her husband, to five months in the Paxton jail when she pleaded guilty to assault.

Lady Bandit Glum--In Jail

Mrs. Moore, Who Held Up Bank All Alone, Solemnly Waiting

ALBERT LEA, Minn., Dec. 20 (AP)—Mrs. Mary Ryan Moore, who was captured shortly after the Twin Lakes State bank was held up yesterday, sat glumly in the county jail here tonight, while authorities prepared bank robbery charges against her.

Captured when a posse pursued her as she drove her car into a blind road, the woman was said by authorities to have confessed staging the holdup single-handed. Approximately $700 taken in the raid, authorities said, was found in her possession.

Mrs. Moore, who hinted that a split with her "gang" has led her to her present plight, appeared downcast as she sat in her cell. She smoked cigarettes, but wasn't in a talkative mood.

Melvin C. Passholt, superintendent of the state bureau of criminal apprehension, disclosed at St. Paul she is wanted with her husband for complicity in the holdup of the First National bank of Hunter, N.D., Sept. 3, 1932.

The woman, however, refused to discuss that robbery, and details of a confession County Attorney Elmer R. Petersen said she made last night still were kept secret.

Petersen said tonight the bank robbery charges will be ready tomorrow.

Thelma Todd's Death Foreseen By Astrologer

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Dec. 20 (AP)—The mysterious death of Thelma Todd confirmed the fourth of six predictions for 1935, made last year by Mahlon Norvell, astrologer.

Last Dec. 24, Norvell gave the Associated Press a statement containing the following predictions:

1—"A separation, then divorce, and probably a quick remarriage for Clark Gable."

2—"A divorce for Jean Harlow."

3—"A romance involving Mae West that will definitely prove whether or not she is married."

4—"A mysterious tragedy that will take the life of a well known blonde actress."

All four have come true in part. Norvell, at that time, said he could name the victim, but he declined to do so. He said today that he knew it would be Thelma Todd, "but in speaking of disasters such as this one, I never name the person."

The specific prediction was: "That in the latter part of 1935, he predicts a mysterious and sensational tragedy that will result in the death of a well known blonde actress. 'It will be surrounded by a drinking party,' he said. 'There will be many people involved. I see bottles and glasses, and this tragic death.'"

Events did not entirely bear out the predictions. The Gables have separated, but so far have denied a divorce is contemplated.

A marriage license of two decades ago was uncovered in Milwaukee, Wis., carrying Mae West's name, but the actress denied she was ever married.

Thelma Todd died under mysterious circumstances.

Authorities Of State Alliance Plan Meeting

State Workers Alliance Will Consider Strike Against PWA Jobs

DES MOINES, Dec. 20 (AP)—Officials of the Workers Alliance of Iowa, organization of unemployed and WPA workers, today called their own state conference to consider the proposed statewide strike against WPA jobs.

Offered by Dennis Judd, state chairman, and Francis Barden, secretary, the meeting will be held at Des Moines Dec. 29, only four days before the strike called at a meeting last Sunday is to become effective.

Judd and Barden did not indicate what action will be considered at the meeting, but said a petition "remain at work until a representative committee studies the situation" is being circulated.

They said the Iowa Workers' Alliance is affiliated with the Workers Alliance of America, "the only national unemployed, part time and WPA workers' organization endorsed by the American Federation of Labor."

Representatives of trade unions and unemployed groups voted the strike at a mass meeting called by J. C. Lewis, state federation of labor president. Lewis stated the aim of those sponsoring the strike is to "close up every WPA project" until officials meet the demand for prevailing wage rates.

In their notice to "all affiliates of the workers' alliance, WPA groups, unemployed and part-time workers' organizations," Judd and Barden said the mass meeting called by Lewis "only discussed the question of the union wage scale" on WPA projects.

"Since they were not representatives of all groups, it was naturally impossible to discuss many of the problems of the unemployed, part time and WPA workers," the notice read.

"The woman, however, refused to discuss that robbery, and details of a confession County Attorney Elmer R. Petersen said she made last night still were kept secret."

Petersen said tonight the bank robbery charges will be ready tomorrow.

The Christmas Lesson

ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By the Rev. Alvin E. Bell And Alfred J. Buescher

Before the birth of Jesus an angel appeared to Mary, his mother, telling her of God's plan for her and her child. An angel also prepared Joseph to understand the manner of the child's birth, saying, "Thou shalt call his name Jesus."

An angel also appeared to some shepherds in the field telling them of the birth in Bethlehem of the Saviour, Christ the Lord. Then a host of angels sang, "Glory to God in the highest and on earth peace."

Shortly after Jesus' birth there came wise men from the east to Jerusalem seeking the new-born King of the Jews. The wicked King Herod was greatly troubled at what they told of a star guiding them to find a new king.

The wise men were told to seek for the new king in Bethlehem. Here they found him and worshipped him, "presenting to him gifts of gold, frankincense and myrrh."

ments and machine gun actions against Ethiopians, including cavalry groups, were announced today.

The newspaper Nuova Eritrea said editorially that Emperor Haile Selassie sought, through the Takkaze battle, "a military success to be used in diplomatic bargaining at Geneva."

This opportunity, however, was lost, the newspaper added, and Ethiopia has not the slightest victory to produce. "While Italy has conquered vast territories."

Grim testimony to the deadly conduct of the engagement was the negligible list of wounded — only two officers and 25 Askaris on the Italian side.

Telling of the start of the battle, the eye witness asserted: "On the morning of the fifteenth, a big force of Ethiopians crossed the Takkaze river.

"They divided into two columns, one for a direct frontal attack and two for flank attacks.

"They first seemed to be regular troops, because they appeared to wear khaki instead of the customary white shammias.

"However, we later discovered that, by the emperor's orders, they had dyed the shammias khaki with a dye which Ethiopian women use for their fingernails."

Oil Spouts Almost in Front Yard of Oklahoma Governor

OKLAHOMA CITY, Dec. 20 (AP)—Oil—"black gold" in Oklahoma—all but spouted tonight in Gov. E. W. Marland's front yard.

A well flowing 12,000 barrels a day "blew in" today only a block from the state stone executive mansion. Its roar could be heard by the governor at the capitol two blocks away.

Far from being upset by this latest advance of an expanding urban oil field, Governor Marland's chief concern was to prevent the state's losing anything.

The governor, who himself made and lost millions in oil, suggested the Oklahoma board of affairs take steps to see that oil is not taken from state land.

However, the state owns none of the land upon which the well is located and will not share in any royalties — even though authorities be convinced part of the oil is draining from under the adjoining state-house grounds.

The new producer, drilled by the British American Oil company, is approximately 150 yards northeast of the mansion. It would be impossible to drill nearer under present city restrictions.

Experts said the well proves the production possibilities of the entire east side of Oklahoma City, where exclusive residential districts are situated.

Owners of expensive homes have fought drilling extension proposals savagely, but drillers and tool-dressers repeated the oil field adage: "The only thing that will stop an oil field is a dry hole."

Xmas Halts Drake Case

40 of 41 Defendants Go Home to Wait Till Jan. 6 Proceedings

CHICAGO, Dec. 20 (AP)—Forty of the 41 defendants in the Drake fraud case left for their homes on a 16-day Christmas vacation today after an exchange of holiday greetings among themselves and their attorneys.

But the chief defendant, Oscar M. Hartzell, repaired to a Cook county jail cell to observe yuletide. He is already on a vacation of sorts—from Leavenworth penitentiary, where he is serving a one to 10 year sentence for selling shares in the nebulous estate of Sir Francis Drake to Iowans.

Before the defendants, jurors and opposing counsel took sabbatical leave they heard a witness identify Hartzell as a man who rented a safety deposit box here under the name of "O. Merrill."

Anna Clancy, former manager of the Security Trust and Safety Deposit company, testified he maintained the depository from Nov. 17, 1933, to Nov. 15, 1934.

Calles Hemmed Under Close Surveillance

MEXICO CITY, Dec. 20 (AP)—The government of President Lazaro Cardenas drew a tight ring of surveillance tonight around former President Plutarco Elias Calles and Luis Morones, labor leader and close friend of the one-time "iron man," to forestall any possible action following the seizure today of large quantities of arms and ammunition in a house owned by Morones.

Both Calles and Morones denied again tonight they had any revolutionary plans, but Morones admitted possession of the arms, including 24 machine guns, saying they were to be used in anticipation of a possible attack during a scheduled anti-Calles demonstration Sunday.

Six men were arrested following upon seizure of the weapons and ammunition. One of them, it was reported, was carrying machine guns into the house.

Members of the First Presbyterian church enjoyed the Sunday school choral service given in the church last night. Mrs. I. T. Jones and Mrs. L. B. Higley directed the program.

The program included songs, stories and a pantomime. Mrs. A. K. Miller, Kay Fish, Dickie Laraw, Shirley Long, Helen Pollock and Carolyn Paynter were included in the cast of the pantomime.

Helping Santa Along

IN THE VIEW of the unusually large number of Christmas benefit parties being given for the unfortunate, the needy, no child in Iowa City should go without some kind of Christmas this year.

Today the American Legion auxiliary is giving a party for 700 children at the Legion building. This is only one of many similar parties that have been given and will be given before the season is over.

Tomorrow, a Boy Scout food matinee will be given at the Englert theater. Surely with such an outstanding community-wide spirit of giving, cold, toyleless, and foodless Christmas masses should be few and far between.

The Highest Degree

OUR NATION has reached the highest degree of civilization ever attained by man. You've heard this statement from the pulpit, from the mouths of statesmen, and from our leading literary lights.

Yet, judged solely from a material standpoint, our nation lacks much. Throughout the length and breadth of America, in our great cities, on our farms, we find colossal wealth beside degrading poverty.

More specifically, a trip through Kentucky, Tennessee, Georgia, and Mississippi on one of the most important highways in the country would be a revelation to many of us who think complacently that all America is like Iowa.

Hovels of mud, clay, straw, and logs dot the roads. Unpainted, unclean, and gruesomely lopsided, these "homes" actually house citizens of our nation.

Most of the inhabitants, termed "white trash" by the more fortunate classes, have never been more than four miles from home.

We, in Iowa, feed wholesome scraps to our hogs. In these mountain homes, those scraps would be a Sunday dinner, if any of the natives knew when Sunday ever really came.

Changing Horses

THE PECULIAR political history of William R. Pattangall over in the state of Maine is worthy of study by our western politicians who have a fear of changing horses in the middle of the stream.

Pattangall's political career began as a republican. Not satisfied with the party, he changed and became an outstanding democratic leader of the state.

any man go to the trouble of calling himself the way he feels and votes? In the great open spaces men are men but republicans are usually democrats, and the democrats do most of their voting in the republican primaries. But then Maine is so peculiar in so many ways.

1935 The Story of A Year 5-Rapid Travel By Land, Sea Open New Vistas

This is the fifth in a series of 10 daily articles reviewing major developments of 1935.

By ALEXANDER B. GEORGE WASHINGTON (AP)

Man extended his conquest of time and space in 1935, pushing on to new transportation standards of speed, distance, convenience and luxury for the increasing multitudes who travel by land, sea and air.

Scheduled trans-oceanic flying, long a goal of American birdmen, has become a reality; streamlined, vibration-reduced trains and motor cars run faster and faster; a new queen of the Atlantic crosses the sea in record time.

The inauguration by an American-controlled airline of passenger, mail and express service between the United States and China opens a new vista of speedy, comfortable globe-girdling transportation.

While air transport lines in the United States were winging toward an all-time record for carrying passengers and express, American men and women pilots shattered speed, distance and solo flying records.

France's $40,000,000 Normandie, the largest ship ever built, steamed across the Atlantic in 107 hours and 33 minutes, setting three speed records for ocean liners.

An increasing number of new-fangled versions of the old "iron horse" streaked across all sections of this country.

The automobile industry, heartened by its most profitable year since 1929, provided a motor-minded public with new cars of matured streamlining, greater power, comfort, ease of operation and safety.

Automobile transport nevertheless was taking a terrific toll in deaths and injuries, 1935 fatalities apparently being almost equal in number to the record-breaking 35,500 of 1934.

More Diesel Engines Used: The driving of a Diesel-powered passenger automobile from New York to Chicago at a reported fuel cost of $2.31 for the 1,200-mile trip, was rated one of the most significant automotive developments of the year.

The government's bureau of air commerce pressed its program for the development of a "poor man's airplane," trying out several types of craft designed to meet Uncle Sam's specifications of "maximum safety, economy and ease of operation for the average citizen."

A Washington Bystander

WASHINGTON — One definition of "superstition" is a popular notion attributing unintelligible influence to trivial things.

Rhode Island omen to have been remarkably fraught with significance. It can be and is argued just as loudly on the other side that it had nothing to do with notional political thought and was wrong even if it did.

Now another example of this extreme sensitiveness of political minds to trivial omens and portents can be cited. It is Dr. Townsend and his chief lieutenants of the Townsend Plan organization.

Transportation Fatalities: WASHINGTON (AP)—Automobile accidents resulted in 24,840 deaths during the first nine months of 1935, compared to 25,080 for the same period of 1934.

Months of 1934. Miscellaneous flying resulted in 321 deaths during 1934; the figure is not known for 1935.

Train accidents caused no deaths during the first eight months of 1935. Nine train passengers died in accidents during the same period of 1934.

'Met' Provides Dramatic Note Of Music Year

By JOHN SELBY
NEW YORK (AP) — The music news of the year is negative news—no long established, major musical institution in the land has gone under.

The year began with rumors about many of them, especially the New York Philharmonic, its namesake in Los Angeles, and the Metropolitan Opera. Concert business was somewhat better, but not good enough. It is much better today for the really fine artists, and no worse for the others.

The Metropolitan provided the most dramatic scene of the musical year. On May 10 Herbert Wither- spoon, who had taken command upon the retirement of Giulio Gatti-Cas- dazza, was speaking with his assist- ant, Edward Ziegler, in the latter's office. He stepped through the door, smiling, and dropped dead.

"Era of Intrigue"
Gatti-Casazza's regime of nearly three decades at the Metropolitan has been characterized by the "era of intrigue," Edward Johnson, With- erspoon's successor, might call his first winter a season of good will; every- body, from the financially interest- ed Julliard foundation down to the call boy wished Mr. Johnson well Dec. 16 when "Traviata" reopened the old house for the fifty-first time.

After a season in which concerts and opera alternated, the Philadel- phia orchestra under its favorite Leopold Stokowski has returned to straight symphony fare this winter—under a new manager, too, since Alfred Reinold Allen has replaced Arthur Judson. Mr. Judson, still in charge of the New York Philhar- monic, has conducted a minute, though unsuccessful search for a successor to Toscanini, who may, it is said, resign his directorship at the end of this, his tenth season.

No major changes have been made in other symphony orchestras over the land, although their tendency has been to include innovations in their programs which they may tickle the taste of their public—bal- let programs, opera on occasion, new works when they can be found.

McBride and Abcede
And no conspicuous new talent has arisen, unless that of Robert G. McBride might be mentioned. Mc- Bride is a 24-year-old Arizona com- poser, and his "Prelude to a Trage- dy" was believed a harbinger of great things to come by a good many who heard the New York Philhar- monic play it. Little Felix Abcede, Philippine violin prodigy, was heard on the coast, although only eight years old.

Established artists with minor exceptions spent the year "consolidat- ing their resources," as the business men say. Kirsten Flagstad entered the concert field with somewhat less acclaim than opera has brought her; Joss Turbitt continues determined to be a conductor as well as a pianist; Ethel Leginska composed, helped stage and then conducted the opera "Gale."

Possibly the most important sin- gle factor in the musical progress of the country is the WPA music pro- ject, which already has developed some 29 symphony orchestras over the land, and will shortly have 16,000 musicians at work on beneficial schemes, according to Nikolai Sokol- off, the director.

ments began shortly after Judge Earl Peters again, this afternoon, had overruled a defense motion for a directed verdict and motions to strike portions of the testimony, in- cluding all the testimony about slot machine operations.

Testimony of Zon Atwood of Wa- terloo that he was present in a tele- graph office when Gagen allegedly said he was sending $100 to O'Con- nor was ordered stricken, however, and the jury was ordered to dis- regard it. Judge Peters upheld a defense contention that it was not proper rebuttal testimony and that the required notice had not been served on the defendant.

Defense Rested
The defense rested without call- ing any witnesses in sur-rebuttal. The state offered the testimony of set aside by the University of Iowa to pay the tax should the gov- ernment's claim be proved. There is $3,985 in taxes involved, which, with interest and penalties, makes the government's present claim about $4,800.

The afternoon session was given over to arguments by Lehan T. Ryan, assistant attorney general, who represents the University of Iowa, and M. H. Eustace of Wash- ington, D. C., special government prosecutor.

Ryan's contention is that football and other athletic contests are an integral part of the state univer- sity's educational functions and therefore are tax exempt.

Ryan asserted that there is no commercial aspect about football and baseball players participating in their sports on the field.

"Yes, but the boy at the gate who takes in the money isn't play- ing football," Judge Dewey said.

Eustace said that the tax for athletic contests in the fall of 1932 had actually been imposed upon the buyers and would not have been taken away from them had it not been for their recognition of the necessity and logic of the tax.

NURSES ENTERTAIN CHILDREN

Each University Hospital Child to See Santa Claus

Children at University hospitals will have no Christmas worries, for Kris Kringle will personally visit each of them Yuletide eve, discuss with them the letters they so labori- ously penned and addressed to him, perhaps introduce them to Mrs. Kringle, and return during the night to fill the expectant stockings hang- ing from their beds.

That day will indeed be one of joy for those kiddies, for through the hearty and generous coopera- tion of individuals and organiza- tions throughout the state—and non-residents too—the mailman's load each day has brought toys, books, games, puzzles, dolls and other children's delights. Santa him- self will inspect the gifts before he makes his annual round of distribu- tion.

Nor will the adult patients who must spend Christmas in the hospi- tals be neglected. For them has been prepared a program to echo the spirit of the day.

White-sprayed trees, bearing huge white blossoms—which are really white rubber balloons hung from the branches—appear in the main lobby of the general hospital and in Westlawn, bathed in the blue of glowing lights. As lengthening shad- ows proclaim the approach of Christmas eve, soft and lulling carols, sung by local church choirs, will drift through the corridors, reflect- ing the message of the gaily decorated and plentifully lighted trees in the children's wards.

At 6:30
The visit of St. Nicholas will take place at 6:30. When, an hour later, he leaves with the wishes of his young friends well in mind, the nurses, singing carols, will form their annual candlelight procession through the corridors. Muted trumpets, in the hands of members of Iowa City high school orchestra, will be massed at the ends of the corridors to supply gentle phrases of music typical of the season.

On each tray of the special dinner prepared for the shut-ins will be placed an individual Yuletide favor. The 575 patients spending their Christmas in confinement will share their day with well-wishing friends and relatives, for visiting hours will be open as usual. But to the kiddies, any hour is visiting hour, as long as it brings the jolly, white-bearded chap known as Santa Claus.

41 witnesses in the rebuttal it con- cluded this morning.

The special prosecutor in opening his argument said half the time of the trial was consumed by defense objections and that he told the jury this not as criticism but as an ex- planation of the length of time the trial has run.

Reading of the trial records, he told the jury, will show that the state "save for the testimony of one witness—Max Duckworth—has brought you everything we said we would and more."

Of Duckworth, who now is con- fined in the Woodbury county jail for refusing to testify, Haver said that "it is not our fault that we did not bring you his testimony."

Importance of Case
Haver stressed what he said he considered was the importance of the case and its proper determina- tion, asserting that "there are those in high public office who have been corrupt that are attacking the very foundation of the government it- self."

While the defendant had the right to refrain from taking the stand, he said, the jurors have the right to consider the failure to do so and draw their own conclusions.

"You have the right to take into consideration," he said, "that the defendant did not take the stand and deny the transaction that occurred in the governor's office when he was charged with being a participant to the graft and payoffs."

Haver said "the natural thing" for an innocent man who was charged with some offense to do would be to deny it.

"You also have the right to con- sider that Walter Maley, first as- sistant attorney general, an ap- pointee of O'Connor's, still is serving as first assistant attorney general and we have not seen him on this witness stand," he said.

"The defendant has the power to put Walter Maley out of office any day and you have a perfect right to take into consideration that Walter Maley x x x accused of having sat in on the original conspiracy x x x never came on the witness stand to deny it."

Still an Agent
The special prosecutor told the jurors it also is their right to con- sider that C. W. McNaughton, charged with conspiracy and accept- ing a bribe, still is a state agent under O'Connor's appointment.

"How long would you keep a dis- honest person in your employ?" he asked the jurors.

Haver read the indictment charg- ing O'Connor, Maley and 21 other persons with conspiracy to permit gambling and the operation of gambling devices.

He recalled that the charge was that originally Maley, Joe Gagen, Tom Conroy and another individual "sat in the Kirkwood hotel in Des Moines and agreed among them- selves that they would organize the state and that Gagen would be sent out as organizer, both as to slot ma- chines and as to gambling."

Haver then asked the jury if there was any doubt in their minds as to whether Gagen did go out and as to whether he was contact man with the slot machine operators.

The evidence by which the state sought to show Gagen's presence in Sioux City and telephone calls from Gagen to slot machine operators, he said, was the evidence of disinter- ested parties—employees of the tele- phone company and of hotels.

The prosecutor told the jury that "a lot of things have been said here about Lynn Gell," one of the state's key witnesses who testified he sat in on the conference which organiz- ed the reputed graft setup and later told O'Connor about it.

But the prosecutor said he "wouldn't expect to find a Sunday school worker or a minister of the gospel engaged in a job of this kind."

No Denial
"If Lynn Gell didn't tell the truth then tell me why this defendant sat there and didn't take the stand, to deny it," Haver said.

The prosecutor reminded the jury at another point of the testimony of Clyde Mayer who was going to Des Moines and who meeting Gagen told him that he (Gagen) was to be contact man and would collect a payoff of $1 per week on each slot ma- chine.

Haver then pieced together other testimony which he said showed Gagen came to Sioux City and con- tacted the Sioux City operators.

He told the jury that it has in its evidence a $300 check which went to pay Clyde Mayer's first contribu- tion to the corruption fund.

Haver asked the jury if the picture he painted of Gagen's partici- pation was untrue why Gagen then had not taken the stand to deny it.

"Here we have the chief law en- forcement officer of the state charg- ed with law violation," Haver said at another point. "We have evidence of conditions which existed in Iowa and which only stopped about the time this defendant was indicted."

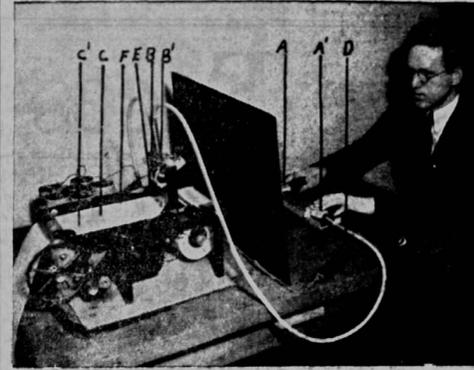

"Why would the slot machine busi- ness be permitted to run riot in Muscatine, Iowa, up to June or July this year and then stop, if this de- fendant had nothing to do with it?"

In connection with his contention that O'Connor knew of slot machine operation over the state Haver cited testimony about conditions in Muscatine and Keokuk. Muscatine witnesses, including Herbert and Bruce Thompson, Haver said, told O'Connor "about the corrupt situa- tion there and O'Connor did nothing."

Haver read to the jury letters written by Joe Woods of Keokuk complaining of slot machine opera- tions between O'Connor and County Attorney Dan McNamara in con- nection with Woods' complaint. Wood was a witness today for the state.

What Makes the Town's Bad Boy Bad? — Williams Answers

By RUTH BLANCHARD

What shall we do with the town's bad boy?

A survey carried on under the di- rection of Prof. Harold M. Williams at the Iowa Child Welfare Research station may indicate that if these boys could be placed in a different family and a different community, personality troubles which cause delinquency could be adjusted in many cases.

Both delinquent and well-adjusted boys have been included in the survey in Des Moines and at the Eldora state training school for boys.

Neither heredity, physical condi- tion, nor intelligence was regarded as a dominant cause of delinquency by the research workers, although each was considered as a possible contributing factor.

The oft-expressed but never- proved theory that all delinquents are mentally sick is being tested in this research project.

To the surprise of investigators, delinquent boys who were compared with normal children in association tests fell into two distinct groups in- stead of one.

One group of delinquents, gen- erally those in better circum- stances, was ill-adjusted, full of mental conflicts and mis-directed impulses. The other delinquents were as happily adjusted to criminal life as the non-delinquents who were in harmony with their environment.

Although much more study is nec- essary before definite conclusions can be announced, Professor Wil- liams suggests that the well-adjust- ed delinquent is the product of economic factors that make delin- quency the normal life for a poverty- stricken boy and involve no conflicts with home standards.

With the other type of boy, in- vestigators found that misunder- standing and family quarrels may re- sult in the warped viewpoint of the boy who "kicks himself" out of facing unpleasant facts, and seeks the easy ways around a problem, whether honest or not.

Those in charge of the research, Professor Williams, H. Max Hout- chens and Newell C. Kephart, also are testing boys for concentration of purpose and life plans. Ideals and ambitions quite as high as any of their classmates were disclosed by delinquents, boys who have court re- cords. However, a significant fact brought out was their general lack of foresight and application in pre- paring themselves for the desired profession. Like Miniver Cheevy, they merely dreamed of doing great deeds, while their companions were hard at work in laboratories, shops or study libraries preparing for a life work.

Iowa Five Faces Western Michigan Teachers

Plays Tonight in 2nd Game Of Road Trip at Kalamazoo, Mich.; Team Displays Improvement

Same Lineup to Start; Squad Will Disband For Short Vacation

Back in winning form again, the University of Iowa basketball team moves on to Kalamazoo, Mich., tonight to face Western Michigan Teachers, a frequent baseball opponent.

Decided improvement over their exhibition in the Pittsburgh game was evidence by the Hawkeyes against Loyola Thursday night. Shooting was far above reproach and passing was sharp and more accurate than in the past.

Iowa coaches lauded the consistent, all-around play of Joe Van Yesseldyk, sophomore guard, who has counted 27 points in the four contests thus far aside from playing a grand floor game. Although not exceptionally speedy, the Muscatine athlete is adept at starting the attack and handling the ball smoothly.

Capt. John Barko and Sid Rosenthal turned in their usually fine games at the forward posts, counting 18 of the Iowa points. Rosenthal sank six of seven attempts at the foul line.

They will no doubt start against the Michigan quintet tonight as will Van Yesseldyk and Kenny Suesens, a six foot guard. Although he does not figure strongly in the scoring column, Suesens is the most outstanding defensive man of the starting five. He held Loyola's ace forward, Callahan, without a field goal.

The only weakness seems to be at the center position where Jack Drees, Matt Walsh and Floyd DeHeer have been used. None of the three has been able to utilize his height to full advantage as yet. All have demonstrated considerable awkwardness in the vicinity of the basket.

Of the three, probably Drees has the best possibility of developing. Following the contest tonight, the Iowa squad will disband for a short vacation, assembling again next Thursday to prepare for the Marquette game Dec. 30 and the opening of conference play Jan. 4.

By virtue of his five baskets against the Ramblers, Barko continues to lead the Iowa scorers with 30 points. He has counted 13 field goals and four free throws in the four games.

Iowa has averaged 34 points per game on offense and has held opponents to 29 1/2 points per contest. The individual and team statistics are as follows:

Former Hawkeye Mat Star Charges Wrestling Monopoly

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Dec. 20 (AP)—Everett Marshall, former Iowa star and a claimant to the heavyweight wrestling title, charged six sports promoters with forming a "monopoly on wrestling" in a suit he filed today asking a million dollars damage.

One of the promoters, Paul Bowser of Boston, termed the suit "just a publicity stunt." Bowser, at Boston, denied Marshall's charge of a monopoly in wrestling and said Marshall failed to "take" with Boston fans.

Another, Tom Packs of St. Louis, admitted there was "more or less a gentleman's agreement" among the six promoters but denied the agreement constituted a "wrestling monopoly."

"We had to organize to protect ourselves and to get talent," Packs said at St. Louis.

BITS ABOUT SPORTS

By ART SNIDER

THE ROSE Bowl game involving Stanford and Southern Methodist may not end as lopsidedly in favor of the Mustangs as many believe. The game should be closer than most of the New Year's day games of recent years.

Although most of the football interest of the day will concern the Rose Bowl contest, one might do well to watch the outcome of the Texas Christian-Louisiana State battle on the same day. Many still believe T.C.U. is stronger than S.M.U., while it is a safe assertion that L.S.U. could defeat Stanford about any day of the week.

A third New Year's game, this one in far off Honolulu, is of still less interest to football fans. It finds Southern California meeting Hawaii. This game would be nothing of unusualness were it not for the fact that the Hawaiian crew will play without shoes. This is nothing startling. Just as thousands of American football players prance on the gridirons heavily shod, so do the thousands of youngsters in Hawaii play the game barefoot—punting and drop-kicking as though their feet were encased in leather. They've done this ever since the inception of the football in that country.

This barefoot game is the counterpart of America's extensive sand-lot baseball scheme. Barefoot league teams are organized by weights, ranging from the 110-pounders or "feaweights," to the 130 pounders or "barrel-weights." Before the season, each boy must have his weight recorded. He is then certified for play in a division where he will compete with boys of the same displacement. The one great goal of all these enthusiastic youths is to play on the University of Hawaii team.

Aside from the thrill of action, the boys "see the world." Each year trips to the states are made. The last fall, the Hawaiians met Denver and California.

NEW YORK, Dec. 20 (AP)—Jock McAvoy, the sturdiest son of old England to reach these shores in many a day, tonight knocked out the middleweight champion, Babe Risko of Syracuse, N. Y., in the first round of a bout scheduled for 10 rounds in Madison Square garden.

McAvoy, who weighed 168 1-2, knocked down Risko, 161 1-4, six times before the American was counted out.

McAvoy rushed from his corner at the opening gun to floor Risko with a right hand smash to the jaw. Risko, whose title was not at stake, picked himself up without a count but the nervous Briton, slugging from all angles with a ferocity not in keeping with the custom set by many of his predecessors, rushed in again, set up the American with a looping left and then sent over another crusher. Risko, his eyes dazed, stayed down for the count of six this time, before struggling to his feet on wobbly legs.

Risko went down the third time, under a looping right, and it was doubtful if he had any record of proceedings after that.

Clearly outclassed by its lankier opponents, an inferior St. Wenceslaus basketball aggregation fell before the fast-stepping Irish by a 29 to 20 count on the Shamrock court last night. St. Pat's, functioning as a unit, had the visitors at its mercy and not until Coach Ryan sent his reserves into the fray in the final period, were the Red Hawks able to display any semblance of an offense.

The south-sider's seconds went into the game in a nervous frame of mind and before they could settle down, the invaders had made 10 points, mostly free throws.

To start the Shamrock machine going, Bob Coen dropped in a left handed hook shot which didn't touch the bankboard. After this brilliant start, Healy and Leuz opened up to stretch the winner's margin to 13 to 3 as the first quarter ended. The Red Hawks' tallies were from free throws.

The second period found the Shamrock's defense holding the invaders well in check while Healy, Patterson and Leuz staged another uprising to give the south-siders a 21 to 8 lead at half time. St. Wenceslaus was held to one field goal by Skala in the first half.

Come Back Strong

A battling Red Hawk aggregation came back in the second half, but nothing came of their determined charges toward their basket for the eteran Shamrocks refused to become excited and calmly took the ball away from their opponents.

Possessing a respectable margin as the third quarter opened, the winners refused to exert themselves by staging another of their fast-breaking offenses, contenting themselves with keeping the invaders in check and taking leisure shots at the basket. The Red Hawks managed to make two free throws in this quarter.

NEW YORK, Dec. 20 (AP)—A sports world usually shockproof was knocked looping by a tidal wave of surprises this year, the greatest of which was the Chicago Cubs' 21-game winning streak and drive to the National league pennant.

College football furnished a major share of startling results, but the closing drive of the Chicagoans was singled out by experts in the fifth annual Associated Press sports poll as the "surprisingest" of surprises.

Braddock's Victory Second

The second most amazing development of 1935 as the experts saw it, was James J. Braddock's victory on points over Max Baer for the world heavyweight boxing championship, with Notre Dame's fourth quarter three-touchdown rally victory over Ohio State ranked a close third.

Experts had an equally difficult time deciding for fourth and fifth places. The choice ultimately went to Wilmer Allison with 58 points for his astonishing straight-set victory over Fred J. Perry. British monarch, in the semi-final round of the national tennis championship. With 66 points, Northwestern's Wildcats pulled up fifth for their football victory

Tidal Wave of Surprises Finds Chi Cubs' 21-Game Baseball Victory Streak Rising Highest

NEW YORK, Dec. 20 (AP)—A sports world usually shockproof was knocked looping by a tidal wave of surprises this year, the greatest of which was the Chicago Cubs' 21-game winning streak and drive to the National league pennant.

College football furnished a major share of startling results, but the closing drive of the Chicagoans was singled out by experts in the fifth annual Associated Press sports poll as the "surprisingest" of surprises.

Braddock's Victory Second

The second most amazing development of 1935 as the experts saw it, was James J. Braddock's victory on points over Max Baer for the world heavyweight boxing championship, with Notre Dame's fourth quarter three-touchdown rally victory over Ohio State ranked a close third.

Experts had an equally difficult time deciding for fourth and fifth places. The choice ultimately went to Wilmer Allison with 58 points for his astonishing straight-set victory over Fred J. Perry. British monarch, in the semi-final round of the national tennis championship. With 66 points, Northwestern's Wildcats pulled up fifth for their football victory

DAVENPORT, Dec. 20 (Special to The Daily Iowan)—Davenport's Blue Devils stormed up and down their huge fieldhouse arena here tonight to collect 14 field goals and register their third consecutive triumph of the season, 32 to 26, over Iowa City's Red and White Hawks.

Coach Paul Moon's Red and Blue outfit took advantage of the invaders' early inability to find the hoop to roll up a 17 to 8 margin at intermission. About 800 spectators witnessed the game, the closest one in which either team has engaged this year.

Some Consolation

The defeat marred Coach Francis Merten's Little Hawks' previously unscathed record of four victories, but the losers can find some comfort in the fact that they were beaten by reputedly one of the best teams to represent the river city in recent years, and one which also has state championship consolation honors to defend.

Captain Simmons was again the big gun in the Blue Devils' attack, gathering five baskets for a total of 10 points to lead in that department. For the invaders, Paul McCune and Ed Breese were high-point men, each collecting seven counts.

Long Stabs Gain Points

Iowa City was able to check Davenport's fast-breaking offense to some extent, but on a few occasions the river city men broke through to score. A good share of the victors' points, however, came on fairly long stabs at the hoop. On three instances Simmons scored on his pet play of laying far back in the court while his mates retrieved the ball from the opponents' bankboard and then threw the leather almost the length of the floor to Simmons, who tallied on setup shots.

In the opener, Coach Herb Cornack's sophomore lads were baffled for the first half by the big court, and Davenport's sophs built up an 18 to 0 lead which eventually ended with a 35 to 9 Davenport victory.

More Astonishing

In the opinion of some voters, these episodes were no more astonishing than the triumph of Sam Parks, Jr., a 50-to-1 shot, in the American open golf championship, or Eulace Peacock's victories over Jesse Owens in the National A.A.U. track and field championships.

The tabulation of points on the most surprising results:

- 1. Chicago Cubs' drive to National league pennant, 92.
2. James J. Braddock's victory over Max Baer for heavyweight title, 83.
3. Notre Dame's football victory over Ohio State, 82.
4. Wilmer Allison's tennis victory over Fred Perry in U. S. singles, 58.
5. Northwestern's football victory over Notre Dame, 56.
6. Victory of Sam Parks, Jr., in U. S. open golf, 51.
7. Eulace Peacock's defeat of Jesse Owens in U. S. track meet, 29.
8. Max Baer's knockout by Joe Louis, 12.
9. Duke's 25-0 football victory over North Carolina, 10.
10. Second collapse of New York Giants in National league race, 7.

Riegel, Combes Pace Illinois Basketeers in 26-24 Win Over DePaul; Demons Lead at Half CHICAGO, Dec. 20 (AP)—Illinois rallied from a wobbly start and stood off a late DePaul rally tonight to defeat the Demons, 26 to 24, in a bitterly fought basketball battle before 4,000 spectators in the Chicago stadium.

The Illini failed to connect for a field goal until the fifteenth minute of play, trailing by 8 to 4 at that point. Two field goals by Howie Benham and one by Harry Combes late in the opening period cut DePaul's margin to 10 to 8 at the half.

The paper said it also had learned from authoritative sources officials were considering Ivan Williamson, assistant Yale coach, and former Michigan end, or Jack Blott, football and baseball coach at Wesleyan university, Middletown, Conn., as the probable successor to Oosterbaan.

"Williamson is the most likely candidate to be sought in the event Oosterbaan, three-time all-American end, and Toledo university come to terms," the Free Press said.

Iowa May Get N.C.A.A. Meet

Whether the University of Iowa will be awarded the National Collegiate A.A. swimming championship meet for 1936 will be determined at the National Collegiate Athletic association meeting in New York City Dec. 28 to 29.

Ossie Solem, Hawkeye director of athletics, and David Armbruster swimming coach, have been informed that the N.C.A.A. committee, headed by F. W. Luering of Pennsylvania, then will decide the definite site and date of the meet.

Solem will attend the N.C.A.A. convention as well as the sessions of the Poolhall Coaches' association, while Coach Armbruster also may make the eastern trip.

Iowa is being seriously considered as the site of the meet because of its central location and the excellence of the fieldhouse swimming pool. At least one other midwestern university and an eastern institution likewise are seeking the meet.

In April, 1927, the fourth annual N.C.A.A. tank affair was held here. The meet usually attracts swimmers and divers from more than 30 universities and colleges.

Rudolph Clinches Tie For 1st in World's Pocket Billiards Meet

NEW YORK, Dec. 20 (AP)—Erwin Rudolph of Cleveland clinched at least a tie for first place in the world's pocket billiards championship tonight by defeating George Kelley of Philadelphia 125 to 35 in a 27 inning match.

Rudolph, winner of the 1934 tournament, gained his seventh victory in eight starts at the expense of the national champion. He still has to meet Jimmy Caras, sensational young Wilmington, Del., player in the final tomorrow.

Caras, idle today, has won six matches and lost two. If he should beat Rudolph tomorrow a tie would result and a playoff for the title would be necessary.

Loyola Coasts To Victory Over Beloit

BELOIT, Wis., Dec. 20 (AP)—Holding a 23 to 6 margin at halftime, Loyola university of Chicago coasted to a 37 to 23 victory over Beloit college here tonight. Beloit outscored Loyola in the second half, but the Chicagoans never were in danger. Colen and Callahan were outstanding for Loyola while Brown, with 15 points, paced Beloit.

CEDAR RAPIDS, Dec. 20 — St. Patrick's proved too strong for the plucky St. Mary's invaders from Iowa City and took a 25 to 17 victory here tonight.

After a fairly even first half, the local Shamrocks uncovered some spectacular shooting in the second half to pull well away from the Marians.

"Skip" Adrian and Game-Captain Keller were the shining lights in the visitors' attack, making 14 of the team's 17 points between them.

The Irish, fearful the Marians' strong finishes in past years, kept the first team into the contest throughout. Kavorick was high man 10 points.

Officials Card Six Meets For Iowa Netsters

Six dual meets with Western conference teams give the University of Iowa one of its finest tennis schedules in Hawkeye history, according to announcement from Prof. E. G. Schroeder.

Wisconsin, Purdue, and Illinois will send their teams to Iowa City next spring, while the Iowans go to Northwestern, Chicago, and Minnesota. It is likely that several meets will be arranged with Iowa college teams.

Edward Voltmer, physical education staff member, will coach the 1936 Iowa team, since Professor Schroeder relinquished this work to devote full time to physical education and intramural athletics, Frank Nye Jr., Shenandoah senior, will captain the squad.

The schedule to date: April 11—Bradley Tech at Peoria, Ill. April 24—Wisconsin at Iowa City. April 25—Northwestern at Evans-ton. April 27—Chicago at Chicago. May 2—Purdue at Iowa City. May 4—Minnesota at Minneapolis. May 9—Illinois at Iowa City. May 21 to 23—Big Ten championships at Chicago.

Silver Skates Meet Set for December 29

CEDAR RAPIDS — The annual Iowa State championship ice skating races and Silver Skates carnival will be held on the Cedar river here this year, Dec. 29, with competition open to any skater in the state. Last year's events attracted a crowd of more than 15,000 and a field of 98 skaters.

There will be six classes of competition, as follows: Senior men's, 18 and over; intermediate boys, 16 and 17; junior boys, 14 and 15; juvenile boys, 13 and under; women, 16 and over; and junior girls, 15 and under. Medals signifying the state titles will be awarded in each class.

In addition, all Iowa skaters will be eligible for Silver Skates, which are awarded annually. First place winners receive silver blades, second place winners, bronze blades, and the third place skaters, aluminum blades.

Sponsorship of the carnival is handled by the Cedar Rapids Skating association and the Iowa State Skating association, of which L. D. Dennis, 1100 O avenue NW, is president. Prospective entrants can send entries to Dennis or register at the association headquarters at the scene of the races which will be held opposite Ellis park above the Cedar river dam.

Jury Indicts "Kid Cann"

Blumenfeld Must Face Trial in Murder Of Walter Liggett

MINNEAPOLIS, Dec. 20 (AP)—The grand jury did what the kid said it would do last week—indict him, Isadore (Kid Cann) Blumenfeld, on a charge of murder in the first degree, after Walter Liggett, newspaper publisher, was a machine gunner's victim in a darkened alley, Dec. 9.

"I know they will indict me," vowed the kid last week in his jail cell, "but I'll beat the rap." He still was confident of proving his innocence today when the jury returned the indictment and plans went forward for his arraignment either tomorrow morning or Monday.

Second Indictment

The same accusation, based on the tearful story of a pallid widow and a nervous salesman, Wesley Andersch, both eye witnesses to the death of the "Midwest American" publisher, also brought against an unidentified man named in a second indictment as "John Doe." He is not in custody.

Trial of the case, probably before District Judge Frank E. Reed, will not start at least until Jan. 6, court having been recessed for the holidays. Kid Cann, held since two hours after the slaying is a liquor salesman for a Minneapolis concern.

Both the widow and Andersch were principal witnesses before the grand jury, which devoted almost an entire day to the hearing of testimony before voting the indictments.

Great Strain

So great was the strain on Mrs. Liggett in retelling how a grinning assassin killed her husband, that she collapsed after her testimony. She was revived later in the offices of the county attorney. It was reported she told the same story she gave police in a statement immediately after the crime.

She, like Andersch, positively identified the kid as the slayer. Andersch said he "stuck to my story." There was no other story to tell.

Kid Cann was among those to suffer the biting criticism of Walter Liggett's caustic pen. City and state officials also were vigorously berated by Liggett in his Midwest American, a weekly newspaper, which has continued publication under the widow's supervision.

Two diamond rings and a wrist watch were among articles of value taken when the thief apparently gained entrance through a sleeping porch while Miss Foster was in another part of the house.

CHRISTMAS IN TOYLAND

By Brandon Walsh

Turkey? Not For Us -- Carp

Austria Has No Santa Claus, But Has Real Xmas Spirit

While United States citizens are gorging themselves with turkey and plum pudding on Christmas day, Austrians will smother their lips over a tempting dish of carp.

According to Leopold Michel, G of Vienna, Austria, there is no Santa Claus in his motherland, but the Christ child brings gifts to the well behaved children instead. The giving spirit runs high in Vienna during the holidays, so special Christmas markets are established for the rushing season. On golden Sunday, the Sunday before Christmas, all shops are open enabling working people to buy their Christmas gifts.

Stockings Hung

In Austria, stockings are hung by the fireplace on Dec. 6, but the Christmas tree, the midnight mass and mistletoe are a part of the Christmas day celebration. In Vienna it almost invariably snows on Dec. 24, so skiing becomes the greatest sport of the holiday season.

In Belgium, as in Austria, father Christmas visits the children on Dec. 6. On Jan. 1 there is a formal presentation of gifts which usually includes such things as flowers and candy. Jan. 6 is known as king's day in Belgium, and the ceremony of the sugar bean is treated with much pomp. The sugar coated almond or sugar bean is baked in a cake and the person who finds the treasured bean in his piece of cake is declared king of the evening.

Serenading, not carolling, is the way in which the spirit of Christmas is expressed in the Philippine Islands. Fireworks, feasting and church services comprise the holiday activities of the island.

In Peru there are no Christmas trees, but replicas of the scene of the birth of Christ are found in nearly all homes. Churches in Peru stress dramatizations of Christmas scenes which are produced by children. Jan. 6 proves to be the red letter day for Peruvian children, for on that day they hang up their stockings and pray that they will be remembered.

State Supreme Court Denies Rehearing to Iowa City Men

Suit to Collect Attorney Fees by Fitzgerald, Corso, Is Failure

Melvin Fitzgerald and Joseph Corso, both of Iowa City, yesterday were denied rehearings by the Iowa supreme court on petitions asking fees resulting from condemnation proceedings by the University of Iowa against them he paid by the state. The judgment handed down was believed to have set a precedent that the state cannot be assessed attorney fees when property sought for condemnation is abandoned.

The case, which has been in progress since 1933 when the university sought to exercise its right of eminent domain against two properties owned by Fitzgerald and Corso, has progressed through district court into the supreme court in its nearly three-year history.

A condemnation board valued the Fitzgerald property at $5,500 and the Corso property at $4,500. The two men appealed to the Johnson county district court for higher evaluation on the properties.

The court fixed the property values at $25,200 and $11,533 respectively, and the university refused to take the properties.

Corso and Fitzgerald filed suit for payment of attorneys' fees in district court, and were awarded $1,500 and $2,500, respectively.

The university, the state board of education, and the state of Iowa, represented by Attorney General Edward L. O'Connor, Assistant Attorney General Lehan T. Ryan, and Special Counsel Will J. Hayek, appealed the decision to the state supreme court. The supreme court, after a hearing in January, 1935, reversed the district court decision, ruling that the state of Iowa cannot be assessed for attorneys' fees.

In June, 1935, the plaintiffs filed a petition for a rehearing of the case, which was denied yesterday by the supreme court.

crowded his car into a curb last night and shouted "You have had your warning. Take it easy!"

Police Capt. Blaine Steed ordered a police guard posted at Hounie's house and a fingerprint examination of the post card.

In addition to Mrs. Wallace Ford, who said she talked to Miss Todd around 4 o'clock Sunday, four persons told police they believed they actually saw her.

They are:

Mrs. Jewel Carmen West, estranged wife of Roland West—"I'm sure I saw her riding down Sunset boulevard, with a dark, foreign looking man, about 11 o'clock Sunday night.

Beautiful Blonde

Mrs. Sara Kane Carter—"I saw a beautiful blonde woman, in a blue and silver evening gown, telephoning from a drug store at Sunset boulevard and Laurel Canyon road, shortly after 4 o'clock."

Mrs. Carter thought the woman was Miss Todd.

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Clough—"We saw Miss Todd driving west on Wilshire boulevard, Sunday at about 5 o'clock. Our son, Conrad, saw her, too."

If any of these statements could be proved, Johnson said, the question of explaining Miss Todd's whereabouts between 3:30 a.m. Sunday—when the chauffeur left her at her cafe apartment—and 5 p.m., would arise.

More Important

"More important, as I see it, are the unusual circumstances preceding her death Sunday," said Johnson.

"I wonder why she had the call put through to West, at 2 o'clock from the Trocadero? She need not have wakened him to get in. She wasn't

"Action on the bond issue and the grant is expected within five or 10 days," Mayor Martin said last night. "PWA has been fine about helping us out in the past on matters of this kind and we believe this proposition will go through in a hurry."

The mayor said the additional money is needed to pay outstanding bills due on the nearly completed sewage plant, all previous money having been paid out in construction and contracting accounts.
